Fair weather didn't stop people from attending the 17th Annual Wayne Chicken Show and Henoween. The turnout for the annual event was estimated at 15,000, according to the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

The theme for this year's show was "You got to be talking" and when it came to the National Cluck Off competition it was anything but a joke as Crete's Just Vavra stole the ring for a record sixth cluck off championship.

Vavra was to be flown to TBE, situated in Los Angeles, Calif. to be a guest on the Tonight Show with Jay Leno sometime this week.

Chickens Gallo Hilliard called this year's show a "memorable occasion" and congratulated attendees with the show on a job well done.

"Everybody, every organization, every group worked together and did a fantastic job," she continued. She also commented on the show by saying "Chicken Show visitors showed up and drove the streets of Lincoln that there were many out of state license plates. The just love it. South Dakota, which could be expected, but from every latitude, the Midwest."

The parade was well attended despite the blizzarding threat of rain. The winners of Best Small Group of Children parade entry were Andrew and Brian Weisberg, with Best Group of Children going to the Babsons and their Yoke mobile. Best Commercial Float was won by the Wayne Theatrical Club and Best Organization float went to Treasure Island-Kids Cascade. Northwest Pediatric's Insurance Agency entered the Best Horse Related float and the Best Overall float prize was taken by Providence Medical Center.

Vavra beat 13 other winners and earned participation in the National Cluck Off to be held in Chicago, Ill. after being absent for a couple years.

Bob King of Shore City, Iowa was crowned the National Chicken Show Champion. The Chicken Show Contest was won by the children's division by the Little Chick of Shore City and in the adult division by Dwight and Colleen Patterson of Shore City. The winner of Chicken Bingo sponsored by the Jaycees.

Business is booming

Business is booming in Wayne as two new business have recently opened and a third recently changed ownership.

Yoda's Body Shop is located at 200 South Main Street in the former Dave's Body Shop location.

Alan Schmoor and Dustin Topp are available to do glass replacement, restoration of vehicles, major and minor collision work and custom painting.

Schmoor's father was an auto body worker for 30 years and Alan has been working with vehicles since he was 14. He worked in a body shop in South Shore City before serving in the military. After his discharge, he worked at a Chrysler body shop in Cleveland and a Schmoor Body Shop in Washington, Mass.

The Hunter products company based in Carroll and had been working in the Boston Auto building until moving into the present location two months ago.

Topp is a 1977 graduate of Woods High School.

"I enjoy restoring old vehicles because, as appreciating as they can be, they are very interesting to work with," Schmoor said.

Hours for Yoda's Body Shop are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Yo-Yo's Pizza opened its doors at 213 Pearl Street on July 1.

Yoda's Restaurant and his two daughters and his make pizza to be baked at home with the slogan "I make it you take it."

The pizzas come in three sizes, seven, 12 and 16 inch and range in price from $6.50 to $9.95. Additional toppings may be purchased and include such things as chicken, fresh mushrooms, pineapple, anchovies and tomatoes.

Because no baking takes place, there is no sales tax charged on the pizzas.

The Blumhagen family lived in Crete where this type of pizza was available and Yoda said the "mixed feeling" was like this:

"I have been thinking about doing this for over a year before it really getting started. I would like to thank the community for giving me suggestions on how to make my pizza better. I really do appreciate and listen to these suggestions," Yoda said.

"I generally take, approximately five to 10 minutes for a pizza to be made. The pizza can be frozen, but Yoda encourages eating them warm before baking."

"We are unique among pizza businesses in town in that we offer both white and wheat crusts."

WSC enrollment reflects a shift

More than half of the students who return to classes at Wayne State College this fall will be enrolled in coursework leading to careers in arts and sciences according to information released by the college this week.

The college's traditional focus has been on preparing students for careers in teaching. However, since 1990, more students have been enrolling for majors in arts and sciences, explains Dr. Jo Taylor, vice president of academic affairs at Wayne State.

