Commissioners decide fate of lodging tax

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Following testimony both for and against, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners voted to implement a two percent lodging tax for Wayne County and establish a county visitor's promotion fund.

During a public hearing several members of the community explained the benefits of the tax for the area.

Gail Korn, chairman of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's Tourism Council, told those present that the Nebraska State Legislature passed a law in 1980 allowing each county to impose a lodging tax of up to two percent. The money is ear-marked for the promotion of area attractions and cannot be used for buildings.

Mrs. Korn explained that Wayne County is one of the few counties in the state with lodging facilities that does not have a county lodging tax.

She also explained that with the passage of tax, a five member panel would be selected to decide how the funds would be spent. The Board of Commissioners would have final authority over these expenditures. Two of the members of the board would come from the lodging sector.

Several different estimates were presented at the meeting in regard to the amount of money that could be generated by the tax. These ranged from $6,000 to $11,000 per year, depending upon the occupancy rates of the county's three motels and one bed and breakfast.

"We could then use this money to show visitors what they can do while here. This in turn will help us grow and develop the ideas we have," Mrs. Korn said.

Tom Doring of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development also spoke to the board and explained that the tax would be paid by non-residents and that it would help encourage economic development by creating revenue.

He went on to state that following the passage of the tax, a 60 day waiting period is required. The tax will go into effect July 1.

The total amount of tax paid by those staying in Wayne County lodging facilities will be 8.5 percent. This figure includes the 4.5 state sales tax, the city of Wayne's one percent tax, a one percent state lodging tax (already in existence) and the two percent county lodging tax. It is estimated that the additional tax will add 70 cents to the cost of a $30 room.

Jan Casey, owner of the K-D Inn and Sports Club Inn, spoke against the tax.

"I can see the point of the tax but some of the issues are not relevant to Wayne County. We cannot compare ourselves to Omaha, which is a metropolitan area. Most of our customers are working people, not tourists. The only time we have tourists is for the Chicken Show," she said.

She told the commissioners that there is not much else to see or do in the county and those passing through the area generally go to bigger towns with more to offer.

"We don't want to lose the customers we have now with the tax. If we do have to have the tax, how much of the money generated will be used for promotion

Andrew Soll will take post at University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire

Andrew Soll, who has served as vice president of administration and finance at Wayne State College since 1988, will be leaving WSC to become vice chancellor for business and student services at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

"I am very excited about the opportunity in Eau Claire," Soll said. "It is an outstanding campus Claire. I also know that Wayne State is in an outstanding position in many respects, including the prospects for strong leadership under Dr. Sheila Stearns, the College's new president. I am confident the College is poised to continue its progress," Soll said.

"Andy Soll has served Wayne State College commendably during his more than 10 years of service. His stewardship of funds has been evident in prudent fiscal management decisions. His leadership in capital budget matters has been exceptional," said Dr. Ken Halsey, interim president.

Soll noted that the financial situation of WSC is strong and the physical facilities are in better condition than they have been in years. During Soll's tenure at WSC, financial resources available for College operations have increased significantly. The annual operating budget has grown more than 90 percent to total more than $27 million in 1998-99. The number of full-time faculty has increased by nearly 50 percent, and the faculty to student ratio has improved to 1:17. During this time period, Soll has also participated in the effort to computerize the campus and bring new instructional technology to the classroom.

Soll has directed more than $25 million in capital improvement projects on the campus, including complete redevelopment of the utilities distribution infrastructure, construction of the Gardner Business Building, expansion and renovation of the Student Center, renovation of the Studio Arts Building and Connell Hall, and in a beautiful city," he added. Soll noted he and his wife, Beverly, have enjoyed their experiences in Wayne and northeast Nebraska and will miss many things about this area.

"It's always difficult to leave behind close friends and associates, and the decision to follow the opportunity in Wisconsin did not come easily. I believe change is invigorating for both institutions and individuals, and I look forward to the challenge I will face in Eau Frances Doring demonstrates how the DEXA Scan, an x-ray system used in the detection of osteoporosis, works.

Medical clinic acquires DEXA Scan

Northeast Nebraska Medical Group, P.C. has announced the acquisition of an advanced x-ray system used in the aid of diagnosing osteoporosis.

The procedure is noninvasive and painless and requires no preparatory drinks, medications or injections. The procedure can be conducted in approximately 15-20 minutes.

Most insurance companies cover the cost of the testing.

At the present time three staff members at NNMC, Debby Gross, CMA, Nancy Reinhardt, LPN and Kathy Meyer, Medical Assistant, have been trained to use the machine.

Dr. Mark McCorkindale, M.D. reads the results of the tests and prescribes a course of action.

According to recent statistics, over half the women over 50 years of age in the United States have osteoporosis. More than 25 million Americans suffer from this crippling, debilitating disease. However, most people do not realize they have osteoporosis until bone fracture occurs.

Although osteoporosis is currently incurable, it is manageable. Early detection increases the changes of living comfortably. The earlier detection of osteoporosis, the more bone density there is to save, which means a greater chance of living a full life with osteoporosis.

Physicians will use the test to measure a patient's bone mineral density (BMD) and then compare the density to test population of a similar age, gender and ethnicity. Changes in bone density over time can be measured.

According to the physicians at NNMC, accurate bone density measurements detect bone loss and help us determine a course of therapy.

"Early detection is key. With medication, vitamin therapy, physical therapy and life exercises, people can live long, healthy lives. People used to think that osteoporosis was just a natural result of aging, and that the results were inevitable. Now with early detection, we can alter the outcome for the better," they added.

