City Council listens to electric distribution date

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Wayne City Council listened to a report on what needs to be accomplished over the next 10 years in regard to electric distribution during Tuesday's meeting of the Council.

Curt Dieren, P.E. of DeWild, Grant, Reckert & Associates presented an overview of the study conducted by his firm.

He listed a number of positive aspects of the Wayne electrical system as well as problems that need to be addressed.

The proposed improvements have been divided into two parts, Phase I which is estimated to cost $1.1 million and Phase II, which would include a new substation for the city and is estimated at $2.9 million.

Two resolutions were passed during the meeting.

The first will adopt the mission statement of the Wayne Resolution Team while the second accepted a bid from Christiansen Construction Company of Pender for Sidewalk Improvement District No. 2000-01.

Several residents were on hand to question the council on the sidewalk issue.

Arline Ulrich told the council that he was informed that bids for the project had been cancelled. He also said that a meeting held earlier this year on the subject of sidewalks was never recorded.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau stated that the meeting was a public information meeting, held just prior to a regular meeting, and action to create the sidewalk district was recorded in the minutes of the meeting.

Melvin Claussen, who also lives in the sidewalk district, questioned why sidewalk was necessary on his property and where the sidewalk would be placed.

Vern Schulz, Public Works Superintendent, said that his department will meet with all property owners before the sidewalk is installed.

Final approval was given to an ordinance which will amend the city code to allow for the hiring of relatives of public officials and public employees. The relatives may not be under direct supervision of the public employee or official.

The city will change insurance carriers following action taken at the meeting.

Zoning response wanted

Dear Editor,
We understand from "several sources" that another huge dairy is about to locate in Wayne County.

One reason for this may be that Blue Bunny is willing to place a new plant in the city of Wayne, according to one source, if "at least two" huge dairies are nearby. We understand that Wayne Industries has been contacted about this. There is already a considerable smell, especially in summer and early fall, in Wayne from the first big dairy.

What level of odor would two or more provide? What would prospective students and their parents think about this on visits to Wayne State College? What would "snowbird" couples think, back for the summer from Sun City or elsewhere — would the "snowbirds" consider a new location for the summer months? If so, bye bye to grandma and grandpa for some children in the area.

In order to prevent more huge dairies and/or huge hog operations from invading Wayne County, we need to have county zoning. There was a heated debate during an unsuccessful campaign in 1994-95 to secure Wayne County zoning. Many were afraid of potential government interference in their lives. Perhaps we should set aside our fears and reassess our needs.

Recently the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature tried to do something about the fact that there are now, in the year 2000, only three counties in Nebraska out of 93, without county zoning commissions. They nearly had enough votes to mandate a county zoning commission for Wayne County on THEIR terms.

We think it would be better for the Wayne County Commissioners to set up such a commission in the near future on OUR terms. The only way this can be accomplished is for rural residents, mostly, to convince the Wayne County Commissioners that this is what they want. (Echoes of the 1994-95 battle still remain). People in the city limits of Wayne are also represented by the Commissioners and should feel free to contact them, especially if the idea of smelling additional dairies and/or hog operations doesn't appeal to the senses.

There are environmental impact considerations as well. Water quality in the area could go down due to problems with disposal of huge quantities of manure.

You will soon receive a postcard from the Wayne County Commissioners asking for your opinion on county zoning. Please consider carefully what you want the future of Wayne County to look like, fill out the card and return it! Or, don't wait for the card to arrive. Send a letter to the County Courthouse today.

What can be learned from Cedar County to help us decide our future? There was a heated battle several years ago led by seven farmers who were concerned about their water sources one mile away from a threatening huge hog operation trying to locate there.

They successfully fought off this giant corporation (fifth largest hog producer in the USA) and then successfully waged another campaign — to get Cedar County zoning.

Please take note that this latter campaign took another YEAR after the hog operator bowed out in defeat and left the area. One reason Cedar County residents were unhappy with this particular producer is because the head CEO told them they would bring in all their own supplies and have their own veterinarians.

Sally Schroeder is the wife of a Cedar County vet and also a reporter for the Norfolk Daily News and has an amazing story to tell anyone who is interested.

