Jensen turns in resignation

By Kevin Peterson
of the Herald

Dr. Dennis Jensen

Wayne School Board president Phyllis Spierman read a letter at Monday's regular monthly meeting of the Board, stating the resignation of a board superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen, effective June 30, 1999.

After 23 years in education and 18 as a superintendent, Dr. Jensen is transferring into the private business world.

Jensen's first superintendent job was in Montrose, South Dakota where he became the state's youngest superintendent at age 27.

Jensen came to Wayne in 1992 following the retirement of Dr. Francis Han.

Wayne has an excellent school system, especially considering the high level of concern for the well being of each student as illustrated by the entire staff, Jensen stated.

The tax payers may never realize the great attention given to accountability and efficiency with in the district walls, yet the district had an excellent conservative budget, with the desire to provide the best education to all resources can muster.

Jensen said looking back over his 23 years in Wayne, adding technology throughout the district was a great accomplishment that is fairly well known in the community.

"Being able to implement this technology in a cost saving manner, with the help of substantial grants and assistance from the college in providing excellent student help is what really should be recognized," Jensen said.

The technology system the district has used is going through growing and changing pains, but its configuration and development were based on sound principles of expansion and ease of updating.

Furthermore, outside sources of revenue have supported new opportunities for students in preparing for the world of work and how to manage business.

Jensen also said the district had expected a good deal of change in the last six years.

Change is often needed and viewed as a good thing, but with change comes resistance and pushing people out of their zone of comfort," Jensen added. "Change and especially rapid change causes organizational angst, but the passing of time will eventually relax those feelings."

The Wayne School District will soon be reviewed by the Department of Education, specifically the accreditation division.

The faculty and administration have done a first rate job of preparing for this activity and guarantee those responsible for the state review will be impressed at the organization and with the overall commitment and reviews the school offers to the community," Jensen said.

There still are some serious facility concerns, but the community of Wayne will ultimately do what is right for their children.

Village of Winside deals with E. coli

By Olanne Jaeger
for the Herald

The village of Winside is still trying to solve the problem of contaminated water.

Village superintendent Dennis VanHouten was working closely on Monday with State Health and Human Service System Water Supply Specialist Richard Keenig and Nebraska Rural Water Association Executive Director Randy Hoffmann to find the source of the problem.

Winside was notified on Jan. 8 by State Health Officials that there was E. Coli in bacteria in a water sample sent to Lincoln the end of December for the routine monthly testing.

"We sent five samples of water to the state at the end of each month," said VanHouten. "We take these samples randomly at different locations in the village." Of the original samples sent on Dec. 29, only one showed positive for E. Coli colonies or bacteria with a count of two.

A second set of samples was then taken and submitted. Again tests showed a positive result. The Public Water Supply Supervision (PWSS) Program sets drinking water standards and has determined, based on information provided by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA) and other scientific and medical information, that the presence of E. Coli Coliforms are generally not harmful to themselves but their presence in drinking water is serious because they usually are associated with sewage or animal wastes.

The presence of this bacteria in drinking water is generally a result of a problem with water treatment at the plant which distributes the water and indicate that the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause disease.

These symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea and possibly jaundice and associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease causing organisms in drinking water but also may be caused by a number of factors other than drinking water.

The U.S. EPA has set an enforceable drinking water standard for E. Coli Coliforms to reduce the risk of these adverse health effects. Under this standard all drinking water samples must be free of these bacteria.

Residents of Winside were informed of the situation on Jan. 9 through announcements on three area radio stations and the posting of signs around town.

They were told that they should boil the water for a period of three to five minutes before drinking in order for cooking. Another option is to use an alternative source of water until the problem can be located and the contamination has been cleared up.

As of Monday, a chlorine feed pump has been installed, injecting chlorine into the discharging pipes at the well site. Samples were then taken from the source well and five other locations in the community.

These samples were then driven to Lincoln for further testing. Even if the samples are clear, several more will be submitted for testing before residents are given the go ahead to drink the water.

"Winside normally does not chlorinate its water and because of the lim and manganese in the water, village residents may notice a change in color," Keenig said.

"It could vary from no change to an orange-brown color. The chlorine will disinfect any bacteria in the water."

Winside School Superintendent Daravon Leighton said all the drinking fountains at the schools have been shut off.

Large five gallon water bottles with water spouts have been supplied through the Pepsi Cola Company. Students and teachers have also been bringing bottled water from home. Everyone has been very cooperative and the kids have been just great in working with us," Leighton said.

