School Board listens to air quality concern

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

A large crowd was on hand at Monday night's Board of Education meeting to listen to teachers' and parents' concerns regarding the air quality at the Wayne Middle School and to hear of the possibility of doing an independent feasibility study of the Middle School.

Mary Ann Lutt, a teacher at the Middle School, spoke to the board on concerns regarding the health of students and faculty members due to breathing the air at the Middle School.

Mrs. Lutt told the audience that the problem of air quality at the school had been brought to the attention of the administration in 1988 but the matter had been dropped.

SHE SAID the safety of the students and faculty is a concern as a number of those spending time in the Middle School have developed health problems.

Mrs. Lutt went on to say that some of the concerns have been addressed but the problem still exists.

A number of people, both faculty and parents spoke of the symptoms that have developed while at the school.

Don Koenig, a teacher at the elementary school, said he and several other people had gone to the attic to determine the source of the problem.

The group found an estimated 100 bats hanging from the rafters and bat droppings lying on top of the insulation.

KOENIG PRESENTED the board a proposal from the Middle School faculty which would involve forming an eight-member committee to address the issue.

The committee would consist of two members of the Board of Education, two administrators, two faculty members and two parents.

The goal would be to get an air quality study done, determine what needs to be done, monitor the improvement and make the results public.

The board voted to hold a special meeting Monday, June 24 to discuss the immediate needs of the Middle School facility. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 202 of the high school.

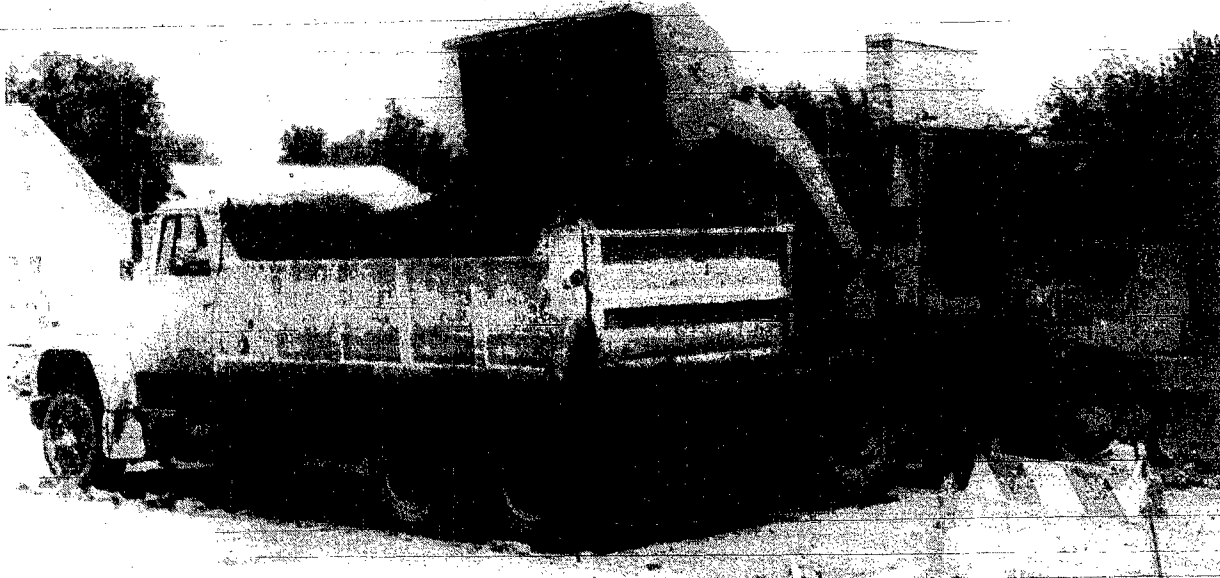

JEFF MORLOCK spoke to the board on behalf of a group of citizens who would like to see an independent, no obligation study of the present middle school to determine renovation/addition expense and viability of such a venture.

The study would be paid for by concerned private citizens and would also address the environmental needs of the present facility.

According to the group, the study will address the best use of the current Middle School structure and "if renovation is not feasible, alternative uses or responsible disposal of the building will be addressed."

DR DENNIS Jensen presented the board a preliminary draft of the 1996-97 budget. Approximately 90

Crews began work Monday on the Logan Street project. The bricks are being dug out and hauled away. The city will be selling the bricks at 25 cents each, beginning on July 1. The project is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 10.

Council tables terrace parking

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

No changes will be made in the immediate future in regard to terrace parking in the city of Wayne.

The Wayne City Council voted to table the issue until further study can be given to the ordinance.

Councilman Doug Sturm said he felt it was important to improve the appearance of the terraces, but felt the requirement of six inches of concrete was excessive.

Sturm also felt the ordinance needed to be simplified to make enforcement easier.

COUNCILPERSON Patty Wieland also spoke against taking any action at the present time, stating that there are "too many things that won't work, especially in the older neighborhoods."

Duane Schroeder presented a proposal to the council in regard to the ordinance. He said there is a legitimate concern, but "we, the people" should work together to make a solution work.

Schroeder also proposed seven suggestions to make the ordinance more acceptable, including the hard surfacing of terraces, no parking in the sight triangle, no existing trees removed and the requiring of a permit to have terrace parking.

The council voted 8-0 to table the issue.

SOLID WASTE collection was also discussed at Tuesday's meeting. City Administrator Joe Salitros told the council he and Vern Schulz have met with the Department of Environmental Quality recently to obtain a six-month extension on a grant to renovate the transfer station.

The extension will be granted if the city can provide the DEQ with a step-by-step plan and the procedure the city would use to get there before the July 1 deadline.

Salitros presented the council with a preliminary plan similar to one in place in the city of Bellvue and plans to contact council members for input before presenting the plan to the DEQ.

THE COUNCIL heard from Olsson Associates on a proposed Odor Assessment plan to deal with odors at the waste water treatment plant.

The plan involved a five phase approach including evaluation of where the odor is coming from, options on controlling the odor and a plan to solve the problem.

Councilman Verdel Lutt questioned whether the city needed to spend $3,000 to tell where the odor is coming from.

After discussion, the council voted 8-0 to approve the plan.

DISCUSSION WAS also held on the possibility of re-considering the bid on the sidewalk project.

At the council's last meeting a bid of $80,706 was received from Starostka Construction Company in Central City. The company notified the city that an error had been made in figuring the bid and the actual bid should have been $69,338 or $11,368 less than the original bid.

The council debated whether they should accept a bid when there were no other bids for comparison and without knowing the reputation of the bidder.

In other action the council approved a special designated liquor permit to Riley's for a beer garden outside Riley's in conjunction with Henoween and the Chicken Show.

The council vote 8-0 to approve a request by the Wayne Jaycees for $500 to help with the cost of fireworks and insurance for the Fourth of July display.

The council gave conditional approval to the final plat of Logan View Addition and accepted the bid for the aerial device for the city electrical department.

A decision on mobile home park regulations was tabled until further discussion can be held.

Gross selected for marketing committee

Pat Gross of State National Bank and Trust Company has been selected to serve on the Nebraska Bankers Association's Bank Marketing Committee.

The Bank Marketing Committee works to enhance the marketing efforts of its member banks through the development, management and promotion of resources in all disciplines of marketing.

Old Settlers final plans in action

Members of the Wayne County Old Settlers committee met recently to put final plans into action for this year's June 29 and 30 celebration in Winside.

Things will kick off one week before the event with a boosters dance on Saturday, June 22 in the Winside auditorium. Music will be provided by the Mark Vyhldal Variety Band from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The committee is seeking more help from parents during the kids carnival games on Saturday at 1 p.m. These games will be for children of all ages. Each child will be given tickets to play the games, then after they are used the child may buy more tickets at 25 cents each. Help is also needed for the children's peddle tractor races to be held at 3 p.m. on Saturday. If you are willing to help during these hours, contact Kathy Meier at 286-4537.

