April showers...

The old saying, "April Showers bring May flowers" is taking on an entire new meaning this week as the Wayne area saw more than two inches of rain fall on Tuesday and Wednesday. Joyce Harmeler of the Wayne Plant Market keeps the indoor plants watered while not much water was needed for the outdoor plants.

Ordinance put on hold

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Several people spoke against a proposed ordinance which would set limits on when public entertainment could take place during Tuesday's Wayne City Council meeting.

Ordinance 98-6 would have amended the city's code and allowed for public entertainment to be held between the hours of 8 a.m. and 1 a.m.

However, the council took no action on what would have been the third and final reading of the ordinance.

Those speaking against the ordinance included a number of people connected with Riley's, which has had Thursday night dances which end at 2:30 a.m.

Both Rod Tompkins, owner of Riley's and Terry Poland, manager, told council members that in recent weeks the dances have ended at 2 a.m. and steps have been taken to reduce the noise from the music and those attending the dances.

In other action the council voted to approve the Tax Increment Financing allocation for the Wayne East Project.

The agreement will allow the city to lend $150,000 to the owners of the project. The money will be repaid over a period of 15 years.

The Board is very concerned about the safety issue with over 600 kids exiting the school at approximately the same time everyday," superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen said.

The Board has put in a request with the Wayne Police Department for additional help during that time and the Board is also seeking parents to volunteer time to help be crossing guards on the intersections of Fourth & Sherman and Fifth and Sherman streets.

"We will need help to aid students crossing the streets from the times of 7:25-7:50 a.m. and 3:25-

Two WSC students nabbed Police arrest drug sellers

Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster reports that a five and one-half month drug investigation by his department and the Nebraska State Patrol recently culminated with the arrest of two men for distribution of a controlled substance.

Max Knauer IV, 20, and David Jones, 18, both Wayne State College students, were charged with multiple counts of delivery of a controlled substance. Both men are pending formal arraignment on the charges in Wayne County Court.

Chief Webster credits the arrests to the hard work of Sgt. Bob McLean and the Nebraska State Patrol, who began the investigation in November of last year. Chief Webster said the criminal complaint alleges that both men sold marijuana from their dorm room at Wayne State College to cooperating individuals working with Sgt. McLean and the Nebraska State Patrol.

Chief Webster also said that when officials at Wayne State College were made aware of the investigation, they cooperated fully.

"These arrests are directly related to the involvement of the Wayne Police Department in a multi-county drug task force called S.N.A.R.E., which stands for Specialized Narcotics Abuse Reduction Effort," Chief Webster said.

According to Webster, joining with the S.N.A.R.E. task force enhanced the investigative and intelligence resources available to his police officers. The S.N.A.R.E. task force area includes the cities of Norfolk and Columbus.

Chief Webster said the fact that this investigation dealt with marijuana does not mean that there are not the so-called "hard" drugs in Wayne.

"I know there is methamphetamine in Wayne and it will only be a matter of time before officers are making more methamphetamine arrests," he said.

The Wayne Police Department has one pending methamphetamine case in the court system now, that involving a 16-year old high school student.

"Methamphetamine is all around us, in Norfolk, Columbus and South Sioux City. It is only a matter of time before we see more meth, so the Wayne Police Department is taking a very proactive role in drug investigation," Webster said.

WHS to become no parking zone

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne School Board met in regular session, Monday night and taking center stage was the highway 35 construction project and how it will soon be affecting the school.

The high school parking lot will be closed to students for the final 14 days of school, beginning May 11.

The exits to the north of the school will be blocked because of the project and because the Middle School is located directly behind the high school, traffic in the morning is very congested anyway and with no exits to the north, it would become nearly impossible.

"The Board is very concerned about the safety issue with over 600 kids exiting the school at approximately the same time everyday," superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen said.

The Board has put in a request with the Wayne Police Department for additional help during that time and the Board is also seeking parents to volunteer time to help be crossing guards on the intersections of Fourth & Sherman and Fifth and Sherman streets.

"We will need help to aid students crossing the streets from the times of 7:25-7:50 a.m. and 3:25-3:50 p.m. each school day," Jensen added.

Students will be asked to park at the north end of the Middle School (the old middle school) and the District has asked the Wayne County Commissioners for permission to park on the south and west side of the court house.

The commissioners meet Tuesday with that topic on the agenda.

"One thing that will help is that senior students will be dismissed from school on Wednesday, May 13, which means for just two days the congestion will be the worst," Jensen said. "The departure of the seniors will free up 40-to-50 parking places."

Currently the high school parking lot for the students holds 104 parking places.

IN OTHER BOARD action, all faculty was re-elected which totals 73.5 FTE's (full-time equivalency).

The Board awarded the bussing contract for the next two years to the Nebraska School Bus Inc. and bids will be sought at the beginning of the second year for bussing for the school year 2000-2001.

The contract includes a three percent annual rate increase which comparatively, is about three percent below the average according to the National Public

Transportation Index out of Chicago

Chris Connolly spoke to the Board in a pre-scheduled communication on ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) which was later discussed on the agenda.

Dr. Donald Zeiss, Principal of the high school spoke to the Board on the Summer Drivers Education Program and the Board voted to increase the cost of this year's driver's education class by $10 for both residents and non-residents.

The cost will increase to $135 for residents and $175 for non-residents.

The Board did discuss the ADA concern and the discussion was centered around access to the theatre and stage at the high school.

Two possible solutions to this concern was having a portable hand crank system for access from the front of the stage which would need to be operated by another person and/or a side entrance to the stage with the current steps being moved back with a hydraulic electric lift being put in place which could be operated by a student in a wheelchair.

Powwow slated

Traditional music and dancing in an exhibition format will take place during the fifth Annual Powwow Exhibition on Wednesday, April 22 from 1 to 4 p.m. on the front lawn of Pile Hall, near Heritage Plaza, on the Wayne State College campus.

Powwow participants will include several Wayne State students and alumni with friends and family members representing a variety of tribes. The emcee, WSC Alumnus, Nico Mercier, will give explanations of the various regalia, dance styles, and music styles, said

Nancy Crump, a part-time faculty member in the Wayne State College Social Science Division.

On campus at the same time, a display in Conn Library of Indian art and personal items from students will be arranged for public viewing.

The College bookstore will have a display of books by and about Native Americans.

The public is invited to attend this event. A speaker for the event will be announced at a later date. For more information, call (402) 375-7569.

Walk of the cross

Pleasant weather allowed a large crowd to gather for the annual Wayne Ministerial Walk of the Cross which took place on Good Friday. The walk began at Grace Lutheran Church and processed up Main Street to Third Street and to First Presbyterian church. A number of area ministers and others took part in readings and carrying the cross.

City has been providing electricity for a century

The American Public Power Association presented the City of Wayne with the APPA Century Award in recognition for serving its customers and community continuously for 100 years.

On April 5, 1898 voters in Wayne passed a $4,500 bond issue which provided for lights in the evening hours. The bond issue carried on a 199 to 57 vote.

Morning service began approximately one year later, when patrons petitioned the City Council for it. By 1913, the receipts were greater than the expenses which meant Wayne could get its fire protection and street lights for free.

In 1976 the City of Wayne decided to lease the generating capacity to the Nebraska Public Power District, and is currently under contract to do so until the year 2015.

Wayne has not seen a general rate increase in electrical rates since 1983.

More than 35 million Americans receive electricity from approximately 2,000 not-for-profit, community owned electric utilities. These facilities are operated by municipalities, states, counties or other public bodies such as public utility districts.

Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau, centers, holds the Century Award from the American Public Power Association. With her are Gary Poutre, left, and Gene Hansen, electrical employees.

HEADING THE superintendent's notes was the 1998-99 school budget.

Dr. Jensen stated the most recent draft (third) shows with a 2.5 percent governor's lid on expenditures and a $1.10 levy for revenue, it appears both can be met with the current draft.

"The current draft of the budget shows an increase of 1.6 percent over last year," Jensen stated. "The total dollar amount is $5,226,889 compared to last year's $5,147,000."

Jensen added the budget has about a $40,000 window for unexpected costs. "I feel comfortable we can meet all the limitations and still have a fairly efficient budget which meets the needs of the staff," Jensen said.

Dr. Jensen also spoke of the three proposals for fixing the needs at the Elementary School which consist of boiler problems, energy control trouble and the leaking at the east end of the building.

The proposals range from a low of $525,000 to a high of $730,000," Jensen said. "The low bid can be worked in to the general fund budget with out a sinking fund (that we'll be losing) and still get under the governor's 2.5 percent spending lid."

Jensen said a decision needs to be made by July, 1, or lease purchase option will be lost.

Board president Phyllis Spethman read three items received through correspondence since the last Board meeting.

The first was a concern from a construction group in Omaha which felt it was difficult at best to make cost comparisons on facilities from one community to another.

Hold

The agreement will allow the city to lend $150,000 to the owners of the project. The money will be re-paid over a period of 15 years.

A bid of $60,883 from Christiansen Construction Company in Pender was accepted for the Sidewalk Improvement work to be done this year.

The council accepted a Nebraska Community Enhancement Program Grant of $12,000 for the Highway 35 Re-Leaf Project which will put trees back along the highway. Planting will take place in the spring of 1999.

A request from Heritage Industries to waive a $1,500 sewer connection fee was denied.

A public hearing has been set for May 12 at approximately 7:35 p.m. to discuss a Use by Exception Application by Paul Lindner for four apartments above 215 Main Street.

Dutch Sitzman, Wayne Fire Chief, presented the annual fire department report and updated the council on the status of a fire engine that is currently being overhauled.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau also read three proclamations. The first established April 24 as Arbor Day, the second designated April as Alcohol Awareness Month and the third set April 19-25 as Week of the Young Child.

WORK AT HOME SCHEMES NOT ALWAYS MONEY MAKERS

Work-at-home schemes are one of the oldest kinds of classified advertising fraud. The offer to make a $1,000 a week stuffing envelopes at home is probably not the easy income it appears to be. You may not find that out, however, until you have sent in the requested fee, usually between $20 and $50, to receive the information on starting your work-at-home job.

What your fee will bring you is not the pile of envelopes with materials to be stuffed for mailing as you expected. What you most likely will receive is a packet of information about how you can place the same ad in newspapers or magazines at your own expense. The only way you will earn money is from the people who respond to your work-at-home ad.

Other work-at-home schemes reported to our office involve at-home assembly work. You may be asked to purchase expensive equipment from the company and to pay for the materials to be used in the products you assemble. When you submit your finished product, it may not be "up to standard," and therefore the company may refuse to pay you for your hard work.

Most legitimate work-at-home offers will come from local businesses. However, the offers for jobs to be done in your home are few. Be wary of the classified ad that entices you to purchase a directory of businesses in your area which offer at-home work. We have had reports from consumers who found out that the businesses listed had no work, nor did they know that they were listed in the directory.

