

K-9 drug agent hails from Wayne

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Since Aug. 1, Marco II has been on patrol throughout a 23 county area of Nebraska. He has been involved in apprehending burglary suspects, searching for missing persons and a number of drug related cases.

While these things may not seem out of the ordinary for a Nebraska State Patrol officer, Marco is not an ordinary officer. Marco is one of 15 working police dogs in Nebraska.

He is a two year old Belgian Malinois who weighs 75 pounds.

"MARCO is a dual purpose dog. His primary function is drug detection but he is trained in patrol work also. This includes such things as building searches, crowd control, basic obedience, tactical obedience, officer protection, evidence recovery, tracking, routine traffic stops, and hidden subjects," said Todd Steckelberg, Marco's handler.

Marco and Steckelberg attended eight weeks of training at the Training Academy in Lincoln. The dogs follow West German Standards and Marco has achieved the title of DPO-1 and is a member of the Royal Dutch Police.

Marco and Steckelberg serve

Troop B of the Nebraska State Patrol. "We are located in Wayne because it is a midpoint between Norfolk and South Sioux City, both of which are seeing increased numbers of drug deals," said Steckelberg.

SINCE BEGINNING work in this area, Marco has been called to service 18 times, including 10 calls from other agencies. "We assisted the Bureau of Indian Affairs in locating a handicapped person who was lost and we recently assisted the Norfolk City Police in apprehending a burglary suspect," said Steckelberg.

In the Norfolk case, one burglary suspect was apprehended as he tried to escape from the building but police could not locate the other suspect. Marco was sent in and almost immediately, he picked up a scent. Within 15 minutes he had located the suspect. I then gave directions to the subject on how to surrender, he obeyed and the situation was over," said Steckelberg.

Police dogs are trained in detainment which means they will not engage unless a perpetrator makes a move toward the dog or handler.

THE DOGS are trained to work with only one handler. The two work as a team and a bond develops between them. "The dogs go through an amazing training during which they are taught in German. For each command, we have a counter command. So, even if a suspect knew German, he or she would not know the counter command to give the dog to end the command," said Steckelberg.

One of Marco's greatest accomplishments, so far, happened on the day he graduated from the academy. A state trooper had stopped a stolen car on the Interstate. The suspect fled from the car into a housing area and the trooper lost track of him. Marco was called in. He located the scent and within a few minutes the suspect was found and apprehended.

Steckelberg has been with the Nebraska State Patrol for five years. He said that during his regular patrol, he had been doing more drug arrests. "Having Marco is just another tool for me to use in doing my job."

"I THOROUGHLY enjoy what I am doing. It is the most difficult job I have had, but also the most rewarding. We are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week," he said.

In addition, Steckelberg said Marco is a high maintenance dog, meaning he has to continually be worked with to maintain his skills.

New services at Providence

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

As Providence Medical Center Home Health celebrates the national observance of Home Health Care Week, they are working to provide even more to those they serve.

Home Health care has been available in Wayne since 1980 as a satellite of Lutheran Community Hospital. Since September of this year, Providence Medical Center Home Health has been certified by Medicare on its own as a home health care agency, no longer a satellite agency.

"At the present time, we make over 300 visits per month. This is up from the 125 visits we made each month 10 years ago," said Terri Munter, Director of Nurses for PMC Home Health.

Christmas is here

By Tom Mullen
Of The Herald

It's official. The stores are decorated, Santa's park is lit, songs of sleigh bells ring through the streets, and despite the recent snap of cold weather, the sidewalks are trafficked with warm faces.

It must be Christmas. The local merchants kicked off the season with what appeared to be a record breaking day. The Friday after Thanksgiving, traditionally one of the biggest days of the year for retailers, saw local stores filled with shoppers, many of whom stayed into the evening to watch the lighting of Santa's Park and to take advantage of the retailers' extended store hours.

Saturday too, brought more holiday shoppers, two of them, Matt Turner and Helen Zimmer, $500 winners in the first drawings of The Wayne America Great Cash Giveaway.

The cash drawings are new to Wayne, and will be held every Saturday until Christmas, with two $1,000 drawings on Dec. 23.

Local retailer Randy Pedersen, who spearheaded the program, was delighted with the initial success of the Giveaway.

"Saturday was great. We had a lot of people in our store," he said.

Pedersen noted that anyone over 18 can pick up a ticket from a participating merchant, but to win, they must be present at a

Wayne FRIENDS selected to give presentation at youth conference

Four members of the Wayne FRIENDS Drug-Free Youth Group went to Camp Calvin Crest on Oct. 30 to represent N.E. Nebraska at a youth leadership training workshop. Middle School counselor and FRIENDS sponsor Joan Sudmann said the group was contacted by Project Access Center of Prevention for Problems Associated with Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs. Project Access, along with FSU 2 and other prevention agencies, organized the conference.

Brent Meyer and Carla Kemp, high school chapter president and vice president, Molly Muir and Erin Milander, middle school chapter president and vice president, and

Ms. Sudmann attended the event.

Over 100 youth and adults from communities in eastern Nebraska were involved in the event. Eric Lee, Project Access Youth Coordinator, stated in his letter to FRIENDS that, "From my observation, FRIENDS has a very unique story. Many of the groups in the state are strictly school to school. Because FRIENDS has a middle and senior school component it allows the children to develop in the drug-free spirit."

Youth participants learned about the qualities of leadership and how to cultivate "natural highs."

Presentations by Brent, Carla, Molly and Erin about FRIENDS, which stands for Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs, were well-received. Many communities see the need for forming a drug-free group and are very interested in FRIENDS, which was formed in 1990.

Todd Steckelberg, a Nebraska State Patrol trooper, and Marco II, the newest addition to the State Patrol, pose outside their patrol vehicle. The two have done a number of drug related searches and have located missing persons and burglary suspects.

K-9

"Marco is an extremely intelligent dog, but he hasn't reached his full potential yet. We train together one day a week, for eight hours a day."

Marco has been trained to detect four types of drugs: marijuana, methamphetamines, cocaine and heroine. He has recovered a number of different types of drugs since beginning his duties. He was involved in a recent drug arrest in Wayne, searched a vehicle in Antelope County and recovered a large amount of drug-related cash in a trailer home in West Point.

"IN THE West Point incident, the officers first on the scene had placed money in four envelopes. Marco sniffed each of them and was able to locate the envelopes containing drug money. The money had the smell of drugs and he was able to determine that," said Steckelberg.

Marco and Steckelberg have given a number of presentations in the community since their arrival here. They have visited a number of schools, Wayne State College Criminal Justice department and have spoken to several civic organizations.

"I feel that Marco and police dogs in general are such an asset to police work. A dog can do the work of several officers and is definitely worth their cost. The public needs to be aware of what they can do and how they are benefitting the community," Steckelberg added.

Council awards pay hike, hears Black Knight update

City Council members unanimously agreed to give City Administrator Joe Salitros a five percent pay increase for the coming year during Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Salitros will receive $53,640 a year and will receive a $290 vehicle allowance per month, up from the $275 he is currently receiving.

Councilman Verdel Lutt questioned whether the five percent increase followed along with the general increase of the higher paid city employees.

Councilman Doug Sturm said "I know Joe (Salitros) does a good job. I'm not squabbling about his performance...The other city employees got three percent increases last year. Joe's was twice that. I feel it's time to slow down on these increases."

After discussion, it was determined that other city employees had received a two percent cost of living pay increase and a three percent raise, bringing the total pay increase to five percent.

In other action, the council heard from Black Knight owner Nick Sieler who reported on the progress of the demolition of the former Black Knight building.

"All that is left of the Black Knight is one-fourth of the basement flooring that is 50 feet wide and 150 feet deep. It has been cut up but needs to be filled in. However, our payload is down at the present time," Sieler said.

"The engineer that we got our demolition bond from said that the front wall is okay, but once we fill in the basement, it will trap water, so it has to come down also. When the store fronts on this block were built, they were all tied together," he added.

Councilman Ralph Barclay asked when the demolition would be complete.

Sieler responded, "I wish it would have been 45 days ago. It's no big secret, we were underinsured. Everything is gone that's going to be a problem to anyone else. The engineer has told us that one day of work and the front wall is gone."

tional and physical therapy. Frequently, nurses have to assess the reasons for health care problem and work with families in determining how to handle these problems, whether it be to stay home with a caretaker, nursing home placement or hospice care.

HOME HEALTH Care situations are generally temporary. "We provide care until the patient is stable. However, there have been instances, because of medical necessity and inability of the patient to get to their physician, that we have had patients for as long as 10 to 12 years," Mrs. Munter said.

Currently there are four registered nurses, Mrs. Munter, Kathy Geier, Donna Jacobsen and Betty Greiner, and three licensed practical nurses, Jean Thede, Tracy Keating and Carol Rempfer, providing care through PMC Home Health Care. In addition, Jean Kinney serves as the Director of Hospice and is the Operations Manager of Home Health.

The agency serves the community of Wayne as well as patients with a 30 mile radius of Wayne, including Carroll, Winslow, Wisner, Wakefield, Emerson, Pilger, Allen, Laurel, Belden, Dixon Concord and Pender. Home Health Care nurses are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

HOME HEALTH Care is reimbursed by Medicare and Medicaid, and most insurance companies are now including home health care in their benefits due to the changes in the medical field.

