Board moves ahead with bond issue

By Clara Ostén
Of the Herald

Two items, bussing and the upcoming bond election, were on the agenda when the Wayne Board of Education met July 30 during a special meeting.

After discussion of several alternatives, the board voted unanimously to add an additional route to pick up students in and around Wayne. This was primarily due to road construction in the Wayne area this year.

Other options would have been to provide no in-town transportation for students, adding an in-town route with stops at Muhs Acres, Sunny View and the ball park and leaving all routes as they are.

The cost for adding an in-town route would be $122.69 per day.

The cost of the additional route will be $163.58 per day. Board members indicated that the cost would be absorbed by the district this year and that this transportation agreement would be for one year only.

Board members also agreed that during the 1998-99 school year the existing bussing policy will be evaluated and decisions made as to the possibility of requiring those using the service to pay a fee. The board is not obligated to provide bus service to anyone living less than four miles from the school.

The other agenda item, the approval of a proposal from RAMBO and Associates to conduct a bond election on Sept. 29 took the majority of the board's time during the meeting.

Al Eveland, representing Ameritas Corp., the bonding agency involved with the issue, told the board that Wayne would be the first district in the state to consider this type of ballot.

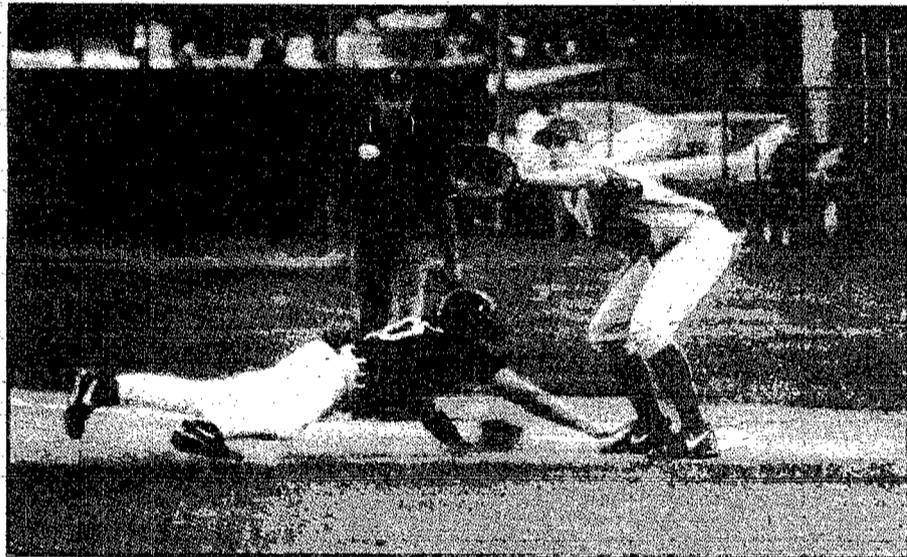

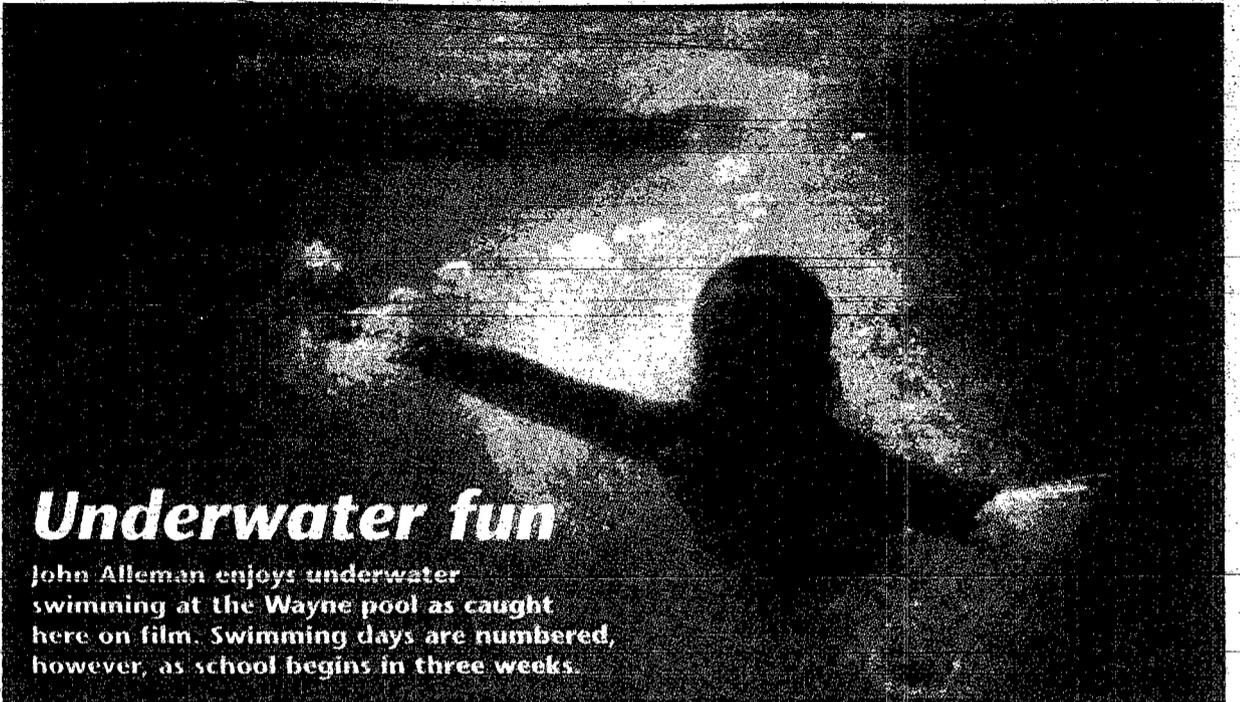

"Voters will pick the option they wish to support. This ballot will address everyone's concerns," he said.

He and Angelo Passeroli, a representative of RAMBO and Wayne's Adam Endicott attempts to tag a Blair runner out at first base during the Class B Junior Legion State Baseball Tournament in Wayne. Wayne was defeated by Blair, the team that would eventually be crowned state champs.

