Increase in fares planned for Handl van

Effective Oct. 1, the fare for riding the Wayne Handl van will be increased from 50¢ to 75¢ one way.

According to Virginia Jones, Director of the Wayne Senior Center, three-hundred buses are being used in the price of a ride since the inception of public transportation in Wayne on July 1, 1979.

Due to the increase in operational costs, the fare increase was deemed necessary by the City Council.

Anyone with questions or for more information, contact the Senior Center at 375-1460.

Jaixen begins teaching career at Wayne Elementary School

Michael Jaixen, a prominent teacher at Wayne Elementary School, has begun his teaching career at Wayne Elementary School.

Jaixen is a 1974 graduate of the University of Michigan, where he has an Elementary Education major with a minor in Mathematics.

During his college years, there weren't a lot of men in Elementary Education. They had actually worked toward my benefit, because some of the schools are looking for men to fill teaching positions," Jaixen said.

During his college career, he studied taught at Holland in the fifth grade.

There is a big difference between second, third and fifth grades. The energy level of the second graders is much higher. They need lots of personal attention, instruction and direction," he said.

He said one of the most difficult aspects of the first weeks of school has been learning a variety of second grade level students.

Jaixen posted his residence at Wayne Elementary.

I have great teachers to work with. It happens to have a spirit about something I have not had in my previous jobs. I don't feel embarrassed about asking questions," he said.

Jaixen has done substitute teaching since his graduation in addition to a 60-hour a week job in the cable industry.

Jaixen's wife, Leta, is teaching at the Elm Lower School. The couple has a daughter, Rebecca, 4, who attends Little Trinity Preschool.

The family likes to spend as much time outdoors as possible, camping and boating.

In addition, Mike is involved in athletics. He still is the pole high jump coach at Wayne Middle School.

After one month of teaching, I have found that teaching takes a lot of time. However, because of my previous job, I am used to the long hours and am really enjoying what I'm doing," he said.

United Way begins drive

The kick off for the 1982-83 Wayne United Way Campaign will be this Friday, Sept. 26 during the Chamber Coffee. Hosting the event will be the First Bankard Center. The coffee begins at 10 a.m.

The United Way has set a goal of $76,000 for this year's campaign. The money raised will benefit 15 non-profit organizations in the Wayne area.

Receiving funds this year were: PALS, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Wayne Senior Center, Haven House, Wayne Ministerial Association, Rainbow World Child Care, Kindly, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Wayne City Recreation Department, Goldenrod Hills Healthier, Wayne FRIENDS, Rainbow Riders and the Wayne Community Theatre.

The business portion of the drive will begin this week and the successful drive is slated to start in approximately two weeks.

The mission statement of the United Way is "helping meet the human service needs of the community through the solicitation and distribution of donated resources."

The United Way has been in Wayne for approximately 40 years and was originally known by the name Wayne Community Chest Corporation. It operates with a governing board of 12 members, each serving a three-year term.

At the present time, the group's secretary, Karen Karr, is the only paid member on the board. She receives a token salary for the work she does.

"Our goal is to support services in the Wayne area," said President Harold Miller. Nearly all of the money collected benefits citizens in the Wayne area.

Miller said the United Way in order any non-profit organization to apply for funds in July of each year. The organizations then make presentations to the board and the applications are then reviewed to determine what each year's goal will be.

An update of the progress of the drive will be given in the Wayne Herald and a thermometer indicating the amount pledged will be located in the park at the corner of Second and Main Streets in Wayne.

Mike Jaixen, the new second grade teacher at Wayne Elementary School, has a smile as he grades papers.

Wayne business offers losses

Although the official opening of Wayne's newest business occurred Sept. 22, a number of problems already began to surface. The owners of High Energy Weight Control.

Co-owners of the business, Sheri Heerman and Kim Triggs, who happen to be sisters in law, said that 12 people have visited the facility located in the Dearborn Mall, and before the business opened.

Ms. Heerman said that her parents had been visiting in Dearborn, Mo. when they discovered a High Energy Weight Control. They encouraged Sheri to investigate the possibility of starting her own clinic in Wayne.

The business is located in South Brewery, Mo. and the Wayne clinic is the farthest north of any of the franchises.

The two women have received certification training and stress the fact that the program is for people of all ages, both men, and women.

"We have a written guarantee that clients will lose three pounds per week, following the program guidelines," Sheri said.

Before enrolling, each prospective client must take a physical by an approved doctor. The physicals are given by doctors from Northeast Nebraska Medical Group.

Kim Triggs, left, and her sister-in-law Sheri Heerman are the new owners of High Energy Weight Control located in the Dearborn Mall.

"Everybody needs encouragement and motivation to lose weight. Our program involves a combination of diet and exercise."

New routes announced

Parents of Middle School students being dropped off before school or picked up following school may enter the north drive either from Sherman Street or from the north through the High School parking lot.

Originally, parents were asked to enter only from Sherman Street to keep the traffic flow entering the school grounds unobstructed to the north.

Parents should be advised that High School student traffic will be exiting to the north.

