

Good news: Lower levies on the way!

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

Early numbers confirm that most Wayne area residents will see a smaller property tax bill than last year due to substantial valuation increases.

The Wayne County Board of Equalization set 1995-96 tax rates for the county, Tuesday, and all cities and villages in Wayne County except Winside are seeing levy decreases.

Winside only shows a .5 percent increase in levies from 1994-95.

A clearer picture can be drawn when taxing district rates from outside Wayne County are tabulated next week. Some other taxing entities are educational service units, Northeast Nebraska Community College, and rural fire districts from other counties which tax Wayne County residents.

Totalling Wayne taxing agency rates, it can be estimated that Wayne city residents will see a 4.2 percent decrease in property taxes. That means $50 more in city residents' wallets than last year for an owner with property valued at $50,000.

Hoskins residents will find close to a 2.7 percent decrease, while Carroll levies will be down at about 1.5 percent. These decreases mean $15.85 and $24.90 reductions from 1994-95, respectively, for property valued at $50,000.

Substantial drops in tax rates can be attributed to the City of Wayne and School District 17 (Wayne Community Schools).

District 17 levies dropped 6.7 cents per $100 property valuation from 1994-95. The district tax rate stands at $1.27 per $100.

The City of Wayne tax rate is reduced by 3.5 cents per $100. The city tax rate is now 63 cents per $100.

Wayne County tax rates remain practically the same at 45 cents per $100. Four one-hundredths of a cent were knocked off this year.

Fallen Knight

Destruction is continuing this week on the former Black Knight Restaurant and Lounge. Owners Nick Sieler and Ken Kwapiowski finalized an insurance settlement last week. The razing is expected to take three to four weeks. Sieler and Kwapiowski have no plans for the lot. Employees find safe haven from behind a destroyed dessert cooler, while a section of the roof is dragged away.

Internet issue passes council

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

Wayne will make the state record books for its advancement in the computer age.

The City Council decided Sept. 12 to provide Internet access to its residents. It is the first in the state to do so.

A vote of 7-1 passed a $14,000 appropriation for equipment and upkeep for the new access. Jane O'Leary voted against the appropriation.

The council voted not only to provide Internet access, but to establish a partnership with two other governmental entities—Educational Service Unit 1 and the Wayne Community School Board (District 17).

"It's a ground-breaking partnership," said Doug Christensen, Nebraska Commissioner of Education. "I think it is a marvelous way to show that the school belongs to the community, and that they can work together. I hope other communities in the state will follow Wayne's lead," he said.

Representatives from the three bodies will meet Monday for the first time to discuss policy, procedures and strategies for implementation of the new system.

Dennis Linstler, Director of Network Services at Wayne State, will consult the group.

Linstler said the equipment purchased by the city should be operational within four weeks, but he doubts the governing bodies will be prepared to regulate it by that time. "The actual hardware will probably be in place before the procedures are set."

Most home computers have the necessary software to use the system, though a modem will be needed.

Linstler will recommend at the

Friday frost difficult to assess

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The amount of damage done to crops by a frost will be hard to assess until after the fact according to crop specialists at the University of Nebraska Research and Extension Center at Concord.

"The crops are moving along. The cool weather this week has slowed down maturation some but they are still maturing," said David Holhouser of the Research Center.

Forecasters are predicting temperatures to fall into the upper 20s tonight (Thursday).

"THE AMOUNT of damage done to crops depends on two things. First of all, the stage the crop is in will make a big difference on the amount of damage done by frost. I have talked to some farmers who said their corn was in the black layer stage. If this is the case, frost will not do much damage to these fields," Holhouser said.

The second factor which will determine the amount of damage will be the temperature and the length of time the temperature stays below freezing.

Research has shown that temperatures not only have to reach the freezing point, but they must dip below 28 degrees and stay there for at least three to four hours to adversely affect corn according to a report published by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Nebraska.

The United Way drive will take place during the month of October. The United Way provides funds for a number of non-profit agencies in the Wayne area.

Committee says 'no' to renovation

By Tom Mullen
Of the Herald

It was almost an afterthought, but by the end of Tuesday night's school facilities committee meeting, renovation of the existing Middle School was no longer an option.

Reviewing his notes, the meeting's moderator, architect Jim Dyck of Lincoln, attempted to identify his duties in preparing for the next meeting.

"Do you want to come to closure with the renovation of the Middle School?" he asked the 30 people in attendance. Committee member Greg Vander Weil voiced the only reply.

"WE NEED TO CLOSE that issue. It's a dead horse. My kids are in first and third (grades) and I need to have this done now."

Most of the meeting's discussion centered around the extent of physical deterioration of the Middle School, and the logistical problem of removing the asbestos from the 1908 structure.

"My biggest concern is what we found on the management of the asbestos," began Buster Beckenhauer, of Beckenhauer Construction Management of Norfolk.

"I found it a difficult, if not impossible situation for the removal of the asbestos."

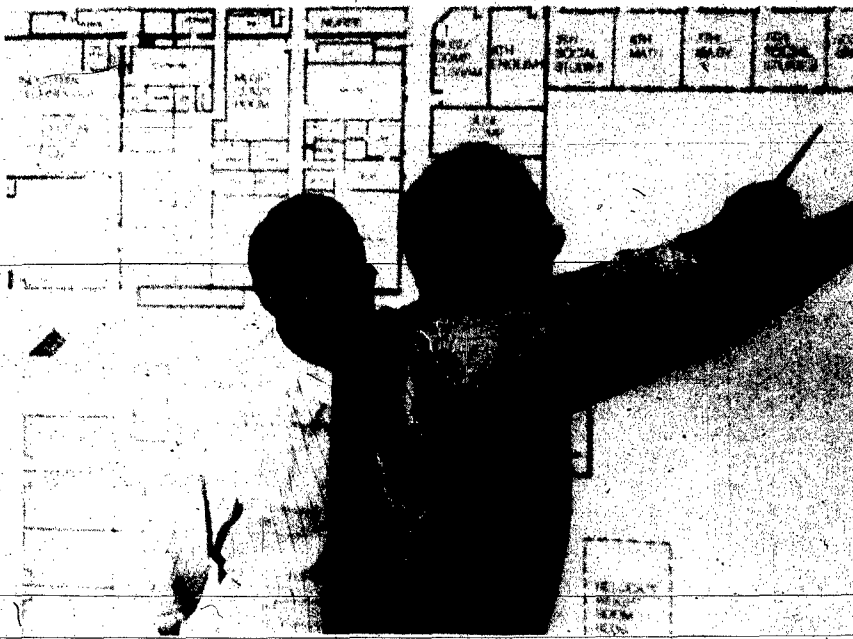

BECKENHAUER, WHO had been hired by the school district to review the architect's proposed costs of the building and renovation options for the district, recommended building a new facility.

"We estimate 40 working days to do all of the removal, and given the length of a school summer, there just doesn't seem to be enough time to return the building to functional as a school during that short of a period."

Committee member Gary Van Meter voiced the only support for renovating the old school, and questioned the accuracy of the architect's $60 per square foot remodeling costs for the 42,655 square foot building.

VAN METER STATED that the Dundee school in Omaha

Middle fiddle

The Ghost of Christmas Past is coming back to haunt us. Last December Wayne County voters turned out by the dozens in a hotly contested school bond issue.

The $7.9 million bond, which would have paid for a much needed new middle school, was narrowly defeated.

Our school board and its administration have been studying this issue for 30 years.

In 1967, two years after the first study, voters accepted a scaled-down version of a new high school.

Facilities were trimmed to keep the cost under the then magic $1 million figure.

And so the immediate problem of overcrowding was solved, and the grand old high school was handed-down to children of a lesser age.

Three decades passed and much of the limestone mortar which holds her bricks together passed along with them.

Government bodies too, passed new laws, requiring that we make our public buildings truly public, accessible to everyone, and free of airborne carcinogens.

And there lies the rub.

Our children are safe from the cancer causing asbestos, only while it remains contained within the deteriorating recesses of the building's pipe chases. Pipe chases which lead to a Franklin D. Roosevelt era boiler whose days are surely numbered.

So whether we disturb the asbestos by replacing the heating system, or by complying with federal mandates to make the building accessible to all, the asbestos will become airborne.

The question posed to us, before we put a man on the moon, is posed to us today.

How much longer can we continue to ignore, that a once great facility has outlived its usefulness?

Rendered obsolete by technology, society and mother nature, the present Middle School has enjoyed nearly a century of service.

We have, undoubtedly one of the finest school systems under the Sun, which is no less than our children deserve.

But it is time to greet the 21st century, and put a grand old building to rest.

Politically, sleepy

Dear Editor:

Sometimes I think we, in our prosperity in America, and in our so busy lives, become politically "sleepy." No doubt our lives are busy: our children consume our time when we're not at work, and when the weekend comes, who's resting? That's catch-up time. But in the political arena, things are happening, and happening fast. Who has time to check it out? To make sure things are happening our way, for our good? Hardly anyone. It's not until we're literally caught off guard with outrageous legislation and resolutions that we become aware of what our government and special interest groups are allowing.

For example, the National Education Association (NEA), which receives a lot of federal and state money, recently passed an official resolution calling on teachers in every school district in America to observe October as "Gay/Lesbian History Month." Although it doesn't appear this is mandatory, activities such as films on homosexuality, guest speakers, wall displays in and out of the classroom, etc. are expected to be a part of the month-long observance in schools, grades K-12, around the country.

