

Education key to fire prevention

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

There's a unique group of people in Wayne that numbers 38 who stand willing and ready to help anyone, thing or property 24 hours a day, 365 days a week.

Yet, this unique entity, though proud of what they know and can do, hope they never get that call from you because if they do, it can mean tragedy is at your door step.

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department has been serving the citizens for at least 84 years and despite the risk of life each time they step into a fire to save a life, building or land they do it for nothing but satisfaction and the drive to help their fellow man which in a town the size of Wayne can quite possibly be a neighbor, family member or friend.

National Fire Prevention Week is October 6-12. It falls every year around the same time. In fact, what ever day the ninth of October falls on that entire week is designated as National Fire Prevention Week in memory of the Great Chicago Fire, started of course by Mrs. O'Leary's cow knocking over a lantern back in the late 1890's.

At least 20 different groups tour the fire hall during the annual week set aside for fire safety and prevention education.

Fire chief Dutch Sitzman has been the man at the helm for the past five years and was chief in the early 80's for a five-year span as well. Sitzman is a fourth generation fireman in his family and has been involved with volunteer fire departments in Wayne, Emerson and Peru for more than 40 years.

"We need an active volunteer fire department to protect lives and property in the Wayne area," Sitzman said. "We've got one of the best fire departments in the state and we've been recognized for that."

The department has a capacity to carry 40 people based on the costs of equipping firefighters so there is room for two more. The VFD is tax-supported and the operating budget for the 1996-97 fiscal year is $101,532.

There are nine pieces of equipment at the firehall including one city pumper, one city aerial pumper, one city command vehicle, one city personnel carrier, one city 1936 Ford parade carrier, one rural pumper, two rural tankers and one rural rescue truck. The tankers hold 1200 gallons and 1000 gallons of water and the pumper can also hold 1000 gallons of water.

There are two sizes of nozzles the local firefighters use, 1 1/2 inch and 2 1/2 inch. The smaller one can pump between 30 and 125 gallons of water a minute while the larger one can pump up to 500 gallons of water per minute. The aerial pumper can shoot up to 750 gallons of water per minute.

The water to fight fires comes from the Wayne Water System—the Harvest moves into full swing

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Following a relatively normal growing season, area farmers are now reaping the rewards of their labor.

Soybean harvest is progressing fairly smoothly according to both elevator operators and researchers at the University of Nebraska Research and Extension Center.

Jason Berg of Wayne Grain and Feed reports that "things have been going pretty smoothly so far this season."

He estimates that soybean harvest is one-half completed and that "the weather has been great."

Producers have been reporting yields in the mid 40-bushel range.

Berg also said the quality of the soybeans is good this season. Last year, an early frost resulted in some of the soybeans not maturing properly which in turn caused farmers to harvest green beans.

Charles Shapiro, nutrition specialist at the UN Extension Center said that northeast Nebraska is very close to normal in the amount of rain received during this growing season.

"This, coupled with the fact that we did not have any extremely hot days this summer, has lead to a good harvest," Shapiro said.

As of the middle of September, the area was 293 growing degree days behind normal but Shapiro said the crops have come along faster than the numbers might indicate.

