Commissioners hold routine meeting

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Drug and alcohol testing for county employees with Commercial Drivers Licenses, salary resolutions and establishing a weather center for Wayne county were among agenda items for county commissioners at their first meeting of 1996.

County Attorney Mike Pieper told the commissioners that the Department of Roads and the city of Wayne have chosen to go with a group named Stay United. The county will pay a $159 enrollment fee and then an undetermined cost per test. The program will require a program coordinator to keep personnel files. Random drug testing will be done in Norfolk. Commissioners voted unanimously to have Pieper make the necessary arrangements and the commissioners will take final action at their next meeting.

The commissioners also discussed county salaries for the purpose of setting election fees. At the present time, the commissioners receive a salary that is 60 percent of what the county officials receive. Based on a four percent increase per year, commissioners would receive $15,900 in 1997. Establishing a salary rate is necessary for those filing for election or re-election to the board. A filing fee of one percent of the salary or $159 would be required for those running for a commissioner's seat.

Commissioners also agreed to share DTN weather center costs with Carroll, Wakefield, Winside and the city of Wayne. The county's cost for the first year of service would be $300.50 and the annual fee the following year would $192.

In other business the commissioners heard a proposal from Hoskins Mayor Pat Brudigan on redrawing voting districts. Action must be completed by Feb. 13, 1996. No action was taken on the proposal.

Pieper also requested that all county employees be given a personnel policy manual and be made aware that the guidelines contained in the manual will be strictly enforced. "There is nothing new in the policy and there has been no violations of policy, but it is in our best interest for everyone to be informed of what the rules are," Pieper said.

The commissioners will have an organizational meeting Jan. 9 for the purpose of electing commissions to a number of boards. The next regularly scheduled meeting will be Jan. 16 at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

December weather in Wayne mild

The month of December was relatively mild in the Wayne area, according to Wayne Weather observer Pat Gross.

The high temperature for the month was 64 degrees on Dec. 1 and the low was five below zero on both Dec. 9 and 10.

The year ended with 30.27 inches of precipitation, which is 4.20 inches above the 10 year average. The greatest daily rainfall came on May 28 when Wayne received 2.97 inches of precipitation. "Even though it didn't always seem to fall at the exact time we wanted it, few of us will ever complain about a year when we receive 30 more inches of rain," said Gross.

Temperatures in 1995 ranged from 12 degrees below zero on Jan. 7 to 105 degrees on July 13.

Girl Scout cookie sales begin

Area residents can experience the special effects of Girl Scouting by supporting a great American tradition, the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale.

Girl Scouts in Prairie Hills Girl Scout Council will be selling the cookies Jan. 5 through Jan. 22. This is the only time of the year these special cookies are available.

Girl Scouts have been selling cookies for over 50 years and the sale has provided good business experience and a source of funds for Girl Scout activities.

Part of the profit from the cookie sale goes directly to Girl Scout troops to use for special events. Another part of profit supports council sponsored events throughout the 19-county council area in Nebraska. It also helps purchase camping equipment and maintain and develop the council's 150 acre campsite, Camp Crossed Arrows, near Fremont.

"While the girls receive direct financial means for special events, the lasting benefits of the cookie sale are priceless. Girls learn about decision making, money management, business, consumerism and safety," said Susan Schroeder, service unit manager for this area.

This year the Girl Scouts will have eight varieties of cookies available—Thin Mints, Samoas, Juliettes, Do-si-dos, Trefoils, Tagalongs, Chalet-Cremes and Snaps.

To order you Girl Scout cookies, call Schroeder at (402) 375-1194.

S.H.A.R.P. training to be held at Providence

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

A class designed to raise awareness and lessen the chance of a woman becoming a victim of sexual harassment, sexual assault or rape is being offered by the Providence Medical Center Wellness Center.

A Sexual Harassment, Assault and Rape Prevention (S.H.A.R.P.) training class will be taught by Jeff Ottens, PPCT certified instructor beginning Jan. 11, 1996, at the Wellness Center, 1200 Providence Road.

The class will consist of three classes, each two hours long, to be held Jan. 11, 18 and 25 from 7 to 9 p.m. Cost for the class is $15 and includes the three sessions and a manual.

