Council approves budget

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

The budget for the city of Wayne for the 1999-2000 fiscal year was approved at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

City Administrator Joe Salitros told lined some of the major items in the $17.4 million budget.

The electric fund (49.61 percent) and the general fund (18.49 percent) account for the majority of the budget.

Included in the budget is $386,057 in cash reserve. This represents 13.65 percent of the general fund budget.

Also in the general fund budget is $539,404 for the police budget. This includes funding for additional police officer and dispatcher.

Under the next fiscal year's budget, the city's levy, including the general operating and debt service budgets for the city and the airport authority, will be $546,587 per $100 of property value.

This translates into the fact that a property owner with a $75,000 home will pay an additional $5 in city taxes and a $100,000 home owner will pay an additional $7 in city taxes.

Following the public hearing, the council passed a resolution approving the fund expenditures for the fiscal year which begins Oct. 1, 1999.

Council also adopted the budget, approving individual department and division allocations within the limitations.

Dr. Joseph Reinert, Superintendent of Wayne Public Schools, spoke to the council on the proposal for additional parking around the Middle School.

Dr. Reinert presented a sketch of the proposal which is intended to add an additional 30 parking spaces for use by the Middle School.

Several people in the audience voiced their opinions of the plan.

Judy Kramer, who lives at 318 Sherman Street, just across the street from the Middle School, told the council that the Board of Adjustments did not approve the school's plan.

"Sherman Street is not very wide. Unloading the kids on the west side of the school would mean a lot of dirt would have to be moved. There is lots of room for on-site parking on the east side of school," Ms. Kramer said.

Dr. Reinert said that plans call for the area on the east side of the school to be used as playground space for the middle school students.

Duane Schroeder, who lives to the east of the Middle School, told the council that when activities such as parent-teacher conferences or sporting activities are taking place, people will park on the streets anyway. He also said he was in favor of the board's proposal.

Gloria Lawrence, who lives at 318 Sherman Street said, "parking was a problem at the Middle School everyday. There were times when we couldn't get in our driveway or water our lawn because of the cars parked along Sherman Street."

Following discussion, the council agreed to have the police chief and the director of public works look at the proposal and report to the council at its next meeting.

Resolution 99-46 was passed, approving the acquisition of six lots at 12th and Douglas Streets.

The property is intended to be razed and cleared as part of a community development/improvement effort and to re-sell the property for development.

Discussion was held on amending the municipal code in regard to Youth dies following tragedy

The Wayne County Attorney's office has announced the death of Christopher Andersen, 10, of Hoskins in what appears to be an accidental strangulation.

The boy's body was found Monday near the bottom of a tubular slide on playground equipment located in Hoskins.

After being discovered by the boy's grandfather, he was taken to Faith Regional Medical Center in Norfolk where he was pronounced dead at 7:15 p.m.

An autopsy has been ordered to aid in the investigation.

Accident claims life on county road

A one-vehicle accident on Saturday claimed the life of a Norfolk man.

According to the Nebraska State Patrol, James Jansen, 45, of Norfolk was driving a sport utility vehicle on a county road two miles west and one-half mile south of Wayne at approximately 6:15 p.m.

Activities successful

By Anthony Kochenash
 Chairman of Main Street Wayne Promotions Committee

Face painting and children's games at Victor Park during Saturday evening's "Join Us at the Park" festivities had symbolic meaning for the Main Street Wayne Program.

The festival activities that began at 7 a.m. with "Wake up with Wayne" marked the beginning of a new era—a new fun festival that Main Street Wayne plans to build upon as an image building activity for the community. Historically, most promotions in Wayne have been designed to generate sales for businesses. This promotion was different.

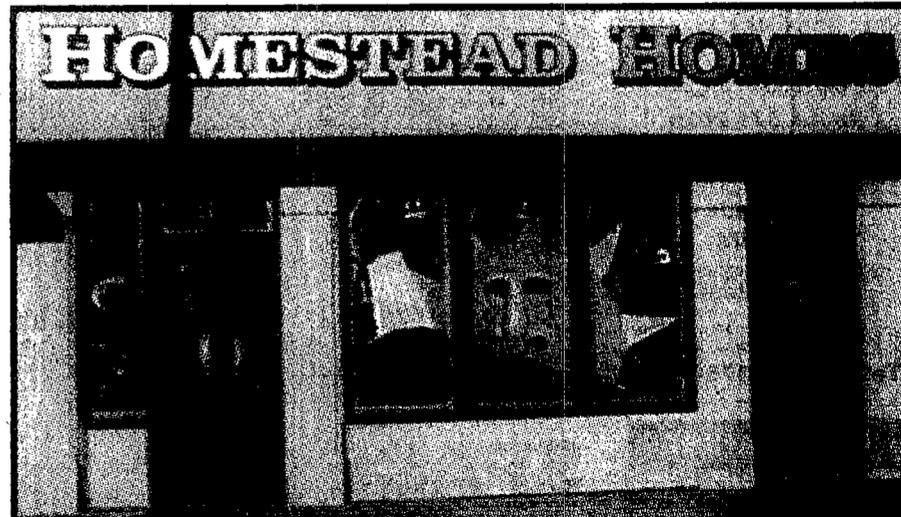

This promotion was designed to provide vendors and more choices for people to come downtown with their families to celebrate and to view the Wayne State College Band Day parade.

Every effort was made to recruit local individuals, organizations, churches, and businesses to serve as vendors and to enter the parade with a float. When local entries appeared to be slow in coming, the Promotion Committee of Main Street extended their efforts to counties surrounding Wayne.

The Main Street Promotion Committee worked with college personnel on expanding the parade with floats and new ideas, and to help promote the band day festivities and WSC football game which started at noon. The committee decided to work around the football game and its activities with a full morning of activities in downtown and to use Victor Park on South

Council person Lois Shelton said she questioned some of the wording in the new document. After considerable discussion, the council agreed that changes should be made and the issue be brought up at the council's Sept. 28 meeting. George Holm made a presentation to the council on the need for a skate park in Wayne. Holm presented pictures of parks in other towns, along with estimates of costs of such parks. Holm said that surveys he has circulated indicate 273 youth would use such a facility. The group in favor of the facility said they would match funds provided by the city through fundraisers, grants and donations. A number of community service projects, including the sweeping of the tennis courts near the swimming pool, the sidewalks along Highway 35 and the intersection of Highways 35 and 15, have already been completed.

The council agreed to form a committee to look into the possibility of a skate park in Wayne. In other action, the council set public hearing dates on two separate matters. A public hearing will be held Sept. 28 at 7:35 p.m. in regard to the acquisition of real estate at Fifth and Walnut Streets. A second hearing, scheduled for 7:45 p.m. is a re-scheduled hearing on the proposed tax asking/property tax levy pertaining to the 1999-2000 budget.