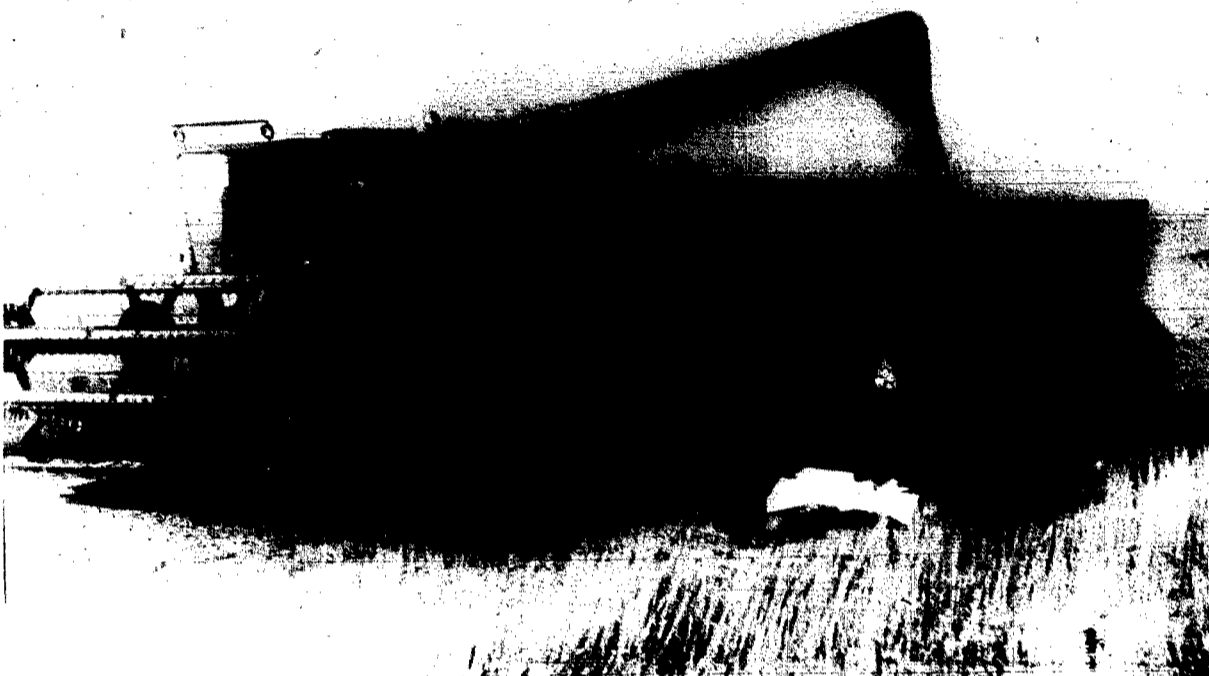

Shapiro said some producers may be waiting for a killing frost to help kill weeds in some fields.

Corn harvest has not yet begun. Reports indicate a moisture content of 30 percent on samples that have been taken.

"The corn is looking good but it is still too early to tell what the yields will be," Shapiro said.

Shapiro urges producers who have completed harvest to complete soil sampling this fall.

"By doing testing this fall, there will be more time to analyze the results and make plans for next year's crop," he said.

Bob Janke was one of a number of area farmers who took advantage of good weather to harvest soybeans. Farmers are reporting yields in the mid 40-bushel per acre range for this year's crop.

Council approves sale of library property to Our Savior Church

In what was one of the shortest meetings in recent months, the City Council approved resolution authorizing the sale of the current library property and listened to a presentation from a representative of Nebraska Public Power.

The council voted unanimously to sell the library property to Our Savior Lutheran Church and also voted to waive the necessary three readings of the ordinance directing the sale of this property.

The council deferred taking any action on a request by the church for diagonal parking on Fifth Street near Main Street because there were no representatives of the church at the meeting.

The council listened to a presentation by Jack Henderson from Nebraska Public Power District.

He had been invited to visit with the council and several Wayne businesses to listen to concerns with past electrical outages.

Henderson told the council that those parties involved with providing electrical power to the city are currently meeting to discuss ways to solve problems that have occurred in the past.

He said that while he can't undo the past, he is confident that the problems can be dealt with in the future.

Included in the solutions he gave was the possibility of switching to the Wayne generators earlier when severe weather threatens.

Logan Street project nears completion

The intersection of Second and Logan Streets is now open for east-west access.

Depending on weather conditions, there is a possibility that other intersections will be open in the near future, according to Scott Milikan, project manager for the Department of Roads.

Crews are currently installing sidewalks and driveways between Sixth and Seventh Street.

The entire street will be opened to traffic seven days after the north end of the street and the remainder of the driveways have been poured, Milikan said.

Changes proposed at Riley's

Rod Tompkins, owner of Riley's Ballroom, has announced that changes will be made at his establishment in regard to Thursday night dances.

"At the request of the City Council, Riley's late night, no-alcohol teen dance—the one Thursday nights that goes from 11 p.m. to 2:30 a.m.—will make the following restrictions," Tompkins said.

"We will not allow dance patrons to re-enter the dance. We will use a hand stamp to stamp each patron's hand. If they leave for any reason whatsoever, they will not be admitted back in, even at an additional charge."

