City Council listens to Rainbow World update

By Clara Oaten
Of the Herald

Representatives of the Board of Directors of Rainbow World, Wayne's Day Care Center, met with City Council members to consider making some form of financial contribution to the Center to help alleviate the financial difficulties currently experienced by the Center.

Diane Schoonover and Mary Franz, board members of Rainbow World, spoke to the council about the status of the Center. They indicated that the Center is currently experiencing financial difficulty.

Schoonover discussed the history of Rainbow World, including the community's need for the facility as indicated by the 51st Avenue Center. The center is licensed to care for 60 children and average daily attendance during the school year is 54 children.

The facility employs a total of 41 people on both a part and full-time basis.

Rainbow World has recently re-structured its office and reduced the number of staff members employed. However, the facility is currently behind on a number of payments, including back taxes.

Schoonover asked the council to consider any sort of assistance that may be offered to the facility but said to defer any decision because the board is looking into the possibility of obtaining grant money that may need to be matched with community money.

The council gave second reading approval to the ordinance which would raise the area of the former Wayne Care Center.

At that time, the area which would be affected by the rezoning spoke to the council and said that the property owners in the area are not opposed to the project, but rather the rezoning status.

"We would support family and apartment but we need some assurance of control of the density of population," Franz said.

He added that there are more than 40 property owners who are not being heard in this issue and urged the council to remember that "you are representatives of the people."

Councilperson Jim Cleary said that there is no simple decision for this issue and sometimes we can't agree on everything.

In other action, the council approved the buying of insurance.

Consultants, Inc. of Omaha to help develop a proposal package for the city's major medical insurance and to get prices for coverage.

The council gave approval and waived the three readings to Ordinance 97-12 amending the city code. The action will help the Wayne Police Department in dealing with unlicensed and inoperable motor vehicles.

Police Chief Lance Webster said that under the present city code, his department is limited in what they can do in regard to inoperable vehicles. He said he has researched what other towns have done and feels the changes he has recommended would give his department more ability to enforce the law.

Public hearings have been set for July 8 to report to the zoning of several pieces of land. The hearing is set to begin at or about 7:15 p.m. and involves land south of Grand Dam and an area north of Aganway Street.

A public hearing will also be held on July 8, at or about 7:15 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the amending of the zoning ordinance by adding teleworking as a permitted principal use.

Lt. Governor visits

Lt. Governor Kim Robak, right, was in Wayne on Tuesday to congratulate Restful Knights on the business's recent Nebraska Small Business of the Year Award. The governor's staff was unable to be present for the actual presentation of the award earlier this year. Ms. Robak praised the efforts of Restful Knights owners and the community of Wayne for producing back to back Small Business of the Year winners. Visiting with Ms. Robak are Wayne State President Dr. Donald Mash and Bill Dickey.

Local artists have work displayed

Wayne residents Michael Fluent and Glorie Beckenbauer will be displaying their artwork at the Hoyne Art Gallery in Lincoln during the month of July.

The two will also participate in the second annual "Picnic Under the Waterfall" on the fourth of July, which includes a special opening for their work in the Hoyne Art Gallery.

During the fourth of July celebration, a number of special activities will take place at the gallery. A three performance will take place on the rooftop. The performance will be given by Black Earth, the Collaborative Co. by John Hawley, a dancer and Tom Bouslog, a composer. Hawley and Bouslog are from Michigan.

Also during the Picnic Under the Waterfall event will be an exhibit for those attending. Proceeds from the sale of these items will go to benefit the Nebraska Arts Council.

Laurel youth killed in auto accident

The Cedar County Sheriff's Office and 136 Nebraska State Patrol investigated a fatality accident that occurred at approximately 9:14 p.m. on Friday, June 20.

The driver of the vehicle was Gerald E. Barry, 14, of rural Laurel. The vehicle was driving east on Highway 10 and rolled into the ditch and rolled two to three times. Barry was ejected from the vehicle and transported to Sacred Heart Hospital in Yorktown, N.D. by Cedarburg Rescue.

He was pronounced dead at the hospital.

The accident occurred approximately three miles east of Cole ridge on County Road 82.

The owner of the vehicle was Ruth A. Barry, 40, of rural Laurel. She transported to the hospital via Adam R. Barry, 10, of rural Laurel. He was treated for minor injuries. Two other passengers had only minor scrapes and bruises.

College students to pay more for tuition

Students at the three state colleges will pay about $5,000 more per year for their education costs during their matriculation in North Platte.

The $5,000 price tag reflects increases made by the State College Board of Trustees during the past two sessions.

The board, the highest governing authority at the three colleges, includes University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and Wayne State.

The board also approved a new $2 per credit hour fee for those attending during their matriculation in North Platte.