The committee encourages everyone to come and see the Saturday performance of "Bark in the Park." This is a new event this year and should be lots of fun for young and old. There will also be clowns around on Saturday from the Wayne Funny People, Inc. On Sunday these clowns will perform in the park at approximately 2:15 p.m.

The grand parade on Sunday will be at approximately 4 p.m. Theme is "Gone Country" and chairman VerNeal Marotz asks for preregistrations of entries by contacting him at 286-4227 or by mail at RR Box 156, Winside, NE 68790.

There will be one final committee meeting on June 20 in the village auditorium at 8 p.m.

Chicken Show promises to be 'egg-citing'

Poli-Chicks in '96 will be campaigning heavily in the next month in an effort to sway voters toward attending the Wayne Chicken Show.

Chicken Show t-shirts have arrived and plans are being finalized for the 16th annual event.

The shirts are a major source of revenue for the event. This year's shirt is gray with an "Uncle Sam" chicken on the front in red, white and blue.

The back of the shirt features an egg-shaped presidential seal. The chicken replaces the eagle as the symbol on the seal.

Shirts sell for $12.50, including tax, and are available at Kids Closet, Legends, Hair Affair,

WSC Social Science division holds first awards ceremony

Numerous awards were presented to students in the social sciences division at Wayne State College during the first awards ceremony to conclude the college year.

Division head Dr. Jean Karlen said the ceremony to honor the accomplishments of top students in the division will become an annual event. Karlen added that WSC students rank among the best in academic achievement, student leadership and service to the division, the college and their communities.

Certificates were awarded to outstanding students in each of the divisions departments.

They were: Amy Post, Wayne-Anthropology; Kevin Manak, Clarkson, Dawn Spickelmier, Laurel, Christi Carr, Wayne and Michelle Scheurich, Hoskins-Criminal Justice; David McPhillips, David City-Economics.

Also, Travis Ludwig, Spencer-Geography; Teresa Kraus, Mullen-History; Denise Wallace, Columbus-Political Science; Marysa Bleich, Winside-Psychology.

Leslie Linder, Blue Hill, Sociology; Marsha Foote, Wayne-Social Sciences/non-teaching and Jason Owens, Aurora and Stacy Carlson, Allen-Social Sciences-teaching.

Also recognized during the awards ceremony were students tutors, honor roll students, scholarship recipients, officers of the division's honoraries and clubs.

In addition, leadership, participation and service awards were given.

Sue Wortman, Hartington, received special recognition for placing first with her paper in the undergraduate category of the Midwest Sociological Society's annual student paper presentation.

Stacy Carlson, Allen also received special recognition for being awarded a prize on her paper at the Nebraska Regional Student History Conference.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

SRP (Summer Reading Program) update! From the number of registrants at close-out time we are in for a rousing six weeks of young readers! About 130 children — ages 4 through 6 and first through sixth grade have indicated their interest in "Peer Amid Books Read..." which tells us we will have a library full! June 5 was the kick-off opening program. Dr. Nina Little from Omaha had the full attention of 82 children as she explained about Egypt and what you would need to bring along if you traveled there. She also told the Egyptian story of the "Winged Cat" with the help of a couple children.

The children will come for activities and story time Tuesday afternoons. Grades 4-5 will meet from 12:30 to 1:15 p.m.; grades 1-3, 1:30-2:15 p.m.; and read-to-me ages 4-6, 2:30-3:15 p.m. Lots of reading prizes continue to be won — keep it up!

Many thanks to the Eagles Auxiliary for their gift to the library. Large Print books have been ordered and quite a few have arrived and are on the LP shelf... "That Camden Summer" by LaVryle Spencer, "The Red Shoes" by Michael Powell, "Body of Evidence" by Patricia D. Cornwell, "Dolores Claiborne" by Stephen King, "The Cat Who Said Cheese" and "The Cat Who Came To Breakfast" by Lillian Jackson Braun to name just a few.

If you are looking for a painting to hang on a certain wall you might want to pick out one from our collection. The pictures you see standing over the shelves in the main room may be checked out for two months, just as you would check out a book. Stop at the desk for answers to your questions.

And don't forget the many books on tape! We are changing the way we process them — taking them out of the plastic bags and putting them in album covers to make them easier to handle. We think you will find them much more convenient.

Just in time for the anticipated garden produce, a new cookbook, "Vegetarian Times Complete Cookbook" by the editors of Vegetarian Times.

Library hours are Monday-Friday, noon to 8 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. No Sunday hours during the summer. See you soon.

percent of the $4.817 million budget ($4.416 million) is spent on fixed-budget items such as salaries, utilities and insurance.

He explained the impact of LB 299 which limits the budget increase to two percent.

However, due to an adjustment for average daily attendance, the district has been granted an additional 1.551 percent increase.

Revisions to the budget will be worked on through the next several months.

SUE GILMORE of Carroll was appointed to the board and officially sworn in to replace Sidney Hillier who resigned last month.

The board heard a report from Jerry Hoffman, Project Director for Work at the Center, a rural education initiative. Hoffman explained the use of the community and real-life situations in learning.

The board spent time discussing the recently defeated bond issue.

Board President Phyllis Spethman told the board she had met with the steering committee to discuss some of the comments that had been brought to her attention regarding the issue.

The board also accepted the resignation of Jeff Sutter as third grade teacher and approved the hiring of Marlene Uhing as half-time Special Projects Director and half-time Athletic Director and John McClarnen as third grade teacher with some coaching duties.

Student named to Dean's List

Claire Rasmussen of Wayne has been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. She is the daughter of Charlene and Russ Rasmussen and a 1994 graduate of Wayne High School. At the college's honors convocation on May 18, she was honored with the Mortar Board Outstanding Sophomore Student Award. The award is presented to a sophomore student who shows a high level of involvement in the college community. Winners are selected by current members of the Crescent Chapter of Mortar Board, a senior honor society.

Girl Scout troops collect pop tabs for Ronald McDonald House

Wayne Girl Scout troops collected pop can tabs as a service project for the Ronald McDonald House in Sioux City, Iowa.

The third grade Brownie Troop #192, under the direction of Monica Jensen and Diane Gentrup, was the troop to collect the most tabs. The 22 girls collected 19 pounds.

Other troops participating included second grade Brownie Troop 304, Junior Troop 191 and the Cadette and Senior Troops.

A total of 35 pounds of tabs was collected by the Wayne Girl Scouts.

The girls then challenged other scout troops in N.E. Nebraska to meet their weights.

Service Unit 17, including the towns of Fordyce, Coleridge, Randolph, Laurel and Ponca collected 71.5 pounds with Randolph winning the unit with 37.5 pounds.

In Service Unit 18, the towns of Plainview, Osmond and Creighton collected 32.25 pounds.

Bloomfield of Service Unit 19 collected 2.5 pounds.

A total of 178.75 pounds of tabs were collected.

The Ronald McDonald House will recycle the tabs and use the dollars to operate and maintain the house.

The money could be used for paying families fees, buying groceries, paying the heat and utilities or general operating expenses of the house.

These businesses want you to keep their card for future reference and great service!

To park or not to park

To park or not to park (sorry Shakespeare) on the city's terraces. That is the current question.

After inventing the automobile, owners have had to continuously invent places to park. Frustration is a mild word in describing the process of trying to find parking when there isn't adequate space.

So how about parking on the city's terrace near one's house? Many Wayne citizens have done so for years and the city has survived.

Is it time to change? The city council finds itself debating the pros and cons of the dilemma. Considerable input was given at the council's meeting Tuesday night.

Home owners, and renters, recognize that "community" implies a need for laws, including those related to parking. But what is best for everyone involved?

Current discussion includes whether or not residents, who must mow the city's terraces, may or may not have a right to receive something in return.