"We will require that each male patron be required to wear a shirt with a collar on it."

"We will require that every customer have a college ID card. No one except college students will be admitted."

two water towers in town which combined hold nearly two million gallons of water. "Our well field is about six miles north and one mile west of town," Sitzman said.

Along with that there are five other city wells that are pumped when needed. "We've never had a situation where we've run out of water," Sitzman said, thankfully.

Each year the volunteer fire department has fund raisers to help raise additional funds. Since it is tax supported the department can not have its own bank account so a Fire Association was developed for that purpose.

The biggest fund raiser is the annual Fireman's Ball held the first Saturday after Thanksgiving. "We also receive donations from Insurance Companies," Sitzman added. "The money raised goes for meeting the necessities of the fire association and to help pay for continued schooling of the firefighters."

During the year the VFD presents programs on fire safety and life safety to organizations and schools. "We also help with the demolition derby at the Fair, fireworks displays, all Fair functions, the Junior Fire Patrol and a variety of other things," Sitzman said.

The Junior Fire Patrol Program is for fourth graders in the district and it's designed to teach fire prevention along with a certain amount of first aid and rescue and life saving techniques. "We have an Annie doll used for recessing purposes," Sitzman said.

The Junior Fire Patrol meets the first Monday of the month following the first Tuesday of the month beginning in October and running through May. There are nearly 40 enrolled this year with Art Barker and Bill Kugler co-chairing the program.

"We are in the 35th year of the Junior Fire Patrol Program," Kugler said. "We are seeing several youth who's parents were also involved in our Junior Fire Patrol Program," Sitzman added. "Kugler just so happens to be one of two chairmen who conducted the first ever Junior Fire Patrol Program back in 1961. He was aided by Clete Sharer."

EACH TIME the fire whistle sounds an average of 23 volunteer firefighters respond and Sitzman said the response time is around three minutes.

The fire chief gets to the scene of the fire first if he can and quickly assesses the situation and decides what is needed and where to direct the firefighters based on hookups with fire hydrants if available.

The fire chief is also the one who dictates who goes into the fire if the need arises. Firefighters use self contained breathing apparatus each time they enter a burning building.

The oldest active firefighter in the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department is Bill Kugler who's been with the Wayne department since 1947. Harold Fleer is a 35-year veteran and Bob Stanley, 32 years while Sitzman has been in the Wayne department 32 years.

