Wayne High team wins Quiz Bowl

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

From 43 teams on January 8 to the championship Saturday, the Wayne High Quiz Bowl team has won all of its matches and were named the 1996 KNEEN Quiz Bowl Champions.

For their efforts, team members Krista Magnuson, Brett Otte and Tom Hansen and alternate Erin Mann received medals and $500.

"The tournament was a single-elimination event that was live from each High School through the telephone," said Wayne High Guidance Counselor Terry Munson who was sponsor for the team.

The Wayne High School Student Council chose the team members from a list of those who had indicated interest in being on the team.

"The Student Council looked at the academic credentials of those who had signed up for the Quiz Bowl. Based on this, Krista was chosen as the captain of the team," Munson said.

The preliminary rounds of competition were broadcast on KNEEN radio. During this part of the competition, the first team to correctly answer three questions won.

Questions came from all categories of core subjects in school and were randomly selected from a set of questions that had been purchased by KNEEN.

The final round of competition was broadcast on KNEEN and was live at Northeast Community College. The competition consisted of 20 minutes of questions. The Wayne team defeated a team from Madison for first place. Spalding Academy received third place and Stanton was fourth.

"This is the third year we have competed in this tournament but this is the best we have done," Munson said.

"We would like to thank Wil Davis and Sav-Mor Pharmacy for their sponsorship of our team in the Quiz Bowl," Munson added.

Through the sponsorship of businesses, KNEEN was able to award a total of $1,000 in prize money.

Burn permits required

Area residents are reminded that burn permits are required before doing any open burning.

Persons who fail to obtain a permit may be fined from $100 to $1,000.

Wayne Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman said that because of the dry weather, the number of permits being issued is being limited.

The permits are issued at no cost and are usually good for a week, although they can be issued for up to 30 days.

Persons who burn materials other than what they have requested a permit for, can also be fined.

Permits can be obtained by contacting the following Wayne county fire chiefs and assistants: Carroll-Rick Davis; Winside-Russell Longnecker; Wakefield-Dean Ulrich; Hoskins-Todd Greunke and Wayne-Dutch Sitzman; Roy Barker, Mike Voyos or Jim Granquist at Koplun Small Engine.

Planetarium hosts show

On Sunday, March 24 at 3:30 p.m., the Wayne State College Planetarium will present a special show dealing with this month's appearance of the Comet Hyakutake. It promises to be the most dramatic comet to visit the hemisphere skies in the last 10 years.

The 40 minute show will explain how to locate the comet, and offer ideas as how to best view and photograph this celestial object.

Beginning on March 31 and continuing through April 28, the planetarium will present "Starry Skies and Dusty Trails," every Sunday at 3:30 p.m. This show will deal with the myths and time-keeping of the cowboy-under spacious skies. Audiences will relive the days of true American heritage with a turn of the century cowboy who discusses bright stars, constellations, northern lights, comets and meteor showers.

WayNET - opportunity to learn

One's ability to learn is an unparalleled phenomena.

When does one start or quit?

After an introduction to infancy, pre-school, kindergarten, elementary classes, middle school and high school, many folk are privileged to attend college and graduate school. Regardless of one's education, learning continues daily.

Information is now the new wealth; more powerful than property, and the new coin of the realm.

Due to strategic planning by those going before us, our community excels in education: our most important product.

Our excellent schools and college testify of a continuing thirst for knowledge. Information is the parent and driving force of all progress. Administrators, teachers, instructors and professors are recognizably influential, surpassed only by what they teach.

Regardless of occupation, employees function to apply factual information to a task. One must first, of course, find and learn the applicable information.

Recognizing our continuing need to learn, we encourage the city council, in a joint effort with the school, to sign the interlocal agreement launching WayNET.

With the signing, everyone subscribing to the local telephone service will have opportunity to continue their personal learning curve.

Anyone with a computer and modem may enroll in the new electronic high school educational course with the purpose of learning to access the Internet, how to explore its vast informational resources, using the WayNET gateway. All for a modest fee.

We feel launching WayNET is not only exciting, but a vital investment in continuing education.

Fighting crime costs money

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Fighting crime costs money, there's no argument about that.

The argument comes over how much money the state should pay to fight crime.

Right now, state politicians are sparring over how much of your hard-earned sales and income taxes will be spent on new prisons to house those criminals once they've been convicted.

Nebraska's prison facilities are overcrowded already.

The latest figures indicate that the state has 3,062 inmates for facilities designed for 2,103 inmates.

That's a serious problem — one that's been exacerbated in recent years by laws that call for longer prison terms — and one that could get a lot worse. By the year 2000, state officials project that the prison population could be twice the current capacity.

Prison cells are not cheap. State officials have estimated that a 480-bed prison would cost about $55 million to build.

That's big bucks, enough to hire Michael Jordan to dunk basketballs for a couple of years at least or pave several miles of state highway.

Gov. Nelson has proposed a cheaper, temporary solution: build three, 100-bed "modular" prison dormitories, costing about $5.3 million.

You remember the governor: he's that fiscal conservative who is running for the U.S. Senate this year.

He can't afford to be spending a lot of money on prison construction while running for office, but Nelson also cannot put the state in peril of losing a federal lawsuit over prison overcrowding by not adding some more prison cells.

(Nelson is also the governor who's getting "bashed" in the Republican Party's attack ads for being soft on crime and working with "ultra-liberal" Sen. Ernie Chambers to let prisoners out of prison early for "good time." Ernie got a real hoot out of that one.)

Anyway, to save money and provide a temporary solution, Nelson has proposed the prison dormitories, a sort of Motel 6 for inmates. They are cheaper because you use the same blueprint, over and over again, and because they would be built next to the State Pen in Lincoln, on land the state already owns. They probably leave the light on for the inmates, too.

Other states have used tents, trailers and precast concrete cells to house a growing number of inmates nationwide. Some have used "modular" dormitories like Nebraska. The experts say they're fine as a temporary solution but that ultimately, new prisons must be built.

But state lawmakers weren't buying the entire Nelson plan. They backed up a recommendation by the Appropriations Committee to finance only two of the modular prison units, thus providing only 200 new beds, not 300 as Nelson wanted.

Some senators, like Roger Wehrbein of Plattsmouth, the chairman of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee, urged his colleagues to begin facing reality by setting aside planning money now to build a new prison.

But, hey, it's an election year. Reality is that no one is going to raise taxes or spending to do that this year. So it looks like Nebraska will muddle through this year by building a couple of dormitory style prison units and hope the day to build a new prison is a few years, rather than a few months, off.

One more thing: This writer still can't believe that in this conservative state, the Nebraska Legislature appears ready to allow a 75 mph speed limit on I-80 and up to 65 mph on two-lane highways. This is still, it appears, "Where the West Begins."

