Last ABC class graduates

By Lynn Slevers
Of the Herald

Friday night's 7 p.m. ABC Preschool graduation ceremony marked the end of a long tradition Ardath Otte started 29 years ago. During those years there were 63 graduations held with 846 students graduating. Teacher as well as parents and students had teary eyes before the evening was over.

Seven little ones dressed in their finest with small mortar boards perched on their heads recited verses and answered teacher's questions in order to receive their diplomas. Occasional giggles brought giggles from the audience as the ceremony continued. Graduation for her other class was held at 5:30. Over 200 people attended the two ceremonies.

"I'll miss the little ones coming to my house. It will be quiet and empty. I've met wonderful people through the years who I never would have met if not for my preschool," Otte said.

The once bustling basement where Otte's preschool had been was now still as reflections of the past came forth.

Otte, the former Ardath Koch, was born to Bernhard and Lena Koch in Concord along with siblings Ardyce (her twin sister) and two brothers, Ardale and Marlyn.

The family moved south of Wayne while the girls were in high school but they still graduated from Concord. Ardath married Karl Otte on Dec. 4, 1960 during a double wedding with her sister and husband, Con Munson. Otte attended Wayne State College and then taught at the old District 57. Later she worked at the Wayne Bookstore for 11 years before starting her own preschool.

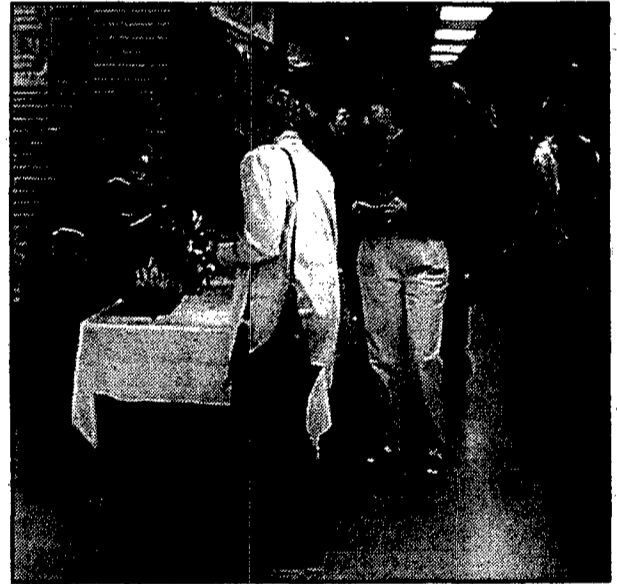

Ardath and Karl had two children, Walter and Karla. Walter now owns his own construction company and has a son, Kasey, who will be a fifth grader at Wayne Elementary School. Karla works at Heritage Homes in Wayne.

"I stayed home with my children when they were small. They attended a preschool that Mrs. Ditman had years ago. When Mrs. Ditman moved away and Karla was a first grader, someone asked me to start a preschool and I decided I would," Otte said.

Making a late decision, it was September of 1970 when Otte opened her preschool, Walter and Karla, came up with the name for the preschool: A(II) B('out) C(hildren). Otte opened her preschool in her mother-in-law's home which was across the street to the west from where the Ottes' live. Her husband also had his construction business office located there.

"I decided to begin with 12 children on a schedule of Monday, Wednesday, and Friday classes for the older ones (4 to 5-year-olds) and Tuesday and Thursday classes for the younger ones (3-year-olds) running from

Exchange student enjoys life in Wayne America

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

For Ravi Ramani, graduation was only one of the new experiences he has had during the nine months he has been in Wayne.

Ravi is an exchange student through Rotary International. He is presently staying with Reggie and Marilyn Yates and their son, Jared. He is from Nagpur, India, a city of approximately 2.5 million people.

He lives with his joint family, his parents and two younger brothers and his uncle's family which includes his uncle and wife and two daughters. His father is a certified public accountant and his mother is a housewife.

Ravi arrived in Nebraska on Aug. 16 and will remain here until June 13. When he first arrived here, he stayed with Jon Fink and Elaine Balogh.

The 16-year old took computer Applications, Pre Calculus, Choir, Business Law, Accounting, American Literature and American Government at Wayne High School.

"When I return to India, I will take an entrance test to college. However, in my country, 11th and

12th grade are similar to a junior college. All the classes are related to a particular area, in my case, business," Ravi said.

"Coming from a large city, Wayne seemed really empty when I first got here, before the college started. There is more space here also. In my country, there are more apartments and more buildings," he added.

While staying with the Yates', Ravi has visited Norfolk, Sioux City, Omaha and has gone skiing in Winter Park, Colo. He had the opportunity to shovel snow for the first time and got to stay out all night for Prom.

"We are also having an open house for him for graduation, which is unusual because there is no celebration in India," Reggie said.

Ravi was able to participate in several activities while at Wayne High School. He was a member of the basketball team and had a part in the school musical, "The Music Man."

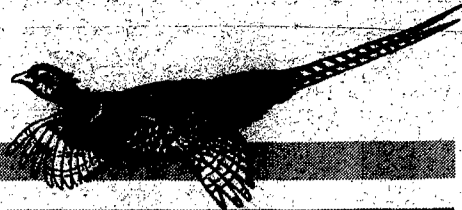

"I would have gone out for basketball in India but would not have been in a musical. We have school six days a week and spend our spare time studying, going to the movies or playing Cricket or basketball," Ravi said.

When asked about differences between Wayne and India, Ravi said that his country does not have all the fast food restaurants,

Childhood Migraines

Migraines can start at any age and are one of the most common causes of headache in children. A child with a migraine may complain that his head hurts, become nauseous, dizzy, confused, and suffer visual disturbances. Your child's doctor should be consulted to rule out other conditions if these symptoms occur. Most childhood migraines are not cause for alarm. The best way to identify what triggers the migraines is to keep a diary listing time, date, and what happened and what was eaten before the attack.

but does have Pepsi and Coke.

"School is easier here. Also, in India, the computer is not as widely used in schools. Most students do take computer classes outside of school because they realize it is important," Ravi said.

For the Yates family, this is the first time they have hosted an exchange student.

Reggie had been involved with the Rotary Exchange program in Colorado before moving to Wayne and felt this was a good time to volunteer to host a student.

"Our food bill has been higher. It seems like Ravi is always eating," Reggie laughed. "Having an extra person in the house took a little getting used to and we had to learn to coordinate schedules."

Marilyn said that she has enjoyed learning about India from Ravi and hopes to visit there someday.

"It was interesting to watch him experience Christmas and other celebrations here," she said. "I have also learned to respect how kids are raised in India and for the culture."

Jared said that having Ravi as his "brother" for the past several months has "definitely been different, but has been pretty fun. I learned things from him. We played pool and did things on the computer together."

Ravi said that being a member of the choir and being involved in basketball helped him make friend. Recently, the choir gave him a clock and the senior class presented him with a plaque.

After leaving Wayne Ravi and approximately 40 other Rotary exchange students will tour the United States on a bus for four weeks before returning to their homes.

September to May with graduation being held then. Through the years the schedule stayed the same but class sizes grew during the early years before state regulations deemed how many students would be in any one class. Classes averaged around 20 children per class during the late 70s and early 80s.

"Every year I would have my sister come help me the first week as the children were more shy then. They weren't around sitters as much as now and they would miss their mothers," Otte said.

After holding classes for three years in her mother-in-law's home, a basement was built under her present home. Finally having more room, the preschool was moved to its present location during Christmas vacation in 1973.

"I've never regretted moving my preschool into my home," Otte said. "It was always so handy to just go upstairs if I forgot something."

Otte's preschool was the only one in Wayne for a long time.

Otte said that she liked being able to be home when her children left for school and being there for them when they got home from school.

Being a teacher at District 57, a Sunday School teacher at Concord and Wayne, and a Bible School teacher during the summers helped prepare Otte for her role as preschool teacher.

"I didn't have anyone help me get started. There were no rules or regulations then and I could do what I wanted," Otte said.

State rules and regulations did come though. Otte had to install a separate exit to her basement and a fire alarm also had to be installed. Otte's preschool has been licensed since the fall of 1986. A set number of 12 children per class became a new rule as well as meetings to attend for in-service hours.

Otte started her preschool with a goal of trying to prepare children for Kindergarten and to give them an association with others besides their parents. Not wanting children to be bored in Kindergarten, Otte tried not to overdue in the teaching process with them.

She noted Marie Mohr, a past Home Economics teacher at Wayne High School, and Kathy Fink, present Home Economics teacher at Wayne High, would bring their child development classes down to her preschool to visit and observe.

Getting misty eyed once again, Otte remarks that she had been thinking about retirement for several years.

"I haven't been rich in money but I've certainly been rich in love," Otte said.

Wanting to have a feeling of regret, not a sigh of relief, and wanting to go out on a high note instead of being burned out, Otte decided that this would be the year to quit.

Noting one of her former students, Marc Jenssen, was present during her last graduation ceremony, "Marc gave me a hug. He even stopped to see me when he was in the service. I always called him 'my little farmer,'" Otte said with a smile.

Otte mentioned there have been many of her students who have enrolled their own children in her preschool through the years.

"One of my first year students, Colleen (Hamer) Janke, is now beginning her own preschool. She's purchasing some of my equipment to help her get started," Otte said.

Citing no retirement plans at present, Otte said she would work on cleaning up school stuff in her basement. Noting even though her husband had retired from his construction company five years ago, he still has been going to work every day.

"I was used to having summers off so retirement won't really hit me until fall," Otte said.

Otte thanks parents through the years for sharing their children with her to be part of her family and also the school for letting her have graduation ceremonies there throughout the years.

Council debates issue of land acquisition

From time to time, the city has occasion to consider buying land. The most recent purchase was the former Haase trailer court in the northwest quadrant of town.

This was done with the stated purpose of improving the property and getting rid of some of the trailers that were reported to be in poor condition and possibly unsafe to live in.

The city has had two other properties recently that have been offered for sale in the close proximity of downtown and were briefly considered for purchase with the intent of development into off street parking for the downtown district where more parking would be of value.

Both of these properties sold before the city made any decisions. The most recent potential acquisition would have been a house in the southeast quadrant of town. A proposition to buy the property, move or demolish the house and keep or resale the land was made to council.

There was no clear indication as to the intent of the land use but to buy the property for About $25,000

Capitol News

Lawmakers compromise

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Lawmaking, the name is compromise.

At press time the biggest news around the Capitol was that the Revenue Committee had sent to the full Legislature a compromise tax relief plan.

If you think Y2K is a potential stumper, try putting a number on the number of "compromise tax relief plans" that have been offered to the Legislature since the state officially got out of the property tax business several decades ago. This would be a task for computers only, believe me.

The latest "give a little, take a little" scenario earned approving nods from the committee and from Gov. Mike Johanns. First reports indicated it could, as recommended by the committee, provide some $100 million in property tax relief over three years.

It means that, if things should go as envisioned in the bill, LOCAL property tax burdens, which are determined by LOCAL governments, should be lessened a bit.

Time, and the ability to maintain 25 votes on the floor of the Legislature, will determine what goes into law. This, assuming that the measure isn't rejiggered to such a degree that Johanns would feel compelled to veto it.