Mainstreet program discussed

A group of Wayne business people gathered recently to discuss the Wayne's involvement in the Lied Main Street Program.

The Nebraska Lied Main Street Program originated in 1994 when the Lied Foundation granted money to bring a Main Street program to Nebraska.

Main Street is a self-help, grass-roots revitalization program. The Nebraska Lied Main Street Program provides services such as technical assistance and resources through sponsoring organizations: the University of Nebraska Department of Economic Development, Nebraska State Historical Society and the Nebraska Department of Roads, as well as the National Main Street Center.

The Main Street Program is designed to enhance and complement current community organizations based on local priorities and objectives.

Attending the meeting were Reggie Yates, Leo Ahmann, Gary Van Meter, Jan Magnuson, Sandy Bartling, Jack Middendorf, Randy Pedersen and Maribeth Stodola.

Reggie Yates was chosen to chair the group and Maribeth Stodola will serve as secretary.

"Everyone is a player in this program, not just Main Street businesses. Schools, civic organizations, industry, the banking industry and the college all need to be involved," said Gary VanMeter.

The group encourages everyone, business owners, building owners, county commissioners, city council members and members of the college, to attend future meetings. Meetings will be held each Thursday morning at 7 a.m. at the offices of Edward Jones.

Discussion at the first meeting included preparing an application for involvement in the program for submission by the Oct. 1, 1998 deadline. The consensus of the group was that the application should be submitted, because, if turned down, the Lied Program will show where the errors were and how to improve the application for next year's submission.

"All of the community derives the benefits from increased community development enhanced by the Main Street Program," VanMeter said.

"It is time to invest in a program that ensures stability. It makes the best of what we have and helps sort out what we really are," he added.

Several members of the committee are making contacts to obtain more information about the program. Jack Middendorf will be putting together information from the Internet about the program and VanMeter has volunteered to research the advisability of filing for a 501 C 3 non-profit status which would enable contributions to be tax deductible.

The National Main Street Center has been working with communities for over 20 years and has worked in over 40 states and 1,000 communities.

For more information about the organization, contact any of the committee members or the Nebraska Lied Main Street Program office at (402) 472-0718.

Hobby turns into career for square dance caller

By Kristine Kopperud
For the Herald

The phone rings, echoing pleasantly in Wayne resident Jerry Junck's kitchen.

"Is Jerry home?" asks Tony, a family friend and colleague. "Yes, he's here for a minute," laughs Sharon, Junck's wife of 21 years, as she hands Junck the phone.

She's not exaggerating. Last year Junck's hobby-turned-career took him down 50,000 miles of road and 20,000 miles through the air. This summer he and Sharon coasted to Alaska while he worked on a cruise ship, and, for the eighth year, they will winter in Mesa, Ariz.

Once a farmer, Jerry Junck now sings the song in his heart for a living -- as one of the world's 30 professional square dance callers. Thousands of dancers from Mexico to Canada and in 44 states know Junck's mellow drawl as one of the leading voices in the world of modern square dance. "But Junck does it for the smiles he conjures from experienced dancers and novices alike.

"You have to have a passion for the sport. You have to love the people," Junck says, unswayed by his success as a recording artist with Chinook Records and former chairman of CALLERLAB, the world's premier association of square dance callers. "Square dancers are family," he adds, sincerity in his smile.

Even national square dance conventions feel like family reunions by Junck's description.

"Last year 30,000 people came," he says. "And the women still throw their purses under the chairs and go dancing. No one is going to steal from family."

Junck learned to call when his Wayne High School English teacher coaxed him to try it. "If Mr. Chambers [Junck's teacher] told us to jump, we did it," Junck says. "Calling sort of evolved into something that put me through Wayne State College."

Junck was soon fluent in both "patter" calling (rhythmic calls in time to music) and singing (the integration of lyrics and calls). Now his warm voice leaps stylistic boundaries, from Patty Loveless songs to Frank Sinatra standards.

"Cajun is Sharon's favorite," Junck says as he serenades me and his dog, Daisy, in his home office. Mesa, Ariz., is Junck's home from October through April, when he croons for square dance clubs at three area resorts.

Proud that square dance retains its hearty American folk and mountain dance roots, Junck also works to make square dancers a world community. "Modern square dance is smooth, elegant, and sophisticated," Junck says. "It's not the barn-stomp in the media. It's a social activity where no one feels alone -- there's pressure on single dancers since the dancing is done in groups."

More formally, Junck shapes his profession's future through CALLERLAB, an association of square dance callers. To enhance traveling callers' versatility, CALLERLAB created a caller's college, offering a full curriculum of caller education. Through the organization, calls and patterns have become more universal, allowing callers to adopt local flavor without fearing miscommunication.

Only 31 students have graduated from this stringent program.

But work at a national level, including a performance at the Lawrence Welk resort in Branson, Missouri, is no more important than local activity.

"Jerry's still a home-town boy. He's exceptional," Dave and Connie Kirkpatrick say in unison. As current presidents of Wayne's square dance club, Leather and Lace, the Kirkpatricks appreciate that Junck calls them by name.

"In-between dances, he's on the floor talking to the dancers. You feel important. He's glad you came," Connie says.

The Kirkpatricks met on the dance floor in Naples, Italy, in 1969. Now they swing with the 32 members of Leather and Lace the second and fourth Friday nights at the Wayne City Auditorium. "Having Jerry in town draws dancers from neighboring states. It's a unique opportunity," Dave says.

"It's an interesting life that I never planned on," Junck concludes as he rattles off his stuffed fall work schedule. Sometimes he travels to three different cities in a single weekend, calling Sharon in Wayne in the evenings. But he smiles. "It's been good to me."

