

Out-of-wedlock births are lower in Wayne Co.

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

The Nebraska Department of Health reports that the Wayne County out-of-wedlock birth rate was almost half of the statewide average in 1994.

The Vital Statistics Report for 1994, released this week, shows the Wayne County out-of-wedlock birth rate by place of residence to be 162.4 last year, while the state rate was 247.8.

Dixon County nearly matched the state average with 247.3.

Lynda Cruickshank, Extension Educator, believes that many youth activities programs are fundamental in keeping Wayne's rate down.

"Wayne County teenagers have an opportunity to get involved in sports, 4-H, and school and church activities," said Mrs. Cruickshank. "This is also a rural community where parents and churches have the ability to teach values. We have these forces working very strongly in our community."

Mrs. Cruickshank, who teaches parenting and familial classes, said that Stanton County has a program which she would like to implement in Wayne County.

The program is called "Mom and Me" and brings mother and daughter together to talk about important issues such as sex and marriage, while promoting abstinence. The Stanton County out-of-wedlock birth rate was 197.7.

The Health Department also collected numbers on teenage birth rates.

The statistics reveal the Wayne teenage birth rate to be on the lower end in the state as 11 out of the 117 live births to Wayne County residents were by teenage mothers. This 9.4 percent teenage birth rate is just below the statewide average of 11 percent.

Recycling funds boost OMR

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Region IV Recycling Center helps provide jobs, assists in keeping approximately 3 million aluminum cans out of landfills and provides revenue with which Region IV is able to provide "extras" for those involved in the program, according to Gary Schmidt, Vocational Coordinator at Region IV.

"With the funds generated by recycling, we have been able to purchase a new linoleum floor, send some of our consumers on vacations and to Nebraska football games, purchase pieces of equipment, paint part of our building, send some of the children from children's residence to camps and even purchase a used pickup which we use for contract work," Schmidt said.

BECAUSE WAYNE is a small community, the Region IV center is not as competitive as some of the recycling centers in cities like Norfolk and Sioux City.

"The community has been good about bringing their cans to us, but it still takes between three and four months to fill our trailer. Because of this, we can't pay the same prices as centers that fill a truck every three or four weeks," he said.

The cans that are collected in Wayne are shipped to Reynolds Aluminum in Iowa.

Most in county get good tax news

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

The final property tax levies are in from surrounding counties and the reductions from last year's tax season are quite significant in some communities in Wayne County.

The Wayne County Clerk's office has compiled combined city and village tax levy rates which sums all taxing entities affecting each city and village.

The City of Wayne is seeing the largest cutback in taxes as the combined tax rate stands at 2.5087 cents per $100 property assessment. Last year's rate was over 10 cents higher at 2.611. This 3.9 percent reduction means that on $50,000 worth of property, taxes will drop $51.15 from 1994-95.

Sholes will take the largest increase in levies this year, though it is still has the smallest combined levy of the cities and villages in Wayne County. A 2.2 percent rise takes Sholes from 2.0399 in 94-95 to 2.084 in 95-96.

Still atop the highest levy board is the Hoskins-2 district (Norfolk) at 2.8668. Hoskins-2 has the lowest percent of change with a .68 percent reduction, but with Hoskins-2's large levy amount, Winside will see the smallest actual dollar change.

Winside levies will rise less than two cents in 94-95. The Winside rate goes from 2.273 last year to 2.2849 this year.

The Hoskins 95-R district will also get a sizable reduction from 94-95. A 5.6 cents drop in actual levy will take $28 less than last year out of the pockets of $50,000 property assessed owners. That levy stands at 2.5151 cents per $100 property valuation.

Carroll will see the third smallest reduction from last year, dropping 3.23 cents actual levy. The

Forgotten funds due Waynians

For 142 Wayne Countians there's a pleasant surprise from their state government in this week's news.

Wayne County Treasurer Lorraine Johnson and State Treasurer Dave Heineman are trying to find 142 Wayne County residents and former residents who are entitled to unclaimed property funds from the state.

Nebraska has collected over $50 million in a funds from often forgotten private property. The funds were collected from private business and agencies and the treasurers annually try to match the money with its rightful owners.

Mrs. Johnson explained the unclaimed property often includes such items as utility deposits, insurance proceeds, wages, stock and even contents of safe deposit boxes turned over to the state after a specific period of time, usually five years.

"I am grateful for the cooperation we're receiving from county treasurers all over Nebraska," said Heineman, who added that the local governments can be an effective tool in the effort to track down owners of unclaimed funds.

Of the $50 million the state has collected in the unclaimed properties fund, only about $10 million has been returned to its owners. Last year $1.5 million was returned to

Wayne history noted in book

The response to a request for historic photographs of Wayne County has been better than expected, according to the editor of a forthcoming book entitled, "A Pictorial History of Wayne County" in honor of the 125 year anniversary of the founding of Wayne County.

"It has just been fantastic!" said editor Eric McCarty, who is responsible for assembling the photographs into a book format.

"The response of the community has been outstanding, we have more than 600 photos already."

McCarty said that November 1 is the deadline for submitting photographs, and that November 15 is the deadline for purchasing the hard cover books, which will be delivered by Christmas.

Photographs may be submitted at The Wayne Herald offices at 114 Main Street.

The county will be hosting Chamber Coffee on November 3 to celebrate its anniversary.

Tax limit lust

The Legislature's Revenue Committee has proposed a constitutional amendment to limit how much property taxes different types of local governments can levy.

The measure (LR93CA) is the subject of a series of statewide hearings before the end of the year. If it advances from three rounds of legislative floor debate, it would be placed on the 1996 November election ballot.

The proposed amendment would limit the levy to $1 per $100 valuation for school districts, 50 cents for city governments, 30 cents for county governments, 7 cents for community colleges, 3 cents for natural resources districts and 10 cents for fire protection districts.

When fire protection falls within a city budget, the city's levy limit would be 60 cents.

A variety of local governments would lose their authority to levy property taxes under the committee plan. They include educational service units, hospital districts and county agricultural societies.

In addition to the legislature's tax limit proposal, there are other petition efforts circulating for even more drastic limits on local agencies' abilities to raise operating funds.

We agree with the nearly universal sentiment to reduce the tax burden on property owners but we encourage voters and petition signers to consider carefully the consequences of proposals which are currently on the table.

Most of the proposals will shift the funding controls from the local level to the state. While local taxpayers may see a reduction on their property tax bills, the funds for running their schools and local governments will be handed down from the state where rural individuals have less sway.

Even the state teacher's union is pushing for a property tax limit measure on the ballot. We don't think the traditional "spend more on education" organization is supporting a tax limit measure with the idea that less school spending will result.

No, the union is seeking a shift of the funding sources away from local entities where it is often difficult to win approval for new spending measures to the state level where powerful lobbying pushes have proven very lucrative for them in the past.

We are not confident decisions made at the state level will always be made in our best interest here in Wayne County. Entities vying for funding at the state level usually have different priorities for distribution of limited funds than we would have here.

The limiting of local ability to raise taxes also shifts the decision-making power away from local voters.

We see a danger in the current mood of tax cutting at all costs. We fear the long-term costs will be much greater than the temporary property tax savings which we all lust after.

State not on top in everything

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN — When it comes to football, Nebraska annually ranks near the top. But when it comes to spending on services for mental health, the Cornhusker State scrapes the bottom of the national barrel.

Nebraska recently ranked 51st in the nation, behind all states and Puerto Rico, in per-capita state funding of mental health services.

Money isn't everything, of course, but I'm betting that we won't be going to any bowl games for serving the mentally ill this New Year.

It's a sad statement for services that can turn around a person battling depression, schizophrenia or other mental illnesses.

I know a person who changed in a matter of weeks from a normal 19-year-old to an obsessed, delusional recluse who saved all his hair, fingernails and urine and thought he'd been implanted with seeds from aliens.

His schizophrenia advanced to the point where he was talking about performing surgery on himself.

Today, after three years of drugs and therapy, this person is holding down a part-time job, driving a car again and heading toward a normal life.

Overall, however, state programs for the mentally ill are crowded and, in some cases, non-existent.

That helps explain why the state is interested in trying to keep a mental hospital for troubled kids and teens in Seward open.

The hospital, Rivendell Psychiatric Center, announced that it was closing after the state pulled all of its government-financed state wards out of the facility.

The state took the action after an extensive, 24-hour-a-day study of the services being offered by Rivendell. Those services, the state and its consultants concluded, weren't being offered. And there were concerns about poorly trained staff and understaffing.

The state, which acts as the "parents" for state wards, had enough and pulled its kids out. Without the income from the state wards, Rivendell officials said the facility could not financially survive.

The investigation came after the State Patrol launched a search of Rivendell for evidence about allegations that staff members had arranged sex between patients and between patients and staffers.

State officials also probed claims that Rivendell was overcharging for services for Medicaid patients — welfare fraud — and was frequently understaffed and relied on unqualified workers.

But the other side to the story is that the 60-bed facility is a needed cog in the state's already fragile system of treating the mentally ill, and business that supplied 140 jobs and a $4 million annual payroll.

Rivendell has one of the few residential treatment programs for children and adolescents. Losing it would make it even more difficult for Nebraska to climb out of the national cellar for caring for the mentally ill.

Gov. Nelson and other state officials made it very clear that they aren't interested in resuming business with Rivendell unless it makes a substantial and expensive investment in improving its services.

But they're talking and trying to work something out, which seems to be a reasonable course given the state's lowly standing in caring for its mentally ill citizens.

Yale K. Kessler, Mrs. F.A. Mildner and Lois Crouch were in Lincoln Thursday, Friday and Saturday attending the State Library Convention at the Love Memorial Library. Mrs. Mildner, the city librarian, returned to work with what she termed a "convention hang-over."

Over 1,100 people attended the fifth annual Employer-Employee Banquet, held last Thursday at the Wayne City Auditorium. More than 580 pounds of turkey and 200 pounds of ham were served, along with potato salad made from 225 pounds of potatoes. Entertainment was provided by seven local amateur acts. The evening's master of ceremonies was Omaha radio announcer, John Carson.

Abortion is killing

Dear Editor:

A few days past for one hour the moral majority stood up across Nebraska against the slaughter of unborn babies. Babies are being murdered in their mother's womb seven days a week. That's an average of 10,000,000 per year.

President Clinton goes to Oklahoma and speaks about the 30 children murdered in the Oklahoma bombing; but he never mentions the thousands of babies being murdered in abortion mills at the same time he is talking.

We now have a new liberal dandy in Washington, D.C., it is part goat and part jackass, its butt from one end and kick from the other end.

Two months ago God blessed me with a grandson. I love him so much I often drive 60 miles once or twice a week just to see him. A few miles away a grandmother is suing police, a doctor and a judge for saving her granddaughter's life. She says they have taken away her rights to have her granddaughter killed, if this case goes to trial. All the signs on major roads entering into Nebraska that say, "Nebraska, the good life," should be changed to a sign that displays a three-foot turkey buzzard.

For the past 30 years man has sowed his wild oats and hoped he did not get a crop. "Oh," but God has gathered His wild oats and put them in His barn. For that reason our children are killing each other. They are going from the play pen to the state pen.

Abortion will not cover sin; it is murder in the first degree (Exodus 21:22,23). Abortion amplifies to the misguided juvenile that it is OK to kill anyone.

Breaker-breaker, this is Clarkson's crazy fisherman, Freler Wyre, talking to you with love. Come on back, good buddy.

