Fun in the snow

Phyllis Trenhalls and her sons Reed and Seth took advantage of the recent spring like temperatures to go sledding before the snow melted. The trio was photographed near the Power Plant on the Wayne State College campus. Nearly all of the snow in the Wayne area melted with temperatures on Tuesday reaching 56 degrees. The forecast calls for the mild temperatures to continue through the weekend and into next week.

City and county officials hold joint meeting to discuss issues

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Priority taxes, enhanced 911 services and road maintenance were among the issues discussed at a joint Wayne City Council and Wayne County Board of Commissioners meeting held Jan. 22.

The commissioners told the council members that the county will pay for the potholes and the signs will be purchased from bonds of interest through Enhanced 911. Following the installation of the sign, the potholes will usually be fixed within 48 hours of their first detection.

In the area of property taxes, City Administrator Joe Schutte explained that the city's property tax is higher than 45 cents per $100 valuation.

The commissioners also expressed concern in the tax issue.

Commissioner Mark Bateman told those present that "things are getting tighter on us up here along Highway 68, so we're looking at the possibility of a road widening project."

The commissioners also said that Wayne County is not exempt from the tax question.

Road maintenance was discussed with City Councilman Paul Clark and Judge Joseph A. Berman for consideration. A number of informal agreements have been reached between the city and county in terms of road widening of the city council members that federal paperwork has been completed for capturing the bridge but the funds have not been allocated at this time. It is hoped that the project will be completed in 1991.

The group also discussed the issue of parking around the courthouse. City officials said that parking in this area can be regulated by ordinance and will have to be done in a very timely manner.

In the area of economic development, the two groups talked about the proposed expansion at Crest Drive, Traylor and Interstate industrial development. At this point, however, the city has only 10 parcels of land available for industrial development.

The two parties also indicated a desire to meet together in the future to discuss additional concerns.

A bridge north of Wayne and Continental Road has been approved both by the city and the county after a meeting with Bateman and

Career fair will be held at Wayne High

A career fair, sponsored jointly by the Wayne High School vocational Technology Center, the Wayne College of Business, the Wayne Board of Education and the Education Council of the Wayne Area, scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 7 at Wayne High School.

The fair is open to students in grades 8-12 as well as parents of these students. In addition, students from several other schools have been invited to attend.

The activities begin with a welcome by Wayne State College President Dr. Donald Mash in the Wayne High Lecture Hall at 7 p.m.

Following that, those in attendance will be able to choose three exhibitors, the goal being to help them see a career path. Also, 10 local projects have been selected to display in different areas of the fair.

At the end of the three 20-minute sessions, the students and the parents will again gather in the Lecture Hall for their prize drawings.

All those who turn in a completed "passport" will be eligible for a number of door prizes which have been donated by local businesses.

Among the prizes will be sweatshirts, backpacks, calculator radios, gift certificates and Chamber Bucks.

Tower project moves ahead

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Wayne City Council accepted a negotiated bid of $64,212 for work to straighten the leaning water tower in Wayne.

Last fall the city had sought bids to have the water tower on East 14th Street leveled but the two bids that were submitted were considerably over the engineer's estimate.

City officials then worked together to negotiate a lower bid for the work to be done this spring rather than last fall.

Work on the project is scheduled to begin in late March and be completed by the end of May. In addition to the work being done by W.C. Jacques Company of Des Moines, Iowa, the city's Public Works Department will be responsible for $1,025 work bringing the total cost of the project to $65,237.

Following a public hearing, the council approved a resolution which dealt with the Jones Interchange Project, Basic Cable Service and Equipment and Installation Charges. Jones will not seek a rate adjustment but cable customers will see an increase of $2.04 per month, including taxes and fees, on their tier service.

In other action, the city approved a request from the Wayne Baseball Association for $8,000 to make improvements on the grandstand at Hank Owens field.

Ray Nelson, President of the Wayne Baseball Association, told the council that because of getting stringers, there is concern from a safety standpoint.

The money will be used to repair the grandstand before this summer's district baseball tournaments. Paul Orie will be the general contractor for the project and volunteer labor will be used where possible.

Shawn Peacy was approved as a new member to the Wayne Fire Department.

On third and final reading the council approved Sidewalk Improvement District No. 98 (I) in the northwest quadrant of the city. Several changes were made in the original district before the amended version was passed.

The council authorized the applications for two grants. The first, from the Department of Environmental Quality, would be used for the purchase of a baler for litter reduction. The second is a Community Enhancement Program Grant in connection with the Highway 35 Reforest Project. This grant would be used to replace some of the trees that were removed because of the Highway 35 Widening project. The city should know within two months on whether or not the grants have been approved.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, annual reports were given by City Clerk Betty McGee, Chief City Inspector/Planner Donald Nelson and Senior Center Coordinator Georgia Janzen.

Public hearing dates of Feb. 24 and March 10 were set on the Redevelopment Plan for the Wayne East project area.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau appointed Harold Reynolds as Water/Waste Water Superintendent.

Colombian missionary spending time in U.S. to speak at churches

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

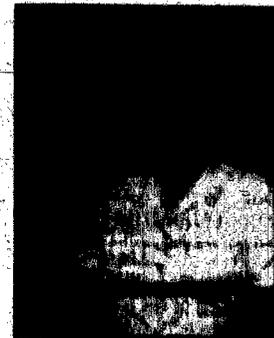

In the late 1950's Mark Stringer was an itinerant radio evangelist who was able to communicate with people in a number of different regions of the world.

One of the places that attracted his attention was the country of Colombia. That interest has led Stringer and his family to spending the last 12 years in several locations in the North American country, seeking to fill the spiritual needs of people there.

Following his graduation from Ham High School in 1948, Mark attended Clark State College in Piquette, Mo. where he earned a bachelor's degree in Theology with a major in Mission. He then spent a year at a local church in Charlotte, Mo. for two years, but leaving by graduation.

In January 1964, he and his wife Barbara moved to Bogotá, Colombia's capital city with a population of approximately six million people.

"The country of Colombia is currently in a moral and faith crisis," he said. "45 percent of the population in the world happened in Colombia. People are looking for solutions by the country's problems. We hope to be able to in 1980, seeking a need to minister where the people were. Mark and Barbara moved to Bogotá, Colombia's capital city with a population of approximately six million people.

"The country of Colombia is currently in a moral and faith crisis," he said. "45 percent of the population in the world happened in Colombia. People are looking for solutions by the country's problems. We hope to be able to search their spiritual values to help them live in peace," Mark said. The Stringers are now located in Bogotá, a city of approximately 500,000 people. The couple started a church five years ago which now has an average attendance of 111 people each week.

One of the Stringers' four children, Andrew, is also a minister in Bucaramanga, Colombia. The couple also has three grandchildren.

In addition to ministering to the spiritual needs, Barbara works with the women of the church.

"I have Bible studies, cooking classes, craft lessons and teach them how to work with the needy. I also work with the children," she said.

The Stringers said that life in the large Colombian city is very expensive and those with minimum wage jobs earn approximately $150 per month. Because of this, both parents are forced to work and often children are left alone during the day.

Enrollment up at Wayne State

Wayne State College's spring term enrollment figures show a 6.5 percent increase over this same time one year ago.

Donna Isenbren, assistant vice president for the college's office of enrollment, said that as of Jan. 18, enrollment enrollment stood at 7,817, which is an increase of 277 students. Spring semester enrollment is generally slightly lower than fall term.

"Obviously, we are pleased that our spring enrollment numbers are again strong," Isenbren said.

Wayne State continues to be a very successful institution and we provide a quality education to our students," she said.

Nebraska Public Radio broadcast live from the atrium at Wayne State College on Jan. 22.

Faculty and students were interviewed on their thoughts of programs and offerings at WSC.

"This was an excellent opportunity to expose our students more fully to NPR and to tell a statewide listening audience about Wayne State College," said Mark Mabe, College Relations Director at WSC.

Stables added that planning to NPR to come to the campus started back in early October.

"We have produced several programs today on tape by our students, particularly Jussy Weston and Seville Lee. Dave Ogden, WSC faculty had input from all of the faculty. There were 28 suggested topics and people to be interviewed. We had to whittle it down to 13 because there were only 13 hours," Stables said.

Travis Frakes, NPR News Director and Steve Robinson, NPR Network Manager spoke to WSC Mass Communication classes during the day.

Talented vocalists selected for festival

Over a dozen high school choir directors nominated applicants for Wayne State's second annual honor choir festival, which starts at 8:30 a.m. on Feb. 7. Area high school students included in the honor choir festival are: Miamid, Chorus Soprano, Carl Kemp, Wayne High and Kristin Preston, Wakefield High, senior; Ally Payla Koster, Wayne, and Rose Oswald, Wakefield, seniors; Tena Jay Guthrie, Wayne, sophomore; and Tim Rink, Wakefield, senior; Matt Jason Mader, Wayne, senior; and Adam Boeckenhauer, Wakefield, junior. Women's Chorus Soprano: Anne Ellen and Megan Meyer, both of Wayne High, under senior teacher Kathleen and Lisa Patton. Both of Wakefield High, sopranos: Allie Johnson, Corrie, and Katelyn Hubbard, both of Wayne, seniors; Melissa Blawie, and Sarah Adhlok, both of Wakefield, sophomores. "Most schools nominated four to eight students. This is the second year for this type of format," said David Lawrence, Wayne State college director of choral activities. There is no audition by participants. The first 20 quartets received an acceptance into the Honor Choir. The non-auditioned format allows choral directors to select vocalists who have demonstrated commitment to their school programs both musically and academically, Lawrence said. They will have the opportunity to do more literature. The honor choir will mean a change to sing with the college choir and spend time with college singers here. It is an introduction to the way things work in a college choir setting. Lawrence said. Wayne State College students will be helping concert choir officers will be directly involved with the festival. A women's chorus will also be included again this year. The government and the church are working together to help alleviate this problem. Currently, the Stingers Church has all up there money, such as capable of supporting the care for 15 children. The government provides for 70 percent of the nutritional needs of these children and we provide adult supervision for them. We check them for five years and care for their needs, Mark said. Parents pay approximately $150 per month for the care. To help others understand the plight of the Columbian and what is actually happening in the country, the Stingers return to the United States every 4-5 years to give presentations on their work. The present trip began in August of 1997 and will end just after Mother's Day. Each Sunday the couple travels to a new church of the First Church of Christ, explaining what is happening, both in their church and in the country. "We set up a schedule of where we are going ahead of time. This trip has taken us to Columbia, Washington, Oregon and a number of other states. We have received 21,000 calls so far," Mark said. This Sunday, Feb. 1, the couple will be at the First Church of Christ in Wayne. Beginning at 9:15 a.m., they will show slides and a video as well as presenting the missionary message. The slides is open to all and the Stingers encourage the public to attend.

This photo shows some of the people from Columbia that Mark and Barbara Stinger have been involved with as part of their missionary work. Mark is a Wayne native and his mother Margaret still resides here.

Broadcasting service supported by the state of Nebraska, the federal government and corporate foundation grants and through many other contributions. NPR is a non-profit fundraising organization. NPR became a statewide network in 1997. The network has a large coverage but by power Omaha because there are already three classical music stations there. Penny Castello, NPR Special Events Coordinator said that NPR has 5,000 supporting members throughout the state and approximately 45,000 listeners. "The reason we're here today is because of a proper NPR initiative. We were chosen as one of the member stations of NPR to participate. Its objective is to raise awareness of NPR to college students and minority communities. We chose to do that through college broadcasts throughout the state," Castello said. Castello added that support from community is appreciated and by coming to them live. NPR hopes to make people feel like they are a live in their community. NPR is two-thirds classical music and one-third news. It can be heard in Northeast Nebraska on 89.1 FM. Listener service is provided by calling 1-800-290-6829. To help spread that news, many had been going the wrong way, but now have found each other.

Another round

Nebraska's death penalty is being spotlighted again in the Legislature.

A report by the Legislature's Judiciary Committee declares that the extra legal costs involved in death penalty cases are greater than the savings incurred by executing death row inmates. The report also states that the ability of death row inmates to make numerous appeals creates a lack of finality in the process.

Does this translate into meaning Nebraska should abandon justice due to costs?

Will the Legislature discuss eliminating the death penalty while other states contemplate reactivating such a penalty? Senators may want to ask the families of victims for their opinions.

Jargon that says "Nebraska can't afford executions, but we can afford lifetime board and room for convicted murderers" deserves a second hearing.

Murderers quickly execute victims, but defend their own execution in the name of justice. Tax paying people need have no fear of the death penalty, but murderers hate it.

Is your senator aware of your opinion on the matter?

Carrying a concealed weapon

State senators may have time this session to discuss LB465 dealing with the concealed handgun license act.

A recent study by John Loft and David Mustard of the University of Chicago published in the Journal of Legal Studies found that concealed handgun laws reduced murder by 8.5 percent and severe assault by 7 percent from 1977 to '93.

If carrying a concealed weapon will reduce murder and assault, does that mean that if everyone started carrying a gun, the rates would continue to drop? Or would the rate of accidental shootings increase and offset the dropping offenses?

If everyone licensed starts carrying a gun, does it hold down to who is fastest at the trigger? Or should we all be prepared to pull out our guns at first sign of threatening behavior?

Vermont has long had the least restrictive firearm carry laws. Citizens there may carry guns either openly or concealed without any permit. Perhaps as part because of its liberal gun policies, Vermont has among the lowest violent crime numbers in the country.

If perpetrators know their victim might be armed, is that not a deterrent? If thugs were aware that even an elderly woman might have a handgun, would not this make criminals think twice about attacking?

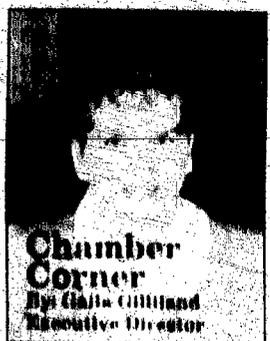

If the gun laws cannot control criminals having possession of guns, then why should it control possession by law-abiding citizens?

Why deny law-abiding citizens the right to have a licensed concealed weapon providing the carrier is ready to assume responsibility for knowing how to use it in a proper, safe and not endanger others?

Peru State debate continues

By Leslie Hoeslert Reed, Statehouse Correspondent, The Nebraska Press Association

If you recognize my maiden name, you'll know I'm from south-east Nebraska. My family has farmed in Nemaha County for more than 125 years.

So this debate over Peru State college resonates with me.

The latest word is that some Auburn business folks are urging their Nemaha County neighbors to buyout the Auburn City business. If you remember, an economic development corporation in Nebraska City made a bid for the college and the State College Board of Trustees recently voted to pursue that option.