For more information on osteoporosis or testing, contact NNMC at (402) 375-2500.

MS walk scheduled for April 24 in Wayne

The Midlands Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Nebraska will be presenting the 10th Annual MS Walk for multiple sclerosis on Saturday, April 24 at the Wayne Eagles Club in Wayne.

Walkers will gather at 8:30 a.m. for registration and the walk will start at 9 a.m. for a stroll through the local community. Brochures for the MS Walk are currently being distributed to retail outlets throughout the area. There is no registration fee; however, walkers are encouraged to raise pledges to earn a variety of prizes.

Individuals can register for the MS Walk by picking up a brochure or by calling 1-800-FIGHT MS.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling disease that attacks the nervous system. The progress, severity and specific symptoms cannot be predicted; symptoms range from numbness to paralysis and blindness. Most people with MS are diagnosed between the ages of 20 to 40, but the unpredictable physical and emotional effects can last the rest of their lives.

Anyone who would like to volunteer for the MS Walk is asked to call Sheri at (402) 375-2444.

Wakefield school officials try to meet demands for space

By Lynn Slevers
Of the Herald

Because of the need for additional classroom space, the Wakefield Board of Education has contracted with the firm Carlson West Povondra Architects of Omaha to design and direct new construction on the east side of the elementary building and remodeling on the existing school building for a total project cost of $650,000.

Bidding by construction companies should begin in early April. Nearly 8,500 square feet will be gained in new and reclaimed space by the time the project is finished. Superintendent Mike Moody conducted research on funding and found that a long term loan or Lease-Purchase Agreement could be the answer to the space problem.

Moody said along with the long term loan, there are other financial means which can be used such as a sinking fund, the sale of four building lots in the southeast corner of school property, and being able to go outside of the $1.10 levy limit. These financial means along with private donations will help see that taxes are not raised. He said there has been more work involved in following these financial means than if the bond issue had gone through but the need for additional space is urgent.

"We have grown 30 percent in student population in the last nine years. Last July the number of students was at 487 but we topped

Duke's Men final Black & Gold event

The final Black and Gold event of the season will be a performance by the Duke's Men, eight jazz musicians who were formerly known as the Duke Ellington Orchestra. The group will perform Thursday, April 22 at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre, located in Peterson Fine Arts Building, on the Wayne State College campus.

"We are excited about having The Duke's Men on campus on the eve of Duke Ellington's centennial. It is an honor to pay tribute to such an important figure in American music," said Beverly Soll, coordinator of the Black and Gold series.

The Duke's Men are led by trombonist Art Baron, although each member adds his own musical experience to the ensemble. The group's repertoire comes from the voluminous Ellington songbook. Their performance will contain selections from Duke Ellington's collection of compositions such as Take the A Train, Satin Doll and Upper Manhattan Medical Group.

Tickets for the concert by The Duke's Men may be purchased at the WSC business office, first floor of the Hahn Building, north of the Willow Bowl on the WSC campus. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for high school age or younger. Tickets will be available April 12 or may also be purchased at the door on the evening of the performance.

Seating capacity is limited for this performance. For more information, call (402) 375-7517.

He was a member of the Legislature's Revenue Committee and chairman of the General Affairs Committee. One important undertaking during Schellpeper's career is that he helped recruit doctors to rural areas through Legislative process that he helped introduce.

He was a member of the Agriculture Committee for seven years and worked on a number of issues including, most recently, legislation dealing with the concentration of packers in the meat industry.

Schellpeper had been active in 4-H and had been secretary-manager of the Stanton County Fair Board for over 35 years, he was on the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, others. In addition, he managed the development of the College's first facilities master plan and several other long-range planning documents.

Soll's wife, Beverly, who is an associate professor of music and founding director of the Center for Cultural Outreach at WSC, will also be going to Eau Claire. Through the Center for Cultural Outreach she has initiated a number of programs, including the "First Fridays" symposium series, 500 students at Christmas," Moody said.

The old mini-gym has been divided into several classrooms which include ESL (English as a Second Language), Title I, and Elementary Special Education. Yolanda Dutton, Migrant Recruiter and Community Liaison, and Desiree Kneiff, certified ESL teacher, help grades K-12 with their English which presently includes 39 students. Ofelia Calleros and Sonia Cruz assist Mrs. Kneiff with the E.S.L. program.

"We have over 100 students (over 20 percent) that speak a language other than English (mostly Spanish)," Moody said.

"Most of these students receive some type of assistance in school."

"With only dividers separating the rooms and the acoustics in the old gym being bad anyway, it's often disturbing to the classes as they can hear each other," Moody said.

According to Moody, the goal is to have the mini-gym and library remodeling done before school starts and a new addition finished on the east side of the elementary building by mid-October. Eight classrooms will be gained by the time the new construction and remodeling is done.

"All of the media centers (libraries) will be brought into the mini-gym where the ceilings will be lowered and acoustics will be improved," Moody said. "This will be good for the computer network as it will then be centrally located."

The Distance Learning Lab and Business Room (computer room) will be in the old media center. Distance Learning involves 23 schools and is called the Nebraska Distance Learning Consortium.

The increased school population not only creates space problems but also fire hazards as well. According to Moody, Deputy Fire Marshall Kurt Madsen said that the life safety system has to be upgraded. Part of the upgrading is that an outside exit (window/s) is needed for every room or else the entire building must have sprinklers installed. If new windows are installed they will have to be a certain size so people can crawl out of them if necessary and those will cost around $2,200 each.