Activities

Main Street for a host of evening activities and music. All this was made possible with the cooperation and help of city administration and services. Did it work? Apparently it did. Crowd estimates varied between one and two thousand people for the morning activities. Observers at the parade noted larger and more enthusiastic crowds in the downtown area watching the parade than in the previous year. One parade watcher also noted that this year's parade was 15 minutes longer than last year's parade. The farmer's market went well. Several farmers sold out their supply of produce and one farmer went home to restock his produce stand. The bake sales went well with both being complete sell-outs. Many of the other vendors did well and several crafters said they ran out of several items and had to take orders. The skate boarders had demonstrations throughout the morning at the parking lot on 2nd and Main while the pancake breakfast at the city auditorium was a success. Leather and Lace Dance Club performed across the street from the pancake breakfast in the Magic Wok parking lot. Donna Trampel, Main Street said, "Many of the vendors indicated before they took down their stands that they would like to return next year. The weather was great for the morning activities and it seemed like many people were having fun. Unfortunately, the weather changed before the evening session at Victor Park and we feel that the weather kept the crowd down to approximately 200-250 people." The weather did cut the time of the evening festivities back, but those that were there, especially the young children, had a great time with the many games and prizes. Main Street officials are pleased with the festival and have already begun their planning for next year's celebration.

"I'm pleased to have these communities as pilot sites for this program," said Allen. "They each had strong proposals from residents who want to see their local businesses benefit from electronic commerce."

The pilot communities will offer classes to local business owners and managers on ways to boost their business through every available means of communication technology. It will teach them ways to run their business operations more efficiently and expand their markets globally. This may involve creating a World Wide Web site for their business and using e-mail, private bulletin board systems, value-added networks, intranets and extranets, television, fax, and telephone.

Students in the classes will also learn to develop a marketing program for their web site and an internet business strategy that can be incorporated into their overall business plans.

The Nebraska Electronic Main Street Program will teach small business owners and managers to harness the tools of electronic commerce," said Allen. "In 1998, e-commerce accounted for $7.8 billion in retail sales and $43 billion in business to business sales, yet the majority of Nebraska's small businesses haven't entered the field of electronic commerce. It's important for them to be ready to meet the challenges of a global market."

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Wilcockson, Dr. Koerber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koerber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

held which was a hearing on the '99-00 School Budget. The budget had been revised, moving $50,000 from cash reserve back into busing.

A second special meeting was scheduled at 7:10 p.m. on Wayne School tax request but was moved to the next meeting on Oct. 11 in Carroll.

The regular meeting started at 7:20 p.m. Certified Staff contracts for Tanya Heikes of Wayne and Carolyn Harder of Laurel were approved. Heikes will have a half time contract for Reading and Language Arts for grades 1-4. Harder will have a full time contract as school nurse.

Financial reports/claims were discussed and approved.

A digital decoder was approved for the Distance Learning Lab.

New Wayne High graduation programs were discussed with the possibility of including scholarships received by students and Foundation coverage in the future.

Enrollment reports were given with 12 students less than last year in the Elementary (total of 301), 15 less in the Middle School (total of 285), and nine less in the High School (total of 329). Special Education increased to 99 in the program.

Dames and Moore representatives gave a report on their findings in the Middle School. They took biological samples from the school and did not find histoplasmosis (caused from bat or bird droppings).

They did find garden variety molds that are not dangerous; they did report that people can become sensitive to any molds including those found. The representatives recommended wiping down walls and wood structure in the attic and also removing ceiling tiles. Paint in the basement, they said, should be removed as there is mold growing behind it.

The estimated cost would be $30,000. The group recommended these procedures be done before dismantling begins to insure that the mold does not spread and contaminate the new remodeling to be done.

Reinert discussed a brief overview on the Central Kitchen study, summing up that the school needs to maintain a central kitchen in the elementary school with satellite kitchens at the High School and at the Middle School. The Middle School kitchen needs at least 1200 square foot of space to meet requirements.

Roger Kruse will be present at the next meeting to discuss the kitchen proposal further.

Buster Beckenhauer of Beckenhauer Construction of Norfolk, and Gary Bowen of BVH

Architects of Omaha were present to discuss High School schematic drawings which are 95 percent complete. The amount set aside for the project presently falls short of projected costs so different options are being discussed.

An option would be to leave the Auto Shop in place and build a Wrestling Room to the south of the Auto Room. This would save $55,000 because the Auto Shop equipment would not have to be moved into another space and upgrade is meeting new codes.

Alternatives include a stair case on outside of the gym, a Home Ec Room in the new addition, remodel the present Home Ec Room into a Science Room, put a Science Room in the new addition, or leave the Home Ec in place. The options and alternatives would be part of the bidding amount.

The Board moved to approve the schematic drawings, 95 percent complete, and start the bidding process.

Reinert and Bowen met with the Zoning Board on parking problems at the Middle School. The Zoning Board disapproved the schools request for 30 spaces which Reinert and Bowen had proposed.

Reinert attended the city council meeting Tuesday night and presented a sketched proposal of 30 parking spaces around the school. Plans are for 60 parking spaces around the entire building which would include staff parking. Reinert said the school would be willing to work with the city for a solution. Council said to bring the subject back to them in two weeks when the city public works director and police chief will have had a chance to review plans.

Board policy updates and Board Strategic Planning was discussed. Old policies were removed and replaced with new. Also, the Board decided to include student surveys at graduation, three years, and at five years after graduation to receive input on school performance.

Another addition to their goals was to widen Board vision to beyond one to three years. The Board approved their proposed goals for '99-00 and they also approved the revised '99-00 school budget.

The Board approved early graduation for Sarah Beaman in May 2000. She will have all of her graduation requirements done by the end of her junior year.

The Board cast their vote for regional NASB (National Association School Board) election. They also discussed the State Education Conference set for Nov. 17-19 in Omaha. All of the Board is planning on attending the event.

Another meeting discussed was the NASB area membership meeting set for Sept. 28 in Norfolk. Board members Phyllis Spethman, Jean Blomenkamp, and Supt. Reinert are planning to attend the event.

The future agenda includes a hearing for the tax request with a vote from the Board, and Roger Kruse being present to discuss school kitchen plans.

The next School Board meeting will be held Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. at the Carroll Elementary School. The tax request hearing will be held at 6:50 p.m. prior to the regular meeting.

HEALTHY BABIES A JOHANNNS PRIORITY

By Governor Mike Johanns

Dear Nebraska Neighbors,

I have often said that my agenda as Governor would be to protect and improve the quality of life for Nebraska families. A lower tax burden, safer communities, and a growing and prosperous Nebraska economy contribute to the quality of life. Another quality of life issue is healthy living, including being born healthy. That's why when a recent health statistic was brought to my attention, I became concerned.

Nebraska's infant mortality rate, which measures the number of deaths from birth to the first birthday per 1,000 deliveries, is causing that concern. Since 1992, our state's infant mortality rates have leveled off, while the national rate has declined steadily over that same period. Although Nebraska has historically had an infant mortality rate lower than the national rate, this recent trend has resulted in a Nebraska rate higher than the national figures four out of the last six years.

What is perhaps more alarming is that infant deaths in the first month after birth have increased in Nebraska by an average of 4% each year since this decade began.

The meaning behind these numbers raises some important questions for Nebraska families, health professionals, and policy makers. Infant mortality is a vital health status indicator, reflecting the overall state of maternal health, as well as the quality and accessibility of health care available to infants and women of childbearing age. A stagnant or rising IMR is a symptom of some other problem or group of problems that must be explored.

While Nebraska ranks better than the national average for many of the risk factors for infant mortality, some areas, such as smoking during pregnancy, stand out as having room for improvement. In addition, substance abuse, teen and unintended pregnancy rates, and the availability of early access to quality prenatal care are all key variables in the frequency of low birth weights and subsequent infant deaths that may deserve examination. Our task is to determine what factors are causing Nebraska's slip in infant mortality rates and to devise strategies for improvement.