Another topic of interest around the Tower on the Plains:

Amid all the wailing among the citizenry for lower property taxes, it is important to note that, by a close vote, voters in the Omaha School District approved a historical $254 million bond issue for schools. It is also interesting that while the vote was close, the voter turnout was dismal. Actually, dismal is too kind. Disgraceful comes closer. Turnout was reported at 25 percent and, GET THIS, that was considered pretty good when compared to the paltry 18 percent that had been predicted.

How do you figure it? People gripe and gripe about property taxes. They gripe and gripe about schools. Some gripe and gripe about forced busing. And, then, they don't vote on a bond issue that is arguably the biggest thing to happen in the Omaha District since a judge ordered busing to begin in order to better integrate schools.

Another subject, brought to mind in part by the Omaha vote, has to do with a fellow columnist who is bowing out of his beloved efforts on behalf of the Journal Star in Lincoln.

Dick Herman, accurate reporter cum laude, outstanding editorial writer, dandy columnist and one of the most knowledgeable and accurate of journalists in my acquaintance, leaves a gap that will likely go unfilled.

In a time of journalistic naysaying to what is referred to as "process," Herman was often a voice in a very lonely wilderness when it came to explaining what government action really meant, why it happened and how.

He was a hard-nosed critic who also took criticism of his own work to heart.

Some great examples: Decades ago, when school busing was first ordered in Omaha, Herman slammed a report that said the court had ordered that Omaha schools be "desegregated."

The order, in fact, didn't say the schools were segregated. It said they were not properly INTEGRATED. There is a whopping difference.

To those who would say he was too much the stickler when it came to using the right word for matters legal and legislative he would reply: "Well, I don't know if you care, but the one is correct, and the other is incorrect."

He understood the importance of little things that could have effects of major import. When the Legislature changed its rules, to make the attachment of one amendment to another much more difficult, Herman saw its importance.

When one reporter told him an editor had spiked a story involving the change, Herman said (he never muttered) "Morons!"

Allen Beermann, the long-time Secretary of State who now heads the Nebraska Press Association, wanted to make certain that his kudos for Herman would be included in this column.

When Dick Herman covered the Statehouse, when he wrote any story, whether it was about politics or government or whatever, you got the facts. Some people didn't like the way he organized his facts, but I don't recall anyone saying that Dick Herman didn't get the facts straight. No reporter had, or has, a better understanding of how things work."

And, he had a way with words that a good many of us enjoyed. It was Herman who described John DeCamp as looking like something from "a western store fire sale," and who could be counted upon in virtually any debate, to come out "rootin' and a tootin' like a washboard band!"

Some of us have, for the past few years, chided Herman for talking about relinquishing his role as columnist.

While he can be as gracious (usually more so) than the next guy, Herman also had a pat phrase which represented, almost always, the last words in a given conversation which he had decided to conclude.

"Hard cheese, buddy!"
Hard cheese, indeed.

Thank volunteers

Dear Editor,

Do you know how many heroes that you have in your community? There are many, but we would like to take this opportunity to point out a select group—your local fire and rescue persons.

May 16-22 is National Emergency Medical Services Week. These persons volunteer their time to save lives and property. This is time given to the community to make it a better place to live.

It's been said that every emergency call is like a snowflake, from a distance they seem identical but when examined up close they are each quite different. Every emergency call is a challenge and the local response saves lives and time.

We appreciate your EMS volunteers and know you do, too. Give them a "pat on the back" this week for making your community a better place.

We at St. Luke's appreciate their ability to practice in an uncontrolled environment and know because of their efforts, patients have been brought to us whose lives were positively impacted and for whom emergency medical services made a difference.

St. Luke's salutes your EMS persons for their year-long efforts and contributions to improved patient care.

La Donna Crilly,
St. Luke's EMS
Outreach Coordinator,

"The kids competed well," Wayne coaches Roger Reikofski and Dale Hochstein said. "Several ran personal bests."

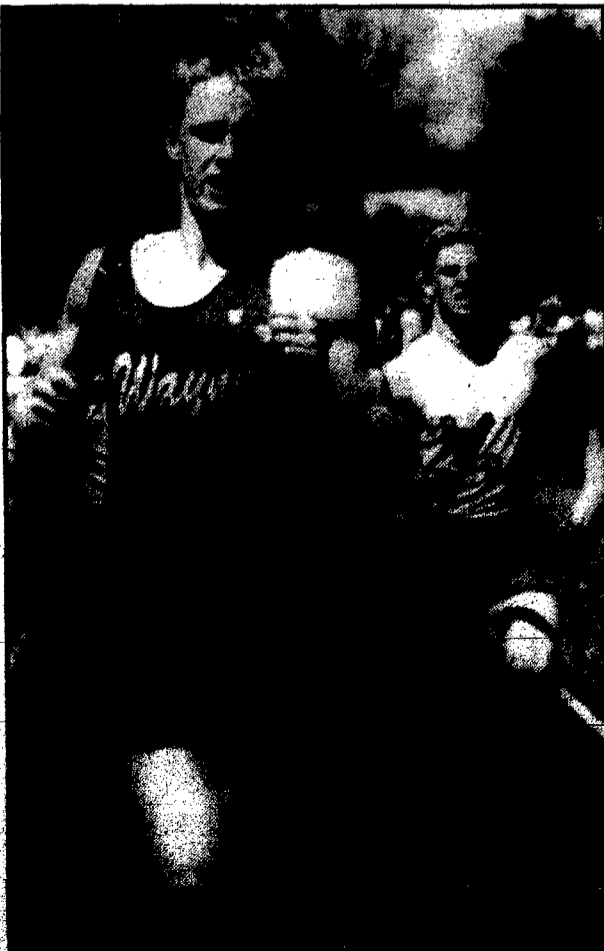

Wayne will compete in the second session of the state track meet on Friday beginning at 3:30 p.m. The meet continues through late Saturday afternoon.

Jessica Murtaugh gets the baton from Jessica Raveling for the final leg of the girls 4x800 relay. The Blue Devils placed second and will compete at state on Friday.

Wayne's Leah Dunklau closes in on the finish line in the prelims of the 100 meter hurdles. Dunklau placed fourth overall and earned a trip to state.

Brad Hansen leaves his competition behind in the final 100 meters of the 4x800 relay. Wayne knocked 16 seconds off their season's best time and qualified for state.

Amanda Maryott runs stride for stride with an O'Neill runner in the 100 prelims.

Wayne golf team qualifies for state again; Devils card a 323

The Wayne Blue Devils golf team earned a trip to the annual Nebraska State Golf Meet after placing second at the district meet in Columbus on Monday.

The Blue Devils fired a 323 to place five strokes behind Elkhorn. Columbus Scotus won a playoff with Schuyler (333) for the third team spot which qualified for state to be held on May, 25-26 at Lincoln's Mahoney Golf Course.

Junior Klinton Keller paced Wayne by winning individual medalist honors after a one-hole playoff with Schuyler's Sam Bailey.

Both golfers fired a four-over-par 76 in regulation. Keller was Wayne's lone medal winner and fired rounds of 37-39. Mike Varley tied for 10th but lost his playoff bid on the second hole.

Varley's opponent in the playoff chipped in for par on the first hole and birdied the second hole to notch the 10th place medal.

Varley however, fired rounds of 41-40 in his first district tournament. Joel Munson and Adam Ellingson each shot 83's to be included in the team scoring with Ryan Dahl netting an 87.

"I'm very proud of the team effort," coach Terry Munson said. "Balance was again critical to our success. Klinton has established himself as a top player in the state as the meet medalist in a very strong field of 60 players."

Munson said he was especially proud of Mike Varley. "This was his first district play and he responded with confidence and poise," Munson said. "Tee to green this may have been the best we have struck the ball."

The Wayne coach said his team will need to concentrate on improved putting at state. "This will be our 13th appearance at the state class B golf meet in the past 14 years," Munson added.

Wahoo placed fifth in the 12-team field with a 335 and Columbus Lakeview was sixth at 338 while Madison fired a 346 and Blair, 352. Pierce carded a 353 and Wisner-Pilger-Beemer, 375 while Elkhorn Mt. Michael netted a 379 and Valley, 388.

Individually, the top 10 placers earned a trip to state if they were not already on a qualifying team. This included all ties.

Five of the top 10 individuals that qualified were not on qualifying teams. Following Keller and Bailey was Elkhorn's Kerty Petricek at 78 while Madison's Jon Peterson was fourth at 78. Elkhorn's Mike Muller settled for fifth with a 78 and Wahoo's Quinn Hanson was sixth at 78 while Robb Burbach of Scotus was seventh with a 79. Justin Schmidt of Elkhorn placed eighth and Marcus Donner of Madison, ninth with both golfers firing an 80 and Wisner's Alex Thor edged Mike Varley for 10th place with an 81.

Last Thursday in Stanton, Wayne closed out regular season action with a duel win over the Mustangs, 163-179.

Klinton Keller fired a 37 for medalist honors while Mike Varley netted a 41 and Adam Ellingson, 42. Joel Munson and Ryan Dahl each carded 43's.

Wayne's JV team also defeated Stanton, 170-193 as Dustin Sutton was medalist with a 38 while Nick Muir and Ryan Stoltenberg each shot 43's. Jason Parks finished at 46 and Nick Lipp, 47.

Klinton Keller chips the ball toward the pin on hole 14 at Quail Run in Columbus during the district golf meet. Keller fired a one-over par 37 on the front nine and 39 on the back before winning the out-right medalist honors in a playoff.

Most successful sports program at Wayne High is boys golf...

The Wayne boys golf team qualified for the annual State Golf Meet by finishing second at districts on Monday in Columbus.

It's more than likely gone unnoticed by many but in the last 14 years the Blue Devil linksters have earned a trip to state 13 times, making boys golf the most successful sport at Wayne high in the last decade-in-a-half.

So what makes golf in Wayne so prosperous? This author feels it is two key components, competition and facilities.

It is no fluke that Wayne's golf team is so successful when you consider the competition factor.

Year in and year out the Blue Devils have two dozen or more kids try out for the team. Those that don't earn a spot in the top five keep playing hard and practicing so they're ready when it's their time.

For some that time may never come but that doesn't make them any less valuable to the team. It is the competition factor that makes everyday practice rounds as important as invitational play.

Monday's district play saw the rise of one of those players that kept his nose to the golf course grindstone and made the most of his chance when he got it.

Mike Varley took part in his first district tournament as a junior and came with in a chip in for par away from earning a top 10 medal in the field of 60 players.

His 41-40 score of 81 placed him second on Wayne's state qualifying team. His adrenaline was held in check most of the day but you couldn't stop him from beaming ear to ear.

For here was a kid who was just as thrilled to be participating in a district golf meet as the final result.

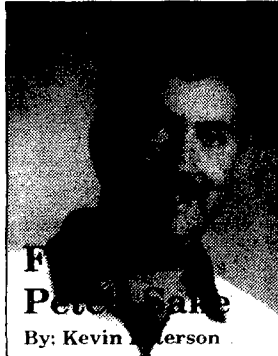

Speaking of adrenaline, he was obviously pumped, hitting a pair of par five's in two and jacking a nine iron from 155-yards plus over the green in the air.

