Our Savior Lutheran Church

Ground breaking Sunday

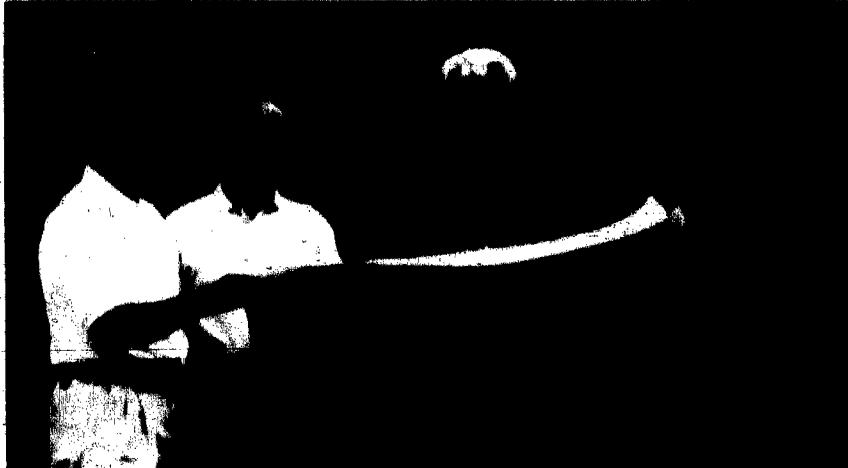

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne will break ground on a $1.5 million expansion project during a ceremony on Sunday, June 8.

The major element of the expansion will be a 15,000 square foot addition south of the present facility. The addition will include a new sanctuary that will seat approximately 400 worshippers plus choir members.

According to Dan Burkhardt, a member of the congregation's Building Committee, "The sanctuary is designed to accommodate performances and other activities in addition to regular worship and expanded educational program capabilities that will enhance both worship and non-worship activities."

The congregation has acquired adjacent property at Fifth and Main Street that will become the site of a paved parking lot for an additional 54 vehicles, including designated handicapped parking. The congregation has also purchased the existing city block building located on the same block as the church and will utilize that space for congregational activities and community outreach.

The construction of the new addition is the first step of a five-

"When I began teaching in the early 1960's, just after the Beatles had launched Rock'n'Roll, teachers really taught students through homework. It was our job as teachers to help the students catch up to the Beatles or James Deane," said Bill Sharpe, who is retiring after spending more than 35 years teaching high school students.

Sharpe was born in Walsh, Colo., which is located in the southeastern part of the state.

Following graduation from high school he spent one year doing nothing and got tired of it so he enrolled in junior college.

After that, Sharpe received his bachelors' degree from the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley.

"My wife and I drove into town and found the Middle School, which had high school written on it. We were not impressed and at many times around and lots from time to time we found the high school, which you didn't see at that time," Sharpe said.

He said at that time that the philosophy of teachers and parents was that the students had to learn everything by catching on and there was a feeling in the United States that the country needed better students, especially in the areas of math and science.

Sharpe spent 14 years at Elgin teaching history and coaching basketball. He then decided he wanted to teach in a bigger school so began applying for jobs and was put in contact with Dr. Francis Dorn, who was Superintendent of Schools at the time.

Hundreds of people took advantage of Sunday's mild temperatures to view a number of planes on exhibit at the Wayne Municipal Airport during the Fly-In Breakfast Airshow and runway dedication.

Airshow attracts large numbers

More than 225 "pilots" attended the breakfast and 30 planes flew in to the Wayne Municipal Airport during Sunday's Airshow and runway dedication.

Haney Braden, who serves as the manager for the Airport Authority, said she was pleased with Sunday's turnout for both the breakfast and the airshow.

"While it is difficult to estimate how many people actually watched the airshow, our guess is that it was between 400-500."

People there were more than 200 people who visited the airport throughout the day," Mrs. Braden said.

Mrs. Braden said she received thank you notes from the pilots who participated in the airshow which said they were impressed with Sunday's turnout for both the breakfast and the airshow.

"Everyone I have talked to seems to have enjoyed the day's activities. There has been some discussion of making this the breakfast an annual event," she said.

The weather cooperated making it possible to hold the scheduled events.

"The local and I am pleased with the community support for this event. Help was available whenever we needed," Mrs. Braden said.

Mrs. Braden and her son, the day's manager, had a swell weekend with the effect.