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Have you 'been there ... done that'?

Spring has sprung, the grass is riz, and I wonder where my tax form is? Should they ever eliminate the IRS and adopt a flat tax, no doubt the celebration will make July 4th festivities pale in contrast. What would a person do with their time if they didn't have to file every little piece of paper? Would a flat tax cause charitable contributions to decline? I doubt it. Might cause a decline in cheating. A flat tire slows a car, so maybe a flat tax would slow the spendthrift sailors paddling the tax boat in Washington who love to tax and spend.

Overpending is a real disease! Best you not catch it. Or have you "been there...done that"?

A quick tour of our fair city reveals dry yards, dry playgrounds, dry parks, dry garden spots, and a peek into the countryside sets off a vision of possible drought. Maybe you folk who use your knees for prayer bones ought to speak up about the need for rain. Knowing Mother Nature, by the time this reaches print, we may have flooding on our hands. Suppose the weather department in heaven is run by a group of scrappy junior executive angels who pass their time taking turns trying to run the big weather machine? Maybe those playful angels just enjoy keeping the teevee weather folks scrambling explaining their errors. One thing for sure, if we don't get rain rather soon, we all may be living with a new address of El Rancho Nosis Grande.

What skyline our city has is changing. Have you cast a glance at all the new construction around town? New apartments and houses going up. The new runway at the airport is shaping up. Workers on the site of our new library/senior citizens center are cleaning up. A demolition team easily took care of the building in the 400 block on north Main tearing it up. Several churches are working on remodeling and expansion projects, so they're looking up. City council has the WayNET interlocal agreement coming up. So, as a community, we're looking up.

Hey moms. Good at keeping records? There's a local mom who has been balancing the books for the school year. She finds her children left two caps, a scarf, one sweater and a pair of overshoes at school and brought home two colds, the flu, and a failed exam. Sound about right?

Farnan says 'thank you'

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this time to thank all the citizens of Wayne who have made my tenure as Executive Vice President of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce a pleasant and enjoyable experience. For all your help and assistance, I am grateful and thankful.

I would also like to extend my deepest thanks to all the citizens of N.E.braska that have worked to make the Northeast Economic Action Association and the Community Builders Programs successful. Both of these activities represent the best spirit of Nebraska.

As always I wish the people of Wayne, Carroll, Winside, Allent, Dixon, Concord, Wakefield, Laurel, Pilger and Wisner the best and brightest of futures. Annette and I will remember our time in N.E.braska with great fondness. Once again, thank you and God Bless for all your care and concern.

Pledging to campaign for tobacco-free kids

Dear Editor:

The Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids, a national organization created to protect youth, March 14 announced a campaign to ask government representatives to not take money from the tobacco industry or its subsidiaries.

The Campaign is asking elected representatives -- federal, state and local -- to promise "that I will not accept financial contributions from any tobacco company, executive, subsidiary or tobacco-related organization of PAC."

Such a statement by our representatives is important. Four Nebraska senators recently took such a pledge for Nebraska's youth. It's time for other leaders throughout Nebraska to make a similar statement about their concern for the next generation of this state.

We urge all elected representatives in Nebraska to follow the lead taken by the four state senators who have shown their concern for Nebraska's youth.

Elected representatives who would like to make the promise can call 1-800-284-KIDS for more information.

Recycling committee continues with its study

Editor's note: This is the second in a four-part discussion concerning the findings of a committee studying the options available to the community to address solid waste management and recycling needs.

Dear Editor,

An option for solid waste management might be to make voluntary recycling more attractive to Wayne residents. This might require increasing the number of hours that recyclable materials could be deposited at an improved collection site. Recycling would be encouraged by a solid waste collection system that charged by the volume of waste collected.

In this scenario, the collection site would no longer be operated by volunteers. Hours of operation would need to be expanded to accommodate the needs of Wayne residents. For example, the collection site might be open some afternoons and into the evening as well as Saturday morning.

A second aspect of this option might include a pay-as-you-throw billing scheme. This payment scheme would be meant to encourage recycling by setting solid waste collection fees based on quantity. For example, fees could be based on the size of waste containers used or the number of bags picked up. In fact, we are told that solid waste collection fees based on actual weight could be implemented in the future.

Another method to accomplish "pay-as-you-throw" that is used in

Senator wants input from people

By Pat Engel
District 17 Senator

I need your help! We have begun tackling some of the more controversial issues on the floor of the Legislature and I am providing a brief summary of the bills that have been advanced by the Revenue Committee, which the committee feels has provided the consolidation tools needed for local governments to achieve efficiency in government. I would appreciate hearing your comments and suggestions on any or all of the following legislation. This legislation will affect all Nebraskans. Everyone wants property tax relief without raising taxes or cutting programs, which unfortunately is just not possible. You tell me what programs, agencies or policies you want cut, deleted, eliminated, merged or increased.

LB 1085 (Senator Warner) is the first step in the "package" and contains provisions that could have an impact on property taxes immediately. The bill

1. Requires political subdivisions to pass a resolution to receive more from the property tax than the previous year.
2. Gives the county board direct oversight over the operations of veterans service committees, county some communities is issuance of garbage bags or tags for containers. For example, a household that recycles might be able to make a given investment in tags/bags last twice as long as a non-recycling household.

Implementation of this option would include expanding and staffing of a recycling center, management of the sale of the recyclable materials and development of a volume-based collection program. In addition, the current city transfer station would need to be addressed, or solid waste collectors would need to haul directly to a landfill.

Success of this option hinges on the willingness of Wayne residents to haul recyclables to a collection site. Recycling would be voluntary until it is determined that the program does not meet the goal of 50 percent reduction in solid waste hauled to landfills. If it fails, a more mandatory program would be considered.

It is uncertain what impact this option would have on collection costs. However, we anticipate that any future solid waste collection system will require full community participation, thus reducing per household costs through economies of scale. This implies an expanded role for the city in solid waste management. Minimally, the city, with its ability to bill each household, would manage the fee collection program.

This option would require a relatively minor adjustment to current practices, but is dependent on full citizen participation and residents' willingness to haul recyclables to a collection site.

agricultural societies, county hospitals and county extension services.

3. Provides procedures for merging county offices within or between counties

4. Allows counties to turn over the responsibility for assessment of property to the Property Tax Administrator.

On or before September 10th of each year, the county clerk shall set a preliminary property tax rate for each political subdivision which levied property taxes in the county the previous year. The preliminary levy shall be the final levy unless a political subdivision passes by a majority vote, a resolution or ordinance setting the levy at a different amount. Such resolution or ordinance shall only be passed after a special public hearing called for such purpose is held and after notice is published in a newspaper of general circulation in the area of the political subdivision at least five days prior to the hearing.

