

Board votes to purchase modules for Middle School

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

By the end of October students in the Wayne Middle School should be attending classes in 10 modular units. Until that time, school will begin on schedule in the present Middle School building.

The Wayne Board of Education made the decision to purchase the units rather than spend money in the current Middle School.

The board has been monitoring the air quality for a number of months and has listened to the concerns of a number of teachers and parents of students who have developed health problems after spending time in the building.

In a special meeting which was attended by a large number of teachers and parents, the board heard from Johnny Smallwood from the Department of Labor on the results of tests he has run.

Smallwood reported that results of samples taken from the walls of the Middle Schools showed confluent growth of mold on these surfaces. The tests for airborne particles showed a low incidence of these molds in the air.

Smallwood also told the board that there are no set standards to determine what is "normal" in regard to the number of particles in the air because each individual is affected differently.

He also added that he felt the test results would be higher when students are in the building and recommended additional tests be done, including those for carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide and radon.

In addition, Smallwood recommended ventilation of the building, stating "the building at the present time is ideal for mold growth."

Following Smallwood's presentation, Dr. Dennis Jensen, Superintendent of Wayne Public Schools gave the board the administration's recommendations.

The three recommendations included, using the Middle School building for the 1996-97 school year; using the building until modular units can be put in place or a four-week delay of the start of the school year until a ventilation system can be installed.

Board President Phyllis Spethman said she felt it was unwise to "spend this much money on a building without addressing any of the curriculum needs."

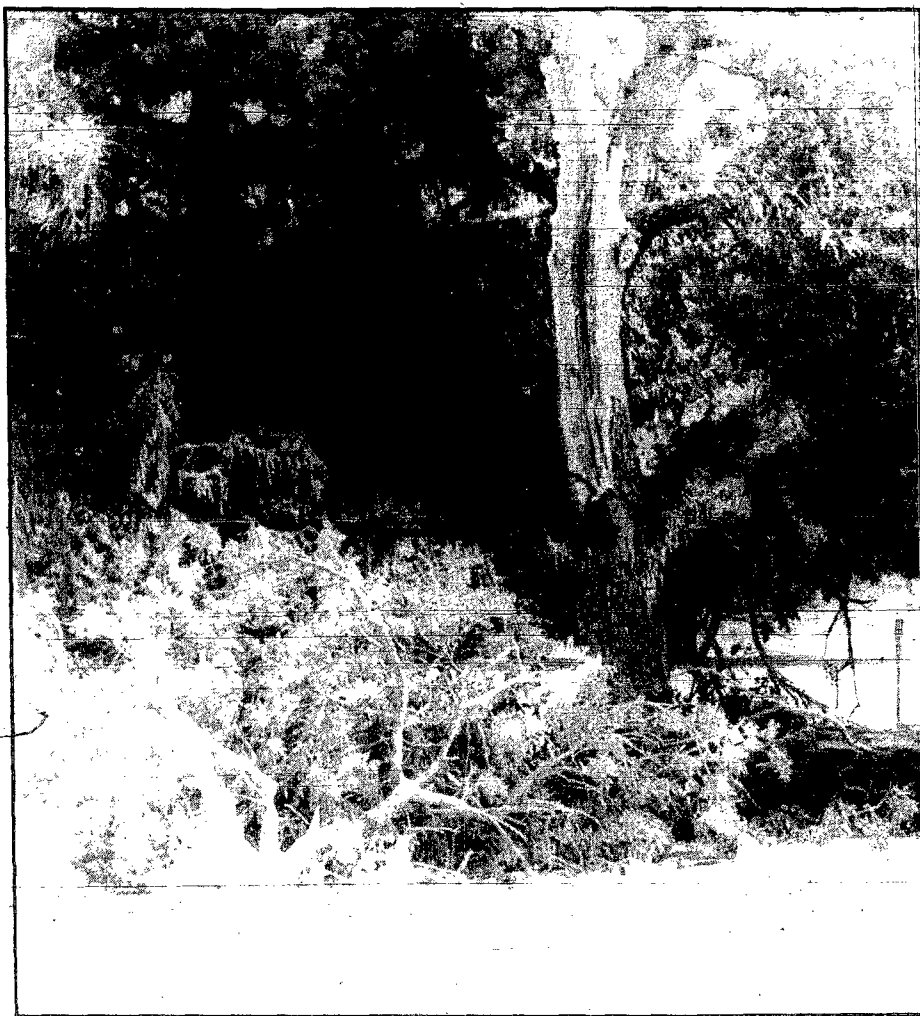

Cost estimates for installing the ventilation system ranged from $6-700,000. In addition, a number of the rooms would have to be replastered at an estimated cost of $20,000.

Board member Will Davis said he was in favor of the modular units as a temporary solution "until the community decides what should be done."

According to cost estimates the modular units will cost $60-62,000 each and should be ready to occupy by Oct. 24.

The units will be paid for through a lease-purchase arrangement with sinking funds as a source of revenue.

Companies have been hired to remove the bats and bat dung from the Middle School before the start of school and the walls will be washed down with a bleach solution. Fans will be placed in rooms to help with ventilation.

Ouch!

A large tree in the northeast corner of Greenwood Cemetery was struck by lightning at approximately 9:30 a.m. Sunday morning. The bolt of lightning travelled down the tree and along a fence, splintering a number of fence posts. No damage was done to the surrounding homes, however, a fuse was blown in one home and the lawn sprinkler system came on at another home. Tree limbs were down in parts of the city, but the Wayne area escaped the heavy rains that caused damage to other parts of the state.

Board approves projects

In a relatively short agenda, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners approved the addition of five projects into the current one-year road plan and listen to a number of possible options for financing courthouse improvements.

Sidney Saunders, Highway Superintendent requested that culverts be removed and replaced at five locations in the county. These include three miles south and 5.6 miles west of Wayne, one mile east and 3/4 mile south of Carroll, one mile south and 5.6 miles west of Wayne, two miles north and 4 1/4 miles east of Wayne and 1 3/4 miles south of Winside.

With the exception of the first project, each of these projects will be able to be completed for less than $2,500 each.

The board also awarded a bid to Midwest Service and Sales for $30,321.72 for culverts for four projects the county will complete this year, including the project three miles south and 5.6 miles west of Wayne.

The board listened to Jack Vavra, a representative of FBS Investment Services, Inc. who listed options available to the county to finance courthouse improvements.

The board has been looking at remodeling the courthouse to make it handicapped accessible or building an annex to the courthouse for those offices that are currently on the third floor.

Either of these projects could be financed with voted general obligation bonds, county limited tax bonds or a lease-purchase agreement.

The board made no decision on the remodeling/building project.

Phone company announces rate increase

US West Communications announced that it will increase the price for base residential telephone service for its Nebraska customers beginning Dec. 16, 1996.

Joanne Harrell, US West Communications Nebraska vice-president, says the increase is the first of its kind in more than a decade and will help pay for the infrastructure investment US West Communications has made in this state and to address pricing changes necessitated by new federal legislation.

The changes include an increase of $1.45 a month for customers who subscribe to basic flat rate residential service;

An increase of $1 per month for the company's three-hour measured service package which includes three hours of outgoing local calls;

An increase of $1.20 per month for the six-hour measured service package, which includes six hours of outgoing local calls.