In May, the board raised other fees slightly and increased tuition and board costs by three to five percent at the three colleges.

The total college costs are based on two scenarios. A credit hour of 12 credits each semester, double occupancy dorm rates and the $5,000 per credit hour plan.

The tuition increase will be used to help pay increasing costs of operation, said Carol Francis, executive director of the board.

Chamber to hold meeting

The Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting Wednesday, July 2, at the Waynesville High School for a luncheon beginning at 11:45 a.m.

Quality Food Center will cater the luncheon. The menu is to be served at the high school cafeteria. Western State will donate coffee and coffee service. The luncheon will be held at the high school cafeteria at 12:15 p.m.

Guest speakers will be Mike Barry, Director of Sports and Recreational Facilities at Wayne State College. Barry will report about student athletes and their involvement in community service.

A number of guest Barry's duties include home space management, athletic and recreational facilities, coordinate and various other duties in the athletic department.

Barry earned his doctorate degree in Physical Education from Chapman State College in 1981 and his master's degree in secondary education in 1988. He and his wife, Jennifer, have two young children, a son and a daughter. Barry also has a son Mike who lives in Chester and goes to school at the University of Nebraska.

Lutheran high school is being planned in Norfolk

By Dianne Jaeger
Wayne Correspondent

After 20 years of toying around the idea, Northeast Nebraska Lutherans will finally see their dream come true. Plans are underway to break ground sometime this summer for a new high school in Northeast Nebraska. It will be called Lutheran High Northeast and located northwest of Norfolk.

"The school will be on 40 acres of ground off 17th and Benjamin Ave. close to the Lincolnville, Ill.," says Paul Lockhard, editor. Lockhard has been hired as the high school principal but until its completion, he is serving as the Executive Director for the Lutheran High School Association which is undertaking the project.

Lockhard said Lincolnville plans for the school began developing about two years ago after a market survey was done in the area which showed a high level of interest among parents. The project began to fall into place after that. During the spring of last year, a committee was organized, from which a Board of Directors developed and the Association was incorporated. We received our 501(c)(3) (Recognized Service Organization) status from the Lutheran Church

American Synod.

"We plan to complete the school by phase. Phase I, which will include classrooms and a gym, will be able to accommodate 200 students. We hope to have all this completed by August 1998 at an estimated $7.5 million," Lockhard said.

"Additional phases are anticipated to be completed within five years at a total projected cost of four million. We will be able to accommodate roughly four hundred students."

"Thinking for Building the school will all be from private sources without state or federal aid. A capital building campaign 'Building for Excellence' is now underway, however we may later apply for grants to help with equipment or supplies. We will meet or exceed all State Board of Education requirements and all of our teachers will be state certified. We already have three teachers, including myself, hired. This first year (before construction) we will be hiring about five part time teachers. After the school opens, we will hire more teachers as our enrollment increases. I'll probably in teaching religion classes. We should be receiving our approval from the State this summer.

Besides a complete suite of Language Arts, Social Science, Mathematics, and Science courses, the school will require students to take classes in Theology and offer electives in Fine Arts, Practical Arts, Health, and Physical Education courses.

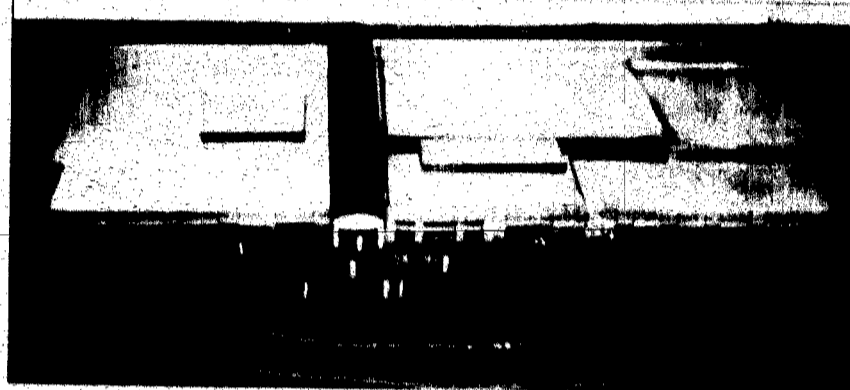

We will also be a member of the NESEA and therefore offer a full line of intersubjecting options. We'll be meeting our approval from the State this summer. At the current time, there are no plans for school lunch programs for incoming students. However, there may be things we'll look at in the future.

Although the school's construction hasn't begun yet, it already has students for the fall (August, 1997).

We have between 40 and 80 newly and high-achieving students. They will be meeting our standards at Wayne Lutheran from the beginning for this year. The children will be coming out of Christ Lutheran School in Papillion and John Lutheran of Battle Creek and Zion Lutheran of Plattsmouth. These students will be following high standards for graduation class in the year 2000. Ecklund said.

