

Helen Beckman was honored in Lincoln on Oct. 23 after being chosen as the Caring Kind winner.

Beckman wins award

By Clara Oster,
Of the Herald

Helen Beckman, recipient of the Caring Kind award from Providence Medical Center, has many kind words for her employer.

Mrs. Beckman began working at the hospital in July of 1969 when the facility was located in downtown Wayne and served as supervisor in the dietary department for 20 years.

"This has been a very rewarding job. I always felt I had a part in helping people get better," she said.

As supervisor, Mrs. Beckman had to schedule employees, order food and helped with cooking one day a week.

Mrs. Beckman said on a number of occasions she stayed overnight at the hospital when she was scheduled to work and bad weather was predicted.

In 1990, following knee surgery, Mrs. Beckman felt it was time to turn over the supervisor position to a younger person.

"I was not ready to quit so I now work the 6 a.m.-2:30 p.m. shift approximately three days a week," she said.

Mrs. Beckman said that when she began working, she planned to work while her seven children were in school.

"When the kids were in school, there was always the need for extra money and I was going to work just to get the kids through school."

However, Mrs. Beckman felt that working at Providence Medical Center was very rewarding and she has no desire to quit even though her children are now grown and away from home.

"I really enjoy cooking and don't really have a favorite food to cook," she said.

Mrs. Beckman said that through the years she has seen a number of changes in both the dietary end of the hospital and the services offered by Providence Medical Center.

"The rules and regulations are much stricter today. Today, supplies are ordered on the computer. We also now prepare meals for the Senior Center, Meals on Wheels and the Winside Meals on Wheels program," Helen said.

"Also, the hospital now offers many more services than in the past. The more people we have using the hospital, the busier we are in the dietary department."

When Mrs. Beckman is not working at Providence Medical Center, she enjoys going to the Senior Center, gardening and embroidering quilt blocks.

"I stay busy all the time and I really enjoy being with people. My job at Providence Medical Center has allowed me to meet many people through the years. I really can't say enough about how well I have been treated and how much I have enjoyed working at PMC."

Nebraska State Airline Authority, "for the most part, America's airports are funded by those who use them in the form of taxes on aviation fuels and a tax on airline tickets. But America's smaller airports, primarily those without airline service, must scramble to find additional ways to stay open and stay safe."

Two years ago, the Nebraska Unicameral took away the airports' ability to impose small levies for self-support. Now airports must ask their city or county for tax dollars.

Amendment 2 proposes to tax the properties from which the airports receive much of their income. Those costs will be passed on to airport businesses and to the consumers.

Proposed Initiative 413 prohibits local governments from any increase in total tax revenues in excess of that obtained in the prior fiscal year, with exception for inflation and population growth. Airports would still be allowed to accept certain grants but any obligations they incur requiring a pay-back or match would be impossible to accept," Hamilton added.

Wayne to have Harvest Party

Praise Assembly of God Church at 901 Circle Drive (Ninth and Walnut Drive) will host a Harvest Party, an alternative to Halloween and Trick-or-treating, on Saturday, Oct. 31 from 7-9 p.m.

"We believe that the children of Wayne need a safe alternative with a positive message," reports Rev. Mark Steinbach.

"We live in a society where children are exposed to huge amounts of violence and are all too often the victims of it as well. It is our desire to provide a safe place, but more than that, to provide a positive message of love and affirmation," Rev. Steinbach added.

The Harvest Party will consist of a variety of games including mini-golf, balloon popping, go fish, bean-bag toss and many more. Candy prizes will be awarded at each game.

The Harvest Party is open to children through the sixth grade, but no costumes are to be worn to this event.

For more information call 375-3430 or 375-3103. Transportation will be provided for those that request it.

step ahead due to their past awareness. They would like to look at saving as much of the current middle school and not demolishing it. The project could start as early as January.

Rambo and Associates has been involved in 20 school projects with 13 being renovation. They wish to fit in as an owner's representative.

*Among items for discussion was the Elementary School Project. Due to the delay of the boilers being replaced this has worked out well.

Adding insulation to the north walls can now be looked at with the completion of possible air condition systems in conjunction with heating boilers, insulating outside walls and the roof to be completed this summer.

*Dr. Joseph Reinert has contacted Terracom for an environmental survey and told the board they would do a set number of diggings for a fee. Since the project is in such early stages, Reinert told the board he wishes to wait at this time.

*Dr. Reinert also told the board he has contacted Gilmore & Associates for a soil survey but they haven't gotten back to the school, yet. The board offered a suggestion that Dr. Reinert get a hold of Terry Schulz.

*Dr. Reinert told the board he is looking into some air filtering system in the modulars due to mold. These will run approximately $1500 per system.

*The board did decide to hold a special meeting on Friday at noon in Modular 4-B at the Middle School concerning overall construction management.

The next regular scheduled meeting of the Board of Education is Monday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. at the high school.

Voters urged to go to the polls

Tuesday's primary election has a number of issues to be voted on but one thing's for certain. If you don't bother to show up to vote then please don't complain about the outcome.

Of course there are several local races including the race for mayor between incumbent Sheryl Lindau and Randy Pick along with city council spots.

All in all it seems there is plenty to be gained by exercising your constitutional right to vote.

There are however, a couple of initiatives which will have a definite impact on every man, woman and child in the City of Wayne.

There have been a number of television ads endorsing initiatives 413 and 414. The extremely biased commercials speak on all the positives the passing of these two measures will bring.

WE URGE ALL VOTERS TO TAKE CAUTION ON BOTH OF THESE MEASURES!

A passage of 413 would likely force substantial cuts to state government programs, especially in its first year because of the budget which lowered tax rates and used surplus revenue to fund the budget.

413 does not guarantee the lowering of property tax because school districts are likely to grow faster than available state aid. Only the most populous school districts would gain.

Having a former state education association president go on television in favor of 413 is unimpressive at best.

Passage of 414 may well create more cost for Nebraskans than what our friends on television are saying. Sure, AT&T (the biggest supporter for passage of this initiative) wants this to pass because it will take pressure off the corporate giant.

However, those costs have to be made up somewhere and guess where?—By increasing the cost of local telephone service. Passage of the initiative could boost local phone rates as high as $60 per month if not higher.

Please get out and vote and exercise extreme caution on initiatives 413 and 414.

The Census

It was the first day of census, and all through the land each pollster was ready . . . a black book in hand.

He mounted his horse for a long dusty ride, his book and some quills were tucked close by his side.

A long-winding ride down a road barely there, toward the smell of fresh baked bread wafting up through the air.

The woman was tired, with lines on her face and wisps of brown hair she tucked into place. She gave him some water . . . as they sat at the table, and she answered his questions . . . as best she was able. He asked her of children, yes, she had quite a few . . . the oldest was twenty, the youngest not two.

She held up the toddler with cheeks round and red, his sister, she whispered, was napping in bed. She noted each person who lived there with pride, and she felt the faint stirrings of the wee one inside.

He noted the sex, the color, the age, the marks from the quill soon filled up the page.

At number of children, she nodded her head, and saw her lips quiver for the three that were dead. The places of birth she "never forgot" was it Kansas? or Utah? or Oregon? . . . or not? They had come from Scotland, of that she was clear, but she wasn't quite sure just how long they'd been here.

They spoke of employment, of schooling and such, they could read some . . . and write some . . . though really not much. When the questions were answered, his job there was done, so he mounted his horse and rode toward the sun.

We can almost imagine his voice loud and clear, "May God bless you all for another ten years."

Now picture a time warp . . . it's now you and me as we search for the people in our family tree. We squint at the Census and scroll down so slow, as we search for that entry they made long ago.

Could they only imagine on that long ago day, that the entries they made would effect us this way?

If they knew . . . would they wonder at the yearning we feel?, and the searching that makes them so increasingly real? We can hear if we listen the words they impart, through the blood in our veins and the voice in our heart.

Happy ending needed

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press-Association

There is a story that began circulating around and about Broadway, probably within a few days of the opening of the first legitimate theater.

A producer, known to be a pit-symphonious tyrant, despised by all who were unfortunate enough to cross his path, died. The guy didn't have a friend in the world.

Still, several thousand people showed up for his funeral.

A reporter at the scene turned to an agent and said: "How do you figure this? The whole town really hated this guy, but the size of this crowd is incredible."

The agent replied: "It's the old rule, kid. Give the people what they want, and they'll come to see the show every time!"

The trick in politics, as in show business, is to figure out what the people want and then either give it to them, or at least convince them they're going to get it if they will just be patient.

In show biz it's called having the "right story." In politics, it's known as having the right issue. In both cases, a happy ending is highly recommended.

In theater, that usually means the boy gets the girl, the villain is vanquished, the mystery is solved, Lassie comes home. Exceptions have to be delivered in the proper wrapping, i.e., Romeo and Juliet.

In politics, it means the problem is solved. The farmer keeps the land, mom and pop keep the store, the factory doesn't close, the children get fed, grandpa gets the kidney transplant, and (the one that is virtually guaranteed to have 'em standing in line, and then standing in the aisles), the tax problem is solved and fairness reigns!

The latter, of course, is the equivalent of the great American novel: Lots of people try for it, or say they do, but no one has yet accomplished it in the eyes of the masses — of the critics. Your tax relief is my tax burden. My tax relief equates to your philosophical and political nightmare. Whaddya gonna do?

What some of you will do is go to the polls next month. What a good many of you will do, in the eyes of those who have long observed your taste in political issues, is altogether predictable.

Example: If any of the three congressional districts elects a Democrat to the U.S. House of Representatives there will 1) be an immediate and thorough examination of voting machines and an investigation into who had access to ballot boxes and 2) a tremendous surge in tourist spending, because 1,000 of so reporters will beat feet to Nebraska with the urgency of a NASA administrator who has just been shown a picture of a pig that does, in fact, fly.

In short, a substantial portion of audience, uh, voter, reaction to issues and actors, uh, candidates, can be predicted in most states.

Whether or not the political audience (voters) turn out in big crowds, or stay home and "vote" with their silence, can often depend as much on the quality of the issues as it does on the candidates.

With that in mind, my thinking is that Nebraska OUGHT to have a very good turnout at the polls, otherwise known as the political box office, next month.

The governor's race featuring Republican Mike Johanns and Democrat Bill Hoppner should bring you into this theater in the round we call a participatory republic.

Heaven knows, as do Walter Scott and the Nebraska State Education Association, that the issues equate to a plot line with something for everyone — no matter how they feel about taxing and spending and the proper role and authority of state and local governments.

Let me add one thought here, accompanied with the usual reminder that the views expressed here are not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association:

I'm among those who have beaten the drum for citizen awareness of, interest in, and participation in, government. Obviously, elections are included. However, I've come to the conclusion that a message which says: "Vote. No matter what vote," isn't necessarily a good message.

Broadcaster Jeff Greenfield, now with CNN, had the insight and the guts a few years ago to do an essay in which he said, in part: If you haven't paid attention to the issues and candidates, if you haven't given any thought to the ballot issues and their possible impact, if you haven't followed things enough to at least have a gut feeling about the people and issues involved, do the world a favor and stay home! Don't go into the voting booth and start guessing.

Of course, the election isn't until November 3.

My hope is that any of my fellow Nebraskans who aren't currently familiar with the people and things confronting them during this important election season will endeavor to get that way before election day.

Voters often decry a lack of issues in campaigns. Bill Hoppner and Mike Johanns represent issues and a decided choice on how to deal with them.

Initiative 413 represents issues (no one is certain how many) and a potentially enormous change in Nebraska's public policy — for good or ill, depending upon your view. But believe me, it's important. Or, don't believe me. Check on it yourself.

And vote, if you're up to it.

Yes, they are beans

Several Wayne Herald readers have questioned a photo that was in the Oct. 15 edition of the Wayne Herald on whether the photo depicted the harvesting of corn or soybeans. This photo, in fact, was taken as Carol Bauermeister was combining beans. She was using an International 1440 combine with a John Deere 454 bean/sorghum head.

Chamber is planning many upcoming events

As this article goes to print, the Chamber and Industries are deeply involved in preparations for upcoming events.

This Friday, Oct. 30, over 100 high school students are expected to turn out from Wayne, Winside, Wakefield and Laurel for the first Career Awareness Day.

The event is for students in grades 10 through 12. Career Awareness Day provides an opportunity for students to tour three local businesses. Event planners include representatives from WSC, Wayne Industries, and Winside High School.

The Wayne Chicken Show remains a major community accomplishment, and as such, the 1999 Show is being planned.

Chicken Show Board members are Dave Ewing, Paula Schwarten, Karen Shattuck, and Lance Webster. Committee members include, in addition to those four are: Mike Barry, Mike Gillan, George Holm, Marla McCue, Lori Salberg, Shellyn Sands, Mark Ahmann, John Stoll, and Mitch Osten.

Chamber board members, council chairs, and other community leaders were invited to attend the Chamber's annual planning session (Annual Advance) on Oct. 19. Board members attending were Bill Claybaugh, Maribeth Stodola, Dr. Steve Becker, Nancy Braden, Mary Burt, Brad Burge, Nancy Heithold, and Irene Fletcher.

Also attending were Mayor Sheryl Lindau, David Ewing, Past President, Franklin Gilmore, Ag Council Chair, Karen Shattuck, Chicken Show Chair; Alan Stoltenberg, Education Council; Bea Kinslow, Chamber staff; and Connie Keck, WSC Bureau for Community and Economic Development.

The top four goals for 1998 were identified; these goals will form the basis of the Chamber's 1999 Plan of Action. Facilitator Mary Plettner provided copies of the results from the planning session to those in attendance. Others may look at the results by coming to the Chamber office.

As I write this column, it is still not definite there will be a "Wrap It Up in Wayne" Great Cash Giveaway Christmas promotion this year.

Businesses are asked to complete and return the participation form by Oct. 30. The form can be found in either the October Newsletter or the letter businesses received on Oct. 26. We need 55 businesses to operate the program.

The Wayne Herald

Brandon Gunn concentrates on staying ahead of one of his competitors during the boys state cross country meet last Friday. The Wayne boys placed third, the highest in school history.

Wayne harriers capture third place at state meet

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne boys cross country team etched their names in the record books by placing third at the Nebraska State Cross Country Meet last Friday in Kearney.

It was the highest finish by any Wayne boys team in school history. The Blue Devils scored 74 points to place behind Wahoo Neumann with 43 and Elkhorn Mt. Michael with 54.

Neumann, incidentally, thwarted Mt. Michael's attempt to win a fourth consecutive state championship.

Albion placed fourth with 88 points and Pierce, fifth with 91 while Grand Island Central Catholic placed sixth with 99.

Minden finished seventh with 101 points and Wahoo was eighth with 117 while Broken Bow finished ninth with 127 points.

Fairbury (144), Kimball (166) and Gothenburg (178) rounded out the field of teams in order.

Individually, Brian Hochstein led the Blue Devils with an 11th place finish in 17:27 over the 5,000-meter course.

Brent Tietz was 18th in 17:41, while Brandon Gunn placed 22nd in 17:46. Nick Muir was 50th of the 87 runners in 18:27 with Jeff Ensz placing 53rd in 18:30 and Devin Bethune, 59th in 18:50.

"I thought the boys ran a good race," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "We were where we wanted to be after one mile but we split into two groups after that point."

Ruhl said heading into the state meet Wayne was ranked third and that's where they finished. "We proved we deserved that high rating," Ruhl added. "This group ran well as a team and accomplished many goals."

The Wayne girls lone representative at state was Lilly Broders. She finished 34th overall in 17:12 over the 4,000-meter course.

"Lilly had some problems in the second mile," Ruhl said. "She twisted her ankle on a side hill and dropped back from that point on."

Ruhl said the sophomore runner was running about 22nd at the time she twisted her ankle.

"Lilly showed a lot of guts by finishing the race in pain," Ruhl said. "She had a great season, leading our team as the number one runner throughout the year."

Minden won the girls team title with 42 points with Arlington placing runner-up with 54 and Pierce, third with 59. Logan View and Wahoo Neumann rounded out the top five teams.

Wayne sophomore runner Lilly Broders keeps pace during the Class C-1 State Cross Country Meet last Friday in Kearney.

Brian Hochstein attempts to pass another runner on the 5,000-meter Kearney Country Club course. Hochstein placed 11th to lead Wayne.

Laurel-Concord defeats Homer to end season

Tom Luxford's Laurel-Concord football team closed out a tough season with a 44-12 thumping of Homer last Friday night.

