

Board okays budget

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Wayne Board of Education approved the 1996-97 budget and awarded a bid to Heritage Homes for 10 modular units to hold middle school students during its regular August meeting on Monday.

The general fund budget for the next fiscal year is $5,137,927, an increase of 6.65 percent for all funds.

The budget was amended to include an additional $50,000 into the sinking fund. Including the $355,000 currently in the fund, next year's fund will be $554,000.

DR. DENNIS Jensen, Superintendent of the Wayne Public School said that final figures are not in from the county yet, but he anticipates a 1.7 percent increase in the levy.

Without grants, entitlements and special education, the real dollar increase is approximately $147,809 from the 1995-96 budget.

With the grants, entitlements and special education, the increase is $320,236.

The board heard from representatives of Heritage Homes and Cityside Park on the bids for the 10 modular units.

AFTER THE presentations and questioning, the board awarded the bid to Heritage Homes. Cost for the units, including site preparation, will be $648,355.

The ten units will be placed just south of Wayne High School, six on the east side of the sidewalk that

Fade-out at the fair

The Wayne County Fair was an exhausting experience for some of the young. At left, Jacob Falk, one and a half year old son of Kevin and Stacy Falk of Omaha, snoozes in his stroller, unaware of all the activity going on around him. Above, a litter of puppies enjoyed the afternoon sun on Thursday while their owners tried unsuccessfully to give them new homes during the 4-H sheep show. Mild temperatures throughout the weekend benefited the thousands who visited the fair. A variety of activities were available for fair-goers of all ages, including a country-comedy act, tractor pulls, dances, a carnival and livestock and home economics exhibits. A special tab, with pictures of fair activities and all the fair results, will be included in next week's Herald.

Council hears plan for Highway 35 work

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Bill Stoner of Olsson Associates presented the preliminary engineer's report on the water and sanitary sewer phase of the Highway 35 widening project to the Wayne City Council at Tuesday's meeting.

Stoner told the council that most of the conflicts have been resolved and the project is progressing on schedule. Estimates for the water and sewer phase of the project are $400-$450,000. The city's share of the bill will be approximately $75-100,000.

A number of water lines will be re-routed, increased in size and moved because of the highway widening.

BECAUSE OF an increase of $1 per ton for solid waste being hauled to the landfill, the Wayne City Council voted to increase the fees for Class A haulers using the Wayne transfer station. There will be no increase for those residents who bring their solid waste directly to the transfer station.

The increase, which will take effect Sept. 1, is the smallest increase in a number of years.

The council also approved the application of Jeff Carlson for membership into the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department.

THE COUNCIL denied requests by Brent Pick and Steve Hall to waive or reduce fees paid to the city.

Pick asked the council to waive the park fee he is required to pay regarding the Logan View Addition on Grainland Road. He requested that the fee be paid after the land is developed.

The Halls asked that the $1,500 water and $1,500 sewer fees they paid for the hook-up of these services on their property on South Main Street be reduced. They requested that they be allowed to pay the $500 fee for each service that residential customers pay.

The council discussed the request but felt that because the Halls plan to operate a nursery at that location, the commercial fee was appropriate.

DON-SIEFKEN Chief Inspector/Planner for the city, presented a proposal on Computer Aided Drafting (CAD) and Global Position System (GPS) which would allow the city to produce more accurate maps with less time involved.

The cost of the system would be approximately $12,000 and computer hardware would be an additional $30,000 for the first year. To get the system completed would take four to five years.

The council is considering visiting Yankton, S.D. which has a system similar to the one being considered for Wayne.

FOLLOWING the recommendation of the Public Works Department, the council voted to close West 14th Street. The area north of the former Big Dipper will be seeded yet this fall.

The council unanimously approved the application of Gary Van Meter for use by exception for second floor apartments above Daylight Donuts.

Van Meter has done extensive renovation of the second floor of the building and will have three apartments in the building.

However, there is not adequate parking behind the building and it was necessary for council to approve parking for the apartments behind Mines Jewelers.

WSC library to be closed

U.S. Conn Library at Wayne State College will be closed to the public for one day on Tuesday, Aug. 20 to allow rewiring work to be completed and to permit staff in-service and training.