It is also possible that a lesson can be learned from a recent A & E cable TV program on the "Ten Best Cities" in the USA. Their size criteria was 20,000 or more population. All 10 had at least one college or state university in their city. Each community over the years had waged a campaign to maintain a way of life good for preventing crime and promoting health, economic prosperity and happy families.

When we lived in southern Oklahoma (1989-90) and were considering a job offer here, we asked friends who had recently moved from Nebraska to a town in Oklahoma the size of Wayne, what they knew about this town.

They said, "In Nebraska, people think Wayne is a great place." They may have said "neat place."

In regard to the "Ten Best Cities" Do we want to be a great place like Oregon residents think Eugene is? Like North Carolina residents think Chapel Hill is? Do we want to strive to model our "Wayne, America" after places like Fort Collins, Colo? Burlington, Vt. or Maryville, Tenn? Or do we want to be surrounded by huge dairies and possibly some hog operations, but have a yogurt plant?

Fill out those postcards and send them back

Wayne

Riley's deserves thank-you

Dear Editor,
The closing of Riley's should not pass without a word of thanks to Rod and Loreta Tompkins for what they have given to the community through the establishment and operation of that facility.

For the better part of the last decade, Riley's has been the place where so many of us, at one time or another, have observed our special occasions. As a result of the investment and effort of the Tompkins we had access to a facility where we could celebrate the meaningful events in our lives with a touch of elegance and class.

Given the wide scope of entrepreneurial involvement of the Tompkins it certainly is not surprising that they should desire to be free of the oversight of such a demanding endeavor.

While we share the sadness of seeing Riley's close, we thank them for the memories they have accommodated and we hope that a successor is found to continue to offer the facility to the community.

Mills career accomplishments noted as he retires from office

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Jack Mills is retiring as the executive director of the Nebraska Association of County Officials.

Forget the traditional retirement watch. This guy should get a gold plated grandfather clock.

Mills is a former lawmaker who hailed from Big Springs. He had been in the fertilizer business out there in the western part of the state. When he came to the Legislature back in the 1970s, some people told him that there would be times in the Unicameral when he'd probably feel like he was still surrounded by fertilizer of one kind or another.

Years later, Mills said that such was never the case. But he acknowledged that, from time to time, the Capitol did get him to thinking about feedlots. Gentleman that he was and is, no matter how closely he was questioned, Mills would never say whether the comparison had to do with the herd instinct found in some lawmakers, or the stuff they were constantly having to scrape off their hooves. Uh, shoes.

There are jobs that would be more fun than trying to represent the interests, hold the hands and respond to the inquiries of officials from Nebraska's 93 counties.

For example, throwing bowling balls into the air and catching them in your teeth would be one. Teaching dinner etiquette to sharks would be another. Chaperoning the three stooges at any solemn occasion comes to mind.

When Mills came on the job some two decades ago, NACO was in sad shape. It was hardly an organization. Mills worked ridiculous hours to help lead the group into another era, one in which it became a recognized force.

Imagine that it's your job to help "the counties" deal with the Legislature. See, you've got your Douglas County interests and you've got your really, really rural interests, and you've got folks in between.

Douglas County often feels it gets the short end when it comes to state aid to education, given what it throws into the state treasury via sales and income tax. You can make that case. Rural counties feel that no one understands them and that they get the short end on everything. You can make that case. The counties in the middle want more new business.

Everyone wants to pay less taxes. Part of Mills' job has been to explain to county officials, new ones and old ones, the workings of the law and the Legislature. This might be comparable to the "teaching dinner etiquette to sharks" thing. When there is blood in the water, it's hard to get everyone's attention.

There were several occasions when I saw Jack Mills visiting with, or confronted by, various county folk who had come to the Capitol in search of change and justice and progress. Of course, all some of them wanted was a chance to kick some lawmakers in the slats, and maybe call them names.

One of my favorite memories has to do with Mills, (tall, distinguished in appearance) being buttonholed in the statehouse rotunda by a 5-foot-nothing fellow in a cowboy hat and what you could call "Nebraska country casual" attire. Mills was trying (and clearly being tried) to explain some element of the latest change involving local property taxes.