Heart association plans fundraising campaign

The American Heart Association's Wayne chapter is planning its 1982-83 campaign year and fundraising objectives under the leadership of President Carol Brummond.

Brummond has been a member of the Heart Association Board of Directors since 1977 and is asking the support of the county in various campaigns that will be held throughout the year.

"A major change for the American Heart Association this year is that residential drives will not be held in communities that are sponsoring other events," Brummond said. "Various events are being planned throughout the year that will include participation from youth through adult."

According to Brummond, the overall mission of the AHA is to raise funds to support research, public education and community service programs. This is done for people of all ages.

The kick off for this year will be a festive Halloween Celebration theme and activities to be held Oct. 26 at Riley's in Wayne.

"This year's event was successful in previous years and should be a fun evening for all attending," Brummond said.

For more information on the Halloween celebration, contact Lexa Backstrom at 375-4160.

In addition to Brummond, the Wayne County Board is comprised of 25 volunteers. Officers and committee chairs are Kevin Hill, Ginny Otto, Judy Peters, Lexa Backstrom and Cynthia Miller.

With more than four million volunteers nationwide, AHA is the largest voluntary health organization fighting heart disease and stroke, which annually kill more than 450,000 Americans.

Artist Stephen Roberts to talk about capitol murals

The Sunday Series at WSC will begin on Oct. 5, with artist Stephen Roberts discussing the creation of the Nebraska State Capitol Memorial Chamber Murals. He will discuss the process of being chosen to paint the murals, the research involved, and the work on the murals themselves.

Stephen Roberts is a fifth generation Nebraskan who lives in Omaha. He graduated from the University of Nebraska at Omaha with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in painting. He has shown extensively throughout the area with many group and one-man shows. He has shown at the Allen Stone Gallery in New York City since November 1990. In February 1991, he won the competition to paint the murals at the Nebraska State Capitol and, in the fall of that year, he went to Europe to see art and architecture which would influence his work on the murals. Since March 1992 he worked full-time on the murals until their dedication in November of 1994.

Of his work on the project, Roberts said, "The capitol building itself is a magnificent building and it and the people of Nebraska deserve and will get the finest paintings I am capable of creating. The themes determined for the Memorial Chamber are about people who have given their lives to serving and helping other people. I hope the people of Nebraska will be pleased and proud of the murals when they are installed in the Capitol. I know I will always be thankful for the opportunity to paint them."

Mr. Roberts' Sunday Series lecture/slide presentation will begin at 7 p.m. in Lay Theatre (second floor, Brandenburg Education Building) on the WSC campus. A reception will follow. Sunday Series is sponsored by the Center for Cultural Outreach.

Workshop to discuss changes

The Northeast Nebraska Math and Science Coalition (NENMSC), using a grant from the National Science Foundation, sponsored a summer workshop, "Project Learning First the Teacher, Then the Student." Carol Waggoner, project coordinator, along with the faculty and administration at Lincoln Elementary School, Norfolk, five other Lincoln elementary schools and Northeast Community College completed an extensive summer workshop that looked at changes in teaching math and science.

The workshop participants used "The Learning Cycle Theory" a model built around assessment with exploration, concept invention and concept discovery focusing on math and science topics. The teachers with the help of Wayne State professor Dr. Robert Woodland as a facilitator, developed a math and science framework including lesson plans to implement this fall. All the lessons meet National Math and Science standards.

"This is the hardest thing I have ever done in my professional career. This type of teaching moves me over to a completely new paradigm," commented one of the participants on the intensity of the workshop.

Dr. Louis Cook Benjamin, Northeast Community College, will be using this project in the pre-professional course this fall at NCC.

According to Betty Maryott, NENMSC Director, the coalition supports scientific reform in math and science education. Projects like this, with partnership support from Wayne State College, Northeast Community College and local businesses and individuals, have made significant changes in how math and science is being taught in Northeast Nebraska. Over a three-year period, the NENMSC has funded over 40 elementary and secondary projects and workshops, impacting hundreds of teachers and many times that number of students.

If you are interested in learning more about the project, contact Betty Maryott at Wayne State, Carol Waggoner at Lincoln Elementary in Norfolk, Dr. Robert Woodland at Wayne State and Dr. Louis Cook Benjamin at Northeast Community College.

New vehicle law adopted

Ann Abramson, Director of the Nebraska Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) today announced that beginning Sept. 15, 1997 individuals will now have the option to restrict the public disclosure of information from their driver and vehicle records. In order to comply with federal law, the Nebraska Legislature adopted and Governor Nelson signed the Uniform Motor Vehicle Records Disclosure Act, LB613.

A new "Request to Withhold Name and Address" form will be available at all DMV, County Clerk and County Treasurer Offices. The form may be completed by any individual who chooses to prevent general public access to certain personal information contained on their driver and vehicle records.

According to Betty Johnson, DMV Records Manager, "Those who exercise this option will prohibit the disclosure of their personal information to other private clients or for the bulk distribution of the information to survey and marketing companies, employers and vehicle manufacturers will still have complete access to the information. The option to limit access is designed to aid those individuals who want to eliminate potential unwanted solicitation and harassment." Johnson added.