At my weekly press conference on September 8th, I announced plans to establish a blue ribbon panel to examine the seemingly high infant mortality rate in Nebraska. It is our intention that this panel will be able to uncover the causes of this problem and propose strategies to bring about a decline in the number of infant deaths in our state. This panel will include Dr. Richard Raymond, chief medical officer for the Nebraska Health and Human Services System, experts in the fields of neonatology, perinatology, obstetrics, and gynecology, family practice and nursing, and representatives from local health departments, community action agencies, hospitals, state senators, and members of the public.

Where our youngest citizens are concerned, no effort should be spared to understand and solve the problems that result in early death. The strategies to combat infant mortality will do more than prevent deaths, they will raise the level of health for all newborns. I can think of no greater pain than the loss of a child, and with over 23,000 births per year in Nebraska, the issue of infant mortality is a troubling one that touches many lives and families. It is my hope that in the near future, we will be able to talk about the success we have achieved in the effort to reduce infant death and improve infant health in much the same way our "Nebraska United" can boast of achievements in so many other areas.

Capitol News —

Elements of good idea

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

What constitutes a really good thought? What are the elements of a good idea?

It depends on who you are, right?

You're likely to regard an idea you like and agree with as a good one.

With that in mind, I am taking this opportunity to congratulate Gov. Mike Johanns on a couple of really good thoughts.

"The Internet provides a powerful tool for making government accessible," Johanns said at a recent news conference.

Although politicians are seldom given to understatement, the Johanns comment fell decidedly into that column.

His excellency went on to quote my favorite inscription on the Tower on the Plains: "The salvation of the state is watchfulness in the citizen."

Johanns added his view that the Internet gives the public "a revolutionary means for achieving this historic observation."

Amen. Correct. Right on. Log on.

For decades, I and a few of my ilk have bemoaned the general public's lack of understanding of matters governmental. My primary thought was, and still is, that elementary and secondary schools require far too little learning about local, state and national government.

There are no reasons of which I am aware to think the aforementioned situation will soon change. And, as Tom Osborne has often said, there's no point worrying about the things you can't control.

It was also my feeling that the citizenry simply paid too little attention to newspaper coverage of the Legislature and local government. That hasn't changed, either. The plain spoken truth is that, too often, people don't pay any attention to government until it bites them in the hindquarters - usually in the vicinity of the wallet.

That brings us to Johanns' recent remarks about the Internet.

No doubt Johanns' political critics could respond by saying: "Good call, Mike! Next, you'll announce that irrigation can be good for crops."

The fact that the Internet can be utilized to give the public 24-hour access to current and past news and general information on government speaks for itself. The fact that the state's chief executive says so, acknowledges the importance of that reality and indicates he intends to support efforts that would increase citizen involvement in government via computer, is important.

Nothing is going to replace the newspaper you have in your hand. It will often be the starting place for citizen interest in, anger with or gratitude for, something government is doing. A good many of you may already be reading your local newspaper at an online website. The definition of a "newspaper" in the cyber age doesn't always have to include paper.

What the Internet can offer the citizen is an inexpensive way to track issues of interest with which government is dealing; a way to communicate quickly and inexpensively with elected and other governmental officials; and the ability to do it "after work" when government offices are closed.

From here, it has always seemed that virtually anything which helps the taxpayer, the voter, better understand how he or she is governed is good. Likewise, anything which hinders that understanding is bad.

More and better information about, and access to, government is good. More and better reporting on government is good.

And, if both are good enough, they might prompt some Letters to the Editor.

Like I said, the newspaper is often going to be that place where citizen interest in something government is doing will originate.

Wayne Area Retired Teachers meet

The Wayne Area Retired Teachers met at Tacos and More on Sept. 7. Following a coffee hour, President Harold Maciejewski opened the meeting.

Marilyn Wallin conducted a short quiz on information taken from the book, "This Crazy English Language."

Lynelle Krueger, a new member from Pierce was recognized. Ferne Kelly was also welcomed back to the unit.

Reports from the State Workshop in Lincoln were given.

One item of new business was that the motion was made to pay the registration expenses of the four officers to the State Convention at Kearney, Sept. 24. Members were urged to attend. Dues are to be paid by or at the Nov. 1 Wayne Area Retired Teachers meeting.

Twila Anderson and Alice Schulte had charge of the program. Schulte presented an account of a trip they took to Australia and New Zealand. This trip was sponsored by a tour out of Yankton.

Milbourne was the first city they visited and then went on to Sydney. They were impressed with the scenery, Sydney Harbor, The Rock Market, Costello, and Opal Store were some of the places they visited.

The group observed the wildlife up close by visiting Olsen's Bat Caverns and Koorna's Crocodile Farm. They traveled to Cairns and observed the Great Barrier Reef, tropical fish and sharks. An Aboriginal theme park and Wild World Park were also visited where they could feed and hold Koalas and wombats. There were many Kangaroos there too.

The next stop for the tour group was New Zealand which also has great scenery.

Schulte noted that the trip was quite an experience and that it was nostalgic as her husband had been to many of these places while on rest and recuperation during WWII.

The next meeting will be at Tacos and More in Wayne on Monday, Nov. 1 at 9:30 a.m.

WSC defeated by SDSU, 59-31

By Missy Pavlisch
For the Herald

The Wayne State football team played host to South Dakota State on Saturday but lost a 59-31 decision which dropped the 'Cats season mark to 0-2.

SDSU set a single game total offense record with 682 yards against the 'Cats.

SDSU scored on its second drive of the game on a one-yard run by Josh Ranek but failed to score the extra point.

Ranek was a thorn in WSC's side every time he touched the ball as he tallied 231 yards on 19 carries for a 12.2 yard per carry average.

The 'Cats found the end zone just four plays after SDSU had scored as Elroy Brown broke loose for a 32-yard run to tie the score at six. Nate Hale came in to boot the extra point and put WSC up for the first time this season, 7-6 at the 3:53 mark of the opening stanza.

SDSU's Ranek sprinted 80 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage after the 'Cats had taken the lead.

The two point conversion attempt was good (also by Ranek) and SDSU was up 14-7 with 3:35 left in the first quarter.

SDSU would score again 1:25 later on a 24 yard run to put the Jackrabbits up 21-7.

With 24 seconds left in the first quarter WSC's Chaka Smith caught a Jaime Jones seven-yard pass to keep the Wildcats with in a touchdown going into the second quarter at 21-14.

SDSU produced more of the same potent offense in the second quarter scoring 21 points.

The Jackrabbits scored on a one-yard run early in the period by Matt Wordelman. Four minutes later, they would score on a 73-yard pass to Ranek from former Oakland-Craig standout Andy Rennerfeldt.

With 1:06 left until halftime SDSU would make the score 42-14 with a 21-yard scoring pass from Rennerfeldt to Josh Buchholz.

The 'Cats moved the ball 63 yards to get into field goal range late in the half and Brian Johnson can in to put it through the uprights from 40 yards out to end the first half with the visitors leading by a 42-17 margin.

"We haven't learned to play as a team yet," WSC coach Kevin Haslam said. "Both our offense and defense need to recognize when to step it up."

