120TH YEAR — NO. 24

Council puts WayNET on hold

By Susie Ensz
Of the Herald

The Wayne City Council met on Tuesday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. Members absent were Ralph Barclay and Patty Wieland.

The Council discussed an interlocal agreement between the Wayne Community Schools to allow members of the community and the city to provide community educational access to information technology networks. WayNET is the agency created to oversee this educational access to the Internet. This will enable the public to learn to use the Internet without dialing long distance. In a previous meeting, the council approved $14,000 to upgrade telecommunication capabilities.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau supported the resolution. "This is a long time coming, a lot of work has been done, and we are ready to get started," said Lindau. She sees this as an opportunity for the public to become familiar with the new technology.

Council member, Jane O'Leary, raised some concerns with the WayNET project. "There is already a budget-a tax base for education. Why are we getting involved in this . . . although we've granted the funding, we don't need to perpetuate this as a joint venture," said O'Leary. Other concerns she raised were lawsuits involving inappropriate use of the Internet and businesses using the system as a way to promote their business.

The resolution did not pass because of the council members absent and the nay votes O'Leary and Utecht. However, approval was given to place the matter on the next agenda.

In other action, the Council accepted the bid of Christiansen Construction Company on the demolition/construction phase of the Power Plant expansion project. The cost for this project is higher than what the City estimated, according to Wayne City Administrator, Joseph Salitros, and cost-cutting options will be researched.

The Council agreed to discuss, in two weeks, the final plot of the replat of Lots 3, 5, 6, and 7, Block 1, Vintage Hill First Addition.

Plan specifications will be reviewed before further decisions are made.

Resolutions adopted were the award of contract to LP Gill on the Logan Street widening project, authorizing the administrator to apply for public transportation act funds and the establishment of water and sewer services and use rates. Regarding the latter, an ordinance was passed providing the city will furnish 3/4" by 3/4" water meters and title to all water meters shall remain vested in the city.

The council approved an application for a special designated liquor permit for White Dog Pub.

Annual reports were given by Gene Hansen on electric production and Jolene Klein on the Wayne Public Library.

Wayne wins national contest

Wayne High School announced this week that it is among the 50 (the only one in Nebraska) Grand Prize Winners of the 1996 Daimler-Benz Award of Excellence.

The award, a global awareness program sponsored by the Goethe Institute and Daimler-Benz, is administered through the Be a Sport, Join In! contest.

A school committee will now choose one of its students to join a group of young Americans and Canadians on a three-week all expense-paid study tour of Germany.

Approximately 70 students participated from Wayne participated in the contest. "They faced stiff competition this year, as over 220,000 students entered from throughout the United States and Canada," said Edith Zahniser, who along with Bill Sharpe and Ron Carnes, administered the contest to students in German, history and social studies classes.

The contest tested students' knowledge of contemporary Germany, dealing with educational, political and everyday issues of modern Germany and its reunited capital. The students view a video, hosted by Olympic champion skater Katarina Witt, on sports in Germany, experienced different regions and customs in Germany, learned the differences between the German and North American sports scene and answered quiz type questions about the video and accompanying poster.

Wayne students have participated in the contest for the past five years and has received a number smaller prizes in the past.

Those students in the 10th and 11th grade who took part in the contest are now eligible to write an essay on how they would represent Wayne High in Germany if they were chosen for the trip.

The three teachers and Dr. Donald Zeiss, principal at Wayne High will then make a decision on who will represent the school.

The selection will take place in the next two weeks, with the name of the school's winner due by April 1.

Legislature discusses rural health care

By Stan Schellpeper
District 18 Senator

Rural health care has always been a priority issue of mine. Through the years I have worked closely with the Department of Health and the Rural Health Advisory Commission to further rural health issues in Nebraska. This year I introduced LB 1210, legislation which would amend the Rural Health Systems and Professional Incentive Act of 1991. A student loan program was created in 1979 which has awarded loans to medical students who agree to practice in a rural area. The program has been very effective, but it takes about seven years before you actually have a medical professional practicing in the field.

In 1991 an additional loan repayment program was created to compliment the existing program. Funded in 1994, the loan repayment program provides assistance with educational debts for newly-graduated health professionals who agree to practice in a rural health shortage area. Loan repayment comes from the state with an equal match of community funds. With this program we don't experience the seven-year delay and it has resulted in the place of 22 health professionals in Nebraska shortage areas in just one year of operation.