If you are considering a work-at-home offer here are some questions you might ask:

- What is the total cost of the work-at-home program, including supplies, equipment and "membership fees"?
- What tasks will I be required to perform?
- Who will pay me, and when will I be paid?

If you have questions concerning a work-at-home scheme, or if you believe you have been the victim of a fraudulent scheme, contact:

Attorney General Don Stenberg, Consumer Protection Division, 2115 State Capitol Building, Lincoln, NE, 68509, or phone 1-800-727-6432.

Chambers talks substance

By Ed Howard, Statehouse Correspondent, The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — The Legislature was talking about whether to reduce the state sales tax rate, and Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha was giving it to 'em with the rhetorical 2x4s that are a part of his legend.

It was a scene and a theme with which I had become exceedingly familiar during nearly a quarter-century of writing about lawmakers and legislative doings.

This gist of his commentary was that too many of his colleagues were chafing at the thought of cutting the sales tax rate because they were lucky, running dogs for rich people and didn't give two hoots or a healthy darn about those who might benefit a lot from a little savings on sales tax.

Chambers' comments are often clever, cutting, literary, biblical and entertaining. Reporters, editors and perhaps readers have grown so accustomed to his style that sometimes, perhaps, his substance is missed. And Chambers' style, although sometimes brilliant, may beg for paraphrasing or even omission when headlines are close, space is limited and... well, when it seems like he has previously said it, and said it, and said it.

Chambers (at says here) decidedly said something of substance, and seemingly a little different, during the debate on whether to trim the sales tax rate by a half-cent.

First, he said the usual stuff. The Legislature generally gives business what business demands. Tax breaks for investment, tax breaks for hiring, tax breaks for training, tax breaks for some select folk with capital gains. So, he laments that most of us would not regard as problems.

Then Chambers noted that the Legislature recently approved a reduced income tax rate. Income tax breaks proportionately favor those who have bigger incomes.

The sales tax is notoriously regressive. Unless you're a cheap skate or think progressivity should apply only to your stock portfolio, you probably will acknowledge that if you can pay the sales tax on a luxury car, sales tax does not burden you in the same way it burdens a working poor, single parent who thinks of $50 not as a bottle of adequate Bordeaux, but as enough money to put beans, rice, cheese and milk on the table for nearly a month.

In his usual fashion Chambers said the Legislature had previously shown it would low-low to the crowd with the healthiest bank accounts and provide an income tax break, while bemoaning the possible loss to the state treasury brought on by a sales tax reduction that would most benefit those with the least wealth.

"These people are cowards. They are moral and political lowards," Chambers said of some of his colleagues. "The lobbyists know there aren't thinkers in here... All they have to do is stamp the floor and shake a piece of cloth at you, and you think ghosts are coming."

Chambers said too many lawmakers weren't concerned about the have-nots.

"Because they were taking care of the big shots whose water they carry... and whose spit they swallow!"

And then he made a point that, compared with his name calling and allegation flinging, might not have gotten the attention it very much deserved from others.

Eventually, Chambers said, voters will have been misguided and betrayed until they wake up some day, and they simply stop going to the polls.

"They get tired of being lied to, they get tired of being betrayed."

Bingo, in re the part about folk being fed up and not going to the polls.

During the same debate Sen.

David Maurstad of Beatrice, who sponsored the sales tax reduction, said he thought just about every one in his district was "somewhat disenchanted with government right now."

That's probably as it should be since skepticism is vital to a participatory republic. But Chambers touched on a bigger issue.

Politicians bemoan the lack of voter turnout and ask (rhetorically or otherwise) what it means, now and for the future.

What it might mean is that too many people don't understand their system of government. If they don't get a practical handle on government in school (and I maintain there is substantial evidence that they don't get a "practical" handle on it), they aren't likely to get it later.

If they don't understand government, they don't understand the ways it can be influenced and the importance of that influence.

Lobbyist Walt Radcliffe, whose deep pockets reflect a well-heeled client list, is fond of saying, "Democracy is not a spectator sport."

The people to whom Chambers referred are often, at best, spectators. The wheel is rigged, the deck is stacked, and the Golden Rule is that the guys with the gold make the rules. So, many of those spectators don't vote.

What to do?

Ask yourself this question:

How many people will you talk to today who can name five government entities that levy taxes upon them? I mean state, federal and local or any combination thereof. How many people will you talk to today who can't name a county board member, a city council member, a school board member, or their state senator?

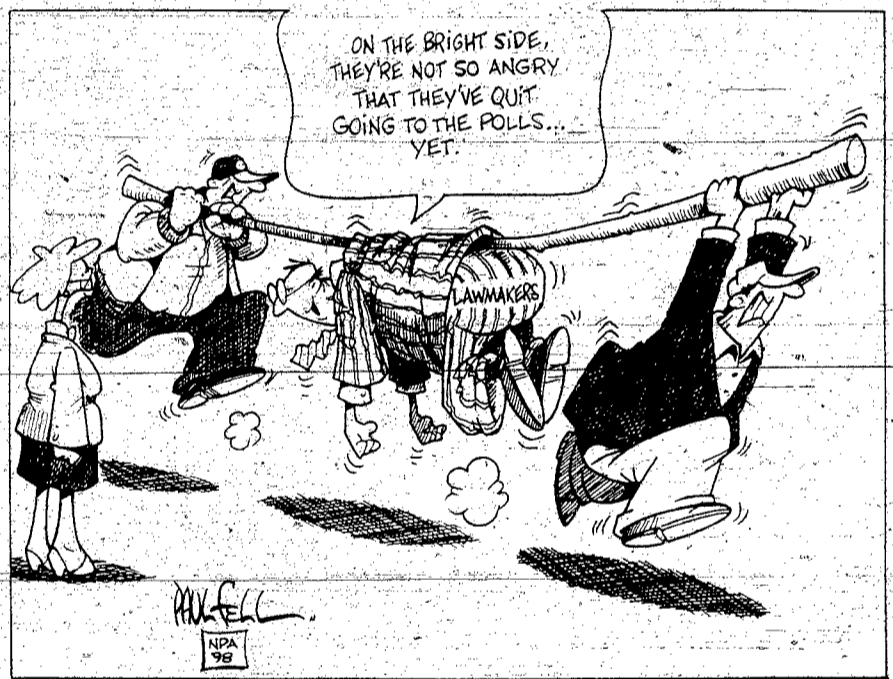

Rich people and those with big pocketbook interests don't outnumber John and Jane Citizen, but the former has a lot more success at getting what it wants from government. That's because those with money and substantial business interests know the system, or hire people who do and, quite properly, exercise their right to influence it.

John and Jane didn't learn it in school. Sometimes they turn to the initiative process (and sometimes they learn you can screw that up, too, if you don't pay enough attention).

But, for the most part, Ernie Chambers may be altogether correct.

For the most part, it seems, they wake up some day and they simply stop going to the polls.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Week celebrated

Dear Editor,

During the week of April 14-20, 1998, our nation will be celebrating "National Volunteer Recognition Week" this week provided a opportunity for us to say "Thank You" to all of the volunteers of our community, state and nation.

On behalf of the Nebraska Women of Today, I would personally like to thank all of the volunteers of your community. No matter what organization each person is a volunteer for, our communities would not survive without each willing volunteer. Our communities are a much better place because of such giving people.

Once again, "Thank You" to all of the volunteers. I hope that your community continues to have much success.

It's a 'spectacle'

Dear Editor,

Today's quote in the Sioux City Journal, April 13, 1998 "INDEED, I TREMBLE FOR MY COUNTRY WHEN I REFLECT THAT GOD IS JUST!" — Thomas Jefferson — has prompted me to write something I've thought of doing for quite some time. Ironically, it was on this day in 1943 that Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated the Jefferson Memorial in Washington, D.C.

We have had many highly respected and revered Presidents, both Democrats and Republicans, and undoubtedly (hopefully) will in the future. But what we have in the White House today is a spectacle.

You can hardly read any publication, newspapers, magazines, cartoonists or watch the TV news, talk shows, etc., but what Clinton or Hillary are the brunt of jokes, innuendos, etc.

The White House and the U.S. Government are not the only reputations President Clinton is ruining. Reports indicate that journalists in foreign lands are having a field day with President Clinton's latest reported escapades.

Last week I read that throughout the history of American Presidents (until Clinton) the most attorneys on the payroll of the White House Staff was 8-eight!!

Clinton has 28!! I believe it's even worse — a publication received today states that of the White House's 428 employees, 98 (more than 20 percent) now work as lawyers or paralegals — at our (taxpayers) expense!

Whether we are Democrats, Republicans or Independents, we should be ashamed to call Clinton our President. What an example he is setting for our young people! I am not ashamed to be Christian (with plenty of my own faults) and I wholeheartedly concur with nationally respected Christian orators (James Dobson, Dr. Kennedy, Jerry Falwell, to name a few) that Christians must speak up!

Thomas Jefferson's quotation is just as relevant (perhaps more so) today as it was during his lifetime! President Clinton has allegedly committed more illegal and immoral acts than any of us should have to accept as "business as usual." Even so, our problem emerging is much bigger than Bill or Hillary Clinton!

When the American public (who are THEY?) continue to give the President such high marks in the polls, it appears that he is establishing the precedent for future presidents and SETTING A NEW MORAL STANDARD FOR AMERICA!

Unrealistic as it is, I wish that every billboard along our Nation's highways could proclaim: "Chronicles 7:14 in big bold letters. I believe the Bible to be true and VERY RELEVANT for our great country today! I hope you do too! God Bless America and forgive us!"

Marketing opportunities are coming

Marketing opportunities are coming to Wayne!

First, Michael O'Connor of Grand Island will present a Marketing Seminar on Thursday, April 23 at 7 a.m. at the Wayne Vet's Club. Cost is $15 for Chamber members; $30 for non-members. This seminar will be valuable to any kind of business. Tickets are available at the Chamber/Industries office.

The second opportunity, a Marketing Roundtable, comes a few days later, on Tuesday, April 28 from 5:30-7 p.m. at The Max. There is no charge; eats and drinks are Dutch treat. We'll do some brainstorming on how to market the community and examine ideas for promotions. I hope to see you at both of these marketing opportunities!

speaker for their monthly or weekly meeting? Have you ever thought you'd like to be such a speaker? When you stop to consider these questions, I'm sure you'll begin to think about other questions in the same direction.

The Chamber's Education Council is putting together Speaker's Bureau information to be used by people in the area. You might consider being included in the Speaker's Bureau if you have an interesting hobby. Your business or line of work might be another resource for inclusion in such information. Give Bea a call at 375-2240.

Last month 20 some people discussed the need for a common information and referral system in Wayne County. The group's consensus was that this is needed here. For example, if you're a day care provider and your client inquires about job opportunities in the area, what kind of information can you provide? Or, if you're a single parent student at college, what needs do you have for your child which are not being met? Or, if you work with other special populations from young to elderly, are you faced with questions concerning services you do not provide?

