Nearly ready for traffic

The much awaited opening of the west portion of Highway 35 is scheduled to happen Saturday, Aug. 22. Crews continue to work on driveways, intersections and sidewalks on the west half of the project. Sherman Street is now open for north-south traffic and will continue to be the only cross-street open for some time. Friday, Aug. 21 is the tentative date for traffic from Main Street to the east end of project to be switched to the south. "This will create a narrow roadway, with construction occurring only three feet from traffic. There will be lots of time when traffic will be reduced to one lane by flagging. Motorists need to be aware of this and use caution when traveling in this area," said Scott Brummond with the Nebraska Department of Roads. Early next week crews will start removing the existing roadway on the north side of the street from Nebraska Street to the east end of the project. Storm sewer work will also be taking place at this time. Rad Dobson of Dobson Brothers Construction, the general contractor for the project, said that even with a number of rain delays, "there is a good chance we will finish the paving work this fall." Motorists are urged to use caution when driving in the construction areas, use alternate routes when possible and listen to radio station KTCH for daily updates.

Dedications set for Sunday

Two dedications will take place at Providence Medical Center on Sunday, Aug. 23.

The first will be a flag dedication at 1 p.m. The Irwin L. Sears Post #43 of the American Legion has donated two American flags which will fly 24 hours a day at the hospital.

Dedication of the 'Friendship Square' will take place at 2 p.m. with opening remarks by Sandra Bartling, President of the PMC Foundation. A dedication prayer will be given by the Rev. Bill Koerber.

The 'Friendship Square' is an outdoor seating area at the main entrance to the hospital. Bricks used in the project are old City of Wayne street bricks and have been personally inscribed by Keith and Imogene Brasch of Wayne Monument Works.

"The Providence Medical Center Foundation is dedicating Friendship Square to all those individuals who pass through the doors of Providence Medical Center," Mrs. Bartling said.

The Friendship Square was designed by Steve Koerber of Lincoln. Following the dedication, tours of the new Birthing Suite and Respite Rooms will be available.

School activities help ease students into college life

An estimated 650 Wayne State College students will take part in orientation activities at Wayne State College, Saturday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Aug. 24.

"The Orientation program is carefully orchestrated to assist new students with the transition to Wayne State College and to give them a good head start by understanding the dynamics of college life," said Anneliese Cawthon, assistant dean of students at Wayne

State College. "Students will participate in activities designed to give them an opportunity to meet other new students in a more relaxed atmosphere. They will learn of the many educational support resources available at the College. The WSC Ambassadors will assist new students through the program and address any needs or concerns they may have."

Most of the orientation sessions will be held in Ramsey Theater on the WSC campus.

Orientation highlight events include:

- "Kollege Is 4 Kidz, 2!" is a program planned for the siblings of college students. The program features a movie, lunch and carnival.

- "Freshmen/Faculty Fall Feast" is designed for new students and faculty to have an opportunity to meet. Each WSC division will present a display.

- Guest speaker will be Earl Alexander, co-writer of the groundbreaking book "My Dad Has HIV." His book was featured in the Weekly Reader children's newspaper. His presentation for the public is Saturday, Aug. 23, 6:30 p.m. in the Niobrara Room of the Wayne State College Student Center. There will be no admission charge.

Campus acquires improvements

Follow the buzz of machinery and watch for workers. These are the sights and sounds of progress at Wayne State College as fall approaches.

A trail of construction at WSC begins with work at Rice Auditorium. Tracing the College's steps of progress leads to improvements at the Student Center dining area, continues at the former power plant and remains in the demolition stage at Connell. The fall renovation process rises to the rooftops, adds more parking and improved sidewalks in several spots across campus and winds into projects in numerous buildings for Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) improvements to allow increased accessibility for students.

"We look at students as customers. Any improvements we make mean a better value for students' money. These improvements will help everyone in the long run," said Ralph Newell, director of physical plant at Wayne State College.

"We are going through our buildings one by one to increase efficiency. An example of this is increasing cooling efficiency in Bowen Residence Hall, the Student Center and other buildings," Newell said.