"One fire improvement that will likely come in the future is a Voice E-Vac. System which is a voice activated fire alarm system that takes over if a fire alarm goes off. We need to make sure that the improvements we do now are right so we don't have to redo them in the future," Moody said.

Moody mentioned that he has also been working with Earlene Stubbs, director of the Family Resource Center in Wakefield, to expand services and set up a preschool that is developmentally appropriate. Another expansion intended at the school includes lengthening Kindergarten from half to full days.

"The idea of running Kindergarten all day, every day, has already begun in some schools and it's not a new idea," Moody said. "Kindergarten ran full time before WW2 but with teacher shortages during the war and space problems due to the 'baby boom,' Kindergarten was dropped down to half days."

Parent surveys have been sent the "Sunday Series," faculty residency programs, annual Victorian teas and more. Currently, she also organizes the College's "Black and Gold" artist series and the Guest Faculty Residency program, which supports campus diversity efforts. Her professional activities include numerous regional and national performances, conference presentations and several publications.

Andrew Soll plans to finish his duties at WSC in mid-July and begin his new post by Aug. 1. He will be rejoining Dr. Donald J. Mash, the former president of Wayne State College, who became chancellor at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire last August.

out on the subjects of full time Kindergarten and an extended family resource center but the ideas are dependent on building space and finance. Ultimately the school board will have to weigh the options.

Moody noted that a one-stop family resource center is needed in Wakefield that has programs such as WIC (Women, Infant, and Children), immunization, Head Start, and so forth in one building.

With various programs centrally located, cultural problems could be better addressed as many Hispanics can not read English, have been mistreated in the past, and do not understand our customs.

Superintendent, Moody and Principals Jeanne Surface and Jennifer Widner have been helping bridge the culture gap by holding various activities which give everyone a better picture of the past and present history of those living in Wakefield. Wakefield Institute was started for this purpose and its latest activity included four Wakefield residents speaking on their family history and having Larry Long, a folk singer, compose songs and make a CD from the speakers biographies.

The four speakers for Wakefield Institute were Dan Gardner with long-time business ties to Waldbaums, Jim and Emily Gustafson with long area farming backgrounds, and Martha Mortensen who raised her family in the Wakefield area. The fourth speaker was Mario Tello, representing those of Hispanic background.

Wakefield High School students listened and asked questions of the speakers and worked in different groups with the biographies and with Long to finish the songs. The students also created murals portraying the 'Good Life' of Nebraska and Wakefield.

The Wakefield Institute project was held to give everyone in the community a clearer picture of each other while also providing a slice of Wakefield history, past and present.

and how much for administration?" she asked.

"If we have to have the tax, we need to use the money to attract the people to the community and have to make them stay here," she said.

Gaila Gilliland, Executive Director of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, presented a sample budget for use of the funds. She told those present that the Chamber already serves as a tourism center.

She also stated that a tourist is "anybody who doesn't live in the community."

Ms. Gilliland said the money generated from the tax would help expose the community to others which would in turn create more money from the lodging tax.

Doug Nelson spoke against the tax, stating that it would hurt the motel owners and could eliminate two percent of those staying in the motels.

"I feel this is an example of taxation without representation. I am opposed to paying a tax that I did not have a say on. I feel that the tax should be paid by those who are the first to benefit, namely the business owners," Nelson said.

The tax will affect those staying in any of the county's three motels, the bed and breakfast and any camp ground that charges a set fee. However, anyone renting a motel room for 30 days or more will not be subject to the tax.

During the hearing it was also proposed that monies generated during the 1999 calendar year be saved and used in 2000.

The board of commissioners will appoint the five member visitors committee whose function will be to advise the commissioners.

Capitol News —

Not the best year for Beutler

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

This hasn't been the best of legislative years for Sen. Chris Beutler of Lincoln.

First, he wasn't able to retain his seat as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee.

Lately, he has had a heck of a time getting his colleagues to adopt what he regards as very worthwhile changes in legislation important to the environment.

I thought of Beutler recently for a couple of reasons.

As mentioned in this column previously, the dedicated lawmaker from Lincoln is well-known for an admirable work ethic. He is also known among some in the Statehouse as a pain-in-the-neck stickler who, in their view, fusses too much over things that others don't regard as being in need of a fuss.

It seems that it has been ever thus during Beutler's career.

Take, for instance, those days during the administration of then-Gov. Bob Kerrey.

On the very first day that the proposal to have Nebraska join a five-state nuclear waste compact came to the floor of the Legislature, Beutler exhibited his usual tenacious spirit.

Then-Sen. Rex Haberman introduced the measure and said it was no big deal, really. Nebraska wouldn't be a prime site for a dump, anyway.

That's when Beutler took the floor and, true to form, annoyed a bunch of his colleagues by saying he had read the bill and the information available on the proposed compact, and it sure seemed to him that Nebraska might very well be singled out to receive everyone else's nuclear dirty laundry.

At the time, one lobbyist offered a quip that I've never forgotten. He said something like: "Beutler's probably right. If this were any kind of a good deal, Louisiana would have taken it before anyone else could even be considered!"

Beutler made a nuisance of himself to those who were gung-ho for the dump, but the compact was joined, and Nebraska was chosen to host the nuclear garbage-pail.

It didn't take long for lots of policymakers to wish they had the equivalent of a political "morning after" pill.

There has been political, legal and financial Hades to pay since the compact was joined. And, no doubt, more is to come.