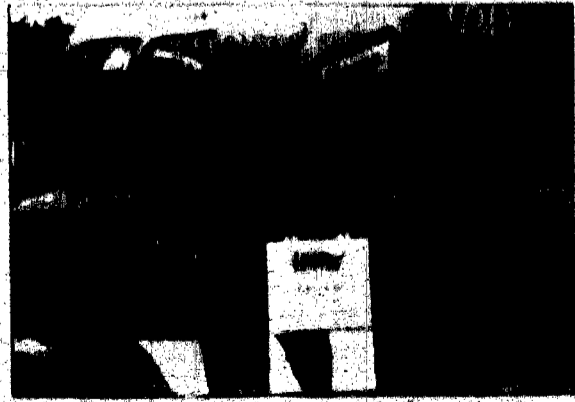

In fact, this fall over 50 percent of the college's 4,000 students will be majors in the arts and sciences field. Only one-quarter of the student body are currently enrolled in majors leading to teaching and the remaining quarter are in business.

The college offers more than 40 majors in eight divisions.

"The expanded population in arts and sciences reflects the public's increased awareness that Wayne State College is a diverse, holistic college, offering not a regional agenda," said Dr. Douglas Mastaglio, president of Northwest Nebraska's regional 4-year college.

"Expanding upon traditional and non-traditional students helps to develop the capacity of our citizens and communities to solve their own problems and address their agendas by utilizing better information and by employing more effective leadership and planning," he added.

The College still works very hard to produce top teachers, its administrators stressed. Regionally, more professional teachers are

Council holds work session

A portion of Weston Street will be designated as parking for the next 10 days following a decision made at Tuesday's special Wayne City Council meeting.

Jeff Zeiss of the Recreation and Leisure Office asked the council to prohibit parking on Weston Street from Third to Fourth Street from July 17-29 during a baseball tournament.

Zeiss told the council that the request was for safety reasons because a large crowd is expected and children may be playing between parked cars in search of ball bats.

The council approved the request on a unanimous vote.

Also approved was the authorization of Mike Meyer Construction to do site work in conjunction with the Bank and Center project.

A number of other issues were discussed during the council's work session including the city's personnel policy in regard to sick leave. A number of ideas were discussed but no decision was reached.

At the current time city employees are allowed five working days per year for emergency leave. City employees have looked at the policies of several other cities of similar size and are giving the issue further consideration.

A Providence Medical Center Ambulance agreement that expired last year was discussed and the council agreed that they need to listen to hospital representatives before making a decision.

WSC's Dr. Battistella gives presentation

Dr. Edwin Battistella, chair of the Wayne State College Division of Humanities, recently gave a presentation at the International Colloquium on Language and Pierson Sign Theory. The Colloquium was held at Duke University from June 19-21 and was funded by Duke's Center for Slavic, Eurasian and East European Studies. Battistella's presentation, given on the first day, was entitled "A Pierson Approach to the Apotrophe".

Pierson sign theory was founded by the American philosopher scientist Charles Sanders Peirce, who died in 1914. Since its founding, Peirce's sign theory, or semiotics, has become a common area of research and study for the disciplines of humanities, fine arts and natural and social sciences. The Colloquium at Duke brought together two important participants from around the world together to share their ideas about Pierson Sign Theory.

Good Investment

Figures provided by the Wayne County Clerk's office for the fiscal year of 1996-97 show more than a million dollars was spent by the county commissioners for county road and bridge purposes.

The exact outlay for such considerations was $1,221,512. Broken into two categories, figures specify (1) $269,985 was expended for new equipment and machinery replacement, and (2) cost for materials, fuel, repairs, salaries, culverts and gravel came to a total of $951,527.

Keeping roads maintained and in appropriate condition, repairing bridges and culverts, are continuing challenges while attempting to keep taxes at a reasonable minimum. Cost of labor and materials continue to increase each year.

Good roads are of major importance to the economic health of both rural and city residents. Juggling the necessary expenses with a frugal budget becomes increasingly challenging, particularly when the traveling public may often want to pay fewer taxes, but demand more and more services.

Next time you're on a county road, remind yourself the road is but one symbol of what collective tax dollars can provide when those dollars are well spent.

Should you note a developing road hazard or problem, be sure to draw it to the attention of the commissioners.

Are roads expensive? You bet, but they're something we human build and maintain for our increasing mobility, and our own safety.