Planter plaudits

Dear Editor:

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce Retail Association wishes to publicly acknowledge the Wayne Greenhouse for the planters on Main Street. The planters were first brought downtown this past spring and just recently were replanted with flowers appropriate for fall. These planters were donated in the continued effort to revitalize the appearance of our downtown business district.

With increased competition from the large retailers, Main Streets all over the country are dying. It is our hope that Wayne does not fall victim to this trend. Small improvements, such as the planters, help make Wayne a good place to visit and to shop.

Thank you to Lois Hall; Dave Bird and the rest of the staff at the Wayne Greenhouse for their contribution to the future of downtown Wayne.

Shanie Kavanaugh
Chairperson
Wayne Retail Association

Current law unfair

Dear Editor:

Disabled and elderly Nebraskans who qualify for a homestead exemption and sell their home to buy another within the same county can transfer their exemption to the new home. But those same Nebraskans who sell their home and buy a home in a different county lose their homestead exemption for that year.

Current law is especially unfair for those elderly and disabled Nebraskans who want to move across county lines to be closer to their family, essential services like health care or a job. I will introduce legislation in January to change this law.

This change may seem minor to many taxpayers, however even a small change in our property tax laws can have a big impact on some Nebraskans.

Merlin in time warp? No, just mind warp

News from London reports Stephen Hawking, a noted physicist at Cambridge University, author of "A Brief History of Time", is changing his mind and is now quoted as saying: "One of the consequences of rapid interstellar travel would be that one could also travel backward in time. If you combine Einstein's general theory of relativity with quantum theory, it does begin to seem a possibility."

Wow! Traveling backward in time! Have you ever thought of what you would do if you could travel backward in time?

Get into a time warp, since time changes things. Time marches on, and it's time for you to change the clock October 29 when everybody treks from DST back to CST! See! You really can go backward in time! You've done it before and didn't realize what you were doing. So what else is new!

Once upon a time, while moving your clock back one hour, you miscued, and the clock went crazy, and you were whisked backward into the time tunnel. An imp appears asking: Are you looking for equal time, double time, dinner-time, or time out?"

No, you reply, I'm evidently at another point in time since time flies, and in my lifetime I've never had time to think...and I

"You what? Hurry, before time is up!"

Wow! My spare time comes after quitting time, and I sometimes use my time to think, and I was thinking about going backward in time!

"That's what you've done, silly!" the imp impishly replied. "You're here at the beginning of time! This is where 'Once upon a time' starts. You've had a lifetime...so its time now to re-run your favorite times! You can now review anything that has already happened."

Wow! Let's see....

"Hurry up, I don't have all the time in the world...oops! I mean I guess I do, but hurry or I'll have to draw time and a half overtime and my boss doesn't like that."

Just a minute....

"But your 'just a minute' is running me past my slack time! Hurry!"

O.K....take me back when there was no time. I've always dreamed of not having to race a clock! Yes! I want to know what it's like where there is no time!

"You're here!"

I am? So what time is it?

"Quitting time!"

Give me time to think!

"There ain't any! It's later than you think!"

Imp!

"Dreamer!"

Library schedules speaker

The Wayne Public Library will be holding the program "German Settlement in Nebraska" with speaker Frederick Luebke, the Charles J. Mach Professor Emeritus of History of the University of Nebraska - Lincoln, on Thursday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. at the library.

The program will describe the migration patterns and look at the main characteristics of the immigration from Germany to Nebraska, mostly during the 19th century. It will also include the technological and social conditions that affected these settlers, as well the routes they traveled, where they tended to concentrate, and what institutions they created in Nebraska. Special material will also be available.

Professor Luebke, whose special fields of interest are Nebraska history, the history of the American West, and the history of European ethnic groups in the United States, is the author of 11 books and the recipient of numerous grants and awards. Among these awards include receiving the UNL's highest honor, its Outstanding Research and Creative Activity Award and from the Nebraska Humanities Council, its biennial Sower Award in 1990 for his outstanding contributions to the humanities in Nebraska.

The program is open to the public, with refreshments provided. Funding for this program has been provided by the Nebraska Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Wildcats post personal bests

The Wayne State cross country teams wrapped up their regular seasons on Friday at the Buena Vista Invitational at Storm Lake, Iowa. Despite temperatures in the lower 40s and winds gusting up to 40 miles per hour, several of the Wildcat harriers had season or personal bests.

On the women's side, Kathy Dalton led the way with her sixth place in 19:47.6 followed by Stefanie Senn (11th, 20:19.9), Michelle Baatz (27th, 21:38.2), Jennifer Metheny (29th, 21:46.7), Anne LaBrayere (30th, 22:08.4) and Lisa Thompson (33rd, 22:18.4). As a team, the Wildcats placed fifth out of seven scoring teams with 89 points, only 11 points out of second place.

The men's team finished fourth out of seven scoring teams and were led by James McGown, who finished second in 26:29.9. The remaining finishers for the 'Cats were Mark Merritt (6th, 27:02.3), Donny Thongdy (17th, 27:46.6), Scott Holley (30th, 28:28.9), Ryan Meek (50th, 29:22.3), Chris Headley (55th, 29:30.5) and Bill Hafer (72nd, 37:31.0).

The Wildcats travel to Grand Forks, North Dakota for the NCAA North Central Regional Championships on November 4th to attempt to qualify for the national championships in Spartanburg, South Carolina on November 18th.

"McGown has a shot at making it," said Coach Brian Kavanaugh, "but a lot depends on which teams qualify."

To qualify for nationals as an individual, McGown will have to finish as one of the top two runners not on a qualifying team.

"Dalton will be shooting for top 25, which would earn her Academic All-America honors," Kavanaugh said.

Eagles runners-up in division

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

Allen couldn't get past Homer in the Lewis division finals of the Lewis & Clark conference volleyball tournament Wednesday night as the Eagles lost 7-15, 8-15. Amanda Mitchell led the Eagles with eight points and Jaime Kluber was 39-39 setting with 14 assists.

The Eagles had advanced to the division finals by beating Beemer and Emerson-Hubbard. In the first round Allen topped Beemer 15-11, 15-9. Mindy Plueger was 9-11 hitting with eight kills and Teresa Marks was 9-9 serving with three aces. Kluber was 31-31 setting with 16 assists and Shany Moran had four ace blocks.

Allen stopped Emerson in the second round 15-5, 15-4. Abbey Schroeder was 8-8 hitting with four kills and Mitchell was 10-10 serving with six aces. Kluber had 14 assists on 22-23 setting.

Following Allen's match with Homer it was discovered that Kluber had been playing the last four matches with a hairline fracture in her right foot. She is questionable for the Eagles' Sub-district match with Newcastle on Tuesday.

Wayne for approximately eight to ten years. "The service we provide helps clean up the community. We are trying to do our part for the environment. Three million cans is a lot of cans that wouldn't end up in a landfill," Schmidt said.

The market for aluminum cans has been very erratic this year and at the present time is on the way down.

The consumers at Region IV are paid for the cans they bring in and are paid by the hour for the cans they handle at the recycling center. "We let them handle the cans as much as they can. They are very excited to be doing this, especially if they are saving for a trip or vacation," Schmidt said.

"MOST OF the cans that are processed at the recycling center are brought in in small quantities. The Boy Scouts bring in a load once a month but other than that, most of the cans are brought in by young people who are looking for spending money.

At one time the Region IV also collected paper but after the market for paper dropped, it was no longer profitable for them to continue that portion of the recycling effort. In recent months the price for paper has increased dramatically, but the office no longer has the equipment to handle paper.

"I have been watching the plastic market and hope to eventually get involved in this aspect of recycling," said Schmidt.

"We appreciate the community's support of our program. Because of it, those we serve are able to provide some things for themselves and therefore, become more of a part of the community and not just a group of people locked away by themselves."

Kiwanis Board

The Wayne area Kiwanis International Club recently installed its board for the 1995-96 year. Lieutenant Governor Russ Aerni from Columbus was present to officially install the board and officers. Aerni recognized new President Sandi Bartling as the first female Kiwanis Club President in the district. Other officers include Bob Foxhoven (standing, far left), secretary/treasurer, and Janell Scardino (seated, right), president elect. Other board members include from left to right, standing, Foxhoven, Vickie Pick, John Farnan, Dave Bird, Leroy Simpson, Rick Endicott, Craig Holstedt; seated, Gary Wright, Bartling, Scardino.

Dragonslayer

Wayne's Paul Blumenkamp closes in for the kill on Dragons' quarterback Luke Schmidt in the Blue Devils' 21-7 loss to Madison Thursday night.

Blue Devils push Madison to the limit

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne Blue Devils gave Madison all they could handle in the first round of the C-5 playoffs, but the Dragons were able to pull out a 21-7 win.

Madison senior running back Charles Wilson carried the ball 38 times for 243 yards and three touchdowns. Wayne's game plan centered around taking time off the clock and keeping Madison's powerful ground game off the field.

"Our plan was to keep it away from him (Wilson) as much as possible," said Head Coach Lonnie Ehrhardt. "We carried out our game plan almost to the end. If we could have converted on a couple fourth downs late in the game, it could have turned out differently."

In the first half, the Blue Devils did an excellent job of shutting down the Dragon offense. After a scoreless first quarter, Wayne took the lead when Brian Fernau completed a seven play, 80-yard drive with a two yard run to give the Devils a 7-0 lead. Madison responded with a score of their own, moving 55 yards in only three plays. Wilson scored from 25 yards out, but the extra point was no good. Wayne had a 7-6 halftime lead and was sniffing the upset.

The Blue Devils continued their game plan in the second half by holding the ball for over half the third quarter in the opening drive. Neither team scored in the third quarter with Wayne still clinging to a one point lead.

Madison finally got untracked in the fourth quarter, putting together a nine play, 72 yard drive that ended with a 10-yard score by Wilson. The two point conversion gave the Dragons a 14-7 lead with five minutes left in the game. The Blue Devils, upset hopes, ended when Madison got the ball back and punched in another touchdown five plays later to make the final score 21-7.

"We felt good about the effort," said Ehrhardt. "The kids earned a lot of respect tonight. We played with emotion and the desire to win."

Despite finishing the season with a 2-6 record, Ehrhardt knows that this year's edition of the Blue Devils was a good football team.

"We worked hard enough and prepared enough to win each of our ball games," said Ehrhardt. "This is a winning football team because of the effort they gave and the attitude they had all year. Every one of these kids is a winner because they gave it all they had and worked hard every week."

Kinney leads Devils to State Championship

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne sophomore Sara Kinney led the Blue Devils to the Class C state cross country championship last Friday in Kearney by winning the individual title with a time of 16:29. Kinney edged Monica Barger of Imperial by one second to become Wayne's first-ever state champion. It was also the first team cross country championship in the history of Wayne High.

In the team race, Wayne finished with 50 points, followed by Imperial and Kimball with 51 points each. Junior Jessica Ford, who finished 11th in a time of 17:31, contributed heavily to the team victory by beating out an Imperial runner by one second and a Kimball runner by six seconds. Junior Anne Wiseman finished 18th in a time of 17:51, followed by freshman Amy Close (33rd, 18:19), sophomore Lisa Walton (47th, 18:52) and freshman Tara Hart (49th, 18:58).

In the boys division, senior Spencer Stednitz crossed the finish line in fourth place clocking 17:18.

Sophomore David Ensz finished 41st in 18:49 followed by sophomore Matt Meyer (49th, 19:05), freshman Brian Hochstein (59th, 19:20), junior Andrew Bayless (63rd, 19:27) and Chris Dyer (73rd, 20:13). John Grebe of Gretna won the race in a time of 16:51.

