EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Striving for excellence in the performing arts, Wayne State College Madrigals staged a dress rehearsal on Nov. 15 to prepare for upcoming performances during the Christmas season. Three performances will take place on campus, Dec. 4, 5, and 6. Above, from left are: Karin Dankenbring, Angie Thies, Austin Brown, Amanda Magnuson, and Barina Buresh.

Madrigal tickets available now

Tickets are available for the 27th Annual Elizabethan Christmas Feasts presented by the Wayne State Madrigal Singers on three evenings.

While ticket supplies last, individuals may choose from the following performance times: Friday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m., or Sunday, Dec. 6 at 5 p.m. Tickets for these events may be secured by calling Virginia Backstrom at (402) 375-7359. Seating is limited.

Old English Christmas traditions such as hanging of the greens, decking the halls, placing the Yule log on the fire and the boar's head procession are featured parts of each Elizabethan Christmas Feast.

The 19-member group, clad in 16th century attire, takes audiences back to the Renaissance Era, specifically England under the rule of Queen Elizabeth I. During the singing, poetry and comedy (complete with court jester), the audience is treated to a dinner, which in the 16th century usually consisted of beef, Yorkshire pudding, the wassail drink and a flaming dessert.

Six to ten performances are given annually over a wide geographical area and evening dinners are now booked one to two years in advance. The WSC Elizabethan Christmas Feasts have been featured in Midwest Living Magazine, which showcases interesting cultural events in the upper Midwest.

Over 231 performances have been given by the Madrigal Singers during the group's 26-year history of performing in the United States and abroad. They have performed in the Westminster Cathedral in London, the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, and the Pantheon and St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome.

The Madrigal Singers have toured Europe seven times since 1980 and in July 1994 were the only American choir at the International Choral Competition in Spittal, Austria.

"We will perform some rather difficult pieces and a number of standards for a mixture of traditional music and some new things," said David Lawrence, director of the WSC Madrigal Singers.

Lawrence is in his second year as director of choral activities and assistant professor of music at WSC. He received a BME degree in voice from Abilene Christian University, a MM degree in choral conducting from the University of Washington and is completing a Doctor of Music Arts degree in choral conducting from Louisiana State University.

Shoppers can win cash

The Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the Fourth Annual Great Cash Giveaway Drawings.

Holiday shoppers will be eligible to win $4,000 to be given away in a series of seven drawings during November and December.

Shoppers can collect numbered tickets when they make a purchase at any of the participating businesses beginning this week. A complete list of the 48 participating businesses can be found in the Morning Shopper.

The first drawings for $500 each will be held on Saturday, Nov. 28 at 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

In order to win big, shoppers must be present in a participating store when the winning number is announced on KTCH radio.

The holder of the winning number then has three minutes to notify store personnel, who will call the chamber to confirm the winner. If no winner comes forward, a $25 consolation prize will be set aside for the ticket holder.

The consolation prize numbers will be identified in the Morning Shopper and at the participating businesses and must be claimed at the Chamber Office by 5 p.m. on the Friday following the drawing.

Numbers will continue to be drawn until there is a confirmed winner or three consolation prizes have been awarded, whichever comes first. If no winning ticket holder is present, the remaining prize money will be rolled into the next scheduled drawing.

Drawings will be held on Dec. 5 and 12, at 11:30 and 2:30, with the final drawing for $1,000 on Saturday, Dec. 19 at 11:30 a.m.

Collect tickets early to be eligible for all the drawings. Many businesses will offer additional incentives to be present in their store or to win on a ticket from their business. Watch the weekly ads for these specials.

Wrap-up your holiday shopping in Wayne and play to win!

Home care providers recognized during Home Health Care Month

November is National Home Health Care Month and Nov. 16 was designated as Home Health Care Aide Day.

During this month, Providence Medical Center would like to thank and honor its home health aides for their continued dedication and hard work.

Providence Medical Center Home Health Care has seven home health aides working with them including Sharolynn Cunningham of Dixon, Nicole Mohr of Carroll, Karla Calhoun of Wakefield and Jenny Hammer, Dee Goeden, Kaml Pilger and Sue Replogle, all of Wayne.

Providence Medical Center Home Health Aides work in Home Health Care, Hospice and their latest program which is a private pay Personal Care Services program. The personal care program was established in January of 1995.

The Personal Care Service program enables people who no longer meet Medicare criteria for Home Health care to still get quality care in their homes. The program allows them to remain in their homes as long as possible and maintain their dignity and independence.

This service is a private pay service and is also contracted with the Area Agency on Aging and the Medicaid Waiver program.

Providence Medical Center's aides are able to give personal care services like assistance with bathing and shampoos and meal preparation as well as transportation, grocery shopping, errands and minor housekeeping.

In addition to providing one-on-one care they provide companionship to the patients they serve.

Before the aide begins visiting the patient, an RN makes a visit to the home to evaluate the needs of the patient. The RN then makes periodic visits to the patient to continue to evaluate the patient's and family's needs. The length of the care and how often the aide visits the patient may vary from person to person, depending on what the needs are.

All the aides are Certified Nursing Assistants and bonded under the Home Health Care program. Providence Medical Center Personal Care Services also makes available an LPN service to fill insulin syringes or other medications via a mediset.

Anyone can refer a patient to Providence Medical Center's Personal Care Service whether it be a hospital, family member, doctor or the patient themselves.

The Services serve an area 30-

Carroll residents must boil water

Residents of the village of Carroll have been asked to boil their drinking water before using it.

Village Water Superintendent Jeff Ellis was notified that one of the five tests sent in came back positive for the E. coli bacteria. Two more samples were sent in Nov. 16 with results expected back by the end of the week.

"We are asking residents to boil all water used for drinking and cooking for three to five minutes," Ellis said.

The village of Carroll is currently installing a chlorinator on the water system. It will remain in use for approximately six weeks.

At the present time, the source of the contamination is not known, but may have occurred during the sampling process.

For more information on the water situation, contact Ellis at (402) 585-4890.

The Wayne State College ASID Student Chapter and the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce would like to invite individuals, businesses, and organizations to participate in the 14th Annual Fantasy Forest to be held at the Wayne National Guard Armory.

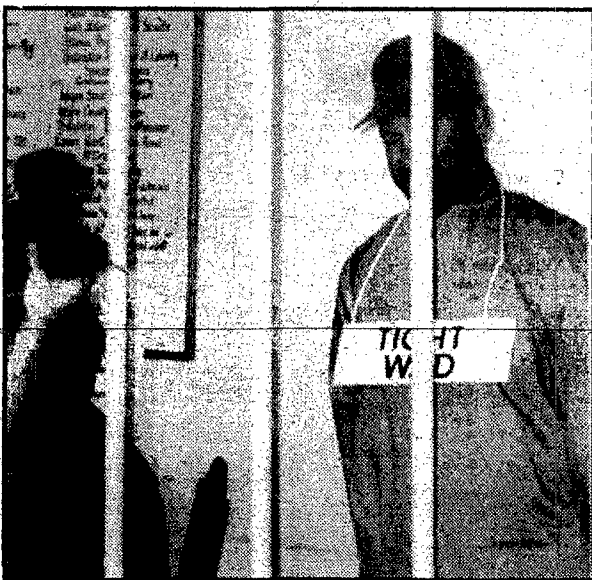

The dates, scheduled for the set-up of trees is Dec. 2 and Dec. 3-4 for various activities. This is a great opportunity to promote a business or organization through tree décor.

As in the past, tree lights can only be used on artificial trees. The owner of each tree is responsible for that tree, stand, lights, extension cords, and decorations of choice. Miniature natural trees with a minimum height of two (2) feet will be permitted. Lights or styrofoam will not be allowed on these trees due to their flammable nature.

Fantasy Forest will begin with the lighting of trees, caroling, the arrival of Santa, and the Rotary Soup Supper on Thursday evening, and continue with the Chamber Coffee on Friday morning. There are also plans for bake sales, Santa pictures, and Christmas music by various community groups. Take-down of trees will be at closing time on Friday evening.

An entry form and waiver agreement is required which can be obtained from Sandra Metz or from the Chamber Office. Space is limited so confirmation of participation would be appreciated by Tuesday, Nov. 24.

If anyone has questions concerning Fantasy Forest '98 or would like entry forms, please contact Sandra Metz at 375-7288, or the Chamber Office at 375-2240.

Behind bars

Ron Sebade was one of the nearly 80 residents who were "arrested" Thursday during the American Heart Association's Cardiac Arrest Fund Raiser. The event raised $6,230. Jim Hummel was the top ball getter with $323. Sebade was charged with being "full of crap", paid his fine and was released. Sponsors for the event were State National Bank, Stadium Sports, Pac'N'Save, Quality Food Center, Subway, and Tacos & More. In addition, a number of local businesses donated door prizes. This event replaces the door-to-door solicitation from previous years.

FRIENDS plan Parents Night Out

The Wayne FRIENDS (Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs) group will hold its second annual Parents Night Out on Friday, Dec. 4.

The event will be held at the Our Savior Front Porch (the old Wayne Public Library).

The middle and high school FRIENDS will provide an evening of baby-sitting for children three years old through fourth grade from 6:30-9:30 p.m.

The cost is $5 for the first child of one family; $3 for the second child; $2 for the third child and $1 for the fourth child. Registration will be held from 6-6:30 and children should be picked up between 9 and 9:30. Enrollment is limited to 50 children.

Parents are asked to pre-register by calling the Wayne Middle School at 375-2230.

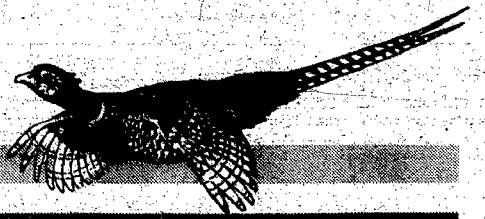

According to organizers, "this will be more than an evening of baby-sitting because the students will provide an evening of fun for the children."

Some of the events planned include games and singing, making a Christmas ornament, decorating cookies and refreshment time. All these activities will have a drug-free Christmas fun-filled theme.

WSC provides new working relationship

Applied science division faculty at Wayne State College have been working with personnel from the human resources department of the Lozier Corporation to form a partnership. This new program allows industrial management students to begin a working relationship with the company that may end in full-time employment.

With headquarters located in Omaha, the 42-year-old company has several plants located throughout the United States. Lozier manufactures store fixtures including shelving units of all sizes, display cases and specialty merchandising fixtures. They have supplied fixtures for Target, Sears, Ace Hardware and other merchandisers. Lozier employs 2,400 people.

Kathy Ocasio, Scott Fleming (a WSC graduate) and Dan Hoss appeared at WSC on Oct. 27 throughout the day to present information on the program, assemble a display in Benthack Hall and make contact with interested students.

The plan is to offer summer internships as production workers during students' freshmen and sophomore summers. Students would work their junior summer as an assistant production supervisor and into the fall of their senior year. Upon graduation they would have the opportunity to become employed as a full-time entry level production supervisor. In addition to wages earned, Lozier would offer students a hiring bonus of up to $2,000 for tuition reimbursement for the final semester of their school year. The program requires a May 15 to Aug. 15 commitment for each year. Students' junior summer may require that students work into the fall.

"This program allows students to effectively use their co-op hours and to have the opportunity to work in industry, gaining valuable experiences that may end in full-time employment in a management position," said John Renzelman, WSC applied science division head.

"This co-op program with Wayne State College is really exciting. This is our first formal program with a college. Students may work for an internship and be reimbursed for college credit based on their grade," said Kathy Ocasio, Lozier's employee development specialist.

Although the Lozier Corporation does offer a job shadowing experience, Ocasio said the program for Wayne State College students goes beyond that level of experience.

"This is a tremendous opportunity to get work experience to reinforce their educational experience. They will participate in real-life scenarios that are much more serious," Renzelman said.

The Lozier Corporation offers many summer temporary positions for college students. Summer is the busiest season and applications are available for students to fill many positions.