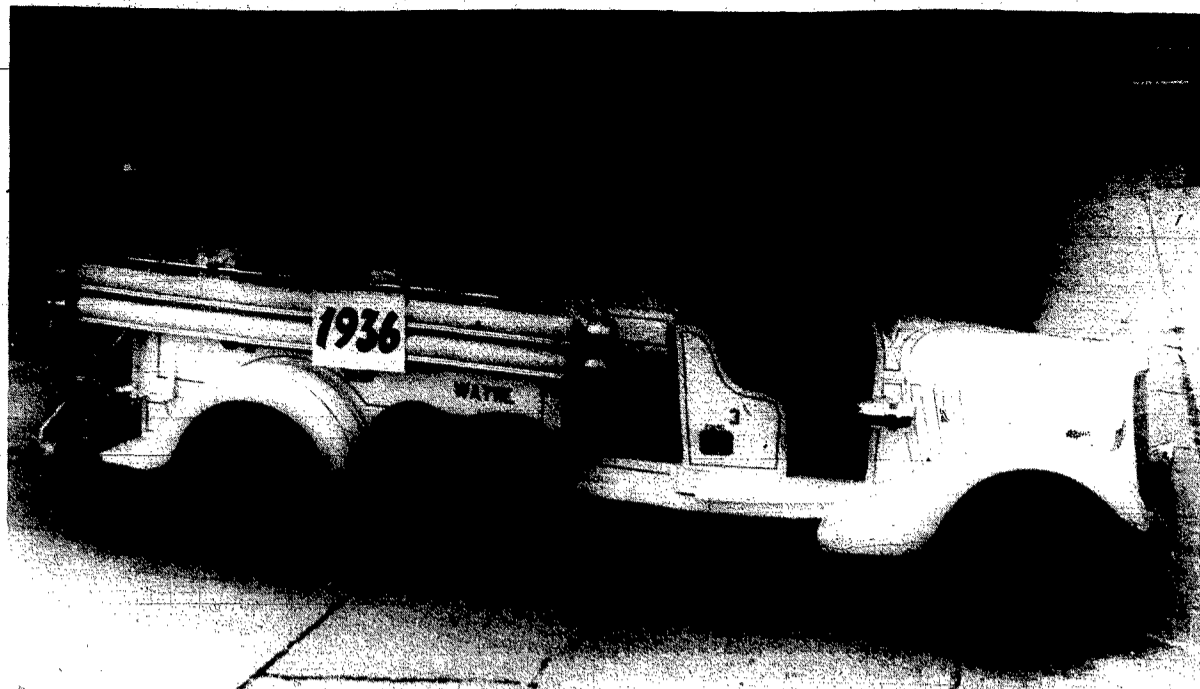

Kugler and Sitzman recalled the most memorable and devastating fires they've been associated with and the list includes in no particular order of severity: State National Bank, Genos Steakhouse/Hotel, Sale Barn, Surber Furniture Store, El Toro, Black Knight, Redeemer Lutheran Church, Pig Coop and Tom Liveringhouse Trucking Firm.

Most fire departments say an average of one major loss occurs every five-to-seven years due to fire, and in Wayne since 1991 there have been five.

The volunteer firefighters meet the first Tuesday of each month for general meetings and they meet the second Tuesday of the month for fire drills and the third Tuesday of each month for rescue drills.

Wayne entered into an agreement with the rural fire district in 1950 with Wayne using their trucks in exchange for housing them and maintaining them. "It's one of the best agreements ever comprised," Kugler said.

Wayne can answer mutual aid calls east as far as the Missouri River/South Sioux City and as far west as Tilden. The Wayne fire district stretches 10 miles south, eight miles north, six miles west and five miles east.

The Stepping Stones Preschool children of Diane Ehrhardt's class prepare for a ride on the 1936 Ford parade fire engine during National Fire Prevention Week. Driving the classic fire truck is Bill Kugler, the oldest active firefighter in Wayne with 49 years of service to the local fire department.

Creighton is award winner

Marcile Thomas, Administrator of Providence Medical Center announced that Marian Creighton, RN, of Wayne has been selected the "1996 Caring Kind" award winner from Providence Medical Center.

As part of the festivities of the Nebraska Association of Hospitals and Health Systems Convention in Lincoln, Mrs. Creighton will be honored at a luncheon on Friday, Oct. 18 at the Cornhusker Hotel.

"Marian has been an outstanding member of our nursing staff and an inspiration to the many members of our medical team that have had the good fortune to work by her side. No one is more deserving of such an honor than she," said Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. Creighton started working at Bentback Hospital in 1953 and has worked night shifts her entire career.

"I like working nights. When my children were growing up, I was able to attend their activities without interfering with my work schedule," she said.

Marian Creighton looks over a patients' chart as part of her duties at Providence Medical Center for more than 30 years.

"The hospital is not always quiet at night. People do get sick at night and lots of babies have been born at night," Mrs. Creighton said.

"People should feel fortunate to have a hospital of this caliber in a town this size.

Mrs. Creighton has worked with

Dr. Walter and Dr. Robert Bentback and Dr. Matson in addition to the five physicians currently serving the hospital.

"This has been a good place to work. I have really enjoyed the people I have worked with," she said.

Accident critically injures two men

The Stanton County Sheriff's Office is investigating a two vehicle accident which occurred Wednesday afternoon four miles north of Pilger.

The driver of the car, Travis M. Posvar, 20, of Wayne, was taken to Faith Regional-Lutheran Campus where he underwent surgery and was listed in critical condition.

A passenger in the car, Rick N. Endicott, 20, of Wayne, was taken to Providence Medical Center and then transported by Marian Air Care to Marian Hospital in Sioux City, Iowa.

The accident occurred when the car was struck by a southbound grain truck at an unmarked intersection.

The driver of the truck, Theodore L. Reeg, was not injured.

