Agenda includes passage of two new ordinances

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

Following a public hearing during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council, the council approved the passage of an ordinance dealing with zoning.

The changes deal with exceptions to the A-1 (agricultural) zoning regulations. They were brought to light following a request by Kent Wilke to place a new and used auto sales dealership southwest of Wayne.

Prior to the passage of the ordinance, the zoning regulations did not allow for the dealership and a number of other businesses to be located in an area zoned A-1.

The new ordinance will now allow those wishing to conduct business such as auto sales, major body repair, mechanical heat and air conditioning, carpenter shops and several others to seek use-by-exception permits to operate these businesses.

Those businesses already in existence will be allowed to continue operation.

The second ordinance passed during the meeting will impose a sales and use tax beginning Oct. 1 of this year.

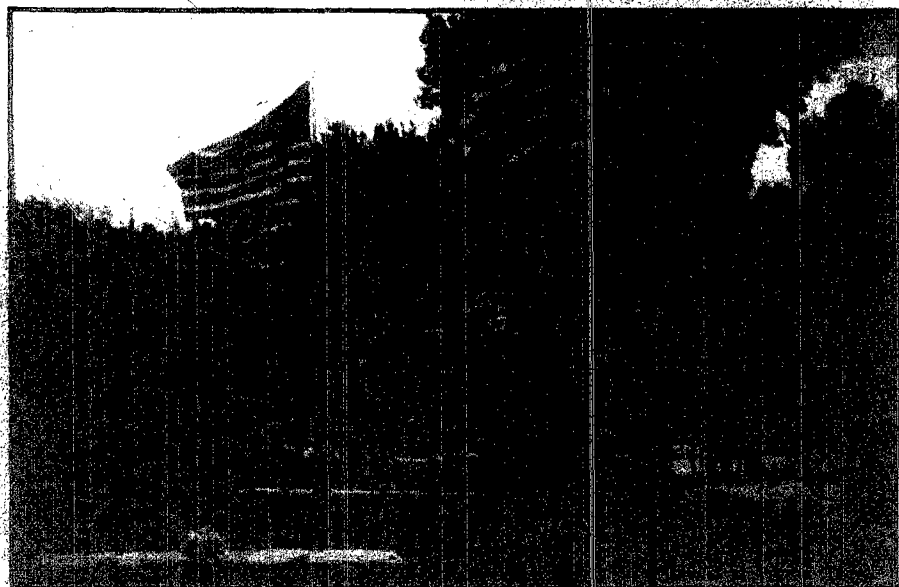

The issue was approved by a vote of 705 for and 633 against in the May 9 election.

Council members listened to an update on the city's CPS/GIS mapping project.

Dan Eisenbraun told the council he was pleased with what has been accomplished during the first two phases of the project. A total of 19 new survey markers have been placed throughout the city and aerial photographs have been taken.

In a related item, the council

Honoring those who served

Flags were abundant at area cemeteries over the weekend as those who served this country in various wars were remembered with flowers, flags and tributes. Above, at Veterans Memorial Park in Wayne, a large crowd gathered to hear music by the Wayne High School Band, listen to the reciting of the Gettysburg Address by Ann Tomma and the Memorial Day message by Hattie Phillips Sherry. Following the service, many lingered to remember loved ones buried throughout the cemetery.

Flying experience shared

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Being at the mid-point in my life, I realize there's a list of things I've wanted to do that I will never get done. I can say that flying an airplane is now not on that list. We may not have mountains close by to ski on (that too is on my list) but we have a big blue sky and a pilot nearby to help us learn to fly.

Having written an article recently on the new management at the Wayne Municipal Airport, now named Reliance Aviation, Inc. Pilot Mike Wetmore asked me if I would like to have a flying lesson and get some aerial shots of Wayne at the same time. Sure, I said, that would be great! From my flight, I found out there is a fine line between fear and excitement.

Introducing me to a pilot's pre-flight routine, he first had me check computer weather maps for conditions in this area. Then I made a call to a man who filled me in on every type of weather fact known to mankind for this vicinity. (I really wish I would have payed more attention in my WSC Meteorology class).

The next step for a pilot to take is to conduct a pre-flight plane check. This consists of draining gas to see if it looks clear, check under the hood, check plane parts with names like static tube, elevators, rudder, props,

Community to benefit from new equipment

Those using the Therapy Department and/or the Wellness Center at Providence Medical will benefit from the recent addition of three machines to the Wellness Center.

The equipment purchase was made possible with money received from the Helen Marie Hensel James Revocable Trust.

According to Diane Peterson, Director of the Providence Therapy Department, "patients who will benefit from the new outer thigh and inner thigh machines include those rehabilitating knees and hips and those with low back pain, including sciatic patients for whom the symmetrical pull of the muscles needed to squeeze the thighs together is crucial."

The new rotary torso machine identifies muscle groups not currently addressed with a abdominal/back machines, which will enable the professional staff at PMC Wellness/Therapy to perform further rehabilitation on back patients.

In an effort to prevent potential work-related injury situations, Providence Medical Center is expanding its scope into ergonomics.

"The rotary torso machine will address the strengthening of all abdominal muscles as well as the muscles of the legs which have been found to be beneficial in preventing potential injuries," Peterson said.

The new machines are located in the wellness center for use with current physical therapy patients and patients who join the wellness center after physical therapy discharge, as well as Wellness Center members.