"S.H.A.R.P. is an interpartal program offered by PPCT Management Systems, Inc. which focuses on three areas—Prevention psychology, management of professional and social contact and sexual assault countermeasures," said Ottens who will be teaching the course for the third time in Wayne.

"The class is designed for women of all ages. We are hoping to offer classes at the college also if there is enough interest. Statistics show that high school and college women have nearly a one in three chance of becoming the victim of a sexual assault or sexual harassment," said Ottens.

Ottens said the volunteers of Haven House have incorporated the S.H.A.R.P. training into the training offered for the volunteers that work at Haven House.

"The class deals with self-defense and social issues that affect all women. Our goal is to educate women to make them less likely to become a victim. We teach them how to escape from a threatening situation and to know their surroundings and where to go for help should they be involved in such a situation," Ottens said.

While the number of reported sexual assaults and rapes is not large in the Wayne area, the potential for violent crime is always present.

"Because of Wayne's location on two highways, the college population and the growing incidence of crime in smaller towns, we feel it is important to teach women how to deal with the issue. We don't want to make people paranoid, but rather heighten their awareness of what can happen," Ottens said.

pre-registration and pre-payment are required by Jan. 10. For more information, contact the Wellness Center at (402) 375-2207.

When You Can't Sleep, Try This

The National Sleep Foundation recommends six ways to help fall asleep and stay asleep: (1) Avoid caffeine, nicotine, and alcohol in the late afternoon and evening. Caffeine and nicotine can delay sleep; alcohol may interrupt sleep during the night. (2) Exercise regularly, but do so at least three hours before bedtime. (3) Don't nap during the day. (4) Establish a regular, relaxing bedtime routine that allows you to unwind and sends a "signal" to your brain that it's time to sleep. (5) Don't use your bed for anything other than sleep. (6) If you can't go to sleep after 30 minutes, get up and involve yourself in a relaxing activity, such as listening to soothing music or reading, until you feel sleepy. Don't use this time to solve your daily problems.

Workshop to be held

Plan now to attend What to Do Before the Money Runs Out, a workshop where you will learn how to successfully fund new programs and provide on-going support for existing activities. Originating from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, this workshop will cover all phases of the proposal writing process.

Learn about defining target populations, developing a problem statement for your project, setting goals and objectives, developing activities for your plan, budgeting and project evaluation. Hear public and private decision-makers tell how they choose which projects to fund. Get ideas of where to look for money for children, youth and family programs. Interact with people from across the country who have similar interests.

The workshop will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 24 at the meeting room in the Cedar County Courthouse Annex. The workshop begins at 9:30 a.m. and will conclude by 3 p.m. For more information and to register, contact the Cedar County Extension Office at 402-254-6821.

Proposals seem to be recycled

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Ever see the movie "Groundhog Day?"

I'm told it was about a man reliving a day, over and over and over again, recycling through the same events.

Sort of had that Groundhog's Day feeling last week as I listened to the proposals Gov. Nelson would be making during the 1996 legislative session, which began this week.

Didn't the guy say "boot camp?" And wasn't there a reference to bringing the Parole Board under control?

Plus, hadn't we heard about that proposal to cut property taxes from Nelson before?

Yup, yup, and yup.

The income tax cut proposal is the most puzzling.

Last year, seemingly out of nowhere, Nelson proposed to cut state income taxes by about $70 million. The funds would come from a windfall of federal dollars to be dredged up by a well-paid consulting firm. That firm would read the bureaucratic fine print, write up the requests, and grab those funds rightfully due by citizens of the Bugeater State.

Sounded like a fine idea. But most senators, like most citizens, were looking for ways to cut those really nasty taxes: property taxes. Voters complain about those. Hardly anyone — except the state's business community — has been complaining about income taxes.

Last year, Nelson's income tax cut was dumped like a Colorado quarterback. The Revenue Committee voted 5-3 to kill the bill after no debate whatsoever.

The governor was none too happy and vowed to reintroduce the idea.

That time, he came.

To Nelson's credit, he has introduced some new ideas.

