Counties provide crime victim notification sytem

Nine counties in northeast Nebraska will begin providing a crime notification system known as VINE (Victim Information and Notification Everyday).

VINE is an advanced computerized network that automatically notifies victims of crime when an offender is released from jail or prison, escapees or is transferred to another facility.

"We are pleased to introduce the VINE system in Wayne County," Wayne County Sheriff Leroy Janssen

"Crime victims may live in fear of being re-victimized by an offender. Providing victims with an opportunity to monitor an inmate's whereabouts in jail or prison may give them peace of mind and a sense of regaining some control over their lives," Sheriff Janssen said.

The following northeastern Nebraska counties join 36 other online with the VINE system.Burt, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Saunders, Thurston, Washington and Wayne. VINE is scheduled to be available in all 93 counties by the end of 1999

"VINE is a 24 hour victim assistance hotling that has been put into place in many cities and counties across the country," Governor Mike Johanns said.

"It is important that the state of Nebraska provide this valuable, potentially life-saving service to all of its citizens. I urge any one of you who have a concern about an offender who is in a Nebraska jail or prison to make use of this system as it becomes available," .Covernor Johanns added.

Michael Overton, Director of the Nebraska Crime Commission Statistical Analysis Center, was in Wayne on Aug. 23 for demonstration of the new system

"Crime_victims_registered_with ever a change in the offender's incarceration occurs. VINE automatically calls the victim, with notification calls continuing every half hour for 24 hours until contact is successfully made," Overton said.

Following notification, the victim enters a Personalized Identification Number (PIN code) over the telephone to confirm that they have received the information

"Far too often, victims of crime, particularly violent crime, are re-victimized either physically or psychologically when they are confronted by their perpetrators who were just released from jail, prison or placed on bond," Overton said.

"VINE gives us a very successful means of reducing re-victimization," he added

Through the VINE system, crime victims and others may also request information about an offender incarcerated in any jail or prison

A victim can easily access information about where and when an inmate is incarcerated by calling the toll-free national VINE hotline, open 24 hours a day. The VINE Call Center, based in Louisville, Ken., provides the information requested, available in both English and

"Having this type of information readily available and accessible, day or night, is critical not only for the victim's peace of mind, but also personal safety," Sheriff Janssen said.

"Tragedy may be avoided simply through knowledge of the offender's whe sabouts, allowing for necessary precautions to be taken by law enforcement and the victim, Sheriff Janssen added.

Elementary ready for new school year

Of the Herald

With the major part of renovation done, Wayne West Elementary School now stands ready for the 1999-2000 school year to begin.

Part of the school board meeting on Monday night included a tour of the elementary school which was led by Dr. Reinert. Board members, faculty, and staff were on hand to view changes and improvements.

Some of the finished projects at the elementary include new landscaping, new window frames, new heating and air conditioning units installed, new piping completed in existing tunnels, and completed installation of electricity to exhaust

Projects at the elementary yet to be finished include installing glass into new window frames, hooking up boilers, and finishing installation of transformers.

Plans from Bahr, Vermeer and Haecker will be available at the next meeting on Aug. 30. Schematic plans are to be 95 percent complete at that time. The schematic drawings will include alternations to insure that the high school renovation budget can be maintained expanded offerings, however one constant is the really great students that attend. It's fun to hear from past campers about how much they enjoyed their experience with us and how they continue to include music in their lives. We hope to have contributed to that achievement," O'Leary said.

Attaining achievement at Music Camp is possible through a number of opportunities which O'Leary points out.
"Music instruction includes not

THE GREAT ARCHWAY HAS ARRIVED

By Governor Mike Johanns

Dear Nebraska Neighbors

For the past several months, large colorful billboards along Interstate 80 near Kearney have signaled the coming of The Great River Road Archway Monument, more commonly known to most Nebraskans as the Kearney Arch.

On August 16th, after months of planning and construction, this massive structure, spanning more than the length of a football field and reaching eight stories into the air, was rolled into place over Interstate 80. With a

You might say the story of Arch is years in the making. Four years ago, Frank B. Morrison who served our state as Governor in the early 1960's had an idea to establish a memorial to the early pioneers who traveled west through the Platie River Valley. With the help of J. Greg Smith of Omaha, the concept of a great Archway over the

Since that time, a great deal of work has gone into making this dream a reality. The Great Platte River Road Memorial Foundation was established, numerous plans were made and implemented, and private funds were raised through the sale of municipal revenue bonds in June of 1998. And now, four years later, Nebraska is about to open one of most impressive historical monuments in the country

Some might note, however, that the story of the Arch is really decades, if not conturnes in the making. Those traveling west on Interstate 80 today are following much of the same path that the pioneers did so many years ago. What began in those times as a dirt road grew first into the brick paved Lincoln Highway, then U.S. Highway 30, and eventually today's Interstate 80.

