

Witnessing nature's fury

Bill Richardson and Chuck Carhart of Wayne were fishing recently, south of Newcastle, when a tornado developed and began moving east. Chuck was able to photograph the tornado which was approximately one-half mile away. The immediate Wayne area has not experienced the severe storms common in the northeastern part of the state this spring. However, the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department and the Civil Defense Director warn residents that tornadoes are possible and should spotters observe one headed toward Wayne, a steady three minute tone will sound. The city of Wayne does not have an "all clear" signal during a tornado warning, so if sirens sound again, another tornado has been sighted.

Council listens to proposal for new city park

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The necessity of a transfer station and a park in the northeast part of Wayne were among agenda items the Wayne City Council dealt with at Tuesday's meeting.

The council voted 6-1 to accept a negotiated bid of $317,463 from Fagen, Inc. of Granite Falls, Minn. for the work which is expected to begin this month and be completed by October.

Councilmen Verdel Lutt questioned the need for the city to own and operate a transfer station and cast the dissenting vote on the issue.

Several residents of the Vintage Hills area were on hand at the council meeting to request the city build a park in the area.

Gail McCorkindale, who lives in the area, said that a number of home owners in the area had polled those who live there and that approximately 100 children and grandchildren would benefit from a park in the area.

The group requested the city acquire three lots within the subdivision and questioned whether money in the park fee fund could be used for this purpose. They also stated there was a possibility that some or all of the land in question could be donated for the project.

Following considerable discussion, the council agreed to form a committee and discuss possible options with home owners. Councilmen volunteering to serve on the committee include Doug Sturm, Mel Utecht and Darrel Fuelberth.

A public hearing was held during the council meeting on the advisability of proposed issuance of Industrial Development Revenue Bonds in conjunction with The Restful Knights, Inc. project.

Restful Knights, Inc. is planning a 75,000 square feet addition to the current facility. The expansion is projected to increase plant sales from the current $7 million to $21 million. In addition, plans are to increase the number of employees from the present 108 to 175 people within two years following the completion of the project.

The council also passed Resolution 98-64 which authorizes the acceptance of an escrow account and agreement relating to a subdivision improvement guarantee for the Gary-Donner Addition, west of Oak Drive. Donner, who is the developer of the addition, deposited $183,000 with a financial bank.

Ordinance 98-13 was also passed, authorizing the issuance of $150,000 bond anticipation notes for the storm sewer improvements.

A public hearing date was set for June 30 at 7:35 p.m. regarding the expansion of a blight and sub-standard evaluation area for the Western Wayne Planning Study.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau also announced the resignation of Don Siefken as Chief Inspector/Planner. Siefken, who has been with the city for 12 years, will be moving to Fayetteville, Ark. to be closer to his wife's family.

Heier retires after thirty-four years

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Stating that the privilege of working with some very motivated students is one of the things he will miss the most, Darrel Heier is retiring from teaching after a total of 34 years in the profession.

Heier, who was born on a farm northwest of Wayne and grew up southwest of Wayne, has spent 31 of the past 36 years teaching business-related classes at Wayne High School.

Following his graduation from Wayne High School, he served in the U.S. Army for two years, working with Nike missiles.

After receiving a bachelors' degree from Wayne State College in 1962, Heier taught at Ashland for one year.

"A job then opened up here in Wayne so I began teaching in the former Middle School. I taught classes in typewriting, Accounting and General Business. Classes at that time were larger than those now, in part because there were not as many other options," Heier said.

Darrel taught at Wayne High School through the 1972-73 school year then worked at the Ford garage for two years before becoming the principal at Wynot, a position he held for two years.

"A job again opened up at Wayne and I came back as a Business Math, General Business, Accounting I and computer applications teacher," Heier said.

He said that the computer has been the biggest change in education and adds that a number of students today are more highly motivated.

Even with the increased use of the computer, Darrel said that much of what is done in Accounting classes has remained the same throughout the years.

"We still have forms in which we pencil in information. However, we have a computer business-simulation package which is done at the end of the year.

During the more than 30 years he was involved with the Wayne Community School, Heier also coached volleyball, girls' track and junior high boys' basketball. He and his wife Betty also refereed volleyball for nearly five years and Darrel also refereed football for approximately 10 years.