"Now, Jack, that's just the thing I want to talk to you about," the man said. "The thing is, we don't want to pay so much of this property tax. I'm thinking you need to get in there and get the Legislature to do something about that, pretty quick!"

With the patience one most often associates with motherhood, sainthood, or dogs that don't bite children who pull their ears, Mills smiled.

"Well, you know, I'm working on that," Mills said. "I'll sure keep you posted."

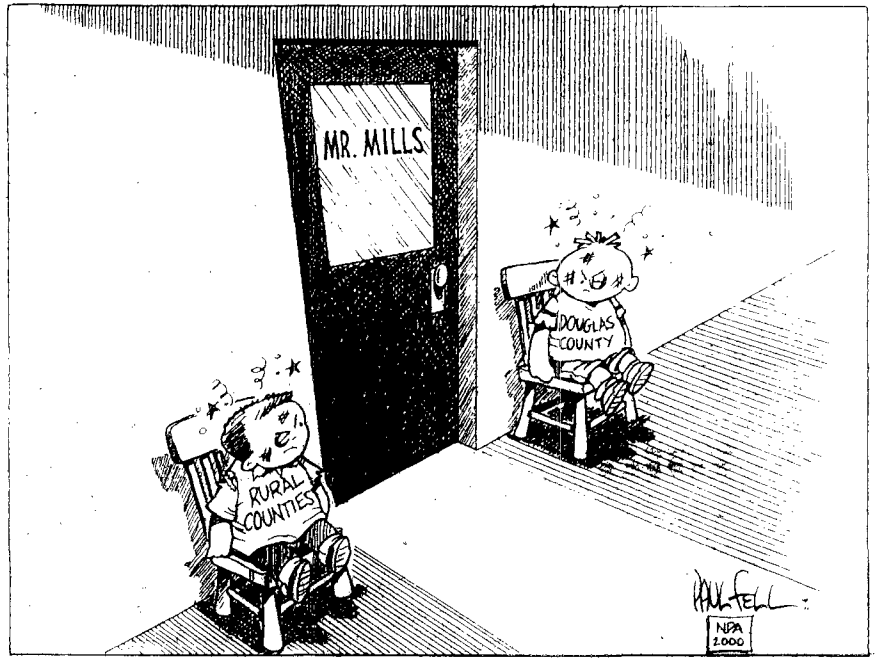

Let it be said that Mills never passed up a chance to work on it.

And, to our best knowledge, he never resorted to primal scream therapy. Not in public, anyway.

We can picture Jack in retirement. Walking with old friends through those cattle pastures of rolling hills in Garden County, he will no doubt be asked if he misses state government.

And, no doubt the time will come when Mills will look wistfully into the eastern sky, and then at his boots, and then say to a companion:

"Well, sometimes it seems like I never left."

Herbs for Health

Avoid Prolonged Use of Licorice Root - Including Smokeless Tobacco

Licorice is a plant that grows to 7 feet in height with runners and burrowing roots. The root and root extracts have been advocated for viral infections, inflammation, menstrual disorders and menopause symptoms. Licorice extracts containing glycyrrhizin and have been applied to the skin to combat herpes, eczema and psoriasis. In the US, the most common use of licorice is a flavor for smokeless tobacco.

The US Food and Drug Administration classifies licorice as "generally regarded as safe" in small amounts. In large amounts or with prolonged use (6 weeks or longer) hyperaldosteronism can occur. With this hazardous hormonal problem, the body retains sodium and loses potassium. Licorice overdoses may lead to heart rhythm irregularities, lethargy, swelling, muscle weakness, and increased blood pressure. In daily uses of 1 and 1 1/2 pouches of smokeless tobacco, high blood pressure has been reported.

The Golden Years

Oseola McCarty, an eighty-six year old woman from Mississippi, wanted to give others the opportunity she never had. She spent her life working diligently - taking care of sick family members and working outside the home as a laundress. When she passed away a few years ago, she had a life savings of one hundred fifty thousand dollars. She left a will stating that she wanted to establish an academic scholarship at the University of Southern Mississippi; something she considered a simple gift of charity.

WSC baseball team falls to Winona St.

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Sometimes things just don't go as planned. The Wayne State baseball team controlled their own destiny heading in to the final week of the regular season with a four-game home stand.