The Bears, who finished the year at 2-6 never trailed in the contest which was held at Homer.

Evan Smith rambled four yards to paydirt to start the seven-touchdown attack in the first quarter.

Wyatt Erwin ran 17 yards for a score to give the Bears a 13-6 lead after one quarter of play.

Erwin threw for a pair of scores in the second quarter as he hit Adam Hartung for a 33-yard strike and later connected with Nick Manganaro from 52 yards out.

Evan Smith found the endzone twice in the third quarter with a 20-yard touchdown run and a two-yard scamper as the Bears lead grew to 38-6 after three quarters of play.

Erwin hit Hartung in the fourth quarter, from 37 yards out to account for all of the Bears scoring.

"This was a nice win for our kids," Luxford said. "I thought our defense played extremely hard and made things happen. We suffered no turnovers and we never punted."

Luxford said his offense really clicked to the tune of 474 yards including 279 on the ground and 195 through the air.

"Evan Smith had a great game with three touchdowns and our line which consisted of Greg Kvols, Jeremiah Moore, Brad Hoelsing, Zach Harder and Jon Erwin doing a super job of blocking," Luxford added.

Wyatt Erwin led Laurel-Concord with 115 yards on the ground with Matt Lawyer adding 90 yards and Smith, 59. Erwin was 7-12 in passing for 195 yards and two scores.

Adam Hartung had three receptions for 105 yards with Nick Manganaro netting two catches for 51 yards. Matt Schroeder and Evan Smith each had one catch.

Jeremiah Moore paced the defense with 12 tackles with Zach Harder netting nine. Jon Erwin and Matt Lawyer each had eight stops with Chris Lackas and Evan Smith notching seven each and Shane Kraemer, six.

Blue Devil volleyball team wins regular season finale

Wayne's volleyball team defeated South Sioux City in the regular season finale, Tuesday night in Wayne.

Joyce Hoskins' team improved to 10-13 on the season with a 15-7, 15-7 victory.

Sara-Ellis and Shona Stracke each had six kill spikes to lead the winners with Lindsay Woehler netting two kills.

Liz Campbell was the leading server at 16-16 with one ace while Brooke Parker was 11-11 with one ace while notching 10 set assists.

Leah Dunklau was 8-9 in serving with an ace and Ellis was 6-7. Ellis was also the leader on defense with seven digs while Parker and Woehler had four each with Kallie Krugman netting three.

Wayne football team is blasted by ranked Pierce

The Wayne football team closed out their season in Pierce last week, falling to the third-ranked Bluejays by a 57-12 margin.

The 4-4 Blue Devils finished the year with three consecutive losses after starting the season at 4-1.

Wayne was limited to just 182 total yards of offense while the Bluejays rolled up 431 total yards including 309 on the ground.

The visiting Blue Devils trailed 42-0 at the half as down 51-0 before Tim Zach scored on a one-yard run in the third quarter. Trevor Wright returned a fumble 42 yards in the fourth quarter to record the Blue Devils second touchdown.

"We ran into a good team who played very well," coach John Murtaugh said. "This combined with the fact we struggled contributed to the outcome of the game."

Tim Zach led Wayne with 39 yards rushing while Joel Munson had 31 yards and Josh Murtaugh, 13.

Wayne quarterback Klinton Keller hands the ball of to senior fullback Josh Murtaugh.

Klinton Keller was 7-18 in passing for 132 yards while Robbie Sturm was 2-6 for 20 yards.

Gabe Hammer was the leading receiver with five catches for 103 yards while John Magnuson had two receptions for 18 yards and Ethan Mann, one catch for 21 yards. Tim Zach also had one catch for 10 yards.

Defensively, Wayne was led by Tim Zach with 11 tackles while Trevor Wright had nine stops. Casey Junk and Jesse Rethwisch each had seven tackles and Daria Jensen, six.

Wayne sophomore Danny Roeber returns a kickoff behind his blockers during action in Pierce last Thursday night.

Wayne State falls to 1-7 with 30-2 loss to Eagles

By Louis Johnson
For the Herald

The Wayne State football team was shut down against Chadron State last Saturday in Chadron, with the Wildcats falling to 1-7 on the season with a 30-2 setback.

Chadron State sacked WSC quarterbacks Brandon Lavaley and Jaime Jones a total of 11 times and limited WSC to negative yards rushing, at minus two.

The host Eagles led 17-0 at the half and added two field goals in the third quarter for a 23-0 advantage before WSC broke into the scoring column—with its defense.

Following a Wildcats fumble on the Chadron State 12-yard line, the 'Cats defensive specialists' Craig Price and Greg Davis tackled Chadron State quarterback Trevor Moon in the endzone for a safety.

Despite giving up 30 points, the Wildcats defense played well, giving up just 332 total yards. The three Eagles touchdowns came on drives that started in WSC territory.

"We played very hard," WSC coach Kevin Haslam said. "It was a very intense game and I was very proud of the efforts of our kids. "The game was very physical, probably the most physical game we've played but I was proud of the way our kids didn't quit."

Lavaley started the game at quarterback for WSC and was 11-22 for 112 yards and one interception before leaving the game injured.

Jaime Jones came in and completed 9-20 passes for 112 yards. The ground game was stifled at best for the 'Cats with BJ Helmstadter gaining 16 yards for team tops.

Damon Ruffin caught seven balls for 88 yards to lead the receivers with Desmond Grace catching six passes for 75 yards.

Defensively, WSC was led by Jesse Wavrunek with 15 tackles while Antonio Jackson and Greg Davis had 14 stops each.

The 'Cats will return home to play Northern Sun's leading team, Winona State on Saturday at noon.

The Warriors will enter Wayne with the nation's longest winning streak in Division II at 15 since Northern Colorado was defeated by UNO last Saturday.

Winona State defeated Moorhead State last Saturday, 42-0 in Moorhead as they racked up 500 yards of offense.

"The game will be a great challenge for our defense," Haslam said. "They are very balanced. We're going to have to make the adjustment and try to keep them off balance."

The last time WSC faced Winona State was in 1995 when the Warriors defeated the 'Cats, 36-21.

Wakefield volleyball team downs Winside

The Wakefield volleyball team defeated Winside in regular season action last Thursday, then turned around and defeated the Wildcats again during the first round of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament, Monday night.

Last week in Wakefield the Trojans downed the Wildcats, 15-9, 13-15, 15-12.

Annie Greve and Maggie Brownell teamed up to notch nine kill spikes each with Kristin Eaton netting six kills for the winners.

Lisa Potter had 24 set assists and Kristin Brudigam had 14 set assists while Megan Brown was 8-8 in serving with four aces while Brownell was 13-13.

Eaton also recorded six blocks and Greve, five to lead the defense. "We played aggressively throughout the match," coach Marty Slaughter said. "We just made fewer errors when it counted."

Winside was led by freshman Julie Jacobsen with 16 kill spikes while Jessica Wade had five kills and Shannon Jaeger, four.

Shannon Bowers notched 16 set assists for team tops with Stacy Magwire topping the team in serving at 16-16 with three aces.

Jacobsen also had three serving aces while Bowers was 14-15 and Stacy Wittler, 10-10.

Defensively, Winside was led by Wade's seven blocks while Crystal Jensen had 13 digs.

"We played well enough to win but we didn't finish the match," coach Lisa Schroeder said. "Julie Jacobsen had an outstanding match and our passing was solid and enabled us to get her the ball."

Schroeder said her team needs to develop a killer instinct.

The two teams tangled again in Lewis & Clark Conference tournament action with Wakefield winning a 7-15, 15-8, 15-8.

The Trojans improved to 14-10 with the win while Winside fell to 10-11.

Maggie Brownell slammed 11 kill spikes while Kristin Eaton netted six kills for the winners. Potter finished with 24 set assists and Brudigam, 12 while Annie Greve was 14-16 in serving with two aces and Brownell, 13-14 with one ace.

"It was a solid win for us," Slaughter said. "Defense was the key. In the first and second games we were having a hard time picking up tips but we did a better job in the third game."

Winside was led by Jacobsen with 10 kill spikes on 21-of-22 attacks while Sara Mohr had seven kills and Crystal Jensen and Shannon Jaeger had five kills each.

Jacobsen and Shannon Bowers each had 14 set assists while serving leaders included Jacobsen at 14-15 and Bowers at 8-8 while Stacy Wittler was 8-8 and Stacy Magwire, 7-7.

Defensively, Winside was led by Jessica Wade with five blocks and Mohr with three while Brooke Boelter had a team high of 11 digs.

"Statistically, everything was excellent," Schroeder said. "That just goes to show that intensity and emotion play a great part in earning a win in volleyball. We were a little flat and lacked a leader."

Wakefield lost to Newcastle in the quarterfinal match of the tournament, 14-16, 4-15. Brownell had four kill spikes to lead Wakefield while Eaton had three kills.

Brudigam had five set assists for team tops and Potter was 11-11 in serving with one ace for the Trojans. Annie Greve had seven total blocks to lead the defense and she also led the team in digs with 13.

"We had a chance to put them away in the first game, leading 14-8 but we didn't," Slaughter said. "We just couldn't put anything together in the second game."

Both teams will compete in sub-district play on Tuesday.

Freshman runner is first to win crown

Freshman Andy Tucknott became Wayne State College's first male individual champion in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference after winning the NSIC Men's Cross Country Championship last Saturday at Moorhead State University.

Tucknott, a graduate of Lincoln Southeast High School, clocked 27:01 for five miles and the win. By doing so, Tucknott becomes Wayne State's first individual cross country conference champion since A.D. Benson in 1967, and the first Wayne State freshman to win a cross country conference title since Don Weitzenkamp in 1957.

Both Weitzenkamp and Benson were cross country All-Americans during their careers at Wayne State.

"Andy ran a very smart race," said head coach Brian Kavanaugh. "With about a mile to go, he put on a sustained surge to break away from the chase pack. He ended up winning by 20 seconds."

Senior Jeremy Covey placed eighth overall in 27:58, followed by freshman Jam Bruhn in 15th (28:38), junior Dan Heiman in 23rd (29:40) and freshman Dan Lilienkamp in 27th (30:21).

As a team, the men placed third in the conference with 69 points. The University of Minnesota-Duluth was the men's team champion with 25 points, followed by Moorhead State University with 64. Northern State University was fourth with 74 points.

This was Wayne State's first cross country conference meet since 1979. The sport was dropped from 1980-1988, and Wayne State had been an independent until joining the NSIC this year.

The women ran without their early season top runner, Kara Nikanorov, who is injured.

Junior Marsha Krienke was the top finisher for the Wildcats, clocking a personal best time for 5,000 meters of 20:24. This earned her 14th place.

Next in for the Wildcats was red-shirt freshman Darr Nickerson, who was 29th in 20:55, followed by freshman Jamie Kluthe in 40th place (21:44), freshman Tammy Burnham in 50th (22:48), and sophomore Nikki Done in 59th (24:18).

As a team, the women placed seventh with 160 points. The University of Minnesota-Duluth won with 29 points, followed by a tie between Moorhead State and Northern State with 97 points. Winona State University was fourth with 91 points.

The Wildcats will conclude their season at the NCAA North Central Region National Qualifying Meet Saturday, November 7 at Northern State University.

OCTOBER IS PHYSICAL THERAPY MONTH

FLYING

- Ask the flight attendant for a pillow to use to make a "lumbar roll" for your low back. Put the pillow in the small of your back and see how much more comfortable a plane seat can be.
- Look into replacing your old suitcase with some of the new wheeled luggage to lessen the strain on your back of carrying heavy suitcases, or spend a few extra dollars to have a porter handle your bags.
- Don't be embarrassed to get up and walk around a little during a flight. Your back and legs will thank you when you reach your final destination feeling less stiff and sore.

Eagles beaten by state-rated Homer twice in one week on volleyball court

The Allen volleyball team lost a pair of matches to unbeaten and ranked Homer during the past week while defeating Winnebago during the conference tournament.

Denise Hingst's team fell to Homer in regular season action last Thursday in Allen, 15-12, 4-15, 12-15. "We played a good match," Hingst said. "We tried to focus on our defensive game and our quickness. Our serving was a key factor in keeping our momentum through out our whole match."

"Teresa Marks did an excellent job on defense and Stacey Martinson had a lot of great net play."

Martinson tallied eight kill spikes, three service aces and eight blocks to lead the Eagles.

Shannon Koester had four aces hits, two service aces and four blocks on defense.

Rachel Stallbaum finished with 15 set assists for the Eagles.

Allen downed Winnebago in the first round of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament, 15-1, 15-2 with Martinson and Jessica Bock sharing team honors in kill spikes with two each.

Michelle Marks was 10-10 in serving with four aces while Teresa Marks netted two service aces. Martinson was the leader on defense with three blocks.

The win over Winnebago earned the Eagles another chance to play Homer with Allen falling in straight games, 1-15, 10-15.

"Homer is a great team and you can't make the mistakes we made when you play a team of its caliber," Hingst said.

"Our defense was off and quickness is always a factor. We served well but could never get the offense going. We did not play a good match."

Martinson and Koester each had two kill spikes while Michelle Marks was 8-8 in serving with two aces to lead the serving category.

Trojans fall to 5-3 with Pender loss

Despite dropping its final two games of the regular season, Justin Smith's Wakefield football team qualified for the Class C-2 State Football Playoffs which get underway Thursday, as the Trojans travel to play Plainview, 7-1.

The 5-3 Trojans were defeated in Pender last Friday, 33-13 after giving up 20, second quarter points.

"The second quarter was a killer," Smith said. "We would stop them on first and second down and then give up a big play on third down."

Smith said the host Pendragons got over half of their passing yards on screen passes.

Wakefield trailed the host team, 27-7 at the half with both team scoring once in the second half.

BJ Hansen paced Wakefield with 86 yards rushing with Chad Mackling added 76 and Shaun Hammer, 61.

Hansen was 9-23 through the air for 86 yards with four of those receptions going to Ross Gardner while Mackling caught three balls.

The Trojans racked up 309 total yards of offense. Defensively, Wakefield was led by Matt Benson with 20 total tackles while Chad Mackling had 13 and Tucker Greve, 12.

Wayne State soccer team falls to highly talented Mankato

The Wayne State women's soccer team was handed its worst loss of the season at the hands of Minnesota State—Mankato, 10-0.

Justin Cole's team gave up three goals in the game's first 35 minutes and three more in the final 10 minutes of the first half to the 25th-ranked team in NCAA-Division II.

WSC fell to 5-5 on the season and will play Northern State on Thursday at noon in Wayne.

"Mankato is a very talented team with depth and they simply outplayed us all over the field," Cole said. "It was a combination of that and us not playing well."

Cole said despite his 'Cats youth, they can't use that as an excuse after nine matches.

"We got beat by a better team is what it amounts too," Cole added. "Hopefully, we can use this game as a learning experience."

Cole said he feels that a win over Northern State on Thursday would carry his team into their off-season work.

Coming soon...

The Allen football team ended their season with a 0-8 record last Friday night, falling to Beemer in the finale, 54-6.

The Eagles lone score came in the fourth quarter on a five-yard run by Joe Sullivan.

"We got hurt by the big play," coach Doug Schnack said. "That along with turnovers. It seemed like once we started moving the ball, we would give it back to them."

Schnack credited the play of Micky Oldenkamp and the receiving ability of Ken Rahn.

Oldenkamp rushed for 75 yards while Sullivan gained 42 yards and Adam Gensler, 39 yards.

Oldenkamp was 6-15 for 57 yards with Rahn catching two balls for 24 yards and Sullivan, two catches for 34 yards.

Winside's first half touchdowns came on a 71-yard pass from Adam Hoffman to Ryan Krueger and a one-yard run by Krueger.

Early in the third quarter Winside cut the gap to 22-20 on a 20-yard run by Adam Hoffman but the Wildcats would not score again while Randolph added touchdown runs of two & 10 yards to close the game out at 37-20.

"Our kids played hard," Geier said. "Randolph was just too big & strong up front. I was proud of our effort."

Geier said the team was a little disappointed with a 4-4 record on the year and they felt bad about not making it to the playoffs.

"We'll miss our 10 seniors but we have a good group to build around for next year," Geier added. "I was pleased with the effort of the kids all season as well as my assistant coaches, Terry Warner, Terry Bear and Dan Phelps."