Property owners with ample driveways and garages, remain more or less out of the loop regarding the question. But scores of the city populace would, at first glance, suffer unmistakable inconvenience and expense should they be prohibited from terrace parking. The search is on for alternative solutions satisfactory to both council and residents.

If you have a suggested solution, share it with your council representative. Being a government "of, by, and for" the people, any advocacy or objection will be heard.

USDA is having 'cow' over beef

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Sometimes, a story just cries out for a good pun.

Last week's flap over what is "Beef from Nebraska" was one of them.

Federal ag officials were having a "cow" over a state promotion plan to label steaks as "Beef from Nebraska."

Their "beef" was that such a label could "buffalo" consumers, who might think that the heaves were all born and raised in Nebraska.

It was definitely a "beef over beef."

Now, if a reporter can't "steak" a few puns in a story of that nature, week, that wordsmith ought to hang up their computer.

Let's "round up" the facts.

Last fall, Gov. Nelson and state ag officials announced a plan to make Nebraska beef as famous as Idaho potatoes or Wisconsin cheese.

A great idea, but one, apparently, that wasn't first checked out with the United States Department of Agriculture.

The USDA approves all labeling of ag products, and when they were finally asked if the "Beef from Nebraska" stickers were OK, well, they had a cow.

The label, they contended, makes it appear that the cows, not just the steaks, were from the state once known as the Beef State. The USDA said the labels should not be used unless a meat packer can certify that the cow was either raised in Nebraska or fed for at least 120 days in the state before it was slaughtered.

Nebraska packers bucked at the extra certification work, and the beef was on.

The state appealed the rejection to U.S. Ag Secretary Dan Glickman. They said that the USDA was being arbitrary since it allows a "Virginia Ham" label without any requirement that the hogs come from Virginia.

The flap, once it became publicly known, caused a stampede of protest from Nelson and U.S. Rep. Doug Bereuter. They made some political hay out of the dispute.

Nelson, a harsh critic of inflexible government regulations, questioned whether USDA workers had better things to do. Bereuter said the objections were "rather technical" and said Nebraskans could rightly ask: "Where's the beef?"

These kinds of gripes were really no brainers: defending beef in Nebraska is like fighting for peaches in Georgia or chaining yourself to Mt. Rushmore.

Being a consumer myself, I'd like some protection. But I'm more interested in making sure my hot dogs don't have rat parts in them than ensuring that every single cow slaughtered at a Nebraska packing plant and stamped "from Nebraska" comes from Nebraska.

About 85 or 90 percent, it's said, come from the state. Shouldn't that be close enough, particularly when the other 10 or 15 percent of the cattle probably come from Iowa where they're as pampered and corn-fed as those in the Football, er, Cornhusker State?

Something will probably be worked out in the end. Some sort of compromise like "Beef from Nebraska (packing houses)" or just plain "Nebraska Beef."

But until then, it's the kind of story that brings out the punsters and cynic in all of us.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Education funding is being debated

Last week I read a very interesting editorial. Here is what Craig R. Christiansen, President of the Nebraska State Education Association had to say.

When President Clinton signed the fiscal year 1996 omnibus appropriations bill in late April, it capped 18 months of wrangling between the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, between Democrats and Republicans, and between Congress and the White House. During those 18 months, much of the debate centered on education spending.

Central to the debate was the fundamental question of the nation's investment in our students and young people. And the drawn-out drama tells us much about the commitment -- or lack thereof -- of many of our elected officials to their future.

When the new Congress sets its sights on balancing the budget in January of last year, it became clear that America's schoolchildren would be caught in the crosshairs. The nation's young people were set up to take the brunt of the most severe education cuts in history, cuts that would have gutted education programs designed to help kids get a head start in life, learn basic reading and writing skills, attend safe and drug free schools, and have the opportunity to go to college.

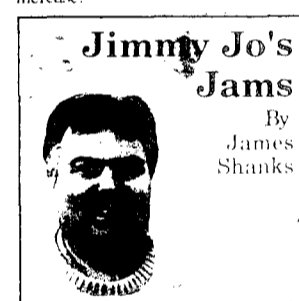

Despite public opinion polls that consistently and overwhelmingly showed massive support for federal investment in education, Congress chose to slash $40 billion from programs vital to children, public education and college students over the next seven years. The implications of these proposed cuts were staggering. And it marked a reversal from the country's historic, bipartisan support for education investments.

The U.S. House of Representatives last August voted to cut education by more than $4 billion in fiscal year 1996 alone, followed by a Senate Appropriations bill cutting education spending by more than $2.2 billion. Even as late as April, support for children and education was in peril. In Nebraska, thousands of students were slated to be dropped from critical schooling in the basics -- reading, writing and math. Virtually every school district across America would have lost support for safe and drug free schools; and thousands of students nationwide would have been denied access to higher education through cuts to college loan and grant programs.

Only through the dedicated efforts of a coalition of concerned Americans -- teachers, the PTA, school administrators, college students and presidents, parents, and community activists -- were the original education cuts largely restored.

Our message was heard on Capitol Hill: that choosing a tax cut for the wealthy over investing in our kids' future was a terrible and shortsighted choice. Our effort to translate broad popular support for federal aid to education into congressional action ultimately succeeded. In the end, lawmakers rejected more than $1 billion in cuts that would have dropped one million children from Title I programs designed to give them help with the basics. In the end, Congress chose not to eliminate the Safe and Drug-Free Schools program, which serves more than 39 million youngsters. And in the end, by a bipartisan vote, the Pell Grants which provide low and middle-income students with the chance for a college education will actually increase.

Jimmy Jo's Jams

By James Shanks

Even with this victory for children and education, federal funding for education in 1996 stands at $400 million less than was invested last year. And in what promises to be another long, hard fight, the battle for 1997 spending is already under way. Too many lawmakers still fail to recognize that federal education programs serve vital national purposes. They don't see that these programs open doors for students who are disadvantaged, disabled or have other obstacles they must overcome to learn. They are unmoved by the recent RAND Institute study showing that federal support for education has helped raise academic achievement of low income students.

It will be up to those of us who see the connection between educational opportunity and a secure future for everyone to make the case. Federal education programs are one of the most important investments we as a nation can make in our young people. Nearly 98 percent of federal education resources go to schools, states, agencies and individuals directly involved in teaching and learning. It is money well spent, particularly as state and local governments from coast to coast are being forced to make do with less and less as budgets shrink and resources are squeezed. Federal education resources -- while comprising less than two percent of the federal budget -- play a key role in making up the difference and expanding access and choices for students and families.

Over the last two years, Congress has reduced spending for education by $1 billion. We hope that the public outrage and outcry of the last year and a half over the effort to gut education programs will give this Congress pause as it considers future funding.

The time has come for Congress to listen to the not so silent (anymore) majority of Americans

Dancing at the 'WIGFOPP' follies!

What is a 'WIGFOPP' you ask! O.K., a WIGFOPP is an acronym for "What Is Glorious For Our Political Party". You see, be it Democrat, Republican, Independent, or whatever, politics has deteriorated to a near level of mobocracy. No longer do members of Congress vote along the lines of what is rewarding, and good for the country, but rather WIGFOPP.

The president and his party, be it Republican or Democrat, seemingly find it more important to outwit, outmaneuver, outgabble, outyell, outshame, yes, and outfable, the opposing party than it is to determine what is feasible for bettering government. The "of, by, and for" people are ignored. We can rightly say we now have an "out-and-out" methodology for reigning supreme in Washington. Most Americans call it disgusting and outrageous.

WIGFOPP has become the shrine at which partisan politicians worship. Once the electorate sends a person to Congress, apparently the new representative immediately enrolls in WIGFOPP classes. That curriculum includes a course in theatrics showing how to wear a bipartisan cloak while remaining unwaveringly dedicated to WIG-

FOPP. All this transpires while your every-day, run-of-the-mill, voting American gets sick and tired of such political tomfoolery.