Mike entered district play as Wayne's fourth golfer behind Klinton Keller, Joel Munson and Adam Ellingson—also a first time district competitor.

Ryan Dahl entered as Wayne's fifth golfer. Coach Terry Munson said the competition to comprise the final spots on the team was extremely close with seniors Nick Muir—a two-time state competitor, Ryan Stoltenberg and Dustin Sutton coming with in an eyelash of making the district team. Wayne's top nine golfers can all stake claim in the Blue Devils success at districts and hopefully at state next week.

There were a lot of quality golfers at the district meet and that's always fun to watch but witnessing the demeanor of the players from not only our school but others across was also entertaining.

I'm proud to say the Wayne quintet proved to be a classy group on the course. Following them and taking photos they were all complimentary and seemed to appreciate the following they had.

However, I saw several cases of kids who just simply had no sportsmanship qualities in their bags and that's too bad.

Blue Devil fans should take note. Our young people do a class A job of representing our school, our community and themselves.

Joel Munson had the shot of day from my perspective. He pulled a tee shot left into a group of rather tall trees. (That wasn't the shot)

He sought out an opening and marked off his distance to the pin which was close to 200 yards.

I of course thought he would take a low iron and punch out and get as close as he could to the green.

I of course was wrong. He used a 6-iron and went over the trees and put a draw on the ball. He didn't see where the ball had went and quickly asked if anyone had seen it.

Why of course it had landed on the green—great shot.

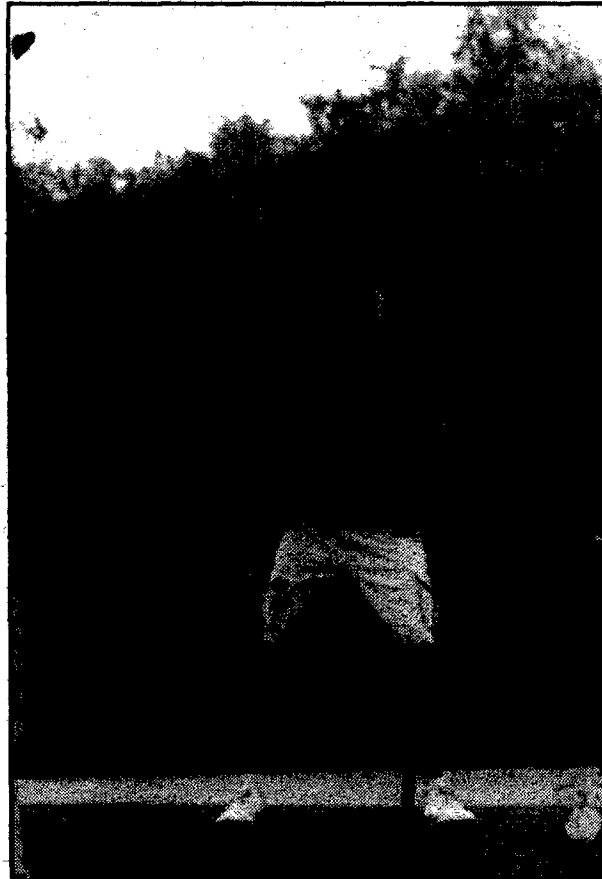

Klinton Keller's performance was spectacular to say the least. The junior has to be considered one of the top golfers in Class B and is likely to challenge for the gold medal this year.

Watching Klinton in Columbus I really couldn't see any weaknesses. The sad thing is he had four putts that literally lipped out in his round of 18 or an even par round would have been bagged.

Klinton is the catalyst of the Blue Devils team and on the course his leadership qualities are taught by example.

Adam Ellingson put together a solid round of golf and has the potential to break into the 70's down in Lincoln next week. The junior performed admirably in his first ever district outing.

Ryan Dahl will travel to Lincoln as the number five golfer on the team but Dahl's capabilities are what makes Wayne's chances that much better. If he gets on a roll this number five golfer will not only score in Wayne's top four but could walk away with a state medal.

Joel Munson hits his approach shot on the first hole of the district tournament at Quail Run in Columbus.

Mike Varley keeps his head down while driving through the ball.

Here we go again.

Last year I wrote about a season on the golf course in league where everyone I played against seemed to play season-best rounds.

Unfortunately for my new team this season, that trend is continuing. Last week during scramble night I had the pleasure (or something like that) of watching a former Nebraska High School State Champ, relive the past.

Darrell Fuelberth had five consecutive holes where he one putted from outrageous distances to start the round. His teammates Rowan Wiltse (a member of the first ever Wayne high golf team in 1951) and our own Doc Martin were tickled pink they didn't have to use a putter until the sixth hole.

My team, consisting of substitute Rory Williams and Mike Wynn could do nothing but watch in amazement as Fuelberth sank putts from 60-feet on number one down hill, 45-50 feet on number three down hill and 25-feet on number four on a side hill. Not to mention draining a long putt on number nine's makeshift green and a putt on number two that was much shorter, like say, 15-18 feet.

It was a great spectacle but for crying out loud, I wouldn't mind hearing a story like this happening to someone else's team.

The Golden Years

Lenke Weingarten was in her late 20's when she and her parents left Hungary for the U.S. in 1926. She worked in New York as an industrial designer, married, and raised two sons. Widowed, she volunteered at a major hospital, then spent 25 years as director of occupational therapy there. She also traveled widely in the U.S. and abroad. Nearing her 100th birthday, she said her twelve great-grandchildren were more excited about it than she was. "I've had a lot to enjoy in my life," she said. "I'm immensely thankful for all the things I've witnessed and been part of."

Songs about love

The annual Spring Music program was held at St. Mary's Elementary School last week. Students in preschool through sixth grade sang songs having to do with love, with the theme "The Sunshine of His Love." Following the program, preschool graduation was held with Lori Porter, preschool teacher handing out diplomas to this year's preschool class. Also recognized during the ceremony were Marge McCright, an aide for the preschool, and Diane Gentrup, head teacher at St. Mary's. Above, first and second grade students perform their portion of the program by singing "High Hopes."

Claussen earns scholarship from Southeast

Matthew Claussen of Carroll, has been awarded a SCC Educational Foundation Scholarship from Southeast Community College.

Southeast Community College has selected the SCC Educational Foundation Scholarship winners for a quarter/semester term. (Lincoln and Milford campuses are on a quarter basis while the Beatrice campus is on a semester basis.)

Nearly 600 high school graduates submitted applications to the Educational Foundation Scholarship selection committee. After reviewing each applicant's qualifications, the College awarded 276 freshman scholarships valued at more than $165,000.

SCC Foundation Scholarships are awarded annually to high school graduates enrolling at one of the three College campuses. The first term tuition is valued at around $600 for a full-time student.

The scholarships are supported by an annual grant from the Southeast Community College Foundation and the SCC Board of Governors Tuition Remission program. Individual campus scholarship funds are contributed to as annual gifts by SCC employees and community friends of the College.

In addition to tuition, each scholarship winner received a certificate and a personal letter of congratulations from SCC officials.

Claussen is in the John Deere Ag Parts program at Milford campus.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

We would like to thank all those who participated in National Library Week (April 11-17) festivities at the Wayne Public Library. A well-attended Chamber Coffee was held at the Library on April 9; members of The Oaks community took a library tour and listened to librarian's reviews of recent fiction, non-fiction, large-print books and books-on-tape on April 12 and a Turtle Spring Storyhour on April 14 regaled more than a dozen children with turtle stories, turtle puppets and the opportunity to pet real baby turtles.

The Library received a large order of fiction at the end of April as well as two new video resources that deserve special not for both their unusual content and intended audiences: "Footprints on our Hearts: How to Cope After a Miscarriage, Stillbirth or Newborn Death," explores the difficult topic of personal loss from the perspective of those who have experienced infant loss and "At a Loss for Words: How to Help those You Care for in a Miscarriage, Stillbirth or Newborn Experience," is geared to caregivers (nurses, clergy, social workers) who counsel those grieving from such experiences.

Rural and non-city resident patrons often wonder why they must pay $15 per year for their library cards, while their Wayne city counterparts seemingly receive library service for free. Once a year we like to explain this procedure. City residents, rental and business property owners do in fact pay, because Wayne Public Library is funded through their property taxes. Non-resident patrons do not pay this tax. The amount charged to non-resident families for their library cards is the same as the per capita tax rate assessed city residents. Just to complicate matters a bit more, Norfolk Public Library seems "free" to all (residents and non-residents alike) since it requires no up front fees. That is because this library is funded via Norfolk's sales tax; part of the money gained from taxes on goods purchased in Norfolk stores goes to support the library. In short, the public generally pays in one form or another for its public libraries. The question we might all ask when puzzled by a library's fees is, How is this library funded?

Upcoming events: Teen R.E.A.D. continues to meet the last Tuesday of every month at the Library at 4 p.m. The next meeting is May 25. All teens age 12-17 are invited to enjoy informal book chats and snacks. Registration for Wayne Public Library's 1999 Summer Reading Program (this year's theme — "Treasure Your Library") will take place May 24-June 2. Kickoff day is Wednesday, June 2 and will feature a special program by the Henry Doorly Zoo on Aquatic Life. All children age four to 12 are welcome to join us for a summer of fun and reading.

The Library will be closed for Memorial Observance on Sunday and Monday, May 30-31. The Library will also switched to summer hours after Memorial Day. Summer operating hours will be: noon to 8 p.m. Monday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and closed on Sundays until Labor Day. Winter Library hours are still in effect, until the end of May. They are: 12:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Our phone number is (402) 375-3135 and the fax number is (402) 375-5772 (fax charge is $1 per page).

Laurel will be hosting the first quarterly Community Builders program for 1999.

Homestead Homes expands its staff

Bill Clarke of Sioux City, Iowa, will manage the operations of Homestead Homes, a regional manufacturer of component home building systems.

Homestead Homes helps people build their own home with a special financing system that allows the owner to use their sweat equity as the downpayment, thereby requiring as little as a $1000, cash investment. Homestead Capital arranges for a 30-year mortgage prior to the start of construction so the customers are assured of a good interest rate.

"We are excited to have someone in our Wayne office who can develop and implement new procedures and organizational structures to accommodate the company's growth," said Homestead Homes President Rod Tompkins.

Clarke comes from Chris Hansen/McHan Construction Company in Sioux City, where he was the project manager for four years. Prior to that position he was a senior consultant for MidAmerican Energy. Clarke has experience in managing multimillion dollar construction projects, controlling construction budgets, coordinating subcontractors and identifying and resolving problems.

"I'm excited for the opportunity to put my knowledge of the building and management field to use with such a thriving and expanding company," said Clarke.

Homestead Homes has also added two regional sales representatives. Tom Fredrickson of Sioux City, will cover that and the surrounding area, and Bill Woodworth of Kearney, will cover that and all area west.

"We knew we needed to place additional salespeople in the field to continue the 300 percent growth rate that Homestead saw last year," explained Tompkins. "Currently we operate in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota and we expect to expand even further."

WHAT IS P.I.T.I.?

Buying a home? Planning to secure financing? P.I.T.I. is a term with which you will quickly become familiar. It is made up of 1) principal, 2) interest, 3) taxes, and 4) insurance. In relation to P.I.T.I., mortgage lenders look at your "housing ratio" and "debt ratio."