Patients can be referred to Home Health Care by any physician. "Everything we do has to be approved by a physician. If we see something unusual, we call the physician. We have had very good support from our doctors," Mrs. Munter said.

Wildcats fall to Jackrabbits

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne State turned the ball over 26 times and committed 29 fouls, allowing South Dakota State to score 32 points from the free throw line, as the Wildcats lost 86-64.

"Our inability to take care of the basketball cost us the game," said Head Coach Greg McDermott. "Our mistakes led to some easy opportunities for them and against a quality team like South Dakota State, you can't afford to do that. Anytime you give a good basketball team free opportunities, whether it's a layup as a result of a turnover or a free throw as a result of a foul, you're going to have a hard time winning the basketball game."

McDermott's players also realized that they were not in the right frame of mind.

"We just came out and weren't ready to play," said Junior guard Mike Fitzner. "Our heads weren't in the game. We just didn't take care of the ball. We had 20 turnovers in the first half and that's too many for an entire game. We weren't tough enough to handle their pressure defense. They created most of their offense off of our turnovers."

Wayne State was down by as many as 16 in the first half and 12 second half before cutting the lead to five with 4:19 left in the game.

"I thought Chad Nelson came out and played pretty good offensively," said McDermott. "He hit some big shots that got us back in the game, but unfortunately all the energy we used to get back in the game left us a little tired when we needed to make a run to take the lead," said McDermott.

Allen Cheek and Nelson each dumped in 17 points to lead the team. Cheek grabbed eight rebounds, while Nelson had seven. Fitzner scored six points and Jason Diaz, Justin Malcom and Jaime Jones each had five.

The Wildcats begin a four game road trip on Saturday, when they travel to Joliet, Ill. to take on the College of St. Francis. Last year the Fighting Saints beat WSC 74-71 on a last second shot. Wayne State will come back the very next day to take on Upper Iowa at Fayette, Ia. Next Tuesday,

Wayne State splits at Drury Classic

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne State College defeated Southwest Baptist 95-85 last Friday in their opening game at the Drury College Classic in Springfield, Mo. The Wildcats hit on 56 percent of their shots, while holding the Bearcats to only 42 percent shooting. WSC was down by 10 with six minutes left in the first half before cutting the lead to 38-36 at halftime and taking the lead in the second half.

"We got off to a slow start," said Head Coach Greg McDermott, "but we stuck with our execution and I think our depth finally wore them down in the second half."

Junior Mike Fitzner drained six three-pointers and led all scorers with 25 points, while adding a team-high seven rebounds. Freshman Tyler Johnson added 13 points, six assists and one blocked shot, while classmate Chad Nelson dumped in dozen points. Junior Curt Woodin dished out eight assists and chipped in three points and six rebounds. Senior Dan Anderson contributed 10 points and Junior Allen Cheek had eight points and three steals.

On Saturday, the Wildcats faced host Drury College and were handed a 87-76 loss. Wayne State jumped out to an early 16-6 lead but the Panthers fought back, tying the game at halftime. Drury had a two point lead with six minutes to go, but the Cats could get no closer as the Panthers hit their free throws down the stretch to provide the final margin.

Fitzner led five players in double figures by hitting five of seven three for 15 points. Freshman Jason Diaz hit four of six three-pointers for 14 points. Cheek scored 13 and pulled down nine rebounds, while Woodin had eight assists. Johnson had 13 points and Nelson added 10.

The Wildcats were hurt by 29 turnovers and were whistled for 29 personal fouls.

"Our inability to defend without fouling ended up with them shooting an enormous number of free throws compared to what we were shooting," said McDermott. "That enabled them to get back in the basketball game. A lot of their offense was a result of us turning the ball over. To go on the road against a solid basketball team and turn it over almost 30 times and expect to be in the game is unrealistic. We're playing a difficult schedule right now, we're turning the ball over a lot and we're still in the games." I think that's an indication of what our potential is if we get better at taking care of the ball."

Wayne girls to tip-off season

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne High girls basketball team returns three starters and eight letter winners from last year's 11-9 team and hopes are high for a successful season this year.

The Blue Devils will have to replace the 25.2 points per game lost when Carrie Fink and Jenny Thompson graduated. Junior Katie Lutt is the teams top returning scorer (11.0 ppg) and rebounder (7.0 rpg). She also led the team last year in assists (6.0) and tied for the team lead with 15 blocked shots. Junior Melissa Weber (9.7 ppg) will get the starting nod at point guard. Senior co-captains Erica Stoltenberg (1.8 ppg, 1.2 rpg) and Corinne Langenfeld (1.2 ppg, 1.6 rpg) and junior Anne Wiseman (1.9 ppg, 4.9 rpg) round out the starting lineup.

Top players off the bench will be sophomore Molly Linstler (2.8

ppg) and junior Lacy Bebec.

"We have good team quickness, we shoot the ball pretty well and we're playing like a team," said Head Coach Roger Reikofski. "That's what we're going to try to build on. We have really good shooters, we just have to be able to move the ball quick enough to get them open."

While the Devils may have quickness and shooting accuracy on their side, the difference in the season may come down to rebounding.

The biggest key to our success this year is going to be if we can rebound," said Reikofski. "When we lost last year, most of the time it was because we didn't want to block out and rebound."

Wayne's goals for the year are to be ready to play every game, play hard in every game and have a positive team attitude all the time. If everything goes well for the team, Reikofski feels that his squad can go 14-5 or better.

"It's pretty lofty with the schedule we play," said Reikofski, "but, with a good group of kids, I think we can reach it. We'll just have to work awfully hard."

Blue Devils plan to take it one step at a time

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne Blue Devils return only one starter from last year's 9-12 boys basketball team. Ryan Pirk, Joe Lutt and Jason Carr, who combined for 50 percent of Wayne's offense and 32 percent of their rebounds, were lost to graduation, while Andy Witkowski (8.8 ppg, 5.5 rpg) was lost to foreign exchange. That leaves junior Paul Blomenkamp as the lone returning starter. Blomenkamp led the Devils last year with 15.9 points per game and 8.9 rebounds per contest.

"Our strength will be our power forward position with Paul Blomenkamp coming back," said Head Coach Rocky Ruhl. "He's a good leader, he's good with the ball in the post and he can also handle it on the outside."

Seniors Ryan Junck and Erjk Wiseman are being asked to secure the two-guard and center positions for the team.

"They played a lot of JV ball last year, did a nice job there, and have worked out pretty well so far this fall."

Ruhl is looking at a pair of sophomores to round out the starting lineup.

Justin Theede has looked pretty good at the three position and Matt Meyer is number one at point guard right now."

The inexperienced Blue Devils are looking to take this season one step at a time.

"The goal of the pre-season was to improve each day and improve with each practice and that will probably be the goal as we go through the season," said Ruhl. "We're kind of short in terms of experience, so we're looking to improve along the way and gain experience as we go. Everybody wants to have a winning record and everybody wants to go to state, but realistically I think we have to take it one game at a time."

Young wrestlers begin season

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

John Murtaugh, a product of Dana College by way of Harlan, Iowa, will start his 10th year with the Wayne High wrestling program this season. He will be assisted by Wayne native Aaron Schuett, a long-time Blue Devil assistant coach.

Murtaugh may well be facing the biggest challenge of his coaching career, albeit according to him an enjoyable one. His young Blue Devil team will consist of a lone senior, three juniors, a pair of sophomores and 13 freshmen.

Brothers Brian Campbell, a senior letterman, and Jody Campbell, who returns as the Blue Devil's lone grappler with state tournament experience after qualifying for the state meet a year ago, will be joined by junior letter winners Tyler Endicott and Jeremiah Rethwisch to provide leadership and early season guidance to Murtaugh's young charges.

Murtaugh is not bothered by having a predominantly young squad, rather he considers it a challenge to be faced.

"We have a young team," said Murtaugh, "but, it's very exciting from a coaching standpoint because they are hard workers. A lot of them are going to have to wrestle on the varsity. Quite a few of them (freshman) had good junior high careers and I think they are ready to step up to the varsity level."

The Blue Devils have returned to the Class B ranks after spending last year at the Class C level and will wrestle pretty much the same schedule as usual. The one exception is replacing the Plattsmouth Invite with a trip to Norfolk Catholic's Invite the Saturday prior to the district meet. Murtaugh felt that spending 10 days off the mat prior to district competition was too long a period, hence the schedule change.

Wayne's schedule will be tough as always. Murtaugh says he has found his wrestlers that one of their challenges is to wrestle older than their age and that this will be accomplished through hard work. Because of the Blue Devil schedule and the fact that his young wrestlers will be gaining valuable experience, Murtaugh is expecting them to be wrestling like sophomores and juniors by the end of the year.

Wayne will travel to Schuyler for District competition where Omaha Gross and Aurora will be considered as top contenders at the district level as well as the state level.

The Blue Devils open their season on the road at Schuyler Thursday night.