At the present time, no plans have been discussed for financing buildings on the site but Ecklund says that if they do, the neighborhood, think about in the future. Most of the students will be commuting, but in case of bad weather, the families will be lined up for buses to stay safe.

Taxpayers group meets

Sixteen citizens of Wayne County met June 12 at Cafe Court with Ed Jaska and Steven Thomsen of Nebraska Taxpayers Association.

The purpose of the get-together was to become familiar with the terms and programs of the Nebraska Taxpayers Association and to discuss the possibility of organizing a local chapter in Wayne County.

Comments were also reported during the meeting pertaining to recent property evaluation increases, school bond issues, general local tax increases and the matter of citizens participating in community tax discussions with taxing agencies.

The two men encouraged the group to become familiar with legislative bills and to keep in contact with appropriate state agencies and their staff members concerning what citizens can do to affect tax accountability and tax levy levels.

On the right track

Earlier this month Nebraska Attorney General Don Stenberg urged Congress to enact legislation curbing the power of federal judges.

Stenberg asked the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on Constitution, Federalism and Property Rights, "Will America be governed by the people's representatives or by a tyrant who rides for life, wears the robes and sits in an exalted place, far removed from ordinary citizens?"

Congress should enact laws, according to Stenberg, prohibiting lower federal courts from declaring state and federal laws unconstitutional, requiring instead that these decisions be made only by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Under the current judicial system, a single federal judge can set aside laws enacted by legislatures, as well as statewide referendum decisions.

Referring to a 23 state-tribe tribal case before the U.S. Supreme Court, Stenberg said a 5-4 decision invalidated all term limit proposals, including the referendum that Nebraska approved by a 7-1 ratio, Stenberg asked, "Is this democracy or judicial tyranny?"

Have judges crossed from interpreting the law to quizzing by law?

Are Americans to be ruled by legislative action and majority opinion via the ballot box, or by one appointed federal judge?

Stenberg is on the right track.

Official language

Does state law in Arizona declaring English to be the official language, requiring English for business, violate the free speech clause in the First Amendment?

On March 3, 1997 the U.S. Supreme Court denied the constitutional challenge, an action reversing the decision of two lower Arizona courts which had decided the English requirement was unconstitutional. The constitutional question now pending in Arizona's Supreme Court will likely move on up to the U.S. Supreme Court in a few years.

This case is interesting to Nebraskans in that Nebraska's state constitution adopted in 1920 also, in section 27, states the English language is hereby declared to be the official language of this state, and all official proceedings, records and publications shall be in such language, and the common school branches shall be taught in such language in public, private, denominational and parochial schools.

State officials are keeping an eye on the Arizona case.

A word of caution

Wayne doesn't have a shortage of being hit by devastating hurricanes. Last season's state had the impact in part because of the time when the storms hit. The sandy, low-lying areas and where the winds are fiercest are also the areas that suffer the most damage.

Simultaneous weather conditions are often cited for the spreading of devastation in early coastal human imagination. In a 1986 study by meteorologist Douglas W. Wilson, prepared by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, it was noted:

"Each family must decide if it is willing to be hit by a storm and where to go when it does. Storms appear to be appropriate in the low-lying coastal areas. The state's family destroyed emergency preparedness in case of hurricanes."

Doing so makes good sense.

Senator has recurring dream

By Melvin Paul

State Sen. Tavon Crosby of Lincoln says she has a recurring dream.

In the midst of legislative debate, State Sen. Tavon Crosby stands up and says, "I really like this bill."

Crosby says that at this point in the dream, she looks up at the vote board but you never quite see the number of the mysterious bill that actually satisfies the notoriously hard-to-please lawmaker.

"In having my own recurring dreams as a legislator, from the just passed legislative session to now and now again, state senators are pulling back some pieces of legislation to review them one last time. An agreement has been worked out and nobody will tell me the details. My questions are: have you approached and I have nothing to report."

This of course is filled with irony and obvious goals.