The I & R, as it is commonly called, could be developed and posted on the Internet as a way to provide service providers with instant access to information ranging from housing to nutrition, from day care to employment, from financial to medical... and lots more in between. The I & R Task Force will meet on Thursday, April 30 at Providence Medical Center at 8 a.m. Please contact Sandra Bartling at 375-5529 to reserve your seat.

Search for WSC women's coach narrowed to three

Three candidates will be on campus this week to interview for the Wayne State College head women's basketball coaching position, WSC director of athletics Pete Chapman announced earlier this week.

The three candidates are Gary Becker, head women's basketball coach at Casper (Wyo.) College; Mike Power, head women's basketball coach at Briar Cliff College and Ryan Williams, head women's basketball coach at Sheridan (Wyo.) College.

According to Chapman, Williams was scheduled to interview on Tuesday, while Power was on campus Wednesday and Becker on Thursday. Chapman, who said he hopes to have the position filled early next week, indicated a fourth candidate could possibly be brought on campus for an interview on Monday.

Becker has been the head coach at Casper College, a junior college in Casper, Wyoming, since 1980. During that time he has compiled a 219-53 record. He guided the Thunderbirds to seven straight Wyoming Conference championships from 1991-1997 and six appearances in the Region IX finals, including four championships. Three of his teams have finished among the top 10 teams in the nation, highlighted by a third-place finish in 1996.

During that span, Becker earned conference Coach of the Year honors five times and regional Coach of the Year on four occasions. He was the WBCA-District 7 Coach of the Year in 1997.

From 1983-89, Becker was the head women's coach at Ellsworth Community College in Iowa Falls, Iowa. There, he posted a 108-55 record. In 1986 he earned Region XI Coach of the Year honors after leading his team to the regional championship.

In addition, Becker spent time as the head women's volleyball coach at both schools. He was the head coach at Ellsworth CC three seasons and the head coach at Casper College six seasons.

Becker earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska-Omaha in 1977 and his master's degree from Wayne State in 1980.

POWER RECENTLY completed his sixth season at Briar Cliff. After taking over a program which went 0-29 during the 1991-1992 season, Power has directed his teams to a 127-73 mark. The Chargers have qualified for the NAIA Division II National Tournament the past three years, twice advancing to the Elite Eight.

Briar Cliff has posted back-to-back 30-win seasons, going 37-1 in 1996-1997 and 31-4 this past year, leading the nation in scoring and scoring margin both seasons. The Chargers were ranked No. 1 in the final regular season NAIA Division II national poll.

Power began his head coaching career at Nebraska Wesleyan University in 1988, where he turned the Plainswomen's program around. He compiled a 30-45 record, but the team's 15-11 mark tied the school record for wins in a season. That year, Nebraska Wesleyan led the NCAA Division III in scoring, averaging 87.8 points per game.

Following his three-year stint at Nebraska Wesleyan, Power was the head girls' basketball coach at Gothenburg High School for one year before moving on to Briar Cliff.

Power earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1988 and his master's degree from UNI in 1994.

WILLIAMS HAS revitalized the women's basketball program at Sheridan College, a junior college in Sheridan, Wyo. In three seasons as head coach, he owns a 54-38 record. After a 7-21 record during his first season in 1995-1996, Williams guided the Lady Generals to a 19-12 mark in 1996-97 and a 28-5 record this past year.

The 1997-98 Wyoming Conference and Region IX Coach of the Year, Williams led Sheridan to the Wyoming Conference title and a runner-up finish at the Region IX Tournament. The Lady Generals were ranked 14th in the final junior college national rankings.

Williams has been at Sheridan College since 1993. He has also served as an assistant men's basketball coach, and he was the head women's volleyball coach for four years.

Prior to that, Williams was an assistant coach at the University of South Dakota during the 1992-93 season. That year, the Coyotes went 25-5, won the North Central Conference title and advanced to the Division II Elite Eight. Williams played two seasons at Sheridan College, where he was an All-Region IX player as a sophomore. He then transferred to South Dakota where he earned All-NCC honors after leading the nation in free throw percentage at 91.2 percent.

Williams earned his associate's degree from Sheridan College in 1990, his bachelor's degree from South Dakota in 1992 and his master's degree from South Dakota in 1997.

WSC track teams compete at Dordt meet

Buoyed primarily by strength in the field events, the Wayne State College women's track and field team placed second at the Dordt College Invitational Saturday, April 11. High winds affected many of the performances, especially on the track where the dashes were run into a strong head wind.

The top performance of the day came from redshirt freshman Deanna Gollobit, who won the triple jump with a meet record leap of 36-feet, 7-inches. This smashed the old meet record of 36-1 set by former WSC standout Linda Schnitzler in 1987. Gollobit also placed second in the long jump in 17-2.

"Deanna is really improving," said head coach Brian Kavanaugh. "She could get the triple jump school record this year, and maybe an NCAA provisional qualifying mark."

The other event winner for the women was junior Angie Kment who claimed the gold medal in the shot put with a throw of 39-11. She also placed second in the discus with a season-best throw of 126-4 and third in the javelin. Freshman Cindy Franzluebbers recorded two season-best performances by placing fourth in the shot put (36-8.5) and fifth in the discus (111-6).

In the distance races, freshman Darr Nickerson and sophomore Marsha Krienke placed third and fourth in the 800-meter run in 2:29.16 and 2:29.78, respectively. Senior Michelle Baatz took third in the 1500-meter run in 5:18.33. In the 3000-meter run, redshirt freshman Kara Gebhardt placed third and sophomore Amy Wintz placed sixth in 11:39.95 and 11:48.79, respectively.

Other placers for the women included sophomore Aisha Todd, sixth in the 100-meter dash in 13.95, redshirt freshman Laura Martin, who placed third in the long jump (16-11) and fourth in the high jump (4-11), freshman Randi Meek, sixth in the 400-meter dash in 1:06.41.

In the relays, the team of Dana Schmersal, Kari Droescher, Nickerson and Krienke placed second in the sprint medley relay, clocking 4:30.22. The 4x100-meter relay team placed sixth in 53:37, and the 4x400-meter relay team clocked 4:33.27 for fourth place.

In the team standings, NCAA Division III power Buena Vista won easily with 148 points, followed by WSC with 96 points. Northwestern scored 73 points for third, followed by Sioux Falls with 71 points. Dordt scored 60 points for fifth place, followed by Northwestern (Minn.) with 46 and Dana with 29.

On the men's side, senior James McGown was the lone gold medalist, clocking 15:39.92 for 5000 meters to win by over 200 meters. In the 1500-meter run, McGown suffered a rare defeat, placing second in 4:05.17.

Other placers for the men included freshman Jeremy Murphy, third in the long jump with a personal best mark of 20-8. Junior Brandon Moore was third in the 200-meter dash in 23.62, Landon Brethouwer placed sixth in the javelin in 122-6, and freshman Matt Kneiff and sophomore Jeremie Lippman placed third and sixth in the 400-meter hurdles in 59.20 and 1:03.07, respectively. Kneiff also placed fifth in the 110-meter hurdles in 16.54 seconds. As a team the Wildcats placed fifth with 52 points.

Next on the schedule for the Wildcats is the Sioux City Relays, April 17-18 at Roberts Stadium in Sioux City.

Track story correction

Last Week's Wayne Herald had the Wayne track teams' story at the Laurel Relays transposed in several areas.

The following is a re-run of the story in correct form. The Herald apologizes for any inconvenience the story may have caused.

The Wayne track teams competed at the Laurel-Concord Relays last Friday at Wayne State College.

Dale Hochstein's girls team didn't score a single point in the field events but the Lady Blue Devils battled back to earn a tie with Bancroft-Rosalie with 68 points for team honors.

Coleridge placed third with 49 points and Laurel-Concord was fourth with 48 followed by Wakefield with 39 and Hartington with 38.

Hartington Cedar Catholic placed seventh with 36 points and Ponca was eighth with 30 followed by Beemer with 16 and Emerson-Hubbard 10.

Sara Kinney won the 1500-meter run in 5:17.24 and the Blue Devils added four first place finishes in relay events.

The 3200-meter relay was timed in 10:44.78 for an easy win with Sara Ellis, Lully Broders, Jessica Raveling and Molly Linster.

The 800-meter relay team won in 2:01.78 with Monica Novak, Mandy Hansen, Amanda Maryott and Molly Linster with the 1600-meter relay team winning in 4:40.24 with Maryott, Novak, Raveling and Kinney.

The 800-meter relay team won in 2:01.91 with Novak, Leah Dunklau, Gayle Olson and Mandy Hansen.

The 1600-meter relay team placed runner-up in 4:36.32 with Ellis, Kristin Hochstein, Raveling and Linster.

Katie Walton placed fourth in the 400-meter dash in 73.8 and Kristin Wilson was fifth in 77.7 while Sarah Holstedt placed fourth in the 1500-meter run in 5:49.3.

"We had a good day on the track," Hochstein said. "We had some good throws by our young field event people which I think helped the confidence factor."

Leah Dunklau missed placing in the triple jump by half-an-inch and Amanda Maryott having two scratches and a poor jump which kept her from the finals of the triple jump so we headed to the track with no points in the field.

Hochstein said the difference in the meet came down to who got the fourth's, fifth's and sixth places.

Having Sarah Holstedt place in the 1500 and Katie Walton along with Kristin Wilson in the 400 gave us enough points to earn a tie for first place," Hochstein added.

Harder leads L.C.

Eilly Harder's runner-up finish in the 1500-meter run led the Bears to a fourth place finish with 48 points.

Harder was timed in 5:33.58. Kylie Beames ran to a third place time of 73.78 in the 400-meter dash and the 800-meter relay team placed third in 2:04.56 while the 1600-meter medley relay team placed third in 4:40.24.

Jenny Demuth placed third in the high jump with a leap of 4-6 and the 1600-meter relay team placed third in 4:36.32.

The 800-meter medley relay team was fourth in 2:11.02 with Kap Stewart placing sixth in the triple jump with a leap of 30-5. Michelle Wilke was sixth in the high jump at 4-6 and Shannon Burns was sixth in the 400-meter dash in 77.75. The Bears 400-meter relay team was sixth in 58.9.

Brownell leads Trojans

Maggie Brownell-led Wakefield's team with a pair of second place finishes in the high jump (4-8) and triple jump (32-8.5) while adding a third in the long jump, (15-7.5).

Jennifer Carlson placed fourth in the shot put at 30-5 and Katie Hoffman was fourth in the discus after a toss of 87-2.

The 3200-meter relay team was fourth in 12:03.3 and the 800-meter medley relay team was fifth in 2:11.02. The 1600-meter medley relay team was fifth with 51.92 and the 1600-meter relay team was sixth in 5:21.03.

THE WAYNE BOYS track team placed fourth with 55 points with Bancroft-Rosalie leading the team race with 87 points while Coleridge was second with 77 and Ponca, third with 62 points.

