

Bean, corn cash more than expected

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Last year at this time a bushel of corn was worth $1.89. As of Oct. 17, a bushel of corn is worth $2.89. A bushel of soybeans was worth $4.76 a year ago and is now $5.94.

That fact will help offset the fact that this year's crop is predicted to be down 23 percent from last year's record crop.

Average yield for the state of Nebraska is forecast at 114 bushels per acre, six bushels below last month's predictions, 25 bushels below last year and nearly 12 bushels below the 10 year average of 125.6 bushels per acre, according to figures released by Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service in Lincoln.

SOYBEAN PRODUCTION is forecast at 91.76 million bushels, the lowest since 1988. Yields are expected to average 31 bushels and acre, down 16 bushels from last year's record yield.

State Agriculture Director Larry Sitzman says the higher prices are not enough to diminish losses. "What good is it to have $14-a-bushel soybeans if you don't have any soybeans to sell," he said.

Sitzman said he is sticking with the $400 million damage loss to Nebraska crops which is the guess he made the day after an early frost swept the state last month.

IN THE WAYNE area "soybean harvest is much wrapping up and farmers are hitting the corn pretty hard" according to Teri Post at the Consolidated Farm Service office.

"Overall, I think the farmers are pretty pleased with yields, considering the type of year we have had."

"The corn has dried down considerably this week and things are really moving along," she said.

Jason Berg at Wayne Grain and Feed echoed Post's comments.

"The weather has definitely helped bring harvest along. The warm temperatures and winds have dried corn down considerably," Berg said.

"We have reports of corn anywhere from 14 to 22 percent moisture, which is good for this time of year," he said.

Berg said farmers have, for the most part, finished soybean harvest. Yields ranged from 10 to 40 bushels per acre.

State wide, corn harvest was 14 percent complete as of Monday, compared with a 38 percent average

Cashing in

Phil Bloom of Laurel created a cloud of dust as he unloaded his soybeans at Wayne Grain and Feed, Wednesday. Bloom said he and his brother, Tim, were pleased with the harvest season so far. "The yields are surprising, considering the frost. It's better than we expected," he said. The Blooms have 100 acres south of Wayne and 1100 acres near Laurel.

Mistake lessens levies

The Wayne County Board of Equalization approved a decrease in tax levy for School District 17 Monday.

The decrease is a result of an omission by the Dixon County Assessor for $368,812 from the total Dixon County valuation certified for the school district.

The General Fund Tax Rate for the affiliated district decreases from $1.1547 to 1.1528 per $100 property valuation.

The Special Building Fund Tax Rate for the district falls from .1128 to .1125.

Drain, dike dumps law suit on city

The City of Wayne lost a law suit, by the Froese Family Partnership (FFP) over construction at the Wayne Municipal Airport, this week.

District Court Judge Richard P. Garden ruled in favor of the plaintiff, FFP, for the amount of $1,211.50 in attorney's fees, in a decision handed down Friday.

FFP and the city made an agreement in the winter of last year regarding water drainage at the meeting of the two properties near Highway 35 last year.

On Sept. 7, during construction of the new runway at the airport, the city received word that their contractors were building a dike at the north end of the airport property.

City Attorney Chris Connolly said construction was immediately stopped while they decided what to do. On Sept. 26, a court order was served on the city and two days later the dike was removed.

FFP also filed suit against the city for improper cleaning of a drainage ditch on the airport property.

The decision Friday stipulates that the city must pay the attorney's fees and properly clean the drainage ditch.

Connolly said work began Thursday to clean the ditch.

Parting of the earth

Father Donald Cleary of St. Mary's Church blesses the site of what will become a new rectory/office complex for the church. Ground was broken last week on the project which should be completed by spring. Otte Construction is doing the construction on the building which is located just north of the church.

Protesters want to shut door after open house

CLARKSON, Neb. (AP) — An open house and tours of a regional landfill have done little to ease the concerns of nearby residents.

"It's like looking at a new Buick today, but it will probably be like looking at a rusty Cadillac in two months," said Glen Steffensmeier of rural Clarkson.

About 75 people toured the landfill Thursday. At least 10 protesters gathered, carrying signs saying, "How Can You Boast About This Atrocity," and "We Shall Never Step Down To Your Level Of Deception."

Organizers of the Northeast Nebraska Solid Waste Coalition contend the facility is the best way to handle waste from the region. The landfill's lifespan is expected to be about 30 years. It is set to open Oct. 30.

Some 19 counties and communities belong to the coalition, including Fremont, Norfolk and Oakland. The Columbus City Council was expected to vote today on whether to join the coalition.

Residents near the landfill in Stanton County have fought for nearly two years against its construction, fearing it could contaminate groundwater. Tom Vrbicky, who lives with his family south of the landfill, said he was concerned about the system set up to collect drainage from the landfill.

"We've got cows down there," Vrbicky said. "What's going to happen if they suck that stuff up?"

Vlasta Zrust of Clarkson believes her farm will be contaminated some day by the landfill. "They can't guarantee it won't be," she said.

Coalition board members set a gate fee of $30.85 a ton at the landfill. If Columbus joins by Oct. 27, gate fees will be reduced to $26 a ton.

The city of Wayne is currently considering options in regard to solid waste disposal but the Clarkson landfill is not one of the options being considered.

It's a new world at West Elementary

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

Our world is quickly turning into a global community. The third and fourth graders at West Elementary are learning that fact as thoroughly as their times tables.

For 25 minutes, three times a week, these students are taught Spanish by a teacher through a TV screen. Each session is downloaded to a VCR via satellite from the TLI Company in Texas.

The lessons are part of a pilot program begun last year which will be examined at the end of this school year, according to Principal David Lutt. Lutt plans to have a teacher conference, do a student survey, and make a presentation to the District 17 School Board before June.

If the administrators are pleased with the results at the end of this year, they will consider implementing the video program into the fifth and sixth grades as well.

Though the lessons are not a two-way dialogue and there is no grade given for the exercises, the students are enthusiastically participating. A West Elementary teacher is always present to encourage the students and make sure everyone is participating.

West Elementary is the first to use the teacher via satellite in our region, but other schools in the state and nation are moving to programs of this type for financial reasons.

Lutt explains, "It's a lot cheaper than having a teacher in the room for six sessions. We are paying $2,000 for materials, instead of hiring another teacher."

Lutt decided to make the move to the program because of statistics regarding linguistics. Researchers have estimated that Spanish will be the most spoken language in the United States by the year 2000.

Teachers and students are already seeing benefits of the sessions.

Juan Carlos Uriostegui is a third grader who moved here from Mex-

Move ahead

We need to get on with the process of correcting school building deficiencies in the Wayne and Carroll communities.

The Middle School should be replaced. The Carroll Elementary building needs regular repairs and refurbishing funded through the sinking funds.

Rather than proceeding with the recommendations of at least two community committees who have contributed hundreds of man hours to study what is best for the community and its students; rather than accepting the cost estimates and professional recommendations of two separate building design and structure professionals; rather than accepting the practicality of locating all Wayne students on the same campus site to benefit from the efficiency of shared facilities and staff, opponents of any new building plans persist on disrupting the process by attempting to discredit the ethics of those involved in the process.