The site near Kearney where the Arch rests is also the point where several historical paths crossed including the California Trail, the Mormon Trail, and the Oregon Trail. In addition, the Pony Express, the Overland Stagecoach, the Union Pacific line, the Western Union Telegraph, the first transcontinental telephone line, and years later the first fiber optic communications cable all followed The Great Platte River Road.

The pioneers were not the only group whose migration pattern included central Nebraska. For millions of years Sandhill Cranes have been coming to the area during February and March. When the Arch opens, its staff will play an important role in providing information about the crane migration throughout the year.

The Great River Road Archway Monument a monument to the courage, the hard work, the perseverance, and the pioneer spirit that not only explored the early American frontier and built our great state, but which also remains today in the hearts and minds of people throughout Nebraska

Beyond its historical significance, however, the Arch has the potential to have a tremendous economic impact on Nebraska today The Arch will lure thousands of visitors to Kearney and central Nebraska. They will stay the might, cat meals, buy gas, and spend money--which will help to boost the local economy. They will also be encouraged to explore other attractions and museums in the area which will keep tourist dollars in Nebraska.

Time will tell whether the Arch will be mentioned in the same breath with other famous national attractions such as the St. Louis Arch or San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge. However, The Great Platte River Road Archway Monument will be, at the very least, an impressive celebration of who we were yesterday, who we are today, and what we can be tomorrow in this "Nebraska United."

Values are debated

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

just when a fellow might think that everything that can be said HAS been said about the system for levying local property taxes, along comes W. Don Nelson. Investment banker, adviser to governors, constitutional scholar and thinker-at-large, Nelson has offered what he believes to be a workable answer to some decades old questions. Specifically, those questions having to do with the best way to decide the value of property that is subject to local property taxes. Nelson's answer: self-assess-Nelson's answer: self-assess-ment. Let the people who own the property declare its value for tax purposes. The mechanics of the Nelson plan seem simple enough. "Once each year, the county assessor would send each of us a valuation postcard. We merely write in the value of our merely write in the value of our real property, notarize it and mail it back. Our real property taxes are then based on that self-de-clared value. Each year we get a chance to change the value.

To the lesser mind, Nelson's plan sparks an immediate thought eople will cheat. What can you be thinking? Nelson is thinking ahead. His proposal would mean that once a land owner says "this is what the property is worth," the landowner would then have to live

If a government entity takes property to build a road, or what-ever, the condemnation award would be based solely on what the owner said it was worth in the self assessment

Insurance losses would be limyou valued your house at half its worth to escape some taxes, the valuation figure you used would be all that the insurance company owed you if the place was destroyed by fire.

And then, Nelson offers my personal favorite among his proposals to keep 'em honest.

"A windfall-profits tax would be imposed ... if I sold my real property for an amount in excess of its declared value." The windfall tax would be such that the taxes you would have previously paid would be recaptured, along with interest and a penalty.

Nelson made his plan public through an essay in the July issue

GRASSROOTS NEBRASKA, monthly, regional journal that has expanded its contents from arts, history and books to include political commentary and reportage. Nelson's sales pitch for the plan is understandable.

"What could be easier? No appraisals. No visits by government employees. No haggling. No appeals. No angry phone calls or threats. I believe 85 percent of us would be more honest and accurate than the current system. And think of the government expense we could eliminate ...

Well, go ahead and think about it. I'll do the same. Right after I e-mail this column to appropriate members of the Legislature

Everyone needs something to think about between now and the bowl game!

Jack Guthrie of Odessa, right, and Gordon Nelson of Wayne, were able to spend time reminiscing about the time they spent together as part of the only platoon ever to be made up entirely of men from the same state. Guthrie has spent a considerable amount of time and money to put together a display honoring those in his platoon and the Korean War in general. Guthrie takes his display on the road several times a year, helping to draw attention to what he calls

Koren vet brings display to Wayne

Among the exhibits at this year's Wayne County Fair was a tribute to* the only platoon in the U.S. Marine Corp made up exclusively of Nebraska men.

Jack Guthrie of Odessa came to Wayne, in part because one of the men in the platoon, Gordon Nelson, and Guthrie were among those in the platoon.

In 1951 a total of 80 young men joined the First Platoon of the Fifth Division of the U.S. Marine Corp. Five of the men were injured during training but the remaining 75 men were sent to Korea.

Following their three years of service, the men returned to Nebraska, many to farm or be involved in other family businesses.