The 'Cats wouldn't score again until the fourth quarter down 59-17 when Chaka Smith caught an 82-yard scoring pass from Brandon Lavaley. That scoring reception was the sixth longest in WSC history.

WSC would score once more with 1:17 left in the game on an Elroy Brown four-yard run.

One of the busiest Wildcats was Chaka Smith who started as a wide receiver, played in the defensive backfield as well as part of the kick-off return unit against SDSU. "Chaka is a great athlete, we just need to find ways to get him the ball," Haslam said.

Smith carried the ball three times for six yards, caught six passes for 134 yards, the longest being 82 yards.

Elroy Brown led the Wildcats on the ground with 51 yards on 12 carries and Jaime Jones had 15 yards on four attempts.

Dan Pugsley caught seven passes for 71 yards and Herman Gordon had six catches for 81 yards for the 'Cats.

Defensively WSC was led by Mike Baker and Kirk Steffensen with 11 tackles each, while Ashley Toussaint had nine, Joe Scheppers, eight and Yano Jones along with Antonio Jackson finished with seven tackles each.

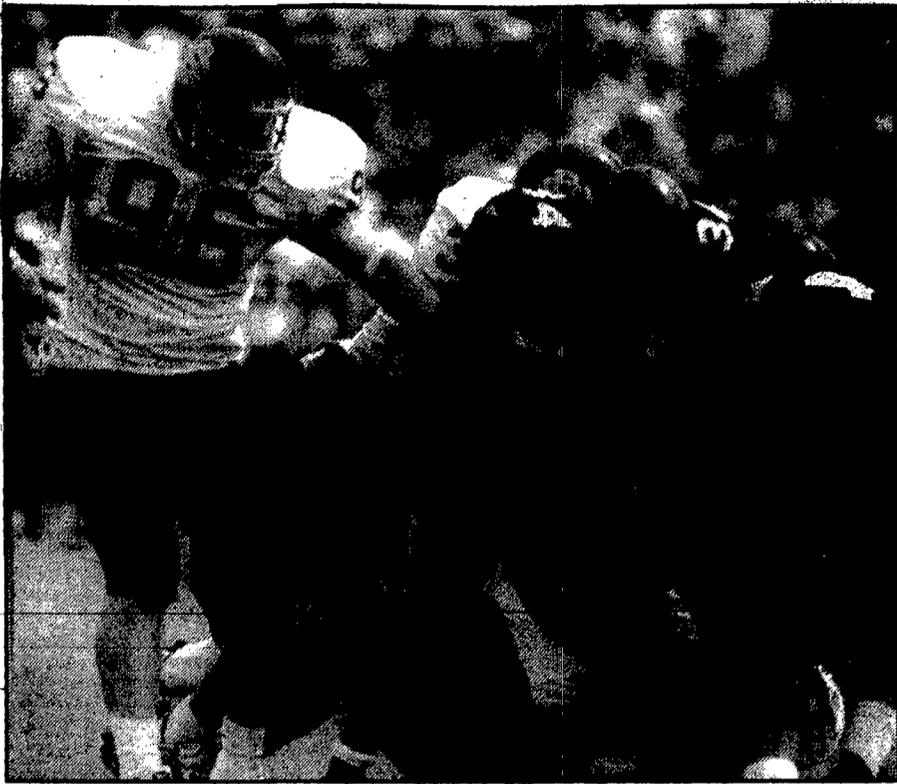

WSC starts conference play this Saturday at Bemidji State who enters the game with a perfect 2-0 record. It will be the first ever NSIC game for the 'Cats.

'Cats to play at Sioux Falls on Saturday

WSC soccer team sits 3-0

Mary McDaniel looks to pass the soccer ball to a teammate during the Wildcats 4-2 win over Doane last week. WSC is off to a school record 3-0 start.

The Wayne State women's soccer team is sitting a perfect 3-0 on the young season, a school record start for head coach Justin Cole.

The Wildcats defeated Doane, 4-2 and Midland-Lutheran in record style, 11-4 last Friday as both matches were held in Wayne.

The 'Cats scored three goals in the first 16 minutes against Doane and cruised to the 4-2 win.

Sarah Herrick scored two goals and added one assist for WSC. Sara Zimmer opened the scoring when she scored in the seventh minute off assists from Herrick and Carissa Garcia.

In the 14th minute, Mary McDaniel scored followed by Herrick's first goal just two minutes later.

Anna Eberle picked up the win in goal for WSC. She made one save and did not allow a goal in 79 minutes in net.

"Our girls were very excited about playing in front of a home crowd," Cole said. "We had a great turnout and we wanted to show our appreciation by putting on a good show. This was a great home-opener for us against a pretty solid Doane squad."

Cole said the first 15 minutes of each match is critical and WSC responded by scoring three goals in that stretch.

"We have a style of play that we try to bring to every match," Cole said. "I think we've done that pretty well so far. However, we have to learn to sustain that effort and presence for the full 90 minutes. We're still young, but that's something that we'll have to do a better job of as we enter the conference season."

Wayne State set three school records in routing Midland, 11-4 last Friday afternoon.

The Wildcats set school records for goals in a game (11), goals in a half (6) and with the number of players who scored (8).

The 3-0 start by WSC is also a school record and the win streak is now at four.

Sarah Herrick, Mary McDaniel and Melissa Abernathy each scored two goals for the winners which outshot the Lady Warriors, 48-8.

Herrick, who now has seven goals on the season has scored at least two goals in each of the first three games this season.

Herrick's performance earned her the Northern Sun's Soccer Player of the Week.

"This was certainly a great game for our young squad," Cole said. "It was a chance for us to put a team away early and have some fun, and we did it in record-breaking fashion."

Cole said the energy in the early stages of the first half has been super so far this season. "Now we need to work a little bit harder on sustaining that level throughout the 90 minutes," Cole added.

Cole said with a young team it's always interesting to see how quickly they will gel. "Thus far, we've continued to improve with each match," Cole said. "We're beginning to play with some pride and it's exciting to be a part of."

Other players scoring for the 'Cats in the rout of Midland were Sara Zimmer, Jackie Arnold, Abbey Kalblinger, Brienne Abshier and Kelly Rotherham.

WSC will play at Sioux Falls on Saturday at noon before they begin conference play on the 25th at Northern State.

Wayne State runners fall to Nebr.-Kearney

Both the Wildcat men and women's cross-country squads lost to the University of Nebraska-Kearney last Saturday in a duel meet in Kearney.

The men fell to Kearney 44-19, while the women were edged out 30-25.

"I am not surprised that we lost," said head coach Brian Kavanaugh. "On the men's side we were missing a couple of key people this week, and Nebraska-Kearney is traditionally a very good program. I am very pleased at how close the women came, though. Just flip-flop a couple of places, and we would have beat them."

Sophomore Andy Tucknott placed third overall, clocking 27:09.5 for 8,000 meters. Sophomore James Bruhn was 30:23.2 in 13th place, followed by freshman Dustin Lippman (30:46.0, 15th), sophomore Tom Whisinnand (31:12.3, 17th) and senior Brad Hrouda (32:02.5, 18th).

WSC graduate assistant coach Nolan Lien was the overall winner, clocking 25:39.7.

"Andy ran an outstanding race," Kavanaugh said. "If he continues to improve like he has, I think he has a shot at qualifying for nationals. Also, James Bruhn had great finishing kick to edge a Kearney runner at the wire."

