Zeus, a 3 1/2 year-old, 126-pound Chesapeake is very protective of Goosie, a 7-week old, eight-pound Canada goose. Goosie is a cross between a Western Canadian and a Dusky Canadian. Goosie was not too fond of our photographer as she stuck her tongue out at the camera when it got too close. Robert and Dane, sons of Lee and Barb Ault of Lee's Bait and Taxidermy, don't even need a leash for Goosie, as the Goose follows them where ever they go.

Wakefield patrons to vote on school bond issue Nov. 5

Voters in the Wakefield School District will be voting on a $2.795 million bond issue during the Nov. 5 general election.

The Board of Education recently passed a resolution which will put the bond issue on the ballot.

The Facility Needs Committee presented the board with a proposal which reflects a $595,000 reduction from last fall's proposal.

The new plan proposes renovating the mini-gym rather than demolishing it. The area will be used for a combined high school library/media center/computer room. Several class rooms will be relocated and an elementary library/media center and computer lab will be added.

An auxiliary gym will be added to accommodate physical education classes and athletic practices, as well as adult sports activities.

A girls team room will be added and there will be moving and refiguring of some areas of the school, according to Jeanne Surface, Principal of Wakefield Community Schools.

"The biggest benefit of the proposed building project would be the fact that school would be more accessible to the public," Surface said.

"The school could be seen as a significant community resource and with the centrally located administrative offices, library and auxiliary gym, the building would be accessible to meet the needs of the public, from walking to use of the library or computer lab to playing volleyball."

She added that enrollment in the Wakefield School District has risen from 398 students two years ago to 434 students this fall.

"The proposal would provide us with a clearer entrance to the building and make administrative offices more accessible," Surface said.

The project would result in a tax increase of 14 cents per $100 valuation for Wakefield District patrons and a nine cent increase for those property owners in affiliated districts.

"I feel very positive that the bond will pass. We are a growing district and patrons are aware of our needs," Surface said.

Longtime WSC employee is recognized for service

Angie Ellis, has been presented with the "Dean's Award" in the Education Division at Wayne State College. The honor is presented only to those "who make the most outstanding contribution to the education division at Wayne State," said Dr. Diane Alexander, division head.

Dr. Alexander cited the 24-year Education Division employee "For outstanding efforts to coordinate certification which maximized the efficiency of the division and college."

During the last year Mrs. Ellis has revamped the certification office which handles more than 600 teacher certification applications and renews each year. She combined the efforts of four other people into a new one-person certification office on campus, explained Dr. Alexander.

"She is responsible for interpretation of the rules for teacher certification in addition to keeping up with the legislative changes in certification—a chore in itself," said the division head.

Dr. Alexander praised Mrs. Ellis, who moved from her position as division secretary a year ago to take over the certification office. "She moved from one fire to another," quipped Dr. Alexander, who added Mrs. Ellis' accurate record keeping and consistent interpretation of the rules are two of the reasons the Wayne State certification office is

Manager featured in national magazine

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Citing the fact that "little deeds of kindness, little works of love, help to make the earth happy like the heaven above," Jacque Kinnett, owner/manager of the Wayne Dairy Queen, was featured in an "Acts of Kindness" article.

The article was published in a recent "World of DQ" magazine.

In the article, Kinnett was recognized for her support of education and children in the Wayne community.

"The whole thing started with an article that was in the Wayne Herald two years ago. My field representative, Kristen Panowicz, saw the article and encouraged the DQ magazine to do a story on me," Mrs. Kinnett said.

Jacque was an "Unsung Hero," nominated for her "unselfishness and willingness to improve the community through family and youth activities."

THE NEWSPAPER article was then sent to the magazine who contacted Kinnett for more details about her involvement with children in the Wayne community.

Academic involvement, according to Kinnett, is one of her responsibilities as a business owner.

"Wayne is a small community so we are like one big family. Being supportive and helping to keep the community close is just part of my job," she said.

"School is hard and I want to do what I can to make it fun. Providing these treats is the incentive some children need," she added.

KINNETT OFFERS students ice cream treats for meeting yearly reading goals, donates rootbeer floats for a Middle School fundraiser and provides St. Mary's School students with treats during Catholic Schools Week.