Just last month, the Lincoln Journal Star bannered a page-one headline: "Lawmakers want out of nuclear pact." The projected price tag: $9 million to pay for the anticipated legal battle.

One wonders how many more governors will inherit the issue, and how they will propose to address it.

Kerrey went to the U.S. Senate after one term as governor. Kay Orr's administration was given a boost toward the political dumpster by two major political controversies: nuclear waste and tax policy. Gov. Ben Nelson was elected, in part, on his promise to fight against putting the dump in Boyd County.

Now, Gov. Mike Johanns says he is likely to sign the legislation which would announce to the world that Nebraska is withdrawing, eventually, from the nuclear waste compact.

Eventually — after the judges judge and the lawyers collect their fees.

So, Beutler could offer a legitimate rejoinder to his critics, at least on this issue: "If you think listening to me is a pain in the neck, check out the location of the pain you get when you don't listen."

PRIZE NOTIFICATION AND SWEEPSTAKES FRAUD TOP 1998 COMPLAINTS

Prize notification and sweepstakes fraud topped the 1998 complaints to the Consumer Protection Division of the Nebraska Attorney General's Office for the second straight year. Many of these complaints involved consumers being asked to send money in order to enter a sweepstakes or to receive a sweepstakes prize. A legitimate sweepstakes will never require the consumer to send money in order to claim a prize.

A newcomer to the top ten list for 1998 was in the area of money donations and solicitations. This does not refer to our good legitimate charities, but to "look-a-like" charities and causes that sometimes overwhelm consumers with frequent requests to contribute.

Here are the top ten categories of consumer complaints reported to our office in 1998:

1. PRIZE NOTIFICATION AND SWEEPSTAKES Sweepstakes Losses and Recoveries
2. CREDIT & FINANCIAL SERVICES Financial Companies, Credit Care Companies & Credit Repair
3. PERSONAL & HOUSEHOLD PRODUCTS Subscriptions, Book Clubs, Clothing, Garden Supplies, Antiques and Collectibles, Retail Sales
4. MONEY DONATION SOLICITATIONS Look-a-Like Charity Scams, Improper Solicitations
5. DOOR-TO-DOOR SALES
6. HOME IMPROVEMENTS Heating and Air Conditioning, Lawn Care, Siding, Windows, Roofing
7. UTILITIES Long Distance Telephone Service, Gas, Electric
8. BUSINESS SERVICES & SUPPLIERS Office Supplies, Advertising Services, Computer Software, Wholesale Items
9. RECREATION Health Clubs, Travel Agencies, Membership Campgrounds, Hotels/Motels
10. PROFESSIONAL SERVICES Dental, Medical, Accounting, Veterinary Services

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division received 2126 complaints from Nebraska consumers in 1998. This was a 28% increase over the number of complaints received in 1997. Through the complaint mediation process, the Consumer Protection Division recovered over a quarter of a million dollars for Nebraska Consumers.

Belonging is interesting, satisfying

Why do local businesses pay membership investment fees to support an office and a staff? And why do community business people give hours and hours of volunteer help away from their businesses and homes to a business organization?

Wouldn't it be easier to funnel those dollars into some form of advertising or office supplies? Wouldn't it be easier to say 'I can't give up two or three hours of business time or leave my comfortable home for meetings'?

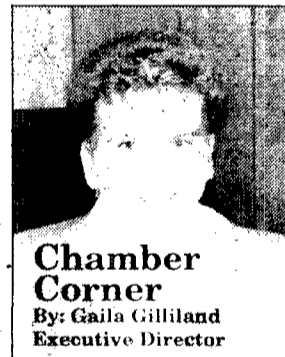

Yes, of course, it would be easier. But, not nearly as interesting or satisfying. Why? Because there is something in us that needs to feel a part of a whole, to share our joys, our problems and together establish common goals to forge ahead.

Let your mind day dream a little — did the pioneers head west alone? No, they formed wagon trains and set up rules for all to go by for an orderly trip. When a wagon broke down, the men gave a helping hand. Women helped each other in child care and bore the responsibility for the weaker and elderly... and the challenges were faced together.

The goal arrived at brought deep inner satisfactions. And the rewards were manifest. Deep, lasting friendships were made and future prosperity locked in because of unified actions.

Today, we face multiple challenges in the business climate. Fear rises in our hearts, and we wonder if we all will make the grade through the tumultuous economic tides that we face. The temptation to believe we are alone in our business problems knocks at our mental doors every day. We tell ourselves we must be positive and keep a stiff upper lip.

Chamber Corner
By: Gaila Gilliland
Executive Director

We see some businesses closing their doors. We see others opening new business and we are caught in a cross-fire of what to think.

It is time to think — a time for new ideas to make our organizations better. A time to sell our products in the most intelligent manner. A time to offer our members more and better services. It is time to join together with other business people — form a wagon train, if you will — and cohesively face the problems till the goal is reached.

That's why we have a Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce. It is a means for business to do together what is almost impossible for businesses to do individually. The Chamber is the voice for business.

The Chamber office stands as a symbol to the community at large that the business community cares — that it is unified to take care of its responsibilities to the business community and to its customers. Take it away and there would be a void — a deep void, and all business would suffer. It is this unified action that will get the "wagon train" to the desired goal.

Letters

Kick Butts Day 1999 will be April 14

Dear Editor,

Ninety percent of smokers started using tobacco regularly by the time they were 18 years old.