Sidewalk improvement discussed at meeting

By Clara Oster
of the Herald

A number of residents who are property owners in the northwest quadrant of Wayne were on hand at Tuesday's city council meeting to listen to a presentation on the proposed sidewalk project.

Harold Reynolds, an employee with the city's Public Works Department outlined the area involved in the renovation project and stressed that the only new sidewalk to be installed is that in specific areas where property owners have been notified.

Reynolds and City Administrator Jim Valtros outlined the estimated cost for the work to be done and how the city would go about billing for the work. They told property owners that they would be billed for the actual measurement of the sidewalk that is replaced.

Due to the need to clarify and correct several areas of the ordinance creating the sidewalk improvement district, the council postponed voting on the matter until its next meeting.

A public hearing was held concerning the acquisition of former railroad right of way near Second and Nebraska Streets for the Transfer Station Project.

The city is exchanging properties with Catholic Under-ly, valued at $420. Although the council was required to hold a public hearing on the matter.

Following the hearing, the council voted to waive the three readings and passed Ordinance

98.1, allowing for the acquisition

Vern Schultz, superintendent of Public Works, spoke to the council on two separate issues.

He presented the council with the 1998 and 1999 street improvement plans.

Among the items listed to be addressed in 1998 is the storm sewer on Fourth Street, from Logan to Pearl Streets.

Wayne will host baseball tournament

Although it's only January, the boys of summer get some good news this week as Wayne was awarded the 1998 State Class B Baseball Tournament to be held July 31 through Aug. 4 at Hank Overh Park.

The decision was made by the Nebraska American Legion Activities Committee at their Mid Winter Conference. It will be the first time in 12 years that Wayne has hosted a state tournament.

The process to receive a state bid began in 1998 with the Wayne Baseball Association submitting the proposal. Wayne was awarded the 1997 Area Tournament and it was noted that since Wayne had not been a state host in some time, that it would be fitting for the 1998 season.

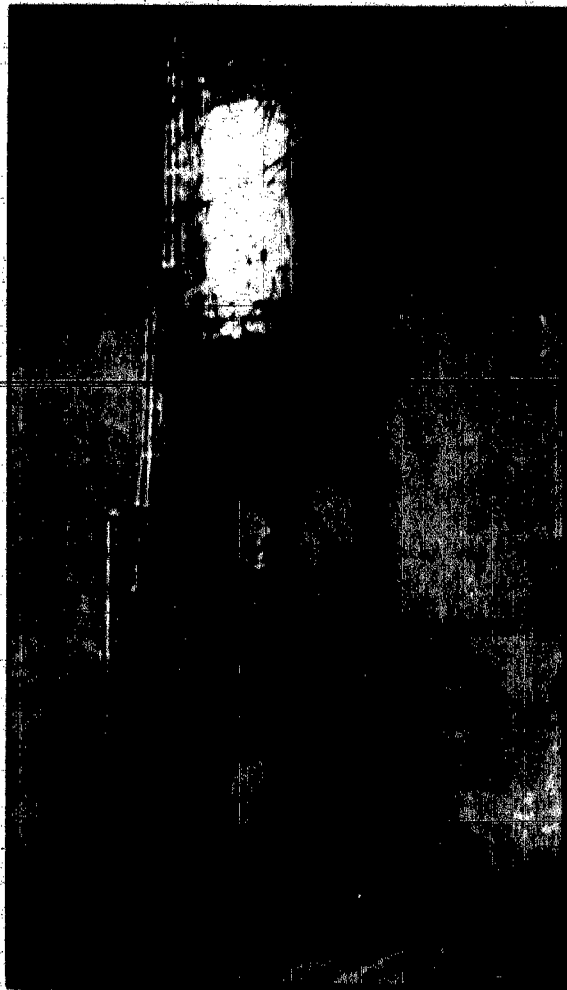

Included in the bid proposal were letters from the Chamber of Commerce office, mayor, and Rec Director who promoted the community and baseball facility. Galle Gilliland, executive chamber director, Thelma Lindau, mayor along with Paul Otte, Jeanne and Deisy Sturm, Roger and Carol Niemann, Russ Fieble, Vardell Lull, Ray Nelson, Jeff Ziss, Chad Metzler players, past and present and long time baseball legend Hank Overh had a helping hand in the process.

Last fall, the baseball association had a new irrigation system installed on the infield with new sod planted down the baselines. A 100x100 foot tarp will be purchased in March by the association to guarantee no rainouts during the season and state tournaments. Plans are also underway to improve the groundstand as well.

Some of the requirements for hosting a state tournament include reimbursement of mileage to teams, reimbursement of lodging at $100 per day, providing good quality equipment and seating to accommodate large crowds.