Liberal liars are currently telling Americans that Republicans are going to cut Social Security and Medicare. Wrong! Just slowing the growth rate is all. But if a lie works? Try WIGFOPP!

A senate subcommittee continues to hold hearings on matters related to Whitewater. If you watched the TV proceedings, it's obviously an "us vs them" confrontation, rather than any probing process. Brighter than the TV lights, and more obvious than character acting, are the WIGFOPP stooges. A stooge is anyone who acts as or is the tool or dupe of another. The word "stooge" is not a put down, but rather, in this case, a job description.

But wait a minute! The political summer is yet to arrive. WIGFOPPERS are yet in their dressing rooms memorizing their most deceptive scripts with which they hope to lure the not-so-bright WIGFOPPERS on the opposite side of the political spectrum! Oh! Ain't it fooling fun!

Merlin Wright

More than firecrackers will pop around July 4th as the WIGFOPPING pros start shouting into every available microphone and camera "My fellow Americans!"

With apologies to JFK, ask not what your country can do for you! But rather ask what you can do to master the WIGFOPPERS!

'Keep up the good work'

Dear Editor,
Wednesday morning I had the opportunity to see the City Water Department in action. Jeff Brady, Tim Pickinpaugh and Mert Marshall were in the midst of repairing a broken water main by the Runza Hut at 5:30 a.m.

I was very impressed with their professionalism, their willingness to do the necessary repair work when it would inconvenience the least number of people and the efficiency in their efforts.

Jeff didn't hesitate to get right after the business end of spade while knee deep in water and muck, while Tim handled the backhoe and other equipment with ease and skill. Monitoring their progress, Mert gave advice and encouragement when needed.

All too often we, the public, take for granted the amenities we have every day. To have our water shut off for one hour every year or so for repairs is really remarkable when one stops to think about it. The same applies to the delivery of our electricity, waste water treat-

Wayne Midgets top Wakefield

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wayne Midgets improved to 7-1 on Tuesday with a 9-2 win over Wakefield at Eaton Field. Ryan Sturm (3-0) hurled a complete game three-hitter while striking out nine. Wayne belted out 11 hits and scored seven runs in the second inning to blow the game open. Dustin Schmeits collected three singles and drove in one run, while Justin Thede singled and doubled and drove in three runs. Brad Maryott also singled and double while driving in a pair of runs. Sturm and Adam Endicott each picked up a pair of hits, while Brent Tietz drove in a run on a suicide squeeze.

The Midgets suffered their first loss of the season last Friday, falling 10-2 to Pender. Thede (3-1) was collared with the loss, despite allowing just three hits. He did, however walk seven batters, while the Wayne defense committed five errors. Wayne scored a pair of runs in the first, but Pender responded with three in the bottom of the inning to take the lead. Pender scored five more times in the fourth inning without the benefit of a hit.

Offensively, Wayne managed just four hits. Endicott doubled, while Maryott, Thede and Sturm each singled.

On Wednesday, June 5th, Wayne defeated Homers 13-5 in five innings. Wayne scored four runs in the first, but Homer responded with five in the the third to take the advantage. Wayne rebounded with three runs in the third, four in the fourth and two in the fifth to take the game via the eight-run rule.

Ryan Sturm recorded the win, allowing five hits while striking out eight. At the plate he collected a pair of doubles and one RBI, while Thede doubled, singled and drove in two. Schmeits doubled and drove in a run, while Rob Sturm and Adam Endicott each had one single and one RBI.

Wakefield Juniors rout Wayne

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wakefield's Junior Legion baseball team hammered Wayne 19-4 on Monday, improving their record to 12-6. Travis Birkley struck out three and allowed just one hit in three innings to earn the victory. Justin Mackling was 2-4 at the plate with a home run, while Mike Blohm was 3-3.

Over the weekend Wakefield competed in the Sioux Falls Tournament. The Juniors opened play on Saturday with a 4-3 loss to New Ulm, Minn. Birkley took the loss in relief of starter Josh Snyder. Offensively, Blohm was 2-3 and Mike Hassler was 2-4.

Wakefield rebounded with a 14-1 win over the Rapid City Bullets in Saturday's second game. Justin Hegge picked up the win, while Blohm homered and Mike White was 2-3 and Cory Coble was 2-2.

On Sunday, Wakefield defeated the Bullets 13-1. Jason Hegge got the victory and was 2-4 at the plate. Blohm was 3-3 and Mackling was 3-4.

Wakefield closed out the tourney with a 7-4 loss to the Sioux Falls Roadrunners. Cory Coble took the loss in relief, while Blohm led the offense with a home run.

Last Thursday, Wakefield split a doubleheader with the Roadrunners. Sioux Falls won the opener 11-10. Justin Dutcher took the loss, allowing nine hits over seven innings. Blohm was 2-3 at the plate. In the second game, Wakefield won 11-8. Austin Lueth recorded the win. Mackling was 3-4 with a home run, while Blohm also went 3-4.

The Wakefield Midgets (6-2) lost two of three games over the past week. Wakefield defeated Sgt Bluff, Iowa 10-7 on Tuesday. Justin Paulson earned the win, while B.J. Hansen, Shaun Hammer, Tom Sailors and Eric Haglund collected hits.

Wayne defeated Wakefield 9-2 on Monday. Eric Beacom suffered the loss. Josh Templeman had a solid outing in relief, striking out eight and allowing just two hits in three innings of work. At the plate, Beacom was 2-2 with a triple and Brett Sailors was 1-1.

Wakefield lost to Sgt. Bluff 4-2 on Friday. Hansen was hung with the loss. Collecting hits for the Midgets were Justin Paulson, Ross Gardner and Chad Mackling.

Thursday night is an appreciation night at Eaton Field in Wakefield. Admission is free for the doubleheader against Neligh. The Midget game begins at 5:30 p.m., while the Juniors game is set for 7:30 p.m.

Wayne LL Whites improve to 3-0

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Last Thursday, the Wayne Little League White team improved to 3-0 with a 9-0 victory over Pender. Eric Sturm hurled a no-hitter with eight strikeouts and added a single and double at the plate. Brad Hochstein homered, while Judd Giese singled twice and David Jammer added a base hit.

On Tuesday, June 4, the Little League Whites defeated Coleridge 15-4. Hochstein struck out six and allowed just four hits, while adding a single and a double at the plate. Corbin Sharer singled three times, while Jammer and Jeremy Foote each had a pair of hits. Sturm, Luke Christianson, Nathan Bull each had hits.

The Wayne Pony Whites (3-1) lost their first game of the season on Tuesday, falling to Hartington 11-5. Eric McClegan took the loss. Ben Meyer recorded a double, while Shane Baack, Trevor Wright and Brett Parker each singled.

The Ponies beat Pender 6-5 on Thursday. Adam Jorgensen pitched a complete game and struck out four to record the win. He also had two singles offensively, while Baack knocked in the game-winner with a single. Wright and Kenneth Kopperud each doubled, while Jon Meyer, Ben Meyer and Chris Woehler all had singles.

The Pony Whites beat Coleridge 4-3 last Tuesday. Jorgenson struck out two and picked up the win in relief of Baack, who struck out five. Jorgenson and Erik Vollmer each doubled, while Woehler and Anthony Sump each singled.

The Little League Blues (3-1) lost their first game of the year on Tuesday with a 13-8 defeat to the Pender Reds. Adam McGuire struck out seven, but took the loss. Cody Niemann double, singled and drove in three runs. Brad Hansen collected two hits, while Andy Baker had one.

The Blues defeated Wakefield 12-

7 last Thursday. Baker picked up the win on the mound and homered and doubled at the plate. Hansen also homered, doubled and singled, while McGuire belted out three hits.