One is to build three, 100-bed "modular" housing units at the State Pen to solve Nebraska's worsening prison overcrowding problems. The $5.3 million cost of the prefab buildings is a far cry from the $35 million it would cost for a conventional prison.

That's a heck of an idea, if a prefab prison is truly a suitable replacement.

The governor also has finally jumped into the property tax fray with his own plan to reduce those nasty local taxes. He aims to reduce local spending, which Nelson has said is the only way to cut the overall tax bite.

But why is the governor, once more, launching an ill-fated voyage over cutting income taxes? The makeup of the Revenue Committee has not changed. There's been no outcry over high income taxes. The revolt is over property taxes, isn't it?

Yes, but 1996 is a political year and Gov. Nelson wants to be U.S.

Sen. Nelson.

Continuing to push for an income tax cut, even in the face of insurmountable odds, plays well with the business community, which happens to contribute mightily to political campaigns.

"Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead" appears to be the strategy. Introducing a tax cut always provides a great headline — usually a larger one than when these dead-on-arrival ideas expire quietly in committee.

Here's a not-so-wild-guess about that income tax idea: Union Pacific is making noises about building a new headquarters building elsewhere (than Omaha). One of the complaints about Nebraska is that income taxes are too high, particularly for the higher paid executives.

Don't be too surprised then, if keeping Union Pacific enters the income tax debate.

And don't be too surprised when you see politicians reintroduce the same ideas, over and over again.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Vandals strike at fairgrounds

Someone apparently rammed a pickup into two garage doors on the Commercial Building at the Wayne County Fairgrounds sometime during the holidays. Wayne County Agricultural Society President Mick Topp, pictured above inspecting the damage, said, "This was a deliberate act. There were tracks up the building which indicate who ever did this must have backed or driven up to the building and hit the doors. Nothing else was damaged or taken. I don't have any idea who did it or why they did it." Topp urges anyone with information on who might have done the vandalism to report it to him or the local law enforcement officials.

'Go Big Red' continues in Wayne

Nebraska's National Championships have brought two Wayne businesses together.

Randy Slaybaugh, owner of Stadium Graphics, is working day and night screen printing thousands of pillow covers for Wayne pillow manufacturer Restful Knights.

Restful Knights owner Virgil Kardell enjoyed the success his company had selling the National Championship pillows last year, but the NCAA requires vendors to buy a license to sell such products.

"We got into selling collegiate licensed products last year during the National Championship," explained Virgil.

"At that time we didn't have our own license, we were operating under the license of the Lincoln company that did our screen printing, but it went well so we took a look at getting our own.

"As the business began to grow, logistically, it became difficult to go to Lincoln for the printing."

And so in June of last year, Virgil approached Randy.

"By September we started talking about Nebraska winning the National Championship, so we started working on designs," said Randy, who along with his staff is now working from 7:30 a.m. until 3:30 a.m. to meet the demand of the pre-ordered pillows.

"It's crazy," he said less than 24 hours after the game.

"Last night we started printing in the middle of the fourth quarter. We would have started sooner but we were just having too much fun watching the game.

"It's just a great situation, our two businesses being able to work together this way. It has been a great marriage."

Not to mention a great season.

Is there intelligent life on earth?

Astronomers recently turned on a new computer at the Oak Ridge Observatory near Harvard, Mass. that scans 2 billion outer-space radio channels in seconds. They're searching for intelligent life in the universe.

Perhaps out there in a universe with 100 billion galaxies there are folk on other planets using electronic snooters pointed toward Earth hoping to discover intelligent life here.

What would they find?

Do you suppose those extraterrestrial physicists could conceal their amazement when they scanned Earth and found:

- a planet with numerous life forms, some human, but the human types (hereafter known as HTs) hate other HTs who have different skin colors!

- numerous humans drinking alcoholic beverages to a point of inebriation, then driving surface transport vehicles, wrecking them in public and killing other HTs. Relatives of HTs gather and say "I just don't know how it could have happened!"

- after taking months to construct a new HT, the newly constructed HT is aborted on demand.

- that HTs have electronic boxes at home through which they can see and entertain each other. They call it television. Most of what they show each other on TV and talk about doesn't reach any type of intelligent level. Why do they watch?