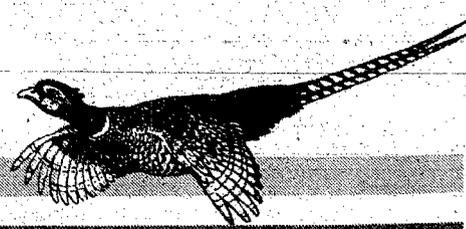

Jerry Junck and his wife Sharon spend time together outside their Wayne home on a rare occasion when Jerry is not square dance calling.

Remember to Store Medicines Safely

Summertime safety involves precautions associated with exposure to the sun, swimming pools, lawn mowers and other types of equipment used for outdoor activities (e.g., skateboards). One area that often is overlooked is the home medicine cabinet. Parents and other adults should follow a few simple rules regarding the storage of all medicines - prescription and over-the-counter. Remember to:

- Store medicines in a room of the home other than the bath.
- The bathroom is not a good place due to the humidity that can affect the potency of medicines.
- Store medicines out of the reach of small children.
- Keep medicines in their original containers and tightly closed.
- Get rid of all outdated medicines. Call the pharmacy if you are not sure if something is out of date.

Department urges bike registration

Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster said the Police Department has too many bikes. Most of these bicycles have been lost, abandoned or stolen and have ended up at the Wayne Police Department. Chief Webster said if no one claims the bikes within six months, they are sold at a public auction. "A lot of these bikes are in very good condition but don't have a bike license on them so there is no way of the police department letting the bike's owner know that their bike has been found," Chief Webster said. He added that that is the best reason to spend $3 for a bike license. "Most of these bikes were probably left by a younger rider who simply forgot his or her bike. When they returned, the bike was gone, not stolen, but picked up by the police," Webster said. Webster encourages anyone who may have been missing a bike for the past several months to check with the police department to see if they have it and to purchase a license before leaving.

Pays to shop in Wayne

Dear Editor, It really does pay to shop in our hometown! On Monday, July 20 I received a call from KTCH informing me that I had won the drawing for WE-FEST (a three-day country music festival).

and a drink mug, car wash tokens and a discounted oil change from Zach's. Wow! Later in the day Pac 'N Save called to say that I had won their toy package drawing. This consisted of a pedal car, Radio Flyer wagon and a remote control car.

Time to examine selves

Dear Editor, Last evening I attended a pot luck picnic at my church. I attended thinking it was a mixer meeting for new members. The thing is, it wasn't a mixer picnic. It was a meeting of a very well organized hate group who call themselves conservative Christians against homosexuals.

will someday be the ruin of the Christian Church and will make Christendom a slaughterhouse, dividing it into Castes, with intolerable hatred for one another. We do not have to go to Ireland to observe the slaughter in the name of the Bible. We can stay right in our own backyard. It is long past time for us so-called "Christians," regardless of denomination, to take a long, hard look at ourselves, the games we play and the masks we wear that are totally antithetical to the man of Nazareth and all that He represented.

Marie Hubbard, Laurel

Thanks offered

Dear Editor, We had a house fire on Friday. A word of thanks is in order. First, our tenants, four college age young men, reacted quickly when they noticed smoke in an upstairs room. They called the fire department, called us (the landlord) and got themselves out of the house safely.

possessions out of the smoky house, our insurance agent (Marty Summerfield) came immediately and the insurance claims adjuster (Dave Swanson) was there before the fire department left. The tenants' Moms and friends showed up and got the clothes to the laundromat immediately. Our insurance people arranged for a cleaning service to be in on Monday and an electrician will be there the same day.

American dream lives on in hearts of many

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association For once in his political life, Rep. Doug Bereuter not only stood at the center of a political storm, he created it. Bereuter offered the Republican Party's state convention a world view that could have come from any political consultant whose grasp of reality exceeds the marginal.

Way-or-the-Highway-to-Hell wing of the GOP was disconcerting.

Coming from a leader in a major political party, it struck many as falling somewhere between arrogant and pathetic. It struck others as actually being in both places simultaneously.

In an apparent effort to bolster his political pedigree, Bereuter's critic proclaimed himself a conservative Christian and said that, by golly, so were the Founding Fathers.

Question: The Founding Fathers of what?

Washington, Franklin, Jefferson and their fellow travelers struck much of the Western world of their day as rather a radical bunch. You know: Dump the mother country and her establishment of authority. All men are created equal. The right to institute government, and dissolve it when government doesn't serve the people. In addition to the fact that not all the Founding Fathers were Christian, it should be promi-nently noted that they included what has become known as the "establishment clause" in the Constitution.

That's the part that says there shall be no official, state religion. We're talking the 1700s here. We're talking the divine right of kings. The guys in on the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution certainly were not politically correct by 1990s standards - but in the world in which they lived, the philosophy they espoused was hardly conservative. The idea of limited government may be the war cry of contemporary conservatives - but remember that it was an exceedingly radical, anti-establishment bit of thought when it was born.

