Several issues discussed at joint meeting

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Recreation facilities, tax levies and school safety were among the topics discussed at a joint meeting of the Wayne City Council and the Wayne Board of Education Monday evening.

.The joint meeting was the first time the two groups had met to-gether since 1991. Earlier this year, the council had listed among its goals meeting with other gov-ernmental entities, Phyllis Spethman president of the Board of Education told those present "we appreciate the effort Dr. Joe Reinart (Superintendent of Wayne Community Schools) and City Administrator Joe Salitros have gone to for this meeting. We always look at what's best for the students and I feel there are lots of ways we can work together.*

Among the topics discussed was that of recreation facilities.

Current plans call for renovation of the Wayne City Auditorium to begin after April 1, 2000.

City sales tax revenues have generated approximately $670,000 for the project. Exact figures won't be available until af ter the tax expires on Oct. 1 of this year.

Plans call for a number of im provements to the structure including electrical and plumbing updating, new restrooms and work done in the current Women's Club

There are no definite plans at this point but Salitros said that recreational activities would have during the renovation process.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau said that the auditorium is not designed to be a recreation facility, but "does serve an important function in the community and does have historic value."

Sales tax projects discussed in-cluded a community recreation center.

Members of the Board of Education and the council agreed that there are a number of ways in which the two groups could work together to construct a recreation

"We, as a board, are willing to talk about the project. We do have land available and the facility have land available and the facility would provide another opportunity for our kids," Spethman said.

Members of the city council have not yet listened to the proposal for this facility. The presentation is scheduled to be on the proposal to the proposal state of the proposal scheduled to be on the proposal to the council's link 27. agenda at the council's July 27 meeting.

The current sales tax will expire in October and the soonest the issue of an additional tax could come before the voters would be during the May 2000 primary election. If the issue were to pass, the tax could go into effect in Oct. 2000

Several of those in attendance questioned whether the money generated by the current city sales tax could be spent on a new recreational facility rather than for the renovation of the auditorium.

Salitros said that the city had See MEETING, Page 3A

Wayne State continues program

Johnson and John A. Novotny, have completed projects for their student-business consulting class with Loren Kucera. The projects strengthened the students' experience and gave the businesses in-creased effectiveness through expanded knowledge and a larger work force.

This program began as the former Student to Business Initiative (SBI) which at one time was funded by the U.S. Small Business Administration as a program for academic institutions to fund an instructor to oversee the program. In the mid-1990s the program's funding was dropped. Prior to that time, every four-year institution was involved in this pro-gram. The Wayne State College administration chose to continue the program by assuming its fund-

This shows that WSC takes their mission statement to heart by extending the WSC tradition of service into the role of a regional center attempting to enhance the quality of life and assist with the development of the communities in our rural service region," Kucera

There is no charge for the business involved unless there is some type of information or survey needed with fees attached; Kucera said then the business is reimbursed on a cost-recovery basis. Graduate students take over the project after Kucera meets first with the business client.
If give them (the students) parameters of what needs to be done, then I step aside and let them do it themselves. I'm there questions and guidance, Kucera said.

"For an MBA student, this experience takes them out of the realm of what they do for a living and forces them to use different skills. They use what they have learned and put it into action," Kucera said.

Taking an individual away from what they normally do helps strengthen areas that students don't normally have as much confidence in, according to Kucera.

This forces them to do research which is often more difficult, like the research for Nebraska Timber. Lowell Johnson of Wakefield wrote an extensive business plan for Nebraska Timber, a sawmill lo-cated in Springview. Johnson is industrial sales manager at the M.G. Waldbaum Company in Wakefield. He is a graduate of Wakefield

High School and the University of Nebraska - Lincoln, where he earned a bachelor's degree in ageconomics. He graduated in May from Wayne State College with a master's degree in business. Johnson's experience working with Kucera at WSC has been one he describes as involving resources through a well-developed contact

"I was surprised at the amount of expert resources Mr. Kucera was able to make available to a small business. Whether you are looking for industry trade experts or some other resource, he will get you to someone that knows .. He is valuable to his office, primson said.

Recognizing Kucera's role in the project's process, Johnson said Kucera was especially helpful in accessing information on the

This project gave me experience with other small businesses that I haven't been exposed to before, such as some of the de-tails required in projecting sales and business costs over several years," Johnson said.