Must be to educate little HTs!

- earthlings seem to be in pursuit of heated happiness, so they divide up sides, build huge stadiums in which to sit and emit overwhelming mouth noises while watching other young HTs fight over possession of an oblong leather object they pass around. HTs who are able to knock the most of their kind down and get the leather thing across a certain ground mark appear to win and take home a souvenir. It seems extremely important to them as they will use surface transport vehicles to drive hundreds of miles to see this type of brawl.

Merlin Wright

- HTs elect other HTs to live in Washington and make rules most other HTs don't like. No matter how hard an HT works, much of the human money earned ends up in Washington and redistributed to HTs who don't earn it.

- after working hard for a pay check, earth folk go to a river casino boat and store their money in a slot machine instead of putting it in a bank.

- HT children are taught by Hollywood that anything goes, parents are fools, cops are dumb, and a gun settles everything.

Extraterrestrial: "Very little intelligence there. Let's look elsewhere."

Antiques or junk?

It's a dreary, drizzly Saturday, and I've just come from Venice with a car load of junk! Whoever invented antique malls should either be congratulated, or shot. I really don't know which.

When we were dating, and I was doing a psych rotation at Ingleside, the Big Farmer and I spent a Sunday afternoon at Pioneer Village. He was finished in a couple of hours, and kept saying, "I've used this stuff. No big deal."

Now, in his retirement, he has discovered that some of this stuff is valuable! Besides, the further away we are from it, the more nostalgic we become about it.

He started by renting a booth at the Antique Arcade in Norfolk. He spent many hours cleaning Mason jars and insulators and what-nots, marking them, and arranging them. He spent more hours cruising garage sales and auctions, guessing which items would sell and which were worth the money.

Before we were even moved off the farm, he had located a mall near Two Rivers recreation area and rented some space. The owners had had a John Deere dealership that had its problems in the 80s, and converted the large building.

Near the Interstate seems to be a popular location for these things, and there is a 100,000 square foot place off Highway 50 called The Brass Armadillo. Even Burt Reynolds shopped there when he was here for the movie last spring.

By Pat Meierhenry

Now, there is another one opening, at the Ashland/Greenwood exit just west of us. It's called Platte Valley Antique Mall, and Mike couldn't resist one just 15 miles away. Consequently, we've all been roped into helping. Shelving has to be moved and rearranged. All kinds of bric a brac has to be wrapped and transported and remarked, and catalogued. You would not believe the stuff he has accumulated! Dishes, pots and pans, books, wooden boxes, curios, toys, pictures, signs, spice tins; all have to be moved.

As my sister says, "How many hobbies do you know of that actually make money?" Of course, he doesn't count his time. But, then, he didn't farming, either. And it keeps him out of the bars! And these malls are fascinating places. They are a great place to spend a dreary, drizzly day. And they bring back great memories. I just wish I hadn't thrown so many things out!

Seeking good neighbors

The Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Awards program is celebrating its 52nd year of recognizing good deeds. The program is co-sponsored by the Omaha World Herald.

Nominations from citizens throughout Nebraska and western Iowa are encouraged. The program honors individuals and groups cited by neighbors for performing unselfish, neighborly deeds during 1995 without compensation or personal gain.

Nominations will be accepted for organizations and/or individuals and must be sent to the Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassador for the community. The ambassador in Wayne is Bob Carhart, P.O. Box 430, Wayne, Neb. 68787, phone (402) 375-2116.

All nominations must be received no later than March 15, 1996.

Framed certificates are awarded annually to those selected by a statewide judging committee. Honorees will be announced about June 1, 1996.

Engagements

Bartak-Brasch

Stacy Lynn Bartak and Leon Michael Brasch, both of Wayne, and their families announce their engagement and approaching marriage.

Parents of the couple are Melvin and Joyce Smith of Norfolk, Robert and Terry Bartak of Omaha and Keith and Imogene Brasch of Wayne.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Madison High School and Wayne State College where she received her Bachelor of Arts in Education degree. She is currently employed by the Winnebago Public Schools and the City of Wayne.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Wayne High School and is currently a welder at Great Dane Trailers.

