Accidents keep law enforcement busy

A number of accidents in the past week, including an accident which claimed the life of an 82-year-old Randolph woman, have kept law enforcement officials busy.

Irene Wurdinger of Randolph was killed when the car she was a passenger in collided with a pickup driven by 19-year-old Vaughn Slevers of Randolph.

Driver of the car, Martin Wurdinger, 62, of Randolph was northbound on a county road when the accident occurred.

Safety restraints were not in use in the Slevers vehicle and it is unknown if they were used in the Wurdinger vehicle.

The Nebraska State Patrol investigated the accident.

Another accident occurred Wednesday, Nov. 26 at approximately 7:30 a.m. at the intersection of Highways 33 and 20, eight miles west of Wayne.

Wayne County Sheriff Colby Jansen reports that a semi-trailer being driven by Jerry Schweppe of Duncombe, Iowa overturned while attempting to turn south onto Highway 33.

The truck, owned by Royster Trucking, was carrying 16,000 pounds of dry ice. The accident occurred when the truck slid due to frosty conditions and the load shifted.

No one was injured in the accident which caused the highway to be closed for some time while a wrecker lifted the semi-trailer to an upright position.

The Wayne County Sheriff's office also investigated an accident on Nov. 29 at approximately 8 p.m. on Centennial Road near Great Dane Trailers.

According to witnesses, two vehicles were drag-racing when another car approached.

A car, driven by 16-year-old Dustin Soden of Wayne, went off the road to avoid hitting the other vehicle.

Soden was checked at the scene by rescue personnel and was given a medical release.

Reports of the accident have been turned over the County Attorney's office for review.

The Dec. 4 the Sheriff's office investigated an accident one mile south and three miles west of Wakefield on a county road. The accident occurred at approximately 6:30 p.m.

A pickup driven by Arlan Hought of Emerson was southbound when it collided at an intersection with a southbound vehicle driven by Joshua Hobbs of Wakefield.

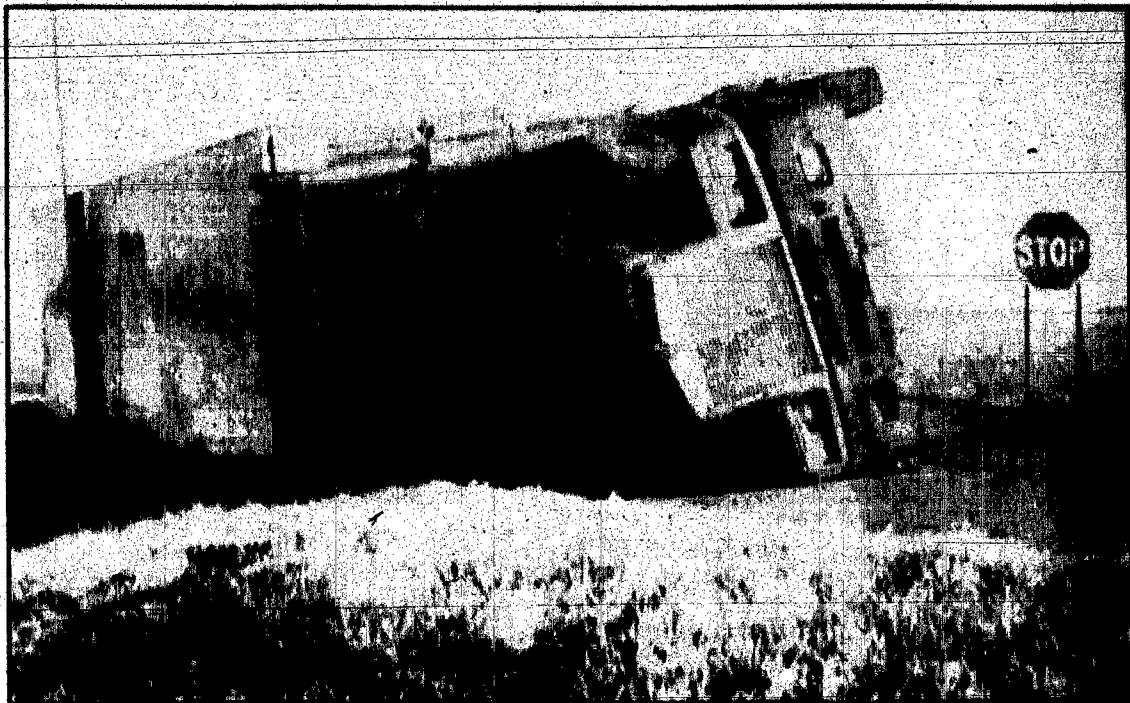

No injuries were reported in the accident.

Another accident occurred on Nov. 24 when a car driven by 14-year-old Beth Lehberg of rural Carroll took evasive action to avoid a collision.

