Council discusses trash

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Wayne residents may have to change the way they prepare their trash if they wish to see a reduction in their trash hauling bill.

This was the recommendation of Solid Waste Management / Recycling Committee at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

Bill Lueders, chairman of the eight-member committee spoke to council members on the findings of the committee during the past six months.

Krantz described the four options the committee observed including "pay as you throw", curbside pickup of all waste for composting business and curbside pickup of waste and recyclables. He recommended that billing be done by one source, preferably the city.

Bill Lueders, one of two garbage haulers in the city of Wayne urged the council to keep the haulers that are currently in business. He said he has been in contact with a firm in Norfolk which would collect recyclables.

Residents would put recyclables in special bags provided by the company and put them curbside with solid waste.

The council took no action on the recommendations.

The council voted to issue $250,000 in tax-increment bonds for development of the Oaks Retirement Home in Vinatge Hill addition to Wayne. Mrs. Jan Thayer, a representative of the Oaks spoke to the council and said that interviews are beginning for employees at the project with an

Over-view given on bond issue

This is the final in a four-part series of articles dealing with the proposed school bond issue voters will be deciding during the May 14 primary. This week's article is an over-view of the entire project.

As the date of the school bond vote draws near, a number of Wayne-area residents have raised important questions about the project.

"People are concerned about the cost, obviously," said Eddie Eifers, media relations chairman for the Building Better Schools Committee. "No one wants to pay more taxes, but this is about the most important cause I can imagine on a local level. The cost of new space is $83 per square foot, and renovated space is $30 per square foot. That's very reasonable considering the quality educational facility we'll have."

Other concerns include the decision-making process that resulted in the proposal and the choice of architect, Eifers said.

"Phyllis Spethman, the president of the Board of Education, has explained to me that the architect for the project, The Architectural Partnerships, was chosen from a field of three firms, each of which made a public presentation during a Board of Education meeting," Eifers said.

He was selected because of his particular expertise in building educational facilities, his willingness to work with the community in determining the scope of the overall project, and his competitive fees. The contingency fee of 15 percent for this building project includes the architect's fee, which is 7 percent, and allows an 8 percent buffer for unexpected expenses such as increases in material costs and other changes.

"This is in line with, if not a better arrangement altogether than other major local construction projects," Eifers said.

The plan for the addition-renovation project was made with similar care, Eifers said, and involved area

Dinner theatre to be presented May 9-11

Two one-act comedies will be presented at the Carriage House Theatre as part of the Wayne Community Theatre's annual dinner theatre presentation. Laura Straight will be directing "Shock of His Life" and "Adaptation" with performances May 9, 10 and 11.

"Shock of His Life" takes place in the one of the Maxwell family. Wilbur Maxwell, the young son, is left in charge of taking phone messages for other family members. However, Wilbur also has plans for a masquerade party on his mind so he has a little trouble getting the message written down. What results is hilarious misunderstanding among the family members. Chris Headley plays Wilbur. Trevor Schroeder plays his friend, Hercules. Maurice Anderson, Jennifer Cole, Judy Nemec and Desiree Kniefel round out the rest of the family.

"Adaptation" is a fast paced comedy that centers around the life of Phil Benson, a hotel manager.

The audience will watch as Phil plays the game called "life." Matt Turner plays Phil. The other 29 characters are divided between Mike Imdicke, Patrick Jernigan and Molly Thompson.

The meal this year is being catered by Ken Jorgensen. It will be a two-meat buffet including ham, roast beef, baked potato, two vegetables (beans and corn), a lettuce salad and coffee or iced tea.

The meal will be served at 6:30 p.m. each evening with the show to start at 7 p.m. A dessert prepared by Sandra Gathje will be served during the intermission between the plays.

The meal will be served in the Carriage House Theatre this year. The addition of tables means there are only 70 seats available each night.

Tickets are $12.50 each and must be purchased in advance at the State National Bank or First National Bank of Wayne. For more information call 375-3160.

Wilbur (Chris Headley) and Hercules (Trevor Schroeder) plan their costumes during rehearsal of "Shock of Your Life" which will be presented by the Wayne Community Theatre May 9-11.

anticipated completion date of early this summer.

The council accepted a price for an electric distribution bucket truck chassis from Sapp Brothers in Omaha. The firm has been awarded the state purchasing contract. A lower bid had been submitted by Arnie's Ford in Wayne but the truck chassis did not meet the 10,000 pound front axle requirement.

Goals for the years 1996-2001 were also identified and approved. Among the one year goals were mobile home regulations, and dealing with terrace parking.

Three year goals included the creation of a citizen's task force for the city auditorium, odor reduction at the Waste WAter Treatment facility, building inspections done in regard to housing codes, enforcing nuisance laws, dealing with late night noise at Riley's and evaluating insurance coverage for city employees.

In a full agenda, the council also gave approval for an extension over the street right-of-way for Nebraska Floral, accepted a bid and awarded a bid on the power plant expansion project-transformation phase and rejected bids on power plant generators.

The council heard a report on the status and condition of the front wall of the former Black Knight building. Owners Ken Kwapnoiski and Nick Sieler told the council that the large horizontal beams have been removed and the holes are being filled with dirt.

"The walls of the Edward Jones building and Doescher's Appliance were not designed to have sideways pressure, so the dirt compaction needs to be done slowly," Sieler said.

"We have also been assured by three sources that the front wall is safe," he added.

The two assured the council that work is being done. They also noted that two parties are interested in purchasing the lot after it has been cleared.

The council heard a report from Wayne Volunteer Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman on the department's activities. During the last year the department had a total of 1,582 hours in emergency duty calls, spent 3,580 hours in training and 627 hours in other department-related activities.

Spruced up cruisers

The Wayne Police department recently retired the maroon cruiser they had been using and began using a white cruiser that had been used by the city. The gold badges were taken off the other patrol car and new graphics packages were put on both cars. The blue decals run the full length of the cars and are easily visible. All work was done by police employees.

residents during all steps of the process.

"During the last three years the board has involved parents, staff and patrons in the decision-making process," he said. "A Facilities Study Committee, which was made up of men and women, older and younger people, parents and grandparents, Wayne and Carroll residents, had a series of meetings that included some lively discussion and sharing of ideas about how to provide the best educational facilities possible for our community's children."