Winside city officials and others have been attempting to locate the source of contamination in the city's water supply. Residents are being encouraged to boil water before using it.

The study hall will be for kids in seventh and eighth grade. McFeer said, "If more sixth, fifth and sixth graders can be added and if there is still more, high school students."

The study hall will begin on Monday.

150 Administrator Herb Larwood told the board that 42 schools in 150's L & 2 are submitting a letter proposal to put distance education labs in schools with the purpose being to share resources between districts.

The Wayne technology department was recently audited and Dr. Jensen said the survey audit results showed the foundation of topology is a good model.

"New plan needs updating," Jensen said. "The search will be for technology to share CD Rom programs over the network for all teachers."

The audit was done by a private third party group but the district is looking for another audit to find other things in helping in the need to update.

"We knew in 1992 when the plan was set up that every three or four years that we'd need new computers," Jensen said. "The reason we chose this system is because updating speed and capacity is easier with our design than with others which in turn is cheaper and easier in the long run."

"Wayne will be seeking an 18% discount which could return as much as 145,000 to the district."

The 1996 Telecommunications Act had all major telecommunications managed by the FCC in Washington, D.C. That amount as been estimated to be $2.25 billion dollars.

Of course, that money will be available for school districts across the country through a long and complex application process.

A school would have to take experience of all telecommunications including telephony, networks, etc., and forward that and through a formula could get as much as 50% back," Jensen said.

In legislative moves, it appears the funding bill will be struck by the legislature for two years until the levy is at $1.00.

That is bad news for school districts throughout the state," Jensen added. "One funding improvement plan adopted in 1993 received all its support from the taxing fund."

Jensen said the second bill gathering support during the early stages of the year is the Modified Rule of 85.

That rule would allow for full retirement of teachers and administrators when the age and years of service total 85 years.

Currently, Nebraska operates under the Rule of 20 with a clause that states you must be 60 years of age to retire with full benefits.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the school board is Feb. 9, 1998.

Restaurant and bar owner Rustie Koch said the establishment has been using bottled water to make coffee and tea in to save its someone asks for water.

Village officials hope to receive word soon on the complex delayed Monday to Lincoln. The area made several checks up the water tower Monday, looking for any holes in the tower and in other areas.

Vandenberg and Ewing will continue examining the tower and pipes in the village in an attempt to locate the source of the problem.

Supreme Court to decide

Attorney General Don Stenberg, and every Nebraskan, will await with interest a U.S. Supreme Court decision following a February 23 hearing regarding a Nebraska case, now 17 years old, that is expected to clarify whether judges are required to instruct jurors that they can convict someone of a lesser crime not punishable by death.

Stenberg will argue the case challenging a 1976 ruling by the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that said a defendant, in the case of Randolph K. Reeves, must be given a new trial or be re-sentenced to life in prison.

Reeves has spent 17 years on death row after being convicted of stabbing two women to death in Lincoln in 1980.

The high court's decision will also affect several other Nebraska death row cases. Stenberg is arguing the case from the concept that the Eighth Circuit's ruling is an invasion of the state's right to define crimes and their punishment.

The public can only ponder the maze of legal gymnastics demonstrated prior to the execution of sentencing in far too many cases.

Will the high court's decision come down on the side of the state and its laws? Or will those who hold in secret they are permitted to delay their punishment decade after decade only to be granted a new trial over the matter of a judge's words of instructions to the jury?

Freedom of information

Anyone serving in public office is reminded that regardless of the impulse to repress information, public officers cannot make secret any part of their business activities unless allowed by statute.

Whether at the federal, state, or county level, on a school board, city council, or county government, public servants must remember they are only custodians of public information. Secrecy is lawful only when mandated by law.

"Executive session" is legal, but must never be used as a barrier to the public's right to know.

Secrecy can lead to rumors and innuendo. Sabotage and sometimes kept private to the belief co-workers have no need to know each other's wage. That may be acceptable in private business, but not in public office.

Our nation depends upon open government. All expenditures of public money must be open to unrestricted scrutiny.

From the city to the federal level, we are a government of, by, and for the people. So must all information.

Information under the care of public employees must remain accessible to inquirers. In fact, we have lost the concept of freedom.

Freedom of information from government? It's yours. Ask for it.

Dear Editor:
I have read with a little concern Mr. Youngman and Mr. Lutz letters concerning the way of Waste Management as a waste service within the community of Wayne. I have read all the articles and I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for.

The real difficulty here is not the waste itself, but the way it is handled. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for.

I believe that holding a public office and being employed in the public sector brings with it a certain amount of responsibility and a certain amount of accountability to the community. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for.