The accident occurred four miles west and 4 1/2 miles north of Wayne. The lighter vehicle rolled on its top in the ditch. No one was injured in the incident.

Sheriff Jansen urged motorists to use caution, especially when driving on unimproved county roads.

"We want to remind drivers to keep their minds on driving and not on other activities. There are lots of other drivers on the roads," Jansen said.

A semi-trailer driven by Jerry Schweppe of Duncombe, Iowa overturned while attempting to turn south onto Highway 33. Royster Trucking of Duncombe, Iowa owned the semi-trailer. Frosty road conditions helped cause the accident. Traffic had to be routed around the scene for a portion of the day.

Tree program to be held at Providence

Providence Medical Center, celebrating its second annual Holiday Home Health Hospice Tree program at Providence Medical Center.

Members of Wayne and the surrounding communities will again have an opportunity to participate in this Christmas event. Residents are invited to display their concerns for others by supporting the Hospital's annual Holiday Home Health/Hospice Tree Program.

Individuals and businesses are invited to contribute to the effort. The tree will be placed in the lobby of Providence Medical Center from Dec. 2 until Dec. 31 and will be decorated with white lights, a Christmas ribbon and cards bearing the names of loved ones whom people choose to honor. A person may want to celebrate the birth of a child or grand child, or give loving remembrance of a friend or relative, or someone special. It's an opportunity to show love with a "Ribbons of Love" on the Hospital's Holiday Tree.

We invite those persons who may not have received a card in the mail to come to the Hospital personally make a donation, fill out a card, and hang it on the Holiday tree where it will reside all during the Christmas season, said Foundation President Sandy Badling. Cards are available in the Foundation Office.

The Holiday tree will be a centerpiece attraction at PMHC this Christmas. Area residents and friends of Home Health and Hospice services are invited to join in the celebration, home of remembrance a

Wayne High yearbook earns Cornhusker Award

Wayne High School's 1996-97 yearbook received the state's highest rating, a Cornhusker Award, in judging done by the Nebraska High School Press Association.

Only six schools in the state received this rating. They include Midland North and Omaha Westside in Class A, Blair, Wayne and Aurora in Class B and Dodge in Class C. There were no Class C schools receiving the awards.

After earning points in categories such as design, overall layout, page, writing, theme development and photography for 15 years in rating, the booky judge recognized the book for special content, content of the prestigious Cornhusker award.

This book had previously received national recognition from Worth Publishing with a Gallery of Excellence Award.

Editors for the book were John Fager and Robert D. Dorey. Staff members included Amy Chase, Tyler Embert, Simon Crane, Tara Hart, Amanda Hochstein, Sara Kinney, Amanda Empress, April Lage, Erik Litt, Eric Mann, Tom Skopman.

The yearbook advisor is Lauris Walcott, who said that a final committee reviewed all the recommended publications to choose "the very best of the best."

WSC hosts seminar

Wayne State College's Education Division will host a seminar entitled "Managing An Evening of Multicultural Awareness" on Tuesday, Dec. 2 from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. The event, which is for school counselors and teachers will be held in the Gardner Hall Auditorium on the WSC campus.

"We will have presentations by Dr. Robert L. Taylor, who is from Wayne City, Maria Gomez, of the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, and Concha Zepeda, who represents the Panca Tribe of Nebraska," said

Kathy Conway, the seminar's organizer. Conway said topics will include how "problem" is defined within represented cultures, what counselors need to know, and working with indigenous helpers.

Conway said this program developed out of an offering to share information by former and current Wayne State College students in counseling. The need is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

For more information contact the Education Division Office at 375-7409.

Question: What Cleaning tips do you have for the holidays?

Answer: Cleaning your table cloth soon after using it. Some spills like seven up, milk, & wine won't show up until they yellow. Allow 1 or 2 weeks for cleaning down and leather seats respectively. Get your party clothes out now to make sure they are clean, pressed, and fit for when you want to wear them.

November at Headstart

During the first week of November we learned about how to dress for cold weather with mittens, coats and hats.

We were invited to the Wayne State Recreation Center to spend some time with the WSC football team. We had a lot of fun dancing, singing songs, playing ball and just being together.

At the end of the week we visited Pizza Hut for a field trip. There we learned about how pizzas are made and we even made our own pizzas. They were yummy!

During our second week we learned about our families. Chef Combo (our nutrition person) introduced the Bread Group by making Bread in a Bag. It was a bit of fun and the bread was delicious.

At the Senior Center this month we created a Temperament Child, which is now hanging on our wall. On our visit to the library, the librarian read us a wonderful story about an "Old Lady Who swallowed a Fly."

We had fun learning about different people and cultures around the world during the third week of the month. We created our own hats for a Mexican Hat Dance and tasted red-hot bread and fresh shells for breakfast.

McNeil, the Time Dog visited our center and talked to us about the McGruff program.

