

Tom Osborne visits Wayne

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

"Honor God — He knows what you are capable of" was the message presented to those on hand when Dr. Tom Osborne spoke to approximately 1,800 people at Rice Auditorium on Tuesday.

Dr. Osborne's presentation was sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ and was the first of four events planned at Wayne State College for Christian Emphasis Month.

In his speech, "Faith in Action," Dr. Osborne focused on Hebrews 12:1 and spoke of his faith journey.

In 1957 he was involved in a Fellowship of Christian Athletes Conference where those in charge related Christianity "in a way that made sense to me. Since that time it has been the most stabilizing force in my life," he said.

He also said that at different points in his life, he felt he had other ways to save his life.

"At first it was athletics, then it was college degrees and later it was being a head coach. At age 48 I found a 95 percent blockage in my heart. Then I felt money and financial matters were what I needed."

However, Osborne stressed that his spiritual journey has been a process.

"Hopefully, I am better in my spiritual walk today than I was 10 years ago. It is a slow, steady process and one that needs to be dealt with on a daily basis.

Osborne told his audience that there are lots of difficult things in life and advised them to "persevere and be prepared. Spiritual discipline is an all the time thing."

"Where your eyes are is important. Fix your eyes on Jesus."

He said "four things will happen if you follow Jesus. First you will be given the strength to serve; second, you will be given a sense of stability in your life; third, you will be given a sense of purpose and mission in life and fourth, you will have a sense of grace in your life."

Dr. Osborne retired as Nebraska's head football coach last year but continues to teach classes at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln three days a week. He also has approximately three speaking engagements per week and said he still puts in 50-60 hours per week.

He said he was gratified to see the number of people at Tuesday's event and said that he was concerned with what's going on in the lives of today's young people.

Crowds of people gathered around Dr. Tom Osborne seeking an autograph following his presentation at Wayne State College on Tuesday.

David Ensz, Amy Hattig attend UNMC Workshop

David Ensz and Amy Hattig, both of Wayne and both Wayne State College students, recently attended a five-day workshop hosted by University of Nebraska Medical Center to familiarize future physicians and physician assistants with agri-medicine and rural health issues.

Twenty-eight undergraduate students enrolled in pre-medicine and pre-physician assistant programs attended. They were from Wayne State College, Chadron State College, Hastings College, University of Nebraska at Kearney, and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

During the workshop, students attended lectures, observed UNMC and Nebraska Health System physicians in the clinical setting and spent a day in health facilities in nearby rural communities. The students also produced computerized presentations that focused on rural health issues.

"Based upon feedback from the students, they enjoyed their experience here," said Roxanna Jokela, Rural Health Education Network coordinator. "Many students were impressed by the health professionals in the rural communities and the interest these professionals showed in recruiting the students back to the community once they become physicians or physician assistants."

This is the sixth year of the workshop.

Libraries across Nebraska Offering electronic information

The Nebraska Library Commission recently announced that libraries across Nebraska now offer the electronic information access that their customers need.

State funding approved by the 1998 legislature and governor in the amount of $400,000 was added to the Library-Commission's budget for fiscal year 1998-99.

These state funds were used to contract for online databases, including full-text articles from hundreds of journals and periodicals, for local public libraries, school media center, and college libraries across the state.

The new state funds provide unlimited public access for all Nebraska libraries to the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) FirstSearch reference service at no charge to any Nebraska libraries for this service.

Libraries are able to provide information services that many would not be able to afford on their own. Libraries are able to add rich databases to the core of information services, customizing their offerings to their library customers.

To date, 624 Nebraska libraries are offering this customer service, including public libraries, school libraries (K-12), special libraries, academic libraries, and regional Library Systems. More than 900,000 Nebraskans have access to these information resources to help solve problems and make decisions in their everyday lives.

Information is available from these resources: WorldCat (online catalog of materials in libraries worldwide); NetFirst (bibliographic citations describing Internet-accessible resources); FastDoc (index of journal articles); MEDLINE (abstracted articles from medical journals); GPO Monthly Catalog (index to U.S. Government documents); ERIC (guide to educational journal articles and reports); World Almanac (database of The World Almanac); ArticleFirst and Contents First (index of journal articles and tables of contents); PaperFirst and Proceedings First (index of papers and proceedings of conferences); OCLC Union List (listing of periodicals in libraries); OCLC Electronic Collections Online (index and abstracts for journals on a variety of subjects); H.W. ### Tips for Parents

A Child's Dental Care Begins Before Birth

Teeth begin to form between the third and sixth months of pregnancy. Good health habits are important for development of the unborn child. Unless a physician recommends otherwise, pregnant women should remember to consume dairy products, which are the best sources for calcium, the main building block for bones and teeth.

worked two accidents simultaneously. The first accident occurred at Seventh and Pearl Streets and blocked traffic for over one-half hour. Suzanne Dusterhoft, 28, and Rod Planer, 23, were involved in that accident.

While officers were investigating this accident, a second accident occurred in the 1000 Block of Main Streets. Justin Eriksen, 20, struck the rear of a car being driven by 23-year old Alissa Johnson. Ms. Johnson was transported by ambulance to Providence Medical Center where she was treated for minor injuries and released.

Following this many accidents, Chief Webster urges all motorists to drive safely and defensively.

Attend a council meeting... Express your opinion

This is the second article in the series dedicated to give you timely information about upcoming issues of city business coming before the city council.

I feel it is important to point out that the material I discuss here is not to be considered the opinion or feelings of every council person.

I intend to offer accurate material as it is given to me or I can find out in the time available.

If I find out that I have stated something that is proven factually incorrect, it is my goal to publicly correct that in the next article.

As far as I may express any opinion that may differ from yours, please let me know by writing to letters to the editor of the Wayne Herald or to KTCH. Better yet come to the council meeting and express your own opinion.

