

Issues debated at legislative forum

(WAYNE, Neb.)--Property taxes, funding for local governments, new speed limits and gambling issues dominated the discussion during the Nebraska legislative forum held at Wayne State College Friday morning.

State Senators Leland Klein, Battle Creek; Pat Engel, South Sioux City and Stan Schellpeper, Stanton, attended the session which was sponsored by the college in cooperation with the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Legislative Council.

The senators responded to questions posed by members of the audience which included over 100 high school government students from Wayne, Wakefield, Randolph and Laurel-Concord schools.

Engel told the students and community leaders that the legislature feels compelled to pass legislation to place property tax levy limits on local governments because of the citizen petition efforts which are circulating in the state.

"If we don't do something,

Wayne High to present 'Cyrano' on April 12 - 13

Wayne High School will be presenting the operetta "Cyrano" on Friday and Saturday, April 12-13. The operetta is under the direction of Kathryn Ley and will be performed at the Wayne High School lecture hall at 7:30 p.m. both evenings.

"Cyrano" is one of the most famous romances of all time. It is the story of Cyrano De Bergerac (played by Mike Imdieke), the 17th century soldier-adventurer who is secretly in love with the beautiful, young Roxanne (played by Maria Brown).

Believing he is too ugly because of his grotesque nose to ever win Roxanne, the eloquent Cyrano helps Christian, a tongue-tied soldier (Clay Sielken) to woo her with love letters. After many years Cyrano starts to tell Roxanne the truth. But Christian is killed in battle and Cyrano feels compelled to keep his secret. The play contains a bittersweet ending which you won't want to miss.

It is recommended that tickets be purchased in advance of the show by contacting Kathryn Ley at 375-3150 or by buying tickets at Pac 'N Save or State National Bank.

somebody else will because people are upset about the property tax situation in the state of Nebraska," said Engel. He added that several of the petition proposals would implement more drastic local cuts than the Unicameral's proposed solutions and that the dire measures in the petition proposals would not be in the best interests of the state.

The effect of the tax limiting measures on school funding drew the greatest numbers of questions on a single subject.

"We have to reign in every aspect of government and education is just one area," Engel said in response to a question about how the state could be talking about cutting local school funding sources at a time when governors are just returning from the education summit at which they talked about improving educational efforts through the schools. "I totally believe in education, however, there's got to be a way to economize without sacrificing quality education."

KLEIN SUGGESTED maintaining educational quality through cooperative efforts like the new Lifelong Learning Center at Norfolk. He said the limits contained in LB 114, which sets levy limits on local governments, must be implemented, however.

Schellpeper voiced dissent on the talk of limits. He said he doesn't see how the state can force small schools to reduce their tax levies by 40 to 50 cents per $100 of valuation without replacing the funding from other sources. "They are operating very frugally now," he said. "This bill is going to be the death of a lot of small rural communities in this state unless we put some funding back in the bill."

SCHELLPEPER SAID he did not see the petition efforts as a reason for the legislature to take any drastic action.

"I'm not worried about the petitions passing. I don't think the people of this state are going to approve anything so drastic," he said. He added he believes the people of Nebraska hold educational quality as one of the most important priorities for the state.

Engel said he was concerned about the petition proposals one of which would create an immediate $400 million reduction in spending on education in the state. He said the legislative alternative would be to phase reductions in over several years.

As a former school board member from South Sioux City, Engel said he was frustrated with the rulings of the Court of Industrial Relations which he said makes decisions about teacher salaries in negotiation situations "not based on what you could afford" but on comparisons with other school districts. He said he was not in favor of continuing the Court of Industrial Relations.

Cross of resurrection

The cross is a symbol Christians associate with the Easter Season. Christian tradition holds that on Good Friday, Jesus of Nazareth was crucified, only to be raised from the dead three days later, on Easter Sunday. All area churches have activities planned for this, the most holy of holy weeks. A complete listing of Holy Week celebrations can be found on the Faith page of this week's paper.

Good Friday services to be held

The 1996 Community Good Friday Services will be held tomorrow (Friday) beginning at 12:05 p.m.

As in past years there will be simultaneous services. For those who are able to take part in the walk with the Cross, the walk will begin at Our Savior Lutheran Church and make its way to its completion at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Those who are unable to participate in the walk may meet at St. Mary's and participate in the full services there.

The services are sponsored by the local ministerial association, the Wayne Associations of Congregations and Ministers, who extend a warm invitation to everyone who would like to share this meaningful Good Friday worship in remembrance of Jesus Christ's way of the cross.

Full agenda keeps Commissioners busy

By Beth Peters
Of the Herald

The Wayne county Commissioners board met with three members present on April 2.

Among the items discussed was safety at bridge sites. Bridge planks that have been left at building sites and need to be picked up in the future.

Also discussed was the return of sale proceedings. Equafunding, formerly called Equavest, paid back taxes up to 1994 on approximately 57 properties in the area. There was a bit of local interest in one of the properties, but the company was the only real interest in bidding.

The company was not interested in land with a lot of back taxes. The treasurer's fee on the properties was raised to $10 so the county received $570.