Ms. Harrell emphasized that the price for the company's one-hour measured service package will not change. That plan includes 60 minutes of outgoing local call per month.

"Even with these changes, basic telephone service continues to be an excellent value," Ms. Harrell said.

"This is the first increase in more than 10 years. That's fairly remarkable, by any business standard. Especially when you consider that during that same time frame, the Consumer Price Index has risen more than 39 percent. Over that same period, US West invested more than $1.2 billion to provide our Nebraska customers with new and improved communications services."

"These increases will enable us to continue to provide our customers with a state-of-the-art communications network across Nebraska," added Ms. Harrell. "We are proud that our network is considered a strong backbone for attracting new businesses and industries to our Nebraska communities, as well as new jobs for our states citizenry. In short, it provides a competitive advantage for all Nebraskans, whether they live in a large metro area or in our rural areas. We want that to continue, and on several different fronts. We're on the frontier of a new era in communications and we want to be able to bring the benefits of these changes to our Nebraska customers."

Area 4-Hers and volunteers spent Monday evening cleaning the Wayne County fairgrounds in preparation for this year's fair. Following the clean up the group was treated to supper. A post-fair clean-up is scheduled for Monday evening.

Improvements made to fairgrounds

The 74th annual Wayne County Fair got off to a good start with entry of 4-H exhibits and the country-comedy act "Two for the Show."

A number of improvements have been made to make fair-going more enjoyable.

The entrance to the fairgrounds from the west side has been moved farther north and will help keep fairgoers and those exhibiting livestock apart.

The old entrance was removed for safety reasons and to allow traffic to flow more smoothly.

The new entrance will also allow for a pit area at the north end of the track used for tractor pulls and the demolition derby.

A number of loads of gravel have been hauled to the fairgrounds, including a load donated by Pilger Sand and Gravel.

An addition to the sheep barn was installed because of the number of entries at last year's fair.

Landscaping was done in several spots on the fairgrounds and a number of shade trees were planted after the fairboard received a matching grant from the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District.

Work was completed on the 4-H food stand to meet health standards.

The fair continues through Sunday evening.

Bankruptcy has no effect on Wayne Ben Franklin

The fact that the national chain store Ben Franklin has filed Chapter 11 Bankruptcy will have no effect on the Wayne Ben Franklin Store.

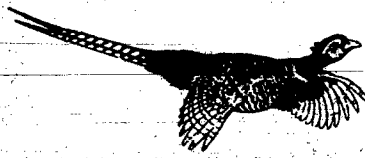

Owners Tom and Carmen Tilgner want to assure their customers that it will be "business as usual here."

Each Ben Franklin Store is a privately owned franchise. Until recently, the local stores purchased merchandise through the franchise. However, in recent months the Tilgner's have developed alternative suppliers of merchandise and have gotten supplies directly from the wholesale suppliers.

"When Ben Franklin filed bankruptcy last week, it was not a real surprise. We had been expecting something to happen. We are currently getting approximately 95 percent of our merchandise from sources other than Ben Franklin," said Tom Tilgner.

The Tilgner's stress the fact that the bankruptcy proceedings will have no effect on the Wayne store and encourage customers to come into the store to look around. "The shelves are full of merchandise and we are able to successfully restock," Mrs. Tilgner said.

UN-L Extension Educator Lynda Cruickshank facilitates members of the conference planning team Maureen Gubbels of Winside, Kate Deturk of Columbus, Tina Pinkleman of Pender, Rachel Woepel of Stanton, Melissa Shemek of Columbus and Nick Jensen of Thurston as they decide on workshops for the October conference to be held in Norfolk.

Area youth planning leadership conference

Several N.E. braska teens are on the planning team of "Tomorrow's Leaders Today Youth Leadership Conference" which is sponsored by a mini-grant provided by the University of Nebraska Extension staff in N.E. braska. Fourteen schools attended the conference held in October last year at the Northeast Community College campus. Following the conference, four of those schools received grant funds to complete a youth leadership project in their home town.

Area youth who met at Northeast helped plan the next conference to be held on Oct. 15. They also were trained to present workshops on "Decision Making Skills" and "Character Counts." Members of the team are Maureen Gubbels of Winside, Jessie Sharpnack of Wakefield, Nick Jensen of Pender, Melissa Shemek of Columbus, Kate Deturk of Columbus, Rachel Woepel of Stanton, Rachele Wondereheck of Fullerton and Tina Pinkleman of Pender.

UN-L Extension staff helping to coordinate the event are Maddie Peterson and Myrna Dubois of the Elkhorn Valley EPU (Extension Program Unit), Sandy Hatter of the Eastern Niobrara EPU, Lynda Cruickshank of the Northeast EPU and Vickie Grove, State 4-H and Youth Specialist located at the Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord.

Grant is awarded

The Wakefield Resource Center (WRC) received a $20,000 Continuity Grant from the Nebraska State Department of Education.

Part of the funds will subsidize a school age child program benefiting children kindergarten through sixth grade with a variety of projects and activities.

"The balance of the funds will be used to help the Humpty Dumpty Day Care improve the quality of the day care services by working on meeting the voluntary accreditation standards of the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs," according to Lynda Cruickshank who helped write the grant.

The grant is a joint project of the WRC, the Wakefield Community School, ESU #1, Goldenrod Hills Area Agency and UNL Cooperative Extension. Staff from each of the agencies helped design the grant and will serve as an advisory committee to the school-age program and accreditation process.

Amy Swalve of Wakefield has been hired to coordinate the school-age child care program titled "Club Challenge" and teach the pre-school classes for the Humpty Dumpty Day Care.

Swalve, who as a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education from Wayne State College, says she's excited about the potential of this program. She has started preparing the first unit of activities for the school-age program. The youth will focus on the study of Egypt and creating a mummy.

The Department of Education's rationale in encouraging this grant was to help working families and their children deal with the often conflicting expectations and schedules of the school and other child care arrangements.

Multiple arrangements and environments with inconsistent expectations often contribute to greater stress in children's lives. Further, many families are unable to arrange quality, convenient before- and after-school care. Children inappropriately caring for themselves are at greater risk for negative social consequences.

"The promotion of continuity is an important strategy in achieving the objectives of the National Education Goal 1-Early Childhood. Linkages between parents, the school system, early childhood care and the community will be a key to providing more cohesive community-based services for children and their families," Mrs. Cruickshank added.

Staff attends conference

Judy Poehlman, Sarah Surber, Janice Mitchell and Patty Grashorn from Wayne Public School attended the 39th annual Nebraska School Food Service Association Conference in South Sioux City on June 24.

The 337 attendees helped celebrate "50 Years of Feeding Children." Exhibits by 78 industry representatives provided school personnel information on nutritional analysis of various food products.

Area musicians participate in All-Star marching band

April Beckenhauer, a senior at Wayne High School, and Jeff Barg from Winside Public High School were two of nearly 200 high school students from across Nebraska who were members of the second Masonic All-Star Marching Band.

Miss Beckenhauer is the daughter of Darold and Ginnie Beckenhauer of Wayne. Barg is the son of Gene and Linda Barg of Winside.

Following four days of practice, the Masonic All-Star Marching Band led the Shrine Bowl Parade in downtown Lincoln, played at the reviewing stand during the parade and presented a half-time show during the Shrine Bowl Football Game in Memorial Stadium on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Hosted by the Nebraska Masonic Grand Lodge, the band was directed by John DeStefano, Assistant Director of the Cornhusker Marching Band; assisted by David Harrison and Neal Schnoor, Lanette Lopez-Ramirez, Todd Cook and Brandy Spreitzer.