Emerson-Hubbard tied Wayne with 55 points with Hartington placing sixth with 29. Laurel-Concord followed with 27 and Wakefield netted eight while Beemer rounded out the team race with three points.

Wayne garnered three first place finishes including Brad Maryott's 20-3/4 leap in the long jump. The 3200-meter relay team won in 9:22.13 with Brandon Gunn, Brandon Garvin, Dustin Schmeits and Gabe Hammer and the 1600-meter relay team won in 3:43.88 with Hammer, Schmeits, Garvin and Matt Meyer.

Pritam Dalal placed second in the 400-meter dash in 57.5 and the 800-meter relay team was third in 1:42.83 with Ben Meyer, Jon Meyer, Josh Murtaugh and Dalal.

Josh Murtaugh added a fourth in the 400-meter dash in 60.4 and the 800-meter medley relay team was fourth in 1:47.9 with Brad Maryott, Jon Meyer, Matt Meyer and Brent Tietz.

The 400-meter relay team was fifth in 49.7 with Ben Meyer, Josh Murtaugh, Craig Olson and Pritam Dalal.

Adam Endicott closed out the Wayne scoring with a sixth place finish in the discus with a toss of 107-4.

Laurel places seventh

Laurel-Concord tallied 27 points led by the 3200-meter relay team which placed third in 9:26.03.

Laurel was third in the 1500-meter run in 4:49.5 but no runner was listed. Jordan Bloom placed third in the 400-meter dash in 60.08 and the 1600-meter relay team was fourth in 4:03.4.

Adam Hartung finished fourth in the triple jump with a leap of 38-5 and Hartung followed that up with a sixth place effort in the long jump at 18-3.75.

Wakefield's boys team managed just eight points with Heath Keim getting fourth in the discus after a toss of 119-4 and Keim placed fifth in the shot put with a 42-10 effort. The 800-meter relay team was fifth in 1:52.9 to close out the scoring.

Phone ballots in hands of customers

All Winside NebCom Telephone Company customers should have received an Extended Area Service (EAS) ballot by mail last week.

Everyone has been encouraged to read their ballots carefully.

"It is very important that everyone understand that they are to vote on all three options," said Dianne Jaeger, who has been working on the campaign, to provide EAS to Winside telephone customers.

A "yes" vote will add the monthly charge to the customer's bill, but will allow customers to make unlimited calls to Norfolk or Wayne or both each month.

The only way EAS will be implemented is with 50 percent or more 'yes' votes on one of the options," Mrs. Jaeger said.

All ballots not returned by May 11, 1998 will be counted as "no" votes.

NebCom has enclosed a postage-paid return envelope for customers convenience.

Anyone who has misplaced the ballot or did not receive one can pick one up at the Village Clerk's office or Oberle's market.

For answers to questions, call NebCom at 1-888-686-9311.

Students involved with Junior Achievement

Six Wayne State College students are showing Wakefield students how business works through a new Junior Achievement program.

Stacy Fulton, of Creighton; Todd Koeber, of Wayne; Eric Lanspa, of David City; Mollie Marote, of Stanton; Sara Miller, of Aurora; and Alan Movall, of Schaller, Iowa are members of Delta Sigma Pi and volunteers for Junior Achievement's Elementary School Program.

"The Delta Sigma Pi members select their own agenda of involvements, so it is especially meaningful that this is something they wished to begin as a possible ongoing project," said Ken Halsey, Wayne State College business professor.

Junior Achievement gives students an understanding of business and free enterprise through various programs offered to classroom teachers throughout the country. Joining in partnership with classroom teachers, volunteers teach all Junior Achievement programs. The Wayne State student volunteers are members of Delta Sigma Pi, a professional business fraternity, which brings students of business closer to the commercial world.

The WSC Delta Sigma Pi students will teach five sessions to Wakefield students. The topics covered include how a city works, career opportunities, and various aspects of American business. Each grade level includes a variety of hands-on activities to involve the students and volunteers. In addition, each program reinforces decision-making and workforce-readiness skills.

"The reason we joined the Junior Achievement Program is we want to get involved with a community service project with young people in the surrounding communities," said Lanspa, a Wayne State College senior.

"Working with Wakefield grade school students is just a start," Lanspa said. "We would like to sign up more schools in the future for our program. We are working with small projects and presentations as consultants; teaching for short presentations and fun projects."

This is the first time Junior Achievement programs have been offered in Wayne as part of a national partnership between Junior Achievement and Delta Sigma Pi chapters.

For Delta Sigma Pi members, being a Junior Achievement volunteer is an opportunity to develop important life skills such as organization, time management and presentation skills. In addition, college students provide a valuable community service and are role models for the elementary students. Students are seeking more schools for the fall Junior Achievement program.

Junior Achievement's mission is to educate and inspire young people to value free enterprise, understand business and economics and be work-force ready.

"We do this by bringing economic education to students in kindergarten through 12th grade using classroom instruction and real-world simulations," said Roxanne Mulvey, educational services manager for Junior Achievement of the Midlands.

Junior Achievement was founded nationally in 1919 and has operated programs in Omaha and surrounding areas since 1962. For the school year ending June 1998, Junior Achievement of the Midlands will reach 13,000 students in 163 schools.

To find out more about Junior Achievement programs, please call (402) 333-6410. To find out more about the program through Wayne State College, please call (402) 375-2245.

Open house planned for Saturday

The second annual Wayne State College Open House, "Explore '98" is set for Saturday, April 18 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on the WSC campus. The entire campus will open its doors for exploration by visitors.

"Explore '98" is the theme for the event which will showcase many demonstrations and activities, not only for prospective students and their parents, but also for the general public, alumni and anyone who is interested in learning more about northeast Nebraska's regional public four-year college," said Bonnie Scranton, assistant vice president for Enrollment Management. She added the campus will have all of its facilities open for visitors to see.

"April 18 is when everyone has a chance to explore, have fun and learn about Wayne State," she added.

Among the dozens of activities and demonstrations planned for the Open House, visitors will be able to:

- Surf the Internet in one of the computer labs;

- Participate in and learn about recreation activities available on campus;

- Visit the new Alumni House and enjoy refreshments from 10 a.m. to noon;

- Tour the Nordstrand Visual Arts Gallery and learn about computer-generated art;

- Witness and participate in a campus radio broadcast from the Student Center atrium and

- Visit the variety of student organizations represented in the Student Center.

"And that's just part of what is planned for the day," said Scranton, who is co-chair of this year's event at Wayne State. Scranton says last year's event drew more than 1,200 people to campus and she is optimistic about this year's attendance.

"It was damp and drizzling last year during our first open house," Scranton noted. "I am hopeful that the weather will cooperate and we can have an even larger crowd for 'Explore '98.'"

Among the door prizes for this year's open house will be two, 50 percent room waivers, each a $750 value. To be eligible for the door prizes, prospective students need to register at the Student Center and complete a campus exploration activity.

They offer the friendship and encouragement that help girls build self-worth and solid values. Prairie Hills Girl Scout Council is proud to acknowledge the outstanding volunteers who are leading the way for over 2,600 girls in 19 counties in northeast Nebraska. The volunteers for Service Unit 16 include: Daisy—Terri Headley, David Headley and Heidi Headley; Brownie (Wayne)—Susan Schroeder, Michelle Evans and Joyce Wurdeman; Juniors (Wayne)—Linda Murray, Nancy Madrell and Tammi Rasmussen. ## Educators present at conference

Bob Uhing, Betty Heier and Frank Adams representing ESU #1 presented a session at the 1998 Excellence in Education Conference on March 30 in Lincoln. The presentation was one of 70 sessions showcasing local exemplary programs and addressing the theme of Implementing School Improvement through Staff Development. Several nationally recognized educational leaders provided conference sessions focusing upon technology, teambuilding, improving achievement, and implications for teaching derived from new findings in brain and learning research.

Jazz band does well in Norfolk

The 1998 Wayne High School Jazz Bands participated in the Northeast Jazz Festival held on the campus at NECC in Norfolk. A total of 37 high school jazz bands from Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota and Missouri, competed in three levels. Sixteen schools competed in Level III with the following results: Adrian, Minn., High School, first; Coleridge High School, second; Kingsley-Pierson, Iowa, third; Wayne High School Jazz Band #2, fourth. In Level II there were 13 schools competing. Denison, Iowa High School was first; Wayne High School Jazz Band #1 was second; Beatrice High School was third and Norfolk High School Jazz Band #2 was fourth. There were eight schools competing in Level I. Harlan, Iowa High School was first; St. Joseph, Mo. High School Jazz Band #1 was second; Sioux City, Iowa East High School Jazz Band #1 was third and Omaha Millard South was fourth. Harlan High School was the Sweepstakes Trophy for being the Outstanding Jazz Band at the competition. A number of Wayne High School students received Outstanding soloist awards at the competition. They included: Jon Gathje, trumpet; Becky Fletcher, piano; Mindy McLean, alto sax; Clay Siefken, trombone and Pritam Dalal, trap set.

Nebraska Business Development Network President Lance Hedquist passed the gavel to 1998 President Connie Keck, of Wayne State College at the group's annual meeting and banquet at the Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln. A total of 235 people from across the state gathered to network and "Build the Future Together."

As president, Keck said she intends to work on increasing the membership base, focusing on youth and improving communication between regional groups and the Network's Board of Directors. "In my position as president of Nebraska Development Network I will be working with the board of directors; the Network office, which is located in Lincoln and is part of the Nebraska Rural Development Commission; and the seven regional Network groups throughout the state," Keck said.

"I will also be working with the Nebraska Development Youth Network - Northeast Region. Wayne State College received funding from LB144 (Partnership for Economic Development Act) to start the Youth Network Pilot Program," Keck said.

Another opportunity Keck said the new office will bring includes visiting other regions of the state to discover what higher education institutions are providing for assistance.

"I accepted the position because I like working with people," Keck said. "It's important for Wayne State College as well as our other state colleges, Peru State and Chadron State, to be recognized for their involvement in community and economic development in their service areas. The State College System has been a major player in working to assist rural communities in their service regions."

According to Keck, this position will tie in with Wayne State College objectives such as quality of life issues, regional service, statewide state college community and economic development efforts, and enhancing educational opportunities through professional development. Keck is a graduate of the Economic Development Institute (EDI), University of Oklahoma, Norman Oklahoma, 1994.

She has been the director of the Bureau for Community and Economic Development since January 1990. Wayne State College President Dr. Donald J. Mash created the Bureau office because he wanted to focus on outreach activities and regional service in WSC's service area.

Keck is also the president of the Nebraska Chapter of the International Community Development Society (CDS) and serves on the International CDS Board of Directors.

Highlights of the Network meeting included the Annual Recognition Banquet with guest speaker Gov. E. Benjamin Nelson, who received the Network President's Award, recognizing his leadership in development efforts for rural Nebraska during his two terms. Twenty three state senators took time from their busy legislative schedule to have dinner with constituents from across the state.