"Numerous patients who are

Golfer learns lesson in life

By Kevin Peterson
 Of the Herald

Wayne senior golfer Mike Varley captured the individual state championship at last week's State Golf Tournament and though time will tell, he may have learned a vital lesson about life along the way.

The humble champ received numerous accolades for his achievement in leading Wayne to its first state golf title in 11 years but he's quick to share the credit and that suits him just fine.

"Winning State was our only goal all season," Varley grinned. "Adding an individual state championship in the process is just gravy."

Varley said the furthest thing from his mind was topping the 80-person Class B field but he led after day one with an even par 72 by one stroke and he won the title—by one stroke.

"There wasn't anyone including myself that thought this would happen," Varley said. "I went down hoping to break 80 both days. Even after day one when I shot even par my goal for day two wasn't on winning the title, it was on breaking 80 so our team would have the best shot possible at winning state."

A week earlier however, Wayne's thoughts of even qualifying for State were put on hold because the Blue Devils play at districts was anything but stellar.

"I think we as a team put too much pressure on ourselves because we wanted such a low number, hosting the thing and all," Varley said. "We had a lot of expectations and we simply just shot poorly."

Varley said after districts the team got together and decided they had accomplished what they wanted at districts which was a State berth so to make the most of it and prove to the entire state that districts was a fluke.

"I don't think any of us were all that nervous on day one of State," Varley said. "Experience is something that can't be taught and our team was the most experienced at State since all five of us were there last year and we finished third."

Varley went out and was even par after the first eight holes of day one action. "Number nine is a par three of about 230 yards up hill and it just

Workshop helps students create

The Nebraska Center for the Book granted the annual Jane Geske Award for 1999 to the Neihardt/Black Elk Scholar's Project, a project that will take place again June 4 - 10 on the Wayne State College campus with more than 20 students involved.

Under the supervision of Nancy Crump, director of the John G. Neihardt Center, the pilot workshop was made possible by a grant from the Messenger of the Healing Winds Foundation and is under the direction of the Institute of Vision and Learning through the John Neihardt Foundation.

"It recognizes that even our pilot program had potential to be a long-term contribution to education," Crump said of the award. The Jane Geske Award was created to honor Geske as the founding member of the Nebraska Center for the Book.

"There is great excitement over the success of last year's workshop and we are looking forward to the one unfolding in June. We treasure our relationship with Wayne State College," said Charles Trimble, president of the Neihardt Foundation.

He said he feels that WSC and the Neihardt Center are working together to find more ways to teach students.

Students will work with Wayne State College faculty and be housed on campus.

Faculty members involved will be Jim Brummels, Lisa Sandlin, Gretchen Ronnow, Neil Harrison, Ed Ellers and Dr. Don Hickey.

"It's more than just a literary project, it's a program focused to challenge young Native Americans to gain a greater appreciation of their history and culture and to inspire the students to enrich their lives through the power of words," Crump said.

Although the pilot focused on creative writing, this year we plan to broaden the focus. Classes with WSC faculty will cover topics such as writing skills, poetry, fiction, non-fiction and news writing. When the end of the week arrives, students will put together a collective chapbook of their work.

"Wayne State College has been extremely supportive. Part of that support comes from the historical connection the College has with John G. Neihardt. This effort displays the desire of faculty and administrators to encourage young people. I think that WSC has taken a particular interest in Native American students and encouraging them. Being on campus has meant they get a chance to live in a college setting for a short period of time and get an idea of what the expectations might be at the college level," Crump said.

In addition to writing instruction, the previous project included field trips to Omaha and Lincoln. This year the group will again focus on Lincoln with a tour of the state capitol and a visit with the Nebraska Indian Commissioner. They will also visit the State Historical Society's archeology lab and the Morrill Hall Natural History Museum and Planetarium.

"The field trips were planned to give an opportunity for recreation among students from Native American tribes and to give raw subject material for the students to write about," Crump said. "It is an intertribal experience and at the same time gives students an introduction to college."

Wayne State freshman Garin Coons of Winnebago participated in the pilot project last year. Odell Santos, a WSC graduate student from Gordon, will be one of the chaperones this year.

Crump said the workshop could be summed up by a statement that Ed Ellers used in the Humanities Newsletter to describe it. "Native people have such a long tradition of oral literature and yet the needs of today's world are for written material. We hope the workshop will provide an arena where those two worlds can be brought together."

Trip to Branson is enjoyable, relaxing

I admit it, I'm a sappy sentimentalist. And my eyes are filled with tears today as I read the cartoon page, My sis and I never miss that page, and she just called to say that almost everyone is a tribute to Charles Schulz.

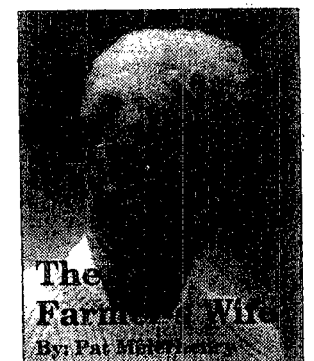

Apparently, there is a big cartoonist's convention, and Bill Keane, creator of Family Circus, is MC. They are awarding Schulz a lifetime achievement award posthumously. Even Gil Thorpe's kids get into the act, with his daughter pulling the football out from her brother. And Garfield is on top of a dog house, and so on. It's great.