Rice Auditorium will be fitted with a new metal roof. The drive and entrance to the lot will be increased in width, as well as a drainage problem corrected. New lockers will be placed in the men's varsity basketball locker room.

The student dining and serving area improvement project, located upstairs in the Student Center, will be complete when college classes start.

The former power plant on campus is being renovated into a new studio arts building. The project, which will be completed this fall, is possible because of the financial contributions through the Wayne State Foundation.

A chilled water pump and piping relocation project was completed between Peterson Fine Arts and Connell Hall. The project replaced trouble-prone pipes and helps with efficiency.

A complete interior transformation is in progress at Connell Hall, the largest academic building on campus. Following demolition, renovations will be made to provide classrooms, computer laboratories and offices for the Wayne State Social Sciences Division.

Roofing projects are happening on six of Wayne State's seven residence halls and Conn Library. Later in the year, Bowen Hall improvements planned include work on the walls, painting and carpeting.

Approximately 50-90 parking spots are being added. Lot #10 expansion began July 22, to be followed by work on Lot #10, Newell said. The Rice lot has been expanded to the west to add more hard surface parking, and Lot #10 has been extended to the south. Several other lots including the motor pool lot have been regraded and improved.

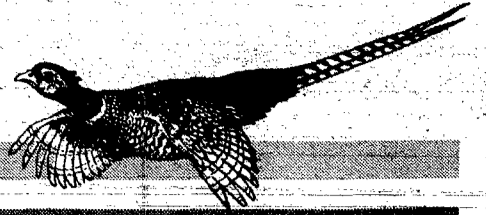

Repair and replacement of sidewalks is being accomplished throughout the campus to improve pedestrian safety. The Hahn parking lot also had its asphalt paving renewed.

Students train across Nebraska

Maria Eaton of Wakefield, a student in the College of Medicine, conducted a rotation with Dr. Benjamin Martin in Pender, Shawn Powell of Wayne, a student in the College of Dentistry, conducted a rotation with Rex Monif DDS in Macy and also a rotation with Jonathan Lake DDS in Winnebago, and Betsy Adkins of Laurel, a Physical Therapy student, conducted a rotation with Kirsten Faessler, PT, in Lexington.

Dr. David Felber of Laurel had Mark Dietrich of Omaha, a student in the College of Medicine, work with him this spring as part of Dietrich's rotation requirements.

University of Nebraska Medical Center students work with health professionals across Nebraska as part of their health-care education requirements at UNMC. Student rotations are part of the UNMC Rural Health Education Network (RHEN), an innovative program developed to help address the shortage of health professionals in rural Nebraska.

The students represent the colleges of medicine, pharmacy, nursing, and the School of Allied Health Professionals.

The purpose of RHEN is to change how and where primary care students at UNMC are educated. RHEN was developed to expose students to a rural health setting with the idea that if students receive their training in a rural area, the chances are much greater that they will return to a rural area once they complete their training.

Working on sidewalks are from left: Jeremy Eschliman, of Ericson, and Wayne Korth of Wayne. Repair and replacement of sidewalks is only one form of improvement underway at Wayne State College to prepare for the start of classes during the final week in August.

5. Students requesting use of a vehicle to drive home for lunch must confer individually with the principal.
6. Parents will be notified of the decision regarding permission to drive home for lunch.
7. Driving downtown eateries for lunch is not allowed.
8. Violation of any of the above guidelines will result in:

  - (b) second violation - 'In School' suspension; letter to parents.
  - (c) third violation - 'Out of School' suspension (three days), letter to parents and loss of parking privileges at school.

Capitol News — Political year proves to be good

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Let me tell you something about the political year 1998. To date, it has been one of the good ones in terms of form: It hasn't been bad in terms of substance, either.

Form has to do with being interesting. Substance has to do with being worthy of interest, beyond entertainment value.

Let me say that I'm among those selfish writers who feel a minor twinge of anxiety when thinking about Congressman Jon Christensen leaving office.

This anxiety hasn't a thing to do with being for or against his political/social philosophy. (With Rep. Christensen, politics and sociology go together like love and marriage. Like in the old song, "You can't have one without the other.")