The library will be open for regularly scheduled hours the rest of the week, according to Karen Carner, library secretary.

Students will begin arriving on campus for registration and orientation activities beginning Sunday, Aug. 25. Classes resume Wednesday, Aug. 28 when nearly 4,000 students are expected to take their seats.

Three people are injured in Aug. 10 car accident

The Wayne Police Department investigated an injury accident on Highway 15 just north of the Country Club Road shortly after 3 a.m. on Saturday.

Marcus Towle, 21, of Wayne was the driver of a 1990 Chevy that went out of control while traveling southbound on Highway 15.

The car went off the road after crossing the northbound traffic lane, struck a tree and property at the Wayne Country Club and burst into flames.

The occupants of the car were able to get out before the car was destroyed by the fire.

The driver and two passengers, Chad Jones, 24, and Chris White, 24, were transported to Providence Medical Center for treatment of numerous injuries.

An investigation to determine if alcohol was a contributing factor is ongoing but no formal charges have been filed.

White and Towle have been released for the hospital. Jones was transported to Marian Health Center. His condition is not known.

Seat belts were not use by any of the occupants.

Police telemarketers not local

The Wayne Police Department has received several phone calls from concerned citizens who have been contacted by telemarketers representing the Fraternal Order of Police.

This is a legitimate organization which represents law enforcement officers, often acting as a bargaining agent.

The Wayne Police Department is not affiliated with the Fraternal Order of Police and does not receive any funding or benefits from this organization.

"The Wayne Police Department certainly does not want to discourage anyone from donating to organizations that support law enforcement, but we do want our citizens aware that their contribution to the Fraternal Order of Police will not help local law enforcement," said Lance Webster, Wayne Police Chief.

Chief Webster can provide the names of organizations to contact to anyone wishing to make a contribution to benefit local law enforcement.

Wayne State is site of financial symposium

A Financial Planning Symposium will be held Saturday at the Wayne State College Student Center.

The symposium will begin at 1:30 p.m. with workshops on financial planning topics throughout the afternoon.

The featured speaker will be Dan Laufenberg, Chief Economist from American Express Financial Advisors Inc. He will speak on the state of the economy and the stock market beginning at 7 p.m. at Ramsey Theatre.

Workshop topics include investment strategies, taxes, retirement issues, Social Security, charitable giving techniques and advanced estate planning.

Participants may choose from four different workshops in three different sessions.

"We have organized the symposium somewhat like the 'Money Talks' event held annually in Des Moines, Iowa," according to Jennifer Phelps, coordinator of the event.

"Money Talks have been a very successful event in central Iowa, so we thought it would be well received in N.E. braska."

The symposium is free of charge. Interested persons may attend one, two or all three of the sessions on Saturday. The Financial Planning Symposium is sponsored by Phelps, Wilwerding, Rath & Hunt, a division of American Express Financial Advisors.

To register for the symposium, call (402) 375-1848 or 1-800-657-2123 and ask for a registration brochure.

Plans for 1997 Old Settlers discussed

A meeting of the 1996 Old Settlers Reunion Committee was held July 11 at the Winside City Auditorium.

Those attending included chairman Randy Marks; Kids' Parade chairmen Jeanine Longnecker and Patty Skokan; barbecue chairman Virgil Rohlf; Kids' Games Chairman Kathy Meyer; Foodstand chairman Carmie Maroz; Game Booth and Mini train chairman Beverly Neel; Teen dance volunteer Laura Neel; Jeanine Marks and Veryl Jackson.

"By feedback received from the general public, the committee has elected to have the 1997 celebration all in one day, Saturday, June 28, 1997. The exception will be the Hoop-it-Up competition which will begin on Friday evening, June 27, 1997 and concluding Saturday evening," said committee member Beverly Neel.

The committee members discussed and accepted the idea of anyone holding the position of Chairman of Old Settlers for a two-year period at the end of which a new chairman would volunteer.

"It was felt adopting this policy would lessen the burn-out factor of the chairman and the members and would allow more input and ideas to formulate," Mrs. Neel said.