Miss Beckenhauer received a scholarship from Wayne Masonic Lodge No. 120 and Barg received a scholarship from Wayne Chapter No. 194.

In addition to their parade and half-time performances, the band members performed for and had dinner with the Shrine Bowl teams, were treated to a dance, "jamming" with members of the Shrine Band, a pool party and a movie.

'Charley's Aunt' coming

The world-famous farce, "Charley's Aunt" will be performed at the Carriage House Theatre Aug. 15-18.

The play, written by Brandon Thomas, is set at Oxford University in London. Two college friends, Jack Chesney (played by Gage Beza) and Charley Wykeham (Mark Newman), invite to young ladies, Kitty Verdun (Kerry McCue) and Amy Spettigue (Carla Kemp) to their rooms under the pretense of meeting Charley's wealthy aunt from Brazil.

Kim Imdieke plays the part of this aunt, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez.

The young men are really hoping this will provide them with an opportunity to express their true love to the girls, while maintaining the proper social and moral etiquette of the day.

The plan backfires when the men receive word that the aunt's visit is being postponed. The men then convince Lord Fancourt Babberley (Mike Imdieke) to impersonate the aunt.

The fact the Jack's father Sir Francis Chesney (Dan Baddorf) and Amy's guardian Stephen Spettigue (Maurice Anderson) develop feelings of affection for Lord Babberley adds to the comic confusion.

Other cast members include Dawn Schaller who plays Ela and Chris Headley who plays Brassett, Jack's manservant.

The play is being directed by Dave Headley and Mick Kemp.

Performances will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Tickets are now on sale at First National Bank, State National Bank and SavMor Pharmacy. They are $6 for those 18 years and older and $5 for those under 18.

Tickets may also be available at the door. However, seating is limited.

For more information call 375-3160 or 375-5275.

Laurel teen has poetry published

Brandi Ann Hudson of Laurel has had original poetry published in Where Dawn Lingers, a treasury of poetry compiled by the National Library of Poetry.

The poem is entitled "Does My Father Know My Love?" and the main subject is the loss of a loved one.

The National Library of Poetry seeks to discover and encourage poets by sponsoring contests that are open to the public and by publishing poems in hardback volumes.

Miss Hudson has been writing for six years and her favorite subjects are personal thoughts and emotions.

She is a sophomore at Laurel-Concord High School and is the daughter of Juli Hanika of Laurel and the late Dennis Hudson of Fortworth, Texas.

Tribute to fire fighters

Wayne Herald readers will no doubt want to join in giving tribute to a group of dedicated volunteers residing in Wayne and surrounding communities. A super salute this week to the 39 men and women in Wayne, and the countless others in surrounding communities, voluntarily giving their time and effort by serving on fire departments.

How would you as a resident feel if you had a fire in your home or business, and there was no one to call for help? If that was the case, most communities would have burned long ago.

Volunteer firemen put in a lot of hours other than those spent containing blazes. In Wayne, firemen have a business meeting each first Tuesday of each month, then drill for two to three hours on the second Tuesday of each month, and thirteen firemen, serving as Emergency Medical Service personnel, drill each third Tuesday of each month for two or three hours. In addition, there are mandatory training schools.

Obviously, working as a crew member of a fire department requires untold hours of involvement, work, study and training.

Norfolk is the nearest city having paid fire fighters. All other area communities, including South Sioux City, depend upon unpaid dedicated men and women who are willing to give hour after hour of service. Every fire creates the possibility of taking a fire fighter's life. The danger is real, not just theoretical.

As the EMS crew goes out on a call, minutes count as personnel struggle to save lives.

Other volunteer work and agencies are also important, of course, but this week we take our hats off to all those who know what it means literally to lay "life on the line" while providing emergency service to others.

A big thank you and salute!

ONE NEBRASKA JOURNAL

By Governor Ben Nelson

August 2, 1996

Dear Nebraska Neighbors,

"Choosing Nebraska as a place to live and work is a no-brainer."

Those are the words of internationally-known financier Warren Buffett, words that will soon catch the attention of business leaders worldwide. Buffett, CEO of Berkshire Hathaway in Omaha, has agreed to be featured in a new advertising promotion for Nebraska.

In full-page, color advertisements, the Nebraska native explains that he could live and work anywhere in the country, but he's "never given a thought to being any place but in Nebraska." He cites the state's pro-business climate, clean air, low crime rate, good schools and Midwestern work ethic.

Maxine Moul, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development (DED), said the ads will be featured in four national publications targeted at those who make decisions on company locations, re-locations and expansions. Those magazines have a combined circulation of nearly half a million. Reprints will also be used in a direct mail campaign and to respond to inquiries.

The campaign will last at least one year. A special post office box number on the ad will help DED monitor response. The $100,000 invested in the ads was approved by the 1995 Legislature as part of the Grow Nebraska economic development initiative.

Moul said the ads are similar to testimonials from Nebraska business leaders DED has used for years, but Buffett's prominence gives an enormous boost to the campaign. Promoting Nebraska business is a cause Buffett believes in. At a news conference to kick off the campaign, he explained that having a wonderful product with no advertising is "like winking at a girl in the dark."

Nebraska does have a winning story to tell. Our state consistently has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country. Our non-agricultural employment has increased more than 10 percent in the last five years. The state ranked fourth in new jobs created for the period of 1993 to 1995 and eighth in new facilities and expansions. And we had the second highest growth rate for exported manufactured products from 1990 to 1994.

The bottom line is bringing new jobs and new workers to Nebraska to make the good life even better. As Buffett said, Nebraska does have something different than the other 49 states. Now, it's time to convince others what we already know - that there is no place like our One Nebraska.

People 'dying' to vote on issues

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

If I was a Hollywood movie maker, I'd be packing my bags for Nebraska this summer.

We've got "crop circles" showing up in Boyd County and people rising from the dead to sign initiative petitions for things like casino gambling, term limits and cutting property taxes.

Personally, I think those crop circles — whether fashioned by UFOs, unexplained plasma vortexes or a couple of local barflies with 2-by-4s — are a great thing.

Look at all the attention and tourists it brought to the small village of Butte. The local sheriff was interviewed on a couple dozen radio, call-in shows and for once, people in that scenic, northern Nebraska county had something to debate besides the low-level radioactive waste dump.

State tourism officials would be wise to get one of those "crop circle" creators — whatever they are — and lay one down once in a while to perk up a local economy. It certainly would bear more financial fruit than those futile courtships with the BMWs and Microns of the world.

That dead people's signatures are showing up on initiative petitions should come as no surprise.

Signature-gathering organizations were hiring temporary workers, some from as far away as California, to fill petitions in Nebraska.

It doesn't take a brain surgeon to figure out that if you're paying folks $2 a signature to stand on a hot street corner in June, they're going to figure out a quick way to get those signatures.

One scenario is that a resourceful circulator or two grabbed a local phone book in the air-conditioned confines of a house or motel and began filling in names. Unfortunately, some of those names were no longer with us.

Of course, a circulator might have been duped by someone who decided to fill in someone else's name, but that doesn't sound as plausible. The State Patrol is investigating.