For her efforts, she has received the "Wayne Public School Friend to Education" award.

In addition to school-related involvement, Kinnett also annually sponsors the end of the school-year carnival in the DQ parking lot. Proceeds from the event go to St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa as part of the Children's Miracle Network.

She provides free cone certificates to healthcare professionals to distribute to young patients.

TEACHERS ALSO enjoy Jacque's generosity. She delivers Dairy Queen frozen cakes to them during Teachers' Appreciation Week.

Kinnett considers herself the lucky one. Her Dairy Queen staff looked on with high regard.

She said the new certification office under Mrs. Ellis' leadership has increased efficiency and provides better service to students, faculty and alumni alike. Mrs. Ellis also serves as secretary to the dean under her new role.

Mrs. Ellis said she has enjoyed each of her nearly 25 years at the college and added that the change from division secretary to certification officer was stressful at first, but as she worked through the changes it became easier.

She and her husband, Fred, have four married children, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Death penalty is carried out

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

For only the second time in 37 years, Nebraska carried out the death penalty last week.

By all accounts, it isn't getting any easier.

A carnival-like atmosphere returned to the State Penitentiary parking lot as the clock counted down on the execution of confessed child-killer John Joubert.

Whether you disagree or agree with the death penalty, you've got to wonder what gets into the people who feel compelled to run down to the pen and scream like banshees at the building where the death penalty is carried out.

The State Patrol was more prepared for the circus this time. They cordoned off portions of the parking lot for the pro- and anti-death penalty crowds with snow fence, and provided a wider separation between the two.

Plus, the crowds weren't allowed on the ground until 10 p.m. or so, a couple of hours before the scheduled execution.

But predictions that the crowd might be more subdued didn't quite hold up.

Death-penalty supporters chanted, "Jolt him! Jolt him!" as the minutes counted down. "This is our week! Kill the freak!" were also shouted, and an Irish woman who had befriended Joubert through letters was taunted as she left the prison after the execution.

The entire spectacle was captured in the bright lights of the state's major television stations, who were broadcasting live at the scene.

Joubert brutally killed two Sarpy County boys in 1983 after snatching them from quiet suburban Omaha streets. He was also convicted of killing another boy in his hometown in Maine, and admitted that he still fought back fantasies of hurting young boys.

If anyone ever deserved the death penalty, this was probably the guy.

Even the inmates at the prison thought that. Reportedly, they harassed Joubert prior to the execution, making sounds like those electric mosquito traps when he passed by.

Prison officials — who are the most somber and nervous group of people at the penitentiary on execution night — moved Joubert from death row earlier than normal because of the harassment.

Sure, the death penalty is an emotional issue, but does Joubert's unspeakable crimes justify the public relish that a few people took at his execution?

Gov. Nelson, one of the members of the Pardons Board that turned down Joubert's last-minute plea for clemency, told the Associated Press' J.L. Schmidt that he took no pleasure in seeing a man executed in Nebraska.

But, the governor added, "It's what the law requires. We are a nation of laws." Nelson said, "At times it's difficult to see the law carried out, but when you tie it together with the crime committed and the reign of terror, you have to conclude it is just."

That didn't sound like election-year posturing to me (Nelson is running for U.S. Senate), but the sincere thoughts of a man who made a very serious decision about whether a confessed killer lived or died.

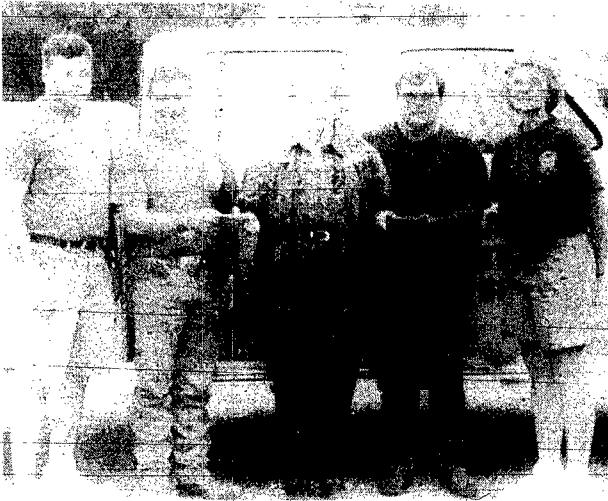

It also sounded like the kind of attitude we wish we'd see more of when we tune in execution-night coverage on our TV sets.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Large load