Johnson and Kucera traveled to the Nebraska Timber site to make sure they knew what the clients wanted and to make sure they could provide it.

"The company was looking at the possibility of exporting their product. They needed a plan for a management tool to help focus on their industry and their market. The Nebraska Timber project was more difficult to research than other projects because it is harder to find information about the industry. Most of the other similar companies are located in the northwestern. United States. There are so few in Nebraska and tion, which is always a good source of information," Kucera said

"The company is a small one"

with only two individuals involved. They realized they needed a plan, however being small they didn't have time to do it. They were very helpful and put in a lot of information. Kucera said.

As an industrial sales manager, Johnson's project will be a way to help him understand and develop tools to help him complete research for his present job with the Waldbaum Company's operation in Wakefield. Johnson handles sales to industrial customers like restaurants, hotels, resorts and schools. Export documentation is for documents required to send products outside the United States to places such as bakeries in Europe and Asia. Another MBA project involved more personnel and policy work to be completed by Novotny, a 1973 Ord High School graduate. He has a bachelor of science in agricultural economics from University of Nebraska-Lincoln and a degree from the Electronic Computer Programming Institute in Omaha. He is scheduled to receive his MBA from Wayne State College in

"Not only the project, but the entire MBA program has been very friendly, pragmatic, and fun. This particular project needed to be done for the United Way any way, and this was a great oppor-tunity to work largely independently, for a good cause, and with guidance from Mr. Kucera. Many projects in the real world are of a similar nature," Novotny said.

"Personnel issues are many times the area that employers avoid because outcomes of employer/employee relationships turn out negative. However, I have learned that it is better to be pro-active in the area of relation-ships than reactive," Novotny said he discovered while working on Novotny developed a person-nel policy manual and handbook for the Columbus Area United Way, Inc. He was able to use the tools and background he has developed in both his job at a medical office, and his experience from consulting small business and professionals in the Columbus area.

Some of the information Novotny was responsible for included writing personnel policy, a personnel reference book, job descriptions, performance reviews, screening tests, applications and authorizations.

Novotny also met with the long-range planning committee and was chairman of the policy and administrative committee. He was also responsible for an in-service presentation to all of the agency directors of the Columbus United Way. The Columbus Area United Way serves 17 agencies such as boy scouts, the Domestic Violence Center, Student Health Fund and others.

Novotny is serving his fifth year with the Columbus Area United Way. He had also been on the

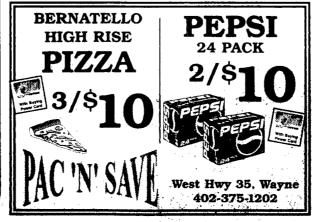

John Novotny

United Way Board of Rochester, Minn. for four years.

"My history has been in the banking and medical industries. There is a strong sense of civic involvement and attitude of helping people in both industries. United Way is an excellent organihelping Novotny said of his decision to become involved in the United Way.

"The United Way is very com mittee-oriented. The evolution of the project was very methodical, being reviewed by several working committees along the way. By the time it came to the full board for final approval, essentially there were no surprises to anyone, and it passed unanimously. It went into effect on Jan. 1. I will now do an in-service to the United Way agencies to report to our Board and many agencies may start using the manual as well, "Novotny said.

The Chicken Show Cook-off Contest was held on Henoween with eight contestants and 13 entries being judged. The contest was held to kick-off the Year 2000 Chicken Show Cookbook being compiled by the Chicken Show Committee. The cookbook will commemorate the 20th anniversary of the Chicken Show to be held July 7 and 8, 2000.

The winners for the Cook-Off Contest will be featured in the Year 2000 Chicken Show Cookbook. The Cook-Off Contest restricted recipes to chicken dishes or recipes containing four or more eggs.

First place winner of $50 was Roy Farrens who prepared Margarita Chicken Wrap Sandwich; second place winner of $30 was Ruth Smith who entered Light Pecan Pie and the third place winner of $20 was Kathy Berry who entered Festive Pumpkin Bars.

The three judges, David Kelley of Riley's Cafe'. Pub & Convention Center; Clark Cull of Geno's Steakhouse; and Ryan Hallowell of Papa Jug's Pizza had a tough job selecting the three winning recipes. The Cookbook Committee would like to extend a thank-you to all those participating in the Cook-Off Contest.

