Accident injures Carroll man

An accident seven miles west of Wayne on Highway 35 on July 4 caused serious injuries for a rural Carroll man.

Fifty-eight year-old Byron Janke drove into the path of an oncoming van when the four-wheel ATV he was driving came from the county road at that location.

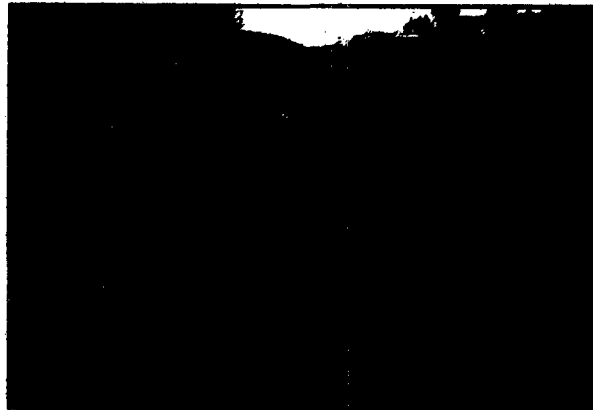

Witnesses said Janke did not stop at the county road stop sign.

Janke was taken by Life-Flight helicopter from Providence Medical Center in Wayne to a Sioux City hospital for continued care of his injuries.

Treated and released from PMC were passengers in the van driven by Leon Korthals, 58, of Boyden, Iowa. Carolyn and Lisa Korthals were treated and released for minor cuts and bruises.

Janke was not wearing a helmet. The front seat passengers of the van were wearing seatbelts.

The Wayne Fire and Rescue

Byron Janke was transported to a Sioux City hospital when the ATV he was driving drove into the path of a van. The accident occurred seven miles west of Wayne.

Departments and the Providence Medical Center Ambulance responded to the scene. The accident is under investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office.

Wakefield Family Resource Center receives grant

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Erelne Stubbs, Wakefield Family Resource Center (WFRC) director, and Mike Moody, Wakefield Community Schools superintendent, announced that a $100,000 grant for an "Even Start" literacy program for low-income families has been received for the center. The grant was received from the Nebraska Department of Education's Office of Children and Families.

There are 13 partners in the Even Start Grant 2000: Wakefield Community Schools, Providence Medical Center, ESU Service Unit #1, Wayne State College, Goldenrod Hills Community Action Agency, Northeast Nebraska Community College, Wayne/Dixon County Coalition for Youth and Families, Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, University of Nebraska Extension Service, M.G. Waldbaums, Northeast Nebraska Medical Clinic, Wayne Community Schools, and Wakefield Family Resource Center.

According to Stubbs, there is generally never enough money to fund more than two Even Start projects per year. Wakefield is now the eighth program funded; the others are located in Alliance, Crete, Hastings, Lincoln, South Sioux City, Columbus, and Omaha.

Families involved in the Even Start program set their own goals when first starting and the WFRC staff and their partners then help them reach their goals. Included in the services provided is help with job training, education services, parenting skills, childcare, nutrition, and health care. There is no Head Start program in Dixon County so WFRC works to fill many roles needed.

The Center integrates all of children's needs into one so there is no separation of special needs children, migrants, etc. Seldom are all programs combined in this way, full time, year round, making the Wakefield program somewhat unique.

The Center provides several "helping hands" to the community. These "hands" are child care, special needs-preschool, migrant preschool, food pantry, health clinics, regular preschool, before and after school care, parenting, school to work (in correlation with the Wakefield High School), Green Thumb program (which trains retirement-aged people wanting to work in new fields) which provides help at no cost to the center, Health and Human Services provides services to families, health clinics, and Kindermusik.

The Center is located in the old Wakefield High School building, which was a daycare for the Waldbaum Company previously. (Humpty Dumpty Daycare).

"The Center has grown from seven children with a staff of three to 57 children with a staff of 15 and three more will be added now that the Even Start program is beginning," Stubbs said.

Stubbs came to the Resource Center in 1997 and saw great potential in the community for this project. With the help of her board of directors, Mr. Moody, and the Wakefield School Board, who shared her vision, the Resource Center has grown. Also, money from M.G. Waldbaum, Inc. and The Gardner Foundation have helped get the center going.

The Wakefield School is involved in most aspects of the center. The Wakefield Ministerium oversees the Food Pantry.

"As our lives get more complex, we need a resource center. It is especially helpful to the school when there are families in the area of a different culture," Moody said. "The Resource Center provides opportunities for the children to learn the English language while enhancing their native language."

Moody also said that for every $1 spent early in a child's education, $7 is saved later.