Our last week of November celebrated Thanksgiving. We learned about the Indian culture and things that we are thankful for in our lives.

WSC falls to SDSU, 80-79 on Hall Mary shot

'Cats lose heart-breaker

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

When two top 25 ranked teams get together and both play for the most part, solid basketball, often times the determining factor in the outcome is luck.

Twenty-second ranked Wayne State had its 1,000-plus fans poised for the victory over fifth-rated South Dakota State, Tuesday night in the Auditorium.

Somebody however forgot to tell the visiting Jackrabbits.

With five seconds remaining in regulation and the 'Cats clinging to a one point lead at 79-78, and with possession of the ball things appeared to look WSC's favor.

The ensuing in-boundary pass was knocked away and after a scramble, SDSU's Casey Walker threw up a shot in desperation at the buzzer and it went leaving the once reigning Wildcats fans just seconds earlier, breathless.

The 25 game home win streak held by WSC since the 1995 season was snapped as the 'Cats fell to 4-7 on the year while the luck happy Jackrabbits improved to 6-0 on spring the Auditorium by a hair.

It's a tough loss for WSC coach Craig McDemmitt said. "We felt we should have come away with the win."

McDemmitt said it was a very good game and the crowd really helped. WSC was in 11 point deficit in the second half.

SDSU is an excellent ball team, there's no doubt about it," Craig McDemmitt said. "I thought our guys really played hard and we did it for the effort."

The in-boundary pass attempt was deflected by Nathan Kibbler, but Kibbler was unable to get the ball back to Craig Phillip.

"We had an excellent effort for the season," McDemmitt added. "That was an area of concern but we are a talented team."

WSC pulled from their lead, the lead lay to back over a half.

SDSU scored on the half with a 21-10 on the half. WSC pulled from their lead, the lead lay to back over a half.

The 'Cats trailed 25-10 in the first 10 minutes of the first half but a 3 pointer by Craig Phillip led to a 28-10 advantage.

Phillip gave the 'Cats a 31-10 lead in the first 10 minutes of the first half.

SDSU scored on the half with a 21-10 on the half. WSC pulled from their lead, the lead lay to back over a half.

WSC won the half by 11 points in the second half at 56-45 before they pulled back behind the stellar play of point guard Tyler Johnson and the strong leadership of Craig Phillip along with the outside bang of Jason Diaz and Brad Jones.

The visitors lead 42-37 after three minutes of play.

Johnson then got behind his team and put down a thundering dunk that gave the 'Cats a 44-42 lead.

Another 12-0 scoring run by Tyler Johnson put WSC up 68-67 with a monster dunk of his own and Jones followed with a 3 pointer to give WSC a 71-67 lead with 9:17 left.

The host team would score just eight points the rest of the way.

A Phillip jump shot put the 'Cats up 75-71 but SDSU scored the next five points to take a 76-75 lead with 1:14 left.

Phillip hit a pair of charity tosses to give the 'Cats the lead back at 77-76 and Johnson drove the lane and hit a jumper for a 79-76 advantage which remained until the 1:06 mark when SDSU scored on a pair of free throws by Brian Horberg.

The game state were virtually even with 16 players on each team finishing in double figures in scoring.

WSC was led by Johnson with 18 points while Jones tallied 14, Diaz 12 and Phillip 11.

Matt Walker led SDSU with 17 points and Paul Monte added 14 with Casey Walker scoring a dozen and Brian Horberg 10.

WSC won the battle of the boards, 42-19 led by Nathan Kibbler with eight rebounds while Tim Henderson had six.

Johnson distributed a game high 10 assists and the 'Cats had put 17 turnovers while scoring 15.

Henderson rebounded two steals and blocked three shots to give the 'Cats a 10-10 edge.

SDSU will hit the road this week with games at St. Francis of Illinois on Saturday at 7 p.m. and at the State of Illinois on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Adam Goos stages his senior recital

Wayne State College Ley Theatre was the stage for the senior recital of Adam Goos on Dec. 2, 8 p.m. This recital served as a culminating non-anxious recital and senior concert, Goos said and contained dramatic music.

"I enjoyed putting everything together to build an entire unit. I tried to unify and bring everything I learned here together," Goos said.

Four different sets were included in the program. The first set involved three songs, one by William Shakespeare. Goos said he integrated a piano to set up the format for the rest of the recital. The second set included three songs of Samuel Barber with an onstage performance including a story at the beginning of the book.

The third set featured four Kurt Weill songs. The play and songs were combined to tell a story. The adapted text came from a play "A Language of Their Own" by Chay Yew.

The last set included "The Cowboy" by Menotti and included a short scene taking place with a companion named Pika-Magabill.

All staging, directing and lighting design was the performance was by Goos alone. "It really was featured program."