Three main options surfaced during the initial meeting of this committee: A) build a new high school and move the middle school students into the current high school facility, B) renovate the existing middle school building, and C) build a new middle school building, renovate portions of the existing high school, and add needed classroom space to the high school. During the remainder of the meetings, each option was carefully weighed against immediate and future educational needs, estimated costs of completion, and the potential tax burden to the patrons of the district.

After reviewing all of the information, the recommendation from this committee to the Board of Education was option C.

"The Board accepted this recommendation and directed the architect to draw preliminary plans that would reflect the prudence of the people of this community," Ellers said. "There are no unnecessary extras, there is multi-purpose space that can be used for more than one activity, and there are some classrooms, such as home economics and industrial technology, that can be used by both Middle School and High School students."

Other facts about the project: 81,900 square feet of new space at $83 per square foot. 75 percent of the new space is dedicated to new classrooms. 500 square feet of space is for renovation at $30 per square foot.

Architectural fees are 8 percent of the project. Contingency fees are 8 percent of the project—a contingency allowance is necessary in case of construction errors or bidding problems; if there are no errors or very few, then the portion of the 8 percent that is not used will be subtracted from the overall cost of the project and taxes will be lowered as a result.

The building project is the result of many years of studies and recommendations beginning with the initial facility study in 1965. There was a second facility study commissioned by the Board of Education in 1991; a city of Wayne study completed in 1992 which mentioned the middle school—a 1993 internal facility audit listing the many facility weaknesses and concerns; and a 1993 Americans With Disabilities Act study. The facility committees both reviewed renovation costs and building costs in a side by side format. The committees benefited from two independent studies regarding comparing renovation costs to building new: one from Architectural Partnerships and one from Beckenhauer Construction. Again, after heated discussions and good debate, the consensus of the committees was to build rather than renovate.

Due to the programs offered at the middle school and at the high school—and due to mandated curriculum from both the federal and state level—AND due to the condition of the 1908 building, the middle school building is no longer conducive to providing a sound educational program for our students; it has actually become a deterrent to the educational process.

How important is the presidential election?

Many Americans are already tired of the pre-election hoopla and have decided already how they will vote even though the two major parties have not as yet held a convention to officially select a candidate. Republicans will vote for Dole, and Democrats will vote for Clinton. The Republicans and Demopublicans will vote across party lines.

So, how important is the presidential election?

Our opinion: very important!

One reason is a liberal president will appoint liberal judges, and a conservative president will appoint those favoring his viewpoints. Liberal judges, appointed by previous presidents, have often created a circus in the judicial system.

For instance, 16 years ago the U.S. Supreme Court banned the Ten Commandments from classroom walls in public schools. More recently, in 1994, the court refused to let the big Ten be posted in a Cobb County, Ga. courthouse, although the commandments had been on display there for many years.

Cobb County officials claimed "The judicial branch of our government has been allowed to coerce the American people into an amoral strait-jacket which has begun to tear our society apart at the seams. No society, nor any individual, can navigate the stormy seas of life for very long without a spiritual or moral compass and rudder."

Who questioned having the 10 Commandments on display at the courthouse? Just two men: one a criminal defense lawyer, and the other a local resident. But it was the U.S. Supreme Court who ordered the Commandments out of the courthouse. Was it right or wrong?

Our point here is not to debate that issue, but to emphasize the importance of the presidential election.

Only 43% of qualified voters elected our current President. Other qualified voters, 57 percent, found a reason for not voting.

If we are truly going to have a government "of, by, and for" the people, everyone qualified needs to vote.

Or is apathy robbing us of that right?

Legislative session most successful

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — One has to wonder what reception that state senators gave to those who, on the final day of the 1996 legislative session, encouraged them to write letters to Gov. Nelson in support of a special session. It seems like incredible bad timing.

It would be a bit like asking the Nebraska Cornhuskers if they would like to play another quarter, right after beating Miami in the Fiesta Bowl for a national championship.

Think of it. Forty-nine state senators had turned a dismal beginning into one of the most successful legislative sessions in memory. Only rarely in the three decades since the Legislature enacted state sales and income taxes in 1967 has there been any kind of watershed legislation regarding tax policy. This was one of those years, with the Legislature finally putting forth a methodical plan to reduce property taxes.

Not only that, but the senators passed a major plan to restructure the state's health and human services agencies, whittling them from five to three. They also reached enough of a compromise to get on the books the inevitable regulation of the pumping of underground water as it relates to surface water.

These were major accomplishments. And there was more. The sum total was enough to have about everyone feeling good as the Capitol buzzed with activity on the 60th and final working day of the session. Attempts to override $5.9 million in spending vetoes by Nelson didn't have a chance, but nobody much cared. This was a national championship, and it was time for celebrating and going home.

It was not a good day to go wiping the smiles off of everyone's faces by suggesting that they tackle one of the most controversial of issues — abortion. Another time and there might have been more enthusiastic takers.

This is a conservative, right-to-life Legislature. There is easily a majority of senators who are repulsed by the partial-birth abortions that the lobby of Metro Right to Life wants banned by state law.

Indeed, senators began writing letters to Nelson, expressing their support for the ban. But noticeably lacking was any active arm twisting by a state senator to sway his or her colleagues. The bad timing came from Washington. Congress had adopted the abortion ban only to have it vetoed by President Clinton. In Nebraska, the issue became more penetrating with the news that a Bellevue physician has used the procedure.

Under the partial-birth abortion procedure, the fetus is pulled from the womb feet first until only its head remains inside. The doctor then pierces the base of the skull to drain it so that it can be removed.

Sen. Jim Jensen of Omaha said there were more than 30 senators prepared to vote for the ban as the legislative session ended. But it would have happened without a public hearing, without a full three rounds of debate and would have brought other matters to a halt. It would have turned a national championship into a bitter war on the floor.

Filibusters are inevitable when the topic is abortion, and it takes 33 votes to end a filibuster.