There have been recent complaints on the power of the NEA, "Forbes" magazine called the NEA America's "largest and richest brass knuckled labor union." It has over 2.2 million members and brings in $785 million in revenues annually. The NEA exerts incredible power over the U.S. Congress and White House. Gay and lesbian coalitions, including NEA activists, contributed huge amounts of money to Clinton's Presidential campaign.

So, who gave the NEA the right to push its beliefs and values onto our children? Since when have labor unions taken over parenting? Women and men, the parents, only can determine what they want their children to believe. And the facts are: the majority of Americans do not condone homosexuality.

Homosexual and lesbian activists in the NEA declared, "The NEA... is a leader in educating our society about sexual orientation." Not if we don't let them!! The bottom line is this: No longer can we assume that our government or our national organizations have our best interest in mind all the time. It is up to us to protect the innocence and purity of our children and grandchildren. Keith Geiger, NEA's president needs to hear from us, as well as our Senators and Congressmen. This is our country. We have the right to decide what is best for our children. We're paying for our children's education. Let educators do what they want to do, and leave the "value training" for home.

Property tax cap plan unveiled

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN — Finally, folks waiting for property tax relief in Nebraska have something to talk about.

Last week, a coalition that includes the state's powerful teachers' union and largest farm group unveiled its property tax cutting proposal for the 1996 ballot.

It calls for cutting property taxes by about one third by capping the taxes that can be levied on real property.

Those caps would be $1.80 per $100 of assessed valuation on land in cities and villages; for rural areas, the cap would be $1.30. Both would begin in 1998.

The coalition will have to gather about 90,000 signatures to put the proposal on the 1996 ballot, but that's almost guaranteed to happen.

The union, the Nebraska State Education Association, and the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation have combined memberships of almost 70,000. Even my high school-level math background tells me those add up to pretty good odds.

The release of the proposal is significant for a few reasons.

Number one, it pairs two of the more powerful lobbying interests in the state in a one-two punch against what gripes many Nebraskans most: the high property taxes in this state.

Number two, it's among the first solid proposals advanced to cut those nasty taxes.

Gov. Nelson is still shopping around his ideas.

The Legislature hastily put together a similar cap proposal last spring — which had slightly higher lids on property taxes levied — but has not yet finished its study of the issue.

Omaha tax activist Ed Jaksha, the father of all tax revolts in the state, has yet to decide whether to proceed with an initiative drive of his own.

Only an anti-property tax group led by Atkinson rancher Stan Dobrovolsky has stepped up with a carved-in-stone proposal. It would eliminate all property taxes and let the Legislature decide how to fund local governments: Most people criticize it as too radical.

That's the reason the school teachers and the Farm Bureau formed their coalition in the first place: to head off more extreme ideas.

Those teachers' paychecks are financed mostly through property taxes, so it would be wise to try and protect that while also fending off more radical plans to eliminate property taxes.

Notice that the coalition's tax plan includes a clause that requires Nebraska schools to provide "quality education" and a "thorough and efficient education." Sounds like a way to require more state aid to meet those goals.

The farmers threw an important clause of their own into the plan, too. It would place in the State Constitution (for the first time) the requirement that ag land be assessed at no more than 80 percent of its market value.

Expect plenty of shots to be fired at the teacher/farm plan.

First off, it lets the Legislature decide how to replace the $400 million cut from the property tax rolls.

That likely means higher sales and income taxes, which the state's business groups will fight like mad. It hurts business, they say.

Gov. Nelson, who's now running for another office, has already criticized the plan as merely a tax shift, not tax relief.

And, the governor tossed in a dart that throws chills down the spines of most rural residents. He said the plan could cause a "loss of local control" over schools and governmental services, prompting forced mergers and consolidations from the windy halls of the statehouse.

But thankfully, the debate has finally begun. We have something solid to talk about.

Pentagon an amazing place

Though many may think it should be called the Repentagon, the Pentagon, headquarters for the Department of Defense in Washington, D.C., is one of the world's largest office buildings. It is twice the size of the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, and has three times the floor space of the Empire State Building in New York.

Believe it or not, the nation's Capitol could fit into any one of the five wedge-shaped sections. A city within itself, 23,000 employees work inside planning the defense of our country. Employees arrive daily from Washington D.C., Monday through Friday, using 30 miles of access highways, including express buses and a new subway system. They ride adjacent 200 acres of lawn to park approximately 8,770 cars in 16 parking lots; climb 131 stairways or ride 19 escalators to reach offices that occupy 3,705,793 square feet.

The building houses 4,200 clocks, 691 water fountains, and 284 rest rooms. Personnel drink 4,500 cups of coffee, 1,700 pints of milk and 6,800 soft drinks daily. A restaurant staff of 230 persons serve food in one dining room, two cafeterias, six snack bars, and an outdoor food bar. The restaurant is operated privately under contract to the Pentagon.

Reports show 200,000 telephone calls are made daily through phones connected by 100,000 miles of cable.

The Defense Post Office handles about 1,200,000 pieces of mail monthly. Various libraries are in the building including the Army Library.

Built during the early years of WWII, the Pentagon has 17.5 miles of corridors so arranged that one can walk between any two points in only seven minutes. The structure

What do you want them to learn?

Don't we ask our schools to do a lot?

I tend to agree with Jerome Stern, a professor of English at Florida State University who recently pointed out in national publications that we not only ask schools to do a lot, we often give them conflicting assignments as well.

"In the schools now, they want them (students) to know all about marijuana, crack, heroin and amphetamines because they won't be interested in marijuana, crack, heroin and amphetamines."

"But they don't want to tell them about sex, because if the schools tell them about sex, then they will be interested in sex," writes Stern.

Educators have to feel like they are being pulled in dozens of different directions at once with varied political and social agendas.

I find it encouraging that the most strenuous local debates tend to involve education issues. We all agree education may not be the only thing but it is the most important thing.

"They want them to know all about this great country of ours so they will be patriotic. But they don't want them to learn about the tragedy and pain in its real history, because then they will be critical about this great land of ours, and we will be passively taken over by a foreign power," argues Stern.

The professor's examples tend to lean toward examples that liberals would use as the "negative" influence of the ultraconservatives on the education system, but I would also cite opposite examples of the dichotomous push and pull of special interests.

For instance, they want to teach all the historic good and bad in our country, but they don't want to discuss the historic significance of religions in our society because that might violate the separation of church and state and cause nonreligious students to be uncomfortable.

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

And many liberals agree that the schools need to do more training of students on ethics, morals and values. But they want the curriculum only to look at these issues from a humanist approach.

Of course it is not just the liberals and conservatives who are involved in the educational debate.

We see the athletics and academics often in conflict. It seems to be politically correct to put down athletics in favor of academics but for most the only time they go to the schools and interact with educators is during sporting events.

And they want our children to have the best computers and access to the Information Superhighway so they can research and learn, but many don't want them to have access to the seamier side of the network because they are worried students might see something they shouldn't. I guess they know the schools and parents haven't prepared students well enough to make decisions on their own about what is right and wrong. So we should protect them with censorship.

For how long, I wonder?

Of course, everyone wants our students to know about the constitution. But, some of those amendments aren't cool when they are used by people whose views we don't agree with.

If there is an encouraging point in all this, I see it as a positive that so many people care about the future of our young people and are willing to take action to see their plans for education are considered.

Those who are doing the pushing and pulling on the educational front, whether liberal or conservative, need to remember that there are many others also out there pushing and pulling. We need to understand and accept divergent views which are as important to the educational process as the tax base which funds it.

We need to remember that the system which doesn't always give us everything we want, has worked for more than 200 years and will continue to work well into the future as long as we all continue to participate.

And from the mix of very divergent views, I am confident will come a common ground for compromise (and quality) that will continue to allow us to turn out the best educated populous in the world.

At least we know those in our little corner of this world will be.

Marci Thomas, Administrator of Providence Medical Center, left, presents a plaque to Mary Benthack, widow of Dr. Robert Benthack, for her donation of $100,000 toward the construction of the new doctor's office and physical therapy addition to PMC. Dr. Benthack was a practicing physician in Wayne for many years before his death in 1994.

Hundreds celebrate hospital addition

Over 400 guests participated in Providence Medical Center's (PMC) open house, held Sunday, in honor of the new Northeast Nebraska Medical Group (NENMG) building and physical therapy department.

Marci Thomas, of Providence Medical Center, summed up the festivities in her remarks at the open house. "We now have a building that epitomizes the optimal planning and foresight of those individuals who had their focus not only on the needs of the present, but on the needs of the future for this medical community."

"PMC is not only celebrating a dedication today, but is celebrating the 20th anniversary as a successful business," said Thomas. "Success that can be attained and then retained by a small rural hospital is quite an accomplishment, with the changes that have taken place over the past 20 years in the health care industry."

Thomas thanked the governing board for their support of the idea for the facility, the physicians and employees of NENMG and PMC for their help in planning and coordinating.

Mary Benthack was recognized for her contribution of $100,000 to PMC. She was presented a plaque by Thomas.

The official ribbon was cut by Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau, Sister Agnes Salber and Sister Kevin Hermen.

After a song by PMC and NENMG employees, the Heartland Hoedowners clogged for the crowd.