"I think the thing I will miss most about teaching is the excitement of starting each new school year and seeing new students and staff members," Heier said.

One of Heier's fondest memories of his teaching career was a time when he was coaching sophomore football players. He was also a bus driver and while driving his players to a game, the bus load of boys began chanting "Heier's Heros" over and over.

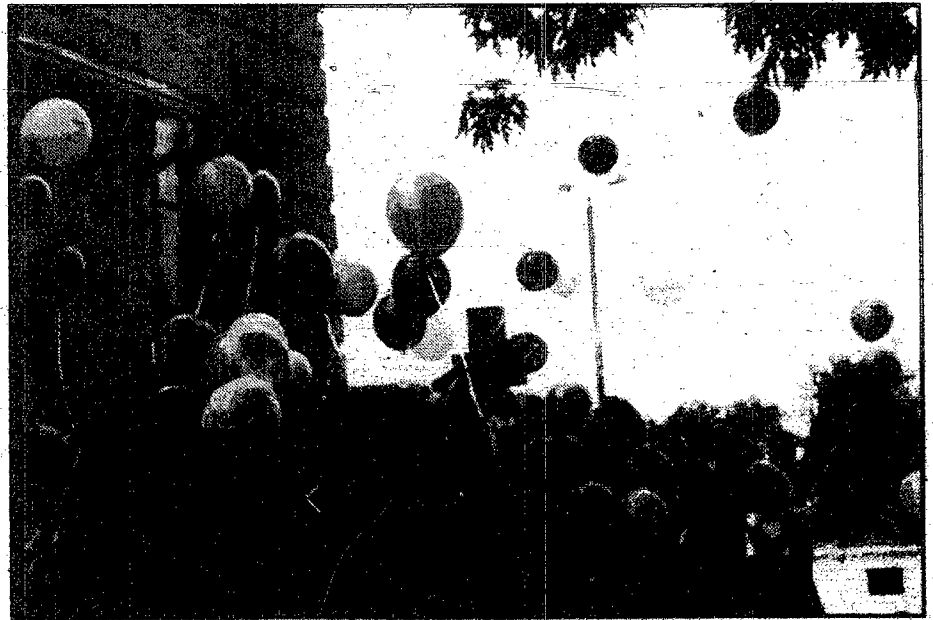

Among Heier's retirement plans are to go to truck driving school at Northeast Community College in Norfolk to earn a CDL license.

Betty is the Director of Staff Development at Educational Service Unit #8 in Wakefield, so the Heiers have no plans of leaving Wayne.

"I would like to do some traveling after Betty retires. I would like to see Red Square in Russia and visit a number of places in the United States," Darrel said.

Another of his retirement plans includes spending time at his cabin at the river.

The Heiers are the parents of two sons, Tod, who teaches at Silver Creek and Tim, a teacher at Norwood Park in Lincoln. They also have two grandsons.

Memorial service

Balloons were released following the annual Memorial Service sponsored by Providence Medical Center, Home Health Care and Providence Hospice. A number of songs and readings were presented by those associated with Hospice and Home Health Care and Gayle Catinella, MSW, the Hospice Social Worker spoke to those present on the need for 'community' when dealing with the loss of a loved one. The balloons represented those who have died during the past year.

Board approves pay raises

By Lynn Stevers
Of the Herald

The Wayne Board of Education approved classified staff salaries with a three percent increase and also approved Laurie Hanna's resignation as middle school resource teacher during Monday's regular meeting.

Mrs. Hanna will be moving to Omaha to be with her husband who is employed there.

The hiring of new faculty member, Amy Jackson as middle and high school art teacher, was approved by the board.

A thank you was received from the girls going to Washington D.C. as a result of the History Day competition. Board President Phyllis Spethman noted that the $3,000 received from the Nebraska Community Fund through Jerry Hoffman was a result of efforts by Dr. Dennis Jensen.

There was approval of the bid of $17,000 by Logan Valley for a new tractor replacing old equipment. The new tractor has a loader so it will be used for snow removal and will also be used for mowing.

