Getting rid of the grime

Area residents took advantage of the spring-like weather to get their cars washed over the weekend. The Wayne area missed the snow and freezing rain that were forecast for the early part of this week. Weather predictions call for temperatures to remain above normal through the weekend.

Cemetery seeking donations for improvements

By Lynn Meyer
of the Herald

A cemetery is often a forgotten spot until the need for it arises, such is the case of the Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne. The local cemetery is privately owned and looks anxious to generate funds for upkeep.

Because the upkeep needs to be met, people had to attain a grant from the "Apprentice and Masters," Doug Cole of Wayne.

"All in grave sites the open and closed up areas and the interest off, perpetual care is where our funds come from to operate," Cole said.

Many cemeteries are around by churches, but the business side of running a cemetery is privately owned by no owners and it is run profitably so there are no funds coming from any organization, business, city, or elsewhere.狄勒米是唯一能用的其他资金来源。

The perpetual care fund is one-third of the money taken in from the sale of grave sites and only the business can be touched," Cole added.

The cemetery covers 40 acres in the westward edge of Wayne just north of Seven Street. It has been in the possession since the last burial reported in 1979.

According to Cole, 80 percent of the land is already sold to grave sites and it's estimated that within the next 15 years there will be no more room unless more land is purchased.

Another 40 acres just to the present spot would be best so equipment would be handy and not have to be hauled great distances," Cole added.

As far as equipment goes, he said that the last thing needed is a new grave opening machine which is $42,000. A grave opening machine does perfect sized grave openings to a backhoe which is not easy and risks are taken in digging other grave sites by.

The present grave opening machine we have is in need of a lot of repairs. We have had to use back hoe lately and there hasn't been compatibility from time to time," Cole said.

He said that additional land to the north and east of the cemetery would be the ideal place to purchase more ground.

Another big expense burden will be the building of a new road and entrance on the southeast corner after the present road continues on Seventh Street is done.

He added that the road will have to connect to the other roads in the cemetery and that will be expensive project. All of the entrances need work as well as the roads which are narrow and a mess.

Often on Memorial Day, the roads are muddy and the low spots are completely covered with water. Also, the roads are so narrow that when two cars meet, one has to pull off the road and wait till the other car passes by," Cole said.

Some of the other items needed are two new lawnmowers that will be used to mow the lawn and trim the trees and shrubs.

He said that the trees and shrubs are in bad shape due to lighting and the fence line, the way side really needs repair," Cole said.

Cole said that a cellular phone is also needed because during the day he talks to funeral directors, monument companies and people trying to be deceased ones.

I have to have three or four times a day to talk people from home," Cole said.

In regard to people trying to locate headstones, Cole added that two to three hours a day are needed to do this.

Other needs include maintenance and repair of fencing as most of it is gone or damaged.

Scouts to celebrate 75th anniversary

West Fourth Street, Wayne, 60277 by March 3.

Written memorabilia about Boy Scouting in Wayne are also encouraged from former scouts and Scoutmasters and date to attend the celebration. The deadline for these submissions is March 10.

Wayne's Cub Scout pack, chartered by the Saint Matthew Church, is comprised of approximately 40 scouts ages 11-16 and 12 adult leaders. The leadership is Randy Gause and committee chairman is Charles Shapley. The Cub Scout Pack made up of more than 55 younger boys operates under the leadership of Tim Fall and other adults.

Three different Boy Scout troops have existed in Wayne. The first contingent about 1900 was the result of consolidation of three other groups over the past 25 years.

The Wayne Boy Scouts regularly perform numerous community service projects including monthly paper drives and assist with the County Fair and Evans Parade each year.

Individual service projects are required to be conducted by older Scouts advancing to the rank of Eagle Scout. Boy Scouts have also benefited the area.

During weekly meetings, the Scouts learn about citizenship, safety, first aid and camping, in addition to weekend campsites in the immediate area. The local scouts also enjoy extended camping trips to Camp Cedar Creek, Bear Hollow, Camp Ranch near Elkhorn, Cedar Point, Scout Ranch, Juniper Ranch and the Boundary Waters Canoe area in northern Minnesota and southern Ontario Canada.

Several Wayne Boy Scouts day attended the National jamboree which is held every four years.