The Chicken Show Cookbook Committee is in the process of gathering recipes to be included in the cookbook. The cookbook will include all categories (Appetizers & Beverages; Soups, Salads & .Vegetables; Dishes Main Casseroles; Meat, Poultry & Seafood; Breads & Rolls; Pies, Pastry & Desserts; Cakes, Cookies & Candy; and This & That).

Everyone is encouraged to submit numerous recipes. The Cookbook Committee is working hard to make this commemorative cookbook as huge a success as this year's Chicken Show.

Recipe forms may be obtained from and then returned to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office, 108 West 3rd Street, Wayne, NE 68787. Any questions, please call the Wayne Chamber office at 402-375-2240. The deadline to submit recipes will be Aug. 31, 1999.

-----EditorialsA Look at Social Security

A 1999 Perspective on Social Security (Part 3)

During the first third of the 21st century, the number of Social Security beneficiaries will more than double from today's 45 million. Assuming benefit levels stay the same, that means many more dollars will be paid in the future.

In 1999, beneficiaries will be paid about $400 billion. By 2021, the federal Social Security Administration projects payments of $1.5 trillion. A decade later, in 2031, the total will soar to $2.7 trillion.

Funds on hand today, about $800 billion, aren't sufficient to meet future commitments to all current retirees — to say nothing of those who will retire in the future. In one sense, this shouldn't be shocking. That's because current workers always have paid retiree's benefits. But as the nation's population evolves to include many more retirees, employment taxes on workers will fall far short of meeting retirees' needs.

Ironically, during most of its 60-year history, Social Security has been almost too good to be true. The vast majority of retirees have received benefits from the system that exceed taxes paid plus interest on those taxes. No wonder Social Security has been a popular program.

But now the piper has to be paid. A number of alternatives are being considered. Let's hope that policymakers don't opt for avoiding action in the short run. To allow such a "solution" will only make decisions a generation from now that much difficult.

Three general approaches to saving Social Security have been proposed:

Reduce benefits to those currently retires, to those who retire in the future, or both. Direct cuts in benefits would be almost impossible to implement, short of a crisis. Therefore, any reduction in benefits probably would be subtle and implemented over time. For example, annual cost-of-living increases might be reduced slightly, moving away from lock-step increases with the consumer price index. Raising the retirement age, already set to inch up to age 67 by 2022, is another possibility.

— Increasing employment taxes, the traditional method for financing Social Security, also isn't a popular alternative. Solving the problem this way would require an increase in the tax rate from today's 12.4 percent to 18 percent by 2030 by 2030. A much more likely possibility is to use some of the burgeoning federal budget surplus to pay Social Security bills. However, the surplus could shrink drastically when — not if — the economy goes into a recession. In addition, powerful forces are competing for the surplus, notably to reduce the national debt and income taxes.

— A third alternative is to invest Social Security taxes where they'll earn a higher rate of return than the historic average of 2.3 percent, adjusted for inflation. Since 1900, the stock market has had an average return of seven percent, inflation-adjusted. But the risk of loss in common stocks also is higher.

Together, these approaches to saving Social Security appear to set the stage for a rousing public debate.

President hasn't visited

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association
What would you give to see and hear Bill Clinton, just once, in what I sometimes refer to as the Bob Kerrey mode*?

Not that I think that old BC could carry it off. However, it would be interesting, and perhaps refreshing, if he would give it a try. Take this business about Clinton

Take this business about Clinton being the only president in even remotely modern times who has failed to visit each of the states. Specifically, he has failed to visit Nebraska.

As GOP state Chairman Chuck Siegerson noted, this is a burden which most Nebraskans can shoulder without loss of sleep.

The official word from the White House on this issue was the president's failure to visit Nebraska was a fluke. An oversight.

Ohhhh, Bill. We believe you. It just slipped your mind. Like the time-you forgot-that you did-not-have sex with that woman (Miss Lewinski).

Now, wouldn't it be, as I previously said, refreshing, if the prezwere simply to pony up his real feelings.

Something like:

"Well, it's like this. No Democratic presidential candidate has carried Nebraska since LBJ in 1964. Before that, it was Roosevelt during the Great Depression. So, what do I care? I know I'm president of all the people; but heck, that Sen. Bob Kerrey out there is a guy I just don't like very much. He thinks I'm a bumbling sissy most of the time. Plus, he's always running off at the mouth and not listening to the pollsters.