When we were in Phoenix last year, we stumbled onto the Sugar Shack featured frequently in Family Circus. There were originals of these cartoons framed all over the place. And, of course, Keane was a good friend of Erma Bombeck's, my heroine. I received two books about her last year. One, a biography, was fascinating. The other, a collection of her best columns, is on my night stand.

They are all part of my strategy to laugh at life. It's really the only way to get through it. We had opportunity to do just that this week as we spent three days in Branson at cousin Paul's time share. The Jim Stafford show had been recommended to us, and it really is funny. He reminds me of Jonathon Winters.

Don and Mary went along, and they wanted to see Bobby Vinton. His music is from their era, and I was having babies then. But most of the songs were familiar, and the Glen Miller orchestra was very easy to listen to.

We also finally made it to Shaji. When we returned from Branson three years ago without seeing his show, my Mom had a fit! So, this time, we went, and had a wonderful time. As Yakoff Mironoff is quoted as saying in his ads, "Only in America could a Russian and a Japanese own theaters in Branson, Mo." It's true. Shaji's show concluded with "The impossible dream."

Today, it's back to business. There is a wedding in Murdock this afternoon and we are hosting six people who are attending. And, we've had to turn down several others. Next weekend is Elmwood-Murdock's alumni banquet, which is bringing more business. After that, it's busy, especially beginning July 1.

There was welcome moisture yesterday, although our gauge shows only half an inch. It's also cooler. Roses are blooming, and irises, and peonies.

I need to get out my flag. I hope I have time on Monday to stop and reflect for a few minutes, at least, on those we remember then.

We've been catching up on the papers we missed last week, especially state track, in which the kid from Wahoo jumped seven feet. He tied a record set in 1984, and we saw that. The Husker men and women both won the Big 12 Track Meet; and that amazing baseball team fought back from the losers' bracket. We're also thinking about the little pitcher from Hawaii who is having a fractured jaw repaired today.

Time to get a load of towels in the washer and take this to Murdock to the post office. Then, back to the newspapers. I'm not very ambitious today.

Flying

and finally step back and look at the plane for any sign of something amiss.

Then comes the scary part of climbing into the pilot's seat where several instruments (with more names that I'm not accustomed to, such as altimeter, heading indicator, and more) that need to be set before take off. A saving grace is seeing Mike's seat has all the same pedals, wheels, and gadgets that my side has.

Time to taxi down the runway. Guess what. All those plane movies where the pilots use steering wheels to turn planes are wrong! Planes are steered with foot pedals which after you get the hang of it isn't hard to do.

As we head down the runway and I'm pulling the throttle for more speed, I'm thinking at this point that piloting an airplane is similar to driving a tractor but then we lift off the runway. OK, now that fine line kicks in!

I have been in commercial planes before but that doesn't compare to the oneness you feel with the sky in a small plane. I admit being scared at first but I had the mistaken idea that if something happened, we would drop like a brick. Wrong! My fears disappear, after a slight heart attack as Mike shut off the engines and shows me what to do in an emergency situation-GLIDE! This is the closest feeling to watching a graceful bird float in the sky. It is a quiet, peaceful and beautiful experience.

Almost landing on an alfalfa field, Mike turns the ignition switch back on and up we go again!

I never thought I could get lost in this area I've grown up in but at 120 miles an hour and up 2,500 feet or more, things look different. I try to show him the farm I grew up on southeast of Wayne but one can quickly fly past what you're looking for.

Then comes turning around. Experienced Mike abruptly turns but when he expects me to turn, we go close to Pender before I have the plane heading north again. I prefer long, gradual, calm turns. No other planes are around anyway so the sky was an open highway.

Coming over Wakefield, the fields look like a patchwork quilt in shades of green and brown. Patterns are formed by irregular shapes and sizes of fields dotted with rows of new corn and irrigation pivots form a bull's eye here and there. The Logan Creek edged with trees snakes along our path. How pretty our area is.

Heading back to Wayne, my journey is almost done. One last new experience to tackle though; landing! Circling the airport and watching the windsock we see which runway is best to land on. A few more buttons and dials to turn and we're heading down to meet the runway.

I have mixed feelings about getting my feet back on the ground. In mid-air there's a vast empty space with no boundaries where you can forget your daily strife. Soon we are taxiing down the runway and it's time to get back to reality.

Everyone should experience the feeling of flying a plane if only for a little while. They won't regret it. I know I don't. Flying lessons are offered at Reliance Aviation, Inc. 402-375-1984, and they would be happy to answer questions anyone may have.

Lynn Sievers of Wayne stands by the 1967 Cessna Sky Hawk 172 airplane at Reliance Aviation, Inc. in which she had a recent flying lesson. The plane is also available for rental purposes.

Eric Shapiro part of Fellowship program

Eric Shapiro, son of Charles and Joan Sudmann Shapiro, is among 26 teenagers from the United States and Canada named to receive 2000 Bronfman Youth Fellowships under a program designed to develop future community leaders committed to the concept of Jewish unity.

This summer, Eric will spend five weeks in Israel with the Youth Fellowships program launched 14 years ago by Edgar M. Bronfman, who is chairman of the Seagram Company Ltd. and president of the World Jewish Congress.

The 26 Fellows, chosen from 317 applicants, were selected on the basis of character, intellectual interests, special talents and leadership qualities. Merit, not financial need, is the standard of selection for this fully funded Fellowship award.

Eric, a junior at Wayne High School, is on the Honor Roll and is active in music and drama.