There are a number of ways to do this. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for.

Thank you for your attention. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for. I am sure that you will find what you are looking for.

Capitol news

Nelson approaches last session

By Leslie Hoolstorf Reed, Statehouse Correspondent, The Nebraska Press Association

Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson says he's approaching this, his last legislative session, much like Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne approaching the Orange Bowl. The final football game.

The 60-day session began last week. As usual, Nelson is offering quite a few proposals touching on favorite topics, such as children's welfare, information technology, education and HOME TAX CUT.

The governor said it will be business as usual while the game is being played. There will be time for sentiment when the battles have been won and the game is in the record books.

"I'll be doing my job like Tom Osborne coaches his last game," Nelson said in recent interviews that took place before the Orange Bowl. "When we're all through you can look back and say it was a final year."

Nelson said the low unemployment, high job growth and wage increases achieved during his four years in office are the equivalent of a national championship. Of course, he laughs and says that it is far easier to keep a team in football than it is in politics.

The Nebraska Constitution limits the governor to two consecutive terms. And of course, Nelson's hopes for the Senate were dashed in a painful election defeat last year. He said he doesn't have any immediate plans to run for another office. Nelson has often repeated that he is not a "four duck" or a "wounded duck" ever, though he won't be back in the Statehouse next year. In fact, he and his aides have pointed out that the governor may have more time to prepare his legislative agenda this year because he won't be distracted by re-election politics.

Lawmakers, among them State Sen. Ben Wesley of Lincoln, have said that they actually might see fewer bills this year. Appropriations by lawmakers, however, neither Nelson nor his second-in-command, Lt. Gov. Eric Holboell, is seeking the governorship. There's less incentive to try to embarrass the administration.

Wesley said he sees clear signs that Nelson now is thinking about his legacy for the future. Current projects include the renovation of the governor's mansion, the State Capitol Building and the Governor's suite. All projects that only a departing governor can do.

When passed, Nelson admits that he is pondering the mark he will make on state history. This is a somewhat unique historical pre-ture. It is the first time in 20 years that Nebraska has had a governor serve out two terms. And with the turn of the millennium so close at hand, a governor can't help but wonder what impact his actions will have upon the Nebraska of the 20th Century.

This legislative session is his last opportunity to guide into law a legislative package that could shape that future.

"You can't escape the talk of a legacy," he said. "But my real goal is to do what I think is right, what is good for the state of Nebraska, including myself and my family."

ARE YOU TAKING TO ME?

THE FAY LAY TEAM, WIN IT FOR YOURSELF, DON'T WIN IT FOR YOUR TEAM - WIN IT FOR YOUR OWN COACH.

Now is the time to call time out!

Stephen Hawking, noted physicist of Cambridge University, and author of "A Brief History of Time" is quoted as saying "One of the consequences of rapid technological travel would be that one could also travel backward in time. If you combine Einstein's general theory of relativity with quantum theory, it does happen to occur a possibility."

What if you could travel back and forth in time? What would you do, if you could travel backward in time?

"Time changes things," is an old cliché. Time brings us on, and this spring will once again trek back to 1911. It does not think you know they would work. History would make up their flighty minds as to what time it is? Clocks still show the old time about 1911, but that means you're actually some four hundred years old!

Jump surprised, instantly asking "Are you looking for equal time, double time, triple time, or four?"

"No," replied, "I'm suddenly at another point in time, some time, and in my lifetime, I've never had time to think, and I've never had time to think."

"You what? Think, before time is up?"

Wow! My spare time comes at 400 quilling times, and I sometimes see my time to think, and I was thinking about going backward in time!

"That's what you've done, what you've done," the boy said laughing. "You're here at the beginning of time. This is when. Once upon a time, you've had a life, time to do your own thing, to run your business, to do it, you can now relive anything that has already happened."

Really? Let's see!

"Sorry, I don't have all the time in the world, except I mean I guess I do, but hurry, or I'll have to show time and a half overtime and my boss doesn't like that."

"It's just a minute!"

"But your minute is nothing, my time is a million times longer!"

"Oh, take me back when there was no time, I've always dreamed of not having to race a clock. Yes! I want to know what it's like when there is no time!"

"You're here!"

"I am? So what time is it?"

"Quitting time!"

(Give me time to think!)

"There ain't any! It's later than you think!"

"Ingl!"

"Dreamer!"

WSC gives demonstration on Distance Learning

Wayne State College President Dr. Donald J. Mash spoke to the WSC faculty from across campus via distance learning to kick off the Spring 1998 Faculty Workshop at Wayne State College on Monday. Mash delivered the broadcast message from a remote site to point out the availability of new technology at Wayne State.