Randy Marks concluded his two-year position at the closing of the 1996 event.

"There is a volunteer expressing an interest in the chairmanship, however, at this time we will withhold the announcement until we are certain," Mrs. Neel said.

"The committee is always in need of new volunteers and ideas in formulating a program which will appeal to all age groups. As Old Settlers in nearing its 100th year in 2000, the intent of the committee is to maintain the spirits and interest of the event so the centennial event can be expanded to two or three days and include a carnival and events which date back in time."

"We need the community support to see this happen, therefore, we welcome your input and desire to have Old Settlers Reunion maintain its history," Mrs. Neel added.

To set the stage for the 1997 celebration, the committee has recommended the following events to be scheduled throughout the day.

The events include, but are not limited to a road rally, horseshoe pitching, game booths, face painting, kid's co-ed volleyball, bingo, pitch tournament, kiddie and grand parades, kid and adult water fights, entertainment in the park, a teen dance, barbecue in the park and possibly a street dance.

Additionally, plans are being made to have the return of the Don Merten Mini-Train from Albion, the mobile airplane from the 185th Unit in Sioux City and pony rides offered by Mike and Lori Finn of Winside.

A pre-Old Settlers Reunion Booster Dance is being considered as well. Anyone having names and addresses of potentially interested parties should contact any of the committee members.

The committee will not have an August meeting and the date of the September meeting has not yet been announced.

"We hear so often that Old Settlers just isn't what it used to be. You are right, it is not, but with your ideas and assistance it can be once again.

"Let's pull together as a community and bring back the good old days of Old Settlers. Only with everyone's help can this be possible," Mrs. Neel said.

Goodwill trailer coming to Wayne

Goodwill Industries of Sioux City has developed an "Ambassador Program," which is designed to help communities collect and donate no-longer-used items.

A community-wide drive in Wayne has been scheduled for Sept. 3 through 9. All material to be donated should be brought to the Goodwill Industries collection trailer at the Pac 'N' Save parking lot.

This trailer will be open on its first day at this site from its arrival (usually before 4 p.m.) until 8 p.m. and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on subsequent days. Arrival times vary, depending on collection demands. Please deposit all items inside the trailer. Furniture and large appliances will not be accepted due to limited trailer space.

Donated goods from Wayne will be processed and received into one of the Goodwill retail outlets. Goodwill Industries provides rehabilitation services annually to over 400 persons with disabling conditions by providing work opportunities and training which enables them to become wage earners and taxpaying citizens.

Time to plan a WSC 'Welcome' mat

Today is August 15 which means Wayne State students will soon be back on campus, in our community, rental properties, businesses, theaters, churches and holding jobs. As thousands of youths return to our streets, perhaps it would be not only polite but appropriate to plan as many ways as possible to let them know they are not only welcome, but greatly appreciated!

Those of us who left home towns and ventured off to college easily remember the first impressions we formed upon arriving in our new environment where we intended to pursue various levels of higher education.

Our "Welcome to Wayne" signs at the edges of town must not only be introductory to life here, but the initial manifestation of the friendliness traditionally communicated to all those choosing to work, shop, play or attend school here.

WSC classes get underway Aug. 28 so we still have time to prepare and plan special greetings, programs, sales, and other gestures of friendliness.

Can you imagine the surprise of being a new WSC student arriving in town, either alone or with friends, and parents, and seeing staked signs along the streets, such as those placed by political candidates prior to elections, but in this case would say "Welcome Waynes-taters!"

First impressions are usually lasting impressions. Our community has much to offer and friendliness cannot be over promoted when it is sincere.

Will we rise to the challenge of making sure every WSC person, be it faculty, staff or student, permanent resident or new resident, know without any doubt that we Waynites are truly grateful for their presence, business and adding the college spirit to small-town America? Let's get busy and give it a shot.

Nebraska icons are under attack. In Columbus, descendants of Dorothy Lynch are in court trying to get royalties they claim they deserve from a company now producing Dorothy's famous, tangy salad dressing.