Chances are, with price increases, they'll cost even more next year, but without good roads we might as well close shop. We believe the $1,221,512 was wisely invested.

Raising some questions

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

State Sen. Janis McKenzie dropped a bombshell the other day when she announced she wouldn't be coming back to the Legislature next year. She's going to work full time for the Department of Education as the state's director of gifted education.

This talented senator's departure from the Legislature during a blossoming career raises questions anew about the notion of Nebraska's citizen legislature.

During four plus years on the Legislature, Sen. McKenzie played a pivotal role in a number of areas of particular significance to the Nebraska citizenry: water and irrigation flow regulations, energy incentives, member ethics, the legislation she played a part in. Last session, she was a key proponent of agreements that enabled the passage of the school act bill and the repeal of Nebraska's certificate of need review process for hospitals and health care facilities.

If you looked at it she had good chances for leadership positions within the Legislature. Maybe chairmanship of the Education Committee? Perhaps speaker someday? So why leave now?

She says quite frankly that she can't afford to stay on the Legislature.

Surprisingly, three top top-year Sen. McKenzie and her husband, John, sold off their home earlier this year. She and John have been selling real estate and Sen. McKenzie has been looking for a job that pays better than her $12,000 per year legislative salary.

Sen. McKenzie's leaving is a reflection of the Legislature's inability to find other a part-time or full-time jobs to accommodate the Legislature's schedule. Going to work for a college or university - as she did before she was appointed to the Legislature in 1991 - would be a violation of the constitutional powers doctrine as the Supreme Court ruled when it said former State Sen. Gerald Conway couldn't be a Wayne State College professor at the same time he served in the Legislature.

Working for a local school district she would be lucky. What a brilliant idea to hire a teacher who will not only be a strong competitor but an "either/or" situation for Sen. McKenzie. Either be a teacher or a senator - not both.

This is an ongoing problem for the men and women elected to office in the Legislature. Those of us who are age jungle professional and personal obligations with their public service duties. In the spring, you can see the farmers and ranchers heading to get home for tilling, planting, spraying, milking, culling, livestock sorting. They count on wives, children and siblings to carry on without them. The lawyers and other professionals, meanwhile, have wives with careers, children to be raised, mortgages to pay, and bills to be paid. It's not easy to keep up with the busyness of the day. Days off frequently consist of long hours in their "other" offices.

hearted here, though I think that's just the way Nebraska voters want it. For good or ill, they don't want a Legislature of unattached career politicians. State senators who spend decades in the body really are the exception to the rule. State senators who move on to more powerful elective offices are even more a rarity.

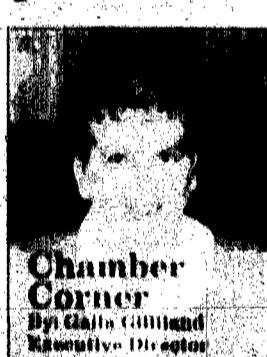

Constitutionally, yes, and yes, conscientiously, lead lawmakers are to view their posts as full time. But as Sen. McKenzie has learned, that approach won't pay the bills.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

The Chicken Show '97

The annual Wayne Chicken Show drew more than 15,000 people to the City over the weekend. The theme for this year was "You got to be Yolking" and at one point during Saturday's festivities a group picture was taken from the cherry picker of a City truck with those in the picture all wearing their Chicken Show T-Shirts (upper left). One of the annual highlights of the parade is the Chickendales (middle left) while the nationally renowned Cluck Off drew large numbers of participants with the winner being Crete's Joel Vavra who won for a record sixth time. Other highlights included a local juggler, Mike Montana (near bottom left) and an ice sculpting exhibition at Henoween on Friday night (bottom right). Sometimes a cluck off participant can get chicken on stage (near bottom right) but for the most part all did a great job. A best Chicken Hat competition was held (immediate left) as was a best Chicken legs on a human (bottom near right). The most beautiful beak on a human was picked (below) and people were having so much fun they just slipped (right). The egg drop is usually a crowd favorite (bottom left) and the Chicken did his part in escorting the Torch Run through town on Thursday afternoon (above). The Chicken and Willy the Wildcat also posed with Cornhusker State Games director Scott Ash of Lincoln.