Dr. Mash addresses WSC faculty, via distance learning, before the start of this semester's classes. He was assisted by Dr. Wayne Butler, below.

Mash noted Wayne State College's "Initiatives for Learning, 1993-2000" includes an initiative to develop technology to improve classroom instruction, to implement a distance learning capability, and to enhance faculty efficiency and effectiveness.

"Distance learning is only one aspect of the learning initiative for technology," Mash said.

"We're pleased that a number of our faculty have taken the lead in using technology to enhance classroom teaching and learning," Mash said.

Mash's recognition of their achievements were demonstrated during presentation of faculty workshops by six WSC staff and faculty members with hands-on technology.

The main idea of technology in education carried through in a night-long presentation by Dr. Wayne Butler of Austin, Texas, and seven faculty workshops under the theme, "Liberal Arts Education in an Information Age." Butler is a representative of The Daedalus Group, Inc.

Butler, a consultant brought in for the workshop, said his interest for use of trying to humanize learning with computers and the place and use of technology in an educational context. Butler compared the advance of mass education in the past to the changes taking place during the information age of today.

"Knowledge of a computer needs to become as transparent as holding a pen and paper and holding a book," Butler said.

"The role of liberal arts education will not change. The need will increase. Methods will need to change," Butler said.

"It sounds like Wayne State has made this shift to interactive learning for an information age curriculum," Butler said.

Technology in education needs to be used to help students be-

Dr. Cynthia Gray, director of instructional development, coordinated the event with the help of the WSC Faculty Technology Focus Group, the Faculty Resource Center Advisory Group, John Stoll, director of regional education and distance learning, Office of Academic Affairs, Network Services and the faculty who volunteered to demonstrate their instructional technology projects in the afternoon workshops.

Mash's and Butler's presentations and the faculty workshops were part of the opening day of the semester at Wayne State College. Spring evening courses began on Monday and day classes started on Tuesday, Jan. 13.

During the day's activities, the workshop participants worked to work together, discussing and articulating their goals, concerns, and issues regarding "Teaching and Learning in the Information Age" to express Wayne State faculty interests, ideas and needs on implementation of instructional technology.

Loud silence

Dear Editor,

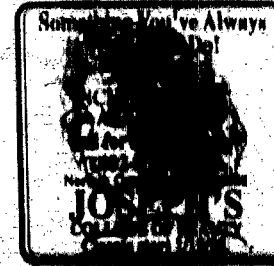

Government entities always prefer putting on their best face.

Regardless of what occurs, or what is said behind the scenes, most ruling bodies like to put on a good front to the observing public, a public which all too often isn't paying any attention, except to snort.

Why have we who govern not always endeavored to see "confidential" policy? For instance, our high school superintendent handed in his resignation Monday night, following six years of work, and the only response from the school board was a vote to accept the resignation. No comment, no questions, no thank you's, nothing, just a deafening silence, except for a unanimous vote to accept the resignation. Here is a public figure resigning after six years of work, and there are no comments!

Wayne boys fall to Laurel while Blue Devil girls win

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne Blue Devils girls and boys basketball teams played host to Laurel Concord Tuesday night with the Blue Devils girls notching their second win of the season, 40-17 while Laurel's boys upended the ninth rated Blue Devils, 67-59.

The Wayne girls led 8-3 after one quarter of play and 16-14 at the intermission. John McClarnen's troops built a five point lead in the third quarter at 30-25 before outworking the Lady Bears, 18-12 over the final eight minutes.

"I felt we played a very fundamental and sound game," McClarnen said. "We had only 11 turnovers, shot 51 percent from the floor and out rebounded them 46-24."

Wayne was extremely hot from the field in the second half, hitting 11 of 17 shot attempts for 65 percent.

Jennifer Beiermann paced the winners with 12 points while Molly Hunter and Gayle Olson tossed in 10 each. Heidi Johnson and Sara Ellis each chipped in five and Brooke Parker added four. Lindsay Beach fouled out the attack with two points.

Beiermann was the leader on the boards with nine rebounds while Hunter had eight. Both Olson and Johnson added seven rebounds each.

Laurel was hurt by the loss of starter Laurie Schneider who was injured during warmups.

"We played well enough to win the game but we hurt ourselves, missing several short shots, which seemed to roll in and out all night," Laurel coach Suzie Koranda said.

"It doesn't help when you lose a starter like Laurie or Megan Atkins who had knee surgery over Christmas break."

Jessie Erwin poured in a game-high 19 points to lead all scorers with Kari Stewart adding eight and Brittany Ruffin, seven. Kristen Hank closed out the scoring with three. Erwin also had 10 rebounds to lead Laurel with Flores matching eight.