'Cats get comeback win

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State women's basketball team battled shooting for 23 and a half minutes on Tuesday night before catching fire for their second win of the season, 89-81 over Mt. Marty. The Cats shot only 32 percent in the first half and trailed by 15 with 16:30 left in the game, but then came to life, outscoring the Lancers 51-28 over the remainder of the game.

"We just weren't in sync at all in the first half," said Head Coach Mike Barry. "Part of it was that we weren't recovering well out of our pressure defense. They were getting some open shots and we couldn't make a shot."

Player	Points	Rebounds	Assists
Carla Schultz	7-13 3-3 20	3-4	3-4
Susie Osborn	3-8 0-0 7	3-8 3-7 9
Amy Brodersen	6-11 9-12 21
Danyel Grammer	4-6 4-7 13
LeAnn Weeks	1-2 0-0 2
Julie Heiné	0-3 1-2 1
Jenny Thompson	3-8 0-0 8
Ronice Heitz	0-3 0-0 0
Lori Zeimet	4-10 0-1 8
Totals	31-72 20-33 89

With things not looking good, the Wildcats were forced to make an adjustment.

"We switched to straight man-to-man instead of a zone trap and made them earn every shot instead of getting the open shots out of transition," said Barry. "In the second half I think the fatigue started to set in. They got tired and we turned it up. We really got some good play in our half court defense. We finally got into sync, wore them down a little bit and hit some shots."

Junior point guard Amy Brodersen led the Wildcats with 21 points, nine assists, seven rebounds and four steals. Freshman Carla Schultz poured in 20 points, while senior Danyel Grammer contributed 13. Junior Mimi Jensen had nine points, seven boards and six steals. Senior Lori Zeimet and freshman Junior Mimi Jensen fires a three-pointer during Wayne State's 89-81 win over Mt. Marty Tuesday night.

Jenny Thompson each scored eight, while senior Susie Osborn chipped in seven.

Barry was especially impressed with the play of his freshmen in the second half. Schultz scored 18 of her 20 points after intermission and Thompson hit a pair of key three-pointers in the comeback. The two freshmen hit on five of seven threes in the game.

Wayne State (2-0) travels to Omaha this weekend for tournament action. The Wildcats face Nebraska-Omaha on Friday and Minnesota-Duluth on Saturday. Next Tuesday, the Cats travel to Sioux Falls, S.D., to battle Augustana. The three game road trip should test the team before they return home for the Catbacker Classic.

"We're going to find out where we're at in our region and as a team," said Barry. "I still think we have a ways to go, but it's going to be an opportunity to see where we're at."

Lady Trojans field small team

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wakefield girls basketball team returns three starters and five letter winners off of last year's 13-8 squad and Head Coach Gregg Cruickshank hopes that will be enough for another successful season.

Juniors Alison Benson (6 ppg; 4 rpg) and Jenny Haglund (5 ppg; 4 rpg) and sophomore Kristin Preston (5 ppg; 5 apg) return as starters for a team that has no seniors. Junior Rachel Dutcher and sophomore Susan Brudigan round out the starting five. Sophomores Jennifer Simpson and Jenny Sandahl will be the sixth and seventh players off the bench, while freshman Andrea Carson, Tanya Hohn and Jennifer Roebler round out the 10 player squad.

The Lady Trojans lack both numbers and size with their tallest player at only 5'8".

"I think we have enough experience in our top five," said Cruickshank, "we just don't have any depth. If we can stay out of foul trouble I think we can compete with any of the teams we play."

Wakefield's strengths this year should be their experience, despite their youth, and the fact that they play hard and play well together. Wakefield begins play at home Thursday night against Pender.

Winside hopes to continue past success

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Wayne State graduate Paul Sok begins his 15th year as the mentor of Winside wrestling and will be assisted by former Wildcat wrestlers Jeff Gallop and Max Kant. Sok, a two-time state champion, has coached 13 individual state champions, including Kant who also won two state titles.

The Wildcats expect a continuation of past success in the upcoming season as they return nine letter winners including defending state silver medal winners Lucas Mohr and Justin Bowers.

Josh Jaeger, a three-time state qualifier and fifth place medal winner a year ago, along with Shaun Magwire, also a state qualifier, provide the Wildcats with plenty of state meet experience.

The addition of transfer student Corey Brummels, who won 22 matches for Norfolk High School last year, and the experience of returning letter winners Dave Paulson, Joe Schwedhelm, Nate Behmer, Robert Wuttler and Jeff Jacobsen make Winside a veteran wrestling squad. Freshman Ryan Krueger and Steve Rabe could also make early season contributions to Sok's team.

Winside, as usual, will rely on conditioning and technique to attain success on the mat. Going undefeated in dual meets for the year and finishing among the top five teams at this year's state tournament are goals set by Sok, that should be well within reach of an experienced Wildcat squad.

The tradition rich Wildcats, with 22 individual state champions to their credit, have also finished in the top 10 teams in the state in 22 of the last 25 state tournaments as well as accounting for an even dozen finishes in the state meet's top three teams, a record that is surpassed only by Mullen.

Sok says if the injury bug, which has affected the Wildcats in pre-season practice, stays away and if his charges can survive the month of December, where the Cats face the toughest part of their schedule prior to district and state competition, his squad should be in a good position for January and February meets.

The Wildcats open their season at the Creighton Invite on Saturday.

Hoyt takes over Winside hoops

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Coach Jim Hoyt takes over the helm of the Winside boys basketball program for the upcoming season. Hoyt, a native of Wausa, becomes the fourth head coach in the last five years for the Wildcats. A graduate of Kearney State College, he has had previous coaching experience at Correctionville, Iowa and Winnebago, Neb.

Hoyt will be joined by 21 Wildcat prospects as well as assistant coach Terry Warner of Ord who is a University of Nebraska-Kearney product.

The Wildcats, coming off of a 1-16 season, return leading scorer Jamey Holdorf, who averaged 13.4 points per game, as well as classmate Chad O'Connor with a 9.4 points per game average.

The pair of juniors will be joined by senior Greg Muidil (3.3 ppg) and sophomore Brock Shelton (1.4 ppg) as the Wildcats' only other returning letter winners. Senior Mike Kollath and sophomore Trent Suchl are also expected to make early season contributions to the team.

Hoyt, who says his team will not be very big, does not expect to spend a lot of time on the inside game, but plans on stressing transition basketball while doing a lot of running on offense.

While Hoyt feels that preseason goals are hard to set, he would like to see his players play within themselves while playing the best game they are capable of. He is hoping to get a lot of experience from a number of underclassmen and to use this season as a building experience for his young team.

Muidil and Kollath are the only seniors on this year's squad, while O'Connor and Holdorf will probably be the only junior starters for the year. Winside's roster will list nine freshmen, six sophomores and four juniors on the 21 player roster.

Wildcats looking for improvement

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Lisa Schroeder returns for her second year as Head Wildcat for the girls basketball program at Winside. Schroeder, from Oxford, Neb., and a Midland Lutheran, College graduate, will be assisted by Angie Sees from Irene, S.D., and a recent graduate of Mount Marty College in Yankton.

The Wildcats posted a 3-13 record last year, a mark Schroeder hopes to improve on this season. She feels a better season is possible if her team will take advantage of their quickness on defense.

Winside will build its offense around All-Conference and Honorable Mention All-State senior Wendy Miller at 5-10, who averaged 13 points per game last year. She will be joined by sophomore sister Jodi (4.5 ppg), who was an Honorable Mention All-Conference selection a year ago.

The Wildcats will also rely on the rebounding strength of 6-0 senior Ann Brügger, who averaged 5.6 rebounds per game last year and senior ball handler Emily Deck (2.5 ppg) who returns to her point guard position for Schroeder's team. Deck does a good job of taking charge of the offense according to Schroeder.

Schroeder expects contributions from Monica Sievers, a 5-2 senior, and sophomore Mandi Topp and freshman Amy Riley, a pair of 5-7 Wildcats.

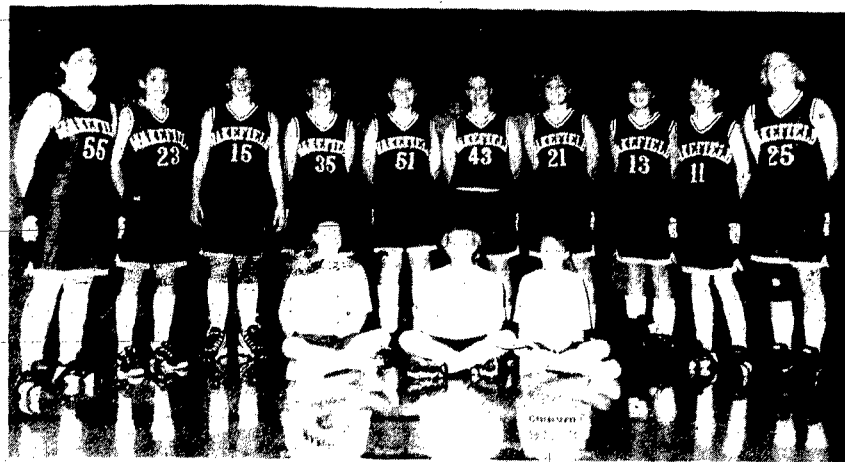

Winside should be able to go from eight to 10 players deep this year Schroeder says. She feels the team's strength is great speed that they can take advantage of especially on defense. She does have some concerns about the offense. Schroeder says she needs more scoring punch than one or two players and stresses the need for consistency in all phases of the game from everyone. She feels the potential for leadership exists and is looking for a leader to step forward.