Also on the agenda was courthouse accessibility. At the last meeting, possibilities for making the building accessible to the handicapped were discussed. One plan being considered at that time was to put the elevator on the north side of the building. Deb Finn and other county officials proposed a different plan. The committee wanted to put the elevator on the south side, which would amount to less construction and disruption of the building. Some office swapping would have to take place. The committee generally feels this will be a better use of the existing space. The Board will discuss this further.

Other items on the agenda at the meeting were culvert bid openings, the county's agreement with Northeast Nebraska Juvenile Services, Inc. and the Cedar County Interlocal Cooperation Agreement. The culvert costs will be $32,747.78. The estimated delivery date is sixty days.

Mike Applegate of Northeast Nebraska Juvenile Services, Inc. told the commissioners at the present time there are approximately 120,000 people associated with the project from the counties that have agreed to be involved. That number needs to be 156,000 to maintain the regional dollar figure of $1.41 per capita for building costs. There are currently three larger counties who have not conceded to the agreement.

about coming to Wakefield and should be here by July 1," said Derwin Hartman, current superintendent of the Wakefield Community Schools.

The Wakefield Board of Education received 22 qualified applications for the position. That number was reduced to four applicants who were interviewed. The board then visited the top two candidates' communities before making the final decision.

The Putmans have two sons. Mark attends Wayne State College and Matt is attending Hastings College.

Hartman is leaving Wakefield after 32 years in the school system.

He came as a classroom teacher and elementary principal. For the last 16 years, in addition to being the elementary principal, he has been Superintendent.

Hartman and his wife will be moving to Elkhorn to be closer to their family.

"I will miss lots of things after I leave here, but I will miss the kids the most. I will miss the faculty, the people and the community," Hartman said.

"Wakefield has been a wonderful community and a great place to raise a family. We will come back a lot to visit," Hartman added.

sparred over differences of opinion on the legislative proposal to raise the speed limits on state highways.

Schellpeper said the average speed already on the Interstates is 72 miles per hour and he couldn't see raising the limit to less than what motorists are driving already.

Klein explained that the senators doubled the statutory fines for speeding over five miles per hour more than the posted limits.

Responding to a question on expansion of gambling in Nebraska, Schellpeper said the people of this state are losing up to $300 million per year to Iowa because of gambling. He said 70 to 80 percent of the people in the casinos in Iowa are from Nebraska.

The senators also expressed their views on a variety of other issues.

"They had differing views on the minimum wage increase legislation which recently failed to be advanced," Schellpeper said he voted to increase the minimum wage to $4.50. Engel said he voted against the measure because it may have priced too many young people out of the labor pool. Klein said he recorded a "present but not voting" position on the bill because he didn't think the 25 cent increase proposed was enough.

Pat Engel voiced strong opposition to the idea same sex marriages. He said family values have deteriorated enough in the country and said he was "totally opposed" to legalizing same sex marriages. Schellpeper said he also was opposed to same sex marriages.

All three senators said they were in favor of the death penalty and they were also all in agreement in their opposition to abortion.

Responding to a question on gun control, the senators also expressed differing views. Schellpeper has introduced legislation to legalize carrying of concealed weapons. "Criminals will always have weapons," he added. He said there were certain military assault weapons that should not be legalized but he did not think the government should prevent people from owning or carrying guns for sport or protection.

Rodeo for exceptional children is being held

Members of the University of Nebraska at Kearney Rodeo Club will hold its annual Spectacular Rodeo, which is designed especially for exceptional children, next month.

"The UNK Rodeo Club members willingly volunteer themselves and their time, in order to share their sport of rodeo with a group of special children who might otherwise never experience the thrill of participating in the rodeo arena," said Donna Posusta, UNK rodeo club adviser.

The Spectacular Rodeo, in its ninth year, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 14, at the UNK Rodeo arena, 17th Ave. and West Railroad.

Hartington teen dies

Cedar County Sheriff Elliot A. Arnes reported that on Wednesday that a 15 year old Hartington teen was found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Student's question appears on TV

Brad Hansen, a sixth grader at Wayne Middle School, was surprised to hear his name on TV this past week.

Hansen had sent in a question to the news program that is broadcast everyday to schools across the United States.

Approximately three weeks ago Hansen had e-mailed his question "What do the presidential candidates feel about school uniforms?" On Tuesday the question was answered during the program.

The 12 minute newscast is designed especially for students in grades 6-12 with two minutes of commercials, other with a message about staying in school or staying drug free.

The Middle School administration and faculty feel the Channel One broadcast gives the students a chance to watch the news that they might not find time to watch at home.

"Channel One news offers extra explanations of the news and can become a springboard for classroom discussion," said Faamel Bennett, Middle School librarian.

Schools contracted with Channel One Communications receives a satellite dish, two videotape recorders for automatic recording of the televised broadcasts and networked televisions for every classroom. Channel One encourages schools to use this equipment for other curriculum projects. In the Middle School, two students are selected each week to read the school announcements over the TV, allowing them to gain experience in public speaking.

