The board had a coffee honoring Stoakes for many years of service prior to the board meeting. Also honored were Ryan Sturm and Matt Meyer for athletic and academic excellence. The board has a coffee each month prior to their meeting to honor worthy individuals.

The board also approved the amendment of the bussing contract to include agreement of adding an additional route.

There were several visitors attending the meeting, among those present were Sue Larson, third grade teacher and Peg Lutt, second grade teacher, both at Wayne Elementary School. The teachers have been working with David Lutt, principal at Wayne Elementary School, on constructing new and improved report cards for the elementary and middle school grades. The ladies reported to the board on some of the features of the new cards which include more information to parents, carbon copies of the cards to help eliminate lost cards, more space for communication to and from parents, citizenship marks stating expectations of students from the teachers, guideline to student philosophy, going to a percentage marking scale, as well as other features. The schools new mission statement, "Learning for Life," is stated on the cards.

Dr. Zeiss, principal at Wayne High School, reported on the teacher evaluation system which he has reviewed. In the new system which works on a three-year cycle, non-tenured teachers will be professionally evaluated every year until tenured and tenured teachers will be professionally evaluated every third year. The board approved the new system.

Dr. Reinert, superintendent at Wayne High, reported on opening day activities at the school scheduled for teachers in-service days Aug. 24, 25, and 26. The first day of school for the students is Aug. 27.

Sue Gilmore, Wayne Community Board member, reported on two key communicator meetings for the bond issue held in the past two weeks. The group is getting ready for additional publicity to the public, and starting parent groups and information groups.

Phyllis Spethman, Wayne Community Board President, reported that correspondence was received from Terrence-McFarland of Omaha who is interested in purchasing the middle school building if it should be demolished. The letter will be kept on file.

There was discussion on the Interlocal Agreement with Northeast Community College. Dr. Reinert informed the board of the grant progress. The virtual campus includes a specially prepared room complete with computer lab, and video and audio equipment. Classes are being scheduled and the public will also be able to take classes. There have been two postponements on this project. One is waiting until Oct. 1 to install the public computer lab at the Wayne Public Library to insure proper staffing. Also classes on-line for credit will be postponed until Jan. 1. The board will discuss this issue more at the September meeting.

New 1998-99 lunch prices for adults raised to $2.10 was approved. The 10 cent raise was necessary to keep up with state regulations.

A board retreat will be held at Wayne State College on Monday, Aug. 24 which will also be the time and location of the next regular board meeting. Randy Nelson of Norfolk Public Schools will be present to speak.

Future agenda items include legal services contract review, foundation report, Interlocal Agreement with NECC, Distance Learning Grant, bussing and teacher evaluation policies.

The next regular board meeting will be on Aug. 24 at 5 p.m. at the Wayne State College Student Center.

Bid accepted for new baler

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The passage of four resolutions accounted for the majority of the Wayne City Council agenda on Tuesday.

The first of the resolutions will allow for the purchase of a Vertical Down Stroke baler for the Transfer Station. A bid of $7,985 was accepted from Mid-Iowa Solid Waste Equipment Company. A lower bid had been submitted but did not meet the bid specifications.

The baler will be used at the Transfer Station to bale tin and aluminum cans, plastics and cardboard into bales to be sold.

The second resolution approved the sale of Jones Interchangeable to TelePartners, L.L.C.

Russ Gifford, manager of Jones Interchangeable spoke to the council and stated that the sale has been approved by all other interested parties with the exception of the City of Wayne and Wayne County.

The change will become effective Sept. 1, 1998. Management will remain unchanged and the Wayne office will remain open.

TelePartners, L.L.C. has purchased a number of other cable companies and will have a total of 64 systems. They hope to make a number of improvements, including the installation of fiber optic cable in the future.

Resolution 98-80 approved payment for the East Water Storage Reservoir project. The final cost was $15,361 more than the original bid due to the fact that the earth under the tower needed to be removed and replaced.