This is how our representative government and democracy works best. Last time I gave you a rather generic account of how the city council receives information before meetings—to give the individual council person a basis on which to decide issues, there is of course the opportunity for citizens to come to the meetings to express their own opinions and to offer new information that the council may not know.

Public opinion, expressed one on one to your council person is meaningful but when delivered in person at the council meeting for all to hear is probably more influential.

ITEM #1—
During 1999, the municipal code book which contains all the laws of the city is being updated. This has not been done for years. This is being done by an out-of-state firm that specializes in code book updates.

They will provide the council with their recommendations and after review and council consideration the code book will be brought up to date. I have been told this may be in the early fall of this year.

ITEM #2—
The land where the trailer court is east of the swimming pool known as the Haase Trailer Court has been purchased by the city. The trailers are being phased out over a period of time (about a year or so) and the land cleared for development of some type. I understand the city would sell the land to a developer.

Any ideas what you would like to see this land used for?

ITEM #3
Another sidewalk improvement district is now being developed. This time in the Northwest Quadrant of the city. This will be primarily repair and replacement of existing walks in need of repair.

ITEM #4
There will be two public hearings coming up at the February 9th city council meeting.

The first will be a hearing on a Use by Exception permit application to expand the current auto sales area of Amies Ford-Mercury which will be the ground immediately north of the existing car lot.

This additional space should be indeed welcome to our community. Support we can give to local business is good for all of us.

The second is a request to rezone property from A-2 (agricultural) to B-1 (highway commercial). This is land north of the golf course but south of Logan Creek and on the east side of the highway.

I'm not sure what land use is planned but this zoning is compatible with existing land use and zoning in the area.

This about wraps it up this time. The next article will appear in the February 18th issue. Thanks for your comments about the articles.

Johanns offers revision of tax relief plan

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent.
The Nebraska Press Association

Gov. Mike Johanns has offered his promised plan to revise and enhance the state's effort to provide property owners with some relief from property taxes.

Such a gubernatorial proffer is the equivalent of introducing a "better" mouse trap in the private sector. Now, the governor has to market that puppy.

To stay with this little analogy, the governor has two markets for his product.

The Legislature is one.

You are the other.

Have you noticed that, after proposing some major policy or policy change, governors usually hop on a state plane and fly around the state, talking their ideas up for a day or so? There are two reasons for this type of sojourn.

One, which virtually always works, is to put the governor out there where local folk can see him and local newspaper, radio and television stations can do their own stories about him and, thus, his plan.

The other is to engender hoped-for support from you. Nothing makes a governor happier than having the citizenry enthused about a program he or she is proposing. Such enthusiasm sometimes leads to letters being written and calls being made by constituents to their elected lawmakers. A governor is always hopeful that the majority of these will be aimed at encouraging support for the favored program.

Every governor knows what every citizen ought to know: When lawmakers hear from constituents, they listen and are often influenced.

The day after Johanns delivered his State of the State and Budget Address, newspapers were full of reports on the details. This is good.

Johanns wants the Legislature to make a fundamental change in the way it attempts to provide property tax relief. He wants the checks to go directly to the people who pay property taxes. The Legislature's current program causes the money to be filtered through local governments. State sales and income tax dollars are sent to local governments in the form of aid, which is designed to reduce the burden on those who pay local property taxes. The legislative scheme also includes current and future limits on the ability of local governments to tax property.

The import of Johanns' recommendation is that it would divorce/separate (pick the verb of your choice) the effort to provide property tax relief from the program used to send state aid to local governments. Such a change would be historic, if not revolutionary.

Think of it this way: The state now sends money to school districts and other governmental entities and says, "Take this money and spend it, and since you have this money, reduce or limit the increase in local property taxes."

Johanns' idea: "Here, taxpayer, is a rebate check based on your property tax bill. We're going to forget about using local government as a middleman."

Is it really more complicated than the above indicates? Yes. But, does the above give you the general idea? Yes.

Always remember, the executive branch (that's the governor) PROPOSES. But the legislative branch (that's the Legislature) DISPOSES. When any governor says he will do this or that, what it means is he will try to muster at least 25 legislative votes to get his program enacted into law. A governor doesn't make law or spend money — he asks the Legislature to do it. And, to some extent, his chance for success rests on whether lawmakers think his plan has public support.

So you now have an opportunity to make your opinion—in favor of or opposed to the Johanns' plan—count. Write to your senator.

Write to Johanns. Talk to local government types. Use the voice our participatory democracy has given you and tell the elected folk what you want.

The entire exercise won't take more than a few minutes of your time.

If you're too busy, I understand. But if you are too busy, do your fellow citizens a favor: Don't yap when the Legislature makes its decision and you don't like it.

Say it is so, Mikel. It happens to every reporter and every editor. Somehow, a loose sentence that doesn't reflect what the writer meant to say gets into print.

A newspaper story describing the Johanns tax-relief initiative said it was one "that in the first year would refund $150 million to every property-tax payer in the state."

Geez! If that's true, who needs to play the lottery?

February is month to recognize Boy Scouts as productive citizens

Dear Editor,

Every February we recognize Scouts for their public service and their individual efforts to become productive citizens.

In addition, we need to credit them for their efforts to teach themselves life skills that may save their lives and the lives of others. By learning outdoor skills, first aid and safety, Boy Scouts are able to handle emergencies in town or in the wilderness.

Boy Scout Troop 174 represents 75 years of Scouting in Wayne. We invite all boys from the 5th grade to age 18 to consider joining Boy Scouts. One does not need to have been a Cub Scout to become a Boy Scout.

The Wayne Boy Scout Troop 174 meets every Monday night from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Our Savior Center (old library) during the school year. On the second Monday of each month, the adults meet to plan and manage troop business. These meetings are open to interested parents. We welcome parent participation.