The provisions of Nebraska's Uniform Motor Vehicle Records Disclosure Act were mandated by the Federal Driver's Privacy Protection Act of 1994.

Phone service petition

Toll-free phone service to area communities? It would appear advantageous for residents and businesses, consequently petitions are currently available at various banks and other businesses around town. A total of 650 signatures are needed prior to taking the issue to the Public Service Commission. Only one signature per phone number is allowed on the petition. A household with two or more lines billed to the same residence, may have the same number of signatures.

The petition includes the communities of Allen, Carroll, Dixon, Concord, Emerson, Laurel, Pender, Pflug, Wakefield, Winnebago and Winier.

Petition organizers are urging phone subscribers to sign up, sooner the better.

Getting the required number of signatures will not, obviously, automatically bring the concept of area toll-free calling into reality, but it is a necessary first step.

Chances are that toll free calls to these eleven communities could generate numerous advantages, and increased marketing.

Would such an additional service eventually increase monthly residential and business telephone rates? That factor is unknown.

Goals of a newspaper

Liberally thought have been made in this newspaper during the last year, and as a consequence we hope the paper is not only more pleasing to the eye, but easier to read, and filled with more local and area news.

Our staff is forever challenged toward the goal of perfection but reality tells us no such publication exists. Yet we keep trying.

Our employees, though few in number compared to larger newspapers, target reader satisfaction as a number one priority. We want the stories and advertising to serve the reader's needs.

Every possible attempt is made to cover local and area events, but, not being magicians, it is physically impossible to attend every activity in such an enterprising area of Nebraska. We do maximize our efforts in covering what we can.

Many hours are invested attempting to bring you this printed news, much of which is unavailable from any other local source. Your support is appreciated. If you have a news item, bring it on.

Meanwhile, with your help, we will continue trying to spell things correctly and bring you the facts.

Our goals include being timely, accurate, and informative. One advantage over broadcast news, you can save the pictures in a flipbook. If you're short on time, lay the paper down and finish later, another plan.

We pledge to do our part. Thank you for yours!

Capitol News

It's the rumor season in Lincoln

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It all started with a breathless phone call on a recent September morning. "A prominent Republican with money is planning to switch parties and run for governor as a Democrat," the caller said. "A press conference is planned to tomorrow in Omaha."

Soon, the rumor was all over the statehouse and passed through the state's political network.

There was speculation. Who could it be, do they have a chance?

There were phone calls into the night... what have you heard?

But finally, these were nothing but press conference. The candidate.

This is one of those good things of the year in your state capital, and the phone calls that started the rumors about the prominent Republican was far from the opening shot in what could easily be called "The Rumor Season."

The season usually begins during the summer prior to the election year.

Hours of potential candidates get bandied about either by lobbyist (those who hope someone would run for office) or by the potential candidate themselves hoping to launch a real bid.

And while most Nebraskans are talking about the Candidates I back against, the political power that flock around the Capitol are watching who will run for office, and who will be sitting on those seats come January of 1993.

The season got started in the early days of the fall of the U.S. Rep. Doug Bereuter and longshot running for governor. It was a long shot, but the talk in a long time of Bereuter for the long shot, to the extent of the...

congressman said his heart was really in his safe, was in Washington, and in the state of Lincoln.

Rarely does this rumor mill get caught by surprise, but it did a couple of weeks ago when Bereuter's colleague, U.S. Rep. Jim Christensen of Omaha, dropped a bombshell and threw his hat in the gubernatorial ring.

He is the party's clear front runner now and can make some claim of being better able to represent the state's rural and out regions, more than a town near St. Paul, Nebraska.

The rumor mill, however, quickly recovered, passing stories about how Christensen planned to propose to his new girlfriend, who goes by the title, "Miss Athena," at the recent payment of the same name. Alas, it didn't happen. But as rumors go, it was a whopper.

Another rumor, even more bizarre... that did prove true was that Christensen's ex-wife Meredith would run for his seat to be vacated seat. This is a case where truth is more strange than rumor, if you ask me.

Anyway, back to the "prominent Republican switches parties" rumor. Several names were eliminated but at least one, California businessman Tony Rammolo, a staunch supporter of Democratic Gov. Ben Nighthorse, said he might be interested.

So maybe that rumor had some semblance of truth.

Meanwhile, did you hear the one about JJ. Even running for governor again with Kim Boksh moving as lieutenant governor.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

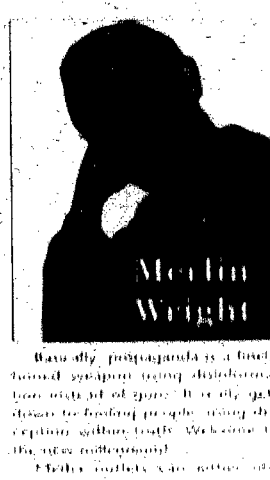

Word spinning wizardry goes on

An information war has been going on in Lincoln, Nebraska, since the early 1980s. The purpose of the war is to provide information to the public. The purpose of the war is to provide information to the public. The purpose of the war is to provide information to the public.