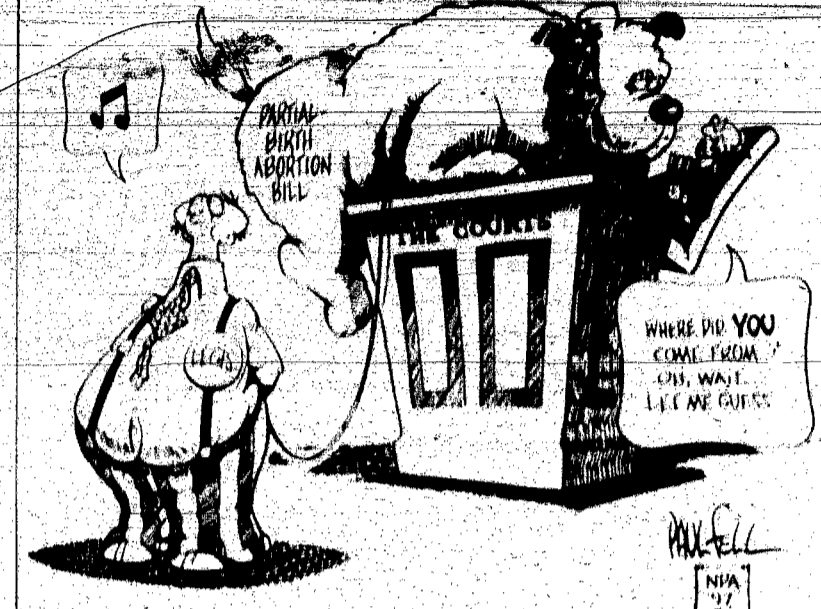

During the past few days, I've been pondering the meaning of the partial birth abortion ban.

There's no hope of change in the legislative debate. The Governor's Legislative Bill 23 passed it was in court. This one will be in the headlines for months if not years.

The whole debate seems as surreal as a backing and forth as a politician in a dead dream.

Really down to my experience, they are not prepared about whether a better job of legislative drafting is needed at work. I don't understand how the people here can make a decision here between the two and I don't see how the people here can make a decision here.

Designing a successful spec building

Designing a successful spec building is a complex task that requires careful planning and attention to detail. The success of a spec building project depends on the quality of the design and the execution of the construction.

The design phase is critical to the success of a spec building project. It is important to work closely with the architect to ensure that the design meets the owner's needs and expectations. The design should be functional, aesthetically pleasing, and cost-effective.

Once the design is complete, the next step is to obtain permits and start construction. It is important to monitor the construction process closely to ensure that the building is constructed according to the design and specifications.

The final step in the design process is to complete the project and hand over the building to the owner. The owner should be satisfied with the quality and value of the building.

Designing a successful spec building is a challenging but rewarding task. It requires a combination of creativity, technical skill, and attention to detail. By following these steps, you can ensure that your spec building project is a success.

Dalton is named Academic All-American

WAYNE—Wayne State College track and field athlete Kathy Dalton has been named to the GTE Academic All-America College Division Women's Spring All-Star Team.

Dalton, a senior from Waverly, had a 3.97 grade point average. She graduated this spring with a major in accounting and a minor in mathematics.

This is the second time this year Dalton has earned a spot on a GTE Academic All-America First Team. In April, Dalton who also participates in cross country, earned first team honors for the fall and winter seasons, one of four females to do so. She is the first Wildcat, male or female, to be named to the GTE Academic All-America First Team, which is sponsored by GTE and CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America).

"This is a great honor for Kathy in and her career at Wayne State with," coach Brian Kavanaugh said. "She is one of the brightest and hardest working athletes I have ever had the pleasure of coaching."

Dalton, a four-time Academic All-District 7 selection, set five track and field school records this season, after being the Wildcat's top runner on the cross country team. A four-year letterwinner in both sports, Dalton established indoor records in the 1500 meters and the mile run, as well as running a leg on the school's indoor 1200 meter relay team. During the outdoor season, Dalton broke the school records in the 10,000 meters and the 800 meters.

This past cross country season, Dalton earned the NE AA Division II Coaches All Academic Award based on her grade point average and her top 25 finish at the North Central Regional Championships. A team captain in both cross country and track, Dalton helped both teams earn the Division II Coaches Association All-America Team Award the past two seasons.

In addition, Dalton is a two-time recipient of the WSC/Cunningham School Athlete of the Year Award, and she was on the Presidential Scholar Athlete's list every semester of her college career.

Wayne athletes honored for academics

WAYNE—Several Wayne athletes were listed for outstanding academic excellence for the spring sports season as part of the Lincoln Journal & Star's Academic All-Star team.

Sara Kinney and Aimee Wiseman of Wayne along with Adam Dany, Berg and Matt Meyer were selected as well as Kurtis Keller from the golf team. The Lincoln paper also honored academic athletes that were honored in those sports this season which included Matt Meyer and Kurtis Keller.

Lifestyle

Olnes-Gull are wed at Wayne

Candy Olnes and Shane Gull, both of Wayne, were married June 7, 1997 at the First Presbyterian Church in Wayne.

The Rev. Craig Holsted officiated.

Parents of the couple are

Mr. and Mrs. Gull

Dennis and Carol Meyer of Grant and Dave and Nancy Gull of Wayne.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Jane Cleary and soloist Becky Trull, both of Wayne. Selections included "Me and You," "There's No Way" and "The Wedding Song."

The bride was given in marriage by her sons, Jason and Dawson Olnes. She wore a white satin dress with a heart-shaped neckline. The bride was attended with purity and joyous. The look of the dress came to "V" and had a long train.

