These two wood ducks were spotted in a tree near the courthouse last week. They were patient enough to pose for the picture before flying off. Wood ducks have been seen by a number of Wayne residents in several locations this spring.

Electric rate increase needed

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

An 11-month study has been completed indicating that the city of Wayne needs to adjust the electrical rates being charged to residential and commercial customers.

Lar Voss of Western Consulting, Inc. made a presentation at Tuesday's Wayne City Council meeting and told the council that his firm recommended several changes.

At the present time, the rate schedule is set up so that the charge for electrical usage remains the same for the first 3,000 kilowatt hours (KWH) used. After that point, customers are charged a smaller per kilowatt fee for additional electricity used. Also, a different rate is charged for houses with electrical heat than for those without.

Voss recommended that the rate change be lowered to 700 KWH and that there be no difference in charges to homes with electric heat. He also recommended that the city implement seasonal rates. Those would result in electrical costs being higher in the summer months when demand is greater and lower in the winter months when demand is lower.

According to the proposal, the city would implement a two percent rate increase every other year to help offset the increase in power supply costs. A one time rate increase of 9.33 percent for residential customers is also in the proposal. This number includes the first year's two percent.

The council postponed taking any action on a request from the two garbage haulers to prohibit alley pick up of garbage.

Waste Connection and Gill Haulers have recently begun garbage pickup in Wayne. Both companies have experience in curbside pickup. They indicate that it is more efficient and cleaner on trucks and streets.

Leonard Gill of Gill Haulers was at the meeting and told council members that his firm was willing to work with residents on an individual basis and said that exceptions would be made for those residents who are unable to get their garbage to the curb.

Councilman Willis Wiseman said he had no idea how his constituents felt about the issue and asked to postpone the vote until he had time to gather input from them.

Several resign

by Aubrey Parson
for the Herald

The Board of Education heard requests for staff resignations in a regular meeting Monday night.

Resigning from duties will be Ron Carnes, Bonita Day, Nancy Heithold and Scott and Sarah Lepke. Carnes and Day made early retirement requests after serving the school district for 35 years. Heithold currently works as the district secretary, and Scott Lepke recently accepted an assistant principal position in Chamberlain, S.D.

*Donald Zeiss, high school principal, discussed the installation of the new distance learning lab. The district received $60,000 of equipment to include in the lab through a Fiber Distance Grant. The lab is located in the technology room in the high school.

Included in the equipment are eight 32-inch television monitors, new carpet and air conditioning, and an instructor console that is equipped with instructional technologies for teachers.

The first distance learning class to be held in the lab will be a psychology course taught by Mr. Hochstein next fall. The class will be available for high school and college credit with a maximum of 27 students allowed to enroll.

According to Dr. Joseph Reinert, district superintendent, all of the fiber networking is expected to be installed by July. The project is tied into classrooms at Norfolk High School, Northeast Community College and Wayne State College.

*Dr. Reinert discussed the acquisition of a Satellite Dish Grant that would enable the district to purchase a $3000 satellite. Currently the high school has to utilize Wayne State College resources if programs need to be recorded off satellite.

"The control unit for the satellite would be centered in the high school library, with ties to classroom televisions throughout the building," said Dr. Reinert.

*The Board heard a report from representatives of the high school Entrepreneur class on the recent opening of their school store.

The students reported that they built the store, which is located in the commons area, to provide students with merchandise that might not be immediately available elsewhere. The store currently sells food, candy and some school supplies. The students hope to add more school supplies and t-shirts to their inventory for next year.

The group received a grant to pay for the start-up costs of the project. Profits from the store will be used towards improvements for the school.

A group of six students under the direction of Sandi Dorcay take turn operating the store during study hall hours.

The students reported that after being open for one week the store had sold $280.43 worth of merchandise. The store is open throughout the morning, closes for lunch and then remains open until 15 minutes after school each day.

*Tami Diediker reported on the progress of the High Ability Learners Program. According to Diediker, the program goals for this year are to implement a system used to identify high ability learners in grades 3-11. The program is planning ways to notify parents when their children are recognized as high ability learners. Staff meetings are also being held to instruct faculty on characteristics of students with special learning abilities.

Diediker said that plans for next year include adding a recognition program for students in kindergarten through second grade. The program would also like to expand its focus from the four

Long distance friend visits in Nebraska

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Modern technology has changed the way we communicate and has made the world smaller in many ways.

Marvel Rahn and Cheryl Wieseler of Wayne can attest to this fact. For some time they have been "chatting" with a new friend thousands of miles away.

This past week their new friend, Richard MacDonald of Sheffield, England, made a visit to Wayne.

"Through a computer program called ICQ, which stands for 'I Seek You,' I met Richard in January of 1998. Cheryl started communicating with him last summer," Marvel said.

The computer chat program allows one or more people to 'talk' to each other at any time for no charge.

The group communicates regularly, often even daily. Richard usually "calls" after work and uses the computer time as a "wind down time."

The 23-year old owns and runs the Half Moon Family Pub in Sheffield.

"It is six hours later in England than here, so when I get off work at midnight or 1 a.m., I can still talk to my friends here," Richard said.

Although this is Richard's first trip to Nebraska, it is not his first trip to the United States. In fact, from Wayne, he was headed to Seattle, Wash. to visit another group of the people he has met through the computer.

Richard said he has been planning his trip to Wayne for some time and has also invited his Sebastian Kammerer, foreign exchange student from Mueggset, Germany, has been staying with Dennis and Lois Bowers of Winside for nearly eight months. A lot has changed in that length of time.

A big change taking place in the Bowers' lives was having a teenager living with them again as their three children are married and gone.

Becoming a host family to a foreign exchange student wasn't something they had planned on doing but their daughter, Joanie Roberts, received a call from Mrs. Larry Grone of Wayne, PAX (Program of Academic Exchange) representative. Grone thought Joanie would be interested in becoming a host but she in turn thought of her parents as they had more room.

"We had talked to Dean and Daisy Janke of Winside who had hosted a foreign exchange student and they had a good experience. We felt it would be beneficial to the grandchildren and to everyone to learn about another country," Lois said.

"Having a teen around again took a little getting used to but we knew what to expect," Dennis said. "And we hadn't forgotten," he added with a grin.

Bowers' son Brian added that they have given Sebastian the nickname of "Zook" since his arrival.

Sebastian said that it was a weird feeling when he found out where he was going as he hadn't seen a photo of the Bowers or of where they lived before he arrived.

"I wanted to learn English better, get to know something completely new to learn from," Sebastian said. "This has been a great experience so far."

As far as learning to speak English,

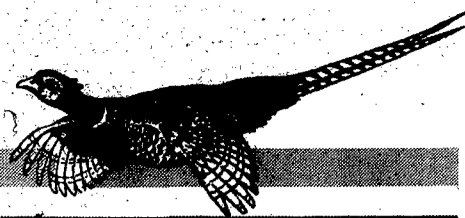

Sebastian can now speak fluently. That was something he couldn't do when he first arrived.

"He slowed us down in our busy lives which was good because we had to use examples of what we meant," Lois said.

MAKE YOUR MOVE!

So - you're buying a home. When can you move in?

That's a matter you'll need to decide before you sign your offer to purchase the home. Actually, it is one of numerous items to be negotiated with the sellers.

The optimum possession date is often thought to be the day you acquire title to your home, the "closing" date. If so, your purchase agreement should specify "possession to be at closing." If the sellers accept your offer, you may expect possession on that date.

Occasionally, buyers and sellers agree on another possession date, before or after the closing. Because such an arrangement can create unusual circumstances, a limited or "temporary" possession agreement should be signed by the buyer and seller to protect both parties.

This agreement states the possession date, any rent to be paid by the occupying parties, and who is responsible for repairs, insurance, etc. It should also state any circumstances under which the occupying parties must vacate the home.

When purchasing your home, ask your agent's advice in negotiating the possession date. This can alleviate anxiety and provide a "no surprises" move to your new home.

"Dr. Reinert reported that the elementary, middle school and high school principals are trying to identify any technologies in their buildings that might be susceptible to Y2K.

"We would like to replace any computers that are over six years old because we feel they have the greatest chance of being affected," said Dr. Reinert.

The Board also discussed the shortage of electricity in the high school.

Dr. Reinert stated that even though the electrical load coming into the building is adequate, resources are not available in the high school to use the maximum amount of electricity possible.

"The principals reported on renovation projects being completed in each building.

David Lutt, elementary school principal, reported that work on the roof should be completed within two weeks. Dr. Reinert also reported that new boilers will also be installed within the same time frame.

The elementary school will be dismissed on May 27, one day early, to allow teachers time to clear out their rooms to prepare for the replacement of the outside walls.

Dr. Reinert reported that middle school teachers had visited several schools in Lincoln and Omaha to generate ideas for the renovation project.

Preliminary plans for the high school addition have been completed and electrical bids will soon be accepted for the electrical improvements that need to be made.

"The Board heard a report on the increase of admission prices for the 1999-2000 school year. Adults and children will now pay $3 each to attend high school events, which is a one dollar increase for children from this year. Junior high event admission prices will be $1 per person and season tickets will also be available at a discounted price.

American friends to England for a Y2K party next June.

His stay in Nebraska was filled with numerous activities, planned both by Marvel and Cheryl.

The group attended a comedy club in Sioux City, Iowa and Richard went to work with Marvel at Wayne East. They also shopped at Super Walmart in Norfolk.

Last Saturday Richard cooked a feast for his Wayne friends. Included on the menu were deviled eggs with hot tomato sauce, roast chicken, Yorkshire pudding, Henderson relish (which is made only in Sheffield and is put on a variety of foods) and fruit salad.

Also on Richard's agenda was spending a day with Cheryl at Winside Public Schools where Cheryl teaches English and Home Economics. He was also going to spend a day with Cheryl's husband, Monte, at Heritage Homebased Business Association meeting.

"Nebraska is a lot more barren than I had imagined. The city of Sheffield has over one-half million people, so being in Wayne is quite a change," Richard said.

Richard also planned to visit KTCH radio station. The station is on the Website and Richard has been able to listen to it while in England. In fact, on one occasion, Marvel called the station and said "hi" to Richard who was listening to the radio through the computer.

Richard laughingly said that Americans don't speak English very well. He cited a number of terms that are used in this area that he was unfamiliar with. For example, cars are parked in 'parking lots' here and in 'car parks' in his country. Also, a 'billfold' here is a 'purse' in England and 'buns' are 'bread cakes'.

Richard said his trip to Nebraska was not unusual, as he loves to travel and visit with friends he has met. He has been to Russia, Greece, Spain and Turkey and is planning a trip to Australia in 2001.

Wayne State College to host camp EXCEL

The former Fun Camp Wayne State College has hosted in past years is being offered again this summer as Camp EXCEL for all fifth through eighth grade students, June 20-25.

"The camp has been reinstated with changes. It will be a great experience for young students. They will be working and learning from Wayne State educators, counselors and graduate assistants. This creates a win-win situation because the students gain unique experience from talented individuals with educational experience," said Michael Gillan, camp director and WSC fine arts faculty member.

Applications to attend the EXCEL camp are due May 20. EXCEL stands for Exciting, Excellent, Creative Experience in Languages, science and the arts.