Scholarship presented

Chuck Friend of UTRCorp United (the parent company of Peoples Natural Gas) presents Executive Director of the Wayne Industries, Inc., Galla Gilliland a scholarship for $230 to attend "Business Retention & Expansion" in Albuquerque. The scholarship is an investment in the future," Friend said. "Through this training Gilliland can bring back new ideas that will benefit the entire community." Friend is the Team Leader, Customer Service/Service for Peoples Natural Gas.

then which will coincide with the Nebraska Department of Roads' accepting a bid for Federal Aid Bridge project for a bridge south of Wessington for the Wayne Industrial Company Inc.

The bid of $122,347.50 for both the bridge and road work was below the estimate. The contractor chosen will be approximately five percent of the total cost.

The board gave Sidney Wagner, Highway Superintendent, an opportunity to submit bids for a steel bridge and master park bid to be opened on June 1.

A letter from Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) regarding Allen Brooks' request for a Corps of Engineers' work permit for land northeast of Wayne. The request is not covered by Floyd Plaza Ordinance as the board was not required to take any action on the letter.

Bids for two lots of eight double parking areas and intervals month of the month were opened but no action was taken on the matter.

Scholarships awarded

Several Wayne High students have received scholarships:

$2,100 for the coming school year. Lucy Munson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Munson, a high school senior, is a member of the V-Club and Spanish Club and she was a member of the volleyball, basketball and softball teams. She was also vice-president of the Student Council.

Jeremy Lutts

attend Wayne State College in the fall.

Nell Munson has received an Annie Beegh/Wayne Community Scholarship and a Cartart Scholarship. His scholarship is $2,240 for the 1997-98 academic year.

Munson is the son of Tony and Carla Munson while in high school, he was a member of W-LHS Spanish Club and the football, basketball and track teams.

Jeremy Lutts received a First National Bank/Wayne Community Scholarship. His award for the academic year is $1,830.

Lutts is the son of Verdi and Melinda Lutts and plans to major in physical education and coaching. His high school activities included National Honor Society, jazz band, Student Council, W-Club and the football, track and Legion baseball teams.

Keller Culbreth has been awarded both a Leslie Hartman Claybaugh and a Wayne Women's Club scholarship. Her awards total $21,200.

Jeremiah Rothwisch Rothwisch will attend Midland

Jeremiah Rothwisch of Wayne, son of Jim and Cynthia Rothwisch, will be attending Midland Lutheran College in Fremont this fall as an incoming freshman.

He has accepted an athletic scholarship to play football for the Warriors at the rate of $4,000 per year.

In addition, he will receive a Lutheran Student Grant for $300 per year.

The total value of these awards is $21,200.

student he taught when he taught in Wayne. He said that while they may feel differently, he tells today's students that they are more conservative than their parents, a thought they often find difficult to believe.

Sharpe has also changed throughout the years. When he began teaching there were no regular school schedules to follow and what worked.

"Education is always looking for new kinds of educational models. Something has changed. There is no such thing. However, we do certain good things from each of the differing teaching styles and continue to work for the good of the students," he said.

Technology is a big change taking place at the present time and Sharpe feels it will have a major impact on the way of teaching and learning in the future.

Sharpe added that he has to come up with innovative ways to teach all of the history of the United States in one year course.

"Teachers have to change our view of history and decide what they feel is important and focus on that. In my experience, I have added a great deal of culture reading to fill in the gaps in the areas that there is not much to cover," he said.

Sharpe said he works with the County and students of Wayne High School.

"I feel I might be the only good kids. Not all of them necessarily the brightest students, but all of them very interesting students."

"I think that having the college in town has had a positive effect on the quality of students we have here. Some of the students have been able to take college classes while still in high school which helps their prepare for their future and allows them to experience the college atmosphere before they leave high school," he said.

The Sharpe have three children, Victor, who lives in Phoenix, Ariz.; Alyson, who lives near North Platte; and Craig, who lives in Wayne. They also have five grandchildren.

Sharpe has definite plans for retirement. He said he enjoys golfing and "travels to read." Travelling may change in the future after his wife retires.

"I probably won't know what interests him the until next fall when I won't be going back to school. I know I will do something, but I'm not sure what that will be yet," he said.

"I am proud to have been a part of the Wayne school system for the past 22 years. We have all gone to a supportive administrative action which allows teachers the freedom to teach and do things for the good of the students. I know I will miss teaching and being around the top-notch students that are part of this community."

Facts and funding

Wayne County property owners recently received Notices of Valuation Change. Such notices are about as welcome as "Greetings from the IRS," but it is part of the state's equalizing the valuation process.