One of the three generators purchased by the City of Wayne Power Plant made its way down Main Street last week toward its new home in the Power Plant. The generators were purchased from the Shoreham Nuclear Power Plant in Long Island, N.Y. and came to Nebraska by barge and railroad to Laurel where they were loaded on a truck and driven into Wayne. Two of the three generators will be put to use in the power plant and the third is being marketed for sale. The generators should be in operation by February of 1997. Total cost of the three generators was $2.4 million plus sales tax.

Memorial gift

Ruth Paulsen, center, and her family, donated money to the Winside and Carroll Fire Departments in memory of her husband, John, who recently passed away. John was a member of the Carroll Fire Department from the late 1940's through the 1960's, serving as fire chief for several years. Accepting the donation are, left to right, Russell Longnecker and VerNeal Marotz of the Winside Fire Department and Rick Davis and Sandra Atkins of the Carroll Fire Department.

Some discussion and assembly is required

Dad's duty.

It is every parents duty to build one swing set in their lifetime. It is also a good test of how strong their marriage vows are also. Well mine were stretched to the limit last week. Pam, my wife, talked me into a swing set she saw. Of course, it had to be put together.

A total of 536 pieces were needed to assemble this contraption. It was a nightmare. After six hours of "discussions" and assembly, the final piece was placed on the swing set.

Even my neighbor had a good laugh at my expense. But in the end it was worth it. Both kids love it and I'm glad it's done.

So if you ever see my house for sale in the paper, just remember, there will be a nice swing set that goes along with the sale of the house.

It was fun!

My wife Pam and I have survived our first chicken show two weeks ago. Our children, Sara and

Jimmy Jo's Jams

By James Shanks

Michael, were totally amazed at how far a chicken could fly. So was I.

Michael, my youngest, could not get over how that rooster could make that crowing sound. Sara loved the omelettes, so did her dad. Pam liked it because she didn't have to cook and she got a chance to look at the craft exhibits and I got to chase the kids around the park.

The show just had something for everyone.

Signing at Third and Pearl

Traffic at Third and Pearl appears to be moving more efficiently than when the overhead traffic light was operating.

Is there need to install two additional stop signs, making the intersection a four-way stop? Council plans to address that question at its next meeting.

Pearl Street serves a major northern portion of the city as a direct artery from Seventh Street south to the Post Office. That traffic does not currently stop moving efficiently at 25 mph. Motorists approaching Third and Pearl from the east and west do stop, and if turning right, proceed with little hesitation.

With the current two-way stop, only those vehicles crossing Pearl may have to wait.

So, would a four-way stop significantly increase that efficiency? Would drivers stopped at all four corners use the traditional rotational pattern of advancing after stopping? How would a youthful pedestrian know which car was going to move next?

Many city intersections have no stop signs at all, and appear to function adequately for both pedestrians and motorists. This seems to indicate cautious drivers and pedestrians utilize most intersections by using good common judgment.

Council will not please everyone regardless of which way it decides to control traffic at Third and Pearl. A decision will be made knowing common sense is more important than traffic control devices.

Drivers and pedestrians feeling they can't negotiate Third and Pearl with the more simple two-stop-sign arrangement, or that it is dangerous, certainly should share their opinions when Council meets July 30th.

Regardless of Council's final decision, be it two stop signs or four, traffic flow at the corner will be enhanced.

Now, if we could just get drivers to quit making U-turns in front of the Post Office, a genuine hazard.

Adding up the endangered species!

Despite countless creatures being listed as endangered species, we have simultaneously neglected others that appear nearing extinction.

In 1996 many folk appear to suffer from "non-rock-a-boats", while concurrently witnessing a rebirth of moral amnesia. We just can't remember how we ought to act.

We respect para-medics, para-legals, and assorted other "para's", but being para-pathetic is downright un-American ugly.