Concert dates near

The Wayne State College Jazz Band will be performing their Holiday Concert on Monday, Dec. 8, Ramsey Auditorium at 8 p.m. Later in the week, the WSC Symphonic Band will be performing their Holiday Concert, Thursday, Dec. 11, at Ramsey Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The WSC Jazz Band is a select group of musicians that plays many jazz styles from swing to jazz rock. Vocalist Maria Brown will be featured at this concert as well as traditional holiday songs written in the jazz idiom, WSC Professor Michael Gillan said.

The WSC Jazz Band is conducted by Gillan, David Robinson and Brad Weber.

The WSC Symphonic Band includes 70 members including music majors as well as non-music students. The group has recently finished a successful marching season. This will be the group's first performance as a concert organization, Professor Gillan said.

WSC Assistant Band Director David Robinson will be featured as trumpet soloist on "Concerto for Trumpet" by Arutjunian, and he will conduct "Russian Christmas Music" by Alfred Reed. Other selections on the concert will include music by Tchaikovsky, Khachaturian, Scriabin, Tchaikovsky, and Beethoven. The group is conducted by Gillan.

Admission to both concerts is open to the public, free of charge.

Krista Remer will give presentation

Wayne State College Honors Colloquium presentations are scheduled for Dec. 10-11.

Krista Remer, daughter of Lee and Sandra Remer, is one of eight WSC winners who will be making presentations.

Remer's presentation is scheduled for 7 p.m., Dec. 11 at Faculty Viewing Library, WSC Catholic Science Building.

Her presentation is titled "The Development of the Anal Nerve Plexus in a Sexually Dimorphic Teleost, the Western Mosquitofish, Gambusia affinis albino" (Baird and Girard, 1953).

Remer is a WSC winner with a major in biology and English.

Women's Chorus will be featured

Inside view of job world told

Wayne State College alumni business leaders provided a glimpse of work culture for students attending the "Start-Up Workshop" this 20 at Gardner Hall Auditorium.

The annual event is sponsored by Delta Sigma Pi, a Wayne State professional business fraternity focusing on helping students enter the commercial world. The campus chapter is affiliated with the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

"You can get anywhere you want to from Wayne State college," Dr. Donald Math said.

He expressed appreciation for speakers attending and encouraged faculty involvement at the event. Math said the workshop was an example of the high quality of speakers invited to the classroom at WSC. "The interest of student and faculty interaction at Wayne State College is excellent."

In the business division, the standard is as high as in any other area on campus. Math said before introducing the speakers.

Keynote speaker Jim Eiting (Valmont Industries Vice President Sales District, American International Division, WSC 1989) started with Valmont after college study in the US Army. Eiting and his wife, Mary Kay, have four children. Eiting is a former WSC Delta Sigma Pi member and chapter president.

"In business, I have a tip for you students. Find someone you can talk to about your career," Eiting said. "Wayne State College is very important to me."

In college, Eiting said, Delta Sigma Pi members filled the role of mentors. Working to be first in their region in college meant working in teams.

"Learn to work in teams. This world needs leaders in business and family," Eiting said. "Make sure you use your experiences at WSC to learn to lead people and build confidence."

One business experience Eiting related, to show that humor is an important part of business, involved riding a bull weighing 1,200 lbs. in a convention center. After 40 straight years leading in market value, he said they were ready to make the concept of an executive and shareholder more realistic.

"Business can be very demanding," Eiting said. "Make sure you can keep balance in your life."

Four areas to balance in life include God, family, job and self. Eiting said individuals should always be reaching in each.

"It's important to have your job. There's no room for anything unethical in business," Eiting said. "The brandy, code. But because we're outside."

By distinguishing yourself at the start of your career, Eiting said you can gain the attention of employers looking for future company leaders.

"Be somebody that makes some speak up," Eiting said.

Following keynote speaker Eiting, each panel member delivered an introduction.

Introducing as WSC alumni panelists were Ken Milbradt (an banker, former BBF 1969), Troy Higgins (an banker and Banking Midwest Bank 1989), Brian Roth (an accounting, Hancock and First P 1991), Frank Christensen (an computer, systems administrator, Christensen and Co. Inc. a great facility at Wayne State College. Take advantage of it and get your instructor. Ask questions.

"Find out what companies you're interested in and keep reading your resume," the added.

"There's nothing that can give you an edge, but there are some common things that can help you. Christensen said you have a great facility at Wayne State College. Take advantage of it and get your instructor. Ask questions."

"Find out what you can do to make companies notice you," Christensen said. "Keep asking questions like this and discuss concepts. Apply the concepts you're being taught in class. Working on projects like small business consulting gives you an edge."

"You need to go out and create an edge. Don't wait until you get a job. Start making noise now (in college)," Christensen said.

The key to getting noticed is to put together an internship or college. Christensen said this was his biggest benefit and probably helped land his present job.

"Change is inevitable," Hoffman said. "Embrace change. Look forward to it and prepare for it."