"Oh, yeah. He went and endorsed Bill Bradley for the Democratic presidential nomination, too. I hated that! It's as if Kerrey couldn't tell that Al Core was alive. The simple fact is that as long as Kerrey is out there, and unless Nebraska has one of those Oklahoma-type tornadoes, I ain't going, and I don't give an intern's underweat what anyone thinks about it!"

Most Nebraskans, regardless of political persuasion, probably expect an outbreak of candor from sill-Clinton to come at about the time when cows start giving birth to kittens. And, some would say the odds heavily favor the latter over the former.

Do, however, keep this in mind. If there is one thing President Clinton is purported to care about, it is his image and his place in history. (I know, I know. I can't figure that one out, either. But, that's what "they" say).

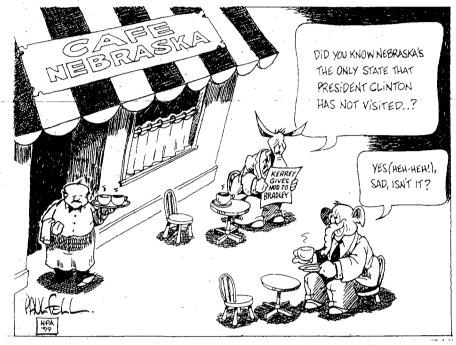

So, there is a chance that some advisor, 'pollster, yes-person, keeper of the Clinton flame will tell him that he will look like something we don't print in family newspapers if he fails to visit Nebraska before he leaves office.

Such a development would definitely give lots of Nebraskans something to think about. Like, what if they gave a rally for a visiting president and (comparatively) no one came?

SEE SEE

Of course, Nebraskans are far too polite for such a thing. The president would get an appropriate welcome from the good people of the Great Midwest.

Including Chuck Siegerson, a master of one-liners for the GOP. Something akin to: "Really! He's coming to Nebraska? That's great! Who told him where to find it?"

John Fuelberth won second place in an eight state contest sponsored by the National Science Teachers association. He was awarded a $25 savings bond for his work with soils and subsoils of Wayne county.

During a severe electrical storm last Wednesday, lightning struck the steeple of St. Anne's Catholic Church in Dixon. No fire resulted 39 years ago — July 21, 1960.

Concordia Lutheran Church will observe its seventy-fifth anniversary with a two-day program starting Saturday months away. Some experts predict on that date at midnight computers around the world including electrical supplies, bank machines, airport traffic control devices, and other technology based infrastructure will all stop.

The problem: computer clocks

The problem: computer clocks will rollover from 99 to 00 on New Year's Eve at midnight. Many computers aren't able to read 00 as 2000 and will assume it is 1900. Some experts expect the Y2K bug, as it is called, to impact many of our essential services across the country. For months, and in some cases years, computer programmers have been working to ensure these shutdowns don't happen.

Wayne State College's computer center and network services have been working diligently to put into place a plan which will eliminate most Y2K related problems on the WSC campus. The campus has undergone a three-phased process to aflow for this relatively comfortable level of assurance, says Dennis Linster.

Network Services is responsible for the design, installation, operation and maintenance of the campus-wide computing network, including all servers, communications wiring/fiber, operating systems, applications software and more. This responsibility extends to virtually all academic and administrative aspects of the campus and to the residence halls. The department is also responsible for the technical aspects of distance learning

We will not be able to provide Y2K compliance to all client-based systems. The older systems in themselves won't be compliant, but with some modification, they can be made compliant, said Linster.

Linster said this would not cause the user any inconvenience, adding the only thing it might do is give them an erroneous date and time stamp on a word processing document they write. He said this is not something that would be earth shattering to the user. "We can work through it," Linster said.

*Over the last two years we've upgraded almost all of the faculty computers on campus. By the time Y2K happens we will probably have all faculty into at least Windows 95." Linster said. Windows 95 is Y2K compliant with a patch from Microsoft, he noted. The newer operating systems required to run Windows 95 are prepared for Y2K and therefore won't be a problem on Jan. 1, Linster said another key component of the Y2K problem is the external services that come to campus. He said WSC personnel have been working for some time to ensure all of these are Y2K ready. These are products and services WSC is not responsible for, but are dependent upon such as electricity, Internet services and others. The staffs from network services and information management have worked with these and other organizations to establish Y2K readiness.