Winside opens their season at Allen Thursday night.

Bears will wrestle with Randolph

By Lee Koch
For the Herald

Few people outside of family, friends, coaches and administrators are aware of the fact that Laurel-Concord has 10 student athletes involved in high school wrestling — a program that is in its fourth year of competition.

The problem is called co-op whereby the Bears spent the first two years as part of the Wayne High School program and spent last year on the mats with the Randolph High School wrestling squad.

There is an advantage to this situation as senior Steve Keil and sophomores Jon Marburger and Aaron Diediker were double letter winners in the mat sport a year ago. Each of these athletes was awarded and "R" for Randolph and an "L" for Laurel.

The squad consists of seniors Keil and Vicente Neto, who are joined by a supporting cast of six sophomores and two freshmen. Laurel-Concord wrestlers are provided nightly transportation to and from Randolph for practice.

The lower classmen could provide a nucleus for the start of Bear teams of the future. According to Athletic Director Rick Petri, the possibility of adding wrestling to the Laurel-Concord sports scene is currently being looked into by concerned parties.

The Randolph/Laurel-Concord co-op results in the team being assigned to Class B in wrestling and will compete in the District B-3 tournament at Central City where host Central City and always tough Albion are considered the district's strongest preseason teams. The squad will open their season on Saturday at the Creighton Invitational.

Depth should help Lady Bears

By Jeremy Buss
For the Herald

The Laurel-Concord Lady Bears will begin the 1995-96 season looking to improve on last season's 12-10 record. Laurel returns eleven letter winners, including all five starters from last season.

"Depth and experience will play a big factor for us" says coach Rick Petri.

The team will be anchored by seniors Gina Monson, Cathy Mohr a three year starter for the Bears, Heather Cunningham, and six foot one inch Penny Stone. Also returning is six foot junior Becky Schroeder, who led the team in scoring with a 14 point average and rebounding, hauling in nine per game. Schroeder also earned all state honorable mention and all conference honors. Over the summer she played on the Nebraska girls all star team which won the national championship.

Laurel faces a tough schedule enroute to improving their 12-10 record. "The conference (NENAC) is going to be tough and we play several other quality opponents" says Petri.

The Lady Bears face Crofton, last years conference champion in their second game of the season. Laurel will also have to face perennial powers such as Wayne, Battle Creek, and Wisner-Pilger.

The Bears open the season

Thursday, Nov. 30 at Coleridge and then at home on Friday, Dec. 1 where they will take on Crofton.

Bears aim for repeat title

By Jeremy Buss
For the Herald

The Laurel Concord men's basketball team enters the season looking to repeat last year's C-2 state championship season.

Two starters, both seniors, Tyler Erwin and Rich Rasmussen, who both averaged six points and four rebounds will anchor the Bears. Seven other letter winners including three other seniors; Danny Peters, Kyle Macklin, and Tyler Nixon also return from last year's championship team.

Experience will also be a benefit on the men's team, along with some quickness and endurance.

"We will be a good shooting team and our quickness will allow us to run some and extend full court pressure," says coach Clayton Steele.

The Bears conference schedule will be a tough one with many of the teams returning large numbers of players from last year.

"It is going to be a tough year," says Steele. "It should be a balanced year in the conference because all the teams have people returning."

Laurel will try to get by a tough Crofton team in their season opener on Friday, Dec. 1. The four game marathon begins at 4:00 with the men playing at approximately 8:00.

The team then travels to Winside on Tuesday, Dec 5.

Allen girls set to take flight

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Coming off a 16-6 season a year ago, the Allen Eagles girls basketball team have high expectations for the upcoming year. The daughter-father combination of Lori Koester and Gary Erwin handle the coaching duties for a squad that has only a dozen girls on the team and only three returners with varsity experience.

Senior Abbey Schroeder and juniors Shannyn Moran and Mindy Plueger return from the varsity squad and will be relied heavily upon to lead the team. Schroeder averaged 12 points per game last year, while Moran and Plueger combined for about a dozen points and rebounded well for the Eagles. "I think we'll have a real strong inside game with Mindy and Shannyn returning," said Koester, "and Abbey's a real good shooter. Defense is going to be the key to this team because we're not very deep."

Junior Jaime Kluever and senior Andrea McGrath will battle for the point guard position and junior Amanda Mitchell will also see significant playing time.

Other members of the squad include Wendi Schroeder, Lisa Creamer, Jenny Sachau, Tiffany McAfee, Carrie Geiger and April Sachau.

"We have high hopes," said Koester. "We'd like to do well in our conference and go as far as we can. We just have to take it one game at a time and see where we can go."

Allen opens the season Thursday night at home against Winside.

Wakefield's expectations are high

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wakefield boys basketball team has high expectations for the 1995-96 basketball season. The Trojans had a record of 13-9 last year and were Clark Division co-champions, but lost to Laurel in the district finals. The 10 seniors a year ago hope to take the next step to the state tournament.

"Every team's goal is a state tournament," said Head Coach Brad Hoskins, "but, really our goals are improvement, 100 percent effort, and doing the little things right. If you're going the little things and giving a good effort, then we're hoping the wins are going to come." Wakefield returns 12 lettermen and three starters from a year ago. All-Conference senior Justin Dutcher returns at the off guard and brings with him over 40 percent career shooting from behind the three-point arc.

"He's probably one of the best three-point shooters in the area," said Hoskins.

Senior Tory Nixon will handle the ball at the point once again.

"Tory Nixon is a real streaky type shooter," said Hoskins. "He might miss his first six shots, but he's going to keep shooting and shoot himself out of stumps."

Wes Blecke returns at the center position and Mike Rischmueller, who got a few starts last year, will help out in the post. Travis Birkley will fill in at the small forward position and Cory Coble will be the backup point guard. Josh Snyder, a transfer from Allen, Mike White and Matt Peterson will also see significant playing time.

"We've got a lot of kids," said Hoskins. "We almost have a problem of having too many kids. We have kids that have been in the program a long time. They're used to playing together. They're an unselfish bunch and they want to succeed. If anything is driving us right now it's desire."

Two receive Scout awards

Two Laurel Boy Scouts will receive their Eagle Scout Awards Sunday at 2 p.m. at the United Methodist Church in Laurel.

Recipients of the award will be Joshua Anderson and Jeff Erwin of Troop 176, Diamond-Dick District Mid-America Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The award is sponsored by the Laurel Lions Club.

The Eagle Award is the highest award a Boy Scout can attain. It requires many hours of public service and numerous merit badges of skill awards.

Anderson is the son of Gary and Charlotte Anderson. He joined Troop 176 in 1988 at the age of 11. He has attended Mid-America Council Scout Camp four years and has held offices of Patrol Leader and Assistant Senior Patrol Leader.

Highlights of his scouting years include canoeing the Niobrara River, Rendezvous at Camp Butterfield, Lewis & Clark Frontiersman Campout, High Adventure trips to Colorado Rockies (backpacking) and the Boundary Waters of Minnesota (canoeing and fishing).

For his Eagle Scout project, Anderson organized the tearing out of the south fence of the Laurel Cemetery, leveling the ground and building a new fence.

After graduation, Anderson plans to attend college.

Erwin is the son of Jim and Carla Erwin. He joined Troop 176 in 1988 at age 11. He attended Mid-America Council Scout Camp four years. He has held offices of Patrol Leader and Senior Patrol Leader.

He has participated in numerous campouts including canoe trips on the Niobrara River, Lewis & Clark

Josh Anderson, left, and Jeff Erwin will receive the Boy Scout's highest honor, the Eagle Scout Award, during ceremonies on Sunday.

Frontiersman Campout, Rendezvous at Camp Butterfield, backpacking in the Colorado Rockies and canoeing the boundary waters of Minnesota.

For his Eagle Scout project, Erwin organized the scraping, renovation and painting of the north fence of the Laurel Cemetery.

After graduation, Erwin plans to attend college.

The public is invited to attend the awards ceremony.

Eagles to rely on defense

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Head Coach Doug Schnack returns for his second year at the helm of the Allen Eagles boys' basketball team. Last year Allen suffered through a tough season, winning only one of 17 games. Schnack returns three starters and six letter winners off that team, which hopes for improvement.

"We're hoping to give a few teams a scare," said Schnack, "because most teams look past us. We'd like to win four or five games."

Senior Scott Williams (13.4 ppg, 3 rpg) and juniors Michael Blohm

(10.8 ppg, 6 rpg) and Jeremy Kumm (3 ppg, 2 spg) are the returning starters for the squad. Junior Brad Smith and sophomore Corey Prochaska round out the starting five, while sophomores Erik Olson and Philip Morgan will probably see significant playing time off the bench.

Schnack says that this year's team must rely on their defense to win games.

"We don't have much height," said Schnack. "We hope we can cause a lot of turnovers and play a strong man-to-man defense to keep the game's low scoring. Everyone has been giving 100 percent in practice and that's one of our goals."