Information is a key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world.

Information is a key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world.

Information is a key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world. It is the key to success in the modern world.

Anyone who says that the world is in an information war, and that the war is being fought in the minds of the people, is not only right, but also wrong. The war is being fought in the minds of the people, and the war is being fought in the minds of the people.

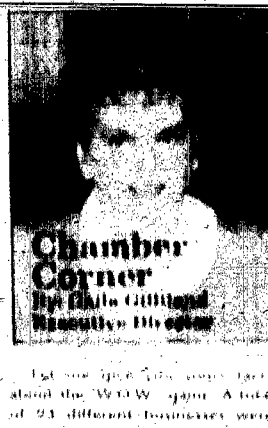

The war is being fought in the minds of the people, and the war is being fought in the minds of the people. The war is being fought in the minds of the people, and the war is being fought in the minds of the people.

Driving on rural roads takes great deal of concentration

The Omaha World Herald 9/20/87 read: "Mother and two children killed in car-truck collision." Another senseless tragedy!

The crash occurred at a gravel intersection with a 50 mph speed limit and no stop signs. According to the newspaper article, gravel intersections with 50 mph speed limits and no stop signs are common in rural Nebraska. In 1986, the fatality rate in collisions like these was 14 times greater than similar collisions in urban areas of the state. Intersection means, two roads meet at the same point; sometimes two vehicles at the same time.

Even with stop signs, never assume someone is going to stop. Remember the "steering" of the word assumes? Don't take the chance of making a coupe out of you or me.

Anyone driving on rural roads needs to think! When you turn off the highway or off your place, you are vulnerable. You are leaving the safety rails, lines and signs that guide you.

Tall crops can be an excuse, but excuses don't bring back lives. There are too many bad intersections out there. Here, in our country, we do have an intersection every mile. We know that! How often do we fly through without looking or not stopping at stop signs?

I've been guilty. We need to make ourselves accountable for our own safety. This is harvest season. More "slow" equipment on all roads... more accidents.

Remember the old "think" signs? They were placed at the site of fatal fatalities. Maybe a few "think" signs on our rural roads, where fatal intersections are, would help.

Please try to do your best to keep yourself safe. Think! Don't become another statistic.

Wayne State offense sparkles at Moorhead State but Wildcats are defeated by Dragons, 30-21

By Kevin Peterson

of the Herald

The Wayne State football team is getting closer but Kevin Hayden's record fell to 1-1 on the season but leading last Saturday's 10-21 setback and forward stats in Birmingham.

Wayne's streak of eight consecutive set-backs with an offensive line that failed to start the season was halted in the first quarter when Devin King caught a 49 yard touch down pass from Justin Jones.

Jones added to that by stretching to 100 yards out in the second quarter and the Cats held a 12-7 halftime lead.

Moorhead State took the lead at 14-12 in the third quarter on a scoring run and the Dragons added another score in the third quarter on a five yard run from running back Casson Moore but BJ Helton after started in from the end zone to put WSC with a two at 20:18 heading to the final stanza.

The host team stretched their lead to nine in the fourth quarter on a four yard run by quarterback Pat Foster. WSC held tight kicker Joey Hope notted a 22 yard field goal to make it a 27-21 game but Moorhead State kicked a 11 yard field goal with under a minute remaining to regulation to put the game away.

WSC rolled up some big offensive numbers including 412 yards passing by Justin Jones and another 107 yards rushing for hitting 101 from BJ Helton and in his first collegiate start for a total of 276 yards while Moorhead State finished with 430 yards.

After being off a Wayne State comeback record with 274 yards on 15 carries, finishing the week at 10-21 for the first time since 1996.

"This was a real good football game," Hayden said. "We had three turnovers in the game and they were very costly. I'm very proud of our team, however, because they are working very hard."

One of WSC's turnovers that may have been the most costly was a near two interceptions by King that resulted a fourth and three that allowed a fourth and three which allowed a scoring opportunity in the third quarter after WSC had driven 76 yards.

Jones had connected with King on what appeared to be a 45 yard scoring strike but it was ruled that King fumbled the ball prior to breaking the plane of the endzone and then picked up and returned by a Moorhead State defender.

"We did what we had to do for the most part to win this game," Hayden said. "We just have to find a way to eliminate mental mistakes and find a way to win."

Jones was 15-14 in passing with two interceptions and 412 yards with King catching the 15 passes for 274 yards. Harrison Foster had 10 carries for 84 yards and Andy Helton caught seven for 51.

Defensively WSC was led by Jason Eason with 10 tackles and Brian Khariton had nine. Kevin Grayne and Greg Gonzalez each had seven with Trevor Tempier and Mike Cardon notching six stops each.

Jensen also had a fumble recovery and a quarterback sack.

The Cats will travel to play Penn State on Saturday with kickoff slated for 7 p.m.

Winside defenders combine to bring down an Emerson Hubbard ball carrier. Winside is off to a 2-1 start to the season and will play at Osmond on Friday.