Rick Petri captures Wayne Open with final hole birdie

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Laurel's Rick Petri came from behind to capture the championship of the Wayne Men's Amateur Golf Open on Sunday with a three-under-par 105 in the 27-hole format.

Petri's final hole heroics saved what would have been a four-way tie for first place. Instead, he launched a 100-plus yard drive down the left side of the fairway, on hole number nine and then put his second shot of the par five on the green.

Petri's 45-foot putt attempt at eagle came with 16 inches of going left, leaving him with a tap-in birdie for a one-under-par 33 over the final nine holes.

He was paired in the final with Omaha's Rick Durek and Bob Chambliss and South Sioux City's Bruce Chandler. Durek had a three-under-par 62 over the first 18 holes, but finished with a 17 on the final nine for a two-under total of 106. He won a 10-over-par play-off with Rick Durek, who had scored a 70 on the par 27 course earlier in the day, tying Petri at two-under par.

The fourth player, that came place in the two-way tie was South Sioux City's Durek, who scored an even-par 72 over the first 18 holes before heading up to the final nine holes. Durek was three under-par at that point in the final before settling with a two-under-par 34 and a 106. He placed fourth after the three-and-a-half-day event.

Wayne's Doug Bore was off to a slow start after the first 18 holes, with a round of 76, but he made the final nine holes and scored a two-under-par 34 to tie for the championship with Petri. Bore finished 10th overall with a two-over-par 110 for the day.

Madison's Doug Bore settled for sixth place with a 110 and Clark's Robert Campbell scored a three-over-par 111 for seventh place. Red Oak's Tommie Peterson eighth with a 111 and South Sioux City's Greg Campbell ninth at 111. Bore finished and the top 10 with a 114.

Bore's championship Sunday began on a positive note with a 27 eagle on the second hole before he finished today's final nine holes with a 39, a total of two-under-par 111. He finished with a 38 on the back for his 20.

In the final nine he finished with four and nine and bogeyed number six while paring the rest for a one-under 33. "I didn't putt very well on the back nine," Petri said. "I was on every hole on the front nine in regulation and I hit six of the nine greens on the back nine in regulation but I just didn't putt well."

In the championship nine Petri was on eight of the nine greens in regulation, missing only number three where he ended up on the fringe in front of the hole.

"I thought the course was in an excellent condition, much like it always is," Petri said. "Wayne's Ken Dahl does a great job on the course."

THE WAYNE OPEN victory was the third over the past five years for Petri and the following morning he announced his resignation from Laurel Concord Public Schools where he's served as the school's athletic director and girls basketball coach the past five years.

"I don't accept the athletic director job and girls basketball coaching jobs at Kennedy Catholic High School," Petri said. "We only wife and I made the decision on Monday morning." He will also serve as the school's business teacher.

Petri said his experience at Laurel Concord has been very positive. "We've had some great success over the past five years," Petri said. The former Bore's coach finished his career in Laurel with a 63-20 record on the basketball court including an unprecedented 44.6 record the past two seasons including back-to-back second-round spots in the state's elite Kathy Aas served as the "special education" teacher since they moved to Laurel. They have two children, Kaitlin, 8 and Colby, 1.

Petri played the front nine a total of five-under for the day after carding a 32 on the opening nine holes before firing a 35 on the championship nine which was also on the front. The Laurel champ has won the Wayne Open three times in the past five years.

Rick Petri tees off on the final hole during the championship of Sunday's Wayne Open. Petri was on the par five in two shots and just missed his eagle putt before tapping in for birdie. As it turned out, his birdie putt hit one stroke ahead of three other golfers which would have meant a four-way tie for first had he not come up with the final hole heroics.

Brande opened the day with an even-par round of 72 before finishing with a 19 for 10th place overall. Wayne High Class of 1952 holds reunion

The Wayne High Class of 1952 celebrated their 35th class reunion the weekend of July 11-13.

The group met Friday evening to decorate their float for the Chicken Show Parade. Joanne Nagel chaired the float committee. Saturday, several members of the class rode the float which was pulled by a tractor from the 1930s. They then enjoyed other Chicken Show activities.