The final resolution passed authorized the city to submit a Litter Reduction/Recycling Grant Application for two trailers to haul recycled materials. The recycled materials that have been baled can be hauled to larger markets where maximum prices can be attained.

Councilman Verdel Lutt said he felt that even with grant money, "the amount of money we have put into recycling and the transfer station is huge."

The council also gave its approval to the city treasurer to pay the 1996 delinquent paving assessment and related costs for Rainbow World Day Care. The bill amounts to $2,039.74 and represents a contribution from the city to Rainbow World. In the city council's goals, Rainbow World has been identified as being something to be looked at by the council for possible financial assistance.

City Administrator Joe Salitros told the council that the Child Care Board is working to strengthen its financial situation and that the city needs to protect its interests.

In other action, the council set a public hearing date of Tuesday, Aug. 25 at 7:45 p.m. pertaining to the acquisition of real estate in the Boyles Second Addition to the City of Wayne. This is an area just west of the First National Bankcard Center.

The council heard from Public Works Superintendent Vern Schulz about problems associated with property owners not responding to requests to mow lawns and those not who do not pay the bill if the city is forced to do the mowing.

Following discussion, the council agreed that a resolution will be drawn up to add the bill to the owner's property taxes.

A contribution of $500 was also granted to the 1998 Futures Conference.

Lynda Cruickshank, a member of the committee, told the council that this is the third year for the program and that this year's conference will be held in Norfolk. The committee is hoping to hold the 1999 conference at Wayne State College in Wayne.

Mayor Sheryl Lindar appointed Joel Ankeny to the Library Board.

Members of the cast of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" rehearse for this weekend's performances. The play will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week and Friday and Saturday of next week.

Charlie Brown to be staged

The musical is based on the comic strip "Peanuts" by Charles M. Schulz and produced by arrangement with TAMS-WITMARK, INC.

The play is a day, made up of little moments picked from all the days of Charlie Brown, from Valentine's Day to the baseball season, from wild optimism to utter despair, all mixed in with the lives of his friends (both human and non-human) and strung together on a string of a single day.

Mentoring program has good intentions

By Leslie Boellstorff Reed
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It's the time of year when the kids come to visit.
My Mom wants to spend more time with my three nieces who live in the South Sioux City area. So lately, they've been taking turns staying at Grandma's house.
I have fond memories of my own summertime stays at Grandma and Grandpa Klaasmeyer's in Forest City, MO, so I wanted to get into the act. I invited my oldest niece, Rachel, 8, to spend the night at my house and spend part of the day at work with me.

It turned out to be perfect timing. Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson was holding a press conference with retired NU Football Coach Tom Osborne and his wife, Nancy, to announce the statewide expansion of the Osbornes' TeamMates Nebraska mentoring program.

Rachel got to see the kind of work I do and she got to meet the governor, too! (She turned shy on me when I asked if she wanted to meet Coach Osborne.)

Having Rachel with me really highlighted the importance of what the Osbornes were saying. Rachel has parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles who support her and encourage her to study hard, to read a lot and to think about her future.

But, as Coach Osborne pointed out, many children are not as lucky. He said more than half of kids today live in a home that does not include the presence of both biological parents. He said parents spend less time with their children.

The Osbornes' idea is to fill that gap with adult mentors, who would spend one hour a week with a student who might be in danger of dropping out of school before graduation. The mentoring relationship would begin when the student was in middle school and continue through high school.

Coach Osborne started his program several years ago by matching 25 Lincoln middle school students with college football players. Of those 25 original students, 23 stayed with the program, 21 graduated from high school and 19 went on for postsecondary education.

In 1996, the Osbornes donated $250,000 to the program, money they received in honor of Coach Osborne's 200th football victory.

In 1997, the Osbornes expanded the program through Lincoln's St. Mark United Methodist Church and Lincoln Public Schools. Now, with the help of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, the Nebraska Industrial Competitive Alliance and the Nebraska Community Foundation, the Osbornes hope to take the program statewide.