LB 299 is to provide an expenditure limit on all political subdivisions which have the authority to levy a property tax for two years only, FY 1996-97 and 1997-98. This is to bridge the gap between now and the imposition of levy caps to be imposed by LB 1114.

LB 1114 would set maximum property tax levies for local governments, becoming effective in 1999. According to the Revenue Committee, had the limits been in place and in effect last year, the levies would have saved property tax payers almost $290 million of the $ 1.585 billion that they paid, or roughly an 18 percent savings. The biggest impact would be on schools which would be limited to levies of $ 1.10 per $100, declining to $1 in 2002. Other limits include: Municipalities, 45 cents; sanitary improvement districts, 40 cents; community colleges, eight cents, declining to four cents in 2002; natural resources districts, four and one-half cents; educational service units, one and a half cents; and counties are allowed to levy or authorize up to 50 cents except that five cents may be levied only to provide the county's share of the revenue required for a joint financed service.

LR 292CA (Senator Stuhr) a constitutional amendment that would be placed on the ballot this November and allow voters to determine whether local governments should be organized and operated to achieve efficiency and accountability to local taxpayers. A county government may merge with a municipal government within the county and adjacent counties may merge. Local governments shall also be permitted to deliver public services jointly and efficiently through agreement between local government units. The Legislature may permit joint use if any public facility and provide for negotiated financing and administration of a jointly operated service or a merged local government unit. The authorization may permit different tax rates to be levied within and outside municipalities and on different classes of property. Any different tax rates allowed shall only be permitted when required by an agreement between local governmental units levying the tax as a source of funds for a jointly operated service or when required by an agreement governing a merger.

LB 1,177 (Senator Warner) creates the Municipal Equalization Fund to provide assistance to municipalities with low per capita valuation, and allows a county sales tax, and an extra five cents of levy authority for cities and counties for purposes of funding joint city-county public safety services. The Municipal Equalization Fund is funded from the city share of the insurance premium tax plus 3% administrative fee kept by the state for collecting the city sales tax. The bill provides that any qualifying municipality receives aid equal to (the average per capita property tax levy times the population of the municipality) minus (average property tax levy times the valuation of the municipality), or the impact on a particular municipality will depend on the amount of state aid it will be eligible for under the provisions of this bill compared to the current state aid formula.

As you can see, we have some difficult decisions to make. Please feel free to contact me or Joyce in my Lincoln office with your comments and suggestions by calling (402) 471-2776, or write to Senator Pat Engel, Dist. 17, Lincoln, NE 68509, or fax me at (402) 471-2126.

All Fiber does Not Lower Cholesterol

Fiber that is soluble in water is credited with being able to reduce cholesterol levels. Soluble fiber is found in apples, barley, beans, carrots, citrus fruits, corn, peas, rice bran, and rolled oats. Another source is psyllium hydrophilic mucillois which is sold in pharmacies as a constipation preventive. The insoluble fiber in wheat bran, primarily prevents constipation and has little cholesterol lowering activity.

Several studies indicate that getting more soluble fiber in the diet can lower cholesterol levels by as much as 10%. However, a recent 24-month study in which individuals took a teaspoonful of granulated guar gum (a soluble fiber) three times a day trimmed their cholesterol levels by 17%. And the most dangerous cholesterol type (LDL) was reduced by an average of 26%. Medicines used to lower cholesterol, on the other hand, can reduce cholesterol levels by as much as 40%.

Winside sweeps team titles at Wayne State Indoor

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Winside claimed both the boys and girls titles at the ninth annual WSC Indoor track & field invitational for Class C on Friday.

The Wildcats broke five meet records and totaled 93 points in the boys division, well ahead of second place Fullerton with 58.

Landon Grothe was a big part of Winside's success as he was named the meet's Most Valuable Performer. Grothe won both the 300 and 400 meter dashes and was part of Winside's winning 4 x 160 and 4 x 400 relay teams. He clocked meet records of 39.8 in the 300 and 54.4 in the 400. The 4 x 160 meter relay team of Grothe, Jaimey Holdorf, Chad O'Connor and Jeremy Barg timed in at a meet record 1:18.8, while the 4 x 400 meter relay team of Grothe, O'Connor, Scott Stenwall and Scott Wittler crossed the finish line at 3:53.9.

O'Connor placed first in the high jump with a meet record jump of 6-2, while Holdorf won the 55 meter high hurdles in a time of 8.1, also a meet record.

Wakefield put together an eighth place finish at the meet, scoring 23 points. Justin Mackling placed second in the 55 meter dash, clocking 6.5, while the Trojans 4 x 160-meter relay team of Mackling, Ryan Hoffman, Matt Peterson and Jim Rusk ran runner-up to Winside with a time of 1:20.5. Wakefield's 4 x 800 meter relay team of Joe Fendrick, Kevin Johnson, Eric Thomson and Josh Snyder finished fourth with a time of 10:43.5. Mackling also finished fifth in the high jump with a leap of 5-10, while Hoffman placed sixth in the shot put with a mark of 41-0.4/2.

In the girls division, Winside scored 70 points, just edging out Lyons-Decatur Northeast with 69.

The Wildcats top finish came from the 4 x 800 meter relay team of Rachel Riley, Wendy Miller, Becky Fleer and Stacey Wittler, which placed first in a time of 11:44.3. Winside's 4 x 400 meter relay team of Jenny Fleer, Emily Deck, Jodi Miller and Amy Riley placed second in a time of 4:59.5.

Amy Riley added third place finishes in the 400 meter dash (1:07.9) and the 55 meter high hurdles (10.1). Jenny Fleer also placed third in the mile, clocking 6:20.8 and the two-mile with a time of 14:14.5.

Wakefield finished in sixth place with 32 points. Alison Benson won the triple jump with a mark of 31-3 1/4, placed second in the 55 meter high hurdles with a time of 10.0, and finished sixth in the long jump with a mark of 14-5 1/4.

Kristin Preston placed fourth in the mile with a time of 6:23 and sixth in the 800 meter run, clocking 2:54.

Wakefield's 4 x 800 meter relay team of Susan Brudigam, Andrea Lundahl, Jenny Sandahl and Preston finished second, clocking 11:50.8.

Wayne State hitters heat up during spring trip

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State baseball team finished their spring trip to Florida on a down note last week, losing three of their final four games. The Wildcats won just three of seven games on the trip, but improved their team batting average by 44 points and have an overall record of 9-8.