Others who write and report about newsmakers might feel differently, or they might not admit publicly to sharing my feeling.

My feeling is that I know how prattling Chevy Chase felt on what had to be a pretty tough day for him. Of course, I'm talking about the day that Chevy watched Gerald Ford take his last step off the stairwell of Air Force One.

Remember, President Gerald ("Steady, there, chief!") Ford? He stepped on his own shoeshine about as often as Christensen stepped on his own political future.

You knew the guy was good for a prattler (I'm talking about Ford) in the literal sense, almost as certain as you know the other guy (I'm talking about Christensen) was good for a slip on the old political banana peel.

It seemed that when those guys goofed, they did it on the high board. You couldn't miss it.

I haven't run across anyone, the politically well informed and well-intentioned, or the politically pedantic and potentially censorious, who has doubted Christensen's sincerity. It certainly seems, to critics and comrades, that the guy means what he says — straight from the heart. It's just that what he says scares the bejebers out of some people, while giving hope to others, some of

And while the specifics of Christensen's message always seemed a little fuzzy to me, only a mummy could have missed the guy's drift. (Conservative, as defined by the Gingrich Guide to Government, is good. Others need not apply. Literally.)

The voters rejected him in a big way. But he was compensated to some degree in the knowledge that his followers were louder, if not more numerous, than the combined legions of those supporting the other candidates for the GOP nomination for governor.

And then came Rep. Doug Bereuter. The Congressman has quietly been doing his thing in the House for years, earning recognition as a very bright worker bee who doesn't like spotlights.

So, what happens? With Christensen vanquished, Bereuter steps up and says that some in the Republican Party are injecting too much religion into the party ethic.

Remember, this is a guy who probably would starve if it came to trying his hand as a carnival barker or traveling salesman. His reflections got headlines only because what he said was substance, loaded with enough carefully considered logic to make a brick think. It also had enough intraparty dynamite to make some guy I never heard of compare Bereuter to a political mass murderer and ideological nincompoop whose name I won't dignify with publication.

See what I mean? Regardless of personal views, the above reflects the kind of politics that ought to keep potential voters tuned in.

Now, look at the race for governor. The flip/flop/flip (did I miss one?) of the GOP's Mike Johanns on a constitutional spending lid for government was the stuff that jokes and criticism are made of; but his final decision was also the stuff that makes good politics. He acknowledged he had changed his mind, cited the ever-popular Sen. Bob Kerrey as an example of similar conduct, and went about his business.

Which brings me to another point.

I've been busy lately, but I'm not aware of Johanns saying whether he thought the policy reflected in the proposed lid on government revenues was a good one. I know he thinks the issue itself could tear apart the state. But I still don't know what he thinks of the idea as policy.

And, there you have it. Sooner or later someone is going to ask Johanns, in a public forum, about the policy issue. My prediction is that, whatever he says, Democrats will find it wanting. This situation could give rise to developments of substance. The form it takes could also be as entertaining as it is enlightening, though not on a scale with Ford falling down, or Christensen standing up, next to the incumbent state auditor. The latter event certainly was worth a 1998 political footnote. When Christensen "strutted" his height next to the shorter John Breslow after a debate, it struck me as a juvenile stunt. But, like most folk, I laughed. (In a perfect world: Breslow would then have strutted his own stuff, as the accomplished amateur wrestler he actually is, slapped a hammerlock on Christensen and said: "OK, Mr. Really, Really, TALL GUY! Let's see you get real-ly short and then holler, 'Mickey Rooney is my hero,' three times, real fast!")

Finally, here's one to watch for: Republican Kate Witek is a candidate for State Auditor. Democrat Kandra Hahn is a candidate for State Auditor. If these two go one-on-one in anything resembling a real debate, go to see it. Take your children. Take a camera, too. Such an event, if both women are "on," could be the one most likely to hit "memorable" on the political scale in this election year.

Attorney General Don Stenberg

BACK TO SCHOOL SAFETY

In an effort to maintain a safe environment for children during the upcoming school year, Nebraska Attorney General Don Stenberg today issued a series of recommendations on school safety.