Five communities will be selected by the end of September to take part.

Now I'm a reporter and I get paid to be skeptical. I can see how this might be one of those well-intentioned programs that never takes fire because people just don't commit to it. It sounds great to help a kid - but an hour a week? What if the kid has more problems than a mentor can handle? How thrilled will a kid be with an insurance-agent mentor and not a football-player mentor?

But it looks like this program has a pretty good foundation. You can't beat the support of the Osbornes and the state. I'm told that the Community Foundation is doing great work in fund raising and managing charitable funds.

Osborne said it will work.
"The big question in my mind is the commitment and the will," he said. "We have enough resources, we have enough people with time to do this. If we have a sufficient volunteer effort, it will work."

Represented community well

Dear Editor,
Our own Wayne American Legion Baseball Team represented our community very well in the recent American Legion Class 'B' State Tournament. We should all be very proud of how well they played and how mature they handled their adversity. Congratulations to the Wayne American Legion Baseball Team and their coaches on a great year.
In addition, the list of people to thank is considerably long. We would like to thank a few that made our hosting the American Legion Class 'B' State Tournament a tremendous success. A special thanks to the State Tournament Program advertisers for their financial support, the Midget and Legion parents for staffing the concession stand, grille and ticket table.
We would also like to thank the motels and Wayne State College for their cooperation in providing lodging for our numerous guests. We want to thank KTCH and the Wayne Herald for their coverage of the tournament, and the community of Wayne for coming out to support American Legion Baseball.

Lastly we would like to thank the American Legion Post 43 for sponsoring our team and Commander Dennis Spangler for assistance with the Color Guard and the closing ceremonies. We know there were many more people to thank. Please accept our apology if we missed you.
We consistently heard compliments about our friendly community, our excellent facility and our numerous volunteers untiring efforts to provide services and community information. It was support and involvement from a wide variety of people that enabled us to host what we think was one of the best State Tournaments ever.
Because of our community's generosity and the unwavering commitment to our children, we will be able to continue to provide improvements to our Baseball facilities and our program. By doing so, our children who love Baseball can continue to enjoy the game. Thank you for all again for your support.

All involved in tournament deserve thanks

Dear Editor,
The city of Wayne again has a right to be extremely proud. The American Legion Class B Nebraska State tournament recently completed its five-day run in Wayne. For those of you who were not able to attend, you missed a class act.
Beginning with Parks and Recreation Director Jeff Zeiss and tournament directors Ray Nelson and Roger Niemann, this tournament was extremely well organized and extremely well run. There were numerous volunteers that made this tournament a success.
The tournament committee had the foresight to have a grounds crew ready and willing at all times.

Help celebrate highway opening

Join the fun... Celebrate the opening (or almost opening) of West Highway 35 on Thursday, Aug. 20! Pac 'N Save, The Diamond Center and Riley's are sponsors of the dance to be held at Riley's Convention Center from 7 to 11 p.m.
According to a spokesman for the band 'Home Grown,' one of the leading bands in the Lincoln area, the four-piece band "looks forward to coming to play in Wayne." The dance is a co-event in the Thursday Night Habit series.

Plan now to be at the Retail Council's Marketing Roundtable on Tuesday, Aug. 25 at the Wayne Vet's Club at 6 p.m. One outcome of prior marketing roundtable discussions is the dance mentioned above. Discussion on Aug. 25 will center around Thursday Night Promotion, fall events, the W.O.W. 1-game and Christmas Promotion and activities. All business persons are invited to attend.
Last week you read in this column about the Consumer Preferences and Economic Leakage assessment to be offered by the Chamber. To date, six businesses have signed up; a total of 25 are needed for the program. Cost to each Chamber member business is $30. You may register by calling the Chamber/Industries office at 375-2240.
Participants can expect greater customer satisfaction, improved business competitiveness and a stronger local economy. You'll learn factors affecting customer's shopping preferences and their shopping patterns. As a participant, each business will also receive a private 20-minute business consultation.

