Theatre begins 60th season

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Productions this weekend will mark the beginning of the 60th season of the Wayne Community Theatre. In 1937 a group called the Wayne Players met to read plays and hold workshops on aspects of the performing arts.

The Wayne Players put on a number of shows throughout the years at the Wayne Auditorium

"Even in the early years, one of the long range goals was to have a theatre of their own," said Dave Headley, a member of the Board of Directors of the Wayne Community Theatre who has been involved in a number of the recent

For several years the Wayne Players quit and Wayne was without a community theatre. In the early 1970's a group of interested people came together brought the theatre back to life.

'Over the years, hundreds of people have participated in our productions, both on stage and behind the scenes. Lots of hard work and dedication go into each project, whether the cast is two or 102," Headley said.

"We would like to thank the community for their past support and hope you continue to support our organization and our home, 'The Carriage House Theatre' which is located in the Mineshaft

Currently, The Carriage House has a seating capacity of approximately 120 people.

Cast members of "Some of My Best Friends are Smiths" rehearse for this weekend's Community Theatre production. They include, left to right, Judy Nemec, Kerry McCue, Dorothy Wert and Katle McCue.

"There are several ways people can become a part of the Wayne Community Theatre. We are always looking for new talent, in both on stage and off stage. Help is always needed with things like set construction, costumes and makeup. We would also like people to consider helping in a financial way," Headley added.

Financial levels of support for the theatre include: Theatre Benefactor-$2,500; Gold Angel-

$1,000; Silver Angel $500; Bronze Angel-$250; Angel-$100; Sustaining-$50 and Patron-$25.

A number of activities are sponsored by the theatre throughout the year including a Halloween Haunted House October, Santa's House December, a winter production, a dinner theatre in the spring and the annual summer musical. Currently, members of the theatre are preparing for the winter production which is made up of

Wayne named a Tree City

City USA by The National Arbor Day Foundation. It is the sixth year Wayne has received this national recognition.

The Tree City USA program is sponsored by The National Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the USDA Forest Service and the National Association of State

To become a Tree City USA, a community must meet four standards: a tree board or department, a tree care community forestry program, and an Arbor Day observance.

"As we celebrate the 125th anniversary of Arbor Day this year, it is especially appropriate to recognize the value of trees to our communities," John Rosefell, the National Arbor Day Foundation's president said, "Trees beautify president said, "Trees beautify and lend value to our homes, neighborhoods, parks and business areas. At the same time, those trees conserve energy, help clean the air, protect rivers and streams,

"An effective community for-estry program is an ongoing, process of renewal and improve ment--a program of tree planting and care that continues through the years," Rosenow said. "The Tree City USA award is an

Myths are dispelled

we hear all kinds of myths expressing what people believe about the Chamber and Why people choose not to join their local Chamber of Commerce.

Consider these myths!

Myth # 1: "The Chamber doesn't really do anything for my business." Actually, the Wayne Area Chamber works hard for your business. Tourism efforts by the Chamber insure a steady stream of visitors to your community. Money spent in a community by tourists recycles several times within that community, eventually making its way into your business

Legislative efforts mean the Chamber actively works on your behalf at the state and national levels. Numerous calls are taken by the Chamber -- calls asking for referrals to your business or community information. In each of these situations, your business benefits when the Chamber promotes your community.

Myth # 2: "I can't afford the Chamber investment." Member investments classified according to categories. For instance, all motels are classified in the same category and pay the same base investment amount et us help you find your category Where else can you find training communication, enthusiasm, and referrals your Chamber investment offers? Remember, your Chamber is the only organization working full time for your business and your Chamber does would get done by someone anyway." "While all the programs of the Chamber run on "high-octane-volunteer-power, recruits. the Chamber organizes, trains, and motivates this outstanding and large group of volunteers. From the Board of Directors, to all the people who serve on Councils and Committees, this current group of just under 100 volunteers functions because the Chamber is there.