On April 14 — Kick Butts Day 1999 — FRIENDS (Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs) members from the Wayne-Carroll High School will take a stand to stop youth from getting hooked on deadly tobacco products. We will do this by putting up posters and distributing information at the high school.

While we are making our voices heard here in Wayne, kids nationwide also will be speaking out against the tobacco industry's tactics, as art of the fourth annual Kick Butts Day — a day of youth leadership and tobacco-control activism co-sponsored by the CAMPAIGN FOR TOBACCO-FREE KIDS and New York City Public Advocate Mark Green.

Kids are letting legislators and community leaders know we need a comprehensive, national tobacco control policy to restrict tobacco marketing directed at kids and to fund critical public education efforts.

Consider these facts: Smoking among high school seniors is at a 19-year high. Each day, more than 3,000 kids become regular smokers. Roughly one-third of them will die prematurely from a tobacco-related disease. Unfortunately, Nebraska's tobacco statistics are worse than the national average. According to the Nebraska Council to Prevent Alcohol and Drug Abuse, 39 percent of Nebraska high school students smoked cigarettes in the past month (compared to 35 percent nationally) and 17 percent of Nebraska high school students used smokeless tobacco in the past month (compared to 11 percent nationally).

Contrary to popular belief, Nebraska is not a safe haven from the widespread problem of adolescent tobacco use.

Kids are not just part of the problem, we're part of the solution. And the students from Wayne want tobacco companies to know we're going to fight them every step of the way.

We also need support from the community.

Together, we can make Kick Butts Day 1999 a success.

Sincerely,
Amanda Maryott, age 16
Vice president, FRIENDS Group
Wayne-Carroll High School

April Sexual Assault Awareness Month

Statistics indicate that one out of every three American females and one out of every 10 males will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime.
 Seventy-eight percent of sexual assault victims knew their attacker. The crime is not one about sex, but one of power, control and humiliation of victims. Sex is merely the weapon.

 Anyone can be a victim of sexual assault. Anyone who has, or anyone who knows someone who has been sexually assaulted or is in a violent relationship is asked to call Haven House, anytime at 375-4633 (Wayne), (402) 494-7592 (South Sioux City) or 1-800-876-6238, statewide.

Herbs for Health
Ginkgo Biloba May Improve Alzheimer's Symptoms

Dementia is a disorder of the brain leading to progressive loss of memory and other determinants of intelligence. The brain decreases in size for the loss of nerve cells and the nerve tracts become distorted due to deposits of a protein called amyloid. Although a number of medicines are under investigation currently, there are only one or two prescription medicines approved for mild to moderate Alzheimer's symptoms.

Researchers have shown interest in herbal medicines due in part to their generally low incidence of side effects. One such herb that is gaining interest in this area is Ginkgo biloba, a species of tree used for medicinal purposes by the Chinese. An analysis of 4 studies was published recently in Archives of Neurology. The analysis involved 424 Alzheimer's patients who took between 120 and 240 mg of Ginkgo extract every day for at least 3 months. Those who took Ginkgo scored about 2 points higher on memory tests than those who took placebo (fake Ginkgo). Researchers involved in the analysis are calling for more studies to confirm these findings.

The Golden Years

Growing up in West Virginia, Velma Thorne Carter learned about politics and government from discussions at the supper table. She also learned from her mother how to create hand stitched quilts. At age 76 Mrs. Carter continues to turn out exquisite quilts. One of the latest depicts the faces of every U.S. president. But that's not all she does. Retired as a family therapist, she is a member of her local zoning board, a committee woman for her political party and an author. Good jobs that don't pay, she quips.

'Cats victorious in first conference tilts

The Wayne State baseball team swept Southwest State of Marshall, Minnesota in action at home last Friday and Saturday—the first conference games ever for WSC in NCAA-Division II.

The visiting Mustangs invaded WSC with a preseason number two ranking in the conference while the 'Cats came in as the fourth ranked preseason conference team.

In Friday's twinbill sweep the 'Cats took game one, 1-0 and then doubled the score in the second game, 2-1.

Brady Borner notched a one-hit shutout against the Mustangs, striking out a dozen batters in the process.

Borner's bid for a no-hitter ended in the fifth inning with a single.

WSC garnered six hits in the contest led by Joel Tremblay's 3-3 outing that consisted of three base hits

Gary Redden singled twice and Clint Brown belted a double for the winners. Redden's one-out single in the first inning scored Matt Luckett for the game's only run.

"That was back-to-back shutouts for Brady," WSC coach John Manganaro said. "He was in total control."

In the second game WSC was actually out-hit, 6-4 by the visitors but the 'Cats got a solid pitching performance from Tate Meier who scattered the hits nicely.

Meier struck out six and walked just two. WSC scored both its runs in the fourth inning on a two-run triple by Josh Stolpe.

The centerfielder also laced a single while Matt Luckett doubled and singled.

On Saturday the 'Cats upped the season record to 13-10 and stretched its current win streak to six games with 2-1 & 4-2 decisions over Southwest State in the opener it was Adam Walkenhorst's turn to notch a complete game victory as the sophomore scattered three hits and struck out nine.

The 'Cats managed five hits led by Eric Neumayer's two singles while Josh Stolpe tripled. Gary Redden and Clint Brown each had a base hit.

The game was tied at one before Redden's rbi single in the seventh inning ended the contest.

WSC pitcher Aaron Hyde improved to 4-0 on the season with a victory in the second game, 4-2.

Reliever Jason Sloger earned the save with some solid pitching in the final inning.