Such notices are only mailed when valuations are being raised, according to the county assessor's office. The increase is due to the state's efforts mandating that property be valued from 92 to 100 percent of market value. Such values continue to fluctuate.

Does the increase in valuation mean an increase in property taxes? Yes and no, as taxes depend on the rates that will be set this fall.

Interesting that the front of the notice is printed in legible black ink, but information about protesting, printed on the reverse side, is nearly illegible, printed in lighter ink, making it challenging to read; particularly since the front page date shows through on the back. We would suggest the state use some of the increased revenue to print a more readable form.

Protests are to be filed from 6/3/87 to 7/3/87, according to the form, noting "the county board of equalization adjourned on 6/1/87. Since it was a Sunday, it is not likely the board was meeting. This is the adjourn or session on Saturdays or Sundays. The form also states 'A protest of the valuation filed with the county board of equalization in the office of the county clerk within the 30 day period specified.' Not exactly correct. Property owners actually have only 21 working days, not 30, to file a protest.

NIF picking? Perhaps, but government forms need to be readable and accurate.

In a year when state government has a surplus, it's a bitter pill to receive notice that government wants increasing amounts of your money just because you own a property. Retirees are especially hard hit.

Don't blame the local assessor's office, however, as it is simply carrying out the mandate of state officials.

If you disagree with your new valuation, protest in legible and let me know how you feel.

We remain a government "of, by, and for" the people. Let your voice be heard on all matters.

AID TO FAMILIES

As a result of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Branch #1542 Helping Hands Benefit for Alvin and Jade Olubka, each of their families will receive $1,400 to help with the girls' medical expenses.

Local organizers from AAL expressed their appreciation to all the Waldbauer employees and friends of the two families who lent a hand to help with the Pancake Feed. AAL also offered thanks to the M.C. Waldbauer Company for donating supplies for the supper and to McDonald's of Sioux City who donated the drink.

Over 600 people from around the nation and foreign countries attended the conference held May 7-10 in Omaha.

Governor Ben Nelson addressed the general assembly of the conference. He pointed out that 91 percent of businesses in Nebraska are classified as micro (those having five or fewer employees).

Microbusinesses from around the state were invited to participate in the Microbusiness Fair, one at the Red Lion Inn and the other at the Crossroads Mall.

Mrs. Lovvold sold Quilt Shop products/services at the fair. She is a member of the Logan Creek Small Business Association, an association of the Rural Enterprise Assistance Project (REAP) of the Center for Rural Affairs at Walthill.

SCHOOL AGE PROGRAM

Club Challenge is planning a summer program for school age children which will include weekly 4-H projects. Club Challenge was organized last fall as an after school program, the summer planned activities and supervision for school age children.

The program, coordinated by Amy Swales, will have planned activities each morning, Monday-Friday, from 8 a.m.-noon. The program will also provide children experience in gardening, study of the five senses, insects, foods and will include tours and more.

Parents interested in enrolling their children or with questions may contact Mrs. Swales at the Mumby Dorothy Day Care Center.

Club Challenge is made available in Wakefield in part due to a grant from the Nebraska Department of Education.

READING PROGRAM

The Grays Public Library will host a children's summer reading program.

Earlier this spring, "The Ticket Man" visited classrooms at Wakefield Elementary School.

The theme for this year's program is "Thrills and Chills at the Library."

"There may be penguins in Wakefield and snow in June," Mr. Ticket Man told the children. "Anything is possible when you use your imagination."

The program is free and open to children three years old through the sixth grade. The program will be kicked off with a week long session and then meet once a week on Tuesday through July.

The week long program will begin on Monday, June 5 and conclude Friday, June 14 with the graduation ceremony.

Amateur Golf Tournament draws 227 entrants Eymann wins Wayne Open

The Annual Men's Amateur June Open Golf Tournament was held at the Wayne Country Club last Sunday, with Papillion's Kirk Eymann cruising to a three-stroke victory in the largest field of play ever to踏上 the course.

Eymann fired a five-under-par 67 in the first 18 holes with rounds of 34-71 before notching a 30-in-the-championship round for a three-under total of 105, or three under par 36 course.

The Division had four birdies in the first 18 holes and an eagle on the par-five hole number 16. He dropped in his eagle on 16, and dropped in to par on number 15, which sufficed for first-birdie of the day on number 16, the first eagle ever on holes 2, 7, 13, 14 & 15.

At the first nine holes Eymann recorded his fifth birdie of the day, both regular day. He went into the final round with a four-stroke lead over Chuck Fisher of Westminster, Colorado who had fired a one-under par 71 on the first 18 before closing a 79 in the final round.

