Santa served as Grand Marshall during this year's Parade of Lights. He estimated the number of people viewing the parade at 1,000. The weather for this year's event was "beautiful" according to a report from the Man in Red, who is accustomed to North Pole conditions.

Approximately 15 entries participated in this year's Parade of Lights held Thursday in conjunction with Fantasy Forest.

The event was co-sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne County Jaycees.

Winners have been announced in several divisions.

The Overall winner was Pamida.

The Kids division winner was On Our Toes Dance Studio. The musical winner was King's Kids the Methodist Church and the winner in the most lights category was Wayne County Jaycees.

New school, track proposed to board

By Clara Osten
Of The Herald

Wayne Community School Board members heard proposals on building a new track and a report from the facilities committee on the updated building recommendations during their regular meeting Monday night.

Sam Fisher from Atlas Tracks told board members that the present track is wavy, uneven and has drainage problems.

He gave them three proposals including putting on a top coat which would buy them time, resurfacing the track at an estimated $40,000 to $300,000 or removing the existing track, correcting the drainage problems and installing a new track. The final proposal would cost approximately $110,000 to $130,000.

"THE BOARD" will review these options and plans to make a decision so work could be done during the summer of 1996.

Dr. Donald Koerber and Mary Temme, representing the citizen's facility committee recommended to the board that a new middle school be built just south of the present high school.

"We feel that the proposed building will support the needs of this district. We have designed shared space between the middle school and high school to save the district money," said Dr. Koerber.

"The current middle school cannot be made to fit our programs in a fiscally responsible way. Two separate rooms for certain activities are not necessary," said Mrs. Temme.

THE COST of the project is estimated at $8.1 million. Superintendent Dr. Donnis Jensen said that if passed, the bond issue would cause an increase of 36.5 cents per $100 of valuation and the affiliated districts would pay 10.04 cents per $100 of valuation.

The board will consider the recommendations of the citizen's facility committee. Board President Phyllis Spethman thanked to committee for their work on the project.

In other board action, the board approved on final reading the firearm policy for the district.

"The language of our policy is appropriate and consistent with that of state statutes. It is acceptable with the State Department of Education," said Dr. Jensen.

THERE WAS considerable discussion regarding the student discipline policy.

Board members Jean Blomenkamp and Ms. Spethman noted that the state statutes spell out the rules and the board's policy could be amended, if need. Will Davis and Sid Hillier questioned the details of the document and whether

Council nears year's end

By Tom Mullen
Of The Herald

As Wayne's public servants near the end of another year, city records show one councilperson with perfect attendance for the regularly scheduled council meetings so far this year.

Councilperson Darrel Fuelberth is 23 for 23, and the council's new comers, Lois Shelton, Verdel Lutt and Mel Utecht weighed in next best.

Councilperson Shelton missed just one meeting, while councilpersons Lutt and Utecht each missed two.

Councilpersons Doug Sturm, Ralph Barclay and Patty Wieland each missed four meetings in 1995. Mayor Lindau was recorded as absent for five meetings, and Councilperson Jane O'Leary missed six of the 23 meetings.

Councilpersons receive an annual pay of $1,000 for their efforts, while the mayor is provided with an administrative office and $1,500 in pay.

Wayne is divided into four wards. Each ward is represented by two councilpersons. Elections coincide with national congressional elections every two years. Each ward elects one councilperson every two years to represent that ward for a four year term.

The mayor, who acts as the chief administrative official for the city, is elected by the citizens of all four wards.

History book delayed

"A Pictorial History of Wayne County" will be delayed until February, according to Publisher Jim Shanks.

"With the complications of the transition, we just don't feel that we should rush the book to make the Christmas deadline," said the new publisher of the Wayne Herald.

"I am sure that many people plan on using these as Christmas gifts, so we have made some gift certificates for the books that may be given in their stead."

Shanks apologized for the inconvenience caused by the delay.

"We are truly sorry about this, but it is going to be a fantastic book and we just can't do it justice if we don't have a little more time. Please bear with us," he said.