SAFETY TO AND FROM SCHOOL

- Know the routes your children take and have them walk with other children. Be aware of how much time it takes to go to and from school. Do not allow them to take shortcuts that may be dangerous.
- Tell your children to stay away from strangers and strange vehicles.
- Instruct your children to walk on sidewalks. If there are no sidewalks suggest walking in single file on the side of the road. Cross streets at intersections only.
- Direct your children to never accept rides from anyone other than persons you have designated beforehand.
- Inform school officials and day care providers who is authorized to pick up your children.
- Advise your children's principal to notify you immediately if one of your children is absent.
- At the earliest age possible, have your children memorize their full name, phone number and address. Teach them how to use the phone to call home, call 911, and how to make a collect call home.
- Take note of the clothes your children are wearing to school each day so that you could describe what your children are wearing, if necessary.

REPORT SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY

Instruct your children to immediately inform school authorities of any criminal or suspicious activity they may witness. Informing your local police department or school about suspicious incidents may prove helpful in dealing with these situations, and may help resolve a potential problem. If you or your children see any suspicious activity, DIAL 911 immediately.

KNOW YOUR CHILDREN'S FRIENDS

Know the names of your children's friends, where they live and how to reach them. Remember, your children make new friends each school year. Being familiar with your children's friends will help you know where to look for them in the event they fail to come home from school on time. Children should also be taught to keep parents informed about their whereabouts.

SAFETY AT HOME

It is important to have a plan in place for your children to follow if they get home from school and no adult is there. You should have a list of emergency phone numbers available for your child. These should be numbers of people they know and can call either for advice, or during emergencies. You should also have a well-defined list of what your children can and cannot do if they are home alone.

For more information on school safety contact school administrators, your local law enforcement official or the Office of Attorney General Don Stenberg, Consumer Protection Division, 2115 State Capitol, Lincoln, NE, 68509, (402) 471-2682, Consumer Protection Line - 1-800-727-6432.

Chamber continues to be busy organization

The board of directors for Wayne Industries, the local economic development organization, met on Wednesday to finalize plans to have a new industrial site sign. The new sign will replace the current sign located in the industrial area on East Highway 35.

When you see one of the directors, please be sure to thank them for their efforts as they have spent considerable time planning and reviewing options. This project has been an item of major importance to the organization over the past year. The sign will be a wonderful addition to the industrial area.

Chamber Corner By Gaila Gilliland Executive Director

Also on Wednesday morning a group of the Wayne Ambassadors, Bill Claybaugh, Mark Sorensen, Sandra Bartling, Rowan Wiltse and Bob Jordan, traveled to Carroll for the third monthly Ambassador Chamber Coffee. Coffees were held in Laurel and Winside earlier this summer and several more are planned.

The Ambassador Coffees give people from Wayne a chance to visit local business people in surrounding communities. Keep in mind that we who live and work in Northeast Nebraska really are "in this together." For example, while visiting with a leading Carroll businessman, I learned which demographic groups comprise the majority of Carroll's population. Housing becomes a significant issue for smaller communities when those employed by the larger Wayne employers desire to live in a smaller town... and find no available housing stock.

Applications for 1999 Leadership Wayne are now being accepted. Consider sending someone from your business or organization. Contact the Chamber/ Industries office for a brochure or application. The highly successful 1998 Leadership Wayne course is being refined and expanded and will begin in October. Applications are due at the office no later than Sept. 21.

Looking ahead to Thursday, Sept. 17... Chamber Chat will be held at the Chamber/ Industries office with Health Professionals from 7:30 to 9 a.m. Look for your personal invitation to arrive in early September.

As the board begins to plan for 1999, suggestions from the membership if really necessary. Chamber Chat allows several board members to meet with different categories of the membership to hear those suggestions. The Chamber needs to hear from you. Monthly, we address these questions: What is the Chamber doing that is working? What needs fixing? What should the Chamber be doing? Please attend when you are invited; we need your input.

WSC games to be aired

The Wayne State College Athletic Department has awarded the exclusive broadcast rights for its football and men's basketball games to KWPN (FM 108) in West Point.