A buyout seems like a rash step. It probably would cost the buyouts as much as it would cost the buyout.

I can see how people might consider it a logical response. After all, a lot of southeast Nebraska people who live outside Nebraska City have contributed to its well being: driving there for jobs, shopping, movies, and McDonald's franchises, among other things.

When I was in high school at Johnson Park in the 1970s, my friends and I routinely drove to Nebraska City on the weekends to see a movie at the Pioneer Theater. We'd grab our father's pizza in a fast-food hamburger and usually drive home through Auburn, 10 miles north away, just to see if any boys we liked were making a sound.

My first job out of high school was in the business office at a truck stop on the south side of Auburn.

My first thought of working in a business office was to see if I could get a job in the city. I think we all considered ourselves a part of a larger community that included Nebraska City.

It seems like the debate over Peru State has brought us back to that time.

25 is a two-way highway. It is simple to drive 10 miles out of town and to drive 10 miles north into town. It's the same road.

A lobbyist I was visiting with early in the year said the 1998 legislative session will be about it was that begin with "P" pigs, power and Peru State. Last week hundreds of Peru supporters converged on the Capitol to urge legislators to keep the college in Peru.

State Sen. Lloyd Vitvick of Table Rock, who is trying to persuade lawmakers to tough up on the existing campus, predicted early on that the goal to move Peru State could easily shift to one to close Nebraska's oldest and smallest state college. Vitvick was in the mark, as recent news reports have indicated. Some lawmakers have begun to say that they wonder whether the college still is needed at all, when the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and University of Nebraska-Kearney are only about an hour's drive away. Seems like I remember that exact same argument against the Institute of Information Science Technology and Engineering College only a few years ago. Why build it in Omaha when the IITC Engineering College is only an hour's drive away?

That argument didn't work then, and I don't know if it works now.

Continuing education students don't want to drive an hour to take a course on a weekend or in evening. They don't want to do it if they live in Omaha, and they don't want to do it if they live in Auburn. They'll do it if that's the only way they're going to get the education they need. I'm not going to say whether Peru State should be retained. I don't know whether it serves a "critical mass" of students to warrant the expense of maintaining it. Maybe there are other reasonable educational options for students in the area. I'm a fine one to wax sentimental about the college when I never seriously considered going there for my college education.

Even if it's the right thing to do, closing it means the college would have to be reconstituted out of the remaining residents of southeast Nebraska. It would have one avenue of educational opportunity and it would have to be a ghost town.

Wayne State men improve to 14-5 with pair of wins

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne State men's basketball team took a giant step in making the move up the North Central Region ranks after knocking off the nation's sixth-ranked team, Northern State last week, 88-75 in Wayne.

The 'Cats went into the contest ranked eighth in a region where only the top six teams gain a spot to the 10 AA-II playoffs while the visiting Wolves were third.

The host team handed Northern State its biggest loss of the season but shortly into the contest it appeared it was going to be a long night as point guard Tyler Johnson went down with an ankle injury.

"It happened about three minutes into the game," coach Gary McDermott said. "He was taken to the locker room where he remained for more than a half of basketball."

WSC rose to the challenge, however, and a long 3-pointer by Craig Philipp at the buzzer gave the host team a 17-16 halftime lead.

The 'Cats led by eight points, 32-24 with four minutes remaining in the opening stanza but Northern State went on a 12-2 run to take a 16-14 lead before Philipp's try.

The second half opened with the Craig Philipp show as the point guard controlled by scoring the first 10 points of the period including back-to-back 3 pointers.

Johnson made his return with around 17 minutes left in the game after it appeared he would not re-enter the contest with a second third degree ankle injury.

The young from Hudson, showed noise and courage as he quelled a painful injury to lead the 'Cats down the stretch.

In fact Northern State never had the lead as the second half as WSC built leads as many as 13 points on several occasions including the final two.

Johnson scored all 36 of his points in the second half and Philipp led all scorers with 20.

"We played a pretty well," McDermott said. "Under the circumstances, it was probably our best game of the season."

McDermott said he gave a lot of credit to WSC athletic trainer Keith Coetz for getting Johnson ready to come back into the game.

The WSC mentor gave credit to Troy Osterhaus and Brad Jones for stepping it up a notch when Johnson went down.

"Northern State has a very good basketball team," McDermott said.

"We shot the ball very well and our defense did a nice job of taking Bryan Miller out of his game. Northern is very similar to WSC in the fact they don't have many weaknesses."

The Wolves were the highest ranked team to be defeated by WSC in McDermott's tenure.

Jon Hollis was six of seven from the field and finished with 14 points and Jason Diaz was the fourth Wildcat to finish in double figures with 11.

Both teams shot well from the floor with the 'Cats hitting 12 of 64 attempts while the Wolves were 31 of 63 for 49 percent.

WSC was out rebounded, 39-15.

with Philipp leading the 'Cats with eight careers while Hollis had five. WSC committed just 10 turnovers.

The visitors suffered 16 and Osterhaus dished out a team-high five assists.

SATURDAY, WSC HIT the road as they played at Bemidji State in Minnesota.

The 'Cats got the job done with a 66-60 victory to top their win streak to four games and a 14-5 season record.

Tyler Johnson led the WSC players in double figures with 20 points and Craig Philipp adding 14 while Jon Hollis and Brad Jones netting 10 each.

With the game tied at 11 at half time, WSC outscored the Beavers 24-9 to take a 40-15 lead with 13 minutes remaining.

The host team countered with nine unanswered points to claim a 44-40 edge with 11:40 to play.

Jones then scored five points during an 11-1 Wildcat run which put the visitors ahead, 51-43. Following a 3 pointer by Bemidji State's BJ Lavelle which made the score 51-46, the 'Cats put together an 8-1 rally to open up their largest lead of the game at 59-41.

The 'Cats scored 13 of their final 15 points from the charity stripe. WSC was 21-30 from the line, over all.

"Our defense played really well," McDermott said. "We had a lot of good looks at the basket but we just couldn't get the ball to fall."

WSC was out rebounded once again, 14-11 with Eric Henderson leading the way with seven cars while Hollis and Matt VanVoort had five each.

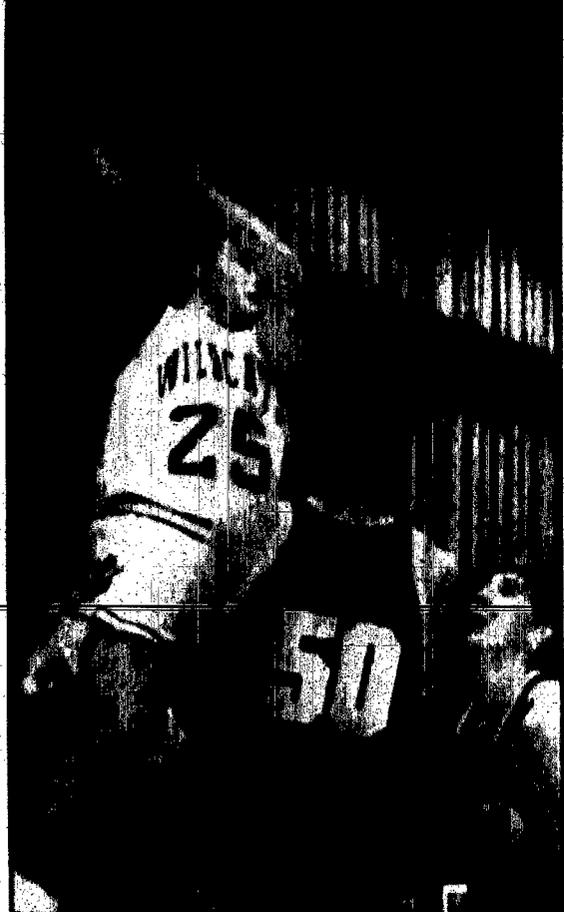

The 'Cats had just 11 turnovers while Bemidji State was one better at 10.

WSC will host Bemidji State on Saturday night before playing at Southwest State on Wednesday.

Local cagers earn sweep of visiting Bloomfield Bees

Nick Kvols creates his own shot during first half action of Laurel's victory over Bloomfield last weekend.

By Wes Smith
For the Herald

The Laurel-Concord girls came away with a pair of victories over the weekend with wins over Wausa and Bloomfield in Laurel.

A strong fourth quarter was the difference in a 44-23 win over Wausa, Thursday night.

"We came out slow and weren't executing well the first three quarters but in the fourth we became more aggressive and got several transition buckets," coach Susan Koranda said.

Laurel outscored Wausa 19-9 in the final period. The Bees also were 16-of-17 from the free line.

Jessie Erwin and Karl Stewart shared team scoring honors with 10 points each while Kristen Hark added seven. Brittany Burns had six points to go along with her team-high nine rebounds.

Another Thompson led the way with four points and Julie Abts, three while Jenny Demuth and Heather Patfield added two each.

Laurel hung on to down Bloomfield, 44-41 on Friday night.

"This was a hard-fought game (Laurel) throughout," Koranda said. Jessie Erwin and Karl Stewart again shared team scoring honors with 13 points each.

"We did a nice job of being patient on offense and driving to the basket, creating free throw opportunities," Koranda added. That paid off in the game of 27 free throw chances where the Bees converted 16.

Kristen Hark finished with five points and Melissa Thompson tallied four while Brittany Burns had three. Jenny Demuth rounded out the attack with two points.

IN THE BOYS contest, a strong first quarter was the difference to guide Laurel to a 63-42 victory over the Bees.

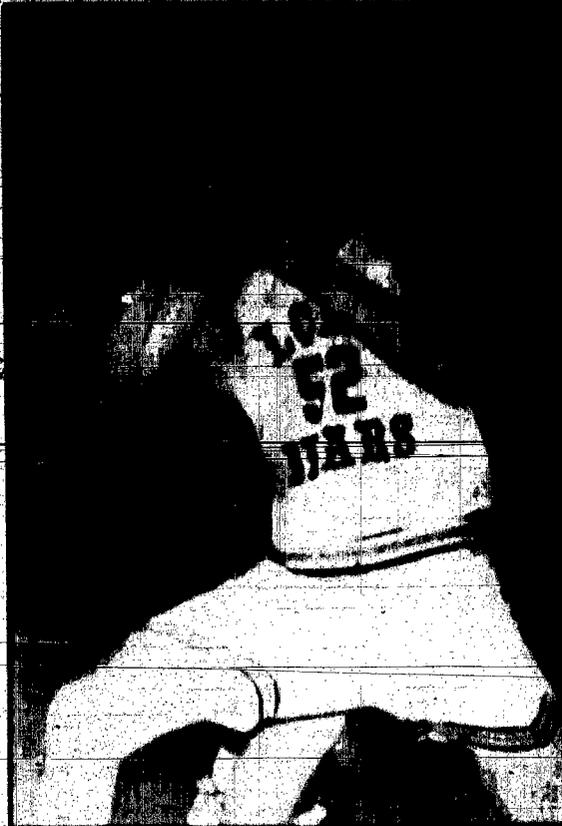

The Bees played disciplined offense and defense and speaking of defense, senior center Andy Bose blocked a career-high 12 shots in the contest.

Bose nearly pulled off the rare triple double as he finished with nine points, 13 rebounds and 12 blocks.

Eric Kvols paced the winners with 9 points while Evan Smith and Wyatt Lewis totaled 14 each. Nick Mangano finished out the attack with seven points.

Laurel's boys will play Creighton in first round conference tournament on Saturday at 4 p.m. in Clinton while the Lady Bees play Plainville at 8 p.m. on Saturday in Bloomfield.

The Wayne News, Thursday, February 28, 1996

Laurel-Concord senior Andy Bose drives past a Bloomfield defender during action last Friday night in Laurel for two of his nine points. Bose also hauled down a team high 13 rebounds and blocked a career high 12 shots in the Bees' 63-42 victory.

Blue Devils girls split with Crofton, O'Neill

The Wayne girls basketball team split a pair of contests last week, leaving John McClarnon's squad with a 3-1 record on the season.

The Blue Devils were beaten by Crofton on Thursday night in Crofton, 62-46, but rebounded on Saturday afternoon to down O'Neill at home, 40-33.

In Crofton the game was tied at 11 after one quarter of play and after three quarters of play the game was close as Crofton led by five, 38-33, but Wayne was out scored 24-11 down the stretch.

"We were disappointed by our defensive play against Crofton," McClarnon said. "They dominated us on the offensive and defensive boards and had excellent rebound assignments defensively that led to many easy baskets for Crofton."

Kathy Hunter led the Blue Devils with 20 points, while Heidi Johnson netted 10, and Gayle Olson, eight. Sarah Hill and Brooke Parker each added three and Jessica Gearing tallied two.

Wayne was not rebounded for a 16-21 margin with Olson and Johnson leading the Blue Devils with seven and six rebounds, respectively.

WAYNE JUMPED out to an 11-0 lead on O'Neill after one quarter of play and led 17-14 at the intermission.

The Blue Devils lead expanded to eight by the third quarter and at 28-20.

"Despite shooting only 26 percent from the field we were able to use a great team defensive effort and good free throw shooting to help us gain the victory," McClarnon said. "We turned 24 turnovers while turning 8 over just 12 times."

Gayle Olson paced the winners with 18 points, with Jennifer Boerman totaling six and Brooke Parker, five. Kathy Hunter added four and Monica Hayak three while Lindsay Black and Heidi Johnson tallied two each.

Wayne came out a winner on the boards as well, 29-22 with Olson leading down eight rebounds and Hunter six.

O'Neill hit 10 of 11 free throw attempts for the game and Wayne as a team was 13-22 while O'Neill was 7-12.

Wayne will play Central Catholic on Thursday.

Jessie Erwin penetrates between several Bloomfield defenders during the Lady Bees one point win over the Bees.

Sports Briefs

Junior high cagers play Cedar

WAYNE - The Wayne Junior High seventh and eighth grade girls and boys basketball teams played Central Catholic Saturday with three of the four games ending in ties.

The seventh grade girls won 24-20 with Amy Harter leading the way with 11 points while Erin Lovel added seven. Katelyn Elwood, Katie Straight and Megan Cunningham each scored four, with Alyssa Dunham and Ashleigh Anzures adding two each.

The eighth grade girls won 41-17 with Katie Elwood leading the way with 10 points while April Deane scoring eight and Jocelyn Holmberg, six. Cassie Nelson and Janice Shaver each added four and Elizabeth Strong, Faith Keller, Faith Kraker and Jill Meyer tallied two each. Christina Gathie added a free throw.

The seventh grade boys won 46-26 with Clifton Walker leading the way with 10 points while Tim Munn added six and Jon Hubbard, five. Mike Strom and Andy Miller scored four each and Ryan Schmitt tallied three while Mike Owen and Justin Davis added two apiece.