A sweep of league-leading Winona State and a little cleanup with Concordia-St. Paul and the NSIC crown would be in the 'Cats bag.

However, a dismal performance against Winona State led to a let-down in game two with the visitors, thus a surprising sweep by the Warriors.

WSC also split its twinbill with Concordia for a disappointing 1-3 weekend.

"It wasn't thought out to go this way," coach John Manganaro said. "We believed and knew we could beat Winona State and we just didn't get the job done. Our defense let us down and then we couldn't throw a strike in the seventh inning of that first game with Winona."

WSC led 12-7 going to the seventh inning, only to have Winona State score five times to tie the game before adding two in the eighth to post a 14-13 victory.

WSC also dropped the second game, 3-2 as Winona State scored the winning run in the final inning.

WSC took a 4-0 lead on Winona in the first inning of game one and despite the game being tied at four, scored six times in the fourth to take a 10-4 lead.

WSC out-hit the visitors, 15-13 as Andy Schultz and Joel Tremblay each had three hits to lead the way. Schultz had a double and two singles and Tremblay, three base hits.

Brian Zimmerman and Eric Fitch each had a homerun and single with David Muryn belting a double and single. Joey Baldwin also had a double with Rob Watt and Gary Redden each netting singles.

Chad Walker took the loss from the mound and was the fourth of five pitchers in the game.

Brady Borner started and went 4 2/3 innings before Josh Stolpe came in for relief. Adam Walkenhorst followed with Walker and Pat Coghlan also seeing action.

In game two Aaron Hyde went the distance before suffering his first loss of the year.

WSC was out-hit by a 9-4 margin with the 'Cats notching all singles from David Muryn, Eric Fitch, Andy Schultz and Mike Blohm.

Saturday, WSC won the opener with Concordia-St. Paul, 5-2 as Tate Meier earned the pitching win in his final career home start.

WSC doubled the hit out-put of the visitors, 14-7 as Eric Fitch led the way with his 10th homerun of the season along with a double and single.

Gary Redden singled three times while David Muryn doubled twice and Andy Schultz singled twice.

Joel Tremblay, Brian Zimmerman, Sergio Ruiz and Josh Stolpe each singled.

The regular season record ended at 31-17 with an 11-5 NSIC mark after the 'Cats fell in game two, 10-1.

Kavanaugh resigns

Wayne State College head cross country and track and field coach Brian Kavanaugh has resigned from his positions effective May 31 to pursue other interests, interim director of athletics Mike Barry announced Wednesday.

"It is of course a bittersweet time for me," Kavanaugh said. "I've been here a fairly long time and have enjoyed what I have been doing. I will miss the athletes I have now, and I'm sure I'll miss coaching. However, this is a good time in my life for me to make a change."

During his seven-year tenure, Kavanaugh's athletes have broken school records 99 times in 45 events. He also produced the school's first five NCAA Division II All-Americans, including 1996 55-meter dash national champion Lamart Cooper, and three-sport All-American James McCown (cross-country, indoor track and outdoor track).

His track and field teams have often been ranked in the top 25 in the NCAA Division II Team Dual-Meet rankings over the years, with his men currently ranked 19th and the women ranked 23rd.

Kavanaugh

"What I've been most proud of are the academic accomplishments of my athletes and teams," said Kavanaugh.

Under Kavanaugh, his athletes and teams have earned 28 GTE Academic All-America or national All-Academic awards since 1994.

His 1996 men's track team was ranked first among all NCAA Division II track teams academically, as was his 1998 women's track team. In all, his teams have ranked in the top five nine times during that period.

"Wayne State College is losing not only a quality person, but also one who has done an incredible job with limited resources," Barry said. "The cross country and track programs have produced many outstanding student-athletes during Brian's tenure. We will miss Brian as a friend, and for his many talents and hard work."

The Wayne State track and field teams will wrap up the outdoor season this weekend at the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Duluth, Minn.

