Fire destroys Winside locker

By Diane Jaeger
Winside correspondent

The sign outside the former Ray's Locker in Winside hadn't even been changed yet when a fire completely destroyed the business on Friday, just five months after the new owners Jim and Kelly Wozny took over and re-named the establishment Winside Locker.

Mr. Wozny and two employees at the locker were preparing to go to lunch when they heard the fire alarm go off. Within an hour, the back half and a considerable amount of the inside of the business were destroyed.

The call came into the Winside Fire Department at 12:03 p.m. Winside's all volunteer fire department responded within minutes and called for mutual aid from Hoskins, Carroll and Wayne fire departments.

"We called in the other departments as a precaution. We wanted to protect the other buildings in the area. The additional manpower was also helpful in fighting the fire," said Russell Longnecker, Winside Fire Chief.

The Wayne Fire Department provided firefighters with a cascade system with air to fill portable air bottles.

The cause of the fire was a natural gas leak in the smoke house.

"The building itself is a total loss, however, some of the equipment in the front part of the building should be salvageable," said Longnecker.

On Monday officials from the Food and Drug Administration released all the frozen meat that was stored in lockers. They did, however, condemn all the hanging meat.

The kill floor, locker area and smoke house were all destroyed.

No dollar estimate on the loss is available. The building was insured.

The fire was contained by 1:30 p.m. but firemen remained on the scene until 6:30 p.m. Volunteers remained at the scene all night to watch for hot spots.

The building next door, owned and occupied by John Osborn received smoke damage.

The Wozny's plan to re-build in the future.

Winside Volunteer firefighters fought a blaze at Winside Locker on Friday afternoon. The fire started in the smoke house and was caused by a natural gas leak. Volunteers remained on the scene throughout the night, watching for hot spots.

Studies uncover relatives

Mrs. Phyllis Trenhaile's fifth grade social studies class at the Wayne Middle School has been studying immigration to the United States.

The students have been encouraged to research their family trees to find out where their relatives came from and when they arrived in America.

"There has been a great deal of enthusiasm and interest in finding out about the student's ancestors," Mrs. Trenhaile said.

Heather Owens discovered that her great-great-uncle was in the Civil War. Her family has the daily journal that he kept while in the war.

"In his journal he tells about his brother, when he got captured and what they had for food. There were some days he didn't get to write so he just wrote the date and signed his name," Heather said.

Carrie Walton found out she is related to George Walton who signed the Declaration of Independence. She also discovered she had a relative who died in the Civil War from a disease.

Mary Boehle's great-great-great-grandfather was a captain in the Civil War.

"Captain Charles Hewitt was a captain in the Civil War. He and his wife has 10 kids and three died at birth. They moved to Iowa to farm. His wife became sick and died," Mary said.

"His brother was a soldier in the Union Army. Charles was a popular officer in his company and was always ready," she added.

Brent Jones found it fun and easy to find out about his family history by simply talking to his grandmother. He learned that his family came to America from Barnstable, England in 1834. He also found that he might have relatives that were in the Civil War.

Leah Pickinpaugh found that her family name was spelled six different ways.

"There is a church in Germany where you can find family names dating back to 1241," Leah said.

She discovered that her great, great, great grandfather, George Washington Pickinpaugh, wasn't old enough to fight in the Civil War, but his half-brother and his two older brothers were able to fight. Her family album shows many old photos and copies of marriage licenses.

Sevanah Mrsny discovered a very in-depth book on the Mrsny family history while looking in her grandparents' cedar chest.

"I found that my great-great-uncle's homestead is still standing," she said.

"Many years ago our family name was spelled Mrstny instead of Mrsny. Our family sing in Bohemia is a sort of dressed up king lion and the name of this sing is Vitame-Vas," she added.

Cali Broders found it interesting that Middle School Principal Richard Metteer's great grandfather was married to one of her grandmothers. She also learned that her great-great-great grandfather served in the Civil War.

The assignment was part of a multi-disciplinary unit at the school which has been on-going for several weeks.

Smith visits WSC

University of Nebraska President L. Dennis Smith made his first visit to the Wayne State College campus on Tuesday since assuming the UN-L post in March 1994.

Smith met with WSC faculty members and administrators. A luncheon with community leaders, media members and senior faculty members featured remarks by the UN-L leader.

During his remarks, Smith discussed the need to work collaboratively with the state's community colleges and four year colleges. "If we can't collaborate, we all lose," he stated.

Smith noted that Wayne State College and UN-L enjoy a positive working relationship in developing and delivering courses. An example of this cooperation in northeast Nebraska is the partnership between the two schools, as well as Northeast Community College in planning and constructing the Lifelong Learning Center in Norfolk.

Smith also discussed the revolution in information technology and the delivery of education via that technology.

"Computers and our use of them, are changing the way people interact with one another," Smith said.

"As providers of education, we must find new ways to deliver courses and information that gives everyone access, in the most affordable way possible," he added.

Smith noted higher education needs to develop approaches to reach what has been referred to as non-traditional students. The way to reach this group, Smith concluded, is through distance education technology.

L. Dennis Smith, President of the University of Nebraska, talks with Dr. Donald Mash, WSC President.

WSC wins board approval for its studio arts building

The Nebraska State College System Board of Trustees approved plans for the renovation of the former Wayne State College power plant. The project will transform the now vacant building into a studio arts teaching and learning facility. The facility stands near the center of the Wayne campus.

"We are very pleased that our many alumni and friends, as well as several corporations, have stepped forward to support this important academic project," said Dr. Donald J. Mash, president of Wayne State.

Mash made his remarks to the Nebraska State College System Board during their meeting in Lincoln today. He noted that more than $1,345,000 has been raised, which exceeded the College's goal. The project will be funded entirely by donations raised from alumni, friends and corporations. No state tax dollars will be needed to complete the remodeling process.

Plans for the Studio Arts Building include the consolidation of teaching and studio facilities from five separate sites on the WSC campus to this one location. The renovation project will impact approximately 14,700 square feet in the former power plant.

"The board's approval today gives us the green light to move forward in preparation of final documents to allow us to bid this project," said Andrew Soll, vice president for administration and finance at WSC. Soll indicated the College plans to open bids in June and anticipates construction as soon as possible after awarding the bid.

Dr. Jay O' Leary, head of the Division of Fine Arts at WSC says it will also allow for more teacher and student interaction, which is conducive to learning. O' Leary credited the leadership of College President Dr. Donald Mash, the efforts of the Wayne State Foundation, and the support of the Board of Trustees as essential pieces to this project. "Without this type of collaboration, we would not be able to do this project that will greatly enhance our ability to provide quality art programs to our students," he said.

Firefighters from Winside, Hoskins, Carroll and Wayne worked together to fight a fire at Winside Lockers on Friday. In the photo below firemen cut a hole in the roof of the locker to gain access to the fire. The building was considered a total loss but some of the contents may be salvageable.

Wishes to spark some discussion on subject of sports/activities

Dear Editor,

Along with the many Wayne High fans, I too was disappointed with the outcome of the Wayne vs. Crofton game. I particularly felt empathy with the seniors.

Putting yourself on the line, risking losing is part of what athletics is about. Knowing this, however, never makes the loss any easier.

Listening to Coach Ruhl's post game comments, I felt his frustration. However, his comment regarding lack of commitment for the team regarding not participating in summer leagues raises a point I feel needs addressing.