In the team standings, Wayne placed fifth with 101 points. Elkhorn Mt. Michael won the boys title with 45 points followed by Minden with 61, Pierce with 82, Grand Island Central Catholic with 90 and Wayne.

Laurel hammers Homer; hosts Winside next

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

Laurel-Concord opened the C2 District 6 play-offs in dominating fashion Friday night with a 74-14 walloping of winless Homer.

Eight players scored touchdowns for the Bears who improved to 8-0. Jeff Wattier had 64 yards rushing, a 95-yard kickoff return for a touchdown, a 77-yard interception return for a touchdown, and five tackles on defense — in only two quarters of play.

Wattier ended any dreams Homer may have had of an upset by returning the opening kickoff to open the scoring for the Bears. Todd Arens, Kyle Macklin and Tyler Erwin added touchdowns to give Laurel a 27-0 first quarter lead. Homer's nightmare continued into the second quarter as Wattier scored twice and Dustin Thompson and Vince Ward added scores to give the Bears a commanding 53-0 halftime lead. Laurel built a 67-0 lead in the third quarter with scores by Arens and Ryan Kvols before Homer finally put points on the board. Dave Pinkerton added a touchdown in the fourth quarter, as did Homer, to end the scoring.

"Our defense and special teams played very well and set the momentum early in the ball game," said Head Coach Tom Luxford. "We keep telling our kids to take one game at a time. We have to win each week to keep playing."

The Bears advance to host Winside (5-3) Thursday night at 7:00 p.m. The Wildcats must deal with an offense that has averaged 46.6 points per game this year and a defense that has allowed just 47 points for the entire season.

"Winside has a very good football team and they're very well coached," said Luxford. "I have a lot of admiration for Coach Geier and what he's done over there. We expect a tough football game and hopefully we can win this one."

DeGeorgia adjusting to life in Wayne

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne State College quarterback Jarrod DeGeorgia is finding out that life in Nebraska is different than life in California and playing football at the junior college level is different than playing at the Division II level.

DeGeorgia, a native of Lompoc, California is in his first year with the Wildcats after transferring from Santa Barbara City College.

The 6-2, 200 lb. quarterback lit up the scoreboards at SBCC, passing for 6,010 yards and 49 touchdowns in two seasons out west. He was named the team MVP in 1993 and 1994, while also earning 1994 Western State Conference Player of the Year honors. With those kinds of numbers DeGeorgia felt that he would be heading for a Division I school. The Wildcat coaching staff felt the same way.

"There was some kind of mistake in the evaluation of his transcript," said Head Coach Dennis Wagner, "so he went to junior college thinking that he didn't need his associate of arts degree."

DeGeorgia had the option of going to a Division I school, but he would have had to sit out this season.

"I didn't feel like doing that," said DeGeorgia. "I wanted to play."

After losing Ray Powers from last year's squad and not wanting to force freshman Jaime Jones into action, the Wildcats were delighted to have DeGeorgia come to Wayne.

DeGeorgia has adapted well to the differences in Nebraska so far.

"The weather is a lot different," said DeGeorgia. "It's different waking up a little earlier to scrape your car windows. The big thing has been living on my own. I lived with my parents until last year."

DeGeorgia has also had to make the adjustment to playing quarterback at Wayne State.

"The big adjustment for me has been reading defenses," said DeGeorgia.

"We did that at junior college, but here it's a more sophisticated game. When we call a play in the huddle, we don't call a specific play. We call two plays and according to the defense the quarterback makes the decision. I think I used more of my raw talent to get me through at the junior college level."

DeGeorgia's raw talent is one thing that is most impressive about him.

"He has a very good arm," said Wagner. "He probably has the best arm of any quarterback we've ever had here. He can throw a rope through a wall. His sense for our offense is also pretty good considering he's only been here for a few months."

"I have a strong arm," said DeGeorgia. "I'm not going to out-run anybody, but my knowledge of the game helps. I've been playing this game for a long time."

DeGeorgia's arm strength was impressive enough for the St. Louis Cardinals to select him as a pitcher in the 1994 amateur baseball draft.

"It was nice and it was an honor to get drafted," said DeGeorgia, "but football is my first love."

Jarrod DeGeorgia releases a pass during action earlier this year against Morningside.

With the quarterback position often looked upon to provide leadership for the team, DeGeorgia has had to adjust to his role as the head of the offensive unit as well.

"The first couple months I was here I wasn't a real vocal person," said DeGeorgia. "I didn't really know a lot of people here and I didn't know the system well enough to tell other people what to do. I don't think I'm a real vocal leader. I think I lead by example."

"He's not a rah-rah guy," said Wagner. "He's a silent leader, but silent leaders are good sometimes. When you're in his role in our offense, you have to back up that leadership with your performance."

DeGeorgia has done just that. He has gotten the starting nod the past two weeks and completed 50 of 79 passes (63%) for 465 yards and has thrown only one interception.

Another impressive characteristic about DeGeorgia is his willingness to accept his duty of being a role model.

"I think athletes are definitely role models," said DeGeorgia. "Anytime you're in the limelight people are going to look up to you, especially little kids. I try to carry myself, especially off the field, in a way that I'm not degrading my school, my teammates or myself."

DeGeorgia seems to be adapting nicely to life in Nebraska and life as a Wayne State quarterback.

"It's different," said DeGeorgia, "but at the same time it's fun. I don't have any regrets. Every day gets better and better for me here."

Jarrod DeGeorgia helps a young Wakefield quarterback with his technique during the WSC football camp held Sunday, Oct. 15.

Mackling leads Trojans to a first round win

By Jeremy Buss
For the Herald

The Wakefield Trojans blanked Wisner-Pilger Friday night in a record setting game in District play-off action 42-0.

Justin Mackling started the Trojans off with a five yard touchdown on Wakefield's first drive of the game. The PAT from Tyler Peters was good. Mackling would be at it several possessions later, this time with a six yard run. The PAT was again good. Mackling would close out the first quarter for the Trojans with a 26-yard interception return, and with the PAT Wakefield had a 21-0 lead.

"The only points put on the board in the second quarter were also Justin Mackling's off a three yard run. The Trojans would head to the locker room with a 28-0 halftime lead.

Mackling added the only points in the third quarter when he rumbled in from eight yards out.

The final quarter would again see only one score, this time by Jim Rusk of Wakefield on a 21-yard run to give the Trojans a 42-0 win.

"We played fairly well and did not have any turnovers," said Head Coach Dennis Wilbur. "We had some penalties, but they turned out not to be crucial."

Mackling's five touchdowns in the game set a new school record. He is also approaching another record, that of yards rushing in a season. He currently has 1,250 and the record is believed to be 1,400.

The Trojans now face Emerson-Hubbard at home on Thursday night. Kickoff is slated for 7:00 p.m.

"We made some mistakes the first time we met them," said Wilbur, "but hopefully we have improved since then."

Wakefield tops Emerson

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wakefield Lady Trojans topped Emerson-Hubbard last Thursday in Lewis & Clark volleyball action 16-14, 5-15, 15-1.

Bree Oswald led the team with nine kills on 14-20 hitting, while Susan Brudigam had a dozen points and six aces on 12-13 serving and had 10 assists on 20-30 setting. Alison Benson had seven solo blocks (11 total) and six points and one ace on 10-10 serving. Rachel Dutcher had five assists on 16-19 setting and had four digs.

"This was a really big win for us," said Coach Marty Slaughter. "At the line, Alison Benson didn't have her best night attacking, but she made up for it with seven solo blocks. Bree Oswald was a force. It seemed like every time I looked at her she was in the air attacking the ball."

Winside blanks Ponca to advance in C2 playoffs

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

The visiting Ponca Indians played host Winside even up by holding the Wildcats to a first half scoreless tie before Robert Wittler hit split end Chad O'Connor with a 26-yard touchdown pass with 4:52 left in the third quarter to give the Cats a lead they never relinquished in sending the visitors home on the short end of a 14-0 final score.

The Winside passing combination of Wittler to O'Connor and Jaimey Holdorf was short on quantity, but long on quality as this trio accounted for 146 yards on only five completions. Cory Brummels scored on a two yard run with 47 seconds left in the third quarter and Dave Paulson recorded a fourth quarter safety to close out Winside's scoring for the evening.

The Wildcat's bend-but-don't-break defense stopped Ponca three times in the first half after the Indians had entered the red zone inside the 20-yard line, then shut down Ponca's running attack in the second half.

"Our defense played extremely well," said Head Coach Randy Geier. "We had a great team effort all night long. Dave Paulson and Josh Jaeger were the glue that held our defense together."

In addition to his fourth quarter safety, Paulson accounted for a career-high 13 tackles and added a crucial first half sack to stop an Indian scoring drive. Jaeger added 11 tackles, while Shaun Magwire recovered a fumble and Landon Grothe contributed a fourth quarter pass interception to put the game on ice for the Wildcats.

Geier, who is a proponent of the district system was proud of his squads performance.

"It is really difficult to beat a good team twice in a three week period," said Geier. "The coaches knew beating Ponca was going to require a good effort from every one."

Geier and the Wildcats are looking forward to Thursday's 7:30 p.m. game when Winside (5-3) will travel to Laurel (8-0) to meet the Bears.

"They are a tremendous football team with several starters back off last year's state runner-up team," said Geier. "We have a lot of respect for Laurel and their program. We'll give it our best shot."

Eagles look forward to next year

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Allen football team completed a disappointing season on Friday with a 61-16 loss to Bancroft-Rosalie that left the Eagles with a 1-7 record.

Bancroft jumped out to a 36-0 halftime lead and coasted to a 45 point victory, rolling up 354 yards in the process. Allen was on defense most of the first half and were unable to gain a first down in the first two periods.

Brett Sachau scored Allen's first touchdown in six quarters with a one yard plunge in the third quarter and Mike Blohm added a 44-yard score for the Eagles' second touchdown.

Injuries hampered the Eagles for much of the season, but Allen has high hopes for next season. The Eagles lose only three seniors to graduation next spring.

"We're looking forward to next year," said Head Coach Warren Jensen. "We have some potential. We have some kids that can play football as long as they play as a team and not as individuals. Our kids play with a lot of intensity and enthusiasm; the winning tradition just isn't there."

SCHOOL

A monthly feature brought to you by The Wayne City Schools with space donated by The Wayne Herald and Morning Shopper.

From the Middle School Mr. Metteer

The seventh and eighth grade teachers will use the Middle School gym for parent-teacher conferences this year. This is being done so that they can be located easier and hopefully the waiting in lines should be reduced. Teachers that will be at the high school for conferences are Mr. Blendenman (art), Mrs. Meyer (pre-algebra), Ms. Zobel (IPS), Mr. Ruhl (algebra), Mr. Ehrhardt (PE and health) and Mrs. Ufing (PE and health).

The fifth and sixth grade teachers will hold their conferences in their home rooms. Student council members will be present to assist parents.

Mr. Metteer would like to explore the idea of having the middle school open one night per week to allow students and parents use of the computers. If this is something that interests you, please call the school or have your child report to the office to express this desire.

The middle school staff has reviewed the pros and cons of the Citizenship Award and it was decided to drop the past format. A new plan is being studied.

From the Elementary Principal David L. Lutt

Wayne Elementary had the honor of three teachers presenting at the regional International Reading Association meeting. The regional meeting was held in Des Moines, Iowa on Sept. 28, 29 and 30. Mrs. Lori Ruskamp, Mrs. Amy Hill and Mrs. Tami Diediker presented on how inclusive education is being utilized at Wayne Elementary. Mrs. Ruskamp is a special education teacher, Mrs. Hill is a 3rd grade teacher and Mrs. Diediker is a Title I teacher. The three teachers presented on how all three areas are tied into each other.