Wayne will host Norfolk Catholic on Friday night while Laurel Concord hosts Creighton.

In junior varsity action the Laurel Concord Bears defeated Wayne, 28-19. Kane Walton led the Blue Devils with six points while Kaitlin Wilson added three. Beth Gehring, Amy Magnuson, Jessica Winkler and Mandy Hansen each scored two. Sara Ellis and Jessica Ravelling each added a free throw.

THE LAUREL CONCORD boys made the jump of Wyatt Erwin's five. Expositors upended Wayne, 67-59.

Clayton Steele's squad trailed 30-26 at the intermission but trimmed that margin to one point by the third quarter and at 47-46.

Shawn, the stretch, the Bears answered each Wayne rally attempt.

In the fourth quarter with Wayne leading by a 57-49 margin the Blue Devils were whiffed for a technical foul which coach Becky Duff lost charge of the responsibility.

"We were out scored 18-7 after the technical foul," Duff said. "We just didn't play a good defensive second half allowing 41 points. We have to learn how to show up and play each game for four quarters." Erwin led the 7-4 Bears with 21 points while Nick Kvols tossed in 10 and Andy Rose, 15. Evan Smith finished with eight and Nick Mangano netted seven.

Wayne was led by Justin Thede with 22 points while Matt Meyer scored 12 and Ryan Pahl, 10. Joel Munson tallied nine to go along with five steals while John Magnuson finished with four and Hunter Keller, two.

The varsity Blue Devils fell, 53-44 with Wayne falling to 1-2 on the year.

Wayne got off to a slow start, scoring just three, but quarter-points and falling behind by double digits.

The host team led 25-19 at the half and 38-31 after three quarters of play.

Despite a first quarter in which we were just 1-11 from the field, we were able to cut the lead to five in the third quarter but we were not able to get any closer. Wayne coach John McClarnen said "Poor shooting from the field (14-40) was once again a major contribution to our loss."

Held Johnson led Wayne with 14 points with Gayle Olson netting 11. Molly Hunter scored seven points and Jennifer Reisman totalled in five while Sara Ellis tallied four. Brooke Parker and Kristin Hochstein rounded out the scoring with two and one points, respectively.

The Wayne reserves suffered their first loss of the year, falling to 3-3 with a 35-60 loss.

The Winside girls and boys basketball teams split with Beemer last Thursday and Friday with the Schweizer's girls outlasting a 49-46 win in Winside while Jerry Warner's boys triumphed a 60-52 decision in

The Winside girls trailed 38-17 after three quarters of play but the Wildcats used a 17-8 scoring run in the fourth quarter to post the win.

We gave a very solid 12 minutes of effort. Schweizer said. Especially on the defense, and I was very pleased with how aggressive our defense was, creating a lot of turnovers with our pressure.

Terri Miller led Winside with 18 points while Marci Ings added 14 and headliner Kim Plettin, 10. Stacy Wittler finished with three points and Mandy Jacks added two as did Sara Marola.

Mary Wittler played a great all-around game for us and Kim Plettin came off the bench and made an impact inside. Jess Miller really played a strong second half, leading the boys' band and contributing on the bench. All in all, every one played their roles well which helped us pull out the win.

Wittler dished out eight assists, recorded eight steals and handed down nine rebounds. Winside won the battle of the boards, 22-11 with Miller also grabbing nine rebounds with Marola netting eight.

THE WINSIDE BOYS headed by a 30-point quarter leading to the fourth quarter at 40-28 but Warner's boys fought back with a lay and scoring the final baskets, 22-10 over the final eight minutes to tie the score.

Winside was out scored 18-2 in the bottom period. After dropping noticeably big hole in the first half and they coming back to send the game to overtime we just simply ran out of gas. Warner said.

Aaron Hoffman led Winside with 17 points with head coach adding 11. Brock Stuber and Jay Rademacher each scored eight points with Jess Wittler and Aaron Hoffman getting four each.

Winside places second at own mat invitational

The Winside wrestling team placed runner up at their own invitational last Saturday despite having to compete without two quality wrestlers in London Graham and Justin Kuch at each way out with the flu.

Still, Paul Suka's crew overcame the setback and had three individual champions and a runner up finish en route to a 128 point performance. Mathew was the team champion with 126 1/2 and Plabowicz placed third with 115 while Alowith was fourth with 93 1/2 followed in order by Diamond 92, Battle Creek 81 1/2, Randolph 74, Oakland 67 1/2, Laurel Concord 60 and Winside 55 1/2.