We believe any plan to spend more than $6 million to remodel and add onto the existing Middle School building would and should be doomed to failure by the voters. The current suggestion to remodel and add onto the facility for $6.25 million would not provide the same square footage that was included in the $7.9 million bond issue rejected by voters last year. Neither would it address all the educational needs of the district's students, many of whom would still spend valuable classroom time shuffling the five blocks back and forth between the Middle School and High School for classes under the remodel scenario.

We hope the school board credits the work of its committees and the costly building studies it has commissioned and proceeds with the rational decision on what is best for the students.

The school's neighbors who fear the old building might become an eye sore, or worse, a housing development, if not retained as a school, deserve to know what the future would hold for the facility before the next bond issue is sent to voters.

We can't believe the facility can't find a useful and compatible purpose within the neighborhood.

But we can't accept that it would ever be the best alternative for Wayne Middle School.

Splits feared over tax issues

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN — Every so often, you'll see a newspaper headline about an "urban-rural" split in the Nebraska Legislature.

More often than not, those splits develop over tax issues, when senators of city districts differ with lawmakers with rural constituents over the impact of levying a certain tax.

So it came as no surprise recently that a study by the Nebraska Tax Research Council found that three petition drives underway in the state would likely create such a split.

The council's report said that shifting the tax load from property to sales and income taxes would benefit rural folks and dig into the pocketbooks of their neighbors in the city.

Now there's a split.

My farm pals would say that's no surprise. The country is filled with property and sees many droughts of income and money to buy things.

Those city slickers, however, seem always to have money to burn, and sit on little postage stamps of property.

So, farm folks would save more by shifting the tax load off property and onto income and sales.

The tax council's report said that under the four scenarios for raising sales taxes to offset 30- or 60-percent reductions in property taxes (as called for in a couple of the petitions), folks in the state's smallest county, Arthur County, would save between $448 and $948 in their annual tax bills.

Taxpayers in Douglas County, the state's largest, would see their tax bills go up by between $80 and $200 a year.

This "urban-rural" difference will make it more difficult for the Legislature to reach a solution on the property tax problem. But, of course, no one's ever said this issue was going to be easy.

State Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, a wise sage of knowledge about taxes, said the tax council's report was fine but it assumed that everyone thinks that the current tax load is distributed fairly.

That may not be the case, Warner said, since property taxes have been rising faster than the other taxes. State aid to schools, he said, hasn't kept up with rising cost of running schools, thus local property taxes have risen to pick up the slack.

Expect to hear this argument in the Legislature, that some shift is probably warranted, particularly for rural residents.

Where Gov. Nelson will ultimately come down on that issue is uncertain.

All along, he's said he opposes any shift in taxes. Such shifts, the governor says, gives "tax relief" to some folks and "tax grief" to others.

The solution, Nelson said, is to cut spending on government, not shift taxes around to different taxpayers.

He is working on his own property tax relief plan, but he's calling it a "spending reduction plan." Expect spending bids and encouragement for merging government operations to cut costs — not big shifts in taxes.

But when push comes to shove, statistics that show that property taxes are taking a bigger bite from rural folks and city dwellers may be hard to ignore.

The bull rider's and the bull fighters return to the Wayne Fairgrounds next Friday and Saturday. Some would put an end to such events citing the danger posed to these beautiful animals. We who have attended these events believe that it is not the animals who are in danger.

Our uncle keeps buying new toys

Sam is buying new toys. Uncle Sam has spent $250 for pliers and other seemingly extravagant tools, but perhaps he has maxed out in a top-secret program.

The Clinton Administration has a top-secret project of developing a new chain of satellites with the code name 8X. Hereafter when you think 8X, think of billions of dollars being spent to upgrade our spy satellites. Whenever you secretly take pictures of anybody or anything, it's notably expensive.

The new 8X satellites, an upgrade of the current KH-12 spy satellite electronics, will provide the CIA and Pentagon with fantastic information, according to experts.

Not only will the new electronic spies expand photographic coverage for military battlefield commanders, but the 8X's, under development by Lockheed Martin in Sunnyvale, California, are projected to be able to perform such tasks as monitoring the Earth for enemy missile launches, snare the electronic signals emitted by enemy weapons, and gather foreign telephone discussions. The cost? Officials estimate the 8X project may cost as much as $1.5 billion. In addition, there is the matter of spending $350 million for each Titan IV rocket to launch each satellite or the ground equipment for data processing.

Merlin Wright

On board the satellites will be sensitive cameras able to photograph areas as large as a thousand square miles. Sophisticated as they are, the cameras can show details as small as six inches. Whoa Nellie!

Weighing up to 20 tons, the 8X satellites will be much bigger than any previously used, and plans are to have them in use sometime after 1998.

If Uncle Sam has the technology, and we assume he does, to listen in on foreign telephone conversations by satellite, isn't it reasonable to believe he might be tempted to listen at will to anyone's conversations anywhere?

Satellites already in orbit generate what is known as the GPS, or Global Positioning System, with the capability of telling you where you are within three feet! Ships at sea, aircraft in flight, farmers on tractors, boats on lakes, and drivers in cars can all determine where they are via the GPS. Guess who runs the GPS network of 24 satellites? If you guessed the U.S. military, you're right.

With future implantation of microchips in animals and people, for identifying citizens and illegal aliens, the total technology will be in place for big brother to watch over us all.

Outright paranoia! Probably!
Then again, maybe not.
Camera overhead! Big smile!

By George, it's Wayne America On Line

"Wayne America On Line" That's what the new community information network being developed for Wayne should be called according to the guy who spearheaded the effort to have "Wayne, America" painted on the water tower.

Lyle George was back in town this week to attend his sister Caroline's wedding. George moved to Seattle last year and has introduced his special brand of eccentric living to a land of fellow eccentrics.

Those who remember Lyle's semiannual bonfire parties at his rural home near Wayne will appreciate the story he tells about not being allowed to burn a downed tree where it fell in the front yard of his apartment building in Washington. Instead of the bonfire party, he invited the whole building and other neighbors in for a pancake breakfast.

Image 42 people in a one bedroom apartment having breakfast with Lyle. George said he keeps up with the news in Wayne, through the Wayne Herald of course, and he appreciates the effort to develop free local access for the Internet. He exchanges e-mail with his Wayne friends almost daily.

By Les Mann

For those who want to communicate with him, his address is lylegeorge@aol.com.

He reports he has taken up sailing and loves the Seattle area but riding through harvest-time N.E. braska countryside on a beautiful fall afternoon and lamenting about the inability to hold his loved "Almostest Solstice" fall bonfire parties, he said he loves and misses this area too.

As the last unmarried George, Lyle wouldn't comment on the Washington search for a spouse, but he did say he has a name picked out for his first son: Wayne Harold George has a nice ring to it don't you think?

I enjoyed the visit with Lyle but even more enjoyable (if you can believe it) was the opportunity to visit with his little sis Sandra. All of the George siblings, the offspring of Marie and the late Harold George of Dixon, are brilliant.

Sandra, a lawyer and former newspaper publisher, was the executive director of the Nebraska Press Association before she resigned last year to move to Michigan with her husband Mike and get into the business of restoring a historic old stone mansion and helping with his veterinary practice.

We toured the Mann family housing development project south of Wayne and shared house restoration horror stories. They offered me their sympathy and like others who have seen the project in recent days seriously doubted our sanity when told we will be moving in by the end of the month.