The bottom line is that the petition process, declared a mess two years ago, is still in disarray.

Some folks still feel that Nebraska voters weren't fully informed when they approved a constitutional amendment that substantially raised the number of signatures required to put an issue on the ballot.

A lawsuit over that issue is still pending. Two other lawsuits were filed against the process recently.

In one, petition organizers contend that it is impossible to plan such initiative drives anymore because the state's signature requirement is a moving target. You don't know exactly how many signatures are needed to qualify an issue for the ballot until you turn in your petitions.

That doesn't sound fair. Whether it is unconstitutional, however, is another question. A federal judge will decide that by August 15.

That judge will also be ruling on whether petition circulators must be registered voters and must have been registered at least 30 days before gathering signatures in Nebraska.

Those two requirements were established, in part, to prevent petition fraud. If people had to register and wait a few days, they might be less likely to move into a state in the waning days of a petition drive and try any monkey business.

Sounds reasonable, but there's those funny clauses in the U.S. Constitution that provide people with the freedom to express themselves politically. If someone is prevented from passing a petition because of their voter registration status, is that unconstitutional?

We'll find out next week, and we'll soon find out how many dead people are backing term limits, less property taxes and casinos.

People, it seems, are just dying to vote on those issues.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Generous donors

Gina Vraspir, left, was one of 85 individuals who volunteered to donate blood during a blood drive at the Omaha Service Center. A total of 74 pints of blood were collected. Thirty-eight of those were first-time donors.

Catch a falling 'star'?

Our subject isn't a falling movie "star", and not a heavenly star, but rather meteors. Each August our space-ship Earth, traveling at about 18.5 miles per second, passes through the debris of a comet named Swift-Tuttle. Minuscule fragments of the comet enter our atmosphere, coming from the direction of a constellation called Perseus, and blaze across our sky. The phenomena is generally called the Perseid meteor shower. Sort of a summer spectacular produced by Dame Nature.

Many see them and believe they've seen a "falling star". Nope! Not so! Our Sun is a small star, and believe me, if it or another "fell", a calamity would more than likely occur. Others get the name right but talk of a meteor "shower". One could get the idea meteors fall in the same volume as snowflakes. Nope! Not so! So if you go out to see the meteor showers one evening soon, don't plan on observing something similar to fireworks.

The Perseids will likely be greatest in number after midnight on the morning of Aug. 12. Start watching around midnight Sunday night Aug. 11. The meteors will be visible, but in fewer numbers, for several nights prior to and after that date. If the sky is clear, look northeast. You may see up to 25 or 30 meteors an hour.

This isn't a scenario for using a telescope, or even binoculars, as meteors zip through the sky at great speeds. The naked eyes are good cameras, and with good peripheral vision, one can catch a meteor "out

Merlin Wright

Andromeda is the only major galaxy visible to the naked eye, and then only if there is a clear night and you have excellent vision. But it is easily seen using a telescope. Andromeda is always parked between what appears (looking overhead and to the northeast) to be a big "W", and the Pegasus cluster (east).

Andromeda is 2 million light-years from us. That is, light traveling at about 186,000 miles per sec, travels approximately two million earth-years before reaching your eyes.

So if you are interested in antiques, go outside on a clear night and view Dame Nature's magnificent and glittering antique store.

Look, but don't touch.

of the corner of your eye", then watch it "fall".

Binoculars or telescope can help in scanning the sky for other objects, although the Big Dipper in the northwest, and the North Star, and constellations, are easily viewed without them.

Petition process under scrutiny

By Roy Frederick
Public Policy Specialist
Department of Agricultural Economics
University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Make no mistake about it. The month of August is going to be critical for sponsors of five initiative petitions that would alter the Nebraska Constitution. Later this month, we should find out which petitions have the requisite 98,939 valid signatures to be placed on the general election ballot in November. simultaneously, legal maneuvering will be underway in the courts. Although it will be a tight timetable, the air should be cleared by early September.

Those playing key roles in the process are county clerks and election commissioners, the secretary of state, the attorney general, state and county law enforcement officials, and state and federal courts.

Their roles are briefly described below.

County clerks and election commissioners validate signatures on petitions. The secretary of state has overall responsibility for the petition process in his role as chief election officer of the state. The attorney general acts on behalf of the state to challenge any part of a petition or the petition process that may be unconstitutional under current law. Law enforcement officials help track down those accused of violating the law, courts interpret relevant state and federal law.

Of the five petitions presented to the secretary of state in early July, two address property taxes, two others would make possible new forms of gaming (gambling) in the state, and the last would limit the number of terms that could be served by elected office holders.

Sponsors of each of the petitions used paid circulators to obtain a portion of the necessary signatures. Therein lies a fertile area for challenge in the courts. One set of questions focuses on residency and voter-registration requirements for circulators. Another involves signatures that are potentially fraudulent, suits and counter suits seem possible, even probable.

The petition brought by the agricultural and education groups would do several things, the most publicized of which are to cap property tax rates and assure that a quality education is being offered for those in grades K-12. If this petition has sufficient valid signatures, the attorney general will seek to split these issues on the ballot. His contention is that the issues are too diverse, thereby potentially confusing voters. Expect a vigorous defense of linking these issues by petition sponsors.

Whatever the resolution of the issues associated with this year's petitions may be, I expect the Legislature to revisit the petition process in the near future. By that, I don't mean that citizens' rights to undertake initiatives and referenda are going to be reduced. (Opportunities to petition in Nebraska are more open than in many other states. However, the Legislature could not limit petition opportunities without voter approval of a constitutional amendment.)

What seems more likely is that the role of paid circulators will be examined in depth. At present, petition sponsors do not like the high number of valid signatures required to put a measure on the ballot. And many policy makers condemn the abuses they see when paid circulators gather signatures. Surely, there must be a way to fold these concerns into a measure that would be better for all.

Wakefield Juniors win second consecutive Class C State baseball championship

By Korey Berg
Of the Herald

The Wakefield Juniors claimed their second consecutive Class C State Championship on Tuesday night in Wymore with a 10-0 win over Lincoln Christian.

Wakefield defeated Elwood 4-0 in the tourney opener last Friday despite getting only two hits offensively. Travis Birkley tossed a one-hitter to pick up the win. Wakefield scored one run in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth to break a scoreless tie after three.

On Saturday, Wakefield breezed past host Wymore with a 22-0 victory. Wakefield pounded out 18 hits and got another one-hitter from their pitcher, this time Justin Hegge. Wakefield scored five in the first, two in the third, nine in the fourth and six in the fifth.

On Sunday, Wakefield snatched a come-from-behind victory over Gordon 4-3. Wakefield scored twice in the bottom of the seventh to take the win. Justin Mackling, Justin Dutcher and Mike Blohm each had singles in the inning. Dutcher hurled a four-hitter to pick up the win on the mound.

Wakefield continued to cruise toward the State title on Monday with a 9-2 win over Creighton. Blohm highlighted a four-run third inning with a homer and Justin Hegge earned the win, allowing just five hits. Wakefield registered 10 hits offensively.

By Tuesday only two teams remained in the hunt for the title, undefeated Wakefield and once-beaten Lincoln Christian. Wakefield needed just one win over their opponent to knock them out of the tourney, while Lincoln Christian need to sweep Wakefield to claim the championship.