Ribbon surgery

Lincoln.

"If temperatures reach the low 30's the corn may lose leaves but the stalks would still be able to carry carbohydrates to the ear and maturation would continue," Holhouser said.

IF THE STALK freezes maturation would cease and would likely result in lower test weights according to Holhouser.

Holhouser reports that most of the corn in the area is in the tassel stage and a frost would result in much less loss than if it were in the milk stage.

Soybeans are generally planted later than corn and may be hurt more by frost. "It depends on the variety and maturity length. We have soybeans here at the station that have brown pods already and also have others that are still green," said Holhouser.

If soybeans are frozen, the seeds often remain green, which lowers their market grade. The seeds will also be smaller.

HOLHOUSER REPORTS that the soybeans in the area have made tremendous progress in the last week but there still is a wide variance in maturity between fields in the area.

The rains this past week will not affect the yields of this year's crop. "The rains came too late to help this year's crop but it is always nice to go into next year with subsoil moisture," Holhouser said.

Another factor in determining how much damage would be done is whether or not there is cloud cover. "The clouds help keep the heat from escaping and a low cloud cover would help a lot," said Holhouser.

Holhouser does not anticipate any harvesting taking place in the area within the next week but expects the cutting of corn silage to continue.

Producers with questions regarding losses due to frost should contact their local extension offices who can give them an idea of how much damage has been done.

meeting that training sessions be conducted for interested community members who want to learn the basics of Internet use.

Linstert expects that the sessions will be at the public schools and free of charge. He expects that one or two hour-long sessions will be enough. An outside source will be paying for the sessions.

Dr. Dennis Jensen was pleased with the decision. "I'm pleased for the community," said Jensen. "It's nice that the ESU, the school and the city can work together. That's exciting."

The school will also benefit. A T-1 access line has been purchased to replace the 56-K line presently at the school. The T-1 is capable of providing more graphic capabilities and more usage at one time.

Students can only access the system through two lines at the high school, and usually get a busy signal when they dial in. The new system will provide a total of 16 lines.

Renovation

had recently completed a restoration project at $45 per square foot.

Beckenbauer defended the architect's figures.

"In my past experience, I have not seen this extent of asbestos or deterioration."

"With the multiple levels in the school, at best you are going to have to continually deal with accessibility problems."

DYCK SUGGESTED that he would look into the Omaha project, but cautioned the committee.

Architects and school administrators can do a lot of tricks with these figures, so be very careful when dealing with costs per square foot.

The architect wrapped up the meeting with a promise to investigate alternative cost reductions for new construction, and to gather information on the Dundee project.

The committees remaining options are to either renovate the existing high school and build an adjacent middle school with shared space, or to build a new high school adjacent to the present one and remodel the existing facility for the middle school.

The district's fiscal agent is scheduled to attend the next committee meeting.

"THE 'DO NOTHING' is an alternative, that is an option. But you have to know what you are dealing with," the architect warned.

But in an interview with the Herald, School Superintendent Dennis Jensen disagreed.

"We don't have a 'do nothing' option."

"We must have facilities that are accessible to all of our students."

Jensen explained the fundamental difference between the remaining new construction options.

"IF WE BUILD A NEW high school, that would spread out the tax base on a more equitable basis."

"The affiliated districts pay only to support the High School."

Jensen acknowledged that he expects Wayne County voters will revisit the new school bond issue.

"I think that is assumed. Hopefully sometime in the Spring."

Voters rejected a $7.9 million bond issue last December by a narrow margin.

The next committee meeting is scheduled, coincidentally for Dr. Jensen's birthday, Oct. 10.

The committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the high school's commons.

Keyboarding class scheduled

There will be a keyboarding class for all interested Middle School students. It will be taught by Sharyn Paige, Wayne High School business teacher, at the high school tech lab from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 28, Oct. 12, 19 and 26. The cost is $20 per student.

If interested, call the Middle School or sign up in the Middle School office. There must be at least 18 students registered in order for the class to be held.

Genealogists meet

The Genealogical Society of Wayne County will host a guest speaker at its 7 p.m. on Thursday Sept. 21 at 119 West 2nd, south door, in Wayne.

Dorothy Urbanec of Pender will present a program on her trip to Germany in search of her roots through genealogical records.

The meeting is open to the public and all interested persons are invited to attend.

History book promising

A project to publish a pictorial history book of Wayne County as a commemoration of county's 125th anniversary is moving ahead with great promise, according to Wayne Herald Publisher Les Mann.

Scores of rare historic photos of the area have already been submitted for the publication and many residents have indicated they are still looking through old family albums and attic boxes for more photos.

As many as 300 pictures featuring historic scenes, events and families in the county will be included in the book which will be distributed by Dec. 15.

Deadline for submission of photos for the book is Oct. 15.

Mann said a committee of local historians will be impaneled to select the photos for publication in the volume. He said one historic scene glaringly absent from photos submitted so far is pictures of the original county seat of LaPorte.

Wayne forced the move of the county seat from LaPorte to Wayne, five miles to the northwest of the first courthouse site.

All that remains of the original county seat is a historic cemetery.

Those with historic photos are asked to submit them to the Wayne Herald where they will be carefully documented and photographically reproduced before the originals are returned to the owners.

The book project is seen as a means of preserving and chronically many of the photo images of life in the early days of the county before those scenes and stories are lost.

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow

In the past, many people expected to retire with enough regular income from a company pension eligibility or reduce pension payments.

Confidence in future benefits of Social Security has weakened. Yet only about four in 10 working Americans save regularly for retirement.

A productive way to do so is with a choice of tax-deductible accounts. These include 401 (k) plans sponsored by employers, Individual Retirement Accounts and Keogh accounts for the self-employed.

Frank Hynes retired in 1980 after working for the leading auto club in the New York area for 45 years. But he stayed on as the club's spokesman on driver safety for senior citizens. It's not just his expertise in the subject that comes across when he speaks to groups of seniors.

At age 80, his audiences relate to how he has adapted his driving skills and contended with arthritis and cataract surgery.

Wildcats dominate Wolves, improve record to 3-0

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State College Wildcats continued their winning ways on Saturday night with a 35-14 victory over the Northern State Wolves. The Wildcat defense harassed NSU quarterback Lane Ostenson all night long and the WSC offense rolled up over 600 yards to give the Cats a 3-0 record.

"Our defense dominated the game," said Head Coach Dennis Wagner. "They set the tempo of the game and gave our offense many opportunities."

Ostenson was sacked five times and completed just 41 percent of his passes. Senior Jeff Lutt and junior Art Maulupe did most of the damage, relentlessly pounding Ostenson to the turf.

"Numbers 95 and 89 will probably be in his dreams for at least a week," said Wagner. "I thought Maulupe and Lutt did an awesome job of putting pressure on the quarterback and constantly making him aware of people around him."

Offensively, Wayne State amassed 663 yards, but didn't put the game out of reach until the fourth quarter. Five turnovers and 166 yards in penalties slowed the Wildcat attack.

"I felt offensively that we stopped ourselves," said Wagner. "We had too many penalties in crucial situations, we fumbled the football and we dropped some balls when we had guys wide open."

The Wildcat running game, which had managed just 149 yards in their first two games, exploded for 354 yards and five touchdowns against the Wolves. Marcus Bishop and Jason DeMartile each went over the 150 yard mark on the ground.

Wayne State opened the scoring late in the first quarter with an 18 yard run by DeMartile. The Wildcats moved the ball inside the Northern State 25 yard line three times in the second quarter, but could only score once as Jared Hendershot and Jarrod DeGeorgia both threw interceptions. Bishop scored from five yards out to give Wayne State a 14-0 halftime lead.

The Wolves came back in the second half when Bishop's fumble set up NSU at their own 45 yard line. Three plays later Ostenson hit Brett Rechtenbaugh from 41 yards away to cut the lead in half.

After the teams traded punts, the Wildcats put together a 77 yard, 13 play drive that culminated with Hendershot running for a 5-yard touchdown. The Cats had a 14 point lead heading into the fourth quarter, but the Wolves weren't quite ready to fold.

Wayne State was putting together another solid drive early in the final period. The Wildcats had traveled 75 yards in 13 plays and now stood only five yards away from icing the game. On first and goal, DeGeorgia dropped back to pass and looked for junior Kevin Swayne to his right. DeGeorgia's pass was a split second too late and NSU's Tim Hughes stepped in front of Swayne for the interception. One hundred yards later, Hughes was in the end zone and the Wildcat lead was down to seven.

The Wildcat offense continued to gain big yardage on the ensuing possession, but DeMartile fumbled and the Wolves had the ball back with 8:38 remaining.

The Wayne State defense would make sure that the Wolves' rally would go no further. Ostenson was sacked on first and third downs and Josh Guerie puts a hit on Northern State quarterback Lane Ostenson during Wayne State's 35-14 victory last Saturday.

NSU was forced to punt. Bishop quickly rebuilt the WSC lead with a 37-yard touchdown run. An interception by Marcus Rankin and fumble recoveries by Jesse Wavrunek and Jon Adkisson ended Northern State's upset hopes. Bishop scored the Cats final touchdown on a one yard run with 2:27 left in the game.

The Martial Arts class at Wayne State College rewarded six children with Presidential Sports Awards sponsored by the President's Council on Physical Fitness. As part of the reward Alex Wieland, Casey Daehnke, Julie Fritz, Jason Rethwisch, Austin Lightly and Drew Smith each received 50 hours of Tae Kwon Do instruction.