One of the advantages of living in a community the size of Wayne is that our children are able to participate in a lot of different activities. Our kids get a well-rounded education here by exploring their potential in band, vocal music, thespians and various sports and other extra curricular activities. In larger communities this kind of participation in multiple activities is rare for the average student.

Any pressure by coaches not to participate in other sports/activities is inappropriate. Let's not make the kids limit their choices too soon. Let's let kids be kids and have fun.

It is my hope that this letter would spark some discussion on this subject. In particular, I would like the high school staff and administration to review their position on this issue. At the least, establishment of a written policy would let the kids know where they stand.

Opposed to city's re-zoning

Dear Editor,

I received a letter pertaining to the re-zoning of Block 8, College Hill Addition, from R-1 Single Family Residential to R-3 Multi-Family Residential as well as property north of Park Street between Lincoln and Douglas Streets bounded by 14th Street on the north.

I am opposed to this re-zoning as 14th Street has been closed. Therefore, more traffic and litter will occur on the street past my property.

Open 14th Street west of Main Street to be used as it should be. In case of fire on the north end of the multi-family structure there how could the fire trucks and equipment use the fire hydrant located in the middle of that street or even get to it.

This neighborhood will not be as quiet due to more traffic in the area.

I am opposed to the said re-zoning.

Recognizing efforts of many

Dear Editor,

Recently, 100 students from the District 5 FCCLA school chapters (Allen, Bancroft-Rosalie, Emerson-Hubbard, Laurel-Concord, Randolph, Stanton, Wakefield, West Point and Wisner-Pilger) held their Search Star competition.

We would like to thank Wayne State College for the use of their Student Center for the contest. We appreciate the college sharing their first class facility with area high schools. A special thank you goes to Applied Science Faculty, Margaret Hansen, Judy Lindberg and Sandra Metz for their work in organizing the rooms and coordinating judges.

There were many people who gave their time and expertise to help judge the events. They didn't receive any compensation for their work but willingly worked all day with students to help them improve their presentation and communication skills.

Our thanks goes to: Kate Boswell, Jeanette Brodahl, Jenny Brodahl, George Bradley, Joan Brogie, Carter Bull, Amy Butterfield, Kim Dunklau, Nancy Endicott, Irene Fletcher, Jeanne Ann Kardell, Janeen Kindschuh, Rita Keller, Darrell Lawrence, Amy Malchow, Darrell Miller, Rhonda Ras, Bonnie Sandahl, Mary Sebade, Phyllis Spethman, Deb Schroeder, Mary Temme, Wendy Tyrell and Greg and Zoe Vander Weil

In a time of declining community service, these people gave a day to help high school students reach their dreams of state competition.

Thank you for allowing me to recognize their efforts.

A note to thieves

Few people are more loathed than a thief, or one who steals. If you steal, this won't change your attitude, of course, because for you taking that which belongs to others is a game. Your insensitivity to the feelings of others is your badge.

Getting something for nothing is your aim, and you could care less your stealing elevates merchandise prices for people who work to buy what they need.

Deception, sneaking, cheating and lying. Those are the tools of your trade. Tools that will guarantee you a degree in failure. Hidden cameras and floor walkers, all increasing the price of items a store offers, are catching more of your ilk.

Someday, hopefully, you will get your day in court and justice. When and if you go to get a job, no doubt you will be proud of your criminal record.

Next time you get the urge to steal, think of how proud you will be riding in the police car, and the fun of seeing your name in print.

The younger generation is right when they yell "get a life!"

Staying in touch

Increasing numbers of citizens are desiring to keep tab of what is going on in the state legislature.

One can find out during the legislative session by calling the Legislative Hot Line at 1-800-742-7456 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

This is the bottom-line year

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
— Maybe state senators are numb — or bewildered — by what looms on their agenda. Day after day through the first third of the session, they processed legislation like they were stocking shelves at a grocery store.

Instead of debate, they had polite conversation.

With hardly a whisper of discontent, first one bill then another climbed the ladder toward final adoption. With 30 days gone in the 90-day session, 149 bills had advanced beyond first round. That is 50 percent more than in the first year of the last two-year legislative term and perhaps the most on record at that stage of the session.

On one morning when lawmakers advanced dozens of bills while sprinkling in some amiable commentary, legislative reporters couldn't find anything worth writing about. Ho hum!

Behind the scenes, legislative observers mused about the 95th Legislature's vanilla flavor. Is this a honeymoon? Is it the new senators? Is it the senators who are gone — former Sen. David Bernard-Stevens used to mix it up, but he's now ramrodding the North Platte Chamber of Commerce?

Or maybe it is just an unusual run of nondescript legislative bills.

Or maybe it is just that everyone — senators, staff, lobbyists, reporters — knows that everything done to this point pales in comparison to the daunting task that is ahead.

The latter might be the case. In any relative terms, this legislative session has not started and everyone knows it.

The real work of the first 30 days of the legislative session is taking place in the Revenue, Education and Appropriations Committees. Those people are doing the grunt work on property taxes, school finance, school reorganization and the budget.

Within a couple of weeks, a package of bills should emerge that will represent their work. Those bills will be prioritized by senators and committees, assuring that they don't get lost in a maze of other work.

Then, the legislative session will swirl around them. Then, the session will begin to take on a new flavor. Then, and only then, will the cities, counties and schools of this state begin to learn how difficult the tax levy lids of LB 1114, passed in 1996, will be to swallow.

The budget bills — and a $300 million state revenue surplus — tie into the whole deal in a big way. Gov. Nelson is pushing income tax cuts and a property-tax credit — and he is pushing hard. Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, the architect of LB 1114 and orchestrator of this year's follow-up legislation, wants to preserve a chunk for local governments. He introduced a bill calling for a one-year income-tax cut.

Whatever comes out of the key committees that is considered an official part of the Legislature's property-tax plan could very well be untouchable on the floor. That's the way it was last year with LB 1114 and companion bills. Proposed amendments slid off of them like water. Nothing stuck unless Warner provided the glue.

Rest assured that Warner won't tighten the screws on local governments beyond what is bearable. Last year, he responded to criticism of LB 1114 with the comment: "The Legislature is not going to destroy public education in Nebraska. It never has and it never will."

So, this is the bottom-line year. Last year, the Legislature laid out a plan that would force property-tax rates to come down. Everyone knows there is a sizable gap between the revenue schools can raise with a $1.10 levy cap and the costs of running a quality school system.

The real question of the 1997 legislative session is not what happened in the first 30 days, or even the second 30 days. The real question will be what happens in the last 30 days.

The question is: How much of the gap will the Legislature fill?"

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Chamber speaker

Karen Kallin, a Job Training Representative with Job Training of Greater Nebraska spoke to approximately 20 Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce members on Wednesday. Kallin told Chamber members of the options available to them through the School-to-Work program offered at Wayne High School and shared stories of students who have been placed in private businesses.

Why you should become involved in local Chamber

Why should you consider joining your local Chamber of Commerce? If you already have a Chamber membership, why should you consider becoming a more actively involved member? Today and next week these questions will be considered in this column.

According to the mission statement of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, the purpose is "to advance the general welfare and prosperity of the Wayne area for the benefit of its citizens and business community."

I cannot imagine a business owner or manager disagreeing with this philosophy of increasing the area's prosperity. As the driving force behind the Chamber, this purpose clearly identifies Chamber's role in the community.

The Chamber recognizes that simply promoting businesses does not completely address the needs in our community. As the virtual community becomes ever more apparent, we must work diligently to promote the quality of life in our area.