The "housing ratio" for most lenders is approximately 28%. This ratio identifies the highest P.I.T.I. for which the buyer will qualify. It is figured by multiplying monthly gross income times 28%. Debts are not considered when applying this ratio.

The "debt ratio" for most lenders is about 36% of monthly gross income. This is the maximum amount of P.I.T.I. for which you qualify - AFTER deducting other debts, i.e. car payments, student loans, child support, etc.

Figuring both ratios is a critical step in the loan approval process. Pre-approval of a home loan is always recommended to insure a successful home purchase.

With the "I" in P.I.T.I. being so low at your local lender, you may find you qualify for a home purchase right now. Please give me a call.

Primary Eye Care

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This means that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willingham, Dr. Koerber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koerber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

Consumers encouraged to be impulse spenders

Just in time for a graduation present: the gifts of WISDOM and WISE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT!

Today's youth and families are bombarded with commercials on what they should buy and also on "how to get easy credit" so they can buy it. I don't see many TV commercials that tell you "only purchase this if you have saved enough cash." The media... and sometimes our peers encourage us to be impulse spenders and to value material items too much. Television commercials show people having more fun and more "things" in 30 seconds than most of us are meant to have in a whole life time!

The draw back to this "spendy" lifestyle is great financial stress. Some people simply can't live until the next paycheck and others go way off the deep end into credit card debt. We all need to learn about and teach our children about the practice of saving, setting realistic budgets and setting financial goals.

Cooperative Extension

Wayne County

Due to the impact that financial stress can have on families and individuals, the UN-L Extension Service the Wayne/Dixon County Youth and Family Coalition and the Wakefield Family Resource Center are promoting the "Wealth Building Through Debt Elimination" seminar to be held on Wednesday, May 26 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the ESU #1 in Wakefield.

There is a $10 registration fee for each participant. This workshop is being held throughout the state in order to promote sustainable families.

This practical three-hour workshop is aimed at helping people get completely out of debt, including their mortgage, in five to seven years with the money they are currently making. No insurance or investments are sold.

This is strictly an educational workshop. Participants are encouraged to bring a list of their debts and a calculator so they can develop their own debt elimination plan during the workshop.

Topics covered during the three hour seminar include: how to operate 100 percent on cash and never need credit again, how the average family can turn every dollar of debt into $11.83 of real wealth, how to safely build savings and live off the interest, how to earn a 31.32 percent after-tax return on their investments and how much it really costs to buy on credit or on those easy monthly payment plans.

These topics address the goals of teaching families how to use and manage their resources wisely and help implement a sound plan to meet the financial resources management needs. This workshop is already being offered in several counties here in Nebraska along with hundreds of community colleges and universities across the nation.

The strategy taught in these workshops is a straight-line, critical path mathematical formula that is proven to be the shortest route to debt elimination possible.

Those interested in attending this seminar are asked to contact the Wayne County Extension Office at 375-3310 or the Dixon County Office at (402) 584-2234 to pre-register. The registration fee of $10 will be collected at the door.

Methodist women hold May 12 brunch

Twenty-four members of the Wayne United Methodist Women met May 12 for a brunch hosted by Dorothy Park and Joan Marr. Marj Porter gave a missionary moment.

Following the brunch, 21 members attended the regular U.M.W. meeting. President Hallie Sherry opened the meeting by reading Romans 12:9-17. She also read "One Solitary Life" and some prayer minutes.

Marj Porter reported that six quilts for Belize were finished.

The Wayne U.M.W. has been asked to serve the May 20 and 22 pre-conference briefing meetings that will be held in Wayne. Joyce Niemann and Doris Stipp volunteer to chair this event with several ladies volunteering to help.

Eileen Mitchell donated six kitchen towels. An assistant chairperson is still needed for the Christmas Fair. Norma Ehlers will host a coffee in her home for working women on May 22 from 9 to 10 a.m.

The tentative date for the District Meeting is April 29, 2000. Wayne will host this event and prepare to serve 150 to 200 women.

The church women presented scholarship awards to Heidi Headley, Brooke Parker and Sarah Buryanek. All graduating seniors from the church were given a card from U.M.W. and a donation to missions was given in their name.

An invitation was received to the 110th Year of Ministry Celebration at Epworth Village on July 19. A thank you was read from the Gladys Gilbert family. Helen Gildersleeve was reported still in the hospital in Sioux City, Iowa.

Explaining the church

Students at St. Mary's Elementary School in Wayne recently visited with Fr. Ron Noecker of Holy Cross Church in Beemer. Fr. Noecker explained to the students the importance of different parts of the church. He also played several songs on the piano and explained the importance of singing at Mass. The students then traveled to West Point and toured several businesses before returning to Wayne.

Guest day is held

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid held the Guest Day on May 12. Delores Utecht welcomed 67 guests, Pastor Bohn, Pastor Anderson and 37 aid members.

A ladies' group from Grace sang "Majesty." Pastor Bohn gave an opening devotion. Everyone sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

The guest speaker was LWML District President Gwen Lindberg of West Point. She spoke on different colored hair, starting with the Native American Indians, the Europeans, the Vietnamese, the Hispanic and all other immigrants. She told those present that "we are to love them all."

A dessert luncheon was served by Verdel Reeg, Bonnadell Koch, Dorothy Meyer, Esther Brader, Ellen Heinemann and Delores Utecht. Plants were given to some of those present.

Those having May birthdays were seated at a birthday table. Aid members with May birthdays are Dora Claussen, Delores Helgren, Rose Fredrickson, Betty Lessmann, Melvy Meyer and Ruth Korth. Serving in June will be Leoma Baker, Betty Wittig and Laverne Heithold.

Joyce Niemann had the program "Thoughts," shared by Connie Webber. Chapters were read from First Corinthians and thoughtful pieces from Walt Whitman and Alfred Tennyson.

Candles were lit to honor Mary Ellen Addison, Edna Mae Anderson, Lucille Fairchild, Esther Kuhn, Gladys Gilbert and LaVerne Tietgen, church women who have passed away this past year.

Connie Webber sang "Face to Face" and read from Romans 8:38-39.

The birthday song was sung for Pauline Merchant, Doris Stipp and Dottie Wacker. Several expressed joys they recently experienced.

Joyce Niemann led the closing prayer.

The next meeting will be Guest Day on Wednesday, June 9 at 2 p.m. Bonnie Marburger will speak about her trip to Belize. All area Methodist churches are invited.

Retired teachers meet in Laurel

The Wayne Area Retired Teachers met at the Pizza Ranch at Laurel on May 3. A coffee hour preceded the meeting.

Marilyn Wallin, vice president, presided at the meeting in the absence of President Harold Macejewski.

She opened the meeting by reading some short selections from the book "Grandma Knows Best but No One Listens."

Two guests, Dianne Anderson and Lloyd Texley, were recognized. Nineteen members responded to roll call.

Lois Youngerman, Community Service chairman, presented each member with printed material with ideas for making the Y2K time easy to adjust to.

Alice Schulte, legislative chairman, announced that LB 674 passed unanimously. This bill pertains to retirement benefits. However, the effects won't be felt until the year 2000.

Protective Service Chairman Vera Diediker reminded members to tell families not to purchase Social Security cards for infants and children from an agency that charges $15 as the post office department provides them free of charge.

Gloria Leseburg, Membership Chairman, asked for names of newly retired teachers so they can be contacted for membership.

Personal data sheets are to be brought to the July meeting.

Members planning to attend the Lincoln workshop at the Airport Inn should contact Betty Ream. The cost is $4 per person to register.

Lloyd Texley, brother of Ruth Grone, presented a travelogue on a trip he made to Australia. The area he traveled by car was primarily along the Eastern Coastal Range. Most of the time he stayed in motel accommodations known as Backpackers.

He found the people to be very hospitable and friendly. Australia has an area nearly as large as our country but a population similar to the state of Illinois.

The area he visited has a varied terrain, volcanic low mountains, numerous water falls, white sandy beaches and beautiful flowers and foliage. Enormous termite mounds were prevalent here. Animals and birds native to Australia such as Wallabys, kangaroo, koalas, emus and cockatoos were filmed in their natural habitat.

Wood carvings were observed in this area as were memorial buildings and statues erected in honor of service men who died for their country.

Lloyd also visited Sydney Harbor and the capital at Canberra. Canberra is controlled by the federal government — as Washington D.C. is by the District of Columbia.

The next meeting for the group will be Monday, July 5 for a picnic at Wayne. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne United Methodist Fellowship Hall. Spouses or an invited guest are welcome. This will be a potluck meal.

Twyla Lindsey and Shirley Bensen are program chairman.

The Unit has purchased vinyl fencing to serve as a backdrop for the Pleasantview Cemetery in Winside, for the large flag pole, shells and memorial cross. Ray and Judy Jacobsen have donated many hours to getting this project completed.

Additionally, Judy Jacobsen and Kathy Jensen have once again planted flowers on the north side of the Legion Post for which the Unit provided financial support. It is hoped that a perennial garden will be established.

The Unit will enter a float in the Wayne County Old Settlers Reunion parade on Saturday, June 26 as well as the Hoskins Centennial Parade over the Fourth of July weekend. Members are encouraged to lend a hand in constructing the float.

On Flag Day, June 14, a potluck supper for Legion, Auxiliary and family members will be held. Hostesses for the evening will be Lajeane Marotz, Doris Marotz and Marilyn Morse. All families are asked to bring two prepared food dishes for the evening. The Legion will dispose of torn and tattered flags the same evening. Anyone having a flag for disposal is asked to contact an Auxiliary or Legion member.

The 1999 Girls State Citizen Shannon Jaeger is scheduled to give her report of her week in Lincoln.

Elections were held for the offices of Unit President and Unit Treasurer. Rose Ann Janke was elected president and Greta Grubbs was treasurer. Officer installation will be conducted during the July 12 meeting which will begin at 8 p.m. Installation will include officers for president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and appointed positions of chaplain, historian and Sergeant-at-Arms.

Medicine Minute!

Will Davis
Sav-Mor Pharmacy
Potential Harmful Interactions Between Herbs and Medicines

More and more Americans are using herbal medicines for a variety of reasons and in care or prevention of numerous health problems. Although some properly prepared herbal medicines have been shown to be effective in select health problems, herbal medicines have side effects. Some individuals think, "If it's natural, it can't hurt you." They are wrong. Consider tobacco, hemlock, the poisonous mushrooms, cocaine, opium, and poison ivy.

In addition to causing adverse effects, potentially harmful interactions may occur between herbs and both prescription and nonprescription medicines. Following are select interactions recently published in Archives of Internal Medicine: •kava when used with alprazolam has resulted in coma; •tannic acid in St. John wort and saw palmetto may inhibit iron absorption; •St. John wort may interact with popular antidepressants; •kelp may interfere with thyroid replacement therapies; •feverfew, garlic, Ginkgo, ginger, and ginseng may alter bleeding time and should not be used with the anticoagulant warfarin.