Angelo Passarelli with RAMBO presented sketches and proposals on needed changes for the middle school. There are several different options including a new middle school, renovation of the old middle school, or additions to the elementary and high school buildings. The consensus of the public meetings thus far is that the modulars can not be used for an extended time; something

Main Street tour

A group of Wayne business persons toured Corning, Iowa to discuss the Main Street program. Corning was recently awarded $5,000 for being one of the 1998 Great American Main Street communities. Above, Donna Hogan, who owns an arts and craft store called 'The Fickle Frog,' explained some of the changes that have occurred in Corning since the community became involved with the Main Street program in 1990. The program is a self-help, grassroots revitalization program designed to enhance other community organizations.

Straight forward approach best

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It seemed altogether fitting that an acquaintance of long standing would offer some comments on my writing for the Nebraska Press Association just minutes after we bumped into one another following a screening of the film "Bulworth."

The movie is about a U.S.
Senator who cracks under unspecified stress and becomes compulsive about telling the truth.
Naturally, the results seem funny to anyone with even a moderate grasp of the realities of politics.

The lead character insults Jews in the film industry, black people consigned to ghettos and even the big spenders to whom he acknowledges having kow-towed.
The film doesn't have what everyone would consider a happy ending.

So, there I am pontificating on the goodness of this film, when my friend gets around to the subject of my columns.

"You're really doing some guerrilla warfare in that Press Association column," she said.
"Keep up the good work."

"Really? You think so? About the guerrilla warfare I mean?"
"Are you kidding? You've really knoeked some of those guys around," said my friend.

My friend was referencing some columns that had to do with taxes and tax breaks and the fact that some big dudes in business want voters to approve a constitutional amendment limiting state spending. This is partly because, with lids coming on property taxes, the big dudes don't particularly want the state looking to raise sales and income tax rates. Those two taxes are viewed by some as bad for business at the wholesale, retail and personal income levels.

The friend suggested that I would be writing this column only until the NPA figured me out - because shortly after the figuring part, I would be canned, 86'd, dumped, fired, sacked or whatever you want to call it.

The thing is, her reasoning was based on the supposition that I was actually doing some guerrilla fighting against the big dudes.
It's not true.

What I actually have tried to do is simply point out the obvious in plain language.

What's obvious is:

--No one wants to pay taxes,
let alone higher taxes.

--The public generally seems disinterested, if not emotionally disenfranchised, when it comes to government. It also lacks a sufficient grasp of how government works, and that lack of knowledge means it is sometimes easily led, or mistled. Democracy is not a spectator sport, as the saying goes, and those who don't know how to play the game effectively are not going to score big very often.

--People with high-heel business interests know the system, or hire people who do, and they use their money to influence the system at every level, from the Statehouse (where they win tax incentives) to the street corners (where their petition peddlers look for signatures). They also use media advertising to convince the populace that the view of the few is in the best interest of the many.
The business people, like everyone else, are absolutely entitled to make these efforts at persuasion.
And I absolutely believe in their right to do it.

After all, the right of initiative is the first right reserved to Nebraskans under their constitution. And business people are, well, people. They are as entitled as any "grassroots" group to run a petition drive past the electorate and they can afford it, too.

Does this strike you as guerrilla warfare? I hope not.

It's just a review of the realities
in plain language.

Nothing like what you'd run into, for instance, if good old Sen.
Bulworth were looking at the ongoing fuss about a decision to put that new state prison in Tecumseh (near Lincoln) instead of McCook (far, far from Lincoln).

Bulworth probably would have said something like: "Hey, McCook! First, get over that stuff Norbert Tiemann said about McCook and the hose and all that.
Then, wake up! Guys, you're 280 miles from the big wigs who have final responsibility for running the corrections system, and an equal distance from the two big towns that are home to a majority of big-time bad guys who wind up in the slammer. Why did you build yourself up for a letdown? Never mind what the committee said, never mind the 'One Nebraska' theme, and the stuff from the Corrections Department. Use those southwest Nebraska heads, famous for common sense, business sense and a fondness for registering handguns, and ask yourself:

Did you really believe that the state was going to build a $74 million prison in your neighborhood?"