Computer networks means a tremendous amount of information is available. Hoffman said it's important to learn what you need to know and don't allow yourself to become limited with information.

In preparing for the CPA exam and choosing a field, Roth said it's strongly recommended taking a review class to refresh information before the test. "Be sure to be prepared to allow time to prepare for this type of extensive test."

In the area of job hunting, both said students need to be aggressive.

"Put yourself out there," she said. "Be proactive. Open the phone book I called home to find out about them."

After working out 40 to 50 resumes, both said the general offer from some firms, but the firm she ended up with was one she received a rejection from at first.

"You have to keep your eyes and ears open," she said.

"You need to go out and create an edge. Don't wait until you get a job. Start making noise now (in college)," Christensen said.

The key to getting noticed is to put together an internship or college. Christensen said this was his biggest benefit and probably helped land his present job.

"Think students, while in an internship, Christensen said they should find it for the job. "I can't say it will profit professional relationships."

"It will make it look like you're Christensen said. "Employers are looking for someone who people that make sense."

Plan where you want to be in five years, Christensen said.

"Take time to look at the company you're interviewing with," Christensen said. "Ask about the company."

Upon entering the work force, keep good relationships with your coworkers because you spend more time with them than your spouse, Christensen said. "You're not going to have a 40-hour work week. It's never going to be there."

"You have to be proactive in your life," Christensen said. "Work smarter, not harder. Hard work has rewards and it will pay off in the long run."

While studying yourself in the workplace, Christensen said it's important to understand you won't be able to understand everything.

"When you make a mistake, own up to it. Be part of the solution," Christensen said.

The final panelist to make an introduction, Debra said her team at her college is working toward a goal of making a professional to faculty members.

"While at Wayne State College, I can't say 'education reliably,'" Debra said.

"Always be proud of where you came from and put your heart into your work," Debra said. "He said he learned how things he studied in college applied to the real business world."

Following presentations by panelists, questions ranged from a typical work day to the effective use of these leaders college education.

"I'm happy with the start I had," Christensen said. "Education is the education at WSC. Education sets you up with a foundation."

Following a good foundation, Christensen said employees will experience a lot of on the job training and continual learning.

"You learn your whole life," Eiting said.

Briefly Speaking

Star Homemakers discuss heirlooms

CARROLL — Julia Claybaugh was hostess to the Star Homemakers Club on Nov. 18. Eight members answered roll call. Members were given the months they would host club in 1998. The group also decided to hold its meetings on the third Tuesday of each month. The March meeting will be held in the afternoon. Jackie Owens lead the group in a lesson on "Family Heirlooms." Each member brought some of their "treasures" and shared their stories with the other members. The group will meet on Saturday, Dec. 20 at 6:30 p.m. at the Davy Steakhouse for a Christmas supper and then adjourn to Pat Roberts home for evening entertainment.

Lucille Nelson hosts Happy Workers

CARROLL — The Happy Workers Club met Nov. 19 with Lucille Nelson as hostess. Nine members and one guest, Mabel Janssen, were present. Ten point pitch was played with prizes going to Ivy Juick, Pauline Frink and Gladys Ruffes. Ivy Juick will be the December hostess.

Women's Club plans luncheon

WAYNE — The Wayne Women's Club will meet Friday, Dec. 12 at 11:30 a.m. at the Vet's Club for a Christmas luncheon. Kay Peterson will provide a Christmas music. A presentation was made to last month's outgoing report. Rental charges for the Club Room and kitchen are $30 for the Club Room and $15 for the kitchen. These numbers were inaccurately reported earlier.

Way Out Here holds cookie exchange

CARROLL — The Way Out Here Club ate at Lerner's on Friday, 11 and then went to the Lerner Menke lounge. A short meeting was held. All members were present and witnessed a gift by giving a child's funny comment. Betty Bohill received her December birthday gift. A cookie exchange was held. Pitch was played for entertainment. Everyone received a prize and grand prizes were won by Norma Hansen and Lester Menke. There will be no December meeting. The club will meet on Tuesday, Jan. 27 for an evening card party at the Lerner Menke lounge.

Double ring ceremony unites couple

Elizabeth LeAnn Lutt and Shawn Leroy Milligan were married Nov. 8, 1997 in a 4 p.m. ceremony at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Rev. Martin Russell officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Roger and Sandra Lutt of Wakefield and Jesse and Judy Milligan of Carroll.

The bride's grandparents are Harvey Lutt and Robert and Eva Nelson, all of Wayne. The groom's grandparents are Edna Milligan of Wayne and Adaline Jorgensen of Carroll.

Music for the ceremony was provided by pianist Brenda Henson of Wayne and soloist Maria Henson of Carroll. Soloists included "Parents Prayer," "That Kind of Love" and "When Love Becomes True."