'The third, and perhaps most difficult, part of the Y2K scenario is avoiding all of the unknowns and putting to rest the many rumors about what Y2K will do to computers,' Linster said. According to Linster, many people have spent a great deal of time and effort working to ensure midnight Jan. 1, 2000 is no different than any other night for the campus' computer systems.

"I think Wayne State College is in good shape internally and by all accounts externally. That's the message we need to get out," Linster said. The biggest concern is how we handle the public relations aspect of concerns related to the Y2K problem as it effects the campus. The real difficulty, for us now, with Y2K is rumor," Linster said.

Linster said a series of on-campus presentations in the fall made by his staff and himself will deal with the Y2K issues affecting WSC. In addition, later this fall a simulated Y2K rollover will be done to test the system.

The campus mainframe system has been planing for Y2K since 1995, according to Ken Murphy, information systems director. The information systems office is responsible for the data bases and technical support to alumni, admissions, accounting, budget, financial aid and the registraris office. Murphy said they began a Y2K conversion of the student system almost five years ago.

"Our student information system, whi all critical software, is manufactured by a third party supplier," Murphy said. The company also supplies software to more the 1,200 colleges and unversities across, the country, including all of the State Colleges and Universities in Nebraska he said.

'They make sure it is tested and Y2K ready before they send it to us,' Murphy noted. He said all student data was converted by 1997 and the dates on the programs were extended to eight characters to ensure that when 12-31-99 become 01-01-2000, the computers won't miss a beat and records will be maintained. Murphy noted that most of his time the last three years has been spent preparing for Y2K.

"We've all spent a lot of time rewriting programs and making sure all aspects of our system are compliant," he said adding, "I am confident that they are."

Other colleges have done testing already and found no problems with the third-party software. When we do ours later this fall, I am sure we won't experience any problems either, Murphy said. It's going to be a much easier transition than the last two or three years have been getting ready for Y2K.

Another area of campus that has the potential to be effected by the Y2K "bug" is the heating system and electrical system. Both of these are computer controlled, but neither is directly controlled by the college, according to Ralph Newell, director of the physical plant.

"We get our electricity from the City of Wayne," Newell said. "They are Y2K ready and so are the third party sources we deal with for heating in the winter and other services we import to cam-

Newell said a heating service upgrade is scheduled to take place this fall. He also noted the elevators and telephone systems are Y2K ready across campus and have been inspected to assure their continued operation after echoed by Linster.

"At this point, Wayne State College is basically Y2K compliant," Linster said. "Our team will be here New Year's Eve to watch the system and deal with any problems that may arise. I am confident there wont be any," he coach John Mariganaro announced today that six area baseball standouts will attend Wayne State and join the baseball team as walk ons.

The group includes Brian Disch, Frankie Oviedo and Ryan Wetterberg of Norfolk, Kellin Bretschneider and Nate Weber of Pierce, and Andy Hahne of

"I am delighted to have six quality area players choose to play baseball at Wayne State College," Manganaro said. "All of them have been exceptional multi-sport athletes in high school.

I am confident that over their careers these players will make significant contributions to the success of Wayne State baseball program.

Disch has a .508 batting average for the Norfolk American Legion team this summer. He also has 22 doubles and five home runs to go along with 42 RBI. Oviedo is batting .408 with 29 RBI and six doubles.

Meanwhile, Wetterberg owns a .359 batting average along with 16 RBI, 10 doubles and 2 home runs. On the mound, Wetterberg has a 6-2 record with a 3.41 earned run average. He has struck out 45 batters in 42 1/3 innings.

Bretschneider and Weber are having strong seasons for the Pierce Legion average with 32 RBI. He has recorded 11 doubles and eight home runs Bretschneider also has a 7-1 record as a pitcher. In 47 innings he has struck out 63 batters.

Weber is batting .319 with 11 home runs and 36 RBI. On the mound, he has a 3-0 record with 23 strikeouts in 22 innings of work.