WSC hosts Winona State

The Wildcats (3-0) host Winona State University (1-1) on Saturday for Band/Chamber of Commerce Day. The Warriors are coming off a 35-21 win over Wisconsin-Eau Claire last week.

Kickoff at Memorial Stadium is scheduled for 1 p.m.

"Winona State has a very good football team," said Wagner. "They are extremely quick on defense and have great special teams. Their offensive line does a good job of protecting the quarterback and creating holes for the running backs. I am impressed with their whole football team."

Former 'Cats live NFL dream

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Former Wayne State College football standouts Brad Otis, Byron Chamberlain and Damon Thomas are still trying to make their dreams come true in the National Football League.

Otis, a defensive lineman and a second round draft pick of the St. Louis Rams in 1994, has been slowed by a badly sprained left ankle. He missed three games in the pre-season due to the injury and has been on the inactive list for the Rams' first three regular season games.

Otis Chamberlain Thomas

Wide receiver Chamberlain, a seventh round pick by the Denver Broncos last April, has been assigned to the team's practice squad. Chamberlain is involved in all the team's activities except playing in the games on Sunday. According to the Broncos' media relations department, Chamberlain is doing very well, but Denver is very deep at the wide receiver position so he will most likely spend the entire season on the practice squad.

Thomas, also a wide receiver, was signed by the Buffalo Bills in 1994 as a free agent. He spent the first part of the season on the Bills' practice squad before being moved to the active roster late in the year. In three games a year ago, he caught two passes for 31 yards. This year, Thomas has played in all three of Buffalo's games, mostly on special teams. He has three unassisted tackles on kickoffs and has caught one pass for 18 yards.

Laurel-Concord's David Pinkerton lays out in an attempt to block a Warrior punt in the Bears 41-3 win over Neligh-Oakdale last Friday.

Bears devour Neligh-Oakdale

By Jeremy Buss
Of the Herald

Laurel-Concord stopped the Neligh-Oakdale Warriors 41-3 Friday night in NENAC action. The Bears would start right off in the first quarter with Kyle Macklin hauling down a 27-yard reception which set up a touchdown run by Todd Arens to give Laurel a 7-0 lead. Macklin would again come up big later in the quarter, this time for a 19-yard touchdown catch. The point after was no good.

In the second quarter quarterback Tyler Erwin would again go to the air for a 16-yard pass to Nic Dahl for the touchdown. Dan Peters would run the ball in on the two point conversion to put the Bears up 21-0. A long run by Neligh would set up the Warriors only points of the night which came off of a 39-yard field goal. Laurel was not finished; however, as on the kickoff Jeff Wattier would reverse the ball to Vince Ward who would rumble 77 yards for the touchdown. The two point conversion failed, giving Laurel a 27-3 halftime lead.

Head Coach Tom Luxford was relatively happy with the half, but said "the score was a little deceiving because I think we needed to execute a little better."

The third quarter saw a seesaw battle with neither team able to score. The Bears came out quick in the fourth quarter however, with Wattier scoring from 43 yards for the touchdown. Wattier would also take in the two point conversion. Macklin was then back at it later in the quarter, hauling in a 71-yard touchdown reception to put Laurel on top 41-3 and with a failed PAT that was the final score.

Blue Devils post 1st win

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne Blue Devils finally got into the win column last Friday with a 33-20 victory over Raymond Central. Juniors Brian Fernau and Tyler Endicott helped to make up for loss of Josh Starzl by combining for 232 yards on the ground. Fernau also scored three touchdowns on the day.

Senior Ryan Junck passed for two first half touchdowns as the Devils built a 13-6 lead at the intermission. Raymond Central responded with a seven play, 69 yard drive early in the third quarter to pull within a point. Wayne put the game away in the third and fourth quarters with Fernau's three touchdowns. The Mustangs put one last score on the board with 3:10 left in the game.

Wayne Head Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt said that his team was convinced that they could win this week. The Blue Devils were dictating what happened in the game instead of having it dictated to them.

"We had people attacking this week," said Ehrhardt. "We felt in control of our destiny."

Wayne hopes to build on their one game winning streak tonight. The Blue Devils (1-2) play a rare Thursday night game against Hartington High (3-0). Ehrhardt knows that his team will have its hands full against the high powered Wildcats.

"Obviously, it's a big challenge for us," said Ehrhardt. "Hartington has a really good football team. They average 37 points per game and they're only giving up seven or eight. It will be a good challenge for us. We'll play with a lot more enthusiasm coming off a win."

Mackling leads Trojans to victory

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Justin Mackling scored three touchdowns and accumulated 345 all-purpose yards to help Wakefield overcome 130 yards in penalties and defeat Osmond 41-16 Friday night.

"The defense played tremendous," said Head Coach Dennis Wilbur. "Offensively, we put up 41 points, but at times we were not very sharp throwing the ball. Mackling had a super game and that's a credit to our offensive line."

Two Mackling touchdown runs and two touchdown passes by Justin Dutcher helped the Trojans opened up a 28-0 lead before Osmond responded with two touchdowns to cut the lead to 12 points. Mackling put the Tigers come back hopes to rest when he returned a kickoff 86 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Dutcher connected with Tyler Peters for his third touchdown pass of the game to close out the scoring.

"Right now we're playing fairly well," said Wilbur. "The only way we're going to be stopped is if we stop ourselves."

The Trojans (3-0) host Homer (0-3) on Friday.

"Homer has the potential to be a competitive team," said Wilbur. "If our defense steps up again and we have a little better offensive night we should do well."

Gardner & Benthack are elected into WSC Hall of Fame

The Wayne State College athletic department has announced that two new members will be inducted into the Wildcat Hall of Fame. Kirk Gardner of Sioux City, Iowa and Dr. Robert Benthack (deceased) of Wayne will be inducted during a banquet following WSC's Homecoming football game versus Minnesota-Duluth on Sept. 30.

Gardner, a graduate of Wakefield High School where he was a two-time state wrestling champion, attended Wayne State College (1975-77) where he earned three letters in football and was named team co-captain. He currently serves as president of Stadium Ventures and vice president of Nature's 10 Diamonds located in Sioux City, Iowa. He is also a trustee of the Gardner Foundation. Gardner's significant support and contributions have been very instrumental in the resurgence of WSC athletics.

Benthack, a longtime Wayne physician, provided medical services for the WSC athletic program from 1949-85. He served as the College's team physician from 1965-92. Benthack was a trustee of the WSC Foundation and received the College's Distinguished Service Award (1993). He earned his medical degree from the Nebraska College of Medicine (1947). In 1949, the Korean War veteran began practicing in Wayne with his father, Dr. Walter Benthack. Benthack, who passed away, March 25, 1994, is survived by his wife, Mary.

The induction banquet will be held Sept. 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Country Club. Tickets are available by contacting the athletic department 402-375-7520 or the alumni office 402-375-7209.

Last Thursday, the Eagles lost to Emerson-Hubbard 15-11, 10-15, 12-15. Jaime Klaver led the team with 22 assists on 44-46 setting and Abbey Schroeder passed the ball very well.

"We did everything to put ourselves in position to win," said Coach Scott Kneiff, "but we just couldn't pull it out in the third game. We've been taking a lot of good teams to three games, but we haven't been able to finish them off. The girls are playing really hard and we're improving every time we play, but we're having some mental lapses that really hurt us."

Mental errors cost Allen game

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

Allen turned the ball over four times and couldn't hold off the Wynot Blue Devils on Friday night as they lost 18-12. The Eagles gained only 113 yards as they fell to 1-2 on the season. David McCorkindale, who rushed for 193 yards and scored six touchdowns last week, was held to just 48 yards and one touchdown.

"We made a couple mental errors and had a couple crucial penalties," said Head Coach Warren Jensen.

"One of those errors came in the first quarter when Allen fumbled a punt. Wynot recovered the loose ball on the 10-yard line and then punched it in for the touchdown. Another miscue came at the end of the second quarter when an Eagle touchdown was called back on an illegal motion penalty."

"We're a young team and we made some mental errors," said Jensen. "Hopefully, we will learn from them."

"We can't have turnovers and penalties," said Jensen. "We have to eliminate the mistakes and quit beating ourselves."

Winside effort falls short

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Winside linebacker Josh Jaeger led a spunky defensive effort that held visiting Emerson-Hubbard to 30 yards of offense in the second half, but the Wildcat offense was unable to generate enough points to overcome the Pirates' half-time lead as the host team suffered a 14-7 setback Friday.

Jaeger, a senior team captain, led the team in tackles for the third straight week and stopped the Pirates on a critical fourth and one play to give the Wildcats the ball on their own 45 yard line. The Cats' offense moved the ball to the Pirate 30 yard line with 7:24 left on the clock before failing to convert on their own fourth and one situation.

Joe Schwedhelm, pressed into service from his guard spot to fullback because of injuries last week, led a Wildcat opening drive with a 34-yard burst up the middle before a Winside fumble allowed Emerson-Hubbard to mount a 9 play, 74 yard scoring drive with 4:47 left in the first quarter to give the visitors an early lead.

last chance effort after stopping the Pirates deep in their own territory with 2:03 left on the clock. A Pirate punt that netted six yards into the wind gave the Wildcats the ball on the visitors 26 yard line. Robert Wittler connected on a 17-yard pass to Chad O'Connor at the nine for a first and goal, but the Wildcats failed to take advantage of the situation that could have sent the game into overtime.