Somewhere in a coffee shop in Red Willow County (and Gene Morris of the McCook Gazette can probably tell you which coffee shop), just a few seconds after it was learned that the new prison would be built in Tecumseh, some guy wearing a seed cap put down his coffee cup and said, "Dammit, I knew they were gonna put that thing in Eastern Nebraska! I knew it!"

Of course he knew it.

And that's no Bulworth, either.

By the way, the views expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect those of the Nebraska Press Association. That's why, unlike some guerrilla fighters,
I put my name on it. (You knew that, too. Right?)

Employment numbers deceiving

Do you ever wonder how the unemployment rate is determined? Or what it really means to society? Today we'll take a look at how it's determined and what it tells us.

Consider for a moment that in Wayne County, private sector employment during the period from 1990 to 1997 increased 40 percent. The same time frame also saw a 23.3 percent employment increase in the government sector. Undoubtedly, the percentage increases result from new job creation, further indication the economy is good these days.

The unemployment rate, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, "represents the number unemployed as a percent of the labor force." Remember that labor force contains all people grouped as either employed or unemployed as per today's and last week's descriptions.

Job seekers are defined as unemployed people who have made specific, active efforts to locate a job within the past four weeks.
Inactive job seeking comprises reading help wanted ads or taking a training course for a job.
Active seeking offers the opportunity to result in a job offer with no further action needed by the job seeker. Job seekers, then, would be considered in defining the unemployment rate.

Wayne County's current unem-

Chamber
Corner

employment stands at 1.9 percent for April, 1998, the latest information available. If 1.9 percent of the civilian labor force are currently unemployed, this means very few people locally are unemployed!
There are 5,836 people in the civilian work force with 5,724 of them employed. One hundred twelve are unemployed. To calculate the unemployment rate, divide the number of unemployed
(112) by the civilian labor force (5,836) to learn the unemployment rate is 1.9 percent.

Consider, also, that the rate of unemployment does not take into account those already employed individuals who might also be looking for other employment opportunity.

So what does the unemployment rate mean to us? What conclusions can be brought to this discussion? First, it tells me that with record low unemployment, a workers' market exists. Most people who want to work should be able to find a job. On the flip side, though, discussions with area employers lead me to understand that many vacancies attract large numbers of applicants.

And, just because we have a low unemployment rate, this does not necessarily mean there are record low numbers of people desiring employment. While many WSC students are employed in the Wayne area, it's reasonable to assume that many more might like to find local employment.

How about all those folks with two part-time jobs? Might not some prefer one full-time position? How about retired people who decide to job hunt again? Or, how about everyone who reads help wanted ads, or takes a job training course? None of these people are in the definition of "unemployed" according to the

unemployment rate.

While disabled people might or might not be "unemployed" according to the definition, let's not forget there are those disabled who might want a job.

When you think about it, you begin to realize there are those around who have been left out of the number represented as "employed" or "job seekers," those who might like to take a job! The implications for our local society are tremendous when we begin to look at the possibilities rather than simply the low rate of unemployment.

Task Force moves ahead with project

How to network and keep community resource providers aware of other public and private sector services for families and individuals in the Wayne area is the goal of the Clearing House Task Force co-chaired by Gaila Gilliland, Executive Director of the Wayne Area
Chamber of Commerce and Sandy Bartling, Development Director for the Providence Medical Center.

The task force meets monthly at the Providence Medical Center and is open to all community resource professionals and volunteers interested in networking and helping to create a data base of information that can be stored electronically and updated annually.

The next meeting is scheduled for Friday, June 26 at 8:30 a.m. at PMC.
Erron Towns, a medical student from Creighton was a special guest and shared information about the "Community Connections" program, which is a part of the National Health Service

Corporation. Towns is currently working for the Rural Family Practice program, visiting rural health care institutions to learn more about rural medicine and to talk about the UNMC Medical Center programs. His other role is to arrange for medical students to participate in an educational community service project for the summer of 1999.

UNMC students could work in the community for a period of three weeks next summer. Their role could be that of training professionals and community residents how to access and use the electronic data base and other Internet resources.