Fisher's 110 edged Bonner's Jerry Schmeller and Gladys Jason Peterson, who also fired 110. Laurel's Rick Petri placed fifth with a 73, with Norfolk's Chuck Kudlow also carding a 111, for sixth, and Wayne's David Bain placed seventh with a 111. Bain captured top-bogey in the championship round with a two-over-par 70.

Norfolk's Tracy Mann finished eighth with a 113, and Mike Baumgard of Omaha placed ninth with a 113, while Tom Hahn of Sioux City placed 10th with a 113.

The field of 227 golfers had all played the championship blue tees with the other 139 players comprising 11 flights. The first flight was won by Marvin Ray, minister, Colorado who had fired a one-under par 71 on the first 18 before closing a 79 in the final round.

Wayne's Ted Ellis with a 77, edging Gary Linn and Gary Goeth who also shot 77 and 78. Gary placed fourth with a 79.

The third flight was captured by Frank Tamm, with a 78, while Wayne's Carl Hansen placed second with 80, followed with a 80. Bob Woodward finished third with an 82 and Wayne's Lee Higginson placed fourth with an 84.

Fourth-highest was the seventh flight with an 86 and

Wayne's Matt McElroy placed

second with an 85, while Terry

Groves placed third with an 86, and Patrick Fung was fourth with an 88.

The sixth flight was won by Randy Zimmerman with a 78 while Todd Cunningham fired a 79 for second. Dick Meader finished third with an 82 and Wayne's Lee Higginson placed fourth with an 84.

Fourth-highest was the ninth flight with an 86 and

Wayne's Matt McElroy placed

second with an 85, while Terry

Groves placed third with an 86, edging Jeff Knapp with the green stroke.

The eighth flight was won by Wayne's Tom Loh with an 82, while Wayne's Steve Meyer placed second with an 83 and Wayne's Kyle Bain was third, followed by 84 with Carl Higginson placing fourth with an 85.

Mike Lippin won the 12th flight with an 80 while Gary Goeth was second with an 86, while Jerry

Higginson placed third with an 87 and Doug Higginson placed fourth at 89.

Jim Broderick captured top hon-

COOKED ON THE COOKOUT AND BOOBY CHARGED STURM TO A 1996 91° record 500 in the State Class A meet on Wednesday evening.

The Wayne Blue Devils placed fifth in a struggle between eight of the 12 Class A teams represented by coaches Hopkins, Long, Sturz, Wayne, Loh, the host Gators, and those who did a year ago when they placed seventh.

What was perhaps a larger accomplishment for the Blue Devils project was to get away from the idea of just shooting the best possible score instead of shooting to the best of what it takes to compete for your state championship.

Hod Wilson fired a couple of the same rounds of golf they had put out under earlier coaches like Hopkins, Long, and Loh.

State Class A coach Sturz, who has been coaching for 10 years, said that four of the five players he has seen this year have been better than Ryan Sturz, the only player ever to graduate while winning more than 100 games.

Babies are not 'blank slates'

Q Some psychologists, especially the behaviorists, believe that children are born as "blank slates," being devoid of personality until they interact with their environments. Do you agree?

A No. I am now certain that the personalities of newborns vary tremendously, even before parental and environmental influence is exerted. Every mother of two or more children will affirm that each of her infants had a different personality, a "different feel" from the first time they were held.

Honorouros authorities in the field of child development now agree that these complex little creatures called babies are far from "blank slates" when they enter the world.

One important study by Clever, Hamer and Birth revealed three kinds of individuality in which babies differ from one another. These differences tend to persist into later life and include levels of activity, responsiveness, distractibility and muddiness, among others.

Another newborn characteristic (not mentioned by Clever) is most interesting to me and relates to a factor which can be called "strength of the will."

Some children seem to be born with an extremely compliant attitude toward external authority. At infants, they don't cry very often, they sleep through the night from the second week, they go at the grandparents, they smile while being diapered, and they're very patient when dinner is overcooked. During later childhood, they love to keep their rooms clean, they especially like to do their homework, and they can entertain themselves for hours.

There aren't many of these supercompliant children. I'm afraid that they are known to exist in some households (not my own).

Just as surely as some children are naturally compliant, there are others who seem to be defiant upon exit from the womb. They come into the world sucking a cigar, yelling about the temperature in the delivery room and the incompetence of the nursing staff, and the way things are run by the administrator of the hospital. They expect meals to be beyond the instant they are ordered and they demand every morsel of mother's milk. As the months unfold, the expression of willfulness becomes even more apparent, the whinnying turns into logic during toddlerhood.