The two teams battled to a 3-3 tie after five innings before Lincoln Christian scored two in the top of the sixth to take a 5-3 advantage. Wakefield wouldn't go out without a fight however, as they scored a pair of two-out runs in the bottom of the seventh to send the game to extra-innings. Wakefield got out of another jam when they ended a Lincoln Christian rally with a bases loaded inning-ending double play in the bottom of the ninth, but Matt Drevo ended it in the bottom of the 10th with a three-run homer to win it 8-5. Birkley was the losing pitcher.

Wakefield however, was still alive with only one loss. Paul Eaton's squad came back in the second game and walloped their opponents 10-0 in six innings. Wakefield scored three in the first inning and six more in the second to put the game out of reach early. Cory Coble tossed a three-hitter to pick up the win, while Jason Hegge was 4-4 at the plate.

The win upped Wakefield's record to 47-18 and was their 11th State Championship. The Juniors now face the Class B State Champion Morse Bluff in the first game of the all-class play-off game on Saturday in Ralston. The winner will battle the Class A runner-up for a trip to regionals in the American Legion National Tournament.

Midgets finish season with a record of 23-12

The Wakefield Midgets concluded their season with a record of 23-12 after being eliminated from the Class C State Tournament in Wisner on Tuesday. Clarks-Silver Creek handed Wakefield a 7-4 loss to knock them out of the tourney. Wakefield trailed 3-1 after one inning, but scored one in the second and two in the third to take a 4-3 lead. C-S tied it with a run in the fourth and then scored three times in the fifth to notch the win. Wakefield committed five errors that led to five unearned runs in the game. Justin Paulson was the losing pitcher.

The Midgets dropped to the loser's bracket after a 5-3 extra-inning loss to Hebron on Monday. Wakefield had rallied to tie the game at 2-2 in the bottom of the fifth and 3-3 in the bottom of the ninth, but could not recover from a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth. Josh Templeman was the losing pitcher.

Wakefield had opened the tourney with a 5-2 win over Wisner-Pilger-Beemer on Friday. After five innings of scoreless play Wakefield scored twice in the sixth and three times in the seventh to steal the win. Templeman struck out 10 and allowed just two hits as he picked up the win. Eric Beacom tripled and doubled to pace Wakefield at the plate.

Wakefield's Josh Templeman fouls off a pitch during action at the Class C State Midget Baseball Tournament in Wisner on Tuesday.

Wildcats to kick off 1996 football camp

Football season is just around the corner and the Wayne State Wildcats are beginning to prepare for the 1996 campaign. WSC, under the direction of eighth-year Head Coach Dennis Wagner, begins the quest for their fifth straight winning season on Monday when fall camp opens.

The Wildcats, who finished with a record of 6-4 last season, will welcome approximately 90 student-athletes, including 24 returning letterwinners and 13 starters from last year's squad.

Wayne State opens the season on the road on August 31 against Emporia State. The Cats first home game is September 21 versus Moorhead State.

The public is invited to meet the Wildcats on Sunday, August 11 at 5:00 p.m. for Wayne State College Football Picture Day.

Junck - Fertig are united in marriage

Carrie Ann Junck of Carroll and Tim Fertig of Allen were married June 22, 1996 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Pastor Merle Mahnken of Wayne officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Dennis and Nancy Junck of Carroll and Butch and Cindy Sperry of Allen and Robert Fertig of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Fertig

Music was provided by Becky Sand of Marcus, Iowa and Michelle Fertig of Allen. Organist was Bonnie Hansen of Carroll. Musical selections included "El Shaddai," "God A Woman And A Man," "Two Candles" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her wedding day the bride chose an off-the-shoulder gown with a semi-cathedral train. The fitted bodice with reembodyered lace was heavily hand beaded. Bows on each sleeve were hand-pleated and accented the sweetheart neckline.

The full ball gown skirt had lace cascades down the front and back of the skirt, falling into a beaded semi-cathedral train accented at the waist with a bow.

Her veil was a lace tiara with pearl clusters over chantilly lace appliques, with two layers of pencil edged veiling with pearls.

She carried a bouquet of one dozen white roses accented with meadow wist and freesia pearls.

Wayne Auxiliary is recognized for its golden anniversary year

National President Helen Lenchan and National Secretary Rosemary Mazer presented the Golden Anniversary Award to the Llewellyn B. Whitmore Auxiliary #5291 of Wayne.

The auxiliary was organized on July 22, 1946.

The award states, in part, "in recognition of 50 years of outstanding dedicated service to your community, state and nation...a distinguished record of pa-light mauve alstroemeria and cascading satin ribbons.

Matron of Honor was Misty Bear of Wayne.

Bridesmaids were Megan Cornish and Nikki Anstine, both of Wayne, Michelle Fertig of Allen and Jama Jenkins of Grand Island.

They wore mauve, floor length dresses of crepe. They carried light mauve pom pom dahlias with satin ribbons.

Flower girl was Stephanie Owens of Carroll, special friend of the bride. Ring bearer was Kyle Sperry of Allen.

Candlelighters were Christopher Junck of Carroll and Robbie Sperry of Allen.

Jay Jackson of Wayne served as best man. Groomsmen were Jason Moran and Dave Hewitt and Todd Fredrickson, all of Wayne and Dave Moen of O'Neill.

Ushers were Terry Bear, Brent Gamble and Matt Wreidt, all of Wayne and Ryan Junck of Carroll.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with a white vest. The other men wore black tuxedos with black vests.

A reception was held at the Carroll Auditorium following the ceremony.

Brenda and Amy Sullivan of Allen registered guests. Kimberly Deck of Winside arranged gifts.

Steve and Cheri Deck of Winside and John and Pasty Ege of Sioux City, Iowa were hosts.

Patti Grasshorn and Kathy Rutenbeck, both of Wayne cut and served cake.

Sandy Hall of Carroll poured coffee and Connie Dangberg and Sandy Bennett, both of Wayne, poured punch.

Following a wedding trip to Walt Disney World, Fla. the couple is at home at 109 E. 5th St., Wayne.

The bride is a 1993 graduate of Wayne High School. She is employed at Heritage Homes and the Wayne Care Centre.

The groom is a 1994 graduate of Allen High School. He is employed at Heritage Homes.

triousm. You have aided veterans and their families, the elderly and handicapped, promoted love of our country, working in programs to benefit millions of Americans."

"Your efforts keep us climbing to greater heights as we endeavor to increase our service to America and that the auxiliary will enjoy many more anniversaries."

The two living Charter members of the Wayne auxiliary are Marcella Larson and Eveline Thompson.

Question answered about growing up

Q: I am an 11-year-old girl. What changes can I expect to take place? I'm especially interested in menstruation.

A: A girl's body goes through even more complex changes than those of a boy because it has to prepare itself for the very complicated task of motherhood. The way a woman's body functions to produce human life is one of the most beautiful mechanisms in all of God's universe. Let's look at that process for a moment.

All human life begins as one tiny cell, so small that you couldn't see it without a microscope. This first cell of life is called a zygote, which begins to divide and grow inside the mother's uterus.

The uterus is a special place inside the mother's lower abdomen. The uterus is a unique little pouch that serves as a perfect environment for a growing and developing embryo. (An embryo is the name for a baby in its earliest stages of development.)