In Minden, via a Chicago lawyer, Harold Warp's Pioneer Village is attempting to preserve its trademarked name from use by other, lesser "pioneer villages" across the country.

Geez, the next thing you know, you won't be able to go to a church basement and play bingo and buy pickle cards at the local tavern.

That may not be so far fetched judging by recent figures on gambling.

The launching of casino boats in Iowa has sunk profits from pickle cards and bingo games operated by churches and other charities in Nebraska.

One Bellevue charity reported that revenue from their pickle sales had dropped 60 percent since the boats and a casino at a Council Bluffs, Iowa, dog track opened.

Statewide, pickle-card gambling dropped by 16.8 percent in the first three months of 1996, from $44.0 million in 1995 to $36.6 million in 1996.

Bingo profits, meanwhile, were off about 5 percent over the past year.

Only playing pitch, talking about the weather and going to a football game are more "Nebraska" activities than buying pickle cards and playing bingo. (Gripping about the national media's coverage of the Big Red might also figure in there somewhere.)

It used to be that bingo games were as frequent as bake sales at Nebraska churches. And you could judge when pay days fell by the number of pickle cards littering the floor of the local tavern.

Not any more. The opening of casinos by Indian tribes on Nebraska's borders, along with the advent of riverboat gambling and slot machines at the Council Bluffs dog track has brought a bunch of new competition to the Legion clubs, fire departments and churches that relied on profits from bingo and pickles.

It's just much more exciting to pull the arm of a slot machine than rip off the tabs on a cardboard pickle card. Lights flash and bells ring when you win at a slot machine.

Many churches and charities have already closed their bingo games and are now considering whether pickle cards will go completely sour, particularly if casino gambling is approved in Nebraska.

This money is not insignificant. The Nebraska Softball Association generates $10 million in annual sales. The University of Nebraska at Omaha funds 40 percent of its athletic department budget through pickle sales, and even that money-making athletic department in Lincoln relies on some pickle revenue.

Some fire departments use the money for life-saving equipment and new rescue squads. One Omaha church uses gambling revenue to finance more than half of its school's budget.

Gambling in Nebraska was first started to help charities. Profits from betting on horse racing used to finance county fairs and ambulances. Then bingo and pickles came along to help athletic clubs and churches.

It's only been in recent years that gambling has been used to finance government (keno for cities and counties, the state lottery for state grants).

Whether to expand legalized gambling and who should profit from it is a complicated question. But it doesn't seem fair, somehow, to give charities a way to finance themselves and then take it away by allowing other forms of gambling to wipe out bingo and pickles.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

O N E N E B R A S K A J O U R N A L

By Governor Ben Nelson

August 9, 1996

Dear Nebraska Neighbors:

In Maxwell, students are learning about entrepreneurship by creating their own businesses and filling vacant spaces in downtown buildings.

In Palmer, English and Social Studies classes are studying the background and culture of the community by visiting with the "grandparents of Palmer."

In Silver Creek, students are involved in renovating an existing pond to create a recreation center for the community.

Across the state, rural schools are getting involved in renewing their communities economically and culturally. The program is called the School-at-the-Center Project, founded in 1993 by UNI professors Paul Olson and Jim Walter. The project, now administered by the Nebraska Community Foundation, recently received a big boost in the form of a $455,572 gift from the Annenberg Rural Challenge.

The Rural Challenge is named for Walter Annenberg of the Annenberg Foundation, who has committed $500 million to aid national education reform. Of that amount, $50 million went to the Rural Challenge, the largest private gift of its kind in U.S. history.

The School-at-the-Center Project was one of 14 invited to become "national founding partners" with the Annenberg Rural Challenge in July 1995. Each project is required to match each challenge gift dollar with 50 cents from public funds and 50 cents from private funds. That means $1 million will be invested back into Nebraska communities for rural education reform and community development over the next year.

The funds will be equally divided among the areas participating in the project. Other communities currently involved are Albion, Petersburg, Schuyler, Henderson, Walthill, Wakefield, Wayne, South Sioux City, Ogallala, Wallace and Lewellen.