Nelsen also shined in league play. An All-NSIC First Team pick, Nelsen was second in the conference in blocking at 1.29 blocks per game and eighth in attack percentage at .275. In addition, Nelsen was the runner-up in the NSIC Newcomer of the Year balloting.

selected to the GTE Academic All-America First Team, as well as being chosen as a Burger King Football Scholar-Athlete of the Week. In recognition of his accomplishments on and off the field, Burger King donated $10,000 in Shabram's name to the WSC general scholarship fund.

On the field, Shabram started eight of the Wildcats' 11 games this season.

He anchored an offensive line which is averaged nearly 430 total yards per game, which was 16th in the NCAA Division II national statistics. A three-year starter, he was named to the All-NSIC Second Team.

On the track, she won the 800-meter run at the NSIC Indoor Track and Field Championships, establishing a conference record in the process.

Krienke, a NCAA Division II Cross Country Coaches National All-Academic Team member in 1999, was Wayne State's No. 1 and 2 runner all season. Krienke, who also is

Although they did not win either award, Shabram and Krienke are recognized by the NSIC as Wayne State College's Phillips 66 Honor Student-Athletes.

Students will receive honors

Kelli Rastade of Allen and Mary Boehle of Wayne, both eighth graders, have been selected to receive a Husker/Olympic Alumni Salute. Nearly 250 eighth-grade student leaders from across the state have been invited to the second annual Breakfast for Champions May 19 in the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

Their parents are Allan and Marcia Rastade of Allen and Gary and Pam Boehle of Wayne.

Sponsored by the Nebraska Alumni Association, the U.S. Olympic Committee and Ak-Sar-Ben, the event features past and present Olympic athletes with Nebraska ties and former Husker football players who made it to the pros.

Olympic hopeful and Nebraska grad Tressa Thompson will give the keynote address. Thompson, a native Nebraskan from Bloomfield, is one of the nation's top shot putters training for the Sydney Olympics in September. Her speech will commend the students for their achievement in school and urge them to continue to succeed in academics, leadership and their communities.

Each eighth-grade student leader, nominated by his or her school's administrators, will receive a Gold Medal of Achievement and a certificate at the breakfast. The day also includes time for participants to interact with the athletes at an autograph session, tour campus and meet university professors.

We want to build up the program to the point where we are able to provide the newsletter to additional classes," said Nancy Wherley, a member of "For the Love of Animals."

"We discuss the articles as a class and the students do the activities. Then the students take newsletters home. The students really enjoy them and we have learned from them," said JoAnn Benschoff, one of the fourth grade teachers.

The Wayne Herald

Getting active, staying active

Physical activity means more than just fitness. It can reduce our risk of heart disease, adult-onset diabetes and high blood pressure. It helps us maintain strong bones and joints (protecting against osteoporosis) and guards against excess weight. It can increase energy levels, boost self-esteem, and reduce feelings of anxiety and depression. Regular activity also has an important role in cancer prevention.

Becoming more active doesn't just challenge our bodies—the mind has work to do as well. Sometimes our own doubts or high expectations can keep us from being our best. Even the most enthusiastic start to exercise can fizzle out after a few weeks.

Motivation is the one thing that will keep you going through busy days, bad weather and tired spells. That's why it's important to have a positive attitude toward physical activity. It's not something you really ought to get around to. It's something you deserve that will enrich your life for years to come. Following are some hints to help you get started and stay motivated.

*Try exercising with a friend or family member. You will have someone to share your experiences with and you are less likely to skip a session if it means letting someone else down.

*If you get bored easily, change activities frequently to keep your mind alert and your body challenged.

*Realize improvements don't happen overnight. Keep a fitness diary to chart your progress and see how far you have come.

*From time to time, push yourself by trying to go a bit further or a bit faster. Personal challenges keep you entertained as well as continually improving fitness.

Sandy Hatter
Dixon County

*Enter an event. A goal—such as a walk or run for charity, a swim-a-thon or a cycling event provides a marvelous incentive to keep moving. Start with a comfortable, attainable distance and give yourself adequate time to prepare.

*If you are exercising to lose weight, have patience and enjoy the benefits that come first. It won't be long before you feel more energy, more strength and less stress. A change in weight will take more time, but it will happen.

*Keep in mind that exercise gets a lot easier as your body adapts. Before long, you'll find that physical activity becomes a way of life—something you are eager to get if you have to take a break, something that is one of the most enjoyable and comfortable parts of your day.