The Chamber will continue to do this by working on projects each year that have a positive impact on our community's growth and development.

To insure the present quality of life we all enjoy remains well into the 21st century requires a commitment for all of us working together.

For example, working to improve education in our community will have a lasting effect on the entire area. That's why it is critical the Chamber works with our local school officials to get the business community involved in promoting and improving our educational system.

In addition, the Chamber's Community Strategies Council coordinates the Chamber's involvement on issues that affect the future development of our community. Our Legislative Council monitors legislative and governmental actions at the local, state, and national levels that impact both business and the community.

At this time, various leadership development programs are under consideration by the Local Futures Group, another of Chamber's committees. Civic leadership very clearly stems from the idea that citizens must play an expanded role in the energizing and revitalizing of their communities. Check next week's column for the conclusion of these concepts.

Ready for a new kick!

What the heck is the Internet? Here's the scoop!

Imagine a wire connecting your house to every house, school, university, and business in the world! You need a computer to "log on" (that means you dial a telephone number connecting you to another computer.) This "other computer" connects you to any place in the world having a Net address.

This "other computer", called an internet service provider, can send your electronic letters (e-mail) to anyone using the Net. It's a local call. No long distance fees!

The "web" connecting you world-wide is called the World Wide Web (WWW). Just as residents are connected by electrical lines, the Internet connects everyone by telephone lines.

Wayne State is online, as are the public schools, and now Wayne will soon have two commercial Net access servers available. Why get on line?

When you get on the Internet, which features text, sound and pictures, one can read and often download (bring it to your own computer) information about nearly anything, such as:

— children's books, poetry, museums, fact books, history archives, endless government data, Social Security details and veteran's benefits.

— medical schools and disease information, hospitals, mental health facilities, dentistry, and prescription drug facts.

— federal agencies, the White House, senate, house of representatives, FBI, CIA, IRS, SS, EPA, NASA, library of congress, and all the military services.

— schools, colleges, universities, city governments, libraries, state legislatures, societies, institutes, associations and research labs.

— A to Z information on agriculture and farming; dictionaries, encyclopedias, magazines, newspapers, up-to-the-minute news and weather. Tired yet?

— available real estate and rental properties in most online cities; art galleries, networks of information services, consultants on any subject, reading rooms and chat channels.

— stock quotes, financial information, astronomy, most every version of the Bible in a variety of languages, military academies, law books, law enforcement, publishers, job directories, airlines, publishers, career info, music, United Nations, presidential history and videos, war photos, nationwide telephone directories, space telescopes, stores, shopping, hotels, motels, and family life information.

Sound interesting? You or your business can set up a "home page" which anyone on the Net can read and learn of your business, church, family, or whatever you have for sale.

Look through online cameras such as Sky Cam in Sioux City or one in Jerusalem!

The Net is a gateway to new worlds of facts, fiction and productive learning.

You wanted connections!

Wayne State men thrash Bemidji State in finale

The Wayne State men's basketball team closed out their 1996-97 basketball campaign with a thrashing of Bemidji State in front of a packed home crowd in Rice Auditorium last Saturday night, 87-49.

It was the Wildcats hope that a win over the visiting Beavers and a Kearney loss to Fort Hays State in the championship game of the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference Championship would allow WSC to earn a postseason playoff berth but it was not to be as the 'Cats were shut out of playoff contention and UNK was invited despite being swept by WSC this season.

"At one point of the season we had a 10-7 record," WSC coach Greg McDermott said. "We knew at that point with 11 games remaining that we could not afford to lose any if we wanted to make the playoffs. Essentially, each game we played was a playoff game with a loss meaning it would be the end of our season and our guys responded admirably by running the table with 11 straight victories."

The 21-7 record is the finest Wildcats season since the 1969-70 team went 23-6. In fact, this marked the fourth time in Wildcat history a team won 20 games in a season.

The 11-game win streak is also the longest since the 1969-70 team won 13 straight. The 'Cats have a chance to improve on the 11-game streak next season when they open at home against UNO.

In Saturday's game with Bemidji State the 'Cats played tenacious defense and it took Bemidji State well over 13 minutes to reach the double digit mark in scoring and the 'Cats held the Beavers to just 13, first half points while building a comfortable 21-point lead at 34-13 at the intermission.

WSC rang up 53, second half points while allowing 36 in posting the 38-point victory. Craig Philipp led WSC with 13 points while Curt Woodin and Chad Nelson tallied 11 each. Tyler Johnson and Mike Fitzner scored nine each as 12 of the 13 'Cats that suited up, scored.

WSC dominated the boards, 52-29 led by Nelson with 10 carsoms while Eric Henderson had seven. Johnson and Woodin each dished out five assists and Fitzner had four.

"We wanted to be able to put a team on the floor by the end of the season that would be able to compete for a tournament bid and I think we did that," McDermott said. "It was really gratifying to see the stands full and we need to continue that success and improve next season."

It was the final game for seniors Mike Fitzner, Curt Woodin and Justin Cole who each got to leave the game to a well-deserved standing ovation.

The 'Cats will take a 22-game home win streak into next season along with a 11-game overall win streak and a four-game road win streak. They went 14-0 at home this season and 7-7 on the road.

WSC 87—Bemidji State, 49 (WSC) Craig Philipp, 13; Chad Nelson, 11; Curt Woodin, 11; Tyler Johnson, 9; Mike Fitzner, 9; Matt VanVoorst, 8; Jon Dolliver, 7; Jason Diaz, 6; Eric Henderson, 5; Justin Cole, 4; Mark Cobb, 2; Brian Hoffman, 2. WSC RECORD: 21-7.

'Cats not rewarded for fantastic season

WSC robbed by NCAA-II

The Wayne State men's basketball team was blindsided by the selection committee for the North-Central Region of the NCAA-II and the playoffs which begin today (Thursday).

The Wildcats and coach Greg McDermott did everything they had to do to qualify for the postseason tournament which is supposed to take the top 48 teams in the country based on six teams per region.

Unfortunately, fairness doesn't seem to enter the equation when it comes to picking the teams and unfortunately, politics do enter the equation.

First of all the way the NCAA-II teams are picked for the postseason tournament is rather silly.

A group of four individuals comprising of the conferences that make up the respective regions are asked to pick the top six teams of that region to advance to the tournament.

O.K., now can you see where the politics begin? Before I go any further it should be made clear that Wayne State's own athletic director Pete Chapman is on that selection committee.

Chapman, however, can not lobby for Wayne State because that would be unethical according to the high standards of the NCAA-II.

Pardon me for not laughing out loud but there is no way that you can tell me that the other three individuals on the committee that was selecting the six teams from our region weren't out to make their respective conferences look good by choosing more teams on their own behalf.

Then there is poor little Wayne State and should I say it?—an independent with no conference ties.

The system is a joke and though Chapman probably pushed it to the limit by lobbying for WSC as much as he could get away with, the other three voters would have nothing to do with it.

Ironically, WSC was the only team in consideration for the postseason tournament in which one of the selection members represented that team.

The representative from the North Central Conference did not have his team in contention nor did the representative from the Northern Sun or the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference.

"I was the only person that had a vested interest," Chapman said. "My impact on the selection com-

For Pete's Sake

By Kevin
Peterson

mittee ended at a certain point because of that."

Chapman accepted the results of the committee's decision on the six teams much more responsibly and professionally than I did and will.

The Wayne State athletic director said the Wildcats have to learn from this and come back next year and overcome.