Classes offered include STOMP, story telling, animal adaptations, visual arts and creative classes in music, theatre, writing, problem solving and movement.

"STOMP class will involve dance and rhythm activities with things commonly found like broomsticks and garbage cans. Animal adaptations will involve a collection of skins to show how animals have adapted through a science-oriented class with discussions on such things as why a tiger has stripes," Gillan said.

Students may commute or stay in Wayne State College residence halls under the supervision of camp counselors. For more information, contact Mike Gillan at (402) 375-7480 or by e-mail at mgillan@wscgate.edu before May 20.

Sebastian Kammerer received his driver's license while he was here. The procedure is easier in Nebraska than it is in Germany.

American

"We had to stop and look at him so he could read our lips," Dennis said. "He also had trouble with our slang."

Sebastian noted that everyone seemed to talk so fast but he said he has learned more English in six months here than in two years in Germany.

In Germany, Sebastian lives a half hour from Muenster. While that is in the country, his family does not farm. His father, Johannes, is a doctor and his mother, Claudia, works in the counseling field. Sebastian is their only child. Living on a "working farm" has been quite an experience for Sebastian.

So far, Sebastian has been involved in several farm experiences such as helping with cattle, breaking ice in the cattle yard, and scooping snow out of feed bunks.

"The one thing we haven't had him do yet is help or watch pulling a calf," Dennis said.

Sebastian said many people become foreign exchange students in Germany. He talked to several from Germany who had done this and he thought about it for quite awhile before making the decision to go. He noted that people in Europe travel a lot.

When asked what he thinks of this area he said he's used to a city where no one knows or cares about someone else's business. He feels that in a small town everybody knows everything about everyone and that has been hard for him to get used to.

Many things are done differently between Germany and the United States. For example, Sebastian got a driver's license here which was simple and inexpensive to get. Not so, he said, in Germany. In Germany there are classes, practice lessons on driving in all kinds of weather conditions, theoretical classes, and the cost is between $800 to $1,000.

Another difference is in the school systems. Sebastian notes that the German Education System is a lot more complex than it is here. And, depending on the career field sought, German universities tend to be harder than those in the U.S.

Also, the grades aren't the same. For example, even though Sebastian will graduate in May from Winside High School, he will still have two years of high school left in Germany to get the highest degree.

There are three different kinds of degrees, the lowest takes 10 years, the next takes 12 years, and the highest degree takes 13 years. There is also Kindergarten, so a student can be in school for 14 years before going on to a college or university.

An example he gave of one degree was if someone wants to become a carpenter in Germany, a middle degree would be sought after the twelfth year of school. Then vocational training three times a week and school twice a week would be started.

Two school activities here that are not the same as in Germany are sports and music. Sebastian said they only have physical education once a week for two hours there and that's it; there are no sports in school. If someone wants to get into sports, they join a club.

"Sports are not taken as seriously in Germany. I was surprised at how serious it is here. Here even the grown-ups talk about how their kids did in their sports," Sebastian said. "I was in wrestling here and I enjoyed it a lot."

Lois said Sebastian even won a wrestling tournament while here, received a medal, and the Winside Wrestling team gave him one of their team jackets.

As for music, it too is something that's not taught in school. A person must join a club in order to learn an instrument or sing.

"Most of our music and movies, though, are the same because we get them after they've been popular in the U.S.," Sebastian said.

Glancing at the piano that sits in their living room, Lois adds that music is her thing and Sebastian has learned to play by ear, picking it up right away. Dennis proudly added that Lois plays many piano pieces by ear.

Some other activities he was involved in while staying here include making a CD holder in shop class, remodeling the playhouse in the backyard in which the Bowers grandchildren play, and being in the youth group at church.

"He wrote the benediction himself and gave it at church the Sunday after Christmas," Lois said. "He did a really nice job."

"His parents speak a little English so it ought to be interesting when they arrive. His mom calls here as they get a better telephone rate than we do. They're seven hours earlier there than here," Lois said. "It's really something to hear their conversation in German. They speak so fast. We're not used to hearing the German language."

Dennis added that he supposed Lois would want to go over to Germany and visit but there are no immediate plans to do so.

Looking at Sebastian, "We'll miss him. We couldn't have picked out anyone better if we'd have done so ourselves," Dennis said. "Although, he added with a smile, if he would have had long hair and earrings when we picked him up at the airport, we'd have driven on by."

Sebastian assured that PAX wouldn't have allowed that as clean-cut students are easier to place. Although, long hair and earrings are fairly common in Germany, adding that he had dread locks before coming here.

'Rock In Prevention' program to be presented at schools

The award winning "Rock In Prevention" (RIP) program is coming to Wayne and Dixon County on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 21-23.

RIP has been recognized as one of the best prevention programs in the country. Executive Director, Pat McManus, is a National Advanced Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor and recording artist. RIP is an innovative substance abuse prevention program that uses songs as teaching tools.

Age appropriate workshops will be presented to the K-4th grade students from 9 to 10 a.m. and the 5th and 6th grade students from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m.

The program will be hosted at the Ponca High School gymnasium on Wednesday, April 21 and at the Wayne High School gymnasium on Thursday and Friday, April 22-23.

Parents and community members are encouraged to come hear the program and to "Feel the Power."

RIP teaches realistic refusal skills to alcohol, tobacco and other drugs. Life coping skills, violence prevention skills and methods to develop a healthy self-esteem are also emphasized.

Bonding exercises and fun al-

Relay For Life planned

Wayne's walkers and runners are planning to go around the clock in the battle against cancer during the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life.

This "celebration of life" brings numerous groups and individuals concerned about cancer together for a unified effort to fight back.

Teams of enthusiastic citizens from all walks of life will gather at Wayne State College track for a 15 hour relay against cancer from 6 p.m. June 4 to 9 a.m. on June 5.

Relay For Life is a unique fundraising event that allows participants from all walks of life — including patients, medical support staff, corporations, civic organizations, churches and community volunteers — to join together to fight cancer. Relay For Life reminds us that progress has been made in the fight against cancer, and that everyone who participates is making a difference.

Relay For Life opens as cancer survivors walk, run or wheelchair the first lap. This is an emotional time as sets the stage for the importance of each participant's contribution. A festive atmosphere always develops around the track area at these events. As new friends are made and time is spent with old ones, the Relay heats up and the camp-out begins. An atmosphere of camaraderie is created by team members entertaining each other: eating, playing games and of course, walking or running for a great cause.

Highlighting the evening is the Luminaria service held after dark to honor cancer survivors and to remember those who have lost the battle against cancer. Those luminaries line the track and are left burning throughout the night to remind participants of the incredible importance of their contributions.

Wiseman participates in exchange program

Anne Wiseman of Wayne, a student at the University of Nebraska at Kearney (UNK) who is majoring in biology and pre-dental, will attend the University of South Carolina through the National Student Exchange Program (NSE).

Wiseman is among 22 (UNK) students who will be attending some of the nation's premiere higher education institutions during the 1999-2000 academic year through the NSE program.

"Students grow academically and personally as well as develop a greater appreciation for the diversity of our country and our cultures," said Denise Archer, UNK National Student Exchange Coordinator.

The NSE expands the academic and professional resources available to UNK students. The program provides inter-institutional exchange and study opportunities among 155 colleges and universities.

It features a tuition reciprocity system which allows students to attend their host institution by paying either the in-state tuition and fees of their host institution or the normal tuition/fees of their home campus. Students work with their academic departments to ensure that work completed on exchange will be credited to their degree programs.

Archer attended the NSE Placement conference in Miami, Fla. in mid-March. All of the UNK Students who applied to the NSE program were placed at the conference.

Nebraska Consumer Bulletin

Attorney General Don Stenberg

Y2K IS APPROACHING
The Scam Artists Are Already at Work

Even though Nebraska banks and thrifts are well prepared for the Year 2000, scam artists are attempting to frighten Nebraska consumers about the safety of their bank and credit card accounts.

The scam artists never miss an opportunity to try to take advantage of our good Nebraska citizens. New schemes are popping up to exploit the consumers' fears about the Y2K. These schemes are usually attempts to get credit card and bank account numbers. One fraudulent caller even asked the consumer to transfer his entire bank account to the scam artist so that it could be protected from any Y2K glitches.

Recently, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division received a report from a consumer who had been called by someone implying that he represented the person's bank. The caller said that in order to validate credit cards for the Year 2000, the consumer must have a special sticker placed on the back of his credit cards. In order to provide this, of course, the caller needed the consumer's credit card number and expiration date.

Another report told about a phone caller who explained that all credit cards would have to have the magnetic strip replaced before the new year in order to be Y2K compliant. The caller, who again suggested he was representing the consumer's bank, said this could be taken care of by mailing the credit cards to him at a post office box in another state.

The Y2K Consumer Group has asked our office to make consumers aware of a Y2K scam in which the scam artist contacts people by phone and claims to represent a bank that is having difficulty getting its computer systems ready for the Year 2000. He tells the consumer that all bank customers need to transfer their accounts to a bond account to protect their money until the bank can get its system ready for the next millennium. He then asks for account information to "verify that he is talking to the proper person" and asks for verbal authorization to transfer funds to the special account.

Here are some suggestions to help protect yourself from the Y2K scam artists:

- If a caller informs you that you must provide information or pay a fee to make your credit card or bank account Y2K compliant, check immediately with your credit card company or bank.
- Never give credit card or bank account numbers over the phone when you did not initiate the call.
- If a caller asks questions about your personal finances, such as where you bank or how much cash you keep at home, hang up.
- Be aware that bank employees or police will never quiz you about your bank account over the phone.
- If a caller suggests you should withdraw money from your bank or allow the caller to withdraw it so that it can be protected from the Y2K bug, call your bank or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office immediately.

If you have questions about the Y2K or other consumer questions, contact: Office of Attorney General Don Stenberg, Consumer Protection Division, 2115 State Capitol, Lincoln, NE, 68509, (402) 471-2682, Consumer Protection Line - 1-800-727-6432.

Capitol News —

Feeling sympathy for Nelson

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

How often do folk like thee and me feel a pang of sympathy for powerful, successful people whose money is counted in the millions of dollars?

Putting aside the personal tragedies that can come to anyone, regardless of their financial standing, the tendency among workaday people like me is to assume that we would probably be willing to trade our problems for those of the multi-multi-dollared dudes.

And why not? It's like Willie Nelson once told me: "You can't buy money or happiness. But, you can rent either one of 'em!"

Thus, it was with some surprise that I felt myself feeling a twinge of sympathy for former Gov. Ben Nelson.

It had to do with that flap about the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission putting some wild turkeys on a piece of Nelson's private property.

Nelson is an avid, accomplished, hunter of wild turkeys. The guy has achieved what I think is called the "National Slam," or some such thing. It means he has hunted and bagged various species of wild turkeys around the North American continent, in the Midwest, the South, etc. The last time I interviewed Nelson he was planning a trip to Central or South America, or some such place, so he could be recognized for what's called (I think) the "International Slam" (or some such thing).

You have to understand that hunters of wild turkeys are Serious People when it comes to this sport. There is a National Wild Turkey Federation. It has lots of chapters, including the one in Nebraska. The restoration of the wild turkey and the promotion of hunting them, appropriately, is important to these people. Where turkeys go, how they are raised and hunted are important to these outdoors people.