The Cats concluded their trip last Friday with a 6-4 loss to Stonehill. WSC scored three in the first, but Stonehill responded with five in the third and held on for the win. Joe Thompson struck out seven in five innings of work, but suffered the loss. Jon Small hit his first home run of the year and drove in a pair of runs, while Scott Cooper picked up a single and a double.

"We just played flat," said Head Coach John Manganaro. "The wind was blowing out and they benefited from the wind on a couple of home runs."

Wayne State opened the first half of a doubleheader on Thursday by pounding Pittsburgh at Johnstown 18-1. The Wildcats recorded 14 hits in a game that went only five innings. Richards and Mike Vanderwilt each had three hits. Richards drove in four, while Vanderwilt, Scott Ballinger and Cory Graves each had three RBIs. Pat Muller was the beneficiary of the offensive explosion, picking up his first win.

"We just went out and hit the ball very well against mediocre pitching," said Manganaro, "and after two innings it wasn't a ballgame anymore."

In the second game, WSC did not fair as well. Bryant College scored six runs in the third and scored the game winner in the seventh on an error as the Cats fell 8-7. Bryan Stockwell took the loss. Darin Gregory went 3-4 at the plate, while Graves, James Mansell, Ballinger, Vanderwilt and Small each picked up a pair of hits.

"We came out swinging the bats well," said Manganaro, "but then we kind of sat on the lead and got satisfied. It was a tough loss."

Last Wednesday, Wayne State got hammered by Stonehill 13-3. Mike Benson gave up 13 runs in just 4 1/3 innings. Karl Laursen paced the offense with a pair of singles and two RBIs.

"We just didn't play very well," said Manganaro. "Mike Benson kind of set the tone with the opening pitch of the ballgame. He beamed the first batter right in the middle of the back and everything went downhill from there. We just hurt ourselves the whole game."

Wildcats win four straight at Dakotadome Classic

By Corey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State softball team went 4-0 at the Dakotadome Classic in Vermillion on Sunday and Monday to improve their season record to 4-5-1.

Wayne State opened the tournament on Sunday with a 4-3 win over Moorhead (Minn.) State. Right fielder Betsy Wegner gunned down the tying run at the plate in the bottom of the sixth inning to end the game.

Maryellen Livingston allowed just four hits and struck out eight to notch the win. Angie Louck went 2-3 with a double and one RBI, while Michelle Rowe and Tina Lehman each had RBIs.

In the second game, WSC came away with a 7-6 win over Southwest (Minn.) State. The Wildcats built a 6-1 lead, but the Mustangs scored five runs in the top of the seventh to tie the game. The Cats put runners on first and third with no outs, but a double play left Mindy Alt stranded at third with two outs. Livingston drove in the winning run with a single to left field and also picked up the victory with 2/3 of an inning of relief pitching.

Carrie Fink went 2-4 with a double and two RBIs, while Rowe doubled, singled and drove in a run. Louck went 3-4, Jen Ostrem went 1-3 with two RBIs and Anne Slahn had two hits and one RBI.

On Monday, the Wildcats opened with a 6-2 win over Winona (Minn.) State. Lehman homered, doubled and drove in two runs to pace the offense. Fink doubled and knocked in a pair of runs, while Ostrem added a single and an RBI. Slahn doubled and Wegner, Louck, Alt and Becky Egli each singled.

Alt scattered six hits and struck out two to get the win.

Wayne State defeated Minnesota-Morris 14-10 in Monday's second game. A ten-run second inning blew the game open for the Wildcats. Louck drove in three runs with a pair of doubles, while Lehman tripled, singled and had three RBIs. Egli and Wegner each had two hits and one RBI, while Neely Herman went 2-4 with two RBIs and picked up the victory on the mound.

After going winless in their opening trip to Colorado, Head Coach Joan Scherbring is happy with her teams performance in Vermillion.

"I thought we played very well in the tournament," said Scherbring. "Defensively Betsy Wegner had a nice tournament in right field and Jen Ostrem played well at third base which is a difficult position to play in the dome. Offensively, I think the bats are coming around. The kids are really hitting the ball and stepping up and getting the key hits. Our pitchers got ahead in the count a lot more than they did in Colorado. They kept the walks down and forced the hitters to put the ball in play."

A letter from area coordinator Joann Schwabauer was read reminding members about the State Recognition Day which will be in North Platte April 19-20, to honor the 1995 best losers.

Anyone in the area interested in joining the TOPS support group for weight loss should come to Gray's Public Library lower level at 4:30 p.m. any Tuesday. The group meets weekly or questions may be directed to one of the officers.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Wakefield Board of Education met March 11. Lisa Anderson was a visitor at the meeting to fulfill a college class requirement. Terry Nicholson and Dan Zulkosky appeared and explained why the city was requesting an increase for rental of the football field. Later, during the meeting, the board approved the new three year contract for use of the park facilities during football season.

Principal Jeanne Surface discussed the migrant education program. School at the center program, the industrial technology project, staff development and suggested staffing for the elementary school over the next few years. Supt. Derwin Hartman reported that the hardware for community service over Internet had been ordered and that it should be set up within a month or so.

Mr. Hartman also reported that the Title I Committee had met to come up with a plan for raising money to help defray part of the cost of the summer school program. He also told the board that the new rules pertaining to underground storage tanks must be met no later than Dec. 22, 1998.

Supt. Hartman reported that students participation in the soft ice cream program is excellent. Board members felt the current guidelines are too rigid and that all students, whether they eat hot lunch or not, should be eligible to purchase ice cream. This will be implemented immediately.

Hartman reported he has been soliciting information and prices from three companies on portable classrooms. Because of the conditions in the elementary, this is one option being investigated.

Hartman discussed the implication of LB 1050 which is under scrutiny at the Nebraska Legislature. The Wakefield School would gain a small amount of state aid if it passes.

Marcia Kratke reported on the facility needs expanded committee and that they have met.

The board approved the 1996-97 school calendar which will run from Monday Aug. 26 through Friday, May 30.

Hartman discussed special education expenditures and stated that the special education budget was amended to cover additional pre-school expenses as well as the purchase of a van for special education students. Approximately 75 percent of all special education expenditures are recouped from the state, according to Hartman.

The board approved teaching experience for Miss Studer and Mr. Sailors.

EASTER HUNT

The annual Easter Egg Hunt in Wakefield is being expanded to include adults too. In addition to the traditional egg hunt in the park for the youngsters, there will also be a hunt in Wakefield businesses with prizes donated by various businesses.

Wakefield shoppers are encouraged to watch for "Basket Business" indicating that on Saturday, April 6, there will be numbered plastic eggs in the businesses. If you spot this egg you will be entitled to one of the prizes.

Also check out the display window on Norm's Main street building. Participating businesses will be listed and some of the prizes will be on display soon.