The troop meets Monday

each month at 7 p.m. in the old city library. New members are welcome to attend.

Council approves seven resolutions

By Clark Oster
of the Herald

A total of seven resolutions were discussed and passed at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

The last of these accepted the Nebraska Department of Roads grant for the purchase of an APU (aircraft) van. The city's share will be approximately 30 percent of the purchase cost.

A second resolution passed will use approximately $2,500 on the highway 35 widening project. An alternate route selected for a piece of property east of Range 10 has been established resulting in the savings.

Resolution 98-13 identified the goals for the city for the years 1998-2003. Among the main identified during the council's discussion was the development of a resolution team, amending the city's dog licensing policy, placing a limit on public entertainment in the city, reorganization of city departments, better parking and solid waste and recycling.

The council also accepted a quote from residential utility deputy. Beginning Jan. 1 of this year, the city code required that City Clerk Betty McGinnis use the average of a family's monthly bill when asking for a deposit from a new family's power. Previously, the deposit had been $100.

McGinnis told the council that she had had her new utility bills checked and found they were overdue prior to hand of the property owner. He said that angle parking would allow the user to be parked in the same area that they currently park.

He also said that there would not stick out into the street but would possibly block the current sidewalk. He offered to provide plans on his property for a new sidewalk if angle parking were allowed.

The council discussed the need for additional parking in the area and what legal responsibility the city could have for new sidewalks.

No action was taken on Pick's suggestion.

Pick's second request was for the city to level the hill on the corner of 15th and Main Streets to create level access to sidewalk. He said that between two and one-half and three feet of dirt would need to be taken off.

The council discussed the effects of the dirt removal on water runoff in the area.

No action was taken on Pick's suggestion.

The council set March 3 as the date for a public hearing to consider and reaffirm an earlier decision to declare an area on the east edge of Wayne a blight and substandard area.

She also says that she still loves her job and has developed some wonderful friendships through the years. Mrs. Polhamus was recognized by the Small Business Administration for her contributions to the community. Working with Sheryl who is a Master Stylist are Kelly and Sandy who are designer stylists. Gilliland elected to board

At the Feb. 6 meeting of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce Executives, Gail J. Gilliland was elected to the board of directors. Gilliland, Executive Director for Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries Inc., will complete the District 3 vacancy created by the resignation of Judy Holloman of Fremont.

Current NCC officers and directors are Deborah L. Ralston, Goethen; Richard Bain, York; Jack Swart, State Chamber; Al Toy Todd, Jr., NE New Car Dealer; Natalie Shellburn, Ogallala; Norene Fitzgerald, Geneva; Patty Plummer, Blair; Dennis Lawler, Sarpy County; Judy Holloman, Norfolk; and Gail J. Gilliland, Wayne.

Pick told the council that there have been problems with cars permitted to park in front of the property. He said that angle parking would allow the user to be parked in the same area that they currently park.

He also said that there would not stick out into the street but would possibly block the current sidewalk. He offered to provide plans on his property for a new sidewalk if angle parking were allowed.

often spent in talking to people who are trying to locate gravesites. Many people drive through the grounds stopping Cole and requesting help.

"Almost all of the larger cemeteries have a computer system with a large monitor from which people can view various locations within the grounds helping them to pinpoint the area they seek," Cole said.

He added that street signs would also be needed so people can find their way around the cemetery.

Cole mentioned that the cemetery is a peaceful and lovely place to walk, sit, meditate or drive through.

"I think it's the most beautiful spot in town," Cole noted.

He added that if people haven't been through the cemetery lately they should come by and see all the improvements that have been made plus the natural beauty of the place.

People walking through have brought rewards for the cemetery he said. Some people have started donating flowers.

"There are a few types of people that we have seen that fall

Mrs. Helen Bean gave up her entire flower bed with landscaping, tuck her and all the had decided she couldn't care for anymore. Also Lois Hall and Sue Wiltsie at the Plaza Market/Wayne Greenhouse have donated flowers instead of throwing them away at the end of a season. Plus, Callie at Garden Perennials, donated some nice plants. These people as well as others in the community have really helped," Cole said.

The grave opening machine is in need of repair and is top priority on the list of improvements for Greenwood cemetery.