Myth # 4: "The Chamber of Commerce is only for businesses. -Wrong! The Wayne Area Chamber has a membership category for individuals. Normally, these are retired individuals who have a continuing desire to participate in the business life of their community. People who join Chamber as individuals are passionate community supporters If this describes you, give us a call.

Myth # 5: "The Chamber is only for businesses located in Wayne." Maybe you did not realize the local Chamber is correctly titled the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce. As an area chamber, we promote not only Wayne itself but also "advance the general welfare and prosperity of the Wayne area for the benefit of its citizens and business community. If you're a farmer, or have home-based business, or are a business person or retired individual located in the area around Wayne, we're promoting your area too! You would benefit from a member investment in the Wayne Area Chamber!

A Membership Blitz on March 26, for the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce will target both a number of businesses in Wayne and the Wayne area as well as individuals. To make sure your business receives all the benefits of Chamber membership, ask to be included on our Blitz list. For more information contact Chamber office at 375.2240

Teen drivers may lose privilege

By Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Ok, so I wasn't the best driver

Just a week or so after getting my drivers license, a car ran into my snazzy, hand-me-down 1967 Barracuda. The other driver had some lame excuse — I didn't have my headlights on. The cop bought that story like a blue-light special at K-Mart.

I got the ticket, the opportunity to fix the other guy's car and a valuable lesson

Some state legislators want to give kids a bigger lesson when it comes to the privilege of driving.

Among several proposals intro-duced this year are bills that take away a teen's drivers li-cense for having too many unex-cused absences from school. suspend the license of an underage drinker if they were caught possessing alcohol.

— raise the age to 17 when a kid could get a full-fledged drivers license, and require them to complete a drivers education course and finish a year's worth of trou-ble-free driving under a "provisional license."

The idea is to take problems tike school truancy, drinking by minors and unsafe driving by teens and try to affect those behaviors by taking away a valuable com-modity for kids: their drivers li-

It is apparently the new fad nationwide to use the privilege of driving as a carrot to entice teenagers to more desirable be

Civil libertarians question the constitutionality of some of these efforts, but many folks are so frustrated with the misbehavior jof teenagers that they'll anything, like taking away their Kids seem split on the ideas. A large group showed up last week to voice support for Legislative Bill 603, the proposal State Sen. Dwite Pedersen of Elkhorn to suspend licenses of teens caught possessing alcohol. They said kids weren't taking minor in possession laws seriously.

Under LB 603, minors convicted of a first offense of possession would get a $250 fine (as long as they were not driving), perform 25 hours of community service and lose their driver's license for six months. If the youth was driving and had a blood alcohol content above .02, the drivers license would be suspended for one year.

The measure is known as a "use and lose" bill. About 23 other states have similar laws, propo-nents said. (That means, of course, that if it's a good enough idea for other states, why not Nebraska?)

But some kids interviewed by the Omaha World-Herald said that their parents would suffer more if their licenses were taken If their kids lost their licenses, then the parents would have to drive them to school.

I can imagine a few farm families, who live miles from town, having that same reaction.

As for me, I can see some need for getting tougher on young-drivers — state statistics clearly show that teenagers are more tilkely to be involved in accidents than other age groups. More training and a probation period may be in order.

Taking away a kid's license for missing school or sneaking a beer on the weekend, though, is an-other question. Why aren't parents preventing those sorts of behaviors already?

It all makes me glad I'm not still a mediocre teen driver

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

A bill that would require

A bill that would require collection of sales taxes from Nebraskans who purchase goods from mail order companies advanced toward final reading this week. The Revenue Committee introduced LB 113 to find replacement revenue that will be lost through the property tax cuts enacted last year. If LB 113 were enacted, retailers who have no physical presence in Nebraska and Nebraskans would required to submit a periodic report to the Department of Revenue. This report would contain information from out-ofstate mail order companies listing the amount of the purchases, and location to which the purchases were shipped. Department of Revenue would then be able to send letters to Nebraskans and ask them to pay taxes on their purchases made from mail order companies.
The Judiciary Committee this past week listened to testimony on three bills that would seek a ban on partial birth abortions. They were LB 23 introduced by Senator Maurstad of Beatrice, LB

167 introduced by Senator Witek of Omaha and LB 217 introduced by Senator Hilgert of Omaha. The three proposals would make an exception if the mother's life was endangered. Under these bills a physician performing the procedure would lose their license and be charged with a Class III felony, which is punishable by one to 20 years in prison.