Shanks said that the gift certificates are ready, and they can be obtained by calling The Wayne Herald at 375-2600, or toll free at 1-800-672-3418.

Ice angel

Terry Poland sculpted an angel out of ice just prior to the Parade of Lights last Thursday. Poland, who has been creating ice sculptures for 11 years, had the ice brought to Wayne from Lincoln. Weather permitting, the sculpture will continue to be on display in front of Mines Jewelers.

Annual Christmas feast is a family tradition

By Tom Mullen
Of The Herald

Leon Hansen and his family used to open their home at Christmas to anyone who wouldn't otherwise have a Christmas dinner.

The Hansens are continuing that family tradition this year, but when you're expecting 400 people for dinner, you need a big dining room.

"Last year we had 320 people," said the recent transplant from Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"I promised the people in Council Bluffs that we would do it again this year, but so many people have asked me to do it here."

And so after getting his crew ready for the Christmas dinner in Council Bluffs at noon, Leon will drive back to Wayne to prepare for another 4 p.m. feast here.

"This is an old fashioned harvest dinner," he explained.

"Roasted turkey, yams, hot rolls, walnut and mushroom dressing, we don't skip at all.

"We've got 90 pounds of potatoes that need to be peeled, it takes a lot of volunteers."

Hansen explained that the entire feast is made possible by "free will donations," and volunteers to cook, clean and provide transportation.

All donations are tax deductible. To volunteer your time or to donate food or money, contact Hansen at 375-1904.

Board

or not the board's policy was specific enough. The policy was approved by a vote of 5 to 1, with Davis voting no on the issue.

The Board also heard from Dr. Jensen on special education budgeting concerns. Legislative bill, EB 742 says long and short term planning is not possible due to uncertainties in funding. The Department of Education states that too many students are being put into Special Education programs. There has been a 27 percent increase in the number of students receiving Special Education in the past five years while the number of students in school has seen no change.

The board discussed a planned January retreat to be held Jan. 20. More details will be available at the board's next regular scheduled meeting which will be Jan. 8, 1996 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Cowboy trail brings mixed emotions

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Highway 20 stretches across northern Nebraska like a headband on the crown of the state.

From the farmlands of the east, to the Sand Hills of the center, to the Pine Ridge of the west, the road rolls through some of the prettiest country in the Husker state.

But I'll have to admit, my first reaction to the idea of putting a trail for bicyclists and hikers along that highway was sort of skeptical.

Who, I wondered, would want to pedal across those mostly treeless plains on a hot, windy summer day? I barely kept my gas burner from blowing off Highway 20 some days. A 10-speed wouldn't have a chance.

garbage cans, and rest stops can be located at existing city parks, eliminating the need for new facilities.

Such trails can earn tons of income from utility companies, who need right of way to lay fiber optic cables or natural gas lines.

Plus, they pointed out, Rome wasn't built in a day; neither will the Cowboy Trail. After all, it's recognized as the longest rail line-to-recreation trail conversion project in the nation.

Hmmmm. That all sounds pretty good.

Living here in Lincoln, I've seen how a weedy, old railroad bed east of town has been turned into a busy path for bikers, joggers and strollers. There's a trail for horses, too.

It's used mostly by teens and under-40's looking for a good workout, but also families seeking a safe place (safer than a highway shoulder, for instance) to ride with their children and seniors on an exercise walk.

They aren't vandals or hooligans. In fact, they're about as upstanding (and self policing) a bunch as you're ever going to find.

Volunteers raised the money to buy the trail and the local natural resources district now does the minimal maintenance work required.

But back to the money situation. It's a sticky issue in the Legislature.

Rural senators don't like the trails (just like most of their constituents) and aren't likely to allocate any money for it. There isn't much stray money around anyway these days. That's a problem.

But some of the towns along the Cowboy Trail, namely Valentine and O'Neill, are pretty excited about having the nation's longest recreation trail winding through their towns.