Spring is busy season

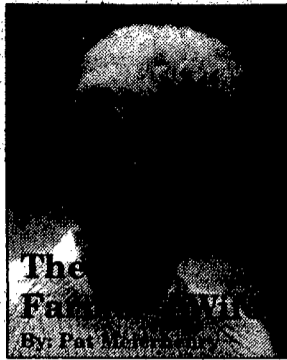

Sunday, May 16, and I have just closed blinds and pulled shades all over the house. It's 74 degrees and muggy. Yesterday morning, I ran the furnace for a few minutes.

There are high school graduations this weekend. We only had one invitation. Last year, we had six. That kept us busy! In fact, we had to divide up.

We waited until yesterday to get some help moving the new (old) desk into the house. We placed it in the family room where the hoosier had been and took the hoosier to the garage where the desk was. Several immediate family members were interested in it. The hoosier, I mean.

One arrived in the afternoon, with flowers and birthday cake. She thought the desk should be in the dining room, with the other really old furniture: pump organ, upright piano, round oak table, etc.

So, we took some small tables out, and moved the desk there. Now, the hoosier is still in the garage, its contents are stacked in a corner of the family room, and I can't decide if I want it back in the house. Decisions, decisions.

The Big Farmer is watching an endurance contest called baseball between Nebraska and K-State. 19-13 in the 8th. There must be some poor pitching and defense going on. It's been fun to see all the interest in Husker baseball this year. We'd love to see NU and AU at the College World Series.

Track season is done, except for State. (or Nationals, for college teams.) Winside's gals were district champs, which made me wish I could attend a few meets.

It's been a tough spring, with lots of cold, rainy weather. One local mom was telling me she still has a winter coat in the car for watching her son. He's a student at Weeping Water, where the boys this year have been conference champs in football, basketball, wrestling, and track. That's quite a year!

The legislative session is also drawing to a close. Waiting for final approval is the bill to permit Douglas, Lancaster, and Sarpy Counties to do away with the numbers 1, 2, and 59. It's stirring up as much emotion as the new plate design.

I like the number system; it's always fun to find a hometown county far away from home. But it probably isn't that important in the grand scheme of things.

Time to check the weather. Seems to be a lot of thunderstorms-again.

Hours will change at station

The Northeast Research and Extension Center in Norfolk, including the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory at Concord, will switch to summer hours, effective May 24.

Regular summer hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Each year the daily hours are changed to take advantage of Daylight Savings Time and to accommodate researchers, research technicians and support staff in their field research, planting and harvesting.

Both sites will return to normal working hours on Aug. 20, 1999.

Producers urged to use caution

Health hazards as a result of handling pesticides and herbicides are of special concern in this area this time of year.

Providence Medical Center is reminding farmers and others involved in handling these chemicals to be particularly cautious and heed the following safety guidelines:

1. Always have respect for the chemical you're working with and follow directions on the label for its safe use. In reading the label precautions, you will be aware of the hazards before you use the chemical.

2. Wear appropriate protective equipment when handling the chemical. With many chemicals, it is prudent to wear safety glasses/goggles, rubber gloves and clothing which will cover areas which may become exposed to the chemical, (i.e., long sleeved shirts). In some instances, particularly when dry chemical is used and the production of dust is a possibility, a mask to filter out these particulates would be advised.

Training to be held

Scout training for beginning field scouts will be held Tuesday, May 25 in the University of Nebraska classroom at the Learning Center on the campus of Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

Specialists from the University of Nebraska Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will conduct the training.

Training will consist primarily of basic identification of insect, weed and disease pests in corn, soybeans and alfalfa. The course will run from approximately 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

There is no charge for this training. However, because of space limitations, the class will be limited to 35 participants. To register for the training, contact Keith Jarvi at (402) 370-4016 or Linda Renner at (402) 370-4000.

3. Look for safer systems for applying chemicals. Many new products have recently been introduced onto the market which reduce the chance of exposure during application.

4. Have a plan to follow in an exposure does occur. Water should be readily available to dilute the chemical immediately. The key to dealing with an exposure is washing the chemical off as quickly as possible. Jump in a horse tank, spray off with a hose or get to a shower immediately upon exposure. St. Luke's Poison Center in Sioux City, Iowa, recommends at least a 15-minute dousing and washing each exposed body part three times with soap. Although we can provide emergency shower procedures at Providence Medical Center, we encourage the chemical exposure victim to initiate this procedure at home to save precious time. A trip to the hospital may be warranted after the chemical has been washed off to check for any side effects which may occur from the chemical ex-posure.

5. Any clothing which may have been involved in the exposure should be discarded as residual chemical may remain in the fabric, even after numerous washings. Leather boots act like a sponge for these chemicals and it is basically impossible to rid them of chemical residue.

6. Have emergency phone numbers readily available: St. Luke's Poison Center 1-800-352-2222; Providence Medical Center (402) 375-3800.

Lots of doctors

The May 1999 graduation ceremony at Kansas State University College of Veterinary Medicine in Manhattan, Kan. was especially important to the Dr. Ken and Jan Liska family of Wayne. Dr. Liska had the honor of "hooding" new veterinarians Dr. Dana Liska, his daughter-in-law and his son, Dr. Jason Liska. The new doctors will be practicing in the Kansas City, Kan. area. Sharing the event was the Liska's other veterinarian son, Dr. Eric Liska of Helena, Mont. Dr. Ken Liska comes from a family of three veterinarian brothers, Dr. William Liska of Houston, Texas and the late Dr. J.J. Liska of Wayne. Those attending the graduation were the Liska's daughter, Kim and Chris Loofe and twin daughters, Lauren and Madeline of Red Oak, Iowa, Mrs. J.J. Liska and Evelyn Jerman, an aunt, both of Wayne. Pictured are, left to right, Dr. Dana Liska, Dr. Ken Liska, Dr. Jason Liska and Dr. Eric Liska.

Couple kept busy on farm

By KIM HANSEN

Reporter/Photographer
The Pender Times

In the house she and her husband built more than 30 years ago in Pender, there is a black and white photograph of a charming young couple. Next to it are pictures taken at every anniversary since their marriage in 1929.

One of the woman's granddaughters made the photo collage for her grandparents and it's something she holds dear to her heart.

There were very few wedding photos taken when Mary and Erwin Gralheer married back on May, 1 1929 at the Lutheran church parsonage in Wisner. Erwin was dressed in a suit and tie; Mary wore a short, peach organza dress.

"It sure was a pretty one," she said, smiling at the thought of that dress.

Mary said that in those days few couples were married in churches. In fact, none of her brothers or sisters was married in a church.

"We even had to go to another town to have our picture taken," she said.

Their wedding wasn't a big event compared to the weddings of today.

"It wasn't the style in those days; you didn't try to out-do one another," Mary said.

Last year the building where Mary and Erwin met more than 70 years ago was torn down. The two, who both enjoyed dancing in their younger years, first met at Dutch Hall southwest of Pender.

Almost 70 decades later, the sparkle in Mary's eye still shines for her husband.

"He could to anything and everything you could think of. Everything had to be perfect," she said.

She remembers how they lived happily together on four different farms in the Pender area during a 36-year period. In 1937, they bought a house several miles northeast of Pender and spent the next 28 years on that farm place.

The births of their three children, Marcelene, Marlin and Deree, gave them great joy.

Erwin remodeled the couple's fourth home. Mary said he was a good carpenter. He could do everything.

And Erwin's farming, she said, always made him happy, even after they retired in 1965 and the couple built a house in Pender.

"He was a true farmer," she said.

"I was glad to move. It was time to retire," Mary said. "I had time to play cards and have coffee with my friends."

Erwin continued to work on the farm for 16 years after his retirement, using both the old and new farming technology during his farming career. He began using horses on the farm in 1929, when horses were used for virtually all heavy work, and then had to familiarize himself with tractors when they were introduced. He also used a threshing machine during his early years on the farm. Later, threshing machines were replaced by combines.

Erwin, 99, and Mary, 91, had a busy farm career raising chickens and pigs, milking cows and planting corn, oats and barley.

"We scooped the corn by hand because we didn't have any augers and we didn't have any electricity," Mary said. Electricity was introduced in the Pender area about 1934.

"We also did all of our own butchering, which is unusual in farmers today," she said.

"Oh boy, we had a lot of hard times in those days," Mary said. "The hard times were when the prices were low."

which was located across the street from what is now Pender Grain, were:

Nineteen cents for three pound heavy springs, eight cents for two and a half pound heavy springs, 12 cents for heavy hens, 10 cents for a dozen eggs and 20 cents for a pound of butterfat.

The couple's happiness dimmed, considerably, however, when Mary and Erwin lost their second oldest son, Marlin, to an accident when he was just 26 years old. Two days after Christmas 1960, Marlin's car slid on the ice and ran into the path of a train near Rosalie. He left behind a wife and two young daughters.

The hardest thing to do was to give up our son, Mary said.

In October 1997, Erwin entered Pender Care Centre. Although his memory may be declining due to Alzheimer's, Mary visits him daily and is glad to have her husband still with her after 70 years of marriage.

Mary says she misses not having Erwin at home with her.

The couple's farming days may be over, but they're still enjoying their time together.

Erwin and Mary celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary May 1 with their two children and several grandchildren and their families at a dinner at the care center. Erwin and Mary have 11 grandchildren and 20 great grandchildren.

"He always said he was going to live to be 100, but he didn't know it would come so soon," Mary said.

Mother devoted to raising her five children

By KIM HANSEN
Reporter/Photographer
The Pender Times

A mother is someone who, for the most part, is underappreciated. However, her children are given one day each year to pamper their mom and show her just how much she means to them. Mother's Day gives children everywhere a chance to reciprocate a mother's love. Some children choose to serve their mom breakfast in bed, some offer to fix dinner and clean the house, while others offer to do the laundry. No matter how little the task, a mother always appreciates a little recognition for all the work she does.

Alice (Harris) Smith had a busy career as a mother and wife. And, as a mother in the early 1900s, she was sincerely devoted to raising her five children and helping her husband on the farm.

"I always felt we were a close family," she said. "My children always came first."

TWINS DONALD, left, and Ronald Smith and their three brothers were the pride of their mother, Alice.

Now at age 101 and partially blind, Alice still enjoys looking through her photo album and reminiscing about what it was like raising her five children on a farm near Walthill.

"I think we were closer years back because we didn't have the conveniences families have now," she said. "Kids today grow up with things my boys didn't have. They (my children) had to make their own fun."

Alice's two surviving sons, who visit her weekly, honored her on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 9.

"They are still good to their mom and I always look forward to seeing them," Alice said.

Alice was the mother of five boys. Her oldest son is John, who is now 81 years old and lives part of the year in Texas and the other part on his mother's farm near Walthill. Her only other surviving son, Donald, who was a twin, is 75 years old and lives in Decatur with his wife, Lois.

Her son, Charles, died of croup when he was only three months old.

"Back then they called it quick croup," Alice said.

Ronald, Donald's twin, died of cancer at age 63. Alice's youngest son, Harold, also died of cancer at age 60.

Alice admits that raising all boys was difficult, but she enjoyed every minute of it.

"I think I'm an average mother. The little tykes take a lot of care.

"To me it's been wonderful. My children mean an awful lot to me since my husband passed away," Alice said. "I couldn't have better care."