Allen opens the season at home Thursday night against Winside.

N.E.braskan serves on Navy ship

Keeping our nation's Naval Reserve forces trained and ready when called upon is the primary job of Navy Petty Officer Jason Gatzemeyer, and his shipmates onboard the U.S. Navy frigate USS Antrim.

Gatzemeyer, son of Dennis and Nancy Gatzemeyer of Bancroft, helps train Navy reservists who spend two or more weeks of active-duty time onboard Antrim, a guided missile frigate homeported in Pascagoula, Miss.

Married to the former Staci McFarlane, daughter of Mike and Marlene McFarlane of Emerson, Gatzemeyer said he plans to make the Navy a career.

Antrim exemplifies the "One Navy" concept of active duty sailors and reservists working side by side to accomplish the Navy's mission.

A radioman, Gatzemeyer operates the radio and satellite communications systems onboard the ship, transmitting and receiving messages for fast, accurate communications between his ship and shore installations and aircraft.

"I'm in charge of all communication onboard USS Antrim," he said. "Without me, we wouldn't be able to talk to anyone if we were at sea."

The 22-year-old third class petty officer takes his job seriously, because he knows his ship has a serious mission.

Antrim is a combatant ship designed to protect amphibious expeditionary forces, underway replenishment groups and merchant convoys from undersea attack. In addition to torpedoes, frigates carry helicopters that have sonar and torpedo capability to expand the ship's reach.

Gatzemeyer said he's participated in a number of major exercises onboard USS Antrim.

"I've been involved in Canadian fleet operations, Operation Strong Resolve and a Marine warfare exercise," he said. "But crossing the Arctic Circle and earning my Enlisted Surface Warfare Specialist pin are my two most exciting experiences."

He had to demonstrate a working knowledge of all of his ship's systems, including operations, engineering and navigation, to qualify for the pin.

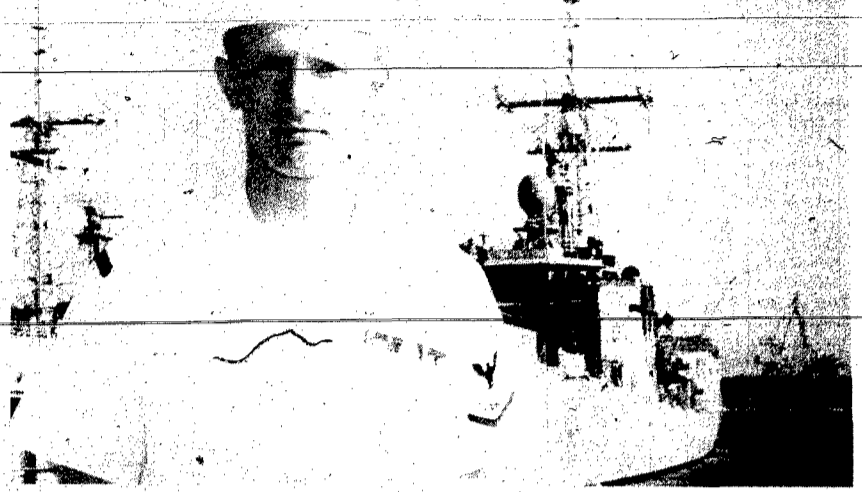

A 1992 graduate of Bancroft-Rosalie Community School, Gatzemeyer said he joined the Navy for the opportunity to travel. But three years later, after having served onboard two warships, he said he's done that and a lot more.

"I chose the Navy so I would have a better chance to see the world. (So far), I've visited Norway, Ireland and Canada.

"But the Navy makes you work under pressure, and you learn to do so many things at one time. I've developed a sense of responsibility for my actions and I've learned how to be a leader."

But above all, Gatzemeyer said teamwork is the most important concept he's learned. Based on his own experiences, he offers good advice to junior sailors just starting out.

"Trust your shipmates and learn responsibility," he said.

Bartling appointed Development Director at Providence Medical

Sandra Bartling has been appointed as Development Director for the Providence Medical Center Foundation in Wayne announces Lowell Johnson, president of the Foundation's board of directors. "Sandra Bartling has served as an advertising sales representative for KTCH Radio in Wayne since 1988. She has other experience in the media field, and has served as a housewife, mother and is an active community volunteer," said Johnson.

Sandra Bartling

"The Board of Directors of the Providence Medical Center Foundation, in their strategic planning, is launching a long-term fund development program to secure and ensure the financial future for healthcare in this region," said Johnson. Access to care is so vital for rural Nebraskans, said Johnson. "Physicians often speak of the 'golden hour'... that first hour of critical care in which the accessibility of healthcare is the patient's best friend," said Marcie Thomas, Administrator of Providence Medical Center. "The goal of our Medical Center is to provide healthcare access... access for patients, their families and physicians... for access is one of the keys to raising the health status of the region," Thomas said. "When it comes to healthcare, there's no place like home," said Thomas.

Providence Medical Center Foundation points out that there are many who benefit from healthcare access. Patients benefit by having the care they need right here at home. They benefit by not having to be transported great distances for their care, being uprooted from home, family, friends and loved ones. Recovery is often quicker at home base in familiar surroundings and time lost from work is less when care is delivered nearer to home. The patient's family and loved ones benefit by being able to be with the patient throughout the hospitalization period, and do not have to suffer the drain of physical, emotional and financial resources by traveling to and from far-distant locations to be with the patient. Finally, the regional community benefits by having dollars from patient families and visitors drawn into the local economy, rather than being exported out to far-away places.

"Sandra Bartling will work with donor prospects on many exciting ways in which they can provide charitable gift dollar support to the hospital," Johnson said. He points out that the Foundation will offer a full array of 'planned giving' instruments through which donors can maintain lifetime income rights on their gift money, while gaining strong tax advantages at the same time. "We offer ways donors can make charitable gifts to the hospital that are good for them and good for us," said Johnson, "and the whole purpose of our mission is to insure that healthcare remains financially strong and accessible for the people of this region... today and tomorrow."

For more information, call Sandra Bartling, Director of Development, Providence Medical Center Foundation, Wayne, 375-3800, Ext. 17.

N.E.braskans on radio staff

Two area students attending Hastings College are among 50 students who are serving on staff positions for KFKX Radio, the on-campus radio station at Hastings College.

Tammy Maul of Pender is serving as news director at the station and Susie Enz of Wayne is the sports director.

Northeast Community College's physical therapist assistant program, which is designed to meet the current shortage of physical therapist assistants in Nebraska, has received national accreditation for five years from the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education.

"Accreditation is important to students and their future employers," said Anita Brennehan, chair of Northeast's health, science and drafting division. "It assures employers that our graduates have met strict national standards of excellence in the profession. Students must be graduates of an accredited program to be eligible to take the state licensing exam."

Northeast will graduate its first group of students from the program on Sunday, Dec. 3 on 1:30 p.m. The 16 students include Chandra Schultz of Battle Creek, Tammy Dvorak of Dodge, Elizabeth Johns of Fremont, Susan Benton of Grand Island, James Havlena of Lincoln, Amy Dzingle of Loup City, Kristine Schutt of Meadow Grove, Shelley Van Ackeren, Pat Baumann, Jackie Downey, Kathleen Kesselberg, Tracy Rocwell, and Stacey Springer, all of Norfolk; Jacque Houska of Pierce, JoAnn Throener of Stanton and Dawn Ellis of Wayne.

Northeast Community College currently boasts the only accredited physical therapist assistant program in the state, and the only one in the Nebraska Community College System.

Northeast's physical therapist assistant program came about from a needs assessment survey done by Brennehan in 1991, under the direction of Northeast president emeritus Dr. Robert Cox, of health care agencies throughout the region.

Results showed that a physical therapist assistant program was in demand the most. Northeast's Board of Governors approved development of the program in December 1991.

"The program is designed in a two-year format," said Marvin Hall, director of Northeast's physical therapist assistant program, "which consists of the freshman year of pre-requisite classes open to anyone interested in exploring a physical therapist assistant career, and a sophomore year which covers the para-professional physical therapist assistant courses."

Physical therapy involves direct patient care of individuals who experience temporary or permanent disability due to pain, injury, disease or birth defects, said Hall.

According to the American Physical Therapy Association, a physical therapist assistant is a para-professional health worker who works under the direction and supervision of a licensed physical therapist.

The duties of a physical therapist assistant include assisting the physical therapist in evaluating the patient, implementing treatment programs according to the plan of care, training patients in exercises and activities of daily living, conducting treatments, using special equipment, administering modalities and other treatment procedures, reporting to the physical therapist on the patient's response and documenting patient treatment and response.

"Graduates cannot practice as physical therapist assistants until they are certified or licensed, depending upon which state they reside in," added Hall. "They must have a supervising physical therapist. They cannot practice physical therapy alone as an assistant."

"Since Northeast Community College is located in Northeast Nebraska, we try to place students in rural settings for the majority of their clinical time," said Tere Maas, the program's academic coordinator of clinical education. "Students may also be placed in larger cities for experience and exposure to an urban setting."