I am currently registered to participate in this year's BRAN (Bike Ride Across Nebraska). This is something that provides me the challenge to start exercising every spring. Doing it with a friend is helpful as well. I'm starting slow, but gradually adding more miles. Wish me luck as I build activity into my life. Hopefully you will be doing the same

Remembering veterans

Several members of Wayne Middle School sold pop and candy after school to raise money for the World War II Memorial. The Wayne Middle School then matched the money raised, bringing the total to $200. The money will be donated in memory of Warren S. Swinney who was killed in Iwo Jima during World War II. Those involved included, left to right, Katie Olson, Allison Hansen (Student Council representative), Ryan Hix and Brad Frevert.

Due to illness, Alice Schulte, legislative chairman, was unable to attend.

A program followed the business meeting.

Margaret Stage presented a book review on "School Women of the Prairies and Plains" by Mary Hurlibet Cordier.

Early American schools were very simple and primitive. Log schools were built in the wooded areas and sod schoolhouses on the plains.

Usually the teachers were men school masters. Most of the information from this book came from diaries and letters.

Being a teacher in these early schools was an awesome task. Enrollment could be up to 50 students in grades one to eight.

After the Civil War more women trained to be teachers. However, a prerequisite was that she be unmarried.

Teachers often faced isolation if they taught in the country and found themselves to be custodians, psychologists, counselors, judges, mothers, disciplinarians and many other duties. Salaries were poor. Teachers in the country boarded in the district, others road horseback or walked to school.

Margarite told her audience, "despite all the hardship experiences, our professional ancestors did a wonderful job of educating children of this era."

The next meeting for the group will be Monday, July 10 at the First Methodist Church parlors for a potluck picnic supper beginning at 6:30 p.m. Program chairmen will be Zita Jenkins and Dorothy Park.

Combined effort

Day Camp being planned

Our Savior Lutheran Church and Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries (NLOM) of Ashland have joined together to bring Day Camp to the community.

All area first through sixth graders are invited to participate.

Day Camp provides a week-long program of Bible study, games, songs, creative arts and outdoor education led by an NLOM staff team and area volunteers.

The 2000 Day Camp theme, "Brave Believers encourages campers to come and explore Bible Stories and learn about God's Love, God's call and God's special purpose of each of us. Each day the campers will identify a Biblical Brave Believer that they will focus on. They will learn, like people in the Bible, how believers are called to go out, be brave and spread the Good News of God.

The goal of the Day Camp is to help the participants see how the Bible and the stories in the Bible relate to their everyday lives.

Scheduled for June 12-16, the Day Camp program runs from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The Friday session is from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Families and friends of the Day Campers are invited to join the campers for lunch at noon on Friday. Campers are asked to bring a sack lunch each day except Thursday when participants will have a noon cookout.

A Day Camp for children four years old through kindergarten will be held at the same time with Peg

Webster as the director of this camp. Hours for this camp will be from 9 a.m. to noon each day. The theme for the camp is "Noah's Ark."

Campers will take home a camp t-shirt, a camp cuppie and lots of stories and songs that will help them "Be a Brave Believer."

The Day Camp is under the leadership of trained college-age staff from the Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries. The NLOM staff will be supported in their ministry by volunteers from within the Church. They will be housed by host families in the congregation.

Pre-registration materials are available by contacting the church at 375-2899, Melia Hefti at 375-2157, Diane Ehrhardt at 375-4422 or Peg Webster at 375-1438.

Event well attended

Tractor safety class held

Twenty-seven young people from several area counties attended an informative "Tractor Safety-Live With It!" program on April 29 near Concord.

The event was coordinated by University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension staff from Wayne, Dixon, Dakota, Thurston, Pierce, Madison and Cedar counties. Agriculture education teachers from Laurel-Concord and Allen High Schools also served as instructors.

The students were between 12 and 16 years of age and participated in several hands-on activities including an Internet scavenger hunt for farm safety facts and a tractor driving course.

Some of the other topics that were covered were emergency planning, tractor rollovers and rollover protective structures, lawn mower safety and power take-off (PTO) safety.