Several Nebraska communities were part of a pilot program conducted over the past year. Kay Wimmer, Chamber Exec in Central City, reports that "the information was good and that several businesses have made a lot of changes."
"The assessment allows one to see their business through the eyes of consumers," said Sheryl Vollertsen, Director of the Holdrege Chamber. As a result of the program, one Holdrege business expanded and other changes were implemented.
Administrative Assistant at the Chadron Chamber, Rich Galvin, said his community received "insightful information" and that the program "takes the guess work out of why people shop where they do."

To watch this crew work was a great thing to see. In fact on Sunday, when rain was threatening to delay the tournament, the tarp was put back on the field and then taken off again. The grounds crew was timed, and it took less than two minutes to put the tarp on the field and less than six minutes to take it off again. It ended up being an 18-minute delay for something that could have taken much longer if the grounds crew had not been prepared.
The City of Wayne needs to congratulate everyone involved in hosting this tournament. It takes a great number of people to successfully put on a tournament like this. From the tournament directors, the grounds crew, the volunteers working the concessions stands and grills, the grounds crew and volunteers picking up garbage in between games, all the way to the rock-and-roll press box members, these people did an excellent job of working this tournament.

Fans out of town seemed to enjoy the day in Wayne and had a good time at the ballpark. Numerous times these fans were seen clapping and singing along to the music between innings and in fact, the last two nights, the wave was seen in the grandstands at Wayne. Everyone seemed to remember that baseball is indeed a "game" and really enjoyed himself or herself.
Again, to everyone involved with the tournament, a huge "Congratulations" and "Thank you" for a job well done. It is great to see a community get involved in a project, work together and be successful.
A special "Congratulations" to the Wayne Junior Legion team for a successful season. You proved to everyone that you truly belonged in the State Tournament and represented WAYNE in championship fashion. I truly hope we don't have to wait too long to bring the tournament back to Wayne.

ONE NEBRASKA JOURNAL

By Governor Ben Nelson

August 7, 1998
Dear Nebraska Neighbors,

Americans are blessed with the safest, most abundant and most affordable supply of food and fiber the world has ever known. For that, we can thank the American farmer and rancher. And we must never forget that problems on the farm are problems for all of us. Nearly every recession this country has seen started with a farm crisis.
The farm crisis that is now brewing was a major topic as I joined my peers in Milwaukee for the annual meeting of the National Governors' Association (NGA). I chaired the NGA's Natural Resources Committee, which had the opportunity to discuss the current ag economy with U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman.
Secretary Glickman summarized the problem for producers as "1948 prices and 1998 expenses." We're seeing a global surplus, soft demand, an economic crisis in Asia and uneven playing fields in many international markets. Add in weaknesses in the current Farm Bill along with the extreme heat, drought and other natural enemies, and one can't hesitate to call it a crisis situation.
Although relief efforts are still unclear, Secretary Glickman talked with the Governors about the need for short- and long-term solutions, and he provided Governors with some reasons for optimism.
He made it clear that he supports the re-establishment of a safety net that is sensible and reliable for all producers. He is in favor of removing the cap on loan rates, and he supports more emergency aid for farmers, saying the $500 million now in the Senate will need to be increased when damage assessments are completed.
We must take action to keep the Great Plains and the other agricultural areas of our country strong and healthy. By working with federal officials and by coming together as states, we can help our agricultural producers weather the storm in this One Nebraska.

NPPD President and CEO Bill Mayben presents the Peak Performance award to Joe Salltros, Wayne city administrator.

Wayne receives Electric Industry Award recently

The city of Wayne received an electric utility award during the Annual Wholesale Customers Award Ceremony on July 23 in Kearney. Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) presented awards in three categories to its wholesale customers that exhibited top performance during 1997.