During the previous school year, a plan for integration of special education was used for Wayne elementary. The following is how inclusion was introduced to faculty and parents:

- I. Introducing Inclusion
 - a. have inclusion be a topic on the agenda at a faculty meeting
 - b. talk with homeroom teachers
 - c. distribute information on inclusion to all teachers once per month
 - d. provide an inservice on inclusion
- II. Team Teaching
 - a. definition
 - b. successful teach, teaching characteristics
 1. frequent face to face interaction
 2. periodic assessments of how well group is functioning
 - c. what questions might arise
- III. Planning and Providing Resources
 - a. school schedules
 - b. the special education teachers need to be a resource
- IV. Providing Training and Development
 - a. staff development
 - b. monitoring of teachers in classroom
- V. Collaborative Teaching Strategies
 - a. sharing
 1. planning and presenting of information
 2. IEP's
 3. modifying the curriculum
 4. grading
- VI. Monitoring of Students
 - a. eye contact and on-task behaviors
 - b. comprehension
 - c. possible pull-out
- VII. Goals
 - a. we want to gain an effective and holistic program that allows children with special needs to achieve maximum success in the regular classroom setting.

- b. we want to improve students self concept and overall attitude
- c. social benefits
- d. removal of the stigma of "labels"
- e. that regular education students who have additional needs will benefit because there are two and possibly three teachers available.

WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES?

To Learners Without Impairments

1. opportunities to interact with those who are impaired
2. opportunities to be leaders
3. form friendships with learners who are impaired

To Learners With Impairments

1. Learn age appropriate social and play skills with guidance
2. have the opportunity to be with learners who are talking, playing and working like all learners
3. have the opportunity to develop a more positive image because they are doing what other learners do

From the Elementary Kitchen Judy Poehlman, head cook

A big thank you to all the parents and guests who joined their student for National School Lunch Week. We had 40 guests join us in the Carroll Elementary and 298 join us at Wayne Elementary.

I would also like to thank all the employers who realized how important this is to the students and let their employees change their noon break to attend. I'd like to thank my dedicated staff, they do a tremendous job!

Wayne Public Schools are celebrating 30 years of serving hot lunches. The National School Lunch will be celebrating 50 years of feeding our nation's children in 1996. Many of us grew up with the program. Our goals over the last 50 years have not changed. The purpose being to help hungry children learn with good nutritious food.

Our thanks goes to all the parents who trust us to feed their child each day. We feed about 80 percent of the students in the school system.

Peer tutors are selected Annette Rasmussen

The peer tutors at Wayne High School have been selected for first semester. They will be available in the following study halls:

1st period: Rachel Frailey
2nd period: Tom Hansen, Krissy Lubberstedt, Karie Lutt, Kim Nolte
3rd period: none available
4th period: Sandy Burbach
5th period: Beth Meyer
6th period: Rachel Frailey, Jenny Reinhardt
7th period: Nick Hagmann, Katie Lutt
8th period: Mike Imdieke, Brandon Novak

The peer tutors are volunteers who will assist fellow students in studying for tests, completing homework, etc.

Recently, a workshop was held for the tutors. It was conducted by Dorothy Weber, Director of the Learning Center at Wayne State College. Information concerning active listening, guidelines in working with students, and useful study skills was presented. Each tutor also received a "Personal Checklist of Tutor Skills." The session was very interesting and informative.

Human-I-Tees Mrs. Imdieke

The Wayne Middle School students will be involved in an interesting and exciting project beginning Oct. 26.

In order to raise funds for our school and express concern for the Earth, the middle school students will be selling environmental T-shirts as part of a school wide fundraiser. This project will not only provide funds for the school ($3.50/shirt) but will also help generate environmental awareness. Also, 20 percent of the company's profits are donated to grassroots organizations working for preservation of the planet.

All sales will end by Nov. 10 so that orders will be received in time for Christmas. In 1994, Human-I-Tees donated $11,000 to the Organic Farming Research Foundation which is supporting the efforts of the National Organic Cotton Association.

Invention Convention Mrs. Imdieke

The fifth grade Invention Convention is scheduled for Nov. 1. All students in the fifth grade will be demonstrating their inventions during science class of that day. The creations will be on display in the middle school during parent-teacher conferences.

From the Principal Your child's unique learning style

Does your son learn best when he can shut himself in his room and tackle a project alone? Is your daughter consistently eager to get involved in "hands-on" projects like building models or making crafts? While parents have always noticed such different behaviors in their children, researchers in recent year have started looking closely at those differences and their effect on learning.

There are over 20 different components that make up an individual's learning "style." These include:

- Environmental elements, such as preference for room temperature, background noise and lighting.
- "Morning" vs. "night" person.
- Levels of curiosity, anxiety and persistence.
- Sense of time (past, present or future orientation).
- Need for mobility.
- Memory style.
- Achievement motivation.
- Social motivation and cultural factors.
- Risk-taker vs. cautiousness.
- Need for structure (or lack of structure).
- Expressive style.
- Receptive style.

Taken together, these components and others make up your child's unique learning "personality" or style. The components can be grouped into three broad categories: cognitive (how he processes information), affective (what motivates him) and physiological (reaction to physical environment). A person's learning style, which is shaped by a combination of his biological make-up and personality as well as home and school experiences, remains fairly constant throughout life.

There is, therefore, no one best way for all people to study or learn, but only a correct way for each individual to learn best. Some students learn best with rock music in the background; others need golden silence. Some students can sit still for hours; others have to walk around or look out a window every so often to keep focused.

Regrettably, the school setting does not allow for the total flexibility that some students need.

As a parent, you can help by getting to know your offspring's learning style and by being sensitive to his needs.

There's no point insisting that he sit up in a straight-backed chair in the dining room to do his homework if he's an "informal" learner who is more comfortable lying upside down on his bed while reading his textbook.

If your daughter needs to get actively involved to learn, she may not be wasting her time (as it might seem to you at first) if she sketches, pictures of her history lesson, or acts out scenes from a book she's reading.

For a student who learns best when interacting with others, having a friend over to study will be more of a help than a distraction. (Of course, you have to be sure that studying is the focus of the visit, not socializing!)

A student who balks at studying in the fluorescent-lit kitchen may slip into a more receptive learning mood by the softer light of a living room or bedroom lamp.

This doesn't mean that you should let your child do whatever "feels" right, since that might mean not studying at all! He may insist he can watch television and study at the same time — which is rarely, if ever, the case.

Letting your high schooler personalize his study habits to suit his learning style will enhance his achievement and give him more, not less, control over studying. The result should be better grades and a happier student who feels good about learning.

How do you know what works best for your child? A common sense approach that takes into consideration what he says works for him, your own observation of his personality, as well as an assessment of how he is doing in school should give you a good idea if you're both on the right track.

By the way, you, too have an individual learning style, but it is likely different from your child's. Don't assume that what works for you will work for him. Listen to what he says, monitor his performance, observe what seems to work, encourage him to find the best study method for him and reward positive results.

N.E.braska native honored with symposium dedication

A symposium held Oct. 9 and 10 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agricultural Field Laboratory at Mead was dedicated to a former Carroll resident.

Warren W. Sah's of Lincoln was honored during the two day symposium entitled "Agriculture and People-Building a Shared Environment."

Sah's was born at rural Carroll and raised on a livestock-grain-legume (alfalfa) farm where he developed an interest in manure management as a way to improve the soil. He earned his B.S. degree in agronomy in 1943 and immediately joined the U.S. Army field artillery.

ACCORDING TO a brochure printed for the symposium, "Dr. Sah's devoted his entire professional career to Nebraska agriculture—a career that was marked by numerous 'firsts'.

In 1949, he was appointed the first manager of the newly formed Foundation Seed Division, Department of Agronomy where he served through 1961. While serving as manager, he earned his Masters degree.

He was appointed to be the first supervisor and later superintendent of the Agricultural Field Laboratory at Mead. This was a portion of the Nebraska Ordinance Plant which would become a 9,500 acre agricul-

Warren Sah's

He spear-headed this research project from 1975 to 1986. The IANR became an early leader in sustainable agriculture based on these early research trials.

Sah's was also the first land-grant university person to be on the Board of Directors for the Institute of Alternative Agriculture, Greenbelt, Md., serving six years as director and two years as president in the 1980s.

AFTER A "distinguished career" as an agronomist and administrator at UNL, serving in various positions for 42 years, he retired as Professor Emeritus for the Department of Agronomy in July 1991.

According to Erna Sah's of Wayne, his sister-in-law, "Warren has retired but is still very much involved with the University".

Sah's still has connections to N.E.braska. He owns two farms near Osmond, his sister, Mrs. Edith Cook lives in Carroll and his sister-in-law lives in Wayne.

His family also includes his wife, Anna M. "Pink", children Nancy, Rob and Heidi, a brother John who lives in Lincoln and a sister, Mrs. Charles (Irene) Garwood of Perry, Iowa.

During the symposium a dedication ceremony was held for the new Research and Education Building for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Computer-whiz clerks

The Wayne County Clerks Office recently won the 1995 Computer Software User of the Year Award for their outstanding cooperation and service in the development and use of computer software. The award was presented to Deb Finn (right) at the Nebraska Association of County Officials Convention last week. Finn also won the President's Award for Distinguished Leadership in County Government. Pictured are, from left to right, Sharolyn Biermann, Carla Gunn, Marie Janke and Finn.

Every week a new challenge!

The forecast is for rain, and there is snow in the panhandle, so the combines have been starting early and running late. So far, we've covered the tomatoes and mums, but I guess I'll give up and bring plants in later today. My neighbor informs me he's ready for a rainy day, so he can have a day off.

After our first official year as a bed and breakfast, we joined the UE Assoc. We've yet to make it to a meeting, but we've paid our dues and sent our photos. There are rolodex pictures of the homes of members at the Interstate rest stops. Actually, though, much of our out-of-state business has come from the Nebraska Tourism guide and that listing is free.

Anyway, we felt we probably should contribute something to the organization, so we volunteered to work in a booth at the Omaha Home Show.

Neither of us had ever actually been to a home show, and we avoid hot tub displays, and visited with lots of folks. Batman was there, signing autographs; and so was the lady from the coupon-clipping columns. Actually, it was a lot like state fair, complete with cooking demonstrations.

It was fun, but I cannot imagine doing it all weekend. It's exhausting!

We watched the football game on TV on Saturday, then went to the Devaney Center to help set an NCAA attendance record for the volleyball game: 11,529. Herbie Husker and Lil' Red were in great form; and Ally Weston broke UNL's all-time "kill-spike" record.

Even got to finish the day with the last quarter of the KLOU game. I'm getting nervous about the game with those Jayhawks. But, first, we have to get the Buffalo's, in Boulder. Every week a new challenge!

downtown Omaha, usually. There is always a portion of interstate being worked on. But last Thursday evening, we ventured out, found free parking for exhibitors, and looked for a rack of B&B brochures.

The circus was actually going on at the same time, in the upper level. There were times when we thought we could hear elephants performing.

We had Polish hot dogs and funnel cakes, checked out all the Nominate your 'good neighbor'

The Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards program is celebrating its 52nd year of recognizing good deeds. One of numerous Ak-Sar-Ben recognition programs, the Good Neighbor Awards are co-sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald.

Nominations from citizens throughout Nebraska and western Iowa are encouraged. The program honors individuals and groups cited by neighbors for performing unselfish, neighborly deeds during 1995 without compensation or personal gain.