Winside gets complete team effort in 20-12 win

Winside football coach Randy Geier had a preseason goal of being no worse than 2-1 after the first three weeks of the season despite the competition being very strong with Wakefield, Pender and Emerson Hubbard. Last Friday in Winside in the Wildcats' home opener that goal became reality as Winside posted a 20-12 win.

It was Emerson Hubbard scoring first on an Ed Viaspi three yard run in the second quarter but Winside tied the game at the end of the first half on a nine yard pass from Aaron Hoffman to Cory Brummels.

Winside took the lead in the third quarter on a short scoring run from Brandon Grithe. To put the heat team up 17-6 in Emerson's next possession the Pirates were moving the ball before tumbling at the 18 yard line which was recovered by Justin Bowers. On the ensuing play, Hoffman and Brummels hooked up once again, this time from 38 yards out. Jeff Crumwell converted the two-point attempt and Winside led 20-6.

Mark McTaggart rambled 48 yards for the Pirates on the next possession to tighten the gap at 20-12. The visitors had another chance when Viaspi intercepted a pass but on a fourth down and 10 play with seven seconds remaining, Trent Sueli intercepted a pass from the Wildcats two yard line to tie the game.

"It was a team effort that got this win," Geier said. "However, Justin Bowers deserves some credit for playing very well at noseguard. He finished with seven tackles and a fumble recovery. Overall, our defense played great. They (1-1) had the ball twice inside our 20-yard line in the fourth quarter and we held them out of the end zone," Geier added.

The Winside mentor said his offensive line played well and the running backs ran hard. He also said Aaron Hoffman is playing very well at quarterback for the Wildcats.

Brandon Grithe led the winners on the ground with 79 yards on 23 attempts while Ryan Krueger gained 75 yards on 13 carries. Aaron Hoffman was 4/7 through the air for 62 yards with Brummels catching three passes for 50 yards and Sueli caught one for 12.

The defense was led by Ryan Krueger with 10 tackles while Hoffman had nine and Bowers, seven. Zeke Brummels and Trent Sueli each had six.

Winside junior running back Ryan Krueger breaks loose on a long run during Winside's 20-12 win over Emerson-Hubbard last Friday in Winside.

Wayne girls golf team sets a new scoring record at 377

The Wayne girls golf team set a new school record with a 377 at the Albion Invite on Saturday. The score was the best ever recorded by a Wayne girls golf team including the team that captured the state title back in 1989.

"We had four girls finish in the top 12 and you can't ask for much more than that," coach Dave Hix said. "The previous record was 379 which was shot at the state tournament in 1985."

Despite a school record score, Wayne finished four strokes behind the team champion, Oakland Craig. Third place went to Columbus Lakeview at 383 followed by Stanton at 412 and O'Neill, 414. The rest of the 12-team field finished in order: Broken Bow, 421; Pender, 425; Pierce, 431; Albion, 435; Harrington-Cedar Catholic, 441; Kettle Creek, 460 and Newark, 479.

Individually, Hailey Daehnke placed runner-up with a 90 followed by Abbie Diediker with a 92 for fifth. Lindsey Martin carried a 97 for 11th place and Traci Nolta's 98 finished 12th. Monica Novak played variety for the Blue Devils and fired a 113.

"Traci is becoming a very strong fourth player for us. Her score has worked very hard and has improved a lot from her freshman year. Hailey and Lindsey put in their consistent rounds and are becoming very solid. Abbie put a great round together considering she has been struggling a little. This was a great confidence builder for the team and I hope it will continue."

The Blue Devils played at the Blair Invite last Friday and finished fourth with a 423. Columbus Scotus won the team title followed by Oakland-Craig and Blair, Waverly, Stanton, Getz, Elkhorn and Blair's reserves finished in order behind Wayne.

Hailey Daehnke and Lindsey Martin were the only two Blue Devils to medal as Daehnke won a playoff for seventh place with a 100 while Martin tied for 11th with 110. Traci Nolta finished with a 109 and Abbie Diediker, 110. Beatrix Lovett played variety and posted a 120.

Ken Jorgensen believes in giving back to community

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Ken Jorgensen has been giving $1,000 to Wayne State college for he used for a scholarship for many years.

The past seven years he has sponsored a Wayne Golf Scholarship as part of the proceeds going forward that scholarship which is given annually to a Wayne High School student.

What makes his a notable one is he called all out each year a the hospitality provided by Jorgensen and his staff at the Mas Bar & Grill.

When the tournament is completed, he offers a free hot beverage at the Mas as a way of showing his appreciation for taking part.

Several years ago, Jorgensen decided to change the way he donated money to the Wayne State General Scholarship Fund by having this golf tournament for two years.

"First, I wanted to do something in memory of my brother Bud who passed away 10 years ago this year of cancer and second, I wanted to place some stipulations on the scholarship," Jorgensen said.

The owner of the Mas Bar & Grill said he "believes" those that can should give something back to the community and this was a way that he can do that and still pay tribute to his late brother.