Saturday evening the group met at the Davis Steakhouse in Carroll. Forty-five people attended, including 22 classmates. Five members of the class are deceased.

Bob Carhart welcomed the group. Bonnie Sandahl took roll call and Bob Jensen presented 40 class mates with hand-made wooden gifts for various awards. The class was later invited to the home of Vic and Janet Knieke.

Serving on the reunion committee were: Bob Carhart, Paul Langberg, Carol Elie, Ken Hansen, Joan Fackel, Vic and Janet Knieke, Shirley Pospisil and Bonnie Sandahl. The class concluded the event with several members of the group meeting for breakfast Sunday morning at PoPo's II.

Those attending this year's reunion were: Dwayne Atkins, Round Lake, Ill.; Ray (Carlson) Ingalls, Ellinwood, Kan.; Jim Colton, Pueblo, Colo.; Joanne (Marion) Nagel, Albuquerque, N.M.; Marjorie (Dorrian) Roberts, Grand Island; Gilbert Granquist, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Joan (Hansen) Fackel, Laurel, Robert Jensen, Rock Springs, Wyo.; Joanne (Kathie) Wyde, Lincoln; Marie (Kathleen) Fay, Omaha; Jerry Lamp, Nevs, N.M.; Billie (Leonard) Smith, Thurston; David Meyer, Council Bluffs; Iowa; Betty (Mehle) Hendraw, South Sioux City, Iowa; Elaine (Ott) Moul, Avonida, Colo.; Don Sheeler, Bella Vista, Ark.; Gladys (Lorraine) Jullie, Rattle Creek and Bonnie (Sorenson) Sandahl, Wakefield. Attending from Wayne were Harvey Reader, Robert Carhart, Paul Langberg, Loren Elie, Kenneth Hamer, Hans Heinemann, Vic and Janet (Larson) Knieke and Shirley (Shelvey) Pospisil.

Pleasure of affair has to end

Q: If we are to believe the statistics we read today, infidelity has become extremely common in the Western culture. Why do people do it? What is the primary motivator that would cause a husband or wife to cheat to even risk destroying their homes and families for an illicit affair?

A: Every situation is different, of course, but I have observed the most powerful influence to come from ego needs.

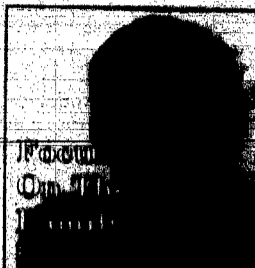

Both men and women appear equally vulnerable to this consuming desire to be admired and respected by members of the opposite sex. Therefore, those who become entangled in an affair often do so because they want to prove that they are still attractive to women (or men).

The thrill comes from knowing someone finds one sexy, or intelligent or witty or handsome. That person enjoys hearing one talk like one way I think finds sex exciting.

These feelings flow from the core of the personality, the ego, and they can make a sane man or woman behave in a total, in-discriminate way.

Q: My son is not athletically inclined. How can I, as a parent, decide what skills my son should develop? Shouldn't that choice be left to him?

A: Many parents feel they do not have the right to force a choice of their nature on their children. They go back to the hope that he will make it for himself.

However, most children lack self-discipline. It is always difficult to learn a new skill—particularly during the initial stages. There is no fun to be derived from total failure, which is the typical feeling in the beginning. Thus, the child never learns those important skills which he will need so badly later on. I recommend that you, his parent, make a careful assessment of his areas of strength. Then select a skill where you believe the greatest possibilities for success lie. Once this selection is made, see to it that he gets through the first stage. Reward him, push him, threaten him, beg him—bribe him, if necessary—but make him learn it. If you discover later that you've made a mistake, back up and start over on something else. But don't let inertia keep you from teaching something emotionally useful to your offspring.

Does this form of coercion impinge upon the freedom of the child to choose for himself? Perhaps, but so does making him eat properly, keep himself clean, and go to bed at a reasonable hour. It is, as they say, in the child's best interest.

