Jaycees leading effort to support minimum-age laws

Wayne retailers have joined in a community-wide effort to reduce access to cigarettes and other age-related products to underage people, according to the Wayne according to the Wayne Jaycees/Junior Chamber, who are leading this effort through their Javcees Against Youth Smoking (JAYS) Program.

"I've yet to meet anyone who believes that kids should smoke, but Nebraska's minimum-age sales restriction is worthless unless retailers and our entire community make the effort to recognize and support the law," said Nancy Modrell, chairman of the Wayne County

JAYS Program. The JAYS Program, a nationwide U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce service project aimed at reducing youth smoking, was formally launched in Wayne in Jan-uary. Already, it is gaining widespread support from within the community, having gotten en-dorsements from Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau and commitments of participation from several area businesses

Through the JAYS Program, Jaycees visit with area retailers and ask them to sign a "Responsible Merchant Pledge" stating their commitment to maintain a strict policy of checking identification for all age-restricted products and to promote awareness of age restriction laws in their stores.

In addition, Jaycees provide signs proclaiming "We Check IDs" and other materials to help deter young people from attempting to buy cigarettes and reduce access to age-restricted products Participating retail stores can be

County election ballot takes shape

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

The ballot of the May primary is beginning to take shape. The deadline for incumbents to file for reelection was Feb. 15 with incum-bents having until March 1 to file for election. County Clerk Deb Finn has released a listing of those who have filed for various offices, both incumbents and new filings.

With the exception of District 95R, Winside Board of Education, none of the offices have any competition at this point. We have had several inquiries into the positions that are open, however no one has actually filed for any of these positions," Finn said.

"At the present time, we have four incumbents who have chosen not to file for re-election. Those are on the Noxious Weed Control Board, the third ward of the Wayne City Council, the District 17 Board of Education and the District 95R Board of Education," Finn added.

The following is a summary of positions and the number of perons who will be elected to each: County Commissioner, Second District--one position. Robert Nis-sen, an incumbent has filed for the position

Noxious Weed Control Board-three rural positions. Don Harmeier and Don Pippitt, incumbents, have filed for the position. Wayne City Council--one posi-tion per ward. First ward, Douglas A. Sturm; second ward, Datrel Fuelberth: third watch no one has filed; fourth ward, Jane O'Leary, All three are incumbents.

Wayne Municipal Airport Au-thority--one position. Mitchell Nissen, an incumbent, has filed for this position. District 17 Board of Education-- three positions. Phyllis J. Spethman and Marion A. Arneson, in-cumbents have filed for these positions

District 95R Board of Education--three -three positions. Connie R. Bargstadt and Daniel L. Jaeger, incumbents, and Ken Kollath, Jean Suchl and Scott D. Waters, new filings, are vying for the positions. Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, Subdistrict 1--one position. No one has filed.

Lower Elkhorn Natural Re-sources District, Subdistrict 5--one position. Merlin L. Frevert, an in-cumbent, has filed for the position.

Republican Delegates to County Convention -- if more than three persons file from any given precinct, the names will be placed on a ballot and elected in the Primary Election to represent the precinct. Fourth Ward, Deb Dickey; Hoskins, Charles F. Maas and Virginia Maas.

The Democratic party allows for unlimited representation at the County Convention.

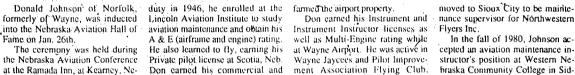

The filing deadline is August 1 for the Village Board of Trustees and Wayne County Bublic Power. and There has been a change in state statute. The Village Board of Trustees are now elected in the gen-eral election and take office in December," Finn said.

Carroll Board of Trustees-three positions. No one has filed.

WSC helps sponsor McGruff program

Wayne State College is helping to sponsor the McGruff crime prevention program for the state of Nebraska. The program is aimed at providing safe havens for children who are injured, scared, lost or feel they are in danger.

Jeff Ottens, a WSC campus se curity officer and state McGruff coordinator, says that Wayne State has decided to become more active regionally and statewide in the crime prevention program.