LB 1210 will further assist with the placement of health professionals into rural areas by expanding eligibility for the loan repayment program to health professionals that are currently practicing, but who are willing to relocate to rural areas in order to have their educational debt forgiven. A second part of this bill will change the definition of shortage areas. Currently there are two levels of shortage as well as two levels of incentive. This was originally done to give a strong incentive to practice in more critically short areas (50% loan forgiveness in shortage areas and 100% in critical shortage areas). In reality, it has created a burdensome accounting process for the state and the health professional. LB 1210 provides for one shortage area with one incentive (full loan forgiveness). As a result of this change, I believe we will see a greater retention of health professionals, which will be of great benefit to rural communities who need quality health care. LB 1210 has been amended into LB 1155, the Health and Human Services Committee's priority bill, and has advanced from its first round of floor debate to Select File. I will continue to work to advance this legislation into law and to provide for increased health care opportunities in rural Nebraska.

A legislative bill that many Nebraskans have been following very closely is LB 901. This is the bill that proposes to increase the speed limits on Nebraska highways. As proposed, the speed limit would be increased from 65 to 75 miles per hour (m.p.h.) on the interstate system, from 55 to 65 m.p.h. on divided four-lane roadways, from 55 to 60 m.p.h. on regular two-lane roads and the speed limit would remain at 55 m.p.h. on paved county roads.

I supported this legislation and I will also support an amendment that would allow for travel at 65 m.p.h. on some two-lane roads. Nebraska roads have been designed to accommodate the proposed speed limits and new automotive technology has created vehicles which are safe to drive at the increased rate of speed.

I would, however, support discretion for the Department of Roads to lower or maintain current speed limits in situations where traffic and road conditions would warrant a reduced rate to provide for safe travel.

If you have any comments on these or other legislative issues, please contact my office at 402-471-2801 or e-mail me at sshellpeper@unicam3.lcs.state.ne.us.

Senators debate several issues

By Senator Pat Engel
District 17
Legislative Update

LB 1044, better known as the Health Partnership Project, would merge four state agencies—Health, Social Services, Public Institutions, Aging and the Office of Juvenile Services—into three new agencies. One agency will deal with services to clients. One agency will deal with the money, paying for the services. The third will evaluate what government is doing. Each of these three agencies will have its own director, but in practice, these three agencies will be under the direction of the Policy Secretary, who will be appointed by the Governor.

LB 1044 would be the first step in streamlining the agencies. Next year, legislators would consider how to redistribute the health and welfare programs among new agencies of services, financing and regulation in order to prevent duplication of health and human services and control costs of programs that consume about 30 percent of state tax funds. The reorganization would affect half of all non-university state employees, or about 6,000 workers and agencies that serve about 200,000 Nebraskans a year and has been called one of the largest restructuring efforts in state government history.

Amendments were adopted to require a report on whether the restructuring would result in lower taxes; to protect the confidentiality of client records; and to reduce the number of governor-appointed employees that would be allowed in the agencies.

LB 901, the speed limit bill, was debated this week and the Legislature adjourned prior to taking a vote to advance LB 901 from first-round debate. LB 901 was introduced after the federal government rescinded a law that set 65 as the national speed limit on Interstates. I did propose an amendment to the bill, changing the speed limit on rural interstates to 70 mph, which failed to advance.

The federal speed cap began in 1974 as an energy-saving measure during the Middle East oil embargo.

When highway deaths dropped to 9,000 the next year, the law was proclaimed a life saver. States were later permitted to set a 65-mph limit on rural Interstates. States that failed to comply faced the threat of losing federal highway funds.

I am realistic enough to know that some people have the desire to raise speed limits. Those which are proposed for state highways and expressways in LB 901 are modest and allow the Director of Roads to reduce them if safety or design problems are apparent. We should exercise similar prudence when it comes to the rural Interstates. As a member of the Legislature, I feel we are being asked to balance the mobility of society, safety costs, social costs, insurance costs and the cost of human tragedy. A balance of convenience versus the balance of safety and in my view, safety should prevail. Safety was my prime motivation for introducing the amendment.