Scouting is important since the program teaches young men skills that are difficult to learn elsewhere. Accidents are the number one cause of death for Americans from the age of one to 34 according to the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control.

Many of these accidents are classified as accidental, but are actually due to poor planning and lack of training. Many accidents can be prevented through teaching young people safety, first aid and how to react in potentially dangerous situations.

A University of Washington study of accidents in the wilderness found that drowning and head injuries were the two most common causes for death. Boy Scouts teach and require safety precautions to be taken in all activities. The Boy Scout motto "Be Prepared" is fundamental for survival in our society.

In addition to the practical skills taught in Scouts, Scouting is fun. Wayne Scouts regularly have opportunities to camp in Colorado, canoe in the Boundary Waters and hike in New Mexico. It is getting more and more difficult to "get away from it all" and experience natural settings. Boy Scouts is an organized way to get access to some of the remaining wilderness areas in the United States.

As Scouts learn outdoor skills they also learn life skills. The Scout Law and Scout Oath contain the basic values that are needed to be productive and successful members of society.

Community service is another component of Scouting. The monthly paper drive in Wayne, participation in town parades and adding to Wayne's physical assets through Eagle projects are just a few of the ways Scouts help themselves and Wayne.

Disappointed in council report

Dear Editor,

I was disappointed to see the information contained in the article which appeared in the Jan. 28, 1999 issue of the Wayne Herald regarding the city council proceedings.

I did indeed say most of the things attributed to me; however, in no way did the article convey the full scope of what I said at the council meeting on Jan. 26, 1999.

First and foremost, I complemented the council on their resolve to provide sidewalks throughout the city, even though I was aware it has not always been the most popular project. I also state, in my opinion, everyone should have sidewalks on their property.

In addition, I felt Todd

Hoeman, the city employee responsible for overseeing the project, was professional and most cooperative in all the dealings I had with him and should be commended for his efforts.

Finally, at no time did I say no barricades were placed on my property while the work was being done. I stated I was without barricades on one occasion while work was being done.

My primary reason for appearing before the city council was not to complain, but to express my belief they could, in the future, do a better job of selecting a contractor to perform the work.

Here's to more and better sidewalks.

Carol V. Mosley,
Wayne

The primary focus of economic development programs has been to create more jobs. As jobs increase and unemployment rates fall, the resulting tightening of the labor market is supposed to drive up wage rates and living standards.

However, recently things haven't been working out this way. Unemployment rates are exceptionally low and labor is in tight supply, yet real manufacturing wages in this country have been dropping since they peaked in 1973.

One reason is the downsizing and outsourcing that is occurring in large, higher-paying firms. Over the past 20 years, the number of full-time employees of Fortune 500 companies has dropped from

Chamber Corner
By Gaila Gilliland

19 percent of the work force to under 10 percent. Today, one in every three workers is employed on a part-time or contingent basis.

Today the largest single employer in the US is Manpower; a temporary employment agency.

Of those employees who are downsized or outsourced out of a job, most end up earning less on their next job, once they are re-employed. For these reasons, the focus of economic development programming is shifting from more jobs to better jobs.

From this perspective, economic development programming needs to be re-thought in terms of how best to attain a good and rising standard of living for local residents. Good wages are best generated by fostering competitive, profitable firms employing educated workers in high-skill, high-wage industries.

Over the next two weeks I will review some ideas on how this can best be accomplished.

Wayne State men defeat Briar Cliff and Drury 'Cats ranked third in NCAA-II

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The Wayne State men's basketball team crept a little closer to the post-season playoffs with a pair of wins over Briar Cliff and Drury, Mo., last Wednesday and Saturday.

Greg McDermott's team climbed another rung in the national rankings to the number three spot with the 18-2 record.

Kentucky Wesleyan (21-1) and Salem Teikyo (W.Va.—18-1) remained first and second, respectively with Wayne State, Mich., fell to seventh place from third after a setback over the weekend.

Last year's national champs, California-Davis (16-3) moved to fourth and Pittsburg State (Kan.—18-1) moved into the fifth spot.

Regional foes USD stayed 10th with a 17-3 record and Metro State of Colorado jumped into the top 25 at the 22nd position with a 16-4 mark.

Nebraska-Kearney received votes for the top 25 with its 16-4 record.

Wayne State fans showed up in droves last Wednesday in Sioux City as Wildcat faithful out-numbered the host Chargers.

WSC gave the travelers something to cheer about in the second half as the 'Cats broke open a close game at the half, 39-36 with a quick scoring run in the second stanza sparked by Jason Diaz.

Diaz scored the 'Cats' first seven points of the second half as WSC built a quick eight point lead at 46-38.

WSC was red-hot from the field in the second half, hitting 18-of-27 shots from the floor for 67 percent after 38 percent shooting in the first half.

The closest the Chargers could get down the stretch was eight points at the 5:22 mark. The 'Cats led by as many as 17 points, 88-71 at the 1:10 mark.

Tyler Johnson scored a team-high 17 points to lead five players in double figures.

Johnson moved into third place on the all-time scoring list at WSC with 1503. He is the first Wayne State player in history to record 1500 points and 500 assists in a career.

He also dished out a game-high 12 assists, blocked a shot and had one steal as well as three slam dunks.

Brad Joens scored 16 points and Jason Diaz along with Jon Dolliver tallied 14 each while Matt VanVoorst scored 12. Jason Herlitzke was close to double figures with nine points.

WSC owned the boards, 44-34 as Eric Henderson and Jon Dolliver each hauled down 10 caroms. WSC had two players with double-doubles with Johnson's 17 points and 12 assists and Dolliver's 14 points and 10 boards.