I, however, will choose the whining method because it really bothers me that a tournament which is supposed to be comprised of the top teams is not doing so.

There are 34 teams in the North Central Region and of these 34 teams only two won all of their home games this season—Fort Hays State, the defending national champs and Wayne State.

Of these 34 teams, only two ended the season with at least a 10-game win streak—Fort Hays State and Wayne State.

WSC faced three of the six teams that did make the tournament from our region a total of five times and came away with a 3-2 record including a sweep of Kearney and a convincing win over Northern State, 85-71.

They lost to Northern State by seven points and to South Dakota State—the second seed, by eight points prior to Thanksgiving.

The criteria listed for qualifying the six teams include strength of schedule, efficiency performance rating, win-loss record, common opponents, head-to-head competition and number of home and away games.

According to the committee when all of the criteria was weighed, UNK had one more point in its advantage than did WSC.

That is a point in which I would have used the common sense approach in asking how the two teams did head-to-head.

Gee, a sweep by WSC and in convincing fashion in Wayne. Then, the 'Cats went to Kearney and was the only team to beat UNK on its home floor this season including Fort Hays State who went into Kearney riding a 48-game win streak only to have it snapped by the Lopers.

Still, the 'Cats aren't good enough to be invited to the post-season tournament.

Here's another criteria the committee apparently let slip through their closed minds.

The six teams that made the tournament include Fort Hays State at 28-1, South Dakota State at 23-4, Minnesota-Duluth at 21-5, Northern State at 22-5, North Dakota State at 21-6 and Kearney, 22-7.

SDSU has a 4-0 record against the other teams in this field of six while Minnesota-Duluth is 2-0 and Fort Hays State, 2-1. The other three teams have losing records against this field of six with NDSU at 0-2 and Northern State at 1-4.

Kearney is 1-2 against the other five teams. Wayne State's 3-2 record against this six-team field is better than half of those that made it.

WSC, however, is not good enough to make it to the postseason tournament.

If the NCAA-II wants to be recognized as being a class organization they have to recognize fair play when it hits them in the face and in WSC's situation, they simply missed the boat.

It sure is ironic that in high school basketball you don't have these kinds of politics but maybe that's because in high school, everyone goes to districts and plays head-to-head and the best teams go on to the state tournament—hint, hint, hint.

At any rate, congrats to coach Mac and his Wildcats for a great season.

Also, a quick plug for the fans that filled the stands in Rice Auditorium on Saturday in the season finale. It was terrific to see the support for a team that was playing on the level worthy of postseason play.

A note of caution, however, to these same fans. Don't forget to come back next November when WSC puts its 22-game home win streak on the line in the opener against UNO.

Also, a quick thanks to Mike Fitzner and Curt Woodin for helping the 'Cats get to that next level of respect on the hardwoods. Fitzner of course broke all but one of the 'Cats 3-point field goal records at WSC in just three years.

He knocked home 11, 3-pointers in the game against Rockhurst in which the 'Cats came from behind to win in double overtime.

Woodin showed his long-range shooting abilities this season and was a consistent leader in dishing the ball off to the open man. In fact, Woodin finished his career as the second leading assist man ever with 351—trailing only Billy Patterson who had 377.

Both of these gentlemen will be missed greatly but their legacy will live on as WSC strives to the next level in the years to come.

The third senior that played his final game was Justin Cole and although he didn't see a lot of playing time, Cole played very inspired when he got his chance.

He will be remembered for his upbeat personality and his push to make his teammates better every day during practice.

Bears end year with a 16-8 mark

Laurel beaten in district final

Clayton Steele's Laurel boys basketball team had their season come to an end on Monday night in Pierce as Plainview defeated the Bears soundly in the Class C2-5 District Championship, 64-45.

The Bears finished the year with a 16-8 record while the Pirates improved to 21-1 and now advance to the state tournament next weekend in Lincoln. Three of Laurel's losses this season came against Plainview with two others coming to Wayne in C-1. The other three defeats came at the hands of top-ranked Cedar Catholic in C-1, highly ranked Coleridge in Class D-1 and defending C-2 state champs, Stanton.

Plainview grabbed a 15-8 lead on the Bears after one quarter of play but Laurel closed the gap to just two points midway through the second quarter on the outside shooting touch of Jimmy Quist who came off the bench to drill consecutive 3-pointers.

Plainview, however, responded with a 10-0 run and led 35-27 at the intermission. Laurel closed that gap to just five points by the third quarter's end at 43-38 but the Pirates roared to a 21-7 scoring advantage over the final eight minutes to post the 19-point win.

Vince Ward led Laurel with 15 points and he was the only player in double figures for the Bears while Plainview's Kevin Lingenfelter poured in a game-high 26 points. Brandon Baller added 19 and Tim Demerath scored 16 for the winners.

Other scoring from the Bears included seven from Travis Stingley, six by Quist and Wyatt Erwin, five from Andy Bose, four from Ryan Kvols and two from Nick Kvols.

LAUREL REACHED the finals of the district championship by winning its sub-district despite being second-seeded. In the opening round played at Crofton, the Bears whipped Hartington, 83-48. The winners raced to a 39-25 halftime lead and were never threatened in the final 16 minutes. Laurel went on a 25-7 scoring run in the final quarter.

Laurel had five players finish in double figures led by Wyatt Erwin with 17 while Ryan Kvols and Travis Stingley scored 14 each. Nick Kvols and Andy Bose each tallied 11.

The biggest difference in the game came from rebounding as the Bears dominated to the tune of 41-24 led by Nick Kvols with 10 caroms while Stingley and Bose had eight rebounds each. Ryan Kvols also dished out 11 assists and Vince Ward had nine assists for the winners.

Laurel sprinted to a 19-7 lead over Ponca in the sub-district championship and the Bears never looked back despite the fact Ponca tightened the gap considerably before falling by five, 58-53.

Laurel led 32-23 at the half and 39-34 after three quarters of play. Travis Stingley led the winners with 21 points while Vince Ward added a dozen. Ryan Kvols finished with nine and Wyatt Erwin, eight while Andy Bose tallied six.

Laurel again led the opponents on the boards, 29-22 with Kvols and Stingley sharing team honors with nine each while Bose hauled down eight caroms.

Erwin also notched five steals and Bose blocked four shots while Bose, Kvols and Ward dished out four assists each.

Andy Bose shoots a short jumper over a Plainview defender during the district championship, Monday night in Pierce. The Bears ended the season with a 16-8 record.

Ryan Kvols penetrates the lane to shoot a lay-up and his fouled by a Plainview defender.

Wayne and Winside wrestling programs enjoy much deserved success in 1996-97

It's not very often, in fact very rare that you'll ever see two sports columns in the same paper but hey, I've got a lot on my mind this week.

I would be remiss if I didn't reflect a few thoughts on the recent state wrestling tournament and the magnificent job by both Wayne and Winside's programs.

Wayne had three of its five wrestlers bring home medals and that's quite an accomplishment and if Blue Devil fans think that is great, wait until next year as several of our young wrestlers return with loads of experience.

As with any quality team, my belief as a former high school athlete is you're only as good as your coaching to a certain point and I'll take that one step further, you actions on the mat or the courts or the field is often related to that of your coaching.

John Murtaugh and Paul Sok epitomize the meaning of true professionals and their team's reflect that in every dual and invite with quality sportsmanship.

Unlike a lot of coaches who sit and watch their wrestlers compete, Murtaugh is very active when his team is on the mat.