Legislative action this week will allow County Boards to meet at other locations that are not small in size than the traditional meeting place within the county. LB 40 introduced by Senator Floyd Vrtiska would allo Senator rioyu viusa would anothe county board to determing if a larger meeting room is necessary because of the anticipated audience. It passed final reading in the Legislature and will the Legislature and will go to Governor Nelson's desk for his

The Health and Human Services Committee listened to testimony in a crowded public hearing on LB 587 introduced by Senator Don Wesely at the request of Governor Nelson. This legislative bill would establish the Community-State Partnership Act. This bill is the second step in the merger and reorganization of five health and human service state agencies. If enacted, communities could establish a community partnership organization to plan, monitor and evaluate the community support

The community support system is a local network of public and private providers established to deliver health and human services. Testifiers opposed to LB 587 felt it would create a new layer of bureaucracy and gives too much power to community partnership organizations intended of local elected officials. Don Leuen-, Policy Secretary for the new Health and Human Services System, testified in support of the bill and said it provides the framework necessary to realize the vision to implement the merger. #### James McGown breaks record

WAYNE —Senior runner James McGown returned to form in convincing fashion last Saturday, by crushing the school record for 5000 meters in leading Wayne State at the South Dakota "Fast Chance" Invitational.

McGown was clocked in 15:18:10, breaking the previous mark of 15:55.81 set by Mark Merritt in 1995. This was McGown's third-fastest time ever on the track and only the second time he has run the event indoors as he won the event in Vermillion, S.D.

"James looked really strong, much better than he has so far this indoor season," coach Brian Kavanaugh said. "His running form was much more efficient and he looked like he was running with confidence

Other placers for the men included Jerry Buckles, fifth in the triple jump with a leap of 39-10 and sixth in the 200-meter intermediate hurdles in a school record time of 30.15.

Brad Hrouda placed ninth in the 500-meter dash in 1:10.22 which is fourth all-time on the WSC lists. Jeramie Lippman improved his season meters, clocking 2:01.72 for ninth place and eighth all-time on the WSC lists.

For the women, Kristi Hoefener established a new school record in the 200-meter low hurdles, clocking 32.73 for third place. Kathy Dalton placed second in the 5000-meter run in 19:13.7 while Amy Wintz improved her personal best in the 5000 in a time of 20:15.91 for sixth. Anne LaBrayere also improved her best time for 5000 meters with a 21:22.13 clocking for eighth place.

Kelly Bausch placed fifth in the 500-meter dash in 1:24.77 and Naomi LeGrand was seventh in the 400-meter dash in 1:04.55 and 12th in the 200, 27.92. Jennifer Olson was eighth in the triple jump, 31-4 and 11th in the long jump, 14-5.75.

All three WSC assistant coaches competed in their specialty events. Jumps coach Andrew Owusu won the long jump, 26-0, which is believed to be among the top 10 marks in the world so far this year. Sprints/Hurdles coach Blair Marelli was third in the 200 hurdles, 26,15 and throws coach Carter Bull was sixth in the shot put, 44-5.

Students in the Human Performance and Leisure Studies Division at Wayne State College lined up by height for an exercise in creating a graphic display of a frequency distribution curve last week. The exercise was part of a statistics study in Barb Engebretsen's Tests and Measurements class.

Class gets graphic display of results

A, Wayne State College class studying statistics for tests and measurements experienced a graphic display of frequency curves and standard deviations last

Barb Engebretsen, instructor in the Human Performance and Leisure Studies Division lined up 120 division students for a picture. She and the students in her tests and measurements class placed their subject in order of height for the photo, "to present a graphic image of the frequency distribution for heights."
Engebretsen said her class is not drawing any scientific conclusions from the data they collected in the exercise, but rather used the process to gain experience and understanding into practical statistics.