Krueger finished with 89 yards rushing on 14 carries to pace the Wildcats while Adam Hoffman had 62 yards on five attempts.

Hoffman was 2-9 in passing for 97 yards with Krueger catching one pass for 71 yards and Eric Vanosdall the other for 26 yards.

Castle designers

Sixth grade students in Jan Lisika's Language Arts class at the Wayne Middle School recently designed medieval castles in conjunction with the reading of "A Castle in the Attic." The students also discussed medieval history and performed the play "Marvelous Maid Marlan" for the other sixth grade students. The play was complete with costumes from the medieval era and the students announcing the coming of the play as would have been done in that time period.

Black and Gold event at WSC

The second Black and Gold event of the season will be a concert by I Musici de Montreal on Tuesday, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre on the Wayne State College campus.

"We are very fortunate to have this fine orchestra on our campus. Their recordings are spectacular, so it will be wonderful to experience their sound and musicianship in a live setting," said Beverly Soll, coordinator of the Black and Gold series.

I Musici de Montreal's core of 14 artists is directed by cellist Yuli Turovsky. Appearing with I Musici will be internationally acclaimed clarinetist Charles Neidich in a performance of the Copland Clarinet Concerto. Other works on the program include the Senegalese by Joaquin Turina followed by a contemporary work based on traditional Spanish songs by Canadian composer Jose Evangelista. The concert will conclude with Schubert's "Death and the Maiden" quartet as arranged by Gustav Mahler.

Founded in 1983, I Musici de Montreal has recorded 34 compact discs, distributed in 48 countries around the world for Chandos Records. Orchestra members perform over 100 concerts annually. An award winning group, this orchestra has been named "Best Chamber Ensemble of the Year" by the Canadian Council of Music in 1987, and a "Diapason d'Or" for a recording of the Symphony No. 14 by Shostakovich in 1988.

"The Penguin Guide to Compact Discs and Cassettes, 1992," singled out I Musici's CD of Handel's Concerto Grossi for the award of a "Rosette," denoting a recording of "special illumination, magic that places it in a very special class." Most recently, I Musici was awarded "Juno" for the best classical album of 1996 in the large ensemble category for its recording of Concerto - Villa Lobos - Evangelista.

Added to the orchestra's regular activities in Montreal and the surrounding metropolitan region, I Musici tours throughout Canada and abroad, including Europe, Mexico, the United States and Asia. A seven-concert tour in the People's Republic of China and Japan, was completed by the group in March 1997.

Clarinetist Charles Neidich has also toured extensively in the U.S. and in the Soviet Union as well as the Netherlands, Switzerland, Germany, Israel and Japan for recital and concert engagements.

His recent recordings include his own transcriptions of Robert Schumann's "Violin Sonatas" and Romances, the concertos of von Weber, and works by Rossini, Beethoven, and Mozart. In addition to performance, Neidich has a high profile as a teacher and is a member of the artist faculties of the Juilliard School, the Manhattan School of Music, and the State University of New York at Stony Brook, and is visiting professor at the Sibelius Academy in Finland.

Tickets for the concert by I Musici and Charles Neidich may be purchased at the WSC business office, first floor of the Hahn Building, north of the Willow Brook on the WSC campus. Ticket prices are $5 for adults and $3 for high school age or younger.

Seating capacity is limited for this performance. For more information, call (402) 375-2517.

Red Ribbon Week Wayne celebrating campaign

Red Ribbon Week, a national awareness campaign for drug and alcohol prevention, is being celebrated in Wayne.

The Wayne FRIENDS group has taken the lead in publicizing this event in the schools and the community. FRIENDS stands for Facts, Raising Interest, Ending Needless Druggs.

Red Ribbon stickers have been given out in the elementary, middle and high schools and posters and banners have been placed throughout the schools to get the drug-free message out to everyone.

Activities done in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week include recording public service announcements for KTCH, a drug and alcohol quiz question contest with prizes and Wear Red Days in the elementary and middle schools.

Pencils, candy and other prizes were awarded to those who showed their drug-free spirit by wearing red. A Halloween pep with a drug-free message was prepared by middle school FRIENDS members and performed at the elementary school.

FRIENDS is a drug-free youth group for students in grades seventh through 12. It promotes a positive, drug-free lifestyle by sponsoring educational and recreational events for youth. FRIENDS is a peer support system for youth who want to be drug-free and who make a commitment by signing a drug-free pledge.

"FRIENDS thanks everyone who helped make Red Ribbon Week a success and thanks the United Way for its support," said Joan Sudmann, Middle School sponsor.

KWSC-FM to broadcast 'War of the Worlds'

KWSC-FM will be commemorating the 60th anniversary of Orson Welles' CBS broadcast of "War of the Worlds." The Wayne State College campus radio station will be airing an original Wayne State student production of the drama on Thursday, Oct. 29 at 9:15 p.m. The program can be heard on 91.9 FM, or on the Cable TV channel 19 in Wayne.

"The 'War of the Worlds' broadcast will be preceded by a student production of Poe's 'Telltale Heart.' Both of these productions are in stereo, binaural sound (i.e., headphone theater). All acting, directing and producing is done by Wayne State broadcasting students.

To get listeners "in the mood" of Halloween" and the evening broadcasts, KWSC-FM will broadcast 6 hours and 66 minutes of Halloween-rock music beginning Thursday morning, in advance of the dramas.

"We think this will be an exciting performance for our listeners to enjoy," said Dave Ogden, faculty advisor, the campus radio station. He noted the students involved have been preparing for this broadcast since January.

"One of the unusual things about this production is that we've localized it. Sioux City and Northeast Nebraska, not New Jersey, will be invaded by Martians," Ogden said.

Band receives superior

The Wayne High School Blue Devil Marching Band traveled to Lincoln on Oct. 24 to participate in the Nebraska State Bandmasters Association's State Marching Competition.

The competition was held at Beechner Field on the Lincoln High School campus.

The Blue Devil Marching Band received a "Superior" rating and trophy. This is the 10th straight year that the marching band has received a "Superior" rating at all of the marching competitions they have entered.

There were nine marching bands competing in Class B. Only three bands, Syracuse, Wahoo and Wayne, received superior ratings.

"Thanks to all the friends, relatives and parents who followed the band to both the contests and cheered us on. A special thanks to the bus sponsors and the cadet band equipment managers. We couldn't have done it without you," said Band Director Brad Weber. "All your support is appreciated."

Keifer is deployed overseas

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class David Keifer, son of Loren and Shirley Keifer of Laurel, is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and the Arabian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

While deployed, Keifer's ship has conducted strike warfare exercises in the Adriatic Sea, launching 294 sorties in two days.

Keifer's ship also participated in Matador Livex '98, a combined forces exercise.

Keifer's ship received the 1997 Ship's Store Best Sales and Service Award in the Atlantic Fleet. In addition, Keifer and crew members had the opportunity to visit France, Greece, Italy, Spain and Turkey where crew members participated in community relations projects in the host countries.

Carriers, like USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, are forward deployed around the world to maintain a U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis. They serve as a highly visible deterrent to would-be aggressors and, if deterrence fails, offer the most versatile and powerful weapons available.

Keifer is a 1989 graduate of Laurel-Concord Public High School and joined the Navy in September of 1989.

LOOK WHO IS OPPOSED TO AMENDMENT 413

SPECIAL INTERESTS, BUREAUCRATS AND LOBBYISTS...

TAX SPENDERS, NOT TAXPAYERS.

413 is opposed by special interests and bureaucrats who are being paid with your tax dollars.

413 is opposed by leadership of special interest groups whose job is to convince law makers to spend more of your tax dollars.

413 is opposed by most of the 400 registered lobbyists who spend every day in the State Capitol Rotunda trying to convince the Legislature to spend more money on their programs. None of these lobbyists represent Nebraska Taxpayers.

WHO'S LOOKING OUT FOR YOU?

The agenda of opponents of Amendment 413 is more spending, bigger government and higher taxes.

Amendment 413 returns power to the taxpayers and will result in less government and lower taxes.

Halloween party is planned

Seventh and eighth graders from the community will again be gathering for an Open Porch event at Our Savior Center.

Junior high students are invited to come to a Halloween Party from 7-10 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 30. The event will be sponsored by Our Savior Lutheran Church at what was the old library on Main Street.

The party is chaperoned by adults and free to the students. There will be a charge for refreshments.

Costumes for this Halloween party are optional, but welcomed. Throughout the night there will be different games and activities and time to talk and laugh.

Youth will sign in at the door when they arrive at the party. No one will be allowed to leave the building until all participants will be made for those youth who are picked up by their parents and signed out of the door. All activities will be hosted inside the building.

The Our Savior Center was the previous building used for the city library. It's known by people in the congregation as the Front Porch. It is one of the ways that the congregation works to reach out and serve the community. Open Porch events are held periodically throughout the year as a safe gathering place for youth to do something.

Those seeking further information can call Pastor Paul Judson at the church at 375-2899.

Chamber luncheon to be held

Suzanne Landrup, Wise, Manager, Program for Arts and Organizations & Artists, Nebraska Arts Council, will be the guest speaker at the Chamber's November membership luncheon on Wednesday, Nov. 4.

The luncheon will be held at the Women's Club Room in the City Auditorium.

The title of Ms. Landrup Wise's presentation is "The Arts: A Building Block of Nebraska's Future." She will address the important role the arts play in education and economic development.

The lunch is scheduled for 11:45 a.m. Cost is $5 and will be catered by Quality Food Center. The menu will be roast beef, baked potatoes, butter and sour cream corn, pulled salad, peach cobbler, hot tea and water.

Suzanne Landrup Wise manages five support grants to arts organizations and individual artists for exhibitions and supports Nebraska's One Percent for Art in public places program.

Ms. Wise has served as a consultant and contributing author to the Lincoln Arts Council's Public Art member, executive committee, Nebraska Women's Caucus for Art and as a board member of Mary Biopina Ross Film Theatre. In 1998 she received the Outstanding Alumni Achievement Award presented by the UNL College of Fine and Performing Arts Alumni Board of Directors.

Suzanne grew up in Lincoln, is married to Aude J. Wise, attorney for Nebraska Department of Health & Human Services. In addition to attending performances in opera, music, opera and theater, her interests include travel, literature, bird watching, museum exhibitions and attending sporting events.

Reservations for the lunch are required at the Chamber's Industries office by 4 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Winner chosen

Joni Holdorf, left, draws the name of the winner of Morning Shopper Football Contest. Chosen to receive a trip to the Minnesota Vikings-Cincinnati Bengals football game on Nov. 15 was Bill McQuistan of Pender. With Joni is Randy Anderson of Stadium Sports. McQuistan's name was chosen from the weekly winners who had correctly guessed the outcome of area football games.

Just because

Jane Ahmann of Wayne had never gotten to ride on a fire truck. However, that changed recently when her employer, Irene Fletcher of Legends, arranged for Jane to ride on the Wayne Fire Department's 1936 fire engine. Enjoying the ride through Wayne with her are Cap Peterson and Mardelle Wiseman.

In 'Who's Who'

Shona Stracke, daughter of Russ and Sandy Stracke of Wayne, recently received notification from the publishers of Who's Who Among American High School Students that she has been selected to be published in their national publication.

Shona has been involved in National Honor Society, Spanish National Honor Society, W-Club, Spanish Club and the middle school teachers' aid program. Additional high school activities include volleyball, basketball, softball and USBA.

Enrollment numbers at WSC remaining steady

Full-time equivalent (FTE) student numbers at Wayne State College remain stable from 1997 to 1998.

The final FTE numbers have remained at 3,113 WSC students. The FTE figure is calculated by the number of undergraduate student credit hours divided by 15 and the number of graduate student credit hours divided by 12. Fall semester headcount for Wayne State College was officially recorded as 3,835 on the reporting date of Oct. 15.

"Wayne State College is very pleased to be able to report stable enrollment in an era when many institutions have experienced enrollment declines. Current and former students are the best recruiters for the College. We're very proud of the regional reputation that Wayne State College enjoys," said Dr. Ken Halsey, WSC interim president.

"The very low current rate of unemployment in Nebraska translates into employment opportunities that create an alternative to college enrollment for recent high school graduates. National statistics reinforce, however, that increased education and training remain the most direct route to personal and economic success in later years," Halsey said.

Area teachers recognized

Several area teachers have been honored by being selected to the fifth edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1998.

All of the approximately 130,000 teachers honored were selected by their former students.

Those selected include: Stephanie Deanne Peterson, Karla Pippitt, Patsy Lea Reinsoehl and Karen Nielsen Schardt, all of Laurel Concord Schools; Jennifer L. Goos, Wakefield Schools and Coleen Papenhausen, Jeffries and Wakefield Community Schools.

Also, JoAnne M. Benshoof of Wayne Elementary; Randy James Bertolas, Kenneth Glenn Hallgren, Kenneth Dwight Halsey, Cheryl Ann Brummels Meier and Timothy Joseph Sharer of Wayne State College and Dale Donald Hochstein, Judith Hodges Schafer, Lauren Kay Walton and Judith Ann Zobel of Wayne High School.

Paul A. Sok of Winside Public Schools was named to the list also.

Service Unit undergoes evaluation

Education Service Unit One is a multi-county agency serving the schools in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne Counties.

Each year an evaluation of all offered services is undertaken by ESU #1. This evaluation is completed under the direction of the elected Board of ESU #1 and an advisory council, which consists of several area superintendents.

Each of the 12 services offered are individually assessed and evaluated. The evaluation process includes school satisfaction and departmental self-analysis.

Particular emphasis is placed upon ascertaining the appropriateness and quality of the delivery of each service. ESU #1's services include: program supervision, physical therapy, occupational therapy, psychology, speech/language therapy, audiology, transition program, resource teachers, low-vision services, severe/profound handicapped program, behaviorally disordered program, early childhood program, nursing program, staff development program, technology, media services and co-op purchasing.

All ESU's are financed by a combination of property taxes and service contracts. By contracting for services, the local schools determine both the amount and types of services needed.

During the 1997-98 school year, ESU #1 levied 3.8 cents per $100 out of a possible four cents per $100 of valuation for a total of $834,073. The legislated lid for 1998-99 caused a reduction in the levy to 1.93 which will generate only $454,846. This represents a 55 percent reduction in requested property tax.

"Unfortunately, such a large reduction cannot be recovered in efficiencies. The reduction must be regained by offering fewer services to schools and children," said Rodney Garwood, Administrator of ESU #1.

For more information about ESU #1, contact Garwood at (402) 287-2061.

Network initiates Business Retention and Expansion Program

The Nebraska Development Network-Northeast Region will implement a Business Retention and Expansion (BRE) economic development program this month, according to Renee Held of the Nebraska Manufacturing Extension Partnership and project coordinator for the program.

The Network is an informal organization made up of organizations, agencies, and local civic groups involved in community and economic development.

The BRE program will help existing industries within an 11-county area in northeast Nebraska become more competitive and will identify any impediments that discourage local expansion.

Held said existing businesses account for about 40 to 70 percent of all new jobs. Helping established companies increase their competitiveness helps ensure that those firms will stay and expand in the community, thus providing more opportunities in the region.

The Nebraska Development Network-Northeast Region together with the Nebraska Public Power District and Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District is sponsoring the BRE program in Madison, Knox, Wayne, Stanton, Thurston, Dixon, Cedar, Dakota, Antelope, Pierce and Cuming Counties.

The Network received a $25,000 Partnerships for Economic Development grant from the Nebraska Department of Economic Development to implement the program.

In addition to NPPD and NENEDD over 20 BRE Task Force members from area economic development organizations will help carry out the program.

Initially, the volunteers will visit nine local manufacturers in Wayne and Dixon Counties to gather information that can assist in identifying individual business needs, concerns, and suggestions about the local climate for business.

Held emphasized the confidentiality of the information gained from the visits. Nebraska Public Power District's Economic Development Department and Network members will review the results to find solutions to any identified problems.

Their findings will be presented in a report and distributed to the public at a special meeting. "We expect to gain valuable information regarding the local manufacturers' views on doing business in northeast Nebraska," Held said.