Annenberg Rural Challenge Director Paul Nachtigal was in Nebraska to present the gift. He said smaller, rural schools have often been seen as second-best to the larger urban schools. This project, he said, builds on the strengths of the rural areas and allows communities to become labs for learning.

Nachtigal also said that for too long, rural schools trained their students to move away. This project prepares students for the option of staying in their hometowns or returning to them.

Rural Nebraskans have a strong sense of community. The School-at-the-Center Project will help strengthen that civic pride in our young people. By asking students to develop a personal stake in their communities, we can help turn the "brain drain" into a "brain gain."

Superintendent Jim Putman, who is new to the Wakefield community, said the project has already resulted in "students feeling ownership in their own school." And Henderson School Superintendent Norm Yoder is hoping the project can also change some attitudes.

Read the Constitution lately?

Just finished reading "Constitution of the State of Nebraska of 1875". I had forgotten the power of that document!

It begins, "We, the people, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, do ordain and establish the following declaration of rights and frame of government, as the Constitution of the State of Nebraska."

Following are some of the principles, edited for the sake of space, under which Nebraskans live.

1. Guaranteed: life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; government gets its only power from the consent of the governed.
2. Slavery and involuntary servitude outlawed except for punishment of crime.
3. No person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process.
4. All persons have a "natural" and "indefeasible" right to worship

Almighty God; Religion, morality, and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the legislature to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination...and to encourage schools and the means of instruction.

5. Every person may freely speak, write and publish on all subjects...subject to penalties for abusing the truth.

6. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate.

7. The right of people to be secure in their home.

8. In all criminal prosecutions the accused has the right to appear and defend in person or by counsel to demand the nature and cause of accusation, and to meet witnesses face to face, and a speedy public trial by an impartial jury.

Merlin Wright

in any criminal case, to give evidence against himself.

10. All courts shall be open, and every person, for any injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, shall have a remedy by due course of law, and justice administered without denial or delay.

11. The right to peaceable assembly; petition the government.

12. The English language is declared to be the official language of the state, and all official proceedings, records and publications shall be in such language, and the common school branches shall be taught in said language in public, private, denominational and parochial schools.

Wow! This isn't all of the Constitution of Nebraska but enough to remember the powers we give ourselves in governing. Those who formed state government wrote of religion, morality, and knowledge, being "essential to good government"! Wow!

As we govern ourselves, we must adamantly insist that servants chosen for public office are absolutely prohibited from eroding any freedoms we give ourselves! Wow!

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

We were looking through the book section of the Sunday Chicago Tribune (July 27) the other day and decided it might be amusing to see how Wayne Public Library's reading habits coincided with those of Chicago. It is really not exactly a fair comparison because of the fact that WPL does not receive new books as fast as, perhaps, larger libraries. However, we will print the top ten best selling books in Chicago and make a few comparisons. (Those book titles found in WPL are starred.)

Here is Chicago's fiction list of 10. *1. The Runaway Jury, John Grisham. *2. Cause of Death, Patricia Cornwell. *3. The Tenth Insight, James Redfield. *4. A Little Yellow Dog, Walter Mosely. *5. Lily White, Susan Isaacs. *6. How Stella Got Her Groove Back, Terry McMillan. *7. The Celestine Prophecy, James Redfield. *8. Exclusive, Sandra Brown. *9. Falling Up, Shel Silverstein (this is a child's book of poetry). *10. Accordion Crimes, E. Annie Proulx.

Non-fiction books are: *1. The Dilbert Principle, Scott Adams. 2. Sacred Hoops, Phil Jackson. 3. The Choice, Bob Woodward. 4. Outrage, Vincent Bugliosi. *5. Bad As I Wanna Be, Dennis Rodman and Tim Keown. *6. Undaunted Courage, Stephen E. Ambrose. *7. Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus, John Gray. 8. Partners in Power, Roger Morris. 9. Jack & Jackie, Chris Anderson. *10. The Seven Spiritual Laws of Success, Deepak Chopra.

It may interest you to know that "The Celestine Prophecy" by James Redfield led Wayne's most popular fiction list by a large margin. "Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus" by John Gray is the most popular non-fiction book among Wayne readers for books recently published. Wayne readers count John Grisham and Mary Higgins Clark among their most favorite fiction authors. (Danielle Steel has not brought out a new book recently, so this fact can change as soon as her latest book is in the library!)