Lozier has positions available in virtually every area of the company. Ocasio gave the example of positions available for individuals studying interior design. They may be working to help plan what a store will look like. If a student is unsure what they want to go into after graduation, Ocasio said this experience may help them decide.

She said she encourages students to work with their advisors to determine what kind of credit is available. Working with Lozier over the summer or in an internship may allow students to graduate into a full-time permanent position.

In addition, Lozier is offering to provide support for industrial technology education programs by providing speakers who could come to WSC. These individuals could provide insights on the changes and opportunities occurring in the business and manufacturing world.

Lozier is also offering to support industrial technology education club activities, plant tours and may even be able to donate materials to the program. Plans are also being made to establish a scholarship for industrial management or industrial technology majors.

Lozier has over $340 million in annual sales, Fleming said. He said the company develops its workforce and often promotes from within.

"The company has many long-term employees. When we hire people, it's a long term relationship. We are a leading family-oriented company and believe in lifelong learning and education," Ocasio said.

Employee development is what sets Lozier apart. Starting in one position doesn't mean you may stay there, Hoss said. He explained working for Lozier means having an opportunity to learn different aspects of the business.

Reading tutors help others

Elizabeth Roberts, Omaha, and Amy Brown, Wayne, are peer reading assistants in Wayne State College's Reading Strategies Program for the 1998-99 academic year.

Roberts, a senior in elementary education, is the daughter of Laraine K. Roberts of Omaha. She is a student ambassador, peer tutor and a member of Circle K, Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honorary and the Wayne Student Education Association of Nebraska (WSEAN).

"As a reading tutor, I have many opportunities to help others. I enjoy the challenge of finding different methods to help each individual student," said Roberts. "It is a wonderful learning experience."

Brown, a junior in English writing, is the daughter of Ray and Bev Brown of Burwell. She is involved in the intramural program on campus.

Brown explained her views of the program this way. "Tutoring gives me a chance to get to know more of the students on a personal basis. When a student comes in to see me, I hope that they get the feeling that I am really interested in helping them to become better students by becoming better readers."

The Reading Strategies Program is designed to give WSC students the opportunity to learn and practice strategies and techniques for improved reading and comprehension skills. This free service of the Learning Center is located on the main floor in Corin Library, Room 121.

"The reading assistants help to increase students' self-confidence and motivation by helping them improve their reading and comprehension skills," states Dorothy Weber, director of the WSC Learning Center.

"Students from any class can visit with these trained peer reading assistants," Weber said. "Many students have not perfected the reading techniques that are required to do college work. With some individual tutoring and the selection of specific reading strategies, these students can succeed in pursuing a college degree."

Training for reading assistants is conducted by Education Division faculty members and the Learning Center. Reading assistants must maintain a 3.0 GPA or higher, have excellent knowledge of their subject matter and appropriate faculty recommendations. Started in the fall 1997, the WSC Reading Strategies Program is financed through the College and the federal work-study program.

Capitol News —

This is a time of many seasons

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

This is a time of several seasons. The football season. The hunting season. The holiday season is just ahead.

It is also what might be referred to as the "season of good feeling" among some whose work centers on the statehouse. The "some" to whom I refer does not include any of those who might have been recently retired by the voters.

Rather, it refers to those who are, or soon will be, making efforts to better acquaint themselves with those who have recently been elected, or re-elected.

Those newly-elected to the Unicameral, usually, have the chance to reflect upon a syndrome well known to those in public life. When you are a newly-elected official in the state Capitol, you might be inclined to think that everyone you meet therein must have just come from California. That is, if you agree with the observation made by Garrison Keillor, who opined that, in California, "Everyone wants to become your best friend -- and they want to do it in five minutes!"

Folks who wield a bit of power should always keep a sense of humor, taking care not to take themselves or their title too seriously.

It has long seemed to me that, by way of reflecting a sense of not taking things too seriously, a newly-elected state senator might have a few afternoons of fun by calling in the lobbyists whose bread-and-butter buddies supported the newly-elected senator's opponent.

You know, just sit there behind the desk, doing one's best imitation of a canary-fed cat, and just make some old-fashioned, get-acquainted conversation.

"So, TELL me about your client, and why he feels that I am unworthy of the public trust which has been invested in me. By the way, if you folks have some legislation you want to get moved this year?"

If the lobbyist stammers, the senator would know that he or she has an amateur on the carpet.

Concerning new state officials, the view from here is that it's unfortunate (just this one time) that Nebraska couldn't have two state auditors. Republican Kate Witek is going to be fun to watch. It would have been fun to watch Democrat Kandra Hahn do the job, too.

If you're someone who is suspicious of government regardless of your party affiliation you have something in common with Witek and Hahn.

Don't get me wrong. The two of them couldn't agree on the philosophical time of day. But both of them think that there is stuff in government that needs to be well audited. They wouldn't come up with matching lists of stuff to sniff at, but the election of either was guaranteed to have at least a few people in government wishing that both of them could have lost.

Witek was among the Republicans who benefited during an election year in which Nebraskans reminded anyone who cared, that Nebraska is a state that returns to its GOP roots in a big way every so often.

Remember when then-Gov. Jim Exon was approximately the only Democratic officeholder in the state? Come January, there will be U.S. Sen. Bob Kerrey.

In a recent column I alluded to broadcaster Jeff Greenfield, the guy who had the stuff to say that he eschewed the "Y'all vote no matter what!" philosophy, offering, instead, the view that those who haven't paid attention to the issues can do the rest of us a favor by staying away from the polls. His view is not one with which I could quarrel.

Greenfield was also the only pundit of note who predicted that the Democrats would rebound in the recent Congressional election, and that the GOP leadership would be handed an embarrassment. (If Greenfield endorses an investment newsletter, I'm buying it.)

The middle of the country is not a good place from which to speculate on what was on the minds of voters elsewhere in America.

The best explanation, or at least the one I like best:

President Clinton can be likened to Peck's Bad Boy, the perennial pony-tail pulling, spitwad throwing, note passing, face making little hellion who is constantly in trouble in a junior high school study hall. Invariably, it seems, he is guilty of some behavior inappropriate to his position, circumstance and surroundings.

Unfortunately for the GOP, Newt Gingrich can be likened to that perennial little smarty pants who makes a career of ratting out the culprit, over and over and over. The kind of kid who, not satisfied with "taking names" in school, has to tell the bad boy's mom, his Scoutmaster, the Sunday school teacher and the guy who sweeps out the lunchroom.

Everyone knows who was right and who was wrong. It's just that, after awhile, you don't have much regard for either. And, after awhile longer, you'd really like to swat both of them.

LIVING TRUST SCAMS TARGET ELDERLY

A "living" or "revocable" trust is a document created during your lifetime that is used as a form of estate planning as an alternative to a will in property distribution. The marketing of living trusts, by telephone, door-to-door sales, or in seminars, has become a popular and legitimate alternative to traditional estate planning in recent years. Unfortunately, the rapid growth of this industry nationwide has also caused it to become a major source of consumer fraud - targeted directly at the elderly.

As part of the sales presentation, consumers may be told that "everyone needs a living trust" to avoid the cost and delay of probate and to reduce estate taxes. Consumers may also be told that, by purchasing the estate planning information, they will have access to attorneys who will answer their estate planning questions and prepare their estate planning documents, free of any additional charge. In other cases, consumers may be told that by purchasing certain forms and other information, they can create their own living trust without hiring an attorney.

Often times, defects in the documents will not be discovered until after it is too late to correct them, leaving the survivors with a legal and financial nightmare.

A living trust, properly prepared by a licensed attorney, is legal in Nebraska but citizens should consult an attorney before deciding to use a trust. Living trusts are the right choice for some people but are complicated legal documents and can cause many more problems than they solve if not used properly.

Consumer who are considering a living trust should educate themselves and consult their own attorney on the particulars of Nebraska law before proceeding.

If you have questions regarding a company selling living trusts in Nebraska contact the office of Attorney General Don Stenberg, Consumer Protection Division, 2115 State Capitol, Lincoln, NE, 68509, (402) 471-2682, Consumer Protection Line - 1-800-727-6432.

Thanking voters from Logan/Leslie

Dear Editor,

"Hold an Election, and they will come!"

They came in dusty overalls, casual clothes, nurses' uniforms, office dress and one farmer even pulled in with his tractor and wagon!

Of course I'm talking about the Nov. 3 voters from Logan/Leslie. We even entertained a few small children while their parents voted.

I just wanted to thank all of them for taking time out of their busy schedules and several drove 10-15 miles, one way, to vote. There is something to be said about character and belief in the system when 60 percent showed up. I'm proud of you!

Let's urge others to do the same.

Jobs priority for economic development

Creating more jobs is an important goal for community economic development programs. Today I will share some thoughts on economic development job priorities, goals, and strategies.

Economic development programs should emphasize increasing employment opportunities for local residents. New jobs that rely on imported workers - due either to a low perceived quality of the work or due to high skill requirements - are of lower community benefit than those complementing the employment qualifications and aspirations of current residents.

A high priority should be given to maintaining and expanding the number of jobs available to local residents within the local labor market, i.e., a normal, practical commuting distance. The Upjohn Institute for Employment Research has found that a ten percent increase in a local labor market's employment will increase the average real earnings per person by around four percent.

Economic development programs should increase the quality of jobs available to area workers. Priority should be given to firms and industries that provide good wages, benefits, working conditions, and job security.

It is important to target firms and industries that raise wages and living standards by paying a premium in wages and benefits over the level normally paid other comparably qualified workers in the local labor market.

Economic development programs should target jobs and industries based on the special needs and qualifications of residents in the local labor market. Communities should strive to identify and reduce underemployment. Communities should find ways to upgrade labor quality in ways that are responsive to business and worker needs.

Economic development organizations should strive to facilitate a favorable entrepreneurial environment and culture for the region. Self-employment can be an attractive, rewarding option for many residents; and the new firms created may grow into significant sources of employment for others.

Economic development organizations should support the creations of entry-level jobs with on-the-job training and career advancement opportunities as a priority to help retain youth wishing to remain in their home community.

Next week I will discuss strategies for these economic development job creation goals and priorities.

Metter speaks at program

Richard Metter, principal at the Wayne Middle School, was the featured speaker at this year's Veteran's Day program held at the Wayne Senior Center.

Metter's speech centered on plans to construct a monument in Wayne to honor those soldiers and sailors killed in World War II and Vietnam.

The monument will be placed on the south side of the Wayne County Courthouse between the flag pole and the canon, which is presently in the process of being restored.

It is hoped that the monument can be in place and ready for dedication by Memorial Day 1999.

At the present time the list includes the following: Millard Bahe, 1944, killed in the Mediterranean Sea; Marvin F. Garner, 1945, killed in the air over Germany; Lavern Bonta and Carol F. Jorgensen, both killed in 1945 in the Philippines; Dale Frink, Arnold Gerleman and Ralph F. Hackmeier, Walter Meyer Jr. and Harold E. Thompson, all killed in 1944 in France; Donald Jugel and George W. Nurnberg, both killed in 1945 in Germany and Albert M. Killion, killed in 1942 in an Alabama air crash.

Also on the list are Howard M. Krause, killed in 1943 in a South Pacific air crash; Wayne A. McMaster, killed in 1944 in Italy; Rudolph Meyer, killed in 1944 in the Marshall Islands; Robert J. Perrin, killed in 1943 in the North Atlantic; Donald D. Sieckman, killed in 1944 in Germany; Warren Swinney, killed in 1945 in Iwo Jima; John C. Thompson, killed in 1944 in the Pacific; Henry W. Vahlkamp, killed in 1942 in the Pacific; Lyle W. Van Eassen, killed in 1945 in Okinawa; Leon G. Von Seggern, killed in 1945 in the Philippines and Llewellyn Whitmore, killed in a Japanese prison in the Philippines.

Also to be recognized are those killed in Vietnam: Robert Wagner, 1968; Mark S. Witt, 1969 and Robert L. Dangberg, 1970.

Anyone knowing someone killed during these wars whose name was not listed, is asked to contact Metter.