Choir to give its premiere performance

Composer Randall Snyder will be on the Wayne State College campus Sunday, Oct. 13 for the 3 p.m. premiere performance of his new piece "Saffron Dreams" which he wrote on commission for the WSC concert choir.

The choir's premiere performance will be the first event of the 1996-97 Sunday Series events sponsored by the Wayne State College Center for Cultural Outreach. The event will wrap up a busy Homecoming Weekend schedule. Choir conductor is Tim Sharer and pianist is Beverly Soll.

Dr. Snyder will discuss the composition and origins of "Saffron Dreams" during a shop talk session prior to the choir performance. Influenced in his work by ethnic music, Dr. Snyder composed the four movement work for choir, percussion and piano with each movement in a different Oriental language, Persian, Bengali, Japanese and Korean.

Dr. Snyder is head of the composition department at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where he also teaches jazz and ethnomusicology. His interest in world music has been stimulated by time spent in Morocco and the Traditional Performing Arts Institute in Seoul, Korea. In 1992 he was appointed Composer in Residence with the Nebraska Chamber Orchestra.

He attended Quincy College and the University of Wisconsin, from which he earned his Doctor of Musical Arts degree.

Over 40 of his more than 200 works have been published and several have won awards, including "Alienor," which received 2nd prize in the 1991 "Spirit of Today's West" orchestral competition, and "Jewel in the Crown," winner of the "Museum in the Community" contest sponsored by the West Virginia Symphony. His music is available on the Coronet, CRS and Vienna Modern masters label.

The Sunday Series performance is free and open to the public and will be held in the Ley Theatre. A reception will follow.

"We will install two posts and a chain lock at the east parking lot exit across from the trailer park entrance and advise patrons that this exit will be locked at midnight on dance nights."

"Riley's agrees to make these restrictions in an effort to be a good neighbor to our community, keep teenagers under 17 out of the dance, eliminate the undesirables that may bring drugs or weapons to the community and make it quieter for the people that live in the trailer court across the street," Tompkins said.

As the police reports show, there have never been any problems with drugs or weapons at either Riley's Pub, Riley's Ballroom or the parking lot, nor have there been any serious fights or gang activities at this no-alcohol dance," Tompkins added.

Late night fire destroys a rural Carroll home

A fire Friday evening destroyed the home of Vern and Jaylyn Steele of rural Carroll.

Carroll Fire Chief Rick Davis said his department received a call at approximately 11 p.m. By the time they arrived on the scene, the house was totally engulfed in flames.

The Carroll Fire Department was assisted in fighting the blaze by the Winside and Hoskins Fire Departments. Fire fighters remained on the scene until approximately 4 p.m.

The Steeles were not at home when the fire broke out. The call was turned in by a neighbor.

The Red Cross is housing Steeles until other arrangements can be made.

State Fire Marshall Curtly McDonald said that the cause of the blaze cannot be determined due to a lack of evidence.

Estimated value of the loss was $200,000. The home was insured.

A fund has been set up at State National Bank for the Steeles.

No comparison to Holocaust

Dear Editor:

I feel compelled to respond to a recent letter to the editor claiming that America is worse than Nazi Germany for allowing partial birth abortions. While I recognize the need for strong imagery in making arguments, this comparison can not be allowed to go unrefuted. The purpose of this letter is not to defend partial birth abortions, but to rescue the special nature of the Nazi terror from becoming a cliché. To equate the destruction of an unborn with the murder of living human beings goes too far. Nazi Germany murdered, humiliated and robbed millions of families. They conducted a propaganda campaign to incite hate and violence. They tried to conquer the world and brought on the death of many more who tried to stop them.

It is easy to write words on a page and make comparisons, however, put yourself in place of survivors of Nazi Germany. Would you consider the murder of parents, brothers, sisters, grandparents and friends the same as an abortion planned and executed the genocide in Germany can not be compared to someone who votes to allow partial birth abortions. Out of respect to the many who died either directly or indirectly due to Nazi terror, the evil of that period cannot be bantered about. By using the comparison inappropriately, one diminishes the horror of the Holocaust. While unintentional, this is felt as making light of the losses suffered in the Holocaust.

Roger Hochstein, left, director of Campus Security at Wayne State College, assists John Hintz with the installation of new parking meters on campus. The meters in selected locations near the Student Center will provide short term parking availability to campus visitors.