"Jason Sloger really was a clutch performer," Manganaro said. "There were runners at first and second when he entered the game with no outs and he got the first guy to pop out to the catcher, struck the second guy and his third batter flew out to centerfield to end the game."

Rightfielder Brian Zimmerman blasted a three-run homer in the sixth inning to lift the 'Cats and break the one all tie.

WSC out-hit the visitors, 7-5 led by Zimmerman's homerun and double while Joey Baldwin singled twice. Joe Rozz belted a double with Gary Redden and Clint Brown each singling.

The 'Cats will host Minnesota-Duluth in double-header action on both Friday and Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and noon, respectively. WSC will also play at Northern State on Tuesday.

WSC sluggers win pair from Wolves

Wayne State's baseball team continued their winning ways on Tuesday afternoon by sweeping Northern State of Aberdeen, S.D. in double-header action.

The 'Cats have won eight straight games and 10 of the last 11 while improving to 15-10 on the season. WSC won the opening game, 13-6 before earning the sweep with a shutout, 13-0.

The 'Cats sent 15 batters to the plate in the third inning of the first game and scored 10 runs to put the game on ice. Josh Stolpe blasted a two-run homerun and Joel Tremblay had a two-run double to boost the 'Cats in double-digit scoring inning. WSC finished with 13 runs on 13 hits and didn't commit an error while Northern State had six runs on six hits and one error.

Matt Foral earned the pitching victory with four innings of work while James Johannes and Dan Gacke also saw action from the hill.

Joe Rozz and Eric Neumayer paced the 'Cats offensive efforts with each netting a double and two singles.

Joel Tremblay homered and doubled and Clint Brown doubled and singled while Sergio Ruiz singled twice.

WSC improved its conference record to 6-0 in the second game with a 13-0 victory.

The 'Cats pounded out 14 hits in the game Brian Zimmerman supplying the long ball power with a pair of homeruns—both three-run shots in the third and fifth innings.

It was Zimmerman's second multi-homer game this season with the rightfielder knocking in six runs. Clint Brown was a perfect 4-4 from the plate including a three-run homerun in the first inning, a double and two-singles.

"The longer you wait the worse it is going to get."

"I'm just amazed at how well I can see again after cataract surgery. I just couldn't judge steps. I felt unbalanced. I had blurred vision.

The longer you wait the worse it is going to get. If you don't have cataract surgery you'll lose your sight. My dad didn't have it done and he lost the sight in his eye.

I'm very glad I had cataract surgery. This stumbling and fumbling around when you can't see is ridiculous when cataract surgery is so simple.

And, Dr. Feidler makes it affordable."

Diverticular Disease On The Rise.

Diverticulosis is a condition in which small sacs (diverticula) of the intestinal lining protrude through the large intestine's muscular wall. Half of all people over 60 have some degree of diverticulosis. Most do not experience any discomfort. However, when it flares, symptoms include pain, usually in the left side, nausea, vomiting, and bloating. If the sacs become infected, it is called diverticulitis. It causes the same symptoms as listed above plus a fever and a high white blood cell count.

Gaining the customer satisfaction edge

No business today can succeed for any length of time without offering great customer service. Entrepreneurs and business owners must realize that customer service is not something done to a customer, but rather something done for a customer. True customer service means recognizing each person as an individual with needs and doing what it takes to meet those needs.

Customer survey results show how a strong correlation between feelings customers have about the way they are treated by employees (customer service) and the way they feel about a business in general (customer satisfaction). Providing quality service to customers must be the number one priority of every employee.

Customer service statistics
Customers are better educated today than ever before. They want value for dollars spent. Here are some statistics to illustrate the importance of excellent customer service:

- *A lifelong customer is important to a business. For example, a lifelong customer with a car dealership is worth as much as $144,000.
- *Only 4 percent of customers ever complain. For every complaint, 26 other customers have unresolved complaints. Six of those have serious problems.

- *Up to 95 percent of customers who complain will do business with you again if they feel you acted quickly and to their satisfaction.
- *A dissatisfied customer will tell up to 10 people. Approximately 13 percent will tell up to 20 people. Happy customers will tell between three and five people about their positive experiences.
- *Eighty percent of lost business is not due to high prices or poor service but because of apathy after the sale. If a business doesn't stay in contact with customers, somebody else will woo them away.
- *It costs five times as much to sell a new customer as to an existing customer because the price is high to find a new customer, while the price is free to find an existing customer.

*Customers quit doing business because:

- one percent die
- three percent move away
- five percent other reasons
- nine percent competition
- 14 percent don't like the product or service
- 68 percent indifferent attitude of sales people

Businesses have control over 96-99 percent of the reasons customers stop doing business with them.

*Lasting impressions are made through the overall appearance of the store and personnel, eye contact (if you can't make eye contact, can you be trusted?), facial expressions (did I say something wrong when you frowned?), and physical contact (how much is too much?).

Everyone must realize that everyone involved in business is a customer service representative. Service is not someone else's job. It is everyone's job. Employees must be empowered to handle complaints regardless of where the problem originated.

Unhappy customers who must wait for an employee to find a supervisor will likely spend that time getting angrier. If a problem can be resolved with haggling, approximately 95 percent will forget the problem and continue doing business.

Only 70 percent will stay if their problems have to be referred to managers and then it takes days or weeks to resolve. A quick resolution is far more productive and less damaging to customer relations than a drawn-out dispute settlement procedure.