Jason and Dawson wore black tuxedos with tails, peach ties and cummerbunds.

Chief witnesses of Christ, Inna was Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids were Holly Trull, Beckie Porter and Amy Gull, all of Wayne.

The flower girl was Courtney Hinchelton of Branson, Mo.

All of the women wore teal high low dresses with open heart backs. The flowers they carried were hand made with peached roses and leafy accents.

The best man was Chad Sebade of Wayne.

Groomsmen were Jason Branch, Jeff Carlson and Ryan Gull, all of Wayne.

Jordan Meyer of Norfolk carried the rings.

The guests wore a white-tipped with tails. The men wore black tuxedos.

Ushers were Damon Meyer of Norfolk, Jamie Meyer of Omaha, Adam Lamm of Decatur and Paul Nelson of Lincoln.

Candlelighters were Andrew Kirschhake of Fremont and Tim Gull of Omaha.

A reception was held at the National Guard Armory following the ceremony.

Hot birds in the wings at two o'clock of Wayne and the groom is employed by Great Dane Trainers.

Following a honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Wayne.

Dawdler requires limits

Q: I have a horrible time getting my 10-year-old daughter ready to catch the school bus each morning. She will get up when I insist, but she dawdles and plays as soon as I leave the room. I have to goad and push and warn her every few minutes or else she will be late. So I get more and more angry, and usually end up screaming insults at her. I know this is not the best way to handle her. Tell me how I can get her moving without this emotion every day.

Shirley

A: You are playing right into your daughter's hands by assuming the responsibility for getting her ready each morning.

A 10-year-old should definitely be able to handle that task on her own steam, but your anger is not likely to bring it about. We had a very similar problem with our own daughter when she was 10. Perhaps the solution we worked out will help you.

Dana's morning time problem related primarily to her responsibility about her room. She will not leave for school each day unless her bed is made perfectly and every-thing is in its proper place. This was not something we taught her; she has always been very meticulous about her possessions. (I should add that her brother, Ryan, does not have this problem.)

Dana could easily finish these tasks on time if she were motivated to do so, but she was never in a particular hurry. Therefore, my wife began to fall into the same habit you described: warning, threatening, pushing, shoving and ultimately becoming angry as the clock moved toward the deadline.

Shirley and I discovered the problem and agreed that there had to be a better method of getting through the morning. I subsequently created a system which we called "checkpoints." It worked like this: Dana was instructed to be out of bed and standing erect before 6:30 each morning. It was her responsibility to set her alarm clock and get herself out of bed. If she succeeded in getting up on time three consecutive mornings, she was considered a "mixed team," she immediately went to the kitchen where a chart was taped to the refrigerator door. She then checked "yes" or "no," with regard to the first checkpoint for that date. It couldn't be more simple. She either did or did not get up by

The second checkpoint occurred 40 minutes later at 7:10. By that time, she was required to have her room straightened to her own satisfaction, be dressed and have her teeth brushed, hair combed, etc., and be ready to begin practicing the piano. Forty minutes was ample time for these tasks, which could actually be done in 10 or 15 minutes if she wanted to hurry. Thus, the only way she could miss the second checkpoint was to deliberately ignore it.

Now, what meaning did the checkpoints have? Did failure to meet them bring anger and wrath and gnashing of teeth? Of course not. The consequences were straightforward and fair. If Dana missed one checkpoint, she was required to go to bed 30 minutes earlier than usual that evening. If she missed two, she hit the "big warden" an hour before her assigned bedtime. She was permitted to read during that time in bed, but she could not watch television or talk on the telephone.

This procedure took all the morning pressure off Shirley and placed it on our daughter's shoulders, where it belonged. There were occasions when my wife got up just in time to fix breakfast, only to find Dana sitting wearily at the piano, clothes and in her nightgown.

This system of discipline can serve as a model for parents who have similar behavioral problems with their children. It was not oppressive; in fact, Dana seemed to enjoy having a target to shoot at. The limits of acceptable performance were defined beyond question. The responsibility was clearly placed on the child. And it required no adult anger or feet stomping.

There is an adaptation of this concept available to resolve other, thorny conflicts in your home, too. The only limit lies in the creativity and imagination that you bring to the situation.

Sahs family has reunion

This year's Sahs family reunion was a three-day event.

The family attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Warren and Anna Margaret Sahs at Lincoln on June 8 and on June 7 a picnic with 55 in attendance was held at the Pool Park in Wayne. The group also celebrated the 81st birthday of Irene Sahs Garwood.

The genealogy was reviewed and reported on, both that of Sabina Lynn, daughter of Chris and Michelle Lynn, no wedding, and no death.