"For 35 vears I didn't talk to any of those men. However, several years ago I got the idea for a Korean memorial exhibit," Guthrie said.

Guthrie began the process of locating those in his platoon nine years ago. He found that four of the men had been killed in Korea and several others died as a result of wounds received while in Korea.

found that more than 30 of the original 75 platoon members have died and nearly 50 percent still live in Nebraska.

Among those still living and still in Nebraska is Gordon Nelson of Wayne.

The two men spent time during this year's Wayne County Fair reminiscing about their time in the service and what has happened in their lives in the last 48 years since enlist-

Nelson served in the military for four years, three months and 17 days before returning to this area.

The platoon members have been meeting for an annual reunion in Kearney for several years.

Men come from Japan, California and other places across the country. The Wayne County Fair is the only fair Guthrie has taken his display this year but it is set up at his home for visitors to view.

Because of the reception he received, he intends to return to Wayne for next year's fair.

Third time's the charm after back-to-back runner-up finishes Shanks wins club golf tourney

Of the Herald

After finishing runner-up in the last two club tournaments, lim Shanks found the winner's circle much to his liking, Sunday in the annual Wayne Country Club Men's Club Tournament.

But it hardly came easily

Shanks overcame a three-stroke deficit in the final nine holes only to be caught on the final hole by defending champion Doug Rose and Matt Ruehling. The sudden death playoff went to the third hole before Shanks' 160-yard eight iron off the tee landed about 18 inches from the hole.

Ruehling's tee shot was about 14 feet from the cup but his birdie attempt went long and he conceded the putt to Shanks.

"It feels great," Shanks said. "The monkey is off my back after finishing second for two straight years. It was a strong field with Doug Rose, Matt Ruehling and Ryan Sturm all pressing the entire way.

In fact, after four holes of the championship nine was played, there was a four-way tie. Shanks played the final nine holes at twounder par 34 with birdies on two, four and five and a bogey on nine Rose also fired a 34 with birdies on two, four and nine and a bogey on Shanks and Rose had to catch Ruehling who fired a one-under par 71 on the first 18 holes including the day's lowest score for nine holes at three-under 33 on the back nine.

"You always think you have a chance," Shanks said of starting the final nine holes down by three strokes. The important thing is to keep focus and don't lose your emotion. I was focusing on hitting greens in regulation and putting my approach shots to with in range of making birdies."

Shanks said he got through his tough holes, three, six and eight at even par and felt comfortable. He had a two stroke lead heading into hole number nine.

"All I wanted to do was hit the ball right," Shanks said. "I really blocked the left out because I didn't want an out-of-bounds penalty. Unfortunately I didn't look at all my options when I went right and ended up punching out from behind a tree instead of knocking a shot up the right rough."

Shanks found himself about 220 yards away from the par five ninth and laying two. He used a fourwood and found the bunker. His bunker shot was solid but the ball rolled down to the lower tier of the green and he two-putted for a

Rose meanwhile, smoked a threeiron 215 yards onto the top tier of the green in two and he nearly sank the 20-foot eagle putt but tapped in for an easy birdie

Ruehling hit a 25-yard pitch shot to with in inches of the hole on nine and he too, tapped in for an easy birdie which forced the three-person playoff

Shanks and Ruehling tapped in for easy par's on hole one and Rose had a chance to win it all with a 14foot putt for birdie. "I had the same putt earlier in the day and I just missed so I knew exactly how I wanted to putt it this time," Rose "The only thing was I hit it too hard and it lipped out."

On hole two Shanks nearly chipped in for eagle on the par five, leaving his ball about two inches from the hole. Ruehling appeared to be in trouble as he pitched his ball past the pin and on to the fringe, leaving himself about 15 feet from the pin and having to make the putt for birdie---which he did.

Rose missed his birdie putt from less than 10 feet which ended his tournament in third place with an even par 108.

"Matt really played great golf all day," Shanks said. "And Rose, well his second shot on nine from 215 yards out was probably the best shot anyone's ever thrown at me. It landed just one foot from the pin before it rolled. It was just some quality golf."

Ruehling, a member of the Wayne State golf team said he knew early in the day he would play well

"I have been battling some back problems," Ruehling said. "On the driving range that morning I felt pretty good and when I began drawing my driver I knew it would be a good day."

Ryan Sturm finished two strokes back of Shanks, Ruehling and Rose with a 110 while Gary Volk placed sixth with a 114, edging Warty Summerfield with the same score. Sweetland edged Greg McDermott for eighth place as each

In flight play, Reggie Yates captured the first flight with a 78 while Terry Munson tallied an 81. Don Preston carded an 82 and Crain Sharpe, 85, Randy Simonsen won the second flight with a 78 and Bob Keating was second at 79 while lim Broders carded an 82 and Tim Steve Muir was the champ of the fifth flight with an 85 while Ray Novak was second with an 86. Roger Reikofski finished third with an 89 and Wayne Wessel, fourth with a 90.