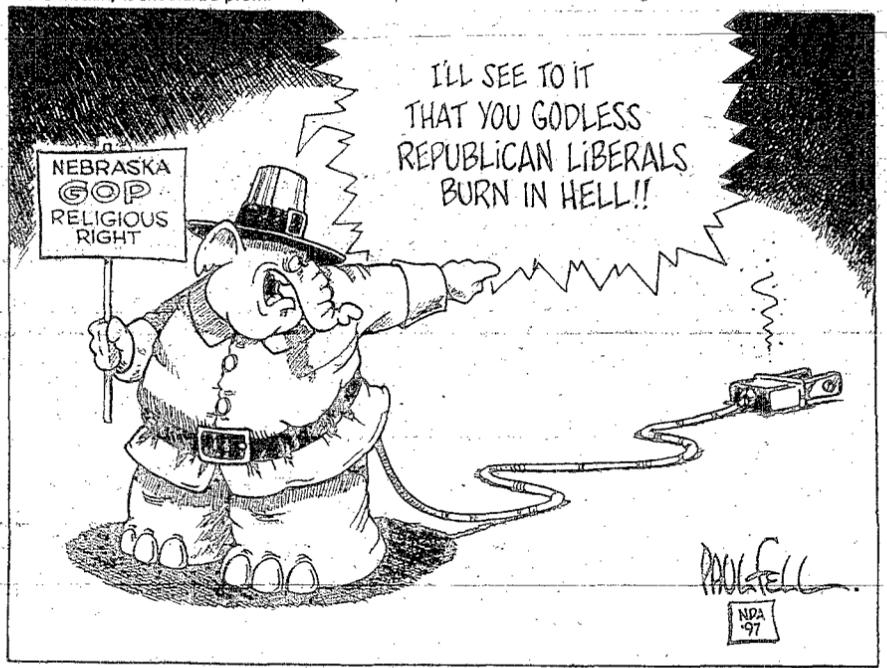

I haven't the space to muse on Rep. Jon Christensen's thoughts about Bereuter and tolerance within the party. It did seem rather large of Bereuter to console Christensen after the dust settled. Bereuter is a respected intellect within the Congress. Christensen is the only guy, to my knowledge, ever elected twice to the Capitol press corp's Dim Bulb list.

Bereuter's gesture also seemed reflective of his call to make the party open to everyone - an openness that presumably would not exclude even those who might want to limit its membership in the style of a restricted country club.

For some time, I'm not sure why, the rancor directed at the bringing to my mind a quote from Abraham Lincoln. He was en route to his inaugural and, while in Philadelphia, he said:

"I have often inquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept this (nation) so long together. It was not the mere matter of the separation of the colonies from the mother land, but that something in the Declaration giving liberty, not alone to the people of this land, but hope to the world for all future time. It was that which gave promise that in due time the weights should be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and that all should have an equal chance."

It probably had something to do with that American Dream thing.

Nebraska Consumer Bulletin Attorney General Don Stenberg

DON'T FALL FOR A FOREIGN LOTTERY

If you have received a phone call from someone claiming to be a representative of a foreign lottery, and if you have been promised that you are almost certain to be a big winner, you can be sure a crooked business is trying to get your money! Once you have agreed to participate in the foreign lottery, the caller may request your credit card number so that a "small fee" may be charged to your credit card account. The "small fee" may turn out to be anywhere from $1,000 to $4,000 charged to your next credit card statement.

It is illegal for a foreign or out of state lottery to solicit lottery sales in the State of Nebraska. If you receive a phone call or a mail solicitation asking you to purchase lottery tickets or to enter into a lottery "pool", it is a scam. The Nebraska Lottery will never call you on the telephone to ask you to buy Nebraska lottery tickets and they will not solicit ticket sales through the mail.

Foreign lottery scams are big business. These criminal operations take millions of dollars illegally from American citizens across the nation each year. It is often difficult or impossible to get money back from the people who operate these scams.

- Here are some suggestions to protect yourself from foreign lottery scams:
- Never give your credit card or bank account number over the phone to a caller promising you a lottery jackpot.
- Never send cash or a personal or cashier's check to pay "taxes" or "fees" to an unfamiliar or foreign business promising you a large sum of money in return.
- Never accept a collect phone call from someone claiming to be a lottery official. A legitimate lottery will never call you, and certainly not collect.
- Never join a "lottery pool". A legitimate lottery will not ask people to join a "lottery pool".

Assessment available to local businesses

The Chamber has an opportunity to offer participation in a Consumer Preferences and Economic Leakage assessment to local businesses! Cooperative Extension at UN-L developed and fine-tuned this project over the past year and a half, and has conducted the assessment in several Nebraska communities.

The program assesses factors that effect consumer attitudes about shopping in our community. Lincoln researchers have investigated the per capita sales of selected goods and services to compare levels of economic leakage across Nebraska's counties and communities.

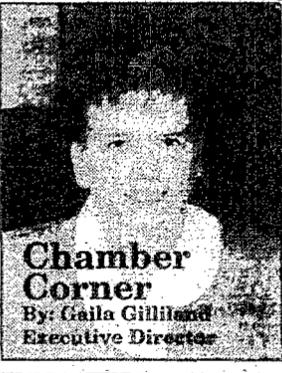

Some of the factors that influence those business sales are largely outside the control of local merchants. The participatory study process focuses upon factors managers and employees can change. These projects involve local merchants and their customers in exploring factors that influence consumer's shopping preferences.

The expected impacts include greater customer satisfaction, improved business competitiveness, and a stronger local economy.

The program's first goal is to help merchants learn more about factors affecting customer's shopping preferences and their shopping patterns.

Other goals are to help businesses respond to consumers' feedback and to help volunteer, elected, and appointed leaders make adjustments in the overall shopping environment to reduce the community's economic leakage.

How will the program work? First, participants-local merchants, business owners, or managers-need to sign up to participate. With 25 participants, the cost per participant will be $30 for Chamber members. The program is limited to the first write a question or concern important to their business to be woven into consumer's discussion of their business.

Several demographic groups are selected for important feedback. Consumer group interviews are conducted; then interviews are transcribed by an out-of-the-community transcriber. Extension faculty will edit and review transcripts to remove personal identifiers, highlight special suggestions or concerns important to individual merchants, and identify general or community wide themes.

Business consultations to present survey results, general themes that emerge during consumer interview, and to arrange private consultations with each participant are arranged. Reports are provided to each merchant.

If your business is interested in participating, contact the Chamber/Industries for additional information.

Letters Welcome Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief (no longer than one type-written page, double spaced) and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

Locals participate in All-Star Band

Katherine Barg, daughter of Gene and Linda Barg of Winside; Alaina Bupp, daughter of Vicki and Richard Bupp of Allen, and Scot Saul, son of Roger and Elaine Sauff of Wayne, were among over 230 high school students from across Nebraska who participated in the fourth Masonic All-Star Marching Band on July 25.

Following four days of practice, the Masonic All-Star Marching Band led the Shrine Bowl Parade in downtown Lincoln on July 25. The band played at the reviewing stand during the parade and presented a half-time show during the Shrine Bowl Football Game in Memorial Stadium on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Hosted by the Nebraska Masonic Grand Lodge, the band was directed by John DeStefano, Neal Schnoor and David Harrison.