The Wayne Pony Blues improved to 2-2 on Tuesday with an 8-4 win over the Pender Reds. Dusty Baker struck out five and picked up the victory. Dan Nelson doubled and had two RBIs, while Mike Varley had two RBIs and one hit. Jason Parks, Craig Olson and Jeremy Dorecy also collected hits for Wayne.

The Ponies lost 2-1 to Wakefield last Thursday. Jon Slaybaugh suffered the loss. Slaybaugh and Joel Munson recorded hits.

Eric Sturm hurled a no-hitter on Thursday as Wayne's Little League White team defeated Pender 9-0.

Wayne 16-under team third at tourney

Shanon Johnson fouls off a pitch during action against Wisner at the Wayne Invitational Softball Tournament on Sunday. Wayne's 14-under #1 team defeated Wisner 20-18.

14-under #2

The Wayne girls' 14-under #2 softball team took fourth place at the Wayne Invitational Softball Tournament held last weekend, improving their record to 8-5.

Wayne opened the tournament on Saturday with a 13-10 loss to Norfolk Kelly Supply, but rebounded for a 20-3 rout of Wakefield. Brittany Frevert collected three singled and walked once, while Kristin Wilson and Kristin Hochstein each belted triples. Wayne finished the day with a 29-11 win over the Wayne 14-under #1 squad.

On Sunday, Wayne 14-under #2 opened with a 23-5 win over Wisner. Beth Sperry paced Wayne with three singles and two walks, while Jennifer Schaffer had a double, two singles and a walk. In their next game, Wayne lost a 10-1 decision to Pender, but followed that with a 10-2 win over Wisner. Tonya Schwanke provided the highlights with a home run. Wayne then lost to Norfolk Kelly Supply 12-11 before defeating the Wayne 14-under #1 team 15-1.

Wayne battled Wakefield in the third place match-up. Wakefield needed two extra innings, but handed Wayne a 17-16 loss. Mandy Hansen tripled, doubled and had two singles, while Sperry and Schwanke each tripled to lead Wayne. Norfolk Kelly Supply defeated Pender 11-4 in the title game.

Last Friday Wayne 14-under #2 defeated Scribner 21-4. Hansen led the team with a pair of doubles.

14-under #1

The Wayne girls' 14-under #1 team lost to Pender 20-1 on Tuesday. Wayne gave up 11 runs on five walks and four errors in the top of the first inning to dig themselves a hole they could not get out of. Kallie Krugman had a triple to lead Wayne offensively.

Over the weekend, Wayne competed in the Wayne tournament at the City Softball Complex. In round robin action, Wayne lost to Wakefield 14-11, Pender 14-6, Wayne 14-under #2 28-12 and Norfolk Kelly Tire 17-7. Wayne defeated Wisner 20-18. In bracket play, Wayne lost to Wakefield 17-11 and Wayne 14-under #2 17-3.

"This was really a good experience for a young team," said Coach Dale Hochstein. "We played hard all the time and had several one and two run games through the third or fourth inning. Since the team never let down, this can only be a positive experience for our program and will really help us get ready for league and tournament play."

Last Thursday, Wayne defeated Wisner 17-10.

16-under

The Wayne girls' 16-under softball team took third place at the Wayne Invitational Softball tournament last weekend.

On Saturday, Wayne opened with a 22-8 thumping of Blair. Stacey Langemeier earned the victory. Alycia Jorgensen, Langemeier, Heidi Johnson, Carol Longe and Brandy Frevert each collected singles.

Wayne lost its next game 14-4 to Pender. Brooke Parker took the mound loss. Timoni Grone tripled twice, while Jorgensen singled.

Parker rebounded to pick up the win in Wayne's next game, a 10-9 win over Wisner. Jorgensen tripled and singled, while Langemeier singled to lead the offense.

On Sunday, Wayne topped Yankton Alumex Heat 8-4. Parker secured the victory on the mound, while Jorgensen tripled and singled. Grone tripled, while Langemeier singled twice and Frevert singled once.

Langemeier took the loss in Wayne's 15-14 loss to Schuyler. Offensively, Frevert was 3-3 with three singles, while Grone tripled and Jorgensen, Parker, Jessica Raveling and Johnson each singled.

Wayne defeated West Point Pizza Hut 12-6 in their next game. Raveling was 4-4 with a double and three singles. Johnson was 3-4, while Jorgensen and Langemeier each singled twice. Parker tripled and Megan Meyer, Abbie Diediker and Larissa Coulter each singled.

Parker won fourth game of the tourney in the third place game as Wayne defeated Pierce 10-9. Langemeier had a triple and two singles, while Jorgensen doubled twice. Grone, Parker and Frevert each singled.

Pender defeated Schuyler 5-2 in the championship game.

Wayne fell to 7-4 on Tuesday with a 20-3 loss to Pender. Parker suffered the loss. At the plate, Parker tripled and Tina Ruwe and Meyer singled.

18-under

On Tuesday, the Wayne 18-under girls' softball team lost to Pender 23-11. Nikki McLagan was the losing pitcher. Kelli Lubberstedt belted two singles, while Jessica Raveling tripled and Stacey Langemeier doubled. Collecting singles were Tina Ruwe, Sarah Metzler, Brandy Frevert and McLagan.

On Monday, Wayne lost to Uehling 16-9. McLagan took the loss. Langemeier doubled and tripled. Raveling singled twice, while Metzler and Meyer also recorded base hits.

Wimmers of West Point took the championship in the 18-under division of the Wayne Invitational Girl's Softball Tournament last weekend. West Point defeated O'Neill 9-0 in the title game. Yankton Sportstuff took third with a 17-5 win over Uehling.

Wayne's Malissa Fredrickson delivers a pitch against Wisner during the Wayne Softball Invitational Tournament on Sunday.

Ginseng: Popular Yet Mysterious

Numerous products contain ginseng in one form or another. Such products are popular in many areas of the world and are used by millions of Americans. Interestingly, there are few published scientific studies of this root of the Panax ginseng shrub. However, ginseng has enjoyed the reputation of being a cure-all - good for everything from cancer to stimulating sexual desire. But don't look for these claims on packages. In the U.S., ginseng is regulated as a nutritional product. Claims cannot be made for therapeutic effectiveness.

In the U.S., ginseng may never become a "drug." It is unlikely that any manufacturer will invest money in this or any other herbal remedy in order to obtain a "drug." The cost to get a new drug to the market may be as high as $350 million. Since ginseng comes from nature, it cannot be patented, a requirement to recoup a manufacturer's research costs.

Caboose is on track

The caboose is on its tracks in the Allen RV Park. Burlington Northern Railroad donated the caboose and a section of track to the Allen community at no charge. The Dixon County Supervisors approved the use of the county road workers to assist in the move of the caboose from the tracks to its current place. The caboose weighs approximately 25 tons, is 14 feet high and 10 feet wide. In order to receive a caboose, recipients must be located on the Burlington Northern line. The company asks that the caboose be placed near the tracks and in view of a main road. Allen selected the RV park site located along Highway 9 at the north edge of town.

SECTION B

Double ring ceremony unites Wriedt-Menard

Heidi Wriedt and Patrick Menard, both of Lincoln, were married June 1, 1996 at Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Pastor Bill Koeber officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Ron and Sandra Wriedt of Wayne and Josephina and the late Henri Menard of Tekamah.

Mr. and Mrs. Menard

Music for the ceremony was provided by soloist Tami Ahrendt of Blair and organist Connie Webber of Wayne.

Lector was Laura Blankenship.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a candlelight gown of silk brocade. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline, beaded bodice, bouffant off-the-shoulder sleeves and a chapel length train.

She wore a veil consisting of a pearl crown with finger tip illusion lace which she had made.

She carried a colonial bouquet of ivory and rose roses.

Matron of honor was Wendy Kramer of Norfolk. Bridesmaid was Amy Schweers of Shelby. Both are sisters of the bride.