New Rheumatoid Arthritis Medicine Type Is Approved

Osteoarthritis is the common form of arthritis that typically occurs with advancing age and is confined to the joints. However, rheumatoid arthritis, or RA, is a systemic disease. It affects 2 million Americans (mostly women), with symptoms beginning between ages 25 and 50. Many researchers believe that RA occurs when the body's immune system attacks healthy tissues, producing pain, inflammation, and deformities. The US Food and Drug Administration recently approved leflunomide (Arava) for RA treatment. Leflunomide blocks overproduction of immune cells, relieving pain, decreasing inflammation, and retarding joint damage. It is the first new RA-fighter type to be approved in more than a decade. Potential serious liver damage and birth defects require that leflunomide be used with extreme caution.

The GOLDEN YEARS
By Patrick Luft

Kenneth Bussey has a thing about $2 bills. A retired editor of medical books, now 74, he started a one-man crusade in the 1980s when a Philadelphia restaurant cashier refused to accept a $2 bill he offered as part of his payment. The cashier had never seen a $2 bill. Ever since that episode, Bussey has gone to his bank each month to get $300 in $2 bills. First, he wore down the restaurant cashier by paying his checks with the uncommon currency. Now he hands over $2 bills to pay for anything from dry cleaning to Lotto tickets. In 10 years he has educated many merchants that $2 bills, first introduced in 1776, are for real.

Presented as a public service to our senior citizens, and the people who care about them.

Theme involves why youth join 4-H clubs

By Amy Malchow

The National 4-H Theme for the past year has been "Are You Into It?"

Many may wonder about the meaning of this slogan, and actually, wonder why 4-Hers are into it? There are several reasons that a 4-H'er may choose to be in the program and discussing a few questions may help others decide that 4-H is a program to be involved in.

1. How does one know if 4-H is for them?

4-H has a lot to offer. There are over 150 FUN projects that a member can explore.

4-H participants learn practical skills such as fitness, meal preparation, rocket building, clothing care, animal and human nutrition, first aid, woodworking, gardening, and many other skills through these projects.

They develop interpersonal skills with peers outside of their normal classroom, they have access to multiple caring adults through which they receive guidance, direction, and feedback.

This feedback also reinforces their parental efforts. Youth also have access to multiple adult role models in addition to parents so that they benefit emotionally, scholastically, and interpersonally. These benefits of the 4-H program are met through participating in various 4-H activities.

4. Who else besides youth are involved in 4-H?

There are over 15,000 volunteers who support the 4-H program in Nebraska. Volunteers support Nebraska 4-H by providing leadership skills in a variety of ways, such as working as club leaders, serving on committees and boards, and coordinating other volunteers.

Another strength of the 4-H program is the effort to involve parents in activities with children. Research shows that family involvement is crucial to the development of healthy youth.

If any of the items discussed help you understand why 108,000 Nebraska youth are into 4-H, please contact your local county extension office to find out ways to be involved in the 4-H program, or visit Nebraska 4-H at www.ianr.unl.edu/4h.

aid, woodworking, gardening, and many other skills through these projects.

An individual may ask someone they know that is already in 4-H about the program and they can always contact the Cooperative Extension Office for more information.

Individuals may also participate in 4-H events like camps or projects days to see if they would like to become more involved in these educational adventures.

2. How old does one need to be to join 4-H?

To join 4-H an individual must be 8 years old by Jan. 1 of the current year. This means that new members for the 1998-99 4-H year need to have had their eighth birthday on or before Dec. 31, 1998.

3. What does 4-H actually stand for?

4-H stands for Head, Heart, Hands, and Health. In 4-H individuals use all of these things to make personal choices. It also assists them in developing decision making skills and clarifying their ideas and values. Hands-on learning is the hallmark of 4-H.

4-H is considered to be a nonfor-

Progress continues on project

Progress continues on the facility expansion project at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne, according to Pastor Martin Russell.

The congregation broke ground on the $2.1 million expansion project in June of 1997. The major element of the expansion project is a 15,562-square-foot addition to the south of the present facility. The addition includes a new sanctuary that will seat approximately 400 worshippers.

The two-story, 3,000-square-foot narthex features two primary entrances from both the east and west that will separate the new sanctuary from the existing structure. The balance of the new addition houses new administrative and multi-purpose areas.

A tentative date of Jan. 17, 1999 has been set for the dedication of the new facility. However, the congregation expects to begin worshipping in the new facility prior to Christmas.

The congregation recently moved into the new administrative office area, which contains functional space for the pastoral staff, secretary and volunteer workers.

Our Savior Lutheran Church received delivery of its new pews this past week. The pews arrived unassembled and were assembled by a representative of the pew manufacturer, Rattigan-Schottler of Beatrice and many volunteers.

"The past couple of weeks have seen many individuals involved in yet more milestone events as our new facility nears completion," said John Vakoc who serves with Marion Arneson as co-chair of the congregation's Building Committee.

Vakoc added, "With the arrival of the new pews, a call went out for volunteers to assist with the unloading, set-up and cleaning of those furnishings. The response was enthusiastic and that work has been accomplished."

Pastor Russell said, "As our facility expansion project moves toward completion, we deeply appreciate the volunteer efforts and gracious support of our members and friends who are ensuring the project's success. We truly have wonderful people at Our Savior!"

Otte Construction, Inc. of Wayne is the general contractor on the building project.

Our Savior Lutheran Church is located at the corner of Fifth and Pearl Streets in Wayne. For more information on the ministries and activities of Our Savior, contact the church office at (402) 375-2895.

Local church members travel to Oklahoma to help with project

Eight members of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne recently reshingled and repaired the roof at the chapel at the Heritage Center of the Cherokee Nation in Tahlequah, Okla.

The members of this servant event completed the project over the weekend of Oct. 16-19. This was the congregation's second mission trip to serve among the people of the Cherokee Nation in 1998.

"The chapel was badly in need of repair," said Pastor Bill Koeber. "It was very satisfying to repair the roof before winter and enable this chapel to be used for many years to come."

Participating in this mission trip from Our Savior were Wallace Anderson, Alan Bruflat, Gene Fletcher, Jack Hausmann, Darrel Heier, Pastor Bill Koeber, LaVern Ostendorf and Rowan Wiltse.

Birthday party held at Centre

Twenty-two friends and family members attended the Wayne Care Centre's Monthly Birthday Party on Oct. 15.

Entertainment was accordion and harmonica music by Ray Petersen and Wayne Gilliland. Cake and ice cream was served by volunteers.

Residents honored at the party were Esther Brudigam, Albert Nelson, LaVern Tietgen, Irene Lutt and Iliith Guy.

Eight Grace Lutheran Ladies visited the Wayne Care Centre on Oct. 20. They presented a program sing-a-long with the residents and served sandwiches and coffee to the residents in the afternoon.

OFFERS SEVENTEEN SERVICES

Educational Service Unit One is a multi-county agency serving the schools in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston, and Wayne Counties.

Each year an evaluation is completed under the direction of the elected board of directors of the elected board of ESU #1.

This evaluation is completed under the direction of the elected board of ESU #1 and an advisory council, which consists of several area superintendents.

Each of the 17 services offered are individually assessed and evaluated. The evaluation process includes school satisfaction and departmental self analysis. Particular emphasis is placed upon ascertaining the appropriateness and quality of the delivery of each service.

ESU #1 services include program supervision, physical therapy, occupational therapy, psychology, transition program, resource teachers, low-vision service, severe/profound handicapped program, behaviorally disordered program, early childhood program, nursing program, staff development program, technology, media services, and co-op purchasing.

All ESU's are financed by a combination of property taxes and service contracts. By contracting for services, the local schools determine both the amount and types of service needed.

During the 1997-98 school year, ESU #1 levies 3.8 cents per hundred of valuation for a total of $834,013. The legislated lid for 1998-99 caused a reduction in the levy to 1.93 cents which will generate only $454,846. This represents a 55 percent reduction in requested property tax. The reduction must be regained by offering fewer services to schools and children.

Each school superintendent has a complete report. If further information is desired, please contact Rodney Garwood at ESU #1, 402-287-2061.

BEST TEACHERS

Two Wakefield Community Schoolteachers are among a select group of American's teachers being honored by their toughest critics, their former students in the 1998 edition of Who's Who Among America's teachers.

Named were Jennifer L. Goos and Coleen Papehause. Mrs. Goos is a business instructor and Mrs. Jeffrey is a vocal music teacher.

All of the nearly 130,000 teachers being honored were selected by former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students or the National Dean's List publications which recognizes five percent of the nation's high school and college students respectively.

Students are requested to nominate teachers who made a difference by helping to shape values, inspire interest in a particular subject and/or challenge to strive for excellence.

'The Farmer's Wife' says Hoppner offers Hope for Nebraska Families

Darrel and Juanita Buschkoetter announce their support for Bill Hoppner for Governor.

We'll let Darrel and Juanita Buschkoetter speak for themselves.

Here's what they said when they announced their support for Bill Hoppner for Governor

"It used to be that we as taxpayers didn't need to know all of the ABCs of the potential tax laws, we just needed to find someone who had the moral strength to represent the common Nebraska taxpayer. And I think we are fortunate to be here today supporting a man who I feel has that moral strength. I really think Bill Hoppner realizes the importance of family farms, of rural education and of rural Nebraskans in general. We're very happy to be supporting him."

Juanita Buschkoetter, Hastings Press Conference, Oct. 14, 1998

"I think it's a very important time right now to realize that the only way we're going to get anything done is to get someone like Bill Hoppner elected as governor of this state. With low commodity prices, there is no way we can survive. In another year or two, a lot of farmers with our size of operations are going to be out of business and our small rural schools are in real big, big trouble. We've got two more years in Lawrence, Nebraska to run our school and if something doesn't change, we're going to close our doors. Then, what? It's something that we really need to make the public aware of. We need somebody in our government to straighten things out and to support the family farmers. When the farmers make money, everyone makes money. When we go broke, the businesses in town go broke. It's time to make some changes. So, that's the reason why we're here today to support Bill."

Darrel Buschkoetter, Hastings Press Conference, Oct. 14, 1998

"I think Bill's roots in rural Nebraska are evident because I think he realizes that it's not only the product, the commodities, that we're producing, but it's the people we are producing as well."

Juanita Buschkoetter, Hastings Press Conference, Oct. 14, 1998

These quotes were not scripted or solicited by the Hoppner for Governor Campaign. They were not edited for this advertisement. They came from their hearts.

Estrogen After Menopause May Prevent Tooth Loss

Estrogen replacement after menopause helps women reduce their risk of developing osteoporosis. Osteoporosis (loss of bone mass) can result in fractures of the hip, vertebrae, and other bones. Estrogen produced by a woman's body throughout her younger years helps keep calcium in the bone, preventing fractures. After menopause, however, when estrogen levels fall significantly, calcium can leave the bones. Replacing estrogen, via a prescription tablet or patch, along with adequate amounts of vitamin D and dietary calcium, helps maintain bone health - preventing fractures.

A study reported in the medical journal Archives of Internal Medicine concludes that estrogen replacement also prevents tooth loss. In a study of almost 4,000 elderly women, toothless and dentures were significantly less common in women who received estrogen therapy.

It was a great game

Another beautiful Saturday afternoon! I'm having a little problem getting the laundry and cleaning done because that Missouri game was so close. We were so thrilled to see Monte Christo do so well. What a great game.

I have a weakness for workshops. If they gave college credits instead of continuing education units, I would have had my degree long ago. In the month of October alone, I've been to three.

The first, psychoneuroimmunology, was not what I expected. I've always been interested in alternative therapies, and the effect of the mind on the immune system is fascinating to me. The speaker did say we are within five years of a cure for Multiple Sclerosis, which will be a God send.

The second, also all day, was on bioethics; something I have also long been interested in. I serve on Tabitha's bioethics committee. The speaker for this one is head of the committee at the University of Chicago hospital and has published a number of articles and books. He and his colleagues have been featured on Dateline. He was compassionate, articulate, experienced and had a great sense of humor. It was very enjoyable and informative.

The third was only three hours, one evening this past week and featured Deforia Lane, a music therapist. I had read her book, "Music & Medicine," and was anxious to hear her in person. She was delightful.

I guess the thing I appreciated most was the hard research she presented. For instance, it has been proven that thirty minutes of music can enhance the immune system. It does need to be a certain kind of music, preferably the listener's favorite.

It has also been proven that classical music causes plants to grow, hens to lay more eggs, and cows to give more milk. As you might imagine, heavy metal and acid rock have the opposite effect.

You've probably already heard that Mozart improves children's intelligence, especially in spatial relations. Mozart's scores and EEG print-outs have similar patterns. In Georgia, they give cassettes of his music to each new born.

utero and played for 403 infants who were crying, they all stopped crying and one third of them fell asleep.

These tapes are used in NICUs nationwide (neonatal intensive care units) and the preemies gain weight faster and are dismissed earlier. Powerful stuff!

Looking over my notes, I could go on and on. But it would take more time than I have today, and more space than I can use. I'll have to tell you the rest next week.

Meantime, get your cassette or CD player out and get more music in your life. It really is good for you and a lot more pleasant than medicine.

Home study course to be offered in Nebraska

Due to the success of the NU Beef Basics home study courses, they will again be offered across Nebraska.

These courses are designed to assist beef producers and farm and ranch managers in making management decisions for improving profitability. They are co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension and the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The deadline to register for any of the four courses is Nov. 13.

Most beef producers, veterinarians and agribusiness people find it difficult to be away from their business for educational programs. These courses allow the participants to sharpen their beef cattle management knowledge without making a large time commitment away from their family and business.

Beef Basics I will offer lessons on cow nutrition, ration formulations and forage analysis. Discussion of forage crops and alfalfa production leads to information on grazing strategies and management. A lesson on feed ration economics will also be included.

Beef Basics II will include lessons on anatomy and physiology, replacement heifer development, reducing calving difficulty and calf losses, and calving management. The session covering basic genetics will explore the combination of genetics and environment.

Another lesson investigates cross breeding programs and breed selection which will allow producers to tailor a cross breeding program to fit their operation. Breeding management, herd health management and managing the herd to fit producer resources rounds out the course.

Beef Basics III will be offered in a similar 4-lesson course and will focus on management strategies, nutritional considerations, ration formulation, implant programs and health programs for the growing calf. Other lessons will emphasize the importance of all phases of weaning management, wintering systems and summer grazing management.

Beef Basics IV titled, "Beef as a Business" discusses goal setting, personnel and family issues, financial and production records, as well as business plans and record keeping systems.

Ranchers, bankers and cooperative extension faculty have teamed up to develop this 10-lesson course.

Those enrolling will be encouraged to answer questions on the weekly quizzes. After returning these assignments to the County Extension Office, the quiz will be graded and returned to the class member.

The enrollment fee includes all educational material plus a three-ring binder to help organize lesson material. Each person completing the lessons and quizzes will receive a certification of completion from the University of Nebraska.