The couple is planning a May 18, 1996 wedding at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Self-esteem important in relationship

Q. My husband often makes fun of my body. I know he's just teasing, but his comments embarrass me and make me disinterested in sex. Why can't I just ignore his kidding, because I know he doesn't want to hurt me?

A. Sex for human beings is inseparably connected with our psychological nature, especially for women. A woman who feels ugly, for example, is often too ashamed of her imperfect body to participate in sex without embarrassment. She knows it is impossible to disguise her flabby thighs or her pear-shaped hips, and her flaws interfere with her sensuality.

Likewise, the person who feels shy, timid and inferior will usually express his or her sexuality in similar terms, or on the other hand, a self-confident, emotionally healthy individual is more likely to have a spontaneous sex life.

You must teach this concept to your husband, if possible. Help him to understand that anything reducing your self-esteem will probably be translated into bedroom problems. In fact, any disrespect that he reveals for you as a person is almost certain to crop up in your physical relationship.

In this regard, our sexual behavior differs radically from the mechanistic responses of lower animals. The emotional elements simply cannot be denied or suppressed in human beings.

Q. I have never felt beautiful or even attractive to the opposite sex. Does this explain why I am extremely modest, even being ashamed to be seen in a bathing suit?

A. Modesty has its origins in our imperfect human nature. For many, modesty is a product of early home life. Those who were taught to conceal themselves compulsively in front of other family members usually carry that excessive modesty even into their marital relationships. It can turn legitimate sexual experiences into a self-conscious obligation.

Another source of extreme modesty is the one you mentioned, and it is probably the most powerful. Those who are ashamed of their bodies are highly motivated to conceal them. One of the greatest fears among junior high students is that they will have to disrobe and shower in front of their peers. Boys and girls alike are terrified by the possibility of ridicule for their lack of development (or precociousness). This embarrassment is often retained in the adult years with feelings of inferiority stamped all over it.

Q. My sister struggles with feelings of low self-esteem much of the time. I have a hard time understanding what she is experiencing. Can you put into words what people go through when they feel inadequate and inferior?

A. I will try to express the troubling thoughts and anxieties which reverberate through the backroads of an insecure mind. It is sitting alone in a house during the quiet afternoon hours, wondering why the phone doesn't ring... wondering why you have no "real" friends. It is longing for someone to talk to, soul to soul, but knowing there is no such person worthy of your trust. It is feeling that "they wouldn't like me if they knew the real me." It is becoming terrified when speaking to a group of your peers, and feeling like a fool when you get home.

It is wondering why other people have so much more talent and ability than you do. It is feeling incredibly ugly and sexually unattractive. It is admitting that you have become a failure as a wife and mother. It is disliking everything about yourself and wishing, constantly wishing, you could be someone else. It is feeling unloved, unlovable, lonely and sad. It is lying in bed after the family is asleep, pondering the vast emptiness inside and longing for unconditional love. It is intense self-pity. And more than any other factor, it is the root cause of depression.

UNL conducting study

The unique qualities of intermarried couples are the subject of a new study at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Previous research has overlooked many aspects of interracial couples, especially those aspects that promote healthy functioning.

Stephanie Mueller, graduate student in the UNL Department of Family and Consumer Sciences, has highlighted the fact that previous studies have not investigated the coping mechanisms and strengths these couples possess which enable them to function effectively.

Ask Karen... Q. I only wore my gown one time. Does it need to be cleaned before I put it away? A. Only time will tell if the garment is stained, and then it's often too late. We often get prom dresses, bridesmaid's gowns and other formal wear several months after they've been worn. Stains, especially perspiration, can be harder to find and remove from delicate clothing. The sooner you have it cleaned, the better your chances of wearing the dress or perhaps selling it second hand. K&G Cleaners & Gifts -14 Locations - Call to find the one nearest you.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Coming to the library soon!!! The model of the new Library/Senior Center will be on display at the library from Jan. 8 through 19! This is an exciting display. Plan to drop in to see the architect's model of the project.

Winter Story Hour series has been set for Saturday mornings from Jan. 13 through March 30 at 10:30 a.m. A number of people in the community have volunteered to read to the children, with staff members assisting. Mark the dates on your calendar, Mothers!

