Jager state winner in contest

Bart and Lisa Simpson. Look who's sporting a Milk Mustache now: 5-year-old Sawyer Christian Jager from Wayne is the Nebraska state winner of the nationwide Mini Milk Mustache Contest.

Wayne dairy producers Fred and Joann Temme presented Sawyer with his award certificate and a Tickle-Me Cookie Monster ® doll. The Temmes have been in the dairy business for over 40 years, milking 200 Holsteins Fred Temme currently serves on the American Dairy Association/Dairy Council of Nebraska Boards of Directors; the Dairy Industry Development Board; and is a past regional Director of Associated Milk Producers, Inc.

"We were really impressed with Sawyer. He's a very polite, happy 5year-old!" said Joann Temme

A Mini Milk Mustache Star is Born Judges from the Milk Mustache campaign selected Sawyer as the Nebraska state winner of the Mini Milk Mustache Contest after reviewing nearly 2,000 children's' photos sent in from parents across the

"Using a fun approach-such as asking kids to make a milk mustache-helps parents make sure their children meet their daily calcium requirements, says Susan Drew, M.S., R.D. with the Dairy Council of Nebraska. "Milk is one of the best sources of calcium for growing bodies because it also provides kids with eight other essential nutrients.

The Mini Milk Mustache Photo Contest was designed to help parents literally "get the picture" about the importance of drinking milk for young children's growth and development. Nearly half of all children ages 3 to 5 aren't getting enough calcium in their diet, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"The fact that so many young children aren't getting enough call cium is a real problem," says Drew "Kids are drinking lots of averages, but not enough calcium-rich milk. instead, too often, they're drinking fruit drinks and soft drinks that are high in sugar and calories and don't have the vitamins and minerals that milk provides for building strong

"This is the first time we've specifically looked for a non-celebrity child to be the next Milk Mustache star. Until now, the only young kids in the ads have been celebrities like jonathan Lipnicki or children of celebrities like Christie Brinkley and Melanie Griffith," says Kurt Graetzer, CEO of the Milk Processor Education Program. "We've been amazed at the quality of photos we've seen, but Sawyer was a clearcut winner-he's done the Milk Mustache proud."

To get a peek at the prize-winning Milk Mustache photos from the Milk Mustache including Sawyer and the other state winners-check out the milk Web site at www.whymilk.com. For more information on kids and calcium, parents can call 1-800-WHY-MILK to receive a colorful "Milk and Me" brochure/poster.

Council passes five resolutions

By Clara Osten

Five resolutions and one ordinance were passed during Tuesday's Wayne City Council Resolution 99-34 established a policy pertaining to tax increment financing. Following discussion at the last meeting, policy will allow for an eight-member review committee, consisting of up to three members of the council. The committee will make recommen dations to the council, with 71 percent or five members.

whichever is greater, needing to react positively to bring a request to the council Resolution 99-35 authorized an interlocal agreement with Nebraska Energy Services Company. The agreement meets the requirements of state law and is an attempt to prepare for elec-tric deregulation.

Three of the resolutions passed during the meeting allowed for the acceptance of grant funds.

Resolution 99-36 involved ap proximately $15,600 in state and federal funds for operation of the city's Handi-Van and Resolution 99-37 authorizes the acceptance of $8,300 in federal funds through the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging for the opera-tion of the meal program at the Wayne Senior Citizens' Center.

The final resolution, Resolution 99-38, accepted grant money in the amount of $2,000 from the Nebraska Information Technology Commission / Community Technology Funds. The city received money on behalf of the state of Northeast Ordinance 99-5 was passed and the three readings waived. The ordinance will implement an increase in parkings fines if not paid within 15 days.

In other action, Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster introduced Michael Hutchinson as a new member of the Wayne Police Department. Hutchinson is a certified police officer and has 10 experience.

Anneliese Cawthon

Scholarship is endowed

At their May meeting, the Wayne State College Foundation Executive Committee approved a $5,000 allocation to the Anneliese H. Cawthon scholarship fund. This amount will endow the scholarship which the late Ms. Cawthon had personally funded annually during her lifetime.

Cawthon was assistant dean of students at WSC and served on variety of community and professional committees. She believed education was very important and showed.this through her dedication to her students.

"It is appropriate that we honor Anneliese in this way," said Dr. Don Koeber, president of the Wayne State Foundation. "She was strongly committed to her students and to seeing them succeed. This scholarship will serve as a lasting symbol of that focus," Koeber said.