Metter would also like to put together a book of stories of those who served in the armed forces. The book will be placed in the Wayne Library with other copies available for purchase. He would welcome the opportunity to visit with those involved in the war to record their stories.

Richard Metter was the featured speaker at this year's Veteran's Day program at the Wayne Senior Center. He talked about war-time accidents that occurred in Wayne County. Also on the program were Jon Gathje and Kenneth Kopperud, students at Wayne High School. The two sang several patriotic songs and were accompanied by Cheryl Kopperud.

WSC survives threat of NAIA ranked Lancers Wildcats win opener

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne State men's basketball team began their 1998-99 quest to be the best on Saturday with a 76-70 victory over Mt. Marty College in Wayne.

Mt. Marty was a final four participant in last year's NAIA-Division II Basketball Tournament.

The 'Cats sprung to a 5-0 lead on a short jumper by Jason Herlitzke and a 3-pointer by Brad Joens but Mt. Marty stayed with the 'Cats and tied the game at 24's with just under three-and-a-half minutes remaining in the first half.

In fact, the visiting Lancers never led in the contest but they were never out of the contest, either.

Preseason All-American point guard Tyler Johnson was hampered in the first half by a couple quick fouls and the senior spent nearly 17 minutes of the opening stanza on the bench.

The first half spark came from Jason Diaz who scored seven straight points in a two-minute span late in the first half. Diaz scored nine of WSC's final 11 first half points to put the host team up 35-27 at the break.

It was Johnson, however that returned in fine fashion in the second half, scoring all 16 of his total points including a stretch of seven consecutive free throws.

The back-breaker for Mt. Marty came on a 26-foot, 3-pointer by Johnson as he beat the clock at the 2:18 mark to put WSC ahead by seven at 73-66.

A 'Cats miss on that possession and a Mt. Marty conversion on the other end of the floor could have made it a one-point game with under two minutes remaining.

"Initially we came out with a lot of emotion and intensity," assistant coach Rico Burkett said. "Holding a team like Mt. Marty to just four minutes in the first eight minutes" is impressive.

"However, we had the opportunity to put that team away in the first half and we didn't. We had a lot of mental mistakes and we seemed like we were in a hurry to make things happen offensively."

Burkett gave credit to the spark given to the 'Cats by Jason Diaz. "Jason's had to accept a tough role of backing up Craig Philipp for three years and he's given us a quality performance coming off the bench during that time. He didn't start this game but came off the bench and did what he's done so many times before," Burkett added. "He's like a sixth starter for us."

Diaz led the winners with 19 points with Johnson adding 16 and Brad Joens, 12. Herlitzke was close to the double-digit mark with nine while Matt VanVoorst added eight.

WSC won the battle of the boards, 30-25 as Jon Dolliver led the winners with six caroms while Eric Henderson had five.

Both teams committed 23 turnovers and Johnson led WSC in assists with five while Henderson had the 'Cats lone blocked shot while recording a game-high four steals.

Rory Williams came off the bench and gave the 'Cats a first-half boost with three steals.

WSC hit 52 percent of its shots from the floor while hitting 69 percent of its free throws while Mt. Marty hit 53 percent of its shots from the floor and 74 percent of its free throw attempts.

WSC will host one of the premiere early season Division II basketball tournaments this weekend in the Quad States Classic.

WSC will play Morningside on Friday night at 8 p.m. and South Dakota on Saturday night at 8 p.m. South Dakota and Minnesota-Morris will tangle on Friday night at 6 p.m. and Morningside and Morris play on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Fans wishing to attend the 'Cats games should be present early as sellout crowds are expected.

Eric Henderson dribbles past a Mt. Marty defender in the Wildcats opener last Saturday night.

Shabram was one of five Wildcat student-athletes to have a 4.0 G.P.A. in both the fall and spring semesters last year. He is a math major at Wayne State.

Also, there will be a short wrestling club meeting just prior to the open house at 7 p.m. in room 101 at the high school.

WSC women cagers ink All-American

WAYNE—Sara Miller, a third team All-American at Sheridan Junior College last season, signed a national letter of intent to attend Wayne State College and play basketball, WSC head coach Ryan Williams announced, Tuesday.

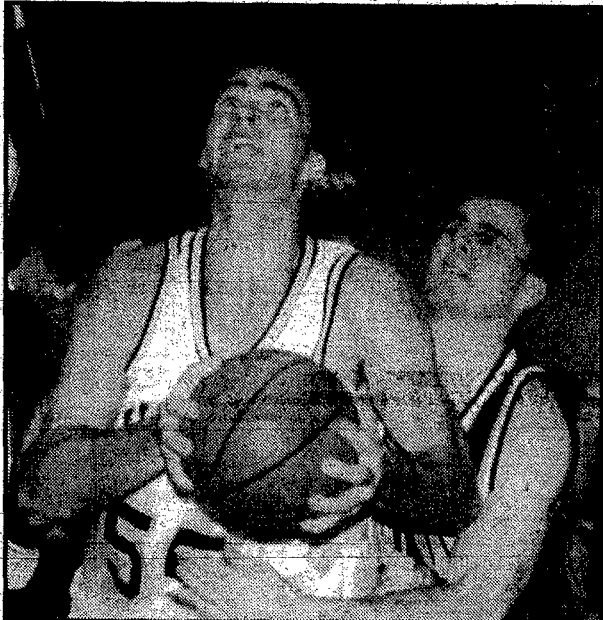

Miller, a 5-6 guard from Gillette, Wyo., will be reunited with Williams who was the head coach at Sheridan the past three seasons. Miller finished 10th in the nation in scoring last season with 22.3 points per game to help lead the Lady Generals to a 28-5 record and the Wyoming Conference championship. The Lady Generals finished runner-up in the Region IX tournament and were ranked 14th in the final junior college rankings.

Miller is the fourth to sign early with the Wildcats this season. She joins high school seniors Tracy Williamson of Harvard, Neb., and D.J. Santos and Sarah Haag of Thornton, Colo., who signed last week.

"Sara Miller is an incredible shooter," Williams said. "She's got a quick shot and is great in transition. She gives us a big threat on the perimeter and someone who can penetrate and break down defenses. She can flat out score."

Miller shot 47 percent from the three-point line last season and 89 percent from the foul line. She averaged five assists along with her 22.3 points per game. The Wyoming Conference Most Valuable Player once hit 10 three-pointers in a game last season—including nine in the first half.

"We are very excited about this class of recruits," Williams said. "These kids fit in very well with what we want to do at Wayne State College. We were looking for players who were good shooters and could score. We feel we accomplished that."

Matt VanVoorst is hacked in the act but the 6-8 junior scores on the play and converts the 3-point play the old-fashioned way.

Wayne State junior transfer Rory Williams contemplates his move as a pair of Lancer defenders keep a close eye during the 'Cats 76-70 win in the home-opener.

Wayne State men defeated by sixth-ranked SDSU, 80-75

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne State men's basketball team battled the nation's sixth-ranked team on their home floor for 40 minutes before falling to South Dakota State by an 80-75 margin, Tuesday night in Brookings, S.D.

Foster Arena has become more like frosty arena for opponents of SDSU in the 90's as the Jackrabbits have made the most of home court advantage.

WSC fell behind SDSU by a 26-12 margin in the first half before Jon Dolliver sparked a 'Cats comeback with a three-point play that started with a slam dunk. He was fouled on the play and made the ensuing free throw.

Tyler Johnson scored six points in the stretch which saw SDSU's lead cut to five by halftime at 36-31.

Johnson kept the 'Cats in the contest in the first half, scoring 11 of his team-high 18 points in the opening stanza.

WSC never led in the first half and the score was tied just once at 10-10.

In the second half the 'Cats clawed their way to their first lead of the contest at 47-46 after Jason Diaz drained a three-pointer at the 14:32 mark.

Brad Joens later sank a three-pointer as the 'Cats regained the lead at 55-53 and WSC would push the lead to five at 67-62 with 7:25 remaining.

WSC's final lead of the game came on a pair of free throws by Nathan Mulder for a 69-67 advantage with 5:19 to play.

The Jackrabbits final 13 points of the contest came from the free throw line in 17 attempts. SDSU built an 8-point lead at 80-72 before Kevin Lingenfelter drained a three-pointer with five seconds remaining.

SDSU went to the foul line 24 times in the second half while WSC saw the charity stripe just 10 times.

Nathan Mulder finished with 13 points as he and Johnson were the only ones in double figures for the 'Cats.

Jon Dolliver, Jason Diaz and Brad Joens each had nine points with Rory Williams scoring four. Eric Henderson, Kevin Lingenfelter and Matt VanVoorst added three apiece and Jason Herlitzke along with Scott Hansen scored two each.

Casey Walker, the culprit who hit the Hail Mary shot a year ago in Rice Auditorium to halt the 'Cats 27-game home win streak, led the Jackrabbits with 22 points.

WSC was beaten soundly on the boards, 48-38 with Dolliver leading WSC with five caroms.

Johnson dished out a game-high eight assists while Henderson and Mulder had two steals each for team tops.

The 1-1 'Cats will host the Quad State Classic on Friday and Saturday with games at 6 & 8 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday night.

WSC women's coach debuts 'Cats win first two

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

It took first year women's basketball coach Ryan Williams just two hours to post his initial victory in the NCAA Division II ranks as his Wildcats erased a four-point half-time deficit to down Mt. Marty, 68-56 last Friday night in Wayne.

The rookie coach followed that win up with a convincing 79-64 win over Chadron State on Saturday night at home as well.

In Friday's action Williams said his squad came out tentative on both ends of the floor.

"We showed a lot of anxiety and tension early in the game," Williams said. "I'm not sure if it was first game jitters or what but once we relaxed a little bit and got into the flow of the game we did a much better job of executing our offense."

The 'Cats trailed by an 18-6 margin in the first half and went on a mini-run to close out the first half, trailing by just four points, 26-22.

The second half was all Wayne State as senior Stef Sjuts and sophomore Krista Bernadt stepped it up and delivered for the 'Cats as Sjuts tallied 18 of her team-high 25 points in the second stanza.

"I'm very proud of the way our girls kept playing and the fact they didn't panic," Williams said. "We took it one possession at a time."

Williams said one of the sparks the 'Cats received came from senior Megan Murphy who came off the bench to spark the defense, with four steals and six rebounds while dishing out three assists.

"Megan was a huge key to our win," Williams said. "We will need that from her all season. Our post players also did a much better job in the second half of limiting Mt. Marty's shots. In the first half we gave up a number of second and third chance points."

Sjuts led all scorers with 25 points while Katie Sperling and Krista Bernadt tallied 11 each and Kellie Schenk, 10.

The two teams tied in the rebounding charts with 43 caroms each with Sjuts leading the 'Cats with seven rebounds while Schenk, Murphy and Erin Aakre had six each.

SATURDAY, THE 'CATS came out strong against Chadron State, taking a 13-point lead into the locker room at the break at 45-32.

"Once again we did a nice job of executing the offense," Williams said. "We just never really put them away when we had the chance."

Williams said his team recognizes their strengths and weaknesses and utilize them to their advantage.

Stef Sjuts led the winners with 19 points while Katie Sperling tossed in 14 and Erin Aakre, 12. Krista Bernadt nearly made it four 'Cats in double figures with nine points.

Sperling owned the boards with a game-high 12 rebounds and WSC handled the ball very well, suffering just 10 turnovers while forcing 15.

So what did the debuting coach think about his opening weekend?

"It was a good basketball atmosphere in Rice Auditorium," he said.