Henderson notched a pair of blocked shots and the 'Cats connected on 20-28 free throw attempts.

"The start of the second half was a huge factor for us," McDermott said. "We did a great job executing our offense on the one side of the court and played solid defense on the other to build a double digit lead."

McDermott said Briar Cliff has the talent to make some noise on the NAIA National level. "I thought they played well," McDermott added.

SATURDAY IN RICE Auditorium the 'Cats played a very good Drury team from Springfield, Missouri who had won eight of its last nine games with the lone loss coming against top-ranked Kentucky Wesleyan.

The Panthers hung with WSC for just over a half before the 'Cats began to pull away for a 73-60 victory.

The victory was the 'Cats' 15th straight and 18th of the season against just two losses.

Drury (13-8) trailed 32-28 at the half and could get as close at one point, 47-46 at the 12:20 mark before WSC went on an 11-0 run to open a 58-46 lead at the 8:44 mark.

WSC's biggest lead was 16 on several occasions.

"Drury has an excellent team," McDermott said. "They tried to control the tempo and we didn't shoot the ball real well in the first half."

WSC played the final seven minutes of the first half without the services of point guard Tyler Johnson and Matt VanVoorst who were on the bench with two fouls.

"I thought our guys really stepped up when Tyler and Matt went out," McDermott said. "I felt we were in pretty good position at the half being up four."

WSC had five players in double figures in scoring for the second straight game as Brad Joens led the way with 14 points.

VanVoorst finished with 11 while Jason Diaz, Jon Dolliver and Johnson scored 10 each. Nathan Mulder was nearly a sixth player in double figures with eight points.

Both teams garnered 29 rebounds with Eric Henderson leading the 'Cats with eight caroms while Diaz hauled down seven.

Johnson dished out nine assists and recorded four steals.

The 'Cats will host Minnesota-Morris on Saturday before traveling to play Northern State on Wednesday.

The Wolves fell out of the top 25 after a seven-point loss to Winona State over the weekend.

Tyler Johnson incidentally, has 1,513 career points and needs 64 points to surpass Dennis Siefkes and move into second place on the all-time scoring list. He surpassed Dean deBuhr's 1492 mark at Briar Cliff.

Johnson has 558 career assists and needs just 42 to crack the 600 barrier. He already owns the all-time WSC record in that category with Billy Patterson in second at 377.

He's currently second in made free throws at 472—just 53 behind Larry Coney's 525 and he's second in career free throw attempts at 655—just 44 short of Coney.

Jason Diaz is ranked fifth on the all-time charts for made 3-pointers at 160 and Brad Joens is fifth currently on 3-pointers made in a season at 66.

Wildcats coach Greg McDermott gets an interpretation on a foul called against the 'Cats. Kevin Lingenfelter looks on.

Rory Williams penetrates between a pair of Briar Cliff defenders and lays a shot off the glass for two points during second half action in Sioux City. Teammate Jason Herlitzke is in position for a possible offensive board which was not needed.

Jason Herlitzke looks to score over a Briar Cliff defender during action last week in Sioux City. The Wildcats broke open a close game at half to win easily.

Jon Dolliver drives the baseline past a Drury defender in action last Saturday night. The 'Cats improved to 18-2 and jumped to third in the national rankings.

Wayne girls defeated by ranked Cedar

The Wayne girls basketball team fell to 2-14 on the season with a 55-29 loss to state-ranked Hartington Cedar Catholic last Thursday night in Wayne.

John McLarnen's Blue Devils struggled from the onset as they trailed 14-4 after the first quarter and 31-6 at the half.

Things didn't get much better in the third quarter as Cedar out-scored Wayne, 13-4 to take a commanding 44-10 lead.

Wayne out-scored the visitors, 19-11 in the fourth quarter.

"Cedar used a balanced scoring attack in the first half which had six different girls score for them," McLarnen said. "That made it difficult for us to key on Karen Hochstein and Erica Sudbeck."

McLarnen said Cedar's defense pressured Wayne into taking a lot of poor percentage shots which contributed to just a 14 percent shooting success rate in the first half.

"Cedar had 17 offensive

Wayne boys get past stubborn West Point

The Wayne boys basketball team improved to 7-7 on the season with a 51-45 win over West Point last Friday night in Wayne.

Rocky Ruhl's Blue Devils struggled at times but managed to hold off a stubborn Cadets team down the stretch to post the seventh win of the year.

The game was tied at 18 at the intermission but Wayne came out strong in the third quarter and built a 10-point lead at 35-25 before West Point scored the final bucket of the period for a 35-27 margin after three quarters of play.

The Cadets made things interesting in the fourth quarter, cutting the gap to just two points but Wayne, after struggling from the foul line in the first half at 0-6, responded by knocking down the charity shots down the stretch.

The second half spark was ignited by sophomore point guard Jon Meyer who scored seven straight points during one stretch.

Junior Joel Munson led Wayne with a dozen points with Meyer adding 11. John Magnuson scored nine and Klinton Keller added seven with Eric McLagan and Ryan Dahl scoring six each.

Although Dahl was held far below his average in the scoring column it was the senior leader that supplied a defensive gem when the game was on the line as he blocked a West Point shot that if made, would have tied the score in the fourth quarter.

"We played well at times and at other times we didn't play so well," Ruhl said. "We need to work on putting four good quarters together."

The Blue Devils host O'Neill on Thursday before traveling to play Elkhorn Valley on Saturday.

rebounds which resulted in numerous second chance points," McLarnen added.

Katie Walton led Wayne with seven points with Heidi Johnson, Beth Loberg and Brittney Frevort each scored four points with Leah Dunklau, Sara Ellis, Kristin Wilson, April Thede and Kallie Krugman scoring two each.

Wayne will travel to play Elkhorn Valley on Friday before hosting Stanton on Tuesday.