The municipal utility received the Peak Performer Award in the category of Economic Development.

The utility is recognized for creating 213 new jobs, increasing commercial/industries electrical usage by 5.5 percent, and partnering on projects with NPPD or the public/private sectors last year.

NPPD's Vice President of Wholesale Gary Westphal along with President and CEO Bill Mayben presented the award to City Administrator Joe Salltros. "We recommend you for exemplary performance during 1997,"

Westphal said. "NPPD is proud to be a partner with the City of Wayne, helping to attract new businesses and jobs in the Wayne area."

Awards were presented to 21 wholesale customers, including public power districts and utility systems, throughout Nebraska. The other award categories were Annual Sales Increase and Electric Heat Promotion. NPPD is Nebraska's energy leader, serving an estimated one million residents in the state in all or parts of 91 counties with retail or wholesale electrical power through a 6,200-mile transmission system. Governed by a popularly-elected Board of Directors, the public utility seeks to enhance the quality of life in Nebraska. Working in partnership with Nebraska's rural power districts, cooperatives and municipalities, NPPD helps provide the state with electricity rates 22 percent below the national average. For links to information about NPPD, visit its website at www.nppd.com.

Week abounds with visitors

It's Sunday evening, the news is over and the Big Farmer is heading for bed. As is our one guest, a delightful gentleman from North Carolina. We've managed to have guests almost every night for a month now. I just wish they'd bunch up a bit. This fellow called on a car phone from South Dakota this afternoon, having been in North Dakota last night. He arrived in time for supper and a tour of the barn and the antiques in the garage and a look at the antique tractor book on the coffee table.

Last night's traveler was a school teacher, going back to Minneapolis from her sister's in Colorado Springs. She chose us because we take pets and her companion is an eight year old Setter named Sidney, of all things. Sidney was very well behaved, even when her mistress' car refused to start this morning.

Have you ever tried to find a mechanic on a Sunday morning? It's impossible. Nurses work on Sunday, as do waitresses and clerks and numerous other folks, but mechanics do not, even in Lincoln and Omaha.

There is a guy at the Ashland-Greenwood exit who is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. He's already been honored by the governor for being helpful to travelers. He once helped me out on a Sunday evening. But, today, he took his family to Adventure Land. I think the guy in Murdock was probably fishing. (He's from Newman Grove originally. I knew his Mom.)

So, after church, we asked the locals. Someone suggested a single farmer who had gone to school after high school to learn to be a mechanic. He came over after lunch, cleaned corrosion off a coil wire, tightened it, and voila! It started. Meanwhile, the teacher had marveled over the fire flies last night and the tall corn today. She had never been close to a corn stalk before.

Friday's night's visitor was an old friend from Randolph, in my school nurse days. We ate at the new golf course restaurant. It was a beautiful Nebraska evening, we sat on the patio and marvelled at the lush greens in front of us.

A couple from San Diego were our mid-week guests and tomorrow night, a family from Colorado on the way to Illinois arrives. We're finding that it helps to be a day's drive from Cheyenne, Denver and Chicago. We've had U-Hauls, boats and gliders. Last weekend it was an RV, driven by an 89-year old who had just gotten married! I call him an optimist.

It gets to be a lot of work, but it's never boring, as you can imagine. The fellow here tonight tells us he's never met a Nebraskan he didn't like. Imagine that; he's a Clemson grad. Oh, well, last night's was University of Michigan. We just don't talk football.

Now, to bed. Quiche needs to go in the oven at 6:30 a.m. in the morning.

Brandy Frevert
Frevert named to 'Who's Who'

Brandy Frevert, daughter of Brian and Shelley Frevert of Wayne, recently received notification from the publishers of "Who's Who Among American High School Students" that she had been selected to be published in their national publication.

This is the second year that Frevert has been selected for this award.

Who's Who has been the largest, most respected publication in the nation recognizing students for their achievements in academics, athletics and extracurricular activities since 1967.