Meters installed at WSC

It should be easier for campus visitors to find short term parking places near the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus with the installation of parking meters.

Campus Security personnel began installing the meters last week near the Student Center. Metered parking should ensure that spaces will remain open for short term visitors who want to stop at the Wayne State book store, visit the food service facilities or do business with student services in the Student Center, according to Roger Hochstein, head of Campus Security.

He said the meters are being installed as an incentive for motorists not to leave cars parked in short term spaces for long periods of time. The meters will have a 30 minute time limit. If motorists allow the meter to expire it could result in a $10 parking ticket.

The goal is not to raise money with the meters, said Hochstein. The goal is to use them to make campus facilities accessible to more people, he said.

Depending on the success of the first few meters which were installed on the east and west sides of the Student Center, more may be installed in other short-term locations on campus as well, said Hochstein.

In addition to the installation of parking meters, other traffic pattern and parking changes have been implemented on campus this fall. Schreiner Drive which runs on the east edge of the Student Center and Bowen Hall has been converted to one way south to provide for more, pedestrian safety and angle parking along the street.

Coronation at Allen

Amanda Mitchell and Brett Sachau received the honor of becoming the 1996 Homecoming Queen and King at Allen High School. Their selection was announced Friday afternoon.

Scholarships available

Full tuition academic-based scholarships for the 1997-98 school year are available for attendance at Wayne State College according to Joan Zanders, Director of Financial Aid at WSC.

These Board of Trustees' Scholarships are renewable and represent a financial award of more than $7,000 when renewed over four years.

Applicants must:
-Score at least a 25 on the ACT or 1100 on the SAT college entrance exams;

-Graduate in the top 25 percent of the high school class;

-Be a graduating senior for a Nebraska high school enrolling for the first time as a full-time college student;

-Provide at least one written recommendation from a high school teacher or administrator and

-Meet the Jan. 17, 1997 deadline.

"When you consider the advantages of Wayne State College—a small campus, low teacher to student ratios, a dedication to seeing every student succeed, reasonable cost and ready access—you can understand why so many students choose Wayne State," said Zanders.

Two honored for recycling

The Nebraska State Recycling Association has announced winners of the 1996 Recycling Awards. This year's winners come from all over the state and are being recognized for their outstanding achievements in the recycling industry.

Volunteer Recycler of the Year has been given to both Patty Wurdeman of Wakefield and Scott Jackson of Winside for their dedication and volunteer efforts for the Wakefield Recycling Center.

Ms. Wurdeman and Mr. Jackson have been involved with the program for almost four years with two of those years donated on a voluntary basis.

The awards were presented at a banquet on Oct. 8 in Lincoln.

Bears suffer first regular season loss since 1993

Laurel falls to Plainview

The Laurel Bears football team was defeated in their final home game of the regular season last Friday by Plainview, 10-2.

The loss was not only the first of the season for the Bears but it was the first regular season loss experienced by the Bears since the 1993 season as the Pirates snapped Laurel's 24-game regular season win streak.

"It goes back to basics," coach Tom Luxford said. "If you don't take care of the ball you aren't going to win many games and we had five turnovers."

Laurel took a 2-0 lead in the second quarter after the ball was snapped over the Plainview punter's head through the endzone. Plainview took its next possession and marched down the field and Ryan Assmussen kicked a 23-yard field goal to give the visitors a 3-2 lead at the half.

Kevin Lingenfelter scored the game's only touchdown on a two-yard run in the third quarter. "We were inside Plainview's 20-yard line on five different occasions and didn't score a point," Luxford said. "Turnovers and penalties really hurt us."

Luxford said his squad is naturally disappointed with the loss but some of the pressure is now off the team. Laurel out-gained Plainview in total yards, 186-121. Vince Ward rushed for 88 yards to lead the Bears ground gain while Ryan Kvols was 7-18 with two interceptions through the air for 69 yards.

Travis Stingley was the top receiver with five catches for 49 yards. Defensively, the Bears were led by Kvols with 18 tackles and Ward with 14 along with an interception and a fumble recovery. Ryan McCoy was also in double figures in tackles with 12. Laurel will travel to play Elkhorn Valley on Friday.