Hahne, who plays for the Laurel Coleridge American Legion team, has a .291 batting average. He has 13 doubles, one home run and 18 RBI. As a pitcher, Hahne has a 3-3 record with a 2.98 ERA. He has struck out 67 batters in only 39

These six players join three other individuals who signed with the Wildcats this summer. They are Tim Richt of Bellevue, Pat Zahourek of LeMars, Iowa and Andy Schultz of Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Richt is batting .456 with 31 RBI for the Bellevue Fantasy Team. Schultz, a junior college transfer, had a .426 average with nine home runs and 36 RBI for Northeastern Junior College in Sterling, Colo. Wayne State finished the 1999 season with a 27-22 overall record and a 15-7-mark in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference. The Wildcats placed second at the NSIC tournament.

Wayne's Rob Sweetland captured his first ever Open championship golf tournament with a two-under par 106 during Sunday's annual July Men's Open at the Wayne Country

Sweetland highlighted a number of local players that fared well in their respective flights.

The elementary physical educa-tion instructor fired rounds of 36-35-35 to win the event but the tournament wasn't decided until the final putt on hole 27

That's because Sioux City's Brett Kokenge pushed hard and nearly forced a playoff.

The duo was tied heading to the final hole and both were on the green in regulation on the par five,

Sweetland two-putted from the Tower tier to the upper tier where the pin was located whereas Kokenge three-putted from the

After the first 18 holes Sweetland was tied with Wayne's Doug Rose at one-under par 71. The fourth member of the championship foursome was former Wayne resident Bob Both he and Kokenge fired even ar rounds of 72 to set the stage for the final nine holes. Wynn's 72 included a double bogey on the 18th hole or he well could have been in sole possession of first place after the initial 18 holes.

Sweetland made a statement early in the final round by notching birdies on holes one and two. He then parred consecutively until the eighth hole where his 18-foot par putt went long, settling for a bogey Kokenge suffered a bogey on the first hole but holed out for an eagel on hole two from the right side of the green, which ironically, was the same side the pin was on.

He followed with pars until he reached the ninth hole.

Rose began the final nine with a tough luck double bogey before notching a birdie on number two.

Winside Juniors win first round of Area

WINSIDE-The Winside Junior Legion baseball team defeated Fort Calhoun in nine innings of play, 11-10 to advance to the semifinals of the Area Tournament in Wisner.

Dustin Wade was the winning pitcher with six innings of relief. Winside was out-hit by a 16-12 margin but Justin Koch laced a single in the bottom of the ninth inning and stole second. He scored on a gamewinning triple by Ryan Krueger.

Koch had a triple, double and two singles on the night with two rbi while Ryan Krueger had three singles and four rbi. Aaron Hoffman tripled and single and notched two rbi for the winners. Adam Hoffman was credited with an outstanding play in left field. Winside improved to

WSC men's cage team nets verbal recruits

WAYNE—Lee Sunsdahl, a senior at Neillsville high school in Neillsville, Wisconsin gave a verbal commitment to play college basketball at Wayne State College during his freshman year in the 2000-2001 season. The signing will be made official on November, 10, the first day of the early signing period.

Todd Kostermann, a 6-6 forward-center from West Delaware, Iowa also gave a verbal commitment to attend Wayne State to play basket-

As a junior, the 6-7 Sunsdahl averaged 20 points and nine rebounds per game in helping his team to a 15-7 record. "The coaches and school fit perfectly for what I was looking for as a student and an athlete," Sunsdahl said. "I'm glad I have this decision behind me."

According to Neillsville head coach Dean Zaleski, "athletically and academically it's a great fit for Wayne State and Lee. His ability to run the floor and shoot the ball will coincide well with WSC's style of play." Klostermann averaged 21 points and eight rebounds a game and led West Delaware to its first ever trip to the state tournament last season.

As a sophomore and junior, Klostermann led his team to a combined 35-9 record in which they won conference and district championships in both seasons. The Hawks went 19-3 last season and Klostermann was named outstanding player of the year in the Wamac Conference. He was tabbed first team all state by the lowa Newspaper Association and second team all state by the Des Moines Register.

"Nobody works harder than Todd at improving individual skills," his high school coach Dennis Geraghty said. "He has become a force in Northeast lowa as well as 3A schools around the state. Wayne State is getting a tremendous player and an outstanding person."