On June 8, the families attended the 100th anniversary of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Carroll.

Relatives were present from Kansas City, Mo., San Antonio and Dallas, Texas, Mulford, Iowa, Crawfordville and Valparaiso, Ind., Boggyville, Mo., Stillwater, Okla. and Omaha, Papillon, Lincoln, Carroll, Kearney and Wayne.

The next reunion will be with Ken and Barbara Synagou in 1999 in Lincoln.

On June 14 the Sahs family attended the wedding of Craig Underwood and Lori Mostak, both of Lincoln, at Breton.

Craig is the grandson of Edith Cook.

Group to perform in Wayne

The Continentals 1997 Anniversary "Reachin' Out" Tour will be coming to Wayne's Evangelical Free Church in Wayne on Tuesday, July 1 at 7:30 p.m. The group presents a dynamic, evangelical program—contemporary Christian music. Featuring over 30 singers, dancers and technicians, the Frontline Continentals program includes music for all ages and will challenge today's Christian to expand the hand of love through actions, as well as words, to those in need.

For 19 years the Continentals have been sharing the gospel through music to people all over the world. More than 17,000 young people and adults have traveled to over 70 countries on six continents. Members of the Frontline Continentals are carefully chosen from thousands who audition annually from around the world.

Committees for month of July are told

International Lutheran Ladies Aid of First Wakesfield met June 19 with 13 members present. MRS. Schuttler gave a presentation of "Dolls" comparing them to Christian life.

The hymn "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty" was sung, accompanied by MRS. David Roeder, at the piano. The visiting committee report was given by Mrs. Schuttler.

Work to be done at the parsonage was discussed. Committees for July include sewing—Mrs. Fitzhacker and Barbara Bawinkel, visiting—Dorothy Meyer and Mrs. Marie Roeder, library and communion table—Carlton Meyer, Revue—Suzanne, Mrs. Marie Roeder and Elaine Roeder.

The birthday song followed MRS. Schuttler, Hostess, gave MRS. Marie Roeder and Elaine Roeder.

Aloha evening being planned

Grace Lutheran Church will be holding an Aloha evening of Prayer and Praise on Sunday, June 29, in the Village Room on the Wayne State Campus.

The evening will begin with fellowship and a light meal to be served at 6:30 p.m. The Rev. Jeff Anderson will lead a short prayer service at 7:30 p.m. with hymns of praise led by the Grace Prayer Singers.

This evening of fellowship is being hosted by the members of the Evangelism Committee: Melvin Utter, Ginny Harvill, Virgil Lawson, Elva Henningson, Bette Ershler and Wayne Lempert. The public is invited to attend and there is no cost.

Pastors, members meet in Norfolk

Over 100 area pastors and church members met in Norfolk at a Church Cabinet Meeting to prepare for the upcoming Billy Graham Crusade featuring team member Ralph Bell.

The four day crusade to be held Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 23-26 will be hosted at the Northeast Community College Activities Center with Billy Graham team member speaking nightly at 7 p.m.

Over 50 area churches have accepted the invitation to be a part of the event and Crusade Church Closures include the pastor, congregational leader, youth leader, women's leader and youth leader from area congregations.

Local involvement was inspired by Mrs. Cal Kroecker, pastor of Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church, Rev. Tony Reynolds, pastor of First Church of Christ and Ralph Etter, member of First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Involved in the crusade is still possible according to Ralph Cooke, the Norfolk crusade office manager.

"We look forward to some level of involvement from all churches in the Northeast Nebraska area," Cooke said.

"Local churches will be able to provide full church closure after partial closures and some churches will, though, be able to distribute invitations to the crusade with bulletin inserts that we provide them. We're looking forward to participation from the entire church community."

Individuals interested in becoming involved may contact their local church or Ralph Cooke office manager at the Northeast Nebraska Crusade, 114-14 Fourth Street, P.O. Box 1177, Norfolk, Neb. 68701.

St. Paul Lutheran Church celebrates its centennial

St. Paul Lutheran Church of Carroll celebrated its centennial on June 28 at the City Auditorium in Carroll.

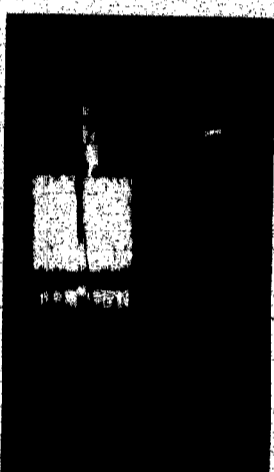

Approximately 300 people attended the day-long event. Services were held at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Current pastor of the congregation, Ricky Bertels, was liturgical and Pastor Gerald Gottberg, who served the congregation from 1976-78, gave the sermon during the morning worship.