Wayne loses to West Point

John Murtaugh's Wayne Blue Devils football team was upended by West Point last Friday night, 8-0 despite the fact the Blue Devils controlled the game at the line of scrimmage.

"We finished with 254 total yards, our best output of the season," Murtaugh said. "We held West Point to just 86 total yards but we just couldn't put the ball in the endzone."

In fact, the only score of the game came on a fourth down and long call when Brandon Gumm connected with Jay Gerdis from 25 yards out. The Cadets connected on the two-point conversion with Gumm hitting Mitch Wagner on the short pass.

"We made real progress on the offensive end," Murtaugh said. "We just need to improve our play in the red zone (inside the opponents' 20-yard line). We had the ball inside the 10-yard line twice and didn't score."

Wayne drove the length of the field late in the fourth quarter and reached the West Point five-yard line with under a minute to play. On second down and goal quarterback Paul Blumenkamp attempted to pass in to the endzone for a touchdown to Kurtis Keller when the ball was intercepted.

"We did a good job of keeping our composure after we got down," Murtaugh said. "We drove the length of the field and nearly put the ball in the endzone but it just didn't happen."

Brian Fernau was Wayne's top rusher with 52 yards on 13 carries while Blumenkamp was 8-22 for 114 yards and two interceptions. Paul Zulkosky had five receptions for 86 yards while defensively, Jeremy Lutt led the way with 10 total tackles.

Wayne will host O'Neill on homecoming night, Friday.

Wakefield football team handed first loss of year

Wakefield was handed its first loss of the season on the gridiron last Friday night as Emerson-Hubbard spoiled the Trojans homecoming contest with a 27-12 victory.

The Pirates scored first on a one-yard run by Mike Hassler but Wakefield came right back and tied the game at six at the intermission when Jim Rusk hit B.J. Hansen on a 37-yard scoring pass.

Josh Hassler of Emerson scored the next two touchdowns on runs of 1 and 11 yards and Mike Hassler added a 54-yard scoring run before Wakefield's Hansen hit Justin Mackling on a 55-yard scoring pass to round out the scoring.

Coach Dennis Wilbur said mistakes and turnovers doomed a good effort by his squad. Wakefield had five turnovers in the game including three fumbles and two interceptions.

How young mothers can slow down

Q: We live in what you can describe as "routine panic" in our home. I have three children under 6, and I never get caught up with my work. How can I slow down when it takes every minute of the day (and night) to care for my children?

A: There may be a helpful answer in the way you spend your money.

Most Americans maintain a "priority list" of things to purchase when enough money is saved for that expense. It is my conviction that domestic help for the mother of small children should appear on that priority list. Without it, she is sentenced to the same responsibility day in and day out, seven days a week.

For several years, she is unable to escape the unending burden of dirty diapers, runny noses and unwashed dishes. She will do a more efficient job in those tasks and be a better mom if she can share the load with someone else occasionally. This seems more important to the happiness of the home than buying new drapes or a power saw for Dad.

But how can middle-class families afford house cleaning and baby-sitting services in these inflationary days? It might be accomplished by using competent high-school students instead of older adults. I suggest that a call be placed to the counseling office of the nearest senior high school. Tell the counselor that you need a mature third- or fourth-year student to do some cleaning. Do not reveal that you are looking for a regular employee.

When the referred person arrives, try him or her out for a day and see how the responsibility is handled. If the student is very efficient, offer him or her a weekly job. If the student is slow and flighty, thank him or her for coming and call for another student the following week. There is a remarkable difference in maturity level between high school students, and you'll eventually find one who works like an adult.

Here are some further suggestions to help you tolerate the pressures of your life:

1. Reserve some time for yourself. At least once a week, go bowling or shopping or simply "waste" an occasional afternoon. In addition, a husband and wife should have a date every week or two, leaving the children at home, and even forgetting them for an evening.

Focus On The Family
With
Dr. James Dobson

2. Don't struggle with things you can't change. Concentrate on the good things in your life. Men and women should recognize that discontent can become nothing more than a bad habit—a costly attitude that can rob them of the pleasure of living.