Every agency and organization that serves the Wayne area is encouraged to create an information summary of services provided to families and the community.
Information should be sent to the Wayne Area Chamber office or brought to the next meeting.

WSC pitcher is drafted by the Atlanta Braves

Wayne State College baseball pitcher Aaron Garmong has signed a minor league contract with the Atlanta Braves organization, WSC baseball coach John Manganaro announced, recently.

Garmong, an Omaha native and a graduate of North High School, was drafted by the Braves in the 21st round of last week's amateur draft. He will report to the Eugene, Oregon Emeralds, one of the Braves' Rookie League teams, on June 14.

The Emeralds' season begins on June 16 and runs until late August. Garmong, a 5-11, 180-pound left-hander, was a four-year starter for the Wildcats.

He tied a single-season school record with 73 strikeouts in just over 60 innings of work. He recorded 189 strikeouts during his career, 15 shy of Greg Kamp's record of 204 from 1971-74.

Garmong is now the second former Wildcat currently playing professional baseball. Former catcher Cory Reeder is playing with the Stockton (Calif.) Ports, a Class A affiliate of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Goldstein hired by Ft. Lewis

Former WSC interim head women's basketball coach Jeff Goldstein was hired by Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colorado to be the school's next head women's coach.

Goldstein's position begins July 1. He spent the past two seasons as the interim head women's basketball coach at Wayne State and the prior six seasons as the assistant women's coach for the Wildcats as well as being an assistant to the athletic director.

"I will teach in the exercise/science department and maintain the women's basketball program," Goldstein said. "I'm very excited about the position and am looking forward to getting started."

Goldstein said Fort Lewis was 13-13 last season and had a solid recruiting class. They are a member of the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference's west division.

"I also appreciate the help that Pete Chapman has given me and I wish nothing but the best for Wayne State and Ryan Williams, the next women's coach."

"The position became open when the head coach accepted a position as the men's head coach," Goldstein added. "Moving to Durango will actually allow me to get closer to my family."

The Buffalo Grove, Illinois native graduated from the University of Iowa and has spent the last eight years in Wayne.

"I didn't apply at a lot of places,"

Introducing Our New
Alpha IQ Mammography machine.
Mammography designed by a woman, for a woman.

"Because We Care..."
Providence Medical Center urges all women who are over age 40 to have a mammogram at least every other year. Women over age 50 should have a mammogram every year.

"Because We Know..."
Every woman is at risk for breast cancer. Early detection is our best defense. Mammography is the best way to find cancer in its early stages. A tumor can be detected up to two years before it is felt as a lump. When found in its earliest form, 90 percent of the cases can be treated successfully.

Fourth row, Anna Leathers, Alyssa Hansen, Kari Hochstein, Karissa Dorcey, Sara Stauffer, Carrie Walton, and Megan Jensen.

Students earn awards in reading

Each quarter students in the Accelerated Reader program at the Wayne Middle School set and met a reading goal in the computer program. After reading a book, the students took computerized tests to earn points and meet their goals.

Medals were awarded on May 27 to those 6th grade students who had met their goals.

A total of 1400 books were read by these students, and they earned 7,189.5 points.

According to Jill Pickinpaugh, one of the teachers involved with the program, "Reading is essential for everyone in all walks of life. Some facts about the importance of reading are: 1) High-tech, high-service jobs require higher level of literacy than years ago. 2) Poor readers struggle in many other subjects. How can we make poor readers become good readers? Practice-any skill improves with practice-free throw shooting, piano playing or reading 3) An hour of additional reading practice per day produces two years of reading growth 4) The more a child reads, not only do reading scores go up but math performance also increases."

Great Dane employees donate

Seventy people volunteered and a total of 66 pints were collected at the Great Dane Trailers blood drive on June 3.

two-gallon donors, and Gary Rahn, five-gallon donor.

"The Siouxland Community Blood Bank wants to thank all the donors, Rozan Pedersen for coordinating this blood drive and appreciation goes to Great Dane Trailers for their support," Charlie Jespersen, Donor Consultant, said.

Mader to present research paper

Terry Mader, Beef Specialist at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory, will present a paper based on his research June 12, 1998, at the Beef Empire Days in Garden City, Kansas.