"Wayne State wants to play a helpful role. I am coordinating the program with the Nebraska Crime Prevention Association on behalf of Wayne State.

The goal of the McGruff House and Truck program is to provide safe places for children who may be in dangerous situations. Volunteers from the community take a training course and must undergo background checks. They are then given sign to place in the window of their homes or on their trucks.

Ottens' role as state McGruff coordinator includes setting up contacts, putting together information for a statewide newsletter to help set up new programs and other public relations work.

I act as an extensive data base to make sure that programs have the materials and information they nced." Ottens said.

Ottens said there are approximately 30-40 safe havens in Wayne: He hopes to raise the number even higher.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

ast week we were suddenly transported back into the murky time of LBC (Life Before Computers) when our circulation computer de-veloped a strange malady and the keyboard locked up on us. That meant all transactions were written down - all fines were computed the old way (LBC) by counting on our fingers — and the date the book(s) were due was figured LBC! Isn't it amazing how quickly one surrenders such transactions to the computer? Eventually, the malady was diagnosed and corrected and we are now back in LAF (Life After Computers) and glad of it! We are grateful to our patrons for their patience while waiting to check out books and materials.

Speaking of computing fines incurred on late materials, we might mention that the fine for overdue books is 5¢ per book per day, pay able when the book is returned. This includes lines on late magazines as well. The line for overdue videos is 25¢ per day, with a check out period of three days. The one day allowed for overdues does not apply to videos. $3 is the maximum fine charged per item. (Replacement cost for lost items is added to the fine.). The computer calculates the fines for us and indicates on the screen the amount due. When the fine reaches the maximum, the computer restricts that patron from check-ing out any books or materials until the fine is paid.

A date due card is placed in the book for your convenience in remembering when to return materials. We recommend that you leave the date due card in the pocket. If you remove it for use as a book mark, for example, you may find it difficult to find the right date due. You may renew books for a second two week period, either by calling or coming in to the library. If you phone, please be ready to give us your name, the title of the book or the bar code on the cover of the book. Magazines and videos are not renewable.

Don't forget our Winter Story Hours each Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. for 3 to 7 year olds. They continue through March 30. New adult fiction on the shelf: "The Cat Who Said Checse" by Lil-ian Jackson Braun, "Mirage" by Soheir Khashoggi, "The Brimstone Wedding" by Barbara Vine (Ruth Rendell), "The Hellfire Club" by Peter Straub, "Snow Falling on Cedars" by David Guterson and "The Red Scream" by Mary Willis Walker. If we do not have a certain book you are looking for we may be able to get it through Inter Library Loan. There is a $2 fee to cover online search and mailing costs if we are successful in obtaining the book. Ask at the desk for help.

Library hours are Monday through Friday, 12:30 to 8:30; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday alternoons from 2 to 5. Come up and see us sometime. Our middle name is help!

Kudos to legislators

An intoxicated driver heading for a wreck is as dangerous as an armed robber Nebraska legislators recently gave second-round approval to a bill that would change the chemical test advisements given to drunk driving suspects after they are arrested.

The bill would significantly abbreviate the advisements that law enforcement personnel must give to any person required to take a chemical blood, breath or urine test. This test could lead to the instantaneous revocation of the person's operator's license.

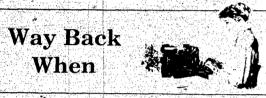

As it is right now, prior to a drunk driving suspect being asked to take such a chemical test, an officer must read a lengthy advisement form to the suspect. In some counties the advisement form is five pages long. That appears ridiculous, and LB 939 would do away with the long form, and require a suspect to be advised only that refusal to take the test would be a separate crime for which the person could be charged. The bill also mandates this advisement be included in all application forms for getting a driver's license. We applaud our legislators in their efforts toward making the arresting officer's responsibilities less complicated, and getting the inchriated driver off the road.

Drunk driving is an offense touching the entire human family. When people die from gun shot, some cry "We need gun control!" When people die at the hands of a drunk driver, it's too late to cry We need drunk control!

LB 939 should be helpful to law enforcement and therefore aid in protecting the public.

We encourage the Legislature to pass LB 939.

turning in time for the 10 p.m.