Customer Expectations
Find out exactly what customers expect and do what it takes to meet and exceed those expectations. By meeting expectations, you create a satisfied customer. When expectations are exceeded, a dazzled and delighted customer is the result. Customers always expect something. Their expectations may change at will. They may be rational or irrational and are influenced by people, places, and things they come in contact with. They may not be verbalized unless you ask.

Karen Wermer Dixon

After 5 club is part of an international organization with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. It is inter-church, and non-sectarian having some 2100 groups meeting across

Ask and Listen

The easiest and most effective way to understand what motivates customers is simply to ask. You can use sophisticated market research techniques such as focus groups or surveys.

A less complicated method is simply asking customers in a direct conversation. Pay attention to both informal and formal customer feedback. Listen carefully to responses to questions asked. The number one thing people want from someone they do business with is to be listened to. Listening is at the heart of customer service.

Hearing and listening are not the same. Listening is a skill that is learned and acquired. Hearing is what you are born with. Listening is what you do with your hearing.

YOU CAN HELP!

You've just listed your home. What can you do now to help your agent facilitate an early sale? What is your role in the marketing process?

Actually, you play a vital role in the sale of your home. By pricing your home at "fair market value," it will attract interested buyers. By offering your home in mint condition, those same buyers will compete to own it.

Begin by completing all necessary repairs and maintenance before the home is first shown. Include cosmetic improvements such as cleaning windows and neatly trimming bushes and shrubs. Keep your home picked up and spotless while it is on the market. Create a "no excuses" atmosphere in which buyers can get excited about your home. An album of color photos of the property in all four seasons can trigger positive emotions - and a sale.

Before each showing, turn on all the lights and open the curtains and blinds. Remove pets to the outdoors, then leave the home during the showing. Prospects hesitate to discuss concerns and questions in the presence of the owners. Leave that up to your agent, who will represent your best interests.

Give me a call, or stop in, to discuss a marketing strategy best suited for the sale of your home.

Wright to sing at Wayne

Classically-trained musician Susan Lewis Wright will be singing at Our Savior Lutheran Church on Sunday, April 11.

She will be singing during both the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services.

Ms. Wright, the daughter of Virginia Wright of Wayne, has been playing professionally since seventh grade. Her first club appearance was at the Swinging Door in 1969.

Her career continued in California where she appeared in various folk festivals and benefits in southern California.

In 1975 Susan moved to Atlanta, Ga. in 1975 and worked in a number of clubs. In 1981 she moved to the Virgin Islands and appeared first as a solo artist and then as a duo, performing folk, pop, blues, jazz, calypso, classical, standards and reggae.

From October 1996 through July 1987 she toured the U.S. and Canada with two Canadian performers presenting concerts to promote world peace.

After moving to Denver, Colo. in 1988 Susan decided to become a songwriter as well as a performer. She accompanies herself on guitar, piano and flute.

Ms. Wright has recently returned from a tour to London, England and Ireland in February and has plans to travel extensively this summer.

Her latest release, "Bird," contains 11 new songs and has recently become available.

Good Friday procession

Members of the Wayne community participated in the annual Good Friday Walk last week. The group gathered at the First Presbyterian Church and moved through town to the First United Methodist Church. At the same time, the service was taking place at the Methodist Church for those who were unable to walk the route. Several of those attending took turns carrying the cross and ministers from a number of churches took part in the ceremonies. The event was sponsored by the Wayne Association of Congregations and Ministers.

Duo Club

Upcoming events planned

Grace Lutheran Duo Club met for Guest Night on March 29. There were 24 members and 17 guests present.

Cyril Hansen led the opening devotions and President Hilbert Johs conducted the business meeting.

There were 12 members who attended the L.L.L. Zone 11

Spring Rally at St. John Lutheran Church in Battle Creek on March 14.

For the program, Charles Maier spoke and gave some history of Czechoslovakia. He showed slides from the recent trip he and his wife Barbara took to the Czech Republic. The churches, castles and buildings in Prague, the capital city and cultural center, have a rich architectural heritage.

A cooperative lunch was served by the members.

The next meeting will be Monday, April 26 with Hilbert and Kathleen Johs and Fritz and Joann Temme serving. Ron and Jan Hammer and Janice Newton are on the program.

Calvary Bible Evangelical Church to present concert

The group, River, will be in concert at the Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church at 502 Lincoln Street in Wayne at 7 p.m. on Saturday, April 10 with doors opening at 6 p.m.

A suggested donation of $5 for 12 years of age and up may be given at the door.

Those wanting more information may call the church at 375-4946.

River is comprised of Paul Marino, Phil Reesnes and Kurt Linn who first met and sang together while attending college in the early 80's. They formed River in the Twin Cities during 1989 where all members and their families continue to live.

The first six years of River's ministry were conducted on a part-time basis while members of the group worked in the areas of music, worship and youth ministry at local churches. In September 1995, River launched into full-time ministry.

River's ministry has taken them from coast to coast with an average of 120 concert dates per year. In 1997, River had three songs from their "Faithful" release which reached the top 10 on the national inspirational radio charts, with two climbing to the top 5.

River's mission statement reads as follows: "We serve as ambassadors of Jesus Christ to inspire, encourage, and challenge people to live their lives in Him and in loving relationships with one another through Him."

Blankets for Belize

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne hosts a workday each month to construct simple quilts to be sent to Belize, a country that is located in Latin America. The next scheduled work day will be from Saturday, April 10 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Our Savior Center (former public library). "Come for one hour or two or all day to join in the fun," said Sandra Wriedt, one of those involved with the project. "On-the-job training will be provided in sewing, pinning and tying." For more information, contact the church at 375-2899. Displaying the recently made quilts are, left to right, Sandra Wriedt, Dreama Anderson, Phyllis Rahn, Tammie Rasmussen, Nancy Powers and Tami Willers.