To amend Article VIII, section 1, 1-VIII-1 "The necessary revenue of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be raised by taxation in such manner as the Legislature may direct. Notwithstanding Article I, section 16, Article III, section 18, or Article VIII, section 4, of this Constitution or any other provision of this Constitution to the contrary: (1) Taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all real property and franchises as defined by the Legislature except as otherwise provided in or permitted by this Constitution; (2) tangible personal property, as defined by the Legislature, not exempted by this Constitution or by legislation, shall all be taxed at depreciated cost using the same depreciation method with reasonable class lives, as determined by the Legislature, or shall all be taxed by valuation uniformly and proportionately; (3) the Legislature may provide for a different method of taxing motor vehicles and may also establish a separate class of motor vehicles consisting of those owned and held for resale by motor vehicle dealers which shall be taxed in the manner and to the extent provided by the Legislature and may also establish a separate class for trucks, trailers, semitrailers, truck tractors, or combinations thereof, consisting of those owned by residents and nonresidents of this state, and operating in interstate commerce, and may provide reciprocal and proportionate taxation of such vehicles. THE PROVISIONS OF THIS TAX PROCEEDS FROM MOTOR VEHICLES TAXED IN EACH COUNTY SHALL BE ALLOCATED TO THE COUNTIES, TOWNSHIPS, COUNTY AND THE CITIES, VILLAGES, AND SCHOOL DISTRICTS; AND OTHER GOVERNMENTAL SUBDIVISIONS OF SUCH COUNTY, IN THE SAME PROPORTION THAT THE LEVY OF EACH BEARS TO THE TOTAL LEVY OF THE COUNTY ON TAXABLE PROPERTY; (4) the Legislature may provide that agricultural land and horticultural land, as defined by the Legislature, shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may provide for a different method of taxing agricultural land and horticultural land which results in values that are not uniform and proportionate with all other real property and franchises but which results in values that are uniform and proportionate upon all property within the class of agricultural land and horticultural land; (5) the Legislature may enact laws to provide that the value of land actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use shall for property tax purposes be that value which such land has for agricultural or horticultural use without regard to any value which such land might have for other purposes or uses; (6) the Legislature may prescribe standards and methods for the determination of the value of real property at uniform and proportionate values; (7) in furtherance of the purposes for which such a law of the United States has been adopted, whenever there exists a law of the United States which is intended to protect a specifically designated type, use, user, or owner of property or franchise from discriminatory state or local taxation, such property or franchise shall constitute a separate class of property or franchise under the laws of the State of Nebraska, and such property or franchise may not be taken into consideration in determining whether taxes are levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon any property or franchise, and the Legislature may enact laws which statutorily recognize such class and which tax or exempt from taxation such class of property or franchise in such manner as it determines; and (8) the Legislature may provide that livestock shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may further provide for reciprocal and proportionate taxation of livestock located in this state for only part of a year. If the proposed merger or consolidation of one or more municipalities with one or more counties, the vote shall be tabulated in each municipality in the county or counties separately from the areas of the county or counties outside the boundaries of the municipalities. Any merger or consolidation of local governments may be initiated by petition as provided by law. Annexation shall not be considered a merger or consolidation for purposes of this section. If the Legislature provides for the merger or consolidation of one or more municipalities with one or more counties, the Legislature shall provide for the reversal of the merger or consolidation. No such reversal shall occur without voter approval. The vote shall be tabulated in each municipality which is proposed to be created by the reversal separately from the areas outside the boundaries of the proposed municipalities. In the case of the Chief Justice and each judge of the Supreme Court and each judge of the appellate court, the electorate of the entire state shall vote on the question of approval or rejection. In the case of any Judge of the Supreme Court, other than the Chief Justice, and any judge of the district court or any other court made subject to subsection (1) of this section, the electorate of the district from which such judge was selected shall vote on the question of such approval or rejection.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

PROPOSED INITIATIVE MEASURE 413

A vote "FOR" will create a constitutional limit on government spending by limiting future tax revenue increases by the state and local governments, except under certain circumstances.

A vote "AGAINST" will not create such a constitutional limitation.

Shall the Nebraska Constitution be amended to limit government spending by limiting tax revenue increases by state and local governments? Tax revenue increases would be limited to the rate of inflation, population growth, costs of temporary emergencies, and new unfunded federal mandates. Voters may elect to exceed the limit. Property tax rates on sales and income tax rates would be reduced if projected local or state tax revenues exceed the increase permitted. Taxes above the limit would be returned through reduced tax rates. After five years, the Legislature, by three-fourths vote, and with the Governor's approval, may suspend the limit.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

ARTICLE XIX GOVERNMENT SPENDING LIMIT BY LIMITING TAXATION AND REVENUE

Section 1. LIMIT ON TAXES. This Article shall limit government spending by limiting the amount of tax revenue available for government to spend. Neither the State nor any local government shall enact, make, or allow any tax increase, except as permitted by this Article. The following definitions and provisions shall apply to this Article.

(a) Tax increase means an increase in total tax revenue of the State or local government in excess of total tax revenue of the prior fiscal year of the State or such local government, whether due to legislative action or otherwise, and whether due to a change in tax levy, tax rate, growth in tax base, change in what constitutes the tax base, change in any element of a tax due or tax refund calculation, the enactment of a new tax, the expansion of an existing tax, or otherwise. Such determination shall be made based on the total of all tax revenue of the State or such local government and not the amount of any single type of tax revenue.

(b) Tax revenue means the actual receipts of the State or local government (less overpayments actually refunded to taxpayers) from the imposition by the State or local government of: any property, income, sales, use, franchise or excise tax, or other tax, levy, surcharge, toll, special assessment, or special tax, any government fee or charge (whether imposed directly or indirectly by the government, any payments in lieu of taxes, and any penalty, addition to tax, or interest, on or with respect to any of the foregoing). Tax revenue specifically excludes actual receipts from: federal grants and revenue sharing, contracts and transfers; private grants, gifts and devises; research contracts; customer payments for public utility products and services; unemployment taxes, to the extent such taxes are paid out as unemployment benefits; investment and interest income and gains; student tuition, room, board and fees charged by public educational institutions for products and services rendered; rental and royalty income; payments for public hospital and health care products and services rendered; bond and loan proceeds; fund transfers; payments for public nursing home and extended care products and services rendered; sale of tangible property; litigation awards and settlements in nontax cases; sporting, entertainment, recreational and parks products, services and events; games of chance; lottery or gift enterprise; motor vehicle fuel taxes, motor vehicle registration fees, wheel taxes and motor vehicle license fees; to the extent such taxes and fees are used directly for construction, repairs or maintenance of public highways, streets or roads; aircraft fuel taxes and airport user fees; to the extent such taxes and fees are used for public airports; special assessments or special taxation of property benefited, to the extent imposed within the authority of Article VIII, section 6 of this Constitution or otherwise permitted by law; and taxes pledged or applied to pay off indebtedness incurred pursuant to Article VIII, section 12 of this Constitution relating to substandard or blighted property. State tax revenue distributed to local government is tax revenue of the State and of the recipient local government.

(c) Tax base means the income, deductions, exclusions, property, property values, sales, receipts, use, services, persons, transactions, exemptions, events or other units or means of measurement to which the tax rate, tax levy, charge, surcharge or credits are applied, measured or calculated to determine tax liability; and (d) State means the State of Nebraska. Local government means any Nebraska government entity or governmental subdivision other than the State that receives or spends tax revenues. Governing body means, as to the State, the Legislature, and as to each local government, the body charged with adopting the spending budget for such local government.

Section 2. LIMIT ON TAX INCREASES.

The State or any local government may enact, make, or allow a tax increase for one or more of the following reasons: (a) it is approved by the registered voters of the State or such local government; (b) on account of population growth; (c) on account of inflation; (d) to pay for a temporary emergency; or (e) to pay for an unfunded federal mandate. The following definitions and provisions shall apply to this Article.

(a) Approved by the registered voters means approved by over fifty percent of the registered voters voting on the tax increase proposal at any primary or general election, or at any special election called by the applicable governing body for such purpose, provided as to each type of election the votes cast in favor of such proposal are not less than thirty-five percent of the total votes cast at such election. Any tax increase proposal may be submitted to the registered voters at any primary, general or special election, only if such proposal is first approved by at least three-fifths of the members of the governing body proposing the tax increase and is otherwise approved in the manner in which legislation or an ordinance is enacted by such governing body. The tax increase proposal may be based on estimates and shall contain only the provisions necessary to enact, make or allow such tax increase and to designate the effective date or dates thereof (except a proposal to approve and fund bonds, warrants and other indebtedness relating to such tax increase may also be included if otherwise permitted by law).

(b) Population growth means the cumulative increase after July 1, 1999, in the number of individuals residing in the State or applicable local government, as measured by the United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census (or its successor as determined by the Legislature) data or reports, except that as to local school districts or any other public educational institution that is a local government, population growth shall be determined based on the change in number of full-time equivalent students. Annual changes in population growth may be estimated, and in such a case, the actual population growth and its effect on tax limit levels shall be corrected as provided in Section 3 of this Article. The rate of population change is the percentage change in total population. The rate of such tax increase on account of population growth for any fiscal year shall not exceed the rate of such cumulative population change of the State or such applicable local government occurring from July 1, 1999, to the end of the applicable fiscal year (reduced to the extent any previous population change was actually utilized as the grounds for a permitted tax increase under this Article).

(c) Inflation means the cumulative increase after July 1, 1999, in consumer prices, as measured by the United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics Consumer Price Index - All Urban Consumers (or its successor as determined by the Legislature). Annual changes in inflation may be estimated, and in such a case, the actual inflation and its effect on tax limit levels shall be corrected as provided in Section 3 of this Article. The rate of inflation is the percentage change in such index. The rate of such tax increase on account of inflation for any fiscal year shall not exceed the rate of such cumulative inflation change occurring from July 1, 1999, to the end of the applicable fiscal year (reduced to the extent any previous inflation change was actually utilized as the grounds for a permitted tax increase under this Article).

(d) Temporary emergency means a sudden, generally unexpected occurrence or set of circumstances occurring after July 1, 1999, that demands immediate action in order to protect the public health or safety of Nebraska residents, and it specifically excludes tax revenue shortfalls, economic changes, court or commission orders, and compensation increases to government employees. A temporary emergency exists only if the applicable governing body declares by a vote of at least three-fifths of its members that such an emergency exists and that such body has not previously reserved or budgeted for such an emergency. A temporary emergency declaration expires after three months, but may be renewed for up to three additional three-month increments if such governing body again declares by such a vote that it still exists. Any tax revenue used to pay for specific unreserved, unbudgeted costs incurred solely due to a temporary emergency shall not be part of the tax limit calculations for determining tax increase limits, regardless of when such tax is actually imposed or collected.

(e) Unfunded federal mandate means a United States Government treaty, statute, court case, agency regulation or agency ruling first taking effect after July 1, 1999, which requires the State or applicable local government to provide any new (or expand any existing) public program, product or service, but such mandate shall be considered unfunded only to the extent that the United States Government does not pay to or for the benefit of the State or such local government the cost of such program, product or service. An unfunded federal mandate shall also exist to the extent the United States Government after July 1, 1999, decreases the dollar amount of funding paid to or for the benefit of the State or local government for (or fails to fund increased costs of) a program, product or service that it requires the State or applicable local government to provide, without a corresponding decrease in the cost of a required program, product or service. A program, product or service is considered to be required by the United States Government to the extent federal law so requires or to the extent the receipt of federal funds is conditioned on providing such program, product or service. The amount of unfunded federal mandates may be estimated and corrected as provided in Section 3 of this Article. Any tax revenue used to pay for costs incurred solely due to an unfunded federal mandate shall to such extent not be part of the tax limit calculations for determining tax increase limits, regardless of when such tax is actually imposed or collected. The Legislature may through the enactment of legislation consistent with this Article specify what constitutes an unfunded federal mandate.

Section 3. TAX RATE REDUCTIONS.

When a budget, tax levy or tax rate is to be established or maintained for the State or any local government for a fiscal year or years, the applicable governing body and other bodies shall, during the budget or tax levy or rate setting process, project the tax revenue the State or such local government will receive in such fiscal year or years and take the steps in this section to avoid any tax increase not permitted by this Article. As to local governments, if a tax increase is projected, and if such tax increase exceeds that permitted by this Article, then the body or bodies charged with setting the tax levies or rates for the local government shall reduce or set the property tax levies or rates for such fiscal year or years so that such an unpermitted tax increase does not occur. As to the State, if a tax increase is projected, and if such tax increase exceeds that permitted by this Article, then fifty percent of the projected, unpermitted tax increase shall be avoided by the Legislature by lowering the State sales and use tax rate, effective on or before the following January 1, which shall be lowered in tax rate increments no less than one-tenth of one percentage point, with any remainder reserved in a cash reserve fund to be applied toward future sales and use tax rate reductions when enough is available to reduce the rate another one-tenth of one percentage point, and the remaining fifty percent of the projected, unpermitted tax increase shall be avoided by the Legislature by lowering the income tax primary rate (or such successor rate or rates affecting such taxes dependent on such rate as of January 1, 1999), effective no later than for years beginning on or after the following January 1. At the next session or sessions of such body or bodies when actual tax revenue, tax limit calculation amounts, population growth, inflation, or unfunded federal mandates have been determined or are determinable, the difference between projected or estimated and actual amounts shall be applied to determine and adjust the tax limit calculation amounts of affected fiscal years so as to correct the effect of the difference between projected or estimated and actual amounts in a manner to avoid to the extent reasonably possible a tax increase that would not have been permitted by this Article had the actual amounts been known at the time of the initial budget or tax levy or rate setting process. If such actual amounts show a tax increase not permitted by this Article occurred, then such body or bodies shall treat such amount as an unpermitted tax increase and adjust the tax levies or rates prospectively (in the manner provided in this section) to effectively pay back such unpermitted tax increase. The corrected amounts for the year or years to which they relate shall constitute the amounts to be used thereafter for determining tax limit calculations. Nothing in this Article shall prevent the Legislature from changing the tax laws, repealing taxes, or enacting taxes, except that, no tax law may be legislatively changed if one of the principal purposes of such change (as evidenced by the legislative record of such change) is to avoid an anticipated, unpermitted tax increase in a manner inconsistent with this Article. Any change to the tax laws made on account of a court decision or a change to federal tax law shall not be treated as being inconsistent with this Article. If the Legislature substantially replaces the property, sales, use or income tax with another tax or taxes, it shall apply the levy and rate setting provisions of this section to such new tax or taxes in such manner that is as consistent with this Article as reasonably possible. If the Legislature provides or has provided for a different method of taxing motor vehicles pursuant to Article VIII, section 1, of this Constitution, then it may by legislation provide that part of any local government tax levy or rate reduction under this Article shall be applied to reduce the taxation of such motor vehicles. It is hereby determined that the tax revenue limits and the tax levy and tax rate reduction methods of this Article are rationally related to the legitimate governmental purpose of limiting the taxation of taxpayers subject to such governments' taxing jurisdictions.

Section 4. OPERATING PROVISIONS.

The following operating provisions shall be applied to the interpretation and implementation of this Article: (a) The State and local governments shall keep sufficient books and records to support the grounds for each tax increase authorized under this Article, and such books and records shall be open for public inspection and copying. (b) No legislative or executive action shall be needed to implement this Article, except as otherwise provided herein, but legislative and executive action may be taken to the extent necessary or appropriate to further or better implement this Article. (c) The provisions of this Article shall be applied and enforced notwithstanding, and shall take precedence over, any and all other provisions of this Constitution or other Nebraska laws to the contrary, but this Article shall operate together with any other limitation that results in lower taxation. (d) If the State and any local governments, or if any local governments decide on their own to merge (whether in whole or part, or by function or structure), to share or transfer services, or to otherwise cooperate in the provision of government services, the determination of whether a tax increase occurs shall be based on their combined total tax revenue, allocated in the manner and for the period determined by the Legislature or by agreement of the respective governing bodies. (e) The Auditor of Public Accounts may audit (and set the standards and guidelines for the audit of and review the audits of the State and local governments) to determine compliance with this Article. (f) Except to the extent the State pays the cost, the State may not avoid the impact of this Article by enacting any statutes, regulations or rulings which require a local government to provide any new (or expand any existing) public program, product or service (other than to the extent solely necessary to otherwise comply with the United States Constitution or other laws of the United States Government). If the State uses tax revenue to pay the cost thereof to the local government, this shall be treated as a tax increase of such local government permitted under this Article, and in making the tax limit calculations for a fiscal year, the amount of such tax revenue shall (notwithstanding Section 1 of this Article) not be considered tax revenue of the State for the prior fiscal year. (g) Any taxpayer, as well as the Auditor of Public Accounts, shall have standing to sue, for enforcement of this Article, the State or applicable local government, and the applicable governing body thereof, in any district court of this State wherein such taxpayer or such auditor resides or does business (except a local government may only be sued in a county in which it operates and the State may only be sued in Lancaster County), either singly or on behalf of a class in a class action, and such court shall have jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of this Article and to provide a remedy (either retroactively or prospectively) for violation hereof, except that no court may issue any temporary or permanent restraining order or injunction in such case until the court issues its final order. A plaintiff who is successful shall be reimbursed reasonable attorney's fees and expenses, payable by the State or applicable local government which was the defendant. (h) If any part of this Article is held invalid or unconstitutional, this shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of any remaining provisions, if any part of this Article is determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to contain a subject other than taxation, and that such inclusion in the initiative enacting this Article is prohibited by this Constitution, then such other subject shall be stricken ab initio without affecting the validity or constitutionality of the balance hereof, if any part of this Article violates federal law, then such part shall be construed as being hereby modified (or may be modified by such court) to the extent the court so declares. (i) Nothing in this Article shall prevent the Legislature from changing the means, methods, allocations or amounts of spending tax revenue on aid to or amongst local governments, except that the State may not avoid the impact of this Article by reducing its overall, total spending of tax revenue on aid to local governments proportionately more than it reduces its overall, total spending of tax revenue on other matters or by failing to increase such total spending proportionately less than it increases such total spending on other matters, provided, however, if for whatever reason the State reduces its overall total spending of tax revenue on aid to local governments, then for purposes of the tax increase calculations for the fiscal year of such reduction, the total tax revenue of the prior fiscal year of the State shall be considered reduced by the amount of such reduction of such aid; (j) For the first fiscal year to which this Article applies, the total tax revenue of the prior fiscal year shall be the lesser of such tax revenue of the prior fiscal year or total tax revenue (increased by the permitted tax increases of Section 2 of this Article, using July 1, 1998 as the base referenced therein) of the fiscal year immediately before the prior fiscal year; (k) Nothing in this Article shall be construed to impair the obligation of contracts; (l) If a new local government is created after July 1, 1999, to provide government products or services not being provided by the State or a local government, this Article shall not apply to its first full fiscal year; (m) In determining the tax limit calculations, a local government may elect to consistently allocate delinquent tax revenue to the fiscal year in which it was due; (n) This Article shall be effective for fiscal years beginning on or after July 1, 1999; and (o) At any time after January 1, 2004, the Legislature may pass a legislative bill suspending the operation of this Article, effective for fiscal years beginning on or after a subsequent July 1. The constitutional limitations as to scope of, subject matter of, and procedure for enacting statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to such legislative bill. The operation of this Article will then be thereafter suspended, provided the vote upon final passage of such bill shall be by record vote of each member voting entered upon the journal and the members voting in favor of such suspension are of no less than three-fourths of the Legislature's members. Such suspension shall not become effective unless such legislative bill is signed by the Governor.