Mader's work, entitled, "Managing the Effects of the Environment on Feed Cattle," will address the designing of feedlots to accommodate mud and discuss diet and bunk management to alleviate cold stress and heat stress.

The paper is based on data collected at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory. "The primary purpose of our research is to understand the relationship between the animal and the environment it is exposed to," Mader said. "To better understand the economic and performance attributes, we must first assess the animal's response to environmental stressors." Physiological and behavioral data, such as respiration rate, body temperature and animal activity, are collected. "Understanding animal response to stressors aids us in designing management systems to help the animal better cope with these stressors," Mader said.

Although tailored to address the needs of Kansas area cattle men, Beef Empire Days, June 3-14, 1998, will host feedlot operators and cow-calf producers from all corners of the region. Events include a rodeo, a Cattle Feeders Symposium, cattle showing, concerts and athletic tournaments. For more information, contact Beef Empire Days (316) 275-6807. Terry Mader is available at (402) 584-2812.

LWML plans biennial convention

The Nebraska District North Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) will be held June 26-27 at Wayne State College.

Around 600 LWMLers, mainly women, will gather in Wayne to set mission goals and projects, and hold election of officers for the next biennium.

The keynote speaker on Friday will be Ruth Koch. Koch of Ann Arbor, Mich. is a social worker, counselor, popular workshop leader and pastor's wife. She is the co-author of Speaking the Truth in Love: How to Be an Assertive Christian. Grace Notes: Meditations for Women in the Church; co-author and presenter of the Prepare to Serve videotape leadership series, and has written for Stephen Ministries and numerous journals.

Rev. Nathaniel Taylor will be the guest speaker at the worship service on Friday night at 7 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church and he will also be one of the mission speakers on Saturday. Rev. Taylor and his family fled Liberia, their homeland, due to persecution of their faith and life threatening situations.

There will be in-service sessions held on Saturday where LWMLers are encouraged to be missionaries locally, nationally and internationally. Participants are encouraged to bring eyeglasses to the convention to be given to the Wayne Lions Club. Plans are also to help "build" Jesus Our Savior Lutheran Preschool at the Wignebago reservation at Macy. Representational items needed for the preschool will be available for purchase. A quilt puzzle will be put together with the preschool items as the puzzle pieces.

Farewell planned for Father Cleary

A farewell reception will be held Sunday, June 14 for Father Donald Cleary of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

The event will be held from 2-4 p.m. at Holy Family Hall in the church basement. A program will be held at 2:30.

Fr. Cleary has served St. Mary's Church for nearly 12 years. He came to Wayne from Fordyce in October of 1986, following the death of Father James Buschelman.

Fr. Cleary was born and raised in Atkinson and ordained a priest for the Omaha archdiocese in 1971. He served in a number of parishes in Omaha and rural northeast Nebraska during his first 15 years as a priest.

In June of 1996 he celebrated his 25th anniversary as a priest with a large gathering of family and friends.

During the time he served in Wayne, Fr. Cleary has performed more than 300 baptisms, 269 First Communions, 204 Confirmations, 74 marriages and 48 funerals as well as having a role in the ordination of Father Joe Finn.

"With the help of hardworking teachers and staff at the school and dedicated people who took on roles as ministers and committee workers, with help from the Knights of Columbus and VIA (Volunteers in Action), and many more, it all got done, somehow. Prayers do work, too," Fr. Don said.

During Fr. Don's tenure a new rectory was built, new stained-glass windows installed in the church, a full-time director of religious education was hired, the Parish newsletter The PRISM was started as were Little Lambs Preschool and the Alumni and Friends of St. Mary's School.

Fr. Don will move to Fullerton where he will be serving St. Peter Catholic Church in Fullerton and St. Peter Catholic Church in Clarks.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Summer afternoon-summer afternoon; to me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English Language. — quoted by Edith Wharton, A Backward Glance (1934).

Summer is here and what better way to spend a summer afternoon than with a good book. Whether it is on the porch, by the lake or lying in front of a fan, make sure you spend time reading this summer. We have a great selection to pick from!