The Blue Devil JV team notched a 43-25 win over Cedar Catholic as they improved to 10-3 on the season.

James Gagner said his team played one of their best games of the year.

Amanda Maryott and Beth Loberg each scored 10 points to lead Wayne with Leah Dunklau adding eight. Mandy Hansen tallied five points with Katie Walton and April Thede scoring four each. Kristin Wilson added two points for the winners.

Ryan Dahl and Eric McLagan out-battle a West Point defender for a loose ball during action last Friday night in Wayne. The Blue Devils posted a 51-45 victory over the visiting Cadets to improve to 7-7 on the season.

Wayne sophomore Jon Meyer drives to the hoop and converts a West Point turnover into an easy bucket during fourth quarter action of the Blue Devils victory. Meyer had a stretch where he scored seven straight points for Wayne.

Freshman boys improve to 7-2

WAYNE—Rob Sweetland's freshman boys basketball team improved to 7-2 on the season with three wins in the past two weeks. ## Tuesday Night Sports Action Laurel boys advance to championship

The Laurel-Concord boys basketball team advanced to the championship game of the NENAC Conference Tournament with a 68-59 semifinal win over Creighton, Tuesday night in Laurel. The Bears opened up a 34-25 halftime lead and though Creighton made a run in the third quarter to draw with in six at 48-42, and closed the gap to one point during a stretch in the fourth quarter before Laurel used a scoring run of its own to win by nine and earn the right to play Randolph in the finals.

Senior Wyatt Erwin sparked the winners with 26 points including four, 3-pointers and a stellar 8-8 shooting from the foul line. Evan Smith added 11 and Matt Schroeder, nine while Nathan Beckman tallied eight and Nick Manganaro, seven. Chris Lackas scored four points and Jon Erwin added two while Adam Hartung scored one.

Creighton's 6-9 Jeremy Closter led the Bulldogs with 25 points. Evan Smith led the winners on the boards with 10 caroms and Wyatt Erwin dished out seven assists for team tops. The win boosted the Bears record to 13-3.

Winside girls beaten by Newcastle

The Winside girls basketball team was defeated by Newcastle in the semifinals of the Clark Division of the conference tournament, Tuesday in Winside, 50-37. The Wildcats got off to a slow start as Newcastle led 17-7 after the first quarter and 29-17 at the intermission. "We cut the lead to six points in the fourth quarter but we had trouble converting on the offensive end," coach Lisa Schroeder said. "We suffered 37 turnovers but we also forced Newcastle into a lot of turnovers with our pressure defense."

Stacy Wittler paced Winside with 13 points with Jessica Wade adding 10 and Julie Jacobsen, eight. Keisha Rees scored four and Shannon Bowers, two. Wittler also notched seven steals, dished out four assists and hauled down five rebounds. Wade had a team-high six boards and also notched three assists.

Wayne grapplers close out duel season

John Murtaugh's Wayne Blue Devils wrestling team closed out a perfect season in duel action with a convincing 58-18 win over Columbus Lakeview, Tuesday in Columbus. The win marked an 8-0 duel record for the fifth-ranked Blue Devils.

Wayne received 24 points from four forfeits and on the mat the Blue Devils won seven-of-ten matches starting with Lucas Munter at 112 with a 15-2 win. Jay Endicott won by pin at 125 and Gabe Hammer won a 10-3 decision at 140. Chris Woehler won by pin at 145 and Jesse Rethwisch won 10-3 at 189. Ryan Haase won by pin at 215 and Casey Junck won by pin at 275.

Ryan Teach (119) lost by pin and Chris Junck (130) lost by pin while Adam Jorgensen won in his 160-pound match. "Overall I thought we were a little sluggish," Murtaugh said. "I was pleased with the effort of Ryan Teach. Even though he lost, he did a nice job of competing against Lakeview's best wrestler."

Murtaugh said it was great to see the team complete the duel season undefeated. "This is a tremendous accomplishment and I am very proud of our kids," he said. Wayne will compete in the Norfolk Catholic Invitational on Saturday.

Allen girls drop two

The Allen girls basketball team was defeated by Homer in the first round of the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament last Saturday night, 52-29.

The Eagles fell to 2-12 on the season. Allen led Homer 8-7 after the first quarter but trailed, 28-18 at the half and 41-22 after three quarters of play.

"Our defense in the first half was the best, most intense defense we've played all year," coach Lori Koester said. "The effort was tremendous. Rachel Stallbaum had a great game shooting the ball, hitting five-of-six field goal attempts."

Stallbaum scored a team-high 12 points with Stacey Martinson adding seven and April Sachau, four. Elizabeth Bock and Jessica Bock scored two each with Kristin Hansen and Shannon Koester adding one each. Earlier last week the Eagles fell to Coleridge, 51-45 despite holding a 16-5 lead after the first quarter.

Allen led 23-19 at the half but gave up the lead in the third quarter as Coleridge took a 33-30 lead into the fourth quarter.

"We came out aggressive and built a nice early lead," Koester said. "We got in foul trouble and had to adjust our defense which really hurt us. The game was won on the foul line and not on the court as Coleridge shot 41 free throws while we shot 23. The difference in the makes was 11 and the difference in the outcome of the game was six."

Stacey Martinson and Jessica Bock scored 12 apiece with April Sachau, Elizabeth Bock and Shannon Koester netting five each. Rachel Stallbaum scored four and Alicia Liebsch, two.

Martinson led the Eagles on the boards with 10 caroms with Sachau hauling down eight rebounds.

Allen will host Walthill on Thursday in a make-up contest.

Emergency medical services

Training will be available

Nebraskans can become first responders and emergency medical technicians or continue their emergency medical training by taking free or low-cost classes sponsored by the Nebraska Health and Human Services System.