KWPN, which was a part of the Wildcat Radio Network the past two years, will carry all of the Wildcat football and men's basketball games for the next three years.

Veteran play-by-play announcer Mark Ahmann will be the "Voice of the Wildcats" for both sports during the 1998-99 season.

"KWPN's broadcasting of our football and basketball games achieves one of our major goals as an institution. It is very important for us to cover as much of the northeast Nebraska region as possible with our athletic broadcasts," WSC director of athletics Pete Chapman said.

"The financial arrangement is also very favorable for athletic department. Wayne State athletics greatly appreciates the work KWPN is doing for us, and the support of the advertisers that make this all possible."

"We are also excited to announce that in addition to broadcasting our football and men's basketball games, KWPN will also carry select volleyball and women's basketball games this year," Chapman added.

Chapman also said most of the remaining women's basketball games will be carried by the college's student radio station, KWSC (FM 91.9).

"We attempted to have our women's basketball games carried on a commercial station, but we have been told there is no interest to carry our women's games," Chapman said. "But we will continue to search for a station with in the region which will broadcast them."

Chapman also announced that, with the assistance of the WSC Network Services staff, all Wayne

State games broadcast on the radio will also be aired on the Wayne State Athletic Department's home page.

By logging on to www.wsc.edu, Wildcat fans can listen to the live radio broadcasts from their home computers.

State College Board of Trustees approves WSC and the Northern Sun

The Nebraska State College Board of Trustees has given its approval allowing Wayne State College to join the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference. The board granted its approval at its August meeting.

The board's approval was the final hurdle for the WSC Athletic Department to clear in its 10-year effort to join a conference.

In May, the seven member institutions of the NSIC voted to expand its membership to 10 schools, and invited WSC, Concordia University-St. Paul (Minn.) and the University of Minnesota-Crookston to join the league for the 1999-2000 season.

However, in July, WSC's admission to the conference was moved up a year when it was determined that the schedules could be rearranged well enough to allow the Wildcats to compete for 10 NSIC championships during the 1998-99 season.

"We are extremely pleased to get the last formal step completed in the conference membership matter," WSC director of athletics Pete Chapman said. "Now we can concentrate on getting to work on all that has to be done to get ready to compete in the conference."

Wayne State, which has competed as an NCAA Division II independent since 1988, will compete for NSIC championships in the following sports this athletic year: baseball, softball, men's and women's golf, men's and women's cross country and men's and women's track and field along with men's and women's outdoor track and field.

The Wildcats will still compete as an independent in football, volleyball, women's soccer, men's basketball and women's basketball this season. These sports will begin conference play in 1999-2000.

It just wasn't meant to be

As golf league nears an end I began looking back over the previous 17 weeks of action and noticed a trend that definitely didn't work out in my favor.

For some reason, the majority of my opponent's picked me to have their finest week of league of the season.

Although it happened numerous times, nothing will stand out as much as last week's action.

Opponent: GARY VOLK.

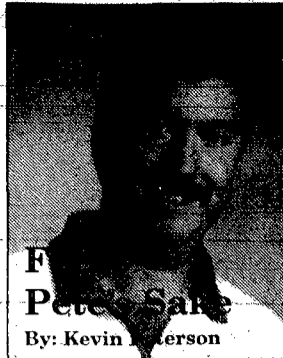

We're playing even up, meaning no one is getting any free strokes for a handicap difference.

Already feeling a little intimidated by that fact alone, we set off to play the back nine with hole 13 the first stop.

Gary took aim and I mean aim from the onset and on the par five 13th he blasted a driver and 4-wood and was left with a 12-inch putt for eagle.

Oh this is going to be a lot of fun I thought to myself as I settled for a meek little par.

Two holes later I thought I saw a

Flicker of Light
 By: Kevin Peterson

flicker of light as I stepped on the proverbial acorn and notched a birdie on 15 to pull with in one stroke of him.

That light, however, proved to be a candle blowing in the wind and the flame burned out on the very next hole as Volk notched his second eagle of the round with an eight-inch putt for a three.