Media types relish mentioning "radical right" while we never hear "radical left". Are journalists so bent to the left they have difficulty recognizing liberals? Or maybe the radical lefties should be added to the endangered species list?

Established bearers of truth must be added immediately to the endangered species list! Any new memorial being considered in Washington D.C. could be dedicated to those using the forked tongue creating Smoke and Mirrors. Now you see it, now you don't.

Public servants subpoenaed before a congressional hearing seem to suffer from "I don't remember-itus", moral amnesia, preferring to display an attitude of being para-pathetic. Individuals who are fully pathetic are those who prize party over principle.

Candidates often blurt a constellation of blabber-tudes, expecting voters to ignore their tendency to cash in on any tragedy, catastrophe, fiasco, devastation or disaster, using those situations for photo opportunities, attempting to convince the public that "I feel your pain, far more than the other candidate!". Seeing all this, we well remember that Washington is a place where they stab you in your front.

Merlin Wright

Integrity, character, professionalism, maturity, and respect for others are historical virtues disappearing at a seemingly unheralded pace, thus qualifying for placement on the endangered list.

In days gone by when a person invented their own reality, they were diagnosed and given psychiatric care. Today "inventing one's own reality" is a blueprint for deodorizing the stench of lying. Add one more component to the endangered species list...honesty! Wouldn't it be a pleasant shock to see combatants in the political arena erupt in a display of statesmanship! Could our psyche survive candidates actually, intelligently and without bias, discussing issues pertinent to the needs of state and nation!

The endangered species list is flourishing! Why are we willing to abandon intellectual honesty and substitute party power?

The Bible quotes Pilate as asking "What is truth?"

Would he find an answer at the forthcoming Democrat/Republican conventions?

Truth? Speaking of an endangered species!
It approaches extinction.

Wakefield tops 40-win mark with 16-1 win over Oakland

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

Wakefield surpassed the 40-win mark and advanced to the finals of the Area 3 tournament at Pender on Tuesday with a 16-1 rout of Oakland. Justin Dutcher tossed a four-hitter and struck out a dozen for the winners. Wakefield pounded out 15 hits offensively. Michael Blohm belted two doubles and a single, drove in two runs and scored two more. Dutcher had three singles, drove in three runs and scored two. Travis Birkley added a single, double and two RBI, while Justin Mackling had two singles and scored three times.

Wakefield advanced to face Oakland with a 3-2 eight-inning win over Dodge/Howells. Birkley tossed a complete-game seven-hitter, while striking out 12. Dutcher and Jason Hegge each had a pair of singles, while Mackling also added a single. With one out and the score tied in the eighth, Dutcher singled and then stole second. Hegge then drove him in with a single to win the game.

In the tourney opener last Friday, Wakefield topped Laurel 7-2. Justin Hegge hurled a five-hitter with seven strikeouts to pick up the victory. Cory Coble and Josh Snyder had two hits a piece for Wakefield, while Mike Hassler, Wes Blecke, Birkley and Jason Hegge also collected hits. Ryan Kvols took the loss for Laurel. Kody Urwiler led Laurel with two hits.

Wakefield's midgets won their opener in the Area 3 tourney with an 11-6 win over Fort Calhoun. Josh Templeman was the winning pitcher and also paced the offense with two hits and two RBI.

LL/Pony teams wrap up seasons

The Wayne Little League and Pony baseball teams got a chance to play under the lights at Hank Overin Field on Tuesday. In the Little League game, the Whites defeated the Blues 10-6. Wayne 14-under places 5th at State Wayne's 14-under softball team finished fifth in the State Class 'B' Tournament held in Wayne over the weekend. Wayne opened action Friday evening with a 17-2 win over the York Golden Eagles. Wayne blew the game open in the bottom of the first, scoring 15 runs on six hits led by Tonya Schwanke's three-run double. Wayne needed to send only three batters to the plate in the third to get the 15 run lead and the win.

On Saturday morning Wayne pounded out 15 hits and defeated the North Platte Bombers 14-2 in five innings. Beth Sperry and Jennifer Schaffer both homered, while Mandy Hansen had two doubles and a single. Everyone reached base safely — Elizabeth Campbell, Brittney Frevert, Kristin Hochstein, Amy Magnuson and Schwanke with singles and Sara Ellis with a base on balls.