Denny Lutt won the sixth flight with an 84 with Jerry Dorcey placing second with an 85. Steve Becker edged Darrel Metzler for third place with an 88. Matt Wriedt won the seventh flight with an 89 while Don Koeber placed second with a 92. Glen Nichols was third at 94 and Doug Carroll fourth at 96.

Mark Heithold won the eighth flight with a 92, edging Marv Nelson with the same score. Lowell Schardt, was third with a 93 white Joe Salitros was fourth with the same score

The ninth flight was netted out due to a large difference in handicaps and Ron Whitt was the winner with a 102. Kevin Heithold placed second with a 101 and Mike Wynn was third at 99. Brad Jones placed fourth with a 104

THE WOMEN'S CLUB TITLE was won by Sandra Sutton who had the lowest gross score of 81. Sutton received the trophy for her efforts but with the large difference in handicap in the flights, tournament prizes were netted out.

Molly Melena was crowned champion of the first flight for the women with a 90 scratch score

Sherman's champs again

Of the Herald

Sherman's Construction slow pitch men's softball team captured another city championship after defeating Quality Foods/Wayne Herald in the championship tilt, recently.

Sherman's won the league tournament two days after capturing the Nebraska USSSA Men's Slow Pitch State Softball Tournament in Omaha in the E-Division—thus qualifying for the Regional Softball Tournament over Labor Day Weekend in Hutchinson, Kansas.

Sherman's opened leadue tourney play with a strong challenge from White Dog Pub but prevailed. 15-12. White Dog led 10-7 after four innings of play before Sherman's rallied to win by three with out having to bat in the seventh inning.

Dom Console led the team with three hits with Al Nissen belting a home run. Bob Sherman, Jeff Sherer, Karl Laursen, Mark Penlerick and Dennis Nelsen each had two Rustv Hamer led White Dog with four hits while Herman Carroll had three. Paul Dean blasted a pair of home runs.

In the first of three games with Quality Foods/Wayne Sherman's edged their counterparts, 15-14 after scoring two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Bob Sherman led the winners with two home runs and a single while Karl Laursen and Mark Penlerick each had one homer.

Troy Bruns led QFC/Wayne Herald with a home run and two base hits while Kevin Maly homered and singled. Aaron Schuett also had two QFC/Wayne Herald came back through the loser's bracket and faced Sherman's again in the finals with a must win two situation. Sherman's scored four times in the first inning to take a quick lead but it was QFC/Wayne Herald that responded in a big way, defeating Sherman's, 22-7 with the game ending early due to the 15-run rule.

Karl Laursen homered and singled to lead Sherman's with Dan Schock netting a double and single

QFC/Wayne Herald was led by

Kevin Maly with two home runs and a double while Troy Bruns had a homer and two singles.

A second game was held immediately following the first one and Sherman's came from behind to post a 14-12 victory to claim the league tournament title.

Sherman's sprinted to a 6-0 lead after the top half of the first inning only to have QFC/Wayne Herald score 10 in the second to take a 10-7 lead, and QFC took a 11-7 lead to the fifth inning. Sherman's scored once in the fifth and three in the sixth to tie the game but QFC took a 12-11 lead to the seventh inning. Don Mueller's bases loaded single with two outs scored two runs to give Sherman's a three-run lead with QFC/Wayne Herald still coming to bat.

Sherman's pitcher Don Sherman retired the side in order in the seventh inning.

Karl Laursen led the winners with home run, and three base hits while Dan Schock homered, doubled and singled. Todd Dorcey also had three hits.

Kevin Maly led QFC/Wayne Herald with three hits while Aaron Schuett and Tim Jacobsen each Sherman's improved their season record to 60-

Sandra Sutton found her way back to the winner's circle after winning the women's club tournament with the low gross score of 81. Sutton is a four-time winner of the club tournament but it's her first since 1996 when she repeated from 1995. Her first club title came in 1990. Sutton finished with rounds of 41-40.

Ryan Sturm hits his sand wedge to the first-green during the men's club tournament. Sturm finished fourth overall.

Ted Ellis keeps his head down while teeing off on the first hole of the final nine holes of Sunday's tournament.

white Tami Diediker was second with an 87 followed by Sutton.