Sorry about the brevity this week. These are busy times and I'll try to catch up on the bulging file of column subjects in the weeks after the move.

Third grader Luke Grone watches his televised teacher in Mr. Reikofski's room Wednesday. The class participates in Spanish activities three times each week.

Spanish

ico City. Though Uriostegui prefers to speak English because he is trying to learn it better, when other students speak to him in Spanish, it makes him feel good. "They try to say some things they know," he said.

Uriostegui has learned one new Spanish word through the sessions. "I learned what you call a black tiger—a panther. I like them. They are cool, but I don't like the way they kill other animals," he said.

Brady Garvin is a fourth grader who began with the program last year. Garvin now says he speaks better Spanish than his mother, who learned the language earlier.

He said he used Spanish Tuesday when he was concerned about his mother. "I asked her how she was feeling in Spanish, because she looked kind of down," said Garvin. "But she said 'Muy bien,' which means very well."

Garvin and his mother are now teaching his five year old sister how to speak Spanish.

Roger Reikofski, fourth grade teacher, is enjoying the program. He said he took Spanish in college, but has forgotten much of it.

"At first the students seemed disinterested. But I try to be really positive and show them that we're learning together," said Reikofski. "For the most part, they're enjoying it."

Reikofski agrees that learning a second language should start at an early age. "You will retain it better if you gradually get into it."

Sue Larsen, third grade teacher, is beginning her second year with the program. Mrs. Larsen said the program uses the right tools to make the students learn. "They use a lot of music, counting and color words," she said.

"I think it is really important with the Spanish influence in our area," said Mrs. Larsen. "These kids are going to live in a world where they will experience a lot of different languages and cultures."

College plans for winter

Winter weather in N.E. braska can pose difficulties in traveling on roads and highways. Severe weather conditions can make getting to classes at Wayne State College on time difficult. In an effort to be prepared for winter storms, Wayne State College has instituted a severe weather notification procedure. This plan will utilize the regional media to inform students, faculty and staff of any cancellations due to severe weather.

When the college administration has made the decision to cancel classes, the radio and television stations listed will be notified by the College Relations Office. The stations will then broadcast the cancellation message on a regular basis. Students, faculty and staff are urged to call the stations, as that can tie up the phone lines for others calling in cancellation information. The stations will not give closing or cancellation information over the phone.

The following stations have agreed to broadcast WSC announcements in the event of bad weather: Norfolk — KNEN Radio - 94.7FM, WJAG/KEXL Radio - 780AM/106.7FM; Omaha — KFAB/KGOR Radio - 1110AM/99.9FM, WOW Radio - 590AM; O'Neill — KBRX Radio - 1350AM/102FM; Sioux City — KCAU TV - Channel 9, KMEG TV - Channel 14, KTIV TV - Channel 4, KKSC/KGLI Radio - 1470AM/95FM, KSCJ Radio - 1360AM, KMNS Radio - 620AM; Wayne — KTCH Radio - 1590AM/104.9FM, KWSC Radio - 91.9FM; West Point — KWPN Radio - 840AM/107.9FM; Yankton — WNAX Radio - 570AM/104.1FM; Central City — KZEN Radio - 100.3FM.

If the cancellation of classes follows a holiday weekend or recess where students and staff might be traveling great distances to return to campus, Wayne State's cancellation messages will also be broadcast on these stations: Columbus — KTXL Radio, KJSK/KLIR Radio

Some WSC academic divisions also have special telephone numbers that students can call to hear a recorded announcement regarding the cancellation of that division's classes. These numbers cannot be used to leave messages for instructors. Those numbers are Applied Science, 375-7291; Education, 375-7378; Humanities, 375-7442; HPLS, 375-7302; Math/Science, 375-7335; Social Science, 375-7292; Conn Library, 375-7570.

In the case of extended campus classes where an individual instructor wishes to cancel classes due to bad weather, but all classes are not being canceled, the individual instructor will notify the students affected. The media will not be responsible for conveying this information.

Safri Duo

The Safri Duo, a percussionist act from Denmark, will be performing at Wayne State College on Wednesday, Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre.

The Duo, features Uffe Savery and Morten Friis, two young Danish musicians who have been performing together since the age of eight. They have elevated instruments which are usually used for musical punctuation to solo status. Safri Duo give over 100 concerts a year, performing behind, inside of and around a battery of instruments. Their repertoire ranges from the Baroque, Classical and Romantic, right through the 20th Century, including new works by some of the world's finest composers created expressly for Safri, Friis and Savery studied at the Danish Conservatory in Copenhagen, finishing in 1992.

The Wayne State College Black & Gold Series showcases national and international acts for the N.E. braska community. Tickets for the Nov. 1 Safri Duo performance are currently on sale. For more information, call 375-7517.

Coordinating commission convenes at WSC

WAYNE, Neb. (AP)—The Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education approved a $400,000 remodeling project for the University of Nebraska at Omaha's engineering building.

The commission unanimously passed the plan during its Wednesday meeting at Wayne State College.

UNO plans to remodel 8,100 square feet of the building's classroom, laboratory, and office space. The project was among the items pledged within the last year by the University of Nebraska Board of Regents to upgrade engineering education in Omaha.

The renovation will be paid for with state money. Work is to begin next year, said Tim Fitzgerald, a UNO spokesman.

Many Omaha business leaders maintain that the city needs its own engineering college to promote economic growth. The regents late last year decided against creating a separate college but said they would improve engineering programs in Omaha.

The regents have said they will expand programs, increase the number of engineering professors in Omaha and consider building a new engineering complex at UNO. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln oversees the state's sole engineering college and offers some programs in Omaha.

The commission also recommended that the Legislature approve funding to buy 10 tracts of land on the western edge of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus. The land, which is owned by the city of Lincoln, has been used primarily for parking for UNL.

The university has proposed purchasing the land from the city for $651,553 using surplus revenue bond money.

United Way drive is getting in gear

The thermometer is up on the corner of Second and Main Streets which indicates the annual United Way Fund Drive is underway. This is the 40th year for the drive in Wayne and has a goal this year of $26,000, up $1,000 from last year.

Funds go to local organizations including the Boy and Girl Scouts, Senior Citizen Center, PALS, Red Cross, Kinship, Rainbow World Child Care, Haven House, Hospice, Salvation Army, City Recreation, Ministerial Association, Wayne Friends and Rainbow Riders.

The business portion of the drive is now underway and the residential drive will begin as soon as volunteers can get around to their area. The volunteers are greatly appreciated and too many to mention," said Carmen Tilgner, who is in charge of publicity for the drive.

Contributions of any amount are greatly appreciated and needed to reach the goal.

It is hoped that the drive can be completed by the middle of November.

'Cats hold on for 33-28 win over Mustangs

Wayne State defensive lineman Art Maulupe helps a young gridiron star with a drill during the Wayne State football camp held on Sunday at the Wayne Elementary School. Over one hundred third through sixth graders participated in the camp along with many Wildcat players and coaches.

The Wayne State Wildcats snapped a three game losing streak as they defeated Southwest State, Minn. 33-28 Saturday. The Wildcat defense held the Mustangs to minus 11 yards rushing and sacked Southwest State quarterback Steve Yakesh eight times.

"A big factor in the game was that they couldn't run the ball and were forced to pass," said Head Coach Dennis Wagner. "Defensively, we did a great job of shutting down the run."