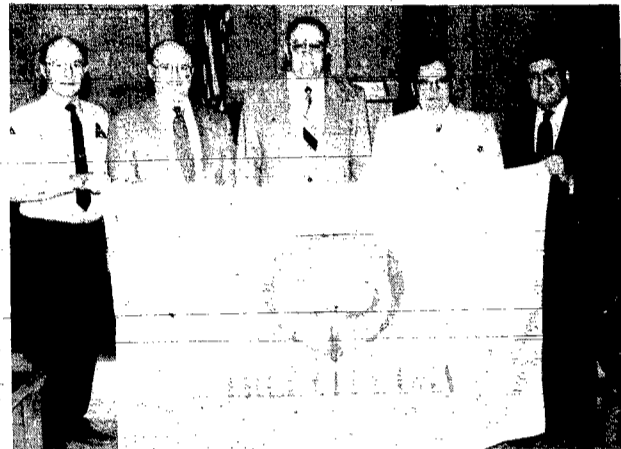

It remains to be seen whether enough senators will respond to encourage Nelson to call a special session. But the 60th day of the session was not the right time to push it, and neither is today.

Besides being tired of the legislating, about half of the state's senators are up for election. They need to campaign, and they don't need more enemies. Maybe after May 14, primary election day. Or maybe next year, when the issue will put into one session all the acrimony that was missing in the last one.

Or maybe not at all, if an attorney general's investigation results in some action to halt the use of the procedure in Bellevue.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Real nature of the game can emerge

It has been a month since the great collapse, but from defeat the real nature of the game emerges again.

Jimmy Jo's
Jams
By James Shanks

On a sunny Georgia Sunday afternoon, I witnessed Greg Norman squander one of the biggest leads in the history of Masters at Augusta. Shot after shot I hoped and at times prayed that my worst nightmare would not come true. Yet as Nick Faldo putted out on the 18th green at Augusta National and claimed his third green jacket, the true nature of the game came forth. As a defeated Greg Norman walked over to Faldo, shook his hand, Faldo placed his arm around Norman's waist and they walked off the green. Only in a game such as this could it have happened. No fights at the end of the game, no words with the referees, no bench clearing brawls. Just a few simple words, a pleasant jester and the game comes to a close.

But for Norman, who has finished second, eight times in a major championship, came away as big a winner as Faldo did. His popularity soared due to his actions. Instead of hanging his head in defeat and walking away, he congratulated his opponent as the greats of game did many years ago.

I must admit at times I could learn a lot from these words as many of us can. Sports today becomes much too violent and has strayed from the path that most were originally intended to be. Only boxing has stayed the path. But it's hard not to stay on course when all you do is beat someone senseless and sometimes to death.

The games for the most part have gotten out of control. Why? We have no one to blame but ourselves.

Golf, truly is a true act of Class.

Letters Group claims government victory

Dear Editor:

In a victory for conservationists, farmers and sporting enthusiasts, President Clinton signed into law the 1996 Federal Agriculture and Reform Act, including continuation of the Conservation Reserve Program. As the most successful and effective conservation program in our nation's history, CRP has increased wildlife, soil and water conservation, reduced federal farm subsidies, increased farm income and expanded rural recreational opportunities.

Pheasants Forever greatly appreciates your contributions on behalf of the Conservation Reserve Program. Endorsement of CRP from our nation's outdoor writers was instrumental in the reauthorization of the program and this tremendous victory for conservation. Published articles on CRP and wildlife habitat encouraged the outdoor sporting community to get involved in the fight for this vital program.

We are currently awaiting the rulemaking process to determine the qualifications for CRP enrollment. Although funding for a 36.4 million acre CRP is secured, the fight is far from over. If you have questions about CRP developments, please contact our office.

On behalf of our 75,000 members nationwide, I wish to extend our heartfelt appreciation and thank you for a job well done.

Recognizes public servants

Dear Editor:

We of the Wayne Post Office would like to recognize the Wayne Police Department, the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department and all the teachers, for their tireless contribution to public service in fulfilling their sometimes thankless tasks. They go beyond enforcing the law, fighting fires and teaching our children, making our community a much nicer place in which to live. Without these devoted persons our outlook for the future would surely be dim. Our hats are off to you and thank you for a job well done.

WSC women's basketball team adds 3 players

Megan Murphy

Lisa Recker

Tonya Porter

Wayne State College head women's basketball coach Mike Barry has announced that Lisa Recker (Howells) has signed a national letter of intent to attend WSC and play basketball for the Wildcats next season while Megan Murphy (Harlan, Iowa) is transferring from the University of South Dakota. They join Tonya Porter (Emerson), who signed with WSC in November.

Recker, a 5-10 guard, averaged 9.8 points and 3.9 rebounds per outing during her senior season while leading Howells High School to a record of 20-3. She led the squad with a single-season school record 40 three-pointers. As a senior, she was named second-team All-Area and honorable mention All-State. Following her junior and senior seasons, she was named first-team All-Cornhusker Conference. She scored 543 career points, which ranks ninth all-time at the school and holds the school record for career three-pointers with 75. She has been selected to play in the Northeast Nebraska Swedish All-Star Game.

"Lisa will play the off-guard or swing position for us," said Barry. "She runs the floor well and has great shooting range. Defensively, she has the ability to guard just about any type of perimeter player."

Murphy, a 5-10 guard, comes to WSC from USD, where she lettered last season as a freshman. She played in 26 of 27 games and averaged 3.8 points and 3.0 rebounds per outing. In 18 North Central Conference games, she averaged 3.6 points and 3.4 rebounds per contest. As a prep, she attended Harlan Community High School where she was named Harlan's All-Area Player of the Year. During her senior season, she averaged 13.2 points and 6.5 rebounds per game while leading her squad to an 18-7 record and a runner-up finish in the Iowa Class 3A State Tournament. Murphy earned All-Hawkeye Ten Conference and second-team Class 3A All-State honors.

"Megan is a very strong and physical perimeter player," said Barry. "She has the ability to take the ball to the basket and make something good happen. Her rebounding and ability to run the floor will fit in well with our team."

Porter, a 5-7 guard, averaged 20.5 points per game as a senior while leading Emerson-Hubbard High School to a record of 25-1 and a runner-up finish in the Class C-2 State Tournament. She averaged 21.6 points per outing during her junior campaign. During the last three years, Porter helped Emerson-Hubbard to an impressive record of 68-7. She finished her outstanding career as one of the State's all-time leading scorers with 1,647 points. She holds the school single-season and career records for three-point baskets made with 50 and 154, respectively. She is a two-time All-Nebraska selection and a three-time C-2 All-State and All-Lewis & Clark Conference pick. Porter has been selected to play in the Northeast Nebraska Swedish All-Star Game, Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star Game and Nebraska-South Dakota All-Star Game.