Eric and his family are members of Congregation Beth Shalom in Sioux City, Iowa.

The 26 Bronfman Fellows for 2000 consist of 13 girls and 13 boys. The group will fly to Israel on June 27, following an orientation seminar in New York City, and will return to the United States on Aug. 2.

They will spend their five weeks in Israel in a program of intensive study, travel and dialogue with members of the educational staff of the Bronfman Fellowship program, as well as with prominent political and literary figures, representing a broad spectrum of views on key political, social and religious issues facing world Jewry.

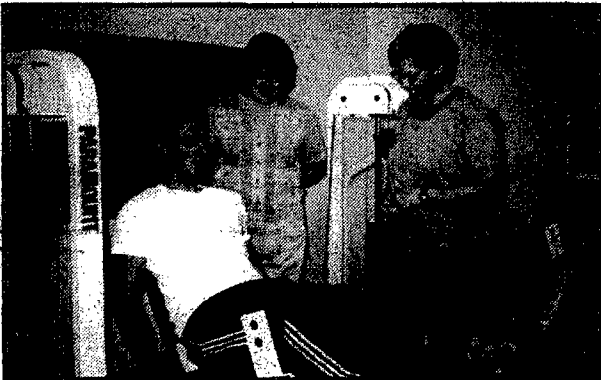

This summer, for the third year running, The Samuel Bronfman Foundation has created a parallel group of outstanding young Israeli high school students, called Amitei Bronfman. This was conceived in cooperation with Mifgashim, a program of Charles R. Bronfman's CRB Foundation which for the past five years has been creating joint educational programming for Israeli and Diaspora youth. The Israeli Fellows, who, like their American counterparts were chosen after a rigorous selection process and represent a cross section of contemporary Israeli society, will have their own educational programming as well as a week-long encounter with the American Fellows.

Eric Shapiro

The Bronfman Fellows, all of whom will enter their twelfth grade of school next fall, come from a variety of Jewish backgrounds--Orthodox, Conservative, Reform, Reconstructionist and unaffiliated. They hail from 13 states and the Canadian Province of Ontario.

The Fellowship program continues long after the summer; Fellows take part in organized alumni activities, including reunions and follow-up seminars throughout their college years, and are eligible for selected internships when they graduate.

Providence Medical Center received an initial trust distribution of $30,000 plus 10 annual installments of $5,000. At the end of the 10-year period, PMC will receive one-third of the remaining trust principal.

Four Reasons to Quit Smoking

Nicotine-containing gum and patches are available without prescription. Sales remain brisk, indicating the desire of many smokers to give up cigarette use. If you still smoke, here are four good reasons to quit now (reproduced from the medical journal Preventive Medicine):

- (1) Your risk of heart attack will drop dramatically. After 2 to 4 years, your risk will actually approach that of a non-smoker. Your risk of having a stroke also will fall.
- (2) Over the next 15 years, your risk of developing lung cancer will drop to about that of a non-smoker. Also, your chances of dying from other types of cancer will drop.
- (3) Women who stop smoking before pregnancy or during the first 3 to 4 months reduce their risk of having low-weight babies.
- (4) Former smokers live longer than people who continue to smoke. If you quit before age 50, you have only half the risk of dying in the next 15 years as compared to people who continue to smoke.

More on education, trade

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It is seldom that consecutive columns deal with a single topic, but this week's effort requires such an approach, at least in part.

Last week we used the departure of John Mackiel from his post as superintendent of the Omaha school district to lead off some thoughts about the funding of education and the frustrations associated with it. Mackiel, we noted, was going to a Minneapolis suburb. He made public his concerns about Nebraska's commitment to education, budget limits, tax, etc.

Then, something really interesting happened. The school board asked him to stay and, eventually, Mackiel said he would keep the Omaha job.

How this occurred is of interest because it represents a scenario about as unlikely as winning the lottery. It represents a scenario that many who labor in fields as diverse as punching cattle to punching time clocks, selling houses to building houses, would envy.

Mackiel's bosses asked him why he was leaving. He cloaked his response in altogether polite and appropriate language. But what he told them was:

"I'm leaving because you guys are a pain in my neck, and other parts of my anatomy, too. You ask me too many questions, you give me too many tasks, you get in my way, you interfere with me doing my job and I've had it. So, I quit! So, there!"

If most folk took such an approach to their employers, they would hear the original or a variation of the old thing about the door closing and being careful about the seat of one's pants. The Omaha school board said, in effect: "Sorry about that, John. How about if we put it in writing that we will, in some areas, just sit down and shut up, and not bother you?"

One hardly knows whether to faint or applaud.

No doubt there are those who would say that Mackiel's approach should be scorned on general principles — the kind espoused by the likes of the late J.P. Morgan, people who run coal mines and some elements within conservative political circles in general.

The episode certainly was and is an interesting one.

Now, then, speaking of this congressional vote on whether to give China a break on trading with the United States:

My, my, as Sen. Ernie Chambers has oft said, how the worm turns.

For decades the war cry of state legislators, especially in breadbasket, Bible Belt states like Nebraska, was one of anti-Communism. Kick 'em out of schools! Don't let 'em into the country! And if they get in the way in some country that most Americans couldn't find on a map, bomb 'em till they cry "Uncle, Sam!"

The anti-Communist spirit survived, but was modified, as the U.S. began to sell food to the former Soviet Union. The theory, some suggested, was that if we're going to have to nuke them some day, we might as well let them have a good loaf of bread, and take their money, before it happens. Using food to get tough on the commies was a big part of President Gerald Ford's undoing.