The program's value has been acknowledged by the American Library Association and their standards have been cited by education, parent and teacher associations.

Approximately 15,000 high school faculty members, youth groups and education organizations nominate students for this honor.

Only five percent of all high school students receive this annual award and only one half of one percent are honored for two or more years.

Frevert will be attending Wayne State College in the fall.

Wayne State Career Service adds two new staff members

The Career Services Office at Wayne State College has added two staff members to better serve the College's students looking for work experience.

Jeannette Barry began her duties as coordinator of Career Services in April. Barry, who is an alumnae of Wayne State, will handle the Cooperative Education program.

Cooperative Education provides current WSC students with real life work experience in the field of study. The students can earn college credit and be paid while working and learning. Many employers feel the student is then much more prepared to enter the work force following graduation.

Barry graduated with a bachelor's of business administration degree in 1992 and earned her MBA in 1994. She has previously worked in the College's computer center and as payroll and benefits manager for WSC.

Career Services Office staff is Terri Heggemeyer. Heggemeyer begins her duties in mid-August. She will also hold the title coordinator of Career Services. Her duties will be assisting students nearing graduation with finding their full-time employment.

Heggemeyer is also a WSC alumnae, graduating with her undergraduate degree in business in 1992 and her MBA in 1998. She is also a long-time College employee. Her previous positions include working as staff assistant in Financial Aid, and since March 1997 as an accounting clerk in the campus accounting office.

"I think both Jeannette and Terri will add a great deal to what this office does to serve our students," said Jason Barendman, director of career services at WSC. Barendman noted the two women are knowledgeable about the college and about what it takes to get a job and advance in a career.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Reprinted from "Straight Talk" - publication of the Northeast Library System

Just what does the Librarian do?

- If you think he or she simply checks out books, please find out more about what goes on in the local library.
- With few exceptions, today's library director:
- 1) Analyzes the budget on an ongoing basis.
- 2) Prepares reports for the library's board.
- 3) Makes presentations to local organizations.
- 4) Develops partnerships with community groups.
- 5) Welcomes & provides orientations for new patrons.
- 6) Assists in making & carrying out long-range plans.
- 7) Administers policies.
- 8) Trains & supervises employees & volunteers.
- 9) Write grant proposals.
- 10) Attends workshops & seminars.
- 11) Makes collection development decisions.
- 12) Is responsible for library technology: computers and printers, FAX, local area networks, CD-Rom, Internet use, online search services, library automation, circulation and online catalog.
- 13) In addition to all the other duties regarding programs and services routinely assigned to librarians.

The knowledge and expertise required to proficiently administer any library is almost overwhelming! No amount of continuing education offered through the regional library systems or through the state Library Commission will enable library directors to stay abreast of changes in the library field.

Remember, we are keeping our summer hours. Our library hours are Monday-Friday, noon-8 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and closed Sundays. Our phone number is (402) 375-3135, and fax number is (402) 375-5772. Fax charges are $1 per page.

Make vacation time fun for the whole family

By Sally Ebmeier

There's still time for that summer vacation, whether it will be for adventure, to acquire some culture, work on physical fitness or maybe just visiting old friends.

Vacation travel can serve more than one of these purposes. Deciding what's most important and affordable this summer can be a simple process, or it may require negotiation with other family members and friends. Of course, we all have our own ideas of what constitutes rest and relaxation — and whether pitching a tent in the Rockies is really the adventure your family is looking for. Here's what traveling can accomplish:

- Travel is educational. The firsthand experiences kids have when they travel are wonderful ways to broaden and enrich classroom lessons. Parents also gain knowledge and understanding as they explore, listen and learn with children. Even if it's just to entertain the kids, parents will notice birds, flowers, insects and foliage more than before.
- Travel stimulates personal growth. Meeting people in new places expands children's outlook and makes them aware of others who may sound and look different from them. Travel helps kids develop perspective of their own place in the larger world and make them more curious to learn.