Senior Marsha Krienke was the top Wildcat on the women's side, placing third overall in 21:20.4 for 5,000 meters. Junior Darr Nickerson was next in 21:29.4 in fourth place, followed by junior Shannon Short (22:39.5, 8th), sophomore Jamie Kluthe (22:59.3, 10th), freshman Ely Harder (23:15.6, 11th) and junior Jeana Luebke (27:23.9, 15th).

"Marsha and Darr looked really strong, much better than last year," noted Kavanaugh. "They both could earn All-Conference honors this year."

Next up for the Wildcat thinclads is the Woody Greeno/Nebraska Invitational this Saturday.

Brienne Abshier passes the ball to Sarah Herrick during a recent Wayne State soccer match. The Wildcats will play a noon match with Sioux Falls on Saturday in South Dakota as they look to remain unbeaten.

The Golden Years

Love is always in the air for Barbara Louts. Thirty-two years ago she began penning valentines for Hallmark cards. She has had to express love in many ways considering 900 million valentines exchange hands each year. It began back in 1415 when Charles, Duke of Orleans first sent rhyming love letters to his wife when he was a prisoner in the Tower of London.

Older, Less Costly Antibiotics Proven OK in Sinusitis

In recent years we have seen the arrival of several new antibiotics that are used to treat human infections. Each new product seems to be better and more costly than the last. It is a good thing when medical researchers determine that older, less costly alternatives are just as effective as newer antibiotic medicines. Such was the outcome of an evaluation of almost 5,000 individuals with sinusitis - inflammation of the sinus passages in the head that causes much suffering and lost time from work.

There were two major findings reported by researchers. The first was that, for many persons, symptoms of acute sinusitis will often resolve without using antibiotics of any type. The second was the older, less costly antibiotics such as amoxicillin often are just as effective as many newer and more costly ones, including cephalosporins.

Older, Less Costly Antibiotics Proven OK in Sinusitis

In recent years we have seen the arrival of several new antibiotics that are used to treat human infections. Each new product seems to be better and more costly than the last. It is a good thing when medical researchers determine that older, less costly alternatives are just as effective as newer antibiotic medicines. Such was the outcome of an evaluation of almost 5,000 individuals with sinusitis - inflammation of the sinus passages in the head that causes much suffering and lost time from work.

There were two major findings reported by researchers. The first was that, for many persons, symptoms of acute sinusitis will often resolve without using antibiotics of any type. The second was the older, less costly antibiotics such as amoxicillin often are just as effective as many newer and more costly ones, including cephalosporins.

It is important to remove the stinger to a bee, yellow jacket, wasp, or hornet as quickly as possible. You can use your fingernails or a credit card. But do not squeeze, pinch, or push it deeper into the skin. Use an ice pack, if possible. If you start developing hives that spread up your arm, leg, or body, or if you have trouble breathing seek emergency help immediately. Anaphylaxis, the swelling of the throat and difficulty in breathing, can kill. If you are allergic to venom, you should never be without epinephrine.

Maribeth Stodola, President of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, center, presents an award to Brad Weber, band director at Wayne High School at Saturday's Wayne State Band Day competition. The Blue Devils were one of five bands recognized during the annual activities at Wayne State.

The Pride of the Blue Devils Marching Band was one of eight bands participating in this year's Band Day activities. Members practiced in the early morning, marched in the morning parade and participated in activities during the Wayne State-South Dakota State football game.

Bands earn awards

Five high school bands from surrounding communities were awarded trophies at the annual Wayne State College Band Day competition, Sept. 11.

Awarded bands included: Ponca for class D2, Allen for class D1, Homer for class C2, Winside for class C1 and Wayne for class B.

These bands and several junior high bands including, Wayne, Laurel-Concord and Wisner-Pilger marched in the parade downtown.

The event featured bands from area high schools performing with the Wayne State marching band under the direction of Mike Gillan.

Bands performed in the pre-game and half-time shows at the WSC football game. Following the half-time performance, a representative of the Chamber of Commerce presented awards in each class to the top band performing in the parade.

WSC Habitat for Humanity welcomes public for camp out

A goal to raise awareness of the need for housing in the world has been set by the Wayne State College Habitat for Humanity chapter. Members of the group will host a cardboard city camp out in front of the Conn Library on campus, Sept. 16.

"Rain or shine, everyone is invited. Anyone can attend to watch or students can join in building their own cardboard shelter to sleep in that evening. We will have some cardboard, however individuals could bring their own or donate blankets. Dress for the weather because we plan to stick it out," said Nick Tramp, a WSC sophomore from Wynot.

Tramp has been a member of Habitat for Humanity for two semesters. He is the son of Norman and Carol Tramp. He is majoring in speech communications with an emphasis in corporate and community relations.

"I like to be involved in the groups activities, but my schedule is full with classes. Habitat for Humanity is great to be involved with to support a good cause. This is a group that gets you actually involved. I've been doing construction work since I could walk and it feels good to use my knowledge to help others," Tramp said.

"People can also come to campus for a couple of hours to show support for the cause," said Adela Valdovinos, a WSC junior from Omaha.

Valdovinos has been a member of Habitat for Humanity for three semesters. She is the daughter of Maria Trusler and is majoring in interior design with minors in business administration and Spanish. While a student at WSC, she has also been involved in Minorities in Accordance Coming Together (MACT) and American Society of Interior Designers (ASID).

"I would like to do more for the organization, but my time is also limited. It feels good to be involved. You might be working on a house to eradicate homelessness. If nothing else, you will be making a home for someone who didn't have one before," Valdovinos said.

She said she feels this event will inspire people to take notice and get involved.

"I think it might inspire them to become more involved even if it's not through Habitat for Humanity. They may decide to help with a shelter after their experience on campus," Valdovinos said.

"The cardboard city is part of the activities that the WSC Habitat for Humanity Chapter have planned during Faith International's Building on Fifth Week," said Mark Hammer, faculty advisor for the WSC chapter.

In addition to the camp out, WSC students have been involved in a work day in Norfolk. The students will be working on building activities," Valdovinos said.

Don Cattle, retired WSC faculty member, talked to the club about his involvement in the Jimmy Carter Work Project in the Philippines.

The club also traveled to Omaha to witness the initial construction of Omaha's 100th HFH house as well as to hear Millard Fuller, founder and president of Habitat for Humanity International.

Fuller has been named one of American housing's 100 most influential leaders by Builder magazine and Philadelphia's Carpenter's Society, the nation's oldest construction guild, honored him as "Builder of the Year." In 1996, Fuller received the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor.

The WSC chapter of Habitat for Humanity includes students, faculty, administrators and staff. The mission of the campus chapter program is to capture the imaginations, energy and hope of students in order to productively and effectively involve them in the work of Habitat for Humanity International.

Campus chapters have three main functions: educating the campus and local community about affordable housing issues and the work of Habitat for Humanity, building and rehabilitating houses in partnership with Habitat for Humanity affiliates and homeowners and raising funds for the work of Habitat for Humanity.

The need for decent, affordable housing around the world is staggering, according to the Habitat for Humanity International web page. An estimated 25 percent of the world's population, some 1.5 billion people, live in substandard housing or have no home at all. Habitat for Humanity International is building around the world, dedicated to the ideal that all people deserve a simple, decent place to live on terms they can afford to pay. Working in partnership with volunteers, churches and synagogues, organizations and the new homeowner families, Habitat for Humanity is building houses and building lives.