Brad is the son of Gene and Karen Hansen of Wayne.

US West sells Nebraska exchanges

US West Communications and four Nebraska telephone companies with a long history of providing telecommunications in rural Nebraska have jointly announced an agreement on the sale of 28 US West Communications exchanges involving 32 communities in Nebraska.

The agreement provides for the transfer of ownership of these exchanges to Arapahoe Telephone Company, Great Plains Communications, Nebraska Central Telephone Company and Northeast Nebraska Telephone Company.

Collectively these four companies provide service in Nebraska to more than 37,000 customers. The agreement includes approximately 12,400 access lines in the 32 communities, or about two and one-half percent of US West's Nebraska customers. Remaining customers and exchanges will not be impacted by the agreement.

Joanne Harrell, US West Communications vice-president Nebraska, said, "We are confident we have succeeded in reaching an agreement which will deliver our stated commitment to provide excellent service to these communities. And, until necessary regulatory approvals are obtained, we will continue to serve our customers in these exchanges."

Northeast Nebraska Telephone Company President Howard Rasmussen said, "We are excited about purchasing these exchanges. Our overall experience in the telecommunications industry and our experience in serving Nebraskans make a great combination to provide our new customers the service they deserve and expect."

Customers with questions may call 1-800-833-9825 and their issues will be referred to the appropriate company.

LB 1368 to play key role in U.P. headquarters location

By Pat Engel
District 17 Senator
LB 1368, also known as the U.P. (Union Pacific) bill, would play a key role in where U.P. would locate its headquarters, should the pending merger with the S.P. (Southern Pacific Rail Company) receive federal approval. U.P. is considering where to base 4,850 headquarters employees, 3,200 of whom are already in Nebraska and the investment in a new headquarters which will mean a capital investment of from $50 million to $150 million. With the 3,200 workers presently here and the additional of 1,600 new jobs, Nebraska would receive the largest boost to its economy, ever in the state's history. The merger between U.P. and S.P. would be a giant company with $9.3 billion in sales per year.

The Quality Jobs Act, passed in 1995 as LB 829, was designed to provide an economic incentive to employer businesses to expand or relocate in Nebraska and has provided an effective way of improving the business climate in Nebraska and encouraging the creation of quality jobs. The procedures by which to qualify for incentives in the law at present, however, can create difficulties for many employer businesses, both in and out of Nebraska, and especially those subject to federal labor laws. Because of the federal labor laws, Union Pacific is not allowed to negotiate agreements with employees except through the normal collective bargaining process. LB 1368 would allow the benefits to come through corporate income tax credits, instead of through a company's use of employee income tax withholding. LB 1368 is intended to ensure that all employer businesses have similar access to and opportunity to utilize the incentives allowed by the Quality Jobs Act, but provide only the same amount of incentives under an alternative methodology as is allowed under the existing law. LB 1368 is not intended to increase benefits approved by the Legislature in 1995. LB 1368 has advanced from General File.

LB 687 which would have made changes to charitable gaming provisions, did not advance from General File with a 20-5 vote. Under LB 687, a 2 percent city bingo tax would have been eliminated and the state bingo tax reduced from 6 percent of gross profits to 3 percent. Nebraska charities pay one of the highest bingo taxes in the nation, with keno paying a 2 percent tax.
LB 1255, was advanced and allows the proceeds from betting on televised races at the Ak-Sar-Ben racetrack to increase purses at the state's four other racetracks. Some additional amendments will probably be discussed during the next debate regarding clarification of an Attorney General's opinion of whether or not the State Racing Commission has the authority to allow simulcasting at Ak-Sar-Ben beyond this year even though it does not have live racing.

Capitol News

Time is running out in session

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Former State Sen. Frank Korshoj of Herman earned quite a reputation during his one term in the Nebraska Legislature.

A straight shooting lumberyard owner, Korshoj was a master at cutting through the political wheat and chaff — and tossing out the chaff.

Many senators worry about hurting colleagues' feelings. Not Korshoj (pronounced "core-shaw"). He would quickly make motions to kill bills that were dumb ideas or political long shots.

It didn't make sense to waste any time, he reasoned, Korshoj earned the nickname "Killer" because of it. Well, Frank would have loved last week. Bills died left and right, not because a modern-day Korshoj moved to kill them but because time is running out in the 1996 session.

The Legislature runs on two-year cycles and this is the end of the two years. Bills that aren't given final approval by April 18 — the final day of the 1996 session — die a natural death.

In order to have a chance to pass through the required three rounds of debate, those pressing legislative matters should have advanced the first round last week. Several, including controversial proposals on abortion and boot camps, didn't.

Unless they are saved by the same miracle that resurrected the Nebraska basketball season, those measures are dead, departed, outta here.

You know, journalists don't usually like to write obituaries. It's a common form of punishment for newspaper writers who've done something wrong, like misspelling the publisher's name or missing a deadline.

But after reading through hundreds of bills over two years, we relish the chance to drive a stake through the heart of some of these proposals.