The scholarship is awarded to an African American graduate student of U.S. citizenship attending WSC with preference being given to those students who completed their undergraduate degrees at Wayne State College.

This endowment will serve to perpetuate Anneliese's legacy at WSC," said Phyllis Conner, executive director of the Wayne State Foundation. Conner noted Cawthon's work with and dedication to students as being two of the reasons the executive committee took the action.

Additional contributions being accepted, which would increase the amount of the scholar-

Library's summer reading program begins

Of the Herald

Many children were on hand Wednesday at the Wayne Public Library to see the film, "Wet And Wild" put on by Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo. The film, filled with facts on animals that live in water, kicked off this year's Summer Reading Program

Volunteers from the Henry Doorly Zoo bring animal life directly to your door in their outreach program through films, discussion, and "Biofacts." Biofacts for their aquatic show included actual sharks' teeth, a turtle shell, penguin feathers, and various eggs. Through the outreach program, children can experience a part of the zoo without having to travel there. The zoo will visit library's, schools, etc. to speak to

For more information on Henry Doorly Zoo, call 402-733-8401 or fax them at 402-733-4415.

A total of 104 children, ages four through sixth grade, were present for the kick-off. A total of 128 children have pre-registered for this year's summer reading program.

Supervising this year's program is Leah Agler of Wayne, Summer Reading Program Coordinator, Jolene Klein, Wayne Public Library Director, and other library employ

Every year the library chooses a different theme and carries it out in their scheduled book readings, film showings, etc. Volunteers from the community are scheduled to read books on Wednesdays to pre registered children ages 4-6 and grades 1-3. Craft activities then follow the readings. People in the community with hobbies and collections are scheduled to show their collections and speak to pre-registered children

Each year there are different activ ities planned to coordinate with the reading program. The Summer Reading Program covers several states Included in this year's proam are Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Utah, North and South Dakota. The program is designed to help keep children's interest in reading through summer months when skills suffer from lack of reading

During the course of the summer, registered children are expected to read Wayne Library books in their reading level. Readers and their pa ents keep track of books read and t career track mark you as a likely transferee within the Does your present career track mark you as a likely transferee within the next 2-3 years? Still want to buy a home in the meantime? Fine - But why not include an exit strategy in your purchase? Here's how.

First, choose a home which will appeal to the broadest possible segment of buyers over the next few years. Choose an attractive home in good with neutral colors in a popular style. Another strategy suggests using the smallest home in the neighborhood. Home values in the lower end of the neighborhood price range are more likely to be pulled up at a faster rate by the larger homes, increasing the possibility of selling at a profit.

Consider a mortgage which allows for assumption by the next buyer.

Although this option is more difficult to accomplish these days, it can be a strong motivator to a future buyer. To lower payments while owning the home, consider an "adjustable rate" mortgage or a 3-5 year loan with a balloon. This allows for lower interest rates during the early years.

Even over the short term, home ownership is a wise move. At today's tes, it makes good sense to invest in a home, while enjoying all the

Relay for Life

Cancer survivors, members of service organizations, and small children were among those taking part in the first Wayne Relay for Life walk Friday and Saturday. A total of 12 teams participated in the 15-hour walk held at the Wayne State College Track. The event, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, raised more than $11,500 with one team yet to report. In addition, 330 luminaries were iit, in memory of those who died of cancer and in honor of those fighting cancer. Above, cancer survivors walk the first lap around the track. Below, after walking 200 miles as a team, members of the First Bankcard Center team, relax beside the track.

As part of the Relay for Life activities, those in attendance lit the 330 luminaries that surrounded the Wayne State track. Despite the windy conditions, several of them remained burning until after 4 a.m.

'Study' to be conducted

The Wayne

Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

The upcoming study into whether the death penalty is "fairly" applied in Nebraska will be important to those on both sides of the issue

No matter what conclusions are drawn by the commission handling the job, opponents and propo-nents are bound to find things in it that will be cited in legislative debate for many, many years.

In a recent interview, Gov. Mike Johanns said he would be inter-ested in any examination of whether the experience of court appointed defense lawyers should be taken into account.

Some observers; nationally and locally, have suggested that any-one facing a trial that could result in a death sentence should be represented by counsel that has had at least some previous, hands-on experience with a death penalty case.

However, Johanns also made clear that the number of appeals still available to those facing the electric chair-would seem to virtually guarantee an adequate review of all aspects of such a case.