They're already putting limestone surfaces on the trail and making plans for more tourists.

It makes me think that maybe I'm wrong about the Cowboy Trail. Particularly, when I'm reminded that folks had the same negative thoughts years ago about the Niobrara River. That waterway now attracts 30,000 canoers a year and clogs the motels and restaurants of Valentine.

This summer, driving along old Highway 20, I got a rude reminder of that: I couldn't find a vacant motel room in the entire town.

Maybe the Cowboy Trail will do the same thing for other towns.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Letters

Removing confusion

Dear Editor:

Because of recent actions and some confusing news stories concerning the proposed Niobrara-Vermillion and Springfield-Newcastle-area bridges, I believe it would be helpful to provide an update in an attempt to remove any possible confusion surrounding these important projects.

First, I want to note that both of these projects are authorized by specific Congressional action. Second, I want to emphasize that the previous Federal appropriations for these projects remain in place. In previous years, the Vermillion-Newcastle-area bridge already has received a total of $10.9 million in Federal funds and the Niobrara-Springfield bridge already has received $9.9 million; both sums largely remain for expenditure on these two bridges. None of this funding has been eliminated. However, these projects have not yet received the full level of Federal funding which has been requested. The Vermillion-Newcastle-area bridge has received 80 percent of the estimated necessary Federal funding requested and the Niobrara-Springfield bridge has received 74 percent.

Unfortunately, the Transportation Appropriations legislation for fiscal year 1996 which was signed into law on Nov. 15, 1995, did not specifically include the final portion of Federal funding needed to complete these projects. In fact, for the first time in anyone's memory, the final legislation did not include funding for any highway demonstration projects! However, the legislation provided an overall funding increase for Federally supported roads, resulting in an additional $4.2 million during this fiscal year for Nebraska from the Federal Highway Trust Fund and an additional $3.8 million for South Dakota. Such sums and subsequent year increases would certainly provide more than enough money to complete both projects.

It is now left to the states to determine if these projects will receive a portion of the funding increase. I have joined Representative Bill Barrett of Nebraska and Representative Tim Johnson of South Dakota in sending a letter to Nebraska Governor Ben Nelson and South Dakota Governor William Janklow urging them to use a portion of the additional allotment of Federal highway formula funds for the two bridge projects so that they may be completed in a timely manner.

As a long-time supporter and vocal advocate for the construction of these two bridge projects, I remain committed to seeing these projects through to their completion. They have been delayed for too many decades.

I would also like to take this opportunity to commend the many far-sighted individuals throughout the region who have continued their steadfast support despite numerous setbacks and hurdles. Also, I appreciate the letters and editorial responses to the highly biased NBC TV story on these bridges. Please be assured that I will continue to fight for these projects until the first cars and trucks drive across the bridges.

Apparently, some of the folks over at the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission had the same doubts. Ever since the 321-mile Cowboy Trail — the former Chicago & Northwestern railroad line from Norfolk to Merriman — was turned over to the state and then the commission, some folks over at the fish, wildlife and park agency have been privately hoping it would go away.

Recently, Charles Wright, the chairman of the Game and Parks Commission, expressed those views publicly. He said running the trail could rob funds from the agency's traditional jobs, like operating Ft. Robinson or managing catfish and antelope.

He said the Legislature seems unwilling to allocate enough money for that job and there just wouldn't be enough bikers to generate enough funds through user fees.

The only solution left, Wright said, would be to keep big portions of the trail closed.

Those complaints prompted a quick response from trail supporters.

They said such trails generate tons of support across the country, and volunteers and corporations will help foot the bills.

You call yourself an American?
Do you howl for government to balance the budget, then spend your last dollar for a car down payment?
Do you whip an enemy country, then give it your shirt?

Americans call for speed laws, but don't want a car unless it'll go at least 100 mph.

Americans get upset if Uncle Sam spends millions for NASA, but remain unconcerned upon discovering we're spending even more on health costs from smoking.

Citizens gripe about high prices, but grumble even more about the low prices on things he/she is selling.