Offensively, the 'Cats overcame six fumbles to roll up 332 yards in offense. Wayne State accumulated 260 yards in the first half, but fumbles by receivers after the catch kept the Wildcats from even more yardage.

"We played a great first half on offense," said Wagner. "If we hadn't fumbled the ball we would have been over 300 yards in the first half."

According to Wagner, the biggest turning points in the game were the miscues by the Southwest State punting unit. WSC blocked one punt and recovered two snaps that sailed over the punter's head to give the them excellent field position.

After trading punts with the Mustangs to open the game, WSC marched 80 yards in 13 plays to take a 7-0 lead on a one yard run by Marcus Bishop. The Mustangs responded late in the quarter with a 12-yard touchdown scramble by Yakesh.

On Wayne State's first play of the second quarter quarterback Jarrod DeGeorgia found Lamont Cooper on a 52-yard bomb down to the SSU 24-yard line. Four plays later, Chad Miller booted a 36-yard field goal to increase the WSC lead to 10-6.

Later in the half, the Mustang's punting woes began. Jeff Lutt burst through the SSU line and blocked Dirk Crider's punt to give the 'Cats a first-and-goal at the two yard line. Jason DeMartile went over the top to give Wayne State a 17-6 lead. WSC stopped the Mustangs on their next possession, but Southwest State recovered their own punt at the 27-yard line after it had bounced off a Wildcat player. The Mustangs used this opportunity to punch in a touchdown on a 17-yard pass from Yakesh to Lamont Powers. Yakesh found Kris Plash on the two-point conversion to cut the 'Cats lead to three points. Wayne State closed the first half scoring with Chad Miller's second 36-yard field goal of the game.

Southwest State opened the second half with a 35-yard pass from Yakesh to Powers but the 'Cats defense held and forced SSU to punt. Crider didn't even get a chance to punt as the snap sailed over his head and Wayne State recovered. WSC gave the ball right back to the Mustangs as Dan Aguayo fumbled the ball after catching a pass from DeGeorgia. Two plays later, the Wildcats recovered the ball as Yakesh dropped the snap from center. The bloopers continued as SSU's next punt snap went over the head of Crider and the 'Cats recovered at the opponent's seven yard line. Bishop made the Mustangs pay with a two yard touchdown around the left end. Miller's extra-point gave Wayne State a 27-14 lead.

Late in the third quarter, Southwest State converted on another Aguayo fumble as Yakesh hit Plash on a nine yard scoring strike to cut the lead to six.

Early in the final period, WSC was looking to cushion their slim lead with another Miller field goal, but the snap was botched. The Wildcats came away with no points and were hoping their miscue would not cost them. After an exchange of punts, SSU put together an 80-yard, 10-play drive to take the lead. Powers pulled in a Yakesh pass from three yards out for the go-ahead touchdown.

With just over five minutes left, the 'Cats were suddenly behind for the first time all day. WSC couldn't move the ball on the ensuing possession and were forced to punt. With only three minutes to play the Mustangs were ready to run out the clock, but the Wildcat defense had other ideas. On third down, Yakesh tried a bootleg but fumbled and WSC recovered at the SSU nine yard line. DeMartile scored two plays later to put Wayne State back on top. Southwest State, refusing to give up without a fight, drove the ball to the Wildcat 16-yard line before time ran out.

Wayne State (4-3) has the week off before traveling north to Minnesota to face Moorhead State. The Dragons are currently 4-2-1 and host Southwest State this Saturday.

Mackling shines in Wakefield thriller

By Jeremy Buss
For the Herald

The Wakefield Trojan football team traveled to Pierce Friday night looking to avenge last week's loss to Hartington against a Pierce team looking for its third victory. The Trojans did just that with a 39-36 double-overtime victory.

Justin Mackling got things started for Wakefield with a 23-yard touchdown to open a 6-0 lead. Later in the quarter Mackling would rumble 27 yards for his second touchdown of the game. Mike Rischmueller would snag the catch for the two-point conversion to make the score 14-0.

Pierce bounced back in the second quarter, scoring on a 13-play, 60-yard drive to close the gap to 14-7. The Trojans would answer however, with Mackling going in from six yards out this time. Just minutes later Pierce would rally, scoring off of a 54-yard pass to put the score at 20-14. Mackling would grab an interception to stop another Bluejay drive and end the half. Pierce's overall team speed hindered the Trojans.

"Their speed is probably the best we have played against in 15 years," said Head Coach Dennis Wilbur.

Pierce would strike first in the third quarter on a two yard run to take over the lead 21-20. On the Trojan's next possession however, they would drive 58 yards to set up a quarterback sneak by Justin Dutcher and a two-point catch by Tory Nixon to retake the lead 28-21.

A defiant Pierce team ended the third quarter with a touchdown to knot the score at 28. With 34 seconds remaining in the regulation, Pierce had a chance to win the game with a field goal, only to have it blocked by Mackling, who had been close several times earlier.

Mackling did the work for the Trojans in the first overtime, first gaining seven yards before punching it in on the next play from three yards out. He also went in for the two-point conversion to give Wakefield the lead 36-28. Pierce would match the score with a three yard run by Matt Toelle to send the game to double overtime.

The Trojans would have to settle for a field goal in the second overtime after losing yardage on two consecutive plays. Mike Rischmueller would end the Bluejays hopes with an interception in the end zone to give Wakefield a 39-36 win.

Wilbur believes that Mackling's 262 yards is a school record for rushing.

"Their defense dictated that we run the ball and we were fortunate that we did run well," said Wilbur.

Wakefield will host Wisner-Pilger at 7:00 p.m. Friday night in District 6 playoff action.

"We can't take this lightly," said Wilbur. "If we make mistakes, it could be an anxious time."

Eagles decimated by injuries

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Allen football team again fell prey to the injury bug last Friday as Walthill defeated the Eagles 44-0. Quarterback Jeremy Kumm was the latest victim, suffering a knee injury that will sideline him for Allen's season finale next Friday. The Eagles started the season with only 21 players on their team and have now lost five members of their backfield, four to injury and one to transfer.

"We're just decimated," said Head Coach Warren Jensen. "We're putting linemen at running back and quarterback and that doesn't work. It just disrupts your offense and changes everything. It's just tough to compete."

Allen was held to just 58 yards of total offense, while Walthill rolled up 330 yards. Defensively, the Eagles were led by Brad Smith, who recorded 21 tackles, and Jason Mitchell, who tallied 17 tackles.

The Eagles (1-6) finish up the season Friday night at Bancroft-Rosalie.

"It's going to be a tough game for us," said Jensen, "but we'll show up."

The Wayne Blue Devils almost pulled out a win over Tekamah-Herman Friday night, but fell to Tigers 20-12. Wayne kept the game close throughout, holding the ball for 66 plays, while the Tigers ran only 42 plays. The teams battled to a 6-6 halftime tie. Justin Erickson gave the visiting Tigers a 6-0 lead on a 55-yard run with 0:14 left in the opening quarter. Ryan Junck tied it for Wayne with a one yard plunge late in the second period to culminate a 19-play, yard drive.

Rob Chatt gave the lead back to Tekamah with a one yard run of his own with 2:36 remaining in the third quarter. Matt Guzinski's two-point conversion made the score 14-6. The Tigers widened their lead with 0:11 left in the period when Chatt hauled in a 22-yard pass from Guzinski.