Something and voltage are given for needed and appreciated be added. The cemetery would look even more attractive if that amount," Cole said.

Cole added that this is the first time the Cemetery Board has attempted fundraising but with all the upcoming expenses they feel the time has come to ask for help.

The Board of Directors for 1992-1993 include Jay Coffey, President; Ed Carroll, Vice President; Dennis Shultz and Alvin Neasey, Past Presidents; Secretary, Myrtle Rappolt; and Treasurer, Debbie Dunn.

The Wayne School Board meets on Feb. 13

By Lynn Stevens
Of The Herald

The Wayne School Board met in regular session Monday night at the Wayne High School.

The Board was informed of some gifts from the Athletic Booster. They donated $2,295 with $1,500 designated to go toward the purchase of football uniforms and the remainder to buy golf and track equipment.

The Board discussed payment billing to U.S. West for past services. In October of 1996, U.S. West took an audit of the schools telephone lines and decided to add more bridging devices which would give more service. This was done without notifying the school of their plans. U.S. West then sent a bill of $2,200 to the school for the extra services fifteen months later.

The recent Career Fair was noted as being successful. There were 11 speakers from area businesses and from Wayne State College. This was the first time the school had attempted such an event.

Immediate goals in the area of technology include standardizing the computer hardware and getting computers that are not working to the high school back up and running. The oldest computers were bought in 1992 and are becoming outdated but the network can be updated without buying all new equipment. Additional teacher use and more demanding software puts increased wear on computers.

Accreditation review was discussed. The State Department of Education is coming to the school on April 13 and 14 to review data and talk with community and faculty members.

A new after school study hall was started in January to provide study training skills to help students. Fifteen students are in the program now.

During Superintendent notes, Mr. Dennis Jensen spoke to the board on several topics.

Plans for the K-4 building include fixing heating problems. Last year 300 feet of pipes froze because the north and south walls have little or no insulation. The windows are not tight and let in cold air; the boiler is 40 years old, cracked, and needs replacement. A total of $11,000 was needed to fix last year's problems. Last year costs were $15,000 higher than usual.

The K-4 roof was also discussed as it has been in need of constant repair. A new pitched metal roof is a future plan, way conditioned as a possible solution to the problem.

It was mentioned that a budget is underway that would offer solutions to the K-4 building problems. Using the Lease Purchase Plan instead of taking funds is a possibility for building problems.

The Foundation recently listed of around $1,000 in donations to the cemetery. This money will be used to plan needed items separate from donated money. The foundation goes for items needed at the school.

Old business included an explanation of Rambo Contracts by Attorney Chris Connolly. Rambo is a communications consultant firm that can offer possible solutions to architectural and technical problems. Connolly explained to the board that consultation with the firm is a five step process and the board has control and flexibility to end services with them at any time. The fee for this service is $4,000 up-front and total billing not to exceed $9,000.

New business included acceptance of the 1998-99 school calendar. Some important dates on the new calendar include Aug. 24, first day in service for teachers; Aug. 27, first day of school for students; Christmas vacation, beginning Dec. 23 and school returning on Jan. 4; May 15, graduation; and May 27, last day of school.

A motion was passed to purchase 10 additional computers for the Industrial Technology Lab and four for Special Education in the Middle School.

The next meeting of the school board is set for Feb. 23 at the Wayne High School.

Unnecessary "fix"?

The state's Judiciary Committee has advanced a constitutional amendment resolution to the full Legislature. It provides for the retention of all judges of the state Supreme Court and Court of Appeals on a statewide basis.

If LB100A is passed by the legislature and approved by voters, it would allow the electorate of the "entire state" to decide whether a Supreme Court or appellate court judge should be retained in office.

As it is now, only voters within the judge's judicial district decide whether the judge should be retained.

Each judge is subject to a retention vote at the next general election following his or her first three years in office, and then every six years thereafter. This system has worked well.

Why would voters be encouraged to change the process? Well, the voters from the 4th Judicial District of the Supreme Court ousted Judge David Lamphier from the court in 1996. Had the matter gone to the voters at a state level, the result could have been different.

Voters in a judge's judicial district likely know the judge better than anyone else around the state.