The eighth grade boys fell to Central Catholic, 47-39. Brad Hansen and Brent Hutchinson scored 13 each to lead Wayne with Luke Christensen adding seven and Jeff Pappitt, five. Jeremy Conte rounded out the scoring with two points. Wayne will host Brookfield on Saturday at 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the high school.

Wakfield gals beaten by Homer

WAYNEVILLE - The Wakfield girls basketball team fell to Homer, 46-38 in action Monday night. The trophies were shared in this visiting triumph in each of the first quarters as Homer led 9-8 after one, 19-16 at the half and 31-26 after three.

The 6-10 trophies were given by junior wrestler girls 12 points while Maggie Brownell netted 11 and Jenny Sandall, eight. Jennifer Casper scored three with Susan Bridgman and Jennifer Simpson scoring in two each.

We played fairly well after a slow start," Wakfield coach Tom Abbott said. "We could never quite get into a roll. Jenny Sandall had a great defensive game as well as a nice stepping on the offensive end."

Wakfield will host Central on Tuesday night.

Wayne reserve girls team falls twice

WAYNE - The Wayne reserve girls basketball team was beaten twice against Crofton and O'Neill during Linda Casper's team with a 6-1 record.

The Blue Devils fell to Crofton 24-21 and lost at home to O'Neill, 48-41. Wayne led Crofton 13-11 after three quarters of play but was out scored 10-7 in the final stanza.

Sam Ellis led Wayne with six points while Jessica Bawling and Katie Walton netted four each. Sarah Hutchinson tallied three points with Brittany Bryant and Kristin Wilson each scoring two.

Wayne was tied with O'Neill at 20 at the half of Saturday's game but O'Neill out scored the Blue Devils 13-6 in the third quarter which proved to be the difference in the game.

Jessie Bawling led Wayne with 12 points while Kristin Wilson added eight and Jenny Bawling, six. On Thursday, the set finished with four points with Katie Walton adding three. Mandy Hansen, Lindsey Weisler, Kristin Hutchinson and Jessica Woolf each netted two points with Kelli Gibson scoring one.

Winside girls and boys notch road win at Wausa

The Winside girls and boys cage teams swept Wausa last Friday night on the road with Lisa Schreiner's girls squad tallying a convincing 30-21 margin while Jerry Warner's boys crew won Wausa 41-40.

Winside's girls trailed the host Vikings by one point after the first quarter, 8-7 but the Wildcats went on a 16-4 winning run in the second stanza to lead 23-12 at the half.

Winside duplicated that 16-4 run in the third quarter for a 37-16 lead after three.

We played an exceptional defensive game," Schreiner said. "We only shot 29 percent from the field for the game to our defense and rebounding was key."

Jess Miller paced the winners with 15 points and she added 10 rebounds and blocked six free throws.

Mandi Topp totaled 11 points and Stacy Wither, along with Mandy Jaska, added six each with Wither matching eight steals and doubling out five assists and team tops.

Kelly Hoffman scored five points and Marissa Bowyer, Deck and Sarah Mattox netted two each with Kris Hutton having in a free throw.

Mattox also hauled down 10-10 ops to share team honors with Miller.

Winside's boys also trailed after one quarter of play, 16-11 but the Wildcats managed to claw their way to a one point halftime lead at 22-21.

Both teams scored 11 third quarter points and Winside hung on to win by three.

"Defensively we played pretty well," Warner said. "We stepped it up and that then drove in the second quarter which was the decisive period."

Aaron Hoffman led the winners with 13 points with Tom Neid adding 11 and Jay Badenbacher eight. Aaron's teammates finished with seven points with Brock Shelton and Scott Wither adding two each.

Smith was the leading rebounder for the Wildcats with eight grabs with Neuman leading down five.

Winside will travel to play Huntington on Thursday before the start of the Laurel & Clark Conference tournament this week and

Wayne boys cage team falls to Cedar Catholic by two dropped a 24-52 decision to Huntington Cedar Catholic last Friday in Huntington leaving the Blue Devils with an 8-5 record.

Wayne trailed 13-8 after one quarter of play but out scored the host team by a 17-7 margin to regain the lead by half at 25-20.

Cedar trimmed that margin to just three points by third quarter and at 42-39 but the boys' led nine of the 16th stanza over the final eight minutes to edge the Blue Devils by two.

Cedar Catholic was 13-29 in the game from the field but the Blue Devils found themselves with very few chances at the charity stripe during five of those.

Wayne did not get up to the level those like in the fourth quarter.

John Magnuson came off the bench to score 14 points in leading the Blue Devils while Justin Deane scored 11 and Ryan Dahl, nine.

Matt Meyer tallied six and Kristin Keller, five, with Adam Erickson netting four and Joel Magnuson, three.

Magnuson hit seven of eight field goal attempts. "We just didn't take advantage of our opportunities to win the game," Dahl said. "We had ample chances to take control but it just didn't happen."

Wayne will travel to play West Point on Friday night. The Blue Devils will play their final road contest next Thursday at 17:00 before returning home for home contests to end the regular season against Eden, Ekron Valley, East, J. Michaels, Oak Hill and West. Feb. 29.

MARCH OF DIMES

C.E.L.E.B.R.A.T.I.N.G. 60 YEARS OF SUCCESS

March of Dimes

WAYNE COUNTY RESIDENTS:

Every woman who thinks of having a child dreams of having a healthy baby. Unfortunately, many babies in Nebraska are born too small, too soon or with neural tube birth defects. But there are simple steps that women can take to reduce the risk of this happening and to prepare for a healthy baby.

During January, the March of Dimes and Centrum® Multi-vitamins will observe Birth Defects Prevention Month in an effort to reach women of childbearing age with vital information. According to a recent March of Dimes Gallup survey, 7 out of 10 women begin taking the 11 vitamin folic acid too late to reduce their risk of having a baby with a serious birth defect.

The March of Dimes and Centrum Multi-vitamins will work together to encourage Nebraska women to consume at least 400 micrograms of the 11 vitamin folic acid prior to and during pregnancy. The March of Dimes suggests that all women of childbearing age achieve this by eating a balanced diet and taking a multivitamin supplement which contains 100 percent of the recommended daily amount of folic acid.

The March of Dimes also will hold its annual Mothers March in January. Local Mothers March volunteers will contact their neighbors as part of an education and fundraising campaign. Funds raised by Mothers March help support March of Dimes programs of research, community services, education and advocacy to help improve the health of mothers and babies in Nebraska.

For more information contact the Lincoln March of Dimes at 402-464-6642.

Part Of The Advertising Proceeds Will Be Donated To The March Of Dimes To Aid In The Prevention Of Birth Defects.

Opportunities abound in 4-H

Once a month Amy Malchow, Extension Assistant in Dixon and Wayne Counties, and Mindy Lust, Extension Assistant in Wayne County will provide an article in this column focusing on youth and the 4-H program. Upcoming activities for Wayne and Dixon counties will also be highlighted at the conclusion of the article. Surrounding counties may want to contact their local extension offices for their counties specific dates.

4-H is a unique program. It's unique because it's broad and challenging. It offers over 200 projects in a variety of areas. It is a hands-on learning experience geared for youth to their formative years.

Because of the variety of projects and the many willing volunteers, thousands of rural and city young people can experience tremendous educational opportunities. Many of these learning experiences will be a preparation for successful adulthood.

How does one benefit from 4-H for youth? It provides education in a non-formal atmosphere. Learning a project and carrying through with it to completion or exhibiting at the county fair is both fun and rewarding. Completing and handing in records is also a part of the education process. This may be the hard part for some. Keeping track of costs, dates and results is not always exciting, but is a part of teaching a necessary life skill.

The 4-H program teaches organizational skills. Setting goals and achieving them helps to instill and build self-esteem. If those goals are not met one year, the 4-H'er gets reorganized and tries again the next year.

Many 4-H projects encourage having the whole family involved. What a great way for interaction, communication and togetherness. All working cooperatively to achieve a goal.

The varied opportunities for developing communication skills are limitless. Youth may participate in the public speaking club and continue in a variety of public speaking opportunities by giving presentations and engaging judging contests. These will help to instill confidence.

Now a 300-hour year is not involved in the 4-H program as many clubs are recognizing four local county extension offices can put you in touch with a 4-H leader and club in your area.

Briefly Speaking

Minerva Club has buffet luncheon
WAYNE - The Minerva Club met for a buffet luncheon at the home of Hollis Fress with 13 members present.
President Betty Ream opened the meeting by reading "Taking America for Granted" from the Reader's Digest list of best articles for the last 30 years.
Following the business meeting, the program was presented by Margorie Olson, who reviewed the book "Alcatraz from the Inside" by Jim Guillen who spent 10 years there.
The book was an intimate fascinating view of life on the rock. The harsh conditions, the little escape attempts, the long years. It was a man's climb from desperation to redemption.

P.E.O. hold Founders Day program
WAYNE - Chapter AZ, P.E.O. met in the home of Garrie Christensen on Jan. 17.
Following the business meeting, Chapter AZ was joined by Chapter ID for a catered luncheon. A Founders Day program was presented by Kari Lay and other members of Chapter ID.
P.E.O. was founded in January of 1860 at Iowa Wesleyan College and now has chapters in every state and Canada. The organization helps to provide educational opportunities for women.
The next meeting for Chapter AZ will be Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 4:30 p.m. in the home of Joan Gibby.

Engagements

French-Vovos

Library will be sponsor 'Choices'

The Nebraska Humanities Council has announced that "Choices for the 21st Century," a series of public policy discussions will be held for the first time in 14 Nebraska libraries in 1998.
The program made available through Brown University and a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, is an initiative to moderate each town's unique history and discussion series.

Some of the issues faced in choice: How should we conduct ourselves in the world? What costs do we willing to incur to promote or protect our national values? and What are those values?
"Choices," considered discussion by a panel, is designed to engage the public in dialogue concerning such complex issues as global trade, U.S. cooperation in environmental issues and U.S. policy in the Middle East and Cuba.
"Choices" is sponsored by the Nebraska Humanities Council and the Nebraska Center for the Book. Co-sponsors include the Cooper Educational Foundation League of Women Voters, Public Policy Institute at Wayne State College and the University of State.
Individuals may sign up to participate and receive a free copy of the series reader, "Defining Our Role in a Changing World" at the Wayne Public Library.

LWML convention to be held in Wayne in June

The Executive Committee of the Nebraska District North Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) met Jan. 24 at the Lutheran Student Center on the campus of Wayne State.

The purpose of the meeting was to map out convention plans. The LWML will be holding its biennial convention at Wayne State College in June 26-27, 1998. Anticipated attendance at the convention is over 600 members and guests.

The theme of the convention is "Living God's Word." The theme is "Living God's Word." The theme is "Living God's Word."

The goal of the convention is that the attendees will be strengthened by God's Word and the empowering of His Spirit. They will go forth prepared to carry out their calling.

The goal of the convention is that the attendees will be strengthened by God's Word and the empowering of His Spirit. They will go forth prepared to carry out their calling.

Ruth Koch is the keynote speaker and will present during the Friday session. Koch has a degree in counseling and is an author of many books on the subject. At the request of the International LWML, Koch developed and starred in "Prepare to Serve," a video series on leadership education.

One of the missionary presenters will be Rev. Nathaniel Taylor. Taylor is a Lutheran pastor and a native of Liberia. He served in Liberia during his civil war. He is currently in the United States with his family, obtaining more education.

Taylor is the guest preacher at the worship service.

Small group sessions by various presenters will allow the members to gain an American opportunity world-wide mission guide and to rally.

A worship service with Bible study and communion is planned for Friday, June 26 at 7 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. The worship service is open to the public.

The Carroll Presbyterian Women met Jan. 21 for a noon luncheon. Charlene Jones was hostess.

Jacquelyn Owens was moderator for the business meeting. Seven members and one guest answered roll call.

A story from "Chicken Soup for the Women's Soul" was read. Eleanor Owens had the lesson introduction to job.

The hymn "Blessed Assurance" was sung at the close of the meeting.

Midland names students to Dean's List

Philip Marburger of Concord and Jeremiah Bellowich of Wayne were both named to the fall 1997 Dean's List at Midland College in Fremont.

Midland Lutheran College named 239 students to the dean's list for the fall 1997 semester, including 90 with distinction, according to Dr. Donald Kahak, vice president for academic affairs and academic dean.

Students named to the dean's list must earn a minimum grade point average of 3.5. Those named to the dean's list with distinction are in the top 10 percent of the student body, having earned a minimum grade point average of 3.8. All students must complete a minimum of 12 credit hours during the semester to qualify.

UNMC students train across Nebraska

Kari Hamer of Wayne is working with health professionals in Norfolk at Faith Regional Medical Center from Feb. 2 through Feb. 27 and in Cambridge at Tri Valley District Pharmacy from March 2 through March 27. This rotation is part of her health care education requirements at University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC).

There are a number of students doing rotations across Nebraska.

Student rotations are part of the UNMC Rural Health Education Network (RHEEN), an innovative program developed to help address the shortage of health professionals in rural Nebraska.

The students represent the colleges of medicine, pharmacy, nursing and the School of Allied Health Professionals.

The purpose of RHEEN is to change how and where primary care students at UNMC are educated. RHEEN was developed to expose students to a rural health setting with the idea that if students receive their training in a rural area, the change is greater that they may consider returning to a rural area once they complete their training.

More families eligible for help with child care

More Nebraska families will be eligible for assistance in paying for child care because of a law change in Nebraska Health and Human Services system child care regulations.

This is great news for Nebraska families, said Jennie Ravitsky, Director of the Department of Health and Human Services. Building strong families is one of Governor Robinson's 2000 goals and lawmakers said providing access to quality child care is a vital component to successful families.

Any Nebraska family whose income is at or below 185 percent of the Federal Poverty Level is eligible for assistance, whether they are receiving AFDC, assistance or not. This means that a family of four with a gross monthly income of up to $2,424.99 is eligible for help in paying for child care.

Before Jan. 1 families that were not transitioning off Aid to Dependent Children could only earn up to 120 percent of the Federal Poverty Level when qualifying for child care assistance.

"Helping more of our families with child care needs put makes good sense," said Pat Uradzowski, good news," said Pat Uradzowski, 1005 child care administrator. "We feel the changes in regulations will help families who are trying to achieve self-sufficiency."

For more information on this child care assistance, contact local Health and Human Services offices or contact Pat Uradzowski at (402) 471-9431.

Cooking for winter days

The Packers and Broncos are fighting it out in San Diego. We're trying a new recipe for Belgian waffles.