Over 200 classes have been provided in communities across the state since July 1998.

"Eighty percent of the emergency medical service providers in Nebraska are volunteers," said Barbara Dodge, Education and Training, Coordinator for the Emergency Medical Services Program. "By offering free or low-cost training, we hope to encourage new people to become emergency medical providers and to be supportive to current providers."

The Legislature appropriated over $100,000 last year for training so that first responders and emergency medical technicians and emergency medical technicians can maintain their skills and learn about new techniques and equipment without traveling great distances, Dodge said.

WSC track teams take part at USD

Junior Deanna Gollobit nabbed the second school record of her career Saturday, January 30 at the University of South Dakota Invitational.

Leaping 37'0.5" in the triple jump for sixth place, she easily broke the old indoor school record of 36'6" set by Tammi Miller in 1990. Gollobit also holds the outdoor triple jump school record from last spring.

"Deanna is well ahead of where she was last year," noted head coach Brian Kavanaugh. "I wouldn't be surprised if she gets at least an NCAA provisional qualifying mark this year."

The indoor provisional mark is 37'6", and the outdoor mark is 37'10".

Also performing well for the women was junior Marsha Krienke, placing seventh in the 800-meter run in 2:25.74.

That was a two-second indoor personal best for Krienke, and good enough for third all time on the WSC lists.

In the shot put, senior Angie Kment improved her season best to 39'3", placing seventh at USD. In the long jump, Gollobit placed eighth in 16'10 1/2", with junior Christina Sears improving her season best to 15'10 3/4".

For the men, sophomore Matt Kneiff improved his personal best in the 55-meter hurdles for the second week in a row.

Clocking 7.99 seconds for sixth place, Kneiff moved up to fourth all time for WSC. Freshman Drew Erks improved his season best triple jump to 41'1", and Freshman Andy Tucknott clocked a team best 3000-meter run time of 9:29.8.

In the pole vault, freshman Joe DeMilt matched his season best vault of 12'6", and in the shot put Landon Brethouwer improved his personal best to 40'1".

Next up for the Wildcats is the Charlie Foster Open Saturday, in Kearney.

Service Station

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class David D. Keifer, son of Loren and Shirley Keifer of Laurel, recently completed a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, home ported in Norfolk, Va. While deployed, Keifer's ship participated in numerous large-scale military exercises, including Matador Ixev and Dynamic Mix 98. ## Depression support group will be held

The Wayne United Methodist Church has announced that it is starting up a group for people whose lives have been touched with depression.

The group is open to the community and will reach out spiritually to people in the midst of the hard times which do come to all of us, at various moments of life.

Meeting times are Wednesday nights at 8 p.m.

The group will meet in the lower level of the Christian Education building. Those attending can enter through the west door into this addition and proceed to the second room on the north side of the hall.

Pastor Gary Main emphasizes that people at various stages of depression have been gathering for the past couple of weeks and felt a need for this group to continue. It is his hope that people who have experienced this process and have worked through it or are working through it can share with others who are in the beginning stages.

The group is a mixture of ages and personal experiences who feel a need to become a support for each other as well as reaching out into the community to help others.

"All of us have difficult times. Are you struggling with a lack of hope in your life? We invite and encourage people to come and share in this experience," Pastor Main added.

Anyone with questions concerning this group is asked to call the church office at 375-2231.

Legion Auxiliary meets

Carroll Legion Auxiliary met Jan. 26 at the home of Pat Roberts. Eight members answered roll call.

Valentines were prepared for the Norfolk Annex. The group will entertain at the Annex on Tuesday, Feb. 23.

Alice Davis and Edith Cook will judge the prayer books for the District Convention previous to March 13.

The Legion Birthday party will be held at the Carroll Firehall on Tuesday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m.. All Carroll Legion and Auxiliary members are invited.

Layton Howerton

Howerton to present concert at Wayne church on Feb. 7

Layton Howerton will be ministering in concert on Sunday, Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. at Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church, 502 Lincoln Street in Wayne.

"I want to write songs the way Norman Rockwell painted pictures. He painted with such great detail. My task as a songwriter is to paint such convincing word pictures for people that they can hear the thunder, feel the wind blow, smell the coming rain," Layton Howerton said of his music.

When Howerton sold all that he owned in Nashville, bought an old Winnebago, packed up his wife, five kids and a dog and headed for Wyoming with no certain destination several years ago, it was a pivotal moment in his own story.

Raised by pioneer missionary parents in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky and miraculously healed of leukemia as a child, Layton had struggled since the age of 16 with a call on his life to serve as a pastor.

Born with musical gifts though and a fine-grit sandpaper voice capable of smoothing down the rough edges of any song, Howerton had resisted the call to pastor in favor of pursuing his own dreams of musical success. Critically applauded by publications like Billboard, and courted by numerous major labels and publishing companies, Howerton seemed always on the verge of his big breakthrough. And yet, one by one, at the "eleventh hour" every deal seemed to inexplicably fall through.

"All through the years I sought after my own selfish things," Howerton recounts, "Until I was 36 I was pursuing personal gain. I was a stubborn man."

When the truth of his father's words finally soaked in, Layton at last gave up his "boxing match" with God, surrendered to whatever God's will might be, "anteed up everything he owned in the world" and headed west to be a pastor.

As a pastor, Howerton would wander through the sanctuary alone with his guitar and write songs that went along with the teaching for that Sunday.

"They became an effective way to open hearts to the message," Howerton explained.

Several years after moving to Wyoming, Howerton got a call from a BMG Publishing representative who had tracked him down wanting to know if he was still writing songs.

"They listened to my songs and then signed me to a publishing deal," he said.

When the door opened for Layton to partner with Sparrow, it marked a full circle journey that he had never anticipated. Now his songs are among many tools and gifts to further his life's call to teach and to pastor the Body of Christ.