"We felt very fortunate to get our own fourth consecutive runner up trophy of the season," Suka said. "We only lifted more weights and came away with seven medals and did hurt losing London who was 12-1 on the year and Justin who was 12-2, but all nine of our wrestlers won at least one match."

Suka said the tournament was very balanced with all teams having a few players. Highlighting the Winside's day was Ryan Krueger, winning his first tournament of the season at 145 pounds while Justin Bowers proved his way through again. Bowers is 13-0 on the year with 14 of those matches ending by the pin.

The third champ on the day for Winside was Jeremy Jargul at 119 pounds. Last tournament placed runner up at 171 with Nathan

Laurel boys gain major victories

Clayton Steele's Laurel Concord boys basketball team was disappointed with their showing at the Wayne State Holiday Tournament.

The Bears, however, are now proving they can play with the best and in the past week they've beaten two quality teams.

Last Thursday the Bears soundly defeated Hartington Cedar Catholic, 59-47 before traveling to play Elkhorn Valley on Saturday where they earned a 21 point win.

Steele said it was team play that led the Bears to a win over Cedar Catholic.

Laurel led 12-11 after the first quarter and 23-21 at the half before a 22-18 scoring run by the third quarter put the lead to double digits at 40-45-35 heading to the final stanza.

Nick Kvick poured in 17 points to lead all scorers with Wyatt Erwin right behind at 16. Chad Jorgensen scored in one and Chad Jorgensen scored eight while Andy Rose netted four and Nathan Beckman, three. Evan Smith rounded out the scoring with two points.

Laurel won the Battle of the Boards, 24-21 with Kvick handling down 10 screens for team top. The Bears also hit free throw down the stretch, 14-16 with Cedar hitting seven of ten.

In Elkhorn on Saturday the Bears scored to an 18-11 lead after one quarter of play, only to have the visitors tie the game at half at 22.

The second half was all Laurel Concord as they out scored Elkhorn Valley by a 40-19 margin.

Wyatt Erwin led all scorers with 20 points with Nick Kvick adding 16 and Andy Rose, 11. Evan Smith and Chad Jorgensen each scored five with Matt Schröder adding two and Nick Mangano, one.

The Bears out rebounded the host team, 19-15 with Kvick leading down its column and Rose four.

Laurel scored 8 from the foul line with Elkhorn Valley hitting two of four.

The Trojans dominated the boards, 43-27, with Jennifer Simpson leading down a game-high 13. Carson while Jennifer Carson had nine rebounds.

IN BOYS PLAY, Wakarusa dropped the championship game to Homer by 10, 58-48.

Trojans coach Mike Clay said 30 turnovers by his squad was the difference in the outcome.

Wakarusa trailed 26-18 at the intermission and 40-26 after three quarters. Carrol paced the Trojans offense with 12 points with Chad Lankford adding nine and BJ Hansen eight.

Paul Rabe scored four points with Justin Paulson and Nick White adding three each. Josh Dahn netted two points.

AAABC's given of stress management

The upcoming holidays could bring lots of stress. Managing that stress is a decision making process when using the AAABC's.

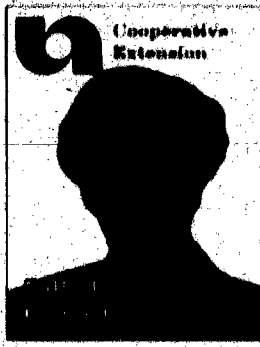

Building resistance to changing perceptions can be effective coping techniques. The trick is choosing the proper approach for the situation at hand and the person involved.

The first A of the AAABC model stands for "alter" which implies reworking the stress source by changing something. Problem solving, planning, communication, organizing, delegating and time management are common techniques for altering stress.

The second A of AAABC model stands for "avoid" that implies removing oneself from the stressful situation or ignoring and how to not get there in the first place. People sometimes need to walk away, let go, say no, delegate, withdraw and know their limits.

The third A of the AAABC model stands for "accept." This involves equipping oneself physically and mentally for stress.

Mental resistance is fostered through positive affirmations, taking time for mental health, getting clear about goals, values and priorities. Social resistance is strengthened by building and maintaining support systems, investing in relationships, clear communication and integrity.

Qualitative resistance is especially important in times of high stress. Meditation, prayer, faith and your network strengthen people.

Stand by change. One way to accept stress is to change the perception of the situation or of your self. This creates changing beliefs in "expectations" and emotional beliefs such as "I should succeed at everything I try" or "I would be proud if my spouse were angry with me." Building self-esteem and cultivating a positive attitude also helps.