When a wrestler loses a match, John feels the loss as much as the wrestler does and that's because he cares.

On the other hand, when a wrestler wins a big match, the Wayne mentor steps aside and lets the glory shine solely on that individual, being careful not to take any credit.

Next year's Wayne wrestling team will be fun to watch with a lot of good, young talent mixed with quality veteran coaching.

This writer believes that Wayne is

For Pete's Sake

By Kevin Peterson

with in an eyelash of crowning another state champion—maybe as soon as next February.

IT'S ALWAYS NICE to see the good guy win. You know, the one that always works among the hardest on the team and spends extra time preparing for matches both physically and mentally.

Winside's Robert Wittler became the 23rd Wildcat to be crowned a wrestling state champion and to be honest, it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

Wittler's extremely hard work in practice and desire to be the best led him to the gold in Lincoln.

It's not that Wittler isn't used to being a quality athlete. After all, he owns several Winside football records after being a three-year starter at quarterback for coach Randy Geier.

The one thing athletes often dislike more than anything is the one thing Wittler attributed his success at the state tournament to—conditioning.

It was his endless determination to be the most fit of anyone in his weight class that took him down to the wire before tying his match with Barry Kreikemeier of West Point Central Catholic and then defeating him with a takedown in overtime for the victory.

But then again quality wrestling with a solid conditioning program is something that coach Paul Sok has preached for nearly two decades and is a primary reason for 23 individual state champions.

Wildcat wrestling diehards are probably already chomping at the bit for next season as Winside returns more than a handful of wrestlers that notched at least 20 wins this season.

I guess at this stage I would call it an upset if Winside didn't crown a 24th and perhaps a 25th state champ next season.

Here's a quick recap of the former state champs at Winside: Steph Carlson in 1970; Dave Jaeger in 1972; Doug Lage in 1974; Bob Bowers in 1975; Dwight Lienemann in 1975; Kevin Cleveland in 1976; Keith Suehl in 1976; Brad Langenberg in 1977; Brian Svoboda in 1978; Brian Foote in 1980 & 81; Mark Koch in 1982; John Thies in 1983; Doug Paulsen in 1986; Mace

Kant in 1988; Max Kant in 1989 & 90; Brian Thompson in 1990 & 91; Trevor Topp in 1992; Scott Jacobsen in 1993; Josh Jaeger in 1996 and Robert Wittler in 1997.

Congrats to both Wayne and Winside's wrestling teams for a job well done in Lincoln.

TURNING FROM THE mats to the hardwood, the Laurel girls basketball team will have already played their first state tournament game in Lincoln by the time this paper hits the streets.

Regardless of how the Bears fare, one thing is obvious to those that know the program and that is that Rick Petri also fits the category as a classy coach.

I was very disappointed in watching the end of the Bears game with Howells last week and how the Bobcats coach and players refused to shake hands with the Laurel girls after the contest.

I will surely bet you this, if the tide had turned and Howells pulled off the upset of the season, Laurel's team would have been right at half court waiting to congratulate the winners and that is the mark of a champion, knowing how to win and lose with class.

By Chris Williams
For the Herald

Track and field teams wrap up indoor season

The Wayne State College track and field teams wrapped up the indoor season last Friday with a strong showing at the Iowa State Cyclone Invitational.

Only a few athletes made the trip—those with the best chance of making the NCAA-II indoor provisional qualifying standard.

For the men, James McGown smashed his two-week-old school record in the 5000-meter run, clocking 14:59.5.

Although the time was not a national provisional standard—which was 14:46.0, head coach Brian Kavanaugh was pleased with his race.

"The outdoor provisional standard is 14:57," Kavanaugh said. "Weather permitting, he should get that pretty early in the outdoor season."

On the women's side, Kathy Dalton broke the year-old school record in the one-mile run, clocking 5:14.60 for 12th place. This was about an eight-second indoor personal best for her.

"Kathy is focusing on the longer races outdoors," Kavanaugh said. "This race was in part to help her push past the 'comfort zone' that she sometimes slips into in a longer race."

Dalton also broke the 1500-meter run record in route, passing through in 4:55.

Also competing in the mile was sophomore Stefanie Senn, who has been battling a cold for the past few weeks. She was timed in 5:29.55. While well off her personal best, it was a big improvement over her last race at this distance.

In the shot put sophomore Angie Kment was unable to get a measured mark, as they weren't measuring anything under the Division III provisional mark of 40-feet-six-inches. However, at least one of her throws was above 39 feet which would be her best this season.

In the long jump, coach Andrew Owusu placed second with a leap of 25-7.5—his second best of the season.

Barrett Adams, a third grader at Winside Elementary School, brought nine five-gallon buckets and one large tub of pop can tabs to school. The tabs were a contribution to the elementary "Popping Your Tops" program for the Sioux City Ronald McDonald House.

Barrett, his mother Janet and sister Brandy, have been saving tabs for five years.

"We just saved them for the fun of it," said Barrett. "We drank a lot of pop and we found a lot of them."

Team sweeps twinbill

The Wayne State baseball team swept a twinbill from Northwest Missouri State University in Maryville, MO., on Monday. The 'Cats won the opener, 3-1 and swept the nightcap, 1-0 to improve to 3-4 on the young season.

John Manganaro's squad scored two runs in the second inning of the opener to take the lead and they added one more in the fifth. WSC finished with eight hits while pitcher Nate Corman went the distance and allowed just one run on five hits. The Bearcats run was unearned.

Gabe Garrison and Darin Gregory led WSC with a pair of singles while base hits were recorded by Cory Graves, Pat Carey, Eric Nuemeyer and Dusty Driever.

In the second game the 'Cats scored the game's only run in the top of the first inning and then rode the pitching arm of Aaron Garmong who went the distance and pitched a shutout while giving up four runs. He struck out eight and walked just one.

The winners also had four hits including a triple and a single by Mike Vanderwilt and base hits by Dusty Driever and James Mansell. The lone run came after Driever drew a one-out walk in the first. He stole second and then scored on a two-out base rap by Mansell.

Live from the newsroom

By Merlin M. Wright
For the Herald

Stop the presses!
A little melodramatic? Right!
Hollywood has been known for popularizing such phrases as "Roll the presses!" or "Stop the presses!", but that's Hollywood. This story is about our own community newspaper.

Believing it might be of interest to all readers, the following "tour" of the Wayne Herald is presented as a bird's-eye view of the tasks actually involved in producing paper you are reading.

"Getting everything ready to print on deadline is the major time-consuming job", explained Wayne Herald managing editor Kevin Peterson. "As editor, I'm responsible for assigning to staff members the specific weekly stories to be covered, scheduling the photos to be taken, and listing events to be attended."

Questioned about the "A to Z" procedural steps of printing the Herald, Peterson, who began his new position as managing editor in September 1996, following seven and one-half years working as sports editor, replied "Our readers may find it interesting that since the Herald commenced publishing in 1875, the process of publishing the paper has gone through several radical changes. Originally the type was set by hand, then Linotypes revolutionized that process and were used until about 40 years ago."

Records show the Herald then replaced the Linotype with a more efficient typesetting system which punched holes in a paper tape. The tape was "read" by a machine and printed the material into columns.

"I wasn't here but I think it was in the late '70's when the Herald started using computers," Peterson recalled.

Jim Shanks, publisher of The Wayne Herald since December 1995, notes the newspaper has recently installed new computers including a scanner which simplifies to an even greater degree the job of preparing copy for the press.