Barg received a scholarship from Wayne Chapter No. 194, Order of the Eastern Star; Bupp received a scholarship from Golden Rule Lodge No. 236 of Allen, and Saul received a scholarship from Wayne Masonic Lodge No. 120.

"The past week was rewarding experience for the youth," said Don Rasmussen, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Nebraska. "The students received four days of excellent instruction from the band directors, and will return to their communities with some very good marching band training which will serve them well in their local high school bands. In addition they spent a very enjoyable time interacting with fellow band members."

Besides their parade and half-time performances, the band members had dinner with the Shrine Bowl teams, were treated to a dance, "jamming" with members of the Shrine Band, a pool party, and a movie.

The Grand Lodge of Nebraska represents around 18,000 Master Masons in 171 lodges across Nebraska.

Freemasonry is a benevolent, educational and charitable organization which provides $2.1 million per day in charity through its appendant bodies. Master Masons are bound together by vows of morality, belief in God and freedom of choice in religion and political persuasion.

Area students chosen to participate in the Masonic All-Star Marching Band include, left to right, Katherine Barg, Scot Saul and Alaina Bupp.

Wayne FRIENDS group attends youth retreat

Nine members of the Wayne FRIENDS group and two adult sponsors recently attended a three-day Drug-Free Youth Retreat sponsored by the Nebraska Network of Drug-Free Youth in Hastings.

Approximately 400 youth from all over Nebraska convened to learn, motivate, celebrate and strengthen their commitment to a drug-free lifestyle.

FRIENDS stands for Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs. Students in grades 7-12 join FRIENDS by signing a pledge to be free of alcohol, tobacco and illicit drugs. Wayne FRIENDS is part of a network of local drug-free groups who sponsor youth activities such as dances, pizza parties, skating parties, picnics, swimming parties and lock-ins.

They also provide drug and alcohol abuse prevention awareness and education to the community.

Adult sponsors for the group are Annette Rasmussen and Suzann Penn (high school) and Joan Sudmann and Kris Nerem (Middle School).

At the Nebraska Drug-Free Youth Group Retreat in Hastings, FRIENDS members listened to speakers, participated in family group discussions to get to know one another and attended workshops such as Battling Street, Extreme Team Builders, Kicking Butts: Tobacco is Trash, Integrity in Teens and Jay's Magical Mocktails.

The group was told, "If you think everybody's doing it, Think Again!!" According to Nebraska's most recent Youth Risk Behavior Survey, in the previous 30 days, 68 percent of 11th graders had not smoked; 61 percent of 11th graders had not binged alcohol (more than five drinks in a row); 75 percent of 10th graders had not driven a car after drinking and 51 percent of ninth graders had not drunk alcohol during the past 30 days.

Members of the group also learned that funding cutbacks at the state level threaten to eliminate the Nebraska Network of Drug-Free Youth; the coordinating agency that supports local drug-free groups and sponsors the summer retreat.

The group was told, "youth who are making positive, life-enhancing decisions need and deserve support. The drug-free youth movement, which has been built in Nebraska over the last 10 years has helped to foster a positive peer culture among youth. Legislators need to hear from constituents who believe that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

QFC/Stadium Graphics softball team places runner-up at State

Wayne men's slow pitch softball team Quality Food Center/Stadium Graphics, placed runner-up at last weekend's USSSA Class E-1 State Tournament in Columbus.

The locals dropped their opening game of the tournament, 8-2 which in a double-elimination format, makes it quite difficult to come all the way back.

Wayne, however, rattled off seven consecutive victories to reach the championship game, where they were defeated by a team from Lincoln, 8-2—ironically, the same score they were defeated in the first game of the tournament.

QFC would have had to defeat the Lincoln team twice in the championship since they hadn't suffered a loss in the 22-team field.

The 7-2 record posted at state gives QFC a season record of 28-11. They are currently in a three-way battle with Sherman's Construction and White Dog #1 for the Wayne League regular season championship.

Sherman's and White Dog #1 will compete in the USSSA Class E-2 State Tournament in Omaha on Aug. 15-16.

All three of the Wayne teams have qualified for the seven-state regional tournament which will be held in Omaha over Labor Day weekend.

QFC/Stadium Graphics team roster included: Kevin Maly (captain), Charlie Janssen, John Sinniger, Tim Jacobsen, P.J. Penney, Brian Penney, Aaron Schuett, Troy Bruns, Doug Rose, Gale Hawthorn and Jay Endicott.

State baseball tourney a big hit; Volunteers deserve pat on back

The City of Wayne hosted the State Class B Baseball Tournament and those in charge should be commended for running a class one tournament.

A number of out-of-town guests spoke up about how nice the park looked, how well things were run on schedule and the overall generosity of the townsfolk.

It was especially exciting for me as Wayne hosted State because some of my fraternity brothers and sisters in the media field came to my turf to check things out.

Everyone spoke highly of Wayne and it wouldn't surprise me if we were hosting another state tournament in the near future.

The travel trophy for the team that had to travel the greatest distance goes to Alliance.

The Alliance Times Herald, a daily paper, which covers the Alliance baseball team could not make the seven-to-eight hour road trip so their new sports editor, Jess called me up last week to see if I would take a few photos of the team in action.

I gladly accepted the challenge and off I went. I was impressed with the demeanor of the players and coaches and the way they went about their business of playing baseball.

Several conversations were struck up during the game with some of the players and myself.

Alliance bowed out of the tournament with a 2-2 record after placing runner-up in last year's state tournament.

They were my adopted team and the people in Alliance should be proud of these young men because they represented all of western Nebraska and themselves in a professional way.

Obviously, they were upset about a call against Beatrice which led to a big inning by the team that eventually eliminated them, but in the game of sports, things don't always go the way you plan.

Congrats to the Alliance players and coaches on a fine year!

THE WAYNE JUNIOR legion team bowed out of the state tournament in three games, going 1-2.

Still, the luster of having hosted the state tournament is something that will never fade.