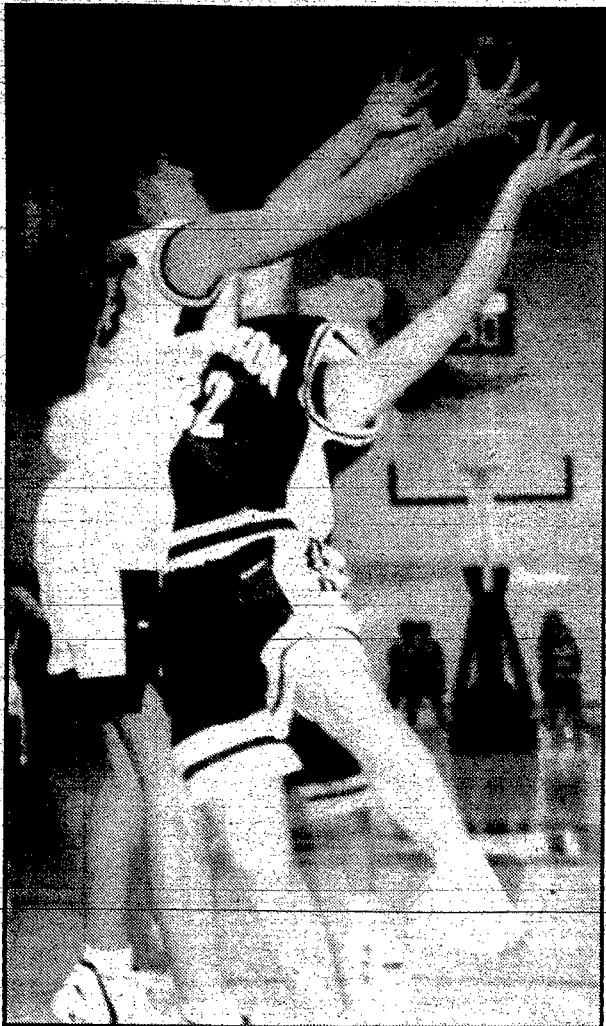

"I was very pleased with the community support we received and the girls really appreciated the crowd and the noise they made."

WSC will compete in the Central Missouri State Classic this weekend with contests against Southwest Missouri State on Friday and Central Missouri State on Saturday.

The 'Cats will return home to host USD on Tuesday night.

Bears defeated in first round of State Tourney

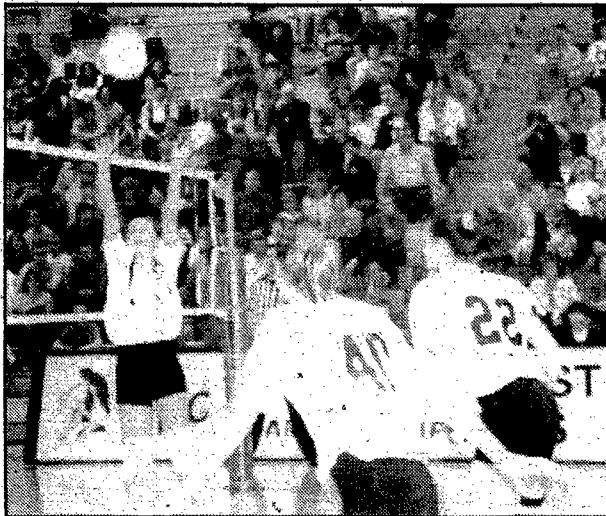

Patti Cunningham's Laurel-Concord volleyball team was defeated in the first round of the Class C-2 State Volleyball Tournament by Adams-Freeman High School, 15-7, 15-5.

The loss ended the Bears season at 11-11 while Freeman posted its 28th win of the year against just three losses. The victors, however, fell to Yutan in the semifinals.

The Bears could get only as close as 2-3 in the first game before falling, 15-7. However, the match lasted much longer than the final score might indicate.

Laurel's hemesis didn't appear to be as much Freeman as it did unforced errors.

Wildcats season ends with loss

By Louis Johnson
For the Herald

The Wayne State football team closed out their 1998 schedule with a 30-9 setback to Quincy College of Illinois, last Saturday in Quincy.

Kevin Haslam's troops finished the season with a 1-10 record despite jumping out to a 9-0 lead on the host team.

WSC scored on a one-yard pass from Jaime Jones to Ronny Blair at the 8:59 mark of the second quarter and just minutes later, kicker Brian Johnson booted a 25-yard field goal for a 9-0 'Cats advantage.

The Hawks came right back and scored on a 22-yard pass play and they took a 10-9 lead at the half following a 34-yard field goal with just under a minute remaining in the second quarter.

Unfortunately for WSC, all three second half touchdowns by the Hawks came on short drives and all of Quincy's scoring came on drives that began in WSC territory.

The Hawks scored on a 36-yard run, a 37-yard pass and an interception return of 74 yards in the second half.

WSC completely dominated the game in the stats category, compiling 368 total yards while giving up just 221.

WSC held a convincing 37:08-22:52 advantage in time of possession. The 'Cats suffered four turnovers in the contest.

Jaime Jones completed 25-of-45 passes for WSC with one interception and 210 yards.

Herman Gordon was the top receiver with nine catches for 99 yards while Damon Ruffin caught nine balls for 57 yards.

Gordon paced WSC's ground attack with 57 yards on 11 carries while BJ Helmstadter had 57 yards on 16 carries. Fred Giraud closed out the season with 34 yards on 11 tries.

Defensively, the 'Cats were led by Jesse Wavrunek with 13 tackles. The senior led WSC with 121 tackles on the season.

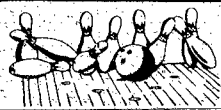

Jason Jansen netted eight tackles while Greg Davis, Antonio Jackson, Seth Last and John Bohan had four tackles each.

Jeremy Hoelker and Craig Price each intercepted a Quincy pass.

"I was very proud of our teams' effort this season despite the record," Haslam said. "Our kids gave a tremendous effort game in and game out. The off-season will be paramount to our program. We'll have over 70 kids in spring ball and we'll work extremely hard to improve for next season."

Wayne State volleyball team ends regular season at 18-20

The Wayne State women's volleyball team ended their season with an 18-20 record after going 2-1 at the Augustana College tournament last weekend.

Sharon Vanis' team opened play in Sioux Falls with a 15-1, 7-15, 15-13, 8-15, 15-10 victory over Southwest State of Minnesota.

Jessie Pontow and Lindsey Koch led the Wildcats in attacks with 21 and 20 kills, respectively, while Renee Fuhr had 12 and Jodie Larsen, eight.

Melanie Kershaw finished with 54 set assists while Carrie Fink led the team in serving with two aces.

Brenda Blausey paced the defense with five blocks with Pontow and Kershaw recording four each.

Fuhr was the leader in digs with 27 while Pontow had 21 and Koch, 19. Amy Johnson finished with 17 digs and Kershaw, 16.

WSC fell to 21st-ranked Minnesota-Duluth in match two, 11-15, 7-15, 6-15. Lindsey Koch led the 'Cats with 15 kills with Pontow netting 11.

Kershaw finished with 32 set assists and Fink once again paced the team in serving with two aces.

Pontow and Fink shared team honors in digs with 11 while Kershaw, Pontow and Blausey had two blocks each.

In the final match of the season, WSC came out a winner with a 15-12, 8-15, 15-11, 15-3 win over Winona State.

Lindsey Koch powered the winners with 18 kill spikes with Pontow netting 12 in her final collegiate appearance.

Kershaw closed out her freshman season with 34 set assists and led the team in serving with three aces while Brenda Blausey ended her career with a team-high seven blocks.

Kershaw had five blocks and Pontow, four. Renee Fuhr and Amy Johnson each had 10 digs to share team honors.

"I'm very pleased with the way we ended the season," Vanis said. "We won 11 of our last 16 matches and finished with an 18-20 record whereas at one point we were 7-15."

The Wayne State mentor said there's no doubt the seniors will be missed including Brenda Blausey, Renee Fuhr, Jessie Pontow, Amy Johnson and Carrie Fink.

Earlier last week the 'Cats defeated Mt. Marty in straight games as they closed out the home portion of the 1998 schedule, 15-8, 15-7, 15-1.

Renee Fuhr led the team with 13 kills with Jessie Pontow netting eight and Lindsey Koch, seven. Melanie Kershaw tallied 36 set assists and Koch had two ace serves to lead the winners.

Defensively, Koch was the leader with 14 digs while Carrie Fink notched 11.

Wayne State's Melanie Kershaw and Manni Frerichs team up to record an ace block which resulted in the 'Cats winning the second game of their match with Mt. Marty last week. WSC ended the year with an 18-20 record and a straight games sweep of the Lancers.

Laurel

"Service and receiving errors were very costly in this match," Cunningham said. "We'd work hard and earn a side-out one step at a time and then give them the momentum right back with a serving error."

The loss of starting junior Julie Abts early in the first game didn't aid the Bears chances either as Abts suffered an ankle injury and was carried from the floor.

The Bears trailed 3-1 in the second game before rallying to take a 5-3 lead. Senior Laurie Schroeder led the comeback attempt which put the Bears up by two as she notched an ace block and a kill spike.

Laurel however, would not score again as Freeman used great balance in attacking the Bears defense and dominated the rest of the game.

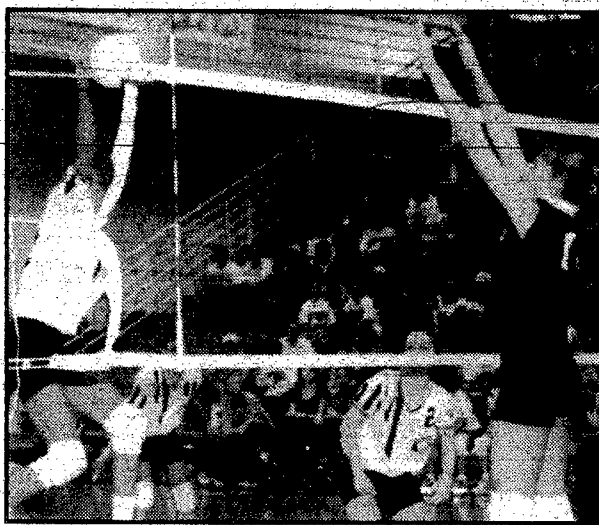

Schroeder led Laurel in hitting at 11-13 with six kills while Jenny Demuth was 14-16 with four kills.

Kristin Hank, Brittany Burns and Lani Recob each notched three ace hits and Abts had one before she was injured.

Kari Stewart finished with 23 set assists and Lani Recob led the team in serving at 11-12 with two aces while Schroeder was 6-6 with one ace.

Defensively, Schroeder paced the Bears with four blocks while notching a team-high 15 digs. Brittany Burns had eight digs with Recob and Demuth notching four each.

"Although we didn't achieve what we wanted this season from a win and loss standpoint, there were a lot of areas where we showed great skill, composure and depth," Cunningham said. "Advancing to the state tournament can set the tone for next season."

Laurel-Concord senior Laurie Schroeder pounds the volleyball for a kill during the Bears state tournament match.

WSC women's team falls to Morningside by two times in the contest. WSC was led by Kellie Schenk with 15 points with Erin Aakre tossing in 14 and Stef Sjuts, 11.

Management of Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple sclerosis (MS) is a progressive nerve condition that affects nerve cells throughout the body. A protective material called myelin surrounds all nerve cells. When a person has MS there is inflammation, swelling, and eventual destruction of myelin. This results in a disruption of impulses that travel to and from the brain. The loss of nerve-function may cause muscle weakness, blurred vision, tingling sensation, numbness, and fatigue.

The exact cause of MS is unknown. Scientists suspect viral infections, as well as hereditary and environmental factors. MS is not curable, but steroids, pain relievers and other drugs may help relieve symptoms. Two beta interferon medicines (Betaseron and Avonex) are prescribed to slow the progression of MS symptoms. Researchers are now evaluating compounds that may stimulate myelin protein. Agents that affect the immune system are also being evaluated.

Eichenberg on series

"Crime and Justice in Frontier America: The Good, the Bad, and the Reality" will be presented as a Center for Cultural Outreach Sunday Series event on Nov. 22.

George Eichenberg, Wayne State College criminal justice professor, will explore the criminal justice system in frontier America during this Sunday Series event at 3 p.m. in Ley Theatre, Brandenburg Education Building on the Wayne State College campus.

"The generation of Americans who grew up with Mr. Dillon and all the other folks at the Long Branch Saloon and, of course, the Lone Ranger and the famous bounty hunters has a definite image of justice on the frontier," said Beverly Soll, director of the Center for Cultural Outreach.