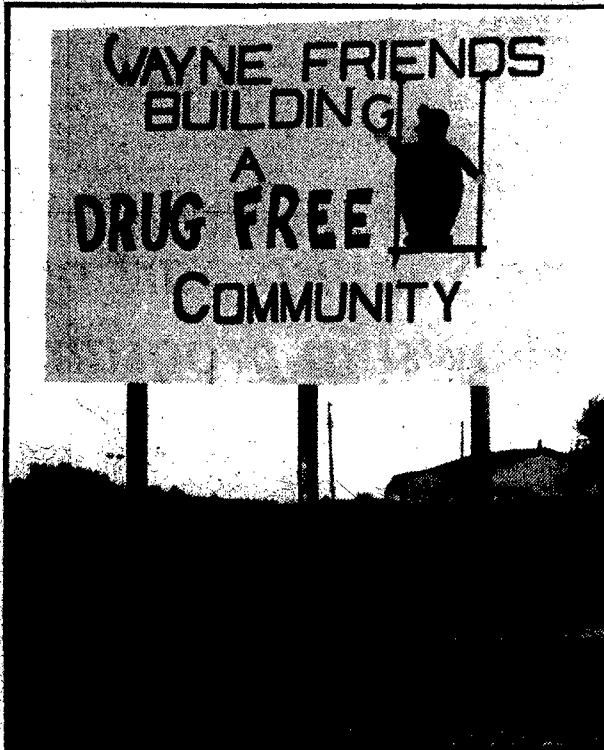

Comes now China. Billions of people. Most of them earn about $1,000 a year, so any real market for American goods is some time off. But, it is a market.

It is also a country whose civil rights abuses would be the envy of the most klunk-head Ku Kluxers. China's civil rights record has improved over the past decade — but that's like saying the French aren't as obnoxious as they were 10 years ago. The behavior in question still remains more reflective of alley-dog justice than anything approaching civility.

But China's work force can manufacture stuff lots cheaper than the American work force. This presumably means the stuff can be sold at lower prices to people who can buy it, like Americans. Presumably, the American market for such goods isn't much dependent on the wages paid to immigrants in packing plants.

Besides, as Bill Clinton and other presidents figured out, the Chinese aren't going to go away, they are philosophically as goofy as a bunch of chickens in a thunderstorm, and they have nuclear weapons. Give them just a taste of the American life, and maybe they will go the way of the Soviets.

A new sign greets motorists on the west edge of Wayne. It was provided by the Wayne FRIENDS group.

Wayne FRIENDS group installs highway sign

Those entering Wayne from the west on Highway 35 have noticed a new sign at the intersection of the highway and Pheasant Run Road, northern of the entrance to the Fairgrounds.

An 8' x 12' billboard has been erected which reads: "Wayne FRIENDS — Building a Drug-Free Community."

The Wayne FRIENDS Drug-Free Youth Group was formed in 1990 by a group of middle school students with adult sponsor Joan Sudmann, middle school counselor.

FRIENDS stands for "Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs." Over the years, the organization has sponsored many youth recreational activities and service projects to promote its drug-free message. The Wayne FRIENDS is supported by Wayne United Way.

The Wayne FRIENDS group is part of a statewide network of drug-free youth groups and members frequently attend retreats and other events in other towns. Coordination for the network is provided by Project Access in Norfolk.

The idea for the highway sign came out of a Project Access "Asset Development" workshop, attended by nine Middle School FRIENDS members in November. At this workshop, led by youth coordinator Karen Shattuck, the young people learned many ways to build on their personal and community assets. The students decided they wanted to create a sign to get their message out to the community and began to work on the project.

The students applied for and received a $389 "Youth as Resources" grant to pay for the materials. A contest for a design was held and seventh grade student Molly Hutchinson, submitted the winning entry and received a 425 prize.

Ted Blenderman, retired art teacher, helped the students enlarge the design onto the billboard.

Committee Chairpersons Marissa Roney (treasurer) and Sean Peterson (historian) and the other FRIENDS officers Mary Boehle (president), Bryan West (vice president) and Rachel Robins (secretary) spearheaded the project.

In addition, Bryan West and Rachel Robins, assisted by Jamie Backstrom and Sara Jensen, conducted an asset development workshop for FRIENDS members in Wayne, to share with other members of the group what they had learned at the Norfolk workshop.

The FRIENDS officers approached Don and Nancy Endicott, owners of Pac'N'Save and received permission to locate the sign on the Endicott's property.

They met with George Ellyson, Wayne Chief Building Inspector/Planner to learn about the relevant zoning regulations. They presented their proposal to the City Council and were granted a permit from the State Department of Road to erect the sign.

A committee of students helped to paint the sign: Alex Wieland, Stacie Hoeman, Sarah Pieper, Amanda Luschen, Dena Kardell, Nathan Shapiro and Nic Judson. Dave Hix, Industrial Technology Teacher, and some of his students erected the sign.

The successes of the year were celebrated with a wienie roast at the Our Savior Center for all Middle School FRIENDS members.

Members of the FRIENDS Highway Sign Project include Amanda Luschen, Sarah Pieper, Dena Kardell, Rachel Robins, Mary Boehle, Marissa Roney and Sean Peterson. Back row, Bryan West, Nic Judson, Alex Wieland, Stacie Hoeman and Nathan Shapiro.