Many know the line-up of every baseball team, but don't know half the words in "The Star Spangled Banner".

American husbands get mad at the wife for not keeping house with the efficiency of a hotel and mad at the hotel for lacking the comforts of home.

An American will spend half a day looking for vitamins to lengthen life, then drive 90 miles an hour to make up for lost time.

Men, do you fault your wife's cooking, then go on a fishing trip and eat half-baked spuds, creamed fish and coffee made in a bucket and think it's good?

Some Americans exhaust themselves on farms so they can move into town where they can make more money so they can move back to the farm.

At work in the office, an American talks baseball, football or shopping, but out at the games or We're called the most civilized nation on earth, but we still can't deliver payrolls without an armed armored truck.

Zimmer is one in a billion

Helen Zimmer always knew she was lucky.

"But not this lucky," she said after winning the afternoon drawing of the "Wayne America Great Cash Giveaway" for the third week in a row.

Mrs. Zimmer won $500 in each of the first two Saturday drawings, while standing among the crowd gathered at the Pamida store.

This week, she waited at The Diamond Center, where proprietor Randy Pedersen promised to double the money of anyone who wins while standing in his store.

The previous week, after winning her second $500, Mrs. Zimmer had predicted that she would win $1,000 next.

"But I was talking about the last drawing," she said, referring to the final two drawings on Dec. 23,

Mullen It Over
By Tom Mullen

when the stakes are doubled.

And what brought her to Pedersen's store on this fateful day?

"They ran me off at Pamida," she said jokingly.

"People did look at me sort of funny after these last two wins. And everybody wants to touch me."

And what were the odds that she could win three in a row?

According to Mrs. Zimmer, she has collected about 75 tickets, "and I bought something every time I have received tickets," she pointed out.

Chamber Executive John Farnan, who has taken some heat for drawing her ticket three times, is at a loss for an explanation.

"There are about 75,000 tickets in that barrel," he said, shaking his head.

John Fuelberth, Associate Professor of Mathematics at Wayne State College, did some number crunching.

"Her odds of winning each time are about one over 1,000, so to find her chances of winning three times like that, you would cube one over 1,000, that is to multiply by 1,000 by itself, three times," said Fuelberth.

And so Wayne has learned something that Mr. Zimmer already knew, his wife is one in a billion.

Wildcat women struggle on the road

Of the Herald

Wayne State remained winless on the road Tuesday night with a 84-69 loss to Northwest Missouri State. After facing the Bearcats just three days earlier in the Catbacker Classic, the Wildcats made the trip to Maryville, Mo., and were not able to mount a comeback like they had in the teams' first meeting. WSC fell behind by 17 at halftime and were able to make up only two of those points in the second half.

"I don't think we were ever in the ball game, mentally or physically," said Head Coach Mike Barry. "We shot the ball better, but they got every rebound and got every loose ball. It appeared to me that they just wanted it more."

Junior Mindi Jensen led the 'Cats with 16 points and had four rebounds and two blocked shots. Senior Marla Stewart scored 11, while Pam Drickey added nine. Freshman Steph Sjuts added eight points and Amy Brodersen had five assists and five rebounds.

'Cats can't get back into win column

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne State College went on the road Tuesday night and lost its sixth straight game 63-60 to Northwest Missouri State. Chad Nelson scored the first 10 points for the Wildcats as they built a lead of 13-2 early in the game. The 'Cats had a 35-19 lead with 4:29 left in the half before the Bearcats went on a 12-3 run to cut the lead to seven at halftime. Northwest Missouri tied the game at 42-42 in the second half and it was neck and neck until the Bearcats took the lead for good with a three-pointer at the one minute mark.

"We played well enough defensively and rebounded well enough to win the game," said Head Coach Greg McDermott. "Their zone took us out of our rhythm. We had some open shots, we just didn't make them. We went on the road to a place where they've only lost one game in two years and we're in the game. We just can't quite get over the hump. We're making progress as a team, unfortunately it's not showing up in the win column, but I'm confident that will come."