"Dr. Eichenberg will dispel some of these romantic notions," Soll said. "His presentation focuses on the justice system in place during the second half of the 19th century, giving emphasis to reality as compared to myths created by Hollywood, popular novels, and television."

"I'll be covering the particular topics of laws, punishments (including prisons), weapons, gun-fighters, lawmen, and what real gunfights were like. All of this will be compared to the Hollywood and folklore myths surrounding the Old West," Eichenberg said.

"I've done extensive research on the social control system in frontier America, particularly on prisons of that era," Eichenberg said.

A member of the WSC faculty since 1995, Eichenberg has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Texas at Tyler, Texas and a master's in criminal justice management from Sam Houston State University (SHSU) in Huntsville, Texas. He is a Ph.D. candidate in criminal justice at SHSU. Not only does he pursue criminal justice academically, but he has been involved with law enforcement in Missouri and Texas.

Eichenberg's multimedia presentation is the second program for the Center for Cultural Outreach during its sixth season of Sunday afternoon events, a series which explores historic and contemporary issues in art, music and the humanities.

"Our goal is to achieve interaction between presenting scholars and our collegiate and geographic communities and to provoke thought regarding the relevancy of issues in these disciplines to our everyday lives," Soll said.

Events are open to the public without admission fee. A reception and opportunity for questions follows the presentation. For more information on this event or the Series, call (402) 375-7492

Herbs for Health

Garlic for Cholesterol and Triglycerides

There are many potential uses for garlic (Allium sativum). These include high cholesterol, high triglycerides, hardening of the arteries, and mild hypertension. Garlic also has antibacterial, antiviral, and antifungal properties. Since 1975 there have been at least 132 human studies demonstrating the blood fat-lowering effects of garlic. Most involved individuals with high cholesterol, high triglycerides, or both. In some studies, a garlic powder tablet standardized to contain 1.3% allicin was used. The daily dose ranged from 600 to 900 mg, and the studies lasted from 4 to 12 weeks. Overall, use of garlic powder from 1 to 3 months resulted in a 5-12% reduction of total cholesterol and 27% reduction in triglycerides. Color-controlled garlic powder tablets may be preferred due to halitosis. Side effects may include heartburn, flatulence (gas), garlic taste in saliva, and other gastrointestinal problems. Since garlic reduces the clotting time of blood, persons taking, or planning to take, anticoagulant drugs should avoid consuming large quantities of the herb. There are no known conditions in which garlic use could cause major problems.

The GOLDEN YEARS

Presented By Patrick Luft

At Hirschfeld was born in 1903 in St. Louis. When he was 9, an art teacher told his mother that his talent deserved advanced instruction in New York. The family moved there, and Hirschfeld's later career confirmed the teacher's judgment. For 70 years his distinctive line drawings of theater people have appeared regularly in The New York Times, and earlier in The Herald Tribune. As his 95th birthday approached, an art museum exhibited his works and a film documentary premiered. He spends his days at his drawing board, nights at a theater or a party. His "trademark" is he hides his daughter's name, Nina, in each of his caricatures.

Presented as a public service to our senior citizens, and the people who care about them.

Consider a Roth IRA in 1998

On Aug. 5, 1997, President Clinton signed the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 (TRA97). A number of changes were made concerning retirement and education Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), capital gains and estate tax. The area I am covering in this column concerns the new Roth IRA, named after its principal sponsor, Senator William Roth (R-Dele.). Some of the highlights of the Roth IRA include the following:

As with the traditional IRA, the Roth IRA provides a retirement planning vehicle for individuals and families. A brief comparison of the two IRAs is to say that the traditional IRA allows a current income tax deduction, tax deferred growth, but is taxed at retirement. The Roth IRA does not allow a current income tax deduction, but provides tax free growth.

THE ROTH IRA

1. Tax free withdrawals can be taken after five years following the initial contribution and after age 59 1/2.
2. Tax-free distributions are permitted in the event of death or disability, or up to $10,000 for first time home buyers if it is used to help purchase a primary residence.
3. Contributions to the Roth IRA are not tax-deductible.
4. The traditional IRA requires that you begin taking distributions after age 70 1/2 while the Roth IRA does not require mandatory distributions upon reaching age 70 1/2 or any age.

5. You may continue to contribute to the Roth IRA as long as you earn income versus the traditional IRA which ends contributions at age 70 1/2 even if you may still be earning income.

6. You are eligible for a Roth IRA if your adjusted gross income (AGI) which is your total income minus adjustments such as self employment expenses and alimony, is less than $110,000 if you are single, and less than $160,000 if you are married and file a joint tax return. The contribution amounts begin to phase out at $95,000 (AGI) for single and $150,000 for married taxpayers filing jointly.

7. The maximum annual contribution of $2,000 is the same for the Roth and traditional IRAs.

CONVERSION FROM A TRADITIONAL EXISTING IRA TO A ROTH IRA

1. As long as your AGI is under $100,000 for both single and joint filers, you can convert your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA.

2. You will be required to pay income tax on your old IRA in the year of conversion.

3. For 1998 only, the income derived from a conversion may be spread evenly over four years beginning with paying taxes for the traditional IRA even if they are participating in an employer sponsored retirement plan.

3. The traditional IRA will allow up to a $10,000 penalty-free distribution for qualified first time home buyers.

4. As of Jan. 1, 1998, you can deduct your $2,000 IRA contribution even if your spouse is participating in a retirement plan at work as long as your combined AGI does not exceed $150,000.

1998 income tax year. For example, if you have a traditional IRA worth $40,000 and you convert all of it to a Roth IRA in 1998, you will be adding $10,000 in income to each tax return filed in 1998, 1999, 2000 and 2001 and pay taxes accordingly.

4. The income generated in a conversion is not added to the allowable AGI that determines eligibility for the annual Roth contribution.

5. When deciding whether to convert to a Roth IRA, consider your age, current tax liability, the amount to be converted, and your ability to pay the taxes that you owe as a result of the conversion. This may be an especially good year for farmers to convert a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA if their income has been depressed due to low commodity prices and may even be reporting a loss. Check with your tax advisor to look at your individual situation.

6. Features of the Roth IRA go into effect at the time of conversion.

TRADITIONAL IRA IMPROVEMENTS

1. The traditional IRA will continue to allow deductible contributions, but more taxpayers will be eligible. As of Jan. 1, 1998, AGI thresholds, to determine eligibility for the traditional IRA will increase gradually through 2007. In 1998, the income threshold is $30,000 to $40,000 for single taxpayers and $50,000 to $60,000 for married couples filing jointly. Earners within the threshold are eligible for partial tax deductions.

2. Taxpayers who are below the threshold limits can fully deduct a

UNL honors high school students

Karissa Carlson of Laurel, Concord High School, and Hailey Daehnke, Audrey Kai, and Erin Mann of Wayne High School, were among the list of 1998-99 Distinguished Scholars recently honored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL).

There were 278 students at Nebraska high schools honored by UNL as Distinguished Scholars for their outstanding academic achievements at a special banquet.

Chancellor James Moeser.

"We are looking for students who are recommended by teachers and counselors as being students and people of the first rank. Students who are creative and motivated, and who demonstrate leadership," Moeser said. "We want students who want to be intellectually challenged, who want to work with and learn from teachers who are tops in their field. We are looking for students who want to create a more just society, students who value, nurture and encourage diversity and understanding, who have a sense of integrity and character, the people who are interested in being the next generations of leaders for Nebraska."

Winside News

CORRECTION

A photograph and article recently appeared in the paper showing a new fire department being built in Winside. Information on funds obtained for the new facility were incorrect.

Funds for the construction of the building were obtained through Municipal Bonds.

The village of Winside created a sinking fund two years ago by the vote of the people. The bond will be repaid through this sinking fund and from a quarterly rental fee that the Rural Fire Protection District #4 is paying to the village.

The building which is estimated to cost $200,000 will be a 80 foot by 80 foot metal building and is being constructed by Medallion Construction Company of Norfolk.

It will house three fire trucks, a first response truck, two ambulances and an emergency personnel carrier.

The building will have a meeting room with a kitchen area, rest rooms, showers, and laundry facilities. It is estimated to be completed in November and an open house will be held in the near future.

The December committee will be Ella Miller, Irma Vahlkamp, Bev Voss, and Arlene Allemann. They will pack Christmas boxes for shut-ins on Dec. 10 at 9 a.m. Anyone who would like to donate food or cash may do so before that time.

Election of a new president and treasurer were held. President will

Repairs mount up

Kept car a year too long

It's Saturday afternoon, and I'm trying hard to ignore what's on TV. I've had a funny feeling about K State all year. You know, they deserve to win, really!

We don't get our Wayne paper until Saturday. Our mail frequently is not in our box until 2 or 3 p.m., but it gets here earlier on game days. As I reread my complaints about teeth, I thought to myself, "and the other thing that is taking all my money this year is that damned car."

I won't bore you with the details; suffice to say, I've kept it a year too long. Last year, I had no repairs to deduct. The mileage paid by my employer covered my expenses. I'm making up for it this year. Mike's is one year older, with several thousand more miles, but mine's the one in the shop.

The Farmer's Wife
 By: Pat Meterhenry

I announced to the shop foreman that they and the dentist were keeping me broke. He grinned and said, "Yes, those dentists are expensive!"

We lucked out on weather this week. While you people were snowed in, we were simply bucking wind. That's bad enough, but I wasn't sorry to miss the white stuff. The wind's really blowing today, too, but it's warm and sunny.

I'm sitting in the new room because it's the sunniest. The guys finally have a cement drive poured in front of the new garage that's under it. Now, they are stacking cement blocks for retaining walls. I was afraid it wasn't going to get done yet this fall. All we need yet is a basketball hoop.

We've had two truckers hauling asphalt for highways for several weeks. They're from Bayard, a long way from home. Next week, another couple working on local roads will be staying. Theisen Brothers of Osmond seem to do a lot of that work in this area. Makes us homesick to see 40 county trucks around.

The score's tied, and I'm taking this to Murdock to the post office. I went to a brunch at my sister's this morning, so haven't accomplished anything yet today. It's time to get busy, and try to keep my mind off that game!

Cost-share available for fertilizer and pesticide containment facilities

NORFOLK - The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Board of Directors approved funding, at their October 22, 1998 meeting, for a program that will help farmers pay for secondary containment and loadout facilities that are required for bulk storage of pesticide and/or fertilizer.

Lower Elkhorn NRD Water Resources Manager Rick Wozniak says, "Secondary containment and loadout facilities protect our soil, surface water, and groundwater by containing and controlling leakage or spillage that may occur in areas where fertilizers or pesticides are stored in large quantities." Wozniak continued, "State law requires secondary containment and loadout facilities when bulk storage of liquid pesticides and fertilizers exceed specified limits."

The Lower Elkhorn NRD will reimburse 50% of the cost, up to $5,000 per cooperator, for the design and construction of these facilities. To be eligible for this program, a cooperator must store the fertilizer or pesticide for their own, noncommercial use. The budget limit for the program is $50,000. Applications will be accepted on a 'first come, first serve' basis. Anyone interested in applying for his program will need to fill in a Lower Elkhorn NRD 100a form at their local NRCS Office. The sign-up period for this program began Tuesday, October 27, 1998.

NRD develops No-till Planting Incentives

NORFOLK - Are you interested in getting paid to no-till a quarter section of your land? The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District, along with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and the Cooperative Extension Service, are developing a no-till incentives program for area producers. The program's attractive incentives will provide producers with significant payments, guidance from agronomists, and the chance to experience the benefits of no-till.

"It is our most cost effective conservation practice," stated Larry Wetterberg, Madison County NRCS technician. Wetterberg continued, "With a no-till system, you can achieve results equal to or greater than tilling."

A no-till system gets its start at harvest time. Remember not to till your land after harvest and lose your chance to participate. Contact your Natural Resources Conservation Service office for more information.

Contest to bring awareness

A statewide poster contest will bring pet overpopulation, animal abuse, and neuter and spay awareness to Nebraskans.