Now, consider this: With the exception of an ill-advised bid for the U.S. Senate, Ben Nelson has succeeded at everything he has attempted. From Eagle Scout to millionaire businessman/investor.

Thus, Ben Nelson could have PURCHASED enough wild turkeys to satisfy the hunting needs of himself and a Mercedes full of his compadres. He could provide the Mercedes, too. He didn't NEED the free turkeys.

Nevertheless, there's Ben the Turkey Hunter, in the papers. He told the Game and Parks crew that he'd like some wild turkeys on his place, if some were available. Anyone is allowed to make such a request. Nelson's request was granted. A lot of people griped and said it sure looked like favoritism for a wealthy, former governor. Well, yeah. It sure did. Imagine Nelson's chagrin.

Don't forget that Nelson was an active, real-life, walking advertisement for hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities during his terms as governor. It is understandable that the GPC would appreciate his efforts a good deal more than somewhat, and want to accommodate the guy.

How to do it? Give him the turkeys. The GPC did that part.

How might it have been done correctly?

All that was needed was a plan and an announcement. The plan could have been to announce that some wild turkeys were being released on Ben Nelson's place, AND, that once a year Nelson would host a turkey hunt for a youngster or two on his private hunting spot. It could be a kid who is interested in government and hunting, or a kid who had shown particular dedication to the sport, etc. The NWTF even has a group for young folk called JAKES (Juniors Achieving Knowledge, Ethics and Skill).

It probably would have worked out fine. I kind of like the idea, myself.

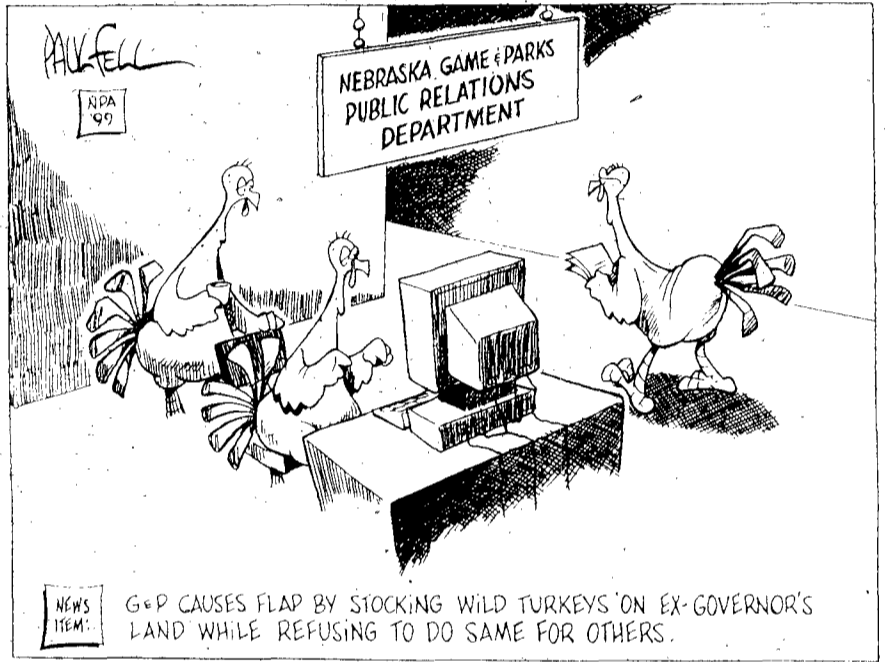

I did some writing on the GPC staff awhile back, and got to know some of the people who have degrees in things I can hardly pronounce, having to do with taking care of water and fish and wildlife and habitat (on land and in the water). The workaday folks with whom I was acquainted were dedicated to a degree that might embarrass a good many of us. I mean, they invested in expensive educations to do work they love in situations that don't pay them the kind of money that would let them buy a bunch of wild turkeys for their private hunting spots. If they have any private hunting spots.

The point is, these workaday types at the GPC aren't any happier about those headlines than is Ben Nelson.

It comes down to that old lesson that is learned and re-learned in the Statehouse, in state government and in Washington.

The perception IS the reality for the public. If it looks bad, it is bad, regardless of intentions, or what was done, or what could have been done to make the whole deal (whatever the deal) a none-issue.

LB 149 LETS COMPUTERS SET SPENDING

By Governor Mike Johanns

Dear Nebraska Neighbors,

From family farms to manufacturing centers, from small towns to big cities, or from school districts with a few students to those with a few thousand, our state is marked by rich diversity. As we look to the 21st century, however, this diversity presents us with many challenges. To move forward as a "Nebraska United", we must look for ways to bridge these differences and craft public policy that allows for growth and development in all parts of the state.

One such challenge is the education of our young people. I believe strongly in the need to provide Nebraska students with quality educational opportunities regardless of the size or location of their school district. As responsible stewards of Nebraska's future, we must fund K-12 education because it is the right thing to do. The question concerns the approach we take to the process.

Last week I exercised my first veto as Governor. My veto of LB 149 has nothing to do with the $19.4 million that this legislation will authorize to be distributed to Nebraska's public schools under the state finance formula. To the contrary, had LB 149 centered solely on the issue of restoring additional funds to the school aid formula, I would have signed the legislation into law.

My objection to LB 149 arises from provisions of the bill which clearly remove the flexibility the Legislature and the Governor need to make budget decisions based upon the entire state budget. LB 149 requires that the amount of state aid to schools be locked-in each year by February 1.

The practical result of this change is that the statutory formula will dictate to the Legislature a "needed" appropriation level. Legislative Bill 149 effectively abdicates budget setting responsibility to the Nebraska Education Department's computers, removing that responsibility from elected officials.

LB 149 prevents the Legislature from increasing or decreasing the certified state aid amount during budget deliberations which occur after February 1st each calendar year. Thus, as adopted by the Legislature, LB 149 severely limits elected officials' flexibility in the state spending process. This is poor public policy for Nebraska.

Education is a priority for Nebraska, but LB 149 handcuffs elected officials while letting a computer rule supreme. If we are to move forward as a "Nebraska United", we must be better stewards of our future.

Should the state's economy turn downward (and we know that someday it will), the Legislature and Governor will have to make very difficult choices about reducing state spending. LB 149 takes state aid to schools off the table for those discussions and means other parts of the budget, such as the University of Nebraska, would have to bear the burden of tens of millions of dollars in budget cuts. LB 149 reduces flexibility in making tough decisions on state spending in bad economic times.

Let's fast forward into our community's future

Carl Sandburg said, "Nothing happens unless first a dream." What are Your dreams?

Let's fast forward into the future. Just for a little while, consider living in a digital world. What will the community of the future look like? How will "community" be defined in 2020, for instance? What new technology will exist in 2020? What might it mean to belong to or be a functioning part of a digital community?

What will be the impact upon what we now think of as our local economy? How might the digital economy affect agriculture or retail business or finance or health care or service industry business or entertainment or manufacturing or what we now identify as "community." And the list goes on and on.

I recently interviewed several community leaders for their opinions and answers to those kinds of questions. All have agreed on some probable aspects of community in 2020 while disagreeing on others. I am reading a real eye-opener, "The Digital Economy" by Don Tapscott.

Another piece, titled "Strategic Leadership: Achieving Your Preferred Future" by Bill Hamer and Glen Hiemstra, asks the reader to develop a shared vision of preferred future.

Imagine, if you will, your business, community, or organization which continues along for five, 10 or 20 years with its people doing what they now do. No changes are made, nor planning for any kind of change. What is the probable future of that business or organization, and is it also the preferred future? If so, great!

Chamber Corner
By Gaila Gilliland
Executive Director

If not, read on! Begin brainstorming or dreaming even by yourself to imagine any number of possibilities for your business, community, or organization. Think outside your normal comfort-zone limitation! Remember, many things we take for granted today were once considered impossible, including airplanes, electricity, and space exploration.

Once you've made a list of dreams, select from those possible futures your preferred future. Because many possible ideas are usually considered, a filtering technique is required. Identify those actions that must take place to achieve the vision or dream. This step separates traditional planning from strategic leadership planning.

Now, merge this process with the questions asked in the second paragraph. What is your preferred future...and what does it look like for your business, organization, or community? How will you define "community" in 2020? Change will continue to occur all around us; will we be ready for the future?

Opportunity exists for area students to study abroad

American teenagers are being offered the opportunity to participate in a summer or winter travel/study program, or spend an academic semester, or academic year abroad.

American Youth Abroad (AYA) is sponsored by the American Institute For Foreign Study (AIFS) Foundation. This not-for-profit foundation promotes intercultural exchange by sponsoring incoming foreign exchange students from many different countries in the Academic Year in American program. The AIFS Foundation awards grants and scholarships that can be used towards American Youth Abroad programs to high schools and American families who host these international students.

A way to earn up to a $1000 scholarship towards an AYA program is by hosting an international high school student with good English skills and motivation will be arriving this August.

By hosting a student from the country you are interested in traveling to, you can learn about the country, their customs, culture, and language before you travel abroad. Most importantly, you'll have made a special friend in the country before you even begin your adventure!

If you would like to study abroad and/or to open your heart and home to an international student or know of someone who would, call Andrea at 1 800-322 4678 ext 6078.

Herbs for Health

Alternative Medicine Popularity Rising

Use of alternative medicine increased almost 50% between 1990 and 1997 according to the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Harvard Medical School report. The findings were based on telephone surveys of over 1,500 US adults in 1991 and an even larger number in 1997. According to the report, 58% of those who used alternative therapies did so to "prevent future illness" or to "maintain health and vitality." Use of herbal medicines, therapeutic massage, megavitamins, self-help groups, and homeopathy exhibited the steepest rise in popularity, with herbal remedy sales increasing 380% and megavitamin use rising by 130%.

In both surveys, less than 4 in 10 persons said they told physicians about their alternative treatments. This lack of communication could be dangerous because of potential serious interactions between alternative therapies and conventional medicines.

In another telephone survey of 1,000 American men and women, 69% reported using alternative medicine "during the past year," and 30% indicated use of herbal medicines.

The Golden Years

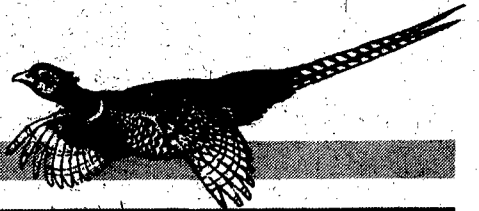

Rosmond Carr grew up in New Jersey, married a Briton, and went off to live in Africa in 1949. The two separated in 1955, but she remained at a plantation in Rwanda. The farm flourished. Then, in the early 1990's, ethnic violence erupted. Hundreds of thousands of Rwandans were massacred. In 1994 Mrs. Carr had to flee, but after a few months in the U.S. she returned to Rwanda to find her home and farm in ruins. She took on a new mission, which continues to occupy her at age 86. She runs an orphanage for 100 Rwandan children, despite the danger of more violence.

WSC led the Bulldogs, 2-0 after five innings of play as Josh Stolpe blasted a solo homerun in the fifth inning.

Eric Neumayer doubled in the fourth inning which scored Brian Zimmerman who had drawn a one-out walk.

Fitzner accepts job in Michigan

Mike Fitzner, an assistant coach with the Wayne State College men's basketball team, has been named assistant coach at Lake Superior State University. WSC head coach Greg McDermott announced this week.