One of those is Gov. Nelson's idea to build an "incarceration work camp" for non-violent, first-time offenders. Despite the fancy title, it was really a boot camp, a concept embraced by several states to instill good-old, military style discipline into young adults that commit minor crimes.

The idea was to make their life so miserable that they would never again consider committing a crime.

It was a nice idea. Most military folks I know don't speak highly of the boot-camp experience. But boot camps don't normally work in fighting crime.

It was the second year in a row that the Legislature gave the boot to the $6.2 million boot camp. You'd think this would send a message but this idea will be back — it's just too fashionable to fight crime.

Time also ran out on an abortion bill. A session cannot pass without pro-lifers and pro-choicers waging war over something.

This year, Sen. John Lindsay of Omaha introduced a bill that attempted to define when life begins. It was a back-door attempt to ban abortion, and issue that has inspired the longest and most draining debates in the history of the one-house Unicameral.

It didn't take a rocket scientist to determine that the latest abortion bill wouldn't go anywhere this year: most senators do not want to reopen that debate and 1996 was already designated as the year to do something about high property taxes.

It was dead on arrival. But, like the boot camp idea, it was allowed to linger until the last weeks of the session. If Frankie Korshoj was still around, it would have been dead long ago.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

B.U.G. award winners

Fifth and sixth grade students who brought up their grades in core subjects during the third quarter were honored Wednesday with donuts and juice as part of a program sponsored by the Wayne Kiwanis Club and Dairy Queen. The students had to maintain or raise all grades—no grade could be lowered. Those achieving that honor were, back row, left to right, Andrea Simpson, Allisa Ellingson, Christina Gathje, Jessica Agler, Ann Temme, Jodi Stowater, Shaun Ford and Kivianian representative Kinda Anderson. Middle row, left to right, are Elizabeth Sump, Sarah Ekberg, Britni Bethone, Tessa Main, Sarah Foote and Mark Finn. Front row, left to right, are Jeff Utecht, Brad Hansen, Lucas Stollenberg, Emily Kinney, Tim Puntney and Kristofer Roberts. Not present for the picture was Jakob Mrsny. The students received a certificate from the Kiwanis Club and a certificate from Dairy Queen for a free Blizzard treat.

Houston, we have a problem!

"Where O where has my country gone, O where O where can it be?"

With its "smart" cut short and its "dumb" cut long.

O where, O where can it be?" A shoddy parody of an old song, but it leads us to our subject: how can intelligent people do such silly things?

With newspaper in hand, we read:

(1) A drunk driver killed six people. A not-so-tough "Your Honor" sentenced the driver to prison, but he may be out in 24 months.

(2) The same federal government which prohibits school prayers, citing the separation of church and state, then sends U.S. military troops to support the Muslims in Bosnia.

(3) Roman Catholics in a Lincoln Diocese who belong to Masonic groups face excommunication.

(4) A former NASA engineer, and several colleagues, claim there are structures on the moon, visible in NASA photos, constructed by life forms other than earthlings.

NASA denies it.

(5) In Florida, two fifth graders, a boy and a girl, kissed in a hallway. The principal suspended the two 11-year-olds for a day. Parents became furious, contacted the ACLU and filed a complaint.

(6) An 82-year-old Los Angeles man, sponsored by the Nebraska State Bar Association, toured several Nebraska schools, telling students about the terrible "McCarthy Era". At the same time the National Security Agency last week released papers, including intercepted Soviet cables, revealing that the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy may actually have understated the case when, back in the 1950's, he asserted that the U.S. government was honey-combed with Communists and Soviet espionage agents. None other than The Washington Post described "Moscow's successful penetration of major U.S. government institutions, including the White House, War Department and Truman administration"

(7) Four Nebraska Supreme Court judges, Chief Justice C. Thomas White, D. Nick Caporale, Dale Fahrbruch and David Lanphier, outvoted the other three, John Wright, William Connolly and John Gerrard, in ordering a new trial for a man who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder. Why? The word "malice" wasn't used in jury instructions! Although the Legislature removed "malice" from the law in 1978, these four maintain that it was still an element of the crime and that charges, and jury instructions, must include it. (Term limits for the "honzors" might benefit Nebraskans.)

(8) The U.S. Postal Service is offering $1 million to underwrite the Republican/Democratic nominating conventions! How about cutting stamp prices instead! Houston, we have a problem!

Committee chair continues recycling discussion

Letter to the Editor
Editor's note: This is the third in a four-part discussion concerning the findings of a committee studying the options available to the community to address solid waste management and recycling needs.

Dear Editor,
A second solid waste management option available to the city of Wayne is to contract with a waste handling business or businesses similar to the current program. However, the new contract would need to include the following:

- a) residential curbside pickup of solid waste to be hauled to the landfill,
 - b) residential curbside pickup of recyclable materials, and
 - c) on-site pickup of solid waste and recyclable materials from industrial and commercial sites.
- Residential pickup of both solid waste and recyclables would take place once per week.

According to estimates, commercial and industrial businesses produce about 50 percent of the wastes hauled to the landfill. Thus, the new contract would also need to address recycling for businesses.