- Kids learn practical skills. Map reading, climbing and hiking can be learned naturally through travel. Children also confront other kinds of challenges such as how to communicate with a child who speaks another language. Kids learn they can manage in the world around them and gain a sense of competence and self-confidence that may last a lifetime.
- Children become good-will ambassadors. Kids make friends easily — on a boat, around a motel swimming pool, just about anywhere. Other people are more apt to be helpful or strike up a conversation when traveling with your family.

Travel draws a family closer together. When thinking back on childhood, memories of family excursions and trips stand out. Share adventures engender feelings of togetherness and a sense of family cohesiveness.

- Here are some travel suggestions:
- Give kids permission to use your first name in an emergency. Hearing "John" or "John Davis" is more likely to get your attention than a child's voice calling "Daddy."
- Make one parent the "designated checker" — to scan planes, trains or motel rooms for dropped articles as you leave. It's OK to take turns — just be sure you know whose job it is.
- On a cold or rainy day, look for a motel room before you take it. This is a reasonable request, even in expensive hotels.
- When camping, bring extra towels, plastic bags for trash and laundry, a clothesline, flashlights, air mattresses and, if space allows, pillows.
- If you would really love to be invited back to your friend's house, follow these two rules: Do the dishes and leave before you want to.

When traveling by car:

- Travel versions of such classic games as Scrabble, Monopoly and Clue are available for auto travel.

Racing cars and planes come in micro versions, as do dolls. Put together a "travel box" with new (washable) markers and colored pencils, stickers, scissors, stamps and a pad of colored paper.

- Lots of books on tape with favorite children's stories are available. Also, look into books from a favorite series that are set in the region to be visited. For example, Nancy Drew mysteries take place in locations all over the country.

- Depending on children's ages, consider buying each a small tape player with ear phones. It might be expensive, but it will avoid squabbles over who chooses the music.

- Stash a couple of balls and maybe even a jump rope. There is one dad who plays catch wherever his family stops the car. Another dad has his kids run around the car seven times at each stop.

Bridge played at Country Club

WAYNE — Nine tables of bridge were played following the Wayne Country Club ladies luncheon held Aug. 11, with 40 attending. Hostesses were Marge Armstrong and Bonnie Lund.

Oehlerking reunion held

Twenty-five families attended the annual Oehlerking reunion at the Wayne Country Club.

A cooperative dinner was held with relatives present from Wakefield, Wayne, Omaha, Plainview, Carroll, South Sioux City, Pilger, O'Neill, Winside, Lincoln, and Madison in Nebraska and Pestone, Ill., Volin, S.D. and Bella Vista, Ark.

Alfred Oehlerking of Pestone, Ill., traveled the farthest to attend.

Alma Weiershauser of Wayne was the oldest member present and Anne and Mark Warnemunde and Abby Denton were the youngest.

Another reunion will be held in August of 1999.

"Everything went like clockwork!"

"I came in for a normal eye exam. I knew I had cataracts. It wouldn't help to change my eye glass prescription. That wasn't the problem. I had cataract surgery on both eyes. Everything went like clock work. I can see to comb a part in my hair now.

I am a borderline diabetic, and I've had problems 10 or 12 years ago. I had double vision. Other doctors couldn't fix it. Dr. Feidler found it right away and corrected it. He gets right to the point. Tells you how its going to be. And, he's been correct.

The staff here is great, too. Some of them went to school with my boy. Coming here is like old home week. I'm partial to Dr. Feidler, I have confidence in him."

Andrew Metz

Named top student

Andrew Metz, son of Dean and Sandra Metz, recently returned from the 1998 Summer School for Nuclear and Radiochemistry funded by the Department of Energy and sponsored by the Nuclear Chemistry Division of the American Chemical Society.

The program is an attempt to generate interest in an area of chemistry that is often overlooked in the curricula of many major universities and then provide opportunities for these students to continue working in the field.