Fitzner served as a graduate assistant with the Wildcats the past two seasons. At Lake Superior State, Fitzner replaces Saul Phillips, a former WSC graduate assistant, who accepted a position at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

The head coach at Lake Superior State is Marty McDermott, the younger brother of Greg McDermott.

A three-year starting guard, Fitzner broke the school records for career three-point field goals (259) and three-pointers in a game (11 vs. Rockhurst, 2-26-97). He was the 18th WSC player to score 1,000 career points. He ranks 19th in career scoring with 1,035 points.

"It's difficult to express in words what Mike has meant to Wildcat basketball," Greg McDermott said. "His contributions as a player and as a coach will always be appreciated. His positive attitude, tremendous organization and tireless work ethic will make him a great addition to the Lake Superior State coaching staff."

Wayne State men sign standout cage players

The Wayne State College men's basketball team signed two players and got a walk-on commitment from another head coach Greg McDermott announced recently. Brad Manley (Coffeyville, Kan.) and Kevin Kobs (Omaha, Neb.) inked national letters of intent with the Wildcat while Tim Gesell (South Sioux City, Neb.) will join the team as a walk-on next season. Manley, a 6-1 transfer from Coffeyville Junior College in Kansas, will take over the point guard duties from All-American Tyler Johnson. Manley was a two-year starter for Coffeyville, leading the team to two consecutive 20-win seasons. He averaged 5.8 points while leading the team in assists with 3.9 per game. Manley was a four-year starter and two-time Class 5-A all-state selection for Field Kindley High School in Coffeyville. He scored 20 points, grabbed 7.0 rebounds and dished out 5.0 assists per game during his senior season. According to McDermott, he is just the player the Wildcats need. "We identified Brad as the point guard we wanted in December," McDermott said. "He is everything we were looking for in a point guard. He is a tremendous leader and a tenacious defender. His attitude is a great fit for our team."

Brad Manley

Kevin Kobs

Tim Gesell

Manley said it was the environment and the coaching staff that convinced him to sign with Wayne State.

"I was very impressed with the overall atmosphere of the program," Manley said. "The players and coaches were great. I am looking forward to winning a lot of games the next two years and helping lead the team back to the NCAA tournament."

Kobs is a 6-5 standout from Omaha-Burke High School. An all-conference and All-Metro Division selection his senior season, Kobs led his team to the district championship averaging 18.5 points and 4.5 rebounds per game. Kobs hit 107 career three-pointers and led Class A in free throw shooting at 85 percent his junior season.

McDermott thinks Kobs has the ability to make an immediate impact with the Wildcats.

"Kevin is a very versatile player," McDermott said. "He can really shoot the ball from the perimeter and is equally effective in the post. We expect him to challenge for playing time immediately."

Kobs says Wayne State was a good fit for him.

"I really felt I fit in with the players," Kobs said. "I like the atmosphere. I'm really looking forward to being a part of this program."

Gesell comes to Wayne State after a stellar career at South Sioux City High School. A four-year starter, he was an all-conference and All-Metro selection his senior season. He was named his team's MVP after averaging 16.1 points and 7.5 rebounds per game.

He will play in the Nebraska Coaches' Association All-Star game in Lincoln on August 4th.

"Tim is a tremendous athlete with a tireless work ethic," McDermott said. "We were very impressed with him in our camps last summer. We're excited that he has decided to become a Wildcat."

Gesell decided to commit to WSC largely in part to the coaching staff and direction of the team.

"I liked all of the coaches and the direction in which the program is headed," Gesell said. "The program is on the rise and I think it has the foundation to stay there."

McDermott said he hopes to sign one or two more players before next fall. He also said he is pleased with his current recruiting class.

"We feel we have accomplished our recruiting goals by adding depth at the point guard and swing positions," McDermott said. "These young men are excited to become a part of Wildcat basketball. They all possess the work ethic and attitude we expect from our team. I can't wait to work with them."

After finishing 23-5 and hosting the NCAA North Central Regional Basketball Tournament last season, the Wildcats will be seeking their fourth straight 20-win season and a return trip to the NCAA tournament.

Next year will also mark Wayne State's inaugural season in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference.

'Cats ink Iowa prep star Ben Nemmers

The Wayne State College men's basketball team has inked Iowa prep star Ben Nemmers (Cedar Falls, Iowa) to a national letter of intent head coach Greg McDermott announced this week.

Nemmers, a 5-10 point guard for Cedar Falls High School, was a Class 4-A first team all-state selection during his senior season averaging 16.0 points and 5.0 assists per game. He holds two school records having hit on 49 percent of his three-point attempts and 88 percent of his free throws during his junior season.

Nemmers guided Cedar Falls to a 16-4 record and a number three ranking in the final 4-A state poll. This followed a 17-4 mark during his junior campaign. He was selected to play in the Dr. Pepper All-Star game this summer.

McDermott said Nemmers will add a needed dimension at the point position for the Wildcats.

Ben Nemmers

"We were very impressed with Ben on his campus visit," McDermott said. "He has a great feel for the point guard position. His ability to shoot the basketball and his leadership qualities are very impressive."

Nemmers said Wayne State was exactly the school and program he was looking for.

"I really enjoyed the coaching staff, players and the overall campus atmosphere," Nemmers said. "I thought all in all Wayne State was the perfect situation for me."

Nemmers is the fourth player to commit to Wayne State this spring.

Hochstein signs letter

Hartington Cedar Catholic basketball standout Karen Hochstein has signed a national letter of intent to attend Wayne State College and play for the Wildcats, WSC head women's basketball coach Ryan Williams announced recently.

Hochstein, a 6-foot point guard for Cedar Catholic, started four years for the Lady Trojans.

Williams expects her to play forward for the Wildcats.

Hochstein averaged 11 points and 6.5 rebounds per game during her four-year career. She scored 1,027 career points and grabbed a school record 403 defensive rebounds.

She was named to the Mid-State Conference First Team three times and was a two-time Class C-1 All-State performer.

In addition, she was twice chosen to the Daubert/Pinnacle Bank Nebraska Basketball All-Star Team, and she was recently selected to play in the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star Basketball Game in August.

Hochstein guided the Lady

Trojans to an 86-18 four-year record. During that time, Cedar Catholic reached the district finals three times, advancing to the Class C-1 state tournament the past two seasons. The Lady Trojans made it to the state semifinals this past season.

"Karen is a very good athlete that has a very versatile game," Williams said. "For a six-footer, she has great ball-handling and passing skills, and she is a proven scorer. I think Karen will be a tough matchup because she has good perimeter and post skills, combined with good athleticism and a great ability to run the floor."

Karen is a solid fit for our program both athletically and academically," Hochstein is the fifth player to sign with Wayne State for next season, but the first to sign this spring. She joins high school seniors Tracy Williamson of Harvard, Neb., and D.J. Santos and Sarah Haag of Thornton, Colo., and junior college transfer Sara Miller of Gillette, Wyo. Williamson, Santos, Haag and Miller all signed during the early signing period.

In order to qualify for this honor the student must be nominated for being a good citizen, possessing good musical and dance skills, and showing leadership ability.

Students will be giving concerts throughout the trip. Educational and historical tours are also part of the adventure.

Students will attend a three day camp in Fremont before departing June 7. Directors of the tour are Don and Barbara Johnson, longtime music teachers in Fremont.

Jon is a senior at Wakefield High School and is the son of Carol and Dean Ulrich.

Tim's current responsibilities are to oversee operations, including 700 employees and facilities which house, handle and process egg production from 14 million plus birds.

Outside his job at the Waldbaum Company, Tim serves the industry by being an active member of the Nebraska Poultry Industries Board and served as its president in 1997. Rev. Rick C. Danforth officially began his ministry at Salem Lutheran Church by sharing an Easter message with the congregation on Easter Sunday. His wife's name is Carol and they have two sons, John and Perry.

The Danforths say they are thrilled to be in Wakefield. "Since we originally came from an urban area, people look at us funny when we say we prefer a rural community like Wakefield," Pastor Danforth said.

The family has been in Wakefield around two weeks. They moved to Wakefield from Beatrice from a congregation similar to Salem. Both of the Danforths are natives of Denver, Colo., but they are not strangers of Nebraska.

Pastor Danforth received his bachelor of science degree from Dana College at Blair and he attended Wartburg Theological Seminary. This May he will mark his tenth year of serving the Lord since his ordination. During these 10 years he has served congregations in Kansas and Nebraska.

The Danforths' oldest son John is a seventh grader and Perry is a third grader. They are both enrolled in school in Wakefield and they thought the first week was great since they had a couple of half days and then it was Easter vacation. Pastor said the following day after the family moved to Wakefield, the boys were on their bikes checking out the town and getting acquainted.

This program is considered one of the major projects. The Auxiliary sponsors in Americanism and the Auxiliary firmly believes that an interested and informed citizenry, devoted to the democracy, is America's best defense. The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

The prestigious Newbery and Caldecott awards for 1999's best children's books have been announced! The library possesses or has on order all of the following medal-winning books: Newbery Medalist, HOMES by Louis Sachar (and runner-up: A LONG WAY FROM CHICAGO by Richard Peck); Caldecott Medalist, SNOWFLAKE BENTLEY by Jacqueline Briggs (and honorable runners-up: DUKE ELLINGTON by Brian and Andrea Davis Pinkney, NO, DAVID by David Shannon, SNOW by Uri Schulevitz and TIBET: THOUGH THE RED BOX by Peter Sis.)

Serving the needs of children is a vital component of the library's mission, but we could rarely accomplish this service alone. That's why we'd like to take this opportunity to acknowledge our library volunteers who have generously donated their time and enthusiasm to the children of the community during the past year.

Most recently, we'd like to thank those who volunteered to read to children ages 3-6 during the library's Saturday morning Story-Hour Program (Jan. - March): Renata Anderson, Debra Dickey, Madge Bruflat, Mable Tietgen, Jean Loberg, Colleen Janke, Karen Parker, Mike Jaiken, Peg Webster, Alan and Sondra Stoltenberg, Megan Holcomb, Beth Ann Sharer and StoryHour Coordinator Sarah Moje.

We would also like to recognize and thank volunteers who participate in the Grandmapa Program. These volunteers travel regularly (two-three times a month between Labor Day and Memorial Day) to 15 area DayCare Providers to regale children with stories, activities and tender loving care. Thank you, Mary DeFreese, Bonnie Sandahl, Ruth Victor, Mark Ahmann, Gloria Leseberg, LaVon Birmann, Gertrude Vahkamp, Carolyn McEvoy, Bev Ruwe and substitutes Rodella Wacker, Marilyn Rethwisch and Virginia Nelson.

In honor of National Library Week (April 11-17), we would like to remind the community of several important continuing services the library offers. For instance, if you cannot locate an item in our library we can submit an Inter-Library Loan (ILL) request to borrow the item from another library. The fee for processing a request is $4 and patrons may keep books between three and four weeks, depending on the lending library's policies.