Gary Raimondo, CEO of Behlen Manufacturing in Columbus, received the Network's Business Partner Award for the company's effort to create and use networks to accomplish policy and Network program goals.

The "Connecting Award" was presented to Expo for Technology for their leadership and effort to connect fellow Nebraskans. Twelve partners joined to address the outmigration of youth from rural Nebraska during the four years of the Expo. 5000 students from 60 different high schools spent the day learning about technical career choices and employment opportunities in Nebraska. The nomination for the award came from the Central Regional Group.

Lt. Gov. Kim Robak gave the opening remarks about the new information Technology Commission and the coordination of technology between government, communities and education. Network members spent the days setting priorities for the future and learning about leadership and economic development tools. Four gubernatorial candidates participated in a panel to discuss their positions on economic development for Nebraska business and communities. The seven Regional Groups reported on developments in their areas.

The Nebraska Development Network has over 500 members statewide for businesses, public and private agencies, and organizations who network together to find solutions. For more information about the Network, contact Connie Keck at (402) 375-7533, or a Regional Group member or Jo Lowe, 1200 N St., Suite #610, Lincoln NE 68508-2022, phone 402-471-2698.

Sexual abuse leaves lifetime scars

I had the recent pleasure to attend an evening seminar on April 2 and day long seminar on April 3 in Sioux City called "Breaking the Silence: Coming to Terms with Abuse" by former Miss America Marilyn Van Derbur Atter. Mrs. Van Derbur Atter was an incest victim from age five to age 18.

She speaks all over the country about an area that people do not want to hear about, but need to hear about. Marilyn Van Derbur Atter said there hasn't been a day in her life that hasn't been impacted by the abuse of her father.

Some sexual assault experts say there may be as many as one in three women by the time they turn 18 years old that have experienced a sexual trauma. Childhood sexual violation impact every single aspect of the victim's life.

To deal with the night time traumas, Marilyn's mind split or dissociated. Her mind probably split when the traumas began although she does not remember it occurring. The day child did not know about the night child. She loved her father during the day, but was terrified of him at night.

Until she was 24 years old, she did not consciously realize what had happened to her. By repressing the memory, she was able to keep them from becoming conscious. It was at age 24 that the memories came pouring out with the help of her pastor.

Karen Wermers
Dixon County

She said she has never been able to fall asleep without the help of drugs due to the terror associated with sleep. She cannot even take a nap on a plane. She suffered years of muscle tension and panic attacks.

From the years her daughter was age five until 18 years old, Marilyn experienced physical paralysis with no known cause. She did not realize until later that the physical paralysis coincided with the age of her daughter and the age she was abused.

In 1976, in her 40's, her life shut down. She was hospitalized for over three months with paralysis. She experienced uncontrollable sobbing. She also had intense grief and anger. She felt crazy.

In reality, this was a normal stage of recovery. She began daily therapy. It took six years of her life for recovery although the unconscious memories were always impacting her life subconsciously. Sexual abuse victims feel badly, ugly, dirty, degraded and guilty. These feelings may stay with victims, the rest of their lives. Psychological trauma changes the brain's chemistry.

During her recovery, a friend told her that this happened a long time ago and why didn't she just forget about it. Marilyn was further traumatized by this statement. Her friend was not talking to an adult. Marilyn was not just remembering the traumas. She was actually re-experiencing the traumas with the memories, feelings and emotions at the age she was at the time of the traumas, age five, age eight, age 11 and so on. This is normal in recovery. The trauma has to become conscious before a victim can recover and feel at peace with themselves.

She confronted her father as part of her recovery. He said he would never have done what he did if he knew the impact on her. She wanted to believe him. Marilyn later learned that her father had violated a 17-year old when he was 74 years old.

This knowledge released her of conflicting feelings about her father. Her mother was in denial when Marilyn approached her about the abuse. It was not until a sister confirmed her abuse that Marilyn's mother accepted what had happened.

Marilyn's never say list to sexual assault survivors:

1. I don't believe you.
2. Why didn't you tell me sooner?
3. This so sorry that that happened a long time ago. Forget about it and move on with your life.
4. You did the best you could.

Council on Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence what to say list to sexual assault survivors:

1. I believe you.
2. I'm glad you're alive.
3. I'm sorry it happened.
4. You did the best you could.

1. Repression, amnesia, and dissociation is very common among sexual abuse victims. Marilyn has recovered from a childhood experience that happened when they were a child of ten, eight, or a baby-sitter. One experience impact a lifetime. What is termed as sexual experimentation can leave permanent scars.

2. A person doesn't need to be touched to be a victim. Dirty language about body parts can cause sexual dysfunction, whereas the victim perceives sex as dirty instead of loving.

3. Marilyn said she knew of no victim that did not suffer some form of sexual dysfunction.

4. Depression problems can be lifelong. Suicide thought and attempts are common.

5. Post traumatic stress syndrome is common.

6. The sooner a victim recovers via therapy, the less the assault impacts their life.

7. It is not what specifically happened to the victim that causes the trauma. It is the emotional response to the trauma that leaves permanent scars. Violence and physical harm can actually be a badge of innocence to the victim relieving guilt that they may have caused this violation.

8. Response to the victim is critical in decreasing or increasing trauma. Use the "what to say" list as mentioned.

Ask your child if they have been touched in an uncomfortable way. Marilyn gave an example of a burglar who had entered the house hold and the parents were aware of it. The mother asked the daughter if a burglar had entered her room. The daughter said no. It was not until years later that the daughter told her mother the burglar had entered her room. Sometimes the mind and body just cannot deal with a trauma until an older age no matter if there are feelings of guilt or not.

Motive of Abusers: Sexual abuse is perpetrated by the abuser for the need to feel power and control over another human being, not intimacy. One study I saw said abusers actually derive self esteem by being in control of family members. Marilyn said not be fooled and therefore believed she could do anything he pleased as the master of the household.

There is no mutual respect and equality in an abusive relationship. Fear and force are used to get compliance. Marilyn has talked to numerous convicted sex offenders. She said that men with sexual addictions won't stop unless somebody makes them stop.

There were three video tapes available from Mrs. Van Derbur's program. They include "A Story of Hope: Marilyn Van Derbur's Story," "Once Can Hurt a Lifetime" and "An Invaluable Tool: A Guide to Better Health Care for Women." They are available through the Dixon County Extension Office by calling (402) 584-2234 or writing $7905 866 Road, Haskell Ag. Lab, Concord, Neb. 68728-0111.

Excellent sexual assault and domestic violence centers are located in Wayne, Neb. and Sioux City, Iowa. Haven House in Wayne can be reached at 375-4633. The Council on Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence in Sioux City can be reached at 1-800-982-7233.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

March has been a very busy month for the Library. As we say good-bye to winter, and greet spring with open arms, we are also welcoming patrons by the score. We have checked out over 3,700 items this month alone. As least with all this dust flying, we won't have much spring cleaning to do!

We have just added another PC for word processing. And we also have added two more CD-ROMs to our reference station: the Mayo Family Health Disc and Science-Fiction. Our policy does not allow you to bring in your own software, or to save anything to disc, but we do have an ink-jet printer from which copies can be made for a nominal fee.

We will be wrapping up our children's Winter Storytime Hours on April 4 at 10:30 a.m. The program has been very successful this year, and thanks are due to all those who read. We had an average attendance of 20 pairs of ears per reading.

Our latest program "Choices for the 21st Century" began March 26. With approximately 20 area residents, the Senior Center was filled with a lively discussion on the future of the United States and the world, led by Gretchen Rothow of WSC's Humanities division. The program continues on Thursday nights through April.

The library is sporting a brand new newsletter, thanks to the creativity of LeAnn Kunz, library aide. We will be publishing book reviews from community members who wish to contribute. Please inquire, as we encourage reviews from all age groups. You can pick up a copy of the newsletter at the circulation desk.

We will also be adding a suggestion box sometime in the near future. Let us know what you think: what kind of books, videos, CDs, magazines or other materials you would like to see in the library. We won't be able to purchase everything requested, but we will give your requests serious consideration.

Remember, our library hours are Monday-Friday, 12:30-8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; and Sunday, 2-5 p.m. Our phone number is (402) 375-3135 and fax number is (402) 375-5572. Fax charges are $1 per page.

New Warning for OTC Pain Relievers

Over-the-counter (OTC) pain relievers are among the most popular of all OTC medicines sold in the United States. Pain relievers that can be purchased without a prescription include aspirin, acetaminophen, ibuprofen, naproxen, and naproxen. According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, use of OTC pain medicine increased 50% in recent years based on consumer demand, increased advertising, and changes of some products from prescription-only to OTC status.

Recently, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration issued a proposed ruling that it enacted would require an alcohol warning on all OTC pain relievers. The label would warn consumers who drink three or more alcoholic beverages daily to ask their physicians if concurrent use of OTC pain medicines is advisable. Specific risk warnings, such as possible bleeding from the use of alcohol and aspirin, would also be required.

"I couldn't read road signs. It was something I was not used to. I thought I had dry eyes. It was a surprise to find out I had cataracts.

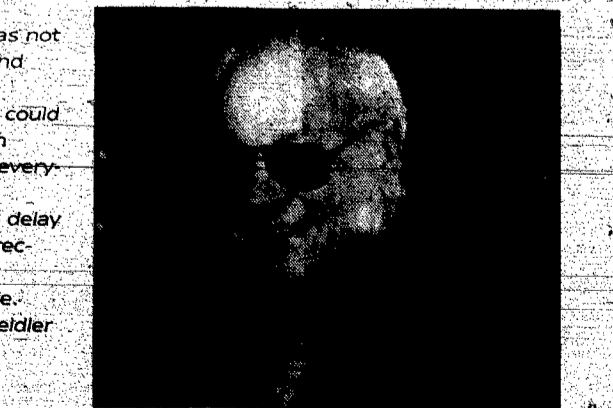

Dr. Feidler was very straight forward about what could happen during surgery. Doctors are better worriers than most people. It was reassuring that I wasn't expecting everything to go well, but cataract surgery went very well.

Cataract surgery is a piece-of-cake. It's foolish to delay it for any reason. It's a surgery I would not hesitate to recommend as a physician.

Talk to Dr. Feidler, ask him the questions you have. His answers are very straight forward. I've known Dr. Feidler for 30 years. I was treated as a friend, by a friend."

April is time of rebirth

Today is Good Friday. We've steeped ourselves in Holy Week/Passover traditions, beginning with the cantata last Sunday.

On Tuesday evening we drove in pouring rain to Christ Community Church in Omaha to view "There Is A Healer." The choir at the "Megachurch" does an Easter drama every year and it's outstanding. It features Bible times costumes and music with appropriate narration. There is a crucifixion and we can hear the hammer to the nails. The fellow portraying Simon of Cyrene sang "Watch the Lamb" by Ray Boltz. This song always brings tears while helping us consider the analogy of the Passover lamb to Christ.