All the baby's needs for warmth, oxygen and nourishment are met constantly by the mother's body during the nine months before its birth. Any little slip-up during those very early days (the first three months especially), and the growing child will die. The embryo is extremely delicate, and the mother's body has to be in good physical condition in order to meet the requirements of the growing child.

In order to meet these requirements, a girl's body undergoes many changes during puberty. One of those important developments is called menstruation. This is a subject that girls will need to understand thoroughly in the days ahead. Most schools provide this information to girls in the fifth or sixth grade, so what I'll tell you now may just be a review of what you have seen and heard elsewhere. However, I feel it is important for boys to understand this process, too, although they are seldom informed properly.

When a woman becomes pregnant that is, when the one celled-zygote is planted in her uterus after having a sexual relationship with a man—her body begins to protect this embryo and help it grow. It has to have oxygen, food and many chemicals that are necessary for life. The substances are delivered to the uterus automatically through the mother's blood.

But since the uterus has no way of knowing when a new life is going to be planted there, it must get ready to receive an embryo each month, just in case it happens. Therefore, blood accumulates on the walls of the uterus in order to nourish an embryo if the woman becomes pregnant. But if she doesn't become pregnant that month, then the uterine blood is not needed. It is released from the walls of the uterus and flows out through the vagina—that special opening through which babies are also born.

Every 28 days (this number varies a bit from person to person), a woman's body will get rid of this unnecessary blood that would have been used to nourish a baby if she had become pregnant. It usually takes about three to five days for the flow to stop, and during this time she wears a kind of cloth pad to absorb the blood. This process is called menstruation.

Now, please don't worry about this aspect of your health. You will not bleed to death, I promise you. Menstruation is as natural as eating or sleeping or any other bodily process. If you feel you are abnormal in some way or have any questions at all, then muster your courage and talk to your mother or your doctor or someone in whom you have confidence. In about 98 cases out of 100, the fears will prove to be unjustified. You will find that you are completely normal, and that the trouble was only in your lack of understanding of the mechanism.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO 80903.(c), 1982, Tyndale House Publishers, Inc.

Couple wed in double ring ceremony

Cheri Dungan of Norfolk and Randy Prince of Winside were married in a July 13, 1996 ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Mary Dungan of Norfolk and Russell and Lorraine Prince of Winside.

Music for the ceremony was provided by vocalists Paul Steinke of Lincoln and Jennifer Steiner of Ft. Madison, Iowa, pianist Kathy Steinke of Norfolk and organist Pat Mcierhenry of Murdoch.

Musical selections included "The Wedding Song," "Say Once More" and "Beautiful in My Eyes."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a custom designed gown in a gored style of soft duchess satin. The dress had a sheer upper bodice and sleeves, a medallion of reembodyered lace, decked with a drop pearl laid at the base of the neck.

Lace trim followed the neckline down the "v" of the back to end in a rosette cascade and satin tails. The fuller skirt flowed to a chapel length train trimmed all around in large scallop cut with a satin stitched edge and topped at each point by a small lace motif.

She wore a band style headpiece of tiny satin flowers and pearl sprays which was topped with a large poof of tulle.

Matron of Honor was Deb Wolff of Norfolk.

Bridesmaids were Larell Meier of Pierce, Jennifer Steiner of Ft. Madison, Lori Heller of Yankton, S.D. and Debbie Wassenberg of Ft. Dodge, Iowa.

The women wore floor length gored dresses of Bengaline fabric in grape-wine. The dresses featured fabric roses and tails of georgette flowing down the back.

Flower girls were Marissa and Caitlyn Prince of Winside.

Kelby Prince of Winside was ring bearer.

Mr. and Mrs. Prince

Ryan Prince of Winside was Best man. Groomsmen were Jay Meier of Pierce and Tad Behmer, Kevin Jaeger and Max Kant, all of Winside.

Ushers were Tim Dungan of Lincoln, Dan Wolff and Roger Prince, both of Norfolk and Ron Prince of Winside.

A reception and dance was held at the Winside City Auditorium following the ceremony.

Kerri and Kristy Kroupa of Pierce registered guests.

Host couples were John and Chris Judt of Norfolk, Brad and Lara Polt of Pierce and Paul and Lori Dean of Wayne.

Donna Steiner of Spirit Lake, Iowa and Bev Kroupa of Pierce, aunts of the bride, cut and served cake. Marilyn Heier of Norfolk and Norma Janssen of Coleridge served punch.

Following a wedding trip to Orlando and the Bahamas the couple is at home at 4329 South 37th Street in Omaha.

The bride was home schooled and graduated in 1990. She graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1996 and will attend Creighton University this fall.

The groom graduated from Winside High School in 1990 and will work in Omaha.

Aloe Extract May Fight Skin Cancer

Aloe has been used in everything from shaving cream to beauty products. But does it have any therapeutic value? Researchers at the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Cancer Center say yes. According to a report in Journal of Investigative Dermatology, aloe may play a role in assisting the body's natural ability to fight skin cancer.

Researchers produced artificial sunburns in laboratory mice. One group of the burned mice was treated with a special aloe extract; other mice were not treated. The aloe treated group showed less damage to the skin's immune system - the system that fights cancer.

The aloe extract used in this experiment is not available commercially at this time. Currently available product that contain aloe can not be expected to prevent sunburn or reverse the numerous adverse effects - such as premature skin aging - of sun exposure. For now, rely on sunscreens to prevent sunburn and its consequences.

Ashland couple wed in Lincoln

Sara Elizabeth Adkins and Mark Thomas Landgren were married July 13, 1996 at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Lincoln.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Joan Adkins of Laurel and Dr. George and Sandra Landgren of Hastings.

Reverend William Yeager officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony and music was provided by organist Mary Faulkner and soloist Cyndy Wood, both of Lincoln.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin featuring long fitted sleeves and a full skirt gathered into an elongated waistline. The cathedral length train flowed from a butterfly satin bow.

Beaded lace overlay, pearls and clear sequins accented the dress and train. She wore a chapel length veil attached to a bandeau of lace accented with pearls and sequins and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, freesia, stargazer lilies, dendrobium and dark ivy.

Amy Adkins of Laurel, sister of the bride, served as Maid of Honor.

Bridesmaids included Betsy Adkins of Lincoln and Megan Adkins of Laurel, sisters of the bride; Kerrie Adams of Westminster, Colo. and Erika Brandt of Chicago, Ill., friends of the bride and Laurie Moncrief of Hastings, sister of the groom.

They wore floor-length teal

Mr. and Mrs. Landgren

gowns accented with teal satin bows and accordion pleated cap sleeves. Each bridesmaid carried a rubrum lily accented with freesia and ivy.

Jessica Cooley of Lincoln was flower girl and Jackson Hill of Omaha was ring bearer.

Dr. David Landgren of Hastings served as best man for his brother. Other groomsmen were Michael Landgren of Lincoln, brother of the groom; James R. Hill of Omaha, Greg Garlock of Kansas City, Mo.; Jeff Cooley of Ashland and Tracey Ochsner of Hastings, friends of the groom.

Candlelighters were Brooke Skinner of Menomonee, Wisc. and John Nyberg of Sioux City, Iowa, cousins of the bride.

Ushers were Mike Finnerty of Corona Del Mar, Cal., cousin of the groom, Dan Searcy of Lincoln, Chuck Olson of Norfolk and Brian Kehrl of Omaha, friends of the groom.