SUMMER PEST SEASON ARRIVES.

Parking ban issue needs to be brought back to voters

Dear Editor,

The parking election in Wayne was tainted, due to some unethical and irregular "behind the scenes" activities. Even though the City of Wayne's position is supposed to be fair and neutral, it is alleged that Mayor Sheryl Lindau intentionally misled the Wayne voters and did a great disservice to the 800+ petition signers and proponents of the midnight to 5 a.m. parking issue. Her involvement may have manipulated the outcome of the parking election, based on the following facts:

- The Mayor added eight (8) words to the ballot language issue, even though those words did not appear on the referendum petition.

- The Mayor omitted one (1) complete paragraph in the ballot language on the parking issue. No omissions were made on the sales tax issue.

- the Mayor inserted a "double negative" into the ballot language to confuse voters. To date, over 23 residents have personally stated to me that the ballot language was not clear.

- The Mayor failed to give both sides the opportunity to agree on the ballot language. Therefore, the ballot language was one-sided, biased and prejudiced.

- The Mayor failed to give an explanation as to the meaning of each voter response (yes/no) on the parking issue. However, an explanation was provided on the sales tax issue.

- The Mayor presented the parking issue in a negative manner, but presented the sales tax issue in a positive manner. This is evident by the language that appeared in three (3) paragraphs contained in the Notice of Election on each separate issue.

The petition circulator and I had a meeting with Mayor Lindau on May 16 to discuss the parking election. The Mayor was very hostile, rude and not receptive to our concerns. We also advised the Mayor that some residents around the college have special parking concerns and that other Wayne residents feel that the parking ban is unfairly enforced; we were met with deaf ears.

It is very clear to me that Mayor Lindau has her own agenda, and it does not include representing the people in our community.

In any event, the petition was filed with the City of Wayne and it contained more than the required number of signatures. For the reasons stated above, Wayne voters did not get a fair and impartial election, but one that was slanted by the actions of the Mayor.

The ballot language should be rewritten, agreed upon by both sides and the parking issue should be resubmitted to the voters in the November general election.

Keith A. Adams,
Wayne

Omaha's Jesse Bradley powers through his drive on hole number nine during the championship round action.

Wayne's Doug Rose chips on to the number five green to within inches of the cup for a tap in par.

Sioux City's Todd Sapp rips into a drive on hole number nine. Sapp would go on to birdie the hole to tie for second.

Jason Peterson claims one-shot victory at two-under par Wayne Men's golf tourney held

The annual Memorial Men's Amateur Golf Open was held last Sunday and it took all 27 holes to determine a champion but when the dust had settled it was a familiar sight at the top of the leader board.

Norfolk's Jason Peterson captured another title with a two-under-par 106.

The former three-time high school state champ from Okland-Craig fired a 70 in the first 18 holes and despite being two-under-par after four holes of the championship round after birdies on holes one and four, settled for an even par 36.

Peterson bogeyed holes six and eight. The outcome however, wasn't determined until Omaha's Jesse Bradley missed a three-foot putt for par on the ninth hole.

Bradley was the front runner after the first 18 holes with a three-under par 69.

"I didn't really feel I hit the ball that well but I putted very well," Bradley said.

Bradley eagled number two and fired an opening round 33 before notching an even par 36 on the back. In the championship round he netted seven pars and a pair of bogeys.

Bradley tied with Wayne's Doug Rose, Sioux City's Todd Sapp and Wayne's Jim Shanks for runner-up honors but through a scorecard playoff he still finished second.

Rose fired a three-under par 33 on the front nine before netting a 38 on the back for a one-under par 71 over the first 18 holes.

In the championship round he came out gunning with birdies on holes one and two but he suffered bogey's on six and eight to finish one shot back of the lead. He netted third place.

Sapp also fired a one-under par 71 over the first 18 holes and he shot an even par 36 in the championship round to net a one-under par 107 and fourth place.

Shanks tallied a 75 over the first 18 holes but blew the field away in the championship nine with an impressive four-under-par 32. He chipped in for eagle on hole five and birdied holes six and seven to leapfrog his way toward the top of the leader board.

Klinton Keller was a member of the state champion high school golf team a week ago and turned around to place sixth in his first Open with an even par 108.

Derek Burshiem of Flandreau, S.D. finished seventh at 109 with Remsen, Iowa's Dogu Boever netting eighth with a 109. Nick Wanderscheid of Sioux City was ninth at 110 and Jon Dimmick of Vermillion, S.D. was 10th at 111.

There was plenty of quality play amongst the nine flights as well with the following people placing.

First flight: Duane Blomenkamp, 74; Jon Misfeldt, 77; Brad Cavitt, 77; Scott Cavitt, 79.

Second flight: Brad Hansen, 76; Robert Prazak, 77; Jon Rotherham, 78; Reggie Yates, 79.

Fifth flight: Grant Elingson, 79; Gary Lubberstedt, 80; Tim Sutton, 82; Gene Claussen, 82.

Sixth flight: Rick Scott, 83; Rusty Parker, 84; Preston Nelson, 85; Thomas Lakowsky, 85.

Seventh flight: Dick Hitchcock, 85; Jim Fairbanks, 87; K.C. Hunter, 87; Roger Oursland, 90.

Ninth flight: Shawn Jensen, 97; Michael Black, 98; Bill Kinney, 101; Milke Wynn, 102.