Legion's 29th annual Junior Law Cadet program is scheduled for June

The Nebraska American Legion's 29th annual Junior Law Cadet Program has been scheduled with identical programs for boys and girls, according to state American Legion Commander Robert Zersen. The male session is set for June 3-7, with the female session the following week on June 10-14, at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Academy located at Lincoln Air Park.

Participation in the one-week program is open to students completing eleventh grade. Two students will be selected from each of the 15 American Legion districts in Nebraska to attend each session. Application forms are available from American Legion post commanders and high school principals. Scheduled activities include classroom studies in such subjects as motor vehicle laws, court procedure, human relations, safety education and first aid; tours of state buildings and law enforcement offices; and are highlighted by field activities which include marksmanship, operating radar and other equipment and maximum performance driving.

Evening classes will be devoted to a Driver Improvement Course and special topics. Each day will begin with before-breakfast calisthenics. Cadets remain in residence during the week and will be awarded certificates of achievement at concluding ceremonies at 2 p.m. on the respective Friday afternoons, June 7 through June 14.

Commander Zersen said, "This program was developed by the American Legion's state Law and Order Committee and is offered in cooperation with the Nebraska State Patrol. Other states are now following Nebraska's leadership in developing similar programs which help youthful participants to better understand the true role of today's professional law enforcement officer."

Chairman of the Law and Order Program is Major J. E. Thompson of the Nebraska State Patrol.

Previously, the couple had operated their business in Wakefield, but when demand exceeded their equipment capabilities they expanded into a larger facility in Wayne. They opened for business in Wakefield as the Wakefield Cleaners three and a half years ago, and have continued to expand their business this past year with the purchase of the Wisner Cleaners.

K&G Cleaners also provides laundry pickup and delivery service to several other towns in Northeast Nebraska, including Allen, Bancroft, Lyons, Tekamah, Walthill, Emerson and Ponca.

In Wakefield we have teamed up with Pam Dutcher's Timeless Treasures and in Wisner with Marlene Colligan's Sunshine Shoppé. Without the support of several towns such as these and others, our business would not survive. Quality service and a better quality of life is what we hope we give back in return for your support.

Bar M

111 East 3rd St, Wayne • 375-9990

Owners Cindy and Ed Milligan and 3 part-time employees work to provide a quiet place to visit, play cards, and socialize with friends. They provide beer on tap, bar drinks and packages to go.

Cindy and Ed bought the bar Sept 1, 1995, and have been in the area all of their lives. The building was built in the 40's and the business is with its 12th owner. It has had several owners; Nu Tavern, TP's, Prenger's, and Mert's Bar are the most recent.

NPPD makes lease payments

Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) is paying 204 communities more than $3.4 million as a result of agreements leasing their electric distribution systems to NPPD, according to Wayne E. Boyd of South Sioux City, chairman of the NPPD board of directors.

The money represents the amounts payable for the fourth quarter of 1995 under the terms of the lease agreements. The money may be used by the community any way it desires, said Boyd.

NPPD operates the electric system and makes all additions and improvements to the property to maintain efficient service. NPPD pays the community 12 percent of the adjusted gross revenues realized within the community.

The money turned over to the cities and towns by NPPD at this time does not include their portion of the annual five percent gross revenue tax (in-lieu-of-tax) payments required by state law.

In addition to the money realized, the agreements between NPPD and the communities provide for a one-third discount on the electricity consumed by governmental agencies.

Investment in Great Dane

Great Dane Trailers installed a Whitney 3700 ATC 42 Punch/Plasma Fabrication Center Wednesday morning. The $700,000 piece of equipment will allow for multiple operations of sheering, punching, cutting and bending of sheet metal. The computer-controlled piece of equipment will increase efficiency and provide flexibility for designing and manufacturing a large variety of parts. Terry Hansen, plant manager, said the center, which was manufactured in Rockford, Ill., will allow the the Wayne plant to stay competitive. Two cranes were brought into the plant to unload and position the state-of-the-art piece of equipment which should be in operation within a month.

Professor has grants approved

Dr. Lynda Earring of the Wayne State College education division has received approval for two grants she has written.