In the second flight Liz Reeg won with a scratch score of 106 which netted out to 62.2 while Leslie Schulz was second at 104 and 65.9. Lori Salberg placed third with a 124 and 78.4

Sue Denton won the third flight with a scratch score of 87 and a net of 67.9 while Shelley Preston was second at 126 and 71.6. Teri Bowers was third at 109 and 79.7.

Army Bowers won the women's nine-hole event with a 57 scratch score which netted out to 35.8 while Donna Trampel was second with a 63 and a 41 net score.

Sutton bagged her fourth championship in the women's club tournament in the 90's

She won it in 1990 and was a repeat champ in 1994-1995 ("just like the Huskers, back-to-back," she chuckles).

"It was kind of a rocky start," Sutton said. "I dubbed my tee shot on number one and then almost put my second shot out-of-bounds before I recovered for a bogey."

She fired a 41 on the front nine and led Tami Diediker by just one

"I bogeyed hole 10 and Tami parred it which tied us," Sutton said. "I decided right there that if I want to win this thing I have to play aggressively and not just play not to

Her personal pep talk worked as she played the final nine holes just three over par including a birdie on

"My chipper failed me today," she said. "I'm happy with the fact I had no double bogey's but a little disappointed in my score since I had shot a 36 just two days earlier."

THE JUNIOR CLUB championship was held earlier in several divisions with the overall champions being Klinton Keller and Kari Harder.

Keller fired rounds of 35-35 from the blue tees for a two-under par 70 while Harder went 48-52 for a 100 to edge Monica Novak by one stroke.

Amy Harder placed third with a 105. Adam Ellingson placed second to Keller with a 73 including a twounder par 34 on the back nine while Mike Varley was third with an 81.

In the boys first flight, Ric Volk won the title with an 85, edging Eric Sturm who shot the same score

In the boys nine hole event Trevor Krugman placed first with a 47 with Brad Frevert placing second with a 52 while Derek Carroll finished with

Wayne State volleyball team set to begin conference play

By Kevin Peterson

Sharon Vanis' Wayne State women's volleyball team posted an 18-20 record in 1998 and from that team five seniors graduated including starters Jessie Pontow, Renee Fuhr and Amy Johnson.

That in addition to this year's team consisting of six freshman, four sophomores and three seniors and one would expect possible growing pains.

NOT EXACTLY!

The Wildcats will also enter a new era of volleyball at Wayne State College as they begin play in the Northern Sun Conference.

"Despite the fact we'll start playing in the new conference this season it isn't like we haven't played teams from the conference in recent years," Vanis said. "We've seen them all with the exception of Minnesota-Crookston and St. Pad."

The seventh year coach isn't about to make the 'Cats debut into the league a dismal one

"There's no doubt we're a young team but we have a solid corp of strong players that I think will compete very well on this level," Vanis said. "We've set our goals as finishing no worse than third or fourth in the conference."

Vanis said her last two recruting classes have been very strong and despite having three returning seniors in Wendy Miller, Jodie Larsen and Melissa Frahm, it's her sophomore tandem of Lindsey Koch and Melanie Kershaw that have the most

The 'Cats have seven returning letterwinners including a trio of starters with sophomore outside hitter Lindsey Koch (Norfolk), sophomore setter Melanie Kershaw (Grand Island) and senior middle hitter Jodie Larsen (Tekamah-Herman).

Koch averaged 3.0 kills per game last year which was second on the team but she led the team in digs at 3.5 per game.

Kershaw returns to her setter position—a place where she started every match last season as a true freshman, averaging 10.3 assists per game and 2.8 digs per game.

Vanis said Kershaw has blossomed in the confidence category since last season. "Mel had a great freshman season but she's grown tremendously since then," Vanis said. "At 5-9 she's a threat as a setter, blocker and hitter."

Speaking of height, WSC will not be the short kids on the block as no player on the 13-person roster stands below 5-9 and four are 6-0 or Larsen led WSC in blocks last season with 97. She transferred to Wayne State last season and began ing spot by mld-season.

Senior Melissa Frahm is expected to start at outside hitter. The Blair native was hurt part of last season but is healthy and ready to go this Sophomore Jessie Erwin will look to back up Frahm at outside hitter as the Laurel-Concord high school graduate moves from middle hitter.

Freshman Kyla Batten will look to back up Lindsey Koch at outside hitter. Batten, is a 5-9 native of Council Returning letterwinners Wendy Miller (Winside) and Manni Frerichs (Elkhorn) plus newcomer Laurie Schroeder (Laurel) look to lead the right side hitting attack.