Alice's husband, Charles, died of a heart attack in 1975 at the age of 80.

Alice and her husband moved their young family of six to a farm near Walthill in 1927. Harold was the only child born in that house. The other four boys were born in a house near Hubbard, where the family lived prior to moving to the Walthill area.

ALICE SMITH is the oldest mother at Pender Care Centre. She has held this title ever since she entered the nursing home in August last year.

"You didn't go to the hospital in those days; the doctors came to you," Alice said.

The house near Walthill was special to Alice. She enjoyed the time she spent there raising her family.

"I still have it. That's home," she said.

Despite raising their own families, Alice's sons always remembered her on Mother's Day.

"We were a great family to always get together on special days," she said. "They always remembered me on Mother's Day with cake and dinner."

In the 1990s, the divorce rate in the United States has skyrocketed. Alice, who may not be an expert on

Veterans at care center honored

This spotlight is a regular feature in the Leisure Times—fingernail sketches and pictures of residents at Pender Care Centre. Here's a look at three veteran residents.

--Anna Anderson, 85, is a veteran of the U.S. Army. She served as a nurse for four years while she was stationed in Fort Riley, Kan. Anna became a resident at Pender Care Centre in August 1997. She participates in nearly all activities at the nursing home and loves music.

--Clarence "Jeep" Scott, 60, served in the U.S. Army, and was an ammunition clerk while stationed in Germany from 1961 to 1963. Jeep said that during his service time, he had to lift heavy boxes and had the opportunity to see a lot of Europe on his three-day passes and leave time. He moved to Pender Care Centre in May 1998. Jeep, who loves to play bingo, was nicknamed after a shortstop who played for the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 1930s.

--Harold "Jack" Kelly is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force. From 1942 to 1945 he was stationed in Pueblo, Colo., where he enjoyed working on the B-29 airplane. Jack received an agricultural discharge from the war so he could return to western Nebraska to help his father on his 4,000-acre ranch. Jack has lived at Pender Care Centre since September 1997. He always has a bright story or saying, and is active in the nursing home programs.

families, but who successfully raised a family in the early 1900s, would tell new parents this:

"Each family has to work together. You, your own self, know how to raise a family."

Alice feels that raising her children may have been her greatest achievement in life.

"I feel sorry for some couples that don't have children, especially as you grow older. I think, what would I do if I didn't have Ronald and Johnny? It would be a long, lonely life. There isn't a night I don't go to bed without praying for my boys and their families," Alice said.

Alice also finds great comfort in looking through her photo album at her beautiful gardens. In her early years, she enjoyed growing flowers and baking bread.

"I love flowers. I had beautiful flowers and yards, she said. "I also enjoyed baking breads and pies."

Born Sept. 9, 1897, Alice is not only the oldest mother at Pender Care Centre, she is also the oldest resident there. She has held those titles ever since she entered the nursing home in August last year.

Understanding hearing loss and treatment

BY Jane Potter, M.D.
 Chief of Geriatrics / Gerontology
 University of Nebraska
 Medical Center

Understanding Hearing Loss

Approximately one-third of Americans between ages 65 and 74 and one-half of those ages 85 and older have hearing problems. People with hearing problems easily mistake words, leave phones and doorbells unanswered and have difficulty hearing the television. The problems may cause a loss of certain sounds or total deafness.

It is often hard to admit to having hearing problems. However, if left untreated, hearing loss leads to other problems.

Hearing problems are easily detected. Friends and family should be aware of the symptoms and be able to discuss the situation with loved ones. Some common signs to look for include:

- Words that are difficult to understand.
- A complaint that words during conversations are slurred or mumbled.
- If the presence of background noise makes hearing more difficult.

■ Presence of a hissing or ringing in the ears.

■ Overall lack of enjoyment at social functions because of hearing difficulty.

If any of these symptoms are present, a doctor should be consulted. The doctor may offer treatment and can help determine the cause of hearing loss.

Diagnosis may determine that prolonged exposure to loud noises has been detrimental to hearing. Several medical conditions including viral or bacterial infections, heart conditions, stroke, head injuries, tumors and certain medications can all affect hearing. Heredity and the natural aging process are the most common causes of hearing loss.

Treatment

Treatment for hearing loss often begins in a family physician's office. Earwax contributes to hearing loss and your doctor can remove it. However, most physicians refer patients to an otolaryngologist who specializes in treatment of the ear, nose and throat. Treatment will include a medical history, a thorough examination and testing.

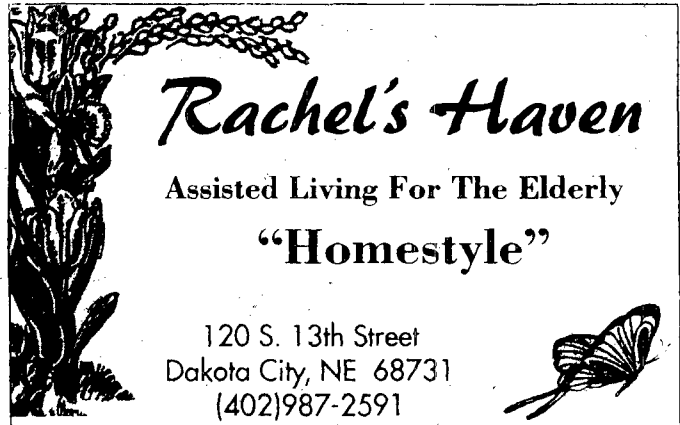

An audiologist does the informal tests to determine the degree of hearing loss. The audiologist will examine the ability to hear sounds at different pitches and volumes, look at problems with speech and check for inner ear problems.

Hearing loss is a serious problem. If you suspect someone you know has a hearing problem, try to help him or her communicate. Speak clearly, face the person and use facial expressions to help execute your message.

Do you have hearing loss?

If you are older than 70 years of age and you cannot hear and understand what a person says from across the room without seeing his or her face while he or she speaks in a normal voice, odds are good you have hearing loss.

Don't be afraid to tell others you have hearing difficulties. Encourage them to speak in clear tones while looking at you. Stand with your back to a wall to help sound back to your ears.

Beyond 1999 - 'The International Year of Older Persons'

According to current projections, in 2030 every third person in the member countries of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development will be over age 60. The picture is different for developing countries, where it's the speed of population aging that catches the eye.

It's estimated that it will take Tunisia 15 years for the cohort aged 65 and over to increase from 7 to 1 percent (2020-2035); it will take Chile 30 years (2000-2030) to undergo a similar transition. By contrast, it took France 115 years (1865-1980), allowing ample time for adjusting to the socio-economic consequences.

In the decades ahead, two trends will be the speed of aging in developing countries and the high proportion of older persons in developed countries.

Since population trends are foreseeable over long periods, and major changes in population structure have profound implications on many aspects of society, the feasibility of formulating a long-term perspective plan to the year 2020 is being explored. Related national initiatives reported during the General Assembly's plenary observances of the Year will contribute to the preparation of a 2020 strategy, including, possibly, the "agenda of the age".

As reported by a Prime Ministerial Task Force on Positive Aging in New Zealand, there are two possible approaches to preparing long-term perspective plans on aging. The first was to see older people (however defined) as a distinct group in society and to try to develop ways of improving their experience. The second was to try to improve the experiences of people generally, while at the same time dismantling the barriers that segregate older people from the rest of society. Noting that the two approaches would require different strategies, the Task Force opted for the second approach and is focusing on a few long-term goals and strategies, rather than on a multitude of short-term measures.

At the present time, the United Nations program on aging is endeavoring to integrate both approaches in its immediate and long-term plans, that is, addressing older persons as a distinct group in society while simultaneously seeking to dismantle the barriers that segregate older people from the rest of society.

Both approaches will be taken into account in the evaluation of the Year of Older Persons. Various international initiatives now under way could also contribute to a perspective plan in 2020, including the drafting of a declaration of interdependence on multigenerational relationships, the development of a research agenda on aging for the twenty-first century, and the preparation of an international plan of action on rural aging for the first decade of the twenty-first century.

What you should know about working after retirement

By GREG HEINEMAN

Social Security Manager in Norfolk

If you plan to work after retirement, as an increasing number of people in Northeast Nebraska do, you will need to make sure you understand certain facts about Social Security. These include how much you can make before your benefits are affected — and how other retirement income affects your benefits.

How much you can earn while retired

There are limits on how much you can earn without affecting your Social Security retirement benefits. Beneficiaries under age 65 can earn up to $9,120 in 1998 (scheduled to increase to $9,600 in 1999) without affecting their benefits. Earnings over that will reduce benefits $1 for every $2 in excess earnings. People 65-69 may earn $14,500 in 1998 (up to $15,500 in 1999) before benefits are affected. Earnings over that reduce benefits $1 for every $3. People 70 and over are not affected by the earnings limit.

How other income affects your Social Security benefits

In general, only earnings from work done after you start receiving benefits affect your benefits. Most other types of retirement income will not affect your benefits. These include payments from private insurance and pensions from private employers and annuity payments, and income from investments such as interest and capital gains. This rule is designed to encourage people to build up income for retirement and financial security using Social Security as a base.

Other income that could possibly affect your benefits are:

- A pension based on work not covered by Social Security will reduce your Social Security retirement payment under the windfall elimination provision.

- A benefit received from another public pension system based on your own work not covered by Social Security may affect your benefit as a spouse receiving a Social Security benefit on the earnings record of a worker, under the rules of the government pension offset.

Also note that, if you have high income, federal income tax may be due on up to 85 percent of your Social Security benefits.

Knowing these facts can help you plan your "retirement" in a way that assures you maximum pleasure from your earnings and benefits. For more information, call Social Security's toll-free number — 1-800-772-1213 — and ask for the leaflet, How Work Affects Your Benefits, or contact the Norfolk office at 402-371-1598.

Do you have questions regarding your health insurance coverage?

The Nebraska Health Insurance Information, Counseling and Assistance Program (NICA) provides assistance to senior citizens who have questions or concerns about Medicare, Medicare Supplements, Long-Term Care, or other types of health insurance.

With the growing amount of confusion over health care, NICA has established a network of volunteers who are specially trained to help older Nebraskans with their questions and concerns about health insurance. The NICA volunteers provide unbiased information and counseling. The volunteers have nothing for sale and are not affiliated with any insurance companies. All NICA services are free of charge.

NICA is a program of the Nebraska Department of Insurance, with assistance from the Nebraska Department of Health & Human Services — Division of Aging Services. NICA is funded by a federal grant from the U.S. Health Care Financing Administration.

NICA currently has over 150 volunteers in a variety of locations across the state, but more volunteers are always needed. The outstanding efforts of the volunteers make the NICA program successful.

To access the NICA program, contact the co-sponsoring agency nearest you, and ask to speak with a NICA volunteer:

Quality of life is important to each of us

By GERI TUCKER HEPP
HHS — Division of Aging Services

Quality of life is important to each of us because it gives meaning to our lives in a very individual and unique way. What is it that is important to you? Perhaps it is your pet, family and friends, gardening, or reading for relaxation that gives special meaning to your life.

Nursing facilities have the responsibility to pay particular attention to what will provide meaning to each resident in their facility. Federal regulations for nursing facilities regarding quality of life state "A facility must care for its residents in a manner and in an environment that promotes maintenance or enhancement of each resident's quality of life."