I chose Wayne State because they have a quality program with good tradition," Klostermann said. "Coach McDermott and the other coaches are just great, and they worked really hard at recruiting me. They are

Warning Signs Of Diabetes

Diabetes is called the silent disease because it can go undetected for years until irreversible damage has been done. If caught early, many complications can be prevented. Remember Phil Griess R.P. these warnings signs: overweight, underactive, over 45 years of age, excessive thirst, easily tired, history of diabetes in the family, frequent urination, sores that heal slowly. More than five million Americans have diabetes and don't' know it.

Intersection work will be delayed

The additional work required to widen the southeast, northeast and northwest quadrants of the newly constructed Highway 15 and 35 intersection will not be done in 1999, according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

It is anticipated by the Roads Department that this widening will take place early in the 2000 construction season and will be done under a separate contract.

This schedule will allow time for the necessary right-of-way to be purchased. The widening is required so the intersection will better accommodate large semi-trailer growing problem worldwide and now affects some 97 million 55% of adults. Americans Although a long-term approach to weight control must include exer cise and wise food choices, medicine can play a role. One medicine that is attracting attention is sibutramine (Meridia®). Unlike older appetite suppressants that often worked like amphetamine sibutramine acts more like an antidepressant in the body.

A study of more than 1,000 obese persons is described in a recent issue of Obesity Research The majority of individuals who took sibutramine lost a "signifi-cant amount of weight." And losses in the 5 to 10% range were accompanied by these improvements in blood fats; reduction in total cholesterol, LDL cholesterol, and Triglycerides; increase in beneficial HDL cholesterol.

the summer. The USDA has provided the following guidelines to follow so that we keep food safe from food poisoning.

Cook thoroughly-

Meat and poultry cooked on a grill often browns very fast on the outside. Use a meat thermometer to be sure the food has reached a safe internal temperature. Whole poultry should reach 180 degrees F and breasts, 170 degrees F: Juices should run clear.

Hamburgers made of ground meat or poultry should reach 160 degrees F. Beef, veal, and lamb steaks, roasts, and chops can be cooked to 145 degrees F. All cuts of pork should reach 160 degrees F.

Never partially grill meat or poultry and finish cooking later. Cook food completely to destroy harmful bacteria. When reheating take-out foods or fully cooked meats like hot dogs, grill to 165 degrees, or until

Keep hot foods hot, cold goods

After cooking meat and poultry on the grill- at home or on a picnickeep it hot until served. Keep the cooked meats hot by setting them to the side of the grill rack, not directly over the coals where they would eventually overcook. At home, the cooked meat can be kept hot in a 200 degree F oven, in a chafing dish or slow cooker, or on a warming tray. After cooking, hold hot food at 140 degrees F or warmer.

Serving the food-

When taking food off the grill, don't put the cooked items on the same platter which held the raw meat. Any bacteria percent in the raw meat juices could contaminate the safely cooked meat or other grilled foods. In hot weather (90 degrees and above), food should never sit out for more than one hour.

*Do not reuse marinade unless boiled

*Pre-cook immediately before

placing good on grill

*Do not use the same platter and utensils for raw and cooked meats Safe smoking techniques-

Grilling slowly over indirect heat in a closed charcoal cooker is called "smoking." It is used to add flavor to large cuts of meat and keep them tender. It can require up to eight hours, depending on the meat's size

Wood chips such as mesquite are used for additional flavor. Using dry smoke; wet them later for sustained Center the food on the grill over the water pan, close the lid and keep the grill vents open. The temperature in the smoker should be maintained at 250 to 300 degrees F for safety. Add about nine coals every one to two hours.

Does grilling pose a cancer

Some studies have suggested there may be a cancer risk related to eating food cooked by such high heat cooking techniques as grilling, frying, and broiling. Based on present research findings, eating moderate amounts of grilled meats like fish, meat, and poultry cooked without charring to a safe, yet medium temperature does not pose a problem. To avoid charring. microwave meat partly done immediately before placing it on the grill and remove visible fat that can drip on the coals and cause a flame-up

Space doesn't allow me to elaborate on teaching methods today. And 'I know the Florence Nightingale schools are a thing of the past. So, I won't bore you, or try to resurrect the "good old days."