Saturday night, Wayne continued its aggressive hitting against McCook Sport Shop, downing them 16-8 in five innings. Wayne took a 2-1 lead after the first inning on hits by Hansen, Campbell, Sperry and Hochstein. Both teams went three-and-out in the second before Wayne scored two in the top of the third on Schaffer's lead-off double, Sperry's walk and Ellis' two-run single. McCook, however, came back in the bottom of the third to score four runs on four hits and an error to take a 5-4 lead. Frevert opened the fourth with a double, while Hansen, Campbell and Sperry each singled, and Schaffer, Hochstein, Ellis and Schwanke all reached base on walks. Wayne scored four times to take an 8-5 lead, but left the bases loaded to end the inning. McCook came right back in the bottom of the fourth to score three runs on three hits and an error. Wayne put the game away in the fifth, scoring eight times on five hits and six walks. Ellis and Frevert each belted doubles in the inning. Wayne shut the door defensively in the bottom of the fifth with a groundout, strikeout, and a fly to center to end the inning.

Wayne lost its first game of the tournament on Sunday morning in the semifinal game of the winners bracket to the McCook Springers 17-1 in three innings. Wayne trailed 1-0 after one inning before surrendering three runs in the top of the second on one hit and three errors. Wayne fell apart defensively in the top of the third, allowing 13 runs on eight errors. Wayne's only run came in the bottom of the third when Magnuson scored on hits by Hansen and Campbell.

Wayne lost its second game of the day 10-2 to D'Milaco of Kearney. Wayne led 2-0 until Kearney scored five runs in the bottom of the third to take the lead. Wayne could manage only four hits, led by Ellis' double in the sixth.

Wayne finished the season with a record of 21-10.

"The girls played a great tournament," said Coach Dale Hochstein. "They really used the experience they gained through the season to their advantage. As coaches we were really pleased to see the team hit the ball well early in the tournament and be so aggressive on the bases. They faced some excellent pitching throughout the tournament, which they had not seen throughout the year, and responded very well. We seemed to lose just a little of our sharpness on Sunday and when our offense dropped off a little, we let our defense do the same."

"The great thing is our numbers. With the 16-under team having a good year and half of the 14-under team moving up, they should be tough again next year. With the experience the rest of the 14-unders received having two teams, and the beginning of a 12-under team, we should be very competitive at that level as well next season."

The Valley Majestics took the State title, going 6-0 over the tournament. Valley defeated the McCook Springers 11-3 in the championship game. McCook advanced to the title game with a 16-6 win over the Geneva Jazz in the loser's bracket finals.

Aug. 4 is Neihardt Day in Nebraska

Sunday, Aug. 4 is Neihardt Day in Nebraska. This year the John G. Neihardt Center in Bancroft will celebrate the Poet Laureate's lesser known work as a teacher. It was 100 years ago that Neihardt received his teaching certificate from what was then called Nebraska Normal College in Wayne. In 1896 Neihardt taught an advanced Cicero course at the college, and in 1898 he began teaching in a country school near Wayne.

At Neihardt Day, his grandson, Robin Neihardt, will read his grandfather's recollections of that memorable experience. The poet's daughter, Hilda Neihardt, will read several poems which her father wrote with young people in mind.

The main feature of the program will begin at 2 p.m.

Also on Neihardt Day, the Nebraska State Historical Society exhibit, "Pastimes and Playthings," will be on display. This is an on-hands exhibit of toys and games of young people from the 19th century — before computer games and MTV! Children (of body or mind) will have a chance to try out these bygone forms of fun and entertainment. The exhibit will open at 10 a.m.

Staff and volunteers of the Neihardt Center will also reenact the schoolroom of a country school from those days. From 10 to 11 a.m. there will be a country school activities, crafts and an oldtime spelling bee; from 11 to 11:30, someone will share country school anecdotes; from 11:30 to noon, someone will tell of Neihardt as teacher and about Bancroft history; from noon to 12:30 p.m., there will be pioneer storytelling; from 12:30 to 1:15, there will be a time for more school activities, crafts and another spelling bee; and from 1:15 to 1:45, will be a time for songs and music.