Some of the new books on the shelves are "Murder at the National Gallery" by Margaret Truman; "The Green Mile: Coffey's Hands" by Stephen King (this is the third book in his new series); "Black Light" by Stephen Hunter; "Gods and Generals" by Jeffrey M. Shaara; "1812" by David Nevin; "Mischief" by Amanda Quick; "Bucking the Sun" by Ivan Doig; and "The Falconer" by Elaine Clark McCarthy.

We are still looking for Summer Reading Program participants who made golden Egyptian collars. We have them for you if you wish to pick them up. Just ask at the desk.

Library hours are Monday through Friday, noon to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Those hours will remain in effect until Labor Day when they will change back to winter hours.

Wakefield ends year with record 47 wins

By Corey B. Of the Herald

The Wakefield Juniors ended their season with a record of 47-19 on Saturday with a 5-4 loss to Morse Bluff in the three-team play-off round of the American Legion play-offs.

After Morse Bluff took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning on a solo home run, Wakefield tied it in the bottom of the inning when Wes Blecke drove in Josh Snyder with two outs.

Morse Bluff regained the lead with three runs in the seventh and one in the eighth to make the score 5-1. Wakefield came back, however, as they had done all season. With two outs in the bottom of the eighth, Wakefield loaded the bases with a single and a pair of walks.

Blecke then barely missed a homer off the fence in left-center. His double, however, cleared the bases and cut the deficit to 5-4. That was close as Wakefield would come as Morse Bluff held on for the one run lead.

Travis Birkley was the losing pitcher for Wakefield. He struck out 10, walked two and allowed just two earned runs in 7 1/3 innings of work. Justin Mackling put the offense with a 5-5 performance at the plate, while Blecke and Mike Blohm each added two hits. Wakefield out-hit Morse Bluff 12-7, but left 10 runners on base.

Millard South defeated Morse Bluff 11-0 to advance to regionals in Woodward, Oklahoma.

Wakefield's 47 wins were a team record for most wins in a season.

Wildcat Radio Network to begin 2nd year

Pete Chapman, director of athletics at Wayne State College, has announced that for the second straight season, all Wildcat football and men's basketball games will be broadcast on a regional basis on the Wildcat Radio Network. Radio station KWPN (108 FM/84 AM) in West Point, which will broadcast all Wayne State football and men's basketball games, is joined this season by KLIR (101 FM) in Columbus, which will carry all WSC football contests.

The areas now covered by the signals of the stations on the network include most of eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. For the second straight year, Wildcat athletic events will also be on TEAMLINE, a telephone service which is available to fans outside the listening area. The number to call is 1-800-846-4700 (ext. 6878).

During the football season, Bill Seifert, sports director at KNEB Radio in Norfolk, will call the play-by-play action, while Joe Van Ackeren (Norfolk) will provide the color commentary.

The Wildcats, who began fall camp on August 12, will hold their first scrimmage on August 18. Wayne State will open the 1996 season on August 31 at NCAA II foe, Emporia State in Kansas.

Teen wondering about girl interests

Q: I'm a young teen boy who is starting to get interested in girls. Can you tell me what's happening?

A: That's a very important question. As your body starts to change, you'll notice that you're beginning to be more interested in people of the opposite sex. Suddenly girls begin to look great to boys and the boys start appealing to the girls.

How do I know this will happen? How can I predict it so accurately? Because sex will soon become an "appetite" within you. If you missed your breakfast this morning, I can predict that you'll be plenty hungry by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Your body will ask for food. It's made that way. There are chemicals in your body that will make you feel hungry when you haven't eaten.

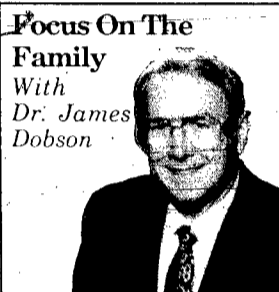

In the same way, some new chemicals in your body will begin to develop a brand-new appetite when you're between 12 and 15 years old. This will not be a craving for food, but it will involve the matter called sex, or the male or female aspects of your nature.