In addition to teaching, Maas is responsible for coordinating and approving the clinical sites where students will do field work for one week in May, three weeks in September and two five-week sessions in October and November.

Hall said many precise steps had to be taken on the program's road to accreditation.

The steps included contacting the Department of Accreditation of the American Physical Therapy Association and informing them that a physical therapist assistant program director had been hired, and that Northeast Community College intended to move forward with the accreditation process, said Hall.

Northeast then had to obtain candidacy for accreditation by submitting a declaration of its intent to establish a program, said Hall.

The college then submitted a progress report detailing what steps it had taken.

Northeast Community College student Dawn Ellis of Wayne performs an ultrasound as part of her clinical affiliation at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. Ellis will be among the first 16 graduates of Northeast's physical therapist assistant program on Sunday which recently received national accreditation.

After a visit by a three-member evaluation team, the program was then granted candidacy on March 2 this year.

A self-study report was then compiled by Hall, and his staff which detailed how the program had met the accreditation standards. It was then submitted to the American Physical Therapy Association for approval and national accreditation for five years was granted in early November.

"It feels wonderful to finally receive accreditation," said Hall. "It's the culmination of two and a half years of hard work by several people who gave a lot of time and effort towards this achievement. I need to give credit to the program's advisory committee, my faculty, the clinical faculty, Mrs. Anita Brennehan, Tere Maas and the entire college for supporting the development of the program."

For more information on Northeast's physical therapist assistant program, contact Marvin Hall, 402-644-0667.

How to handle a strong-willed child

Question: We have an extremely defiant child who has demanded his own way since the day he was born. He opposes any boundaries or limits we set for him. Can you tell me why I feel so guilty?

Answer: Your guilt is very common among parents of strong-willed children, and for good reason. You are engaged in an all-out tug-of-war that leaves you frustrated and fatigued. You and your husband had planned to be such loving and effective parents, reading fairy tales to your pajama-clad angels by the fireplace. But reality has turned out to be quite different, and that difference is depressing to you.

Furthermore, I have found that parents of compliant children don't understand their friends with defiant youngsters. They intensify guilt and anxiety by implying, "If you would raise your kids the way I do, you wouldn't be having such awful problems." May I emphasize to both groups that the willful child can be difficult to control even when his parents handle him with great skill and dedication.

Dr. Dobson
Answers Your Questions

Question: I am a teacher in junior high school. My biggest problem is getting these students to bring books, paper and pencils to class with them. What do you suggest?

Answer: I faced an identical problem during the years I taught in junior high school, and I finally reached a solution that is based on the certainty that young people will cooperate if it is to their advantage to do so.

After beginning and pleading with them unsuccessfully, I announced one more that I was no longer concerned whether they brought their pencils and books to class. I had 20 extra books and several boxes of sharpened pencils which they could borrow. If they forgot to bring these materials, all they had to do was ask for a loan. I would not gnash my teeth or get red in the face; they would find me willing to share my resources.

However, there was to be one hitch: The borrowing student would have to forfeit his seat for that one-hour class. He would have to stand by his chair while I was teaching, and if any written work was required, he had to lean over his desk from a standing position.

As you might imagine, the students were less than ecstatic about this prospect. I smiled to myself as I saw them racing around before class trying to borrow a book or a pencil. I did not have to enforce the standing rule very often because the issue had become the pupils' campaign rather than mine. Once a week or so, a student would have to spend the hour in a vertical position, but that youngster made certain he did not blunder into the same situation twice.

This principle has broader applicability: Give children maximum reason to want to comply with your wishes. Your anger is the least effective of all possible reasons.

Question: Neither my husband nor I feel comfortable discussing sex with our children. Must I force myself to talk about this difficult subject?

Answer: Despite the desirability of sex education being handled by highly skilled parents, we have to face the fact that many families feel as you do. They are admittedly unqualified and reluctant to do the job. Their own sexual inhibitions make it extremely difficult for them to handle the task with poise and tact.

For families that cannot teach their children the details of human reproduction, there must be outside agencies that will assist them in this important function. It is my firm conviction that churches are in the best position to provide that support for its members, since it is free to teach not only the anatomy and physiology of reproduction, but also the morality and responsibility of sex. Unfortunately, most churches are also reluctant to accept the assignment, leaving the public schools as the only remaining source.

25 biggest wastes of your money

"The Christmas spending season is upon us. Even though credit card use has become more of the norm, as the method to pay for Christmas presents, it is not the most effective. The Christmas Clubs or money market accounts/funds at financial institutions are still one of the best ways to plan for Christmas spending. They are not as "in vogue" as credit cards because lenders to make more money off credit card use so credit cards are advertised extensively.

To start planning for next year, add up what you spend this year, then divide it among 12 months for the time periods that you can set aside money to have available for next year's Christmas spending. A similar method is to buy gifts throughout the year if you know who will be on your gift list.

Throughout the year try to avoid the following 25 biggest wastes to waste your money.

- Lotteries
- Buying a new car every few years
- "Anything 'new and improved'"
- Credit life insurance
- Investing on the advice of someone you've never met
- Fancy restaurants
- Buying something on sale that you do not need
- Courses teaching how to buy real estate for no money down
- Optional cable TV services
- Investing in something you don't understand
- Life insurance for children
- Spending vested pension benefits when you change jobs, rather than rolling them over into an IRA
- Expensive boats or recreation vehicles
- Credit card loans
- Buying property you've never seen
- Gold cards
- Lavishing expensive gifts on loved ones and friends or yourself
- Driving alone to work
- Lending money to friends
- Holding on to investments for sentimental reasons
- Sunroofs
- Designer-label clothing
- Low-interest savings accounts
- Buying anything to keep up with the Jones
- TV shopping

Ask Karen...
Q. I only wore my gown one time. Does it need to be cleaned before I put it away?
A. Only time will tell if the garment is stained, and then it's often too late. We often get prom dresses, bridesmaid's gowns and other formal wear several months after they've been worn. Stains, especially perspiration, can be harder to find and remove from delicate clothing. The sooner you have it cleaned, the better your chances of wearing the dress or perhaps selling it second hand.

RATE INCREASE

Winside residents will be seeing a $3 basic rate increase on commercial, rural and residential garbage pickup effective Dec. 1 and payable in January, 1996. Midplains Waste Management, L.L.C., has exhausted every effort to retain current costs. A number of factors have caused this increase including changes required to meet OSHA standards.

The Northeast Nebraska Interlocal Council has been studying the cash and earnings problems of Midplains for the last few months. The council investigated several other options to provide cash to Midplains for the last few months. The council investigated several other options to provide cash to Midplains instead of this increase but were not able to find a solution that was viable.

Midplains regrets this increase but they are not able to absorb a cost increase of this magnitude. Even with the increase Midplains' rates are still much lower than rates in nearby cities and counties. If you have any questions, call 1-800-337-2161.

Soup season's here

I've put on a crock pot of bean soup for supper; cold, snowy days like this always make me think of soup. We've actually been fortunate with snowfall, there isn't much; but the wind is nasty and visibility is poor.

I don't like to hear Christmas music before Thanksgiving, but I did try out the new Manheim Steamroller tape, and it's great. They'll be on channel 12 next Wednesday, the 6th; something worth staying home for. I'm taking in all the sights and sounds I can possibly squeeze in this month.

Grandma prepared Thanksgiving dinner; and it was a small group; just Mike and me, Max and Ann and baby Myles. It was followed by a game of ten-point pitch, and the Chiefs-Dallas game.

There was electricity in the air on Friday, as all eyes focused on the last Big 8 game between Oklahoma and Nebraska. I actually watched much of the game, never dreaming the Huskers would shut them out.

Then, on Saturday, I was rooting for Florida State. Consensus here says Florida looks awfully good.

Northwestern goes to the Rose Bowl for the first time since 1946, not Ohio State.

Then, there are the volleyball players to keep track of. Sounds like they are in a tough NCAA bracket.

Finally, I actually watched "Jurassic Park" last night; mainly to see our friend, Laura. Those dinosaurs did look very real, and very scary. I'm glad I didn't see it on a big movie screen.

Ann brought along the new "Miracle on 34th Street," and we also caught that this week. It has just the right touch of make-believe; and the little girl is precious.

About this time of year, I get a little sick when I see all the stores and decorations and money spent on seasonal items. Especially when I read of Cuba and Haiti and Bosnia and Nigeria, and on, and on. Dan Rather is wrong; we do worry about something besides football! So I do my thing in small ways: a gift to the Ronald McDonald house; for "Example." And a name, from the Angel Tree at church. We have a nine-year old boy this year, who needs jeans. It also mentions Power Rangers, so I'll have to investigate those guys. Hope you took time to be thankful. Happy Advent!