"We recently added two scanners," Shanks said, "one for the editorial department and the other for the composing room."

The composing room scanner will scan art work, negatives, and photos, both color and black and white.

Describing the scanner's capabilities, Shanks pointed out "We will be able to alter the photos to a degree, such as sharpen images and crop unneeded portions. This will replace doing it manually."

"Later this year," he continued, "we're planning on adding additional computers in the composing room and editorial department. As our workload increases, we'll also be adding staff."

So how do personnel at the Herald, which is owned by Smith Newspapers of Fort Payne, Ala., get all of the news stories gathered, written, edited, proof read and printed each week?

"First of all," Peterson explained, "our news items come in from a variety of sources. We have correspondents who write up area news. Organizations and educational institutions often provide us with news items or advise us of newsworthy activities. Other news is generated by our covering school board meetings, city council meetings, and meetings of the county commissioners."

Then in case of fires, accidents, or weather pictures we just grab the camera and run!" he said.

Miscellaneous other stories, such as government and educational resource items, come in as press releases.

"Our staff is small and we have limited column space, so we often are unable to cover all the events we would like, and do not have room for all the pictures we would at times like to run, but we do the best we can with our resources," he noted.

Continuing, the editor pointed out "We upgraded our camera equipment and dark room facilities last year which is providing better pictures. The new scanner is going to help us to revolutionize the art of printing photos. We'll be able, after developing our negatives, to scan them on a computer. After selecting the pictures we want, we then will enlarge them on a screen to the needed size, hit the print button, and the picture is printed on the laser paper. This process will save hours of dark room work each week. Our ever present goal is to provide readers with the best product we can assemble and publish."

From the front office to the back room press there are 12 full-time employees and numerous part-time staff. Other folk remunerated for their writing include the correspondents and columnists. Also vital in the process are the delivery carriers both in Wayne and surrounding areas.

"Our new computers are a great asset," Shanks said with enthusiasm, "in that they allow us to keep in touch with the home office in Alabama, do our bookkeeping, and, of course, write the news using a diverse number of fonts. The software we use permits us to write either plain copy or large headlines. In January, as readers know, we changed type styles hoping to conserve paper and provide additional space for news."

Shanks said "The new computers will also help us combat rising costs and aid us in adding additional features and looks to the paper in coming months. We think such things as graphics, pie charts and other illustrative additions will enhance both appearance and readability."

How does the managing editor co-ordinate gathering the news and then oversee it being published in newspaper form?

"Let me detail for you the process of gathering, writing, editing, and printing just one news item," Peterson suggested. "Our job not only keeps us busy from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., but many of the activities we cover occur during evening hours such as the city council, the school board, and a variety of sports. So to put out a good paper some of us work both day and night hours. We know our reader's want to know what is going on, so we try to do our best in covering everything we can. Such meetings as the twice monthly city council meetings and the monthly school board meetings we keep on our coverage calendar. We attempt to attend as many of these as we can, and always cover the story."

And then what happens after attending and making notes at a meeting?

"Next day, here at the office," the editor continued, "the notes are typed and usually we'll make several phone calls to either clarify or confirm a fact or statement.

EXTRA!!! EXTRA!!!

Al Pippitt, Kerrey Pierce

The final story is then composed on a computer and the software puts the text into columns. After writing a story we spell check it, then send it to the back room where it is printed on the laser paper. The backsides of a paper gets a coat of wax so the individual story adheres to a layout sheet which already contains the ads. Staff fit the stories onto the sheet leaving room for headlines.

After the page is completed, it is taken to the dark room where a camera shoots a picture of it. A negative is then developed and the image is burned onto a metal plate.

Sounds like a lot of work. What determines the number of pages in each issue?

Editor Peterson said "The number of pages is dictated by the number of ad inches sold for that week."

Now that the text and photos have been burned onto a metal plate, how are the plates used? "The plates," he explained, "are attached to large rollers on the press in correct sequence. The pressman controls the ink flow and speed of the press. When everything is adjusted to his satisfaction, the machine speedily prints the paper and simultaneously folds the sheets into proper reading order."

Peterson, noticeably enthused over the new computer's capabilities, noted "We hope to soon bypass the step of pasting the stories onto the layout page, and instead, also use the computer for that job. That will accelerate assembly and hopefully save some.

What might be the most nerve-racking part of producing the paper? The editor answered: "trying to contact a person to either get a quote or confirm a statement, and the person for one reason or another cannot be located."

Peterson stated he has been fascinated by journalism since he first started writing stories in first grade. His teacher in Fairbury encouraged him even at that age as she and other faculty members recognized his intense interest in working with words. He says he's one American who enjoys getting up and going to his job every morning.

The editor and his wife Shannon are the parents of two children, Britney, 3, and Jared, 1.

Publisher Jim Shanks said he started working with Smith Newspapers Inc. (SNI) in 1978. The company headquarters is located in Fort Payne, Ala.

Jim and his wife Pam are parents of two children, Sara, 3, and Michael, 2. The family moved to Wayne in late 1995.

Shanks sees his work as "never the same any day of the year" which he describes as "a tremendous challenge and a great responsibility."

"Small town newspapers are very influential in communities, much more than metropolitan papers are," he said, "consequently everybody knows everybody and what you say has to be as accurate as possible. We also cover things in more detail than do larger papers. We have more tidbit items in the paper than one can find in larger papers based on the number of people in the town."

Shanks views the future with optimism. "I'm very happy with the way things have gone since I've gotten here. One of my goals is to have the operation completely streamlined in the next year or two...with new equipment and technology which will help us enter the 21st century."

Presses at the Herald are also used to print numerous area newspapers in Northeast Nebraska and other publications including the Morning Shopper.

Full-time employees at the Wayne Herald include: Linda Granfield, office manager; Veronica Jaqua, classified ads director; Star Mitchell, advertising manager; Clara Osten, news reporter; Alyce Henschke, typesetter; Judi Topp, composition foreman; Al Pippitt, press foreman; Kevin Victor, assistant pressman; Chris Stuthman, darkroom technician; Bill Richardson, general manager; Kevin Peterson, managing editor; David and Diane Butcher, commercial printers; and Connie Schutte, mail room manager.

Enrollment is up at Rainbow World

Things are looking up at Rainbow World in Wayne. Literally! This past weekend, two local men donated their time and materials to install a new suspended ceiling in a classroom at the child care center and preschool.

Steve Lutt, and his father Denny, installed the ceiling to make more space useable in the building. The extra space is needed due to the increased enrollment Rainbow World has experienced in recent months.

Enrollment now stands at 83 children on the rolls. Average daily attendance is 55, says Erelene Stubbs, director of Rainbow World. Stubbs noted that approximately 53 area families utilize Rainbow World.

"We are very grateful for Steve and Denny taking their time to put in our new ceiling," Stubbs said. She stated the new space will provide an area for the two and three year olds which has recently been completely renovated. Stubbs said new carpet and paint have also been added to the classroom area.

She noted that Steve's son, Jacob, attends Rainbow World and his wife, Jodi is an advisory board member. Stubbs also thanked the community for their support of the Center and invited people interested to stop in to see the facility.

Stubbs also noted that space is still available at Rainbow World for this Summer's sessions. Parents should call 375-3200 for more information, or to reserve their child's place in the Summer programs Rainbow World will be offering.

Marriage frustration common

Focus On The Family With Dr. James Dobson

Q: What is the most common marital problem you hear about in your office?