Organized by her father, the bride chose a floor-length, empire style gown of white satin. The shoes, fitted ballroom was accented by red heels and straps with a V-neck and V-backed design. The high, A line skirt was plain white with finished with netted lace, coral beads and sequins around the bottom and trim of the gown.

Completing the bride's design was a wreath veil of white and pink roses and seed pearls. The back of the veil was decorated with a full ruffle of finished netting with seed pearls and ribbons hanging down the back.

She carried a bouquet of bridal roses, gardenias and stephanotis accented with ivy and ribbon.

Matrons of Honor were the bride's sisters, Deb Daum and Amy Sowards, both of Wayne. Maid of Honor was the bride's cousin, Jennifer Lutt of Omaha.

Bridesmaids were Kimberlee Hall of Wayne, Lynn Vosssegger of Omaha and Tara Schwartz of Fairfax, friends of the bride.

Serving as the bride's personal attendants were Bethany Milligan of Carroll and Lori Long of Omaha.

The women wore floor length gowns with high waists and A line skirts. The brides were white satin covered with Victorian lace. The backs were each an open triangle with a high bottom closure. The skirts were navy blue satin covered in navy blue chiffon.

Each attendant carried an ivory bouquet of a white and pink rose and white gardenia accented with a long white ribbon.

Flower girl was the bride's niece, Mari Daum of Wayne. Ring bearer was the groom's niece, Zach Milligan of Carroll, 5-11.

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan

Best Man was the groom's brother, Shane Milligan of Redden.

Groomsmen were the groom's brothers, Stacy Milligan of Carroll and Troy Milligan of Corsica, 5-9 and the bride's brother-in-law, Kurt Daum and Dan Sowards, both of Wayne.

The men wore black tuxedos with white high-button collared shirts and navy blue pinstrip vests.

The bride's nephews, Aaron Daum, Daniel Siler and Connor Sowards, all of Wayne, served as escorts for the bride's mother.

Following the ceremony, a reception and dance were held for 300 guests at the Carroll auditorium.

That couples were Gene and Kate Lutt and Ed and Cindy Milligan, all of Wayne.

Guests were registered by Kim Milligan of Redden and Carolyn Milligan of Corsica, 5-9.

Cake cutters were Kathy Hochstetler of Carroll and Gayle Dahlman of Redden, who also decorated the cake.

Coffee servers were Lola Paulsen and Peg Paulsen, both of Redden. Kara Lutt of 4 Redden joined party.

Following a short honeymoon to Minneapolis, Minn. the couple is at home in Wayne.

The bride is a 1992 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1993 graduate of Wayne State College. She is employed at Region IV Services in Norfolk.

The groom is a 1985 graduate of Wayne High School and is employed at Hanes in Norfolk.

Young people can build healthy bodies and establish healthy lifestyles by including physical activity in their daily lives. Unfortunately, many young people in the United States aren't physically active on a regular basis. Physical activity also helps dramatically during adolescence.

Guidelines for school and community programs to promote Physical Activity Among Young People — a new report from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) identifies the most effective policies and programs for helping young people get active and stay active.

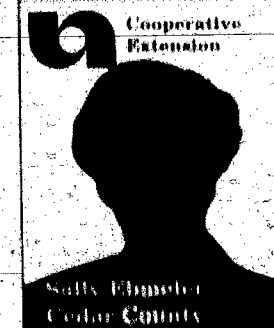

Regular physical activity in childhood and adolescence can help control weight and reduce fat, build healthy bones and muscles, and improve cardiovascular respiratory endurance, and muscle strength. It also can improve self-esteem while reducing anxiety and stress. Young people had other benefits, having fun, learning skills, being with friends, improving appearance.

Regular physical activity while young can develop into lifelong habits to reduce risk of dying prematurely during of heart disease and developing diabetes, high blood pressure, and colon cancer.

However, nearly half of young people ages 12-21 years aren't very active on a regular basis. Participation in all types of physical activity declines in children and adolescents as they grow. For example, a 1995 survey found that 22 percent of ninth-grade students regularly participated in vigorous physical activity, compared with only 53 percent of 12th-grade students. In addition, the percentage of high school students who participate in daily physical education classes has declined in recent years. From 42 percent in 1991 to 25 percent in 1995. Forty percent of high school students aren't involved in any type of physical education. This means that the percentage of children and adolescents who are over weight has more than doubled in the past 30 years.

CDC's report provides parents, teachers, school administrators, health officials, recreation professionals and community leaders with ways to develop and promote safe and effective physical activity programs for young people. These guidelines state school and community programs are most likely to be effective when they make physical activities fun, offer a diverse range of activities, emphasize non-competitive activities that youngsters can participate in during the course of their lifetime, and give young people skills and confidence they need to participate in physical activity.

The guidelines state schools should provide daily physical education taught by trained personnel and that keeps students active for most of class time. This Recommendation is address 10 aspects of school and community programs, including community recreation activities, family involvement and staff training.