Extension Board meeting will be held on April 12
 The regular meeting of the Wayne County Extension Board will be held on Monday, April 12 at 7 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room in Wayne. The meeting is open to the public. An agenda is available at the Extension Office, 510 Pearl Street, Wayne, Nebraska.

Program to celebrate 30 years

An Oregon dietitian will honor the 30th anniversary of a University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension nutrition program and look toward the future of food education programs during a lecture in Lincoln on April 12.

Ellen Schuster, Oregon State University Extension Service nutrition and foods specialist, will discuss "Working With Limited Resource Families into the 21st Century." She will speak from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in the Great Plains Room at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's NU's East union. The lecture is free to the public.

Schuster's lecture helps celebrate 30 years of NU extension's Expanded Food, Nutrition and Education Program (EFNEP). The program is offered in Douglas, Lancaster and Adams/Hall counties and was formerly offered in some other Nebraska counties. Training includes individual and group education as well as home visits by extension staff to help low-resource families learn to choose and cook nutritious food on limited budgets.

From 1968 to 1998, EFNEP helped 65,231 Nebraska families make better food and lifestyle choices and move toward greater self-sufficiency, said Wanda Koszewski, nutrition specialist in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Schuster's interests include developing culturally relevant and readable nutrition information and using technology, especially the Internet, to deliver nutrition education, Koszewski said.

For parking or other information, call Jeannie Pittam at (402) 472-2317.

Poultry industries honored

New officer elections and announcements of scholarship winners topped recent activities at the 1999 Nebraska Poultry Industries (NPI) convention in Columbus.

Approximately 350 people attend the convention, said Susan Joy, general manager of NPI, headquartered on East Campus of the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources here.

The 1999 Poultry Industry Person of the Year Award went to Timothy J. Bebee, vice president of live production at the M.G. Waldbaum Co. in Wakefield. Bebee has worked at the M.G. Waldbaum Co. for 18 years, during which he managed various departments within the company's farm operations in Nebraska, Colorado, Iowa and Minnesota. The Wayne native also managed the further egg processed egg products plant in Wakefield. Bebee and his wife Leslie have three children, Javanah, 18, Timarie, 15 and Garek, 10.

Among the 1999 scholarship recipients was Christina Lynn Beeson of Waverly, a Wayne State College student who received the Sarah Louise Gruver Memorial Scholarship.

New officers elected to the Nebraska Poultry Industries include

Bill Claybaugh of Carroll, president and Sam Utecht of Wakefield, secretary-treasurer.

Those elected to the Nebraska Egg Council include Bill Claybaugh of Carroll, vice president.

The Conference was held March 10-11. The dates for next year's convention are March 29-30 at the New World Inn in Columbus.

Writer told to 'keep on keeping on'

It's 11 p.m. on Easter Monday, and I can't rely on the Internet for my material every week. It's been a strange day for weather in Nebraska: driving rain, bright sunlight, clouds and wind and more rain. A friend in Norfolk tells me it's snowing there. We're just now reading today's mail. It's been that kind of day. Plus, I'm just putting the last set of sheets in the washer.

it to church in time to run through the choir number before the service.

 By: Pat Melcher

The kids were all here on Saturday. Naturally, it was too wet to play outside. So, the eggs were hidden inside. And, naturally, nobody took a nap. Except Great-Grandma, who could not believe how much racket three little boys, and their fathers, could make!

I worked at the Care Center that afternoon; and for my home health job today. Plus, there were cousins from Waco here for supper, which explains why this is just now being written. And why the sheets are just being finished. In the morning, I'll have to find a FAX.

Sometimes, after weeks like this, I wonder why I do this. It's been 16 years, so now it's a challenge to see how long I can.

Besides, I get just enough positive strokes to keep me going. I was at a booth at a health fair in Nebraska City one day when a couple stopped to read our sign. The lady said, "Don't you write a column in the Wayne paper?" I said "Yes," but how would you know that?

It turned out they used to live in Wayne and he worked at Mine's Jewelry. Her sister still lives there, and saves the paper for them. They operate the jewelry store in Auburn. Their physician is Gary Ensz, whose brother is Judge Robert.

Then, I was in Winside one Saturday eve, and several folks had the kindness to say I should "keep on keeping on." As if God was trying to make a point, I received a note from Ericson, the next week, expressing appreciation for the Farmer's Wife. It's always amazing to me how far the Wayne Herald gets. I have a feeling that would be true of most "home-town" papers.

It's how we stay connected with our past. Maybe we can't go home again, but we can continue to cherish the relationships that made us who we are.

Vaccines Protect Children's Health

Vaccination is an important health measure we can take to protect ourselves and our family members from diseases that cause much suffering and/or lead to death. Surprisingly many adults do not bother to have children vaccinated. According to a recent report in US News and World Report, fewer than half of the children in the US under age 2 are fully vaccinated against common "childhood diseases," such as measles, tetanus, and polio. The report indicated that thousands die each year from conditions like hepatitis -- conditions that are vaccine-preventable. For this reason public health officials try to get as many children and adults vaccinated as possible.

Vaccines boost the body's immune system, allowing the body to develop a protective immunity. Vaccines currently under investigation include those that protect against the causes of meningitis, ear infection, cancer, and AIDS.