PROPOSED BY POPULAR INITIATIVE PROPOSED INITIATIVE MEASURE 414

A vote "FOR" will amend Nebraska Statutes to require the Nebraska Public Service Commission to set access charges imposed by local telephone carriers for access to local telephone networks based upon forward-looking economic costs without implicit subsidies; require that average, aggregate prices charged to consumers for long distance service within the state reflect the reduction in access charges applicable to that service; require that local exchange access be cost-based, competitively neutral, and non-discriminatory, and develop competition in the telephone access service marketplace.

A vote "AGAINST" will not cause Nebraska Statutes to be amended in such a manner.

Shall Nebraska Statutes be amended to direct the Public Service Commission to set access charges imposed by local telephone carriers for access to local telephone networks based upon forward-looking economic costs without implicit subsidies; require that average, aggregate prices charged to consumers for long distance service within the state reflect the reduction in access charges applicable to that service; require that local exchange access be cost-based, competitively neutral, and non-discriminatory; and develop competition in the telephone access service marketplace?

TEXT OF PROPOSED STATUTORY INITIATIVE

A BILL

FOR AN ACT relating to telecommunications; to amend section 75-609, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, and section 86-803, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1997, to provide for regulation of access charges, to harmonize provisions, and to repeal the original sections.

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. Section 75-609, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

75-609. (1) When two or more telephone carriers jointly furnish interexchange service or extended area service, the revenue from such jointly furnished service shall be divided in such manner as may be agreed upon by the carriers furnishing such service. In the event of inability to agree, any one of the carriers jointly furnishing such service may file an application with the commission requesting that the commission enter an order prescribing an equitable division of revenue from such jointly furnished service. The order entered pursuant to such application may be appealed from by any party to the proceeding in the same manner as from other orders of the commission. (2) Except as provided in section 75-609.01, the commission shall regulate access charges imposed by telephone carriers for access to a local exchange network for interexchange services, shall be negotiated by the carriers involved. Any affected interested party, carrier, or subscriber may apply for review of such charges by the commission. Upon such application, and unless otherwise agreed to by all parties thereto, the commission shall, upon proper notice, hold and complete a hearing thereon within sixty days after the filing. The commission may, within sixty days after the close of the hearing, enter an order setting access charges which are fair and reasonable. The commission shall:

(a) Set access charges which eliminate implicit subsidies contained in access charges on the effective date of this act;

(b) Establish access charges which are based upon forward-looking economic costs and not embedded costs;

(c) Develop competition in the access services marketplace;

(d) Adopt, promulgate, and enforce rules and regulations requiring incumbent local exchange carriers to provide access services on a cost-based, competitively neutral, and nondiscriminatory basis. The commission shall establish penalties for noncompliance with the rules and regulations and impose penalties upon third-party complaints or orders by the commission to show cause, followed by notice and appropriate hearing;

(e) Establish and maintain a filing system for tariffs by local exchange carriers providing access to interexchange carriers; and

(f) Require that the average prices in the aggregate for intrastate long-distance service reflect the reduction of access charges applicable to such long-distance services.

(3) For purposes of this section:

(a) Access charges means the charges paid by interexchange carriers to local exchange carriers in order to originate and terminate long-distance calls using local exchange facilities; and

(b) Forward-looking economic costs shall be calculated based upon the use of the most efficient telecommunications technology currently available and the least cost network configuration, given the existing location of the incumbent local exchange carrier's wire centers. The resulting rates for access charges shall include a reasonable rate of return not to exceed twelve percent. The commission shall set an access charge structure for each local exchange carrier but may order discounts where there is not available access of equal type and quality for all interexchange carriers; except that the commission shall not order access charges which would cause the annual revenue to be realized by the local exchange carrier from all interexchange carriers to be less than the annual costs, as determined by the commission based upon evidence received at hearing, incurred or which will be incurred by the local exchange carrier in providing such access services.

Sec. 2. Section 86-803, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1997 is amended to read:

86-803. (1) Telecommunications companies shall not be subject to rate regulation by the commission, except as provided in sections 75-609, 75-609.01, and 86-801 to 86-811 and shall not be subject to provisions as to rates and charges prescribed in Chapter 75, articles 1 and 6, except as otherwise provided in sections 75-609, 75-609.01, and 86-801 to 86-811. In an exchange in which local competition exists, telecommunications companies shall file rate lists for all telecommunications services which shall be effective after ten days' notice to the commission.

(2) In an exchange in which local competition does not exist, telecommunications companies shall file rate lists which, for all telecommunications services, shall be effective after ten days' notice to the commission. In such exchanges, basic local exchange rates may be increased by a telecommunications company only after sixty days' notice to all affected subscribers. Such notice of increase shall include: (a) the reasons for the rate increase; (b) a description of the affected service; (c) an explanation of the right of the subscriber to petition the commission for a public hearing on the rate increase; (d) a list of exchanges which are affected by the proposed rate increase; and (e) the dates, times, and places for the public informational meetings required by this section. A telecommunications company which proposes to increase its basic local exchange rates shall hold at least one public informational meeting in each public service commissioner district as established by section 75-101.01 in which there is an exchange affected by the increase.

(3) Basic local exchange rates increased by any telecommunications company pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall be reviewed by the commission only upon formal complaint signed by (a) five percent of all affected subscribers if the telecommunications company has up to fifty thousand access lines affected by the increase; (b) three percent of all affected subscribers if the telecommunications company has fifty thousand but not more than two hundred fifty thousand access lines affected by the increase; or (c) two percent of all affected subscribers if the telecommunications company has more than two hundred fifty thousand access lines affected by the increase. The complaint shall specifically set forth the particular rate or charge as to which review is requested, the reasons for the requested review, and the relief which the complainants desire. If a proper complaint is presented to the commission within ninety days from the date notice of the rate change was sent to affected subscribers of a telecommunications company that has up to fifty thousand access lines in service or within one hundred twenty days from the date notice of the rate change was sent to affected subscribers of a telecommunications company that has fifty thousand or more access lines in service, the commission shall accept and file the complaint and, upon proper notice, may suspend the rates and charges at issue during the pendency of the proceedings and reinstate the rates and charges previously in effect and shall hold and complete a hearing thereon within ninety days after filing; to determine if the rates as proposed are fair, just, and reasonable. The commission may, within sixty days after close of the hearing, enter an order adjusting the rates and charges at issue, except that the commission shall not set any rate or charge below the actual cost of providing such service which may include a reasonable profit, as established by the evidence received at the hearing. In such order, the commission may order a refund of amounts collected in excess of the rates and charges as approved at the hearing, which may be paid as a credit against billings for future services. In an exchange in which local competition does not exist, a telecommunications company shall not increase its basic local exchange rates without the approval of the commission for six months from the date the commission enters such order. If the complaint is denied, the commission shall enter an order denying the complaint within sixty days after the close of the hearing, and the rates and charges shall be deemed approved for all purposes, including for purposes of appeal. For purposes of this section, actual cost shall also include a ratable portion of administrative expenses and overhead incurred by the telecommunications company in its operations and the appropriate amortization of previously deferred accounting costs.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (2), (3), and (5) of this section, a telecommunications company may at any time file an application with the commission requesting the commission to prescribe fair, just, and reasonable rates for the company or such telecommunications company may elect to proceed, if eligible, under section 75-609.01. Such proceedings shall be governed by Chapter 75, articles 1 and 6, and shall not be limited by subsection (2) of this section. Any rate so set may thereafter be adjusted as provided in subsections (2) and (3) of this section.

(5) In setting rates for interexchange services, telecommunications companies shall continue to average their rates for all such services on a statewide basis unless the commission, upon application and hearing, orders otherwise. This subsection shall not prohibit volume discounts or other discounts based on reasonable business purposes. With regard to interexchange telecommunications services, nothing in sections 86-801 to 86-811 shall preempt or affect any right, liability, cause of action, duty, or obligation arising from any law with regard to unfair business practices or anticompetitive activity.

(6) No telecommunications company shall be required to deaverage its wholesale basic local exchange rates to reflect the differences in the costs of providing basic local exchange service in the various exchanges that the company serves until the retail basic local exchange rates for those exchanges are also deaveraged or until funds are disbursed to that telecommunications company from federal or state universal service or high-cost funds to offset the higher-than-average costs which that company incurs in serving high-cost exchanges.

(7) The commission shall retain quality of service regulation over the services provided by all telecommunications companies and shall investigate and resolve subscriber complaints concerning quality of telecommunications service, subscriber deposits, and disconnection of service. If such complaint cannot be resolved informally, then, upon petition by the subscriber, the commission shall set the matter for hearing in accordance with the commission's rules and regulations for notice and hearing and may by order render its decision granting or denying in whole or in part the subscriber's petition to provide such other relief as is reasonable based on the evidence presented to the commission at the hearing. Any such order of the commission may be enforced against any telecommunications company as provided in sections 75-140 to 75-145 and may be appealed.

(8) In an exchange where local competition does not exist, the commission may, on its own motion, review basic local exchange rates of any telecommunications company if the company has increased such rates by more than ten percent within any consecutive twelve-month period. The commission shall hold and complete a hearing on such rates within ninety days after first giving notice of such hearing to the telecommunications company to determine if the rates as proposed are fair, just, and reasonable. The commission may, within sixty days after close of the hearing, enter an order adjusting the rates and charges at issue, except that the commission shall not set any rate or charge below the actual cost of providing such service, which may include a reasonable profit, as established by the evidence received at the hearing. In such order, the commission may order a refund of amounts collected in excess of the rates and charges as approved at the hearing which may be paid as a credit against billings for future service. If the commission fails to enter any order within sixty days after the close of the hearing, the rates and charges shall be deemed approved for all purposes, including for purposes of appeal. For purposes of this subsection, actual cost shall also include a ratable portion of administrative expenses and overhead incurred by the telecommunications company in its operations, and the appropriate amortization of previously deferred accounting costs.

(9) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section providing procedures governing review of basic local exchange rate increases, when a telecommunications company files a rate list to increase its basic local exchange rates by more than ten percent within any consecutive twelve-month period, the commission shall conduct only the limited review provided in this subsection if (a) such increase, when considered together with all other rate changes which the telecommunications company proposes to implement simultaneously with the basic local exchange rate increase, does not increase the telecommunications company's aggregate annual revenue resulting from such rate changes in this state by more than one percent and (b) the basic local exchange rates specified in the rate list do not exceed the telecommunications company's actual cost of providing basic local exchange service to the affected subscribers. A telecommunications company filing rate lists in accordance with the procedures provided in this subsection shall submit to the commission, with such filing: (i) Documentation to demonstrate that the combined effect of the proposed rate changes, in the aggregate, will not increase such company's annual revenue resulting from such rate changes in this state by more than one percent and (ii) if the commission so requires, documentation to demonstrate that the proposed basic local exchange rates do not exceed such company's actual cost of providing such service to the affected subscribers. The commission shall hold a public hearing to receive evidence concerning the basic local exchange rate increase proposed by the telecommunications company. Unless an extension is granted, such hearing shall be held within sixty days after the date on which the rate list providing for such increase was filed with the commission or, if the commission requires further documentation to be filed with the rate list filing, within sixty days after the date of receipt by the telecommunications company of notice for further documentation from the commission. The commission upon its own motion may grant a one-time, thirty-day extension for the hearing date. If the telecommunications company presents evidence at the hearing that such increase is in accordance with the requirements of this subsection, not more than sixty days after the close of such hearing the commission shall enter an order approving or disapproving the proposed basic local exchange rate increase and, if approved, the revised basic local exchange rates shall become effective upon the entry of such order.

(10) The commission may order that flat rate services shall be available when over measured service is implemented and that for such services the price restrictions prescribed in sections 86-801 to 86-811 shall be retained. Measured service means basic local exchange service, the rate for which is a combination of a flat rate access line charge plus usage charges which may be based upon number of calls, length of call, distance, and time of day.

(11) The commission shall approve the disposition of revenue resulting from decreases in federal or state income taxes or property taxes due to a tax law change that results in a reduction in the tax liability of a telecommunications company of twenty percent or more in any taxable year. Any telecommunications company so affected shall file a plan with the commission proposing the disposition of the revenue at the same time that it files its annual report with the commission. The commission shall schedule a public hearing within thirty days after the filing of the plan or the plan shall be deemed approved.

(12) No telecommunications company may change its basic local exchange rate within ninety days after entry of a final order adjusting such rate pursuant to subsections (4) and (8) of this section.

(13) Any order of the commission entered pursuant to authority granted in sections 86-801 to 86-811 may be appealed by any party to the proceeding in accordance with sections 75-136 to 75-139.

(14) No telecommunications company that obtains at wholesale rates basic local exchange service from another telecommunications company that is available at retail to a specific class of subscribers shall offer such service to a different class of subscribers.

(15) The commission shall not mandate any arrangement that requires interconnecting telecommunications companies to engage in mutual recovery of costs through offsetting of reciprocal obligations. This subsection shall not prohibit telecommunications companies from entering voluntary agreements to engage in such an agreement.

(16) Local competition shall be deemed to exist in an exchange if a telecommunications company files an application with the commission requesting a determination as to whether local competition exists in one or more exchanges specified in the application and the commission enters an order after public notice and a hearing which determines that local competition exists in such exchange or exchanges. The commission may, on its own motion at any time after a determination as to whether local competition exists; reexamine and redetermine the determination after notice and a hearing on the issue. Notwithstanding any other provision of Chapter 86, article 8, the commission may consider any wireless telecommunications services provided in the exchange or exchanges when determining whether local competition exists. The notice of the hearing on the telecommunications company's application shall be given once each week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the affected area and shall state that a determination of local competition may result in the freeing of the telecommunications company from rate regulation by the commission. The notice of the hearing on the commission's motion shall be sent to the telecommunications company by certified mail, return receipt requested, and notice of such hearing shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the exchange area. The hearing on the commission's motion shall be held no sooner than ten days after the receipt of notice to the telecommunications company.

Sec 3 Original section 75-609, Revised Statutes of Nebraska and section 86-803, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1997, are repealed.

Respectfully submitted,

Scott Moore

Secretary of State

ELECTION PREVIEW

EDITOR'S NOTE

Nebraskans will be voting on two initiative petition proposals when they go to the General Election polls on Nov. 3. So that voters can better understand these important proposed changes, the Nebraska Press Association, in cooperation with this newspaper, has prepared a series of reports on these issues. This report deals with the second of the two initiative petition proposals, briefly defining it, explaining its purpose and summarizing the arguments for and against. This is the third report in the series.

A reduction in telephone access charges.

INITIATIVE 414, if passed, would change state law to require that the three largest local telephone companies — US West, Aliant and GTE — reduce the access fees they charge long-distance companies at either end of a long-distance call. The initiative specifically requires the Public Service Commission to set new access charges that will cover costs plus a 12 percent rate of return for the local companies.