Freshman Rayna Nelson (Homer) looks to contribute immediately at the middle hitter position

Two other freshman will also challenge for playing time as Kasey Meyer (Wisner-Pilger) looks to back

At 5-11, Meyer could also see court time as a right side hitter. Janel Moody (Sioux City) will back up Jodie Larsen as a middle hitter or she could be used to help on either the outside hitting position or right side

Heading in to Tuesday's homeopener with South Dakota the Wildcat starters look to be Mélissa Jodie Larsen, Melanie Kershaw and Wendy Miller but Vanis is quick to point out that all 12 players will contribute.

Freshman Janeen Goedken, a 6-2 player from Cedar Rapids, Iowa may redshirt her freshman season.

Vanis' team will likely run a 5-1 with multiple variations including a modified 6-2.

Picking a favorite in the conference Vanis sees Minnesota-Duluth as the team to beat after winning five consecutive conference titles with Bernidji State and Southwest State as contenders along with her Wildcats.

"We're looking to win 20-plus games but we know it will be tough with our schedule with the likes of UNO, UNK, Morningside along with our conference foes," Vanis said. "We have 12 home matches which is the most we've had since I've been here."

editors note: The pocket schedules that have been distributed have the wrong starting times listed in seven matches including three

The Minnesota-Crookston match on Oct. 2 at home will start at 5 p.m. while the Winona State match in Wayne on Oct. 23 will be played at 5 p.m. The Bemidji State contest on Nov. 13 will be played at 3 p.m.

ing as one of five interns sponsored the Nebraska Society of Washington, D.C. this summer. Junck is interning in the office of Sen. Bob Kerrey.

The Nebraska Society is a non-profit organization in Washington that promotes Nebraska in the nation's capital and helps transplanted Nebraskans maintain close ties with their home state.

Some of the highlights each year are the annual Taste of Nebraska party where hundreds Nebraskans in Washington gather to watch Nebraska football and eat Nebraska food like Valentino's Pizza and Runza Hut Runzas, the Distinguished Nebraskan Award, and a congressional reception honoring the congressional delegation and staff Junck is a senior at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. He is majoring in political science and after graduation hopes to attend law school.

The Society's intern program, which was expanded in 1998, gives five young Nebraskans the chance to live and work in Washington each summer. The interns work in each of the state's five congressional offices assisting with various office duties for four to six weeks. Each intern receives a stipend of $2,000.

The intern program is made possible though contributions from sustaining and patron members of the Society. Interns are selected based on their academic achievement and interest in working in Washington.

Nebraskans interested in contributing or participating in the intern program can call the Nebraska Society at (202) 338-2912 visit their website at www.nebraskasociety org.

Poisonous Plants

Poison Ivy, Oak, and Sumac can be found throughout the continental U.S. All three produce similar reactions. If you're allergic to one, you are probably allergic to the others. The reaction is to the oil which, when it touches the skin, penetrates in minutes. Within 12 to 48 hours, a red, itchy rash appears, following by blisters that weep. A common way to get poison by is from your cat or dog that has run though it. Over the counter medication is available for itching. Severe reactions may require a visit to ur doctor for a prescription treatment

You're never too old for Character Counts!

You may recall reading about a program that was adopted by Nebraska Cooperative Extension known as Character counts! This program was developed by the Josephson Institute of Ethics which is based out of California.

The purpose of this program is to teach six pillars of character: trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring and citizenship. But more than that, the program tries to show those pillars relate to everyday life decisions, and teach ways of applying the pillars at home, work and in the community.

Although the University of Nebraska 4-H Character Counts! program is designed for preschool through teenagers, the core values examined in the curriculum might also benefit adults. It is hard to make moral decisions all the time. especially when one knows no one is watching. If the ATM spits out an extra $20, it is easy to rationalize that the bank surely won't miss it. And, if the clerk at the store hands extra change, what's wrong with putting that money in the and calling it a incident of good

Not surprisingly, the majority of one's moral failings come as the result of money; there's an element of truth to the saying that "money is the root of all evil." Some may think it is not so bad as long as someone else is doing something worse. Competition, as well as the desire for more money, can easily tempt a person in making an unethical deci-

An ethical person does more than the law requires, and less than the law allows. Rather than testing the boundaries of what one can get away with, a person of character acts as his or her own moral watchdog. This reassures trustworthiness building a reputation of honesty and reliability by having the

Follow the Golden Rule. Treat others with respect, no matter what they look like or how they choose to live their lives. If somebody does not grant the same courtesy, deal with them peacefully.

Take responsibility for actions and for shortcomings. When a mistake is made, do not blame the circumstances, and do not fault other people. It is not a crime to error once in a while, as long as one is always prepared to deal with the consequences.