"The scholarship isn't for every one," Jorgensen added. "It is for a student that wants to pursue an education at Wayne State but is also in need of resources to pay tuition, books and other things that have numerous expenses to pay for their education."

Jorgensen said the student must maintain a B average in high school to be considered and can't be someone who already has a good list of scholarships at their disposal.

"The emphasis is on showing merit," Jorgensen added.

Like the previous seven years, this weekend's weather is expected to be nice. "We've never had a bad year," Jorgensen said. "Once we had to delay the golf off about an hour to get the best of the course, but other than that it's always been very nice."

The entry fee is $30 per person and a golf bag is provided by a local shop.

Those still interested are encouraged to call for a tee time quickly at 475-1182.

Surveys sent out

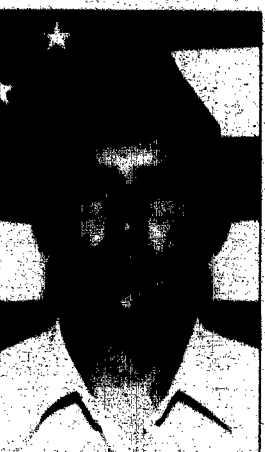

The Goldenrod Hills Community Services Head Start Program, in Winona, had taken the lead in conducting a survey of the early childhood providers/educators in northeast Nebraska. A total of 1250 surveys were sent this week, bringing together organizations and agencies dedicated to improving the lives of young children. The survey will address the training needs of professionals working with children and their families.

Goldenrod Hills Community Services Head Start, UNL Cooperative Extension from Cuming, Dakota, Madison and Stanton Counties, Educational Service Units and Winnebago Head Start are providing leadership for this collaborative effort. This planning team's goals are to increase collaboration and use of training resources based on assessed needs. The survey will offer specifics, which will be critical, as educational institutions plan and conduct early childhood training opportunities in northeast Nebraska. The survey will build the capacity to plan, utilize, and coordinate training and professional development opportunities for those who work with young children, commented Susan Stahni, consultant for the planning group.

Interested persons are welcome to contact Goldenrod Hills at 402-529-3513 to request a survey if you do not receive one and would like to be included. This planning project was jointly funded by the Nebraska Department of Education, Office of Early Childhood Care and Education, and the Early Childhood Training Center.

'Spending plan' more popular than the traditional 'budget'

What's in a name? Plenty, it appears, as the phrase "spending plan" gains popularity over the more traditional term "budget." It describes the managing of one's monthly cash flow. The distinction between the two, according to Dr. William of Waldorf & Reed, certainly goes beyond semantics.

"It's more than a play on words," Wilson said. "A spending plan is different from a budget in spirit and substance. Simply put, a spending plan unlike a budget is a positive approach to spending on the things that really count. To you. It's a mindset and a plan of action that accommodates every day living and help you build your financial future."

In practice, the difference between "spending plan" and "budget" is also apparent in the distinction between "yes" and "no." According to Wilson, it is not these contrasting characteristics. "A budget often is considered a 'hard' limit, something complete and a burden to be abided, every month. However, properly executed, a spending plan is a positive, forward-looking approach. Financially, a spending plan is easier to embrace."

"A spending plan places the emphasis on you, not things, you own. A spending plan is a way to say 'yes' to the things that really matter to you. A budget plan really creates a lot of the 'no's and 'no's' that can't happen after the fact, to be honest. A budget tends to distort the future. A plan sets a goal."

fully all heeded. A spending plan is a knowledge "today," but it is derived from the fundamentals of sound financial planning that can phrase tomorrow. A budget is a spending plan in a way that makes current living comfortable while helping build a more secure financial future.

"Some of our hard earned dollars may not be spent on the exact things of living. But for many, a spending plan can be a "roadmap" at defining what is essential. Wilson provided these general spending plan guidelines among others, to help explain:

• Make your financial future one of your goals. Challenged to prepare a "budget" shouldn't you likely list the mortgage or rent as a payment and the like? Asked to prepare a list of life goals that are important to you, you may find yourself making other priorities, such as retirement and paying for college, to the top.

• View financial future. In the form of a retirement retirement college for the kids and other life goals, it is simply considered more "essential" in your budgeting.

• Pay yourself first. This can mean "retire" to making regular "payments" to important goals such as retirement, first home, to come to spend on other items. Saving and investing with what's left over at the end of the month, making "work" because there's seldom anything left over.

What's more, the commitment to regularly pay yourself first can ables many persons to meet a fundamental challenge of saving and investing: getting started. With regular investing, you will have the opportunity to benefit from the "power of compounding." But, more importantly, you will be making a proactive commitment to reaching your most important, lifetime financial goals. Making regular investing a priority in your spending plan will help you secure a more positive financial future. Remember, although a regular investment plan does not assure a profit or protect against loss, it's the best way to build your wealth. If it should put you in a better position than if you had spent the money on "budget" items.

• Examine monthly spending activity. Does your spending match you about and long term priorities? You may be able to make more adjustments now to achieve major goals in the future.

• In terms of allocating expenses, both a budget and spending plan probably work, Wilson said, but the question is "for whom?"