The deadline for the Mickle-Bush Neuter/Spay Foundation annual Neuter/Spay Poster Contest for 1999 is Jan. 5, 1999. The contest is open to kindergarten through 12th grade students across Nebraska, said Annette Hall, volunteer in service to America volunteer at the University of Nebraska. Last year, 368 posters were entered from students across the state.

"Compassion grows when children look beyond themselves to speak about situations in their world," Hall said. "The poster contest gives them the chance to speak out for their furry friends."

The posters are to illustrate pet overpopulation, animal abuse, and neutering and spaying as the best solution. Posters will be judged on artistry as well as relevance of message.

A selection of posters will be displayed at the Nebraska State Office Building during February, which is Neuter/Spay Awareness month. Savings bonds valued at $100, $75, and $50 will be awarded in each of the four categories: kindergarten through third grade, fourth through eighth grade, and ninth through 12th grade. Computer-generated artwork can be used this year, but will be judged separately with all grades combined. All posters must be on 12-by-18-inch paper.

Posters can be sent to Mickle-Bush Neuter/Spay Foundation, P.O. Box 5707, Lincoln, Neb.

68505. For more information or if the poster needs to be returned, call the foundation at (402) 488-3865.

Sponsors are the Mickle-Bush Neuter/Spay Foundation in partnership with Lincoln Animal Control, Americorps VISTA and 4-H, a part of Cooperative Extension in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"Through the years I have seen a number of changes in both the dietary end of the hospital and in the services offered by Providence Medical Center," Mrs. Beckman said.

"The rules and regulations are much more strict today. Years ago, a dietitian came to visit occasionally. Now, the dietitian spends one day a week at the hospital.

"Supplies are now ordered on the computer. We also now prepare meals of the Senior Center, the Meals on Wheels program and the Winside Meals on Wheels program," she added.

Mrs. Beckman also noted the increasing number of services provided by the hospital, including a number of doctors and clinics held at the hospital.

"The more people we have using the hospital, the busier we are in the dietary department," she said.

"I stay busy all the time and I really enjoy being with people. My job at Providence Medical Center has allowed me to meet many people through the years. I really can't say enough about how well I have enjoyed working at PMC."

When Mrs. Beckman is not working at Providence Medical Center, she enjoys going to the Wayne Senior Center, gardening and embroidering quilt blocks.

"I stay busy all the time and I really enjoy being with people. My job at Providence Medical Center has allowed me to meet many people through the years. I really can't say enough about how well I have enjoyed working at PMC."

Mrs. Beckman was one of 70 health care professionals from Nebraska hospitals, selected for the Caring Kind Employee of the Year Award by the Nebraska Association of Hospitals and Health Systems (NAHHS).

A number of Mrs. Beckman's family members were able to be present for the awards luncheon held at the Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln on Oct. 23.

Familiar things help with Alzheimer's

By Julie Geiger
Staff Writer

The evocative smell of baking bread and apple pie, the fragrance of a rose in bloom and the touch of a human hand. All can be used to ease the suffering of Alzheimer's patients and burden of caregivers, according to keynote speakers at the sixth annual Alzheimer's and Related Dementia Conference, held in Sioux City.

Aromatherapy, massage, sensory gardening and art therapy were a few of the techniques suggested for use in caring for Alzheimer's patients.

According to conference speaker Megan Carnarius, who is a nurse who specializes in Alzheimer's patient services, aromatic herbs and essential oils can provide good sensory stimulation for persons suffering from Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia.

"The scents have an incredible memory-jogging effect," said Carnarius.

Aromatherapy can be used to help care givers reach uncommunicative patients.

For instance, when Carnarius brought a sample of sage to a session with some Alzheimer's patients, one woman began describing a scene of her past Thanksgiving family celebrations.

"When she was done, the patient felt really snug... for a few moments she wasn't memory-impaired," said Carnarius.

In addition, by the patients' reminding her caregivers learned valuable information such as more about her family their names, habits and traditions — which they could later use to communicate with her, she added.

Besides memory stimulation, scents can be used to comfort or stimulate patients, said Carnarius.

For example, using a dish of lavender oil on a bedside table can be relaxing to Alzheimer's patients, she said.

Many suffering from Alzheimer's have trouble sleeping or get their days and nights mixed up, she explained.

According to Carnarius, a patient may get up in the middle of the night thinking it is morning and begin dressing. However, upon becoming aware of the smell of lavender, a patient she worked with went back to bed.

Not only did it stimulate the patient to reality, but the patient's family caregivers were able to receive adequate rest, said Carnarius.

"Scents are also a great mood stabilizer," she told The Star.

Caregivers can create calm for an agitated patient or stimulate a lethargic one through the use of aromatherapy, said Carnarius.

Aromatherapy isn't a new technique; perfume, bath and beauty industries have used it for many years, she said.

"I'm not saying it cures Alzheimer's," said Carnarius.

"Aromatherapy is an added tool we can use in the treatment of Alzheimer's," said Carnarius. "It can be used to support other techniques."

"It can help lower the dosage of medication a patient takes or keep them off medication," she added.

Carnarius combines aromatherapy with massage techniques.

She trains caregivers on basic massage techniques which can be used to stimulate or soothe a patient.

She also instructs caregivers to "not become swamped" by the duties of caregiving.

"Make functional things pleasurable — make it pleasurable for both of you," said Carnarius.

For example, take the task of washing hands and face of a patient after a meal.

Carnarius suggests using the Japanese restaurant tradition of a steamed, scented wash cloth.

"The (aromatherapy and massage) program in general enhances simple pleasures and quality of care," she said.

Carnarius first learned about using aromatherapy and massage as a treatment through a co-worker in a special education facility. The co-worker had been educated in the techniques in Europe.

"In Europe nurses and doctors are taught to use aromatherapy and massage as a treatment," she said. "Some doctors only prescribe this."

"It is a tool we haven't explored here in this country," said Carnarius, who traveled to Europe and studied the techniques at the same school, Hausehka, then returned to the states and earned her nursing license.

Guest speaker Jeannie Larson, who has a masters degree in therapeutic recreation and outdoor education, instructed Alzheimer's patients' caregivers on the use of sensory gardening as a treatment tool at the conference.

"Plants are pretty powerful," Larson told The Star. "They are the magic. I'm just the orchestra conductor."

Gardening is a tool we can use to bring social, physical, emotional and cognitive benefits to people, she said.

Socially, gardening can alleviate isolation. One way to do this have patients join a Garden Club.

In addition, if an Alzheimer's patient is agitated or shows signs of "pent-up wandering," "a garden is a place to let some of that energy out," said Larson.

Emotionally, scents from a garden can be powerful stimulants to memory recall.

Gardening can also increase their cognitive skills. Besides stimulating memory recall, patients can complete the simple tasks of gardening. Both benefits stimulate brain thinking.

For one young gentleman suffering from Alzheimer's, the garden is a place where he can direct his energy and participate with others, said Larson.

"The garden is his place," Larson said. "He can show his wife, grandchildren what he's accomplished. It's a place where he feels completed."

November Home Care Month

During the month of November, the Home Health Care (HHC) nurses and staff at Providence Medical Center would like to thank the community for its continued support and encouragement in helping meet the needs of the community.

Home Health (HH) provides skilled care. A registered nurse will make a visit to the home to determine eligibility. HH provides dressing changes while assessing the health process, IV therapy, blood draws, catheter changes, feeding tube changes, monitoring for complications of diabetes or congestive heart failure, medication problems or any other skilled nursing services.

Those qualifying for a skilled service may also qualify for a home health aide. One requirement of the aide is that they must provide personal care such as bathing and then minor housework, cooking and laundry can be done.

HHC also provides physical therapy and occupational therapy which can help people regain strength and walking skills. Speech therapy is also available through home health care.

As part of the observance of HHC month, PMC HHC would like to answer some questions you might have regarding HHC.

Q: Do I have the right to choose my HHC agency?

A: Everyone has the right to choose their HHC agency. Your choice will be honored by the hospital discharge planner, your doctor or your referring agency. If, however, you are a member of an HMO, your choice of a HHC agency is limited to those agencies affiliated with the HMO. If you get services from an agency which is not affiliated with the HMO, the HMO will not pay the bill.

Q: Is the agency approved for participation by the Medicare/Medicaid program?

A: Medicare inspects home care agencies every year to assure they meet these standards. Providence Medical Center HHC is an approved agency and since affiliation with Providence Medical Center has had four deficiency-free surveys. Medicare will only pay for HHC services provided by a HHC agency that meets Medicare quality standards.

Q: How long has the agency been serving the community? Providence Medical Center HHC was affiliated with Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk from 1980 through Sept. 1995. PMC HHC became a service provided by PMC in September of 1995. The average length of time the same staff has been with this community is nine years.

Q: Does it provide the services I need?

A: Providence Medical Center provides skilled nursing, home aid services, physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech therapy. All services are Medicare and Medicaid approved. PMC also has available a private pay service for people who have needs beyond that what Medicare/Medicaid will pay.

Private pay service provides personal care, laundry, meal preparation, minor housekeeping, transportation, etc. PMC HHC staff also see first time mothers and their babies.

Q: What arrangements are made for emergencies? Are the agency's caregivers available 24 hours a day, seven days a week?

A: PMC HHC nurses are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Q: Will I be charged for any services or supplies?

A: At the present time, Medicare/Medicaid pays 100 percent for services meeting their guidelines and most supplies are paid at 100 percent as well, except medications. Insurance plans vary as to what they pay, but most are 80-100 percent as well.

Q: What role will my family and I have in creating the plan of care?

A: Your HHC nurse, doctor, family and you work together to create your plan of care.

Q: What is a careplan?

A: Your doctor authorizes a careplan. Working with a home nurse, your doctor decides what kind of services you need and how often you'll need these services. Your plan also includes such things as medical equipment needed and the results the doctor expects from therapy. HHC staff provide care according to the authorized plan of care. Your doctor and HHC nurses and family review your plan of care as the severity of your condition requires, but at least every 62 days.

HHC staff are required to notify your doctor promptly of any changes that suggest a need to modify your plan of care. PMC HHC staff work closely with your own physicians and have good support from them.

Q: What is all this I hear about fraud and abuse?

A: In larger metropolitan areas there have been proven cases of fraud in which agencies claim benefits for services they haven't provided or claim benefits for deceased patients. In contrast, PMC's HHC has received four deficiency-free Medicare surveys since September of 1995 when the agency became affiliated with PMC. Unfortunately, because of the abuse by some agencies, all agencies have come under scrutiny. PMC HHC is a not-for-profit agency and is bonded.

Q: Will the agency be in regular contact with my doctor?

A: PMC HHC staff has frequent contact with your doctor, but also continues to stress, that when it is possible, patients should continue to make regular doctor visits. HHC staff can be a go-between when the patient is unable to get to the clinic.

Q: Will your agency be able to come into my community?

A: PMC HHC covers an area 30-35 miles around Wayne, which includes the towns of Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel, Dixon, Concord, Allen, Emerson, Pender, Stanton, Wisner, Beemer, Martinsburg, Randolph, Coleridge, Winside, Carroll, Hoskins, Belden and Pilger.

With the support and guidance from HHC, patients are able to come home from the hospital sooner and receive continued monitoring and medical treatment while still under the direction of their doctor.

With today's changing trends in the health care system, the home is becoming an ever-increasing choice and possibility for quality health care.

PMC HHC strives to do their best to meet the community's needs and takes pride in their care.

Woodworking keeps Schmit busy, neighbors entertained

By Bernice Blecha
Osmond Republican

OSMOND — For Henry (Hank) Schmit of Osmond, hammering nails as a kid has led to a hobby which provides relaxation for him and a lot of enjoyment for others.

Examples of his work include displays in the front and back yards at the home of Schmit and his wife, Carolyn, at the corner of Eighth and Logan streets during the Christmas holidays.

Adults passing by that corner can be prompted to remember holidays of years gone by or meditate on the reason for the season as they take time to look at the nativity scene and Santaland with its workshop, elves, sleigh and reindeer which decorate the front yards, or the totally white look of angels and reindeer which stand in the backyard.