As added fare, artist Myron Heise will give his slide presentation "Night Visions" and will have works of art on display from Aug. 3-8. Maxine Kessinger will give a tour of the famous Sacred Hoop Prayer Garden. A lunch will be catered and available from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For information, contact John Schneider, director, by phone at the Neihardt Center at 402-648-3388, or write to the John G. Neihardt Center, P.O. Box 344, Bancroft, NE 68004.

A slide presentation was followed with a demonstration of the various items that could be recycled. Nadene also brought with her items developed from the various recycled products.

Two of the goals of the AmeriCorps/Team USDA program in Nebraska is to assist communities in developing or improving recycling programs in their area and information and education regarding recycling in relation to the solid waste management.

AmeriCorps is a bi-partisan national service initiative. It provided opportunity for Americans of all ages and backgrounds to serve their country in organized efforts, fostering citizen responsibility and building their community needs. The AmeriCorps Team USDA members are a rural development and professional team, with recycling the focus of this group.

NAMED LEADER

Rob Bock has been named an outstanding community leader in the American Hometown Leaders Award program sponsored by the national Association of Towns and Townships (NATaT) and Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. In recognition of his community leadership, the village has been awarded $5,000 for economic/community development. The American Hometown Leadership Award program recognizes elected officials who have provided exemplary leadership in their community. As a national association representing interests of small local governments, NATaT has long believed that the accomplishments of the nation's smallest community leaders have not been given the recognition they deserve so the award program was established. In this third year of the program, the organization has recognized 256 community leaders in the nation. A local Wal-Mart representative will award the check in September.

SECTION B

Couple are married in double ring ceremony

Kimberly Ann Kruse and Michael Arnold Verzani were married June 8 at the Cathedral of Epiphany in Sioux City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Verzani

Parents of the couple are Ann Kruse and the late David Kruse of Wayne and Joseph and Jean Verzani of Sioux City, Iowa.

Father Randy Guerdet officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Wedding music included "He Has Chosen You For Me" and "The Wedding Song" sung by Rocco Schulz, a friend of the bride.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her mother. For her wedding day she chose a gown in white satin and lace. It featured a sweetheart neckline and short coronet sleeves. The entire bodice and sleeves were adorned with heavily beaded schiffli lace. The full skirt flowed from the basque waistline and was trimmed with scalloped lace.

The semi-cathedral train, also trimmed in lace, featured a series of lace motif cut-outs. A large satin bow at the back waistline finished the ensemble.

She wore a diamond necklace and gold earrings and carried a cascade of white calla lilies.

Maid of Honor was Jennifer Hamer of Wayne. Bridesmaids were Liz Reeg of Irving, Texas, Susie Enz of Wayne and Jennifer Morris of Sioux City. The women wore burgundy crepe floorlength sheath dresses with halter necklines accented with white applied lace.

Patrice Morris, niece of the groom, was flower girl. Ringbearers were Marcus Morris and Kane Martin, nephews of the groom.

Brian Clausen of Sioux City was best man. Groomsmen were Matt Verzani and Jerry Croxen, both of Sioux City and Gabe Toft of Wayne.

The men wore black tail tuxedos with burgundy and black vests.

Ushers were Jason Verzani and Travis Binder of Sioux City and Tim Decker of Ponca.

Personal attendants were Teresa Witkowski and Tamara Gablenz of Wayne and Mistan Moser of Columbus.

Lighting candles were Ross and Brett Kruse of Blair.

A dinner and danced followed the ceremony at Riverside Park.

Host couples were Dee and Vern Schulz of Wayne and Fran and Marci Moran of Sioux Falls, S.D.

Cutting and serving cake were Donna Mallette of Wayne and Linda Swanson of Royal, Iowa.

The bride is a 1993 graduate of Wayne High School. She attended Wayne State College for three years and is currently working for the United States Postal Service Training Center in the accounting division.

The groom is a 1991 graduate of Heelan High School in Sioux City. He attends WSC and is currently doing an internship. He will graduate in December.

The newlyweds are at home in Norman, Okla.