Wayne Town Team slugs down Fordyce

WAYNE—Wayne's Town Team baseball team defeated Fordyce, 19-9 on Tuesday night in Wayne. Ryan Stoltenberg was the winning pitcher with Chad Metzler tossing the final two innings. Wayne pounded out 19 hits while limiting the visitors to seven. Rusty Hamer paced the winners with two homeruns and a single to go with seven runs batted in. Brian Lentz singled three times with Dusty Jensen ripping a pair of doubles. Robbie Sturm, Jeremy Lutt, Matt Clausen and Chad Dorcay each had a double and single with Robbie Nelson, Darin Jensen and Chad Clausen each netting base hits. Clausen was given a single despite his ball lining off the center field fence because a runner was at third base and his score ended the game due to the 10-run rule. Chad Dorcay crossed home plate five times and Matt Clausen scored four runs. Head coach Mike Meyer said the win was great as his squad improved to 2-3 but he was disappointed with the five errors on defense. Wayne will play at Crofton on Wednesday.

ate my lunch," Varley said. "I shot three over for the entire tournament and on hole number nine I was three over for the two days." Varley erased the double bogey on nine with a birdie on hole 10—a par five that he reached in two. He also birdied hole 13 and went on to post a two-under par 34 on the back for an even par 72 for day one. "I figured I would be in the top five after that score and I have to admit I was a little surprised to see my name at the top of the leader board," Varley said. "My teammates were even a little stunned and since I'd not been in that situation before I really didn't think I had a lot to lose on day two." It didn't hurt that last year's individual state champ, Kinton Keller was a teammate. "Kinton just told me to play my game and not to worry about the score," Varley said. "He's a great leader to our team and though he may have struggled to his standards, he's still our team MVP. We wouldn't have been playing at State had it not been for him."

On day two Varley said his approach was very similar to day one. "I wasn't expected to be in that final group so my thought process was just to go and have fun," he added. Like any golfer will tell you, hitting greens in regulation makes the game a whole lot easier. Varley hit 14 greens on day one and 12 on day two. Although putting may be his number one nemesis, being on in regulation and taking two putt pars is fine by anyone's standards. Varley was parring his way through the front nine when he launched a 9-iron from 140 yards out on number six to with in a half inch of the cup for an easy tap in birdie. He also birdied number eight and went to number nine at two-under-par before he suffered a bogey on that dreadful par three number nine. "I was up three strokes on the closest competition in the group at the turn and that's when I began thinking about winning the state title individually," Varley said. "With in the first four holes on the back nine however, that lead was gone. That's when my focus drifted away from myself and to my team." Varley said he simply thought about how the team needs him more right now than he needs himself. He kept his composure and by the time he reached hole 18, he had his team up by three strokes for the team state championship. "I didn't know where we stood but I knew I wasn't pleased with how I played the last hole, a long par five," Varley said. "I ended up chipping on in four and two-putting for a bogey and when I saw my teammates running towards me I knew we must have won it." There was still some unfinished business however, as Varley at that point didn't realize he'd also won the individual gold medal. "I had heard that Jared Sterr of Holdrege was playing well and I got to know him last summer when Kinton and I went to Florida with him for a golf tournament. I walked past him and he said he had shot back-to-back 74's and that's when I knew my 147 was the best score in Class B." "It's an undescrivable feeling," Varley said. "As a team we posted our two lowest team scores of the year and my best scores of the season before State was 79's at the "Mac" Invite and at Oakland-Craig and then to fire a 72 and 75 in back-to-back days." Though the spoils of victory are sweet, Varley said he was just as excited about seeing the number of Wayne people that showed up to show support including his parents Bryce Lindsay and Cathy Varley. "Having my folks there along with a lot of high school friends, Mr. Metter the support I got from coaches Mr. Hix and Mr. Munson was incredible," Varley said. "The whole team appreciates that kind of support." Mike said he plans to play a lot of golf this summer and get ready for college next Fall where he'll join high school teammate and good friend Kinton Keller on the Wayne State golf team. Varley will major in accounting and business management where continued hard work and persistence will one day, pay off.

Three Natural Ways to Control High Blood Cholesterol

Prescription medicines are available to help persons reduce high cholesterol levels. These medicines are especially important to those individuals who have inherited the trait to overproduce cholesterol. Even with use of these medicines it is important to limit intake of foods containing saturated fat. Therefore, one "natural" way to reduce cholesterol is through attention to diet.

Another natural approach to cholesterol control involves the daily use of the fiber supplement psyllium. This fiber, which some people use to prevent constipation, can reduce cholesterol by as much as 20%. Psyllium apparently interferes with absorption of fats into the bloodstream from the intestine. Another natural approach involves eating foods that contain garlic or using garlic extracts in supplement form. Many studies have shown a significant drop in cholesterol among garlic extract users.

The Golden Years

Actress Betty White, at seventy-seven, feels more recognized today than when she was starring in "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" or "The Golden Girls" on TV. She says after being invited into peoples' homes via television for so many years, fans greet her in person on a first name basis. Even though "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" ended back in 1977, White still loves to catch the reruns. She confesses to having seen the last episode "a million times," but says she still cries when character Lou Grant says, "I treasure you people."