College Trustees to meet here

The Nebraska State College Board of Trustees will hold its annual campus tour in conjunction with a Sept. 23 meeting at Wayne State College. The meeting will be held in the Birch Room of the Student Union, and the public is invited to attend. Jerry Conway of Wayne is chair of the board for 1995-96.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. with a work session involving discussion by the full Board and Board subcommittees on several new and revised policies for the State College System, which is composed of Chadron State, Peru State and Wayne State Colleges. Policies to be discussed in subcommittees include such issues as employee use of campus computers, catastrophic leave donation, naming of facilities, purchasing procedures and others.

Policies for discussion by the full Board involve the reporting relationship between campus presidents, the Executive Director and the Board, to reflect the ongoing changes in the governing structure of the State College system.

The formal board meeting is expected to begin around 11 a.m. Academic items the Board will consider include acceptance of summer enrollment reports and off-campus, telecommunications and early-entry course offerings; and changes to five programs, one at Chadron and four at Wayne. The recommendations of the campus are to change the name of the Human Ecology major at both Chadron and Wayne to Family and Consumer Science; to eliminate the Pre-law major at Wayne; to consolidate the language majors in French, German and Spanish into a Modern Language and Culture major at Wayne; and to offer a Curriculum and Instruction option as an addition to the Master of Science in Education degree at Wayne.

The board will also address several business affairs items, including writing off specific uncollectible student accounts from the state colleges, naming an architect for a project at Chadron State College that will make the campus library accessible to individuals with disabilities and approving the appointment of Bruce Cutshall as a lobbyist for the State College System during 1996.

Other members of the board are Rick Kolkman of North Platte, Fran Grimes of Grand Island, Dr. Al Gigstad from Nebraska City, Jeff Renner of Bellevue, Dr. Kathi Swanson of Alliance and Dr. Doug Christensen of Lincoln. # Events to celebrate Arts Month

Wayne State College will be joining the State of Nebraska and other communities and states throughout the country as it celebrates National Arts and Humanities Month in October.

National Arts and Humanities Month is a nationwide celebration of our rich and diverse culture, the arts and humanities. The national theme is "The Arts and Humanities. There's Something In It For You." Every aspect of life in America today — including the economy, social problem-solving, job creation, education, creativity and community livability — is positively affected by the humanities and the arts.

The national observance underscores the importance of cultural institutions and organizations at the local, state and national levels. The United States Conference of Mayors acknowledged the role of the arts and humanities in communities throughout America in June, when they passed three resolutions in support of the arts and humanities. The USCM noted that public funding for cultural projects and institutions serves as a catalyst to leverage additional dollars for cultural activity, and is vital to the continued health of our cultural infrastructure. Public funding for local arts and humanities activities comes through the National Endowment for the Arts, the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Institute of Museum Services and state arts agencies and humanities councils.

Nebraskans will use this nationwide celebration as an opportunity to showcase the arts and humanities that are such a vital part of the good life in Nebraska and to "Say Yes to the Arts!"

As part of the continuing effort to provide quality cultural events to Nebraska, WSC will host several events and performances during National Arts and Humanities Month. Please join us for one or all of the following National Arts and Humanities Month events at Wayne State.

Director attends meeting

Loren Kucera, director of the Nebraska Business Development Center at Wayne State College, attended a National Development Council (NDC) certification course in Topeka, Kan. Sept. 13-16. This course, the final one in the National Development Finance Professional Certification Program, was the last of four courses needed for certification.

The course, "The Art of Deal Structuring," introduced a problem-solving process to use in overcoming the myriad of economic, financial, political or social obstacles that may prevent structuring a deal successfully. The emphasis of the course was on casework, with the cases involving complex financial issues such as workout situations, business buyouts and tax credits in real estate deals.

Specific topics included devising a negotiation strategy, creating "win-win" solutions, valuing tax credits, business valuation methods, developing a workout plan, structuring a buyout, equity attraction and allocation of benefits.

Previous NDC courses Kucera has taken include Economic Development Finance, Business Credit Analysis and Real Estate Finance. The course entitled "The Art of Deal Structuring," was sponsored by the Kansas Department of Commerce and Housing.

Kucera is now certified as an Economic Development Finance Professional.

Educators learn at Frameworks session

On Friday, Sept. 15 the Nebraska Department of Education staff conducted a workshop for Wayne State College students and faculty on the Nebraska K-12 Visual and Performing Arts Curriculum Frameworks.

Frameworks is a resource for educators to improve the quality of instruction and education for all learners through systemic change process. The intent of the Frameworks is to provide school districts, educators and college methods teachers the opportunity to evaluate, adjust and augment current arts curricula. The Frameworks document was created by a diverse group of professional and educational leaders from Nebraska in the fields of dance, theater, music and the visual arts.

The workshop at Wayne State College was attended by 225 WSC education majors in art, theater, music and elementary education. Students and faculty had the opportunity to be introduced to the Frameworks document and experienced a hands-on session conducted by educators in those specific curricular areas.

The workshop was sponsored by the WSC student chapter of Music Educators National Conference. Future workshops are being planned for all WSC Teaching Methods faculty, and a second semester workshop is being planned for area educators.

'Adoptive' students treated

Over 100 people attended the Adopt-a-Student picnic held at Bressler Park Sunday.

"This is the largest number of students and parents we have had participate. I feel we are off to a good start and hopefully all the students will get acquainted with their new parents," said Jason Barellman, head of the Education Council of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, the picnic was an opportunity for Wayne State students who had signed up to meet their "adopted" parents from the Wayne community.

"We had between 25 and 30 students who signed up attend the picnic. The program is open to all students. In the past we limited participation to those who were 200 miles or more from home. But we decided that, even those who are closer to home could benefit from having someone here in Wayne to talk to," said Ms. Barellman.

Local food vendors, including Subway, Little King, Hardee's, Magic Wok, Pizza Hut, Godfathers and Dairy Queen provided food and drink for those attending the picnic.

The Chamber has several parents who are still available to host and adopted student.

"We have some students who requested information who have not returned their questionnaires. There may be one or two who will still be part of the program," said Ms. Barellman.

Voice of Democracy entries sought

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program" said chairperson Eddie G. Baier of VFW Post 5291 in discussing the audio essay program conducted annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Some of the fringe benefits, according to Baier are increased self-confidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self-expression.

For the state winners, there is also the broadening experience of a five-day tour of Washington, D.C. and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with the other state winners.

In the 48 years that the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have been involved with the Voice of Democracy Program, more than seven million high school students have participated. Participants write and then record a three-to-five minute audio essay expressing their views on "Answering America's Call." From among the state winners, National winners are chosen to receive a total of over $114,000 in scholarships with a $20,000 first place award.

"One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program is that by thinking, writing and speaking up for their country, they gain a better appreciation of their obligation and freedom in America," Baier said.

Interested students should contact Mr. or Mrs. Eddie Baier of Wayne at 375-1662. Deadline is Nov. 10.

WSC to host broadcast

Wayne State College will host a satellite broadcast entitled "Multimedia Fair Use Guidelines," on Sept. 21 from noon to 2 p.m. in the Conn Library, room 201.

Among the topics covered in the presentation will be: What materials educators can legally use in multimedia presentations, what conditions such presentations can be used under, and expectations related to intellectual property, licensing, attribution, citation and creative integrity.

"Educators appreciate the powerful potential of multimedia. They also realize that they face copyright issues as soon as they attempt to integrate this new technology into their courses," said Maureen Battistella, directory of library services. This program is designed to assist educators in understanding and operating within multimedia fair use guidelines being developed by the Consortium of College and University Media Centers.

For reservations to view the program during the downlink on Sept. 21, contact Jim Maly in the Instructional Technology Center at 375-7270.

Teacher gets 'refueled'

In Grand Island's College Park, 85 teachers from around the state attended two days of professional development sponsored by the Nebraska Math and Science Initiative and the Nebraska Energy Office. Lead teachers representing 11 districts or consortiums, "refueled" for the school year at the PEERS Academy Articulation Meeting which included energy education activities.

The PEERS Academy is a teacher-led professional development program funded by the Nebraska Math and Science Initiative. Over the summer, these 85 Lead Teachers guide their peers through activities designed to enhance mathematics and science education. Judy Zobel, a ninth grade teacher at Wayne High School, says "the meetings give us the opportunity to talk with colleagues about the workshops and take care of any questions we might have. It also gives us a chance to bounce ideas off each other and get some feedback."

Over the weekend, teachers learned how to build their own miniature hot air balloons, and were treated to a real tethered hot air balloon ride. The TI-92, a new high-tech calculator, was unveiled on Sept. 18 by a representative from Texas Instruments. The teachers also got a chance to explore the latest in propane technology in the Nebraska Propane Gas Association's Mobile Classroom.

According to Sandy Scofield, Director of the Nebraska Math and Science Initiative, local and state resources are stretched in education. "It's great to have the support of private industry and others to allow for more professional development for teachers. This is a wonderful opportunity to teach kids about energy and how it relates to math and science."

For more information about the PEERS Academy Articulation meeting, please contact Judy Zobel at 402-375-3699 or call NMSI at 472-9305.