Pastor Christopher Koepke, who served the congregation from 1989-1994, was liturgical during the afternoon service. Rev. Mark Miller, pastor from 1983-1989, gave the sermon.

Mr. Gottberg served as pianist for both services. A Centennial Choir led the congregation during both services and the Sunday School classes also sang during morning worship. The Centennial Chorus consisted of three generations of the Albert Schaefer family.

Pastor Holting of Norfolk represented Nebraska District President Eugene Berke and presented the church's Lightbulb 100 with a centennial certificate from the Missouri Synod and one from Concordia College.

Lynette Eric of Lutheran Brotherhood gave Mr. Berk a hand ink drawing of the church in honor of their 100 years. There was also an open house at the church on June 7 and an open house on Sunday for the public to see the recent remodeling and displays of articles and pictures of events and groups that at the church throughout the 100 years of existence.

The church has available a number of centennial books, plates and book marks for purchase at moments. Anyone interested in obtaining any of these items should contact a member of the congregation.

Unprotected skin in recent years has been associated with aging and health. But there's really the best thing is a healthy tan.

But skin was prized during the 19th century because that indicated the individual didn't work outdoors. That attitude changed when fashion designer Coco Chanel came back from a vacation sporting a tan in the 1920s. From then on, tanned skin was associated with good health, great wealth, leisure time, social status, beauty and high fashion.

— don't work on getting a tan.
— wear protective clothing such as a wide-brimmed hat and a long sleeved shirt and long pants.
— use a sunscreen with a protective factor (SPF) of 15 or higher.
— apply the sunscreen 30 minutes before exposure to the sun.
— re-apply sunscreen about every three hours and after swimming. Use lip balm that contains sunscreen.
— use lip balm that contains sunscreen.

— wear sunglasses that filter out ultraviolet radiation.
— be alert to reflected UV light from sand, water and cement.
— stay out of the sun when taking certain medications that may make the skin more light sensitive. Check with your doctor. Take the Sun Smart Test.
— How sun smart are you. Answer these questions true or false and find out.
— Skin cancer is the most common form of cancer today.
— In recent years the thinning of the Earth's ozone layer means more damaging ultraviolet rays reach people, plants and animals.

1. About 80 percent of skin cancer is caused by the sun's ultraviolet radiation.
2. People with fair skin, red or blonde hair and blue, gray or green eyes are more susceptible to skin cancer.
3. Sun damage to skin means the skin has been damaged.
4. It's possible to get a sunburn on cloudy days.
5. A tanned skin means the skin has been damaged.
6. Tanning salons are just as damaging as to the skin as the sun's rays.
7. Skin cancer can kill if not detected and treated early.
8. Anyone can get skin cancer. The answer is that all are true. Here's why.
9. Data from the National Cancer Institute says the incidence of skin cancer is increasing at an alarming rate. The American Academy of Dermatology estimates that the yearly incidence will be 12,000 new cases of malignant melanoma.
10. The ozone layer is thinning because of chlorofluorocarbons and other human made chemicals. A thinning ozone means more deadly ultraviolet rays reach the earth's surface and may damage health and the environment.
11. People who receive painful blistering sunburns as children or teenagers have a greater chance of developing skin cancer. Basal cell and squamous cell carcinomas have been linked to daily exposure to sunlight, year in and year out.
12. Fair skinned people have a 10 times greater than average incidence to get skin cancer.
13. Most of the skin damage done before the age of 20. Approximately 80 percent of a person's lifetime sun exposure occurs during childhood, by the age of 19.

14. Up to 80 percent of UV radiation can pass through the clouds.
15. Tanning is the body's response when the skin is exposed to ultraviolet radiation.
16. UV light found in tanning beds is more intense and potentially more damaging than that found in sun light. Whether the radiation comes from the sun or a man made source, it still does damage.
17. Malignant melanoma has increased 80 percent between 1978 and 1987, with an associated increase in deaths, especially among white males.
18. Skin is immune from skin cancer.
19. Remember, there is no safe tan and there is no safe UV radiation. You can still enjoy the sun by using common sense. Slip on a shirt, stop on sunscreen and slip on a hat. Learn to be sun smart.

A tan is deceiving. A tan means that the skin has been damaged. Skin exposed to the sun takes on a darker color, called pigment, to block the sun's dangerous rays. Tanned skin is working harder to protect the body. By the time skin is tanned, its deeper layers have been damaged. The sun's ultraviolet (UV) rays cause wrinkles, wrinkles and skin cancer. Most skin cancer occurs on parts of the body not covered by clothing.

These guidelines can help protect people from the dangers of the sun's rays.