Another valuable service is the Consumer Health Information Resource Service (CHIRS). Sponsored and operated from the McGowan Library of Medicine at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, CHIRS provides individuals and family members with in-depth medical information (but not advice) on diagnosed conditions, syndromes, procedures, drugs, etc. The County Agriculture Extension Office is also providing the library with "NebFacts" fact sheet articles, published by the Cooperative Extension, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR), University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Current NebFact topics include: "Rural Families Facing Economic and Emotional Stress," "Plugging Abandoned Wells," and "Nebraska Inheritance and Estate Taxes." All NebFact sheets are free to the public.

Coming events: Teen R.E.A.D. will meet the last Tuesday of the month at library at 7 p.m. All teens age 12-17 are invited to enjoy informal book chats and snacks.

Library hours are Monday-Friday, 12:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

How Diverticular Disease Is Treated.

If diverticulosis has no accompanying symptoms, the normal treatment is a high fiber diet. Laxatives and enemas can aggravate the condition and should be avoided. Treatment of diverticulitis includes bed rest, antibiotics, and pain relievers for discomfort. If vomiting occurs, fluids are given intravenously. Less than 10% of patients require surgery for complications such as bleeding or perforation.

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, laser, diagnostic testing and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willkinson, Dr. Koerber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koerber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

First Baptist Church looks to the future

The First Baptist Church in Wayne was first organized in 1881 with 100 people.

The first frame house of worship was located near Third and Logan Streets. J.R. Manning, J.W. Bartlett and M.N. Conover comprised this first building committee.

The church as moved in 1891 to lots which had been purchased at Fourth and Main Streets, where the present church is located. The present parsonage was built for $2,600.

Because of the growth in membership through baptisms and by letter, the small frame building was no longer adequate. C.E. Sprague and S.R. Theobald headed the committee to determine the type of building needed.

Reverend Parker Smith was pastor during the building of this church which was completed in 1909.

The centennial year for First Baptist Church was celebrated in December of 1981.

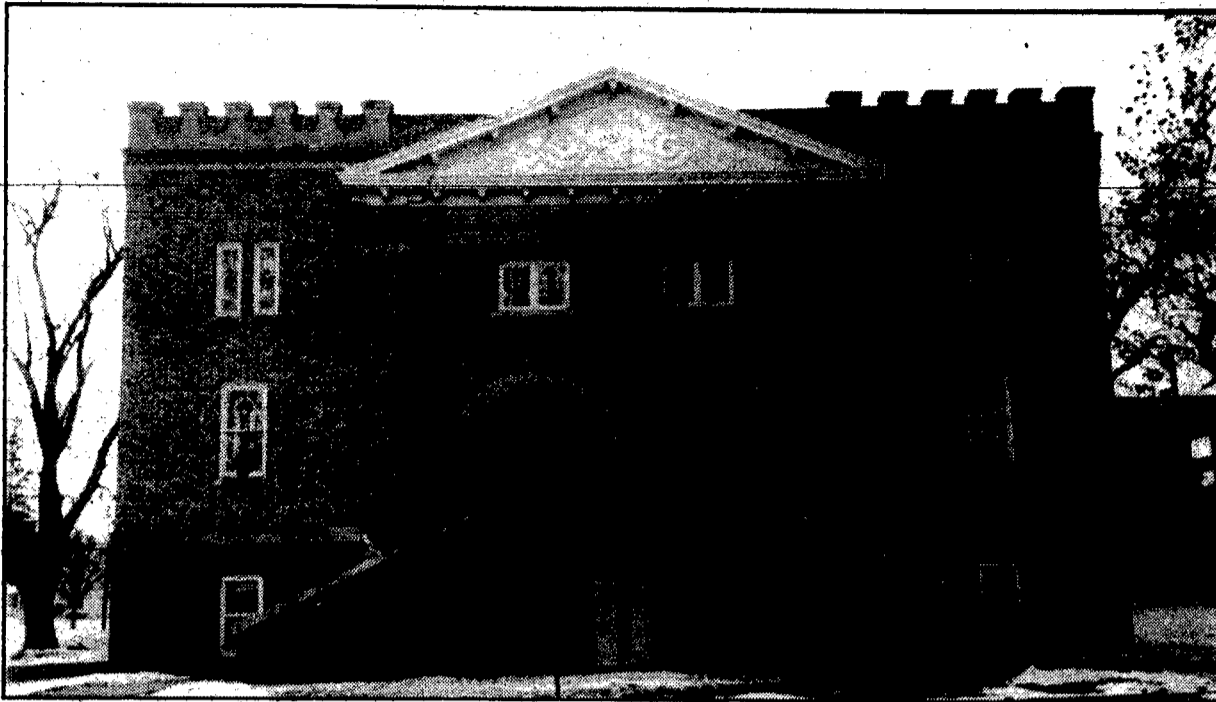

At the present time, the church has many faithful attenders, including many college students.

A special service was held Jan. 31, 1999 for the permanent renewal of Pastor Douglas Shelton's license to pastor First Baptist Church of Wayne. Pastor Dave Maligne, Nebraska ABC Executive Secretary gave a short history of Baptists and the purpose of the Baptist belief, using scripture from Ephesians 4:11-13.

Sunday Schools classes are provided for all ages: elementary, high school, college and adult. Worship services average about 120 people in attendance.

Choir, Youth Group, Bible Study and Prayer Meetings are extra activities offered on Wednesday evenings. American Baptist Women (ABW) meet once a month on the second Thursday at 7:30 p.m. for a program, mission study and fellowship.

For more information about activities at the church, call 375-3608 or 375-1765.

First Baptist Church in Wayne first organized in 1881 with 100 people. The present church is located at Fourth and Main in Wayne. First Baptist Church continues to serve the spiritual needs of the community.

Pastor Bill Koeber attends conference in Philadelphia

Pastor Bill Koeber of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne recently attended a convocation at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. The convocation, titled "Apocalypse Soon? Historical and Practical Implications of the Millennium" focused on the third millennium.

The coming of the third millennium has people in our society on edge. Presiding Bishop H. George Anderson of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America recently wrote, "The end of the millennium continues to spawn all kinds of wild prophecies about the end of the world."

"The coming of the millennium should not fill us with fear or dread at the thoughts of the end," Anderson wrote. "The beginning of the third millennium is an occasion to mark 2,000 years of the reign of Christ and all the blessings Christ's reign has meant and will mean in the years to come."

The convocation at Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia discussed the anxieties and opportunities posed by the millennial occasion. It offered participants a chance to reflect on the issues and discover appropriate action for one's ministry.

Pastor Bill Koeber

Pastor Koeber is a 1967 graduate of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia. He plans to lead a special course for the congregation and community in the fall, focusing on the millennium.

St. Peter's Lutheran Church to celebrate

St. Peter's Lutheran Church of Pilger will be observing the 100th anniversary of the former St. Peter's Lutheran Church. St. Peter's is located south of Pilger and joined St. Peter's and St. Paul's Lutheran Church, both of Pilger, in the late 1940's to form the present day St.

Peter's Church.

The anniversary will be celebrated on Sunday, April 18 at St. Peter's with an 11 a.m. service. A coffee will precede the service at 10 a.m. at the church. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Ralph Ritzen of Kearney, former pastor who served the churches at the time of the merger.

A 12:30 p.m. dinner will be held at the Pilger Senior Citizens Center with a program to follow.

The public is invited to attend the celebration, with a special invitation being extended to former St. Peter's congregational members. All in attendance are asked to bring mementoes of St. Peter's and come dressed in old time clothing if desired.

For more information, contact the committee chairman, Kevin Meyer at (402) 396-3369.

"The thinking about it is harder than the surgery."

"Dr. Feidler told me I was near blind from the cataract. If your eyes bother you, you have to have something done. You can't keep going on that way.

I am glad I had cataract surgery. I was afraid to have it done. Now, my vision is 20/20 and I can watch football as long as I want without my eyes bothering me.

Dr. Feidler treats you real good. He's a good doctor. If you need to have cataract surgery, this is the place to come."

'Eat your vegetables' sound motherly advice

Mom, as it turns out, was right after all.

"Eat your vegetables" has been sound motherly advice for years, though until recently it's not been known just how sound that advice is. Now, however, vegetables have been scientifically linked to possibly preventing several forms of cancer, as well as hypertension and diabetes.

But fruits are equally important for good health, and can sometimes be a superior means of getting the necessary amount of vitamins A, C, and folic acid. By regularly eating a variety of fruits and vegetables, chances increase of leading a longer, healthier life.

For women of childbearing years, it's extremely important to consume enough folic acid, although this nutrient is essential no matter a person's age. Folic acid is helpful in preventing neural tube defect, a birth defect, in babies. Because many women aren't aware of their pregnancy until they are several months along, they might unknowingly deny their unborn child some essential nutrients. Folic acid helps produce DNA and RNA, and assists in cell reproduction. People without enough folic acid in their systems tend to take longer to heal from sickness or injuries.

Women should consume 400 micrograms of folic acid each day. Good sources of folic acid include dried beans, romaine lettuce, brussels sprouts, avocados, oranges, and peanuts.

Vitamin A is important for vision, as well as skin and tissue health. Deep yellow fruits, such as cantaloupe, mangos and apricots, contain high amounts of vitamin A, as do carrots and sweet potatoes. Because oranges are a deep yellow fruit, they are often mistakenly perceived as a good vitamin A source. While they are somewhat lacking in vitamin A, they are an excellent source of vitamin C.

People should eat at least 60 milligrams of vitamin C per day. Smokers should eat almost twice that, 100 milligrams, each day, because smoking actually increases the body's need for vitamin C due to its antioxidant role. Vitamin C is necessary to produce collagen, to form and repair red blood cells, and to keep the immune system healthy. It's easy to meet the 60 milligram-per-day requirement, though, a glass of fruit juice contains at least that.

Vitamin C also can be found in most citrus fruits. Guava is the best source of vitamin A, although papayas, strawberries, grapefruit, cantaloups, mangos, and tangerines also are recommended. Vegetables such as broccoli, red and green bell peppers, tomatoes, and cabbage also contain high amounts of vitamin C. The labels of fruit beverages should be examined closely, fruit juices can be good vitamin C sources; fruit drinks usually aren't.

To meet these nutritional requirements, it's a good idea to eat around five servings of fruits and vegetables each day. Most Americans, not surprisingly, don't meet that guideline. In a recent study, potatoes were the only vegetable to make the top 10 foods list-albeit, in the form of french fries.

Variety is the key to good nutrition. It's OK to eat fruits and vegetables you like, but don't be afraid to try new things. People's taste buds change as they get older, so something that didn't appeal to you as a younger person could be much more palatable now.

A good way to incorporate fruits and vegetables into your diet is to mix them with other foods.

Peas and red peppers can be used as ingredients for casseroles. Fruits are good additions to salads, breakfast cereals, and frozen yogurt. Dried fruits are a particularly nutritious snack; one-fourth cup of them equals a full serving.

Healthy eating can help fight disease and lead to a higher quality of life. And, of course, it also will make your mother proud. Source: Wanda Koszewski, Ph.D., nutrition specialist, NU/IANR

WE'RE STAYING WITH THEM BECAUSE THEY LIVED UP TO OUR EXPECTATIONS.

"When we moved into this great big, old house, we had a hard time keeping it warm. But we knew we had to do something to make it comfortable in the wintertime so our kids and grandkids would keep visiting us. It turns out that all we had to do was call KN. They sent someone right over to help us figure out what to do. The service technician suggested a smaller, more efficient furnace system and then he installed it, too. Now our house is always the perfect temperature and we think KN is the perfect gas supplier. That's the reason we'll stay with KN."