Call Mark Hammer, Habitat for Humanity WSC advisor, for more information at (402) 375-7043.

Majors fair to be hosted at Wayne State College

Wayne State College will hold a majors fair on Wednesday, Sept. 22, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. The purpose of the fair is to provide opportunities for students who have not yet declared a major to consider their career objectives prior to declaring, according to organizers.

"This is a great way for our current students to see what their options are," said Virginia Feeley, counselor in the WSC Counseling Center. Feeley stated each division will have this opportunity to showcase their areas majors during this first majors fair.

Feeley said the idea for this event came from attending a national academic advising conference last spring.

For more information call (402) 375-7321.

Suggestions offered by Red Cross

The American Red Cross has begun preparing for the destruction which is anticipated to be caused by Hurricane Floyd.

The Red Cross is in the process of assembling teams of disaster workers and supplies at strategic staging areas.

The Heartland Chapter of the Red Cross in Omaha is urging area residents who have family and friends in the storm's path to establish a plan for communication before the hurricane hits.

Tips for establishing an emergency communication plan include:

- Call family members before the hurricane hits to find out what plans they have (ride out the storm, evacuate, stay with friends). Ask relatives to call after the hurricane to let you know their status. It is often difficult to call "into" the affected area as phone lines are affected. It is generally easier for people to call "out."

- If your relatives are leaving home, find out where they're going and get the phone number.

- Make sure your family has your work, cell phone and other important phone numbers. Make sure they have that information with them before they evacuate.

- Tell them they can call you collect since only public phones may be readily available.

- Get the phone number and address of their employer. Even if they are displaced from their home, they may still go to work and/or contact their employer with information on their status.

- Find out the names and addresses of your family members' closest friends.

McGilvrey becomes the first visiting artist to demonstrate in new WSC Studio Arts Building

Susan McGilvrey was featured as a visiting artist at Wayne State College on Thursday, Sept. 2. McGilvrey's work will be featured in the Nordstrand Visual Arts Gallery until Sept. 22.

In addition to McGilvrey's gallery showing, the artist became the first to demonstrate in the new studio arts building on campus. She explained some aspects of her creative process and presented slides of her work on Sept. 2.

McGilvrey's show, "What I did on my Summer Vacation," featured primarily show pieces.

"My exhibited clayworks feature wheel-thrown creations with altered shapes and low-fire finishes from the last several years. They are large scale vessels of brightly colored earthenware," McGilvrey said.

Learning the basics and establishing a competent technique came first for McGilvrey as she began to master her work throughout her education.

"Once I learned the basic and proper way to make good cylinders and create correct pots, I moved on to Minnesota where I learned to make loose and more relaxed pots," McGilvrey said.

Although McGilvrey works in clay, she said she draws and has a background in other arts which surprises some people.

"They don't expect me to be able to draw since I am essentially a potter," McGilvrey said. "I got into art because I do enjoy the basics of art like drawing which is probably true of most people who create."

"Sculpture always scared me because you had to plan out what you were going to do first because you're using metal and materials. With making pots, if you don't like it, you can always make it back into clay and start again or you can create while you are making the pots," McGilvrey said.

Susan McGilvrey, a visiting artist from Omaha, demonstrates how she makes her large scale creations as WSC students watch in the new studio arts building.

"I started showing with painters. They make big stuff and brightly colored stuff. If you want to be seen with that type of stuff, you have to make big stuff too," McGilvrey said.

Through experimentation in her work, McGilvrey said she found making pots in sections worked for her.

"I have started doing a coil throwing effort," McGilvrey said and demonstrated her method of throwing a pot on the wheel and then rolling a coil to attach to the pot to make it larger.

McGilvrey also explained her process of adding color to her work while it is still green, before the glaze firing. She said she feels this type of color application lends more intensity to her work.

During her demonstration, she explained a work she calls a self-portrait. She said she included in her design certain flowers which expressed aspects of her personality, political views and other areas of her life. The work is also featured in her WSC show.

"Wayne State has a wonderful gallery. The teachers here do their best. Marlene Mueller teaches what she knows, however I feel it is effective to bring in outside artists such as my showing and demonstrations. This input is really valuable. An effort like this allows students to know there is not only one way to do things," McGilvrey said.

Exposure to a variety of teachers and a solid education were stressed by McGilvrey. She said it is up to students to continue to seek a variety of quality teachers.

"A big college is fine, however a smaller place to attend college is better to get your feet under you," McGilvrey said.

A Wayne State College pre-architecture student, Grant Landreth of Omaha attended McGilvrey's show and listened to her presentation. Landreth echoed McGilvrey's appreciation for a small-town atmosphere in education.

"The teachers are really good here, however other art teachers have different ways of teaching and different techniques," Landreth said of the importance of attending visiting artist programs.

"I really do think I receive more individualized attention here. It's important to get a grasp on techniques and basics before I move on," Landreth said.

He said he had just changed his major to pre-architecture.

"I love the arts so much that I realized I want them to be part of my every day life, however I also love science. I'm trying to combine the two," Landreth said.

Another Wayne State College student, Garren Coons of Winnebago began his first semester as an art major and attended McGilvrey's slide presentation and show.

"I'm looking for my own style. What she (McGilvrey) did with clay uses more of a painter's style and something that is different from what I have seen before," Coons said.

He said he has experienced a variety of activities and events since attending Wayne State College. One concept he said he remembers about McGilvrey's slide show was how she was influenced by her teachers in graduate school.

She learned how to do this and that in the style of her teacher to get a good grade, yet learned to develop her own style.

This concept was one McGilvrey built upon with college students in her audiences.

"It is important that you continue to seek different teachers and a variety of experiences."

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Haven't seen the new library yet? Or perhaps it has been a while since your last visit. Not to worry, September is Library Sign-up Month. Take advantage of the cooler weather to stroll in and see us. Newcomers, students, and re-newing patrons are always welcome. Remember, the library belongs to you. Come and enjoy it.

This month, the library is featuring a special exhibit called the "History of Wayne Girl Scouts" in its display case. The display includes a biography of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts of America, an historical Girl Scout primer owned by Coletta Hahlbeck, dated April 23, 1926 in her own handwriting, as well as badges, sashes, handbooks and photographs from various eras of Wayne Girl Scout history. The display was assembled by Scout Leader Sue Schroeder.

We remind other organizations and associations that the display case is available for community use. The 4-H Clubs will be using the case in October but future months are open. Please give us a call if your organization would like to put up a display.

The Grandmapa Program will be starting again in late September. Special Grandmas and Grandpas are still needed to read stories to little kids (and play too!) at area daycare homes twice a month during the school year. If you would like to be a volunteer Grandmapa or if you are a daycare provider and would like to receive this service, please contact the library immediately.

New sources of note at the library include the 24 volume "American National Biography" reference set. This resource, similar to the Dictionary of American Biography, but more comprehensive, provides authoritative and inclusive portraits of notable Americans.

The library has also recently acquired several important books on the subject of adoption: "Is Adoption for You," by Christine Adamec and "The Adoption Resource Book" outline basic questions such as how to make the decision to adopt, what to ask experts and other issues you ought to know about creating an adoptive family. A third book, "The Adoption Directory," is a practical guide which lists state statutes on adoption as well as addresses and phone numbers of public, private and foreign adoption agencies.