Sen. Doug Kesterson of Madison is sponsoring LB100A and is quoted as saying that if there is controversy over whether a judge should be retained, it is easy for an interest group to pump large amounts of money into a small area of the state to argue that judge be ousted. He noted that the bill is intended to limit such political influence in retention battles as a way to protect the integrity of the judiciary.

Perhaps the public, devoting what judicial needs to remind voters that the present system works well in protecting the integrity of the judiciary, and also that of the voting citizenry.

Why change it?

Ordinance needs to be passed first

Dear Editor:

Before any counteraction is given to what is needed on the auditorium, the City Council should pass an ordinance setting aside funds from general budget considerations for major maintenance and repair of all new and current buildings.

This ordinance should NOT ALLOW these funds to be diverted for any other purpose.

An allowance of this type would assure that buildings now owned by the citizens of this community would not fall into the state of deterioration that the auditorium or any other building is experiencing and make the need to go through the funding problems now facing this community.

If necessary or further effort to fix new buildings and less major maintenance problems in the past

Capitol News — Times are changing for legislature

By Leslie Beelsterhoff Reed
Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

The times they are a changin', as Bob Dylan sang way back when. A quarter of the way into the 60-day session, the observing public changes in the way the legislature is doing business.

Prompted by the proposed rule change adopted at the beginning of the 1998 session, I did a little research on the roots of the bicameral and on the techniques other states use to control debate.

OK, I admit it. I like politics, I want to do it.

Everybody — myself included — pointed the finger at one target toward ending the state Senate: George W. Norris. It was George W. Norris who created the bicameral discussion and I honestly believe that many of those who voted to change the rules were motivated by antipathy with Norris' unmatched ability to ramble endlessly on the floor.

But I also believed in innovation, why and their efforts were not directed at Norris.

Sen. Doug Kesterson of Madison is proposing LB100A and is quoted as saying that if there is controversy over whether a judge should be retained, it is easy for an interest group to pump large amounts of money into a small area of the state to argue that judge be ousted. He noted that the bill is intended to limit such political influence in retention battles as a way to protect the integrity of the judiciary.

Perhaps the public, devoting what judicial needs to remind voters that the present system works well in protecting the integrity of the judiciary, and also that of the voting citizenry.

Why change it?

Too often, Matzke and others from discussing the legislation, had a bill the legislature can't allow the speaker of the legislature to "structure" debate in certain instances, designated basically which amendments will be taken up.

The political scientists I talked to were not at all sympathetic to lawmakers' plight. They pointed out that offering strict guidelines to prevent deviation of the essence of a bill is a time honored legislative strategy. That U.S. Senate does it all the time.

You can kill a bill by amending it to death or by preventing its essential language from being made.

The new rule, which hasn't been tried yet, by the way, helps the legislature negotiate and compromise before the old two party, two house system. Those helped to make the process smoother.

OK, I admit it. I like politics, I want to do it.

from other states could hardly follow the unbridled discussion we take for granted in Nebraska. The reigning political party decides when and how legislation will be debated. Some states don't even permit amendments to be made on the floor.

In Nebraska, lawmakers frequently write out more amendment rights under the eyes of other senators.

George W. Norris, the former U.S. senator, who introduced open government. He wanted the chance to be made right where people could see and hear in plain English party caucus, before the unicameral system, with its requirement that each bill be debated and voted upon three times before it's finally passed.

Since the rule change, Chambers has repeatedly said he is going to be a leader this session. He means he's going to give other lawmakers a lesson on the rules and on the dealing of legislation.

Blue Devil boys drill O'Neill and Elkhorn Valley Wayne looks for top seed

By Kevin Peterson
For the Herald

The Wayne boys basketball team closed out the road portion of the regular season schedule in a big way last week at O'Neill.

Rocky Ruhl's team thumped the host Eagles by 34 points, the second largest point differential of the season, 80-46.

Wayne opened the season with an 88-53 win over Battle Creek for the largest margin of victory.

"We just flat out played very well for four quarters," Ruhl said. "We told the kids if they wanted to be top seed in the coming sub-district tournament that they controlled their own destiny and they responded."

A Wayne victory this Friday against Madison would ensure a top seed for the Blue Devils as the district seedings are set in on Monday.