3. Don't deal with any big problems late at night. All problems seem more unsolvable in the evenings, and the decisions that are reached then may be more emotional than rational.

4. Try making a list. The advantages of writing down one's responsibilities are threefold: 1.) You know you aren't going to forget anything. 2.) You can guarantee that the most important jobs will get done first. 3.) The tasks are crossed off the list as they are completed, leaving a record of what has been accomplished.

Q: Should parents force a child to eat?

A: No, I am no expert in nutrition, but I believe a normal child's appetite is governed by the amount of food he needs. He will get hungry when he needs nourishment.

However, I do believe a parent should carefully guard that appetite, making sure that he satisfies it with the food his body requires. A bit of sugar in the afternoon can make him disinterested in his dinner. Or he may sit down at the table and fill his stomach with juice or one item on his plate.

Thus, it may be necessary to give him one kind of food at a time, beginning with iron-rich meat and other protein, followed by the less important items.

Once he is satisfied, I can see no value in forcing him to continue eating. Incidentally, the parent should know that a child's appetite often drops off rapidly between two and three years of age. This occurs because his time of maximum growth rate has subsided, and his need for food is reduced.

Questers group hears report on annual outing to area churches

Nine members of Questers met in the Nana Peterson home the evening of Oct. 7. Each member recalled her scariest memory for roll call. Donna Shufelt and Becky Wilson reported on the group's annual outing, which was a tour of churches in northeast Nebraska. Visits were made to Immanuel Lutheran Church in Wayne County, Bow Valley, St. Helena, Maskell, Newcastle and Fordyce. The group stopped for lunch at the Argo Hotel in Crofton. Hallie Sherry presented the program on the ancient Chinese metal art work called Cloisonne, or metal cell work. Examples of this art form were shown.

Control your anger with empathy

Each of us feels anger at times. There are strategies that can help us control anger. Empathy is on the top of the list as helping people control anger. Empathy is the ability to project oneself into the consciousness of another person. By doing this, you can better understand the motivations of others and reduce your mistrust or negative images of them when it comes to making judgements about their behavior. In other words, "To each foot, it's own shoe," by Montaigne, 16th century French philosopher. Try to see the other person's perspective whenever you find yourself reaching a negative evaluation of the other person's motives. Empathy is a method of having an internal dialogue as a means of talking yourself out of unjustifiable conclusions or hostile thoughts, feelings or urges by trying to understand another person's viewpoint. There are always two sides of a story.

For example, when a child is whining enough to irritate you, consider why they are whining. Are they tired, hurt, trying to tell you something, etc? How about getting into a slow moving line at the check-out counter? Maybe the employee is new and not familiar with their work yet. Were you a new employee once? What if your spouse or partner did not do what they said they would do? Did they run out of time, forget, not understand what to do, decide it wasn't a priority, etc? Every time you can see another person or group from their "perspective," your ability to empathize will grow.

Karen Wermers
Dixon County

This technique can help you talk yourself out of hostile thoughts, feelings or urges. Because your evil motive cannot be proven, you should be able to convince yourself they could just as easily have an acceptable and logical reason for their behavior.

An experiment done in the 1970's proved that empathy reduced blood pressure. Male college students had their blood pressure measured when performing a task. During the task, a rude and obnoxious experimenter harassed them while they were trying to complete the assignment. Some subjects were told that the experimenter was uptight about an important exam and others were told nothing. Some were informed about the extenuating circumstances before hand, and others after the experimenter was rude. Blood pressure changes were greatest for those who received no information. The least blood pressure change came when the information was given ahead of the misbehavior which obviously helped the subject to rationalize the experimenter's behavior.

This example also points out the importance of communication. By communicating our thoughts and feelings, we can help each other understand our motives and behavior.

Criminals have difficulty empathizing. Many rehabilitation programs help criminals learn to look at the victim's viewpoint. The criminal may not have acted in a hostile manner had he empathized in the first place. Rather than allowing yourself to view motives with hostile thoughts, convince yourself that the other person's behavior may be reasonable and justified.

Other strategies that reduce anger include trust, assert yourself, listen, talk, be tolerant, forgive, reason, get involved in the community, avoid isolation, have a confidant, laugh at yourself, etc.