Junior Mike Fitzner led the team with 14 points, while freshman Chad Nelson added 13. Sophomore Craig Philipp scored 11 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Junior Curt Woodin tallied eight assists and freshman Jason Diaz came off the bench to nail four of five three pointers.

Scoring — C. Woodin 3, M. Fitzner 14, J. Diaz 12, C. Philipp 11, C. Nelson 13, G. Ryan 4, J. Jones 3.

Rebounds — WSC 39 (Philipp 9), NWMS 33.

Assists — WSC 17 (Woodin 8), NWMS 16.

Halftime — WSC 38, NWMS 31.

Wayne State hosts Dakota State on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Rice Auditorium before taking time off for the holidays. The 'Cats first game after the break is January 6 at Huron University.

Blomenkamp's 31 is not enough for Blue Devil win

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Paul Blomenkamp erupted for 31 points and 10 rebounds on Tuesday, but it was not enough as Wayne fell to Schuyler 72-64. The Blue Devils got off to another slow start, surrendering a 20-11 first quarter lead to the Warriors, then outscoring Schuyler 33-32 the rest of the game.

"Schuyler was a real physical team," said Head Coach Rocky Ruhl, "and some of our players did not respond to it. I thought Kurtis Keller and Paul Blomenkamp had good games. We need to work on balance. We need everyone to start getting involved defensively and offensively."

Scoring — P. Blomenkamp 31, N. Vanhorn 6, R. Junck 1, P. Zukosky 4, M. Meyer 4, K. Keller 8, E. Wiseman 5, J. Theate 5.

Schuyler beat Wayne in the JV game 59-40.

Scoring — N. Munson 7, C. Dyer 5, K. Keller 9, T. Hansen 9, N. Hagmann 8, J. Magnuson 2.

Winside 51

Winside fell to 1-3 on Tuesday night with an 81-51 loss to Bancroft-Rosalie.

"Bancroft established a tempo that were weren't comfortable with," said Coach Jim Hoyt. "We never really got into our offense. It was really an all-around frustrating night for us."

Chad O'Connor led the Wildcats with 18 points, while Greg Mundil added 12 points and 11 rebounds. Jaimey Holdorf had 12 points and six assists, while Brock Shelton added five assists and three steals.

Scoring — G. Mundil 12, B. Shelton 7, J. Holdorf 12, C. O'Connor 18, T. Sucht 1, K. Huffman 1.

Wakefield 87,

Emerson-Hubbard 46

Wakefield defeated Emerson-Hubbard Tuesday night 87-46. The Trojans won the game on the boards, outrebounding the Pirates 49-21. Justin Dutcher scored 20 points for the Trojans, while Wes Blecke scored 13 and had nine rebounds.

Scoring — C. Gable 11, J. Dutcher 20, T. Nixon 7, M. Rischmuller 6, M. Peterson 2, W. Blecke 13, R. Hoffman 14, T. Birkley 4, M. White 4, J. Macking 5, E. Beacom 1.

Hartington 74,

Allen 27

Allen fell behind 24-4 after one quarter and 43-10 by halftime and could not recover in a 74-27 loss to Hartington Tuesday night. The Eagles were hurt by 24 percent shooting and 24 turnovers.

"When you have 24 turnovers in 32 minutes of basketball you're going to have a hard time beating anybody," said Head Coach Doug Schnack, "but there were a few times during the game that I saw our potential."

Scott Williams led the team with six points, while Brad Smith added six points and six rebounds.

Scoring — S. Williams 6, B. Smith 6, E. Olson 5.

Jumping for heart

Winside elementary students in second through sixth grades participated for the first time this year in the Jump for the Nebraska Heart Association campaign. The event was organized by physical education instructor Tim Stubbs.

The students went on their own to find sponsors to donate money for the two hours of rope jumping. Students in second and third grades jumped their two hours in half hour increments over a two week period. Fourth through sixth grades jumped from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 5. They got into groups of six or seven, with several from each group jumping for one minute, then switching with someone else.