Besides the picture which shows most of the men in the group at 6 foot and most of the women at 5 ft. 6 in , Dr. Engebretsen said her class also collected shoe size statistics on their subjects to see if they could identify any correlation between shoe size and height "It was a fun way to demon as subjects for the study by lining up on the gym floor at Rice Auditorium.

Engebretsen said she saw the technique used in a story in the Chronicle of Higher Education about a similar photographic study at the University of Connecticut in the early 1900s. When university officials ran across the old photo graph they decided to recreate it with modern students to see if there had been a change.

"We've gotten taller," said Engebretsen of the indications from the U Conn study Without a lot of research into the reasons, she said she suspects that might be because health and nutrition

Her students enjoyed the exercises and have even suggested a repeat of the photo and data collection each year well into the future to see if there is any change in the height curves among the select population at Wayne State.

They are using the data gained in the exercise in a variety ways, she explained. Computer data entry and use of databases to develop statistical correlations, identification of 'sampling biases and drafting of frequency curves are among the outgrowths of the study she said.

Of the 684 freshmen who enrolled at Wayne State College last fall, more than 75 percent had completed the recommended college prep curriculum in their high school. That figure is up from 68 percent the previous year.

Other indicators that students are better prepared when they enter Wayne State include an in crease in high school grade point average, explained Scranton. "These are significant indicators because more of the student's valuable time in college can be spent on course work directly related to their careers rather than catchup classes," she said Ninety-three percent of the Wayne State incoming freshmen submit ACT test scores. This year 17 percent of the students showed composite scores of 25 or higher which is up from 15 percent the previous year.

Additional scholarship offerings, greater focus on recruitment of top scholars and the college's lower cost tuition are other factors in attracting more top students and in the posting of better academic statistics by this year's freshmen, explained Scranton. Wayne State's small college appeal with more one-on-one faculty attention is also attracting top freshmen from the area Scranton explained. This is due in part, she said, because most Wayne State freshmen are from small high schools. Nearly two-thirds of this year's freshmen were from high school graduating classes of 100 or less. Over 40 percent were from high school graduating classes of 50 or less explained

Scranton.

Don't pressure 4-year to read

Q: I've read that it is possible to teach 4-year-old children to read. Should I be working on this with my child?

A: If a preschooler is particularly sharp, and if he can learn to read without feeling undue adult pressure, it might be advantageous to teach him this skill. Those are big however. Few parents can work with their own children with out showing frustration over natural

Besides this limitation, learning should be programmed at the age when it is most needed. Why invest unending effort in teaching a child to read when he has not yet learned to cross the street, tie his shoes, count to 10, or answer the telephone? It seems foolish to get panicky over preschool reading, as such.

Focus On The

Dobson

The best policy is to provide your children with many interesting books and materials, to read to them and answer their questions, and then to let nature take its unobstructed course.

Q: If retention and summer school do not solve the problem of the slow learner, what can be done for these children?

A: Let me offer three suggestions that can tip the scales in favor of

1. Teach him to read, even if a one-to-one teacher-student ratio is required (and it probably will be). Nearly every child can learn to read, but many boys and girls have difficulty if taught only in large groups. Their minds wander, and they do not ask questions as readily.

Certainly, it would be expensive for the school to support an additional number of remedial reading teachers, but I can think of no expenditure that would be more helpful. Special techniques, teaching machines and individe reinforcement can be successful in teaching reading to the children who are least likely to learn without individual attention.

This assistance should not be delayed until the fourth or fifth grades or until junior high. By those late dates the child has already endured the indignities of failure.

Many school districts have implemented creative programs to focus on reading problems. One such program, the "ungraded primary," eliminates the distinction between students in the first three grades. Instead of grouping children by age, they are combined according to reading skill. Good readers in the first, second and third grades may occupy the same classes. Poor readers are also grouped together. This procedure takes the sting out of retention and allows children to profit from the benefits of homogenous grouping.