"A spending plan," he explained, "answers that question with a definition: you want things you spending with the money most important in your life, the things most important to you, today, and in the future."

Waldorf & Reed, located in Grand Island Park, has a free trial of the financial services business for over 60 years.

Alice Johnson is a teacher to emulate

Alice Johnson last spring completed her 50th year in the classroom. She has been an active NEBA member since that first year.

This past summer she worked on a mini-park on the edge of the school grounds and each year organizes her sixth grade students to serve as crossing guards. Johnson's students also make certain the United States and Nebraska flags are flown above the school each day.

In addition, she is active in her church, the VFW auxiliary and the International Reading Association.

Colleagues cite her as "giving, caring, loving, uncompromising and above all, professional."

people, whom you look back on in life, and try to emulate. She is a wonderful example as an educator," wrote Kathy Muller, a first grade teacher at Winona.

Johnson started her career with a two-year certificate, teaching in rural schools in Nebraska. She later went on to earn her four-year diploma, followed by her master's degree.

"Alice Johnson has been a wonderful role model to me as a teacher," Muller said. "She cares about her students at all levels of development and teaches to each one. Most importantly, she shows the people around her—students, fellow teachers and staff—that she cares about them."

Teachers attend institute

Wayne teachers Leigh Fuhrman, Barb Kothath, and Elene Jager recently attended a technology institute in Kearney titled the "Teacher Network." The Teacher Network selected approximately 200 percent of Nebraska's 12,000 K-12 teachers, public, private and parochial (130 educators) to be trained in the use of computers and on-line.

A total of 200 individuals from Nebraska applied for this grant from which 218 were chosen. Broken into eight, each of the participants was given a modern equipped laptop computer and software enabling them to teach other teachers as well as students.

Funded by a $607,000 grant from the US West Foundation, the project represents a partnership with US West, the Nebraska State Education Association, The Nebraska Community Foundation and the Nebraska Department of Education.

The organization hopes to have ten percent of all Nebraska K-12 teachers trained by the use of technology including internet over the next two years.

In addition to the Kearney training, the selected have only limited to participate in a one day tele-conference, complete monthly on-line assignments, attend a one-day session to prepare for training educators and national level conferences.

Elene Jager is guidance counselor and high school counselor, Kothath is K-12 teacher and Fuhrman is a primary coordinator and K-12 paper teacher first grade.

Brian Fynn is honored

Brian Fynn, a junior at Wayne High School, son of Alan and Debra Fynn, was recently included in the 31st annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students. Only five percent of the students from our nation's 22,000 high schools are honored for their achievements in Who's Who each year.

He is now eligible to compete for one of 175 scholarships of $1,000 each which will be awarded this year. Over $1,947,000 has been awarded through this program in 31 years.

He is also eligible to use the College Referral Service which is an exclusive reference service for college-bound Who's Who students. Recent surveys indicate that 98 percent of the colleges use CRIS to recruit students for admission. Each year over 100,000 referrals are made for Who's Who students.

Seeking exchange students

The Wayne Rotary Club seeks students to participate in the Rotary International Youth Exchange. This one year exchange program is designed to foster international goodwill by allowing students to live in Rotary sponsored homes in other countries.

Participants must be 17 years of age but not yet 22 when the first exchange begins in Aug. 1998. The Rotary club involved in the exchange does not charge any administrative fees for these efforts. All costs for transportation, insurance, chaperone and incidentals must be provided by the parents of the students. The local Rotary club in the foreign country will provide a monthly stipend for their board student. Applications for the youth exchange may be obtained by contacting Peggie Yates at 375-4090. A youth exchange committee will interview the applicants and their parents in mid-November in Grand Island. A February meeting is also planned to assist the students and their parents.

Raising immunization rates

The Nebraska Health Care Association has recently partnered with the Sandhorough Corporation of Nebraska in a joint effort to improve the immunization rate for flu and pneumonia vaccination of Nebraska's elderly population.

Even though vaccination is easy to get and inexpensive, the number of elderly Nebraskans who received the vaccine is only about 25 percent.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services sets a goal of 60 percent annual immunization rate for flu and pneumonia vaccines for adults 65 years of age and older by the year 2000.

In response to this goal, the Sandhorough Corporation has developed a "Project in a Box." The project contains educational materials and reimbursement information to all health care providers to establish vaccination programs in their communities. The Nebraska Health Care Association is collaborating with the corporation to assist long-term care facilities in establishing immunization programs.

Flu and pneumonia immunizations are directly responsible for many deaths in the elderly population.

They are the fifth leading cause of death in the elderly. The Center for Disease Control (CDC) believes 90 percent of the death from the flu could be prevented with a flu shot.

The Nebraska Health Care Association is a trade association of Nebraska health care providers based in Omaha and is a affiliate of the American Health Care Association.

The Sandhorough Corporation contracts with the Health Care Financing Administration to administer programs designed to improve the quality of care of Medicare beneficiaries.

How to get off 'lists'

Let the buyer beware.