I remember having the eighth grade "Vacation Bible Schools" come to our home for a meal of lamb, matzoh, horseradish and chabets to emphasize the fact that Jesus was observing the Passover with his disciples when he instituted the Lord's Supper. Then last night, Maundy Thursday, we heard the same theme as we participated in a communion service.

Today's one of those days when you realize why you live in Nebraska. There are too few: bright sun, clear sky, very little wind and daffodils blooming everywhere. One of our guests last week told us that his company in Omaha purchased a company in New York. The eastern employees were given the option of moving to Omaha. Only two relocated. Several said they were afraid they would have to ride a horse to work!

Today, I believe I can safely put the sweaters away and get out the cotton clothes, begin to wash windows and get the trash out of the flower bed.

We'll attend sunrise services at the little church west of us, pick up Grandma in Lincoln and head to Winside for a ham dinner on Sunday. It really is a time of rebirth, renewal and reflection. A time for families and loved ones, for Easter lilies and the Hallelujah Chorus.

Next thing you know, there will be tractors heading to the fields. Then we'll know it's spring for sure!

Three simple steps Install new vinyl floor with ease

There's good news for do-it-yourselfers — installing vinyl flooring just got a whole lot easier.

That's because one vinyl manufacturer has just come out with a new line of flooring with the adhesive already on it. That feature has been available in vinyl floor tiles (the small 12-inch squares) for literally decades, but never before in so-called sheet vinyl (the kind that comes in 12-foot-wide rolls).

So, even though most people have always preferred the look of sheet vinyl because of the absence of seams, do-it-yourselfers usually ended up purchasing tiles because they were so much easier to install. However, now that there's a sheet vinyl that comes with the adhesive pre-applied, do-it-yourselfers can get the best of both types of floors in one product that combines seamlessness and easy installation.

To install the new flooring, the do-it-yourselfer simply peels a thin film of clear plastic off the backing to expose the adhesive and lays the flooring down. The adhesive will hold the flooring securely in place, but like a Post-It® note, the flooring can be repositioned, moved or even taken back up later on, if desired.

Colmar Industries, the maker, has dubbed the new line 1-2-3 Floor, which represents the three steps in the installation process:

Step one — measure the room where the flooring will be installed. Step two — cut the flooring to fit. Step three — peel off the plastic, and stick the flooring down.

There are two versions of the new flooring, both priced not to give even the most economy-minded do-it-yourselfer sticker shock. The one version, featuring a urethane top layer containing DuPont Teflon® for easy cleaning, sells for about $12.99 a square yard.

The other version costs even less, and is available in prepackaged sizes (9 feet by 12 feet for example), as well as 12-foot rolls. This version has silicone in the wear layer and does a good job of resisting scuffing and soiling.

While an installation of conventional sheet vinyl may require the purchase of certain specialized equipment, like a notched steel trowel for spreading adhesive, a do-it-yourselfer can install 1-2-3

ONE — The first step in installing Colmar's new 1-2-3 Floor sheet vinyl is to make a template of the room area. The easiest way is to tape together old newspapers.

Floor with items likely to be found around the house, like a ballpoint pen, razor knife, masking tape and old newspapers.

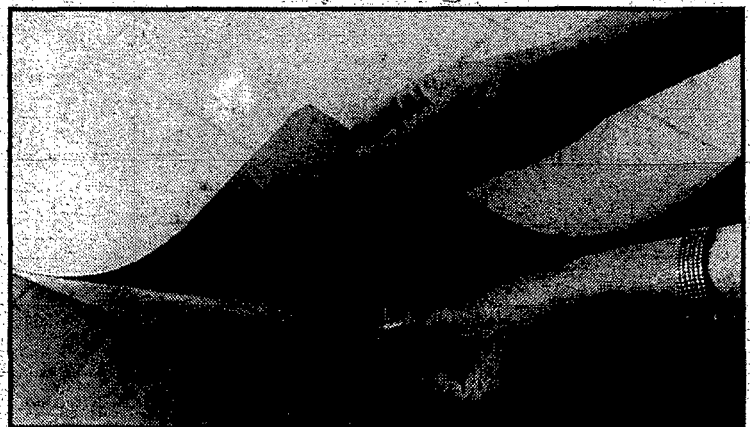

The recommended installation procedure calls for making a template of the floor area by taping together newspapers, laying the template on the vinyl flooring, tracing around it with a ballpoint pen, and, finally, cutting the flooring to size with a razor knife.

After that, the only thing left to do is peel the plastic off the backing and lay the flooring down.

TWO — Step two is to lay the template on the flooring and trace around it with a ballpoint pen. Then, cut the flooring along the outline with a razor knife.

THREE — Step three is to peel the clear plastic off the backing and lay the flooring down. The flooring can be repositioned, moved or even taken back up later on, if desired, like a Post-It® note.

Perfect renovations can be easy with software programs that let homeowners see how improvements will look on their house before work even begins. The easy-to-use Imagine Your Interior Design visualization program helps people remodel any room in their home.

Simplify remodeling decisions

Along with flower beds and robins, home remodeling projects are a sure sign of spring. However, homeowners about to remodel often can become overwhelmed by the number of decisions they face.

If you want to remodel your kitchen or bathroom but aren't sure what look you'd like to achieve, an innovative new visualization software product, Imagine Your Interior Design by Visual Applications Inc., will help you narrow your choices and allow you to see the finished results before you start.

This software is an easy-to-use tool that lets you decide if you want a traditional look or if a bold, contemporary image is more your style. With a few clicks on the PC screen, you can see how your kitchen will look with different cabinets and countertops, new windows, or a variety of floor and wall coverings.

To start, simply input a photo of any room in your home into your PC (ask your local photo-processing shop to process your film onto a disc). Then, virtually remodel your home from a library of hundreds of brand-name products.

Just click on the database to select any product you wish, then drag and drop the image onto the area you've outlined on the screen.

This powerful new visualization tool even includes an innovative auto-scale feature that automatically keeps each design element in scale and perspective, regardless of angle, height or width of the photograph.

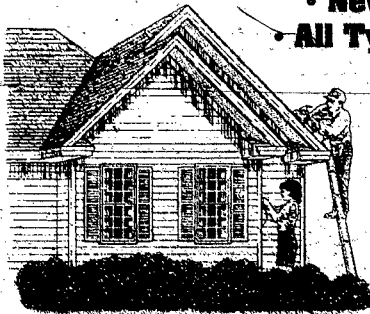

Other visualization programs from the company include Imagine Your Landscape, Imagine Your Exterior, Remodeling, Imagine Your Dream Home, and Imagine Your Deck, Pool & Hot Tub. Each costs about the same as a roll of premium wallpaper and operates on a PC equipped with Windows 95, CD-ROM and a color monitor.

The software is available at retail outlets including CompUSA, Computer City, Egghead, Fry's Electronics, J & R Computer World and Micro Center. Orders also can be placed by calling Visual Applications at 1-888-374-6963, or visit the company's Web site at <http://www.showoff.com/>.

Carpet should have style, practicality

Whether they just want to give a room a new look or it's a necessary home improvement, selecting carpeting is a challenge most people face at one time or another. However, the choice is not as easy as it would seem. Not only is carpeting a decor decision, serving as a backdrop to furniture and artwork, it also plays a practical role, subjected to muddy feet and enthusiastic pets. According to Vickie Ward, national home decor manager for Sears, the following points should be considered when carpet is selected:

Color and style: Consider the functionality of the room in question. Will it be a high-traffic area accessible to pets and children? Or, will it be a formal room, used only for entertaining and holidays. No matter what the fabrication of the carpet, a lighter carpet is going to be more susceptible to stains. However, while she notes that deeper colors are a wonderful design element, if the high-traffic room you are decorating calls for lighter carpeting, you needn't despair. Ward recommends looking at the many fashionable choices in textured and blended carpets that can give you the look you want without the worry.

Durability: For most applications, according to Ward, nylon is the carpet of choice. It is prevalent because it combines a resiliency not found in other man-made fibers and is more soil-resistant than polypropylene, another popular choice in home carpeting. Nylon does require stain treatment, but once it is treated, it has stain resistance that is comparable to polypropylene. Examples of popular nylon carpets include brands like DuPont Stainmaster, Anso Crushresister and WearDated. A different fiber, poly-propylene is often used in "Berber" (loop) carpets. It is inherently stain-resistant, has a slightly lower soil resistance than nylon, and is slightly more prone to matting or crushing.

Warranties: In considering warranties, Ward says that there are two key questions to ask: Who is providing the coverage, and is it valuable and reasonable? There are four types of warranties for carpeting: wear warranty, stain or stain/soil warranty, crush/mat warranty, and installation warranty. A wear warranty is only valid if the carpet literally falls apart, which almost never happens, according to Ward. Be sure to take note, with both stain and/or soil warranties and crush/mat warranties, often what is excluded from the policy is more important than what is included. An installation warranty is important in case, at a later time, the carpet wrinkles or becomes unattached. Some installation warranties are backed by the retailer. Sears, for example, has a lifetime warranty on installation.

Installation: One of the key car-

WHEN SELECTING a carpet, consider its color, style and durability, as well as warranties and installation procedures.

pet-purchase problems cited by consumers is additional costs at the time of installation. In order to get an accurate quote and guard against surprise charges, Ward recommends an in-home consultation and estimate based specifically on the dimensions of your rooms, including stairs, and warns against quotes based on estimated measurements. She notes that it is also important to get a written description of what is included in the installation. Can you expect the installers to pull up existing carpeting, move and replace your furniture, or clean up and vacuum the newly installed carpet? Also, are they the cheapest installers or the most qualified ones? Proper installation can be the most important part of the job, says Ward. So, it is very important to check the installation warranty.

Plug into cord safety

Do you have several electrical appliances plugged into an adapter in a single outlet? Do your extension cords run underneath rugs? Have you ever stuck a fork into the toaster?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you have created a potential electrical hazard. Many of the thousands of electrical fires that cause hundreds of deaths and injuries each year could be avoided if people were better educated about electrical power, according to Woods Industries, a leading manufacturer of electrical extension cords.

On average, one person is electrocuted in the home every 36 hours, and one person is electrocuted in the workplace every day, according to Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, in addition to the lives lost, $1.2 billion in personal property is claimed every year by fires that result from the negligent use of electrical appliances and extension cords. As a maker of extension cords and other electrical products, Woods Industries offers several suggestions for keeping your household safe throughout the year.

Wall Outlets

- If plugs seem to fit loosely into a wall outlet, the outlet needs to be repaired. A loose-fitting wall outlet may cause overheating. Have an electrician check the outlet.

- Attach safety covers to all outlets where children are present. Avoid decorative safety caps that may tempt a child to play with wall outlets.

Extension Cords

- only use extension cords that have been listed by a recognized certification organization.
- Check that the amperage ratings for extension cords are higher than the electrical products they are used with. To find this information, check owner's manuals and electrical labels.