Week abounds with activity

You've heard the expression, "Too much on my plate?" Sometimes, I wish I'd learn to know when the plate is heaping.

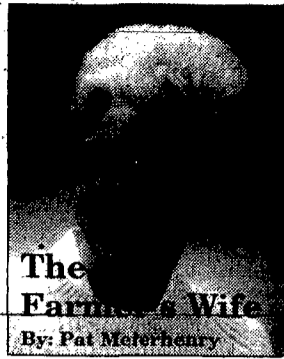

The trouble is, when they call about speaking somewhere, the plate is empty. So, how was I to know it would get so full?

Lutheran Family Services trains volunteers in Omaha and Lincoln to make hospital visits. Once a year, they thank them with a luncheon. This year, it was to be in Omaha on Tuesday and Lincoln on Thursday. At least, that's the way I wrote it on my calendar.

So, on Tuesday, I arrived, only five minutes late, at the appointed restaurant in Millard. The hostess knew nothing of an Lutheran Family Services luncheon. With a sinking heart, I asked her to check the schedule for Thursday. Yes, she smiled, they would be here then.

I raced back to the car, looked up the number of the Garden Cafe in Lincoln and got the MC on the phone. They were just beginning the meal. I could be there in an hour. And I was. I even had lunch, after my talk.

That evening, I finished cleaning bedrooms and vacuuming, because we were to have a houseful on Wednesday. At 9:30 p.m., one of the construction guys from northeast Nebraska came and used one of the clean bedrooms and baths. Which meant another clean-up on Wednesday morning, before leaving for Plattsmouth. There, I did some home care visits, and then drove to Nebraska City for hospice team meeting. Then, back to Plattsmouth for more visits.

At 8 p.m. that evening, a van load from Wisconsin arrived. A father and mother, six children (including a two-month-old baby) and a grand-ma and grandpa. Girls were all in simple print dresses, mom and grandma had hair in buns with white organdy caps over. They said they were "Old Order" Mennonite, and we had a wonderful visit. The children were precious, with bright, brown eyes and braids, and some of the most well-mannered we've ever seen.

I had to leave them seated at the breakfast table, with Mike in charge, because I had to be back in Nebraska City at 9 a.m. for a meeting; and it's a 45 minute drive.

I never really sat in on the meeting, though, because there were several new patients to check insurance on and line up services for.

Then, it was time to leave for Millard, an hour away. I arrived just as lunch was finished (this time, I planned it that way) and had a lot of fun with my presentation, which is called, "It's okay for Christians to laugh" because there were several pastors in attendance.

The next thing I knew, the tornado sirens were going off, and we were herded into a dark, cluttered basement. I ended up in a cluster of ministers, and instead of praying, they continued telling jokes!

Anyway, I finally got away, and came back home to all the sheets and towels. Again, at 8 p.m., came a couple from Colorado who are here for a golden anniversary in Murdock.

After I got them fed on Friday morning, I did a home care patient in Weeping Water, picked up the Big Farmer, and buzzed to Seward for grandparent's day at Thomas' school. Then it was back home, into a white uniform for an evening shift at the care center. Another couple arrived for the anniversary which I plan to attend this afternoon.

Then, I will make a couple of visits to explain home care and hospice, and visit a friend in the hospital in Omaha.

Tomorrow, the two couples will again be here for breakfast, there is a pot luck at church, and a fortieth anniversary in York of a couple whose wedding I sang for. Then, I will collapse!

Meanwhile, please, pray for my friend. She's a nurse, her name is Peg, and she has viral meningitis. She's very sick, a very special person, and I covet your thoughts for her. (While you're on your knees, remember me, too. Thank-you!)

Johnson family reunion is held on March 27

On March 27, the family of Arthur and Evelina Johnson gathered at the Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord for their first family reunion. Attendance was 100 percent which included their seven children and spouses, 20 grandchildren, 42 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

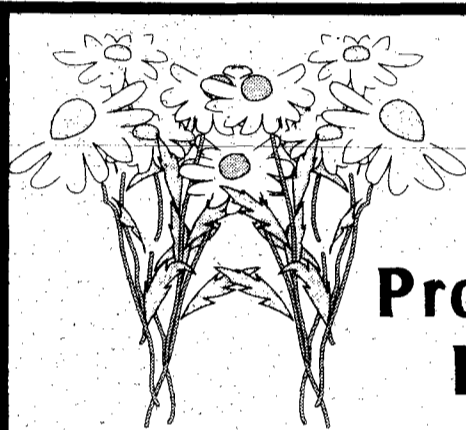

Evelina's brothers attended in the afternoon. Each family wore a certain colored t-shirt.

The event began with a catered lunch at noon, followed by a "photo shoot." Members of the family presented a special program to honor Evelina on her 93rd birthday. The great-grandchildren formed a bell choir and played "Amazing Grace" and Jesus Loves Me.

Del Johnson was toastmaster. Pastor Layne Johnson sang a "Hymn Medley." Larae Harmon greeted the family and presented each family present with a memory book history/family tree. Dwight Johnson told some history about members of the family and special readings for his mother.

Bill and Lorie Johnson and son Caleb told of Caleb's experience of meeting Carl Malone the basketball player and receiving his signed jersey which Caleb modeled. The rest of the afternoon was spent visiting and getting to know cousins. Birthday cake and ice cream was enjoyed.

Members came from Allen, Texas, Tulsa, Okla., Oklahoma City, Okla., Ozark, Mo., Lee Summit, Mo., Columbia, Mo., Moorhead, Minn., Sioux City, Dakota City, Norfolk, Lincoln, Emerson, Wakefield, Concord, Allen, Hartington, Laurel, and Wayne. Another reunion is planned in two years.

Host families being sought for program

Nebraska families can learn about Japan through the University of Nebraska's Japanese Exchange Program.

By May 1, 30 host families statewide must be matched with 30 young Japanese students who will visit Nebraska July 24 through Aug. 22. The visit starts with a 4-H camp for host siblings and their Japanese peers.

Japanese visitors from the Labo organization will study English and experience Nebraska family life. Visiting students from a second exchange program called Utek will attend a special, three- to four-day environmental camp in addition to living with host families. The students have their own spending money and insurance.

To participate, Nebraska families agree to provide a foreign guest food and lodging for four weeks. The families must have a host brother or sister of the same gender and around the same age within a year or two of 12 to 17 years old. Host families also are needed for three or four English-speaking chaperones.

In return, three young Nebraskans will travel to Japan this summer. Families who host Japanese youth will receive scholarship money to help pay travel costs to Japan for a month-long visit. Former youth hosts will receive $100 for each student they've hosted, up to $300.

Nebraska families also are being sought to host four Japanese high school students for 10 months during the 1999-2000 school year. 4-H will select those families during May.

For more information about 4-H exchange programs, call Bill Caldwell, volunteer specialist, 4-H Youth Development, at (402) 472-9011, or Kathy Potthoff, program coordinator, 4-H Youth Development at (402) 472-9021.

Straight receives teaching award

Doug Straight, vocational agriculture teacher and FFA adviser at Shickley High School, has been named the winner of the 1999 Freda Drath Battey Distinguished Educator Award.

Presented by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Teachers College, the award is based on excellence in teaching along with recognition of other educational activities, such as counseling of students or initiation of student-oriented programs.

Candidates are nominated by undergraduates in the UN-L Teachers College.

Straight, who is the son of Lloyd and Pat Straight of Wayne, is a 1976 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1980 graduate of UN-L. He and his wife Jenise are the parents of two sons, Conley and Cody.

He has been teaching at Shickley for 19 years.

In her nomination letter, Jessica Bond, a UN-L freshman from Shickley wrote, "Mr. Straight was an awesome teacher and person for many reasons. He is one of the few teachers who stands out in my mind and who influenced my life. He was . . . respected by all of his students because he followed through with the rules and cracked down on his students if and when they misbehaved with punishment that fit the misbehavior."

She continued, "He was always easy to get along with and a lot of fun. At the same time, he provided an excellent learning environment in which his students wanted to learn. His optimistic attitude gave me the encouragement to come to the University of Nebraska - Lincoln to further my education and make something of my life so that I can become a better person."

Straight will receive a $4,000 stipend and a school bell as part of the award. Shickley High School will receive $2,000.

COUNTRY CLASSICS 4-H CLUB

The Country Classics 4-H Club held a meeting April 5 at our Savior Lutheran Church and invited other 4-H Clubs to attend.

Members of City Slickers and Country Mixers and Blue Ribbon Winners were in attendance.

Jill Heemstra, Extension Educator, gave the group a demonstration on correct hand signaling and on the safety procedures everyone should use on the farm.

Next, Shari Dunklau, a Country Classics leader, taught the group about the color wheel. The members did a fun painting activity while they learned about mixing and matching colors.

Extension Educator Lynda Cruickshank then gave the members information on daily nutrition needs while they played a bingo game that corresponded with the nutrition information. Each member then went to stations where they worked together to make nutritious snacks and drinks. The activity was overseen by Lisa Nelson and Shari Dunklau, the food leaders.

Following that, those who wished to, worked on their 4-H scrapbooks.

The next County Classics 4-H meeting will be held Sunday, April 25 and will be hosted by the Daum family. Members will be called as to the time and place. All members are asked to bring their pop tabs to the meeting.

Nothing Runs Like A Deere

Board Opposes "South Site" For New Dairy

NORFOLK - The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Board of Directors voted unanimously to oppose the selection of the "south site" as a possible location for the new Double Dutch Dairy at their monthly board meeting on March 25. The proposed location for the Double Dutch Dairy (south site) is approximately 1.1-1.2 miles from the Willow Creek Lake State Recreation Area. The Lower Elkhorn NRD board is a locally elected board and currently has 15 members, representing all or parts of 75 counties in Northeast Nebraska.

Lower Elkhorn NRD manager Sam Staab said, "The board is not opposed to new development associated with industry or agriculture. In fact, the NRD welcomes those who will invest in major growth opportunities for Nebraska, especially related to agriculture." Staab continued, "However, the board is strongly opposed to the choice of a site near Willow Creek."

The Willow Creek Recreation Area is a major outdoor recreation area for Northeast Nebraska as well as the rest of the state with more than 200,000 visitors annually. The State Recreation Area (SRA) consists of 1,600 acres, including a 700 surface acre lake. All recreation activities are managed by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and include camping (101 pads for RV's), tent camping, swimming beach, hiking trails, boating and fishing. The SRA was a state locally funded $52 million project and was opened to the public in 1984. Many improvements costing hundreds of thousands of dollars have since been added. These include boat docks, handicapped fishing piers, shoreline stabilization, picnic shelter, road improvements and a new trail system soon to be constructed.

Staab added, "The lake is an excellent fishery and maintaining the water quality is a major concern at all times. Several very nice, new homes are also being constructed south of the SRA on the county road connecting to the area. The new "Willow Rose Bed and Breakfast" is located east of the SRA. Nebraska's first and only winery is located 3 miles west of Pierce and north of the SRA. In addition, a few new homes are located or are being constructed on the north side of the lake."