Stubbs has also applied for an Early Head Start grant for children zero to three years old and she should know in August if she will receive this grant.

Youth attends Field Day

Joshua Rasmussen of Wayne was one of nearly 100 young people nationwide selected to attend the National Wild Turkey Federation's annual Porter Wagoner /JAKES

Conservation Field Days. The three-day event, held June 15-18, brought youth from all over the U.S. and Canada together at Hickory Knob State Park in McCormick, S.C. and the NWTf headquarters in Edgefield, S.C.

The Wild Turkey Center and Hickory Knob State Park served as an outdoor classroom as kids tried their hand at a variety of activities such as outdoor photography, turkey calling, archery, fishing and hiking.

JAKES members were also entertained by expert speakers who discussed issues such as hunting safety and ethics, as well as conservation-related demonstrations including the setting off of a rocket net. Many wildlife officials use rocket nets to trap turkeys before moving them to different habitats across North America. It has become one of the most vital tools in the restoration of the wild turkey.

JAKES (Juniors Acquiring Knowledge, Ethics and Sportsmanship) is the NWTf's program for members 17 years and younger. The acronym JAKES is significant because the term "jake" is a name used to describe a young wild turkey. The JAKES program currently has 100,000 members nationwide.

Most of the children attend the event as guests of a state or local NWTf chapter. Five JAKES earned the trip to South Carolina by writing a winning entry in an essay contest, "How hunting brings a family closer together," sponsored by the NWTf.

Joshua wrote an essay for the state competition and was a winner to earn his way to the JAKES Day Event.

The Porter Wagoner / JAKES Conservation Field Days National Event, named after country and western star Porter Wagoner, is only one of many NWTf JAKES events that take place around the country each year. Through its local chapters, which number more than 1,600 in the U.S. and Canada, the NWTf reaches tens of thousands of children annually with its conservation message.

Check Expiration Dates

Before taking any over-the-counter or prescription medication check its expiration date. Up until the expiration date, the manufacturer guarantees the stability and effectiveness of the product, provided it's been properly stored. Aspirin, for example, loses potency with age. In addition to being ineffective, some outdated medication may actually be dangerous to take. For example, nitroglycerin may not work when you need it most. If it's expired, throw it out!

Attorney General Don Stenberg

PROTECTING YOUR HOME WHILE ON VACATION

The summer vacation season has arrived across Nebraska. Unfortunately, the burglary season has arrived, also. According to the Nebraska Crime Commission, July, August and September are the most popular months for burglary offenses in Nebraska with 62 percent of those burglaries involving residential properties. Nebraska Crime Commission statistics show that over $6.5 million in property was reported stolen in burglary offenses in Nebraska during 1998. The average loss to Nebraska consumers was $940 per burglary. Total losses from burglaries nationwide were $3.1 billion in 1998!

Before leaving on your family vacation this summer, consider the following security precautions:

- Arrange for a friend or neighbor to bring in mail, newspapers and other deliveries. Or, arrange to cancel all deliveries.
- If you have a second car, arrange to have it moved occasionally.
- Schedule to have your lawn work done during your absence.
- Arrange for safe storage of jewelry and other valuables away from the home while you are gone.
- If you have an alarm system, have it checked before departing.
- Leave a trip itinerary with someone so that you can be notified in case of an emergency.
- Consider organizing a neighborhood patrol watch to function during your absence. Agree to return the favor to neighbors while they are away.
- Notify police or sheriff's department of your absence, providing them with the names of house-sitters or neighbors who have possession of keys to your home.
- Before your departure, check to see that all doors and windows are locked and that you have taken all necessary keys.

Election to decide abortion rights

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

We told them so. And we have the kind of manners that don't keep us from saying, "We told them so."

Once again, anti-abortion forces in the Nebraska Legislature have snatched defeat from the jaws of potential victory.

The U.S. Supreme Court struck down the state's attempt to ban so-called partial-birth abortions.

The Nebraska law was so vague that it could have been read to apply to any abortion procedure, not just the particularly gruesome partial-birth variety. The people who pushed the bill through the Legislature in 1997 knew that such was the case. And the ones with even a marginal grasp on reality knew that it wasn't going to get past the federal courts.

We told them so. The statute also failed to include a provision for exceptions to the ban in cases where the health/life of the mother was involved.

Attorney General Don Stenberg didn't adequately address the issue of the statute being too vague - before, during or after the court's decision. My own conclusion was that he liked it that way.

Certainly there were opponents who hoped that its provisions, which could be read to ban all abortions and allow prosecutions for the same, might one day come in handy. That's a smart way to do business but the fact is, when serious money or religious matters are involved, it's about as common as fertilizer in a horse's stall.