Recycling would be encouraged using a billing structure based on the size waste container used at each household. For example, waste containers might be available in 32, 64 or 96 gallon sizes capable of holding one, two or three large trash bags. Each increase in container size would have an additional cost. The hauler(s) providing the service would provide each household and business in Wayne with a container for solid waste and recycling. In this way, each household and business would have access to the container, the pickup service found most desirable and in the size they need.

The city would assume responsibility for billing each household for the service as part of the monthly utility bill. In this way, Wayne residents would be encouraged to participate in recycling by virtue of the cost incentive. In addition, those who already recycle, would no longer need to haul their materials to the collection site, and volunteers would not be needed to operate the collection site.

This program would likely provide the quickest route to meeting the 50 percent reduction in waste hauled to the landfill. The program would remain voluntary at least for the first few years as residents become familiar with the program. If program participation is inadequate to meet the 50 percent goal, a mandatory program could be considered in the future.

Solid Waste Management Committee
Bill Kranz, Chair

Second session held for R&R program

The second session of the Resources and Renewal Program was held March 9, at the Argo Hotel in Crofton. The purpose of the three part program is to develop personal leadership skills and discover resources necessary for rural development in N.E.braska.

During the morning session, Myrna DuBois presented "Real Colors" a program designed to look at discovering individual personalities and how they affect working relationships.

Following lunch, Sally Ebmeier talked to the group about improving communication skills and the importance of listening. Resources and Renewal member Donna Zingerman served as coordinator for the day.

During February, the group gathered in Lincoln at the Rogers House, then met with legislators and agency personnel at the capitol before stopping in Columbus to meet with NPPD and Loup Power District representatives on the way home. Next month's meeting will be April 13 in Verdigre. Among the group's members are Dick Leitschuck of South Sioux City and Kathy and Larry Boswell of Allen.

'Cats win 2 at Augustana tourney

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State softball team won two out of five games at the Augustana Tournament held last weekend at the Dakota dome in Vermillion.

The 'Cats got off to a slow start last Friday as they lost a 3-1 decision to South Dakota. WSC committed six errors and stranded nine runners on base.

"The errors killed us in that game," said Head Coach Joan Scherbring. "We needed the key hits and we didn't get them. We had our chances to score; we just didn't do it."

Tina Lehman went 2-3 at the plate, while Angie Louck, Michelle Rowe, Maryellen Livingston and Kris Krigbaum each singled. Livingston allowed just one earned run, but suffered the loss.

South Dakota 010 010 1 3-2

On Saturday, WSC rallied for three runs in the fifth inning to take a 6-5 lead over North Dakota State, but the Bison crossed the plate three times in the sixth to win the game 8-6. Louck went 3-4 and scored two runs to pace the offense. Lehman went 2-2 with a double and RBI and two runs scored. Becky Egl doubled and singled, while Betsy Wegner, Jen Ostrem, Rowe and Krigbaum each picked up base hits. Shantel Hoelscher took the loss.

Wayne State came back in Saturday's second game to shut down St. Thomas (Minn.) 5-1.

Eivingson struck out five and didn't allow an earned run to get the win. Anne Slahn went 2-2 with two RBIs, while Ostrem doubled and singled. Lehman and Louck each added doubles, while Eivingson, Egl, Krigbaum and Terra Stelberg each singled.

"It was just an all-around good game for us," said Scherbring. "We played good defense, Mary threw very well and we hit the ball. That's what it takes to win."

Wayne State 000 202 4 5-1
St. Thomas 100 000 0 1-2

WSC opened Sunday's action with a 6-4 win over Northern State. Lehman hit a solo homer in the seventh and Louck, Livingston and Egl each doubled. Rowe, Ostrem and Krigbaum also picked up base hits for the 'Cats. Livingston struck out four in three innings of relief to get the win.

"We went the first five innings with one hit," said Scherbring, "but finally in the sixth inning we broke through with three doubles and two singles to score four runs. That pretty much broke open the game."

Wayne State 010 011 6 7-1
Northern State 010 201 0 4-5
W. Maryellen Livingston (4-4)

In the Sunday's final game, Mankato State scored four runs in the fifth inning to defeat Wayne State 4-2. Livingston, Ostrem and Rowe picked up the only hits for the Wildcats. Livingston allowed just one earned run, but fell to 4-5 with the loss.

"We didn't get a lot of hits," said Scherbring, "but we capitalized when we did get some hits. We got ahead 2-0, but a couple of errors hurt us defensively. Overall, I was happy with the game. Mankato was seeded first in the tournament. We knew they were a good team, so I think we put up a real good fight. When we get just a little more solid on defense, we'll start winning those games against good teams like that."

Last Thursday, Wayne State traveled to Kearney for a doubleheader with the Lopers. UNK came into the day at 23-6 and proved that they were as good as their record. Nebraska-Kearney scored eight first inning runs and blanked WSC 9-0 in the first game, limiting them to just four hits. Egl tripled and singled, while Livingston and Krigbaum each singled. Livingston took the loss, allowing 10 hits and four earned runs.