Grace holds cookie walk

Grace Lutheran Church will hold its annual Cookie Walk on Saturday, Dec. 13 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. It will be held at the Student Center at 10th and Logan Street. Homemade Christmas cookies will be for sale. The cookies are prepared from professional recipes and come in many varieties. People are asked to enter the month names of the Student Center where there will be many different kinds of cookies. A helper will be present to assist with selection of cookies wanted.

The cookie walk was first held in 1992 following a church service. In 1993 it was opened to the public. The event is now held every year on a Saturday and continues to grow in participation.

The proceeds have gone to the Grace Lutheran Church building fund. Last year there was inclement weather on the day of the cookie walk but still all of the cookies were sold by 1:30 p.m. Early arrival ensures the best selection. Congregational Matching Funds up to $450 are being applied for through Lutheran Brotherhood, Wayne County Branch #8212.

WSC faculty member gets good book reviews

"Message to the Future of America" a book by Wayne State College instructor and author Lisa Sandlin, gained attention in The New York Times Book Review and The Texas Observer.

"Throughout the collection Sandlin's stories focus on people's lives, young then mature, to kind moving portrayals of people coming to understand others about themselves. This anthology is a piece of quiet joy in a time when creative productivity is in peril."

The average age at death for Eskabians in 1996 was 74.7 years. The number of deaths due to motor vehicle crashes in 1996 increased from 248 to 288.

copies define them as "essays of a Gulf Coast town during the days of integration, sharp and specific, honest and warmly unpredictable."

"Sandlin makes you feel the optimism and wonder how it all got lost." Terry said in her review. "She shows us both the beauty and the pain of youth college and comes up with language that is poignant and often hilarious."

"I'm just grateful for writers like Sandlin who give us a new way of seeing everything." Terry said in the conclusion of her review.

Sandlin's book has received the Young Women's League from the Austin Women's League. She is an assistant professor of English at Wayne State College.

Big farmer is hanging up his real estate sign

After almost 40 years, the big farmer is hanging up his real estate sign. And it's with a sigh of relief. As in every other occupation, the regulations are becoming too burdensome.

When Mike was finishing grad school, a fellow grad student was taking the Realtor's test. In those days, you could take the broker's exam right along with the sales man's. They studied together, passed and paid the fee.

When Mike went looking for an established agency to hang his license in, he called on Leo Ringler of what was then Ringler and Neidhart. They were looking for a farm manager. I don't think they did a formal reference check, but when he went back the second time, Leo told him, "You have something you should never let get away from you. A good name."

The farmer is hanging up his real estate sign.

I've remembered that statement often. Through the years, we learned to respect Leo and Dick.

As our own farm grew, there was less time to manage others. Eventually, we wondered if paying the annual renewal fee was really worth it. But he knew he never wanted to take that exam again. It was sort of like my nursing boards, a once-in-a-lifetime test.

When he found himself with a smaller farm operation and the need for off-farm income, he was glad he had it. Now, there was continuing education, operations. But mainly, a good Realtor can be a good negotiator.

I've yet to see a real estate transaction transpire without a complicating factor. And many attorneys tend to get "bobby" when it comes are affected. Tim delays out interest in real estate these days.

There have been survey markets not bound, possession dates postponed, equipment left by former owners claimed by the new, boundary lines disputed, wells that need "flowing out" (with an actual pump) and remedies found where there had never been before.

We even had to get a Realtor involved when we bought this house, as an objective third party. The last year we have a 72 acre place just east of my farm with the seller and the buyer thousands of dollars apart.

There's nothing a time when we need less haste and more time to concentrate on our own real estate. So he's retired from farming, and really, I hope he has time to get his "antiques" organized.

I have a bunch of cows going to get out of that business for awhile.

4-H's donate tabs

The pop tabs have been tabulated, all 1.5 million of them. This was a successful first-ever statewide community service project for Nebraska 4-H.

It took just over two months for Nebraska 4-H'ers to collect 1.5 million aluminum can tabs. Their original goal was exceeded by 500,000 tabs and more than $1,000 was raised for the Omaha Ronald McDonald House. The house is an inexpensive home away from home for families of children undergoing medical treatments.

Nebraska 4-H'ers and their community partners defined the word "team work" in contributing to the project, said Sandra Muckall, University of Nebraska 4-H Action Team advisor.

Nearly 2,000 pounds of aluminum tabs were collected at 4-H locations and events, including Expositions, Nebraska State Fair, county fairs, Ag Center, 4-H Center, the Nebraska State 4-H office, Cooperative Extension offices and community organizations with 4-H leadership.

"It takes 761 aluminum tabs to make a pound, tabs are the purest aluminum part of the can. The success of this project is a reminder of the wonderful accomplishments 4-H members can achieve," Muckall said.