Nominations will be accepted from organizations and/or individuals and must be sent to the Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassador for the community. Names and address of Ambassadors are available, as well as nomination forms, by writing the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards annually to those selected by a statewide judging committee. Honorees will be announced about June 1.

Jaycees offer 'Vid-a-kid'

Once again, the Wayne County Jaycees will be running the Vid-a-kid program to help insure the safety of the children of the community.

Goodwill says thanks

Goodwill Industries/Wall Street Mission wants to thank the citizens of Wayne for their support during our recent community-wide drive. "We appreciate all of the good usable donations," stated Fred Pilecki, vice president of industrial resources for Goodwill. A total of 11,000 pounds of clothing and small household items were donated. On behalf of the handicapped and disadvantaged individuals and the training they receive as a result of your generous donations, we say thanks.

Vid-a-kid is a program designed by the Missing Youth Foundation to provide media and law enforcement agencies current audio and video footage to assist in locating a missing child.

The Jaycees will video tape each child for a short time and will be asking the child some simple questions to create some conversation so the child's voice is recorded as well. Video tapes are given to the Wayne Police Department for safe keeping.

The Vid-a-kid program will be held at the West Elementary School on Saturday, Oct. 28 from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The program is open to children of all ages, including infants.

The permission slip must be signed by the child's parent or guardian and returned on Oct. 28 before the child can be video taped.

"Talk About Prescriptions" Month

The National Council on Patient Information and Education encourages patients and health professionals to "talk about prescriptions" during October, 1995 and then every month thereafter, but what is there to talk about? Plenty!

- What side effects might my medicine cause - and how likely are they to occur?
- What should I do if I think I am having a side effect?
- Is it OK for me occasionally to go a few days without my medicine?
- How do I know if my medicine is really helping me?
- Is it best to take my medicine on a full stomach or on an empty stomach?
- Are there activities that I should avoid while taking or using my medicine. (for example, driving a vehicle, drinking alcohol)?
- What can I do to help my medicine work better in my body?

Training

Army National Guard Pfc. Joshua J. Sanderfer has completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga.

During the course, students received training which qualified them as light-weapons infantrymen and as indirect-fire crewmen in a rifle or mortar squad.

Instruction included weapons qualifications, tactics, patrolling, land mine warfare, field communications and combat operations.

Sanderfer is the son of Patricia A. Lamb and stepson of Gary Lamb of rural Dixon, N.C.

He is a 1995 graduate of Wayne High School.

Scholarship

Abbey Schroeder of Allen has received a scholarship to attend Southeast Community College - Milford Campus. The scholarship was presented at the eighth annual "Technology - Careers for Women" seminar held on the Milford Campus on Oct. 4. The seminar provided 170 participants with information about technical career opportunities available to women.

The scholarships were awarded on the basis of skills assessment test results.

Contestant

Marige Captain Allen-Mann will be a contestant on the television game show, "The Price Is Right." The show will be aired here on Nov. 8.

Captain Mann is the son of former Wayne residents, Lowell and Lorraine Mann.

Conference

Nebraska Association of Teachers of Mathematics held its annual fall conference on Monday, Oct. 16 at Chadron State College. Making a presentation to mathematics teachers was Robert Sweetland of Wayne.

The title of his presentation was "Geometry, Spatial Reasoning and the Real World." The one-day conference provides mathematics teachers with an opportunity to share topics of interest with one another. Topics include assessment, technology and classroom activities.

Sweetland is a professor at Wayne State College.

Dwayne Johnson

Director named

Wayne State College officials have announced the appointment of the new Director of Administrative Services. The position has been filled by Dwayne L. Johnson of Norfolk.

Johnson most recently served as director of business and administrative affairs at Nebraska Christian College in Norfolk. His professional background includes extensive military service, including intelligence officer for the Defense Intelligence Agency and executive officer for the Programs and Policy Division, both at the Pentagon. He served as intelligence staff officer, company commander and operations officer in Munich, Federal Republic of Germany and as executive officer at Fort Riley, Kan.

Johnson's education includes a Bachelor of Science degree from Wayne State College, a Master of Science in Business Administration from Bosfort University, and extensive military education. Johnson was named Master Instructor at the U.S. Army Engineer School in 1984, and graduated with Honors from the Command and General Staff Course at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College in 1983.

As director of administrative services, Johnson will be responsible for overseeing human resources management, affirmative action and ADA compliance, communications, mail, photocopy and transportation services, campus security, safety and risk management, purchasing, central supply and facilities scheduling.

Johnson is originally from Norfolk. He cites the size and excellent reputation of the school as his reasons for accepting the position. Johnson and his wife have three daughters. Their daughter, Dana is currently attending Wayne State College.

Honored member Bibles given

Jim Hummel, former assistant vice president for admissions and records for Wayne State College, was recently awarded an honorary membership in the NACRAO, the Nebraska Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers.

Hummel earned a Bachelor of Arts in Education and a Master of Science in Education from Wayne State Teachers College. He served as director of Admissions from 1964 until 1990, when he took the job of assistant vice president for admissions and records at Wayne State College. He retired in July of this year.

Hummel has been active in NACRAO, serving terms on the Public Relations Committee, the Legislative Committee, the Professional Activities Committee, the High School Relations Committee and the Post Secondary Planning Committee. The NACRAO Honorary Membership was presented to Hummel on Oct. 19, at a meeting held in Platte River State Park.

Hummel and his wife, Vera, who teaches business at Wayne State, make their home in Wayne.

Craig Nelson of Wakefield recently returned from China where he and 20 other people had gone to deliver Bibles.

"I am very thankful to all those who supported us in any way. We were able to deliver 1,000s of Bibles. This was one of the most fulfilling things I have done," Nelson said.

Nelson's group was one of several groups who attempted to deliver Bibles. "Our group went to Beijing. We did not have any problems but another group that went to Shanghai had their luggage confiscated and the Bibles removed," he said.

Nelson would encourage anyone who is interested in such a trip to contact him for more details. Nelson said he has pictures of his trip and would be glad to talk to groups and others about his trip.

Those seeking to contact him may do so at Route 1, Box 78, Wakefield, Neb. 68784.

New director

Bethpage Mission of the Great Plains has announced that Carol Grothe has been selected as the Executive Director of the Norfolk area agency.

Grothe will be responsible for overseeing all operations and management of the agency, which began providing services to individuals with developmental disabilities just over a year ago. This agency provides services throughout Northeast Nebraska.

Bethpage Mission serves persons with developmental disabilities and is a serving arm of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Bethpage began in Axtell in 1913 and, today, has grown to 16 states and two foreign countries.

A native of North Platte, Grothe comes to Norfolk from Gering, where she held a similar position with Panhandle Community Services.

Promoted

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Jerry Williams, son of John and Judy Williams of rural Carroll, recently was promoted to his present rank while serving at Navy Support Facility, Diego Garcia.

Sailors and Marines like Williams are promoted based on job performance and proficiency in military requirements among other things.

The 1991 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School joined the Navy in June 1991.

Collegians learn with Disney

As part of the Walt Disney World Company's continued support of education, more than 1,200 students representing 200 colleges and universities from throughout the United States will receive commemorative degrees as graduates of the Summer 1995 Walt Disney World College Program.

Wayne State College's student participants in the program included: Carol Sigdestad, Grand Terrace, Calif.; Susan Ellis, Meadow Grove; Rose Tuma, Bellwood, Illinois and Chad Scott, Omaha.

New office

Douglas Hailey, an agent for State Farm Insurance Companies will open an office in Manchester, Iowa on Nov. 1.

Hailey is the grandson of Elsie Hailey of Wayne.

He is a 1985 graduate of Schuyler Central High School and a 1989 graduate of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

After graduation he became a fire claim specialist at State Farm's Lincoln regional office.

In 1995, Hailey entered State Farm's Agency 2000 program that he completed in October. He specializes in auto, fire, life, and health insurance.

Sigdestad is a junior majoring in biology; Ellis is a senior majoring in elementary education; Tuma is a senior majoring in sports management and Scott is a junior majoring in business management.

The Walt Disney World College Program is a three-part program designed to increase students' knowledge of the entertainment and leisure industries. The program is broken into learning, living and working experiences. By applying all three aspects of the program, students gain insight into the business practices and entertainment philosophies of the Walt Disney World Co.

Noon luncheon served for United Methodist Women

Twenty-nine members and one guest, Bonnie Jensen of California, attended the United Methodist Women on Oct. 11. A noon luncheon was served by Dorothy Brandstetter, chairman. She was assisted by Linda Gamble, Sue Wert, Rose Sedivy, Nancy Fuelberth, Jociell Bull and Sue Schroeder.

Pauline Merchant gave the Missionary Moment. She asked the Unit to pray for the people in war-torn Bosnia.

Doris Stipp presented the Pledge service. She was assisted by Mary Wax, Marge Summers, Verna Mae Creamer and Hallie Sherry. The Treble Clef singers sang several selections.

Julie Claybaugh opened the business meeting with a prayer. Minutes of the September meeting were read and approved. Doris Stipp gave the treasurer's report. It was approved and filed for audit.

Fern Kelly was thanked for presenting the unit a linen table cloth.

Julie Claybaugh reported on the annual meeting held in Norfolk Oct. 6 and 7. Julie Claybaugh, Becky Wilson, Jociell Bull and Joyce-Niemán attended the meeting.

Hallie Sherry and Norma Ehlers celebrated October birthdays. They were presented "Corsage for Missions" and the birthday song was sung.

Fern Kelly announced World Community Day will be held at the Methodist Church on Nov. 3 at 1:30 p.m.

Maxine Robins reported on napkins and card sales and Fern Kelly reported on knife sales.

Next meeting will be held Nov. 8 at noon for a noon casserole luncheon. Pauline Merchant will give the World Thank Offering program.

Mrs. Gladys Gaebler of Winside was honored for her 71-year membership of the American Legion Auxiliary. She is pictured with Beverly Neel, Winside Auxiliary president.

Avoid farm accidents with breaks, meals

By Karen Wermers
Dixon County Extension Educator

Taking breaks, eating regular meals and getting adequate sleep could help save your life.

Most farm accidents start at 11 a.m. and reach their peak in mid-afternoon when people may be getting hungry and tired. Constant repetitive work also may lull people into a hypnotic state. Fall harvest and spring planting are two especially notorious times for long work days short on rest.

No matter how large the chore and how small the time-line, producers must take breaks to prevent sinking into a dazed state that could lead to accidents. Breaks should occur every couple of hours — even if it's nothing more than getting out and stretching for a few minutes. Each person's low spell occurs at a different time of day. Know when your low spell is and make sure to take a 15- to 20-minute nap or rest during that time period.

Eating regular, well-balanced meals also is critical for keeping alert during working hours. Take time to rest and relax during meals. Drink plenty of fluids, especially during hot, humid weather, to prevent dehydration. Don't overuse caffeine, as too much can inhibit vision and concentration.

Because farmers often work alone, they should have a first aid kit in each piece of self-propelled equipment. First aid kits will help them take care of themselves or others should an accident occur. Good quality first aid kits can be found at complete drug stores, fully stocked hardware stores and at safety equipment suppliers. Bandages, compresses, triangular bandages, wrapping and adhesive tape, iodine, disinfectant, cold packs, flashlights, rubbing alcohol and eye wash are all part of standard first aid kits. Also, farmers and their families should be trained in CPR and first aid.

Farmers also may want to consider carrying cellular phones and/or C.B.'s with them for emergencies.