Trailing 20-6, Wayne responded with a Brian Fernau touchdown midway through the final period. The Blue Devils threatened to tie the game, but the Tigers held on for the victory.

Fernau finished with a huge night, racking up 117 yards rushing and adding five tackles and an interception on defense.

"We had a little letdown in the third quarter," said Head Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt, "but otherwise we played a pretty good football game."

Wayne (2-5) opens the District 5 play-offs on the road against Madison (6-1) on Thursday night at 7:00 p.m.

"We've had a pretty rough year in the won-loss column," said Ehrhardt, "but we've played some good football this year. We're in pretty good shape going into the Madison game. We feel good about our chances. You have to respect Madison, but they're also a team that can be beat."

Laurel-Concord's Jeff Wattier heads up field as Dan Peters (#30) and Jeff Erwin (#79) clear a path. The Bears improved to 7-0 with a 28-6 win over Bloomfield.

Bears head to playoffs with 7-0 record

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Laurel-Concord completed an undefeated regular season Friday night with a 28-6 win over Bloomfield. Bloomfield came into the game with a 5-1 record and tested the Bears by taking a 6-0 first quarter lead.

"We feel that if we get down we can't panic," said Head Coach Tom Luxford.

The Bears didn't panic. They responded with a pair of second quarter strikes from Tyler Erwin to Nic Dahl of 48 and 30 yards.

"The offensive line did a great job of protecting Tyler and giving him the opportunity to find receivers down field," said Luxford.

Erwin continued his aerial assault with a third quarter touchdown pass of 23 yards to Kyle Macklin and a fourth quarter throw to Jeff Wattier for 25 yards and a touchdown. The Bear's senior quarterback finished the night with four touchdowns and 179 yards through the air on 10 of 17 passing.

"I think this was crucial for us to play a good football team at this point in the season," said Luxford.

With the number one seed in District 6, the Bears (7-0) will host Homer (0-7) Friday night at 7:30 p.m. to open the playoffs.

"We have to stay focused and do what we're capable of doing," said Luxford. "We're not looking past them because if we lose the season's over."

WSC stops SDSU in 3 sets

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State volleyball rebounded from a slow first set start to beat South Dakota State 16-14, 15-7, 15-7 Tuesday night. Coach Sharon Vanis stated that the first set comeback helped the Cats gain momentum for the rest of the match.

The WSC attack was led by seniors Lora Grant with 11 kills and 11 digs, Annette Fluckey with 11 kills, nine digs and two solo blocks, Tammy Gablenz with 10 kills, nine digs, three solo blocks and one service ace, and Laura Pfister with nine digs, one solo block and one service ace. Junior setter Tracy Wessel contributed 31 assists and one service ace, while sophomore Kari Pichler added 10 assists.

Last Saturday, the Wildcats traveled to Mankato State and dropped a three set match 3-15, 5-15, 6-15.

"It was probably the poorest we've played all year," said Vanis. "Nothing went right for us. We played just about as poor as you can play."

Grant led the team with eight kills, six digs and one block assist, while Gablenz had six digs and one block assist. Freshman Renee Fuhr had two service aces and Wessel had five assists.

Wayne State (14-12) returns to action Monday when they travel to Briar Cliff.

Wildcat senior Tammy Gablenz records one of her 10 kills in Wayne State's three set victory over South Dakota State Tuesday.

Winside pummels Homer 47-8

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Coach Randy Geier's Wildcats spread the scoring around in a 47-8 victory over the visitors from Homer Friday night. Robert Wittler opened the Winside TD parade with a seven yard first quarter scamper and Ryan Krueger closed out the game with an 85-yard sprint to end the Wildcat scoring on the evening.

Wittler completed a 13-yard second period touchdown pass to Chad O'Connor and hit Jaimey Holdorf for a six yard fourth quarter score. Holdorf also scored on a nine yard run, while fullback Joe Schwedhelm ran three yards up the middle and Landon Grothe added to his 157-yard rushing effort by hitting pay dirt from 30 yards out.

"Our offensive line has improved greatly during the year," said Geier. "We were young to start (the season) but our maturity has allowed us to improve."

Tackles were spread out among 20 Wildcats. Wittler added two pass interceptions to his season totals, while Trent Suchl recorded his first interception of the year. Schwedhelm and Jeremy Barg each recovered a Homer fumble. Wildcat defenders have accounted for 11 turnovers in the last two games.

Winside enters the re-run season as they face Ponca at home in the first round of the district playoffs Friday night. While the Wildcats easily handled the Indians the first time around, Geier does not expect Friday's contest to be as easy.

"Anybody that can play Hartington within one point shows me that we will have our hands full Friday night," said Geier. "Ponca's eight turnovers the last time we played made the win a lot easier than it was."

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Endings... introductions... announcements... reminders... appreciation... minutiae... the stuff columns are made of!

Endings and reminders go together here. Remember that Daylight Saving Times ends on Sunday, Oct. 29. Set your clocks back. We remind you that this will not affect our hours, since we have changed to fall/winter hours some weeks ago. Monday-Friday, 12:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m.

Another reminder: the library has the two-volume "Hot Line Farm Equipment Guide," a quick reference guide to farm equipment costs, specifications and price guide. It is currently on display on one of the reading tables, but will eventually be found on the reference shelf. Also of interest is the subscription to the "NADA Official Used Car Guide," aka "the blue book." This does not circulate but is kept in a plastic holder on top of the card catalog.

Introductions are in order for this year's GrandEva volunteers. They are Ted and Lois Youngerman, Carolyn McEvo, Bev Ruwe, Chuck and Lil Surber, Della Agler and Bonnie Sandahl. Substitutes are Betty Ream, Erna Karel, Rodella Wacker and Twyla Lindsay. They all deserve a big thanks for their enthusiasm and dedication in bringing stories and reading fun to children in 12 day care homes throughout the school year.

Announcing a night at the library on Thursday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. The program, "German Settlement in Nebraska," will feature Frederick Luebke (the Charles J. Mach Professor Emeritus of History at UNL) and is open to the public. Funding for the program is provided by the Nebraska Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. This should be an interesting evening. You are cordially invited!

A word of appreciation is due the Wallace C. (Chuck) Victor family who have made it possible through a memorial to purchase children's books and mysteries for adults. Some of the books have already arrived and are on the new book shelf. Others are on back order. We thank you and are happy to have the new additions.

The minutiae? It is no small thing, but we have 10 Victor memorial books circulating at this time: "Into Thin Air," Thomas Ziegler; "Panama," Eric Zency; "A Wild and Lonely Place," Marcia Muller; "Hi, Pizza Man!," Virginia Walter; "Princess Nevermore," Dian Curtis Regan; "Out of the Dark," Betty Wright; "Twilight," Nancy Pickard; "Smoke," Donald E. Westlake; "Chain of Evidence," Ridley Pearson; "A Maiden's Grave," Jeffery Deaver.

Since we began with an ending, should we end with a beginning? How about, "Welcome to the Wayne Public Library. We are here to serve you. See you soon."

German student enjoying course varieties here

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Since Xenia Wenzel arrived in Wayne on Aug. 8 she has been very involved in Wayne High School and community activities.