If that wasn't enough, Gary decided I hadn't suffered enough.

On number 10 he hit what anyone would consider a pathetic drive. He complicated that with a direct pull of a 6-iron to put himself about 25-yards left of the green, pin high with a red pin.

He chipped in for birdie.

Not knowing this I was pretty excited since I was about three foot away on the par four hole in two shots.

I should have known something was up when he said go ahead and pick it up. I said thanks and then asked where his ball was.

My C player, Don Goeden said and I will not quote, check the hole. I was afraid too.

At any rate, it was a spectacular round of 34 for Mr. Volk as he prepares to take aim at the club tournament on Sunday.

Speaking of the club tournament. The pairings are in and it appears we need to make some adjustments on those that will make a run for the title.

I said earlier that my favorites included Ken Dahl, Jim Shanks,

Doug Rose and Rob Sweetland and that remains in tact.

However, we need to add a few names of contenders that will be looking to etch their name in Wayne Country Club history.

In fact the following is a list of the pairings in the championship flight: Jerry Denton, Pat Riesberg, Darrel Fuelberth and Mark Ganseborn will tee it up at 10:30 a.m. followed by Dave Diediker, Joel Ankeny, Phil Griess and Mic Daehnke at 10:40.

Gary Volk, Jim Lehmkuhl, Greg McDermott and Jim Lindau hit the fairways at 10:50 with Scott Metzler, Duane Blomenkamp, John Fuelberth and Ted Ellis follow at 11:00.

Clark Cull, Dave Hix, Jason Racely and Marty Summerfield go to the box at 11:10 a.m. with Jason Claussen, Ryan Sturm, Kelly Hansen and Kelly Hammer teeing it up at 11:20.

The final group tees off at 11:30 a.m. with Rob Sweetland, Ken Dahl, Doug Rose and Jim Shanks.

Shanks and Rose head into tournament play with the lowest handicaps at 2.6 and 2.7 respectively.

P.S.—By the way, Gary Volk's teammates in league, Morrie Sandahl and Richard Hitchcock repeatedly told me during Gary's round against me that he really wasn't that good. Where have I heard that before?

Some Medicines Increase Risk of Falls

The risk of falling is one of the hazards associated with aging. Nearly one third of older persons living in their own homes or apartments experience at least one fall each year. According to the AMA Family Medical Guide, deaths from falls, or from complications directly related to falls, account for more than half of all accidental deaths in the elderly. Causes of falls include the loss of muscular strength, loss of balance, slowing of reflexes, poor vision, and certain medicines. In a recent five-year study of nursing home residents, the drugs most often responsible for falls were sedative-hypnotics (sleep medicines) and medicines prescribed for psychotic conditions.

Prevention of falls involves the use of support devices (e.g., canes and guard rails), regular exercise to increase muscle strength, wearing well-fitting shoes, and using non-slip mats inside and alongside bathtubs and shower areas.

RECEIVES UTILITY AWARD

The city of Wakefield received an electric utility award during the annual Wholesale Customers Awards Ceremony on July 23 in Kearney.

Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) presented awards in three categories to its wholesale customers that exhibited top performance during 1997.

Wakefield received the Peak Performer Award in the category of Annual Sales Increase for a municipal utility with less than $1 million in annual sales. The municipal utility enjoyed a 2.3 percent increase in sales during 1997, to capture first place in the category, according to NPPD.

NPPD's Vice President of Wholesale Gary Westphal along with president and CEO Bill Mayben presented the award to Wakefield City Administrator Terry Nicholson. "We commend you for exemplary performance during 1997," Westphal said. "NPPD is proud to be a partner with the city of Wakefield, helping to supply reliable low cost electricity to customers in the Wakefield area."

Awards were presented to 21 wholesale customers, including public power districts and utility systems, throughout Nebraska. Other award categories were Electric Heat Promotion and Economic Development.

NPPD is Nebraska's energy leader, serving an estimated one million residents in the state in all or parts of 91 counties with retail or wholesale electrical power through a 6,200-mile transmission system.