A $500,000 housing grant, co-authored by Earring, will be used to build and renovate homes for Ponca Tribe members. The grant is being funded by Housing and Urban Development. A $100,000 grant has also been implemented for the study of language for Ponca Tribes in northeast Nebraska.

According to Earring, the language grant will be used to help preserve and restore the languages of the Ponca Tribes. The language is preserved through CD-ROM. Native Americans read and record onto the CD-ROM. The information is then repeated on the screen, along with the reader's image. This makes it much easier for those studying the language, because they not only hear the word being said, but they also see the person saying the word," Earring said.

"It can take up to a year to put the language onto the CD-ROM," Earring said. "We include everything from simple numbers to conversation."

Earring feels the CD-ROM will be beneficial to people wishing to study any language. "The CD-ROM allows anyone to use the service at any time. It is a media that allows you to learn at your own pace," Earring said.

Earring is currently working on writing another grant. She is hoping to duplicate the language grant for the Winnebago school.

Area sponsors provide books for first graders in local schools

Many of our local 1st graders will have a new favorite book very soon. "My Favorite Book", a very beautifully illustrated volume expressive of positive moral values, is being made available in certain local schools as a gift to 1st graders by local business leaders who are concerned about the future of our children.

With each distribution extra copies of the book are given to the school along with a professionally narrated audio cassette of the book. A copy of the volume goes home with the child to become his or her very own. Along with the book, a parents guide is sent to every parent explaining the values covered in the book.

Without the support of local community leaders this program would not be possible.

Area schools involved are the first graders from: Carroll, Wayne, and St. Mary's.

Sponsors are: The Wayne Vision Center, Quality Foods, Providence Medical Center, Restful Knights, Black Knight and Fredrickson Oil.

Parents need to balance responsibilities between job and family situations

Probably one of the most difficult tasks you will face is balancing responsibilities on the job with those at home. Demands at work and home may interfere with one another. It's important to cope with pressures from both work and family. This may be very difficult and can depend greatly on your specific job and family situations. Other working parents have found the following strategies help:

1. Begin by setting some priorities about which tasks are most important, which are less important and which will require little or no time. Determining priorities means more than saying your children come before work. It means deciding what activities come first. Every month review your priorities. Ask yourself if you are accomplishing your goals.

2. Consider who has the time and ability to help with household chores. Many parents involve their children around the house. Carrying out these tasks seems to foster responsibility in children. Think about what your children might do to help.

3. For most working parents there is always more to do than time available. Many parents find themselves lowering both their job aspirations and their expectations about household management. Most working parents find this absolutely necessary. Perhaps the furniture doesn't have to be dusted once each week. Maybe you don't have to work an extra hour. This doesn't mean sacrificing your most important dreams' rather it means developing realistic expectations of yourself.

4. Many working parents find that job experiences carry over to the family, or vice versa. It's easy for a hectic day at the office to affect how you deal with your children. Many parents decide to completely separate work and family time. This means not bringing work home. Some parents use the drive home to forget about work and concentrate on their children. They practice forgetting about work.

There are no easy ways to limit the stress caused by pressure from work and family. It is a matter of finding each day ways to eliminate the conflicts, identify and achieve your most important goals and relish moments of satisfaction.

Finds people fascinating

I have several habits that drive my kids NUTS! One is, striking up conversations with waiters, waitresses, shuttle-bus drivers and clerks. I find people fascinating — each one has a story to tell. Maybe it has to do with working in health care all these years, and having to find out from patients and family just what happened. In home health and hospice, it really helps to understand background, culture, personality, family dynamics, also.

Anyway, I met some more interesting folks on the trip to Minnesota, much to Sue's and Ann's chagrin.

The first was Christian, the fellow who picked us up at the airport

By Pat Meierhenry

and took us to our hotel, 67 years old, he worked 70 hours a week, at 3 jobs. Said he liked to be productive. He and his wife have a huge house, with 5 bedrooms, that works as a B&B when the motels are full. Married 40 years, they both weigh 10 pounds less than when they were married; and he proposed on their first date! Isn't that a neat story?

He informed us that unemployment was less than 3% in Minneapolis, that the Twin Cities are home to 15 corporations, and that the Mall is the only one in America that is debt free. Oh, yes, and there is no sales tax on clothes.