A reception and dance hosted by the parents of the bride, were held at the Cornhusker Hotel Ballroom in Lincoln.

Lynne Lange and Carrie Staroscik attended the guest book.

Wedding favors were distributed by Kelly Landgren of Hastings and Mitchell Skinner of Menomonee.

Personal attendant to the bride was Laurie Crokrie of Baltimore, Md.

Serving the cake were Judi Adkins of Mesa, Az., Denise Skinner of Menomonee and Gail West of Champlin, Minn., aunts of the bride and Angie Zauha of Lexington, friend of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands, the couple will reside in Ashland.

The bride is Assistant Principal and head volleyball coach at Ralston High School. The groom associates with Mass Mutual in insurance and investments in Lincoln.

Dealing with emotions from loss and crisis

There are two major psychological responses that people use in adjusting to loss such as in the case of natural disasters and family and individual crisis. Individuals use coping mechanisms and emotional reactions to deal with loss.

Karen Wermers
Dixon County

Coping Mechanisms

Coping mechanisms are a psychological way that individuals use to reduce the level of anxiety they are feeling. This allows them to better adjust to the loss and begin the grieving and healing process.

1. Disbelief and Denial. This response reduces anxiety by allowing individuals to limit their awareness about the reality of what has happened until the pain can be let in more slowly. Numbness and confusion are common responses. Sighing and crying can be readily observed. Others cannot cry and withdraw. This stage is relinquished more easily if people will listen to the bereaved person and help them express their whole range of feelings. Listening to feelings without giving advice is the best helping strategy.

2. Disorganization and Dependence is characterized by a period of confusion in which the grieving person may feel out of touch with the ordinary proceedings of life. It is wise not to make major decisions during this time.

3. Intellectualization is a coping mechanism in which the grieving person attempts to master the loss by gathering a great deal of knowledge and information and analyzing in detail the situations leading to the loss. This allows the individual to remain emotionally detached and become an observer to maintain a greater sense of control.

Emotional Reactions Emotional responses co exist with coping mechanisms but they do not necessarily protect the person from the trauma of the loss. They are a means to express emotions and feelings associated with the loss.

1. Anger and Resentment is expressed against what seems to be cruel, unfair and an incomprehensible fate. The individual may project this anger onto more accessible targets such as a spouse, family member or the government. Talking openly about our feelings helps reduce the anger. Anger turned inward may be replaced by silent bitterness, indifference, apathy, aggression and ultimately depression.

2. Guilt feelings are frequently a part of the grief process. These feelings become focused as the individual searches for the cause of the loss (e.g. "If only I had..."). Encourage the full expression of feelings rather than blocking them.

3. Fear and Anxiety arise because the loss usually is not of one's choosing and there is uncertainty about the future. Joining a support group where people can freely express their worries can help reduce needless anxiety.

4. Shame occurs when a person is in a situation that is incompatible with the image one wishes others to have. It may undermine one's sense of dignity and self-esteem. Accepting the individual as an "OK" person and being there when needed is true friendship.

5. Loneliness and Depression and self-pity is frequent. Problems which are manageable when shared with a partner become magnified when faced alone.

6. Relief and Recovery. Signs of relief may signal recovery. The person reaches out and makes constructive efforts to rebuild by responding and becoming more active in life through meetings, phone calls and social gatherings.

Dealing With Crisis
• Do not hide your feelings.
• Do not isolate yourself.
• Talk to others about your feelings and worries.
• Take steps to rebuild your life.

Our Savior to hold Bible study series

"Have you wanted to learn more about the Bible? Have you ever felt uncomfortable about not knowing more about the Bible? Have you ever wanted to participate in an exciting Bible study that gives you a good overview of the Scriptures? If so, your opportunity is here," said Rev. Martin Russell, Senior Pastor in Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Rev. Martin Russell

Russell will be leading a special study called "The Divine Drama" starting this fall.

"The Divine Drama" is a program of 30 units that walk participants through the biblical storyline and its teachings.

"The goal of the program is to help you analyze God's saving actions, understand the mind of Jesus the Messiah and respond to God's call to faith in Jesus and servant-hood in 'His Community,'" Rev. Russell said.

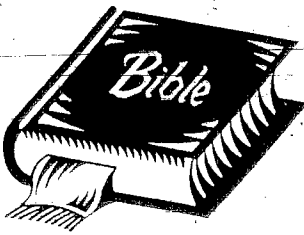

a part of this special opportunity for Christian learning and growth," Pastor Russell said.

"We hope that everyone will feel welcome to join in this study, regardless of their church affiliation. Everyone is welcome at Our Savior.

The classes will be offered at two different times each week: Tuesday mornings at 10 a.m. and Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. Part I will run from Tuesday, Sept. 10 through Tuesday, Dec. 17 and Part II will run from Tuesday, Jan. 7 through Tues. April 15.

Each session will last approximately an hour and a half, the study will be offered at the church.

There will be a $20 registration fee for course materials. To receive a course brochure and registration form, please contact the church office at (402) 375-2899.

The course is divided into two parts. The first part, The Biblical Narrative, leads people through the biblical themes from creation to Christ. The second part, Our Narrative, studies basic Christian doctrines such as Father Son and Holy Spirit; sin and grace, eschatology, worship and prayer.

Our Savior WELCA holds guest day brunch

Our Savior Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Wayne held their annual Guest Day Brunch on July 10.

Over 90 women attended, including women from the First Baptist, First-United Methodist, First Presbyterian, St. Mary's Catholic and Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Churches of Wayne and St. Paul's and Trinity Lutheran Churches of Winside.

Phyllis Rahn welcomed the guests and Pastor Russell offered a prayer. The brunch was served by Service Group One.

Following a piano selection by Emily Bruffat, Phyllis Rahn shared devotions and the group sang "Set Apart."

Alice Dietz from Norfolk presented the program "Love in God's Hands" with slides and special music. The program closed with the group singing "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" and the benediction.

The hostesses and decorating committee included Donna Lutt, Leslie Hausmann, Evie Schock, Tammie Rasmussen, Eva Nelson, Viola Meyer, Barb Heier, Lil Surber, Lita Splittgerber, Arlene Ostendorf and Ila Nays.

Thirty-one women attended on of four Bible study circles in July. Rachel Bible study will meet Aug. 5 at 1:30 p.m. Margaret Andersen will be the leader and all participants will host.

Charity Circle will meet on Aug. 21 at 7 p.m. at Bressler Park.

Visitation Group met July 17 with 14 members and Pastor Bill Koerber in attendance. A total of 53

WELCA holds guest day brunch cards were sent and 50 members visited. Mabel Tietgen gave a verbal thanks and notes were received from Marilla Beckner and Walter and Irma Baier. The group will meet again at 1 p.m. on Aug. 21.

Ten women met for sewing on July 25. They tied a quilt and quilted a wall hanging for Immanuel, tied six quilts for Lutheran World Relief and also worked on three lap robes. Sewing will meet again at 9:30 a.m. on Aug. 22 with a potluck at noon.

Catholic Women to hold dinner meeting Aug. 13

The Rural Northeast Deanery Council of Catholic Women will hold a dinner meeting at Riley's Convention Center on Tuesday, Aug. 13. Riley's is located at 113 South Main in Wayne. Registration will be held at noon and dinner is at 12:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Tony (Rita) Koch. They have six children, one foster daughter and 22 grandchildren. Mrs. Koch is a retired school teacher. She has been very involved in the Deanery and the Archdiocesan Council and Board. She designed a "Faith Box" for children and it was voted first place at the National Convention in San Francisco, Calif. She is currently working on a "Faith Box" for newlyweds. She will also address suffering, the joy and prayerful suffering.