Landowners assist with wildlife habitat

Nebraska landowners have a new option in developing improved fish and wildlife habitat according to the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Steve Clark, NRCS State Conservationist, said local FERC offices began taking applications Dec. 1 for the new Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program. This is a new USDA program authorized in the 1996 farm bill.

"This program will give private landowners an opportunity to develop and improve fish and wildlife habitat," said Clark. "FERC's and our partners can provide technical assistance and cost share payments for wildlife habitat development," he added.

"The Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program will fit nicely with current state, national resources district or other local programs," said Clark. "Depending on the program you compare to WHP, it can provide new or additional funding fill the gaps of those other programs, or be a totally new effort."

For example, between the USDA-WHP and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission's Wildlife Habitat Improvement Program, the USDA program can allow some limited grazing privileges in water bodies of protection but no commercial use, provides 75 percent cost share of practices and supplies many of the materials only needed locally.

FERC, with the help of the state technical committee, selects a 100-member advisory group of organizations interested in riparian resources, established six priority fish and wildlife habitats for the WHP. Applications for WHP funds addressing these priority needs will receive increased consideration for funding.

These priority areas are: riparian area restoration and improvement to restore spring flow and bank stability, debris control and stream.

Native prairie restoration by increasing biodiversity and plant vigor in prairie areas.

Native grassland establishment to plant or restore native grasses and herbs.

Habitat development in irrigated cropland particularly center pivot, cover, developed, for wildlife habitat.

Special habitat easements allow for partnering with natural resource districts or state agencies on projects of local interest.

Enhanced and undisturbed riparian recovery and conservation to improve riparianity that has declined due to habitat loss or degradation.

Nationally FERC's has $50 million total available through 2002. FERC's in Nebraska has not yet received specific program funds but expects to receive.

"This will be a continuous sign up," Clark said, "and landowners can apply anytime. We will periodically rank the applications and fund contracts."

Contracts can be up to $10,000 and are for a 5- to 10-year period. The funds are for cost share payments to improve wildlife habitat and not for land rental payments. A landowner can have more than one contract. There is no individual or minimum acreage limit.

Further details on the new USDA Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program are available at any FERC's office.

Open Van Fund
The Wakefield Health Care Center Auxiliary has opened a savings account totaling $6,350 at the Nebraska State Bank in Wakefield.

The purpose of the account is to save money for purchasing a new van for the facility.

A new van is needed due to increased use as hospitals are located out of town, more people are seeing specialists and receiving multiple therapies. The present van has been in use for nine years.

The van is not only used for medical purposes but also for taking residents on rides and family outings.

Anyone wishing to make a donation may do so as the fund is an open account. The auxiliary said that a donation of a memorial would be a good way to remember loved ones this holiday season.

Deposits or donations can be taken to the bank or sent to bank offices. Sue Nelson, Betty Brendler of Lois Berns.

Luan Brudigan and Broo Coward, seniors, were named to the Lewis and Clark All-Conference Wakefield team in the Clark stadium.

Brudigan took care of much of the setting for the Lady Trojans during the season and Coward was a hitter. Both were also servers for the team.

Kristin Preston received honorable mention recognition as senior hitter.

JUMP ROPE
There will be over 11,000 Nebraska students participating in the Jump Rope for Heart and Wakefield Elementary students will be part of them.

Wakefield participates in Jump for Heart every other year. Approximately $1,000 was raised for the American Heart Association in 1995. This year the goal is $4,000.

The kids will jump on Saturday, Dec. 6 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the school auditorium. At 4 p.m. there will be a jump rope demonstration and an awards ceremony.

Everyone is invited to attend. For more information on Jump Rope for Heart, call Paul Faton, coordinator, at the school at 287-2017.

EXPLORE COMPUTER PROGRAM
The Wakefield Community School fourth grade is learning about the Logo teach computer program.

Seventeen Wayne State College students are assisting the fourth grade in learning the program.

According to Kathy Johnson, fourth grade teacher, the program helps teach students how to follow directions, special awareness, critical directions, music composition and more.

The prospective teachers as well as the elementary students benefit from working together in small groups.

New Medicines for the Elderly

As a rule, older persons suffer more illness than do younger adults. Studies indicate that up to 85 percent of older persons suffer from at least one health problem. Even though this age group makes up less than 10 percent of the U.S. population, the elderly comprise 1/3 or more of all the medicines dispensed. Because of the expected increase in our elderly population, pharmaceutical companies are spending a considerable amount of time and money on the cases that affect the elderly.

According to a recent survey of pharmaceutical research companies in the United States, 178 medicines/chemicals are currently being tested for use in those illnesses that affect older persons. Seventeen new medicines target Alzheimer's disease, one of the leading causes of nursing home admissions. Twenty-four new medicines are being evaluated for arthritis, a condition that affects nearly one-half of all Americans age 65 and older.