Ideal environment not devoid of problems

QUESTION: It's distressing to see my son suffering from low self-esteem. He is in junior high now, and I know he's going through a tough time. Can you assure me that he'll come out of this difficult phase?

A: Despite all that I have written about the heartache of low self-esteem, there is a positive side of the matter that will encourage you. Remember that the human personality grows through mild adversity, provided it is not crushed in the process.

Contrary to what you might believe, the ideal environment for your child is not one devoid of problems and trials. I would not, even if I could, sweep aside every hurdle from the paths of my children, leaving them to glide along in mirth. They deserve the right to face problems and profit from the confrontation.

I have verified the value of minor stress from my own experience. My childhood was remarkably happy and carefree. I was loved beyond any doubt, and my academic performance was never a cause for discomfort. In fact, I have enjoyed happiness and fulfillment thus far my entire lifetime — with the exception of two painful years. Those stressful years occurred during my seventh- and eighth-grade days, lasting through ages 13-14.

During this period of time, I found myself in a social crossfire, giving rise to the intense feelings of inferiority and self-doubt. As strange as it seems, however, those two years have contributed more positive features to my adult personality.

My empathy for others, my desire to succeed in life, my motivation in graduate school, my understanding of inferiority, and my communication with teenagers are primarily the products of an agitated adolescence. Who would have thought anything useful could have come from those 24 months? Yet the discomfort proved to be a valuable instructor.

Though it is hard to accept at the time, your child also needs the minor setbacks and disappointments that come his way. How can he learn to cope with problems and frustration if his early experiences are totally without trial? A tree that is planted in a rain forest is never forced to extend its roots downward in search of water; consequently it remains poorly anchored and can be toppled by a moderate wind storm.

But a mesquite tree planted in a dry desert is threatened by its hostile environment. It can only survive by sending its roots more than 30 feet deep into the earth, seeking cool water. Through its adaptation to the arid land, something else happens. The well rooted tree becomes strong and steady against all assailants.

This illustration applies to our children, as well; those who have learned to conquer their problems are more secure than those who have never faced them. Our task as parents, then, is not to eliminate every challenge for our children; it is to serve as a confident ally on their behalf and encourage them when they are distressed.

Q: As a psychologist, would you explain what the conscience is and how it works in the mind?

A: That question—"What is the conscience?"—was asked among children ages 5 through 9 by a newspaper a few years ago. One 6-year-old girl said a conscience is the spot inside that "burns if you're not good." A 6-year-old boy replied that he didn't know, but thought it had something to do with feeling bad when you "kicked girls or little dogs."

Adults have also found the conscience difficult to define. Technically speaking, the conscience is a God-given mental faculty that permits us to recognize the difference between right and wrong. And guilt is the uncomfortable feeling that occurs when we violate this inner code of ethics. In other words, guilt is a message of disapproval from the conscience that says, in effect, "You should be ashamed of yourself!"

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Several community businesses and the Wayne County 4-H program are combining efforts to sponsor a community fashion show on Wednesday, July 31 at 7 p.m. at Riley's Convention Center in Wayne.

The show is designed to benefit the 4-H Youth by giving them an opportunity to experience planning, public speaking, modeling and showing off new sewing projects. The program will begin at 7 p.m. and usually lasts 45 minutes. Refreshments are provided by the 4-H families and are served after the program. The event is not a fundraiser, however, donations will be accepted at the door to help the 4-H Council defray the expenses of the show.

Bad Breath: Causes & Cures

Some people think that bad breath (the medical term is halitosis) is always caused by poor oral hygiene. However, bad breath can result from health problems requiring diagnosis and treatment.

Pathological causes of bad breath include (1) conditions of the mouth such as gum disease, (2) gastrointestinal disorders such as esophageal reflux disease (3) nasal problems such as chronic sinusitis, (4) liver and gallbladder disease, (5) and fever.

The best treatment for bad breath related to pathological conditions is to correct or eliminate the underlying problem. Prevention of bad breath related to nonpathological conditions (e.g. food trapped between the teeth) includes daily brushing and flossing, eating more fruits and vegetables, avoiding tobacco products, avoiding foods that cause a bad odor (onions & garlic), and seeing the dentist twice a year to have the teeth cleaned.