It's a characteristic of SAD, Seasonal Affective Disorder, to crave carbohydrates and fat. This is the third evening in a week we've had a breakfast specialty for supper, one night it was corn bread, another, French toast.

Last year, because I'm concerned about our diets, let me add that we are having shredded wheat in the mornings and a "square" at noon. Square denotes meat, potato and vegetable.

The Big Farmer east almost anything and for trying to supply the freezer for it was no fall soup last night. Effortful and of Ed Kralkrky's "Mulligatawny," which he used to fall in huge barrels and cooked them outside. Ed, Ted I also whipped up a little something called "chickie apple compote." But only did Mike eat it, his claim to have liked it.

A long time ago, I had a salad recipe calling for croutons. I didn't have a clue as to what it was, but found it next to a family favorite, baked rice pilaf. The host says it has been a integral part of the North African diet for a thousand years and is still the national dish of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia.

It's taken me years to locate 10-minute lasagna and there was about half a cup left. I had some chicken, apples, mushrooms, egg sauce because the dish is a good thing it's the last of the lasagna. I'm sure you'll never become Amos's occasional salad guest for it.

My original plan for January was to take a vacation south and then all this time and for but before we had made any plans, we had made a batch of croutons. Plus, we've actually had your guests, so it's good for your mood.

We've been helping out a school near the, a few busy with work as the regular one has a new baby. It brings back memories of days when I attended at Wakefield on Monday, Randolph on Tuesdays, Weymouth on Wednesdays, Coleridge on Thursdays and all these rural schools on Fridays.

I remember how long January can be, a school where the weather is so cold, the kids to play outside. I remember praying for a "mulligatawny" for an evening to just stay home, and the way it craves heat, fresh, steamed, the blackhead spices and something flatbread.

January really is a long, cold month and I won't be sorry to see it end. At least February is short. As for the weather, it's about how February has applied to me these waffles.

Vets, 350 to 400 lbs., $28 to $30; 400 to 450 lbs., $28 to $30.

Annuities can help you

If you believe building a retirement nest egg is like running on a treadmill, read on for a way to get ahead in the race.

A major concern of today's working Americans is having enough money to retire. Social Security won't provide enough to cover the cost of living expenses for many, and people are being longer, meaning their money must last longer.

Adding fuel to these concerns are two individual taxes, inflation and taxes. Thanks to these two culprits of income, it takes more and more money to stay where you are. According to the Economic Price Index (CPI), inflation averaged 5.2 percent a year from 1976 to 1995. Just a 5 percent inflation rate would mean a $100,000 investment in 1976 would be worth only $50,000 in 1995.

To illustrate how inflation affects your family budget, consider this: A postage stamp that cost 10 cents in 1976 now costs 12 cents. A car that cost $5,000 in 1976 sold for $19,999 in 1995. The house you could buy 20 years ago for $10,000 costs $12,000 today.

Some argue that wages have increased at a similar rate. But according to the Bureau of Economic Analysis, real wages have fallen 15.3 percent adjusted for inflation and excluding health benefits.

Subtract taxes and you're finished. In fact, based on a possibly right-off the back of the envelope, the average family's net worth has fallen 15.3 percent adjusted for inflation and excluding health benefits.

For these reasons, it's essential for your retirement savings to grow faster than inflation and compound tax-deferred. Yet many people are not utilizing these benefits with their retirement savings. An advisory member of workers here, an employer's investment plan, such as 401(k) and IRA contributions have dropped to their lowest level since 1991.

The decline in IRA contributions appears to be related by the distribution rates imposed by the Tax Reform Act of 1986. In the past year, a taxpayer has averaged several percent of income in IRA deductions. However, it's hard to predict what Congress will do or where they will be next year.

Any investments in IRAs... to you little, but that's... However, there is an alternative to IRAs that can be especially attractive to people without other investment plans. It's a flexible, monthly contract and it's offered by most major investment companies.

Variable annuities offer the flexibility of all investments as long as they are considered within the annuity and they can provide income that can be withdrawn without penalty before age 59 1/2, just like with an IRA.

Deferring taxes on earnings until retirement can make a significant difference in how your account grows. For example, $75,000 invested in a deferred annuity at 8 percent would increase to $251,568 in 30 years. Each year, it's 30 percent tax rate would grow to only $111,217 over the same period.

Even if the entire amount were withdrawn after 30 years, you'd have three paid at 10 percent of the account value, would be $170,000. $251,568 minus the 30 percent withdrawal would be $161,298.

If you're interested in variable annuities, investigate several different plans. Variable annuities do track different according to the investing opportunities. Examples include: United and your contract and its provisions before you invest.

For the right investment variable annuities can provide that extra boost to help you get ahead in the retirement savings race.

Wayne State College plans skywatchers show

Wayne State College Planetarium show skywatchers of Ancient Mesopotamian astronomical observations of early cultures of Mesopotamia. Shows are scheduled at 10 p.m. Feb. 24 and 25. It is in the Fred C. Dale Planetarium located in the lower level of the Cabell Science Building.

This show chronicles the achievements of the ancient civilization of Mesopotamia, starting from their thousand years from 1500 B.C. to 500 A.D. During this time the Chaldean Kings, Babylonians and Assyrians occupied the lands we now call Mesopotamia. Babylonians and H. Sargon built great cities, developed extensive farming and worked out a sophisticated mathematics. said Carl Hump, Wayne State planetarium director.

The planetarium show emphasizes the astronomical contributions of these early cultures including their calendar, understanding of the motion of the planet Venus and ability to predict eclipses of the sun and moon.

Special showings may be arranged on request. For information call 337-2444. There is no admission charge.

The Four C's — Key to buying a diamond ring

A diamond engagement ring is a symbol of love and romance. No two diamonds are alike, so when selecting a diamond, consumers should visit a reputable jeweler whom they know and trust.

The diamond engagement ring has been a symbol of love and romance since 1477 when Archibald, Marquis of Argyll gave Mary of Scotland a gold ring set with a diamond as a token of his love. Today, the tradition of the diamond engagement ring continues. According to a new Consumer Survey, 70 percent of all brides-to-be receive one.

A diamond is an expression of individuality for a lover's unique, no two diamonds are alike. Each diamond has its own personality and sparkle. Therefore, when purchasing a diamond engagement ring, it is important to become an informed consumer.

A little knowledge can go a long way to help one with the best quality diamond within a budget. Understanding diamonds requires knowledge of the four C's: cut, color, clarity and carat weight. These four variables are key to answering the obvious question as to why two diamonds of equal size may not be of equal value.

• Cut. Although diamonds can be cut in several shapes, like oval, marquise, pear or round, it is the quality of the cut that gives the stone its brilliant sparkle. Light is reflected best when all of the facets are perfectly proportional.

totally colorless diamond light allows white light to pass effortlessly through it, and be dispersed as rainbows of color.

• Clarity. The term "clarity" refers to a diamond's lack of naturally occurring inclusions, often called "nature's fingerprints," most of which are not visible to the naked eye. The fewer the inclusions, the more valuable the diamond.

• Carat. Carat refers to the weight of the stone. There are 100 points in a carat. Therefore, a diamond of 50 points weighs one-half of a carat.

Deciding how much to spend on a diamond engagement ring is very personal and obviously depends on income. Most people find the two-month salary guideline to be helpful in determining how much to spend. Most importantly, choose the finest quality diamond affordable, because a diamond engagement ring is a unique symbol of commitment that will be treasured for many years.

To find out how to get the best diamond, consumers should visit a reputable jeweler whom they know and trust. The diamond engagement ring is an investment in a couple's future and like love, can grow more precious with time.

Many lives of a bridesmaids dress - a true story

You've heard it before: "I know you'll be able to wear my bridesmaid's dress again." Sounds promising, but you're skeptical. That is, until you see that the bride has selected something with just the right amount of fashion and classic detailing and it's a dress that makes you feel like it's your party she's giving!

How'd she do it? Will it cost a fortune? Will the same people who are going to the wedding be at the club dance because that's where it's going next (to maybe the night club that expensive and so the budget)? With a change of accessories, this dress even may see the second bridal meeting dinner.

So one dress really take on a full social calendar? Donna Morgan, the designer behind her namesake label, delivers style which ensures that any dress that's bridal still can be the life of yet another party.

When selecting dresses for your bridal party, think classic shapes — with flair, but not overly frilly. You want to look back at those pictures and for it all to seem timeless," notes Morgan. "A look that flatters any shape, has detailing that adds interest, with fabric that moves easily — guarantees that your wedding group will feel as good as you do on the big day!

To receive "Life's Special Occasions" dress book, containing highlights from the Donna Morgan collection, which ranges in price from $120 to $180, contact Donna Morgan, 530 Seventh Ave., 14th Floor, New York, NY 10018, telephone (800) 963-2124, fax (212) 575-4775.

Some helpful reminders

- Place a note on the front door reminding the bride and her attendants to take gloves, pocketbooks and bouquets before leaving for the ceremony.
- Assign someone to check out the reception site to make sure that all the flowers have been delivered, the cake has arrived and seating cards have been set out.
- If the bride or family members wait centerpieces taken home, tell someone beforehand to be in charge of collecting them before the guests take their and there are none left.

- Give a list of special group photos to be taken, perhaps of cousins, classmates and office mates to the photographer.
- Assign someone to signal the organist that the ceremony is about to begin.
- Make every attempt to be on time. Every minute delayed throws off the next step: the food preparation, the band or the jukebox, even down to that ice in the water glasses. Everyone that day has a schedule; don't complicate it by being late.

Give newlyweds the gift of good health. With "Mayo Clinic Family Health Book" and "Mayo Clinic Guide to Self-Care," you can start the couple on the way to a healthy and happy life together.

A toast to good health for the bride and groom

In ancient and modern health lore, words from traditional wedding vows emphasize the importance of taking care of one another. As couples begin their married lives, they look forward to a lifetime of joy, happiness and good health.

What better way to congratulate newlyweds than to give them a gift that can help them achieve and maintain a healthy life? Mayo Clinic Family Health Book has become a popular choice as both a wedding and shower gift. The hard cover, comprehensive book, which has been recognized as the "A" book of reference, helps couples find accurate answers to questions like how to handle and stay food properly, how to get motivated to exercise regularly, ways to manage stress, and how to safely protect their home. Special sections on staying well, essential first aid and emergency care, genes and your health, diseases and disorders, modern medical care and health through the years make this a gift that couples will use again and again.

Another affordable wedding gift of health from Mayo Clinic is the newly published "Mayo Clinic Guide to Self-Care." This book provides solutions for everyday health problems to help people of all ages prevent illnesses, stay well, develop healthy habits and take charge of their own health.

To order directly from Mayo Clinic, call 1-800-291-1130, Ext. 400. The $49.95, paper "Mayo Clinic Family Health Book" is $10.95, plus $5.50 shipping and handling. The smaller, 245 page "Mayo Clinic Guide to Self-Care" is $16.95, plus $4.50 shipping and handling.

A newlywed tip from Mayo Clinic Family Health Book: Realize that you are marrying an ordinary human being with strengths and weaknesses. Don't idealize your mate and expect nothing short of perfection. Communication is key to resolving inevitable conflicts effectively.

Give a great party with lively entertainment

The wedding day is one of the most exciting and memorable days in a couple's life. The bride and groom want everything, from the gown to the flowers to the food served at the reception, to be perfect. Most of all, they want the memories of the big day to be special.

The entertainment provided at the wedding reception is critical in determining the success of the event. The choice of music for the reception can make or break the entire party. Regardless of whether you hire a live band or disc jockey, lively music and a personable bandleader or DJ can help build a mood and play songs that can get the guests dancing.

Using the right band or DJ for your wedding can be confusing. Asking great questions, knowing the right answers and getting all guarantees in writing will ensure the selection of reliable, reputable vendors. The following questions and answers, courtesy of Modern Bride magazine, can help you hire the best musician for the reception.

1. Can I determine the quality of a band's performance by listening to a tape or viewing its video? If you like the sound on the tape and/or the way the band delivers on video, inquire about where you can see the group play at a showcase, an actual wedding or some other place where it is booked.

2. How can I be certain that the band I book will be the one at my wedding? It is essential to get the name of the band in writing on your contract.

3. Does the orchestra have liability insurance? A reputable company will maintain such coverage. Most reception facilities require that the orchestra furnish them with a certificate of insurance.

4. Does the band take breaks? Most bands take a 15 minute break after a 45 minute set. Taped music can be swapped during the breaks or continuous music (at an extra charge) can be planned.

5. Are there additional charges for traveling time, playing during cocktails and overtime? Probably. Ask about that at your initial meeting, and be sure that these charges are clearly stated in your contract and understood before you sign it.

6. Is there a surcharge or sales tax? There is no sales tax on music services, but there may be some surcharges (i.e. payroll, transportation). Be sure to ask.

7. Does the band have an extensive song list with selections that appeal to a wide range of guests? A good band will be able to play a range of music that spans the decades, from big band to Top 40 to Motown hits, as well as ethnic pieces.

8. Will the band members wear appropriate attire? Unless otherwise noted, wedding members should wear black tie.

9. Is there a way I can be sure the application will not be dewatering? Tell the bandleader or DJ of your concern, as if this is not a place where the group has played before, he or she can check out the location to prepare ahead for any acoustical challenges that must be addressed to keep the details under control.

10. Does the bandleader or DJ act as master of ceremonies and coordinate the sequence of events at the reception, and if so, should I meet with him about this before the wedding? The master of ceremonies is usually the bandleader or DJ, and you absolutely should have an in-person meeting to talk over the reception events.

Pearls considered first wedding gem

Like most glowing brides-to-be, you probably dream of the perfect wedding. An eloquent exchange of vows, a beautiful gown, a scrumptious cake and a honeymoon groom are all elements of any memorable wedding ceremony. However, as most women who have graced the halls of matrimony will tell you, their wedding ensemble would not have been complete without a historic strand of cultured pearls.

Since a cultured pearl necklace often adds a finishing splash of elegance to any wedding gown, they are often a bride's item of choice on her special day. Although pearls have become synonymous with brides, most people don't realize how and when that special bond was formed, or why pearls have become a staple of any bride's wardrobe.

Tracing back in time, you can understand how the long-lasting relationship between pearls and brides has come about and how it will survive for many years to come.

One of the earliest relationships between brides and pearls is illustrated in ancient Hindu writings more than 3,000 years before the birth of Christ. According to these tomes, Krishna, the most revered god of Hindu worship, dove to the depths of the sea to collect a single, perfect pearl as a gift for his daughter on her wedding day. The gift of a pearl symbolized the purity and truth of the wedding bond.