Topics such as nuclear medicine, nuclear power, high level nuclear waste disposal, and environmental actinide chemistry will become very important in the near future and the number of people qualified to work in the field is dwindling.

Therefore, programs like this are vital to assure qualified people are available to deal with these problems. Of the 12 students selected nationally to attend the summer program at San Jose State University, Andrew was named the top student.

As a result Andrew will be flown to the National ACS meeting in Boston later this month to address the membership of the nuclear chemistry division about the success of the program in attaining its goals.

Springs, Colo., Omaha, Wisner, Emerson, Pender, Thurston, and Wayne.

Guests attending were Iya Wilson and John and Mary Rutar, all of Thurston.

The business meeting opened with Prayer by Barbara Adams. Mary Ann Oetken reported the history with three births, two weddings, and three deaths the past year.

The 50th anniversary of Edwin and Betty Pallas of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Edwin's birthday were celebrated with cake and ice cream at the close of the afternoon.

The group sang the anniversary and birthday song to the honored guests.

The next reunion will be held the second Sunday of August in 1999 at the Thurston Legion Hall.

Joi Ebel offers program

Christian vocalist Joi Ebel will offer an inspirational program in song, story and spirit, at the Osmond United Methodist Church.

The program will be held Sunday, Aug. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the church located at Sixth and State Streets in Osmond.

The performance is being sponsored by the United Methodist Churches of Osmond and Winside. It is open to the public and a free-will offering will be taken.

Joi Ebel is a motivational speaker, Gospel singer and Christian recording artist from northwest Iowa who has performed for thousands across the Midwest. She shares in narrative and song how her love of Jesus and her love of laughter helped her overcome multiple health problems and draw her closer to the Lord.

Joi performs and speaks for church services, church groups, at fairs and schools and for clubs and groups.

Joi's health problems began when she was nine years old and include diabetes, kidney failure, cancer and blindness. She started speaking and singing in 1977 and since her blindness in 1988, her ministry has been full-time.

Guests came from Sioux City, Vermillion and Yankton, S.D., Gurley, Lincoln, Omaha, Sidney, Winside and Wayne, Neb. A 7 p.m. meal was served from the menu.

Raymond Lessman was honored as the oldest family member present. The youngest was Jakob Thompson, son of Jess and Kara Thompson. Those attending from the Sidney/Gurley area traveled the farthest distance to attend.

Scouts attend canoe trip

Ten Wayne Boy Scouts and four adults returned Sunday from a high adventure canoe trip in northern Minnesota and southern Ontario, Canada.

After receiving food and equipment at the Sommers Canoe Base near Ely, Minn., the contingent divided into two groups and spent nine days canoeing and portaging 90 and 120 miles, respectively.

Other members of Wayne's Troop 174 also were busy this summer participating in week-long outings at Camp Cedars near Fremont, and Ben-Delatour Scout Ranch near Fort Collins, Colo.

Auxiliary has meeting

The Irwin L. Sears Ladies Auxiliary #43 met Aug. 3 at the Neva Lorenzen resident.

President Frances Downing opened the meeting with colors in place and Chaplain Faunel Hoffman gave the opening prayer. Eleven members answered roll call.

A letter was read from Jan Twilford, District President which said "before flaring up at the faults of others, pause and count 10, of your own."

Department President Delores Babcock has announced the national membership theme "Race for the Roses" and the Nebraska membership theme "Race for the Steaks."

President Babcock's theme is "Service to God and Country" - the colors are red, white and blue and her symbols are praying hands open, hands and collectors big, games salt and pepper shakers.

The group planned for the Veterans' Supper to be held in Norfolk on Monday, Sept. 28 at 5 p.m.

Chaplain Faunel Hoffman gave prayer followed by one stanza of "America" and the March for the Little Red School House for nursing scholarships.

The meeting was preceded by a picnic.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 5 at the Neva Lorenzen home.