Governed by a popularly-elected Board of Directors, the public utility seeks to enhance the quality of life in Nebraska. Working in partnership with Nebraska's rural power districts, cooperatives, and municipalities, NPPD helps provide the state with electricity rates 22 percent below the national average.

SPECIAL DAYS CELEBRATED

DeNaeyer-Grassmeyer wed

Kris DeNaeyer and Chad Grassmeyer, both of Kearney were married July 25, 1998 at First Christian Church in Kearney.

Pastor Don Bryant officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Mary Ann DeNaeyer of Wayne and Mike and Judy Grassmeyer of Kearney.

Grandmother of the bride are Blanche Nesladek and Olga Nissen (honorary).

Music for the ceremony was provided by pianists Kurt and Eric Runestad of the Twin Cities and vocalists Tara Hull of Durant, Okla. and Lanette Green of Omaha. Musical selections include "The Rose," "I Do" and "Time in a Bottle."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white satin gown with short sleeves and a cut out train. She wore a tiara.

Tara Hull of Durant, Okla., cousin of the bride, was Matron of Honor.

Bridesmaids were Teresa Witkowski of Norfolk, Lanette Green of Omaha and Tina Oborny of Chicago, Ill., friends of the bride.

The women wore long, teal dresses of crepe. They featured over the shoulder sleeves, ivory lace in the front and an ivory bow, and diamond cut-out in the back. The carried single, ivory roses.

The bride's personal attendants were Miki Nichols of Elm Creek and Missy Grassmeyer, sisters of the groom.

This is canning season for tomatoes. Tomatoes can be made into salsa, spaghetti, tomato sauce, juice, ketchup, gazpacho, barbecue sauce, stewed, and more.

When selecting tomatoes to can, pick disease-free, preferably vine-ripened, firm tomatoes. Do not can tomatoes from dead or frost-killed vines.

Green tomatoes are more acidic than ripened fruit. Prepare fruit by washing, removing stems, and trimming bruised or discolored portions. To remove the peel, dip tomatoes in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds until the skins split. Dip into cold water and slip off skins.

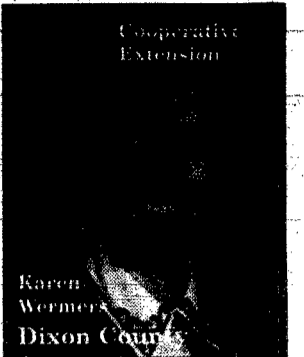

Tomatoes usually are considered an acid food, although some varieties may have pH values above 4.6. To insure proper acidity in tomatoes, add one of the following with product:

Acid	Pint	Quart
Bottled lemon juice	1 T.	2 T.
Citric Acid	1/4 t.	1/2 t.
Vinegar (5% acidity)	2 T.	4 T.

Add sugar to offset the acid flavor if desired. Vinegar may cause an undesirable flavor. Adding acid to overripe tomatoes will not increase the acid level enough to ensure a safe product. Properly acidified tomatoes are acid foods and can be safely processed in a boiling-water canner. Processing tomatoes in a pressure-canner will result in a higher quality product.

Tomatoes can be canned with or without salt. If salt is desired, add 1/2 teaspoon to pints or 1 teaspoon to quarts before processing. Salt substitutes should be added when serving.

Chili Salsa (Hot Tomato-Pepper Sauce)
 5 lbs. tomatoes
 2 lbs. chili peppers (chopped)
 1 lb. onions
 1 cup vinegar
 3 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Range-top method: Cover hot burner, either gas or electric, with heavy wire mesh. Place chilies on burner for several minutes until skin blisters.

Allow peppers to cook. Place in a pan and cover with a damp cloth. This will make peeling the peppers easier. After several minutes, peel each pepper. Cool and slip off skins. Discard seeds and chop peppers.

If desired, leave skins on and grind or coarsely chop peppers. Wash tomatoes and dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skin splits.

Dip in cold water, slip off skins, and remove cores. Coarsely chop tomatoes and combine chopped peppers and remaining ingredients in a large kettle. Bring to a boil. Simmer, uncovered, 2 or 3 hours or until the initial volume is reduced by one-third to one-half.