What should residents and their families expect from a nursing facility in regard to "maintenance or enhancement of each resident's quality of life"?

Before it can be determined how quality of life will be promoted in a nursing facility, quality of life must first be defined.

According to Webster's Dictionary, quality is "a distinguishing attribute or characteristic" and life is "the sequence of physical and mental experiences that make up the existence of an individual." Quality of life recognizes each person as individual and unique and emphasizes what provides meaning to a person's life.

Areas where nursing facilities can promote quality of life for residents include:

- Treating residents with dignity, assisting residents in maintaining or enhancing his/her self-esteem and self-worth. This can be achieved by appropriately grooming and dressing residents, promoting resident independence, respecting residents' private space and property, and focusing on residents as individuals;

- Promoting resident self-determination and participation. Residents have the right to make choices about his or her life that are significant to the resident, to interact with members of the community both inside and outside the facility, and to participate in resident groups;

- Accommodation of residents' needs. Accommodation is defined as the facility's efforts to individualize each resident's environment in order to maintain or enhance independent functioning, dignity, and well-being.

- Protection and promotion of residents' rights. This includes rights related to free choice, personal privacy and confidentiality, freedom from abuse, neglect and exploitation, staff treatment of residents, married couples sharing a room, receiving mail unopened, and other rights.

- Promoting quality of life for residents involves listening to each resident. While staff may have an idea of what the resident wants, only the resident knows for sure.

Quality of life is not a group concept. Considering the uniqueness of each individual is the key to enhancing quality of life in a long-term care facility.

If you have questions, contact the Office of the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman at (402) 471-2307 in Lincoln, or 1-800-942-7830 in Nebraska.

Learning to grieve and to live

By CAROL ANN DYAS
Lincoln Area Agency on Aging

"You're all right now, aren't you?"
"No, I'm not all right—I miss him so much!", she answered.

A helpless silence followed.

Within two weeks following the death of a loved one, a griever has been pretty well isolated. People don't know what to say or do. So they say and do nothing.

Significant emotional loss is an abnormal event in a person's life, and there is no normal way to react to an abnormal event. We live in a society that doesn't educate us to deal with loss but rather teaches us how to acquire and hold on to things. We know how to get things, not how to lose them.

The whole purpose of grief work is to enable you to have a memory that is incorporated into you and which allows you to continue living with that memory as a positive force rather than a negative one. Grief is a journey into the human heart which — although painful — is not without joy.

Grief work allows you to go from losing what you've had to having what you've lost. It is a process of letting go that allows you to relate to it on a different level so that you can never really lose it.

Grief work recognizes the imporance of being allowed to mourn. Mourning is therapeutic, a part of living. But when the mourning is over, what then? How do you live your life?

None of us has unlimited time, as we learn from the death of each loved one. We can take nothing for granted. The words, "do it now!" take on a new significance. There is a fine line between doing the work which is at hand without letting it be deformed by pressure. You should not run breathlessly here and there — you may miss the song of a mourning dove, the smile of a friend, the first step of a grandchild, the glance of a lover, the taste of a fine wine, the beauty of a sunset.

If we live in a society which doesn't educate people well on dying and how to grieve, we also don't always educate people well on living and how to live. In learning to live with death we must learn to grow, to be reborn. We must learn to remain vulnerable — open to love but also open to the possibility of more suffering. Sheer suffering does not teach. If suffering alone taught, all the world would be wise; because everyone suffers. To suffering must be added mourning, understanding, patience, love, openness and the willingness to remain vulnerable.

Maintaining control over your life

In Nebraska, a person is considered to be an adult when he or she reaches the age of 19 and is considered able to make responsible decisions.

Under most circumstances, adults can decide such things as where they will live, whom they will associate with, how they will spend their money, and how they will take care of their health. The right to make these decisions is one of the most important rights any person has, and the laws of Nebraska will infringe upon that right only after a court of law has determined that a person doesn't have the ability to make those decisions.

There are many circumstances in which Nebraskans may think that they have lost the ability to make decisions when, in fact, they still have that power. Some of those circumstances may include:

- Living in a nursing home or assisted living facility. Many people believe that they lose the power to make decisions when they go to a nursing home. In fact, even when you are a resident of a nursing home, you still keep the power to make your own decisions. This is true even if someone else, such as a spouse or child, is paying the bill.

- Admission to a hospital. Many times people who are admitted to a hospital are not in any condition to be able to make a rational decision about their care or their affairs. This does not mean that all people who go into a hospital are unable to make decisions.

- Executing a Power of Attorney. When one person gives another person a power of attorney, the person granting the power of attorney ("principal") does not lose any power at all. All a power of attorney does is allow a competent adult to share his or her power with someone else. In fact, the principal can still make his or her own decisions and if he or she makes a decision that is contrary to a decision made by the person who has the power of attorney ("agent"), the principal's decision should prevail.

The Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services — Division of Aging Services and the eight Area Agencies on Aging in Nebraska have several services designed to help older Nebraskans remain healthy, independent, and in control of their own lives.

SPECIAL EVENTS at the Wayne Care Centre last week included a visit from the fifth graders at Wayne Middle School. The students have been doing special things for the residents throughout the school year, including making Christmas decorations, writing letters and making door decorations. During this personal visit, the students brought their "adopted grandparents" a gift and spent time talking with each one. Above, Kyle Straight visits with his new friend. The event was arranged with the help of the parents of the fifth grade class. The Wayne Care Centre celebrated National Nursing Home last week with this and several other activities.

Gadgets and gizmos will arrive near you

Gadgets and gizmos will soon arrive at a senior center near you! The Nebraska Assistive Technology Partnership and the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services have teamed to purchase and deliver gadget boxes of assistive technology to 250 senior centers throughout Nebraska.

The main goal of the project is to help senior citizens become aware of simple and economical devices that can make the activities of daily living more manageable.

The gadget box will include items such as a button hook for individuals with arthritis that allows them to button their shirts with one hand, a talking alarm clock for the visually impaired, a door beacon that flashes when someone is at the door to let an individual with a hearing impairment know they have company, and communication cards for individuals who have had a stroke and have difficulty with speech.

Many more items will be in the gadget box, including a booklet that describes the devices in the box, information on where the devices can be purchased, and an approximate cost of the items.

The booklet, Easy Things to Make...To Make Things Easy by Doreen Greenstein is also included in the box. This is a helpful resource that gives senior citizens ideas on modifying the bathroom to make it more accessible or safe.

It also includes ideas for the kitchen, such as making a one-handed cutting board for the kitchen or building up the handles of eating utensils with inexpensive foam to make the handles easier to grasp. It even has ideas for leisure activities, such as adapting a gardening trowel with a strap attached with velcro to slip your hand through.

Senior centers can keep the gadget boxes so everyone can try out the gadgets and see if something can make daily activities more manageable. If you would like more information about the gadget boxes or assistive technology, please contact the Assistive Technology office near you:

Telling facts about prostate cancer

One in five men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer during their lifetime.

The majority of prostate cancers never become life-threatening because prostate cancer grows very slowly and most men develop it late in life.

Men over 75 are more likely to die of another condition before their prostate cancer becomes dangerous.

Younger men, especially those in their 50's who have many years ahead of them face more difficult choices. The options include radical prostatectomy (removal of the prostate), external beam radiation therapy or radioactive pellet implants.

The Nebraska Medical Association advises men to talk through options with their physicians. To find out how the treatment has affected the lives of those with it, talk about the experiences with men who have been diagnosed with prostate cancer.

Helping each other; helping yourself

By PEARL VAN ZANDT

HHS — Rehabilitation Services for the Visually Impaired

In spite of the fact that most blind people are over age 60, many older people who experience vision loss feel that they are alone in their situation. Some people are hesitant to mention their decreasing sight to family and friends. As a result, they become even more isolated.

Even if a person has a good support system of people who are encouraging and understanding, it's often difficult to develop positive attitudes about blindness when you do not know other blind people who are living competently and independently.

A study on the experience of blindness for older Nebraskans done in 1981 found that people who knew other blind people in the past and who had accepting attitudes of those individuals, were much better able to adjust to their own sight loss. They were more open to learning new ways of doing things so that their lifestyles would not be changed by the blindness.

Of course, we cannot change past influences, but we can have some control over present and future influences in our lives. One of the best ways to learn about blindness is to get to know blind people. This is true even for people who do not feel that they are "blind yet," but who are experiencing a significant amount of vision loss. Most older people never go completely blind, yet it is important to learn how to do things in a non-visual way when the sight alone won't do the job.

One way to meet competent blind people is to join a consumer group of the blind. The presence and activity level of these groups varies across the state.

Another way is to become involved with a Peer Counseling Discussion Group which is sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services — Rehabilitation Services for the Visually Impaired. There is no cost to the groups which meet once each month. Transportation can be provided if needed.

We have found that these groups are an excellent way for people to share ideas, problems, and solutions. In addition to the practical benefit of the groups, most members feel that just getting together with others who are also losing sight is a great boost to morale. It helps to know that you are not alone in the world!

Social Security questions and answers

Question: What's the earliest age a person can retire under Social Security?

Answer: No matter what your "full" retirement age is, you may want to start receiving benefits as early as 62. However, if you start your benefits early, they are reduced five-ninths of one percent for each month before your "full" retirement age. For example, if your full retirement age is 65 and you sign up for Social Security when you're 64, you will receive 93-1/3 percent of your full benefit. At 62, you would get 80 percent. (Note: The reduction will be greater in future years as the full retirement age increases)

Question: When family members are eligible for Social Security benefits on a worker's record, how much can the family members get?

Answer: Each family member may be eligible for a monthly benefit that is up to 50 percent of the worker's retirement or disability rate. However, there is a limit to the total amount of money that can be paid to a family on a person's record. The limit varies, but is generally equal to about 150 to 180 percent of the worker's retirement benefit. (It may be less for disability benefits)

Question: My mother just started getting Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits. Is it true that she might be eligible for other assistance, like Medicaid?

Answer: Since Medicaid eligibility depends on your state, you or your mother should contact your local medical assistance or social services office. Your mother may be eligible for other services too, such as homemaker services, arrangement for meals, transportation, and/or food stamps.

Neely girls are all back together again— thanks to baby sister

LAUREL — In 1920, the local doctor in Winside, gave his oldest daughter, Gla, to be married. That same year he, his wife, and daughters, Twila and Yleen, welcomed a new baby, Rosemary, into their home.

Who would have thought that nearly 80 years later, after living their own separate and distinct lives the Neely girls would again be living in the same town.

Twila, Gla, and Yleen reside at Hillcrest Care Center in Laurel, and 'baby sis' Rosemary lives only a few blocks away.

This story actually begins in Pennsylvania where the Neely girls' father was born. He moved to Iowa, and attended medical school there. After graduation he began his medical practice in Diller, Neb., where the three oldest girls were born. The family then moved to Winside where 'little sis' Rosemary became part of the family.

The Neely girls all attended Winside High School, are all members of Eastern Star, and they all love the Huskers.

They shared a common love for bridge, and in years past had their own foursome. But — that is where the similarities end.

Gla became a teacher and married the local banker who later apprenticed under his grandfather to become a mortician. She was a seamstress and pianist.