It seems to be the credo that guides consumers' behavior. It should be the credo that guides when one suddenly finds himself a herself under piles of magazines and junk mail, or the recipient of unwanted phone calls during the dinner hour, and left wondering, "What list am I on?"

The fact is that direct mail is big business, and when a consumer makes a purchase through the mail or over the phone, chances are that their name will be distributed to other vendors who sell, in turn, send information about their products.

According to Scott Meacham, president of the Better Business Bureau in Lincoln, each company has its own policy about revealing lists to other companies. Make no mistake though, this information is not privileged. Once you have consented to be in the market place, you're open to solicitation.

Changes are the problem cannot be completely eliminated, Meacham said. But there are some steps that can be taken by consumers who want to reduce the amount of solicitation to which they are subjected.

That is, if possible, opt out of most direct marketing lists. The Direct Marketing Association (DMA) Web site (www.dma.org) explains how to opt out of most direct marketing lists.

Opting out of the DMA is writing that you request to be removed from mail and/or telephone lists should receive the amount of solicitation desired. It may take several months to see a full effect, but it should be effective as companies are becoming more sensitive to how consumers feel about receiving unsolicited calls and mail. To opt out of a list, consumers can write the Direct Marketing Association at P.O. Box 9008, Farmingdale, NY 11735 (to get off mailing list), or P.O. Box 9014, Farmingdale, NY 11735 (for removal from phone lists).

The next option is to contact individual companies directly, asking to be removed from a list. According to new Federal Trade Commission rules, all companies must maintain a "Do Not Call List." This also includes local organizations making solicitations such as religious and charitable associations, local merchants, political candidates and professional associations.

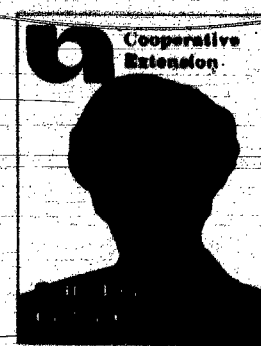

Most businesses will voluntarily remove a name upon request, Meacham said. Unethical companies, however, are unscrupulous. They will ignore these guidelines. Under the new rules, consumers can seek action against a company that continues to solicit after repeated requests to stop.

There's new rule do give authority to individuals to sue, Meacham said, and people have won cases like these.

An additional option is available by cutting back on unwanted mail. It is possible to mark unopened first-class mail "return to sender" and put it back in the post. This does not work with second- or third-class mailings, however, and the best that can be done with these pieces is to take them to a recycling center.

The last step to reducing solicitation is to be more educated consumers. The average local country and state directories which may be necessary to select business. There are regulations which must be obeyed in order for companies to advertise to consumers.

If you feel that a company is engaged in unethical or illegal activity, by all means contact someone

Cooperative Extension

The local Better Business Bureau is available to answer any attorney general or the local authorities. Think carefully about asking to be directed to the state attorney general or the local authorities. Think carefully about asking to be removed from the list after all, there may be some pieces of mail you still want to receive. In country or getting favorite catalogues, contact the company directly and let them know you have contacted the DMA, but still wish to receive their advertisements.

Always an Osborne fan Cool weather, football compatible topics

We actually ran the furnace this morning. We didn't want to, we had the AC on last week, but it was 65 degrees in the house and we were afraid our guests would be cold. Now it's a typical cloudy, hazy fall day. And the Chiefs are winning a football game.

I've hesitated to discuss football lately. I haven't had time to read the sports pages. And when I do, I only get confused.

I've never been a sports fan. People who know him personally claimed he was arrogant. However, I wasn't one of the folks who thought he shouldn't go to Stanford. For Peter's sake, it's still a free country, sort of. I enjoy seeing the six-man and eight-man players get a chance at Heisman, but it was pretty impressive to have a 100-0 record. Bill Walsh would be so proud.

Then, when Laurence Phillips went on his campaign, the question wasn't about whether he should go to Stanford. It was about whether he should go to Stanford.

Then I read "One Final Pass," the book about Brock Berlinger, Coach Osborne's star. Both were fully featured. They were watching TV. Obviously, it was late. But damn, he has changed since I was in a school like an in-laws.

A really kind man about that. The author said he had become a Christian since Brock's death. That's fine. I thought I had the same. I've learned there is a big difference in talking the talk and walking the walk.

When the University of South Florida almost beat South Carolina, I watched them, as more than three times, in the first half of the game. I was so into it, I good, learn down there. My Colorado connection was quite great. I was in the grandstand. And I'll always be a fan of the Broncos.

Monday's game was great. Finding all sorts of household chores while the Big Game hollered out the score. The third quarter got me very excited, and I sat in the couch and chewed my nails with everyone else in the fourth.

But we had some breaks. The new plays worked. The defense held them. The fullbacks performed. Eli Brown got a record and just played the entire game, and looked good.

In today's paper, I enjoyed the photo of Warren Buffett and Bill Gates together at the game. It kind of makes them seem like common folks. It was a good game, on a beautiful day, and it ended in our favor.

Once again, I know what he was doing. And I'll always be a fan of it, if not of all his players. We're looking forward to the rest of the season.