"We went out and got down 8-0 in the first inning," said Scherbring, "and that pretty much took the life out of us. They have a very good team. Kearney is playing pretty good ball and they don't let you get by with any mistakes."

Wayne State 000 00 0 4-3
Nebraska-Kearney 800 1x 9 10-0

The Wildcats didn't fair much better in the second game, as Kearney scored in each of the first three innings and rolled to a 9-1 win. Rowe doubled and Slahn singled for WSC's only two hits. Mindy Alt gave up three earned runs in three innings and took the loss.

Darin Gregory went 2-3 at the plate with a double, two runs scored and two RBIs. James Mansell also doubled while Cory Graves, Jon Small and Jack Hansen each singled.

"We got an outstanding pitching performance from Joe Thompson," said Head Coach John Mangano. The result was not as good in the second game as the Lopers jumped out to a jumped out to an 8-0 lead after three innings and went on to defeat the 'Cats 16-2. Three students are awarded scholarships

Nebraska Wesleyan University has awarded academic scholarships to the following high school seniors.

These scholarships are awarded solely on the students' academic abilities and high school records. Nebraska Wesleyan is an independent, undergraduate, liberal arts university nationally recognized for its excellence in teaching and the high caliber of its students and faculty.

Awarded a Trustee's Scholarship, valued at $10,000 over four years, was Karie Lutt of Wayne High School. Karie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lutt of Wayne.

Awarded a President's Scholarship, valued at $6,000 over four years, was Krissy Lubberstedt, also of Wayne High. Krissy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lubberstedt.

Receiving a Recognition Scholarship, valued at $4,000 over four years was Tyler Erwin of Laurel-Concord High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rich Erwin of Laurel.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

It has been some time since we talked about children's books. In case you aren't aware, our juvenile books are to be found downstairs in the library. And if you haven't been down there, we encourage you to look around — especially at the attractive displays depicting favorite story-book characters and Mother Goose rhymes. The books are shelved according to the reading level of the child. There are 'Board' books for toddlers, 'Easy' books, 'Picture' books and 'Intermediate' books. Books on tape can be found in the back room downstairs, as are the jigsaw puzzles, children's magazines and encyclopedias. But we want to tell you about some of the new books you will find there. "Birds: A Practical Guide to Caring For Your Birds" by Mark Evans; "Tops and Bottoms," a Caldecott Honor book by Janet Stevens; "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," by Sam McBratney, a picture book that tells the story of three little mice who live in a basement.

Another new book on the intermediate shelf is "Moon of Two Dark Horses" by Sally M. Keenan, a book of colonial times. Four books, which are adapted from the Little House Books by Laura Ingalls Wilder, have just been put on the shelf in the picture section. Look for "Going to Town," "Dance at Grandpa's," "The Deer in the Wood" and "Winter Days in the Big Woods."

We should probably give equal time to our new adult books. That book by the unknown author (Anonymous) is here! "Primary Colors: A Novel of Politics" has had intriguing previews and reviews. It can be found here! (If it isn't on the new book shelf, check at the desk to reserve it. We will put a "hold" on the book on the computer and when your name pops up we will call you!)

Dr. Dean Ornish has a new book entitled "Everyday Cooking with Dr. Dean Ornish: 150 Easy, Low-Fat, High-Flavor Recipes."

Salman Rushdie's "The Moor's Last Sigh" has received interesting reviews. However, the anticipation generated by the appearance of the book may be greater than the reading of it! See for yourself! "The Red Geranium" by Janette Oke is a surprisingly small book in size. It is a story about grandmothers and children. David G. Baldacci's "Absolute Power" is a political murder story which involved the U.S. President. Rita Mae Brown is better known for her mysteries written with her cat, Sneaky Pie Brown. However, her latest book, "Riding Shotgun" has an historical basis. Veterinarian Dr. Nicholas Dodman's "The Dog Who Loved Too Much: Tales, Treatments and the Psychology of Dogs," uses real-life stories from his practice.

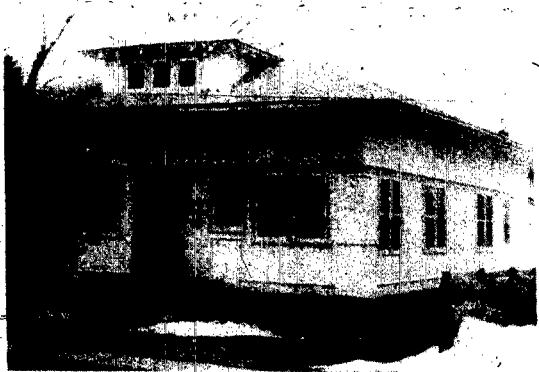

If we have tickled your interest, why don't you come in and look around? Our hours are Monday through Friday, 12:30 to 8:30; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m.

Physical attractiveness plays a role

Q. What role do teachers play in emphasizing the importance of physical attractiveness?

A. Unfortunately, teachers are products of the same society that molds the values and attitudes of everyone else. They are often repelled by the physically unattractive child and drawn to the cutie.