Assisting Mr. Stubbs were high school students Stacey Schwartz and Amanda Deck.

The students earned prizes for the dollar amounts they collected. The Heart Association goal is $1,500. As of Wednesday only 30 percent of the students have turned in money, approximately $800. They have until Friday.

How to tell someone about their faults

Q. I am acquainted with a woman who needs people badly, but she unintentionally drives them away. She talks too much and constantly complains. I know she has a terrible inferiority complex. How can I tell her about these irritating faults without making her feel even worse about herself?

A. You do it the way a porcupine mates: very, very carefully. Let me offer a general principle that has thousands of applications in dealing with people, including the situation you have posed. The right to criticize must be earned, even if the advice is constructive in nature.

Before you are entitled to tinker with another person's self-esteem, you are obliged first to demonstrate your own respect for him as a person. This is accomplished through an atmosphere of love, kindness and human warmth. Then when a relationship of confidence has been carefully constructed, you will have earned the right to discuss a potentially threatening topic. Your motives have thereby been clarified.

In response to your specific question, I would suggest that you invest some effort in building a healthy relationship with your verbose friend, and then feed her your suggestions in very small doses. And remember all the while that someone, somewhere, would like to straighten out a few of your flaws, too. We all have them.

Q. My 10-year-old daughter hates pigtails because her friends don't wear their hair that way. I have always loved pigtails. Am I wrong to make her wear her hair the way I want?

A. Yes, particularly if your daughter feels unnecessarily different and foolish around her friends. Social pressure on the nonconformist is severe, and you should not place your daughter in this uncomfortable position. Closeness between generations comes from the child's knowledge that his parent understands and appreciates his feelings. Your inflexibility on this point reveals a lack of empathy and may bring later resentment.

Q. Is it possible to prevent all feelings of anger?

A. No. It's important to remember that anger is not only a normal emotional response, it has a biochemical foundation, as well. The human body is equipped with an automatic defensive system, called the "flight or fight" mechanism, which prepares the entire organism for action.

Dr. Dobson

Adrenalin is pumped into the bloodstream, which sets off a series of physiological responses within the body. Blood pressure is increased in accordance with an acceleration in heartbeats; the eyes are dilated for better peripheral vision; the hands get sweaty and the mouth becomes dry; and the muscles are supplied with a sudden burst of energy.

In a matter of seconds, the individual is transformed from a quiet condition to an "alarm reaction state." Most important, this is an involuntary response that occurs whether or not we will it.

Once the flight or fight hormones are released, it is impossible to ignore the intense feelings they precipitate. It would be like denying the existence of a toothache or any other tumultuous physical occurrence.

On the other hand, our reaction to the feeling of anger is more deliberate and responsive to voluntary control. When we suddenly "replay" the agitating event over and over in our minds, grinding our teeth in hostility and seeking opportunities for revenge, or lash out in some overt act of violence, then it is logical to assume that we cross over the line into something we ought not to do.

Q. Is depression more common among men or women?

A. Depression occurs less frequently in men and is apparently more crisis-oriented. In other words, men get depressed over specific problems such as a business setback or an illness. However, they are less likely to experience the vague, generalized, almost indefinable feeling of discouragement that many women encounter on a regular basis. Even a cloudy day may be enough to bring on a physical and emotional slowdown, known as the blahs, for those who are particularly vulnerable to depression.

Ask Karen...

Q. How do I get my comforters washed... they're so big and bulky?

A. If the comforter is washable and you have a machine big enough to do them yourself (18 lbs. or larger) you need to be careful of the common mistake of adding too much detergent which can cake on the comforter. Drying is also particularly tricky. Check the label. The best results can usually be achieved through your neighborhood drycleaners.

Home by fire good idea

As you might guess, "Touched By An Angel" has become a favorite show of mine. The Big Farmer likes "Picket Fences." Both have had great story lines this week. And with the current cold chill, staying home by the fire and watching TV seems like a good option. That's what I'm doing: sitting in front of the fire and watching the tube.