Other cultures that associated pearls with brides include the ancient Greeks. They believed pearls could prevent brides from crying and would ensure marital bliss. Another story in Greek mythology tells how a strand of pearls was given by Hymen, the god of marriage, to princess Psyche on her wedding day.

During the dark ages, knights returning home from the Crusades often brought back pearl gifts for their "fair maidens" to wear on their wedding day.

At the time, pearls were believed to embody the virtues of charity and devotion.

Throughout the Middle Ages and into the Renaissance, pearls were used extensively in wedding ceremonies by European nobility. Weddings in the royal families of Burgundy and India were described as being "awash in a sea of pearls." Serving as emblems of royalty and honor, the historic gems would retain a special place in bridal history forever.

With the advent of cultured pearls in the 1920s, what had once been a gem reserved for only the powerful and wealthy, now would be available for all brides. According to tradition passed down through the centuries, a gift of pearls usually was bestowed upon the bride by either her groom or his family. This simple token is a wish of love, good fortune and a long, happy marriage.

For those seeking to buy a gift of cultured pearls for the bride, it is important to choose a piece of jewelry that will last a lifetime and bring many years of joy. Since cultured pearls are products of nature, they are seldom, if ever, perfect.

Every pearl grown by an oyster has its own individual identity. However, when choosing a strand of cultured pearls, it is important to keep several quality points in mind.

Probably the most important aspect, as far as quality is concerned, is the luster of the pearl. Luster is the clear shine on the surface of the pearl. It should be clear enough to reflect the images of objects near the pearl.

Another important factor is the surface of the pearl. It should be relatively free of blemishes that appear as cracks, bumps or pits.

Finally, all the pearls in a strand should be closely matched in terms of color, size and shape. They should all combine together to give an appearance of uniformity within the necklace.

Just as almost people celebrate the bride, they also celebrate the wedding. They make fine gifts for the bridal party. Bridesmaids will be delighted with gifts of oysters; yet, lovely, freshwater cultured pearl necklaces or bracelets, while cultured pearl bachelorette, bachelorsuff links or stud studs are handsome tributes to the bride.

Bridal Registry of the 1990's contains gifts for home office

Move over china patterns, silverware and crystal stemware. Although these traditional wedding gifts still top bridal registry lists, brides and grooms of the '90s register for items that will help them in their everyday lives.

Changing with the times, bridal registries are starting to reflect these new lifestyle priorities. Today, they have expanded to include more nontraditional items, like sporting goods, artwork, furniture and electronics. Equally popular is the one-of-a-kind items geared towards working from home.

Recognizing this trend, Sharp Electronics Corp. provides a full line of home-office products. These include 200 MHz digital cordless phones (for crystal clear conversations), digital cameras, personal copiers, plain paper fax machines, notebook computers, PC companions and multifunction units (which combine faxing, copying, printing, scanning and phone functions into one).

Now that an increasing number of professionals, telecommute and are home based business, it's no wonder that these types of items are finding their way into bridal registries. Many young married couples are trading their 2 to 5 job for-home businesses where they can work together and find more fulfillment through flexible work hours and being their own boss.

Eighty four percent of all U.S. home holds will support some form of home office activity over the next year, reports BT Strategic Services, a market research firm in Hingham, Mass. This means that almost half of all U.S. home holds conduct business or work related activities from their home.

This trend is so pervasive that even those people who don't work from home are dedicating space in their homes for surfing the Internet, on-line banking, faxing letters, and e-mailing digital photos to friends and family.

Today, there has never been a better time to purchase a home office product for someone who is getting married. According to Randy Thompson of Sharp Electronics Corp., the multifunction unit is one of the fastest growing categories of the home-office products. These units combine the most important technology that's needed to set up a well-equipped home office.

Look for a multifunction unit that combines a printer, plain paper fax, PC fax, copier, scanner and telephone. On a comparison basis, multifunction units cost less than the total cost of purchasing all of these products separately. They are also perfect for family members, friends and co-workers who want to purchase and give a joint or group gift.

If you are registering for your future home or looking for a different gift for your favorite bride and groom of the '90s, you may want to consider the non-traditional route. Think about what might be most appreciated and most useful — a crystal candy dish or a DR 6000 fully loaded multifunction unit.

A part of its full line of multifunction units, Sharp's stylishly designed and compact DR 6000 combines a copier, fax, PC fax, scanner, printer and telephone and is compact enough to fit on a small desk table or countertop. To find this or other Sharp products in a store near you, call 1 (800) 85 SHARP or visit the company's Web site at www.sharp-na.com.

Grooms tux can be sophisticated

The groom will look exceptionally handsome in Oscar de la Renta's Champagne tuxedo for spring '98. This dapper white single button jacket with shawl lapel features black satin trim

Adding to the sophisticated style is a white Euro wrap collar shirt, black bow tie, and white shantung vest with black and white lapel buttons.

Home office products, like digital cordless phones, personal copiers and plain paper fax machines, are making their way to the top of bridal registry lists. These practical gifts are sure to be appreciated by the bride and groom.

Learn the intimate secrets of a bride

Finding the right wedding dress traditionally has been one of a bride's biggest challenges. However, modern brides are discovering that what goes under the gown is as important as the wedding dress itself.

From feminine lace silhouettes for the traditional bride who wants to show her romantic side to sleek, simple shapes for the modern bride to body-shaping lingerie for fashion's sleek and body-conscious designs, dressing from the inside out for that special day has never been easier — or more comfortable.

Bridal lingerie can be beautiful thanks to lace with lycra® which brings a new dimension in comfort, fit and softness. It moves when you move, relaxes when you relax, and drapes richly like traditional lace used to be.

Honeymoons — The easiest part of saying 'I do'

All-inclusive resorts are one of the most desirable honeymoon choices for couples walking down the aisle today. According to Gert Bain, travel editor of Modern Bride, 31.7 percent of the magazine's readers are looking for an all-inclusive resort for their honeymoon. Travel agents concur. According to Cathy Pelaez, vice president of Liberty Travel, one of the largest travel agencies in North America, all-inclusives are among the "most popular options" for their honeymoon clients.

Why are all these couples seeking all-inclusives? Simple. It's the easiest part of planning one's nuptial celebration and perhaps the most ideal way to spend a honeymoon.

When planning a wedding, there are a myriad of details to consider and organize: booking the hall, planning the seating chart, ordering the flowers and cake, hiring the band and photographer, buying the dresses and meeting for fittings, and on and on. It's more complicated than putting on a Broadway play.

And there are so many people to consider: bridesmaids and groomsmen, parents and grandparents, aunts and uncles, cousins, friends, etc. But in mentioning what the bride and groom want, with all the stress of planning and arranging the details and keeping everyone happy, most couples want their honeymoon to be as carefree and relaxed as possible. The best all-inclusives provide just that.

When planning a wedding, there is a cost at every turn. However, says Pelaez, at an all-inclusive resort, "you pay one price up front, and you don't have to worry about money again the entire time that you're there."

The top all-inclusives cover everything: accommodations, all food and beverages, land and water sports, nighttime entertainment, airport transfers, taxes, and gratuities. It's incredibly relaxing and you don't have to dip into your wallet every time you want a drink, go water skiing or see a show. In fact, most couples say that they do more at an all-inclusive because they don't have to think about the cost.

In Modern Bride's "Travel Agent Honeymoon Survey," thousands of agents from around the country were polled in an extensive survey on honeymoon. The agents voted Sandals Resorts International the top all-inclusive chain. Sandals has taken the all-inclusive concept to a new level, by making all of its resorts "ultra-inclusive," where every guest always gets more than he or she expects.

Located throughout the Caribbean to Antigua, the Bahamas, Jamaica and St. Lucia, Sandals has 10 luxury ultra-inclusive resorts for couples only. At all of these resorts, luxury accommodations, a la carte dining in a variety of specialty restaurants, all-beverage including top-shelf liquor, a full array of land and water sports including golf and scuba with instruction and certification, nightly entertainment with the Caribbean's top performers, airport transfers, and gratu-ties are included in the price of a vacation stay. Guests at one of the resorts also can enjoy exchange privileges with the others through Sandals' Stay at One, Play at Six program in Jamaica, Stay at One, Play at Two program in St. Lucia, and its Island Hopping program throughout the Caribbean.

The resort chain also has created WeddingMoon™ for couples who wish to marry and honeymoon at the resort. Sandals' wedding coordinators take care of all the details, so the bride and groom can concentrate on each other. The package includes a luxurious wedding celebration dinner, personalized menus prepared by top chefs, minister and attendant, champagne, live music from local musicians, beauty amenities like manicures and massages, and even a salon attendant to help couples look their best. Packages can be designed to suit the needs of the couples, desired, from a wedding for a few to a celebration for a few hundred.

Couples may also opt for the new Sunset WeddingMoon™ package with lavish extras and an exchange of vows just as the Caribbean sun sets across the horizon and swells the ocean sky.

In addition, the resort chain has introduced Beaches Resorts, a new line of resorts that caters to everyone: couples, singles and families with children. So, all the friends and family can join the happy couple in paradise.

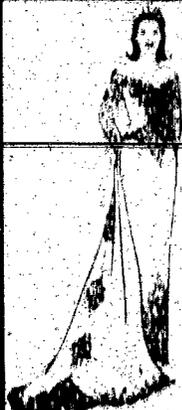

The best part of the all-inclusive experience is that not only is it easy—you book the resort, and you're done—but, as Bain relates, "you get everything, and you don't have to worry on anything." The best all-inclusives, like Sandals, are like the best well-known hotels. From the luxurious rooms to fantastic views, great food, it's all there. "The all-inclusive product has really evolved to be just what you want it to be," continues Bain, "and it is sure to get even more popular."

To book your own all-inclusive honeymoon, call your favorite travel agent or 1-800-SANDALS.

Romance is the very best at sea

If you want romantic ambience and a worry-free atmosphere, cruising is the way to go on your honeymoon, according to travel agent Steve Shulern of Strictly Vacations, Santa Barbara, Calif. "Whether on your first or second honeymoon, or even an anniversary, a cruise ship is a magical place," says Shulern. "You've got ocean sunset, the romance of the sea, great service and food in an all-inclusive price tag."

The best ships for romance, according to Shulern, are the intimate sail cruising ships of Windstar Cruises. Portfolio magazine agrees, having voted Windstar's ships as the most romantic afloat last Valentine's Day.

"How can you beat the small size, friendly service, towering sails and quiet ambience for a romantic honeymoon in paradise?" asks Shulern. "If you're a very fortunate couple, try Costa Rica. If you're more into the classics, try the Greek Isles, or, go for the flair of the French and Italian Riviera."

See your travel agent for more information on honeymoon cruising with Windstar or other lines. For information on Windstar, call 1-800-258-7243.

Champagne and sparkling wines let your wedding day shine.

Champagne adds sparkle

Champagne is the most renowned of wines, and it's a time-honored tradition to toast the new bride and groom with a shimmering glass of champagne or sparkling wine.

Wedding planners offer the following tips for selecting and serving just the right bubbly for your special day.

• Have the table set with tulip-shaped glasses or champagne flutes. The wide-shallow glass is often used at weddings, is the worst choice for sparkling wines. A tall, slender glass allows the fine bubbles to rise without disappearing too quickly.

• Consider a California sparkler. These native wines have made great strides in recent years, and wine connoisseurs say the quality of many California sparkling wines is equal to their French counterparts. From the famous Champagne region (only sparkling wines made in Champagne can be called "champagne," or California wines with bubbles are called "sparkling wine.")

Many of the California wineries are owned by French history. One of the best is Roederer Estate, the California sibling of the centuries-old firm of Champagne Louis Roederer, makers of the famous Cristal champagne. The Roederer Estate Brut is more affordable than real champagne, but many critics believe it's just as good.

• If budget is a concern, consider a two-tier system: buy several cases of a lower-priced sparkler for the majority of your guests and a few special bottles for the wedding party.

• Want to really make a statement? Don't reserve the sparkling wine for just the toast. Instead, serve sparkling wine throughout the entire meal and enhance the occasion's festive mood.

"The French have long known that champagnes and sparkling wines are perfect partners for a wide range of foods," says Roederer Estate winemaker Michel Salgues. Today's adventurous chefs serve sparkling wines with everything from light fish and poultry dishes with creamy sauces to spicy ethnic foods. Ask your caterer for menu suggestions.

• Consider Champagne or sparkling wine as gifts for the bridal party and anyone else who helped smooth the way for a perfect wedding day. A bottle of champagne and a champagne flute will let them relive the happiness of your wedding with their own special someone.

• Give special guests a mom and dad, grandma, and your favorite cousin a cork from champagne popped for the occasion. Mark the corks "Sarah and Mike's Wedding," with the date, for a wonderful wedding memento.

And, when the wedding's over, let the romance live on. Create your own every-day champagne tradition, and keep the sparkle alive!

Beautiful brides have intimate secrets

It's the day you've always dreamed of and the day you'll remember for the rest of your life. It's the day you'll spend so much time planning, fight down to the last detail. And, it's the day you desire to look your most beautiful!

While finding the right wedding dress traditionally has been one of a bride's biggest challenges, increasingly, modern brides are discovering that what goes under the gown is as important as the wedding dress itself.

From feminine, lacy silhouettes for the traditional bride who wants to show her romantic side to sleek, simple shapes for the modern bride to body-shaping lingerie for fashion's slimmer and body-conscious designs, dressing from the inside out for that special day has never been easier or more comfortable.

Bridal lingerie is synonymous with romance, and that means a strong renewed interest in lace. The exquisite beauty and delicate detail of handmade lace has made it much sought after for special occasions since it was introduced in the late 19th century. And, now, lace is made even better than ever, thanks to Lycra®. Lace with Lycra® not only brings femininity to your trousseau, but also brings a new dimension in comfort, fit and softness. It moves when you move, relaxes when you relax and isn't it by like traditional lace used to be.

Dressing for your wedding day means selecting your intimate apparel carefully. The right undergarment is the foundation of a beautiful silhouette. And, today's feminine lingerie doesn't have to be constricting, blinding or uncomfortable. Revolutionary new Lycra® Soft offers intimate and history unprecedented resilience and softness for the active lifestyle of the modern bride. Combining comfortable control that moves with you and a non-binding non-restrictive fit, shapes made with Lycra® Soft allow brides to be confident and comfortable and to think about nothing other than their underwear.

Brides also can turn to their lingerie drawer for a solution to fashion's new sleek bridal designs. Figure-carving camisoles and seamless bra cups made with Lycra® give brides a natural, supportive second skin fit and can be paired with panties with Lycra®, boy-leg shorts, thigh or ankle-length leggings for a smooth, stay-in-place fit.