I found a great book at the Mall, titled, "Accomplishments of the Clinton Administration," with about one hundred empty pages. I had to have it for my two Democrat friends, Jan and Susan. (Yes, I do have more than two Democrat friends.) I bought it from a lady who came from Iran. She thought it was a great book, too.

In the airport gift shop, a fellow with a distinct Limey brogue was buying a mug for his collection. He was from New Zealand, selling equipment to firms making electrical components all over the States. And, he was born in London! Ann reported to her Dad that she thought we were going to run off together. Honestly!

I bought wild rice soup mix from a beautiful woman who came from Ethiopia just seven months ago.

I did restrain myself on the plane home when two Hassidic Jewish gentlemen flew to Spencer, Iowa, and were greeted by two more there. But I will be forever curious what put them down in Dutch Reformed country.

Ann really appreciated my self control: We had the soup today. It was delicious.

DEPENDENTS NEED SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS

Q. My first child was born a few months ago. Should I obtain a social security number for him right?

A. Since you must include the social security number of each individual by age before November 1, 1995. When your claim is dependent on your return, it would be a good idea to apply for a social security number right away. In fact, because of IRS rules, if you want to file your return electronically, all persons listed on your return will need a valid social security number regardless of their age.

Call your Social Security office and request a copy of Form SS-5 for any child who needs a social security number. The completed application should be filed as soon as possible to avoid the expected last minute rush.

Tractor training course offered

Registration material is available at your local Extension Office. Registration must be received no later than March 22. Youth from Cedar, Dakota, Dixon Thurston and Wayne counties may attend this training. Enrollment fee of $10 must be included with registration. Checks may be made out payable to the Northeast Youth Fund. Your Social Security number is needed for the permanent record.

This training is conducted to fulfill requirements of part of the Child Labor Regulation, U.S. Department of Labor by County, Area, and State and the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources — Cooperative Extension.

The Cooperative Extension provides information and educational programs to all people without regard to race, color, national origin, sex or handicap.

All 14- and 15-year old youths must have an exemption from the Hazardous Occupation Order, Department of Labor, to work with most tractors and field machinery except on their parents' farm. The order covers a number of hazardous jobs in agriculture. You may take this course if you will be 14 in 1996. You will not receive your certificate until you are 14.

Exemption can be obtained only after the boy or girl has completed a formal training in the safe use of tractors and other farm machinery.

The training will provide instructions in safety, tractor operation and maintenance. Exemption certificates will be issued after completion of the course and successful completion of the written examination and practical driving test.

This is by no means a complete tractor driving training course. Additional training will need to be given by your employer. In brief, the training will allow the youth to:

Operate a tractor of over 20 PTO horse power, or connecting or disconnecting an implement or any of its parts to or from such a tractor.

Those completing the course and passing the required tests may also apply for the Nebraska Special Permit for operating tractors and other farm equipment on the roadways of Nebraska.

Crop insurance deadline near Producers are reminded that they need to obtain crop insurance offered under the Federal Crop Insurance Act by the sales closing date of March 15 in order to stay eligible for many USDA farm programs and loans. The sales closing date is significant because signing up for insurance, changing the crops insured, changing coverage levels, or transferring coverage from one provider to another must be done by that date.

Producers are encouraged to contact their insurance provider or their local Farm Services Agency if they have questions. A list of insurance agents is available for review at the Farm Service Agency office.

Art workshop is scheduled

The 29th annual Autumn Art Workshop will be held at the 4-H camp in the Nebraska National Forest at Halsey, Nebraska, September 12 to 21, 1996.

There are two exciting changes this year: There will be a hit to take supplies up to the classrooms, and there will be a total of two sessions, a five-day class and a three-day class.

Instructors for the two sessions will be well-known artists: Jerry Seagle, Austin TX, Acrylic/Mixed Media on Paper or Canvas. Ken Hosmer, Rudisill, NM, will be teaching watercolor. Bonnie Casey, Chino Valley, AZ is back this year, demonstrating in oil. Robert Rohm, Flower Mound TX, will be teaching one class in pastel and one class in acrylic.

For further information, write or call registrar Cheryl Wilkinson, RT 2, Box 79, Oshkosh, Ne 69152. Phone 307-772-4365.