Soybean Board holds elections

The Nebraska Soybean Board (NSB) elected officers, the at-large director and announced districts eligible for election in 1997 at its regular business meeting held July 17 in Lincoln.

Elected officers of NSB for FY97 were Gordon Ohnoutka, Valparaiso, chairman; Norm Husa, Barneston, vice-chairman; Richard Prascher, Kearney, secretary; and Greg Anderson, Newman Grove, treasurer.

Anderson was elected to a second three-year term as the at-large director on the board. The at-large position is elected by other seated directors on the board.

In addition, NSB announced the Districts eligible for director election in April, 1997. They include District #1, which includes the counties of Antelope, Boone, Cedar, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton and Wayne. Election dates will be announced. Eligible candidates must be a resident of Nebraska, at least 21 and have been a soybean producer in Nebraska for at least the past five years.

The Nebraska Soybean Board administers the state's share of the one-half of one percent national checkoff of soybeans marketed in Nebraska. The funds are invested in research, marketing and promotion projects.

Zimmer attends appraisers meeting

Jerry Zimmer, farm manager/appraiser of Farmers National Co., recently attended the annual summer meeting of the Nebraska

Chapter of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers (ASFMR) held in Beatrice.

Topics of the meeting included issues affecting the Agriculture Economy; Water, Taxes and More; Nebraska Land Values and Rental Rates.

In addition to business meetings and agricultural issues seminars, tourists of the Beatrice area and the Southeast Community college campus were taken by the members in attendance.

The ASFRA, founded in 1929, is the nation's pioneer organization in rural property issues and education. Its mission is to represent professionals in financial analysis, valuation and management of agricultural and rural resources.

Tourism is a big deal in Nebraska

We enjoyed the week of cool weather, but I think it made the past week that much harder to take. We finally got a good rain on Friday, and it cooled off again. The lawn had started to look brown. Corn around here has tasseled.

Tourism is at its peak. One of our guests from Colorado last week commented that he found it difficult to believe that tourism was viable in our state. I had to give him a little lecture.

Anyway, both state parks nearby are bursting at the seams these days. And when they are full, they give callers our number.

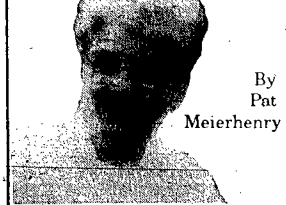

Tonight, we will host such a group: a family from Atlanta who called Mahoney, then Platte River, then us. They have rented out their entire house for the three weeks of the Olympics.

Reservations for the parks cannot be made until 8 a.m. of the day one year ahead of the day you need them. Families and groups planning reunions and needing many rooms must designate one representative to get their early on that day, get in line, and put down a deposit.

We recently had a couple here who wanted cabin #40 on a weekend next June. The wife awakened about 3 a.m., dressed and drove over to the lodge. She settled down in the little alcove next to the desk to wait for the official hour.

Shortly, a second lady came. They discovered she needed several cabins, and #40 was one of them. Obviously, she wasn't going to get it; so would have to try to get more of the other ones.

Eventually, a third contender arrived. Guess what, she wanted cabin #40! When she discovered it was already spoken for, she sat down in a huff. And then, a fourth hopeful showed up.

There they all sat and stared at each other. Finally, one commented they had enough for bridge; and someone had a deck of cards in her purse.

During the game, #3 suddenly realized there was absolutely no reason to stay. The others talked her into staying and playing. As the early hours went by, they enjoyed their game and shared their stories.

Each had a husband still asleep somewhere; two were making reservations for their spouse's families. At this point, the gal at the desk told them, "And that's the way it always is."

I'm not even going to comment about this. Draw your own conclusions.

Wins with horses

Matt Christensen, 18, pictured with his 9-year-old Palomino Leo, received several championships at the 1996 Fonner Park State 4-H Horse Exposition in Grand Island July 17 and 18. He won the advanced western pleasure champion with his 9-year-old Palomino gelding, advanced western horsemanship reserve champion with his 9-year-old Quarter Horse gelding and senior reining reserve champion with his 5-year-old Quarter Horse gelding. He is the son of Dennis and Lisa Christensen of Laurel.