No matter what your fashion preference, intimate apparel made with Lycra® gives brides the support and freedom of movement you need to be confident, comfortable and beautiful on one of the most important days of your life. For a limited time, DuPont is offering "Intimate Details," a consumer-friendly, comprehensive guide to lingerie styles, sizes, fabric and fit. Send a self-addressed, stamped, business size envelope to DuPont, 1675 Broadway, 3rd Floor, New York, NY 10019.

Your kitchen should be equipped with best tools

After you've chosen your china pattern and wrapped the last piece of silverware, it's time to buy functional items to help you cook everyday. Right just when company arrives for choice.

When you're equipping your first kitchen, remember that half the battle of being a good cook is having the proper tools to do the job.

According to experts, there are three indispensable tools to outfit your new kitchen: a good professional cutlery and cookbooks.

Fond processors are great time-saving tools and now are available in large sizes (9 and 11 cup) and smaller sizes. For example, KitchenAid, the maker of premium appliances, has just introduced the little Ultra Power fond processor, a 2-cup version of its top-rated bigger model. Designed for everyday use, it comes with a minibowl for smaller jobs like chopping herbs or mincing garlic. It's designed for easy cleaning with non-stick cracks and crevices.

High quality kitchen cutlery can last a lifetime, but quality also makes knives safer and more comfortable to use. Choose knives with a metal bolster between the blade and handle to add weight and balance and to ensure safety. Knives with high-carbon steel are best, like Four Star and Professional from J.A. Henckels. These knives are an exclusive new process called Supermetal Component Technology. To produce blades with optimum cutting performance.

The most popular cookbooks for new buyers offer tips from professional chefs on making tasty gourmet recipes that are easy to prepare.

Outfitting your kitchen with high quality products and the proper utensils can make cooking every day easier.

Living happily ever after in the kitchen

Can two people who are used to the pace of their respective kitchens find true happiness and culinary success working together in one kitchen? Absolutely, according to wedding expert Abigail Kirsch. Kirsch has been responsible for orchestrating thousands of weddings and has used her knowledge and experience to create, with the help of Aron M. Greenberg, "The Bride & Groom's First Cookbook, Recipes and Menus for a Cooking Together in the 90's" (Doubleday).

This cookbook is great for helping young couples achieve sophisticated tastes, stay out-of-balance. Their kitchen skills and available time. Kirsch offers basic information, like tips for before one enters the kitchen, lists of necessary equipment, tips for serving, storing and varying recipes, and what to have in a well-stocked pantry.

With recipes and information that will be helpful through the years, "The Bride & Groom's First Cookbook" is the perfect addition to any newlywed kitchen.

LEMON CHICKEN WITH CAPERS

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 14 minutes
Makes 4 servings

- 1 cup all purpose flour
- 1 cup dry unseasoned bread crumbs
- Salt and freshly ground pepper
- 4 1/2 ounce whole skinless and boneless chicken breasts, halved to make 8 pieces
- 4 tablespoons virgin olive oil
- 1/4 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 cup chicken broth (fresh or canned, unseasoned)
- 2 tablespoons minced capers
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon zest, dried

4 tablespoons (1/2 stick) cold sweet butter, cut into pieces

Garnish:
3 lemon wedges

1. Preheat the oven to 200 F.
2. Combine the flour and bread crumbs and season with salt and pepper. Coat both sides of the chicken breasts with the flour and bread crumb mixture.

3. Heat the oil in the sauté pan until hot but not smoking. Sauté the breasts, 4 pieces at a time, on high heat for 2 minutes. Turn the chicken with tongs, lower the heat, and sauté for 2 to 3 minutes more. Chicken breasts are done when the centers are opaque and the juices run clear. The chicken breasts should not touch one another in the pan or they will begin to steam.

4. Remove the cooked chicken breasts to the ovenproof serving platter. Put the platter in the warm oven.

5. Reduce the heat to low and add the white wine and chicken broth to the sauté pan. Stir well, scraping up any particles of chicken that were stuck to the bottom of the pan. This is called "deglazing" the pan.

6. Add the capers and half of the lemon zest. Simmer for 2 minutes; the sauce will reduce by one third. Whisk in the butter pieces until melted. The sauce should have the consistency of a simple syrup.

Service: Pour the sauce over the chicken and sprinkle with the remaining zest. Garnish with lemon wedges and serve with hot buttery pasta.
Cook's tip: This recipe works just as well with slices of veal scalloped in place of the chicken.

Thanking everyone

In the weeks prior to the actual wedding ceremony, the bride's house will start to look like it does at Christmas. Packages and boxes of all shapes and sizes from various guests and well-wishers will be arriving daily. In this time of excitement, organization is the name of the game. One of the most important tasks that the bridal couple must complete is the overwhelming job of writing thank you notes to all who sent gifts. The job of writing these notes is so time-consuming, because they must be written; a verbal thank you is not enough. The only verbal note that can be sent is a telegram, which can get costly when sending to a large number of guests.

Wedding gifts are given to both the bride and groom. When writing a thank you note, be sure the signature reflects both of them. Writing the notes is not just the task of the bride, so be sure to put the groom to work. One idea is for the groom to write to his friends and the bride to hers.

The final countdown

Tips to keep you from going crazy

After all those months, and even years, of planning, your wedding day has almost arrived. However, with the wedding almost one month away, the final details must be taken care of. You may be driving yourself crazy trying to remember everything that needs to be done, so the ceremony and reception will go off without a hitch.

To ease the tension you may encounter during the next month, Modern Bride magazine offers some helpful tips to ensure that all tasks will be completed, so you can relax and enjoy your wedding day.

THE MONTH BEFORE YOUR WEDDING

- Develop an orderly system of tracking guests' responses.
- Discuss the bachelor party with your fiancé. Suggest the event be scheduled at least a week before the wedding day.
- Call the caterer, and finalize the menu. Be sure the cake has been ordered.
- Give your caterer a reliable estimate of the number of guests expected at the reception.
- Confer with the florist to be sure everything is ordered. Confirm the time that flowers will be delivered and decorations will be completed.

- Arrange the transportation schedule for the wedding party.
- Make certain you are insured against damage or loss in transit.

TWO WEEKS BEFORE THE WEDDING

- Set a date with your fiancé to get your marriage license.
- Be sure all clothing and accessories for the bridal party are in order.
- Submit your wedding announcement and photograph to the society editor of your local newspaper.

• Change your name on your bank account, Social Security card, license, insurance and other documents if you are assuming your husband's last name.

- Call guests who have not responded to their invitation to ask if they'll be attending.

ONE WEEK BEFORE THE WEDDING

- Confirm ceremony vocalists and musicians, and recheck your musical selections.

- Present a small gift or note of appreciation to friends and relatives who did special favors and made the planning run smoothly.

• Add last minute acceptances, and phone your caterer with the final guest count.

- Do a final check on details with your florist, caterer, sexton, clergy, musicians and photographer.

• Finalize your honeymoon plans, and begin packing.

ONE DAY BEFORE THE WEDDING

- Have a manicure, pedicure and even a massage to pamper yourself.
- Attend the rehearsal. Review all important duties with the principals in the wedding party.
- Give ushers the list of guests to be seated in the reserved section.

THE WEDDING DAY

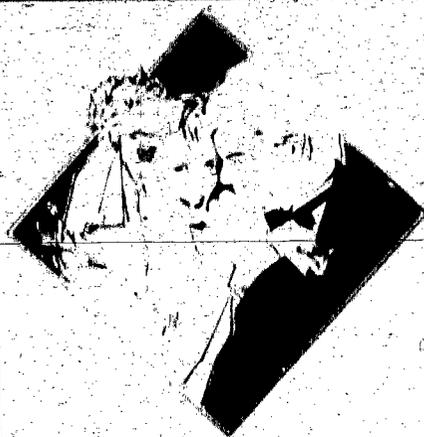

- Rest and thoroughly relax in a nice, warm bath.
- Allow plenty of time to dress about two hours before the ceremony, if possible.
- Have a wonderful wedding, and enjoy every moment.

Quilting talent helps fund mission projects

By Bernice Blech
Church and Republican
OPAROND, Monday, 1 p.m.
Quilting.

That note has been on the Emmanuel Lutheran Church calendar for more than 77 years.

And, just as it was at the beginning, mission projects are the beneficiaries of the talents, mostly a small but dedicated group of women here.

It was in 1924 that Elizabeth Finkhaber invited women of Emmanuel Lutheran in Oparond to organize a quilting group. In addition to allowing women to use their quilting skills, the proceeds from their efforts would be donated to various mission projects. Plus, it would provide a time for fellowship.

An Oparond native and retired nurse, Mrs. Finkhaber had moved back to the community in 1967 with her husband, Karl, who had retired after many years as a parochial school teacher.

Mrs. Finkhaber worked as a nurse on a part-time basis at Emmanuel General Hospital until 1978. She is now a resident of Oparond General Care Center and is no longer able to join the group for quilting.

Fern Knack now serves as coordinator for the group. She was joined on a recent Sunday afternoon by Emma Pfandl and Rosa Buchholz. The trio used the afternoon to reminisce about the group's activities throughout the years.

Pieced quilts are brought to the women for quilting. Some are return "customers" who have a tradition of giving quilts as gifts for special occasions. Other quilts are completed for the owner's enjoyment.

The charge for the labor is by the yards of thread used. In the beginning, the charge was three cents per yard. The fee raised to five cents, then 10 cents and continued with gradual increases. By about a nickel a yard to the present price of 30 cents per yard. In some cases, quilt owners express their appreciation to the women by giving an added donation.

people who brought quilts, lap robes and wall hangings for the women to quilt since the beginning.

Looking through the entries, one finds a charge of $4.30 assessed for a baby quilt which the group completed its first year. On the upper end of the charges were $132 for an "overcast" queen size quilt and $120 for a queen size quilt completed in the past year.

Some of the quilts are made from commercial patterns while others have been personally designed by the same individual. "We've done some king size quilts, but we kind of hew in it because we really don't have the room," Mrs. Pfandl said.

Some seven to 12 women gather each Monday for the quilting project. Since the quilting is done in the fellowship area of the church, the plans are changed if there is a funeral or other activity scheduled. "If that happens, we quilt on Tues. day," Mrs. Knack said. Regular hours are 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The group takes a break during the afternoon and enjoys snacks brought by members on a rotating basis. The treat may be something made special for the day, or Mrs. Buchholz said, "It might be left overs," depending if it's holiday time or maybe the member had company for dinner the day before. The quilters displayed another talent the day, the accompanying picture was taken shortly after New Year's Day. Each had brought Christmas cookies and candy, and the lady coordinated a homemade varieties.

The group usually completes six or seven quilts per year, working from September through May. However, if they don't get the time on the frame finished by the end of May, they go on into June to complete it. Their quilts have been sent to recipients in Florida, Wisconsin, Illinois and Colorado.

Occasionally the group is asked to participate in special programs for the congregation. They've done such readings as "Godwin's Hands" and "Patchwork," which has one might expect has a quilting theme.

While the eyesight of some members is not as sharp as it once was, they still thread their own needles. Lorraine Fleming joined the group as needle threader and then decided to join in the quilting. Lorraine Wise has become the "official needle threader" on days she can attend.

the women and Emma Bell Gady to her secret as quilt "maker."

As the reminiscing continued, names of past and present quilters came to memory. Helen Knack, Edna Knack, Clara Gutz, Edna Lorenz, Norma Buchholz, Lydia Knack, Lorraine Schultz, Lorraine Knack and the late Bertha and Rosa Pfandl. Frieda Hammond, Ella Warruck and Wilma Buchholz. Others have helped for short periods of time.

The money realized by the project has frequently gone to Lutheran Bible Translators and Bethesda Home. Last year a gift was sent to North Dakota flood victims. Another gift of the group was quilting the community's communal quilt at no charge.

Anyone on the community is welcome to join the group, "and we'd love to have them," she told.

As entry to a church activity report sums up the women's mission: "To keep our fingers nimble, creating beautiful quilts for others and helping to spread His word."

Employees reunion

Ten women who had been employees of State National Bank 52 years ago met recently at The Oaks for a luncheon and reminiscing. Dorothy Meyer, who recently moved back to Wayne, helped organize the meeting in an attempt to get reacquainted with her former co-workers. The group discussed activities that took place at the bank which was located at the corner of Second and Main Streets and owned by Hollie Lay. Those attending the gathering were, back row, left to right, Pearl Youngmeyer, Verna Heek, Edna Meyer, Elda Jones, Bernadine West and Lois Roberts. Front row, Ruth Johnson, Jane Macklin, Leora Austin and Dorothy Meyer.

'98 Social Security changes

Social Security Commissioner Kenneth S. Apfel announced that Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 2.1 percent.

The increase will begin with benefits that Social Security beneficiaries receive for December 1997, which will be paid in January 1998. Increased payments to SSI recipients will begin on December 11. The automatic cost-of-living adjustment is made annually.

Today's news confirms that inflation remains under control," Apfel said. "Low inflation is good for America, particularly for many Social Security beneficiaries with limited incomes."

For Social Security beneficiaries, the average monthly benefit amount for all retired workers will rise from $749 to $765. The maximum federal SSI monthly payment for an individual will rise from $400 to $411. For a couple, the maximum federal SSI payment will rise from $2,400 to $2,466.

Social Security and SSI benefit increases automatically each year based on the rise in the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) from the third quarter of one year through the corresponding period of the next. This year's increase in the CPI-W was 2.1 percent.

The automatic increase is the lowest since December 1980 when benefits received a 1.1 percent increase and is the second lowest since the automatic adjustment became effective in 1975.

Medicare costs increase

The 1997 increases in the hospital costs payable by Medicare beneficiaries — the Part A hospital insurance deductible and the Part B medical insurance premium — were announced this month. The deductible and the premium are recalculated each year to reflect changes in the costs of health care or changes in Medicare law.

The Part A deductible for beneficiaries admitted to hospitals in 1997 will be $760, an increase of $4 over this year's $760. The monthly Part B premium will remain at $43.80. These relatively modest increases for 1997 reflect increases in Medicare spending lower than previously projected.

The Part A deductible is a beneficiary's only cost for up to 60 days of covered inpatient hospital services during a benefit period. A benefit period begins when the beneficiary enters the hospital and ends when he or she has been out of the hospital or a skilled nursing facility for 60 consecutive days. The Part A deductible is based on the rates that Medicare pays hospitals for inpatient care.

For hospital stays longer than 60 days, a beneficiary will be responsible for $191 per day for the 61st through 90th days, and $302 per day for the 91st through 150th days.

When a beneficiary needs therapeutic care in a skilled nursing facility after at least three consecutive days of inpatient hospital care, Medicare pays 100 percent of covered expenses for the first 20 days. The beneficiary is responsible for $93.50 per day for the 21st through the 100th day.