Wayne is currently battling with Hartington, Cedar Catholic and Crofton for the top seed.

Crofton best possible record before pairings are set could be 14-6 with Crofton's best at 14-6 as well.

Wayne could improve to 13-5 with a win on Friday and based on win percentage, would have the best record among the four teams.

Should all of that come to fruition the Blue Devils would end the regular season on the 20th at home against Pierce before playing the following week in Laurel against Pierce, the fourth seed of the sub-district, while Cedar Catholic and Crofton square off in the other first round.

Back to business as usual, Wayne trailed Carroll 42-40 before exploding on a 16-2 scoring run to end the first quarter with an 18-6 advantage.

O'Neill would never threaten again as the visiting Blue Devils raced to a 42-19 halftime lead and 60-29 lead after three quarters. "I like the way the kids are playing right now," Ruhl added. "A lot of credit has to go to our young team which can't tell offensively as well as last year but they did the right things." Ruhl was quick to point out Ryan Stollberg, Ryan Dunkirk, Ryan Sturm, Chris Dyer, Brian Huchstein, Dustin Schmitz and Nick Kuehne.

The victory was the fourth consecutive for Wayne, the longest streak of the season. Ryan Dahl and John Magnussen each shared team honors with 16 points while Justin Thede poured in 15 and Matt Meyer, 14. Adam Embrey added seven points with Joel Munson and Ryan Stollberg netting five each. Ryan Sturm rounded out the scoring with two.

Wayne out rebounded the Eagles 28-21 with Thede leading the way with eight boards. The Blue Devils had six more than the 19 rebounding by Elkhorn Valley.

The Wayne reserves defeated Elkhorn Valley, 43-24. Brian Huchstein led the way with 11 points while Ryan Stollberg adding seven.

Justin Stigem, Brandon Garvin and Ryan Dunkirk each scored four while Dick Muir tallied three. Lauren Jon Meyer, Adam Ellington, Johnson and Tim McLean scored two apiece.

Should all of that come to fruition the Blue Devils would end the regular season on the 20th at home against Pierce.

The visiting Falcons jumped out to a 15-7 lead late in the first quarter before Wayne slowly began to catch up.

The Blue Devils went on a 14-8 scoring run which spanned the next two-plus quarters to stretch a lead to 41-23 after three quarters of play.