Among the issues-which could get an airing before the commis-sion is a law, sponsored by Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha, which was intended to require the state Supreme Court to compare every capital case with every other capital case, from start to finish.

The apparent idea behind the measure, passed more than a decade ago, was to get the state's highest court to examine the leeway prosecutors have in deciding what charges will be brought against a defendant accused of killing someone. First or seconddegree murder? Manslaughter?

The state Supreme Court chose to interpret the law in a manner unforeseen by the Legislature. The high court concluded that it would only compare each capital case which had resulted in a death

Critics charged at the time that uch a view was akin to comparing everyone who had to ride in the back of the bus with everyone else who had to ride in the back of the bus. The real issue, they argued, was how they got to the back of the bus in the first place.

Johanns succeeded in vetoing a two-vear moratorium on executions that initially accompanied the planned study. Lawmakers overrode his veto of the study per

Some agricultural producers no doubt took heart when Johanns said it was time for the federal government to reconsider the phasing out of federal price supports beyond 2002.

The issues are not dissimilar from the ones faced by producers in the 1970s, when then-President Ford and then-Agriculture Ford and then-Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz were trying to steer a new course for farming, Butz flew from one farm state to another, with a rallying cry of Plant fence row to fence row, and the government will find markets for your products!'

Wildlife hardly got a decent eviction notice before producers were plowing up trees and row crops were sprouting from mother's farmyard garden to the highway department's ditches.

Then, Ford slapped a grain embargo on the Soviet Union

The political feathers flew in all directions.

Critics of the current Freedom to Farm Act are arguing that Nebraska farmers may be facing yet another broken promise.

The idea behind the law, not entirely unlike the Ford plan, included an increased development in overseas markets, and some lessening of federal regulations.

this point: "Hey, feds! Where are those new markets? Those increased overseas sales? Hello?"

Johanns stood by the Republican free market philosophy in general, while saying that im-mediate disappearance of the subsidies would be disastrous. And, when there is a disaster-among Nebraska farm fields, it sends out shock waves sufficient to rock the world of state government.

Johanns, noted that "literally every single farm commodity is being sold at below the cost of production. That's an unusual phenomenon, but it exists today."

As one former lawmaker put it years ago: "I suppose when we sell below production cost, some bureaucrat in Washington figures we can make up the difference - if we do enough volume!

Award to boost housing supply

Development Corporation is among eight Community Housing Development Organizations (CHDOs) awarded $1,437,500 by Gov. Mike Johanns to aid efforts in helping more Nebraskans become first-time home owners.

CHDOs are community-based, nonprofit housing organizations designated by the state to own, sponsor, and/or develop projects using HOME Investment Partnerships funds.

In all, nine organizations applied for $1,842,500 to fund 10

"The numbers say it all: Affordable housing remains a top priority and concern in Nebraska," Gov. Johanns said. "We've heard the call and we're continuing our efforts to work as a partner v federal, state, and local organiza-tions to help meet the demand for this basic need."

program Department of Housing and Urban Development, HOME Investment Partnerships is administered by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development. HOME regulations require states to set aside at least 15 percent of their allocated HOME funds for CHDOs. In Nebraska, 60 percent of HOME allocations are designated for CHDOs.

Around $1 million remains for HOME. CHDO set-aside projects in 1999. State-designated CHDOs may apply for these funds on July 1. Applications also will be accepted Sept. 1 and Nov. 1 if any funds remain.

Playing in the sun is a fun outdoor activity for children but it can be dangerous. Even though a suntan may look nice and make one feel good, there is no medical evidence to suggest that a suntan improves health.

Young people get about 80 percent of their fifetime sun-exposure in the first 18 years of life. Practicing sun protection to prevent skin damage is important in later life. Some studies suggest there is a link between early exposure to the sun and skin can-

There are several precautions parents can teach their children in order to protect them from the sun's dangers. First, parents need to be role models and examine their own attitudes and practices related to sun exposure. Here are some sun safety guidelines.

 Avoid being in the sun from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., the hottest times of day. Arrange play areas so children can be in the shade

Apply sunscreen with a sun protection factor (SPF) of 15 or higher. Check the label. Sunscreen must be applied to the skin 20 to 30 minutes before going outdoors and reapplied every two hours or after swimming or sweating. Provide protection even on cloudy days. As much as 80 percent of the suns rays come through clouds, so apply sunscreen on cloudy days too.