Depression Is Common But Not Normal

Depression is often overlooked in older people because it is a time of life when people experience many losses: a spouse, a job, health, social contact, etc. While six million older persons suffer from depression only 10% get treatment. It is a common companion to heart and lung disease, stroke, diabetes, cancer, and Parkinson's. Depression is real. It's not something that will go away by itself. New medications are available that are safe and effective.

The 20/20 Call to Action
Here's what the public heard:

On Friday, February 25, ABC's popular television show 20/20 aired a segment entitled "Danger Before Your Eyes." This segment issued an important warning to consumers about the dangers of improper windshield replacement. With over 11 million windshields replaced each year, experts say that many mistakes are made because technicians are either sloppy, or haven't been trained properly. There is an obvious need for training to do the job right.

Barbara Walters:
"How does someone know where to go to get the right kind of treatment for the windshield?"

Arnold Diaz:
"No matter who you call, the experts advise you may want to ask them 'are you certified by the National Glass Association?' Ask not just the shop, but the person who is actually putting the windshield in, the installer, if they are certified."

YES! Tom's Body & Paint Shop, Inc. is certified by the National Glass Association.

NGA offers training and certification programs in auto glass repair and replacement.

Chicken soup

Nutritious remedies are discussed

Have you ever wondered why chicken soup helps you feel better when you are down with a cold? Does cranberry juice really help with a bladder infection? What is in these and other foods that might help you feel better?

The chicken soup cold remedy has been around since the 12th century. The link between chicken soup and the easing of cold symptoms has been studied since 1978. Dr. Marvin Sackner, a pulmonary specialist at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach, Fla. found that sipping hot chicken soup helped to clear up congestion better than plain hot or cold water.

Dr. Irwin Ziment, a pulmonary specialist at the University of California-Los Angeles School of Medicine, noted that chicken soup contains drug-like agents similar to those of modern cold medicines. What actually is in chicken soup that might help relieve some cold symptoms still needs to be researched.

Cranberry juice is believed to help decrease the incidence of urinary tract infections. One theory is that cranberry juice increases urine acidity, which neutralizes or kills many types of bacteria. Another theory is that it prevents bacteria from "sticking" to the bladder walls. Some studies have indicated that one to two cups of cranberry juice per day lowers the number of bacteria in the urine and the number of urinary tract infections. Cranberries are a rich source of anthocyanins, believed to be potent antioxidants, which would help urinary tract infections.

Another beverage that may be healthy is tea, which could help reduce risk of a heart attack. Tea contains flavonoids, an antioxidant. It help protect the cells by neutralizing chemicals that might harm the cell.

Soy protein is believed to help lower cholesterol, and reduce the side effect of menopause. However, most research today has been conducted on whole soy foods such as tofu, soymilk and tempeh. According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, about 25 grams of soy per day are needed to have the heart-healthy benefit.

Just remember most of the research that has been done on foods that have health benefit has been on whole foods. Be cautious of supplements and remember to incorporate all the food groups from the food guide pyramid into your diet.

Wayne State to host several summer camps

Wayne State College will host cheerleading and dance camps on June 20-23, for about 130 high school, junior high school and middle school students.

Instructors for the camps will be provided by Universal Dance Association (UDA) and Universal Cheerleaders Association (UCA).

"I believe this is about our 28th year for holding camps. Campers who attend these camps learn routines, etc. that are presented all over the country, so Nebraska is right up there with schools everywhere using the most up-to-date, "in" presentations," said Frank Teach, WSC director of student activities.

Approximately 160,000 cheerleaders worldwide are trained by UCA: UCA camps set the standards for cheerleading safety. They developed the spotting techniques and conditioning used by college and high school programs throughout the country.

"UCA stunt progressions and crowd leading techniques are the best," said Eric Burm, cheerleading advisor, Arizona State University.

Jazz, pom, hip hop, kick, prop, novelty and lyrical routines are all included with dance camp. Workshops will be offered in the areas of team building, choreography, technique, effective practices, parent relations and conditioning.

Hard work and achievements at dance camp are recognized with trophies for camp routines, home routines, team leadership and a 110-percent award.

"UDA has been our first and only camp choice for years! If it's new and unique, it's UDA. Every summer the staff offers some new technique or new style of dance that puts us on the cutting edge," said Dianne Guittar, Pattonville High School, St. Louis, Missouri. For more information, please call (402) 375-7322.

Pastor Russell to celebrate anniversary of ordination

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne is hosting a celebration on Sunday, June 11 in honor of the 10th anniversary of Pastor Martin Russell's ordination as a pastor.

The celebration will include a potluck dinner and brief program following the 10:30 a.m. worship service. According to those planning the event, there may even be a few surprises.

As the congregation prepares for this special event, the congregation warmly invited the community to share in this celebration.

Meat and beverages will be furnished at the potluck. Those attending are asked to bring either a salad or dessert along with their own table service.

RECEIVES 50 YEAR AWARD

Warren Bressler was presented a 50 year plaque by the Nebraska Funeral Home Directors at the group's annual convention in April.

Warren operated the Bressler Funeral Home in Wakefield from Jan. 15, 1951 until Oct. 1, 1986, when the business was sold to Gene Humlicek. The business still bears his name.

Enjoying the atmosphere

This herd of cattle has been enjoying the mild weather this spring. Although recent rains have helped, producers are still concerned about the lack of subsoil moisture and the effect it will have on hay and pasture throughout this growing season. The dry, mild spring made for a relatively good calving season and young calves can be seen throughout the countryside. This photo was taken at a feedlot near Carroll.