Few people, he said, can get six months off their jobs to serve in the Legislature. But those that can have to ask themselves, is it worth it? Can I afford to take time off and give up income from my regular job for the $12,000-a-year salary paid to state senators?

On top of that, can I raise the $30,000 to $70,000 necessary to mount a serious campaign? Fewer and fewer people appear to be answering those questions in the affirmative. Nebraska voters will likely get a chance to improve legislators' salaries this November. Speaker of the Legislature Ron Withem of Papillion has made proposal to raise senators' salary to 16,116 his personal priority bill. Withem said the increase would just about mirror how much inflation has increased since voters last anproved a pay increase eight years ago.

Increasing legislative salaries would help the situation - most people agree on that - bút it wouldn't come close to addressing the bigger issues of why more people don't run for the Legislature

Some supporters demand perfection

We now have two-income parents, often married more than once; learn in a 25-room school building. proud of two or more stereo speak ers; own a 21-speed bike, and have vo-car garages. Why then, aren't we twice as debt free and twice as happy as folk who lived in the "good old" days?

You've seen all those TV political ads. Sort of fun to watch . as some of those fellows can talk 1400 words a minute with gusts up to 1500, then jaytalk their way across every fragile opinion. They often-remind me of the folk who start reading a book in the middle. That way they not only are surprised how it all ends, but also surprised how it all started.

For all you new kids on the block: a shiny high-tech 1970. Cougar XR-7 could be delivered that year for $3,495. If you're thinking of buying something similar here in 1996, maybe you'd better have $34,995. We're all pursuing happiness. It just costs more

You, of course, readers, are the natural resource that is being drained. Life is a battle of wits and some are only half prepared. As we get older it is easy to be afflicted by hardening of the attitude. Have you noticed TV news types never simply say Steve Forbes, but always Millionaire Steve Forbes" and fault him for his wealth? Ouite obviously they didn't do the same with JFK. Ever remember reporters saying "Millionaire Kennedy did such and such?" No way! Ever hear the commentators say "John Kennedy has spent $10 million on his campaign and some feel he is trying to buy the presidency."? A little bias, maybe?

Have a great day!

Unique idea from the halls of Congress

How would you like to control your social Security Funds every-day. Well if the plan now being passed around the halls of Congress is accepted, you will.

Congress is looking at letting you the taxpayer invest the Social Security payroll taxes in stocks, bonds, or other investments under one of three plans being considered by a special advisory council.

If the plan is accepted, it would implement principles Republican presidential hopeful Steve Forbes has been promoting in is talk of privatizing Social Security. Under the plan, workers could invest about 40 percent of their Social Security payroll deduction in a so-called personal security ac-count, or PSA, held by private investment companies. The remaining 60 percent of payroll tax revenues would remain in the system as a basic source of Social Security funding. The PSAs would be mandatory, but workers could choose how the la ser de funds in them would be invested. in companies' 401(k) retirement acmuch as they can now put money counts. Workers also could choose to have the Social Security system invest PSA funds for them. Employers pay half the 124 percent payroll tax that goes into Social Security, and workers pay the other half. In retirement, recipients would have more choice how they are paid from their PSAs. They could get - 4 monthly amounts, a lump sum, or leave the money to their heirs. Supporters of the plan want to make it available to anyone 55 or younger by 1998.

Nothing would change for current Social Security recipients or those close to retirement age. To cover transition costs, recommendations of a one percent na-tional sales tax and some debt financing through bonds issued by the Social Security Administration are being considered. Some members of the advisory. council want minor changes in the current system. Others recommend introducing individually directed accounts on a limited basis,

The 13 member group, ap-pointed in 1994 to make recommendations to the Social Security Administration, is expected to issue its report in a few weeks. Later, Congress will get involved.

Currently, Social Security pay-roll taxes paid by 125 million-workers are invested in special issue U.S. Treasury securities that have historically yielded far less in interest than corporate shares.

Recommendations by members of the council caution in tampering with the highly popular Social Se-curity system. But with the aging population growing so rapidly. many believe the time has come to increase investment options whether that be simply investing Social Security funds in the equity market or creating small or large scale individual accounts.