— avoid sunlight between the hours between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

1. About 80 percent of skin cancer is caused by the sun's ultraviolet radiation.
2. People with fair skin, red or blonde hair and blue, gray or green eyes are more susceptible to skin cancer.
3. Sun damage to skin means the skin has been damaged.
4. It's possible to get a sunburn on cloudy days.
5. A tanned skin means the skin has been damaged.
6. Tanning salons are just as damaging as to the skin as the sun's rays.
7. Skin cancer can kill if not detected and treated early.
8. Anyone can get skin cancer. The answer is that all are true. Here's why.
9. Data from the National Cancer Institute says the incidence of skin cancer is increasing at an alarming rate. The American Academy of Dermatology estimates that the yearly incidence will be 12,000 new cases of malignant melanoma.
10. The ozone layer is thinning because of chlorofluorocarbons and other human made chemicals. A thinning ozone means more deadly ultraviolet rays reach the earth's surface and may damage health and the environment.
11. People who receive painful blistering sunburns as children or teenagers have a greater chance of developing skin cancer. Basal cell and squamous cell carcinomas have been linked to daily exposure to sunlight, year in and year out.
12. Fair skinned people have a 10 times greater than average incidence to get skin cancer.
13. Most of the skin damage done before the age of 20. Approximately 80 percent of a person's lifetime sun exposure occurs during childhood, by the age of 19.

14. Up to 80 percent of UV radiation can pass through the clouds.
15. Tanning is the body's response when the skin is exposed to ultraviolet radiation.
16. UV light found in tanning beds is more intense and potentially more damaging than that found in sun light. Whether the radiation comes from the sun or a man made source, it still does damage.
17. Malignant melanoma has increased 80 percent between 1978 and 1987, with an associated increase in deaths, especially among white males.
18. Skin is immune from skin cancer.
19. Remember, there is no safe tan and there is no safe UV radiation. You can still enjoy the sun by using common sense. Slip on a shirt, stop on sunscreen and slip on a hat. Learn to be sun smart.

READING PROGRAM
Wayne Public Library has been a busy place recently. Librarian, Nancy Erickson reported that nearly 100 children from three years of age through elementary school attended the "Thrifts and Chills at the Library."

The weekly event, organized by Karen Klutke, kicked off the library's annual summer reading program.

The youngsters enjoyed stories, crafts and fairy tales covered in hand-drawn pictures, thumbprints and handprints. They also enjoyed stories and a real teddy bear that was led on the stage.

Storms, sparrows, thistles mean summer

The Maytag man is still lonely, the dryer is fixed. There was a bird nest in the dryer. A sparrow's nest to be exact. We really don't need any more sparrows. But the birds are trying to take over the Farm House! The barn swallows gave up on the front porch and built their mud creation in the old garage.

That's a perfect place for them. And they acted as if we were invading their territory when we moved the freezer out there last week.

But another great bird setting up housekeeping behind the wooden Welcome sign and a third pair have a nest full of eggs in the planter blooming with Impatiens. Since I water it frequently, I wonder if the mother gets a bit steamy at the site on it.

There are Bobwhite around, I

Their call every evening. It's been a nervous weekend, muggy, humid, showers, wind storms. Two of our guests were from Pennsylvania and admitted being frightened Friday night. I lay in bed and told myself this house is 100 years old. It must be sturdy.

But there were a lot more tree branches down. We didn't actually receive that much rain, though every bit helps. The wind's really blowing today.

The Big Farm has been worrying about thistles. They're late this year because it was so cool so long. But they're starting to bloom around here. Consequently, he left this afternoon for the farm. I hope old Red, the pickup, can get him back and forth again. A water pump went out the last trip and Herb Janger limped home around half of Wayne County before they got it replaced.

We attended the wedding of my youngest cousin last night. I'm the oldest and there are 70 years between us. Which means I was already in nursing training when he was born. Obviously, I don't know him very well. But it was an opportunity to again see family members seldom seen. Little kids have changed and grown up. Aunt and Uncle have gotten gray. A fellow JMT ahead of me in high school told me he was ready a great grandfather! Unbelievable!

The old back porch on the Farm House was ripped off last week. Now, we're waiting on a flat mover. For not taking forward to being through another remodeling project, but 100 years old houses do sometimes need sprucing up. Hopefully, it will be worth the expense.

Tree Planting and Wildlife Habitat

"Tree planting and wildlife habitat go hand in hand. There's nothing more satisfying than to see those trees growing and the wildlife in there using and enjoying the trees also," says Don Schultz of rural Wayne. "I enjoy watching the trees grow and I'm pleased with the rate at which they are growing."

Don continued, "Others may have opted to draining and clearing the land to make it farmable, but planting trees and enhancing it for wildlife was what I saw fit for the land," states Don.

Don and his wife Sandra have been planting trees since the spring of 1991. They both have full time jobs that keep them busy, but devote their spare time on the week ends to caring for the trees.

Both of them agree, it is all well worth it.