Miss Wenzel, an 18 year old from Berlin, Germany, is staying with the Dave and Terri Headley family during the 1995-96 school year.

"There are a lot more choices in the school here than there were in my school at home. In Germany, the basic classes are offered during the school day and the extra classes like music and sports are offered in the afternoon and evening," she said.

CLASSES SUCH as Child Development, Keyboarding, and music are not generally offered in everyday school but are ones that Miss Wenzel is enjoying this year. The only thing she does not like about school here is that there is not enough time between classes. "In my school there is time after class to talk to the teachers about things that you don't understand," she said.

Miss Wenzel enjoys music and has played the flute for seven years. She plays first flute in the Sioux City Youth Orchestra and has been selected to the All-State Choir.

Halloween and Homecoming activities have kept Miss Wenzel. "Even though she wasn't familiar with these activities in Germany, she has gotten involved and been in the middle of everything that is going on. She really wants to experience as much as possible while she is here," said Mrs. Headley.

"IN GERMANY there is no Halloween. Instead, beginning at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11 is Carnival Time. Different schools will dress up differently at different times. In January and February there are lots of big parades and shows for everyone to attend," Miss Wenzel said.

Although she has been planning her trip to the United States for more than a year, Miss Wenzel still misses her family, especially her youngest brother. Her family consists of an older brother and two younger brothers. Her father is a type of architect who calculates the materials needed in constructing buildings. Her mother is a nurse

The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Meierhenry

Greetings...
It's not always in the cards

Today is Boss' Day, and it's boss' week all week. I have the obligatory card. It isn't Hallmark, and I bought it at 30% off. But it was still a dollar and a half.

Next Sunday is mother-in-law day. The Big Farmer loves his mother-in-law as his own, but he has a problem with spending that much money on a card. And we know it will eventually be thrown away.

Last winter, we were invited to an 80th birthday party for my aunt. After that, we would be visiting an uncle who was ailing.

I stopped at a flower shop and bought two roses. Same price as a card, more beautiful, and easily disposed of.

One of my hospice patients was 89 on Saturday. A niece sent a dozen roses. Lady claimed it was the very first time she had ever had a dozen roses.

Another thing I've been doing is sending a donation to their church, or school, or hospital, or any charity, in the name of the honoree.

Oh, sure, I like to get cards. You can find one for absolutely any occasion; except maybe a one hundredth birthday. A great-aunt turned 100 last year, and got several, just alike. There aren't that many to choose from.

I stand at card racks and chuckle. I like the Shoebox cards, aptly named, because that's where they end up. But they were a buck originally. Now they are $1.75. That's too much. I can buy a package of TP for less.

Some cards should be used for TP, they are so raunchy. I think Joyce Hall would be embarrassed by them. But he certainly established an empire. "When you care enough to send the very best!"

Of course, the cost of the card isn't all. Then, you have to put a 32¢ stamp on it! Or, if it happens to be an odd size, more postage yet.

I may start doing what my friend in Houston does: pick up the phone and call. Meantime, I think we'll take the boss to lunch. That's more fun.

Performance

Wayne State College faculty member Beverly Soll will perform a recital of recent works for piano by American composers on Thursday, Oct. 26 at 8 p.m. The performance will be in Ley Theatre on the WSC campus.

Eight composers, all acquaintances of Dr. Soll, including Anthony Garlick of Wayne State College and Randall Snyder of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will be represented on this delightful and diverse program of pieces composed between 1975 and 1990. Styles include neo-baroque, post-minimalism, twelve-tone and jazz-influenced pieces.

Soll played this recital in Fairfax, Va. on June 13, with composer Glenn Smith in the audience. She then traveled to Berlin, where she presented the program in a lecture/recital format at the College Music Society International Conference on June 16.

The WSC performance on Oct. 26 has no admission charge and is open to the public. A reception at which audience members will be invited to visit with the several composers in attendance that evening will follow the recital.

N.E.braskan may be next country music star

Joanie (Haberer) Keller, who has roots in N.E.Braska, is well on her way to becoming a country music star.

Keller was born in Wayne and has grandmothers in the area—Mable Haberer, Wayne, and Tillie Jones, Carroll.

She has won the first two competitions of the True Value/Jimmy Dean Country Showdown and is one win away from the national finals. The Country Showdown is a nationwide talent contest for country musicians.

Keller, 31, who lives with her husband, Clay, in Greeley, CO, took the first step when she won the Northern Colorado local competition over 29 other contestants.

She will now go up against four other state contest winners on Oct. 22 in the Southwest Regional Finals, to be held at the Arizona State Fair. A victory in that contest will put her in the national finals, slated for Nov. 11, at Disney World in Orlando, FL. The winner will receive a grand prize of $50,000 and a recording contract.

who is currently unemployed.

Miss Wenzel received a scholarship to come to the United States and has been saving money for the trip from babysitting and other odd jobs.

ANOTHER NEW experience for Miss Wenzel is having her senior pictures taken. "There are no yearbooks in Germany. School spirit is not the same either. There really isn't school spirit in the regular school," she said.

Miss Wenzel is happy to be in Wayne and knew she would be coming to a small town because exchange students are generally placed in small towns for safety reasons.

At the present time Miss Wenzel is taking driver's education to get a Nebraska driver's license. "In Germany, we are not allowed to drive until we are 18 years old and have taken driver's education classes, which are very expensive. Most of the people take the train or buses because not everyone has a car," she said.

MISS WENZEL admits to having a sweet tooth and likes frozen yogurt and ice cream. She said there is lots of fast food here and enjoyed a recent trip to Wendy's restaurant.

In her spare time, Miss Wenzel practices her music and likes to cross stitch, paint, read and do crafts. "She also spends a lot of time writing letters, both to her family in Germany and a friend who is an exchange student in Utah."

Since her arrival in the United States, Miss Wenzel has visited Minnesota with the Headley's and seen the Renaissance, the zoo and the Mall of America. "Her reaction to the Mall of America was, 'it's too much!'" said Mrs. Headley.

A TRIP to the Black Hills is planned for later this fall with approximately 50 other foreign exchange students who are here through the Education Foundation.

Mrs. Headley said there have been no major problems with having Xenia as part of the family.

"She has adjusted well. One of the reasons we chose her was because of her involvement with music and the theater. She has helped us with clowning activities and is in the one-act production at the high school. She gets along with the girls, as well as any sisters do," she said.

The Headley family includes son Chris who is attending Wayne State College and daughters Heidi, a freshman at Wayne High and Heather who is in sixth grade.

Blood Bank gains renewal

The Siouxland Blood Bank has been granted renewal of accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Michael T. Kafka, MD, Medical Director and Donne J. Schuldt, Executive Director.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site inspection by specially trained representatives of the Association and establishes that the level of performance within the facility meets or exceeds standards set.

"The AABB's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary," Kafka and Schuldt explained. "Siouxland Blood Bank has sought AABB accreditation because this program assists facilities around the country in achieving excellence by promoting a level of professional and medical expertise that contributes to quality performance."

Established in 1947, the American Association of Blood Banks is the professional society for approximately 2,400 community, regional and Red Cross blood centers, hospital-based blood banks and transfusion services and over 8,000 individuals engaged in blood banking and transfusion medicine. Its member facilities are responsible for collecting virtually all of the nation's blood supply and for transfusing more than 80 percent of the blood used for patient care in the United States. The AABB sets standards, inspects and accredits blood collection and transfusion facilities and provides continuing education and information.