• Provide sun sunglasses that adsorb 95 to 100 percent of both UV-A rays and UV-B rays.

• Wearing a three inch wide brim hat will shield the face, ears and back of the neck. A baseball cap does not provide adequate protection, except for shielding the eyes. Other protective clothing includes long sleeved shirt and

. Surfaces such as sand and concrete can reflect up to 85 percent of the sun's damaging rays.

• Teach children the ABC's for having fun in the sun. "A" stands for away. Stay away from the sun in the middle of the day. "B" stands for block. Use a sunscreen with a SPF or higher to protect the skin. "C" stands for cover up. Wear a shirt and a hat. "S" stands for speak out. Children need to speak out to their friends and family about sun protection.

Sun safety can be taught and practiced by everyone. Teaching sun safety early in life can truly save lives. The Skin Cancer Foundation notes it takes years to get skin cancer and most of us get an early start.

Memorial service is held at Wayne

The tenth annual Providence Medical Center Hospice and Home Health Care Memorial Service was held Sunday at Eirst, United Methodist Church in Wayne

Around 70-75 people attended the event which honored families, caregivers, and friends of 59 loved ones who passed away and were Providence Medical Center (PMC) patients from April, 1998 to March,

Jean Kinney, Hospice Director, welcomed the group to the event and Sister Gertrude Wolfer read scripture and gave prayer.

Adam Munter was candlelighter and Emily Kinney sang "Bourning Song" with Donna Jacobsen, RN, accompanying her on piano.

Gayle Catinella, Hospice Social Worker, and Dr. James Lindau, Hospice Medical Director, read and sang "Love You Forever." Catinella also read "We are the Signs that He is With Us.

'The Ride' to be shown in Concord on June 13

Pastor Bob Brenner and the congregation of the Concord Evangelical Free Church will be showing the film, "The Ride."

The film will be shown at the Concord Evangelical Free Church on Sunday, June 13 at 7 p.m.. "The Ride" is a new, entertain-ing dramatic film from World Wide Pictures, the motion picture min-istry of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

Some questions faced in this film are can God allow cancer to attack an innocent 14-year old boy?" and "Is God someone who can be trusted despite difficult circumstances?" The movie centers around Smokey Banks (Michael Biehn) who has just been sentenced to community service and released into the custody of Mike Stillwell (Clarence Felder) and his wife, Ellen (Jennifer O'Neill) at the Saguaro Boys' Ranch. The former world champion bull rider has reached bottom, and now his only task is to teach 14-year old Danny O'Neil (Brock Pierce) how to ride a

Our Savior makes Center improvements

Our Savior Lutheran Church has been making significant improvements to the Our Savior Center.

Many members of the commu nity will remember the Our Savior Center as the former city library, which the congregation purchased from the city.

In recent months the old heating system has been removed. A wheelchair lift and new heating and cooling systems have been installed. Repairs have been made to the roof. Over the summer, the congregation hopes to complete new handicap accessible rest rooms; install new floor coverings and paint interior walls.

The Our Savior Center serves the congregation's youth ministry and Sunday School programs. The congregation also serves the community by making the Center available to various community groups such as Boy Scouts.

"The Center is a vital tool for our congregation's ministry," said Pastor Martin Russell. "As we strive to strengthen our congregational ministries, we want to also strengthen the Center as a place for ministry to happen."

in the landscape. There is less of a problem showing up with trees that are in windbreaks or protected by evergreens.

The symptoms being expressed by the struggling trees include stunted, deformed leaves with jagged edges, many holes of dif-ferent sizes and often brown dead tissue in patches along the edge of the leaf. No insect or disease problem is being found on the samples. The cause of the sparse foilage and struggling tree growth can be traced back to the winter and the dormant bud tissue. This tissue was damaged after the buds had started to loosen and break dormancy because of the warm weather earlier in January and February that was followed by freezing temperatures the rest of the winter and early spring.

In most instances, the trees are sending out a second, healthy growth of leaves and should not be damaged by the set back of growth. Owners of affected trees should monitor the trees condition this summer as the weather turns drier and water the trees every seven to ten days if there is no

Other deciduous trees showing problems this year are the sycamores, maples and ashes with anthracnose. In addition: crabapples are showing problems with apple scab and ceder - apple rust fungus diseases. Copper fungicides can help reduce the infections, but normally it is too late to spray once the leaves have started to