Even adults sometimes have to remember to play nice. The rules from childhood still apply-share, take turns, do not take advantage of others. Do not let greed or materialism cloud one's judgement of what

Care for others. It is easy to get so caught up in one's own problems that other's feelings ignored. Caring is not just an emotion, it is an action. One can not say that they care, yet do nothing to help.

Finally, be a good citizen Decisions made directly affect those around us, and by working to make schools, neighborhoods and communities better, one may inspire others to do the same. They will also be serving as a great role models for youth in the community.

Winside church member is conference representative

Katie Barg, a member of the Winside United Methodist Church, was a representative to the International Youth Conference for mission at Geneva Point Center, N.H., July 1-12, and then at mission sites along the east coast. Barg was one of 150 youth from more than 39 counties

Over the course of the week-long conference, teenagers, between 16 and 17, explored issues of racial justice, economic justice, environmental justice, and justice for children in a series of workshops. The gathering was designed to help prepare young people to be of service in the world. It was sponsored by the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries (GBGM), mission agency. for the 9.5-million member United Methodist Church

Formally, the teenagers shared their stories and experiences on these global issues in workshops, core groups and plenary sessions. informally, they dialogued with youth from different cultural backgrounds and counties around meal tables and in cabins. Yet, what arouse from the experience was a realization of the root causes of the issues and the need for mission to address these causes

Katle Barg

African youth told about coming together to educate society on the dangers of female genital mutilation A youth from Sri Lanka told about the war that continued his entire life and working for peace amidst violence U.S youth shared about the shock of the Columbine shootings and the need to dialogue with others. All youth had stories of injustices, abuse and neglect of children. Everyone sat in silence over the racist shootings in Indiana.

The week was filled with diversity and learning. On international night, kids from outside the U.S. shared their dances, music and stories. The African "Ticky-Tah" dance, a liturgical tap dance, sign language, and traditional talents was he atmosphere for another night And, each day, worship with music and musicians from around the world reinforced the theme, "We are the seeds.

Armed with the realities of injustice and confident that they were the seeds that could make changes in society through God's mission, the youth left New Hampshire to do hands-on mission work in urban and rural areas of the East Coast. Youth did a variety of work from urban gardening, to working with children, to painting and building houses, to feeding the homeless.

Throughout the weekend, the youth were exposed to work and projects from Bangor, Maine, to West Virginia, to Baltimore, Md. Barg was sent to Bar Harbor, Maine where she and her group prepared and painted the inside of a second hand store where a majority of the local people do most of their shopping.

International Conference on Mission was sponsored by the Women's Division and General Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church The sponsors paid for all expenses except for a $150 application fee.

"It was an accomplishment for the youth who attended the event," said Joyce Sohl of the event's planning team and deputy general secretary of the Women's Division, General Board of Global Ministries.

'They went through an application process, wrote essays, got letters of recommendation, then their applications were reviewed to determine how serious they were about

Barg was the only representative from the state of Nebraska. She is a junior at Winside High School and the daughter of Gene and Linda

Ginger Can Prevent Motion Sickness

Dimenhydrinate is a popular onprescription medicine that nany individuals take when they want to prevent motion sickness in themselves or their children Ginger may be an effective alternative - the same ginger root that is used as a spice. The way in which ginger prevents motion sickness is not clear The herb seems to work in the gastrointestinal tract rather than the central nervous system. In one study, ginger was found to be more effective than dimenhydrinate. Individuals who were prone to motion sickness were given 940 mg of ginger powder, 100 mg of dimenhydrinate, or a placebo About one-half hour later, they were blindfolded and placed in a special rotating chair. Half of the participants who took ginger were able to remain in the chair for 6 minutes. None of the other participants were able to do so.

In another study, the herb was ound to be more effective than a placebo. Eighty navy cadets who were unaccustomed to the sailing were given capsules that contained either one gram of ginger or the placebo (sugar). Cadets who took ganger reported less nausea and cold sweats

BUYS LOTS The first major step towards providing up to-date library facilities in Wakefield was taken recently with the Graves Library Foundation's purchase of the three vacant lots across the street north of the Christian

The 68 by 150 foot area will provide space for a 5,000 square foot library which is the projected size for the community's needs. The structure would be on one level and ing room. Estimated construction costs are $500,000.

Plans for the renovating of the old library or the building of a new one first began five years ago when the city council hired architect lon Carlson of Omaha to make three studies: 1(renovation of the old, 2) combine with the school, or 3) building a new facility.

Nothing progressed until two years ago when consideration of combining the city and school libraries was proposed. With the lack of community support for this idea, the library board began exploring other options.