"Tonya had a great high school career," said Barry. "With her athletic and scoring ability, we expect her to help us immediately. She comes from one of the best programs in Northeast Nebraska, if not the State."

WSC was 11-16 last season under seventh-year Head Coach Mike Barry.

Wildcat baseball team improves to 24-18

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wayne State swept a baseball doubleheader from Nebraska-Omaha on Saturday to improve to 24-18 on the year.

Aaron Garmong hurled a three-hit shutout to defeat the Mavericks 2-0 in game one. The left-hander struck out seven and waled none to earn his third win of the year.

"Aaron was outstanding," said Head Coach John Manganaro. "The last two innings against Creighton and his outing against UNO were the best performances he's had since he's been at Wayne State."

Adam Bealle had an RBI single in the second inning, while Darin Gregory drove in another run with a single in the sixth.

"We played well," said Manganaro. "We hit the ball very hard in the game, we just couldn't score."

The Mavericks jumped out to a 6-3 lead after two innings in the second game, but WSC rallied to win 7-6. James Mansell drove in two runs with a sixth inning single to tie the game. Scott Ballinger then drove in Mansell with a double to give the 'Cats the lead.

Bryan Stockwell came into the game in the fourth inning and shutdown the Mavericks to earn the victory.

"We're playing well," said Manganaro. "It's unfortunate that we were rained out on Sunday, because Joe Thompson and Nate Corman were going to pitch against them. Playing at home we would have had a good chance to win those games."

Last Thursday, the Wildcats defeated Dana College 18-17 in 10 innings in a wind-aided slugfest. There were 38 hits in the game, including five home runs. Wayne State used four pitchers, while Dana used three.

Dana took a 6-2 lead after four and a half innings, but WSC responded with eight runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 10-6 lead. Ten runs would not be enough to win this game, however, as Dana scored three in the sixth and one in the seventh to tie the game at 10-10. The Wildcats took a 13-10 lead into the ninth, but Dana plated four more runs to take a one run lead. Wayne State rallied to score a run in the bottom of the inning to send it to the 10th. Dana scored three in the top of the 10th to take a 17-14 lead, but WSC again rallied. Cory Graves capped a four-run outburst with a two-run single to end the game.

"I don't know how you can play a baseball game in 50-70 mph winds," said Manganaro, "but we did and we persevered. In the top of the ninth we were ahead 13-10 and we gave up four runs. That was in part due to the wind. Once you hit a fly ball, it just went out of the park. There was nothing you could do about it. We just had to keep playing and playing until we won."

Last Wednesday, the Wildcats hosted rival Nebraska-Kearney. Nate Corman threw a two-hit shutout and struck out six as Wayne State won 6-0. WSC took a 2-0 lead in the second with an RBI single by Bealle and a double steal that scored Ballinger. In the sixth inning, the 'Cats broke it open with run scoring hits by Gregory, Mansell, Ballinger and Graves.

"We got an outstanding pitching performance from Nate Corman," said Manganaro. "Kearney beat us 16-2 the last time Nate pitched against them. He didn't have a very good day that day, but on Wednesday he went right after them."

The Lopers salvaged a split of the doubleheader with a 6-3 win in game two. Wayne State had the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh but managed to score just one run. Mansell picked up two of WSC's four hits, including a double in the fifth inning.

"We did everything we possibly could not to play well," said Manganaro. "We had four errors and it was not an extremely good outing for Mike Benson. We played a little tired from the weekend and the high of beating Creighton. I think we just had a little bit of a letdown."

Wayne State concludes their season this weekend with a pair of doubleheaders. On Saturday, the Wildcats travel to Sioux Falls, S.D., to play Augustana. On

WSC softball team concludes season

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne State softball team closed out the 1996 season at the Morningside tournament last weekend. The Wildcats lost three games on Saturday and one on Sunday.

In Saturday's first game, WSC lost 7-0 to St. Cloud (Minn.) State. Betsy Wegner, Angie Louck, Tina Lehman, Maryellen Livingston, Becky Egli and Shantel Hoelscher each hit singles for the 'Cats. Livingston suffered the loss.

In game two, Wayne State lost 4-0 to Nebraska-Omaha. Lehman and Livingston each belted a pair of singles. Louck, Anne Slahn, Wegner, Egli and Carrie Fink each singled once. Mindy Alt fell to 1-5 with the loss.

Saturday's final game resulted in a 4-3 loss to Morningside. Lehman gave WSC the lead in the third inning with a three-run homer, but the Chiefs brought in Jerec Carlson to pitch in the fourth inning. Carlson, who struck out 19 Wildcats in a doubleheader earlier this year, struck out 11 more in the final four innings. Morningside scored one run in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh to steal the win.

Louck double and singled, while Livingston and Fink singled to account for WSC's other hits. Livingston hurled a three-hitter and struck out the Chiefs' Mindy Prince (second leading hitter in NCAA Division II) twice, but fell to 5-15 with the loss.

On Sunday, the Wildcats fell 6-1 to South Dakota. Slahn doubled and scored a run and Fink added a pair of singles to lead the offense. Livingston, Jen Ostrem, Louck and

"We're just struggling to come out on the winning side," said Head Coach Joan Scherbring. "In two of the four games we out-hit the other team, but we couldn't score runs on the hits we had and the other team got the key hits. When we did have the lead, we struggled to hold onto it."

The Wildcats concluded the season with a record of 7-29-1 and struggled in the second half of year, winning only one of their final 21 games.

"We played some tough competition this year," said Scherbring, "and a lot of those teams have had success over the years where we haven't. You have to win games and you have to do good things to build confidence. I think we kind of got into a rut when we weren't winning and our confidence went down. We always came in as the underdog and we always had to work from behind and that makes it hard to win. Overall this season, the kids worked very hard. They put their hearts into the game and they know we have a lot of people coming back next season."

New Medicines Help Control Asthma

During an asthmatic episode, the breathing tubes in the lungs become narrowed due to spasm. The primary sign is wheezing - a high pitched whistling sound produced as air flows through the narrow tubes. Coughing and breathing difficulty often result.