Another system is called the "split reading" program. In this method, the better half of the readers in a given class arrive at school 30 minutes early to be taught reading. The poorer half of the readers remain half-hour later each evening for the same purpose.

There are many such programs that have been devised to teach reading more effectively. And of course, parents who are concerned about their child's basic academic skills may wish to seek tutorial assis-

Let me state it more explicitly: It is absolutely critical to your child's self-concept that he learn to read early in his school career, and if professional educators can't do the job, someone else must!

2. Remember that success breeds success. The best motivation for a slow learner is to know that he is succeeding. If the adults show confidence in him, he will be more likely to have confidence in himself. We tend to act the way we think other people "see" us.

3. The slow learner needs individual attention in all of his academic work, which can only be given by teachers who have relatively small classes. He also needs access to audio-visual approaches to learning, including the latest in computer technology.

• The inordinate expense of such programs is a reality we must face in view of the current financial crisis in the schools, but the slow learner's program is dependent on receiving an enriched experience that does not often occur in the traditional-classroom.

Character Counts! is a program founded in 1987 by Michael Josephson, head of the Josephson

The essence of parenting is the commitment to make sincere and continued efforts to guide a child toward basic moral principles and the development of character traits. It is virtually a lifelong process, starting in infancy and extending well into middle age, perhaps even later. Character development is a dynamic process. Though parents are important influences in the values children adopt and the strength of character they develop, they are not the sole determiners. Where are values completed by more than 2500 students in grades 7-12, revealed that 56% of the teens felt that they learn values primarily from their parents. However, 29% said peers are their primary source to learn values. Interestingly, sixty-three percent of the students surveyed believe that there are tangible benefits to be gained from teaching values and principles in the schools. Students who regularly experience social tensions and conflicts are more who regularly experience social tensions and conflicts are more likely than other students to support increasing the level of emphasis currently being placed on teaching values in the school.

What is character education?

Character education is the development of knowledge, skills, and abilities that enables a person to make informed and responsible choices. It involves a shared commitment that emphasizes responsibilities and rewards of productive living in a global and diverse society. Character education enables students to come face to face with the Winter lock-in

As part of its ministry to youth, Our Savor Lutheran Church recently sponsored a lock-in for over 50 junior high students. The overnight event included worship, a study on peer relationships, a pizza scavenger hunt and activities at the Rec Center. Kim Dunklau assisted with event and expressed thanks to the residents of Wayne who welcomed youth at their doors and gave them items for the pizzas.

Spiritual Adventure being planned by local churches and Concordia Evangelical Lutheran Church in Concord are working together on a 50-Day Spiritual Adventure designed to make their churches a better Entitled *The Church You've Always Longed for: What You Can Do to Make it Happen," this spiritual growth event is running through April 5.

The churches join thousands of congregations across North America working on this same topic during the same eight

The 50-Day Spiritual Adventure was created by the Chapel Ministries, a national, non-denominational Christian outreach.

An annual event, this year's topic was developed with the input of hundreds of of pastors and lay people across the country, to be certain it met the needs of today's church people.

Each 50-Day Spiritual Adventure is build around eight weekly themes. This year the Adventure will focus on eight' spe cific ways to make any church a more inviting place to belong and

The Allen-Concord parish will work on: being a caring family; capturing the heart of the community; welcoming all people; empowering each individual; modeling integrity; serving a broken world; encountering the living God and anticipating a great fu

In addition to hearing weekly sermons on these topics, adults, teens and children in both churches will be completing a workbook called an Adventure journal. Daily and weekly assignments will help them learn how to listen with the ears of Jesus, share good things about the church with others, connect with individuals outside their own circles, help each other become all God wants them to be and practice personal integrity.