For children, the brightly lit displays heighten the anticipation and excitement of waiting for Santa to bring Christmas presents.

It was some 25 years ago that Hank began his woodworking hobby as a respite from his "day job."

He's a familiar figure in a wide area around Osmond, having been associated with Osmond Oil Company (formerly Osmond Skelly Service) since Aug. 12, 1955. He handles most of the firm's tank wagon business. At present, he and his wife (who serves as secretary at St. Mary's Catholic School) own the firm, while son Doug is also involved in the operation.

Most of the woodworking is done in the garage at the Schmit home. All the cutting and sanding is done there. In the summer, he also does the painting in the garage, however, he takes some of the smaller jobs to the basement of the couple's home to paint them.

Hank says for his projects he, "likes simple things and working at my own pace. I don't want it to have pressure and become another job."

His woodworking isn't limited to holiday displays, however. He's done a number of decorator shelves, such as those with the cut-out hearts, and some of them have turned out pretty nice, he said. One, he recalls, ran the length of a wall of a room.

Some of his projects have special significance: Reception tables for the weddings of the couple's two sons and their brides — Doug and the former Denise Rasmussen and Tom and the former Dottie Sauser — were decorated with centerpieces made by Hank.

Children hold a special place in Hank's heart and for some 10 years, a number of students have been beneficiaries of his woodworking efforts.

Osmond St. Mary's School seventh and eighth graders and their parents host a soup dinner in February of each year. For a number of years, the students have selected a pattern for table decorations after which Hank cuts them out. He goes an extra step and does the sanding. That's (sanding) too messy to do in school, he points out.

Daughter-in-law Denise teaches fifth grade at Osmond Community School. For special gifts, she, too, selects patterns for wood items which Hank cuts out and sands for the students to finish.

The students are never charged for the wood or his time.

Schmit says he has filled a few requests for wood items from friends and relatives.

Even though the 1952 graduate of Osmond High School is nearing retirement age, he doesn't have plans to promote a woodworking business. "I still want to keep it a hobby with no pressure," he says.

Woodworking isn't Hank's only free time activity. He also enjoys the time he is able to spend with his three grandsons, David, Dominic and Dante.

Hank was busy painting a turkey to be placed in the Schmit yard for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Hank says he's grown kind of tired of the "all white" of some of the yard's Christmas decorations. So, he has another Christmas scene in mind to have ready for the 1998 holidays.

Once the turkey was finished, he got started on the new display.

Pony joins menagerie at Billiar home

By Julie Geiger
Staff Writer

The proud South Sioux City "parents" anxiously awaited the moment of her birth. They'd been waiting almost eight years to have this baby.

Shirley Billiar shows off Bailey, the new colt born recently at their home.

Last month, they saw their baby on a sonogram and on Oct. 8, the final 11-month pregnancy wait was over.

But the proud parents, veterinarian Robert Billiar of South Sioux City and his wife, Shirley, missed the big event by a few minutes.

Bailey Billiar was born that evening weighing 30 pounds and standing 20 inches tall. She's got her mother's star on her forehead and her father's grey and white spot markings.

The proud parents have hung a sign in their front yard at 541 Fair Oaks Drive announcing, "It's a filly."

On Monday, Shirley was creating pretty pink birth announcements to send to family and friends while Bailey's biological mom — a miniature dapple grey pony named Barby Doll — kept her eye on her newborn.

The Billiar's have probably spent the same amount of time picking out the foal's name as other parents do for their children.

The filly's first name, Bailey, was chosen because it could be a girl's or boy's name. Shirley told The Star. Her official name will be "Bailey Full Moon" — the last name is after her father, a grey and white paint miniature pony named Navaho. A paint is the name for a spotted horse.

"Also, Barby and Bailey sound good together," she added.

This is the couple's first miniature pony foal, but it isn't the first time they've named a pet.

Bailey joins a menagerie of pets at their home. There are two cats, Lily, a small white Maltese dog, who greets visitors at the door; and an aquarium of fish. Just the typical household animals, but Bailey has some competition in the uniqueness category from Sydney, an Australian Cockatoo, who says, "Hey, Love" and whistles at passersby. Sydney also barks just like Lily.

Having a miniature pony foal is a novelty, said Shirley, adding that they've had four miniature ponies over the past eight years, but this is the first time they've had a baby.

"She's going to live here forever," said Shirley. "It's been a fun experience."

Area farmers are facing price crisis

By Julie Geiger
Staff Writer

With low prices and increased production costs, farming can be hazardous to one's pocketbook... some say as devastating as the Farm Crisis of the mid-1980s.

The reasons, however, are very different. In the mid-1980s, the crisis was the result of too much credit. Today's crisis is the result of low prices that are sometimes below even the cost of production.

In the past 20 years, corn prices have risen just 40 cents per bushel at market, but each bushel now costs about $1 to produce.

The cost of soybean production increased 32 percent, but the market price of soybeans only increased 9.5 percent in the same time period, according to statistics provided by the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and the Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service.

To keep those numbers in perspective, it may help to look at the rate of inflation for the 20 year period—a whopping 265 percent, according to the 1997 U.S. Statistical Abstract.

In 1973, when Craig Rowland of South Sioux City began farming near Newcastle, he told the Star he put his whole crop in for what seed costs now.

"Prices for most of the grains we raise are about half of what they should be," said crop farmer Leo Krämper of Dakota City. "It is a long complaint of the farmer that we never get to set the price of what we raise. Grain is one of the most fluctuating commodities there is."

"Chemicals, seeds, fertilizers, machinery and interest rates are just a few items that do not change much," said Krämper. "If anything they increase rather than lower in price. Groceries, cars and insurance are some others not farm related—that tend to increase.

Leo and Vince Krämper of Dakota City are two area farmers who say the current farm crisis threatens the future of area farms.

Livestock producers haven't fared much better. In the past 20 years, cattle prices and cattle production costs (per hundred weight) have almost risen at the same rate; however, hog prices dropped 12.6 percent while production costs increased 26.2 percent.

"I quit farming myself in 1983," said Rowland, who currently is the Dakota County Executive Director of the USDA Farm Service Agency in South Sioux City. "I got out because the hog prices were so low."

"I can't remember a time in my life (like this year) where everything is down," said Rowland, who is 47 years of age. "Usually one price is up and one is down."

Dakota County, alone, lost 100 farms over the past 20 years.

"We're seeing producers quitting livestock, especially hogs—the (hog) prices have been down for quite a while," said Rowland. "Livestock is easier to get rid of; you just sell them. With crops, you have invested in the land—you have to have crops or get nothing."

"This year isn't going to be a great year," he said, adding that the gross dollars per acre will be down because yields will be high.

"I'm concerned in particular for the marginal producers, particularly young producers who've just started up," said Rowland. "They won't have any resources to fall back on. It's even going to strain the older producers."

There are many farmers that can not withstand this type of balance for very long," said Krämper. "The loans at the bank for machinery, seeds, land, chemicals and fertilizers will still be due with interest. If these prices remain low for very long, I'm afraid we will see some farm auctions around the area and more farmers and farm wives will seek a second job to supplement their income."

"By far this year is the worst year in the 10 years I've been farming," said feedlot cattle producer Brent Sebade of Emerson. "This past week was the first time cattle producers made a profit on the feedlot end of it."

Sebade, who is considered a "young" farmer in the area, blames the cattle market on the fact that 80 percent of the price for fat cattle killed each day in the United States is controlled by the three largest meat packers: Monfort, Excel and IBP, Inc.

"Although market prices have remained low at (grocery stores) the price hasn't come down," he said. "You as a consumer are getting ramrodded there, too."

"The prices put the squeeze on cattle producers if it stays this low," said Wally Birkley of Jackson, who has a cow-calf operation. "This year's worse than it has been for the last few years, but it's not real bad yet."

"If a farmer stays at cattle production long enough, he'll do all right," added Birkley.

"Older farmers can weather the storm pretty well," said Krämper. "Young farmers don't have the savings or collateral. Older farmers have the experience; we've gone through this before."

"I don't know of any young farmers who've made it without local help—such as from their parents," said Frank Morse, Dakota County UNL Extension Agent, adding that he's had a few young individuals come into the office and start farming "but they're all gone now."

Avera Sacred Heart picks site for senior living campus

YANKTON, S.D. — A 40-acre site overlooking the Missouri River Valley has been picked for a Senior Living Campus being planned by Avera Sacred Heart Hospital.

The land owned by Sacred Heart Monastery has been approved by the Benedictine Sisters Monastery Council for use by the hospital for the comprehensive seniors' complex.

Pamela Rezac, president and CEO of Avera Sacred Heart, said the land along Highway 52 less than a mile from West City Limits Road offers a prime location for carrying the hospital's Benedictine mission into the regional community.

"We looked at several sites and this location best fulfills our needs," said Rezac. "It offers a site for senior living that has the beautiful panorama of the Missouri River Valley. That is the scenic view the Sisters want to share with our seniors. Then when you look to the east, you see the spire of Bishop Marty Chapel. I like to think of it as reaching into the community and still keeping sight of our Benedictine heritage."

Sister Jacquelyn Ernster, prioress of Sacred Heart Monastery, said offering this picturesque location expresses the Benedictine Sisters' commitment to quality of life for the region's elderly.

"We are pleased to have a part in this visionary project," she said. "Serving the elderly is a high priority for the Benedictine Sisters and the hospital."

Work on the senior living campus started with an April feasibility study into replacement of Sister James Nursing Home with a comprehensive seniors complex.

A demographic study of Yankton County predicts that by year 2015 the population of persons 65 or older will increase more than 36 percent.

"Avera Sacred Heart believes this campus will be a contribution to the region and will, potentially, attract new residents to the area," he said.

The proposed senior living campus will include a 113-bed long-term care facility along with assisted living units, congregate housing, and cottages for independent living.

Rezac said the "user friendly" campus will offer residents main-floor access. Buildings will be designed to take advantage of the scenic view.

Services on the senior living campus will include a chapel, common areas for dining and activities, postal and banking services and recreational facilities.

The property is close to the hospital's main campus and will require minimal site work.

Laurel lady still enjoys a hobby she learned as a child

LAUREL — Lillian Haisch is still practicing a hobby she picked up over 70 years ago.

Haisch, of Laurel, began crocheting when she was 10-years old. She has crocheted over 80 afghans so far, and not one of them is the same.

Haisch's mother got her interested in the hobby.

"My mother liked to sew and embroider," she said. "She encouraged me to learn to crochet, and I had three aunts that wanted to teach me."

Haisch's first afghan was crocheted when she was 16 years old.

"It was a ripple pattern in fall colors of orange, green and brown," she said. "It's best to start with a big project so you repeat the same stitch often enough that it becomes easy to do."

She also learned to crochet by going around pillowcases, dresser scarves that her mother had embroidered.

"I still use the dresser scarf that my mother embroidered for me while I was in high school," she said.

Haisch began keeping a log of all the afghans she has made, whom they were made for, and the colors she used in them.

Her most prized afghan has 43 different colors in it. She remembers it well.

"I had to run all over the place to get the colors that pattern asked for," she said.

"I enjoy making afghans for relatives as wedding gifts, for special anniversaries and for the celebration of a baby's birth," she said.

She has just completed her 86th afghan. Each afghan takes about three months to complete, she said.

"Even a crib or bassinet afghan takes that long, because I use a finer thread," she said.

She has also crocheted doilies and chair covers. She also entered a hand-bag in the Federated Women's Club Fine Arts Show, where she earned a first place ribbon.

She has taught several other area residents to crochet. She has done this on her own and through the Tuesday Club.

She remains busy today. Currently, she is working on baby afghans for her three great-granddaughters' dolls.

Couple celebrates 68 years together

By Julie Geiger
Staff Writer

When she caught his eye 68 years ago and he invited her to a movie, neither one probably realized the impact they'd have on South Sioux City.

Josephine and Alvin B. Hayes met in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, when he moved in next door to her family. He became acquainted with her father — both enjoyed playing cards together.