'Star' transplant patient celebrating 10 years

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Bonnie (Carnice) Smith is celebrating. The 42 year old granddaughter of Clara Sullivan of Wayne is one of the longest surviving pancreas transplant recipients in the country.

Smith, who lives in Lincoln with her husband Tim, had been a diabetic for 18 years and was experiencing progressive complications in 1985 when the doctors at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis reported that a successful pancreas transplant could stop or reverse damage she had to her kidneys, eyes and nerves.

The cost for the procedure was $70,000 and her insurance company did not cover what they deemed an "investigational procedure."

TO BE put on a waiting list for the pancreas transplant, Mrs. Smith needed to have $35,000 on deposit with the University of Minnesota. Fund raisers were held in several towns including Lincoln, Ashland, Wahoo, Randolph, Concord, Laurel and Wayne.

A three-wheel pull and drag contest was held in conjunction with the Dixon County Fair. Sponsored by the Aid Association for Lutherans in Wayne, Laurel and Wakefield, the event raised $5,000 which was matched by AAL. Funds were set up at State National and First National Banks in Wayne and the Wayne Lions Club made a $1,000 donation.

Three months of intensive fund raising, including a drawing for a 1985 Ford Pony Escort, donated by three families in Ashland, resulted in the first $35,000 being raised and Mrs. Smith's name being put on the waiting list.

ON DEC. 15, 1985 Mrs. Smith received the pancreas of a 23 year old man during the transplant that took several hours. She was the 125th pancreas transplant recipient at the University of Minnesota and even after 1,000 such transplants, her doctors call her their star patient, she said.

At her 10 year check up in May, doctors told Mrs. Smith that the transplant had halted further damage to her kidneys and eyes. She is holding her own.

She does wear high-power trifocal glasses to read and do computer work and drives very little—not at all at night—because she lacks depth perception and peripheral vision.

Mrs. Smith doesn't have the dietary restriction that plagued her for those many diabetic years.

IN A RECENT interview with a Lincoln newspaper, she said that as she savors life, she remembers that she owes her survival to countless friends, relatives, neighbors and strangers who responded with nickels, dimes and dollars. "I had a support system that didn't quit," Smith said.

"As a transplant recipient, I feel it is my duty and my hope to improve the lives and existence for others as it was done for me. In the last 10 years I have counseled others here in the United States and around the world on transplants and on organ donation and awareness."

"My hope is to make everyone aware of how important it is to speak to your loved ones about organ donation, and once you have made that choice, let them know that only through their consent can your organs be donated," she said.

"After my transplant, I realized I had forgotten how to feel good. The energy and zest I have for my life is wonderful. If not for your generous caring and support, I would have been able to share the quality of life I have with my husband and daughter Jennifer."

"Your efforts made the last 10 years possible. Every day has been a true blessing and as I remember my donor and Dr. Sutherland, I remember you, my family and friends in my prayers," she said.

N.E.braska band plays Vegas Polka Festival

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside Correspondent

Winside Public School band director Kevin Koopmann and members of the Mark Vyhldal Orchestra, of which he is a member, traveled to Las Vegas, Nev. to perform at America's Grand Polka Festival at the Plaza Hotel/Casino Sept. 17 to 20.

This group, as well as other musicians from all over the U.S., traveled on a special polka train which began Sept. 14 from Buffalo, N.Y. and picked up other polka enthusiasts along the way with many of them entertaining on board the train. They made a stop over in Omaha for a tour of Boys Town, The Old Market Place and lunch at the Bohemian Cafe. A get-acquainted party and dance was also held at the historic Sakol Hall.

The Las Vegas performances were sold out. There were an estimated 400 Nebraskans who followed both Nebraska groups, the Mark Vyhldal and Ernie Kucera Orchestras, to Las Vegas. Other groups performing came from Texas, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nevada and Canada.

Mr. Koopmann, who plays the tuba, is originally from Stanton and is a third generation musician. His late grandfather, Henry and father, Donald both played the tuba. Kevin has performed in several bands including Dean Hansen (1980), Jim Bockniecek (1983), Moostash Joe (1986), Math Sladky (1989), Bob Blecha (1989) and presently with Mark Vyhldal since 1992. He graduated from UNL in 1987 and is his second year as band director at

'The sorry mess makes Pat sad'

I enjoyed this Saturday's game as much as last week's, but I can't get the events of the days in between out of my mind. A man with all kinds of raw talent, a Heisman candidate, playing for a nationally-ranked team and for a coach who is a model of anger control: letting it all slip away because of what? Jealousy? Pride?

Six in our neighborhood sat around the supper table, talking about it, of course. We all agreed there had been displays of anger in our past, especially raising children. In fact, we wondered, given the current attitudes regarding parenting, if we would have been turned in for child abuse.

That has been one of the benefits of middle age: a lessening of anger. And as I read reports of senseless slaughter over being fired, being rejected; or even, being abused as children or spouses or friends, I realize that, along with learning stress management, we have to learn anger control.

But there is another issue here that was brought up at the supper table I have not seen addressed, in any of Tom Shatel's columns or the letters to the editors.

People have "gone to bed" without benefit of marriage since male and female were created. I realize it seems to be a big part of college life today. But the difference between my years after high school and now is overwhelming.

We were in segregated dormitories with curfews. Housemothers checked rooms and locks. If we did take an "overnight," we had to sign out to a specific person and place. We always suspected who spent it with a boy friend, but we never knew for sure.

I remember being amazed as a school nurse 20 years later, about how open kids were about such things; discussing in locker rooms or shop class.

The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Meierhenry

Now, it's on the front page of the World-Herald. Scott Frost, the boy wonder from Wood River, was entertaining a member of the girls basketball team in his apartment. And Lawrence Phillips, our star I-back, had apparently known her first. How did he know where she was on this night? Why didn't he pick a fight with Frost? And was the girl's safety really all her parents are worried about? Amazing!

The whole sorry mess makes me sad. For the young people involved as well as the team.

The couple in the apartment who were disturbed by the fracas are also not married. They were interviewed by the World-Herald.

What would you do if you picked up the daily paper and read that your son or daughter was involved like this? Say, "Well, it's the nineties," or as one, caller to KFAB explained, "These athletes have an abundance of testosterone!" Most of the nurses in our office have a cure for that. I won't go into any detail. Just let me add that Lorena Bobbit was mentioned.

Meanwhile, I hope the rest of the team can stay "focused," and use up the adrenaline on the field. I'm not appreciating Jay Leno's line very much; "The University of Nebraska football team has now gone an entire day without someone being arrested."

Thank You!

Reception date wrong

A going away card shower and reception will be held this Sunday for Bernice Splittgerber.

The event will be held at the Villa Wayne Club House from 2-4 p.m.

Mrs. Splittgerber will be moving to Thermopolis, Wyo. She has been a resident of the Wayne area for eight years. She was married to the late Allen Splittgerber.

The reception is being hosted by Allen's children, Carol Splittgerber, Janet Emry, Gloria and Scott Hanna, Darrin and Chris Splittgerber and grandchildren Dawn and JC Hanna.

The hosts request no gifts. It was incorrectly reported in last week's paper that the reception would be held Sept. 17. The Herald apologizes for the error.

School officials representing both Wayne High School and Wayne State College watch as Matt Blomenkamp signs a student contract in the Partners in Education project in Wayne.

Schools are partners

Year two of the Partners in Education Project was launched as Dr. Diane Alexander, Dean of Division of Education at Wayne State College and Dr. Bob Whing, of the Wayne Public Schools signed the first student contracts symbolizing the joining efforts of the two institutions to improve education for this Nebraska community.

Last year, a pilot project tested the partnership when Wayne Public School teachers request for classroom assistance was matched with Wayne State College students' need for field experience opportunities. A total of 56 students was placed in Wayne classrooms. They were responsible for performing such tasks as listening to students read, tutoring one-on-one, practicing spelling words, doing library research with students, giving homework assistance and assisting in cooperative learning activities.

A total of 1,443.53 hours of community service was donated by the college students last year. In return, the Wayne State students had the opportunity to explore teaching as a career choice, experience the classroom from the emergent professional view, work in authentic classroom settings and begin to develop professional attitudes and work ethics.

Through the Partners in Education Project, both faculties are sharing some responsibility in the preparation of new education professionals; both are improving the opportunities for students in public education.

This unusual alliance of college-school institutions is based on the symbiotic relationship described by Dr. John Goodlad. Wayne State College is one of 10 state institutions involved in the NENR Goodlad project for education renewal. It is expected that there will be more requests for classroom assistance honored this second year. An expanded partnership will likely include more professional exchanges of ideas and resources.

The Division of Education is so pleased with the relationship with the Wayne Public Schools that new partnerships are being considered with other school districts. It is likely that three new partnerships will be announced in the near future.