"I'm delighted First Lutheran and Concordia can be a part of this global event," said Pastor Duane Marburger. "Although I believe our church is already a pretty great place, this gives the entire church family a chance to work together to make Concordia and First Lutheran even more inviting and welcoming.

"No church is perfect. But when God gets hold of church, miracles happen! That's what we're looking forward to during this eight-week

Pastor Marburger encourages anyone who would like to become a part of the Adventure to visit either the church in Allen or

Covenant Players to perform

.Covenant Players, an international repertory theater, will be performing at Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church in Wayne Sunday, Feb. 23.

With a repertoire of over 2,000 plays by founder and director Charles M. Tanner, the group has the flexibility to be able to communicate a wide variety of themes, issues and subject matter. They use everything from light comedy to heavy drama, science fiction. Biblical characterizations and more, the Players present the message of the Gospel.

"One of the church's most important, and toughest, jobs is to challenge its members to keep them alive, thinking, growing, ill, at-ease with complacency... to make Christian commitment an exciting, total way of life, not just an hour a week in Sunday wor ship," said Pastor Cal Kroeker

"The unfortunate truth is, of course, that most of us don't like being challenged very much, having our toes stepped on, so we find lots of ways to avoid paying attention, * Kroeker added.

"Having something to say and getting people to listen and reto it are two different things. Covenant players was created with just this in mind. The need is there for a medium that can communicate the vibrant challenges of Christian commit ment, in a way too engrossing to ignore, too much fun to get up-tight about and too potent and personal to be rationalized away, Kroeker said.

The performance is open to the public. A free-will offering will be taken.

Sure, you'work hard for your money, and you want to get your money's worth. But getting your money's worth is not all it's cracked up to be.

Besides merchandise, you're also paying for service. When you shop at a highway store and ask an employee for help, what kind of answer do you get? If it's "I don't know" or "If you don't see it, we don't have it," then you're getting no help at all! If you're tired of that kind of service...try ours. ### Sunday hockey game is quite an experience

It's 7:30 on Sunday evening and just realized it's President's Day tomorrow. Meaning, the mail won't go out. Darn! I've been on a roll, getting it written and in the mail by Saturday afternoon. But this was not one of those

Instead of having two couples celebrating Valentine's on Friday, we had one on Friday and one on Saturday. That way, I could cook twice. That's the way this business is. Then, I had a home health care visit in Greenwood and numerous phone calls regarding a hospice patient in Plattsmouth

By the time I did bedding and towels and cleaned a bathroom, it was time to fix supper and, clean up because we were going to a hockey game in Lincoln.

seen one other hockey game live and that was a date with the Big Farmer to Pershing in the late '50's. I thought it was very rough. Since then, I've seen clips on TV, watched a video called "The Mighty Ducks" and and amazing "Miracle on Ice" during those Winter Olympics when USA defeated Russia.

I know who Wayne Gretzky is: And since I can't even stand up on ice skates, I marvel at the player's agility and endurance

It turns out our son-in-law learned to skate as a child and actually played some hockey growing up. So, when one of the buildings on the state fair grounds became the Ice House, Monte decided to get some winter exercise.

He gets up very early some mornings to play in the "senior league." And he purchased four season tickets for home games of the Lincoln Stars. Ironically, one of the fellows responsible for all this activity is Tom Tegt, an ear, nose and throat surgeon who used to moonlight in Norfolk's emergency room when I spent weekends

So, last night was our turn. Monte warned us the crowd gets "raucous" and the noise level is great. He neglected to mention that the tickets are in Section K, the "string" section. When the Stars make a goal, the fans in K break out cans of silly string.

Three "real fans" were in front of us, wearing team shirts and helmets, holding signs and gener-ally keeping things "stirred up." When the opposing team members were introduced, the crowd yelled, "Who cares?" When a Vulcan came out the penalty box, the announcer said, "Twin Cities at full strength," section K

Said, in unison, that they still stunk!
There was dancing to Hawaii Five-O and to "String of Pearls." In other words, plenty of entertainment, on court and off.

......, on court and off. It was a fun night. Weird, but fun!