"What he saw in me was that I was so different from everybody else — from being brought up so strict," said 85-year-old Josephine about the year she was 18 and Alvin was 23. "My parents were very strict. I had to be in at a certain time, and didn't get to go out very much."

On Sept. 27, 1930, they were married at her minister's house. She wore a dress of her favorite color — blue — and he wore a gray suit.

In about 1934, the couple moved to the Sioux City area. Alvin worked in meat packing plants, including Cudahy's in Sioux City and IBP, Inc. in Dakota City. He retired from IBP, Inc. 25 years ago at the age of 65. Josephine cleaned offices at the Badgerow Building in Sioux City when their children were in high school.

They paid $750 for their home at 1029 Fifth Ave.

They have eight children: Alvin Hayes, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla.; Irene Lewis of Los Angeles; John Dennis Hayes of Milwaukee; Ruth Greer of Sioux City; Frank Hayes of Los Angeles; Margaret Powell, deceased; Geraldine DeRoach of Rock Island, Ill.; and Dale Hayes of Lincoln, Neb. The couple also has 48 grandchildren and at least 14 great-grandchildren.

"I lose track," said Josephine. They've seen South Sioux City change from muddy paths to paved streets, from using well water to city water and from outhouses to indoor toilets. Transportation was by trolley cars and river boats, now it's by buses and cars.

In their 68 years of marriage, they've only been separated for two weeks — during World War II. Alvin had been drafted, but the draft was called off.

"They sent him home because he had too many kids," she added, with a smile.

Josephine credits their love and their ability to "always talk things over and agree on what to do" for the longevity of their marriage. Alvin suffers from Alzheimer's disease, but Josephine still visits him daily at Regency Square.

The Hayes are more than just another couple celebrating an anniversary; they are the oldest living black couple living in South Sioux City.

They are also two of the original founders of the First Baptist Church which opened its doors in 1921 to South Sioux City's black community. The church is still located at the corner of 10th Street and Fifth Avenue.

"My parents are the only two parishioners left," said their son, Alvin. "It has no minister, but the church is still open."

The old have died, and the young have left, added Alvin.

His parents' names are listed on a plaque at the church.

According to Alvin, it was the first church for blacks in Nebraska and the only black Baptist church within 100 miles.

The original church was burned to the ground but it was rebuilt at the original site.

"The Ku Klux Klan used to come out and burn crosses there," he said. "The adults would shuffle the kids home, then stay at the church to see it didn't burn down again."

"There were only about 300 black settlers in South Sioux City," said their son. "The railroad track along Fourth Avenue separated the black and white communities (in South Sioux City)."

There weren't any written rules about crossing the tracks, but it was understood that when the sun went down blacks didn't go across and whites didn't come over, he said. "There was no socialization between the communities."

But for the Hayes' children being a black kid wasn't much different than being a white kid in South Sioux City.

"The neighborhood got together at one house," said Alvin. "We played marbles, jump rope and baseball."

The black community didn't have any stores, not even a bar, he said. There were a couple of "white" grocery stores across the tracks they could shop at, said Alvin.

"We butchered our own hogs and raised ducks, chickens and had a garden," said Josephine. "Every member of the family had a row to take care of (in the garden)."

"The (South Sioux City) school system didn't view us as a threat," said Alvin, adding that there were only two other black students in his class. "I learned the same thing as others did: it didn't make sense to break up classes for three students."

"We got a good quality education (in South Sioux City)," said Alvin. "In Sioux City, there were segregated schools."

He remembered inviting his classmates to his birthday parties. The white students would bring a present to his front door, but wouldn't stay for the party. But he continued the party with his black friends.

"I grew up not realizing I was discriminated against because I got my education and played sports," said Alvin, "no is an attorney.

"They got their education, but they had to leave here," said his mother. "They weren't hiring Negroes then."

One of the Hayes' fond memories is sitting on their front porch. People would drive by and wave.

"People complain they don't do it anymore," said Alvin, adding that he remembers the day Sheriff Allen Bligh came down the street with his patrol car lights on — just to help his dad build a garage.

Little is written in area history books about the black community of South Sioux City and its church.

"For as average a community as it was it was an isolated area," said Alvin. "It was not accepted, not noted, not regarded as existing."

Osteoporosis, the silent disease

By Jane Potter, M.D.
Chief of Geriatrics and Gerontology
University of Nebraska Medical Center

Most people are familiar with osteoporosis. It is the leading cause of the more than 1.5 million fractures reported in the United States each year and costs Americans $10 billion per year. It is a debilitating disease that weakens bones and increases the risk of fracture, typically in the hip, spine or wrist.

However, even though osteoporosis is well-known, it is often the silent disease, because it attacks without warning and can do damage for years before it is diagnosed. If undetected or untreated it can painlessly progress until a bone breaks.

Once a bone is fractured, hospitalization and surgery may be required. Spinal or vertebral fractures often result in loss of height, back pain and deformity.

Researchers at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha recently finished a clinical trial that tested a new technique of identifying persons at risk for osteoporosis. The Lunar Archielles+ Ultrasonic Bone Densitometer can both identify and monitor bone loss. The test takes only a few minutes and can be performed during an office visit.

The instrument requires patients to place one of their feet in warm water for four minutes while an ultrasound wave passes through the bone. The test is painless and results are almost immediate. The earlier osteoporosis is diagnosed, the greater the chance of preventing and treating it.

First, let's explore prevention.
Strong bones are the best defense against osteoporosis. The earlier you start building strong bones, the better chance you have of preventing osteoporosis. Building and maintaining strong bones requires exercise. Vigorous activities such as aerobics, dance and weight training for two or more hours each week will help prevent osteoporosis and broken bones.

Strong bones also need calcium. Unfortunately, most adults only get half or less of their daily calcium intake.

Postmenopausal women should consume 1,500 mg of calcium daily. Men under the age of 64 need 1,000-mg; men over 65 need 1,500-mg. One way to increase the amount of calcium in your diet is to eat calcium-rich foods like low-fat milk, cheese and broccoli. Supplements are also helpful if used under the direction of your physician.

Although there is no cure for osteoporosis, there is treatment. One method is estrogen replacement therapy. Because women produce less estrogen around the time of menopause, their bones grow weaker. However, if estrogen is taken around menopause or later, bones maintain calcium and are protected from rapid bone loss that follows menopause. Estrogen is also helpful in preventing hip fractures.

Calcitonin is available for treating both men and women suffering from osteoporosis. It also is prescribed for women who choose not to take estrogen. Like estrogen, calcitonin slows bone loss, increases spinal bone density and relieves pain from bone fractures. Studies on calcitonin are on going

A final treatment option is the use of bisphosphonate compounds. These compounds break down and slow bone removal. They increase bone density and decrease the risk of fractures at the hip and spine.

Each of these treatments needs to be discussed with your physician to ensure that you are receiving the best care possible. Although there is no cure, researchers are continuously studying osteoporosis and treatments for it. With increased efforts, the National Osteoporosis Foundation reports a promising future for the prevention and treatment of osteoporosis.

If you have osteoporosis — you're not alone. Support groups are forming nationwide to help patients deal with the disease. These groups provide friendship, support and education. The National Osteoporosis Foundation has developed Building Strength Together, a national support group program. For more information, contact Darren Streff at the NOF, 515 N. State Street, Chicago, Ill. 60610 or by phone at (312) 464-5110.

Beware of all the quacks

By Jane Potter, M.D.
Chief of Geriatrics and Gerontology
University of Nebraska Medical Center

They promise you quick cures if you use their specialty products. They cite friends and neighbors as satisfied customers. They reach out to the vulnerable. They are quacks.

Quack artists are people who sell unproven medical remedies to unsuspecting consumers. Quackery is a growing problem that surfaced years ago and won't go away. Unfortunately, seniors are the largest market for quack artists. A government study reported that 60 percent of victim health-care fraud were seniors.

Seniors are ideal candidates because they are more likely to have chronic illnesses than younger people and are therefore in greater need of cures. However, anyone desperately searching for a cure to an illness is at risk.

They sell gadgets and gizmos, magic pills and secret lotions and can be found anywhere. You've probably seen these products on infomercials and advertisements on television or the radio. They also can be found in your local grocery store. Quacks offer cures and remedies for arthritis, aging, cancer, weight loss and thousands of other conditions. Some illnesses are more prone to quack products.

Arthritis is an easy target for quackery because its symptoms come and go. Although symptoms may disappear after taking "medication," this temporary relief should not be mistaken as a cure.

What about pills, lotions and potions that promise to wipe away years in a flash? Not true. Although certain products can reverse baldness and reduce wrinkles, nothing can slow down a body's aging process. Any hope of looking and feeling younger should come from taking care of your body by eating right and exercising, not from taking some pill.

One of the scariest facts about quackery is that people often exchange time and money for worthless remedies. You are better off to seek professional medical help than to rely on a treatment that hasn't proven effective or safe.

How do you protect yourself?

Your best defense is to be alert. Knowing that quacks are filtering their way into the market will help eliminate the chance of them filtering their way into your home.

Do some homework. Make sure you find out about products and manufacturers. Keep in mind that advertisements are not always a good reference tool. Quacks tell you what they want you to hear, not what you need to hear. Remember the old cliché: if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

For unbiased, accurate information, check with the Better Business Bureau or your physician. The Better Business Bureau can give you research on the company that has your best interest at heart. Your physician can refer you to a reliable product that has proven medically effective.

It's easy to fall into trap of quacks. If you already use a treatment that you fear may not be legitimate, don't be afraid to have your doctor or pharmacist check it out. It may save you money and your health.

Filips Eye Clinic sets up new specialized glaucoma clinic

HARTINGTON — Filips Eye Clinic announces the addition of a new specialty clinic.

Thursday mornings in Hartington and Friday mornings in Creighton will be reserved for people suffering from glaucoma.

Glaucoma is an eye disease which occurs when pressure in the eye pinches off circulation to the optic nerve. Patients gradually lose their side vision without noticing it. By the time a patient realizes something is wrong, the vision loss is advanced and difficult to treat. It is detected with pressure testing, peripheral vision testing, and dilated eye examinations.

Glaucoma is a unique disease that requires specialized equipment, testing and care.

"Setting up the area's first clinic devoted to glaucoma, allows us to take better care of patients than if they're seen in the midst of a busy general practice day," said Dr. Roger Filips.

During the past three years, Dr. Filips has obtained advanced training and experience in glaucoma care. He has worked with nationally known glaucoma specialists and has treated thousands of glaucoma patients in his Ohio practice.

He continues to serve as a clinical instructor for Ohio State University College of Optometry. He lectures to students and other doctors and consults at the Dayton Veterans Hospital.

Ranks of the 'Sandwich Generation' are growing

They're called the sandwich generation — people who are caught in the middle, trying to juggle the care of young children and aging parents with the many demands of life. And, according to a recent report, their ranks are growing.

About 41 percent of family elder-care providers also have children under the age of 18 living in their households, according to Juggling the Demands of Dependent Care, a report recently released by the Conference Board, a nonpartisan business research organization in New York.

One-fourth of all U.S. households are responsible for caring for elderly relatives or friends, according to the report. Of these caregivers, 52 percent work full-time and 12 percent work part-time.

"At Home Instead Senior Care, we see the faces behind these statistics every day," said local business owner, Kim Arter.

"We're well-acquainted with the elderly caregiving demands of many working Americans, and how those demands impact the personal and professional lives of families. The effects of these statistics are far-reaching and influence not only family and personal lives, but American business, as well."

Home Instead Senior Care offers an affordable solution to the problem of juggling elder care and other demands. Home Instead CAREgivers provide non-medical assistance to the elderly in their homes, helping people who can manage their physical needs, but who need limited assistance, light housework or companionship to remain at home.

"Our loving and compassionate CAREgivers help our clients with everything from grocery shopping to light house cleaning to accompanying them on an evening out at a restaurant or the movies," Arter said.

"Our services are equally as important to the families of our customers, relieving the burdens and guilt that can result from too many demands and too little time. We also eliminate the worry that can plague children who may wonder if mom and dad are O.K. at home."