Stir frequently to avoid burning. Fill jars, leaving 1-inch headspace. Adjust lids and process pints for 20 minutes and quarts for 25 minutes in a pressure canner.

Yield: 9 pints Source: Pennsylvania State University/USDA Please contact your Extension Office of the Dixon County Office at 584-2234 for more safety approved canning recipes as suggested at the beginning of this article. Also, ask of "Salsa Recipes for Canning" from Washington, Oregon, and Idaho for seven different salsa recipes.

There's no place like home

We spent the weekend in Kansas City. Interstate 29 is lush and green, row after row of corn march up and down the field, and the floods of early summer have disappeared.

Even with predictions of 90 degrees this week, it's hard to imagine what is happening in Texas, and in the Dakotas.

Farmers do try to help other farmers. We're famous for that. When Nebraska played football in South Carolina, we were given a round of applause for hay delivered that year.

Last year, the "one good heifer" project sought to replace cows lost in the blizzards and floods.

This week, the Kansas City Star featured a Kansas farmer sending 80 rolled hay bales to Texas. Transportation was by the Baptist Men's Disaster Relief Group. Tears come to my eyes just writing about it.

Rural people are like that. It's why I like working in rural areas.

A week ago, a home care agency in Omaha called with a referral in Avoca. Their nurse on call on Saturday had taken the referral without realizing they did not serve Avoca. I'm betting she didn't even know where Avoca was.

When I called to set up a visit, the patient's wife said, "come as soon as you can. He hasn't checked the crops for a week!" Here's a 70-year-old who had had surgery five days ago and he was going to use his crutches to get into a car so his spouse could drive him around the section.

When I arrived at the modest, comfortable home, there were nine farmer's caps drying on coffee cans. I had to chuckle. Inside, the resident farmer was watching a cattle sale on video.

When questioned about pain pills, he replied he was taking some

The Farm Wit
By: Pat [Name]

because he believed it would hasten the healing.

"If you think it isn't going to hurt, you're fooling yourself. That's something you have to make up your mind to put up with." My kind of patient!

Our guests last week had been born in India. They were visiting friends from the husband's days at UNL. He obviously had found memories and had made some good friends. His comment about Nebraska?

"After football, there isn't much to do! The blizzards are terrible. But the people are wonderful. Like the fellow from North Carolina, he hasn't met a Nebraskan he doesn't like. Hopefully, neither of them ever do."

A thank you note was received in the mail today from the girl whose vehicle would not start on a Sunday morning.

"It's rare to find trusting people anymore, so it does my heart good to know that there are still some left. I guess I just had to look in Nebraska!"

See what I mean?

Irrigation Tour in Madison County

Madison -- To demonstrate recent advances and research recommendations for irrigation systems, five businesses and agencies are cooperating to host an Irrigation Tour in Madison County. It will be held on Thursday, August 20, at 5:30 p.m.

Featured stops are the IBP lagoon and irrigation pumping system with computer controls near Madison, the 12 pivots that use that water, and a nitrogen rate study near Battle Creek. Other topics include irrigation scheduling, rainfall shutoff switches, and sprinkler modifications that keep wheel tracks dry. Farmers will also be discussing their experiences at each stop.

The starting point is the IBP lagoon and pump house, which is 4.2 mi. south of Hwy. 32 or 2 mi. north of the Platte Co. line on Hwy 81, then 1/2 mile west. A bus will be available to carry guests to the other stops. A grilled sandwich supper is planned at a local park. The program will be completed by 8:45 pm.

"Irrigation is important in the success of farming in this area," said Dick DeLoughery, Water Quality Education Coordinator. "This tour is an excellent opportunity for producers to see the IBP system and hear from cooperating farmers. They will also learn more about nitrogen and irrigation management during the tour."

Sponsors include University of Nebraska Extension, Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, Iowa Beef Packers, Inc., Battle Creek Farmers Coop, and Peterson Agri-Sales, Inc.

For more information contact Dick DeLoughery, Water Quality Education Coordinator for Madison Extension and the Lower Elkhorn NRD, at 402-370-4061.