How to build self-esteem

Q. I want to get my 6-year-old daughter ready for some of the self-esteem problems that will probably occur when she is a teenager. How can I begin bracing her for the social pressures she is likely to face?

A. In a sense, all of childhood is a preparation for adolescence and beyond. Mothers and fathers are granted a single decade to lay a foundation of values and attitudes that will help their children cope with the future pressures and problems of adulthood.

As such, we would all do well to acquaint our young children with the meaning of self-worth and its preservation, since every human being has to deal with that issue at some point in the life cycle.

This teaching process should begin during kindergarten, if not before. For example, when your child meets someone who is too shy to speak or even look at him, you might say, "Why do you suppose Josh is too embarrassed to tell you what he is feeling? Do you think he doesn't have much self-confidence?" (Use the word confidence frequently, referring to a kind of courage and belief in one's self.)

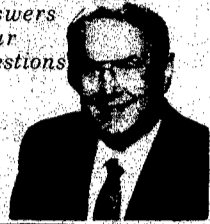

When your child participates in a school or church program, compliment him for having the confidence to stand in front of a group without hanging his head or thrusting his tongue in his cheek.

Then as the elementary years unfold, begin focusing on the negative side of that important ingredient. Talk openly about feelings of inferiority and what they mean. For example, "Did you notice how David acted so silly in class this morning? He was trying hard to make everyone pay attention to him, wasn't he? Do you have any idea why he needs to be noticed every minute of the day? Maybe it's because David doesn't like himself very much. I think he is trying to force people to like him because he thinks he is disrespected. Why don't you try to make friends with David and help him feel better about himself? Would you like to invite him to spend the night?"

Not only will you help your child "tune in" to the feelings of others

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

through this instruction, but you will also be teaching him to understand his own feelings of inadequacy. Each year that passes should bring more explicit understandings about the crisis in worth which comes to everyone.

It would be wise to give him an illustration of people who have overcome great feelings of inferiority (such as Eleanor Roosevelt, who grew up as an unloved orphan). Ultimately, the best examples will come from the struggles of your own adolescent experiences. The goal is to send your pubescent son or daughter into the teen years armed with four specific concepts: (1) all adolescents go through a time when they don't like themselves very much; (2) most feel ugly and dumb and unlike by their peer group; (3) the worst of this self-doubt will not last very long, although most human beings have to deal with those feelings off and on throughout life; (4) each of us possesses incredible value because we are children of God.

I suppose this strategy appeals to me, not only for its possible contribution to a healthy adolescence, but because it takes us in the direction of human understanding. And how badly that comprehension is needed! I read recently that 80 percent of the people who get fired from their jobs were not dismissed because they failed to perform as required or lacked the technical skill or ability. Instead, their dismissal occurred because they couldn't get along with people. They misunderstood the motives of others and responded with belligerence and insubordination.

We can minimize that possibility by training our children to "see" others in a truer light, while preserving their own dignity and sense of worth.

TV can be tool for learning

Television, often demonized by parents and the media for the "dumbing down" of America's children, can, in fact, help kids "smarten up" if used correctly.

The key is for parents to establish a sensible "TV diet" for their children by going beyond some basic myths about TV and children.

Myth 1: TV turns kids into dull couch potatoes—not necessarily. While some programming can have negative influences on children, educational TV can introduce and reinforce positive values and provide insight into many important subjects—from foreign languages and cultural diversity to science and history.

Myth 2: Children who watch TV become poor readers—not at all. Quality educational programs such as Reading Rainbow and the Magic School Bus actually motivate kids to read. Even non-educational programs—sporting events, for example—also can cause children to seek out related books.

Myth 3: Children who watch TV don't do well in school—not at all. Children who watch moderate amounts of TV, particularly educational TV, can be excellent students. Like anything else, TV can be harmful if used excessively. Children whose TV-viewing is not monitored may watch too much and waste time that should be spent on school work or other activities.

Therefore, it is important to

Cooperative Extension

Lynda Cruickshank

establish a fair, effective and well-balanced TV diet for children. That means it is monitored, balanced and supplemented.

To monitor children's TV diets, parents should keep a TV diary. An oversized one-week calendar, with days across the top and hours of the day along the left side, can do the trick. The names of family members and the programs they watched should be entered in the appropriate time slots, with the hours added up at the end of the week. A good target for parents to set for their children is no more than 14 or 15 hours of TV a week, or about two hours a day. The types of programs watched also should be taken into account.

Just as children's food diets need to be balanced, their TV diet should be balanced as well. For children's TV "main course," parents can select educational programs. Later, the kids can enjoy "dessert" programs, such as cartoons, but parents should minimize such viewing. They should think about selecting programs the same way they think of shopping for food—read the label and consider the ingredients.

After viewing a TV program with their children, parents may want to follow it up with an activity. A visit to a museum or other family activities can tie in well with many education programs. Parents also can use a VCR as a sort of "vitamin supplement" for children's TV diet. Creating a library of quality tapes allows children to view programs repeatedly, which aids in absorption of important lessons.

It's not impossible to make TV viewing educational. It's not always easy, either. But with the right ideas and a little bit of work, parents can turn the old "idiot box" into an important teaching tool for their children. It's worth the effort.

Clarification

In last week's Wayne Herald, a photo of Wayne Area Chamber Executive Director John Farnan presenting a check to Wayne Volunteer Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman should have stated that the $230 was a result of a voluntary contribution by 41 Chamber members. The money did not come from the Chamber's general fund.

Are you protecting our precious groundwater from the threat of contamination?

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District has developed a Groundwater Management Plan which will affect the way we use and care for our water in the future!

There are areas within the 15 county district where the quality of the groundwater is threatened by high levels of nitrates.

Anyone who applies fertilizer, irrigates, or uses groundwater for industrial and private use, should attend one of the informational meetings being held this spring.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District is in the process of working out the details of the district's groundwater management area. The Lower Elkhorn NRD's Groundwater Management Plan was given conditional approval by the Nebraska Department of Water Resources in December of 1994. The plan will be implemented in January of 1997.

Finds heartwarming book

When I go to a mall, I check out the bookstores. I found a neat little one in Minneapolis, called the Gemstone. I could spend a fortune in one of these, but since my shelves are already full of books I have not had time to read, I restrained myself and bought Easter cards.

There was one little shiny-covered pocketbook that caught my eye. It was called, "Where was God at 9:02 a.m.?" I was curious and I bought it. Besides, I needed something to read while waiting on buses and planes. I finished it on the way home, making flying a distinct advantage over driving.

The author is Robin Jones, general manager of KOCV/KNTL Radio in Oklahoma City. I'm guessing it is a Christian radio station.

because it is definitely written from a Christian view point. But it makes any American, any midwesterner proud.