Part B Medicare helps beneficiaries pay for the services of doctors and other medical practitioners, hospital outpatient services, independent clinical work, and durable medical equipment and supplies. The premium is determined by a formula set in law to cover 25 percent of current estimated costs.

Heath: The secret to long life is to keep living

By Martha Brimston
Special Advertising

BETHANN "In Iowa, Newton's first law of motion is being proved on a daily basis in Northeast Nebraska.

Bertha Heath of Healden has come to the same conclusion as Newton did over 300 years ago - a body at rest tends to remain at rest, a body in motion tends to remain in motion.

The 95-year-old Bertha Heath has kept in constant motion.

Although Bertha and her husband, Lloyd, retired from farming and moved to town in 1971, she has continued to be active.

Lloyd passed away in 1987. Bertha presently lives with one of the founders of Healden - Senior Citizens Center Club in 1986.

She was president of the club in July 1991 when she took her top. Her 28 day stay in the hospital resulted about the only time she missed a morning coffee.

She is often seen at the Healden top and she has a fun time every morning. There are also many others who like getting up getting out, even at the post-aid at home.

"It is really not much longer until the sun is in a real nice home in the early 1990's."

One of her fondest memories of her involvement in the community was when the Senior Citizens Club used to make quilts as a fund-raiser.

"Some quilts we raffled off for more than $700," Bertha said. "Some of the things the money was used for was a new refrigerator and air conditioner for the hall."

It was a lot of fun and everyone would work on the quilts together, she said. "It was a great time to socialize and to do something worthy for the community."

Throughout the years, the quilt-making has declined along with the membership.

An active member of the Senior Citizens Club, she is a familiar face at several other Healden organizations including the Ladies Society Association, the Silver Stars Club, the Royal Neighbors Lodge and the Presbyterian Women's Association. In the early 1990's, Bertha was chosen as "Woman of the Year" by Union Presbyterian Church and has she worries about the future of small town organizations in today's busy world.

"There used to be a lot of members in each club and now some have even had to disband due to lack of members," she said.

When she isn't going to club, she keeps busy by visiting friends and keeping in touch with family members.

"I guess I've always had a busy life and feel that's the secret to staying young. We worked hard on the farm and there was always something to do."

When asked what her favorite craft was, she replied, "My craft was always on the tractor. I've driven just about everything from a Farmall to a John Deere to a Case," she recalled.

When she wasn't on the tractor

Contest focuses on women making history in Nebraska

Celebrate and share the missing contributions of your grandmothers, mothers, daughters, sisters, wives, friends and others in a traveling exhibit: Living The Legacy Of Woman's Rights: Celebrating the Lives of Nebraska Women, 1848-1998.

In observance of the 150th anniversary of the women's rights movement, the Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women is organizing a photographic retrospective of the lives of Nebraska women from 1848-1998.

The purpose of the exhibit is to portray the changing and remarkably diverse roles of Nebraska women during the past 150 years. The exhibit will be open to the public by Fall 1998 and will travel to various sites across the state.

Students in grades 9 and above are also eligible to enter the contest by entering a photo and an essay.

Entries should include:

- Women at Work: Outside the Home (homesteading, agriculture, trades, professions, factory work, health care, teaching, etc.)
- Women in the Church and other Religious/Spiritual roles.

- Women as Caretakers of the Family and the Home

- Women in Public Life (appointed and elected officials, public servants, volunteers, tribal leaders, political candidates, community activists)

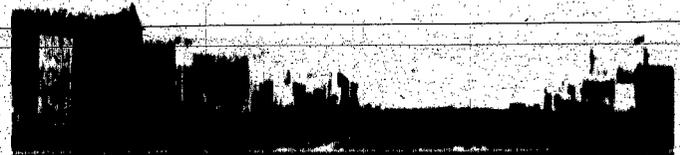

- Women in the Military

- Women in the Arts and Cultural Life

- Women in Athletics and Leisure Activities

The chosen submissions will be included in the traveling exhibit. A committee of judges appointed by the Commission will select entries by late spring or summer. The winner will be honored with an award and the student's work will be featured in the exhibit. Students who receive an honorable mention will also have their submissions included in the exhibit. The deadline for submissions is May 1, 1998.

N E B R A S K A TIMELINE

by the Nebraska State Historical Society

Both World Wars I and II offered American women the opportunity to temporarily fill jobs on the home front vacated by men entering the armed forces. In some instances this caused a shortage of labor in certain previously "female" sections of the economy. The Omaha Daily News, Aug. 17, 1916, reported on the lack of applicants for traditional women's jobs in factories and private homes:

"Omaha is facing a shortage of woman workers. Housewives and factory superintendents are sending both a practically unanswered cry for help.

Never in our experience has there been such a dearth of woman machine operators," said Frank H. Debeck, foreman for the M. F. Smith & Co. Employment Bureau report a similar shortage of domestic help. Many housewives who cannot obtain meals have practically closed their kitchens, the families taking their meals at the hotels, restaurants and clubs." One Omaha housewife told the Daily News, "We found it so difficult to find a competent maid that we have been sort of camping out this summer, eating wherever we chose." Only in retail sales was the situation less than serious, and even in that field there were more jobs than female applicants.

The labor situation changed after the end of both World Wars I and II when returning American soldiers reclaimed their jobs, reversing many of women's wartime gains in employment.

SSC Seniors enjoy shooting pool at Center

By Julie Gelper
Staff Writer

There is no age limit on playing pool at the South Sioux City Senior Center.

Several of the regular players are in their 80s, including South Sioux City's Charles Anthony John Ferraro and Chas Whittick, who will be 90 in February.

Recently, Whittick knocked two striped balls down various holes, one right after another.

"I was just lucky this time," he said modestly.

"We mostly come over here to play pool and enjoy ourselves," said Maurice Berg of South Sioux City, who started pool tournaments in South Sioux City more than 15 years ago with the late Tom Everinghamer.

It gets in out of the house and we have some fun," he said.

Three tournaments are held each month with the South Sioux City pool players challenging players from Laurel, Wakefield and Fremont according to tournament chairman Gerald Caender of South Sioux City.

Teams are limited to 10 players each. There isn't much competition at who gets to play. The first 10 names on the sign-up sheet play in the tournament, said Caender.

The tournaments are rotated bi-monthly between the Laurel and South Sioux City centers.

Each year the centers elect tournament chairman and co-chairmen. The South Sioux City co-chairman is John Ferraro.

Scorekeepers are Bernice Berg, Dorothy Caender and Carol Hamer found — wives of the some of the tournament players.

Were also cheerleaders, said Mrs. Berg.

Winners of the tournaments win the honor of having a traveling trophy.

On this particular play day, South Sioux City had lost them all, reported Berg.

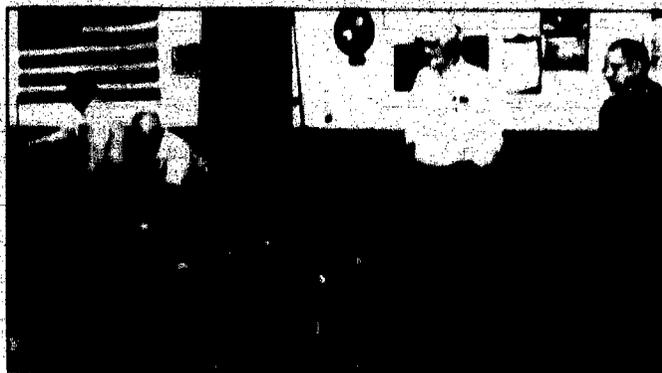

When there's no tournament, it's practice, practice or it appears that it's more play and fellowship at the South Sioux City Senior Center.

For a 80-cent daily donation, anyone can pick up a pool cue and rack the balls at the Center.

At the senior center, located at 1501 W. 29th St., most often its men who are found playing friendly competitive games of eight ball.

There are about 30 regular pool players from the Mousland area, according to Dorothy Caender.

players include Caender, Ferraro, Berg, Whittick, Austin, Horan, Rod Black, Don Lundahl, Hop Hallstrom, Kenneth Hirschman, Carl Lyvine, Dick Peterson, Virgil King, Ellis Linafelter and Clarence "Dandy" Ollberg, include Leo Bauerfeld of Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, Jerome Mackay of Jackson, Shirley Hughes, of Dakota City, Alwynne Miller, 1267 Bonick, Bill Seale, 84

Gary, Frank Ryan, Herb Berg, Red Hicks, Fritz Faltan, Bob Fletcher and Carl Larson, all of Sioux City.

Until recently, Henry Koster and Oscar Smith also played, but both are now living in local nursing homes, said Mrs. Berg.

This is their second home," said Mrs. Caender, adding that they often can be found at the pool tables every minute the center is open.

Greater Slouxland Fair changed to July 15-19

Five horse racing and 141 Livestock Week festivities just won't suit decided members of the Dakota Thurston County Fair Board, so the Greater Slouxland Fair dates have been moved from the traditional middle of August run to July 15-19. The decision was made at a Dec. 16 meeting of the joint Dakota-Thurston County Fair Board on a 13-4 vote.

The change was deemed necessary after it was learned that the Nebraska State Racing Commission issued Atokad Race Track 22 days of live racing beginning Aug. 14. Fortunately, both the carnival and the rodeo were able to be rescheduled for the new dates. Fair board members are in the process of lining up entertainment.

The board had considered holding the fair at several other locations but checked against that. The date change will mean that some garden products may not be ready for sale but 4-Hers should be able to adjust their projects to meet the new time frame.

Public-private partnerships are key to increased mammography usage in Neb.

LINCOLN — The state's survey on the prevalence of major health risk factors among adults indicates Nebraska has achieved the Healthy People 2000 Objective for breast cancer screening.

"The Good Life keeps getting better and the rapid increase in mammography screening demonstrates the commitment to preventive health and public wellness in our state," said Jesse Rasmussen, Director of the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services. "Five years ago, Nebraska ranked second to last nationally for mammography usage. Today, we celebrate the achievement of the Healthy People 2000 breast cancer screening goal — two years early."

The year 2000 objective sets a goal of 60 percent as the proportion of Nebraska women 50 years and above who will, in the year 2000, report having had both a mammogram and a clinical breast exam within the past two years.

The Nebraska Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (NBRRFS) data indicates this goal was met. The NBRRFS is a telephonic survey developed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and used in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and three territories.

Coordinated efforts of public health programs, health care providers, community agencies and nonprofit and private sector organizations have resulted in the increase of mammography usage.

The efforts of the Neb. Medical Association, the American Cancer Society, The Humderbruch Corporation Nebraska (the Medicare consumer advocate) and the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services have helped achieve the Healthy People 2000 mammography objective.

"We are pleased the trend for increased breast cancer screening continues and the message about the importance of early detection has reached many Nebraska women who are in their prime of life," said Dr. Anton Piskac, principal clinical coordinator of the Humderbruch Corporation Nebraska. "However, there are still many women we call mother, sister, daughter and neighbor who have not gotten the message or do not have access to breast cancer screening."

The NBRRFS data reveals the frequency of breast cancer screening varies considerably by demographic and socioeconomic factors. Women who are not as likely to have had both a mammogram and a clinical breast exam in the past two years are older, less affluent, less educated and live in the rural areas.

The percentage of women within different demographic groups who report having had both a mammogram and a clinical breast exam in the past two years are as follows: 67 percent of women 50-64 years; 54 percent of women 65+ years above without a high school diploma. "For the past five years, our organizations have coordinated and combined resources to increase awareness among Nebraska women for regular breast cancer screening, encourage medical providers to refer these important exams for their clients and improve access to breast cancer screening," said Dr. Allen Devrak, president of the Neb. Medical Association.

"In a time when the word partnership is often spoken, our organizations have demonstrated that not only can public-private partnerships work, they achieve results and improve the health of our neighbors and our communities."

The grant to fund collaborative projects — the distribution of the coping resource "Straight Talk About Breast Cancer." A copy of the book "Straight Talk About Breast Cancer" will be available free as a coping resource to every Nebraska woman newly diagnosed with breast cancer.

Over the past five years, the groups have also organized the annual Pink Ribbon Week Awareness Project which is recognized in the faith community as a special issue of Nebraska Health Journal devoted entirely to breast cancer issues which was nominated for the National Medical Authors Award and public awareness media campaigns to promote mammography.

Church sign offers hope to passers-by

By Julia Geigil
Staff Writer

Sitting in his office chair, looking out the window, a local pastor has many cars a day passing by — 40,000 each day, according to one local city official.

"I thought it was a shame to have so much traffic and not have someone to help them come closer to a faith in God," Dale Jirounek, pastor, began manufacturing of First Lutheran Church in South Dakota Avenue, four years ago.

About six years ago, the congregation decided to remedy the situation. The church members, especially first timers, were in frustration in creating a message sign along the roadway.

Even though the main reason for the sign was to advertise their church activities, what probably caught drivers' attention the most is the inspirational messages that are often found there.

The sign has evolved, said Jirounek. "We used to use it only for advertising," he said, "it's becoming heavy on inspirational messages."

For the last several days, it has said "Fear knocked on the door."

Pastor Dale Jirounek created a road sign ministry outside his South Dakota City church.

Faith, a powerful god no one was there. According to Jirounek, the thought-provoking message simply means "Faith overcomes fear."

"Our faith can overcome those fears," he said. "Because they had faith, they had no fear."

"It's not only a message board for our own members," said Jirounek. "It's a ministry to the passerby."

"I suppose the sign teaches a lot of

Keep watching — the message changes on it week

un-churched people who don't want to come in the church door to worship. But get something off the sign," he said.

Jirounek said he has gotten calls with positive feedback on the sign's message. He added that he's never had someone complain about the sign.

In addition to advertising the church's activities, and offering words to live by, the sign also serves as a community message board.

"We try to be reflective of the community," he said.

For instance, in November, the message encouraged people to vote. The latter occasion it has congratulated the local girls basketball team on their state championship win.

The sign holds up to 30 characters on each of its four lines, which sometimes, said Jirounek, create ways to get words to fit in the board. Sometimes for one's single letters, such as "H" for the word "and."

Parish members and community members call Jirounek with inspirational messages for the sign. A member of his congregation also presented him with a year-long calendar of daily inspirational quotes.

Usually Jirounek changes the message each week. Church members place the black letters on the sign.

"We try to keep it as current as possible," said Jirounek. "Every week and as life it gets behind."

Keep a close eye on the sign. It's almost time to change the wording again.

Driver's license express station opens Feb. 5

By Julia Geigil
Staff Writer

It took six months longer than planned, but on Feb. 5, the Driver's License Express Station in Dakota City will open its doors for business.