Farm fatalities occur disproportionately among 11- to 15-year-olds and 66- to 70-year-olds. Since 1969 in Nebraska, there have been 81 fatalities among the younger group, and 78 fatalities among the older group. No one really knows why this is so, but it may be because the younger group takes more risks, and the older group doesn't tolerate trauma well. Taking simple precautions of good rest, nutrition and frequent breaks, however, can significantly lower chances of becoming a statistic. Few fatalities are caused by maintenance problems; most are caused by human carelessness. Rest and proper nutrition often can be the difference.

Long-time member honored for service

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside Correspondent

Mrs. Gladys Gaebler of Winside was the guest of honor on Sunday, Oct. 22 at an open house sponsored by the Winside Roy Reed Post 252 of the American Legion Auxiliary. Gladys was being honored for the only surviving charter member of the Auxiliary with a 71-year continuous membership.

Displays of Auxiliary scrapbooks showed her original application form dated June 25, 1925 when she attended a meeting which the American Legion called to order in anticipation of creating an auxiliary to the Legion. Mrs. Gaebler was one of the initial 24 ladies at that meeting and paid her dues of $1.25. By the time the Unit Charter was accepted on Oct. 20, 1925, there were 37 charter members.

During Mrs. Gaebler's years as an active member, she has held numerous offices and chairmanships including a three time delegate to the State Convention. Although she is now 97, and has been unable to remain active in many aspects of the Auxiliary, she can still be seen at their annual Memorial Day dinner in the Post home.

Current Winside president, Beverly Neel, congratulated Mrs. Gaebler and handed her the microphone to say a few words. She replied "I'm so honored and happy to be here today. I want to thank each of you for attending and for all the work you put into this event."

Mrs. Neel and Mrs. Gaebler then reminisced for the audience some of the many activities that the Auxiliary has done over these 71 years.

"We were kept pretty busy," Mrs. Gaebler said. "We made things for the veterans homes and the hospital gift shops, we served food and played bingo with the veterans, and held sewing and quilting bees to make lap blankets for them." Some of the other items made noted from the scrapbooks included the making of tarlign dolls for many years, however, no one present including Mrs. Gaebler were sure what they were and they made smile books for the veterans. These consisted of jokes and articles cut from magazines and papers for them to read.

Mrs. Neel said, "During one year of the depression when no one had any money, the Auxiliary voted to pay each member's dues for that year, so that no one had to drop membership or be embarrassed because they couldn't afford the dues." She also noted that Mrs. Gaebler and her husband held the first junior baseball banquet in their home for Winside players, charging 35 cents per plate for their meal.

Entertainment for the afternoon included several musical selections from Winside High School students Amy Riley, Rachel Riley, Serena Lindahl and Sandy Paulsen. They were accompanied on the piano by LeNell Quinn, vocal music director of the Winside Public School.

The afternoon concluded with the serving of a special cake made by Carol Swanson of Norfolk and refreshments.

Lutheran Women host brunch

Our Savior, Women of the ELCA hosted a friendship brunch on Saturday, Oct. 7 at 10:30 a.m. Approximately 110 people attended the event.

Those planning the brunch were Evie Schock, Leslie Hausmann, Barb Heier, Frieda Jorgensen, Lila Splittgerber, Donna Lutt and Sue Olson.

Girls from fifth through eighth grades helped as hostesses and servers.

Following the brunch, Viola Meyer gave a welcome and readings were offered by Leslie Hausmann and Donna Lutt. Songs were sung by Sunday school students from kindergarten through second grade. Evie Schock shared scripture readings from Proverbs and John.

The morning featured a clown ministry program presented by Funny People, Inc. Sharing their talents were Buttons the Clown (Dave Headley) and Lovin' Hearts (Heather Headley).

Pastor Bill Koerber closed the program with a prayer and the song "Shalom" was sung by all.

Q. Why should I go to the expense of having my summer clothes cleaned now if I'm not going to wear them again until next spring?

A. Paying a little now to have your clothes cleaned before storing them can save you a lot of money next spring. Drycleaning helps prevent insect infestation and other damage which can permanently ruin your wardrobe. Talk to your neighborhood drycleaner today.

Wayne couple united in September ceremony

Marla K. Manning and Bernie W. Paden were united in marriage Sept. 2, 1995 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Pastor Merle Mahnken officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Gary and Yvonne Manning of Bennington; Kathy and Mike Goracke of Newcastle and John and Pat Paden of Lincoln.

Grandparents of the couple are Agatha Krallman, formerly of Wayne; Eleanor Manning of Pender and Bernie and Leona Paden of Fremont.

Organ music was provided by Dennis Lichty of Plainview. Greg Bergman of Stanton played the trumpet. Vocalists were Sonya Kester Dan Peterson, both of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Paden

style tuxedo with tails, a white stained glass vest and tie. The attendant wore black tuxedos with black stained glass vest and ties.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the basement of the church. Pam Krallman of Bellevue was at the guest book and Kurt Krallman of Bellevue was in charge of gifts.

Host couple was Gary and Judy Krallman of Bellevue.

Serving punch were Michelle Bartels of Beatrice and Bobbi Paden of Lincoln. Serving cake were Mary Jean Jones of Allen and Verna Mae Bauer of Wayne.

The bride and groom are both students at Wayne State College and are at home in Wayne.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore and off the shoulder full taffeta gown. Her gown had elbow length fitted sleeves and the bodice was covered with beaded lace. The straight dropped waist flowed into a full taffeta skirt. Her skirt was edged with heavily beaded European lace. A large bow accented the waist. Her dress flowed into a semi-cathedral length train also edged with European lace.

She wore a walking length veil that had two layers that were accented with a finished edge. Satin rose buds and sprays of beading formed the headband.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, greenery, pearls, and burgundy nuns. The center of the bouquet was accented with two white orchids with burgundy flecks.

Matron of honor was Michelle Broekemeier of Columbus, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Michelle Polen of Bennington and Jennifer Briese of Wayne. They wore long sheath dresses of navy and white brocade. The necks were adorned with a choker collar with a pearl drop accent.

Best man was Sean Peters of Lincoln, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Scott Paden of Lincoln and Mike Paden of Newcastle, brothers of the groom. Ushers were Dan Broekemeier of Columbus, Clint Malle of Newcastle and Scott Bartels of Beatrice.

The groom wore a black shawl.

It's necessary not to overcommit

Q. I know that for the sake of my marriage and my family, I should not overcommit myself. But what should I do with the guilt feelings I have when I neglect worthwhile things, especially with regard to my duties in the church?

A. I think we should exercise common sense in the assignments we accept—even those involving worthwhile causes. Inevitably, this judgment will require us to decline some responsibilities in order to maintain a balance between work, volunteering, family activities and exercise.

If too many good activities are attempted, other good objectives will be sacrificed. That is like installing a new sprinkler system in a yard and putting too many outlets on the line. When that occurs, nothing is watered properly.

I'm reminded, also, of a magazine advertisement that explained how Gallo wines are produced. It contained a message that is relevant to this discussion. I had not previously known that grape farmers not only prune dead branches from their vines, but they also eliminate a certain amount of the fruit-producing branches. In other words, they sacrifice some of the crop so that what fruit is left will be better.

That is why it is necessary to eliminate some good things from your schedule so that the other things you are doing will be done better.

Q. At what age should a child be given more freedom of choice regarding his religious beliefs and practices?

A. After the middle adolescent years (13 to 16), some children resent being told exactly what to believe. They do not want religion "forced down their throats," and they should be given more and more autonomy in what they believe.

But if the early exposure has been properly conducted, they will have an inner mainstay to steady them. That is the key to the spiritual attitudes they will carry into adulthood.

Despite this need to take a softer approach to spiritual training as the child moves through adolescence, it is still appropriate for parents to establish and enforce a standard of behavior in their homes. Therefore, I would require my 17-year-old to attend church with the family. (135 words)

Q. Why do you think the sexual behavior of a people is related to the strength and stability of their nation?

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

A. The physical attraction between men and women causes them to establish a family and invest themselves in its development. It is this force which encourages them to work and save and toil to insure the survival of their families. In short, the sexual aspect of our nature—when released exclusively within the family—produces stability and responsibility that would not otherwise occur. When a nation is composed of millions of devoted, responsible family units, the entire society is stable and responsible and resilient.

Conversely, the indiscriminate release of sexual energy outside the boundaries of the family is potentially catastrophic. Who can deny that a society is seriously weakened when the intense sexual urge between men and women becomes an instrument for suspicion and intrigue...when a woman never knows what her husband is doing when away from home...when a husband can't trust his wife in his absence...when half of the brides are pregnant at the altar...when each newlywed has slept with numerous partners, losing the exclusive wonder of the marital bed...when everyone is doing his own thing, particularly that which brings him immediate sensual gratification?

Unfortunately, the most devastated victim of an immoral society of this nature is the vulnerable little child who hears his parents scream and argue. Their tension and frustrations spill over into his world, and the instability of his home leaves its ugly scars on his young mind. Then he watches his parents separate in anger, and he says, "goodbye" to the father he needs and loves.

Or perhaps we should speak of the thousands of babies born to unmarried teenage mothers each year, or the rampant scourge of venereal disease which has reached epidemic proportions among America's youth. This is the true vomitus of the sexual revolution, and I am tired of hearing it romanticized and glorified. Those individuals, and those nations, which choose this festering way of life will pay a dear price for their folly.

SUM LENGTHS! Send a friend from the room. Place several coins upon the table and ask someone to point to a coin. Call back your friend, provide pencil and paper and ask him or her to jot down the identity of the selected coin. Alakazam, the answer is always correct. How come?

Secret: Answer is keyed to length of the pencil. Tie-in to coins is devised and memorized prior to performance of the trick. Give it a try.

ZANY POEM! To half a dozen, add half a score, and you will plainly see. Just twenty, neither less nor more — do tell, how can this be? See if you can puzzle it out.

Eleven attend Womans Club

The Wayne Womans Club met on Oct. 13 at 2 p.m. in the Womans Club Rooms. There were 11 members present. Roll call was "how your parents met."

Orvella, president, opened the meeting with a saying: "He had the ring, He had the flat. But she felt his chin and that was that." She read a poem "Autumn Blessing" by Earl J. Grant.

The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved.

A thank you note was received from Mylet Bargholz for the donation Womans Club gave to the Cemetery Association.

Orvella brought a plastic tablecloth and the group accepted it.

Marion had a discussion on Wayne Community Theater and their talents. A discussion was also held on the Special Olympics held in the area. Also discussed was helping a doctor since there is no nurse at this time. These were all table until the next meeting.

A get well card will be sent to Evelyn Kay.

Happy anniversary was sung for Glen and Lillian Granquist for their 54th wedding anniversary.

Barbara Sievers and Florence Wagner served.

A group of six members toured Rainbow World and then drove through the college and saw the new sculpture.

The next meeting will be Nov. 10 at 2 p.m. at the Womans Club Rooms. Fern Kelly will give a book report and roll call is to name a book you've enjoyed. Gena Luhr and Hazel James will be hostesses.

Piano program is given at meeting

On Friday morning, Oct. 13, at the South Sioux City United Methodist Church, Pat Cook of Wayne and five of her piano students gave the monthly program for the Siouxland Music Teachers Association.

The program began with Mrs. Cook singing two religious solos. She was accompanied by Norma Crechfield of Sioux City. She then sang "Think of Me," accompanied by Rebecca Brumm of Wayne.

Along with Christina Gathje and Billie Davie of Wayne and Heidi Kirsch of Winside, Rebecca helped Mrs. Cook in a demonstration of a hand technique. Each played a song to illustrate what Mrs. Cook learned recently in piano lessons from her teacher, Beverly Söll of Wayne.