They wore spruce green chiffon-over-satin dresses. The floor-length gowns featured a sweetheart neckline, v-back and a long chiffon bow at the back.

Mikayla Kramer of Norfolk, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Personal attendant was Tammy Buffington of Benkelman and flower pinner was April Meyer of Norfolk.

Garret Menard of Omaha, nephew of the groom, was ring-bearer.

Perry Menard of Omaha was best man for his brother. Groomsman was Sam Harmer of Tekamah, friend of the groom.

Ushers were Bryan Fairfield of Omaha and Samit Choudhuri of Lincoln.

The men wore black tuxedos with white shirts and black ties and cummerbunds.

A reception was held at the Wayne Country Club following the ceremony.

Jean Menard of Omaha registered guests. Kim and Kay Bahr of Norfolk arranged gifts.

June and Jerry Baier of Wayne served as hosts for the reception.

Anita Haller of Wayne and Rosey Higgs of Omaha cut and served cake.

Jen Kock and Sue Ridder of Omaha served punch.

The couple is at home at 4431 Holdrege Street #14, Lincoln, Neb.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1993 graduate of Wayne State College. She is currently attending the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and is employed by the University.

The groom is a 1987 graduate of Tekamah-Herman High School and is currently attending the University of Nebraska. He is employed by the Peed Corporation.

Tina Field and John Grimm exchange vows

Tina Field and John Grimm were married April 26, 1996 at First United Methodist Church.

Pastor Gary Main officiated at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Toni Field. Deanna Devine was bridesmaid.

Peter Grimm was best man and Randy Brown was groomsman.

Flower girls were Emily and Magdalene Brown.

A reception was held in the church's fellowship hall following the ceremony.

They are at home on a farm southeast of Wayne where the groom is engaged in farming.

Aren't rewards just a form of bribery?

Q: I am uncomfortable using rewards to influence my kids. Aren't rewards just a form of bribery?

A: Many parents feel as you do, and my response is don't use them if you are philosophically opposed to the concept. It is unfortunate, however, that our most workable teaching device is often rejected because of what I would consider to be a misunderstanding of terms. Our entire society is established on a system of reinforcement, yet we don't want to apply it where it is needed most: our children.

As adults, we go to work each day and receive a paycheck every two weeks. Getting out of bed each morning is thereby rewarded. Medals are given to brave soldiers; plaques are awarded to successful businessmen and watches are presented to retiring employees. Rewards make responsible effort worthwhile.

Let me illustrate by telling a story from the time when I was briefly in the military service. The most distasteful aspect of my "tour of duty" was the absence of reinforcement; I could not get a higher rank until a certain period of time had passed, no matter how hard I worked. The size of my paycheck was determined by Congress, not by my competence or output.

This system is a destroyer of motivation, yet some parents seem to feel it is the only way to approach children. They expect little Jerred to carry responsibility simply because it is noble for him to do so. They want him to work and learn and sweat for the sheer joy of personal discipline. He isn't going to buy it!

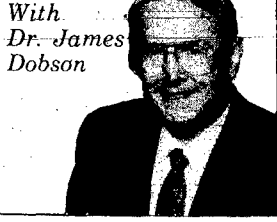

Consider the alternative approach to the "bribery" I've recommended. How are you going to get your 5-year-old son to behave more responsibly? The most frequently used substitutes are nagging, complaining, begging, screaming, threatening and punishing.

The mother who objects to the use of rewards may also go to bed each evening with a headache, vowing to have no more children. But most important, her child is not learning self-discipline and personal responsibility that is possible through the careful reinforcement of that behavior.

Q: What would you do to encourage the cooperation of my 15-year-old son who deliberately makes a nuisance of himself? He throws his clothes around, refuses to help out with any routine tasks in the house and pesters his little brother perpetually.

Focus On The Family

With Dr. James Dobson

A: I would seek to find a way to link his behavior to something important to him, such as privileges or even money. If he receives an allowance, for example, this money could provide an excellent tool with which you can generate a little motivation.

Suppose he is given $4 a week. That maximum can be taxed regularly for violation of predetermined rules. For example, each article of clothing left on the floor might cost him a dime. A deliberate provocation of his brother would subtract a quarter from his total. Each Saturday, he would receive the money remaining from the taxation of the last week. This system conforms to the principle behind all adolescent discipline: Give the individual reason for obeying other than the simple fact that he was told to do so.

Q: How can I recognize the symptoms of marijuana use in my 16-year-old son?

A: According to Drug Abuse Central in San Antonio, Texas, the symptoms of marijuana use are as follows:

- Diminished drive, reduced ambition
- Significant drop in the quality of school work
- Reduced attention span
- Impaired communication skills
- Distinct lessening in social warmth; less care for the feelings of others
- Pale face, imprecise eye movements, red eyes
- Neglect of personal appearance
- Inappropriate overreaction to mild criticism
- A change from active competitive interest to a more passive, withdrawn personality
- Association with friends who refuse to identify themselves or simply hang up if parents answer the phone
- An increased secretiveness about money or the disappearance of money or valuables from the home.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Klick and Klatter Club has tour of Germany

Eleven members of the Klick and Klatter Club and one guest, Kathy Muller, met at Jeanne's at the Haskell House in Wakefield for a noon luncheon on June 10. After lunch, they all met in the Lee Moller home in Wayne where three more members joined them.

They all enjoyed an arm chair tour of Germany via video with Mrs. Muller as tour director. Mrs. Muller and her husband had spent two and a half years in Germany while Mr. Muller was in the service. Several German artifacts were on display.

After the tour, a short business meeting was presided over by Barb Sievers, president. June and July birthdays and anniversaries were recognized. There were none in August. Marcella and Earl Larson will observe 50 years on June 19 and Lee and Walt Moller will be married 59 years on July 30. Birthday ladies were Marian Jordan, Marcella Larson, Ruth Fleer, Loreene Gildersleeve and Pauline Lutt.

There will be no meetings in July or August. Members were urged to participate in the county fair in August. Next meeting will be Sept. 10 at 1:30 p.m. with Irene Victor. Viola Meyer will present the lesson "Modest Home Make Overs." There will also be election of officers for 1997.

Hostesses Lee Moller and Marjan Jordan planned the lunch at Jeanne's, the tour and served an afternoon lunch.

Building external assets: parental involvement in school and creating a positive school climate

Parents involved in school help their children succeed in school. They talk with their children about school, often assist with schoolwork and attend school events. By being involved in schools, parents can help create a positive, encouraging environment for your children.

At Home

Try to talk with all your child's teachers at least once during the school year.

Regularly ask your children what they are learning in school. Offer to help with homework in appropriate ways.

When you receive a school calendar, enter important dates and events onto your family calendar. Make attending school events a priority within your family.

Join the parent-teacher organization at your child's school.

Volunteer at your child's school to do what you can to help out. Be a room parent, chaperon or serve on school committees.

Ask your children to tell you about any school-related fears or concerns they might have.

At School

Encourage your children's teacher to feel free to call you during the school year.

Form or be involved in parent advisory committees to give input into school policy decisions.

Ask to see your school's policy book and student handbook. These publications will tell you about school safety policies in place, expectations that school has for student behavior and the consequences for violating school rules and guidelines. Read them carefully and contact the principal about any questions you have. Go over the student handbook with your child and make sure that he or she understands it.

Lynda Cruickshank
Wayne County
Cooperative Extension

Join or start a parent safety committee at your child's school. Tour the school and identify safety violations or concerns. Work with the school administration to address these issues.

Volunteer in the school to tutor and support students. The more time you spend at your child's school, the more you'll know about what really goes on there.

Suggest a "school suggestion box" so students and parents can share ideas and report concerns.

Send notes to school for your teacher about what your children's victories and concerns are.

Offer to publish a class newsletter to enhance communication between the school and other parents.