There is a $5 suggested donation for Howerton's concert at the door.

Students who work too much are at risk, report finds

Students younger than 18 who work long hours, generally defined as more than 20 hours per week, are less likely to advance as far in school as other students. They are more likely to use illegal drugs and get insufficient sleep and exercise.

So finds "Protecting Youth at Work: Health, Safety, and Development of Working Children and Adolescents in the United States," a new report by a committee of the National Research Council and the Institute of Medicine.

The committee reviewed data on trends in youth employment, the safety of workplaces for youths and adolescents, and how working affects their health, education, development and behavior.

It determined that current laws and regulations are outdated and don't adequately protect youth from workplace injuries and health hazards, or from other harmful consequences associated with today's work environments.

Despite concerns, working can have positive effects on young people according to research reviewed in the report.

For example, it provides them with lessons about responsibility, punctuality, dealing with people and money management, and many increase their self-esteem and help them become independent and skilled.

A small number of studies also have shown that a limited amount of hours worked may improve educational attainment.

Among its many recommendations, the reports calls for steps to promote healthy workplaces and to help students reap the benefits of employment.

These include building work place health and safety information into the School-to-Career or Nebraska "School to Career" programs of the departments of education and labor.

Families need to take a critical look at "Why" their child is working. Is it a necessity--or a convenience? Is it peer pressure to be able to have more clothes or a car? Does the end justify the means?

Sometimes the family economics dictates that a child must work to help pay the bills. But some families have a choice and it should be discussed as a family.

Is the goal to gain job skills? Or is income the reason? There are many alternatives to attain job skills without the long hours of work and the need to sacrifice other development opportunities.

The School-to Career program; Summer Job Exploration Camps; Volunteer organizations such as 4-H, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts; Learn and Serve programs through the school or campus; Vocational classes at the High School and Community College; NECC-Tech Prep programs at the schools to mesh with their offerings.

Linda Cruickshank
Wayne County

Youth will have the rest of their lives to work. Parents trying to help their child decide whether to take a job or not should keep in mind that young people need to develop more than just "job skills" at this time in their life.

Youth also need time to develop:

1. A philosophy of "being able to give without getting," a sense of altruism and volunteering.
2. Develop a Sense of Family and Belonging
3. Continue to Build Child Parent Relationships.
4. Time of Spiritual Growth
5. Social Skills and Leadership Skills.
6. Enforce Positive Health Habits.

BOOKS ON TAPE AVAILABLE

Books on Tape have arrived at Graves Public Library and are ready to be checked out by patrons.

A new section has been created at the public library for these cassette tapes which were acquired through a joint fund raising effort last fall.

A soup supper sponsored by the library board, library foundation and matching funds from Aid Association for Lutherans has made the acquisition of these taped books possible.

There is a wide variety of titles available, and should be a title to interest almost anyone, states the library board. Members of the community are invited to stop during regular library hours and check out these new tapes.

Library hours are 2-8 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; 2-5 p.m. Friday and from 9-11 a.m. on Saturday mornings. The library is closed on Sunday and Monday.

OPINIONS SOUGHT

In order to qualify for various grant funds available for community projects, a town needs to periodically seek the opinions of its residents about services and needs.

The City of Wakefield plans to mail an attitude survey, which is printed both in English and Spanish, to residents. The questions cover a wide range of topics and will require around 10-15 minutes to complete. Information provided on the questionnaires is kept confidential and is used to compile totals and percentages.

City officials hope that citizens will be honest and frank with their answers. It is being stressed that a minimum number of surveys need to be returned in order for the information sought to be considered valid.

PAJAMA STORY HOUR

Graves Public Library is extending an invitation to children in the community to participate in a Pajama Story Hour during February. The story hour will be on Saturday mornings from 9:15-10:15 during February.

Each Saturday will feature a different topic and includes snack/breakfast, reading and activity/craft.

This story time is being offered, donated and staffed by a volunteer and everyone is encouraged to mark their calendars and join in the fun.

NETWORK DEVELOPMENT

Members of the Northeast Nebraska Development Network and the Northeast Nebraska Youth Development Network held a joint meeting on the Wayne State College Campus on Jan 21.

The purpose of the meeting was to brainstorm possibilities of creating a statewide youth network according to Connie Keck, director of the Bureau of Community and Economic Development at Wayne State College and president of the Nebraska Development Network.

Students from Wakefield attending the meeting included Erica Conner, Renee Felt, Ross Gardner, Maria Gomez, Lindsay Jensen, Todd McQuistan, Amber Thomsen, Thao Tran, Jay Wirth, Javanah Bebee, Nikki Kay, Amy Leonard and Jennifer Jeager.

Other members of the Wakefield group are Rich Dutton, Tri Tan, Jon Ulrich and Kasci Scott. Sponsors are Jennifer Goos and Kathy Mitchell.

"The youth network representatives from four area schools led a discussion to gather ideas on forming a statewide youth network, which would be based on the pilot program now in place in northeast Nebraska," Keck said.

She noted more than 40 students attended the session as representatives of Wakefield, Wayne, Walthill, and South Sioux City High Schools.

Also participating in the youth network, but unable to attend this meeting are Albion and Schuyler. Keck said the information that was gathered at the meeting in Wayne will be shared at a statewide meeting of people interested in the possibility of creating statewide youth network in Grand Island on Feb. 12.

The Nebraska Youth Development Network was created through a grant and LB 144, the Partnership for Economic Development in 1997.

The youth organization aids students in attaining a sense of the community outside the parameters of their respective schools, according to Keck.

The people attending the meeting in Grand Island will discuss the benefits and potential impact of establishing a statewide youth network. They will also outline a youth network structure and communication efforts, as well as discuss sources of future funding for the organization.