Two researchers, Ellen Berscheid and Elaine Walster, published their startling findings in a classic article, "Beauty and the Best," which appeared in Psychology Today. Consider the impact of these biases against the homely youngster.

1. Evidence seems to conclude that academic grades given to students are influenced by the attractiveness of the child.

2. When shown a set of children's pictures and asked to identify the child who probably created the classroom disturbance (or some similar act of misconduct), adults were likely to select an unattractive child as the offender. Likewise, the ugly child was thought to be more dishonest than his cute peer.

3. According to the findings of researcher Karen Dion, the way an adult handles a discipline problem is related to the attractiveness of the child. In other words, the same misbehavior is likely to be handled more permissively for the cute youngster and more severely for his ugly classmate.

4. Most important (and correlating with my observations), the impact of physical attractiveness is well established in nursery school. Cute little 3-year-olds already enjoy greater popularity among their peers. And unfortunately, certain physical features, such as fatness, are already recognized and disliked at this tender age.

Q. You have implied that the "middle child" has greater problems with low self-esteem than other members of the family. Maybe that explains why my second son has never been a confident person.

A. Low self-esteem can become a problem for any human being, regardless of birth order or age. However, the middle child does sometimes find it more difficult to establish his identity within the family. He enjoys neither the status of the eldest nor the attention given to the baby. Furthermore, he is likely to be born at a busy period in the life of his parents, and especially his mother. Then when he reaches the toddler years, his precious territory is invaded by a cute little newborn who steals Mama from him. Is it any wonder that he often asks, "Who am I, and where is my place in life?"

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

Q. What can I do to help my middle child, who suffers from low self-esteem?

A. I would recommend that parents take steps to insure the identity of all their children, but especially the child in the middle. That can be accomplished by occasionally relating to each boy or girl as individuals, rather than merely as members of the group. Let me offer two suggestions that may serve as examples that well illustrate what I mean.

1. It is meaningful for Dad to "date" each child, one at a time, every four or five weeks. The other kids should not be told where they are going until it is revealed by the boy or girl in retrospect. They can play miniature golf, go bowling, play basketball, eat tacos or pizza, or visit a skating rink. The choice should be made by the child whose turn has arrived.

2. Ask each offspring to design his own flag, which can be sewn in canvas or cloth. That flag is then flown in the front yard on the child's "special" days; including birthdays, after he has received an A in school, when he scores a goal in soccer, or when she wins a tennis match, etc.

There are other ways to accomplish the same purpose. The target, again, is to plan activities that emphasize one child's individuality, apart from his identity within the group.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Has historical roots

Marital violence publicized

The issue of marital violence has been widely publicized in the past couple of years, and the O.J. Simpson trial helped bring the problem to the forefront of public discussion. Marital violence has its basis in long-standing historical perceptions of the roles of men and women in society. It happens all over the country and to all sorts of people. There are, however, some common factors that can be used to help identify the greater likelihood of marital violence. The presence of the following risk factors in a household doesn't necessarily mean that domestic violence will occur. However, families that can answer

"yes" to seven or more factors are 40-times more likely to experience marital violence than families that have one of the risk factors.

1. The male is unemployed.
2. The male uses illicit drugs at least once per year.
3. The male and female have different religious backgrounds.
4. The male, as a child, saw his father hit his mother.
5. The male and female live together but are not married.
6. The male, if employed, is a blue-collar worker.
7. The male did not graduate from high school.
8. The male is between 18-30 years old.

9. The male and female use violence when dealing with their children.

10. The family's income is below the poverty level.

Of these 10 risk factors, the most influential is having experienced or observed violence in the home as a child.

DRUGS AND VIOLENCE

According to statistics from the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention, alcohol and other drugs are implicated in: 72 percent of rapes, 68 percent of manslaughters, 64 percent of child abuse cases, 62 percent of assaults, 54 percent of murders, 48 percent of robberies and 44 percent of burglaries.

Pharmacy & Your Health

WILL DAVIS SAV-MOR PHARMACY

Lip Balms Are Not "Addicting"

Occasionally our pharmacy patrons question us regarding whether or not their lips can become "addicted" to lip balms. The answer is no. Those who use lip balms regularly may become accustomed to the smooth, moist feeling that lip balms impart to the lips. When the balm wears off, the lips tend to feel rough and dry by comparison.

The lips are especially sensitive to moisture loss because they do not have a thick skin layer as does most of the exposed body. Consequently, wind and dry indoor air can rapidly remove lip moisture, resulting in chapping and cracking. Lip balms place a temporary protective layer between the environment and the lips, sealing in moisture. However, once the lip balm has been washed or licked away, protection ceases. For best protection, a lip balm should be applied before the lips become dry rather than waiting until chapping or cracking occurs.

Hoskins couple celebrated 50th anniversary with open house

Henry and Evelyn Langenberg of Hoskins celebrated their 50th anniversary March 23 at the VFW Club in Norfolk. The open house reception was hosted by the couple's children and Sally Zinn of Maryland.