A: Let's suppose I have a counseling appointment at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon with a person whom I've never met. Who is that person, and what will be the complaint that brings her to me? First, the patient will probably be Mrs. Jones, not her husband.

A man is seldom the first to seek marriage counseling, and when he does, it is for a different motive than his wife seeks it. She comes because her marriage is driving her crazy. He comes because his wife is driving him crazy.

Mrs. Jones will be, perhaps, between 28 and 42 years of age, and her problem will be extremely familiar to me. Though the details will vary, the frustration she communicates on that afternoon will conform to a well-worn pattern. It will sound something like this:

"John and I were deeply in love when we got married. We struggled during the first two or three years, especially with financial problems, but I knew he loved me, and he knew I loved him. But then something began to change.

"I'm not sure how to describe it. He received a promotion about five years ago, and that required him to work longer hours. We needed the money, so we didn't mind the extra time he was putting in. But it never stopped.

"Now he comes home later every evening. He's so tired I can actually hear his feet dragging as he approaches the porch. I look forward to his coming home all day because I have so much to tell him, but he doesn't feel much like talking.

"So I fix his dinner, and he eats it alone. (I usually eat with the kids earlier in the evening). After dinner, John makes a few phone calls and works at his desk. I like for him to talk on the telephone just so I can hear his voice. Then he watches television for a couple of hours and goes to bed. Thursday night he plays basketball, and sometimes he has a meeting at the office. Every Saturday morning he plays golf with three of his friends. On Sunday we are in church most of the day.

"Believe me, there are times when we go for a month or two without having a real, in-depth conversation. You know what I mean? And I get so lonely in the house with three kids climbing all over me. There aren't even any women in the neighborhood I can talk to because most of them have gone back to work.

"But there are other irritations about John. He rarely takes me out to dinner, and he forgot our anniversary last month, and I honestly don't believe he's ever had a romantic thought. He wouldn't know a rose from a carnation, and his Christmas cards are signed, just 'John.'

"There's no closeness or warmth between us, yet he wants to have sex with me at the end of the day. There we are, lying in bed, having had no communication between us in weeks. He hasn't tried to be sweet or understanding or tender, yet he expects me to become passionate and responsive to him. I'll tell you, I can't do it.

"Sure, I go along with my duties as a wife, but I sure don't get anything out of it. And after the two-minute trip is over and John is asleep, I lie there resenting him and feeling like a cheap prostitute. Can you believe that? I feel used for having sex with my own husband!

"Boy, does that depress me. In fact, I've been awfully depressed lately. My self-esteem is at rock-bottom right now. I feel like nobody loves me. I'm a lousy mother and a terrible wife.

"More recently, we've been arguing a lot. I mean really fighting. It's the only way I can get his attention, I guess. We had an incredible battle last week in front of the kids. It was awful! Tears, screaming, insults; everything. I spent two nights at my mother's house.

"Now all I can think about is getting a divorce so I can escape. John doesn't love me anyway, so what difference would it make? I guess that's why I came to see you. I want to know if I'll be doing the right thing to call it quits."

Mrs. Jones speaks as though she were the only woman in the world who has ever experienced this pattern of needs. But she is not alone.

It is my guess that 90 percent of the divorces that occur each year involve at least some of the elements she described—an extremely busy husband who is in love with his work and who tends to be somewhat insensitive, unromantic and noncommunicative, married to a lonely, vulnerable, romantic woman who has severe doubts about her worth as a human being.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Parents and peers are main force

Research in the area of moral development establishes that the two main forces which affect character during childhood and adolescence are parents and peers. In fact, for quite some time it was thought that peer influence was of primary significance. The reasoning is plausible.

Fundamental ethical concepts such as honesty, justice, fairness and caring often have more frequent and concrete application

Professor William Damon, maintains that we continually underestimate the power of peer interactions as an important component of character development.

But the importance of peer influence does not diminish the parent's role, it simply broadens it. After all, parents have something to say about the social situations—school, sports, clubs, scouting, gangs, extra-curricular activities—their children are exposed to. And, thoughtful, concerned parents can help children substantially by providing them guidance, ground rules, support and discipline which affect the way the child deals with peer problems and pressure.

Parents wanting to have a maximum positive impact on the moral development of their children should know that moral character develops through a series of predictable stages. Each stage presents a different set of opportunities and challenges.

It may be useful to look at each of these stages in terms of the three modes of parenting behavior isolated by researchers: authoritative, authoritarian and indulgent.

The most effective is the authoritative mode which accepts the parent's responsibility for setting limits and goals and reflects a commitment to consciously abdicate parental power from time to time to develop in the child the willingness and ability to make responsible choices. The authoritative parent understands the importance of consistency of words and actions.

Standards of behavior imposed on the child should be realistic given the child's age and they should be clear. And, if they are to be incorporated into the conscience, they should be firmly and fairly enforced.

Both authoritarian and indulgent parents, while on opposite poles of permissiveness, tend to produce negative effects on character development according to family expert Diane Baumrind. The authoritarian is too strict, too rigid, too punitive. This tends to restrict the child's autonomy so much that motivation and the competence and confidence required of self-determination is hobbled.

The child of an authoritarian regime tends to wait for outside direction and operates on the principle of fear of punishment. Without internal commitment to the values underlying the rules, the willingness and incentive to control negative impulses tends to disappear when the likelihood of punishment is reduced.

The indulgent parent does not better for the child. A laissez-faire atmosphere with no limits also provides no guidance, no framework for decision making. Over-permissiveness ignores the fact that a growing child is neither a baby (incapable of accepting responsibility) nor an adult (with the maturity to make all judgments). The indulged child of the "anything goes" family tends to be the classic "I'enfact terrible, unable or unwilling to control impulses. These children tend to become tyrannical at home and adopt an "it's my right" attitude which validates selfish pursuits and me-first decisions.

The problem with both authoritarian and indulgent modes of parenting is that neither effectively permits the child to learn the rudimentary components of moral character including the requirements of a democratic society in which the needs of others always should be a factor.

Daffodil Days orders are now being taken

Orders are now being taken for daffodils through the Daffodil Days '97 campaign sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

The Wayne County Unit of the American Cancer Society has selected March 15-21 for Daffodil Days.

The flowers will be sold in bunches of 10 for $5. Persons may order as many bunches as they wish. They may be picked up at the Wayne Green house after March 17 or can be delivered if pick-up is not possible.

The daffodil is a flower of hope and will become the flower power to raise money for research, education and service to local cancer patients.

Vicki Skokan, Chairman of Daffodil Days said, "Putting a breath of spring in your home will help to raise your spirits and making a donation to the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days special event will help raise the hopes of many cancer patients."

To order the daffodils or for more information, call 375-3406 after 5 p.m.

Youth travel to Mission

Thirteen members from the Senior High Sunday School class at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne recently traveled to the Open Door Mission/Lydia House in Omaha. Group sponsors for the trip were John and Lori Carollo.

The group took 16 homeless children to Henry Doorley Zoo. The group from Wayne was shocked to see how many kids who actually did not have a place to call home.

While at the zoo, the Wayne group treated their new friends to a pop. As one girl handed the clerk a $20 bill to pay for the pop, the little girl said, "Wow! You have a dollar!"

The group had supper at the Mission and participated in the evening chapel service. The spent the evening interacting with the homeless residents through singing, games of pool, chess, dominoes and discussion with resident pastors.

The boys spent the night in the administrative office at the Open Door Mission and the girls stayed in the guest room at the Lydia House.