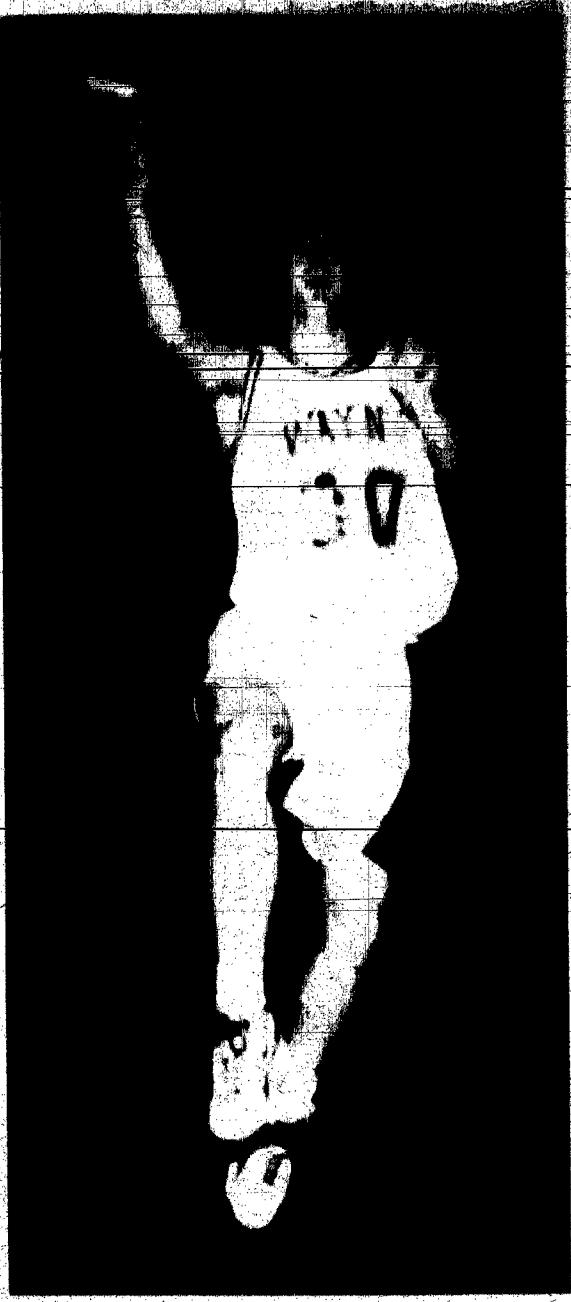

"We just stood around on defense and they came in a zone which we weren't expecting," Ruhl said. "We attacked it better in the second and third quarters and we picked up the intensity on defense."

Justin Thede led the winners with 17 points with Ryan Dahl netting a dozen and Joel Munson, seven. Adam Embrey tallied six points with John Magnussen and Matt Meyer netting five each. Ryan Stollberg, Dick Muir and Brian Huchstein each netted two.

Thede and Magnussen had six each to lead Wayne while the Blue Devils hit 19-of-23 free throw attempts compared to 8-16 shooting by Elkhorn Valley.

Joel Munson soars in for a lay-up following a steal during Wayne's win over Elkhorn Valley last Saturday. The Blue Devils will host Madison on Friday and with a victory, Wayne would earn a top seed at the approaching sub-district tournament. The Blue Devils regular season comes to an end on the 20th when they host Pierce.

Wayne girls defeated by Elkhorn Valley and Stanton

Heidi Johnson looks to drive past her opponent during the second half of Wayne's game with Elkhorn Valley. The Blue Devils will close out the regular season on Friday when they host Madison. On Tuesday, Wayne will travel to Randolph for sub-district play.

Wayne State football team inks 16 players for next fall

A total of 16 players signed national letters of intent to attend Wayne State College and play football for the Wildcats. WSC head football coach Kevin Haying announced recently.

The 1998 recruiting class consists of 13 high school players and three junior college transfers.

Defense was the primary focus of this year's class with 10 players coming off that side of the football.

This group includes two defensive backs, three linebackers and four defensive linemen. The remainder of the class consists of three offensive linemen, two wide receivers and a quarterback.

"Our football side equal that recruiting class with 10 from the depth chart and we feel we accomplished that through a very athletic class which is recruiting many of these young men are without athletes in other sports at well," Haying said.

Haying said that he and his staff are looking for players that will fit in with the rest of the team.

"The guys from the Wayne Herald coverage are include Heath Keen of Webster, Landen Griseth of Oceanside, Calif., as well as high school standouts at Litchfield High School in Litchfield, Calif., Gordon, meanwhile, played at Palmetto Junior College after playing three years of Double A baseball in the former Blue Jays organization.

Heen and Griseth to sign two or three more players, an offensive linemen and one or two kickers.

Earlier in the year, the Wildcats won three of their final four games to finish with a 3-7 record in Haying's first year as head coach.

January at Headstart

We started back to school on Jan. 5. The first week back we learned about Winter Arctic Animals and enjoyed learning about owl and polar bears. We also went on a field trip to the Wayne Animal Museum.

During the second week of January our theme was rhythm and Music. We listened to different types of music and during this week had a marching band using musical instruments.

We learned about different types of transportation the third week of January. We designed our own vehicles using cut out shapes. We also made safety vehicles for breakfast time morning.

The last week of January was winter learning about the five senses. We played sound bingo and the children got to reach into the bag of textures.

The last day of January we enjoyed a winter picnic in the classroom. Many parents came to enjoy the picnic with us.

When I sleep and think about it, I see why it is an important statement of the principles of good citizenship in the United States.

Each citizen of the United States should give their allegiance to their country. They must be faithful to their country's ideals and work to support them. We honor the flag of the United States because it represents our nation.

Every time we see it fluttering in the breeze we hold it with pride.

The alternate red and white stripes remind us of the American dream that we hold so dear. The fifty white stars on the blue field of blue remind us of our state and of the other states that stand proudly together to form one nation under God.

Everyone in our nation is a hero standing up, for your country's dream and helping your nation be great and united. It all that you have to do is to be a hero. We must not forget those who fought in wars to free our nation.