I started by watching old videos of past holidays and grandchildren's birthdays. Mike has been working on taxes all day. I've also been writing letters. It's the time of year for thinking of old friends.

Actually, in addition to the usual cards, we've had several welcome phone calls this week. Brother Jim, who turned 55 on Sunday, has retired, the lucky stiff. He called to thank me for Roger Welsh's latest book, "Old Tractors and The Men Who Love Them." He says he is going to find a retirement job, though, because his wife has lots of work for him!

Then, cousin Addy rang up from north of Phoenix. Her preacher husband has retired, and they are taking advantage of $110 round-trip tickets to come and visit in January.

An hour later, a musical call from Los Angeles turned out to be Mary Anna and her Sweet Adeline pals singing, "Jingle Bells." They do sing close harmony.

Lastly, Marlyce from Orlando checked in. She has an Air Tran direct flight to Omaha in January for $79 each way, $158 total. And she was complaining about the heat there today!

I do have the tree up and decorated. That's a time I always get "Empty Nest." I miss having the kids around for that.

I really dug into the boxes this year. I finally have a new base for the ceramic tree Mom made, so I can put a light in it. I broke the original years ago.

We have three nativity sets. The first, very small and not expensive, was from a Rexall drug store in Norfolk for our first Christmas. The second, also a cheapie, was given to us by a cousin for the kids to play with. And they did, moving the wise men and livestock around; repeating the old, old story. Now, Thomas can play with it.

The third, a washed-blue ceramic set, was done by Sue in a high school art class taught by Shirley Flier. I treasure it. I have it on a corner table, under a light, backed by a poinsettia. I love poinsettias. There is another large one in the dining room.

A wreath on one wall was fashioned by Agnes Warncke, a nurse friend, a year or two before she died. The decorations on the tree are a hodge-podge: some made by children, all kinds of angels, souvenirs from South Carolina and Tennessee and Kansas and ornaments that were table decorations at Lutheran Hospital Christmas parties.

A very old Advent wreath is on the buffet. I use it to remind us whose birthday we are preparing to celebrate. Sometimes, that seems to get lost in the shuffle.

Now, it's time to crawl between the flannel sheets and dream. Weather man says temperatures will moderate. Let's hope!

Insecticide is being recalled

Mallinckrodt Veterinary Inc. announced last week that Warbex® insecticide, lot number 950658, is being recalled because of possible contamination with a turf insecticide which could produce severe adverse reactions in cattle, including death. For this reason, it should not be used on animals.

If the contaminated Warbex has been applied to animals, contact a veterinarian immediately for assistance in treating the animals. Do not try to treat the animals without the advice and assistance of a veterinarian.

Warbex is a popular pour-on insecticide used for controlling grubs and lice in cattle, it is also identified by the common chemical name famphur. All customers with one-gallon containers of Warbex, lot number 950658, should immediately stop using the product. This entire lot was distributed through Country General Stores and their affiliates in parts of Nebraska, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming and Texas.

The product has been removed from store shelves and customers are being notified of the recall. Mallinckrodt will extend full credit for any returned product. Anyone in possession of Warbex (lot number 950658) should return it immediately to the store where it was purchased for full credit. As instructed on the product label, care should be taken to avoid contact with eyes, skin and clothing while handling the product.

Customers who would like more information about this recall can call 1-800-541-7459.

Planting homegrown seed can compromise yields

There's a certain aura about homemade and homegrown things — everyone knows that mom's apple pie is better than any other. But two studies have shown that the maxim doesn't hold true for homegrown soybean seed.

A 19-year study conducted by the Illinois Crop Improvement Association revealed that professionally grown varieties produced an average of 2.75 bushels more per acre than homegrown seed. And, 1991 findings by extension agronomists in North Carolina revealed that in 60 percent of 232 comparisons, professionally grown seed yielded a bushel per acre or more higher than homegrown seed. The average yield difference of all of the comparisons was two bushels per acre in favor of the professionally grown seed.