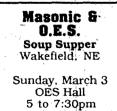

One council member favors raising the retirement age and creating individual accounts from 1.6 percent of the payroll deduction. Workers could choose how to in-vest that amount, but it would be held by Social Security rather than a private investment firm.

In retirement, the benefits would be added to the monthly Social Se-curity payment.

The most modest change being considered would infuse money into the system by raising taxes on So-cial Security benefits, combined with a large-scale investment of Social Security funds in higheryielding equities.

The system now pays benefits to . 43 million retirees and people on disability but is expected to come up short in 2029.

A nice idea, one that should have been looked at more closely years ago.

fifth-grade class with two or three kids who are driving me crazy. Can you offer some tips to help me gain control? A. First, you must decide what is motivating the disruptive behavior. It takes no great social scientist to recognize that the loud mouths are usually seeking the attention of the group. For them, anonymity is the most painful experience imaginable. 1 once worked with a giddy little sixth-grader named Larry, whose mouth never shut. He perpetually disrupted the tranquillity of his class, setting up a barrage of silliness, wise remarks and horseplay. His teacher and I constructed an isolated area in a remote corner of the classroom, and from that spot he could see nothing but his teacher and the front of the room.

Thereafter, Larry was sentenced to a week in the isolation booth whenever the chose to be disruptive. Certainly, he could still act silly behind the screen, but he could not see the effect he was having on his peers. Besides this limitation, each outburst lengthened his lonely isolation. Larry spent one entire month in relative solitude before his disruptive behavior as extinguished.

When he rejoined society, his teacher immediately began to reward his cooperation. He was given the high-status jobs (messenger, sergeant-at-arms, etc.) and praised for the improvement he had made, The results were remarkable.

Some school districts have implemented a more structured form of "extinction" for their worst behavioral problems. The students who are seemingly incapable of classroom cooperation are assigned to special classes-consisting of 12 to 15 students. These youngsters are then placed on a program called "systematic exclusion." The parents are informed that the only way their child can remain in a public school is for them to come and get him if they are called during the school day. The child is then told that he can come to school each morning, but the moment he breaks one of the well-defined rules, he will be sent home.

He might be ejected for pushing other pupils in the line at 9:01 a.m., or he may make it until 1:15 before dismissal occurs. There are no second chances, although the child is free to return at the start of school the following morning. Despite the traditional belief that children hate school, most of them hate staying home even more. Daytime television gets pretty monoto-nous, particularly under the hostile eye of a mom who has had to interrupt her work or activities to come get her wayward son. Disruptive be-havior is very quickly extinguished under this controlled setting. It just isn't profitable for the student to challenge the system. Positive reinforcement in the form of verbal and material rewards are then generously applied for the child's attempts to learn and study.

All that is required to use this principle of extinction in a particular classroom is a little creativity and the administrative authority to implement.

Q. I know it is my responsibility to teach Ricky, my preteenager, the essentials of reproduction and sex education before he reaches adolescence. But what else should I tell him?

A. He must be told, among other things, about the dramatic physical changes that are about to occur within his body when he hits adolescence. I have found that uninformed teenagers fall into two broad categories: The first group doesn't know these changes are coming and are worried sick by what they see happening. The second group is aware that certain features are supposed to appear and are anxious because the changes are late in arriving.

That's why doubt and fears are so common during the adolescent years. Yet, they can be avoided by healthy, confident parental instruction before the fears develop.

Laurel girls advance to State

Laurel-Concord (19-3) advanced to the state tournament for the first time with a 60-47 win over Creighton Tuesday.

The Lady Bears opened up a 14-8 lead after one quarter and led 32-18 at the half. Creighton trimmed the lead to 42-32 after three quarters, but Laurel scored the first 10 points of the final period to nail down the victory.

"It is a thrill for our leam to qualify for state," said Head Coach Rick Petri. "We were in control throughout the contest. The team has worked hard throughout the year

"It was an excellent win for our team," said Head Coach Rick Petri. "We played outstanding defense." The girls were able to limit the number of Randolph's offensive rebounds and forced them into some uncharacteristic turnovers. After Becky Schroeder fouled out our team really responded down the stretch ... I'd like to commend Randolph and coach Robin Reed for an outstanding season.