Wayne played its heart out and unfortunately, had a few too many errors to overcome losses against Blair and Alliance.

Wayne's players, coaches and fans can be very proud of the efforts our young men gave as well.

Brad Maryott played an exceptional state tournament with eight hits in 12 at-bats for a .666 batting average.

At times Wayne hit the ball hard and the locals had some memorable plays such as the double-play they came up with against Alliance.

Bases were loaded with no outs. An Alliance batter hit the ball to Ryan Dunklau at third base and he fired the ball to home plate for the force out to Darin Jensen.

It worked. Bases are still loaded with one out and Alliance tries a squeeze play. Jensen dives to make the catch from his catcher's position and since the squeeze was on, all he had to do was fire the ball to Robbie Sturm at third base for the force out and the inning ending double play.

And how about Jeremy Nelson's play against St. Paul. Nelson took his first at-bat to deep center field where it was caught.

His next at-bat was another deep shot to center field, this time off the wall for a double. His third at-bat was a line shot to center field for an out and his fourth at-bat was a line drive single.

Now, here's the scoop. Nelson went to bat four times in the game and went 2-2 with a double and a single. He did all of this on a total of five pitches from the St. Paul pitchers—smashing the ball on the first pitch on three occasions and on the second pitch in the other at-bat.

Scott Reinhardt played a reserve role in right field during the waning innings against St. Paul.

Scott came up with a couple of monumental catches that thwarted St. Paul rally attempts. This paragraph was written to let Scott know that his performance did not go unnoticed.

All in all, it was a great week of baseball in Wayne. When the dust had settled on Tuesday night, the championship was captured by Blair with a 15-8 win over Millard Skutt.

The Wayne Herald salutes all of the eight teams that took part in the state tournament in Wayne.

It takes a whale of an effort to even qualify for state and none of these teams have anything to hang their heads for.

Blair Juniors capture Class B championship

The Blair Junior Legion baseball team captured the state championship over defending state champs Millard Skutt, 15-8 Tuesday night in Wayne.

Blair scored four times in the fifth inning and five more in the sixth inning to overcome a 7-2 deficit and win going away. It was Blair's first state title since 1992 and it was also the end of an era of Blair Legion baseball as coach Mark Gutschow bowed out as the team's coach.

The champs were paced by first baseman Kurt McManigal's three-run double in the fifth inning and despite Scott Cook's two-run single in the sixth to put Blair ahead for good it was Brett Brown's smashing two-run homer in the same inning which iced the contest.

Blair will now play the Class A runner-up in the all-class tournament which begins Saturday in Aurora. Matt Kuhr was the winning pitcher and Kuhr may have etched his name into the record books for Legion baseball as he posted three pitching victories in a 24-hour period.

Kuhr was the winning hurler in Blair's 3-2 win over Skutt on Monday night and he came in and earned the win in the team's 5-4 win over Beatrice which advanced them to the title game. Blair wound up winning four consecutive games through the loser's bracket to claim the state title.

Kuhr also aided his pitching cause by lacing three singles to help the offense post 15 hits. Brian Brown also had three base hits while Scott Cook singled twice. Brett Brown added a single to his homerun.

Skutt was led on offense by Bryan O'Flynn with three hits and Jon Schiefen with three hits. Reed Locke was tagged with the pitching loss as Skutt used five pitchers in the final contest with Blair throwing four pitchers.

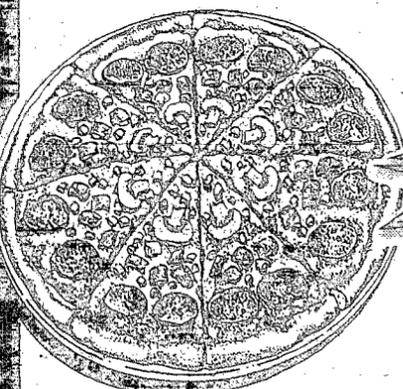

Blair improved to 33-12 on the season while Skutt fell to 31-14.

Blair went eight innings with Beatrice before reaching the finals. Brian Brown hit a two-out single which scored the eventual winning run in the top of the eighth inning. Joe Kunes paced the winners with a two-run homerun and two base hits while Scott Cook, Brian Brown and Brett Brown each had two singles.

Jeff Dierberger and Ryan Nootz each homered to lead Beatrice which ended the year at 29-9.

Soap making remains viable business for rural Pilger family

The spirit of the prairie is alive in northeast Nebraska, blown by the aromatic breezes of alfalfa, herb and pine scented soaps stirred and formed at the farm of Elaine and David Tobias of rural Pilger.

The Tobiases began making soap when Elaine scouted out recipes for a gentle soap for her husband's sensitive skin and her cracked hands.

She began experimenting with various ingredients and soap-making methods until she perfected the Prairie Spirit Soap recipe. Today, the product line has grown to include a dozen fragrances: lavender, chamomile, alfalfa, pine, castile, cucumber, peppermint, eucalyptus, vanilla, patchouli and farmers' soap.

Shaving mugs, shaving brushes and soap pockets for soap scraps, loofah sponges and mitts are well as tiny ceramic bathtubs and bath salts complete the product line.

The soap produced by the Tobiases are a no frills product, "packed with simple goodness and simple quality," Elaine said.

They are a true, natural,

Nebraska product, scented with alfalfa, chamomile or calendula grown on the Tobias farm.

Farmers' soap, for heavy duty clean-up, with cornmeal for abrasive, is made with Midwestern-grown soybean oil and scented with lemongrass.

Patchouli scented soaps have a cinnamon aroma, and the most popular soap, peppermint, "smells like candy," says the Tobiases' son Nicholas.

"Like you can eat it," joins in his younger sister, Becky.

Other soaps are unscented with the addition of emu oil for people with sensitive skin.

To make the soaps, tallow is used in a blended base along with various oils- soybean, olive, coconut or vegetable oil- and rain water mixed with lye.

Each batch must be stirred for about two hours until it begins to saponify, or begins to "become soap."