The Mission houses approximately 200 homeless men every night. These men sleep on a single mattress with one sheet on the floor in the chapel. The Mission also houses up to 50 men who are enrolled in their 12-month rehabilitation program.

The family living area is for couples with children, single fathers with children and single mothers with teenagers. Single mothers with young children stay on the first floor of the Lydia House and women enrolled in the 12-month rehabilitation program stay on the second floor of the Lydia House.

The following morning the group helped prepare and serve breakfast. They also helped prepare 240 pounds of chicken, cooked carrots and lettuce and crab salad.

"This trip made a big impression on many hearts. The high school students from the Methodist Church in Wayne are truly a unique group of kids. They accepted, cared for and shared openly with all the people they encountered this weekend," the Carollos said.

"We all came home much more thankful and appreciated of what we have."

The congregation donated items for a needs list that Mission/Lydia House had sent and were able to take five boxes full of new items for the Lydia House as well as one box of clothes.

Ladies Aid opens with hymn

National Agriculture Day celebrates consumer focus

Whether producing leaner cuts of meat, protecting the environment or providing consumer education, American agriculture is more responsive than ever to the desires of the consumer.

National Agriculture Week, March 16-22, 1997, will celebrate this consumer focus with the theme "Growing Better Everyday ... Together."

"Today more Americans are emphasizing a healthy lifestyle and are concerned about protecting the environment," says Ron Vavrina, chairman of the Agriculture Council of America, Ag Day coordinator. "American agriculture is focused on meeting those consumer desires in a myriad of ways."

As America has become more health conscious, farmers and ranchers are producing meat lower in fat and cholesterol.

For example, today's hogs are bred to be 50 percent leaner than those of 20 years ago. In fact, a barbecued pork loin sandwich has just 8 fat grams compared with 22 fat grams in a tuna salad sandwich. In the same way, leaner cuts of beef, with 27% less fat than 20 years ago, are standard offerings in today's retail meat case.

Of course, fruits and vegetables are always associated with a healthy lifestyle and for good reason.

Research and advancements in biotechnology are now in the marketplace in the form of tastier fruits and vegetables that stay fresh longer and are not damaged by insects.

Among those consumers most associated with healthy eating, we find tofu to be a standard part of their diet.

Tofu is a soybean product that has been shown to reduce the risk of some cancer and heart disease.

The concern for the environment that is so strong throughout America is equally reflected in the agricultural sector. Just as urban families recycle glass, newspapers and aluminum cans, farmers are recycling chemical containers, feed bags and food by-products.

More and more, city waste is finding its way to the farms as useful products instead of ending up in landfills.

For example, agricultural researchers are testing the benefits of spreading pelleted waste paper on farm ground to act as an artificial mulch and to reduce wind and water erosion.

What's more, numerous agricultural associations and organizations have created programs and seminars to deal with environmental needs in areas such as air quality, water quality and soil erosion.

Today consumer desires are coming together with agriculture's desire to satisfy them.

Weekend offers abundance of sports

The last Saturday in February was a great one for athletics. Almost an unbelievable one!

First, Winside has another individual state wrestling champ and the team placed fifth in Class D. (I admit, we were watching one of the coaches rather closely, too.)

At exactly the same time, Nebraska men were beating Iowa State in Ames at the basketball hoop. Tyrone Lue canned some great three-pointers. We had two TV's on!

Nebraska men and women won the first ever Big Twelve indoor track meet. This was at the Devany Center, right next to the wrestling.

And across town, Nebraska Wesleyan men won another conference meet, with their high jumper going seven feet.

That night, we were Kristi's guests at a banquet at the Isles, across the street from Misty's in Havelock. (The Valentine wrestlers were there, indulging in steaks. I'm sure it was not a good day to eat at Valentino's.)

The occasion here was the annual induction of Northeast High School athletes into the Hall of Fame. We knew our daughter-in-law had been on a state championship volleyball team. We did not realize that she still holds the free-throw percentage record—84 percent.

It was an evening of nostalgia, even for those of us who had no connections with the events. I've always recognized that Havelock is its own community that has become a part of Lincoln. The school has only been in existence since 1941. In those 53 years, it has acquired an enviable number of championship trophies. And they are rightfully proud.

The thing that I noticed though, over and over again, was the universal praise and appreciation for coaches. Coaches who were role models, who set high standards for conducts as well as performance and who encouraged student athletes to "be all you can be." Some even became Marines!

Not having been an athlete myself, but logging many hours on bleachers as a spectator, I could again appreciate what being involved in sports can do for a youngster.

The Big Farmer has always believed they help keep kids out of trouble.

Each inductee gave an acceptance speech and each felt their involvement had helped them succeed in life; thanks to discipline, determination and

And the next day, Feb. 23, was the birthday of a man I consider a great coach, an example of coaching at its finest. Incidentally, one of Saturday night's inductees had been knocked out by a tall read head at a basketball game in Hastings many years ago.

Another one had been instrumental in defeating the Sayres brothers in a memorable football game.

Also this weekend, I met a young man who won the high school track meet high jump in 1980, the same year that Tom Rathman won in his class. So, participation in sports gives us opportunities to rub elbows with folks we can later say "we knew when."

All in all, it was a heart warming experience. It didn't change the way we feel about Kristi, but it certainly gave us a new appreciation for her talents.

One of the coaches commented that Kristi was always eager to please and that her only response to instructions was "okay, okay."

Would that all coaches could have teams of players like that. And all players could have coaches who care about them as individuals and about their best interests.

A perfect world!

USDA announces 15th CRP sign-up

The Wayne County Farm Service Agency announced that the 15th conservation Reserve Program (CRP) Sign-up No. 15 opened March 3, 1997, and will extend through Friday, March 28. Eligible landowners can sign up at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office.

During the sign-up period, operators of eligible cropland and those with expiring CRP contracts may apply to participate in the CRP. Payment terms and cost share assistance are determined by each contract. The term of the contract must run for 10 to 15 years.

Under the CRP, farmer's and ranchers receive a rental fee and cost-share assistance from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) in return for converting environmentally sensitive acreage to desirable environmental practices.

Planting permanent vegetative cover on highly erodible land and certain other acreages can improve water and air quality as well as benefiting many species of wildlife.

The USDA recently published new regulations governing the CRP, under which only the most environmentally sensitive land may be enrolled. The purpose of the change is to maximize environmental benefits and keep the most productive land working.

Acreage currently under CRP contracts that are due to expire can be re-offered for participation.

"Here in Wayne County, we have 18,000 acres enrolled in the program, and the contracts on 12,650 acres will expire this fall," said Deb Pieper, County Director of the Wayne County Farm Service Agency. "Much of that acreage will be eligible for re-enrollment under the new rules, and operators will have to apply during this sign-up period if they want to participate."

Existing CRP contracts cannot be extended, and new contracts must be executed for all acreage enrolled this year.

The sign-up period does not apply to certain highly desirable environmental practices, including field windbreaks, shelter belts, riparian buffers, filter strips, and shallow water areas for wildlife. Farmers and ranchers can apply at any time for contracts for these special practices under FSA's Continuous sign-up Program.

The CRP is funded by the CCC and administered by the USDA Farm Service Agency in cooperation with the Natural Resources Conservation Service, Cooperative State Research, Education and Extension Service, State Forestry Agencies, and local Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Further information is available at local FSA Offices.

And across town, Nebraska Wesleyan men won another conference meet, with their high jumper going seven feet.