Asthma is a potentially life-threatening condition. Anyone who has asthma - or thinks he has asthma - should be cared for by a physician. Many prescription medicines now are available for asthma. When appropriately selected and used, these medicines can prevent asthma symptoms and dramatically improve life quality. Medicines may be applied to the lung tissues via metered dose inhalers. Your pharmacist can demonstrate the manner in which to use an inhaler in order to achieve desired results.

Kirkpatrick-Heyden married in Feb. 10 ceremony at Bassett

Christina Kirkpatrick and Shawn Heyden were married in a Feb. 10, 1996 ceremony at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Bassett.

Parents of the couple are Dave and Connie Kirkpatrick of Wayne and Lanny and Sue Heyden of Newport.

Rev. Jack Rademacher performed the double ring ceremony.

Organist was Kay Lynn Kalkowski and soloist was Sarah Hartgrave. Musical selections included "I Cross My Heart" and "Keeper of the Stars."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a satin gown with a sweetheart neckline and long Victorian sleeves adorned with Schiffli lace and accented with hand sewn seed pearls and sequins.

The floor length fitted skirt featured a large lace applique in front with matching hem lace. The full, detachable cathedral length train had several scattered matching lace appliques and was edged similar to the dress.

Her arched floral headpiece had satin rosettes and several pearl sprays with a back pouf and circular two tier elbow length tulle.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white silk roses with pearl sprays and red satin ribbons, baby's breath and small white carnations.

Maid of honor was Tina Luit of Wayne and bridesmaids were Jacquie Monroe and Amy Sokol of Valentine, friends of the bride and Lana Heyden, sister of the groom.

They wore street length red lace sheaths with scalloped lace edges on the sleeves and hem. They carried bouquets of white roses made by the bride.

Alexandra Deselms of Indianola was flowergirl. She wore a red satin dress and a heart-shaped headpiece of red and white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Heyden

Ringbearer was John Strelow, nephew of the groom.

Clay Fischer served as best man. Groomsmen were Corby Fischer, Joey Anderson and Rick Arkfeld.

Guests were seated by Shannon Heyden, brother of the groom, Monte Strelow, brother-in-law of the groom and Kurt Micheel.

Elizabeth Stump, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Honored guests were the bride's god parents, Clarence and Linda Sweeley of Lexington and the groom's god-parents, Paul and Carol Moore of Newport.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony.

The cake was made and decorated by Ann Shaw of Bassett. It was cut by Satty Connor of Valentine, a special friend of the bride and served by Ileen Shelton.

Joanne Heemstra, aunt of the groom, poured coffee and Stacy Strelow, sister of the groom, served punch.

Is it silly for a child to be modest?

Q. Our teenage daughter has become extremely modest in recent months, demanding that even her sisters leave her room when she's dressing. I think this is silly, don't you?

A. No, I would suggest that you honor her requests for privacy. Her sensitivity is probably caused by an awareness that her body is changing, and she is embarrassed by recent developments (or the lack of them). This is likely to be a temporary phase, and you should not oppose her in it.

Q. Children seem to be growing up at a younger age today than in the past. Is this true, and if so, what accounts for their faster development?

A. Yes, it is true. Statistical records indicate that our children are growing taller today than in the past, probably resulting from better nutrition, medicine, exercise, rest and recreation. And this more ideal physical environment has apparently caused sexual maturity to occur at younger and younger ages.

It is thought that puberty in particular children is "turned on" when they reach a certain level of growth; therefore, when environmental circumstances propel them upward at a faster rate, they become sexually mature much earlier. For example, in 1850, the average age of menarche (first menstruation) in Norwegian girls was 17.0 years of age; in 1950, it was 13.0. The average age of puberty had dropped four years in that one century.

In the United States the average age of the menarche dropped from 14.2 in 1900 to 12.9 in 1950. More recent figures indicate the average has now dropped closer to 12.6 years of age! Thus, the trend toward younger dating and sexual awareness is a result, at least in part, of this physiological mechanism.

Q. My 13-year-old son has become increasingly lazy. He lies around the house and sleeps until noon on Saturday. Is this typical of early adolescence? How should I deal with it?

A. It is not uncommon for boys and girls to experience fatigue during the pubertal years. Their physical resources are being invested in a rapid growth process during that time, leaving less energy for other activities. This period doesn't last very long, and it is usually followed by the most energetic time of life.

I would suggest, first, that you take your son for a routine physical examination to rule out the possibility of a more serious explanation for his fatigue. If it does turn out to be a phenomenon of puberty, as I suspect, you should "go with the flow." See that he gets plenty of rest and sleep.

This need is often not met, however, because teenagers feel that they should not have to go to bed as early as they did when they were children. Therefore, they stay up too late and then drag through the next day in a state of exhaustion. Surprisingly, a 12- or 13-year-old person actually needs more rest than when he was 9 or 10, simply because of the acceleration in growth.

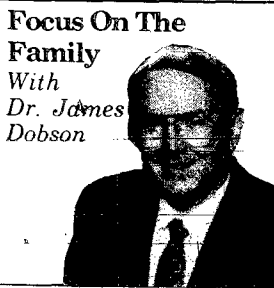

What I'm saying is that you should let your son sleep in on Saturday morning, if possible. It is often difficult for mothers and fathers to permit their overgrown son or daughter to lie in bed when the grass needs mowing. However, they should know that he is lying in bed because he needs more sleep, and they would be wise to let him get it. Then ask him to mow the lawn when he awakens.

Second, the foods your son eats are also very important during this time. His body needs the raw material with which to construct new muscle cells, bones and fibers that are in the plans. Hot dogs, donuts and milkshakes just won't do the job. Again, it is even more important to eat a balanced diet during this time.

In summary, your son is changing overnight from a boy into a man. Some of the physical characteristics you are observing are part of that transformation. Do everything you can to facilitate it.

Involving children in move reduces trauma

Nearly 20 percent of the U.S. population moves each year. That means around 50 million Americans will move in 1996, many in the coming spring and summer months.

Many of those 50 million will be children.

To them, moving often means stress and anxiety — a disruption of routine and a loss of familiarity and security. Nothing can make a move painless, even for adults, but parents can take the following steps to soften the impact moving has on children.

—Involve children in discussions from the beginning. If the move is a matter of choice, not necessity, parents should let children know why it's important. They also should listen to their children's concerns and weigh those concerns when making a decision.