In addition, Christina Gathje and Sarah Brumma each played two solos and Heidi played sections of Mozart's "Rondo Alla Turca" (work in progress) to show her mastery of the difficult trills.

Sarah and Billie had prepared song sheets for a short sing along, in which they were assisted by Rebecca. The sing along worked well in the afternoon when the group presented a shortened version of the morning program to Wayne Care Centre residents.

World Community Day to be held on Nov. 3

World Community Day celebration will be held Friday, Nov. 3 at 1:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church. The theme will be "Preserving the Fruits of God's Labor." All area people and churches are invited to share in this program, which focuses upon the nurture of children and youth and the family as a stable institution. The service was written by Anna Hayes Price, Ph.D., Laguna Beach, Calif., a psychotherapist who has devoted her life to parenting possibilities for personal growth and development for the parents as well as the child to help us retain the idea that children are the ultimate fruits of God's labor. A harvest of scriptures were selected for this program to help us look at children and our roles as nurturers, whether or not we actively parent or whether we only occasionally are with children. Church Women United affirms its commitment to Jesus' own concern "Suffer the little children to come unto me" ... children as well as youth who are sick, hungry, abused, neglected, homeless and in need of daily care so that they might live the abundant life for which they were created.

Hoskins church is host to fall rally

Trinity Lutheran Church in Hoskins was host Saturday, Oct. 21 for the fall rally of the Nebraska-LWMS Circuit. The theme for the day was "This is the Day the Lord Has Made: Let Us Rejoice and Be Glad In It." Sixty members and guests from Sioux City, Omaha, Stanton, Hadar, Norfolk, Waco and Hoskins were in attendance.

Lisa Bomschlegl and her mother, Mrs. Beverly Bomschlegl of Waco, Neb. spoke on the mission work being done by the Wisconsin Lutheran Church in Akademgorodok, Russia, located in central Siberia. Anna Bomschlegl, their brother and son, is in his second year of mission work there. Lisa spent time in Russia this past summer visiting her brother and witnessing the work being done. Thoughts of Siberia continued as the ladies of Trinity served a Russian meal including Zapkanka iz Lapshy's Miasom (meat and noodle casserole), Salat iz Kapusty (cabbage salad) and Keks-Stolichnyi (pound cake). The afternoon business meeting concluded with selected mission reports. Mrs. Irene Mangels of Hoskins, contact woman for the Central African Medical Mission, was presented a gift from the group for her 20 years of service and bi-annual reports to the organization. The presentation to Ms. Mangels was made by Pastor W.C. Gochring of Norfolk who serves as pastoral advisor for the LWMS circuit. Mrs. Robyn Nelson of Trinity serves as the current circuit president. The spring 1996 rally of the Lutheran Women's Missionary Society will be held at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Omaha.

College group to perform

Celebration, a group of 13 musicians under the direction of professor David Donelson, will perform at Concord Evangelical Free Church on Saturday, Oct. 28 at 6:30 p.m. for a Youth night rally and Sunday morning, Oct. 29 at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. The church is located at 617 Broadway in Concord. The concert is open to the public at no charge.

Accompanied by live instrumentation, Celebration performs a variety of music styles brought to prominence by musicians of this generation. With their upbeat sound and presence, Celebration expresses the excitement of the Christian life. Participants are Crown College students from a broad range of academic disciplines.

As representatives of Crown College, Celebration members perform throughout the academic year and summer in churches, schools, camps and youth events. Crown College is a professional, undergraduate institution accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges. A recognized leader in higher education, the College offers majors in 34 bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree programs. Crown College is located near Minneapolis, Minn. and is the midwest regional college of The Christian and Missionary Alliance. It serves a student body of almost 600 students.

Cattle count well below 1993 figures

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1.60 million cattle on feed on Oct. 1, according to the Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service. This inventory was up 1 percent from last year but was 11 percent below two years ago.

Fed cattle marketings for the month of September totaled 380,000, up 7 percent from last year but 5 percent below two years ago. Placements of cattle into feedlots during September totaled 540,000 head, up 3 percent from last year but 4 percent below two years ago. Other disappearance during September totaled 10,000 head compared with 20,000 head during both September 1994 and 1993.

During the July-September quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 1.21 million fed cattle, 1 percent less than in the corresponding period last year and 6 percent below the same period two years ago. Placements during the quarter totaled 1.27 million head, down 5 percent from 1994 and also 5 percent below the 1993 quarter. Other disappearance during the quarter totaled 40,000 head, 20 percent less than the corresponding quarter a year earlier, and 33 percent below two years ago.

Cattle on feed Oct. 1, 1995, in the 7 Monthly States totaled 7.97 million, up 2 percent from the previous year but 3 percent below two years ago. Placements in feedlots during September totaled 2.26 million head, 10 percent above 1994 and 5 percent above 1993. Marketings during September totaled 1.70 million, up 2 percent from a year ago and 3 percent above 1993. This is the largest September marketings since the current 7-State data series began in 1972. Other disappearance during September was 51,000 head, 2 percent above last year but 23 percent below 1993.

July-September 1995 quarterly marketings for the 7 States, at 5.40 million, were up 5 percent from July-September 1994 and 7 percent above July-September 1993. Marketings for the 7 States during the July-September quarter accounted for 87 percent of the 13-State total.

Cattle and calves on feed Oct. 1, 1995, for slaughter market in the 13 States preparing quarterly estimates totaled 9.40 million head, up 2 percent from a year ago but down 3 percent from Oct. 1, 1993. The inventory included 6.14 million steers and steer calves, down slightly from a year ago and 2 percent below two years ago. This group accounts for 65 percent of the total inventory. Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 3.21 million head, 5 percent above a year ago.

Placements of cattle and calves on feed in the 13 States during the July-September 1995 quarter totaled 6.23 million, down 1 percent from last year and 2 percent below July-September 1993.

Marketings of fed cattle during the July-September 1995 quarter totaled 6.20 million, up 3 percent from the same quarter last year and 5 percent above two years ago. Other disappearance totaled 192,000 head compared to 191,000 in July-September 1994 and 275,000 in July-September 1993.

the porch so we can kill the flies that gather so we can open the door to go into our house," Modlin said. "We used our swimming pool four times last year. I didn't even open it up this summer. I'm getting tired of all this."

Modlin claimed, and the committee agreed, that current state law is ambiguous on the problem. Sen. Curt Bromm of Wahoo asked Modlin to suggest a solution.

"Whatever you come up with, I'd like to see it put in black and white," Modlin said. "Don't write something that can be interpreted 20 different ways. I don't want to see other people get stuck with this."

"Hog farming isn't farming any more. It's an industry and it ought to be regulated like an industry," Modlin said.

Committee Chairman Cap Dierks of Ewing assured Modlin that the committee is working to protect citizens who have problems.

Coming down

The fall harvest is nearly complete and many farmers will be glad to see no more of these for another year so they can finally get some rest.

Beef home study course begins its second year

Due to the success of the first NU Beef Cow Basics home study course, it will again be offered across Nebraska. In addition, a second course, Beef Basics II, has been developed to give producers an opportunity to learn more about reproduction, genetics and selection, said a University of Nebraska Extension Educator.

"These courses are designed to assist cow-calf producers and farm and ranch managers in making management decisions for improving profitability," said Rod Patent, Wayne County Educator. Co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension and the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the deadline to register for both courses is Nov. 3.

Since most beef producers, veterinarians and agribusiness people find it difficult to be away from their businesses for courses offered every six to 10 weeks, these programs allow those participating to sharpen their cow/calf management knowledge within the comfort of their homes or offices. "This educational opportunity allows the participants to learn without making a large time commitment away from their families and businesses,"

Innovations are touted in irrigation

New devices, such as more precise pivot speed controllers and computerized control panels, are now available to help producers irrigate more effectively.

Common mechanical percentage timers usually cannot be accurately set to the nearest one percent. Digital electric timers are an innovation designed to remedy this problem. These small programmable microprocessors can be installed to replace existing timers, and allow speeds to be set to the nearest tenth of a percent. These generally cost around $300 plus an installation fee. "These units can actually be set to run at different speeds during different portions of the day and track run time," said Bill Kranz, NU Extension Irrigation Specialist.

Computerized control panels are new irrigation devices that will benefit producers as well. "Computerized control panels offer many features that will allow individuals to fine tune their water application to different crops, field topographies or soils," said Kranz. These panels allow the system speed or direction to be adjusted multiple times per circle based upon field position.

Systems installed without the computerized control panels are not left out, however. "To fully utilize the new panels, old systems will require the new panel, a different collector ring and potentially some sensors used to monitor system operation," added Kranz.

Designed by seven NU Extension Educators, Beef Cow Basics is designed to help producers set goals for their cow/calf operations. Basic considerations for cow nutrition, ration formulation and forage analysis and inventory will also be covered. Discussion of forage crops and alfalfa production leads to information on grazing strategies and management. A lesson on feed rations economics will also be included.

Beef Basics II will include lessons on anatomy and physiology, replacement heifer development, reducing calving difficulty and calf losses, and calf management. The session covering basic genetics will explore the combination of genetics and environment. Another lesson investigates crossbreeding programs and breed selection which will allow producers to tailor a crossbreeding program to fit their operation.

Breeding management, herd health management and managing the herd to fit the producers resources rounds out the 11-week course.

"Profitable management of a producer's resources is one of the most important aspects of their operation," said Patent. A special lesson will highlight managing the herd to fit their resources and improve management skills in order to become more competitive. Goal driven considerations of the production unit will be addressed.

Those enrolling will be encouraged to answer questions on the weekly problem sets or quizzes. After returning these assignments to the Wayne County Extension Office, the lesson will be corrected and returned to the class members with the next lesson.

The $40 fee includes all educational material plus a three-ring binder to help organize lesson material. Each person completing the 11 lessons and quizzes by March 1, 1996 will receive a certificate of completion from the University of Nebraska.

For more information or to register contact the Wayne County Extension Office, 510 Pearl Street, Wayne, NE 68787-1939, phone 402-375-3310.

Guide is now available

The Farm Equipment Guide (quick reference guide) to serial numbers, specifications and prices is now available at the Wayne Public Library.

Library hours are 12:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

Phone number is 375-3135.

Farm editor honored

Mary Pat Finn-Hoag, farm editor at the Norfolk Daily News since 1977, was recently recognized as recipient of the Nebraska Forest Service State Forester's Award.

The daughter of Pat and Marilyn Finn of Carroll was cited for "exemplary service in support of trees and forestry activities in Northeast Nebraska."

"The initiative she's taken to promote forestry issues, and the enthusiasm she has for trees are the reasons she received the award," according to Gary L. Hergenrader, state forester.

Mrs. Hoag was nominated for the award by Steve Rasmussen of Wayne, district-extension forester who is based at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord.

Rasmussen said Mrs. Hoag is the first journalist to earn the State Forester's Award since the inception of the award in the early 1980's.

Hergenrader said the award isn't given on a regular basis but only when an especially deserving nomination is submitted. Mrs. Hoag received her award, an engraved Nebraska-shaped walnut plaque, during the annual fall convention of Nebraska Press Women in Valentine.

Mrs. Hoag was also recently cited by the Nebraska Leadership Education/Action Development (LEAD) program for its annual LEAD alumni salute. The annual report noted that "her motivation and desire to champion Nebraska agriculture and its people exhibits leadership qualities of vision, commitment and productivity. Communicating agriculture's story enlightens the urban audience and bridges an increasing gap of information between producer and consumer."

She graduated from the LEAD program in 1989 as a member of LEAD VII.