Retirees hold Allen meeting

The Wayne Area Retired Teachers met on Tuesday, Sept. 5 at the Village Inn in Allen. Betty Anderson, president, opened the meeting with an article about rules and regulations regarding a teacher's responsibilities before she was offered a contract 50 years ago. It was voted to send a $25 donation to the Patrol Fund for Dogs used in the combating of drugs as a courtesy to Patrolman Ron Peck who presented the program at the July picnic. Committee reports were given and the nominations committee presented the names of candidates for election in November. November meeting will be at the Pizza Ranch on Nov. 7 at 10 a.m. Members were urged to attend the state convention in Kearney on Sept. 29. Mrs. Kathy Wintz Abts of Hartington presented a program about the trip she and seven of her adult children took to Europe last year to retrace the route her late husband, Dick Wintz, had taken as a lieutenant with the Rangers. Their journey started in London and ended at Paris. Kathy also brought pictures and a medal which was given to her husband posthumously. Her personal narrative gave all of us a deeper appreciation of those who have given so much as we have celebrated the 50th anniversary of the war's ending.

Children who tease can be very mean

Anyone who's ever been to a school playground during recess knows how mean children can be. But the concept of "mean" changes as children get older, says a child psychiatrist, and by adolescence, teasing turns into more symbolic forms that can be rejected by the victim.

Lynda Cruickshank, Wayne County Cooperative Extension. First-graders, for the most part, engage in physically hurtful teasing, such as tying a classmate's shoelaces together, according to Theodore R. Warm, a child and adolescent psychiatrist, who asked 250 children and adolescents about teasing. By sixth grade, hurtful teasing is replaced by what Warm calls mean teasing — calling a burn victim ugly, for example. But as young people move into adolescence, their teasing gets more sophisticated and symbolic. In the first grade actions speak louder than words. You can't really use verbal teasing when you're that young. By sixth grade, words are as good as actions. These children take words very concretely: it doesn't make any difference whether the victim of teasing is disfigured or not. The words are taken as much as reality. Adolescents discover the truth of the adage "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me." By 11th grade, symbolic teasing accounts for about 80 percent of the teasing. "They start to realize that the words are only symbols of harassment, and if you don't accept that symbol as having authenticity, you can then overlook it and not get upset by it." The young people in the study, especially as they got older, usually coped with being teased on their own. About a fourth of the first-graders said they would tell their teacher or parent, but by third grade, 90 percent say they handle teasing themselves. An overwhelming 95 percent of sixth-graders say "the same" thing. But, students who handled teasing by themselves either responded by retaliating against or ignoring the teaser. Retaliation was a little — but not much — higher than ignoring. Teasing is an inevitable part of growing up, and it seems that kids are adept at handling it on their own, but when teasing gets out of hand, it can lead to problems. Warm says that it is sometimes appropriate for adults to intervene, particularly among prepubertal children. "When other kids use a cruel, symbolic teasing, an older person would be able to see through it, but the latency kids are stuck in a concrete operation and their cognitive capacities haven't matured enough so that they can understand the symbolism of it," Warm says. "The word is the same thing as having it. If you call somebody fat, it's the same as being fat. All of us who work with — or have our own kids — know how miserable kids can be."

Waynians honored at Fair

The Wayne County Senior Home Economics Contest team placed second in the Home Economics Contest at the Nebraska State Fair. There were 44 teams from across Nebraska who participated. The team's total score of 1567 was just twelve points behind the first place team, which was from Burlington. Team members were Jolene Jager of Wayne, Krista Magnuson of Carroll, Hailey Daehnke of Wakefield, and Jenny Fleer of Hoskins. Two team members received individual honors as well. Jolene Jager placed fifth as an individual, and Krista Magnuson placed seventh. There were 177 participants in the Senior Division of the contest. The Home Economics Contest gives participants an opportunity to apply basic knowledge of home economics to situations relevant to young people. This knowledge is tested through written questions, oral reasons, and placing classes. In addition, all Senior Division participants were involved in a team problem solving presentation. The Wayne County team received 99 points out of 100 in the team problem area.

'Mom and Me' program to be held in Norfolk

Daughters grow up so fast. How can mom talk to her about such complicated topics as peer pressure, dating and sex? A program called Mom and Me will provide ways for mothers and daughters to communicate about these issues. It is sponsored by Cooperative Extension. It will be held on Saturday, Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church, 4th and Phillip, in Norfolk. Girls ages 9 to 13 and their mothers are invited to attend.

There will be activities and games designed to help the mother and daughter understand and communicate with each other. Lessons on communication, peer pressure and a special message about sexual abstinence, will be presented. Topics are from a conservative standpoint and are low key. Mom and ME is both informative and fun.

Families in which there is not a mother may choose some other special adult female to attend with the daughter. This is an annual event, so if there are two daughters in this age range, mothers are encouraged to bring the older one this year and the younger one next year. This provides mothers an opportunity to focus completely on one child for the entire day, a good way to increase the mother-daughter bond. Parents who would like to know more about the program before registering are encouraged to call Myrna DuBois, Extension Educator, at the number below.

The program is being sponsored by 4-H Families, but families from all locations and backgrounds are encouraged to attend. There will be a small fee to cover the cost of lunch, snacks and handouts. Please phone 492-439-2231 or your local Cooperative Extension office for pre-registration materials. Registration is due Sept. 29.

How to explain death to a child

Q: My wife died when our children were 9, 8 and 5. Can you offer some guidelines to explain death to them?

A: Some years ago, I attended a funeral at the Inglewood Cemetery-Mortuary in Southern California. While there, I picked up a brochure written by the president of the mortuary, John M. McKinley.

Mr. McKinley had been in the funeral business for 15 years before writing "If It Happens to Your Child." He gave me permission to reproduce a portion of the content in order to answer your question:

"I knew Tommy's parents because they lived in the neighborhood, and Tommy was one of the liveliest, happiest 5-year-olds I had ever seen my pleasure to meet. It was a shock, therefore, when his mother became a client of mine at the death of her husband.

"Tommy is doing everything he can to take his daddy's place," she told me. And it was true: Tommy was standing just as he imagined a man would stand, not crying, and doing his best to take his daddy's place.

"I knew it was wrong. I knew I should tell her so—that Tommy was not a man; that he needed to cry; that he needed comfort probably far more than she. But I am not a psychologist, so I said nothing.

"In the two years since then, the joy has not come back to Tommy's face, and it is clear even to my layman's mind that he is an emotionally sick child. I am sure it began when his mother, unknowingly, made it difficult—impossible—for him to express his grief, and placed on him an obligation he could not fulfill; that of 'taking Daddy's place.'

"There have been few examples so clear-cut as Tommy's. I talked to several psychologists, psychiatrists and pediatricians, and here is the gist of what I learned:

* When a child, like any other human being, experiences a deeply painful loss, not only should he be permitted to cry, he should be encouraged to cry until the need for tears is gone. He should be comforted while the tears are flowing, but the words "don't cry" should be stricken from the language.

Dr. Dobson
Answers Your Questions

* The child should be told the truth: that death is final. "Mommy has gone on vacation," or "Daddy has gone on a trip" only adds to the confusion. It is hard to say "never" when you know it will make the tears flow harder, but it is the kindest word in the long run.

* A child should not be unduly shielded from the physical appearance and fact of death. If a parent dies, the child should be permitted to see the body, so that with his own eyes he can see the changes.

* If the child is very young—say 2 to 5 or 6—great care should be used in explaining death in terms that are meaningful to adults, but which may be very puzzling to children. For example, to say that "Mommy has gone to Heaven" may make perfect sense to a religiously bereaved father, but it may leave a 5-year-old wondering why Mommy has deserted him. At that answer, "Heaven" is simply a faraway place, and he will not be able to understand why his mother stays there instead of coming home to take care of him.

* Along with tears, a child is quite likely to feel sharp resentment, even anger, at the dead parent or brother or sister who has "gone." This feeling is the result of the child's conviction that he has been deserted. If this feeling does arise, the child should be permitted to express it freely, just as in the case of tears.

* Finally, it helps if children are allowed to retell stories that evoke vivid recollections of the one they lost. Such reminiscing does not renew or increase their sorrow. To the extent that it makes them free to remember, the cause for sorrow is removed."

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Katie Hancock and her daughter Shawnee Isom recently returned from spending a week at the X-Bar-A guest ranch in McCloud, Mont. They left on Aug. 28. On the return return trip they stopped at Meeteetse, Wyo. to attend the annual Labor Day rodeo.

The family of Vern and Lesta Hubbard gathered at the Don Hubbard home in Wagner, S.D. to celebrate Vern and Lesta's 62nd wedding anniversary Sept. 3 and 4.

While the Hubbard family was meeting for dinner at noon on Saturday of Labor Day weekend, word was received that Bert Hubbard and his wife, Vicki with Bert's daughter, Schalce and her son, Cirstopher crashed on/take off at Epply Air Field in Omaha. The funeral for Bert was held in Texas on Sept. 12. Bert's wife and daughter are still hospitalized with serious injuries. His grandson was only slightly injured and has been discharged. Bert was Vern and Lesta Hubbard's oldest son.

Veterans are remembered

The American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary annual family potluck picnic was held Monday, Sept. 11 at 6:30 p.m. at the Allen Senior Center with 38 in attendance.

Following the meal, Josh Snyder, 1995 Boys State representative from Allen, gave a report on Boys State, which he attended in June.

A printed World War II quiz was given to everyone and the answers were discussed.

Several World War II veterans brought uniforms and other memorabilia from their war time service and told about the items. They also recounted some of their experiences.

Cliff Stalling, U.S. Army veteran, showed his Eisenhower jacket and cap and explained the meaning of "decorations" and medals.

Earl Potter told about medals and ribbons on his Air Corps uniform and cap. Both men recounted memories of their service time.