Elaine then adds fragrances, either purchased scents or those she devises herself. She cooks pine needles or dried lavender flowers, or steams alfalfa in water, retaining the plant's vitamins.

"The advantage of homegrown soap over commercially produced kind is in its ingredients," Elaine said.

There is no filler and no commercial additive for people with sensitive skins. The castile soap is fragrance free with those people in mind.

"Handcrafted soap has character," a Prairie Spirit flyer notes, "it has charm."

"The smell is genuine, like the ingredients from which it is made. Handcrafted soaps are not homogenized, pasteurized, deodorized and sanitized," Elaine said.

Every bar is unique, handcut and shaped.

"These are no the soaps of your grandmother. Using modern recipes that are environmentally friendly and contain high quality ingredients, these soaps are much better," she added.

The Tobiases market their products primarily in gift shops, at farmers' markets, through craft shows and on the Internet.

Currently, the soaps are for sale in Wayne at Pac 'N' Save and Ginnie's Country Creations.

Elaine Tobias works on making Prairie Spirit Soaps in her home near Pilger.

Other locations which have the soaps are Mary Ann's Country Comforts near Pilger, Country Nook Craft and Ceramics at Wisner, Oberle's Market at Winside and The Thrifty Shop in Stanton.

Thompson-O'Connor wed in Wayne ceremony

Angela Thompson of Wayne and Martin O'Connor of Blanchester, Ohio, were married May 23, 1998 at the United Methodist Church in Wayne. The Rev. Gary Main of Wayne officiated at the 5 p.m. double ring ceremony.

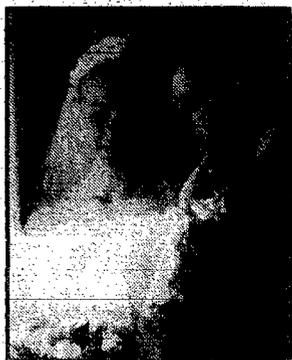

Parents of the couple are Connie and Charles Thompson of Wayne and Betty and Francis O'Connor of Blanchester, Ohio. Wedding music was provided by Colleen Jeffries of Wayne.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and appeared in a white satin gown with a V-neckline. The off-the-shoulder gown had long sleeves and featured a fitted bodice accented with pearls and sequins. The semi-cathedral length train was plain white satin.

She wore a headpiece accented with pearls and sequins, carried a white handkerchief from her grandmother and a bouquet of all white roses, babies breath and ivy.

Honor attendants were Jenny Thompson of Wayne, sister of the bride and Kim Sawatzke of Crofton, friend of the couple.

Bridesmaids were Kara Thompson of Wayne and Danielle Brown of Omaha. They wore fitted, full length navy satin, off-the-shoulder gowns with pearl bracelets and earrings. Each carried a bouquet with a mixture of white flowers including roses, carnations, stefanotis and ivy with gold and white ribbons. Gail Brecka of Lincoln was the bride's personal attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor

Groomsmen were F. X. O'Connor of Yuma, Ariz. and Jess Thompson of Wayne.

Emily Griesch of Lincoln and Jessica Wilson of Omaha registered the guests, who were ushered into the church by Ron Steffen of Crofton, Frank Gibson of Covington, Ken, and Ferd Lohman of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Larry and Mary Nichols of Wayne greeted and arranged the gifts of the 175 guests who attended the reception at Riley's Convention Center in Wayne.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mary Nichols of Wayne and Mary O'Connor of Covington, Ken. Sandy Nichols of Wayne and Ruth Logan of Williamsburg, Ohio served punch.

The following donors deserve special recognition. They are: Dorothy Nelson, nine gallon donor; Ron Wriedt and Patricia Thompson, eight gallon donors; Beverly Etter, three gallon donor; Jeryl Nelson, two gallon donor; and Carol Rempfer, one gallon donor.

"The Siouxland Blood Bank offers thanks to all the donors, all of the volunteers, to the Hospital Auxiliary, Evelyn Jerman, Bonnie Moomaw, Dennis Lipp, Joann Temme, and to the Providence Medical Center for the use of their facility," said Pam Masching, Director of Donor Resources.

The next scheduled dates for community blood drives in Wayne are Aug. 27 and Sept. 24.

Nutrition for young athletes given

Throughout the summer and as preparations are made for the fall sports schedule, student athletes have been engaged in on-going training in their favorite sport. Training camps, weight lifting programs, and individual training schedules seem to be more and more a part of the student athlete's life.

The American Dietetic Association released a statement regarding their stance on nutrition for adolescent athletes. The statement "encourages sound nutrition practices that promote optimal growth and development in adolescents (ages 13 to 18 years) while meeting the added requirements of participation in organized sports."

Growth and development that occur during the adolescent years create some differences for the younger athlete compared to more mature athletes.

Focusing too stringently on body composition and weight as a qualifying factor for some sports can have harmful effects on overall growth in these young athletes. Manipulation of dietary intakes can also result in nutritional inadequacies that, ultimately, can affect overall sports performance and individual health.

Of particular concern in adolescent athletes is increased risk for iron deficiency and lack of calcium intake. Iron deficient status can result in poor athletic performance and feelings of fatigue. Low calcium intake can result in decreased bone mineral content that impacts overall bone density and can be a factor in health status in later years.

A third major concern is the risk of adopting compulsive weight loss behaviors. Athletes may choose to

Class of 1958 reunion held

The 1958 Wayne High graduates met in Winter Park, Colo., to observe their 40th year class reunion from July 19-22.

Those present from the Wayne area were: Cliff and Judy (Beck) Peters; Dennis and Ellen (Beckman) Carlson; Evan and Fauneil (Frevort) Bennett; Phil and Jean Griess and Richard Korn.

Other members attending were: Tom and Marilyn Beckner of Chattanooga, Ten.; Keith and Dorothy (Meyer) Ellis of Englewood, Colo.; Gary and Ann Splitterger of Las Vegas, Nev.; Larry and Vernice (Vahlkamp) Wacker, of Greeley, Colo.; Bill and Judy (Weible) McKnight of Lakewood, Colo.; and Don and Renee (Wiltse) Cunningham of Glendale, Ariz.