Nationally, it is estimated that 103 children under the age of 20 die in farm-related accidents each year. Another 27,000 are injured in farm-related accidents each year. Studies of 460 childhood farm fatalities in Wisconsin and Indiana revealed that half were associated with tractors.

The participants in the safety training were given two take-home assignments.

They were assigned to conduct a safety inspection of their farm and to inspect the slow-moving vehicle emblems on equipment to insure they were present and in good repair.

This program is held every year. For more information, contact the local county extension office.

Producers need to plan ahead

Feed options need consideration

By Jill Heemstra,
Extension Educator

Most of the 2000 calf crop is on the ground and the breeding season is underway or just around the corner.

Most cows in this area are in fairly good condition, with body condition scores of five or six. Chances of rebreeding before pastures dry up is excellent.

What is the concern? If the dry weather continues, these cows could lose a considerable amount of body condition going into fall and winter. Thin cows will produce a calf next spring and milk off even more body condition. The 2001 breeding season (2002) calf crop is the one that could be most affected by dry conditions this year.

Most producers will not allow cows to become that thin and will supplement or dry lot the cows before they get to that point. Planning for this possibility now could save producers a considerable amount of money if that time comes. Supplements and harvested feed costs are usually the largest difference between profitable cow/calf operations and less profitable operations.

Even if we get timely rains, it is unlikely that we will have the large amounts of grass that we have enjoyed the past few years. There are many strategies producers can use to stretch their feed resources and keep feed costs down.

Early weaning calves may be one of these strategies. A lactating cow needs a great deal of feed to maintain herself and milk production. If feed gets short, she will continue to milk as long as that calf is suckling. She uses body reserves to maintain that milk production and will lose weight.

Creep feeding calves will stimulate feed consumption by the calf, but it will not decrease milk production in the cow or help her to maintain body condition.

If you think that early weaning is an option, you need to know what to do with those calves. If you don't have your own feedlot or don't feel you can manage very young calves, find someone who can and talk to them. You may wait until you are ready to wean, there could be more producers with young calves looking for a feedlot.

The price you receive for your calves could be less favorable if there is competition for pen space in the feedlots.

Supplementation for cows will depend on how much forage is available and the quality level of the forage. It will also depend on the nutrient requirements of the cows.

Dry cows or early weaned cows will have much lower nutrient requirement than lactating cows. Watch cows closely for weight loss or test the forage to determine if supplementation is needed. It is important to determine if the cows need protein, energy or both.

Don't overlook by-product feeds as possible supplements. Calculate the cost per pound or per unit of energy and compare to soybean meal, corn or other feeds you are considering as supplements. If the price is right and you can handle the product, there may be some good buys.

Culling cows is another forage-saving strategy. Cows that can't or won't rebreed are obviously the first to go. Pregnancy checking and early weaning calves from open cows can allow you to sell these cows before more cull cows hit the market and the price drops.

Culling cows that are bred but have other problems (disposition, poor udder) offers the chance to sell them as a bred cow instead of a cull cow.

Heifers can be especially difficult to manage during drought. They require much higher quality feed than older cows and will have more trouble rebreeding if they are thin. Consider selling bred heifers this year instead of culled, open heifers next year.

Look at crops as a possible feed source, especially drought or hail-damaged crops. Oats and corn are an excellent forage for cattle. Chopping and haying can be done, but these crops can also be successfully grazed. Grazing will require allowing limited access to what the cattle can consume in a day or two. This method allows a producer to avoid costly mechanical harvesting if there is not enough grain to justify harvest. It also means hauling less manure from the drylot, it that is your other option.

Grazing a crop will usually mean forfeiting the LDP, but crop insurance payments can usually still be collected if a check strip is harvested. Check with your FSA office or insurance agent before grazing these crops.

The current cattle price cycle and widespread dry conditions favor producers who put together a plan for marketing excess and/or cull animals. If you can avoid emergency culling and liquidating livestock or purchasing feed at the same time everyone else is, you can put yourself farther ahead.

Keeping harvested feed costs low while maintaining high levels of reproductive performance are the other challenges facing producers in a dry year.