"Gla was a wonderful pianist and for many years played for every funeral in Winside," said Rosemary.

Gla was a charter member of the American Legion Auxiliary, and was recently honored as a 75 year member.

Twila also married and remained in Winside. She and her husband lived on a farm where she enjoyed farm life—especially gardening and working with animals. Twila has been a long time Nebraska football fan.

"We used to go to a lot of games until the 'younger generation' began using the tickets," she said. She still proudly displays a Nebraska banner in her Hillcrest Care Center room.

Yleen became a social worker and she and her husband—a postal employee—lived in Indiana, Kansas and Arkansas.

She is an avid reader and has a keen interest in current affairs. To keep up on the latest happenings, she subscribes to a daily newspaper and watches TV newscasts.

Incidentally, Yleen's name is Neely spelled backward.

"My mother wanted to name me Joy and my father hated the name. So he gave me a name that could be spelled the same backward and forward," she said.

Rosemary's name has a California connection.

"During the influenza epidemic of 1918, my father nearly ruined his health, so the next winter he took the family to California to recuperate," she said. "I was born the next year, and he took my name from a movie theater he had seen on the pier in Venice the year before."

Rosemary taught school for a few years and when her father died, she helped care for her mother. She became a postal employee and remained in Nebraska. Eventually she was appointed postmaster in Laurel and the rest is history.

When her sisters were no longer able to care for themselves, she took the responsibility of bringing her family together again by assisting them in moving to Hillcrest Care Center.

The fact that these women live so near is no surprise, because the family has always been close. Rosemary said.

"We would gather on Saturday night at our family's home. My dad would keep his office open until 8 o'clock and then join us. We did this every Saturday. I just remember the closeness," she said.

Well, after nearly 80 years the closeness still exists.

Gla and Twila have rooms across the hall, from each other. Yleen shares her daily paper with Twila, and the three of them eat their meals together. Rosemary who calls herself 'the family secretary', is a frequent visitor and sometimes joins them at mealtime.

After living their own individual lives, the Neely girls are once again all living in the same town, enjoying each others company and the bond of sisterhood that began nearly 80 years ago.

Stained glass creations are the latest hobby for busy Osmond couple

By Bernice Blecha
Osmond Republican

OSMOND — Going south with the Snowbirds is common for retirement age couples in this area. Not so for Norman and Jacquie Lorenz of Osmond who celebrated their 47th wedding anniversary earlier this month.

Traveling long distances is not high on their list of pastimes. They have other activities from which to choose, depending on interest or someone else's need.

The former farm couple opened Willow Way Bed and Breakfast at the west edge of Osmond along Highway 20 in 1988. They are eager to share information about the community and area with guests.

They work together in an interior decorating business, wallpapering and painting. In prior years, they have done exterior painting, however, they do very little of it now. The interior decorating was Jacquie's love. She started the business while still on the farm — along with helping with the farm work, milking cows, raising children and caring for four foster children.

At the time they moved to town, someone asked Norm what he was going to do. He responded with, "for 36 years Jacquie worked in my business, now I'm going to work in hers." This week he said, "I've got 16 years to go and we'll be even."

The couple has been into antique furniture restoration for a number of years and has thoroughly enjoyed it. Fumes from the chemicals needed in that operation do not mix well with Norm's breathing problems and Jacquie's health no longer tolerates the odors either, so phasing out the restoration activity is in their future. They feel comfortable in doing so since a young couple in the area has indicated an interest in the work and Norm is serving as their mentor as they get started.

Now for their latest hobby — stained glass work.

Helen Robinson of Rawlins, Wyo., came into their lives as a guest at the bed and breakfast, spending eight weeks while serving as a DMS Imaging technician at Osmond General Hospital. She fills in around the region when there is turnover in help or technician illness at facilities using DMS equipment.

In her free time last year, she worked on stained glass projects and introduced the Lorenzes to the process.

She gets the shapes exact to fit into each other in the pattern. Glass pieces must fit inside the black lines of the pattern. One starts from a corner and keeps adding pieces side-by-side.

Copper foil, to which a flux product has been applied, is put around the edges of the glass. The foil is 3/8-inch to 7/16-inch wide and comes in rolls. After the foil is applied, edges must be worked with a small plastic tool to get a smooth effect. The glass pieces are secured in place by soldering the copper foil. There is a foiling machine for placing the foil on the glass. Norman prefers to use it, however, Jacquie opts to put hers on manually.

A sheet of glass — one square foot is the popular size — would range in cost from $3 to $8 or $9 for the more common varieties.

There are many styles, colors and textures of glass with some of the pricier ones going for $30 for the square foot. Larger sizes of glass are also available. Until recently, most glass hobby enthusiasts had to get supplies from Omaha, but an outlet is now available in Sioux City, Jacquie said.

Pieces will break as one is cutting, Norm said. However, one doesn't throw them away — another project for small pieces may come along.

Among their equipment is a magnifying lamp. In addition to getting enough light on the project, Norm says, "it helps us elderly as the eyesight isn't what it used to be."

The couple has made some pieces for grandchildren. One of their daughters has expressed a desire for a clock while the other would like a lamp, so they have projects in the works.

Jacquie says she'd "like to work" about three days a week and do more relaxing things other days. "But she's not too sure that'll happen just now as more requests for their services come."

They are trying to set aside Friday mornings this summer to join bridge players at Rolling Hills Country Club. Informally organized, its format is "whoever shows up on a given Friday plays. That way we can keep other commitments," Jacquie notes.

While the Snowbirds are South, Norm pursues his long-standing hobby of basket weaving. He uses red willow to fashion baskets of a variety of shapes and sizes. Generally busy with this in January and February, Norm says "she (Jacquie) lets me bring the supplies in the house when it really gets cold. We put down a big drop cloth and I work there." One of his specialties is berry baskets which have handles to hang the baskets on the tree while picking fruit.

Both believe there is much to be enjoyed in northeast Nebraska as well as the entire state. "People don't realize what's really here," Jacquie says.

They took a week's vacation one year — and slept in their own bed every night. Each day they chose a destination of interest which was within a time frame to drive there, enjoy it and return home at night. "It was one of the best times we've had," Jacquie noted. Among their stops one day were antique stores. "We used to tuck a chord with the couple who were looking for a hobby to replace the refinishing work."

She came to Osmond for a nine-week stint this year and worked with the Lorenzes who say they are still learning the craft.

Two of their larger projects — a lamp shade and a clock — grace the living room of their bed and breakfast home. A second lamp has a spot in the loft of the home and other smaller pieces are also on display. They are quick to point out their first effort, one that Norm says probably doesn't mean much to anyone else, but it does to them.

Their workshop is in the former Osmond (chicken) Hatchery situated Ernest Witte displays many of Dr. Bert Gleason's doctoring supplies and military belongings. The memorabilia is now on display at the Cedar County Museum.

Randolph doctor's supplies on display at county museum

By Crystal Junck
Randolph Times

RANDOLPH — Micki McDonald wanted to bring a little history back to Cedar County.

McDonald is the granddaughter of Dr. Bert Gleason. She has been corresponding with Ernest Witte, Randolph, about displaying the few remaining possessions of her grandfather in the Cedar County Museum.

Witte said McDonald, the daughter of Georgia Belle Gleason, contacted him and asked if the old doctoring supplies and military belongings could be displayed in his hometown. Witte said he knew the perfect place for the remnants — the Cedar County Museum.

The two worked on a way to get the old medical bag and drugs to Randolph from McDonald's home in Laguna Niguel, Calif. After finding out that sending the items by UPS would be too expensive, the mission was put on hold.

A few months ago, Witte attended a wedding in Laguna. He called McDonald and, ironically, McDonald lived only two blocks from that church.

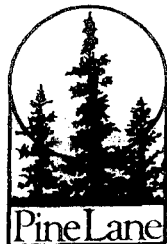

Witte brought the old items home with him, and had them on display at the Randolph Senior Citizens Center. He then took them to the county museum, where they are now on display.

Dr. Gleason, born in 1879, was a doctor in Randolph from 1909-1947. He graduated from Northwestern University and first practiced medicine in Iowa. His Randolph office, built in 1926, is now occupied by Karla's Curis. He retired in 1947 and died in 1962.

near the bed and breakfast. One area is set up for stained glass work while others are devoted to furniture refinishing.

After offering a tour of their shop, Norm and Jacquie went through the steps of a project.

First, one would choose a pattern, then select glass in the colors and textures desired. Next, one would mark and cut the glass. A diamond-headed grinder is used to smooth the edge of the glass to say we couldn't walk past an antique store," Jacquie quipped. "Now we can't get past glass stores."

The couple sees the glass work as a hobby they can enjoy into their retirement years. Tendonitis prohibits Norm from enjoying bowling and horseshoe pitching as he used to while Jacquie senses the joints not working as well for the painting. Life is always interesting at the Lorenz house.

"We don't like sitting and doing nothing," Norm says. "We like challenges and try lots of things."

Good News about Macular Degeneration!

For the past several years I have been recommending certain vitamins and minerals such as zinc and Beta-carotene because there was some evidence that these supplements helped to slow Age Related Macular Degeneration. Now there is evidence that another vitamin called lutien is even more beneficial to people with macular degeneration.

The best study so far found that people who ate the most vegetables with lutien had 57% less advanced macular degeneration than people who ate the least did!

Lutien has recently become available in a capsule form. I currently recommend that my patients with macular degeneration take one of the traditional zinc and vitamin supplements plus one capsule containing 20 mg of lutien.

We have these supplements in stock at Filips Eye Clinic. The total cost for both pills is less than $20 per month. If you are interested, call our office for a copy of my newsletter about macular degeneration, or make an appointment so I can advise whether these supplements might be helpful to you.

SSC woman takes advantage of Green Thumb

BY BOB NELSON
STAFF WRITER

Eleanor Haddock of South Sioux City found out from a friend about the Green Thumb program and took advantage of it.

Haddock is one of the recent graduates of the Microsoft office user certification classes (MOUS) offered through Western Iowa Tech Community College in Sioux City.

"It's going to be helpful in the business world by giving me some good computer knowledge," Haddock said. "Hopefully, it will get me a job."

Like so many others, Haddock is trying to get the training needed in the new high-tech job market.

The class was offered to a select group of students through the Green Thumb program, a federally funded program for people over 55 years of age.

The goal of Green Thumb is to provide employment for lower income seniors through training programs or through employment with non-profit or state agencies." Green Thumb Field Operations Coordinator Judy Mischke of Norfolk said.

According to Mischke the program works in two ways. There is a Senior Services Employment Program (SCSCP) that places workers in the government agencies and non-profit agencies. These workers are paid by Green Thumb and get on the job training at minimum wage.

Then there is the educational portion of the program that pays for training through schooling like the one Haddock is currently taking part in.

"I think it is great that they're giving me the opportunity," Haddock said. "Now we'll just see where the ball bounces."

Mischke said there are seven openings in SCSCP in Dakota County. There is no limit to qualified applicants, for people who want to further their training for today's job market through education.

Interested parties can contact Mischke at (402) 644-8408 or write Green Thumb, PO Box 1181, Norfolk Neb. 68702.