Hiring farm manager beneficial for absentee landowners
By Doug Peters - IANR News Assistant
Nearly 40 percent of Nebraska's agricultural land is farmed by someone other than the owner. More than a quarter of that land is managed by professional farm managers.
In some cases, the land has been inherited by a relative who has no farming background. In other instances, it may have been purchased simply as an investment.
Landowners who don't have the time, interest or experience to run a farm or keep up with technological advances and new marketing strategies might want to hire a farm manager, said Larry Bitney, farm management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.
Farm managers, like traditional family farmers, wear many different hats, Bitney said.
In addition to finding a suitable tenant for the land, he said, farm managers also keep records, market crops, purchase chemicals and equipment and maintain the buildings and property; the manager also serves as a liaison between the tenant and the landowner.
The manager's control, however, is limited by the goals of the landowner, said Doug Ducey, farm management economist (emeritus) at UNL.
"A good farm manager will seek out the purpose for which this person owns the land, and what the objectives are that they would like to see happen on this land," Ducey said.
He said objectives could vary from simply making as much money as possible, to running an environment- and conservation-minded operation, to preserving family traditions in terms of the appearance of the farm or the crops grown.
"It's up to the farm manager to try to fulfill these objectives," Ducey said.
Bitney said farm managers work for a percentage of the farm owners' gross incomes, usually between 7 percent and 10 percent. The services they provide, he said, are worth the money.
Because of farm managers' general expertise, absentee landowners "may be able to pay the manager and still make a better income than they would if they were managing it themselves," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said.
In addition, the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers (ASFMR) offers continuing education courses to keep managers up-to-date on new marketing strategies and management techniques, said Ducey, a past president and current executive secretary of the society.
Ducey said the group has around 180 members in Nebraska and over 3,000 members nationwide.
Bitney gave a few basic tips for selecting a farm manager: contact the Nebraska chapter of the ASFMR for a list of members in your area; select a few possible managers and speak to their current and past clients; and interview candidates and choose someone with the right mix of education, experience and trustworthiness.

NC convention to include issues experts new CEOs, entertainment

This year's Nebraska Cattlemen/Nebraska Cattle Women Convention and Trade Show will be anchored with a speech by Chuck Schroeder, Executive Vice President of the new National Cattlemen's Beef Association, during Monday's Hi-Pro Animal Health Luncheon. He will share his vision on how the industry can reverse the trend of its declining market share.

Nebraska Cattlemen's new executive vice president, Greg Ruchle, who will replace retiring Roy Lilly, will also be at the convention.

In addition, committee, task force and council meeting agendas involve special presentations by experts on priority issues that include: property tax reform; meat inspection reform; environmental regulations and legislation — state and national; price discovery and packer concentration.

On a lighter note, convention goers will be able to participate in a presentation by hypnotist Dr. Jim Wand.

Scheduled for Nov. 26-29, the NC/NCW Convention and Trade Show will be held in Omaha at the Holiday Inn Central Convention Center, 72nd and Grover. The convention is the one time each year cattlemen and cattlemen representing the state's largest industry and one of the nation's premiere cow and fed cattle states gather to consider issues and then set policy used in state and national legislative debates as well as the basis for responses to news media questions on issues which arise throughout the year.

The convention's general session keynote speaker will be William Perry Pendley, founder of the Mountain States Legal Foundation. He will address the environmental concerns and challenges cattlemen face like no one else can.

Cattlemen's College presentations, co-sponsored by Pfizer Animal Health and the National Cattlemen's Association, will include: The Optimum Cow — What Criteria Should She Meet?; Marketing Cull Cows; Alternative Feed Resources; Instrument Grading; International Opportunities; OSHA and You; Weather Outlook — Odds for Drought or Flood?; and Cattle CARDS — a software program which calculates the optimal endpoint for market animals.

A limited number of producers will be able to gain a new perspective on cattle feeding and marketing by participating in the Packer-Feeder Trading Game, conducted by nationally respected economist Dr. Clem Ward and his colleagues from Oklahoma State University. In the interactive game, participants play the roles of feedlot and packing plant managers, both competing for profit.

The telephone number for the Omaha Central Holiday Inn is 402-393-3950. Attendees are encouraged to ask for the NC special room rates. The Hampton Inn, which is located next to the Holiday Inn, also has a block of rooms for the NC Convention. The telephone number is 402-391-8129. For more information about the convention contact the Nebraska Cattlemen at 402-475-2333 in Lincoln, or 308-762-3005 in Alliance.

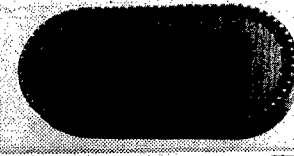

The Nebraska Cattlemen association serves as the spokesman for the state's beef cattle industry and represents 5,000 professional cattle breeders, ranchers and feeders, as well as 50 county and local cattlemen's associations. Its headquarters are in Lincoln and second office in Alliance serves cattle producers in western Nebraska.

Former Wakefield High School building

Plan focuses on, programming, finances, facilities

Nearly a year has passed since a group of volunteers formed an incorporated non-profit board to continue to manage the former Wakefield High School building which houses the Wakefield Senior Center and the Humpty Dumpty Day Care. The officially called Wakefield Family Resource Center, Inc. (WFRC), took over management of the facility on Jan. 3, 1995 and received 501-c3 tax exempt status in July.

During the year, a comprehensive plan was developed focusing on three major areas: programming, finances and facilities. During the summer, a community survey was taken and two community focus group sessions to identify programming and service needs of the families in Wakefield and surrounding communities were held. The finance committee has worked on completing a feasibility analysis of continuing to offer the day care program. The pre-school program added this fall has been popular, according to the board.

The aging high school building has been a major factor in monthly discussions because of the high utility bills, constant sewer backups, plumbing and electrical problems and water leaking through the roof. The board has had two outside assessments of the value of the current structure and the estimated cost to remodel for a more energy efficient facility and to repair or replace plumbing and electrical service. Both assessments indicated that it would be extremely cost prohibitive to remodel the current facility. One recommended trying to obtain grants and other funding to build a new handicap accessible community facility to house both the day care and senior center with a shared recreation space. Community members wishing to help with the planning process of a community facility are asked to contact Lynda Cruickshank, Kathy Skinner, Randy Lanning or Mardell Holm, who are currently serving on that task force.

The terms of several members of the board will end in December and new volunteer directors are being sought.

The board meets monthly and the position entails a lot of committee work outside of the meetings. Community members who feel they could give strong leadership for the coming year are asked to contact the current chairman, Kathy Skinner, or leave your name at the day care.

There will be a few new faces working at the day care in November. Sara Tigges, a Wayne State College elementary education student from Carroll, Iowa and Joyce Sebade of Emerson will be working part-time as teaching assistants. Lynda Cruickshank will be spending two days a week assisting with program development, publicity and grant writing.

Contributions are tax-deductible and a receipt should be requested from the directors of the day care if equipment, materials or funds are donated. Volunteers who just want to spend some time with the kids are also encouraged.

The day will be sponsoring a special holiday day care for parents who need to do holiday shopping on Dec. 7 and 16. Call Kaye McAfee or Kathy Loofe at the day care, 287-2521.

Our Savior celebrates

Our Savior Lutheran Church members celebrated Lutheran World Relief's (LWR) 50th anniversary Sun. Nov. 19. The worship service was a celebration and a culmination of several months of activity within the church.

Pastor Bill Koerber's sermon, "Reaching Out", reflected that the LWR nurtures the vision of all people living with dignity and justice and in harmony with God's creation.

A short video of the people at work within the congregation was shown by Phyllis Rahn. The video showed the sewing women tying 63 blankets, the children collecting items for 32 school kits, charity circle sewing school kit bags and eight circle groups collecting items for 32 health kits. A large selection of children's clothes, women's sweaters and men's clothes were also collected from the congregation.

Part of the celebration was Pastor Wallace Wolff sharing his experiences of LWR to about 60 WELCA women on Nov. 8. He shared his personal experience of delivering a tied blanket to a young mother in Ethiopia that was made by the women from Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord.

A total of 19 boxes were packed and a full pickup load was taken to the Norfolk Distribution point.

Between services, a video was shown to an adult forum on how LWR came about 50 years ago. Loose offerings for the day were donated to the LWR hunger program. In LWR, people are the church in action in the world.

The "Word" for the Week Living a life of love

You can argue the Ten Commandments are not binding today for Christian people or for anyone else. You can use Romans 6:14, "You are not under law, but under grace."

This is important. We do not obtain salvation by keeping the Ten Commandments. We obtain salvation through faith in Christ alone. "For by grace you have been saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works, that no one should boast" (Ephesians 2:289). So let's be clear. We are not under law as a way of salvation. Trying to keep the Ten Commandments will not get you to heaven.

On the other hand, the Bible also declares, "Do we nullify the Law through faith? May it never be! On the contrary, we establish the Law" (Romans 3:31). Although we are not under law as a way of salvation, God's Ten Commandments are still a vital part of a Godly lifestyle. Negatively, it is sin to violate the Ten Commandments. "Sin is the transgression of the law" (1 John 3:4). Positively, the Ten Commandments provide us the opportunity to show other people and to show God we love Him! "This is the love of God, that we keep His commandments; and His commandments are not burdensome" (1 John 5:3). Amazing, the Ten Commandments define both sin and love.

Smile! It's math class

Math is the subject that almost everyone loves to hate — unfortunately. While few people would boast about poor-reading skills, millions of adults are not shy about sharing their distaste and ineptitude in mathematics.

Why do so many people fear numbers? Can the cycle be broken? What, as parents, can you do to help your high schooler have a healthier attitude toward math?