There is a great deal of information available on most of the above strategies. If you would like to know more, contact me at 375-3310 or jheemstra2@unl.edu

High Cholesterol Medicines: 60% Fewer Deaths!

According to a recent Reuters Health report of a meeting of health researchers, drugs that lower high cholesterol and blood fat levels can decrease one's risk of death. Persons shown to benefit most had chest pain and/or a recent heart attack. Researchers found that after only 6 months, 1.3% of a group of individuals on high cholesterol medicines died. However 3.7% of persons not receiving such therapy died—representing a 60% reduction in death risk. One researcher predicted that early use of these medicines after heart attack "may become the standard of care."

Many persons who receive prescription medicines for high cholesterol or high blood fat levels often stop taking them or take them in an irregular manner. If you have questions about such medicines, talk with your physician or pharmacist.

The 20/20 Call to Action

Here's what the public heard:

On Friday, February 25, ABC's popular television show 20/20 aired a segment entitled "Danger Before Your Eyes". This segment issued an important warning to consumers about the dangers of improper windshield replacement. With over 11 million windshields replaced each year, experts say that many mistakes are made because technicians are either sloppy, or haven't been trained properly. There is an obvious need for training to do the job right.

Barbara Walters:
"How does someone know where to go to get the right kind of treatment for the windshield?"

Arnold Diaz:
"No matter who you call, the experts advise you may want to ask them 'are you certified by the National Glass Association?' Ask not just the shop, but the person who is actually putting the windshield in, the installer, if they are certified."

YES! Tom's Body & Paint Shop, Inc. is certified by the National Glass Association.

NGA offers training and certification programs in auto glass repair and replacement.

National Nurses Week observed

Nurses deserve recognition

Today, May 6, is Nurses Day. As a newly retired nurse, I've worked 20 hours this week! But it's okay, I volunteered, and it was easy work, as nursing goes. It was in daylight hours, sitting most of the time, and one on one with people I was interviewing who have applied for long term care insurance. And, they were basically healthy! One couple, past 80, had recently retired from calling and teaching square dancing.

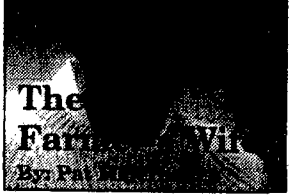

I serve on an advisory board for the diploma nurse program at Southeast Community College. Last month, the meeting brought out some interesting facts. The average length for nurses on a medical-surgical unit working 12 hour shifts is three and a half years. Shoot! They have just become well experienced by then.

Any of these nurses will tell you that the 12 hours is never just 12; it's 14 or 16. And, they aren't just three a week, they're four or five. Agency personnel are filling in holes in the schedules, and they aren't as helpful as those who are on the same unit day after day. Don't forget that the acuity level of the patients is high. If they were not very sick, they wouldn't be hospitalized.

Further, surveys by accreditation agencies have become forms of harassment. Not a very happy environment in which to practice nursing. I have the privilege of addressing this year's graduating class at Northeast College and I'm struggling with finding positive things to say.

For me, it was the only profession

And, most of the time, I've been proud of it. I hope we can continue the pride, the high standards, and the commitment.

This week, we are very grateful for advanced medical technology and medical professionals who can make miracles happen.

Friend Duane received a heart transplant last month at Duke University Medical Center, he's home, and he had a half hour conversation with the Big Farmer on the phone the other night.

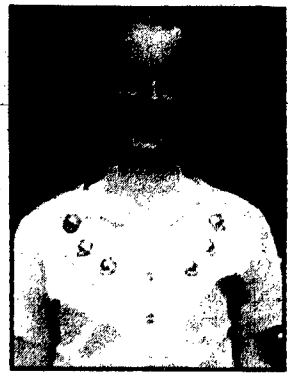

A week ago, little Emma Panowicz had a hole in her heart repaired at children's Hospital in Omaha. She was six weeks old, and it's been a rocky course, with septicemia prior to the surgery. When I visited her in the pediatric intensive care, I was amazed at all the pumps and gadgets and bells. And I didn't envy the nurses working there, both for their technical expertise and the emotional impact of their patients.

My hat goes off to them, and to all nurses who are struggling with all the aspects of their chosen profession. Happy Nurses Week!