"I am pleased with what the youth are doing, not only in northeast Nebraska, but across the state," Keck said. "By doing this we are increasing the information shared by youth, schools and the community as a whole."

Looking forward to hospice stamp

As you read this, the Big Farmer and I will be at a University of Arizona baseball game in Tucson, watching the grandson of a cousin pitch.

We're taking one of the bargain Southwest Airlines flights and taking advantage of a friend's condo in Phoenix. It's only for a week, but it will be a welcome break.

Next week, on the 9th, the post office is unveiling the new hospice stamp. I want to be back for that; you know how important hospice is to me.

The stamp features a butterfly over a home symbolizing life's journey to its final stage. Hopefully, it will help increase awareness about hospice care.

The post office in Lincoln is calling for essays on the topic: "How Hospice Has Touched My Life." It had to be in 500 words or less. At first, I had a thousand.

But, believe it or not, I got it down to 250. And I'm sharing my essay with all of you. I have many good memories of the hospice work in Wayne and surrounding counties.

It isn't easy to describe the ways in which hospice has touched my life. Sometimes, it has taken over my life! I first read about Dr. Cecily Saunders and St. Christopher's over 20 years ago, and have immersed myself in the philosophy since.

I've learned to grieve; to "feel the pain," and all the accompanying emotions, to process them, and to wait for God to heal them.

My patients and their caregivers have modeled agape love and commitment. I know what "for better or worse, in sickness and in health" really mean.

Hospice has taught me the futility of grudge bearing, and the brevity of this life, not the length of it, that counts. It has made my relationships more important, my family more precious, and my health more appreciated. It has convinced me of the truth in the saying, "the best things in life are not things."

I notice sunsets more, and the beauty of nature, and the glory of music. I "cherish the moments." I'm less afraid of death, and more confident about what awaits us.

I've learned the truth in the passages that say, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me," and "For everything there is a season, a time to be born, and a time to die."

Truly, in learning about dying, we learn how to live.

Corn Growers meet in Wayne

Members of the Northeast Nebraska Corn Growers Association held their annual meeting Jan. 20 at The Max in Wayne.

A social hour and dinner preceded the program which included three speakers.

President Mark Schweers welcomed the approximately 60 people in attendance and introduced Nebraska Corn Grower Association (NeCGA) Executive Director Scott Merritt as the first speaker.

Merritt gave a review of activities and issues the association is currently working on. These included environmental issues where the buffer program is in effect to help the involvement with the EPA.

This program has been successful in getting producers to use buffer strips along streams and in turn, should help keep chemicals such as atrazine and other herbicides available to corn producers.

Merritt also reported that the Government Relations Committee will be working on legislative bills that concern corn producers. He reported that NeCGA membership was up 12 percent from last year.

Schweers introduced the second speaker, Bob Dickey, a Laurel farmer who is currently serving as the At-Large Director to the Nebraska Corn Checkoff Board.

Dickey reported on how the checkoff is being invested in the following activities: ethanol tax incentive extension, Fast Track, IMF, relief fund of $6 billion, LDP and MEF.

Dickey, who is also past chairman of the U.S. Grains Council, updated those in attendance on how the Council is working to improve U.S. grain exports. He stated that Asia is a targeted continent for additional export business due to the expected 58 percent increase in population by the year 2005. Value added grain products are becoming more interesting to foreign traders and demand for these products should lead to increase demand for U.S. grain.

Roy Smith, a market analyst and farmer from Plattsmouth was the third speaker.

Smith displayed seasonal price trends of corn and soybeans, based on data he has compiled from 1980-1988 average futures. He used this information to help show producers become better marketers of their He also showed how an individual's personality can play a role in marketing success.

Grant Brockemeier, secretary of the NeCGA awarded Dean Pallas of Emerson a grain moisture tester for being the 1998 Field Day Grand prize winner. Pallas predicted the eventual winning of Wilson 1664 to be the highest yielding entry in the plot and was closest in estimating its yield. His estimate was within six bushels per acre of the actual adjusted yield.

Brockemeier read a letter written by NeCGA addressing the current crisis in the pork industry and its effect on the corn market in northeast Nebraska. The letter will be mailed to U.S. Ag Secretary Dan Glickman, Senator Bob Kerrey, Senator Charles Hagel and Congressman Doug Bereuter.

Chad Nelson was recipient of the 1998 NeCGA Scholarship. The $200 scholarship is given annually to a graduating high school senior who is pursuing further education in the field of agriculture.

I WOULD like to thank the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce for naming me the 1998 Educator of the Year. I am equally humbled and honored. I will treasure the beautiful engraved plaque always and I have enjoyed the lovely floral centerpiece that was given to me also. Words cannot express my appreciation for all of the congratulations, handshakes and hugs from so many of you who have touched the lives of my husband and our family as we've been a part of this wonderful community the past 23 years. We are blessed to live in a place where the American dream still can come true. Why Report Adverse Effects to Herbs?

A shipment of herbs tainted with a compound that can cause heart problems was on the market for nearly 2 years before the contamination was discovered. The herbs seemed to remain on the market for such a long period because side effects were not reported to the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The FDA discovered that the herbs were tainted after the hospitalization with heart rhythm abnormalities of to persons who has used the same line of herbal "cleansing" products. One product labeled as plantain was found to be contaminated with digitalis - a powerful herb that can affect the heart.

FDA traced the plantain to a shipment from Germany. According to an FDA report the herb went to numerous manufacturers, distributors, and retailers during a 2-year period. The discovery prompted numerous recalls, and the FDA issued press releases and used the Internet to warn consumers against taking supplements containing plantain. Physicians and consumers can report adverse side effects associated with herbs to FDA's Medwatch Reporting Program at 1-800-FDA-1088.