Every year as you get older, this appetite will become more and more a part of you. You'll want to spend more of your time with someone of the opposite sex. Eventually this desire may lead you to marriage. Marriage is a wonderful union for those who find the right person. However, let me offer a word of caution of that subject.

One of the biggest mistakes you can make with your life is to get married too soon. That can be tragic. I want to stress that point in your mind. For two people to get married before they are ready can be a disaster. I don't want yours to be one of those broken homes.

Now let me describe for you the feeling that sex will bring in the next few years. Boys will become very interested in the bodies of girls—in the way they're built, in their curves and softness, and in their pretty hair and eyes. Even their feminine feet may have an appeal to boys during this time. If you're a boy, it's very likely that you will think often about

Focus On The Family
With

these fascinating creatures called girls, whom you used to hate so much!

Girls, on the other hand, will not be quite so excited over the shape and the look of a boy's body (although they will find them interesting). They will be more fascinated by the boy himself the way he talks, the way he walks, the way he thinks. If you're a girl, you will probably get a "crush" on one boy after another. (A crush occurs when you begin to think that one particular person is absolutely fantastic, and you fantasize about the possibility of being married to that person. Usually crushes are constantly changing, lasting only a few weeks or months before another one takes its place.)

Q: What are wet dreams that I hear other boys talking about?

A: Many boys have "wet dreams," or what doctors call nocturnal emissions. This refers to the fluid which comes out of a boy's penis occasionally at night. The fluid is called semen and contains millions of cells so tiny that you can't even see them. One of these cells could become a child if it were injected into a female and combined with her egg cell. (That would compose the zygote.)

This semen sometimes is released during a nighttime dream; then the boy finds the stain on his pajamas the next morning and begins to worry about what is going on. However, this event is perfectly normal. It happens to almost all boys and is nothing to worry about. A nocturnal emission is just his body's way of getting rid of the extra fluid that has accumulated.

How to Prevent Both Strokes and Heart Attacks
Maintaining control of one's blood pressure (BP) is an important health measure. Several recent studies have shown that high blood pressure treatment prevents strokes and heart attacks in older adults. Self-care measures include weight loss, physical activity, smoking cessation, and salt and alcohol restriction. If BP is not controlled with these measures, medicines are usually recommended. Diuretics (water pills) such as hydrochlorothiazide are first line drugs and are the most commonly prescribed BP medicines. Beta blockers such as atenolol and timolol block the effect of adrenalin and have been shown to prevent strokes in low doses. Calcium channel blockers such as diltiazem inhibit movement of calcium which results in arterial dilation. ACE inhibitors such as benazepril dilate blood vessels without affecting heart rate or output of the heart.

Recent rains may help alleviate grasshopper population problems

Conditions may be just about right this year for grasshopper populations to reach damaging numbers, observed John Foster, Entomologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Grasshoppers are cyclic, and periods of extreme heat cause the eggs to hatch.

"The potential for grasshopper damage is quite high," Foster said, "but we have been blessed with rain."

The field crop specialist said that grasshoppers have been moving into crops and that there is a concern that they will move from pasture land into newly-seeded alfalfa as farmers begin to plant alfalfa in mid- to late-August. So far, the insects have been spotted in soybean and cornfields.

"The problem comes about with the heat, as it builds up you're likely to get tremendous numbers of grasshoppers," said the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty member.

Grasshoppers can do extensive damage to any alfalfa field, but especially those newly planted. Typically, they eat the leaves, but they may also feed on the stems and crowns. A bite far enough down on a young stem can kill the plant, so that growth never reoccurs.

Fortunately, Nebraska has been subjected to widespread rainfall lately. This may provide some relief for farmers.

"It won't kill them all off, but it will help keep the population down," Foster said.

Grasshoppers are prey to the fungus that grows in the moisture of soil, grass and plants, he said. The pathogen acts as a natural insecticide and if grasshoppers touch the fungus, they will eventually die. Even without rain, having high humidity should be helpful because it will aid in keeping moisture in the grass.