—Schedule the move wisely. Contrary to common practice, parents may wish to consider timing the move during the school year. Kids who enter a new school in the middle of a school year often receive more attention from classmates and teachers than they would at the start of a new year.

—Give children something to look forward to, such as input on the decor of their new rooms. Some of the old decorations should be kept, however, to provide a sense of continuity.

—Have a goodbye ritual. Once the old house is empty, allow children to say goodbye to each room, especially their own rooms, and to the yard.

—Help children say goodbye to old friends — and help them meet new ones. Have a party to say goodbyes to friends, and visit their friends' homes to say goodbye to their parents, pets, etc. Saying goodbyes before the move eases some of the jolt felt on moving day and thereafter. After arriving at the new location, get children involved in 4-H, scouting or other community youth organizations.

—Create new rituals in the new home. Have a picnic on the living room floor every week; establish a tradition that is unique to the new house. By connecting special family events with the house, it will become a home more quickly.

—Spend more time as a family. Children often need extra patience, support and love following a move. Take time to make the new community feel like home. Visit places for the children such as libraries, parks, schools, etc.

—Finally, no matter how many preparations were made, expect a few bumps! Moving isn't an easy experience, and parents must be willing to let kids have an adjustment period. Some children may have temporary behavioral regressions after a move. This should be expected and tolerated in the days and weeks following a move. Open and honest communication, in which all family members can share their feelings and memories of the old home and old friends, is especially important during this time.

Ask Karen...

Q. I only wore my gown one time. Does it need to be cleaned before I put it away?

A. Only time will tell if the garment is stained, and then it's often too late. We often get prom dresses, bridesmaid's gowns and other formal wear several months after they've been worn. Stains, especially perspiration, can be harder to find and remove from delicate clothing, no matter how minor, you need to tell your drycleaner before the article is cleaned.

Science students hold fair at Winside school

A Science Fair was held at the Winside Public Schools on April 25 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room. Exhibits were prepared by approximately 150 students in fourth through eighth grades, as well as high school physics students.

"This is the first time Winside has held such a fair," said Mrs. Janke. "Next time we may have judges for the exhibits." Participating teachers in the fair were Paul Sok, Lisa Janke, Lynne Wacker, Lisa Schroeder, Betty Lawrence and Reba Mann.

Each of the students picked a subject of their choice. Most of the fourth through sixth grade students worked in pairs. The students did their own research, wrote a hypothesis, conducted experiments documenting either by photographs or in writing what they did, then wrote up the results and their conclusion. They then displayed the information on some sort of poster board display.

Some of the topics researched included pollution control, radiation, soil conservation, animal health and food choices, bacteria, oil pressure, invisible gas, types of light, aerodynamic and wind resistance, physics of hitting a baseball, model rockets, egg breakability, crystals, how fabrics burn, who's the smartest boys or girls, and the differences in cereals, peanut butter, detergents, gum, cookies, popcorn plus more. A number of students gave demonstrations on their projects for those in attendance.

Rural communities have been considering zoning ordinances

A public hearing was held April 23 at the Winside Auditorium concerning the proposed three village zoning regulations established by the Joint Planning Commission. The zoning regulations, when adopted will require the villages to hire an administrator to oversee the regulations and building permits for the villages. Building permits will no longer be issued directly through the Village Clerk. There will also be a charge for permits to help cover the administrative costs. The new ordinance will also affect the areas of the village that will be designated single family dwellings and multi-family (apartment-even in your home) dwellings as well as commercial business areas. The size and type of new construction or additions to existing homes will also need to meet zoning regulations. The regulations will also apply to a one mile radius of the villages. Copies of the proposed regulations are available at the Village Clerks office. The Winside Village board will begin the process of passing the new regulations at its next board meeting which will be held May 6 at the Winside Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in this proposal should attend the meeting or contact a board member for more information.

Stewardship Week being observed

"Harmony People and Places," the theme of the 1996 Soil and Water Stewardship Week observance, is reflective of a classic definition of conservation given by Aldo Leopold, an early American conservation leader. He said, "Conservation is a state of harmony between men and land."

To emphasize the need for greater harmony between people and the place in which they live, the Lower Elkhorn NRD is encouraging interested individuals and organizations to join with the National Association of Conservation Districts in celebrating the annual Soil and Water Stewardship observance, April 28-May 5.

The conservation district, which works throughout the year to encourage soil and water conservation practices, is providing literature and information assistance to local churches, civic organizations and schools interested in furthering good soil and water conservation practices in homes and communities.

Julie Schmit, Information and Education coordinator for the Lower Elkhorn NRD, said when the district began years ago, they began helping farmers and ranchers practice good conservation on their private lands. "Today, she said, "we also offer assistance to cities, organizations and individuals who have an interest in conserving natural resources. Although our focus is still on soil and water resources, we have broadened our educational services to include wildlife and forestry concerns as they relate to total natural resource management," she added.

The purpose of the national observance, which began in 1955, is to create greater awareness among individuals of their stewardship responsibility to care for America's natural resources. Since the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s, countless individuals have adopted a stewardship ethic and have applied conservation practices that have reduced soil erosion dramatically.

The nation's 3,000 soil and water conservation districts, along with their state and national conservation organizations, devote their time to establish greater harmony on natural resource issues in their community. In many regions of the country controversies over issues such as wetlands, endangered species, forest management, grazing on public lands and watershed management continue to escalate. In an effort to avoid the us versus them battles, conservation districts focus on situations that people can readily identify and understand, and where those affected can work together to restore harmony between themselves and their environment.

To obtain informational materials on this and other conservation observances and practices, contact the Lower Elkhorn NRD during business hours at 700 West Benjamin Avenue in Norfolk, (402) 371-7313.

Farmers need to make planting decisions soon

Continued dry weather means decision time for many Nebraska producers. From tillage to tilling, to how much seed to use, every step of the planting process is critical, especially this year.

With the continued threat of a drought, University of Nebraska Crop specialist Len Nelson said, management decisions should be based on one key factor -- conserving moisture.

Nelson urged producers to minimize tillage. Every tillage pass, he said, robs the soil of up to an inch of moisture.

But without tillage, he said, weeds can take hold and drain the soil of more moisture. Because of this, producers must use an alternative method of weed control.

"We have to get rid of the weeds somehow. It's just a matter of whether we want to till them or go out in the field and spray them."