The Internet has been available at the library over two months and some 150 users have signed up to use it. Our newest computer offering is access to databases. This access is funded through the Nebraska Library Commission with appropriations from the Nebraska legislature and governor. The databases include: "Electric Library," an excellent general resource, provides access to full-text magazine and newspaper articles, radio/television transcripts, maps, encyclopedia articles and more; "Wilson Omnifile" also accommodates full-text general searches and also includes an extensive biographical component; "FirstSearch" is a clearing house database which provides scholarly citations and information on health conditions, business practices and innovations, current events, historical facts, educational projects and environmental issues; "Health Sources Plus" (Ebsco) provides reliable medical information for lay people.

Remote users may gain access to all of the above databases except Wilson Omnifile by using the URL <http://www.nlc.state.ne.us/databases/> and accompanying usernames and passwords: Health Source Plus username: health, password: library; First Search authorization: 100-155-312, password: library; Electric Library user id: subnebraska78, password: child78

The library's winter hours are as follows: Monday through Friday, 12:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Our phone number is 375-3135 and fax number is (402) 375-5772. (Fax charges $1 per page)

Water study will be conducted next week

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) and Olsson Environmental Sciences, Inc. will conduct field investigations near Wayne during the week of Sept. 20 to determine if ground water contamination exists in the vicinity of a former grain storage site.

Sampling will take place approximately one-half mile south of Wayne on Highway 15.

No contamination is known to exist in the study area, but the potential exists due to a federal grain storage facility having once been located in the area.

The Wayne study is part of NDEQ's on-going effort at numerous communities in Nebraska to evaluate the potential contamination from former federally operated grain storage facilities.

Many of these facilities were once used to provide long-term surplus grain storage during World War II and post-war eras. From the late 1940's through the 1960's, carbon tetrachloride was used in pest fumigants sprayed on stored grain.

Use of those chemicals for grain fumigation was discontinued in the early 1970's. However, small quantities of the fumigant-related chemicals have been detected in private and/or municipal wells near the grain storage facilities at several of these sites.

"The department is using innovative technology called direct push techniques to collect the needed soil, soil-gag and ground water samples," said NDEQ Superfund Section Supervisor David Halderman.

"The advantage of the new technology is a faster, more productive and cost-effective investigation without the need for large conventional drilling equipment and the time and cost of restoring land and cleaning up the mess created by normal drilling operations."

Sampling activities for the study will not cause any traffic disruptions. The field effort should take two to three days to complete.

Survey to take place for area historic buildings

The Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office has announced that an historic buildings survey of Wayne County will take place in the fall and spring of 1999-2000.

Several public forums are being planned to explain the nature and purpose of the survey, answer questions and solicit information from the citizens of Wayne County.

A "kick-off" public meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 21 at 7 p.m. at Riley's Ballroom in Wayne.

The meeting will consist of a presentation followed by an opportunity for questions and public input.

The historic buildings survey will identify historic structures throughout the county and its completion will assist citizens and elected officials of Wayne and Cuming Counties with planning, tourism promotion and economic and community development.

The survey will also serve as a new source of information about the history and development of the county and, it is hoped, provide support to and information for the Wayne Main Street program and the Wayne County Historical Society.

The survey will serve as a forum and promotional tool to assist in the development of a Northeast Nebraska historic preservation advocacy organization.

This project is administered by the Nebraska State Historical Society's historic preservation office. Funding, in part, is provided by a federal grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior, National Park Service.

Anyone with questions about the Wayne and Cuming County Historic Buildings Survey should contact Bill Callahan, survey coordinator at 1-800-833-6747.

Learn what you can from each, move on and keep learning," McGilvrey said.

A recipient of the 1998 "Excellence in Teaching and Professional Achievement" award from the University of Nebraska - Omaha (UNO) Art Department and a 1998 Nebraska Arts Council Fellowship winner, McGilvrey has lived in Omaha since 1982 and teaches at UNO and Metro Community College. She attended graduate school at Penn State to earn her master of fine arts degree and studied as an undergraduate at Luther College in Decorah, Iowa.

McGilvrey has shown extensively throughout the state including Kearney, Omaha, Lincoln and Bellevue.

In addition to showing in Nebraska, McGilvrey has exhibited her work at Iowa Western Community College in Sioux City, Iowa; Oregon State University in Corvallis, Oregon; the Rochester Art Center in Rochester, Minn.; Pennsylvania State University in University Park, Pa.; Bloomington Art Center, Bloomington, Minn.; J.B. Tollet Gallery in Austin, Texas; MacNider Museum in Mason City, Iowa; Augsburg College in Minneapolis, Minn.; Sioux City Arts Center, Sioux City, Iowa; and University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, Minn.

Her professional organization memberships include the National Women's Caucus for Art, Nebraska chapter. She has served as president and has continued to serve as a board member for the past years. She has also been involved in the National Conference on Education in the Ceramic Arts.

The Nordstrand Gallery is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. when classes are in session. For more information, call the WSC fine arts division at (402) 375-7359.

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL — An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gull Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446.

ARTH-Rx is available locally at WIN! PLACE! NO SHOW!

Three things may occur when a home is placed on the market. It can win - the home is sold at an acceptable price. It can place - the home is shown, but another competing home is purchased. It may also experience "no showings" at all.

The first thirty days are critical. That period offers compelling information about the prospects for a successful sale. When priced fairly (no higher than market value) and offered in model home condition, a home is likely to be shown repeatedly and will probably sell at or near the asking price.

If priced above market or offered in need or repairs, showings may be less frequent. Prospective buyers will compare the home to others priced more favorably and then purchase the other home.

If the home is rarely or never shown, a price above market may be the obstacle.

Experienced sellers recognize the importance of a viable marketing plan, accurate data upon which to base pricing decisions, and continual updating of market conditions. They know the experience, training, and expertise of their agent will lead to a big "WIN!"

Providing edge for small businesses

Over the past decade, the explosive impact of small businesses on the United States economy has drawn the attention of policy makers and economic developers alike. And, with good reason!

Information from the 1992 Small Business Administration Office of Advocacy showed that in Nebraska micro businesses (businesses that employed less than five employees) accounted for more than 91 percent of all businesses in the state and contributed 20 percent of the state's payroll and proprietors' income.

These businesses are located in communities and on the farms.

tion working together to create and retain jobs in Nebraska communities. More than 150 private businesses, organizations, associations and individuals are involved in the Edge training programs through their local coalitions. These community coalitions work together with the Center for Rural Community Revitalization and Development to conduct the training program. Each coalition member is equally important in the decision making process and serves as an advisor to the program.

Types of training. The Nebraska Edge currently offers four training programs for start-up and existing businesses. These programs are as follows:

They are auto repair shops, bakeries, jelly makers, tool and die shops, restaurants and crafters, just to name a few. The list is endless, but the impact reaches far into the community, providing jobs and economic security.

To assist these entrepreneurs and rural economics, many small and micro business programs have been developed to provide entrepreneurs with training, technical assistance and lending opportunities. The Nebraska Edge is one such program.

What is the Nebraska Edge Program? The Nebraska Edge (Enriching, Developing and Growing Entrepreneurs), located at the University of Nebraska, is the umbrella organization for rural entrepreneurial training programs that are hosted by local communities, organizations and associations. Since 1993, the Nebraska Edge has assisted more than 900 individuals, entrepreneurs, small business owners and their partners start and improve their business. Over 50 training courses have been held from Scottsbluff to Omaha, and in many communities in between.