Bill Latham, president of Latham Seeds, one of the largest soybean seed companies in the upper-Midwest, points to private research efforts as a primary reason for difference in yields. Also, physical seed damage, varietal mixture and possible disease buildup are all potential yield-limiting factors for homegrown seed.

"Due to the huge surge in private research efforts and the frequent release of new varieties, the difference between homegrown seed and professionally grown seed is widening in favor of professionally grown seed," Latham said. "Private breeders are developing new varieties that offer outstanding yield and agronomic characteristics."

Private breeders have been especially successful in developing varieties that are pest resistant and disease tolerant, according to Lyle Brown, a Wakefield Latham Seed dealer.

Still, many farmers use homegrown seed over professionally grown seed because they believe they can save on seed costs by doing so. But, as Brown points out, the Illinois study showed several factors add to the cost of homegrown seed, including cleaning, physical shrink, interest on the value of the seed and storage costs.

High school youths win scholarships, research grants

Three high school students took top honors at the 1995 High School Scholars Research Program Dec. 2 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

First place winner was Michael Olson of Laurel. His project was a "Preliminary Study on the use of Pseudomonas aureofaciens as a Biological Control Against Damping Off in Glycine Max." His sponsor was Ed Brogie of Laurel-Concord High School.

Olson will receive a $2,000 research grant to work with an UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources scientist and a full-tuition in-state scholarship which is renewable at CASNR. He is the son of Gordon and Patricia Olson. James Partridge, associate professor of plant pathology at UNL, presented certificates. The student presentations were judged by IANR faculty and representatives from private industry. The High School Scholars Research Program is a joint project of the UNL Agricultural Research Division (ARD) and CASNR to encourage high school student's interest in scientific research. ARD and CASNR are part of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at UNL.

Other students who participated included Andrea Ebmeier, daughter of Richard and Cheryl Ebmeier of Laurel.

SALEM ELCA

The Women of the ELCA of Salem Lutheran Church held its Christmas luncheon on Dec. 2. The church basement was decorated and lunch was catered by the Nieman's and was served by the eighth grade girls of the congregation.

Christmas carols were sung. Mae Greve, president, presented a poinsettia to Barbara Brazie in appreciation for the janitorial services.

Circle 4 presented a program called "Christmas Is..." Through the use of symbols placed on a large wreath, readings from the Bible, narration and appropriate Christmas carols, the question of "What Is Christmas?" was answered. The program included a solo by Mardell Holm, accompanied by Famy Johnson on the piano.

Following the program, officers for 1996 were installed by Pastor Wilms. They are Mae Greve, president; Marge Johnson, vice president; Shirley Woodward, secretary; and Marian Christensen, treasurer.

Mae Greve concluded the meeting with a Christmas prayer. The annual reports were handed out.

CHRISTMAS PROJECT

The Wakefield Lions Club Christmas project to aid needy families in the community continues with the collection of used clothing and toys, food and cash donations.

Each year the Lions assist between 15-20 families with a total of approximately 50 children.

Anyone wishing to contribute in any way toward the project should contact a Lions Club member or mail the donation to Larry Clay, club treasurer. Names of needy families may also be submitted.

Pharmacy & Your Health

WILL DAVIS SAV-MOR PHARMACY

Medicines and Foods Can Interact

The most common drug-food interaction occurs when foods tie-up medicines in the stomach. The result is a complex of food and drug that cannot be absorbed. An example is the calcium in milk or dairy products interacting with antibiotics such as tetracycline. Iron present in foods can cause a similar interaction with tetracycline or one of the quinolone antibiotics (e.g., ciprofloxacin).

Food may act as a barrier to the absorption of drugs such as azithromycin. Food can increase the absorption of a medicine such as sustained release theophylline. Foods high in vitamin K may work against blood thinning effects of anticoagulants such as warfarin. Consult with your pharmacist about the potential for drug-food interactions.