'Cats place 4th; Bowers, Brummels, Mohr also medal By Lee Koch

pleased with his teams' performance at the State wrestling meet in Lincoln last weekend, even though his Wildcats didn't live up to his pre-meet expectations by making a run at the team title and/or finishing third or higher. Winside finished in a tic for fourth with Creighton along with bringing home four state medals including an individual championship for Wildcat Josh Jacger in the 140 pound weight class.

Jacger dominated his weight class, winning by injury default over Haring of Franklin, pinning Spohr of Eriend, winning by a 13 6' score over No. 1 rated Craig Hilker of Arapahoe and defeating Mike Morgan of Republican Valley to earn his gold medal. Jaeger followed in his father Daves tootsteps, becoming the Wildcars 22nd state champion and 88th state medal winner. Dave Jaeger was Winside's second state champion, wrestling at 112 pounds in 1972. Josh had told his dad prior to the state meet that his goal in Lincoln was to win a gold medal and have his photo statuette placed beside his dad's in the Wildcat trophy case. Cory Brummels and Lucas

Mohr, who both finished third, and Justin Bowers, who placed fifth joined Jacger as medal winners, while eight of the 10 Wildcats won at least one match in Lincoln. "We had a very good state tournament," said Sok, "but not a great one: Eight of our 10 kids won a match and seven of them will be back next year. There is no substitute for experience and Ethink we were a bit nervous the first day. - Sok-lects his Wildcats had an outstanding season overall, winning eight tournaments, including a win at Ainsworth over Class D state champion'Rushville. He also is happy that his team had 19 wrestlers win matches during the season and that all of them spent a lot of time on the mats.

Simons earns coaching honor

WAYNE --- Keith Simons, assistant football coach at Wayne State College, has been named the 1995 NCAA Division II Offensive Coordinator of the Year by the American Football Quarterly.

Simons; who recently completed his seventh season as offensive coordinator, has helped develop WSC into one of the nation's top offensive units over the last several seasons. During the 1995 campaign, the Wildcats finished the season ranked second in the nation in total offense at 470.1 yards per game. It marked the third straight season that the Wildeats were ranked in the top three in total offense. In 1993, WSC led the nation at 581.5 yards per game, while it was third in 1994 at 495.2 yards per game.

Gritton resigns to accept head coaching job

WAYNE - Mark Gritton, defensive coordinator at Wayne State" College the last six seasons, has resigned from his position to become the head football coach at West Hills College in Coalinga, California.

Over the last six years, Gritton molded a strong and aggressive Wildcat defense. During his tenure; the Wildcats were ranked nationally in several defensive categories. During the 1993 and 1994 seasons, WSC ranked in the Top 20 in defense. In 1994, the Wildcats also ranked third in pass efficiency defense, while in 1993, WSC led the nation in punt return yardage at 19.1 yards per return.

for the first game of the season," said Head Coach John Manganaro. "Joe pitched pretty well. It was his first time out and it was hard for him to find his rhythm. He was a little wild, but he had good stuff." Pittsburgh State picked up the win in game two, no-hitting the 'Cats and winning 2-0. Junior Nate Corman was throwing strikes for Wayne State. The right hander threw, only 68 pitches in six innings, didn't walk a batter and allowed only two uncarned runs. The Wildcats couldn't muster any offense however and the Gorillas scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth. WSC had a chance in the seventh, but sophomore Scott Cooper grounded out to the shortstop with the bases loaded.

"We didn't swing the bats loaded, said Manganaro, "They had a big left-hander throwing. He changed speeds well and kind of baffled us."

Defensively, we have to play much better. We didn't make routine better. plays when we had to make them. If we're going to be a good learn we have to make routine plays, put the ball in play and throw strikes. We did one of the three.