Producers also should resist the temptation to overplant, Nelson said, despite the current high market prices.

He said even the best dryland corn areas should be planted to no more than the normal 18,000 to 20,000 plants per acre. Dryland corn in areas of western Nebraska also should be planted at no more than the normal level of about 9,000 plants per acre. Irrigated corn in the eastern part of the state could be planted as high as 30,000 plants per acre.

But Nelson cautioned, "if you're expecting drought, you might want to cut it down even lower, 15,000 plants is still enough to get you a good dryland yield, but you don't get caught so badly on the drought side," he said.

Another management technique the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist advocated is patience.

"Hang kind of loose for a couple weeks and see if we get a little rain," he said.

Producers have until the beginning of May to plant corn without yield penalties, Nelson said, and waiting for rain is a better idea than planting seed in "dry dust." If rain doesn't come until mid-May, it might be wise to switch to soybeans, he said. If it stays dry into June, sorghum might be the answer.

Equipment such as this no-till drill has helped producers to minimize erosion. Minimum tillage also helps reduce the amount of moisture lost during a dry year.

Soybean acres increased

A recent Conservation Technology Information Center survey shows that for the sixth consecutive year, the number of U.S. acres of no-till full-season soybeans has increased - by six times the acreage reported in 1989.

The dramatic increase occurred during the same time the National Soybean Association reports yields increased almost 30 percent to 41.5 bushels per acre.

"Conservation tillage has long been recognized as being good for the environment," said Bill Latham, president of Latham Seed Company, one of the largest soybean seed companies in the upper-Midwest. "Now it appears that it can be good for soybean farmers, as well."

In addition to increased yields, the fewer passes associated with conservation tillage practices can mean reduced machinery and labor costs, he said.

While the popularity of conservation tillage has skyrocketed along with yields, Lyle Brown, a Wakefield, NE Latham dealer, said there is still a lot of confusion about the definitions of the various conservation tillage practices. "Everyone seems to be doing it, but not everyone is sure what exactly it is they're doing," he said.

According to Brown, the term conservation tillage generally refers to farming practices in which more than 30 percent residue is left on the soil after planting. Conservation tillage falls into three categories: no-till, mulch-till and ridge-till.

Latham Seeds and others have developed the following "working definitions" to refer to the various tillage methods: No-till soil is left undisturbed from harvest to planting, except for nutrient injection and weed control is accomplished primarily with herbicides. Ridge-till refers to the practice of planting seed on a ridge of soil with residue covering the surface between ridges. While the ridges are rebuilt during cultivation, soil is left undisturbed from harvest to planting except for nutrient injection. The practice of mulch-tilling involves tilling soil prior to planting, leaving residue on top. Herbicides and cultivation are used to control weeds.

Beef producer is appointed to committee

Cuming County beef producer Tom Feller of Wisner was recently appointed to the International Markets Committee of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association. This committee's primary objective is to determine trade policy and access along with market development, promotion and market share on the international level.

On a state level, Feller serves as a Nebraska Beef Council Director. As a director, Feller oversees state beef checkoff collections and expenditures and has representation on a national level. Feller has served in this capacity for two years.

On Feb. 1, the National Live Stock and Meat Board and the National Cattlemen's Association consolidated to form the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, a consumer-driven organization representing all segments of the beef industry. The NCBA is for the first time bringing together membership and checkoff efforts under a single plan and budget.

Quarantine is placed on certain grains and seeds

Nebraska Director of Agriculture Larry Sitzman placed a quarantine on all grains and seeds coming into Nebraska from areas known to have the fungus, Karnal bunt. This disease has been detected in wheat in areas of Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and California. Karnal bunt affects both yield and grain quality, but does not present a risk to human health.

"I feel compelled to implement this precautionary measure to protect Nebraska farmers as well as the grain export markets they have worked long and hard to develop," Sitzman said.

Previous years of surveys and testing have shown no occurrences of Karnal bunt in Nebraska. In order to protect that status and keep Nebraska wheat production areas free from Karnal bunt, the Nebraska Department of Agriculture finds it necessary to impose a quarantine on all grains and seeds entering Nebraska from quarantined areas.

The quarantine will require any grain or seed from infested areas to be officially sampled, tested and certified as free from Karnal bunt, following accepted phytosanitary certification standards, prior to shipment into Nebraska.

"The purpose of our quarantine is not to prevent or hinder the shipment of grains or seeds. Grain and seed shipments simply need to be certified as free of Karnal bunt," Sitzman said. "I would much rather err on the side of caution, than to sit back and then have to react if a problem occurred."

Nebraska farmers in the process of planting corn, sorghum and soybeans need not be concerned about their current seed supply. Those seeds are not produced in the Karnal bunt infested areas.

Sitzman also said the Nebraska Department of Agriculture is awaiting the development of enforcement guidelines, proposed by the USDA, for the timely movement of custom harvest equipment. Equipment moving from infested areas must be inspected, cleaned and treated with chlorine bleach before entering disease-free areas.

Corn Board encourages Nebraskans to buy beef

The Nebraska Corn Board is urging consumers to increase their purchases of beef during the next few weeks to help out the state's beef producers who have been hit by low prices and increased input costs due to record high grain prices.

"Nebraska's number one industry is cattle, with nearly $5 billion in cash receipts from cattle and calves alone. Nearly half of all the corn grown in Nebraska is fed to livestock so it's critically important that this industry stay profitable," said Bob Dickey of Laurel, chairman of the Nebraska Corn Board.

The recent collapse in the cattle market is costing producers hundreds of dollars a head and forcing some liquidation of breeding stock.

"Livestock drives Nebraska's economy, and corn provides the fuel. As corn producers, we're well aware of the impact current record high corn prices are having on Nebraska's livestock industry, particularly cattle feeders."

Dickey noted Nebraska has more cattle than people, and reminded consumers that beef and pork are a great value right now at the supermarket.

"Whether they know it or not, one of every seven Nebraskans owe their jobs to the beef industry. By buying high quality, abundant, affordable beef, Nebraskans can do their part to help keep this important segment of our economy profitable," he said.