Export numbers jump as South Korean market opens

Exports of U.S. pork jumped 71 percent during the first five months of 1995, compared to the same period a year earlier. At the same time, pork imports dropped 17 percent. As a result, the United States became a net pork product exporter for the first time in more than 43 years.

To further enhance the export potential of the U.S. pork industry, on July 20, the United States and South Korea signed an agreement to resolve the long-standing trade dispute that has seriously disrupted U.S. red meat exports, says Al Tank, vice president of public policy and trade for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC).

The agreement is expected to help boost U.S. red meat exports to South Korea as high as $240 million next year (consisting of one-third pork and two-thirds beef). South Korea has the potential to be a huge market for U.S. pork and beef given that per capita consumption of both is twice that of the leading importer, Japan.

"Opening new markets for U.S. pork producers and expanding foreign trade are critical to the future growth and profitability of the U.S. pork industry," Tank says.

"Thanks to passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), the U.S. pork industry is well positioned to triple its exports over current volumes and values by the year 2000."

For January through May of this year, the United States exported 307.3 million pounds of pork, compared to 108.1 million pounds for the same period in 1994.

Pork imports to the United States during the first quarter were 285.6 million pounds.

Significant export growth during the first five months of 1995 occurred in Japan, Russia, Canada and South Korea as a result of the Export Enhancement Program (EEP), weakness in the value of the dollar and abundant pork supplies, according to Tank.

From January through May, the United States exported 127 million pounds of pork to Japan, compared to about 90 million pounds for the same period in 1994.

Did You Know?

China is the number one producer and consumer of fresh pork in the world.

Did You Know?

In 1994, the U.S. exported 178,670 metric tons of fresh, frozen and processed pork valued at $550.9 million.

Nation's pork producers join forces, boost market

The nation's pork producers are investing $39.6 million this year in programs to strengthen the position of pork in the marketplace and to expand and develop markets for pork products in this country and foreign markets.

Money for pork promotion, research and consumer information programs comes from a national legislative checkoff program that started in 1986. Producers selling breeding stock, feeder pigs or market hogs, as well as importers of hogs and pork products invest .45 of one percent of the market value (45 cents per $100 value) through the checkoff program.

The National Pork Board currently contracts with two organizations, the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) and the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, to carry out specific programs.

NPPC coordinates national product promotion and marketing efforts in addition to production research and producer education projects. The checkoff program has enabled the pork industry to establish pork as a versatile, nutritious protein alternative to consumers, thanks to the highly successful Pork, the Other White Meat, national advertising campaign which includes network television, radio and magazine ads. A new phase of the advertising campaign, launched during the 1995 Super Bowl, is Taste What's Next. It is positioning pork as the next big food trend of the 1990's.

Consumer information programs alert food editors across the United States to the nutritional value and versatility of today's leaner pork. Checkoff funds are being in-

October is Pork Month

Since 1972, the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) has celebrated October as National Pork Month. That's because it traditionally is the time of the year when more pork products are available for consumers at the meat case.

"This year will be no exception to the tradition of having a plentiful supply of pork. Pork production during the fourth quarter will be slightly small than 1994's record. Pork cuts should be a good value for consumers this fall and winter," according to Steve Meyer, director of economics for the NPPC.

Pork continues to be promoted throughout the year in the nation's supermarkets and restaurants. Increasingly, pork promotions are conducted in cooperation with a complimentary product, such as mustard or salad dressing.

As part of the pork industry's advertising strategy that targets special event television programming such as the Super Bowl, NPPC will be a sponsor of "The Barbara Walters Special" for the 1995-96 television season, according to Michele Hanna, NPPC director of advertising. Pork commercials will air during two specials in November and December. Pork commercials will also be seen during three more specials scheduled during the first three quarters of 1996.

vested in research and education programs that will have a positive impact on the future direction of the pork industry in such areas as genetics, meat science, animal care, nutrition and the environment.

The U.S. Meat Export Federation assists NPPC in maintaining and developing foreign markets for U.S. pork. Checkoff-funded promotions in foreign countries emphasize the United States as a reliable source of high-quality pork products.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board's Pork Industry Group (PIG) coordinates informational programs aimed at health care professionals and schools. It also conducts human nutrition and product research.

Checkoff-funded programs are conducted at the local and state level as well as national. State pork producer associations will collectively receive about $7.5 million this year to spend on promotion, consumer information and research projects in their respective states.

Pork press on the way

By Cheryl Alberts
IANR News Writer

A new swine nutrition publication with a familiar format is expected to be available later this fall, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln swine specialist.

The particulars about swine nutrition are increasingly important as pork production becomes more sophisticated - lower-profit margined, said Duane Reese. That's one reason the new University of Nebraska/South Dakota Swine Nutrition Guide was developed.

"When in a low-margin business, you have to be very particular in choosing a feeding strategy," Reese said. Those strategies, described in the publication, include phase feeding and split-sex feeding, as well as matching diets to specific production situations.

One nutritional issue developed in the last five years is formulating diets based on muscle deposition, or lean-growth rate, Reese pointed out. Also, more information is available on vitamin and mineral sources, so producers and their veterinarians can make better purchasing decisions.

The new publication will help those willing to make changes in their operations to ensure their survival in the pork industry.

"It's for pork producers who are desiring to make the necessary changes in their operations and way of doing things to be part of the industry in the next century," noted the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist. Using the guide, veterinarians also will be better prepared to advise producers on matters related to nutrition.

Reese encouraged pork producers and veterinarians to use the new publication as a tool in working closely with feed industry personnel.

"We see feed industry personnel playing a valuable role in implementing the technology that's discussed in this publication," Reese said.

The publication will cover topics such as:

- upgraded nutrient recommendations

- for all traditional classes of swine. Additional recommendations are provided for breeding boars and 2-week-old weanling pigs.

- nutrient recommendations expressed on a dietary concentration basis and amount consumed per day.

- acceptable ranges for vitamin and trace mineral additions.

- a review of many feed additives so good buying decisions can be made.

- how to use the fat-free lean index on packer kill sheets to design diets for growing-finishing pigs.

The publication is a joint effort between two universities, with swine experts from both NU and SDSU contributing. In addition, the guide has been extensively reviewed by people in the pork industry.

The new publication is expected to be available in November 1995 as EC 95-273. It replaces EC210, Swine Diet Suggestions. However, the same question-and-answer format will still be used.

15,10-year-olds getting early start in pig business

Jason and Matt Habrock of Emerson have learned a lot from their dad about farming. So much so that now the two boys have their own networking arrangement where they own a ten sow farrow-to-finish hog operation and they contract with a neighboring farmer to feed out feeder pigs for them.

The hog operation belongs to 15-year old Jason as his FFA project. Ten-year-old Matt receives 10 percent of the profits in return for labor. When Jason graduates from high school, Matt will buy out the business and operate under the same scenario with their younger sister.

Jason and Matt follow the examples of their father, watch the market daily and use futures and options to lock in profits for their business. Jason and Matt, sons EJ and Nancy Habrock, know the workings of the livestock futures and options markets like it was part of their daily chores, because it is.

Their father is a firm believer in risk management. He's been actively marketing livestock using futures and options for the past six years. "We haven't always had livestock options, but now that we do, it's become a valuable tool in our operation," the elder Habrock said.

Farmers have long heard about the importance of effective marketing, but now, as price margins narrow for all segments of the industry, using risk management tools has become even more important.

According to Al Wellman, UNL Extension Livestock Marketing Specialist, there are many marketing alternatives which can be used quite effectively by livestock producers to protect themselves against changing prices.

Some of these tools, such as hedging, livestock options, forward contracting and group marketing are described in a producer education video on marketing being produced by the Nebraska Pork Producers Association.

EJ Habrock, who is featured in a segment in the video, has a definite opinion about price risk management. "Don't try to hit a home run. Your goal should be to hit a single and a lot of them. You'll never go out and you'll never go broke if you always lock in a profit," he said.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF GREENVIEW FARMS

Began own herd of Purebred Hampshires in 1958.

Started Greenview Farms in 1963 with a SPF operation, where the pigs were taken from the sow under sterile conditions in a laboratory, raised in the lab for 30 days, then bought to the farm for growing and finishing.

Raised only Hampshires until 1973, then introduced Duroc's into the herd and later in 1983 started a purebred herd of Yorkshires.

At the present time am raising, Purebred Duroc's, Purebred Yorkshires, Yorkshire-Duroc Crossbreds, and Hampshire-Duroc Crossbreds, Plus Blockline Boars and Open Gilts.

On all the boars and gilts raised, we weigh each hog individually at approximately 5 1/2 months of age for backfat measurements and days to reach 240 pounds.

Approximately 15% of all breeding stock raised are checked for major disease problems at slaughter, and quarterly tests are made on the farm for pseudorabies and brucellosis.

Member of the Nebraska SPF Swine Accrediting Agency since 1963, with sales in 27 states, and foreign shipments to Korea, China, Mexico and the former East Germany.

At Greenview Farms our goal is to provide quality, performance, and herd health on all the breeding stock raised on the farm.

Co-op cleans up after furious fire in '94

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

A June 28, 1994 fire which destroyed a large portion of the Greater Northeast Nebraska Pig Co-op nearly ended the business, according to Russ Thede, general manager of the Co-op.

"We lost approximately 80 percent of the building and one-third of the hogs in the fire," Thede said.

"After the fire, the 25 stockholders got together to discuss what should be done. Some wanted to just close down and forget the whole thing, but others had too much money invested in the operation to quit, so we began rebuilding," he said.

GREATER NORTHEAST Nebraska Pig Co-op open in 1973 and stockholders come from as far north as Hartington, as far south as Clarkson, as far east as Bancroft and as far west as Winside. Thede has been manager there since April 1986.

Construction of the new buildings began in October of last year and sows were brought in in January of this year. By August, the co-op was up to full production.

Before the fire, the operation consisted of 1,000 sows. After reconstruction, the unit is now able to handle 1,200 sows at one time. The Co-op also has 60 boars at the present time but has just begun to use artificial insemination to breed the sows.

"This will help increase our efficiency because instead of being able to use a boar to breed one sow, we will be able to breed 10 sows with one boar," Thede said.

"WE FARROW and raise the baby pigs to 40 pounds. Then the stockholders receive their share of the feeder pigs to take home and raise or sell. Currently, we raise 25,000 pigs a year," Thede said.

Sows average 2.4 litter per year and are generally kept for five litters.

In addition to Thede, the Co-op employs five full-time people.

The Co-op purchases supplies from the area as much as possible. "We try to patronize the towns that our stockholders come from. We get feed from Wayne and Wisner, propane from Pilger and our veterinarian is from Laurel," he said.

DURING THE past weeks, the price for large sows has been higher than that of other hogs. According to Thede, the larger sows are used to make sausage. He said that as the pork industry moves toward more confinement, sows will not be as large.

"Because the sows are inside all the time, away from the weather, they do not need to be fed as much and will not be as big."

As the present time, a 40 pound feeder pig is worth $40, which is average for the last 10 years. "I don't expect any major changes in the hog situation in the near future. I don't think there will be any expansion by the smaller producers. Because of grain prices rising and mega producers, there will be a real squeeze on the small producer," Thede said.

"Producers need to be efficient to stay in business. In our operation, we are trying to save utility and labor expenses. We need to do what we can to save the environment and financially."

THE NEW buildings that were constructed at the Co-op have used new technology and have been upgraded to address environmental concerns. "Because of the new technology, we have been able to lower our utility bills. This is very good because it allows us to produce the hogs for less," he said.

Although the Co-op is not large by today's standards, Theede said a group of