With many thanks to the Eagles Auxiliary members, the library has purchased a number of Large Print Books, which are on the LP shelf.

We are grateful to the Grace Lutheran Duo Club for a new children's video, "Red Boots for Christmas," produced by the Lutheran Hour Ministries. Thank you.

And a warm thank you to the Acme Club who placed a book in the library in memory of Geneva Beckner. "My War" by Andy Rooney is an interesting account of his World War II experiences.

We would also like to take this holiday season to thank our Grandmapa Volunteers: Ted and Lois Youngerman, Carolyn McEvoy, Bev Ruwe, Chuck and Lil Surber, Mariah Ritze, Bonnie Sandahl and those who substitute in a crunch — Rodella Wacker, Betty Ream, Erna Karel and Twyla Lindsay. These people bring the gift of reading to our young children in daycare homes.

We extend our best wishes for a happy and prosperous 1996 to all from the library staff — Jolene Klein, Dorothy Stevenson, Mary Carstens, Sara Granberg and Sarah Moje.

Library hours for the new year are the same as the old! Monday through Friday, 12:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m.

CARD OF THANKS

In Memory of Edward Kirchner. God saw you getting tired. When a cure was not to be. So He closed His arms around you and whispered "Come to Me". You didn't deserve what you went through. And so He gave you rest. God's garden must be beautiful. He only takes the best. And when I saw you sleeping. So peaceful and free from pain, I could not wish you back. To suffer that again.
-Author Unknown

Words can't ever express our gratitude to everyone for the many acts of kindness we received at the time of the loss of our father, Edward Kirchner. VFW AUXILIARY

The Allen Keagle Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary of Post 5765 met at the home of Mary Alice Uecht on Dec. 19. The annual Christmas potluck supper and meeting was attended by 10 members. A thank you note from the Wakefield elementary teachers and staff was read regarding the refreshments served on Nov. 22. The auxiliary purchased a Christmas gift for a Wakefield Care Center resident, who is a World War II veteran.

Activities during 1995 included the annual VFW Buddy Poppy sales, participation in the Memorial Day program at the Wakefield Cemetery and presentation of a US flag to the Wakefield Health Care Center on Flag Day. A flag was also presented to the ESU #1 during the dedication and open house of the new building on Aug. 8. Both flags had been flown over the US Capitol.

Several members participated along with the VFW Post in the 42nd annual flag-raising ceremony at the Wakefield Community School. President Alice Johnson and senior vice president Regina Lühr participated in the Labor Day Victory +50 parade.

Members attending the September birthday and bingo party at the Norfolk Veterans Home were Arlene Benson, Virginia Johnson, Mabel Lubberstedt and Mary Alice Uecht.

Donations were made to the National VFW Children's Home, the Camp-A-Vet program, the Norfolk Veterans Home and the Department Auxiliary "Red Rose" Cancer project.

Ten members of the local VFW Auxiliary have held membership for 40 or more years. Ladies receiving awards from the Department of Nebraska VFW Auxiliary are Priscilla Eaton, Elaine Holm, Vivienne Hugelmann, Louise Nelson, Margaret Turner and Mary Alice Uecht, all of Wakefield.

Out-of-town members honored included Bernita Becker of Norfolk, Miriam Coe of Sioux City, Blanka Anderson and Esther Grafias, both in the state of Washington.

There will be no January meeting. The Feb. 20 meeting will be at the city council room.

TO OFFER HOT MEALS

Humpy Dumpty Day Care of Wakefield recently received approval to serve hot meals at the center through the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP). The center began serving hot meals to the children on Jan. 2.

The meals will be prepared by the Wakefield Senior Center staff.

Information on the program has been sent to all families who currently have children enrolled in the Day Care. Free and reduced price meals are available under guidelines related to household size and income criteria.

Participants need to apply for this benefit and application forms may be obtained from center directors Kathy Looe and Kaye McAtee.

Angela Freeman will receive the Gold Award, the highest achievement in Girl Scouting. Megan Adkins and Dena Stapelman will both receive the Silver Award, the highest achievement in Cadet Scouting.