Because it is a story of the success of the people of Oklahoma in rescuing and retrieving the victims of the bombing. I was in tears several times. It reminded me very much of the Siouland community after the plane crash.

There were many "coincidences." The mayor's annual prayer breakfast had been that morning. The mayor called Dr. Robert Allen at a Methodist church and requested chaplains immediately. A nearby Christian Church became a clearing house for information.

The Oklahoma Restaurant Association just happened to be meeting at a convention center. That morning, one hundred of the demonstrators were preparing samples. The convention was cancelled, the samples were turned into lunches and 20,000 meals a day were prepared over the next nine days.

A search and rescue expert who worked on the World Trade Center said he once paid $10 for a hamburger while working in N.Y. He said he did not spend a dime in Oklahoma: his meals, lodging, laundry, even his haircuts, were provided at no charge.

There is now an Oklahoma City Standard; the new level to which search and rescue support has risen. They organized instantly to provide every need in the retrieval effort without bureaucratic hassles. As I said after the crash of the DC10, I will never take a disaster drill for granted again. This is a heartwarming book to read. I'm glad I found it.

Agriculture is important to N.E.braska area

by Clara Osten
Of the Herald

"The N.E.braska area has a good agricultural base and agriculture will be important for this area for years to come," said Rod Patent, Extension Educator for Wayne and Dixon counties.

As March comes to a close, those involved in agriculture are beginning to prepare for spring planting.

"Farmers are anxious to get in the fields. If the weather continues as it has, within a week to 10 days, work could begin," Patent said.

PRODUCERS HAVE been somewhat concerned about the lack of snowfall and precipitation this winter but Patent says that because there was no extended period of cold weather, he does not anticipate any winter kill to perennial crops.

"It is dry and we do need moisture for pastures and alfalfa. Also, a late frost could affect these crops. Otherwise, there is not stress at this point. However, if current weather patterns continue, we could have crop stress in June and July."

CURRENTLY CORN prices range from $3.60 to $3.80 per bushel, which is up from last year's price of $2.30. "It is unusual for prices to be up this much at this time of year, but there just isn't a lot of corn out there," said Jason Berg of Wayne Grain and Feed.

Corn prices are dependent on the weather. "If it stays dry and farmers are able to get in the fields early, they will plant more corn. That in turn will put pressure on the market. I believe there will be a sporadic market this year and the weather will affect prices either way," Patent said.

The down side of higher corn prices is the effect it will have on livestock producers. "Higher grain prices will put pressure on livestock farmers who are currently having to deal with low market prices," Patent said.

ANOTHER SOURCE that could affect grain prices is the release of some of the acres that have been involved in the CRP program. "We probably won't see a big rush to take acres out of the program. The current farm bill has not become law yet so it is hard to know exactly what will happen."

"Because it is getting late for this season, I expect a much bigger rush next year. There may be provisions to extend the number of years ground is in the CRP program," Patent added.

Currently 26 percent of the land in Dixon County is in CRP acres. Patent said that as the land comes out of the program, which could take up to 10 years, farmers could begin using strip farming techniques on some of the highly erodible land. This would allow for some of the land to be used for wildlife habitat.

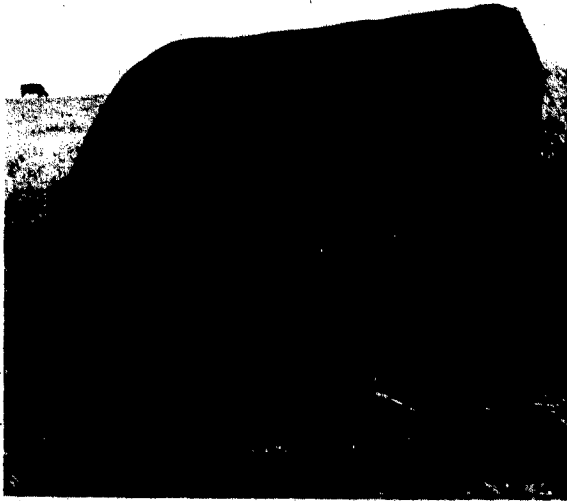

PATENT SAYS that as we move toward the 21st century, he does not anticipate any major shift in crops grown in N.E.braska. "I think there will be a change in the variety and genetics of crops. For example, producers in the area are beginning to plant varieties of corn that yield a much higher oil content which results in better feed conversion."

"The corn processing plants in Blair and Columbus will also have an impact on the types of corn we produce and the prices we receive for crops," Patent said.

Federal legislation will influence farming practices during the coming year. While legislators debate the bill, time is running out for farmers who need to make decisions for the upcoming planting season.

"Generally, the farm bill, which is passed every five years, is settled in the fall, allowing farmers some flexibility in deciding how to use their land. This is not the case this year, however and producers have to deal with politics in their farming practices," Patent added.

Ag commodity

This bull represents a substantial portion of agriculture in Wayne county. Livestock producers are currently facing the effects of low livestock prices combined with high corn prices, neither of which is expected to change in the near future.

Lower Elkhorn to hold groundwater meetings

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) is inviting the public to attend a series of meetings concerning the district's Groundwater Management plan. The plan contains the proposed actions and controls for the groundwater management area in an attempt to protect the present and future quality of our precious groundwater.

"The Lower Elkhorn NRD is proposing groundwater quality management rules and regulations for the future use of groundwater in your area," says LENRD general manager Stan Staab. "The proposed plan has been mandated by the state legislature and all NRDs must have an approved plan," commented Staab.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD's plan has been written in a three-part phase approach. Phase 1 will deal with areas with the least severe amount of nitrate contamination. Phase 2 will concentrate on moderate nitrate contamination levels, and phase 3 will involve the areas with the most severe nitrate contamination.

Staab commented, "The different levels of nitrates in our groundwater have been documented extensively and we are now ready to publicly discuss the actions and controls. We are requesting input from all groundwater users, but would like to extend a special invite to farmers and irriga-tors within the district. These meetings are important to our future."

The general public is invited to attend the following meetings across the district. On Thursday, March 28, a public meeting will be held at the Logan East Rural Water office in Oakland at 10:30 a.m. Also on Thursday, there will be a meeting in Scribner at Mohr Auditorium at 2 p.m. On Friday, March 29, a public meeting will be held in Wisner at the Fire Hall at 10:30 a.m. Also on Friday, a public meeting will be held in Wayne at Riley's Cafe at 2 p.m. On Monday, April 1st, a public meeting will be held at the city auditorium in Madison at 1:30 p.m.

The public meetings will be followed by public hearings through which the exact boundaries and controls of the management area will be determined. Please contact the Lower Elkhorn District office with any comments or questions concerning the plan.