On days when schools have open houses and parent-teacher conferences, provide an outline for the conference so that you can make the best of the visit.

Report any concerns your children are having at school. Call or write to the principal directly. When you write, request a response.

In the Community

Encourage the school to try to coordinate school events and community events. Try to let them know what is going on outside of school.

Bible study Sunday

Our Savior Lutheran Church is hosting an All-Church Bible Study on Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

The leader for the special Bible study will be Rev. Dr. C.W. Keturakat, affectionately known as "Dr. K." A Lutheran pastor from California, Dr. K. is a popular preacher and Bible study leader.

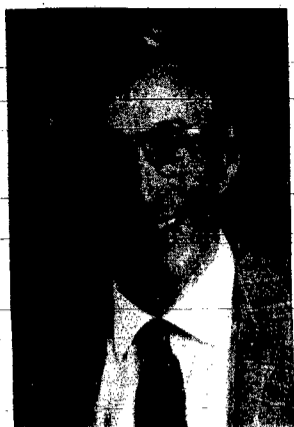

The focus of this study will be our gifts to God. "Our congregation hosted an all-church Bible study in early May that enjoyed a strong attendance and a congregational mandate that we offer such a Bible study again," commented Rev.

Martin Russell, Senior Pastor at Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Russell added, "We look forward to the presence of even more people at this Bible study."

The community is also invited to attend Our Savior's All-Church Bible Study with Dr. K. The study includes fellowship and refreshments and attendees are encouraged to bring their Bibles. Child care is available.

People needing transportation or more information can contact the church office at 375-2899.

Dr. C.W. Keturakat

Wiser-Griesch married April 20

Emily Ann Wiser and Jeff Griesch, both of Lincoln, were married April 20, 1996 at Grace Lutheran Church.

Rev. Jeff Anderson officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Galen and Kathy Wiser and Mark and Carol Griesch, all of Wayne.

Organist Connie Webber provided music. Congregational songs included "When Love Is Found" and "Go My Children."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose ivory, cathedral-length gown of silk shantung. The gown also featured flower appliques.

She carried a bouquet of burgundy and ivory roses with navy accents.

Jessica Wilson of Omaha was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mindy Klein and Marrya Mosier, both of Lincoln and Tammy Buffington of Benkelman.

The women wore tea-length navy blue crepe dresses and carried a single burgundy rose.

Ashley Micek of Columbus was flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Griesch

Eli Moore of Lincoln served as best man. Groomsmen were Brian Lentz of Nashville, Tenn. and Matt Peterson and Damon Wiser, both of Wayne.

Ushers were Joe Lutt, Dusty Jensen, Scott Otte and Brett Otte, all of Wayne.

The men wore black tuxedos with navy blue vests.

A reception was held at the National Guard Armory following the ceremony.

Kim Kruse of Wayne registered guests. Angie Thompson of Wayne and Heidi Hascall of Tea, S.D. arranged guests.

Trip to N.E.braska proves refreshing

My neighbor Ross said after church yesterday that he finally had his beans in, and "what we need now is some heat." I bet that's exactly what we are going to get. I did happen to be traveling last Monday and Tuesday, and they were beautiful days.

You know I like to combine business with pleasure. A couple of months ago, the director of nurses at Niobrara Valley Hospital called to ask if I would consider doing "a day for her nurse aides." I need to tell you that Niobrara Valley Hospital is in Lynch, Neb., almost to the Rosebud Indian Reservation, five hours from Murdock. But I'm a sucker for flattery, and she said I'd been "highly recommended." So I agreed to do it, calculating that it was four hours from here. As usual, I underestimated. Of course, wouldn't you know, on Monday, when I wanted to leave at noon, I had to go to Syracuse, which is in the opposite direction. But I made it to Neligh by 4:30, which was my goal. The director of home health there, Doris Kluthe, took me to a local watering hole for coffee. I was startled to see a sign on the bar that said, "The only mad director: one sign said "Crumple Crump." Then I saw Niobrara Valley Hospital; a new, modern facility just south of the town. I had known it as Sacred Heart, affiliated with the Benedictines of Our Lady of Lourdes and Providence Medical Center. I learned that it had been designated in the top 100 hospitals in the U.S. by an independent company, and staff was understandably proud. They boast two doctors and a physician's assistant. They were wonderful hosts, with good food and a warm, accepting attitude. At 4:00, I drove west on highway 12. There's lots of water on the road sides. And lots of horses. Every farm or ranch has horses. I had supper at the restored Argo Hotel in Crofton, a wonderful meal of "poor man's crab" that was delicious. Even brought a "doggy bag" for the Big Farmer. The hotel is a "Red and Breakfast." Crossed Highway 81, and saw a lot of cattle men would agree. Anyway, I left Neligh at 6:00 and went on to O'Neill, where I had a reservation at the good of Super 8. (Thank you, Paul Shulte.) Then I joined Mary Ann Meierhenry Nissen for dinner and caught up on her news. Talk about a traveler: she's making a second trip to Nigeria this fall to visit her daughter. On Tuesday morning, the last leg was 40 miles north and west, through lush grass and beautiful rolling hills. I knew when I entered Boyd County because of the ant-nuke signs. Gene Crump is the pact

4-H News

PLEASURE AND PROFIT 4-H CLUB

The Pleasure and Profit 4-H Club met at the Allen school lunchroom at 1:30 on June 6. Melissa Wilmes, president, called the meeting to order with the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H Pledge. Roll call was "are you taking a vacation and if so where are you going?" The secretary's report was read and approved. A bill was presented for flowers for the Historic Tree Grove, banner materials and postage.

Darlene Roberts reviewed the dates of upcoming events such as 4-H Camp, Learn-By-Doing Day and the bicycle rodeo. Pre-fair clean-up day is Aug. 2 and post-fair clean-up day is Aug. 8. She also read a letter about Wakefield Heritage Days activities that we could help do. Because of a conflict with the Learn-By-Doing Day, it was decided that if individuals wanted to help, they could do so.

Next monthly meeting will be a potluck supper in the Allen Park on July 11 at 7:30. Members will meet at the school at 6:45 that night to practice for the music contest.

Kami Roberts gave a talk on the materials she is using for her tote bag. Club members then practiced for the music contest, practice for the bike rodeo and finished the 4-H banner.

Greg Rastede, news reporter.

HELPING HANDS 4-H CLUB

The Helping Hands 4-H Club met Friday, May 24 at the Marvin Cherry home. 4-H enrollment sheets were reviewed and members were reminded of approaching deadlines.

The members discussed making a banner or booth for the county fair. Possibilities for club tours were discussed and Becky Flee volunteered to contact the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce. Plans were made for members to attend Ponca Day Camp. Steven Flee gave a presentation on farm safety. Becky Flee gave a presentation on tornados. Becky and Lindy Flee were in charge of recreation.

The next meeting will be June 10 at the Brad Schaller home at 7 p.m. LaVerle McDonald, deputy state fire marshal, will be the guest speaker.

Kyle Cherry, news reporter

BLUE RIBBON WINNERS 4-H CLUB

Members of the Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club met May 22 at the Brad Roberts farm for demonstrations on animal grooming.

Next meeting will be Monday, June 17 at the Winside Park at 7:30 p.m.

Jon Jaeger, news reporter.

CITY SLICKERS AND COUNTRY MIXERS 4-H Club

The City Slickers and Country Mixers 4-H club met June 6 at Kent's Photo Lab.

A tour of the darkroom facilities was given by Sharon Breathing. Members saw how film was developed and printed.

A business meeting was then called to order at the Columbus Federal meeting room by President Sarah Beaman. Roll call was your favorite vacation place in the world. Melissa Jager conducted a candlelight initiation ceremony for the new members, Vashu Bird, Emily Bruflat and Ali Applegate.