The Lower Elkhorn NRD board's opposition to the Double Dutch Dairy (south side) is based on the following concerns:

- 1) The proposed site is very near (1.1-1.2 miles) the SRA and at the very least a portion of the site drains toward the lake and a major storm event could wash contaminants into the lake.
- 2) Spreading of the manure on nearby fields towards the lake could also pollute the SRA.
- 3) Odors from the lagoon system, center pivot distribution of the waste and large number of animals can easily be carried northward toward the SRA on many occasions throughout the year, especially when hot summer winds prevail from the south.
- 4) Increased truck traffic will cause dust and safety concerns on county roads.
- 5) Sandy type soils in the immediate area may easily pollute ground and surface water.

Lower Elkhorn NRD board member Bill Meyer said, "The Lower Elkhorn NRD has committed time and money into the development of this first class recreation area. It is our responsibility to protect this area for the good of all the people of northeast Nebraska."

Staab commented, "The Lower Elkhorn NRD is a responsible steward of local soil and water resources. This district is also legally liable to protect the Willow Creek SRA as a major outdoor recreation investment. We have respectfully requested the Double Dutch Dairy to re-consider the proposed south site and have requested that they withdraw this site from any further review by state and county officials."

Know the basics of the interview

1. Be certain of the time and place of the interview and the name of the interviewer.
2. Arrive early for the interview.
3. Bring a pen and notebook with you as well as an extra resume.
4. Remember the interviewer's name.
5. Don't offer to shake hands unless the interviewer offers a hand first.
6. Wait for the interviewer to sit down or invites you to seat yourself before you sit down.

Preparation

1. Learn as much as you can about the company you're interviewing. Sources of information: College Placement or Co-op Office, Library, Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau; Publications: College Placement Directory (Zimmerman & Lavine), College Placement Annual (College Placement Council), Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, Fitch Corporations Manuals, Moody's Manual, MacRae's Bluebook, Poor's Register of Directors and Executives, Standard & Poor's publications, Thomas's Register of American Manufacturers, Annual reports.

2. Learn about the product or service the company manufactures, sells, or performs.
3. Prepare your own list of questions to ask. Don't, however, ask questions for the sake of impressing your interviewer with the question itself.

Dress

1. Dress in a manner which puts you in the most favorable light and does not offend.
2. Dress conservatively.
3. Polish your shoes and have your clothes cleaned and pressed.
4. Accessories should be sparse. Do not

- wear an armful of bracelets or a handful of rings.
5. Clean and manicure your nails.
6. Freshen your breath either by brushing or a mint.
7. Check out your appearance in a mirror before entering the interview.

Follow-Up Letter

A follow-up letter should follow each interview and sent within 48 hours of the interview. The follow-up letter includes a thank you paragraph, a qualifications summary paragraph, and a confirming paragraph, which together serve to focus the prospective employer's attention again on your credentials and your interest in the job.

The thank you paragraph expresses appreciation to the prospective employer for the interview and for the time and courtesy extended in the interview process. The paragraph should be short and direct.

The qualification summary paragraph highlights your major qualifications for the job. In this paragraph, you should try to relate your background to specific job responsibilities and duties you learned about during the interview. The sample follow-up letters show how the qualifications summary information can be presented. Be careful to present only your most pertinent qualification information in the follow-up letter.

The confirming paragraph restates your interest in the job. In this paragraph, you also volunteer to answer any additional questions that prospective employer may have. Include your telephone number to make it easy for the prospective employer to contact you. Be sure your letter includes a clearly written statement confirming your interest in being hired for the job.

There are do's and don't's in resumes

The Do List:

1. Have someone proofread your resumé once you have written it. They may spot typos and errors you would not. Be sure to avoid abbreviations, misspellings and grammatical errors.
2. Be Honest
3. Make your resume look professional and attractive.
4. Build on your strengths and accomplishments.
5. Do include a clear and concise job objective. Example: An Internship leading to a career in accounting.
6. Put the most important items first in each section if possible. The purpose of this is to allow someone skimming your resume to pick up your most important qualifications.
7. Keep your language positive and upbeat - use action words and words that emphasize the positive. Use the action-verb-plus-description formula for each job or accomplishment.
8. Be concise - say what needs to be said and avoid explaining all the details; select work or activities directly related to the job you want.
9. Use quality paper for reproduction. If you decide to use colored paper, keep the colors soft, ivory or light grey. White paper is generally safe.

10. Use correct spelling and grammar. Your resume must be flawless!

The Don't List:

1. Don't title your resume "RESUME" - that will be obvious. Let your name be the title.
2. Don't state race, religion, sex, age, height, weight, or marital status unless they pertain to the position you seek.
3. Don't replace a job description with a job title - it's not self-explanatory. Tailor your job description. A manager in one company may not do the same activities as a manager in another company.
4. Don't forget to include your GPA under education, if it is a 3.0 or higher.
5. Don't list references from whom you have not received permission or a positive response.
6. Don't include a picture.
7. Don't mention salary.
8. Don't staple a resume if more than one page. Place your name and page 2 at the top of the second page.

Great Dane Trailers, one of the largest trailer manufacturers in the United States, continues to grow because, according to the company's employees, they manufacture the "best trailer in the country." Great Dane Trailers, a division of Great Dane Limited Partnership, manufactures the Super Seal refrigerated trailer. Super Seal is one of the most popular units in the market today.

The Great Dane plant in Wayne is one of five plants where Great Dane trailers are manufactured. The first trailer built in Wayne was finished in April 1986. The plant was then purchased by Great Dane from Timpte Trailers in 1988.

In the first years of production, the plant averaged approximately 30 trailers per week. Today, Great Dane makes approximately 100 trailers per week, and management expects to make 110-120 trailers per week in 1999. In June of 1998, the plant produced its 35,000th trailer. There are now more than 38,000 Super Seal refrigerated trailers hauling produce and frozen good across the United States and Canada.

Great Dane's success is largely due to a dedication to meet customer needs.

Great Dane's growth has resulted from the dedication of the employees to produce a high quality trailer.

The Great Dane Trailer division has manufacturing plants in Wayne; Memphis, Tenn.; Savannah, Georgia; and Brazil and Terre Haute, Ind. The headquarters for Great Dane Trailers is in Savannah, Georgia. In January 1997, Great Dane Trailers merged with Pines Trailers to form Great Dane limited Partnership.

To accommodate the plant's production increase, the Wayne plant has been expanded on three separate occasions, with the most recent expansion in July of 1998.

Great Dane offers its approximately 600 employees a benefit package that has expanded dramatically since the plant first opened.

If you like being part of a winning organization with great growth potential. A modern work environment and you like being appreciated and rewarded for your efforts to help the team continue to win, you should be a Great Dane Employee. Terrific benefits. Great opportunities for salary and job advancement and a generous bonus plan, all make Great Dane a family you should join. Three different shift options are available (depending upon openings at time of application)

Survey provides data on at home labor

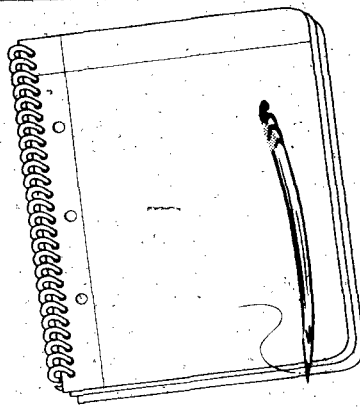

Work at Home in 1997

More than 21 million persons did some work at home as part of their primary job in May 1997, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor reported today. The overall number of persons doing job-related work at home did not grow dramatically between 1991 and 1997, but the number of wage and salary workers doing paid work at home did.

These findings are from a special supplement to the May 1997 Current Population Survey (CPS), the monthly survey of about 50,000 households that provides data on the nation's labor force. The information presented here pertains to persons employed in nonagricultural industries who were at work during the May 1997 survey reference week and indicated that they do some job-related work at home. Similar data were last collected in the CPS in May 1991. Highlights of the 1997 survey include:

-- More than half of those working at home were wage and salary workers who were not paid expressly for their time worked at home. About 17 percent, however, were wage and salary workers who were paid for the hours they put in at home. Virtually all the remainder were self-employed workers, nearly two-thirds of whom had home-based businesses.

-- Nearly 9 of 10 workers doing paid work at home were in "white-collar" occupations.

-- More than 4.1 million self-employed persons were working in a home-based business.

-- About 6 to 10 used a computer for the work they did at home

-- Wage and salary workers who were paid for working at home averaged nearly 15 hours per week at home; those who weren't paid worked about 9 hours at home. Workers in home-based businesses worked 23 hours per week at home, on average.

-- Of those who worked at a second job, 37 percent did at least some of their work at home.

1991, when 12.2 million wage and salary workers worked at home without being paid for that work. As with those paid, persons who were not paid for the work they did at home were overwhelmingly employed in white-collar occupations. Teachers were especially likely to do unpaid work at home; 2.8 million teachers reported doing so in 1997. From an industry perspective, services had the largest number of unpaid home workers (6.1 million), followed by manufacturing (1.5 million).

Pay Status, Industry, and Occupation

While the number of persons reporting work at home grew by only 1.5 million since 1991, there was a sharp increase in the number of persons who were paid for working at home. In 1997, 3.6 million wage and salary workers--about 3.3 percent of all wage and salary workers--were paid for the work they did at home. In 1991, only 1.9 million wage and salary workers--1.9 percent of the total--were doing work at home for pay.

Of the 3.6 million wage and salary workers doing paid work at home, 88 percent were in "white-collar" occupations, slightly more than the number of executives and managers. Sales and administrative support occupations also had large numbers of paid home workers.

By industry, about 1.6 million wage and salary workers in the services industry were doing paid work at home--about 44 percent of the total; more than half a million in manufacturing were paid for work at home. All of the major industry groups except mining had significant numbers of workers doing paid work at home.

The number of persons who were simply "taking work home from the office"--that is, wage and salary workers who were not being officially compensated for the work they did at home--was 11.1 million. This was a modest decline from

About 6.5 million self-employed persons did some work at home in May 1997, more than half of all the self-employed who were at work during the survey reference week. More than 4.1 million of the self-employed indicated that they were working in home-based businesses. This was the first time that the CPS had contained questions specifically designed to gather information on home-based businesses. Manager and professionals accounted for 1.7 million, or two-fifths, of those working in home-based businesses. Sales, service, and precision production occupations also had large numbers of such workers. In terms of industry, 2.1 million persons, or about half, were working in services, while construction and retail trade accounted for 726,000 and 532,000 workers, respectively.

Computer Use

Just under 60 percent of those who worked at home in 1997 used computers. Among wage and salary workers, computer use was about the same for those who were paid for work done at home (63.3 percent) as for those doing unpaid work at home (61.6 percent). Paid home workers were more likely to use a modem for their work at home (43.2 percent) than were unpaid home workers (32.8 percent). Also, 23.3 percent of paid home workers used a tele-

Providing a safe environment for all the residents

Residents and Family Members:

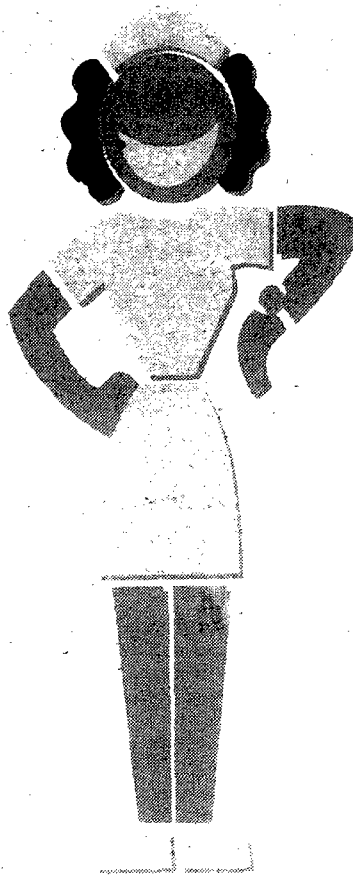

I wanted to take this opportunity to introduce myself to all of you. My name is Connie Mayfield and I became Director of Nursing on Feb. 1. Originally from Pender, I graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln as a Registered Nurse, with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree.