Agriculture Day questions & answers

What is National Agriculture Day/Week?

National Agriculture Day/Week is an annual celebration of the many men and women who provide Americans and others worldwide with food and fiber. While promoting unity in the food and agriculture community, National Agriculture Day/Week provides an opportunity for the non-farm public to learn more about agriculture. The Agriculture Council of America coordinates National Agriculture Day, but the program belongs to the numerous Americans across the nation who participate in its annual observance.

When is National Agriculture Day and Week?

The 23rd anniversary of National Agriculture Day was celebrated Wednesday, March 20, 1996, which is also the first day of spring. National Agriculture Week began March 17 and will end March 23. The U.S. Congressional Agriculture Day reception, coordinated by the Ag Council, was held March 14 in Washington, D.C.

What is the theme for National Agriculture Day and Week in 1996?

"Growing Better Everyday... Generation to Generation" is the Ag Day message for 1996. The theme was chosen to connect consumers with farmers and ranchers through the shared value of family. With materials and events formulated around this theme, the Ag Council hopes to increase consumer awareness of the rich heritage of the farm family and how it is adapting to meet the changing demands of consumers, the environment and technology.

As National Agriculture Day coordinator, what does the Ag Council do?

The Ag Council provides materials and ideas to companies, organizations, individuals and media for use in their Ag Day activities and communications. The Ag Council works to pass legislation proclaiming National Agriculture Day in the 50 states and U.S. territories. Finally, the Ag Council coordinates the U.S. Congressional Agriculture Day reception for members of Congress, commodity and trade organizations, media and others.

Why is it important to get involved in National Agriculture Day/Week?

Agriculture is a complex and constantly changing industry, striving to meet the needs and concerns of its customers — consumers. Food and fiber are essential to everyday life, and it is crucial that the public understand the industry and how closely each person is tied to it, even though less than two percent of Americans are directly involved in production agriculture.

PROUD OF AGRIBUSINESS

We have a lot to thank our farmers for. Today we have the most advanced, efficient, plentiful agriculture in the world. One American farmer produces enough to feed 129 people. And our productivity keeps expanding.

We complain about inflation and high prices at the supermarket. But, the fact is, in the United States, food is still a bargain. In other countries, people spend more of their salaries for food. Many go hungry.

American agribusiness employs millions of our people in processing food and fiber and getting it to the market. It plays an important role in our local and national economy.

Profile of the farm family

Nearly two million people farm or ranch in the United States. Almost 90 percent of U.S. farms are operated by individuals or family corporations. More than 15 percent of the U.S. population is employed in farm or farm-related jobs, including production agriculture, farm inputs, processing and marketing and wholesale and retail sales.

The average age of farmers and ranchers is slightly more than 53 years old.

Forty-two percent of U.S. total land is farmland (945.5 million acres). In 1900, the average farm size was 147 acres; the average farm now has 491 acres. The top five agricultural commodities include: cattle and calves, dairy products, corn, soybeans and hogs.

Farmers and ranchers are independent businessmen and businesswomen who provide for their families by growing and producing food and fiber. They use modern production techniques to increase the quality and quantity of the food they produce. In the 1960s, one farmer supplied 25.8 persons in the U.S. and abroad. In 1994, one farmer supplied food for 129 people in the U.S. and abroad.

Like urban families, farm families are concerned that their children have nutritious and safe food, and they take measures to ensure that the food they produce is the highest quality possible.

Farm families use the same technologies as urban families. Many use cellular phones, satellites for weather and information and computers for record keeping and searching for information on the Internet. These technologies help provide up-to-date information and resources, including educational opportunities for their children. Changing to meet consumer demands

Through research and changes in production practices, today's food producers are providing Americans with the widest variety of foods ever.

Farmers and ranchers are producing meat lower in fat and cholesterol. Today's hog is bred to be 50 percent leaner than that produced 20 years ago. This has resulted in retail cuts that are 15 percent leaner, giving consumers better value for their dollar. Also, much leaner beef cuts are being produced than 20 years ago, resulting in 27 percent less fat reaching the retail case than in 1985.

Research and advancements in biotechnology are now in the market place with tastier fruits and vegetables that stay fresh longer and are not damaged by insects.

product, has been shown to reduce the risk of some cancer and heart disease.

•American agriculture is reaching out to the third world, looking for ways to improve food production in regions where growing conditions are poor and food is scarce.

Environment

•Farmers and ranchers are the first environmentalists, maintaining and improving the soil and natural resources to pass on to future generations. Farmers maintain over 1.3 million acres of grass waterways, allowing water to flow naturally from crops without eroding soil. Contour farming — planting crops around hillsides instead of up and down — keeps soil from washing away. About 26 million acres in the United States are managed this way. Cattle ranchers and others control water run-off with sod water-ways and diversions, erosion control structures and catch basins.

•Just as urban families recycle glass, newspapers and aluminum, farm families have practiced recycling for a long time by applying manure to fields to replace nutrients in the soil. Newer recycling practices have evolved, including recycling chemical containers, feed bags and food by-products. As well, foodservice food scraps are used to make animal feed.

•Waste paper sent by municipal governments to landfills may soon find its way to the farm. U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers are testing the benefits of spreading pelleted waste paper on farm ground to act as an artificial mulch, reducing wind and water erosion, enhancing water retention and building organic matter.

Changing technology

•A new technique called "precision farming" boosts crop yields and reduces waste by using satellite maps and computers to match seed, fertilizer and crop protector applications to local soil conditions.

•Farm equipment has evolved dramatically from the team of horses used in the early 1900s. Today's four-wheel drive tractors have the power of 40-300 horses. This makes for a large capital investment, as farmers pay anywhere from $97,000 for an average 160 horsepower tractor to $170,000 for a four-wheel drive model.

•As the amount of mechanization and horse power in farm machinery has increased, the time needed to complete tasks has decreased. Combines, huge machines used to harvest grains such as corn, soybeans and wheat, have dramatically changed agriculture. In the 1930s, before the machines were available, a farmer could harvest an average of 100 bushels of corn by hand in a nine-hour day. Today's combines can harvest 900 bushels of corn per hour — or 100 bushels of corn in under seven minutes!

Larry E. Sitzman, Director
Nebraska Department of Agriculture

Family, food, and farming — a combination that can't go wrong. Whether on the farm near Culbertson or in downtown Omaha, family is an integral part of our culture. And when families celebrate or gather, there is always one constant that you can count on — plenty of food. We enjoy an abundant supply of safe, tasty, and nutritious food, thanks to farmers and ranchers.