Laurel Girl Scouts honored

Three Laurel Girl Scouts will receive the highest awards in scouting during ceremonies Sunday at the Laurel United Methodist Church.

Angela Freeman will receive the Gold Award and Megan Adkins and Dena Stapelman will both receive the Silver Award.

The Gold Award is the highest achievement in Girl Scouting. To earn this award expresses a special commitment to self, community, world and the future through career exploration, developing leadership skills, earning interest project patches, receiving the Girl Scout Challenge and completing the Gold Award project. Miss Freeman is the first Laurel Girl Scout to receive this honor.

Her Gold Award project consisted of designing, planning and organizing the building of a sign for Hillcrest Care Center in Laurel.

Angela began as a Brownie Girl Scout and has been in the scouting program in Laurel all the way through the Senior level. As a scout, she has traveled with her troop on canoe trips, camping trips and to Fort Robinson.

She was selected by Prairie Hills Girl Scout Council to travel to two day camps and special events, Camp Crossed Arrows for four years, canoe trips on the Niobrara River, Nebraska Sandhills Camping and numerous local troop activities and camp-outs.

For her Silver Award project, Megan organized a clothes bag-a-thon involving Laurel-Concord elementary students, the Glad Bag Corporation and Guernsey Nurseries. Over 70 bags of clothing were collected, sorted and distributed to Haven House, Ronald McDonald House and Goodwill.

Miss Adkins is the daughter of Rick and Joan Adkins of Laurel and a sophomore at Laurel-Concord High School.

Miss Stapelman worked with the Cedar County Sheriff's Office in fingerprinting 26 area youth during the 1995 Laurel Ag Days for her Silver Award Project. Organization and advertisement of the event were involved in her project.

A sophomore at Laurel-Concord High School, Miss Stapelman is the daughter of Gary and Deb Stapelman of Laurel.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony and reception.

Pearson earns doctorate from Iowa State

Paul L. Pearson, son of Mae and the late Dale Pearson of rural Wakefield has successfully defended his doctoral thesis at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa. His thesis is entitled "The prepubertal ontogeny of neuropeptides in the male Meishan pig brain."

Pearson's research described the neuroanatomical localization and development of neuropeptide Y, galanin and luteinizing hormone-releasing hormone in the Meishan pig, a Chinese breed studied primarily for its superior reproductive characteristics. These studies provide the first comprehensive description of these peptides important in the control of food intake, growth and reproduction in the pig brain.

Pearson will be presented by his major professor, Dr. Carol Jacobson, at commencement ceremonies on Fri. May, 10, 1996 at 7 p.m. The ceremonies will be held at C.Y. Stephens Auditorium at the Iowa State Center in Ames. He will be conferred the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Veterinary Anatomy with an interdepartmental major in Molecular, Cellular and Developmental Biology.

College providing skylink

Wayne State College has been working with Pat Gross, Senior Vice President at State National Bank in Wayne and Karen Miller, Director of Education for the Nebraska Bankers Association in Lincoln, as a Skylink satellite hub for bankers in northeast Nebraska.

American Financial Skylink is a satellite communications network training service operated by the American Bankers Association. Skylink provides the most up-to-date bank training and information to subscribing bankers in the fastest and most cost-effective way available today.

"We find it extremely helpful to get banking issues in a timely manner," said Gross.

Skylink, originating out of Washington DC, uses a satellite to broadcast weekly two-hour programs to bankers. These programs are broken down into five 20 minute segments for each functional area of the bank. Wayne State College provides this satellite service for northeast Nebraska bankers.

Jim Maly, audio-visual service technician at Wayne State, downlinks a two-hour educational program once a week for the bankers and tapes the program directly off satellite onto video.

Gross, who coordinates with WSC and the Nebraska Bankers Association, distributes these tapes to State National Bank and 20 member banks who come from northeast Nebraska and include all three Wayne banks.

Wayne State arranges for employees and representatives from member banks to meet on the campus two or three times a year to receive training directly from the satellite.

"We are really appreciative of Wayne State's willingness to cooperate with area rural community. It is an indication to its on-going commitment to economic development and growth in the entire region," said Gross.