Fraternity jumps for Olympics

"It was a cold and dreary day to walk around the city of Wayne and collect money for the Special Olympics, but the weather wasn't enough to stop local fraternity and sorority members," said Jeff Schipman, secretary of Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) fraternity of a recent effort to raise money during a Jump-a-thon.

Members of the Lambda Pi TKEs in a two part project that involved taking pledges for time spent jumping on a trampoline.

"We planned to jump on a trampoline for at least 24 hours and whoever pledged money would be required to donate according to the number of hours jumped. The two groups did rather well, considering that not many people were home. We collected almost $400," said Dan Workman who organized the event.

"I really thought that this was a wonderful chance for us to show what we can do for the community," said TKE member Brian VanBurkum.

The money that was raised will be sent to the head office of the Nebraska Special Olympics in Lincoln. Workman also said that there would be additional projects in the future to raise money for Special Olympics.

Anyone who would like to donate money may do so by contacting a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon at (402) 375-9806.

How to go about setting limits for your children

One common myth about children's misbehavior is that it occurs because parents are too strict or too lenient. Aside from either of these extremes of parenting styles, the most common reason for children's misbehavior is "inconsistency" by parents in child guidance techniques.

Parents can be inconsistent for many reasons. Many just don't realize how important being consistent is for children. Important aspects of moral development are learned by children from having parents follow through with consequences.

Children need to have reasonable limits placed on their behaviors, and these limits need to be carefully thought out by the parents.

Parents of young children should ask themselves these four questions before setting limits.

1. What does the limit protect?

(the child's safety, the safety or well-being of others, property)

2. Is the limit mainly for the convenience of adults?

3. Will the limit keep the child from trying things that are constructive and necessary for growth and development? Can it be enforced?

See LIMITS, Page 4B

Limits

4. Can the limit be enforced each and every time it is broken?

Erik Erikson, a famous developmentalist, said trust is a basic lesson children must learn in order to attain high levels of moral development. Since trust is learned primarily from adults, children need to interact with adults who mean what they say. When an adult tells a child not to throw a ball in the house or the ball will be taken away, this consequence needs to be enforced if the child is to learn to trust the adult.

Consistency of follow-through on limits is a reason parents should only state limits about behavior they are willing to enforce consistently. The way limits are established is also quite important for children's development.

Still much to learn about human brain

Q. How can damage to brain tissue cause frantic activity in a child?

A. Relatively little is known about the human brain and its malfunctions. I once knew a neurologically impaired child, for example, who could read the words, "Go shut the door," with no understanding of the written command. However, if an audiocassette recording was made while he read, "Go shut the door," this child could hear the replay of his own voice and understand the words perfectly.

Another patient in a mental hospital could completely disassemble and repair complex television sets, yet did not have the common sense to handle the routine responsibilities of living outside a hospital setting. Another man, wounded in combat, had the sad characteristic of being unable to keep any thought to himself. He mumbled his innermost ideas, to the embarrassment and shock of everyone nearby.

Brain disorders are expressed in many strange ways, including the frenzy of hyperactivity. No one can explain exactly why it happens, other than the obvious fact that the electrochemical mechanisms which control body movement have been altered, resulting in excessive stimulation to the muscles.

Q. How can anxiety or emotional problems cause hyperactivity?

A. When adults are under severe stress or anxiety, their inner tension is typically expressed in the form of physical activity. An expectant father "paces the floor" or his hands may tremble. A basketball coach will race up and down the sidelines while the outcome of the game is in doubt. Another anxious person may sit quietly in a chair, but his fingernails will be chewed to the quick, or he will move his lower jaw slowly from side to side. My point is that tension increases the amount of bodily movement observed in adults.

How much more true that is of an immature child. He doesn't merely drum his fingers on a table when he is anxious; he tries to climb the curtains and walk on the ceiling.

Q. How early can the problem be identified?

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

A. The severely hyperactive child can be recognized during early toddlerhood. In fact, he can't be ignored. By the time he is 30 months of age, he may have exhausted his mother, irritated his siblings and caused the grandparents to retire from baby-sitting duties. No family member is "uninvolved" with his problem. Instead of growing out of it, as the physician may promise, he continues to attack his world with the objective of disassembling it (at least until puberty).

Q. Does the desire for sex play an equally influential role in motivating infidelity among men and women?

A. It is risky to generalize, because human beings reveal such wide diversity in sexuality from person to person. I believe, however, that unfaithful men are typically more interested in the excitement of sexual intercourse, and women are more motivated by emotional involvement.

This is why a woman often gets hurt in such an encounter, because the man loses interest in their relationship when his mistress ceases to stimulate him as before. Someone wrote, "Men love women in proportion to their strangeness to them." Although the word "love" is used inappropriately in that proverb, there is a grain of truth in its message.

Q. It is my understanding that some women fail to enjoy sex because of weakness of the muscular structure in the pelvic region. Is this true? What can be done about it?

A. The late Dr. Arnold Kegel, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the USC School of Medicine, accumulated considerable evidence to show that sexual response is inhibited in women whose pubococcygeal muscle was flaccid. He offered simple exercises to tone up the muscle, and reported remarkable results from women who had previously been inorganic. It should be noted, of course, that there are other causes for sexual dysfunction.

October promotes breast cancer awareness

October is breast cancer awareness month. This month it is estimated that 15,200 new cases of breast cancer will be diagnosed; it is also estimated that 3,800 women will die of breast cancer this month. Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death among women in the United States.

Every woman is at risk for breast cancer. However, several factors can increase the risk of breast cancer. Such risks include age, personal or family history of breast cancer, never giving birth, or giving birth after the age of 30 and long menstrual history. Age seems to be the most determining factor among the risks for breast cancer. Being over 40, but especially over the age of 50 puts a woman at high risk for breast cancer.

Because there are no known causes of breast cancer, early detection is the key to a woman's health and survival. The American Cancer Society has three recommendations for early detection. First, every month seven to 10 days after menstruation, all women over the age of 20 should be performing a breast self-exam. In a short time, a woman can check for lumps, thickening or any changes in her breasts. If she notices anything out of the ordinary, she should consult her health care provider. Second, all women should have a clinical breast exam by her health care provider every one to three years between the ages of 20 and 39, and every year after age 40. Third, between the ages of 40 and 49 all women should get a mammogram every one to two years.

and every year after the age of 50. A mammogram is an x-ray of the breast. It is essential that at age 39 or 40 a woman have her first mammogram because all mammograms thereafter will be compared with this one. While all three guidelines are equally important, mammograms are essential. A mammogram can detect breast cancer up to two years before a lump can be felt by a woman or her health care provider.

Mammograms may cost as little as $50 or as much as $150. Fortunately, there is help for women with limited resources. First, LB68 was passed in Nebraska this year. This bill requires all insurance carriers to cover mammograms after

A fateful month is ahead for Farm Bill

By Roy Frederick
Dept. of Ag. Economics - UNL

With the exception of demolition derbies, wrecks are not planned, much less precisely scheduled. Yet, some observers reckon the federal government is headed for a three-way crash the week of Nov. 13.

These are the important issues to be resolved by that time:

—On Nov. 13, temporary funding for the federal government expires. Thirteen fiscal 1996 appropriations bills, which should have been finalized by Oct. 1, must be approved by both Congress and the president to assure that day-to-day functions of government continue after that date.