One of the considerations was to be the joint effort of the day care center, senior citizens and library to combine into one building. The lack of a good location and the estimated $200,000 cost of removing the old high school building proved to be obstacles. The fact that two of the groups were non-profit organizations and the other tax-supported would also have made it difficult to delegate some responsibilities. Later the seniors moved into the Haskell Architect Carlson then prepared a design that would make use of the present library and include an addition to the East, which would cause the relocation of a home. The structure would have been on two levels with the meeting room historical display and restrooms in the basement. An elevator would have provide access to the two levels. With limited funds available for library staffing, security and control of the library were a concern of the library board. The extremely high level of the library's main floor was another factor in ruling this plan

After having thoroughly studied the options and finding none that were suitable to fulfilling the community's needs, the board began looking at locations for a new building. The three lots provide a location near the old site as well as convenience to Main Street, the Senior Center and Day Care Center. While the question of what hap pens to the old library remains, thought has been given to its becoming a museum. To renovate it for the purpose would be less costly than trying to renovate it to serve

Library Board and Foundation are yet considering the plans for fund raising. With the current drive for playground equipment underway, attempts will be made to avoid overlapping the two efforts. An alumni appeal, grants and contact with previous donors are likely to the first direction.

VFW FLAG RAISING Students will be welcomed back to school with the traditional flag raising ceremony on Wednesday morning, Aug. 25 at 8:15 a.m. The flag was held on the East side of the Elementary building.

Not good week

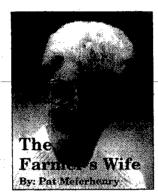

I'm baking chocolate chip cookies and eating the dough; my standard comfort food. For the most part, it's not been a good week

The "team leader" for our home health nurses has been on vacation, and we missed her, I was overdrawn at the bank. (I have automatic transfer from savings, but don't like to dig into that). An insurance. assessment I mailed to Florida over a week ago hasn't arrived. A transfer I'm trying to arrange to Madonna is taking forever. A 30 minute visit to the dentist turned into two hours Coming home through Louisville on Thursday, I was rerouted away from Highway 50 and it took forever.

All of this has been put into sharp perspective by the daily scenes from Turkey. Then, on Friday morning, I learned that the accident on 50 killed a neighbor boy. And friend Marlyce in Orlando, nine years cancer free, has to have a second mastectomy next week. All the other things are minor inconveniences.

When JFK, Jr. died, he was called a hero. A writer to the Public Pulse sald that heroes are firemen, policemen, etc., who risk lives every day. The volunteers at Istanbul and Izmet heroes. Aren't those trained dogs amazing?

The boy who was killed would have been 19 next month and had just completed his first year at the U He worked three summers for Mike; the quietest, most hard-working teen we've ever known. He still called us Mr. and Mrs. Meierhenry There was no speed or alcohol involved. He was distracted, crossed the center line, and collided with one of the many rock trucks on that road. It's every parent's nightmare.

There's been some good news, too, having to do with new babies A daughter was born to our niece in Colorado Springs this week. And, a girl arrived to the home of our pas tor and his wife, who were in the middle of adoption proceedings when they moved here last year.

And, remember my friend Peg, vho had encephalitis this spring? She's finished with therapy, driving again and living independently There are still memory gaps. Thanks for your prayers. Keep it up, and add Marlyce to your list. Her surgery is the 31st. Thank-you

Value of Landscape Trees

Numerous times during the growing season, this office gets called about the value of landscape trees for appraisal purposes. With each situation being different, the primary factors that play into deciding the value are: what kind of tree it is (ex., red oak would carry more value than a boxelder); what size is the tree (ex., larger trees provide more benefits than a small tree); the location in the landscape (ex., shade trees south and west of a house are more "valuable" than on the north side; and what condition the tree is in (ex., a vigorous healthy tree provides more benefits than a dead and dying tree). Using these factors, a competent appraiser can get a relative value for the tree. The following is an article by the National Arbor Day Foundation:

The best way is to have the tree apprised by a qualified arborist. This professional will use a formula developed by the Council of Tree & Landscape Appraisers, and endorsed by the International Society of Arboriculture. It is used specifically for trees not intended for commercial use

If the tree is small enough to be replaced by transplanting equipment in you are (usually 4 inches in diameter, but sometimes up to 9 inches), a replacement formula is used, with value based on the cost of replacing the tree.

If the tree cannot be replaced, the "trunk formula method" is applied. In this case, in addition to what a new transplant would cost, the trunk of the old tree is given a dollar value based on the number of square inches in a cross section of its trunk. The formulas also take into consideration such factors as species, condition of the tree, its location in the landscape, and its aesthetic or functional contributions.

It is important to recognize that trees do have value, and that is usually far greater than the price of firewood or other product value. To locate a qualified tree appraiser in your area, contact the Council at (301) 947-0487.