A thank you was signed and sent to Kent's Photo Lab for the tour. Committee reports were given by the Friend of 4-H Award Committee and Beaman House Tour Committee.

In old business, members signed up to do a public service announcement for the style revue, county fair or National 4-H Week. Four members signed up to attend the Ponca Day Camp on June 25. Mary Jarvi and Karen Zach will drive.

All members will sign up for the Home Economics Contest to be held on July 20. Members were reminded to register to help during the fair and Contest Day.

In new business, the newsletter was reviewed. The meeting was adjourned and lunch was served by Erin Palu and Nicole Trevett.

The next meeting will be Saturday July 13 at the Columbus Federal Meeting Room, beginning at 12 p.m. Lunch will be served by the Jarvis and Zachs. Members will prepare projects and practice for the Home Economics Contest.

NEREC hosting CRP tour

The Northeast Research and Extension Center (NEREC) will host Conservation-Reserve-Program (CRP) tours on Tuesday, June 18 at the NEREC Headquarters building, located 1 1/2 miles east of Concord.

Tours will focus on returning CRP land to crop production and includes visits to plots that have been released from CRP for one and two-year increments. Presentation topics will include: crop selection and rotation, soil moisture and fertility, and pest, residue, and wildlife management. NEREC specialists and staff will be available to answer questions throughout the tours.

Tour wagons will take participants from the NEREC to the CRP plots at 2:30 p.m., 2:50 p.m. and 3:10 p.m. Each tour will last approximately two hours and is free to the public.

NEREC has applied for Nebraska Certified Crop Advisor Program Continuing Education Unit credits. Credits, if approved, will be given in soil and water management, soil fertility, crop production and integrated pest management.

For more information, contact Melinda McVey McCluskey, Northeast Center CRP Project Coordinator, 402-584-2810.

Tips offered for making hay when the rain falls

Making hay while the sun shines is not always possible. When rain falls, agricultural producers can turn to inoculants and preservatives to reduce hay spoilage.

That's the recommendation of Bruce Anderson, forage specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Anderson explained that hay inoculants contain bacteria and sometimes ingredients like yeast and enzymes which reduce the growth of organisms that cause hay to mold and rot.

Inoculants work best when baling at the highest possible moisture for safe storage without additives, said Anderson.

"Since windrowers have uneven moisture and moisture estimates aren't always perfect, inoculants protect against these small errors and allow producers to bale hay that is 3 to 5 points higher in moisture than would normally store safely," Anderson explained. "However, all inoculants tested have failed frequently when hay moisture was over 25 percent."

The only products which permit consistent, reliable, safe hay baling above 25 percent moisture are organic acids such as propionic acid. These acids are expensive, but work when applied uniformly at correct rates, said Anderson.

However, heat discoloration, unpleasant odor and rapid wear and tear from equipment corrosion are all problems with acid-treated hay, added the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist. Washing and greasing equipment daily can cut down on the corrosion. Buffered acids with less odor and corrosive qualities are also available, Anderson said.

Numbers up at show

The annual Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Agribusiness Council Steer & Heifer Show was held at the Wayne County Fairgrounds Saturday.

A total of 75 area youth participated. The number is up slightly from last year, according to Chamber officials.

Winners in each of the divisions include:

Champion Breeding Heifer-Mileo Nelson, Norfolk, Reserve Champion Breeding Heifer, John Stoltz, Elgin.

Junior Showmanship Champion-Lindsay Sievers, Randolph; Reserve Junior Showmanship Champion-Shane Lofgren, West Point.

Intermediate Showmanship Champion-Dan Stoltz, Elgin; Reserve Intermediate Showmanship Champion-Ananda Reesen, West

4-H Learn-By-Doing Day to be held on June 22

4-H members and other interested youth are invited to participate in a 4-H Learn-By-Doing Project Day on Saturday, June 22 at the Northeast Center in Concord. The workshops are designed for youth to actually make and do as much as possible.

Session choices from 10 to 11 a.m. are "Tying Knits" by Jason Mader, Eagle Scout candidate from Wayne and "Making Jams and Jellies" with Karen Wermers, Extension Educator from Concord. The 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. sessions include "Making Bird Houses" by Rod Patent, Extension Educator from Wayne and Concord, and "Pocket Whimsies" by Megan and Keisha Patent, 4-Hers from Randolph. A sack lunch break is from 12:15 to 1 p.m.

At 1 to 2:15 p.m. is "Introduction to the Internet" by Point.

Senior Showmanship Champion-Vaughn Sievers, Randolph; Reserve Senior Showmanship Champion-Bary Schomberg, Pierce.

The Champion Market Heifer was shown by Lindsay Sievers of Randolph. Reserve Champion Market Heifer was shown by Mileo Nelson of Norfolk.

The Champion Steer was shown by Justin Stoltz of Elgin and the Reserve Champion Steer was shown by Mileo Nelson of Norfolk.

Judge for the event was Kevin Jensen of Cortland, Kan.

The show was co-sponsored by the Chamber, Fenceline Farms (Jack Sievers); Arrow K Farms (Larry Koepke); TWJ Feeds (Bill Claybaugh) and TWJ Farms (Bill Claybaugh).

Brian Mattes, 4-H'er and computer user from Wakefield and "Wheat Weaving" by Karen Wermers, Extension Educator. The last workshops are from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. with "Teen Shopping Smart and the New 4-H Shopping in Style" project by Amy Malchow, 4-H Assistant in Concord and Wayne and "Introduction to the Internet" by Brian Mattes again.

To pre-register and for a program flyer contact the Dixon County Extension Office at 584-2234. Pre-registrations are due June 14. Supplies or a small supply cost may be needed depending on the session. All projects can be taken home. 4-H members will have priority in reserving a participant seat. The event is being sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Northeast Extension Programming Unit.

signs for Hartington, Bow Valley, St. Helena, Monowi (pop. 6) and Obert. Obert is definitely not a cowhorse town, there was a cowboy with two horses on main street!

Finally, I crossed the river and hit I-29 so I could make much better time.

It was after 9:00 when I got to Council Bluffs. Since I'm not a gambler, I had never been to the dog races. Now, there is Harvey's and Ameristar, the two riverboat casinos. There are so many signs and neon lights, you'd swear you were coming in to Las Vegas. But the Eastern Nebraska Area on Aging organization is having to cut hours of operation for senior centers in our area. Where's the logic?

Anyway, I was home by 10:00. It had been a fun 30 hours.

SALEM WOMEN

The women of the ELCA of Salem Lutheran Church met May 23 in the church basement. Shirley Woodward, secretary, presided at the meeting in the absence of president Mae Greve. She opened the meeting with the reading of "A Modern Parable."

The program prepared by Circle IV began with the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers." Emily Gustafson gave devotions and prayer. A video gave information on the life of the new bishop of the ELCA, Dr. George Anderson, the choral traditions of Lutheran College and the work of the church in Haiti. The program concluded with the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," followed by the offering and prayer.

A short business meeting followed. An unfinished baby quilt was on display. It will be sent to the Camp Carol Joy Holling auction this summer. Volunteers are needed to help with the quilting. The Christian Action committee also reported that the Meadors from South Dakota will be coming soon to pick up quilts, clothing and other usable items for use in their ministry to the Indians there.

It was announced that Autumn Renewal will be Oct. 5 at York. Registration is $15 and should be sent in by Sept. 18.

It was decided to meet at 7:30 p.m. for the months of June and July.

Meeting closed with the benediction and table prayer, followed by lunch.

REACHES GOAL

Six years ago, Raymond Paulson began making an annual trip to the Crawford, Neb. area to plant trees. This spring, he reached a goal he had set for himself, to plant 2,000 trees as part of the Fort Robinson Tree Restoration program. The area was destroyed by fire a few years ago.

The terrain is rough, but that didn't bother Raymond. He is 88. To reach the 2,050 mark, he averaged planting 342 trees each spring.