- Do not plug one extension cord into another.

- Remember only to use extension cords on a temporary basis; they are not safe as permanent household wiring. Also, check that the cord is not wrapped around itself or another object.

- Always check that the cord you have selected meets its intended use. You can verify this by checking the electrical rating on both appliance and extension cord.

- Keep cords out of your path or work area. When using electrical equipment outside, use only weather-resistant, heavy-gauge extension cords marked for outdoor use.

Electrical Cords

- Don't run electrical cords underneath rugs or carpets, and don't place heavy objects or furniture on cords. Walking on cords and heavy weight can break wiring and possibly cause a fire.

- All electrical cords should be kept out of reach to keep children or pets from pulling appliances off tables or counters.

- Turn off electrical products if the cord overheats.

Unplugging Your Products

- Keep all electrical products and cords, like radios, hair dryers or curling irons, away from water while plugged in.

- Never use a knife or fork to remove a stuck slice of bread or bagel while the toaster or toaster oven is still plugged in.

- Never reach into water to retrieve an appliance that has fallen in without first unplugging the appliance.

- During electrical storms, small appliances, like hair dryers, curling irons or toasters, can be potentially dangerous if left plugged in.

Plugs

- Never remove the third prong of a three-pronged plug because it can protect you from electrical shock. Convert two-pronged out-

How central air works

Central air conditioning is becoming an integral part of the American homeowner's lifestyle. Yet, how many homeowners or prospective owners of central air conditioners know how the system works?

According to a study by the Trane Home Comfort Institute, a consumer information service on heating and cooling, not that many. To help you understand how this integral part of your home operates, the Institute offers this simplified explanation: A central air conditioning system essentially consists of two halves: the coil, which extracts unwanted heat and humidity from your home, and the condenser, which discharges the unwanted heat to the outdoors.

Most residential air conditioners are split systems, meaning that the coil is located indoors and the condenser, outdoors. In a split system, two copper tubes called refrigerant lines connect the indoor coil and the outdoor condenser. These lines are filled with a chemical refrigerant that travels in a closed loop between the coil and the condenser.

Experts at the Trane Home Comfort Institute explain that in a central air conditioning system, a liquid refrigerant travels in a closed loop between a condenser located outside the house and a coil located inside the house. As it travels through the coil, it changes from a liquid to a vapor, absorbing heat from indoor air. As it travels through the condenser, it turns back into a liquid, releasing that heat to the outdoor air. The compressor is the pump that circulates the refrigerant through the loop.

The loop begins as the liquid refrigerant passes through the coil, which is a network of tubes located on top of the furnace. As the refrigerant travels through the coil, it changes from a liquid to a vapor, absorbing heat from the air passing around the coil. The furnace blower distributes the cooled air through ducts to the interior of the house.

Meanwhile, the vaporized refrigerant moves through the loop to a compressor in the outdoor unit. The compressor compacts the vapor and then moves the hot refrigerant gas under pressure through the condenser, which is a network of tubes exposed to outdoor air.

As the refrigerant travels through these tubes, it cools and turns back into a liquid. The heat released during the condensation process is dispersed into the outdoor air by a fan. The refrigerant then flows through the loop from the condenser back to the coil inside the house, and the cycle begins again.

The compressor is considered "the heart of the system" because it is the pump that circulates the refrigerant through the loop. Because of its importance, experts at the Trane Home Comfort Institute recommend that you look carefully at the compressor's reputation and warranty when selecting a system.

They also say your new central air conditioning system should operate for a long time. So, compare the reliability and durability features of the equipment you select to get the most from your money.

Transform the unused space in your basement into a comfortable area of the home. Suspended ceilings conceal exposed floor joists, pipes, ductwork and wiring above the ceiling in an attractive manner.

Suspended ceilings finish basements

If you're a homeowner who's thinking about increasing your home's living space, it's time to explore the "land down under" — your basement.

According to a survey of remodeling contractors, finishing an unfinished basement is one of the most inexpensive ways to add more space to a home. It is far less costly than an addition and a proven way to increase the value of your home.

Regardless of whether you do the work yourself, hire a professional contractor or combine a little of each, make sure there's enough headroom. Most building codes require a minimum of 7 1/2 feet from floor to ceiling.

When planning the ceiling, interior designers say suspended or "drop" ceilings usually are the best choice, because they cover exposed floor joists in an attractive manner while permitting access to the pipes, ductwork and wiring above the ceiling.

The ceiling panels used in these ceilings are usually 2 feet by 2 feet or 2 feet by 4 feet in size, are installed in a metal grid system that is suspended from the floor joists, and are available in a variety of designs for any decor or budget.

Some feature a subtle, overall refined surface texture. Others have a distinctive, smooth-surfaced, raised panel pattern that is reminiscent of Old World woodwork. Still others offer a fine-textured, repeating pattern with a stepped edge that helps "hide" the grid system.

One of the newest suspended ceiling panels on the market is called SuperTuff from Armstrong. This panel has five times more impact resistance and two times more scratch resistance than most other panels. It's ideal for use in "active" rooms like a family room, game room or children's playroom. In addition, the panel absorbs 55 percent of the sound that strikes it, significantly reducing noise level within the room.

To obtain additional information on SuperTuff and other ceilings used in finished basements, as well as other rooms in the house, visit <http://www.ceiling.com> on the Internet. This interactive Web site features numerous photos to help you visualize various ceilings in your own home.

Tips for painting paneling

Question: The walls of our family room are finished with dark, outdated paneling. We would like to paint the paneling a light color, but we're afraid the paint won't stick to the smooth, shiny surface. Any suggestions on how to go about this?

Answer: According to the experts at Wm. Zinsser & Co., a leading manufacturer of paint primer-sealers, painting paneling is not as difficult as you might think. The secret is to use proper surface-preparation products and techniques.

Finish paints will not stick to most paneling surface materials without the aid of a tough, durable, adhesion-promoting primer. The right primer bonds to the smooth, shiny surface, forming a sound base for the topcoat. Zinsser makes an adhesion-promoting primer called B-I-N Primer-Sealer that's ideal for painting paneling. B-I-N is unique because it's a shellac-based product. It has tenacious adhesion to most glossy-finished surfaces, like Formica, plastic laminate, and photographic or real wood paneling. Best of all, no prior sanding or deglossing agents are required.

This primer-sealer also will seal porous surfaces, like new wood, and seal off knots and sappy streaks in knotty pine so they don't bleed through and ruin the paint job. B-I-N is white-pigmented to block out dark stains and colors, and it dries to a smooth, full, even film that makes the topcoat look great. It dries rapidly, ready for topcoating in an hour. And, it cures fully in just a few hours, providing a tough, abrasion-resistant film.

Before priming, it's important to clean any contaminants, like dust, dirt and grease, from the surface. Zinsser recommends wiping the surface with a clean rag saturated with mineral spirits (paint thinner). Next, wash the surface with a 50-50 solution of household ammonia and water. Allow the clean surface to dry for approximately 30 minutes. Apply one coat of B-I-N Primer-Sealer with a roller, brush, pad or sprayer, and let dry for an hour. If high humidity conditions are present, allow longer to make sure the primer has dried thoroughly before applying a topcoat. Follow the primer with one or two coats of a top-quality finish paint. (Tip: You can have the primer tinted by your retailer to match the color of the topcoat, which can help save on the amount of finish paint needed for the job.)

B-I-N can be found at paint stores, hardware stores and home centers across the country. For more information, visit Zinsser's Web site at <http://www.zinsser.com>, or call (732) 469-4367.

Three steps to shortcut spring-cleaning blues

Spring is finally here. You can pack the parka and sideline the shovel, it's time for fun. That is, until you remember what spring means — cleaning, home repair and that other thing, redecorating.

Spring is one of the two busiest times of the year for home decorating; just ask any paint-store manager. However, that doesn't mean it has to be a hassle. Following some simple steps to shortcut the spring-cleaning blues will make decorating a spare room or the entire house a breeze.

Step one: Forget wallpaper — Wallpaper can look great, but usually only when done by a professional, and that can cost a bundle. Try to save some cash and do it yourself, and you're in for a whole other headache. Choosing the right colors, texture and finish can be a time killer, and selecting the perfect pattern is worse. What looks like an understated motif on the roll can be overpowering on the wall, and patterns are difficult to line up correctly.

If you can't live without wallpaper, try a test run before committing to buying roll after roll. Choose a couple of different patterns that match colors in your room, and ask your local store for some small samples. Then, test the samples on each wall using spray-mount glue, which will allow you to move the samples without leaving glue residue behind.

The best idea is to follow the trend: Forget wallpaper, and look for creative alternatives that are fast and fun.

Step two: Use timesaving tools — Bad workmen blame their tools, but if you don't have the right ones for the job, you only have yourself to blame. And, there are a lot of great tools on the market that can save you time and effort when redecorating. Simple ideas like an extension pole for your roller will save you the expense and back pain of using stepladders to reach high walls and ceilings.

One great new tool — and it's more of a concept than a tool — is Wall Magic™ by Wakat™. It's a two-headed roller system with unique patterned rollers and a split, two-part paint tray — one for each roller. By using different but complementary colors (like brown and beige) or different shades of the same color, you can create the same effects as faux painting and rag rolling in a fraction of the time.

Using this tool is easier than regular painting, because you don't have to be as precise as with a normal roller or line up the wet edges. The key to the system is to overlap colors and blend them with a multidirectional arcing motion. Well-blended colors will give you subtle, muted tones, while less blending creates an open, airy appearance. A good tip: if you want a real-life watercolor look in your home, add one part water to three parts paint in each of the two trays. The paint will be thinner, but dabbing any runs with a soft cloth adds to the finished look.

Step three: Prepare well —

Before you make the decision to use either wallpaper or paint, and before you start decorating, make sure you're prepared. Dropcloths over rugs, floors and furniture are essential, but more importantly, check that your walls are smooth and clean.

Poorly prepared walls are the biggest cause of decorating disasters. If you're using wallpaper, it can be difficult to hang on uneven, cracked surfaces; if you're painting, it's never going to look good on unfinished, blemished walls. Start with the right tools (most hardware stores have convenient repair kits available, so you don't have to buy a five-gallon bucket of joint compound to fix three small cracks), like USG's Sheetrock™ Drywall Repair Kit. Carefully fill all cracks and holes, sand well and allow to dry. After a quick wipe down to free any dust from the wall surface, you're just about ready.

It's tempting to rush into the job itself, and think you can clean up any spills or smears with paint remover, but a lot of spirit-based removers will mark woodwork permanently. It's far better to take the time to tape around windows, doors and woodwork with high-quality masking tape.

Follow these simple steps, and you're ready to roll.

Make room for your home office without sacrificing living space

Are you comfortable in your home office? If you're like many, you're trying to use a crowded desk in the corner of your kitchen or den. If you've ever wished you had a home office but didn't think you had room, here's how to squeeze one in without squeezing yourself in.