Sara Hoffman of Norfolk, the couple's granddaughter, was in charge of name tags.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Vern Langenberg of Cataosa, Okla. and Mrs. Henry Thomsen of Kearney. Coffee was served by Jessica Langenberg of Springfield, S.D. and Jena Hoffman of Norfolk, granddaughters of the couple.

A short program was followed by a dance.

The couple were married March 24, 1946 at St. Paul's Church in Wayne. Al Carlson of Winside was the best man and was present at the celebration.

The couple were surprised by the appearance of Inger Carlsson and Margit Ericsson of Orsjo, Sweden. Inger's husband, Sven, is Evelyn's cousin.

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision without major complications.

Until now, the best of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel by a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willcockson, Dr. Koerber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koerber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

Ask Karen...
 Q. How do I get my comforters washed... they're so big and bulky?

A. If the comforter is washable and you have a machine big enough to do them yourself (18 lbs. or larger) you need to be careful of the common mistake of adding too much detergent which can clog on the comforter. Drying is also particularly tricky. Check the label. The best results can usually be achieved through your neighborhood drycleaners.

Activities help set the Easter mood

It's April Fool's Day, and the sun is shining. But the wind is blowing, too. Oh, well, nothing's perfect.

I'm just back from a 24 hour, 300-mile road trip, and refilled my gas tank. I really hate to pay $1.25 for gas when I got it for $1.06 a month ago. And, to compound the misery, I just figured my mileage, and it comes to 22 per gallon. Not very good.

Every year, before Easter, we get a note from Eileen Damme, saying that her church is doing its annual cantata. And, every year, there is some conflict.

Eileen used to direct our church choir. We did a couple of Christmas cantatas under her direction, and we found her to be a hard-working, patient, enthusiastic leader. She also tackled Winside's centennial pageant, and we had a lot of fun with that.

She's blessed with a supportive husband, too, who can be seen behind the scenes, often doing the scut work.

We've seen the Passion Play in Spearfish, in Eureka Springs and in Oberammergau. No matter what venue, it's always deeply moving.

This year, I made it to the one at Northern Heights. And it definitely got me in the Easter mood. The young man who plays Jesus is remarkably suited; and a soloist doing "Watch the Lamb" gave me goose bumps.

I left the Big Farmer with all kinds of food, and headed to our health care office in Weeping Water. From there, to Lincoln, to leave end of the month stuff at Tabitha. On the interstate to Seward, where I delivered Sue's birthday gift.

By Pat Meierhenry

Then north on 15 through David City, catching 81 south of Columbus. It's four lanes there, and also all the way from Madison to Norfolk. Amazing!

Spent the night with Ann and Max, so I could admire Myles crawling this morning. Then, back to Louisville via 275. That cloverleaf north of Fremont is also impressive.

I tried again to straighten myself out, direction-wise, at West Point. Typical Midwesterner, I like to know what direction I'm going. For some reason, I wasn't watching the first time I went through West Point, years ago. Instead of north and south, I'm going east and west. And it's very difficult to get that out of your head.

Mike has the same problem in St. Joe, going to Jon's. Has anyone ever corrected themselves after having this happen? How do we "correct our brain" into going the right direction, once they've been "set" the wrong way?

Anyway, now it's back to work. And, past time to put up the Easter egg tree. Let's hope the forecast for warm weather turns out to be correct.

State chosen for program

Nebraska has been selected as one of six states to pilot test a program that could change the way farm and ranch producers combine their natural resources and production management plans. "Whole Farm and Ranch Planning" (WFRP) will be tested during the 1996 production season, according to Steve Chick, state conservationist for the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service.

According to Chick, the WFRP concept emerged in USDA because producers want less conflicting advice, less government regulation, less paperwork and a voluntary plan.

"A farmer or rancher can be pulled many different ways while trying to manage their natural resources," he said. "For example, a producer may have a wildlife habitat plan with the NE Games and Parks Commission, a fertilizer management plan with a fertilizer dealer, a Conservation reserve program contract with the USDA Farm Services Agency, and a groundwater management plan with a natural resources district. We would like to make management for producers easier by combining those individual plans and look at the farm or ranch in its entirety."

Chick said about 100 agencies, farm organizations and other groups were invited to participate in implementing the pilot program. Leaders from these groups have been working for the past three months to define how the program can operate in Nebraska and identify proposed demonstration sites.

4-H News

DOG CREEK 4-H CLUB

Dog Creek 4-H Club met Feb. 25 at the Wayne Care Centre. Members made blue bird houses to be put up at various locations in the community later this month. Residents enjoyed watching the members nail the bird houses together.

On March 10 the club met at Dairy Queen. Members discussed the news letter. Dates for leader training, Bake and Take Days, speech contest, swine weigh-in were announced. Remodeling of the 4-H building and the A-Z Pancake Feed were discussed.

Members put up blue bird houses at the Wayne Care Centre. Other houses will be put around the golf course when the ground thaws enough so that holes can be dug for the posts.

The next meeting will be held April 14 at Columbus Federal at noon. A speech or demonstration will be given by all members.