The Express Station will be for those persons needing an identification card, learner's permit or driver's license renewal that doesn't require a written or driving test, said Eldon Makison, drivers license examining district supervisor of the Nebraska Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV).

In other words, persons with licenses that have not expired or have no violations can have their licenses renewed at the Express Station, said Makison.

The Express station will be open on Mondays and Tuesdays from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm at the Driver's License Station, which is west of the Dakota County Courthouse, in Dakota City.

Originally, the Express Station was to have opened Aug. 1 of last year, but personnel problems and remodeling of the station slowed the process, said Makison.

The regular Drivers License Station is open Mondays and Tuesdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Dakota City. Those needing written and driving tests must appear on Mondays or Tuesdays to receive service.

Conditions are perfect for area hunters

By Phil Carter
Staff Writer

Walking across a tangled pasture on a crisp winter morning may seem boring to some, but to Todd Beacom it's heaven.

The Ponca native is just one of hundreds of hunters you'll spot out in a very scenic location in northwest Nebraska tracking deer or hunting pheasants during the fall.

"It's beautiful, this area," said Beacom, who is also a state probation officer working in Dakota City. "Usually deer hunt along the bluffs of the Missouri River and walk the rolling hills during pheasant season. This area is a perfect area for that type of sport and I think that's what keeps me in this area."

When people pass through small towns in Nebraska or their drive curvously of farmhouse after farmhouse on the interstate, they don't realize that the state offers some of the best hunting ground in northwest Nebraska. In fact, thousands of hunters nationwide come to Nebraska each fall just to hunt pheasants.

Beacom, 30, who has hunted pheasant since he was about 13 years old, knows just how generous the prairie land in northwest Nebraska can be to pheasant hunters. On a recent outing last month, he and eight other hunters spent a chilly, but sunny Saturday morning bagging one bird.

"We had five dogs out there with us and that made a big difference," he said. "We wouldn't have found half of those birds without a good dog."

A dog, a shotgun and some shotgun shells. It seems like that's all you need to be a good hunter, but it takes much more than that to be prepared for any hunting excursion.

For instance, Beacom says it starts well before sunrise for the hunter who has to set up for five hours of patience and precision.

"Shooting hours are usually a half-hour before sunrise," he explained. "If you're hunting for turkey or deer, though, you want to be out early and have your stuff set up well before sunlight. That way, you can sit down and be quiet and everything has a chance to calm itself down."

Most hunters typically have their weapons cleaned and inspected months before the start of the fall season, but it's the weather that can be the most unpredictable. That's why picking the right gear is very important because you don't want to forget the warmest clothing on a cold morning.

"I always dress warm and in layers," Beacom noted. "That way if it gets warm, you can take layers off to stay comfortable. And if I'm going to be out most of the day, I want to make sure I've got a bit of stuff with me in case the weather changes."

It's also important, Beacom says, to have the right boot and comfortable footwear when you're out walking.

"You don't want anything that's going to be slipping and sliding around," he added.

Most importantly though, a hunter should always wear something that's visible. Hunter's orange is mandatory during deer season in Nebraska, Beacom says, but it's important to be seen by everybody when it comes to safety.

So how you're set. Layered clothing, comfortable footwear, a shotgun, a dog and rising early to set up camp for a long day of tracking and shooting birds. Everything seems in place except the bird. One of the most important aspects of being a good hunter is being a precautionary hunter.

Whatever weapon you choose, you should know its ins and outs, Beacom pointed out. "When you buy a gun or a bow, talk to a relative, a friend or someone in the pro shop that knows a bit about the weapon. You should always talk to someone before you go out and do it."

It's also important to know the territory around you when you're hunting. "Stopping off in a field or a pasture without permission to hunt or without any knowledge of the territory can be dangerous."

You have to know your surroundings, Beacom added. "If you're out in the country, watch for farm buildings and cattle and make sure you shoot away from roads.

People born in or after 1977 must take a hunter's safety course and an archery safety course, which Beacom teaches in the late summer prior to the start of hunting season.

"We really stressed you have to be alert and on top of things when you're out there hunting," he admitted. "You definitely want to consider your own safety, but it's also important to the safety of other hunters when you know what you're doing."

On a typical Saturday morning, Beacom and his 12-gauge will walk for about four hours when hunting pheasant. He says he usually returns to the same spot every fall, but also tries to incorporate different hunting ground each year.

"It's not good to over hunt an area," he added. "You can knock out a population that way or there might not be very many birds to go around the following year."

Despite having a successful morning of hunting pheasant with his group, which also included his brother-in-law Mike Carlson, brother-in-law Mike and Jon Schindell, and father-in-law Morris Schmidt, Beacom admits that pheasant season is enjoyable, but the spring turkey season is what he lives for.

Nothing gets your blood pumping more, he said with a smile. "The sun starts to shine and the turkeys begin to gobble. It's spring time, it's warm and I just love it."

Bloomfield Good Samaritan Center offers therapy for all kinds and ages

BLOOMFIELD — In the fall of 1995, the Bloomfield Good Samaritan Center started offering three Rehab services on an out-patient basis. Rehab therapies are important in the recovery process for millions of people in America. A common struggle shared by those in rehabilitation programs is that they are trying to achieve a long-term quality of life that has been altered because of an injury or medical problem.

"It is very important to meet our residents' needs to help with some of our community needs and to look to our future," said Vicki Stout, Administrator at BCSC.

"We provide rehab therapies to our residents that meet those services and also provide out-patient physical, occupational, and speech therapies five days a week. People can receive these services in town instead of driving out of town. At times a week and people from the surrounding community can come the shorter distance to Bloomfield," she said.

Depending upon the nature of the specific illness or injury that caused the entry to the rehab program at BCSC, the professional team can include a variety of therapists and staff members.

"A person receiving outpatient therapy would work with either the physical, occupational, or speech therapists, or a combination of the therapists," said Sarah Parker, R.N., Medicare/Rehab Coordinator. "A person needing intensive rehab therapy due to a more severe injury or illness can be admitted to BCSC for a short-term stay. During that time they would receive a variety of other services."

The goal of the professional Rehab team at the Bloomfield Good Samaritan Center is to work with people of all ages with physical disabilities and help them achieve their highest level of independence. The BCSC Rehab Team members for outpatient services include:

Physical Therapists work with patient residents to strengthen, regain, and maintain use of muscle groups and joints as well as decrease pain. The major aim is improving physical strength, endurance, general mobility, balance, and coordination. The therapist strength therapeutic exercises and secure the appropriate assistive devices such as wheel chairs and walkers when needed by the patient/resident. Physical therapists' focus is on the gross motor skills with range of motion and ambulation. They work especially with the large muscles when assisting re-occupant/residents. Theresa Miller, PT and Linda Christensen, PTA, are the Physical Therapist and Assistant on staff.

Occupational Therapists help patients/residents who need to learn new and more efficient ways to help them regain independence with self-care skills (toileting, dressing, grooming, skills, meal preparation), planned function, muscle strength, movement and coordination, thinking, skills, and perception. They also help patients/residents and family members learn how to cope with the changes needed at home, such as adaptive equipment and structural modifications such as ramps.

Ron Kachura, CTRT, is the Occupational Therapist on staff. Speech Therapists help patients who have encountered speech or swallowing problems as a result of illness or injury. They work with language comprehension and expression, memory skills, thought processes, and alternate ways of communication. They also evaluate and treat any swallowing problems. Kristi Eschong, MA, CCC-SLP is the Speech Therapist on staff.

The Bloomfield Good Samaritan Center offers Physical, Occupational, and Speech Therapies five days a week to residents and out-patients. Our licensed therapists will provide free screenings for individuals in debt, some if therapy is appropriate. Any one with questions about these rehab therapies should call Sarah Parker at 405.331.2234.

Janssen concludes long career in grocery business

By Crystal Wuebben
Randolph Times

RANDOLPH Her many years of service to customers of Randolph has unfortunately come to an end.

Making meat and cheese trays for graduations and weddings and giving them a personal touch will be one of Winnie Janssen's many memories during her 22 years at Jim's Food Center.

Janssen, Randolph, ended the 1997 year "in fashion" as many would say after her retirement on Dec. 31.

"I met a lot of fine people, Janssen said, but the patience my family has had with me over the years has been great. Sometimes I wasn't home for them, but they've had a lot of patience with me."

Janssen worked full-time in the meat department for many of the years she was employed at Jim's. She said she started working part time just a few years ago as she neared her retirement.

"I've worked with a lot of people," she said. "I've seen a lot of people come and go."

Janssen said she began working at Jim's Food Center in August of 1974. She worked as a cashier in the financing, but then moved to the meat department where she cut and put out meat and made soups, salads and desserts.

She said Jim's Food Center had been open for one year when Jim Riedel, owner, approached Janssen about working there.

"Jim said he had an opening and he asked me if I wanted to work for him," she said. "I never regretted it a bit."

Winnie was a gal who would do anything for you in the line of work," Riedel said. "I am grateful I had her for 22 years."

Riedel said when considering Janssen for the position, he looked at two major qualities: she was a good customer and was a "farm gal."

"I knew she was a farm gal, and farm gals really know how to work," he said. "I also think the best way to find help is to pick them out individually."

Riedel said he could always count on Janssen to be at work on time or even a little early. He said she also hardly ever took sick days.

"Sometimes I had to dig farther than I wanted to know in trying to help customers out," the 22-year veteran said.

Janssen said she's seen a number of changes in the grocery business, including the technology advances and the number of grocery stores that have played a role in the community.

She said the Piggly Wiggly store, located in Jim's building before Jim bought the building. Waiter's Grocery was Jim's Food Center's competition up until their closing a number of years ago. She said she's seen other grocery stores such as Harker Grocery and Funtink's H&A go through town. Jim's Food Center is the only existing grocery store in Randolph.

Among the most important of all the technology advances Janssen said was the computerization of the store. She said seeing the computer scales, the scanners and the grocery order scanner made her realize how much easier things are done now.

rather than 20 years ago.

Janssen said with the help of the Randolph schools, she thinks it's great the special education students are able to work at the store.

She also said it's very helpful to give the high schoolers the chance to work and get some work experience before they leave home.

Janssen said she'll always remember how she tried to please the customers.

"I liked to make the customer happy," she said. "I liked going that extra step for them. I knew my work was appreciated when people enjoyed their scraps on old days."

Diabetes afflicts one in 15

What affects one out of every 15 Nebraskans? Diabetes. November is National Diabetes Awareness Month and Nebraska Health and Human Services staff are asking Nebraskans to check their blood sugar level to find out if they could have diabetes and not know it. Diabetes was the state's seventh leading cause of death in 1996. It affects how the body uses insulin, a natural hormone, to convert food into energy. Many Nebraskans are unaware that they have the disease because in many people there are no early symptoms. Symptoms usually include increased thirst, increased urination, frequent hunger, wounds that don't heal and frequent fatigue.

Every year, approximately 145 Nebraskans have a lower limb amputated because of circulatory complications from diabetes, says June Fehdinger, community health nurse. "It has an impact on all of us. Complications from the disease cause long term reduction in activity. For more than 74,000 Nebraska residents it helps everyone, plus diabetes affects friends, family and even taxpayers when we can diagnose and treat this disease as early as possible.

Diabetes strikes in primarily two forms: Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes. Type 1 typically starts in children or young adults, but can arise at any age. Although type 1 afflicts about 200,000 Americans, type 2 typically occurs in those over 45, overweight, sedentary and with a family history of the disease. This type is much more common and afflicts approximately 17.4 million Americans. Half of these 17.4 million Americans are undiagnosed, according to the Center for Disease Control.

Gestational diabetes arises during pregnancy, and complicates about two to four percent of all U.S. pregnancies. Although it disappears after birth, gestational diabetes may signal an increased risk for Type 2 diabetes later in life.

There's hope on the horizon, however, for people with diabetes. "The good news," says Fehdinger, "is that complications can be reduced by making lifestyle changes, like following a good diet, exercising and regular testing of blood sugar levels. And recent changes in diabetes screening guidelines mean that more people with diabetes will be diagnosed earlier. The earlier the diagnosis, the better the prognosis for recovery.

The Nebraska Diabetes Control Program works with local community and health care groups and the American Diabetes Association to provide education about diabetes including how to prevent or delay complications by proper diet, exercise and weight management.

For more information, contact the program at 402/341-3417.

Snow season holds a potential problem

As we've discussed many times, there are two realities of aging to which most seniors are unwilling to capitulate: the loss of independence and the loss of self-sufficiency. Sometimes, though, dropped pursuit of tasks performed easily during youth could prove foolhardy.

Take shoveling snow. There is little argument about the beauty provided this time of the year by a blanket of the pristine white stuff. Still, it has to be removed from our walks and driveways. It is the type of job that threatens independence and self-sufficiency.

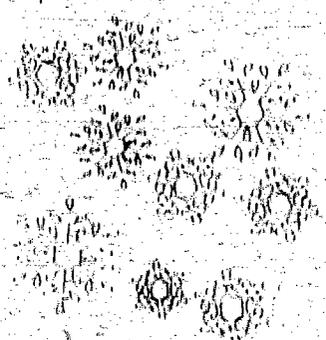

It is also fraught with danger. Shovelling snow demands muscle and effort. People undertaking the task who are overweight, smokers, or suffer from genetic or age-induced heart problems are prime candidates for heart attacks.

In addition to the physical strain that shovelling puts on the heart, shovelling usually is done in chilly weather. Cold weather can cause the blood vessels leading to the heart to spasm. This means less oxygen gets to the heart. The heart is forced to work even harder.

The solutions are easy. Seniors should be willing to let someone else tend to the snow-covered walks and driveways. Or, any senior healthy enough to tackle the snow should allow plenty of time for breaks.

Heart attacks are not the only potential hazard connected to shovelling snow. Every winter, people also suffer from muscle strains, broken bones or frostbite.

Muscle strains can be avoided by using proper techniques. People should avoid turning and twisting. People should tire their feet and throw the snow straight ahead. Snow should be pushed as far as possible before being thrown. Bending should be avoided. If this can not be done, people should bend with the knees while keeping their backs straight. Proper techniques also help people avoid falls, which can result in broken bones.

Finally, frostbite can be easily prevented. People should dress in layers. This provides insulation and keeps the shoveler warm. The clothing should be loose fitting. This prevents the restriction of blood flow, which can cause the extremities to become too cold. Gloves should be worn to protect the hands, boots should be worn and the face should be covered. The less skin exposed to the chilling air, the less chance of frostbite.

Resources for net surfers

There are two new resources for older adults seeking the net.

The Alzheimer's Disease Education and Referral Center (ADEARC) offers publications and research news on its web site in addition to announcements from the National Institute on Aging.