The Nebraska Edge represents business, government and educa-

1. Business start-up: This 36-hour course is for those individuals who are wanting to start a business but don't know where to begin. Course instructors will walk participants through the process of developing a feasibility study for their business, looking at the legal structures, potential markets for their product or service and start-up costs of the business.

2. Entrepreneurs: This 40-hour course is for people who are serious about starting a business and/or are currently operating a small business. During this course, participants will develop a marketing, financial and complete business plan. Course instructors guide participants through the process of industry research, pricing, promotion, cash flow analysis, profit and loss statements, projections and even exit strategies for selling the business.

3. NEW! Agricultural Entrepreneurs: This 25-30 hour course is specifically designed to assist farmer, rancher and gardeners who want to direct market an agricultural product. Participants will explore the different distribution channels needed to get their products to market, such as farmers, CSA's, delivery routes, Internet sales, mail orders, grocery store chains, etc.

During the course, participants may decide to explore the niche markets of organic, sustainable and other value-added products. Instructors will also assist participants in exploring costs of production and cash flowing the operation.

4. NEW! Human Resources On-Line: Developed especially for past graduates of the Edge training courses, this self-directed Internet training course will assist entrepreneurs with the process of hiring staff to work in their businesses.

Having an instructor assist the participant as they work through the course is optional. Business owners can explore the various personnel issues, from employees vs. contractual labor, position descriptions, to the do's and don'ts when terminating an employee.

The course is currently offered free to the public on a trial basis. To enter, go to Nebraska-Edge's Personnel Online, www.ianr.unl.edu/nebraskaedg Individuals wishing to participate in any of the four training programs listed above should contact the Nebraska Edge Program at (800) 328-2851. Most training courses will be offered in the Fall of 1999 and Winter 2000.

Other small business assistance. Besides the Nebraska Edge, there are numerous programs in Nebraska that provide micro lending, technical and training assistance. The Nebraska Enterprise Opportunity Network (NEON), a micro business trade association, has developed an easy to navigate website that provides information on the programs available in each county in Nebraska. The NEON web site is <http://neon.ded.state.ne.us>

New Recreational Trail Planned At Willow Creek State Recreation Area

A grant has been approved by the Nebraska Environmental Trust fund to construct a combination breakwater/recreation trail structure on the west end of the Willow Creek reservoir near Pierce.

Lower Elkhorn NRD Assistant Manager, Ken Berbey, said, "The grant for $210,000 will be more than enough to complete the project." The NRD also received $42,000 last year for the project from the state Scrap Tire Recycling Fund, so the dollars actually required from the Environmental Trust will be less, Berbey said.

Construction started this summer on the 650-foot-long breakwater jetty that will extend across the lake and be a base for a trail and maintenance road. The structure will inhibit wave action in the upper end of the lake and will create a sediment pool to extend the life of the reservoir. The structure will include a 25-foot long bridge that will allow water from Willow Creek to feed the lake. One aspect of the construction that is unusual will be the use of bales made of compacted tires. The design was created by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

There will be 2,145 bales inside the breakwater structure. Each bale will consist of 100 compacted tires. The tires will be covered with rock riprap and finer rock as a base for the trail.

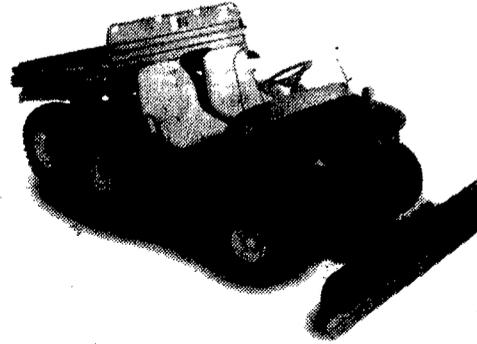

The Lower Elkhorn NRD applies for federal funds to start the initial trail state, but the proposal has not yet received funding.

Eventually, the goal is to have a trail that follows the road leading to the lake from the city of Pierce. The trail will continue all the way around the lake, including the breakwater structure.

The Willow Creek grant was one of several made to area projects by the Environmental Trust. Funds from the Trust come from the state's share of Nebraska Lottery proceeds.

Marriage lasts despite differences

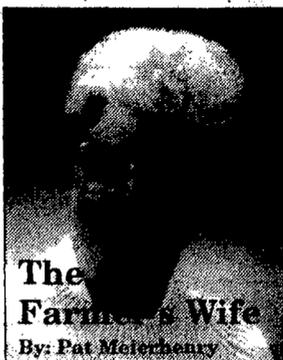

The Big Farmer and I did not have the benefit of pre-marital counseling 39 years ago. I don't know if it would have made a difference or not. I had agreed to attend his church, so that was one area of controversy settled. We eventually opened separate bank accounts, so that my casual bookkeeping didn't upset his meticulous farm accounting.

We never did agree on parenting techniques, and that caused far more arguments than I had ever dreamed it would. We remodeled an old house; and agreed never to build one.

Eventually the children grew up and we moved to another old house that had already been remodeled.

But we are presently into our annual discussions about temperatures in the old house. He maintains I have a two degree tolerance, and he may be right. I frequently use the air conditioning one day and the furnace the next.

I love this time of year when it's in the 40's at night and in the 70's during the day. I open the windows. He goes around shutting them at night, because we shouldn't cool off the house so much we have to warm it up in the morning.

By: Pat Meierhenry

In other words, keep your hands away from that thermostat! He can just see the meter going round.

I just read an article about the covenant law in Louisiana that makes it harder to get a divorce. It requires counseling. Further, it requires counselors to be pro-marriage instead of pro-divorce.

The change in counseling came about because experiments showed that couples who stayed together fought as frequently, and over precisely the same things, as did couples who split up.

In other words, we all have irreconcilable differences. Some have learned ways of talking about them. Or ignoring them.

For me, 39 years have taught the same lesson the child psychologists tried to tell me; save the battles for the important things. I close the windows at bedtime. I'll put on a sweat shirt in the morning.

It's strange, after 39 years, there don't seem to be any "big battles." He doesn't chide about the books I buy. We try not to tell the kids how to raise the grandkids. We still don't plan ever to build a house. I'm not sure it's even worth remodeling another kitchen.

And we just thank God that we got here even without counseling, because there certainly were days when we could have used it! There have been some big battles!

Reserve champion exhibitors
Katie Behmer, 13, of Hoskins (above) exhibited Rocky, reserve grand champion and Division II crossbred steer champion at the 4-H Market Beef Show. The 1,270 pound steer had an average daily gain of 2.83 pounds and hip height of 55.3 inches. From left to right are Judge Russ Danielson of Fargo, N.D., Valentino's representatives, Stephanie and Governor Mike Johanns and Katie; who is the daughter of Jon and Peg Behmer. Katie received $500 from Valentino's of Lincoln and $350 from J.C. Robinson Seed Company of Waterloo. Below, Dawn Koepke, 15, of Hoskins exhibited AKF High Quality 4-H, the reserve champion Simmental yearling heifer at the 4-H Breeding Beef Show. She received a jacket and cash award from the Nebraska Simmental Association. She is the daughter of Larry and Diane Koepke.