If planning to plant alfalfa in the next couple of weeks, Foster said that producers should scout and examine fields to determine the extent of grasshopper populations.

If producers do experience problems with grasshoppers once alfalfa is planted, they may want to spray the field edges with an insecticide, as that is where high populations are more likely to be found.

Foster pointed out that concentrating on the field edges will cover more land area and will be more cost effective than trying to spray an entire crop.

Greenbugs may pose problems in sorghum

Producers scouting sorghum fields may run across some light-green insects, more specifically, greenbugs. Characterized by a dark green stripe down their backs, these pinhead-sized pests can pose a threat to sorghum.

According to Keith Jarvi, UNL Extension Integrated Pest Management assistant, greenbugs "usually feed on the underside of leaves on larger plants although they will also be found in the whorls of seeding sorghum." Feeding appears as reddish to purple spots on the sorghum leaves. Resistant varieties provide some reduction in greenbug damage, but sometimes even these will require an insecticide application, said Jarvi.

Infestations in grain sorghum typically peak in late July and early August. Currently, most grain sorghum plants are in the boot to soft dough growth stage, and treatment should be considered if greenbug colonies are present on most plants, before one lower leaf has been killed, and if parasite numbers are low.

"Forage sorghum typically planted in early July following harvest of small grains is in greater risk of serious damage from greenbug infestation in the seedling stage," said Jarvi. Producers should scout this crop often, and consider treatment on larger plants if at least 25 percent of the lower leaves have colonies, and are showing signs of feeding damage.

Registered insecticides for greenbug control in sorghum include: Furadan 4F, Lorsban 4E, dimethoate, Di-Syston 15G and 8EC, Dyfonate 4E, malathion 57EC, Metasystox-R 2SC, ethyl parathion, and Thimet 20G. "Since certain grain and forage sorghum varieties may be sensitive to some organophosphate insecticides, parathion and Metasystox-R should be applied to a small area, and observed for a few days prior to treatment of the entire field to determine if any crop injury will occur," said Jarvi.

Vacation over

It's a cool, foggy morning here. My "vacation" is over. I have to put my pager on again in half an hour. Kay is in Tulsa this week. Her plane left at 6 a.m. That meant she left here at 4:00, which is the middle of the night, in my book.

The B&B business apparently hit its peak last month. Reservations have slowed a bit. I walked around a lake at Louisville Recreation area yesterday; folks are getting a few last camping weekends in.

By Pat Meierhenry

I got my pictures back from Atlanta. I didn't take very many, because my camera does not have a zoom lens. I did buy several cards and magazines. Post cards were a buck apiece! So, if you didn't get one from me, that's why.

Sports Illustrated did a daily magazine. The agenda for the day was free, but they expected you to buy the magazine, also. It capitalized all the previous day's events, complete with color pictures, and the color on the cover would often smear because it was so fresh.

I arrived with no tickets because I didn't now how busy I would be. Turned out the traffic by the church I was assigned to was light. There was an envelope on a large message board that said, "Tickets. Leave a check." In it was one for track and field, on Thursday a.m. Face value: $53. I cringed at the price, but that was one venue I wanted to see. I wrote a check.

My hostess drove me to the Marta station. When I arrived downtown, I had to walk, with hundreds of others, to the stadium. Here, bags were checked. But I finally found my seat: the same portal that was used for the president; and was not too late to see all the USA decathletes run the hurdles and throw the discus.

It was also the women's qualifying high jump and long jump, so I saw Joyner-Kersey "from a distance." Opening height for women was 5-8 1/4!

And there were exhibition wheelchair races. The Paralympics begin there this week. I saw a T-shirt for them that said, "What's your excuse?" I wonder!

The flame was neat, the stadium was beautiful, and I had to pinch myself to believe I was actually there.

I had a sandwich in my purse, and I drank water. More about prices later. The key is: have plenty of cash!

Rasmussen is honored

Claire Rasmussen of Wayne has been awarded the Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship from the Nebraska Department of Education.

Depending on future Congressional appropriations, this scholarship can be renewed three times.