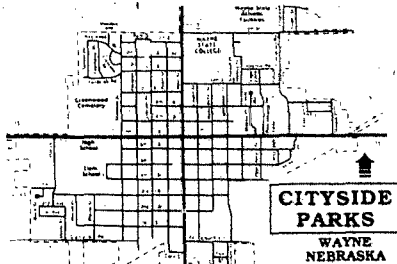

The relationship between family, food, and farming is the focus of this year's National Agriculture Day, a yearly celebration of agriculture. The theme "Growing Better Everyday: Generation to Generation" emphasizes agriculture's proud past and its commitment to growing and changing to meet consumer demands now and in the future.

There truly is a strong relationship between family, food, and farming. Please take time this week to celebrate that relationship and to recognize producers for the important role they play in your community.

Ag Day — family, food, and farming

Family, Food and Farming — a combination that can't go wrong. Although family, food and farming might not have an obvious relationship when you first look at the words, you may want to stop and take another look. Whether on the farm or in downtown Manhattan, family is an integral part of the American culture. And when families celebrate or gather, there is always one constant that you can count on — plenty of food. Americans enjoy an abundant and widely varied supply of safe, tasty and nutritious food, thanks to American farmers, ranchers and food providers.

The relationship between family, food and farming is the focus of this year's National Agriculture Day, a yearly celebration of agriculture. Through the theme "Growing Better Everyday, Generation to Generation," the agriculture industry is building on a proud past, while growing and changing to meet consumer demands now and in the future.

Agriculture has come a long way from the days when teams of horses were used to till the land. Now farmers and ranchers use machines that have the power of between 40 and 300 horses. And they employ advanced technologies to produce high-quality food safely and efficiently. They are also constantly improving production practices to reduce wind, water and soil erosion so that better land is left for the next generation. Some farmers are using a new technique called "precision farming," which boosts crop yields and reduces waste by using satellite mapping and computers to match seed, fertilizer and crop protection applications to specific soil conditions. Increased production and efficiency allows each farmer to produce enough food for 129 people annually.

The changes in technology and mechanization have profoundly changed family farming operations, too. In 1900 the average farm size was 147 acres; now the average farm has 491 acres. Conversely, the number of people it takes to produce our food has steadily decreased, resulting in more than two million people farming or ranching in the United States.

Although farmers and ranchers live and work mainly in rural areas, they are certainly not isolated from the rest of the world. The "Information Age" is helping farmers by allowing them to track weather conditions (through satellites) and gain access to information and research through the Internet. Computers are also helping farmers to maintain detailed records, boosting efficiency and profitability.

While farmers and ranchers are increasing production efficiency, they also are responding to consumer demands. Farmers and ranchers are producing meat lower in fat and cholesterol to fit with today's health-conscious consumers. Today's hog is bred to be 50 percent leaner than that produced 20 years ago, resulting in retail cuts that are 15 percent leaner. Leaner beef cuts are also being produced; meat with 27-percent less fat reaches the retail case than in 1985. Farmers have also met consumer demand for ethnic foods, such as corn chips and tortillas, by increasing production of food-grade corn. Through biotechnology consumers can now enjoy a fresh tomato that is tasty — even when out of season!

So you see, there is a strong relationship between family, food and farming. Please take time to celebrate that relationship on March 20. In the meantime, you can rest assured that farmers and ranchers are going to continue "Growing Better Everyday, Generation to Generation."

Governor Ben Nelson

National Agriculture Week is a good opportunity for Nebraskans, and all Americans, to reflect on the many contributions of farmers and ranchers and the entire agribusiness industry. Agriculture is the backbone of our country. In Nebraska, it is our largest and most important industry.

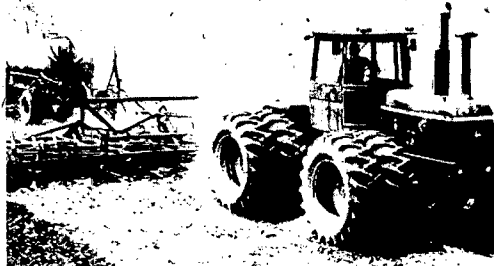

Most of us realize that agriculture faces many challenges, and that those challenges are often beyond the control of individual producers. Changes and challenges are not going to go away. However, I am constantly inspired by the ability of farmers and ranchers to meet those challenges and turn them into opportunities.

As Governor, I feel a tremendous responsibility to promote an economic and regulatory climate that is beneficial to our ag industry. We must all do what we can to strengthen agriculture, from promoting Nebraska products on international trade missions to supporting value added cooperative projects. We all have a vested interest. Agriculture is the root of our food supply, and the driving force of our economy.

Family values continue

Family values and farming have been integral parts of America's culture since horse and buggy days, and these values continue to be the glue that makes it possible for farmers and ranchers to meet today's consumer and environmental needs. National Agriculture Week, March 17-23, and National Agriculture Day, March 20, will celebrate the continuing legacy of the American farm family.

"As farmers and ranchers our most important asset is the family," said Ron Vavrina, chairman of the Agriculture Council of America, Ag Day coordinator. "We're continually passing on to our children what we learned from past generations — family values in everything we do, especially in producing food for our kids and everyone else's."

Responding to their own and other families' needs, today's farm families provide Americans and millions of others worldwide with a bounty of high quality, ever improving food, like tomatoes that stay fresher longer. The farm family is also helping consumers lower fat and cholesterol in their diets by producing leaner beef and breeding hogs to be 50 percent leaner than those produced 20 years ago.

Sharing concerns with urban neighbors about the environment, the farm family recycles, too — they recycle feed bags, chemical containers and food by-products. Environment friendly farming methods like precision farming — using satellite maps and computers to match seed, fertilizer and crop protector applications to soil conditions — and minimum tillage, which reduces soil erosion, are key practices in farming today:

"I wish my grandfather could see what I'm doing with the same land he worked. I think he'd be proud. I know I'm proud of our legacy of farming," continued Vavrina. On his fourth generation farm Vavrina uses environment friendly methods to produce corn, soybeans and sugarbeets. "I also take time to show my grandkids what I do in the field to care for the air, water, soil and wildlife. I learned that from my father. And granddad," added Vavrina.

To feed each new generation the farm family has learned to adapt to new technologies just like their consumer counterparts, relying on tools like cellular phones, computers, satellites and internet.

Gail McPherson, a fruit grower, mother and agriculture communicator, represents today's farm family, saying, "I remember teaching my kids more than just how to grow apples and peaches while all five of us — the kids, my husband and I — worked together in the orchard. We talked with them about the golden rule and the importance of our environment and nurturing each other. Our business has always been family producing for other families."

McPherson continued, "I think it's important for everyone to celebrate the family. This year we're lucky — we can celebrate the farm family in particular. Families taking care of families — that's what Growing Better Everyday Generation to Generation means."