SUPPORT: AT&T, a major supporter of the initiative proposal, says Nebraska now has the highest access charges in the nation, averaging almost 16 cents a minute on every in-state long-distance call. Long-distance carriers pass the costs on to consumers, while the high access charges provide a revenue stream to local telephone companies that doesn't show up on their customers' bills. If the commission no longer allowed local companies to subsidize other services through access charges, long-distance carriers' costs would be reduced between $45 million and $65 million. The savings would be required to be passed on to customers. The initiative would hasten efforts, mandated by Congress in 1996, to phase out access subsidies and replace them with a universal service fund to subsidize high-cost rural customers.

OPPOSITION: The initiative likely would increase the cost of local telephone service, particularly in rural areas. Opponents say its passage could boost local phone rates as high as $60 to $80 per month in rural areas, because the measure in and of itself does not require the universal service fund to be in place to subsidize phone service in high-cost areas. Even with the universal service fund in place, local service rates probably will increase from the present basic charge of $16 per month for Nebraska's largest phone companies to somewhere around $18 per month. The savings on long distance may not make up for the increase in local service. Although an AT&T official has pledged to reduce in-state long distance service for residential service, the measure does not guarantee that the long-distance carriers' savings be passed on to residential customers. It's more likely that big business customers will see most of the savings. The Public Service Commission and the Legislature are working to develop a universal service fund and access fees should not be reduced before the universal service fund is in place.

CONGRESSMAN
DOUG BEREUTER:
NEBRASKA
VALUES
and COMMON SENSE

Congressman Doug Bereuter keeps in touch and in tune with the Nebraskans he represents through many "town hall" meetings, in one-on-one discussions, by telephone and through the mail. He strongly shares our Nebraska values and is dedicated to taking Midwest common sense and moral values back to Washington, D.C.

During this Republican-led Congress, Doug Bereuter helped to pass the first balanced Federal Budget in over a generation. He pushed hard successfully for the first broad-based Federal tax cut in 16 years; strongly supported efforts to return education decisions to the states and their school districts; and gave high priority to emergency agricultural aid. While the passage of these measures benefits most Nebraskans, much remains to be done.

Let's keep Doug Bereuter working for us!

SCHOLARSHIP FOUNDATION

Nine members of the Winside Scholarship Foundation met on Oct. 13 for their annual meeting. Foundation president Ken Kollath presided. Carol Jorgensen, treasurer, gave her report and secretary Dianne Jaeger read the minutes of the March meeting.

The Foundation has accepted the custodial responsibility of administering funds for the Virginia Chapin McCain Trust. All applications for this scholarship will be obtained through the Winside School Counselors office.

Section II of Article V "Term of Office" was amended to read a chairman elect will be elected every two years.

Various ideas for fund raisers were discussed. A bake sale will be held on Dec. 14 at the elementary Christmas concert. Also three items will be raffled for a Husker Pillow, A Husker Barbie Doll and a Husker Football.

Tickets will be sold by committee members now through Dec. 14 with winners drawn at the concert. Funds raised will be used for expenses of printing brochures and postage for the Winside Scholarship Foundation.

Committee members will be calling WSF supports for donations of baked goods. Last May the bake sale raised $67 for expenses. Expenses for the foundation are approximately $300 per year.

Lorraine Prince reported on Scholarships awarded this year. There were four $300 scholarships going to Brock Shelton, Nathan Lessman, Kelly Nathan, and Maria Miller. Mandy Topp was selected as an alternate. There were three $200 alumni scholarships made this year to John Holtgrew, Kay Damme, and Emily Deck. Scott Stenwall also received funds as an alternate from last year.

Scholarships are awarded each year at graduation in May. There were nine applications from last years graduates and six applications from alumni graduates. The amount and number of scholarships awarded each year is determined by the amount of interest earned on the principal of the Foundation.

Therefore, the more you give to the Foundation, the more scholarships available to Winside High School graduates.

The organization was founded in 1990 and awarded one scholarship the first year. A total of 25 graduates have received funds to further their education since that date and nine alumni graduates have received scholarships since that program was implemented in 1994.

The next meeting of the Winside Scholarship Foundation will be in March of 1999.

Proper car care —

Do you know the facts?

Do you think of your car as an investment? It is. In fact, for many Americans, their vehicle is the second biggest investment they will make in a lifetime. In conjunction with National Car Care Month, the International Carwash Association offers the answers to some of the most common questions about car appearance care to help you maintain the value of your second biggest investment.

Question: Isn't rain a natural, cost-effective car wash?

Answer: No! Rain and snow contain dirt and pollutants from the air (commonly referred to as acid rain) and it can eat away at the finish on your car. After acid rain falls on your vehicle, the water evaporates, leaving a film of acid. Concentrated by sunlight, this acid can become so strong that it will "eat" through your car's finish, ruining the vehicle's paint and appearance.

Question: If my car has a high gloss clear coat finish, do I still need to wax it?

Answer: Yes. Most new cars have a clear coat finish which can be easily damaged by acid rain. Even with minimal time outdoors, any clear coat finish will begin to deteriorate after two years. The sun's ultraviolet (UV) rays, salt and road wear also damage cars. Wax is an effective and efficient way to shine and protect your vehicle's finish. It is recommended that a car receive a professional hand wax twice a year, along with a professional car wash once a week.

Question: Isn't a hand wash in my driveway better for my car and safer for the environment?

Answer: No. Dirt that collects in wash water, sponges and chamois with scratch your vehicle's finish. The technology used today in a professional car wash will not scratch or create "swirl" marks on your car. Not only is a professional wash safer for your car, professional washes use only half as much water than a driveway wash and use biodegradable cleaning solutions to further protect the environment. Also, professional car washes are required to appropriately dispose of used, dirty water -- not send it down a storm drain like you do in your driveway.

Question: What kind of car wash will do a good job cleaning my car?

Answer: Any professional car wash -- full or self-service -- can effectively clean a car without damage. There are several types of professional car washes using variations of touchless, semitouchless, cloth or brush methods of cleaning. In any of these operations, high-pressure water and cleaning solutions are used to remove dirt and other potentially damaging particles from the finish, wheel wells and under carriage of your vehicle. A final fresh water rinse leaves you car spot free. Blowers or drying towels will remove excess water from the car.

Question: What if I don't have the time or money to wash and wax my car regularly?

Answer: To maintain the value of your vehicle, you can't afford not to professionally maintain the appearance of your car. And if you compare a professional car wash to a driveway wash -- factoring in cleaners, waxes and water use -- you will find that a professional car wash is not significantly more expensive that washed it yourself -- and most professional car washes take less than half of the time of the typical driveway wash.

Basic Car Care Tips for Optimum Car Appearance:

- * Wash your car once a week at a professional car wash.
- * Always wash your car after a rain or snow to remove acid rain and road salt.
- * Wax your car every six months. More frequent waxes may be needed if you live in a sunny climate or own a red, black or white car, as these colors are more susceptible to UV rays and need greater protection from the sun. (Don't forget to wash after a day at the beach! Sea salt is also hard on your car.)
- * Go to a car wash that is professionally managed, clean, well lit and displays their International Carwash Association member decal.

The International Carwash Association (ICA) represents 3,000 professional carwash and detail operators, operating over 25,000 car wash shops, as well as car care manufacturers, distributors and suppliers from around the world.

Investment that returns 500%

How long does it take to gas up your car? Less than 90 seconds for a 12-gallon fill-up at the new pumps that do the credit card routine automatically. You can gas-up and be on your way in 3 minutes or less. Technology has moved even further from the traditional full-service station where an attendant cleaned the windshield and offered to check oil, belts and tires.

This is one reason 86% failed inspection during National Car Care Month last year. The most common discrepancy was underinflated tires, accounting for one out of three failures. For motorists driving with low tire pressure, the purchase of a tire gauge could produce a 500% return on their investment.

"Underinflated tires can cost a motorist one or two miles per gallon," says Don Midgley, President of the Car Care Council, sponsors of National Car Care Month. "The Department of Energy tells us that if all tires were properly inflated about 4 million gallons of gas could be saved every day. Unfortunately, most people don't own a tire gauge. In fact, you may not even find an air hose or tire gauge when you buy your gas. So, unless the owner has a relative or friend who owns a tire gauge and air pump, he may find his way to a tire store or repair facility to get it done. It's something else to put off for another day.

Will your car out live its engine?

Cars are lasting longer, much longer. It's not unusual, with proper preventive maintenance, for a vehicle to run 200,000 miles or more having needed no major repairs. The first big expense often is the engine, which may begin burning oil, clattering or losing power. Temporary measures can delay the need for major work, but eventually overhauling the engine or installing a remanufactured replacement is necessary if the owner intends to keep the vehicle. The latter, a quality "reman", is an increasingly popular option.

The costly process of getting into an engine for valve, piston or bearing service often makes it more practical to have the old engine replaced with a factory remanufactured and warranted engine, says the Car Care Council. A valve job, for example, can cost $1,200 or, on some models, even more.

How does an owner determine the extent of repairs needed? The first indications are high emissions, oil consumption, noisy operation and poor performance. These clues usually lead to a consultation with a professional. An experienced technician's procedure may involve either the "old fashioned" compression check, cylinder by cylinder or, electronically, with an engine analyzer.

If the engine needs valve work, piston rings and/or other internal parts, a remanufactured engine may be the answer. Under controlled, factory conditions, it will have been restored to original equipment specifications. Further, thanks to improvements added by the remanufacturer, it can be better than a new engine of the same type.

Among new components in a quality remanufactured engine are piston and pins, piston rings, connecting rod, main and camshaft bearings, the timing gear and chain, valve lifters, oil pump, gaskets and seals, freeze plugs and pushrods.

Valves, springs and guides, along with crankshaft and connecting rods are either remanufactured or replaced. Cylinder heads are cleaned and resurfaced, cylinders are bored and valve seats are resurfaced.

Twenty-seven percent of vehicles were found to have low or dirty engine oil; 24% had dirty air filters, both of which affect engine life and/or performance, according to Midgley. "None of these three checks are difficult to do. But for people who are reluctant to probe around under the hood or use a tire gauge, there are plenty of service facilities who will do so."

To encourage better maintenance, the Council offers free literature on the subject. Send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized, envelope to Car Care Council, Department SRE8-UM, 42 Park Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452. # Tips on car repair Owning a car can mean trouble if you are not prepared to handle inevitable mishaps and repairs. It takes preventative maintenance, planning, and know-how to avoid, or deal with, problems when your car needs repairs.

Avoiding Car Repairs

There are several things you can do to save significant amount of time and money over the lifetime of your car, as well as prolong its life.

- Read the owner's manual. Manuals contain useful information about how to keep your car running properly. Look for information such as: the type and weight of oil to use in various seasons; proper maintenance intervals; and the maximum load your car can carry or tow. If your car has a manual transmission, find out the proper shift points for maximum engine life; they are usually the same as described for maximum fuel efficiency.

- Read your manual's warranty information section. Following these directions will allow you the full warranty duration provided. Also, the warranty requirements are a good maintenance schedule to adhere to, even after the warranty has expired.

- Change your car's oils regularly. One of the quickest ways to ruin a car's engine is to not change its oil, or worse, letting the oil level drop too low. Change your car's oil every 3,000 to 5,000 miles, or sooner if you do a lot of driving in the city, in a dusty environment, or if you routinely carry a heavy load or tow a trailer.

- Have the oil changed at a dealership, service station, quick-oil-change or repair facility. Most service stations include a "lube job" along with an oil change, as well as inspect other critical fluid levels in your car. Many new cars, however, do not need traditional lubrication since their parts are permanently lubricated and sealed.

- If you are inclined to, you can even learn how to change your car's oil and filter on your own. Many service stations will accept the properly disposed of used oil.

Servicing Your Car

Despite the best maintenance, problems may occur with any mechanical device as complex as a car. If your car needs service, first check the owner's manual. Unusual noises that may at first sound expensive to fix may be perfectly normal, or an easy problem to correct.

If you cannot fix the problem yourself, find a reputable repair shop to do the job. There are many factors involved in finding the right place to take your car for repair, but the search can be simplified if you know what you need.

If your car is still under warranty, you may not have many options. Usually, repair work covered by the warranty on new cars must be performed by a mechanic or an automotive service technician certified by the manufacturer. Often, the manufacturer will specify that warranty work must be preformed at a dealer's service center.

However, the warranty work may not have to be preformed where you purchased your car. Read your warranty carefully to determine what procedures must be followed if you are to be reimbursed for the repair cost. If in doubt, ask questions at the dealership where you bought your car.

If your warranty has expired, you are free to shop around for a reputable shop which will perform competent repair work on your car at a competitive cost.

uncanny ability to compensate for a minor problem, while making it appear to the untrained eye as if several other problems have suddenly cropped up. Tracking down these types of engine problems by guesswork alone can be expensive.

At The Shop

If your car must be towed to a shop, request a flatbed tow truck to lessen the chance of damaging the car. After your car has arrived at the shop, inspect the vehicle thoroughly to make sure it has not been damaged in transit. Automotive service clubs may provide free or reduced-rate towing. Also, check your automobile insurance policy for towing coverage.

While at the shop, allow the service technician to perform a diagnosis, unless you are trained to auto repair and know exactly what the problem with your car may be. Describe your car's symptoms to the service advisor writing up your repair order, and make sure he or she writes down everything you want checked. For example, if your car's response seems sluggish, make sure the symptom's description is written on the repair order.

Next, obtain an estimate. Make sure the service advisor notes on the repair order form to have the shop call you with an estimate of repair costs before any work is done. Some locales require owner authorization of repairs and/or notification if the job exceeds the estimate, and the return of any replaced parts. Find out your rights under the laws in your locale.

Getting A Second Opinion

If your car still runs, you have the option of getting a second opinion from another mechanic. If you receive the same advice from both shops, you can feel more confident about the exact nature of the problem and the likely repair job. However, if the second shop says something radically different, tell the mechanic what the other shop found--there may be an explanation for the discrepancy.

Another option is to take your car to an independent diagnostic center. For a fee, these shops will examine your car and tell you about any problems they find.

Traveling With Your Car

Preparing your car for travel is very important. Make sure your car is ready for the trip by checking all vital fluids such as the oil and coolant, and by visually inspecting your car for anything that looks out of place. It is always a good idea to double-check the coolant there.

Many engine computers have the

Timely tire tips given from the car care council

Two items often missing from a car's glove compartment are basic ownership tools: the owner's manual and a tire gauge. One has been described as the most widely published and least read of all American literature. The tire gauge, more familiar to most motorists, seldom is found among the lipsticks, credit card stubs and sunglasses generally found in a (so called) glove compartment.

As emphasized in the Car Care Council's illustrated pamphlet on tires, "if you don't own a tire gauge, put it at the top of your 'must buy' list. This inexpensive device measures the air pressure in the tire and, when used regularly, can save its cost hundreds of times over. Underinflated tires wear more rapidly at the outer edges; overinflated tires wear at the center of the tread.

In addition to extending tire life, proper inflation helps save fuel. An underinflated tire consumed more energy due to its rolling resistance. It also hampers steering and stability on the road.

Another gauge owned by the more conscientious vehicle owners is a tread depth gauge. As the term implies, it is used to measure the depth of the groove in tire's tread. When that measurement is less than 2/32" it is time to replace that tire. Worn tread leads to hydroplaning on rain covered roads, a phenomenon where the tire actually loses contact with the road surface. It feels like driving on ice.

Incorrect tire inflation and excessive wear are two of the leading causes for failure in vehicle check lanes.

Tips

hoses and all belts on your car. Failures of these items are among the most common reasons that cars break down, but unfortunately, they are inexpensive to replace.

Also, check your car's battery for signs of corrosion or cracks. If the battery is the "self-diagnosing" type with an indicator, make sure it is fully charged. An older, weak battery may fail without much warning. If your battery has cracks, the fluid could leak from one or more cells, rendering it too weak to start your car.

If you are taking an extended trip, or if your car has not been serviced recently, you should have it checked by a reputable mechanic before leaving. A good mechanic can usually spot problems in advance, and advise you on how long you can delay a repair, and what the consequences of not immediately repairing your car may be.

Out-Of-Town Emergency Repairs

Despite the best maintenance and pre-trip inspections, cars can still unexpectedly break down when you are on the road. Being a member of an automotive club helps in such situations. Having a cellular phone or a CB can also help in an emergency. If your car breaks down in a remote location, you can call for assistance without having to walk several miles to find a phone.