No one knows for sure why math causes problems for so many people, especially females, but the phenomenon is well documented. Three out of four students graduate from high school without enough math skills to cope with either on-the-job demands for problem solving or college expectations for mathematical literacy, according to a recent National Academy of Sciences report.

While girls start off in kindergarten performing as well as boys in mathematics, by early adolescence girls start to fall behind and by high school they are, as a group, significantly behind, according to a recent U.S. Department of Education study.

Some experts theorize that boys are born with more highly developed "right brain" skills such as problem solving and spatial visualization, while girls are born with stronger "left brain" skills in reading and language. Others feel the gender differences in achievement have more to do with environment and suggest that boys are offered more encouragement and are held to a high standard of expectations in math by parents and teachers.

While the experts debate the causes, it's important that parents remember that any student — male or female — can develop a positive attitude toward math and be encouraged to feel comfortable in the subject. Girls can (and many do) go on to become high achievers in math and sciences.

It's also important to consider why math skills are critical for your child. Job opportunities in science, technology and business are growing rapidly and pay well. Even if your child doesn't become a computer scientist, the math illiterate is at a disadvantage in an increasingly high tech world.

Let's count the ways you can help reduce "math anxiety" in your high schooler:

1. Watch your own attitude. Do you groan when anyone mentions math? Do you tell stories of doing poorly in the subject or counting the minutes until math class was over? If so, you might want to curtail that habit; it reinforces in your child's mind the idea that math is something to fear and dislike. You don't have to lie about your own school performance in math, just don't be so quick to advertise any disdain you may feel.

2. Don't discriminate. If you have a daughter, be alert for subtle signals you may be giving her about math. If she does well on a test, congratulate her, but not as though it's a fluke. When she's

Getting Children Back on the Reading Track

Here's a common concern among parents: Two years ago my child couldn't get enough reading. Books were just a part of his life. But today, he's in fourth grade, and the last thing he wants to do is read! Well, believe it or not, most children start to lose interest in reading in the fourth grade. It's a sad fact, but it's true. However, you can help put your children back on the reading track. The best method is to play to your child's special interests. For instance, if your child is interested in music, go to the library and help the child pick out books relating to music. Your child can even check an album or two of music to hear at home. The point is to get your child interested in the library and reading, no matter what it takes.

Parent/Teacher Conferences

A big thank you to all parents for participating in conferences in November. The elementary school had another 100% participation. This is a great indicator how interested persons are in their children's education. Please contact the teacher immediately if you feel that another conference is needed before the end of the semester. Teachers are always interested in making sure parents understand what is occurring in their classroom. We also encourage you to visit school and see how your child is doing. Please call the school secretary to make arrangements for your visit. We're looking forward to seeing you in school.

Human-i-Tee shirts

Although sales started out slowly, middle school students sold 322 Human-i-Tee shirts making a profit of $1,127. Twenty students sold six or more shirts and have been invited to attend a pizza party sponsored by the student council. The winning homerooms will receive a pop and popcorn party, also sponsored by the student council. The orders were sent prior to the November deadline in order to receive the shirts in time for Christmas.

The money will be used to help purchase Accelerated Reading program disks for the Mac computers. All four grades in the middle school use this enrichment reading program, and the additional disks will allow more access and faster follow-up testing than was previously possible.

Thank you to all who purchased shirts from the students. You have not only helped us update our technology, but have helped to support the preservation of our environment.

Fall concert

String students presented a fall concert on Thursday, Nov. 2. Seven students in grades seven, eight and nine attended a string festival in Grand Island on Saturday, Nov. 4. Music was prepared ahead of time.

A fine concert of Baroque music was performed by over 200 string students, and conducted by J.S. Bach, a.k.a. Dr. Charles Krutz, professor at Concordia College, Seward. Sophomore Carla Kemp, viola, earned a chair in the All State Music Clinic Orchestra. The concert was in the Lied Center in Lincoln on Saturday, Nov. 18.

Students in grades 5-8 have several performances coming up. They will be at Fantasy Forest on Friday, Dec. 8 at 6 p.m. at the Armory and for the middle school Christmas play on Monday, Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the lecture hall. The fourth grade beginning class is working and learning very quickly.

Thank you to all of our students for their continued good work. The $30 rental is due anytime Symphonette resumes Friday, Dec. 8.

This year, the seventh and eighth grade students will present a Christmas performance on Dec. 18 at the Wayne High lecture hall. The twelve yuletide sketches are sure to spark your holiday spirits. Old favorites such as "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and "A Christmas Carol," as well as interviews with elves, reindeer, Mrs. Claus and the real "Boss" are included. And since no holiday performance would be complete without music, the strong and band orchestras and the choir will add enjoyment to the evening's entertainment. Mark your calendars. You won't want to miss "The Little Town of Christmas."

SCIP: School Community Intervention Program

Overheard in coffee shop, "There are kids who are headed for trouble and we know it. Some are abusing alcohol and other drugs. Some of them have serious emotional or family problems that are interfering with their ability to succeed in school. I wish there was a way to get beyond handwringing and get these kids the help they need."

Wayne Middle and High Schools have found a way to get beyond the handwringing. It is called the SCIP Team. SCIP stands for School Community Intervention Program and it has a three-fold purpose:

1. To identify students who are experiencing problems which interfere with their ability to learn and which may (or may not) be related to alcohol or other drugs.

2. To connect students and their families with appropriate resources for assistance.

3. To provide students and families with support systems both within and outside the school setting after these problems have been addressed.

Students may be referred to the SCIP teams by teachers, parents, a concerned friend or a student may refer him or herself. The team gathers documentation regarding the student's behavior through contacts with faculty and staff members familiar with that student. The information is kept confidential. Results are reviewed and evaluated by the team.

The team provides assistance to the student and parents in identifying the problem and seeking solutions. The SCIP team can link a family with a mental health/substance abuse evaluation at a participating agency. The SCIP Teams were trained as part of a statewide prevention effort coordinated by the Lincoln Medical Education Foundation. The participating agencies provide evaluations at no charge to the families and, with parental permission, recommendations are shared with the SCIP team. Working together with students, families and community agencies, the SCIP teams are committed to making a difference.

The Middle School SCIP team consists of Jill Pickinpaugh, Bob Uhing, Mary Ann Lutt, Laurie Hanna and Joan Sudmann, team leader.

The High School SCIP Team consists of Duane Biemenkamp, Terry Munson, Marlene Uhing, Lu Ellingson, Dr. Zeiss and Kathy Fink, team leader.

Members of the Wayne community who have concerns about a student are encouraged to refer the student to SCIP by contacting any SCIP team member.

Wanda Novak, membership chairman, reported that the group is close to goal and second reminders were sent to those who have not paid 1996 dues. Evelyn Trube reported on the Dixon County Convention held in Emerson Nov. 11.

A letter from Charlotte Calvert of Ponca was read. She is asking for workers and $35 from each unit and post-for-expenses at County Government Day to be held Nov. 21 at the Ponca School auditorium. County Government Day is sponsored by the American Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units in Dixon County. Juniors from each school in Dixon County attend to learn about county government. This year the Allen Auxiliary will furnish and serve cookies and bars for the morning break. Approximately 40 dozen cookies or bars will be solicited from members.

The Americanism essay contest will be offered to the seventh and eighth grade students with cash prizes. The title this year is "Why I'll Be True to the Red, White and Blue." Rules will be given to the teacher, Marcia Rastede.

A donation of $25 was given to the District President's Project for new furniture in the canteen and TV room at the Norfolk Veterans Home. A donation was made to the Legion to help with the cost of replacing damaged flags in the "Avenue of Flags." The December meeting will be the annual Christmas supper with the Legion at the Village Inn in Allen. All members of the Legion and Auxiliary and their families are welcome. It will be Dec. 11 at 6 p.m. Contact Deenette Von Minden for reservations. Norma Smith, auxiliary chaplain, will have a short Christmas program following the meal. There will not be a meeting.

Old business included the following: the park committee is still waiting for the professional landscapers to come and draw plans for the area west of the fire hall. Nothing will be done about replacing the dead tree in the park until those plans are submitted.

Kathy Boswell announced the activities planned for Dec. 16. The firemen will hold a free pancake feed from 10:30 to 12:30 in the fire hall to express appreciation to the volunteers who gave time and money to the new building project. There will be a short program at 1 p.m. Santa will arrive at 1:30 and the Christmas drawings will be at 2. It was decided to have the drawing on the main square, weather permitting, and in the fire hall if the weather is bad.

An entry form for the home Christmas lighting contest will be given to a school group to distribute to townspeople. The entry should be returned to the Village Clerk by Dec. 10 with the judging being done during the week before the Dec. 16 drawing.

Items of new business were as follows: Jerry Schroeder has received word from the Burlington Northern Railroad that they have donated a 44-foot long caboose to be delivered within the next 30 days. The group decided to put it in the Allen RV Park next to Highway 9. The park committee, along with Dwight Johnson, Dean Chase, Jerry Schroeder and Duane Mitchell will decide exactly where to put it. It was reported KTIV will be in town Nov. 21 to record for "Our Home Town" which will air on Dec. 4.