Reducing the situation is a less stress producing way if always an option when people say "I'm not funny" or "I'm not great" instead of "I'm not funny" their stress can be reduced. If stress is managed positively, it can be enjoyed more fully. Remember, "It's not to be, it's up to me."

Early childhood educators and care providers of children in the Tri-City area have identified training needs for the coming year, due to a survey and identified results coordinated through Goldenrod Hills Community Services Head Start.

The goal for the project is to begin to develop the capacity to plan, inform and coordinate training and professional development for those who work with young children," says Susan Strahm, consultant for the project. Planning "parties" were instrumental in identifying the need, setting the goals for the project and overseeing the collaborative effort, between educational institutions offering training in the northeast 12 county region.

Remembering the past

I was commenting at work this week that it was going to be so nice to actually have a closet to put my ironing board away in. It has been standing in the small hallway by the basement steps for five years.

One friend and co-worker commented, "You mean you put your ironing board away?" This resulted in an office survey first and then reminiscing about "the old days" and ironing.

It seems most of the people I work with never take their ironing board down. Not that they use it that much, but they have laundry/sewing rooms and it just stands there. My "laundry room" is behind folding doors in my small guest room. Besides, I only use the board about once a month, when all the table cloths are in the ironing basket or the Big Farmer's out thirty days that he isn't going into the store every day, that doesn't happen.

Remember when clothes were starched before being line dried and then sprinkled and rolled up before ironing? We all could remember plastic bins in cob baskets and sprinkle tops on bottles. One gal said their laundry went into the dryer. We didn't have a dryer, but if we didn't quite get there, we could put a few in the refrigerator, in a plastic bag.

One person has the tin spritaker by her mother-in-law used. I have no idea what happened to ours, but I could do a lot of work with my hand.

The secretary in the office admitted that her board doesn't even have a cover on it. When the iron, the puff a towel on the table. The days when the wash was done on Monday, ironing on Tuesday and mending on Wednesday are long gone.

I still have a couple of flat irons from the pre-electricity era; a neighbor recently asked what those were.

Life is slowly getting back to normal around here. The tree is out and decorations down, even though they aren't all put away. We're in the process of moving furniture to the new room. Mike's desk and the cabinet are actually out of our bedroom.

There is a huge closet waiting to take in all kinds of odds and ends, including the ironing board and vacuum cleaner.

We've just had our coldest night, but the sun is shining today. We've been frost-bitten, but nothing like the northwest and in Canada. It's sometimes hard to be concerned about things when it's cold and icy. It's a good time to roll up and get a good book, an Afghan and a cup of hot cocoa.

There is also a new puzzle, board game, or challenge to it's a good thing we don't have so much to do!

WSC students take first place

Five Wayne State College Industrial Technology students finished in first place during their manufacturing competition at the Iowa State Regional Technology Conference, Pittsburg, Kan., recently.

The students receiving awards were: Tim Elmer of Applied, Matt Wachter of Hittite, Iowa, Brent Link of Columbus, Kirk Pabst of Plattsmouth, and Josh Limer of Herington.

More than 250 industrial and vocational students attended the 35th annual conference located at the Kansas Technology Center at Pittsburg State University. The conference provided an opportunity to make contact with 23 technology experts and speakers on trends, curricula development, robotics and more.

During the conference, the Technology Educators College Association (TECA) met and WSC students visited competitions in problems solving, transportation, communication, technology and manufacturing events.

Winners of the event will travel to Texas next spring for advanced competition.

Other winners participating in the events were: Dorey Frohman of West Point, Dave May of Hampton, Eric Menden of Herington, Todd Combs of Vail, Iowa, John Harker of Clark and Jason Florenty of Emporia.

God saw she was getting tired
And cure was not to be
So he put his arms around her and whispered, "Come with me
With tearful eyes we watched her suffer.
And... saw... her... fade away.
Although we loved her dearly
We could not take her away
A golden heart stopped beating hard working hands to rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the Best!
In loving memory of our Mother.

We wish to say thanks to all that expressed their sympathy to our family with phone calls, visits, food, flowers, memorials, & prayers or in any other way helped us. ### Tip to Help You Write Your Classified Ad

1. Identify: Begin with the item for sale, service you are offering, or job title of the person you are looking for.
2. Classify: Use the major information you provide to the reader the better the response. Put yourself in the buyer's place. What would you want to know?
3. Detail: Enumerate. Set the parameters and the conditions. Make your description attractive, but believable.
4. Include: Provide reasons why people are more interested when they know the price. If the price is negotiable, say so.
5. Be Firm: When you run your ad, be firm, to specify the hours buyers can call. Most people won't call back.