Hosting the event and planning activities were done by class members living in Colorado.

Linda Cronickshank, Wayne County manipulate weight on their own or be encouraged by coaches and parents.

Techniques used in weight manipulation (fasting, severe dietary restrictions, use of laxatives, over exercising, and so forth) result in fatigue, amenorrhea, impaired growth, dehydration, and nutritional inadequacies.

Adolescents will be able to maximize sports performance with a combination of proper training and nutrition. Nutritional guidance should be based on the Dietary Guidelines and the Food Pyramid

Guill - Carlson

Amy Guill and Jeff Carlson, both of Wayne, are planning an Aug. 29, 1998 wedding at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of David and Nancy Guill of Wayne. She is a 1996 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1996 graduate of Northeast Community College in Norfolk. She is presently employed as a secretary at Freese and Einspahr Law Office in Norfolk.

Her fiancé is the son of Larry 'Butch' and Judy Carlson of Winside. He is a 1991 graduate of Winside High School and presently employed at Milo Meyer Construction in Wayne.

and adapted for each individual according to the energy required by the sport and their own growth needs.

The training diet should provide about 55-60% of calories from carbohydrate, 12 to 15% protein, and 25-30% from fat. Use of ergogenic aids such as amino acids and protein mixtures to enhance performance has not been supported by scientific evidence.

Regarding fluid intake, the ADA statement says, "Adolescent athletes need to consume adequate fluids before, during and after activity."

Plain water is the best and most economical source of fluid for activity lasting less than an hour. Exercise that lasts longer than an hour, and/or is performed in high temperature and humidity, warrants consumption of a sports drink.

Commercial sports drinks should taste good, contain 6-8% carbohydrate and be rapidly absorbed."

all about Women

Women know the importance of annual exams, but many are concerned that it may bring bad news about their health. Abnormal pap smears, fibroids, ovarian cysts, irregular uterine bleeding or pelvic pain can be frightening...but are they always life-threatening? Early detection and treatment are crucial and can alter the outcome.

The Wayne Herald

Events prove it's a small world

The temperature relief has been such a blessing. We slept with windows open last night. The roofers have been at it since 6:30 a.m., trying to beat the noon-time heat.

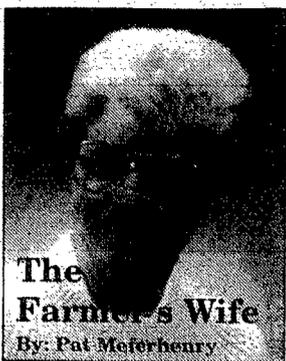

Roofing this tall house is going to be quite a feat. They have found four old layers, and evidence of dormers, patches and just general odd stuff. I don't envy them crawling around its steep pitches. They are wearing harnesses.

Another thing that has been accomplished in the cooler weather is weeding the flower bed. If you think I was virtuous when the ceiling fans were cleaned, you should have seen me last weekend. Problem is, getting the weeds out reveals not enough flowers and the ones there are all bunched in one area. I don't claim to be a landscaper.

I do need more perennials. I'll have to visit Gail Korn.

I'm told that a Doctor from UNMC Cancer Center comes to Wayne for perennials. That's quite a reputation. I get a kick out of the northeast-southeast Nebraska connections. I followed a Wayne County Lincoln across the Mahoney park road to Highway 6 the other night. I never did figure out who they were, but we don't see many '22' license plates around here.

I was in the local beauty shop late one afternoon a couple of years ago when a lovely young lady arrived for a perm. As we visited, she asked if I had ever been a school nurse at Randolph. Only for four years, I replied. Well, she was a student there. She's now a social worker at a Plattsmouth nursing home, so I see her regularly.

I was visiting another home in Nebraska City the other day and I mentioned Father Rick Arkfeld. One of the care staff members announced he had been her pastor at one time.

"I said, 'Are you from Randolph?'"

"No, Coleridge," was the answer.

She went on to say I had always looked familiar to her and she couldn't figure out why. I certainly could not say that, because she was just a little girl then.

Besides, I have observed that, as I grow older, everyone looks familiar! I realize that each of us is a unique individual, but most of us have twins. The longer I'm around and the more people I meet, the more twins I find.

What drives me nuts is trying to figure out who that person reminds me of! My octogenarian patients say the memory for names disappears first.

I must agree.

Receives medal

Darin Greunke of Winside participated in the 14th annual Cornhusker State Games in Lincoln July 18-19. In the Precision Air Rifle match, he brought home a silver medal, shooting 344 out of 400 points in the standing position. He also competed in the .22-caliber rifle silhouette match, where he tied for fourth place, knocking down 26 out of 80 animals.

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Wilcockson, Dr. Koeber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koeber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

ATTEND EMS CONFERENCE

Larry Anderson and Rosalind Woods of Wakefield were among around 500 individuals attending the 19th annual Nebraska Emergency Medical Service conference July 10-12 in Kearney.

The event was sponsored by Central Community College, the Emergency Nurses Association and the Nebraska Health and Human Services/EMS Program. Participants were able to attend sessions on airway management, athletic injuries, cardiac disease, children with special health care needs, congestive heart failure, diabetic emergencies, electrical emergencies, geriatrics assessment and trauma, head injuries, neurological anatomy and physiology, OB GYN emergencies, pelvic fractures, prehospital field assessment, and other topics.

OFFERING INFANT PROGRAM

The Wakefield Family Resource Center has had their licensing changed to include infants beginning at six weeks of age. This is the first time, according to Center Director Erlene Stubbs, that children this young have been included at the center. The center began accepting the younger children in August.

"We are very excited about the addition of this service," Stubbs said. "One of the center's goals will be to visit the mothers-to-be a few months before their due date and begin to assist them with whatever we can. We have many resources such as videos and books as well as experienced staff to answer questions." Stubbs said that the program will consist of much more than caring for infant children.