CB channel 9 is reserved exclusively for this purpose; almost all local and state police agencies monitor it. On a cellular phone, the emergency number is usually 911. Some locations, however, may have different codes for roadside emergency assistance. When 911 is not used for this purpose, there are usually roadside signs with the emergency number.

To avoid unnecessary costs and speed-up your repair time, follow these guidelines:

- Practice Safety: Do not work on your car or wait in an unsafe place. Pull your car off the road, preferably into a parking lot. Many people are injured while waiting in their cars, or trying to repair them along the side of the road. If you cannot mover your car, get yourself off to the side of the road to call for help.

- Check the Battery: If your car will not re-start, the battery may be the problem. If it is not a zero-maintenance (sealed) type battery, check the water level in each of the cells (there are usually 6 of them). A low or empty cell can make a substantial difference in starting power. Of course, if the cell is empty because the battery case is leaky, you may need a new battery right away.

However, by filling the battery you may be able to start your car and drive it to a service station, avoiding tow charges. It is best to use distilled water to refill battery cells, although clean tap water will do if distilled water is not available.

Temporary vs. Major Repair: Ask the mechanic if he or she can do a temporary repair. You may be able to have your car fixed enough to "get you home," rather than completely cure the problem immediately.

If a major repair is needed, sometimes it is possible to prolong it long enough to get home. It is best to avoid major repairs while away from home; if something goes wrong, it may not be feasible to drive back to where your car was repaired to ask the mechanic to correct a problem.

Try to have major repairs done reasonably close to home, at a shop you know and trust. However, do not put off repairs that must be done immediately. If prolonging the repair risks leaving you stranded again on the way home, or poses a safety problem, you may have no other choice but to have the car fixed.

Sometimes delaying a repair can cause much more serious damage. Always ask about the consequences. If your car is still running, you may want to get a second opinion, particularly if the first mechanic tells you a major repair is needed right away. Do not hesitate to ask the mechanic to explain the problem.

Before you Pay

Once the shop tells you that your car is ready, check a few items to make sure you are satisfied with the repair work—especially if you are dealing with a shop for the first time.

This is even more important if the shop where you are having the repair work done is far from your home.

Examine the service receipt to see exactly what work was done. Is the problem clearly stated, along with the implemented solution? Was the final price close to the estimate? Was there any other work done? Are there any charges you do not recognize or understand? If the shop can not explain a charge, it may not belong on your bill. If you requested to approve work before it was done, and you see charges on the bill that you did not approve, you should ask questions about those items.

Ask to see any parts that were replaced. Under some local and state laws you have a right to keep the old parts. Many reputable shops often keep the old, replaced parts until the customer picks up the car, so he or she can be shown exactly what was wrong.

If you are not satisfied with the repair job, return your car to the shop and explain the situation. If you have a written guarantee of the work (and most reputable shops will either provide you with one or tell you beforehand why they cannot), then the shop should correct or adjust the problem.

Tips To Remember

One of the best ways you can protect yourself against disreputable car repair shops and scams is to practice "consumer automotive strategy."

- Be quiet about your lack of knowledge: If you do not know much about automobiles, do not let the mechanic know.

- Watch your car if possible: Do not leave valuables in your car while it is being worked on: Remember, even at the best repair facility employees may not be responsible for missing or lost items.

- Be aware of common scams used by dishonest repair shops. There are many things disreputable mechanics can do to make a car appear to have more problems than it does. For example, simply switching the spark plug wire connections can prevent a car from starting.

- If you feel you have not been dealt with fairly or have been taken advantage of, you should first complain to the service manager of the repair shop, or the owner of the facility.

- If you cannot resolve the complaint satisfactorily, contact the local Better Business Bureau where your car was serviced for assistance; the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) division of the Council of Better Business Bureaus; your consumer protection office; or the state's attorney general's office.

- The mechanic who performed the work may be ASE certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence in Washington, D.C. ASE may be able to take action against a mechanic if enough complaints are filed.

How to find a competent auto technician

Fall is the perfect time to undo the damage done by summer driving and to get ready for the rigors of winter driving ahead. So it should come as no surprise that October is "National Car Care Month."

But given the cost and complexity of today's vehicles, to say nothing of ever-busy lifestyles, many motorists are avoiding do-it-yourself repairs and are turning, instead, to professional technicians.

The following tips from the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) should make finding a qualified automotive technician easier.

Ask a number of friends or business associates if they can recommend someone; a consensus is usually more reliable than counting solely on one person's judgment.

Be sure to call your local consumer organization and inquire about the reputation of the place of business in question. Look for a neat, well-organized facility with modern equipment and polite service personnel willing to take the time to discuss your repairs. Policies concerning diagnostic fees, labor rates, guarantees, etc. should be posted.

Check around for an auto technician certified by the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. ASE certifies automotive technicians by means of nationally administered tests. Technicians voluntarily take these competency exams in up to eight automobile specialties, such as Engine Repair or Brakes. (There are also exams for medium/heavy truck, school bus, and collision repair technicians; engine machinists, and parts specialists).

Those who pass one or more tests and fulfill the two-year work experience requirement are awarded ASE credentials attesting their competency. The certified technicians are then eligible to wear the blue and white ASE insignia.

Not only are these credentials meaningful to technicians, they are reassuring to employers and important to you. ASE credentials are the extra assurance that your technician knows his or her stuff. Currently, there are about 440,000 ASE-certified technicians across the country. Shops that employ certified technicians often display the blue and white ASE outdoor sign and post technicians' ASE credentials in the customer service area.

Officials with the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence remind motorists that their involvement is important, too.

Among ASE's recommendations:

- Read your owner's manual.
- Become familiar with the basic components and systems.
- Follow the manufacturer's service schedules.
- Make note of noises, unusual odors, changes in performance, and handling.

- Describe your vehicle's problem(s), but resist the temptation to diagnose.
- Have small problems repaired before they become major headaches.
- Keep good records.

To help motorists get their vehicles ready for winter, ASE has prepared a brochure, "Don't Get Stuck Out in the Cold." For a free copy, send a self-addressed, stamped, business envelope to: ASE Winter Brochure, Dept. CCCR-W98, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, VA 22070.

Certified Professionals. Auto technicians with proven credentials can be found at repair facilities displaying this sign.

Are you prepared when you have an accident?

You're at a stoplight when you are suddenly jolted from behind. You get out of your car to realize that your vehicle has been damaged by the vehicle behind you. The damage doesn't appear to be extensive, but hidden damage can be difficult to detect. How do you know how much damage was done to your vehicle and if it's safe to drive?

Automobile accidents happen every day. When they do, most people are not prepared for them. Choosing a collision repair facility before you are faced with this situation however, can save you time and aggravation. But how do you start your search for a quality collision repair facility?

National Car Care Month is a good time to brush up on the things to look for when you enter a collision repair facility:

- 1) Is the facility clean and well lit?
- 2) Do they have modern equipment and current technical references?
- 3) Can you tour the facility?
- 4) Do you see signs, plaques or qualifications of technician training?

Signs of training are especially important. It shows that a business is keeping up with the technology of today's vehicles.

One company that is keeping businesses up-to-date with collision repair technology is I-CAR®, the Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair. I-CAR is a not-for-profit organization that provides collision repair training to collision repair businesses, insurance companies and other industry related businesses. I-CAR's mission is to protect the consumer by educating businesses on up-to-date collision repair methods.

To recognize businesses that are well-trained and up-to-date in collision repair technology, I-CAR created the Gold Class Professionals program. When you see the I-CAR Gold Class Professionals sign you can be assured you have chosen a quality collision repair facility.

This sign means the business has made a commitment to training their staff on the latest technology, and has the knowledge to properly repair your collision damaged vehicle.

The I-CAR Gold Class Professionals logo is easy to spot in the yellow pages, and on signs located outside the business. Many insurance companies have listings of I-CAR Gold Class Professional businesses, and are I-CAR Gold Class Professionals themselves. They understand the importance of being properly trained and directing their customers to quality collision repair facilities.

To find an I-CAR Gold Class Professional business near you, or for a FREE information kit about the Gold Class Professionals Program, call 1-800-55-AUTO2. You can also search www.i-car.com for an I-CAR Gold Class Professional by region, state or province.

It takes more than gas to run your car. It takes air. When the air filter is dirty, the engine will smoke, run poorly, waste gas, and add to pollution. Have your air checked seasonally.

We're not ready for the 'sealed hood'

As the average age of a vehicle this year is expected to exceed 9.0 years, typically with over 100,000 miles on the odometer, the term preventive maintenance takes on a new meaning. With the right kind of care that aging vehicle could provide dependable transportation for another 9 years and more, according to the Car Care Council.

"However, the concept of a vehicle that's touted to be virtually maintenance-free for 100,000 miles causes most experts to cringe," says Car Care Council President, Don Midgley. "Results of our vehicle inspection lanes during National Car Care Month underscore the need for public awareness on this issue. Periodic checks and maintenance need to be done considerably more frequently than what many consumers are led to believe."

Among thousands of vehicles inspected in cities throughout the U.S.A. last year nearly 9 out of 10 needed some kind of maintenance or repair. Most of the discrepancies would not constitute a heavy financial burden on owners, but failure to correct the problem might create a heavy one.

Nineteen percent needed drive belts, 27% had low or dirty engine oil, 21% had low or dirty transmission fluid. "Any one of these conditions can cause expensive damage to an otherwise healthy vehicle," says Midgley.

He recalls the owner of a high mileage van asking what to do about replacing a bad radiator hose. Her mechanic had recommended having all of them replaced while the van was in the shop because they all were original. "That sounds pretty expensive," she complained, "especially when the others appear OK."

Most experts would agree with her mechanic. In fact, they might go even further to suggest that belts should be replaced at that time, too. Depending upon circumstances, it often is the most economical way to go in the long run. Further, this can save time and inconvenience later. Here's why, according to Car Care Council:

THE ARGUMENT FOR "PREVENTIVE REPLACEMENT"

You can save labor costs by getting the whole job done at once vs. repeated trips to the repair shop. You may avoid having to do the replacing at an inconvenient time.

When one house is in marginal condition, others may be, too; the deterioration is not yet visible. A leaking or failed cooling system hose can cause an engine to self-destruct in a matter of a few miles.

As for belt replacement, consider that, on most vehicles, one belt does the work of three or four, so failure can be serious.

What about other parts? After 9 years many components may already have been replaced and, if not, should be inspected with an eye toward replacement.

Marginal brake system parts or weak suspension parts may be ready for the graveyard at this point, too. If the vehicle still has its original battery, it probably has outlived its usefulness. Normal life span for an original battery is four years.

Some auto service professionals, having the benefit of experience as well as available facilities, will replace certain components on their personal vehicles as a preventive measure. In addition to fuel, ignition and emission control parts, they may replace the fuel pump and/or alternator.

Things You

An annual physical is a good idea for your family vehicle. It can detect a problem before it turns into a costly expenditure or a safety hazard.

Motorists can become 'green drivers'

Motorists can become 'green drivers' by regularly carrying out simple car care and maintenance procedures that also work to help improve air quality, a non-profit transportation research group based in Washington, D.C. reports.

The Road Information Program (TRIP) states that, as part of National Car Care month, motorists can do their part for the environment by following routine car care maintenance procedures, such as keeping car engines well-tuned, having exhaust systems inspected regularly and keeping tires properly inflated.

"As our nation addresses key environmental concerns, motorists should understand that taking proper care of their cars means they also will be doing their part to improve the environment," said William M. Wilkins, TRIP's executive director.

"Steps such as keeping car engines tuned and tires properly inflated help improve air quality by conserving the amount of fuel used," Wilkins said. "Equipment maintenance and inspection are important because most air quality improvements over the past 25 years have come about because of improved automotive technology."

Wilkins said major strides have taken place in automotive technology to improve air quality, such as the catalytic converter, an emissions control device, which all newer model cars have. Regular tailpipe inspections also ensure that emissions equipment is working properly to reduce vehicle emissions.

"Improved automotive technology is the major reason air quality has improved significantly since the early 1970s," Wilkins said. "As motorists, we should do our part to make sure the equipment is working like it is supposed to."

Over the past 10 years, the emission of smog-forming pollutants by cars, trucks and other highway vehicles nationally has decreased by 21 percent, according to TRIP's analysis of the Environmental Protection Agency's air quality data. During the same time period, highway travel increased by 29 percent.

In addition, TRIP reports there has been a 62 percent reduction in poor air quality days in the nation's top metropolitan areas between 1987 and 1996.

TRIP is issuing its updated "green driving tips" as part of its public awareness campaign to educate motorists about steps they can take to help improve the environment.

Other key tips provided by TRIP include:

- Avoid "topping off" the gas tank when refueling. This helps prevent spilled gasoline, which evaporates and contributes to air pollution.

- Don't pump the accelerator if your car has fuel injection. A properly tuned, fuel-injected car should start right away, even in cold weather.

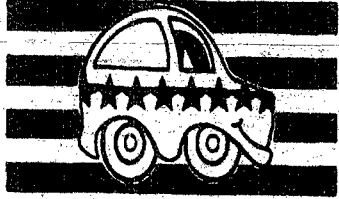

- Use an engine heater in cold climates. The warmer the engine upon starting, the quicker it and the catalytic converter achieve maximum efficiency.

- Avoid excess idling in non-traffic situations. Idling more than 30 seconds consumes more fuel than restarting the engine.

- Accelerate smoothly and maintain steady speed. Quick starts and rapid acceleration waste fuel.

Motorists advised to get radiator flushed

With colder temperatures just around the corner, you don't want to be without heat when you venture into your chilly vehicle. But cooling system corrosion can lead to heater failures and other wintertime headaches.

During national Car Care Month, the National Automotive Radiator Service Association (NARSA) reminds motorists that one way to avoid the problem is by sticking to the engine coolant (antifreeze) maintenance schedules outlined in your vehicle's owner's manual.

Fresh coolant reduces the likelihood of corrosion and helps ensure adequate flow through the vehicle's cooling system," says

Don Hart, NARSA president. "And proper functioning of the cooling system is vital for trouble-free operation of your vehicle's heating system and engine."

The radiator, heater core and coolant are all important and interrelated parts of the cooling system, which also includes the water pump, thermostat and hoses. If any of these components become excessively worn and fail, the outcome can include more than an inconvenient lack of heat. Costly engine damage can also result.

To keep the circuit in tip-top shape and prevent corrosion buildup, NARSA recommends having a radiator flush and fill once every two years, depending on the make, model and age of your vehicle. Some late model vehicles, including most 1996 and newer General Motors products, are equipped with long-life coolants which have extended change intervals. Check your owner's manual for details.

Specifically, a thorough flush and fill should consist of the radiator being drained of all existing coolant, back-flushed internally with a special pressurized gun containing compressed air and a mixture of water and cleaning solvents, and refilled with a 50-50 mixture of water and fresh coolant.

If you've kept up with regular coolant maintenance, but are still experiencing problems with your vehicle's heater, it is imperative that you have the cooling system checked and the problem diagnosed to avoid further damage. If the heater provides no heat:

- The vehicle may have a heater core leak. Signs of a heater core leak can include a low fluid level in the coolant recovery bottle, coolant on the floor of the passenger compartment, a fogging of the windshield when the heater or defroster is used, and coolant odor in the passenger compartment;
  - The coolant may not be properly flowing through the heater core;
  - The thermostat may need replacing;
  - There may be a malfunction in the electrical/vacuum control.
- If the heater provides very little heat:
- The coolant may not be properly flowing through the heater core;
  - The thermostat may need replacing;
  - You may have a low level of coolant/water mixture in your system.

Troubleshooting the exact cause of the problem can be tricky. That's why NARSA recommends that consumers bring their vehicles to a NARSA cooling system specialist — they possess the knowledge and expertise to quickly diagnose and correct the problem in the most cost-effective manner.

To find a cooling system specialist in your area, look for the NARSA emblem in the "Radiators-Automotive" section of the Yellow Pages or visit the NARSA web site at www.narsa.org for an on-line directory of NARSA members. For more information, call 800/551-3232, write to NARSA, P.O. Box 97, East Greenville, PA 18041, or send an e-mail to narsa@narsa.org.

NARSA was formed in 1954 as a forum for communication and education within the automotive cooling system aftermarket. The association provides its members with the latest technical information and educates the public on the proper servicing and repair of the cooling systems of today's automotive fleet. NARSA has more than 1,500 members worldwide.