BALLOT TITLES AND TEXT OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

PROPOSED BY THE NINETY- FOURTH LEGISLATURE FIRST SESSION 1995

Also included are Statements of Explanation in Italics Prepared by the Executive Board of the Legislative Council

PROPOSED BY THE 1996 LEGISLATURE PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1

A vote FOR this proposal would add a provision authorizing the Legislature to provide for the enforcement of mediation, binding arbitration agreements, and other forms of dispute resolution voluntarily entered into, and which are not revocable other than upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract. This amendment would allow parties to voluntarily agree to waive a jury trial, narrow the scope of appeals and limit the use of formal rules of evidence and civil procedure.

A vote AGAINST this proposal would not add the new language referred to above authorizing the Legislature to enforce other forms of dispute resolution, including binding arbitration agreements voluntarily entered into.

A constitutional amendment to authorize the Legislature to provide for enforcement of mediation, binding arbitration agreements, and other forms of dispute resolution.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY- FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the primary election in May 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend Article I, section 13: I-13 "All courts shall be open, and every person, for any injury done him or her in his or her lands, goods, person, or reputation, shall have a remedy by due course of law, and justice administered without denial or delay, except that the Legislature may provide for the enforcement of mediation, binding arbitration agreements, and other forms of dispute resolution which are entered into voluntarily and which are not revocable other than upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract."

PROPOSED BY THE 1995 LEGISLATURE PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2

A vote FOR this proposal will provide that all bills and resolutions, and the amendments thereto, shall be read in their entirety when presented for final passage unless 3/5 of the members of the Legislature vote to dispense with the reading of particular bills, resolutions, and the amendments thereto in their entirety.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will continue the present provision requiring that all bills and resolutions, and the amendments thereto, be read in their entirety when presented for final passage.

A constitutional amendment to authorize the Legislature to vote upon final passage of a bill when the bill and all amendments thereto are printed, presented, and read at large unless reading at large is waived by three-fifths vote of the members elected to the Legislature.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY- FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the primary election in May 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend Article III, section 14: III-14 "Every bill and resolution shall be read by title when introduced, and a printed copy thereof provided for the use of each member.

The bill and all amendments thereto shall be printed and read at large presented before the vote is taken upon its final passage and shall be read at large unless three-fifths of all the members elected to the Legislature vote not to read the bill and all amendments at large. No such vote upon the final passage of any bill shall be taken; however, until five legislative days after its introduction nor until it has been on file for final reading and passage for at least one legislative day. No bill shall contain more than one subject, and the same subject shall be clearly expressed in the title. And no law shall be amended unless the new act contains the section or sections as amended and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed. The Lieutenant Governor or the Speaker if acting as presiding officer, shall sign, in the presence of the Legislature while the same is in session and capable of transacting business, all bills and resolutions passed by the Legislature."

PROPOSED BY THE 1995 LEGISLATURE PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3

A vote FOR this proposal will add a new section to the Bill of Rights of the state constitution detailing certain rights to be possessed by the victims of crime or their representatives or guardians, as defined by law, to include: (1) being informed of all criminal court proceedings; (2) the right to be present at the trial unless the court determines that the victim should not be in attendance if necessary for a fair trial for the defendant(s); and (3) to be informed of, be present at, and make an oral or written statement at sentencing, parole, pardon, commutation, and conditional release proceedings.

In addition, it will be provided that these rights shall not be construed so as to deny or impair the enforcement of others provided by law or retained by crime victims; that the Legislature shall provide by law for the implementation of the rights detailed above; that there shall be no remedies other than as specifically provided by the Legislature for the enforcement of these rights; and that nothing in this new section shall be a basis for error in favor of a defendant in any criminal proceeding, or be the basis for providing standing to participate as a party to any criminal proceeding, or be a basis to contest the disposition of any charge.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will result in not adding to the Bill of Rights of the state constitution a new section detailing rights to be possessed by the victims of crime, their implementation by the Legislature, and the remedies to be provided.

A constitutional amendment to prescribe that crime victims shall have certain rights. A crime victim or his or her guardian or representative would have the right to be informed of all criminal court proceedings, the right to be present at trial unless the trial court finds that keeping the victim out is necessary for a fair trial for the defendant, and the right to be informed of, be present at, and make an oral or written statement at sentencing, parole, pardon, commutation, and conditional release proceedings. The Legislature would be required to pass laws for implementation of such rights. There would be no remedies other than as specifically provided by the Legislature for the enforcement of such rights.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY- FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the primary election in May 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To add a new section 28 to Article I: 1-28 "(1) A victim of a Crime, as shall be defined by law, or his or her guardian or representative shall have the right to be informed of all criminal court proceedings; the right to be present at trial unless the trial court finds sequestration necessary for a fair trial for the defendant; and the right to be informed of, be present at, and make an oral or written statement at sentencing, parole, pardon, commutation, and conditional release proceedings. This enumeration of certain rights for crime victims shall not be construed to impair or deny others provided by law or retained by crime victims.

(2) The Legislature shall provide by law for the implementation of the rights granted in this section. There shall be no remedies other than as specifically provided by the Legislature for the enforcement of the rights granted by this section.

(3) Nothing in this section shall constitute a basis for error in favor of a defendant in any criminal proceeding, a basis for providing standing to participate as a party to any criminal proceeding, or a basis to contest the disposition of any charge."

PROPOSED BY THE 1995 LEGISLATURE PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 4

A vote FOR this proposal will provide for the creation of the Tax Equalization and Review Commission by January 1, 1997, the members of which would be appointed by the Governor as determined by the Legislature, and whose term of office and compensation would also be determined by law. This commission would have jurisdiction over disputes regarding the state's revenue laws as provided by law, would have the power to review and equalize assessments of property for taxation, plus such other duties as the Legislature may provide for. Thus, a vote for this proposal would result in the elimination of the equalization powers now possessed by the Governor, Tax Commissioner, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, and State Treasurer.

A vote AGAINST this proposal would result in the Tax Equalization and Review Commission not being created, would continue reference in the constitution to the office of Tax Commissioner with jurisdiction over the administration of the state's revenue laws, and would continue the equalization powers presently possessed by the Governor, Tax Commissioner, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, and State Treasurer.

A constitutional amendment to establish and provide powers and duties for the Tax Equalization and Review Commission, to eliminate the equalization powers of the Tax Commissioner, Governor, Secretary of State, State Auditor, and State Treasurer, and to provide for appointment of a Tax Commissioner and provide for powers and duties.