Darrel Novak showed a bowie knife with a handle carved for him by a Phillipino friend. He also displayed a pair of binoculars given to him by General Douglas MacArthur. He also showed a revolver used in his service with the Military Police.

Eldon Durant served on a submarine and told of many close calls with the enemy. Bud Mitchell told of his service in the Merchant Marines on a tanker that fueled P-38 airplanes.

Chris Isom, daughter of Herb Ellis, read memories Herb had written about his landing on Omaha Beach. She discussed a display of Herb's souvenir Howitzer shell, German pistol, German hats, a bayonet, photos and documents.

There were 184 men and women from the Allen area that served during World War II. Three were killed in action while serving overseas.

Wakefield church has a new pastor

Ross Erickson began his service last Sunday as the new pastor at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Wakefield.

Pastor Erickson and his wife, Paula, are both natives of California. They have a daughter, Janna, 9, and a son, Wesley, 5.

Pastor Erickson came from Minneapolis where he was chaplain at Abbot Northwestern Hospital. He was serving a one-year residency in clinical pastoral education. He previously served as a pastor in Ashland, Wis., and as an associate pastor in Eureka, Calif. Pastor Erickson attended Trinity Evangelical Divinity School outside of Chicago and graduated from Northpark Theological Seminary in Chicago in 1986.

"This past year of intensive training during his residency was a learning experience, Pastor Erickson said, one that will influence his ministry in Wakefield.

"I really grew personally and also in my faith," he said. "I learned that the way we find hope in the midst of our trials and pain is by facing it. I'm going to emphasize that I want to listen to people — meet them wherever they are and work with them to find answers and hope if they are struggling. With God's help we find hope and answers."

Pastor Erickson said that Sunday was the kickoff of Sunday school. He said he shared with his congregation a theme for the coming year.

"The Bible does say that we are to be successful in living the Christian life," he said. "We are called to be faithful. We are faithful by knowing God's word and being obedient to it."

He said he offered the following challenge to the congregation: "That we would promise to be people of the Bible and make this a theme for the coming year in the life of the church."

Pastor Erickson said he enjoys being outdoors and "would like the opportunity to pick up on some pheasant hunting."

He is looking forward to getting involved in the community, working with other pastors and other churches.

"Both Paula and I are just very excited about being here," he said. "We're looking forward to living in Wakefield and being part of the community. We're hoping this can be our home for a long time."

The "Word" for the Week

Following Jesus Christ

Jesus said to those of His day, "Come to me, all who are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28). Christ freely offers Himself to people like you and me. He says, "Come, follow Me" (Mark 10:21). Jesus also commanded those following him to "make disciples" (Matthew 28:19) by calling others to follow him.

Following Christ and being a disciple means you believe certain facts in the Bible about Christ. You believe he is the eternal Son of God. You believe he was born of a virgin. You believe he died on the cross to pay the penalty for sin. You believe He was raised again from the grave and is now King of kings and Lord of Lords.

Discipleship, however, involves more than a mere belief of these facts. Discipleship means commitment to Christ. Discipleship means trusting in the person called Christ and what he has done. You can believe all there is to know about Christ and still not be a disciple. The Bible says, "The demons believe, and shudder" (James 2:19). You must trust Christ himself and rely upon him to save you from sin and its consequences.

Because it is my desire to follow Christ and to make disciples, I urge you to come to Christ. I call upon you to commit your life to Christ.

Area okayed for road hay

Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson this week directed the Nebraska Department of Roads to allow haying of state highway roadsides in Wayne County and five other Nebraska counties.

Gov. Nelson's announcement followed a meeting of the Climate Assessment Response Committee (CARC) on Thursday which resulted in the recommendation that roadsides be released for haying in Harlan, Johnson, Franklin, Wayne, Stanton and Thurston Counties.

Director of Agriculture Larry E. Sitzman called the meeting of the Climate Assessment Response Committee in response to the rapidly decreasing moisture situation across most of eastern and southcentral Nebraska.

Information provided by staff of the University Drought Center and other committee members has further convinced me that much of the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska is in the early stages of mild drought conditions," Sitzman said. "Haying of roadsides will help livestock producers whose pastures and hay supply are suffering from the lack of rain. Sub-soil moisture conditions are very low across most of eastern Nebraska. This also causes great concern for fall wheat planting, as well as for other crops to be planted next spring."

Roadside mowing will be allowed on both sides of all state highways in the designated counties. Haying permits will be issued to farmers on a first-come, first-serve basis through Department of Roads' offices beginning Sept. 18. No permits will be sold after Sept. 29. Information on permits can be obtained by calling 370-3470 for Wayne, Stanton and Thurston Counties.

The Lincoln office can also provide information. That number is 402-479-4542. Permit fees are $5 per mile per side for state highways. All haying operations must be completed by Oct. 14. The hay is to be used for feed only — not for resale.

Governor Nelson's announcement for haying of roadsides in the above six counties follows a Sept. 8 announcement allowing haying in Butler, Saunders, Seward and Lancaster Counties.

Sustainable ag succeeds

The Campaign For Sustainable Agriculture this week released a report that demonstrates that its proposed reforms of the Conservation Reserve Program (USDA's land-bidding program for environmental purposes) are cost-effective and practical.

Kris Thorp, co-chair of the Campaign's Conservation Reserve Program Committee, said "If Congress adopts our reforms we can maintain a 31 million acre program, 86 percent of the current size, and stay well within the budget targets."

"Our proposal will ensure that the land that is selected for the program will get us the most environmental bang for the buck. We propose an open and competitive bidding process that is designed to choose land that will yield the maximum environmental benefit," said Ms. Thorp.

She commented further, "Our proposal encourages more partial field enrollments such as filter strips, contour grass strips and shelterbelts. These sound conservation techniques reduce soil erosion and improve water quality." She added, "To maximize wildlife habitat, larger field enrollments will continue to be an option."

The analysis was prepared for The Campaign For Sustainable Agriculture by Dr. Charles Benbrook, research consultant. The Campaign For Sustainable Agriculture is a network of over 500 grassroots and national organizations working together to change federal policy to foster a sustainable farm and food system.

Nebraska organizations participating include the Center for Rural Affairs, Nebraska Wildlife Federation and the Nebraska Sustainable Agriculture Society.

Ecotage, eco-terrorism are still crimes

"Ecotage" and "eco-terrorism" are names given to crimes committed and justified in the name of protecting the environment. One such crime occurred sometime after 6:30 p.m. April 14 when a ranch hand checked cattle at the Tres Lomitas Ranch in Luna County, N.M. At 4 p.m. the next day, he found 13 cows and seven baby calves dead. The cattle had been shot at close range with a high-velocity rifle, apparently victims of a trained sniper.

The terrorist or terrorists also drained more than 30,000 gallons of water from a storage tank by removing a pipe fitting, and they disabled the windmill filling the tank by breaking a sucker rod. They also planned for further damage by removing bolts supporting the windmill structure; the windmill would have collapsed under high winds or during maintenance work had the terrorists' "handwork" not been found.

The cattle were grazing in an area that included land marked by Bureau of Land Management signs as a wilderness study area. A few days after the crimes, ranch owner Tom Kelly received a letter postmarked April 15 in Las Cruces, N.M. It had a "Cattle Free by 2003" logo in the return address space and it contained a clipping titled "A Case for Livestock Free Wilderness" by Jim Fish, a frequent spokesman for environmental extremists in the Albuquerque area. Earlier this year, Fish promised a "fight to the death" with the livestock industry in a letter to the Albuquerque Journal newspaper.

Use of public lands for grazing is a major issue in the West. Ranchers who rent the land receive only the right to graze cattle on it, and they must provide their own fences, water sources, etc. If wildlife have already eaten the forage on their allotment, it's too bad for the rancher — the rent is still due. Environmental extremists say livestock grazings destroys the rangeland environment, cattle shouldn't be allowed to graze on these lands, and at the very least, ranchers should pay much higher fees for the right to graze. Ranchers respond that rangeland has evolved and developed with cattle grazing, and that the fees they pay can be used to preserve the range. The "cattle-free" people say rangelands should be preserved as an environmental treasure.

And so it goes, back and forth. The issue won't be settled by one crime in the name of the environment, or even many. And there are more. In addition to the "cattle-free" group, an organization called Earth First! regularly engages in ecotage. Several years ago it advertised for a terminally ill person willing to strap on explosives and blow up a major dam in Utah, which the group claimed had harmed the environment.

Earth First! spokesman Dave Foreman was remarkably forthcoming in recent comments about the group's activities. "A major accomplishment of Earth First! (and of ecotage) has been to expand the environmental spectrum to where the Sierra Club and other groups are perceived as moderates. This has more than offset any negative connotations arising from conservation's connections with monkey-wrenching," he said.

It's an interesting strategy, but there's evidence that it's not working. Since the 1994 Congressional elections, many of the major environmental organizations have been returning to their moderate roots of encouraging song bird habitat and wild game populations.

And most Americans are very put off by the idea of crime in the name of the environment, printed up as "ecotage" or "eco-terrorism" though it may be.

METHODIST WOMEN

The Dixon United Methodist Women met Sept. 14. A program, "African Working Conference for Women" was led by Wilma Eckert and Lucy Mason. It told of many of the problems and concerns African Women have in their countries.

for food! Lunch was served by Wilma Eckert and Lucy Mason.