Eagles give to foundation

Members of the Wayne National Order of Eagles Auxiliary recently presented a check for $1,000 to the Providence Medical Center Foundation. The money will be used toward the purchase of an infusion pump for the Oncology Department at PACC.

Funds were obtained through a grant from the Eagles' Art Department Cancer Fund.

The Providence Medical Center Foundation has recently established a Cancer Fund, which will assist donors to fund the hospital and all cancer patients in a number of ways.

Money from this fund is being used for public education projects, such as educational health checks throughout the year. Celebratory funds will also be used to purchase specialized equipment and items that will provide enjoyment to oncology patients.

Most importantly, plans are underway for the creation of a "cancer room" at PACC to assist any patients a concept that is quite unique to good health care.

The Hospital Room will provide a special place in which oncology patients might go not only for their chemotherapy, but also for consultation and other services.

Equipped with comfortable furniture and complete with reading materials, a quiet library and comfortable beds, the room will provide a diversion for PACC's oncology patients.

Individuals or organizations wishing to make a contribution to the Providence Medical Center Foundation Cancer Fund may do so by contacting Sandy Bartling at the Foundation's Office, 1200 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68201 or by calling (402) 375-5329.

Pain Drug Surprises Researchers

(SPECTAI.) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itlee" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some. In the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backaches, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itlee relieves pain by first selectively attacking and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain messages to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itlee is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, tasteless, non-staining cream or new nail-on liquid form. Arthur Itlee is guaranteed to work in your money back.

church in Springfield, Ill. Rev. Alkula earned a master's degree in education. This provided the opportunity to teach high school social studies and math at a small

South Carolina school for one year.

In 1990, he answered his call to ministry and entered Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington, D.C. After looking at United Methodist Conferences around the country, Rev. Alkula selected Nebraska within the hope of serving in a small town setting. He was ordained in the Nebraska Conference of the United Methodist Church in June 1996 and was appointed to serve the Onond-Stark Valley Parish in July 1996. In May of this year, Rev. Alkula completed the course of study at seminary, earning a Master of Divinity degree.

As a hobby, Rev. Alkula collects dog tags and buttons. He has purchased the hobby since high school and has 2,700 in his collection. He enjoys many types of music, ranging from big bands to country charts to funk, jazz.

Being involved in the community is one of the major reasons he wanted to come to Nebraska last year and share some of a job to be part of a friendly community. And now, getting to be part of two communities (Onond and Winside) will be twice as special.

Cockroach war continues

German cockroaches have been around forever. Present in almost any place inhabited by humans, the multi-legged pests are developing resistance to many commonly used pesticides, although researchers say they should remain a controllable problem.

A recent Virginia Polytechnic Institute study examined how pesticides affected German cockroaches, the most common of the five species of cockroaches found in Nebraska. In a disappointing conclusion, the study found that at least 60% of the tested cockroaches still had resistance to chlorpyrifos - the standard over-the-counter roach control sold under the trade name Dursban.

According to Shripad Kamble, PhD, Entomology Scientist, in addition, many of the bugs also were resistant to four other commonly used chemicals. In the face of insect resistance to pesticides, humans are deploying other weapons. Integrated Pest Management, a system of ap-beverages, glue, book bindings, wallpaper, animal food, dead animals and leather products.

Preventing the establishment of roach colonies in homes, storage buildings and businesses can be accomplished by caulking or putting closed openings such as cracks or crevices around kitchen cabinets, bathtubs, water and plumbing pipes, drains and windows.

Other weapons in the IPM arsenal included bait stations, growth regulators that prevent cockroach development and disrupting the insect's nesting areas. Biological approaches include the use of parasites and pathogens to control pests such as cockroaches.

Chemical pesticides are only one of the cogent measures in the war. Humans will continue to control cockroaches and other pests by changing their food, water and shelter, as well as using chemical and biological measures.

Don't Make This A Familiar Sight in Wayne

Don't make this a familiar sight! Most stores close because local people did too much shopping out of town. In fact, there are many cases where most of the retail businesses, in a community have closed. If that were to happen in Wayne, who would be left to pay this community's taxes? The empty store fronts wouldn't be able to pay their share. Who would be contributing work and money toward local groups and projects that we all are interested in?