Our first big project will be converting Victoria Hall into a locked Dementia unit, so that we can provide a safe environment for confused residents to wander freely. Our focus is to provide the best care available for these residents in order to maintain good quality of life, by focusing on activity programming more specific to their needs. Implementation will occur in several phases to help things go smoothly. First, we are moving the appropriate residents to that area with the permission of the families. Second, we are establishing criteria for who is appropriate for that type of environment. Third, we are hiring some new CSM's and training the ones we already have on activities and behaviors specific to these residents. After everyone is trained and ready to go, we will work with the physicians for appropriate orders and implement the final phases.

The Alzheimers Association will be presenting "Alzheimers Disease and Related Dementia Caregiver Education Program" for families and staff. A $15 fee admits the entire family. (Chapter members are admitted at no charge.) This program will cover medical aspects of the disease, caregiver coping strategies, community resources and legal issues for the caregiver. To register, please contact the Alzheimers Association at 1-800-309-2112.

A cover letter should accompany your resume

A cover letter or letter of application should accompany your resume when applying for a position. The following should help you in writing a complete, concise cover letter.

The introductory paragraph must state what job is being applied for and must arouse the interest of the prospective employer. The paragraph also indicates how you learned of the job, what your major qualification for the job is, and when you are able to begin work. The introductory paragraph must catch the attention of the prospective employer.

The qualifications paragraph of a cover letter presents the qualifications that make you the best candidate for this particular job. In this paragraph, you must emphasize the work experience you have that relates directly to the job. This paragraph also highlights your educational background, your special interests, and your future work plans. The paragraph must convince the prospective employer that you are qualified for the job.

The concluding paragraph must prompt the prospective employer to offer you an interview. In the paragraph, you must clearly state that you would like an interview, when you are available for an interview, and how you can be contacted.

Be sure to watch for the update on this publication coming in October, 1999. For more information call: The Wayne Herald 402-375-2600 and ask for Carol

Tips on an interview

Ending the Interview

When it appears that the interviewer is about to end the interview, there are certain points you should make sure you have covered before you leave the room:

- Be aware of the interview process yet to come before a candidate is selected for the job (e.g., another interview in same/other location, meetings with other individuals in organization, etc.)
- Ask the interviewer when you can expect to hear about a decision or ask when you should make an inquiry as a follow-up.
- Express your interest in the position and thank the interviewer for interviewing you.
- Ask for a business card or ensure that you have the interviewer's name, title, address so that you can send a thank-you letter (except for job interviews through co-op scheduling). Make sure your letter arrives within 24 hours of the interview.

Employer Evaluation

Employers usually have a formal rating sheet with predetermined areas such as:

- neat and clean overall appearance/poise/communicative skills
- academic/work achievements (learning ability, standards of excellence)
- special skills (technical, languages, creativity, management, analytic, negotiation)
- personal characteristics (team player, enthusiasm, dependability, emotional stability, flexibility)
- self assessment, goals/ambitions
- leisure-time activities, balance in life
- reaction to job/organization
- potential

Evaluating Your Performance

Evaluate how well you did after each interview. Ask yourself:

- What points did I make that seemed to interest the employer?
- Did I present my qualifications in the best manner possible, giving appropriate examples as evidence?
- Did I pass up opportunities to sell myself, to demonstrate the work I do, and to show how profitably I could do it for both the organization and myself?
- Did I talk too much? Too little?
- Was I too tense? Passive? Aggressive?

Practice in a mock interview with another person. Check for quality of information in your answers, and the positive, non-verbal reinforcement of your words. By speaking out loud you can "hear" your answers to ensure you cover the topic well. Don't practice so much though that you lose your spontaneity and your answers sound rehearsed.

If you do not receive a job offer (especially if you felt the "fit" was very good), you may want to contact the interviewer to get feedback on your performance. It could be (1) they hired someone with better qualifications. Or (2) you didn't adequately present your qualifications, thereby causing an incorrect assessment of your capability. If the reason is (1), keep going--you'll find the right match! If (2), make changes in your next interview!

Your Rights In The Interview

The Ontario Human Rights Commission (OHRC) publishes a chart that illustrates the type of questions that are appropriate or inappropriate in employment interviews. Following are the categories that have restrictions on what can be legally asked:

- birthplace, ancestry, ethnic origin, place of origin
- sex, sexual orientation, marital status, family status
- age
- race, colour
- religion, creed
- citizenship
- education
- record of offenses
- handicap
- references and membership in organizations

Although it is ultimately the responsibility of the interviewer to know the law, this may not always be the case. It is to your advantage to be informed on the subject. For information, contact the OHRC.

You've done the reading and know your rights as they pertain to the interview. Now you're in the middle of one and have just been asked what is clearly an illegal question. "What" should you do? There is no clear-cut answer. Much depends on you.

Employment little changed in March

Employment was little changed in March, and the unemployment rate declined to 4.2 percent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor reported. Nonfarm payroll employment increased by only 46,000. Employment rose in most service-producing industries, but unseasonably cold weather contributed to job losses in construction. Manufacturing and mining employment continued to decline.

Unemployment (Household Survey Data)

Both the number of unemployed persons, 5.8 million, and the unemployment rate, 4.2 percent, decreased in March. From April 1998 through February 1999, the rate had been in the 4.3- to 4.5-percent range. The jobless rate for adult men dropped to 3.2 percent in March. Unemployment rates for whites (3.6 percent) and Hispanics (5.8 percent) also decreased, while rates for other major demographic groups — adult women (3.9 percent), teenagers (14.3 percent), and blacks (8.1 percent) — were little changed.

Among the major educational attainment categories, the unemployment rate for persons 25 years and over with less than a high school diploma fell to 6.1 percent in March. Jobless rates for high school graduates with no college experience (3.4 percent), persons with college experience but no bachelor's degree (2.8 percent), and college graduates (1.9 percent) showed little or no change.

Total Employment and the Labor Force (Household Survey Data)

Total employment was essentially unchanged in March at 133.0 million, seasonally adjusted. The employment-population ratio — the proportion of the population age 16 and older with jobs — was 64.3 percent, little changed over the month.

The civilian labor force decreased to 138.8 million, seasonally adjusted. The labor force participation rate was 67.0

percent in March, down from 67.3 percent a month earlier.

About 8.0 million persons (not seasonally adjusted) held more than one job in March. These multiple jobholders made up 6.1 percent of the total employed, the same share as a year earlier.

Persons Not in the Labor Force (Household Survey Data)

About 1.2 million persons (not seasonally adjusted) were marginally attached to the labor force in March. These were people who wanted and were available for work and had looked for a job sometime in the prior 12 months but were not counted as unemployed because they had not searched for work in the 4 weeks preceding the survey.

The number of discouraged workers — a subset of the marginally attached who were not currently looking for work specifically because they believed no jobs were available for them — was 295,000 in March.

Industry Payroll Employment (Establishment Survey Data)

Nonfarm payroll employment rose by only 46,000 in March, to 127.7 million, seasonally adjusted. Over the prior 4 months, job gains had averaged 276,000 a month.

Construction employment dropped by 47,000 seasonally adjusted, in March, after increasing by 268,000 over the prior 5 months. Relatively mild weather has helped bolster employment in the winter months. As a result, there was less need for seasonal hiring in March. In addition, unusually cold weather in much of the country during the March survey reference period further slowed hiring. Most of the over-the-month declines in construction employment, on a seasonally adjusted basis, were in outside activities such as heavy construction and the masonry, concrete, and roofing components of special trades.

Manufacturing employment fell by 35,000 in March, continuing a downward trend that began a year earlier. In March, job reductions continued in industrial machinery (-14,000) and fabricated metals (-4,000). Over the past 12 months, manufacturing has lost 381,000 jobs. The largest over-the-year employment declines occurred in industrial machinery (-89,000), apparel (-83,000), and electrical equipment (-69,000).

Employment in mining declined by 7,000 in March and has fallen by 55,000 over the year. While the declines have been concentrated in oil and gas extraction, the March drop was spread across all types of mining.

Within the service-producing sector, employment in retail trade was little changed in March, after seasonal adjustment. Employment in eating and drinking places fell by 48,000, reflecting below-normal seasonal hiring. Other retail industries added jobs in March, including 14,000 in general merchandise stores and 9,000 each in furniture stores and miscellaneous retail establishments.

The services industry added 95,000 jobs in March, slightly below the average monthly increase of 112,000 for the previous 12 months. Robust employment growth continued in engineering and management services. Computer services also grew, but the gain of 10,000 jobs in March fell short of the average monthly gain of 17,000 over the prior year. Help supply services added 13,000 jobs over the month; this industry has added 81,000 jobs since September, following a 7-month period with no net change. Over the month, employment in health services rose by 15,000 with gains occurring in doctors' offices and hospitals. Agricultural services employment declined by 8,000, after seasonal adjustment. This industry includes landscape and horticultural services, activities that likely were affected by the harsh weather conditions in early March.

Employment in finance rose by 11,000 in March, as growth continued throughout most of its component industries. The insurance industry posted an increase of 6,000, in line with its recent trend. Real estate employment declined slightly for the second straight month; it had risen by 62,000 over the prior 12 months.

Employment in transportation and public utilities increased by 8,000 in March, below the industry's average monthly growth of 14,000 over the prior year. Communications employment was essentially flat. Transportation added 11,000 jobs, largely in trucking.

Wholesale trade employment rose by 9,000 in March, with increases split between durable and nondurable goods distribution. Within government, local education employment rose by 21,000 over the month.

Weekly Hours (Establishment Survey Data)

The average workweek for production or nonsupervisory workers on private nonfarm payrolls edged down 0.1 hour in March to 34.5 hours, seasonally adjusted. The manufacturing workweek was 41.6 hours for the third straight month. Factory overtime, at 4.5 hours, was unchanged over the month.

The index of aggregate weekly hours of production or nonsupervisory workers on private nonfarm payrolls declined by 0.5 percent to 146.5 (1982=100), seasonally adjusted. The manufacturing index was down 0.4 percent in March to 106.3.

Hourly and Weekly Earnings (Establishment Survey Data)

Average hourly earnings of production or nonsupervisory workers on private nonfarm payrolls rose by 3 cents in March to $13.09, seasonally adjusted. This followed a 3-cent gain (as revised) in February. Average weekly earnings were $51.61 in March (seasonally adjusted), down less than 0.1 percent over the month. Over the year, average hourly earnings rose by 3.6 percent and average weekly earnings increased by 3.3 percent.