I'll just add one thing: my tuition was $390. That covered board and room, uniforms, books, and meals We earned it all, working at the hospital; nights, evenings, weekends, holidays; and learned early on that it was open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It was an "on the joh" education, and a pretty good one I'm definitely a product of the 30's; they were my high school and nurses training days. When I say nurses training, I mean something entirely different from the nursing education of today

These were Florence Nightingale schools, a three-year apprenticeship to a hospital, done in sequence, with the hospital giving dollar credit to the school for the hours worked y the students:

We lived in a dormitory near the hospital, with house mothers, early curfews, locked doors, and strict rules. Freshmen were on the top floor (no elevators) juniors below them and seniors in the nicest rooms (when not on affiliation)

. No one could marry or live out side the dorm until six months before graduation, in August of the third year; thus, hopefully, insuring there were no babies arriving before quadruation either.

Wakefield News -Mrs. Walter Hale 402-287-2728

SENIORS NOW HAVE POOL BOOM The Carriage House located at the rear of the Haskell House has been expanded and remodeled into a pool room for the Senior Citizen Center.

With the aid of a grant from the Gardner Foundation, an eight foot addition was built on the South side keeping the same roof line as what existed on the north side of the building.

Although the outside still looks like it did in the early 1900s when it was used to store the carriage and house the horses, the building inside has been enclosed and finished into a pool room with carpet, air conditioning, heat and restroom facilities. The new facility also has been equipped with two new pool tables.

The room was ready for its first tournament last Tuesday when Wakefield hosted Emerson. The men of the center play in four tournaments a month with area senior centers, and practice every day, according to Director Mardell Holm.
"We hope to expand play with more centers and also include the women of the community," said Mrs. Holm.

"Visitors are welcome to come see the new pool room," Mrs. Holm added.

BLOOD BANK HELD

Forty-nine people volunteered and a total of 40 units of blood were collected at the Wakefield Community Blood Drive at the Legion Hall on July 7. With his donation, Kenneth Thomsen became a 12-gallon donor. Others reaching gallon marks were Patrick Nicholson at nine gallons; Andrea Lundahl and Deldean Biorkland each became a one-gallon donor.

Four people donated for the first time. There were Marilyn Abts, Janelle Eaton, Paul Eaton and Esther Oberg.

WSC receives citation

Wayne State College's 1998-99 Viewbook has received a Citation of Excellence from the Omaha hapter of the American chapter of the American Marketing Association. The award as presented at the Association's Pinnacle Awards banquet in Omaha, and recognized WSC in the Communications category for non-profit organizations.

"We are pleased to receive this award," said Mark Stubbs, director of college relations at Wayne State. It is the first time we have entered the AMA's competition in recent memory and we were thrilled when we were notified weid been recognized.

Stubbs said the award for the Viewbook was earned by a team of people from on campus, as well as the printing company and pho-tographer who worked on the publication.

concept development, design, and printing of this publication deserves a great deal of credit for this accomplishment,* Stubbs said.

The Pinnacle Awards competition is sponsored annually by the AMA to recognize member and non-member companies and individuals in the area who display ex-cellence in marketing. Winning entries are honored for communications programs which have a strong strategy, clear objective and desirable results. The competition is open to health care, non-profit, small, medium, or large organizations in and around Omaha.

The American Marketing Association is an international, professional society of individual members with an interest in the practice, study and teaching of marketing.

God looked into his Garden And found an empty space,

He then looked down upon the earth and saw your tired face He put His arms around you and lifted you to rest. God's Garden must be beautiful,

He only takes the best. He knew that you might never be well on earth again. He saw the road was getting rough,

And the hills were hard to climb So he closed your weary eyelids and whispered, "Peace be thine" It broke our hearts to lose you,

But you didn't go alone, For part of us went with you The day God called you home.

Ken "Dutch" Sitzman was a devoted family man and public servant who was loved and admired by many. He will surely be missed. We wish to thank everyone for the many prayer chains from several churches. osaries from St. Mary's, for the wonderful support from the community hospitals and friends, the meals, groceries, flowers, cards, visits and monies during "Dutch's" illness and at his passing. God bless all of you

> Reah, Annette, Cindy & Jeff Sitzman, Joni Woldt & Families

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department wishes to thank all of those who participated in any way, through work and/or donations, in the recent Kenneth "Dutch" Sitzman benefit car wash and omelet feed and through the canisters, which are still available at various Wayne locations

We are grateful for the cards, phone calls and memorials we received at the time of our sisters' death. Also, thanks to the Hillcrest Care Center Staff for their loving care and concern.