—Congress expects to send its huge budget reconciliation bill to the president early that week. At this time, it's now known exactly what it will contain, but the probabilities include reduced government spending of $894 billion over seven years, tax reductions of $245 billion over the same period and big changes in Medicare and Medicaid. It also will contain important farm bill provisions, including commodity supports and human nutrition programs. The bill will be the largest ever to come out of Congress in terms of budget impact, to say nothing of its programmatic impact.

—The U.S. Treasury's authority to borrow money to finance the federal debt is likely to react to the current statutory ceiling on about Nov. 15. Unless the national debt limit is increased, the Treasury would begin defaulting on its obligations, something that has never happened before in the nation's history.

The president does not like many provisions in the budget reconciliation and has said repeatedly that he expects to veto it. Already, he has vetoed one appropriations bill and says he expects to veto several others. But at the same time, the president does not want the Treasury to default on its obligations, something Congress could force if the president vetoes all the bills he doesn't like. Obviously, negotiations are going to be tense between the executive and legislative branches leading up to the fateful week in mid-November.

As for the farm bill, the budget reconciliation will determine what's ahead on all major spending matters. It will include, for example, provisions on feed grains, wheat, dairy and sugar programs. The conservation reserve program and wetlands reserve program will be addressed as well as several other conservation provisions. Export programs also will be included.

However, we would still expect to see a farm bill, per se, sometime after the budget matter is resolved. Farm bill provisions relating to spending will coincide with determinations already made in the budget bill. The farm bill will officially authorize the federal government to administer the specified programs (subject to budget limits). Additional provisions not sensitive to spending would be expected as well.

One other complicating matter should be noted. Chairman Pat Roberts, R-Kan., of the House Agriculture Committee, says he expects to wait until 1996 to consider those parts of the current farm act that address agricultural research and farm credit. Apparently, these sections would be scrutinized carefully for operational effectiveness. Whether or not they would then be amended to the farm bill is an open question.

Harvest assistance

Neighbors spent Tuesday harvesting soybeans for Rodney Deck, northwest of Winside. The crew of five combines and seven trucks harvested 200 acres of soybeans for Deck after the sudden death of Deck's father, Wilmer last week. The Decks said they were grateful to those who took time away from their own harvesting to help them.

Trade agreement remains controversial

The North American Free Trade Agreement continues to be controversial as it approaches its second anniversary on Jan. 1, 1996. When the agreement between the U.S., Canada and Mexico was being considered by Congress, proponents predicted expanded markets for U.S. products, including agricultural goods. Opponents feared export of jobs and questioned whether trade truly would be free and fair.

The three countries agreed to reduce the barriers that restricted the easy flow of goods across their borders. So far, and primarily because of the recession in Mexico, NAFTA's results are mixed. But that's a short-term impact and NAFTA needs to be viewed as a long-term proposition.

The Economic Research Service in the U.S. Department of Agriculture monitors NAFTA. USDA data show that 1994 was a banner year for agricultural trade among the three countries, according to American Farm Bureau economists who analyzed the data. U.S. ag exports to Mexico hit $4.5 billion — up 25 percent from the year before.

Midland View

By Cheryl Stubbendieck

Nebraska Farm Bureau

led by exports of corn, beef, pork, poultry, fruits, vegetables, oilseeds and nuts. At the same time, U.S. ag imports from Mexico went up 5 percent from 1993 and reached $2.9 billion.

Our farm exports to Canada went up 4 percent from 1993 to 1994, reaching $5.5 billion. Wheat, canola and live cattle were our top export products. Our imports from Canada reached $5.2 billion, more than 13 percent higher than the year before. So in the first year of the agreement, we both sold more to and bought more from our trading partners.

The results have not been so positive in 1995, largely because of economic problems in Mexico. Because of poor fiscal and monetary policies, Mexico is in the middle of a major recession and the peso has been devalued. U.S. farm exports to Mexico are expected to top out at $3.2 billion this year, more than a billion less than in 1994, and most commodities will take a share of the hit. Our sales to Canada continue to increase and are expected to reach $5.9 billion, a gain of more than 7 percent.

Even with lower sales to Mexico, that country and Canada continue to be big customers for U.S. exports, ranking second and third and trailing only Japan. According to USDA economists, "The long-run prospects for U.S. farm exports to Mexico remain stronger than before the implementation of NAFTA, but not as bright as before the devaluation" of the peso.

Mexico's problems have clearly been a pothole in the road to success for NAFTA and they have tended to overshadow the gains made in increased exports and trade with Canada. But trading relationships are long-term relationships, and a period of less than two years shouldn't be considered adequate to judge success or failure of NAFTA. The agreement needs more time to work. Over time, by adhering to the agreements NAFTA contains, each of the three countries will gain sales for the products it does the best job of producing.

Youth leadership to reach N.E. braskans

The importance of youth involvement and making a difference today will be topics that kick-off the Youth Leadership Conference for nearly 170 teenage youth being motivated and trained at the University of Nebraska Extension event. The conference will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 24 at the Northeast Community College campus. Senators M.L. Dierks, Connie Day, Stan Schellpeper and Jennifer Robak will each be giving a session on getting involved in community and state issues. Other skill development sessions will focus on 1) team work, 2) group decision making, 3) moral and ethical leadership, 4) handling conflict and 5) grant writing. There will be a special session for the adult sponsors of the groups on "Involving and Developing Youth Leaders."

The schools sending teams of youth are Madison, St. Mary's-O'Neill, Clearwater, Bloomfield, Scotus - Columbus, Lakeview - Columbus, Pender, Niobrara, Battle Creek, Spencer-Naper, Elgin Pope John, Emerson-Hubbard, Stanton and Macy.

Youth leaders involved in planning and presenting the conference include Trisha Sprick of Pilger, Jeff Graham of Belden and Tim Heinemann of Wayne.

This conference was made possible by a grant from the UN-L Center for Rural Community Revitalization and Development. The coordinators are Extension Educators Maddie Pederson of Madison County and Sandy Hatter of Knox County. Other Extension Educators assisting in planning and presenting are Vickie Greve, State Extension 4-H Youth and CRD specialist at Concord; Lynda Cruickshank, Wayne County; Myrna DuBois, Stanton County; and Sally Ebmeier, Cedar County.

University Women say 'Girls Can!'

The Wayne area American Association of university Women (AAUW) has chosen for its 1995-96 theme "Girls Can!"

The local group, made up of students pursuing higher education and college educated women for the community, will spend the year examining various ways in which they can help area girls become successful women.

The first program of the year "Selling Adolescence: What Advertisers are Telling Girls about Themselves" will be presented by Wayne State Professors Joni Boyce-Beman and Stacy McMillen. The two are co-investigators on a current research project which examines various ways in which the media impact on girl's self-image and self-esteem.

Their presentation will include a slide show exhibiting the images which are prevalent in teen magazines.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Wayne Senior Center.

Other activities currently in the planning stages include a panel discussion featuring local high school teachers and students and a career/life skills workshop to be offered to area high school girls in the spring.

The AAUW would like to invite any interested women in the community to join them for the presentation. More information may be obtained from Janet Gilligan (375-7352) or Joan Sudmann Shapiro (375-3592).