A big thanks goes out to Dave Headley, who is keeping the library and its patrons well-supplied with books-on-tape. Some recent donations include: You Belong to Me by Mary Higgins Clark; Blood Work by Michael Connelly; Toxin by Robin Cook and The Street Lawyer by John Grisham. Books-on-tape are a great way to pass the hours while you are tooling down the highway to your vacation spot.

The Library is rockin' with the summer reading program for kids! ROCK 'N' READ is off to a great start with more than 100 kids registered as of June 3. Thanks go out to Colleen Jeffries for starting our program with a really fun afternoon of singing and dancing. Here we go Cheerio, Cheerio, Cheerio, here we go Cheerio, all night long...

We also send kudos to the folks who volunteered to get their hands and knees muddied while planting loads of new flowers around the building. Thanks to Linda Anderson, Mary Burt, Mary Jo and Pat Gross, Jenny and Mark Hammer, Gail Korn, Charlene Rasmussen, Bonnie and Mike Fluent and Kaki Ley. We will all benefit from the lovely landscape for years to come.

As for additional new items added to the collection, we have added a new periodical entitled "Smart Computing in Plain English." We will also have a new compact disc music selection ready to go shortly.

Remember, we have switched to summer hours. Our library hours are Monday-Friday, noon-8 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and closed Sundays. Our phone number is (402) 375-3135 and fax number is (402) 375-5772. Fax charges are $1 per page.

Treatment of Low Acute Back Pain

Pain in the lower back is one of the most common complaints that cause people to seek the advice of a physician. Treatment depends on the severity of discomfort. Sudden or acute back pain, as from a car accident, fall or lifting a heavy object may require bed rest for 24 hours and use of ice packs for up to 72. Apply ice packs for 15 to 20 minutes three or four times a day. Studies and information from the US Department of Health and Human Services indicate that staying active is better than bed rest for acute back pain. Bed rest for longer than 4 days may actually weaken back muscles. Physical therapy often is recommended.

Medicines which are safe for short-term relief of back pain include nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory agents such as ibuprofen and naproxen.

Special times remembered

Typically, Nebraska weather has been surprising us all week: from hot and windy to cold and rainy. The thought of those southern baseball teams playing baseball in the College World Series made me shiver a little. As Tom Shatel says, "it was Makovicka weather for Nebraskans." Today, Saturday, looks to be a beautiful day for the championship game.

For me, it will be a house cleaning day. Ten adults and four children just left. They have been here for two nights, and another couple, with four children, joined them during the day yesterday. This amounts to a stock of bedding, several towels, and a table stretched out to seat nineteen.

The Big Farmer has just one sibling, a sister, two years, two months, and two days older. She was married forty years ago this week and they were blessed with six children. We've watched six shy, tall, slim little ones mature and develop into six self-confident, intelligent, mature young adults. All six were class valedictorians, an amazing feat.

One is a nurse, married to a missionary to Peru. They were unable to be here. But the rest were: a doctor, a lawyer, a computer specialist, an accountant, and a teacher. Plus, spouses and children. And one girl friend, who had never met any of the rest of the family. I'd say she is one brave gal! But she was up to it. We used every available bed except the living room couch, including two hide-a-beds. In fact, Mike and I slept at the neighbors. One family was with relatives in Papillion at night.

The main project/activity was the assembly of a Creative Memories album for the honoree. There were lots of cameras, food, games, and conversation. There was a chilly picnic at Mahoney Park.

Meanwhile, Mike attended the grand opening of the Henry Doorly Safari just 10 minutes away. As chairman of the Cass County Tourism committee, he was introduced as one of the "dignitaries," along with the county commissioners, Hal Daub, and Ben Nelson. He also got in on the first tram ride, with commentary by Dr. Lee Simmons. (I'm glad I had to work.)

The highlight of the two days was a Prayer and Praise family service on Friday evening. There was a beautiful mix of traditional and contemporary music, some with C D and live flute accompaniment, reflections, requests, and expressions of gratitude, along with an e-mail message from the girl in Peru.

They were all gone by 10 a.m. this morning, and the house is very quiet right now. It was a special experience with some very special people: an occasion to remember. Now to get ready for the next onslaught!