Father Don Cleary will speak on the Feast of the Assumption.

Register for CRP bus tour

Producers interested in returning their Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) land to production should plan to attend the 1996 CRP bus tour.

The bus tour will leave Northeast Community College in Norfolk at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 13. The tour includes eight stops at area farms, giving participants the opportunity to see other producers' experiences returning CRP land to crop and livestock production. Producers will see former CRP land being used to grow grass, corn and soybeans. Other sites include CRP land transformed to wildlife plots, buffalo and cattle grazing areas and warm and cool season grass tracts.

The tour includes lunch at the Plainview park and supper at Larry and Rose Mason's farm. The bus will return to NECC at approximately 8:30 p.m.

Bus seats are limited, however, additional participants can follow the bus in car pools. The registration fee is $5. To register, or for additional information, call Pat Bathke at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, 402-584-2837.

The tour is co-sponsored by the Lewis and Clark and Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource Districts, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension.

Pest update given

Producers need to be aware of potential pest problems as several species continue to survive in N.E. braska.

Keith Jarvi, UNL Extension Integrated Pest Management Assistant, advises that producers continue scouting for western bean cutworm egg masses and small larvae. "Moth flight has been very low," said Jarvi, "and there may not be much of a problem this year." However, Jarvi suggests that producers keep an eye out for these pests another week.

Now is an opportune time for producers to assess damage from first generation European corn borers. "Take a linoleum knife, or other sharp knife, and split several stalks down the middle, from the base of the plant to the tip," Jarvi advised. Cavities from pests will be easy to spot. "Fields averaging less than one cavity per plant are considered to be in good shape," said Jarvi.

Grasshoppers are a major concern for many producers this year. Populations are highly variable, however, some areas are thick with hoppers while others remain somewhat unaffected. John Witkowski, UNL Extension Entomologist, explained that several producers have reported high numbers of hoppers while combining oats. "This is of special concern where oats and alfalfa were seeded together and the seedling alfalfa needs good leaf growth to insure good establishment," he said. In some areas, hoppers have totally defoliated the alfalfa now that oats have been wind-rowed.

Witkowski cautioned producers that populations of adult hoppers are rapidly increasing. "Adult grasshoppers can consume much more plant tissue per day than nymphs. Therefore, grasshoppers are capable of doing considerable damage in a short time once adults begin to make up the majority of individuals in a population," Witkowski said.

Producers should examine alfalfa after combining oats, looking for grasshopper numbers and damage. If leaf loss is severe, they should consider an insecticide treatment. "The common threshold for grasshopper numbers in established alfalfa is about 21 to 40 in field margins, or 8 to 14 per square yard in the alfalfa," said Witkowski. Producers should consider lowering these thresholds for seeding alfalfa.

For more information about area pests and their development, contact local extension offices and specialists.

Association celebrates 100th anniversary

The Nebraska Grain and Feed Association will celebrate 100 years of service at their 21st annual summer convention and centennial celebration. The convention will be held Aug. 15-17 at the Ramada Inn in Kearney.

The association, consisting primarily of Nebraska grain elevators and feed businesses, was founded in 1896.

A centennial banquet will be held Friday evening, Aug. 16. Information may be obtained by contacting Ron Ziggafos at the association office, 402-476-6174.

Fellowship winner

Randy Gunn, Resource Conservationist with the Natural Resource Conservation Service in Wayne, was one of 18 recipients from the U.S. and Canada to receive the Berg Fellows Award. The award will allow Gunn to travel to Washington, D.C. next February to meet with legislators and learn about policy making, especially in the areas of natural resources. Gunn received the award during the Soil and Water Conservation Society's annual conference held recently in Colorado.

Scout for second generation European corn borers now

"The second or summer flight European corn borer moths is underway in N.E. braska," said John Witkowski, UNL Extension Entomologist. He advises that producers scout for egg masses with the second generation. "Egg masses are used to predict numbers of cavities and determine the need and timing of treatment," said Witkowski.

Egg masses are typically laid on or near the midrib, and look like white overlapping fish scales. Examine the ear leaf, and three leaves above and three below the ear for masses as well. Most will be laid within one week of peak moth flight. "Corn fields that are pollinating during peak moth flight are most attractive to moths," Witkowski said.

Timing of an insecticide application is critical for satisfactory control. Applications are generally most effective when eggs begin to hatch and some larvae may be visible in leaf axils. "Considering the economics of field corn and under the premise of protecting the plant through the dough stage, a single application is usually effective," Witkowski said. "Borers invading after the dough stage will have minimal effect on ear size."

To determine if treatment is necessary, producers should scout regularly, every three to five days. Computer models suggest that 25 to 50 percent of the eggs will be laid during an approximate seven day period beginning about Aug. 10. Weather will be the major determinant. High temperatures will accelerate this prediction, and lower than average temperatures will extend the prediction date. "We recommend beginning to scout for eggs starting now," said Witkowski. "Look for egg masses on at least 10 consecutive plants in several different areas of the field." A worksheet is available at local extension offices that uses numbers of egg masses per plant as a starting point in predicting potential damage and compares potential dollar loss against costs of applying an insecticide.

Unbelievable week is spent at the Olympics

It's been an unbelievable week. Seven days ago, I was on a Delta flight, headed to Atlanta. Last night, I was on a flight back to Omaha. In between has been a kaleidoscope of experiences; incredible ones.

My host family, Howard and Carolyn Swanson, were part of a group of Lutherans who coordinated "Lutheran Welcome '96." She is a nurse practitioner at a Cystic Fibrosis Clinic which is a part of Emory University. He is an engineer, a graduate of Purdue, for Norfolk Southern railroad. They live in a lovely home with four bedrooms, and I slept in comfort, and had my own bath.

They knew nothing about me, except that I was a nurse and wanted to help with the outreach. But I found out they've had other strangers as guests, including some from Germany. And they are wonderful hosts. I felt immediately at home, and we had much to chatter about.

They did a lot of chauffeuring. Most of the time, I didn't have a clue. Directions; north, south, east, west, do not mean a thing in the South. There are no straight roads.

I did use the Marta occasionally, Atlanta's rapid transit system; but it was usually packed. The weather was much like Nebraska in July: hot and humid, and we did get rained on. Georgia had been dry, so they were glad to have the moisture. And it doesn't rain buckets there like in this state!

By Pat Meierhenry

We gave free cold water in front of churches, which was gratefully received. I didn't have to render any first aid, luckily. I had no tickets when I got there, and I attended three different events. That's the important thing I learned: buy tickets after you arrive. And we did not pay more than face value.

Yes, I'm very tired; yes, I've spent a little money. But I would not trade the experience. I'm not even sure it was a "once in a lifetime" one. A pastor from Colorado and I were sitting in the stadium last week, plotting a trip to Salt Lake City in 2002!

I've gotten through all the security checks, and got the T-shirts home safely. I have a stack of laundry to do, photos to develop and some recuperating to do. Right now, I need to get this to a FAX. I'll fill you in on the sights and sounds next week.