No Need for a Separate Room

A properly made-up room can serve a dual purpose, whether it's a den, a guest room or a home office. The trick is to make the room professional enough for your daily work environment and cozy enough for everyday living. Here are some simple ways to find the balance you need on a budget you can afford.

1. Versatile furniture — Need a sofalike spot to relax on, a bed to accommodate overnight guests and a place for business visitors to sit? Futon furniture is the answer. Converting easily from sitting to sleeping space, today's futon frames are available in many styles including mission, traditional and contemporary; details like sleigh-curved arms as well as plush, upholstered arms and slipcovers are also popular. Thick mattresses offer great sleeping comfort and interchangeable covers instantly update a look.

2. Hide the evidence — To give the room a more at-home feel, de-emphasize some of your office materials. Convert a two-drawer file cabinet into a table by covering it with fabric that drapes to the floor. With a simple lamp and some magazines on-top, no one will know your files are hidden underneath the table. Or, hide your work area completely with an armoire that contains a hidden pullout desk. Not only does the desk/armoire serve a dual purpose, but it gives the room a tidy look when closed.

3. The latest electronics — The newest office electronics can be less invasive when you're "off the clock." Try a quieter fax machine, a voice-messaging or voice-mail system rather than an answering machine and a laptop computer that can be tucked away when not in use.

4. Personal and professional — Give your home office a personal touch. Family photos make great decorations. Natural light and live plants give a home office a refreshing feel. Find the right amount of professionalism that your business needs, and then make the space a livable part of your home.

Make the most of your home office. If you're trying to squeeze in a home office, choosing versatile futon furniture is the key. Today's futon furnishings provide the comfort of a sofa, the capacity of a bed, and both the professional and personal style needed in a home office.

Don't take home security lightly

Don't Take Home Security Lightly

(MS) — Americans spend a considerable amount of money purchasing residential alarm systems. However, crime prevention experts say it isn't necessary to install the latest high-tech gadgets to improve home security. According to Lt. Thomas Higgins, crime prevention officer at the Piqua, Ohio, Police Department, bright lighting is one of the least expensive things people can do to secure a residence.

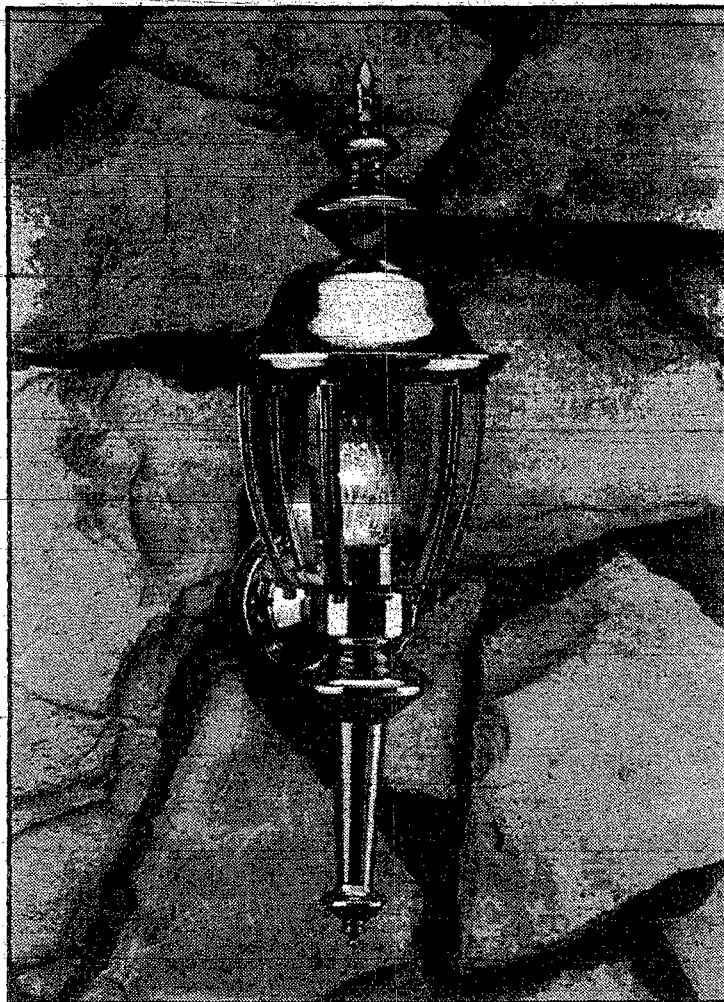

A home with no outside lighting at night is more likely to be burglarized. One simple and inexpensive home-improvement project is to install motion-sensitive lighting fixtures to the front, side and rear of the house. These lights turn on automatically in the dark when anyone approaches, conveniently greeting family members and guests, but surprising would-be intruders.

Outdoor motion detector fixtures are available in dozens of styles, including standard incandescent and halogen floodlight models, and decorative lanterns of brass or cast aluminum. Inteletron Inc., one of the leading manufacturers of residential motion detectors, has distributed lighting fixtures through home centers and hardware stores for more than a decade. These lights cost between $10 and $60, come pre-wired, and include detailed installation and operating instructions. In lighting showrooms across the United States, American Lantern distributes elegant outdoor lanterns designed with motion-activated technology in a variety of finishes and sizes. The company offers a unique networking option on its motion sensors — one light can activate several fixtures at the same time.

According to Inteletron, a popular new feature on their decorative and security lights is Two-Level Brightness Control. These fixtures can be set to shine all night as low-intensity accent lights, turning up to full brightness when motion is detected. The company provides a toll-free technical support phone number to answer consumers' questions. Mercury Vapor and High Pressure Sodium (HID) lights also come ready to install with do-it-yourself instructions. When mounted in yards and near garages, these durable fixtures illuminate large areas, eliminating dark places where an intruder might hide. A photocell automatically turns HID fixtures on at dusk and off at dawn, and they cost significantly less to operate than traditional incandescent lights. Standard and compact models available under the Electripak brand have retail prices between $40 and $50.

The Dane County, Wis., Sheriff's Office recommends high-pressure sodium lamps as the most efficient HID type. Electripak's 70-watt high-pressure sodium lightbulb lasts about six years on

Creating outdoor decor no longer a nightmare

Three words strike fear into homeowners each summer — repainting, restaining or replacing wood lattice — a frequent activity for most homeowners.

Lattice is a popular piece of outdoor decor found on decks, patios, porches and gardens from coast to coast. Perfect for climbing plants, privacy and shade, it creates outdoor elegance and ambiance.

However, as any homeowner will tell you, lattice looks great when new, but is a nightmare to install and maintain. Insects, snow, moisture and wind attack lattice throughout the year, causing colors to fade, staples to rust and wood to break or separate. Building with lattice or replacing it this summer? Plastic lattice provides the beauty of wood without the installation and maintenance frustrations. Available in a variety of classic patterns with an array of colors, it offers homeowners more design options and creativity.

Made from the same material as pickup truck bed liners, plastic lattice is lightweight and won't crack or split like wood because of its durable one-piece design. Immune to insects and environmental conditions, plastic lattice is UV stabilized and unaffected by chemicals, sea air and acid rain. Unlike wood, it never needs to be repainted or restained. The color goes all the way through, so nicks and scratches will not show. For a free lattice idea book, call TUFF-BILT at 1-800-394-6679.

Breathe fresh life into homes by redecorating

Proper Planning Is Important To Any Home-Improvement Job

Before the birds begin to sing in the trees, homeowners already have their spring home-improvement projects planned. Whether it's replacing windows, reshingling the roof or installing new flooring, they're ready to take action as soon as the weather gets warm.

Whether people are doing the work themselves or hiring professionals, proper planning is an important part of any home-improvement project. When hiring a contractor, people need to know exactly what they want done, so they can meet with professionals, explain the work and get realistic estimates. Do-it-yourselfers need to plan ahead to ensure they have set aside enough time for the project, have the right equipment and materials, and understand the work that needs to be done.

Having the proper equipment means not only having the tools specifically designed for the task at hand, but also having tools that are in good condition. It is a good idea for do-it-yourselfers to check that tools are in working order before beginning a project. All handles should be fixed firmly into the tool's working end, and jaw teeth, cutters and blades should be sharp. Any tools that are damaged should be thrown away.

If, when planning a project, do-it-yourselfers find that they don't have a tool they need, they can buy, rent or borrow it. Renting or borrowing allows them to see if they like a particular model or brand, making the decision easier when they finally decide to buy the tool. If people want to buy the tool, many home-improvement professionals recommend going to a knowledgeable local dealer. After getting the proper equipment, people should follow the manufacturer's instructions when using each tool. Tools should be kept clean, dry and away from excessive heat. Before using a tool near electricity, people should shut off the current. They also should use steady pressure on jaws or cutters, instead of rocking the tool.

With the proper planning and right tools and materials, people are well on their way to a successful project and a more beautiful home. SH986420

A lasting solution to roofing worries

Q: After just a few years, my roof shingles are curled, cracked and stained with fungus. I'm ready for something better, and I've heard that metal roofing eliminates these problems. Should I consider a metal roof?

A: Yes. Metal roofing is a great alternative to the common problems you're experiencing with traditional roofing shingles. Metal roofing does cost more upfront than typical shingles or tile, but it's actually cheaper because it lasts many times longer, requires less maintenance, and provides a better appearance (and greater value) for your home. Metal roofing has advantages in every climate, especially in areas with threats of fires or airborne sparks, severe storms, or extreme heat or cold. Some metal roofs even can be installed directly over your existing roof, preventing the added cost and mess of a tear-off.

Q: Won't a metal roof make my house hotter in the summer?

A: It depends on the metal. Steel absorbs and transfers the heat of the sun, but not all metals do. Aluminum, for example, reflects radiant heat; that's why NASA uses aluminum to shield satellites in space, where there's no atmosphere to scatter the heat of the sun.

One metal roofing manufacturer had its aluminum roofing product, called Rustic Shingle, tested by the Florida Solar Energy Center. The center found it to reduce attic heat gain by up to 34 percent more than traditional roofing materials. This can add up to big savings on your utility bills. If you decide to use a metal roof that is not aluminum, you will need to install a radiant-heat barrier in your attic to get any energy savings.

Q: I don't like the "industrial" look of flat metal roofing with vertical lines. Are there alternatives?

A: You are describing "standing seam" roofing, so named for the vertical seams that stand up between the panels. And, yes, there are many alternatives. Most popular are the products that look like natural wood shakes, tile or slate. These offer a traditional, yet distinctive, appearance with all the benefits of metal roofing.

Q: How will I know that I'm buying a quality metal roof?

A: A quality metal roof will have a Kynar® PVDF or Hylar™ PVDF finish, known to architects and engineers as the best for lasting color and protection. Also, a metal roof should be designed to allow for expansion and contraction caused by temperature changes.

For informative literature on one metal shake that ends roofing worries, write to Metal Shakes, Classic Products Inc., P.O. Box 701, Piqua, OH 45356.