The expression of the will, whether compliant or defiant, is only one of an infinite number of ways children differ at birth.

Q You wrote in one of your books that "All of life is a preparation for adolescence and beyond." Please explain and elaborate on that statement.

A I was referring to the need to grant independence to children and permit them to make their own decisions.

Parents would be wise to remember that the day is fast approaching when the child they have raised will pack his suitcase and leave home, never to return. And as he walks through the door to confront the outside world, he will no longer be accountable to their parental authority and supervision. No one can require him to eat properly, or get his needed rest, or find a job, or take responsibility. He will sink or swim on his own.

This sudden independence can be devastating for some individuals who have not been properly prepared for it. But how can a mother and father train sons and daughters so they won't go wild in the first dizzying months of freedom? How can they equip them for that moment of emancipation?

The best time to begin preparing a child for the ultimate release is during childhood, before a relationship of dependence is established. As Rainbow wrote:

"It may be easier for the child to feed himself, walk unaided for him to dress himself, bathe clean when he attempts to bathe himself; less perfect for him to comb his hair, but unless his mother learns to sit on her hands and allow the child to cry and say she will stand for the child, independence will be delayed."

The process of granting appropriate independence must continue through the elementary years. Parents should permit their kids to go to camp, even though it might be safer to keep them at home.

Likewise, boys and girls ought to be allowed to spend the night with their friends when invited. They should make their own beds, take care of their own animals and do their homework.

When this assignment has been handled properly through the years, a high school senior should be virtually emancipated, even though he still lives with his parents.

Preserving rhubarb

By Edith Nelson (HC) just now the opportunity to save rhubarb throughout the year rhubarb can be frozen or canned.

FREEZING

Frozen rhubarb may turn off flavorless leaves. Wash stalks and cut into half to one inch pieces. Pack into an airtight container such as a plastic container, glass jar or freezer wrap section.

For the container, then freeze it. Frozen pieces are a good start, and then pack into the freezer containers. The container should contain before freezing from excess liquid so that when you defrost it, the juice will not be watery.

CANNING

Rhubarb can be canned. Cut stalks into 1/2 inch pieces. Add 1/2 cup sugar per pound of fresh rhubarb and boil over high heat until the juice appears. Heat quickly to boiling. If the juice does not boil, reheat until it comes to a boil again. In the same manner, add the second and third jars of rhubarb.

When all is canned, add the juice to the jars. Seal the jars and process them for 10 minutes.

This can be used in pies, puddings, jellies, jams, etc. It is also good for a filling for a pie or a filling for a cobbler.

The preserved stuff is a great addition to any meal, especially at dinner parties or for picnics and special occasions.

BARING

There is nothing better than a good meal of rhubarb pie, cobbler, crumble and other dishes. This is a great recipe throughout the year using fresh rhubarb.

Remodeling is now underway

After six days of rain and clouds, the sun has welcomed this whole month has been too cool and gloomy people were getting depressed. Today is so beautiful and there just seems to be a bit of a change in the weather.

Of course, dandelions are doing well and the grass keeps growing. Plus, both ears are dry.

The local experts are here and for being volunteered by a five year old with a high title name is Abigail and she hasn't quit talking since she got here. Her daddy is

We put it all together under the house on the farm at Hoxie and it was quite a sight. Kids played down there and had double pneumonia plus a brother slept down there. They went there to play under the front porch steps and killing was a favorite game there.

Ed and Edie Jackson, Dorothy Thompson, Edie's son Andrew Allerton, plus others from their spiritual community at the church and John and Phillip Jackson, having their vacation at the cabin. Both couples had a part in our children's lives. Our family was one. And though we through school, especially the school for board meeting in the house where we called our family office, they can take advantage of that. Grandparents, father and stepson. Wanted kept a fleet of old cars, driving for us at Wayne Motors and that gets a thumbs up. We may think and we do. We could offer our respects to you.

It's about time for the annual 4-H barbeque get together. And there gets to be the other Saturday, talk. Let's hope the weather is here to stay.

Visit to the farm

Meg and Jillian Pierson of Minneapolis, Minn., are fascinated by the farm and farm animals. Each time they return to the Wayne area to visit family and friends, they make time to go to the Dan and Sharon Gustafson farm to see the animals. Recently, they and their father Douglas, were able to play with lambs at the Gustafson farm. Douglas is the son of Dean and Marilyn Pierson of Wayne. His wife, Teresa, is the daughter of Paul and Ginny Otto, also of Wayne.