Wildcat record falls in 500-meter dash

Sophomore Travis Fredricksen smashed the Wayne State school record in the 500 meter dash, with his second place finish at the University of South Dakota "Fast Chance" meet on Saturday. Clocked in 1:06.0, he finished just two seconds behind ten-time All-American Tom Dow of Augustana to break the old school record of 1:08.08, sets by Dave Patten in 1992. "This was a breakthrough race for Travis," said sprints coach Blair

¹¹ Marelli. "Now he knows he can run under 50 seconds for 400 meters." Fredrickson also ran a 2:01.7 split on the 4 x 800 relay team that placed seventh in 8:22.4—his first-ever race at that distance. The women's distance medley relay team of Michelle Baatz, Amy Gudmundson, Kathy Dalton and Stefanic Senn also broke a school record, clocking 12:53.2 for first place. That was more than 20 seconds beded of returner up. South Dakon and Stefanic teach to be able of the school record of the approximate the south Dakon and the school second seconds. ahead of runner-up South Dakota and broke the old school record of

13:52.6 from 1984 by nearly a minute, "Stefanie really won it for us," said head track coach Brian Kavanaugh. "South Dakota was only a second or two behind us at the exchange and pulled even with Stef by 800 meters. However, Stef put the hammer down in the last half and clocked a personal best of 5:21.2 for 1600 meters in the process."

12 The Wayne Herald, Thursday, February 22, 1996 Making change work for you

Change -- constant and often rapid — is probably the most no-ticeable characteristic of life as we appropriate 21st century. Life has changed considerably in the past few decades. Families get started later and are smaller. Neighborhoods change as people relocate, change jobs, go back to work. With society changing so rapidly it's not surprising that government, universities and businesses are changing rapidly, too.

How do you react to change? People's responses vary, but here are some of the most common human reactions;

Denial: This is probably the least productive of human responses to change. It involves convincing yourself that things change for other people or in other jobs, but won't change fr you. The fact is that changes occur all the time and affect us all.

Lip Service: This involves talking a good game, trying to per-suade others that you think change is fine and that you are prepared to change. In the meantine, you just go on acting exactly as you did beforc.

Not Mes In this tactic, people expect others to do the necessary changing and to make any adjustment to change that have to be made.

Least Resistance: This is a sort of "go with the flow" tech-nique, in which people simply accept change and make the least

Sabotage: Some people try It's a strategy people may use when they appear to be trying to do so, but somehow they just can't learning a new skill to enhance those you already possess, or one that you think will be very much in demand in the future.

Change, whether it is desirable r not, is usually stressful. hanges almost always cause people to feel uneasy. And, feeling uncertain or apprehensive about things in your life, and especially about big things, puts a great deal of pressure on you. Here are some things you can do to minimize the stress of change and to emphasize the opportunity rather than the risk.

Minimize the stress. Talk to a trusted friend about how you might cope. Find a physical activity you like and do it regularly. Exercise is a great stress reliever. Don't give in to discouragement. Focus on the skills and abilities you possess --- they are your door to new opportunities.

Emphasize the opportunity. Don't fight change — deal with it. Look for ways to make it work to your advantage. Be realistic about what you expect. Don't ex-pect the worst — it often doesn't happen. But don't have unreasonably high expectations either. Develop skills in areas you see as having value in the future. And finally maintain an optimistic atti-tude. Optimists not only feel better about themselves and their lives but actually tend to manage their lives better whatever happens.

Nebraska farmers attend U.S. Feed Grains Council

Nebraska farmers who attended 36th annual membership meeting of the U.S. Feed Grains Council (USFGC) were told that world demand and use for corn is exceeding production, creating tremendous opportunities for Nebraska com farmers. food and industrial uses worldwide

Among those attend the meeting in San Antonio, Texas was Bob Dickey of Laurel, chairman of the Nebraska Com Board who serves as treasurer of the USFGC.

Speakers at the meeting noted there is only a 46-day supply of world grain stocks, U.S. corn stocks are at the lowest level in 20 years and U.S. corn exports of more than two billion bushels are 60 percent higher than a decade ago. Weather problems in competitor countries and economic and population growth in developing countries have resulted in increased demand for U.S. corn," Dickey said. "Nebraska farmers will play a valuable role in the future in producing enough corn for feed,