We need to express how truly important it is that we honor those who fought.

I feel that President Lincoln really expressed the idea of a nation well organized. With justice toward some, with charity for all with firmness in the right, as God gives us the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to build up the nation so we can be a land for both our dull force brought the battle and for his valour and skill to do all which may achieve and furnish a just and lasting peace among our neighbors with all nations.

To end my story I hope within a person that observes the American flag a painted picture of our freedom and desire for their nation.

Painting a nation for the free, it speaks of hope, life and liberty.

For those who serve and all who fought.

It stands for them and the freedom they fought.

Painting us a picture of the American Dream.

It shows us a proud nation with such a vision.

A nation that fights for freedom.

And a nation that is equal with open demands.

A demand for a country in a stable.

In justice and freedom each citizen plays their role.

For a nation can not be free, year out.

Without a training and a plea.

Armed from three edges can defend.

Our great nation painted out in these colors and full of glow.

Our three colors to do their part.

Fight to do all they can and let us go.

From a heart full of joy, happiness and health.

With much skill will paint a nation that all will admire.

Remodeling project and the Olympics

It's Sunday evening and the Olympic pair skating is going full speed. The couple from China have just finished what appears to me to be an amazing program, only to be knocked for one faulty spin. The judges are underway.

I did watch the opening ceremonies and found them fascinating, especially the "polo racing." The children, in white leggings and caps, were dazzling. The thing that gave me quite bumps was the "Dale InJoy" live character on five continents simultaneously. I don't know how they did that, but it was impressive.

We're waiting for Chip Davis of Madison Abominables to come back from Flagstaff to decide if he'll accept the invitation and down by Av County for his Aviles. The main competition is in Japan because he's helping plan the trip to Lake City by 2002.

If things go as planned, Chip will be putting up an entire decorated complex just miles from us. 500 visitors is already there and the Henry County area is "activated" to open Memorial Day weekend.

Meanwhile, back at the Farm House, it was time to finish getting stuff moved. Kay organized getting the trailer out of the garage into the area below the new room on Christmas Day.

Then yesterday, the next job and we took the old refrigerator out of the kitchen, down the steps to the same area. It would fit easy enough, it's small, but heavy.

Kay had also helped move

Mike dusted and cleaned out of our bedroom by the knee after that job. A spoke for a dinner which came down the day before one of the quiet rooms. Replacing it was one from the annual stage.

These four dedicated volunteers are the backbone of our organization.

And we replaced a window in the bathroom.

All of this involved many hours of planning, effort, energy, time to protect the environment, their community and their family. It will be the main focus of a program which will be hosted by University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension on Tuesday, Feb. 17.

The two-part program, "Getting Along with Your Neighbors," will be held at the Lincoln Learning Center in Norfolk. It offers an afternoon and an evening session.

Registration for the afternoon session begins at noon and the program runs through 3 p.m. An evening meal will be provided between the evening and afternoon session. The evening session will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will run until 9:30 p.m. Registration for the evening session will begin at 6 p.m.

Keynote speaker for the event is Dr. Duane Aker, current chair of the national committee, Research and Application for the year 2000.

He now, however, has been re-appointed, replacing the chairman of one of the national committees, Research and Application for the year 2000.

The conference is sponsored by the Nebraska Water Conference Council, the UNL Water Center Environmental Program Conservation and Survey Division, School of Natural Resources, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the University of Nebraska Lincoln and the University of Nebraska Kearney.

This year's conference addresses the importance of information on the state's water future. Information might not only address compatibility and water use data base, but also a firm understanding of the history of Nebraska water and its managers and their "bulky" legacies to the

Date set for conference

Corn borer research continues

Among the research that has been taking place at the third east Research and Extension Center is a test of effect of Bt transgenic corn hybrids for control of European cornborer.

In 1997, research showed an 18% hybrid and two non-Bt hybrids. Both were less successful to approximately 80% test成功的和 replicated big three hybrids planted on May 12 at a rate of 26,000 seeds per acre. Plots were kept under an integrated sprayer irrigation system.

All hybrids were evaluated for European corn borer control by dissecting plants and tracking each borer caspary plus score cumulative harvested acre.