It is a bit hard to understand the thinking of Stenberg and others who thought the law had any sort of a chance to survive.

Leaving out a provision to make exceptions for the health and life of a mother was judicially suicidal. Stenberg said that such a provision would have allowed doctors to determine when such a procedure was warranted, and such abortions would continue. He and others obviously don't trust the judgment of some doctors. Of course, some people feel that way about some lawyers, too; and Stenberg no doubt feels that way about the Supreme Court majority in this case.

The fact is that, long term, the decision was a victory for abortion opponents. Why? Because the Supreme Court did not use the Nebraska case as a vehicle to say that states cannot restrict such procedures. The judges just said that they have to meet what has long been the constitutional standard - and that Nebraska didn't even come close.

When it comes to the partial-birth procedure, it is not hard to understand vehement opposition to it from those who oppose abortion rights in general. A description of the procedure reads like something that might have originated in the mind of Josef Mengele. It is a horrendous thing to contemplate - something that was acknowledged even by the judges who threw out the Nebraska statute.

The real importance of the decision was that it came on a 5-4 vote, in a presidential election year.

The next president is likely to appoint three or four people to the U.S. Supreme Court. If you are a single-issue person, and that single issue is abortion rights (for them or against them) the November election has to be the most important thing on your political horizon.

Any ridiculous verbal tap dancing aside, Republican George W. Bush would look for judges who would reverse previous high court decisions that established abortion rights. Democrat Al Gore would endeavor to do the opposite. Those are the facts. Thus, the very, very good odds are that one will need to look no further than the results of the November election to know the likely future of abortions rights in the U.S.

Legislative agenda continues

This summer I have been able to see firsthand some of the Health and Human services facilities located right here in Northeast Nebraska. Recently the Health and Human Services Committee, of which I am a member, toured facilities to view the services that are provided and to take note of notes of any problems and also success stories that are taking place. It is extremely helpful for us as State Senators to have the one to one interactions that these tours provide to keep in touch with the clients of the facilities and administrators to know how we can best serve them and what legislation needs to be enacted on our part.

The HHS Committee members toured facilities in Norfolk and on the Santee reservation. We attended the Northeast NE Juvenile Services facility, the Norfolk Regional Center, the Northeast Lifelong Learning Center, the Boys and Girls Home Treatment Group Home, the facilities involved in the Regional Prevention Program/Project Access or Prevention Pathways and the Capital Happenings

By: State Senator Bob Dickey, District #18

clinic on the Santee Reservation. The Deputy Director of Child Welfare came along for two days and the Director of Minority Health attended the visit to the Santee reservation.

One of the impressions that I came away with is the level of technology that exists in facilities in our area. Some say that lag behind the urban centers, but what was available was really impressive, especially in the area of cancer treatment.

This particularly hits close to home since my wife has been fighting cancer over the last six months. It is reassuring to know that those in our communities with critical illnesses have access to quality care options close to home.

I also enjoyed viewing the programming that takes place during normal operations at these facilities. At the Liberty Center we were able to see in action the clubhouse concept group therapy session. They had testimonials at their group celebration times. Many spoke of how treatment is allowing them to stay out of hospital facilities and maintain a fairly active life. Without these treatment options, these individuals would be bound to the illnesses that plague them. It is good to see firsthand how our tax dollars are working towards giving many individuals productive and fruitful lives.

During these tours, though there were many success stories to talk about, there were areas where my eyes were opened to problem areas as well. We will definitely take the information that we have gained and attempt to continue to move forward in the areas where progress is sorely needed and continue to advance the success stories as well.

I hope to see many of you this summer during trips that I am planning to several communities. It is a pleasure meeting your needs and representing you, the good people of District #18. Your input, as always, is very important to me. If you have any comments or concerns on these or any other legislative matters, please contact me at (402) 471-2801 or e-mail @bdickey@unicam.state.ne.us

Medal available to veterans

U.S. veterans of the Korean War are now eligible to wear a medal initially offered to them more than 50 years ago, but never issued.

In a May 13, 2000 letter to Defense Secretary William S. Cohen, Republic of Korea Defense Minister Seong Tae Cho formally announced that his government would provide the Republic of Korea War Service Medal government would provide the Republic of Korea War Service Medal (ROKWSM) to eligible U.S. veterans of that conflict, or to their surviving next of kin. The medal will be provided at no cost to veterans. The U.S. Air Force has been designated the lead agency to receive and distribute the medals.

"On the occasion of the 50th Anniversary of the Korean War," Cho wrote, "the ROK government decided to issue the ROKWSM to pay tribute to the Korean War veterans for their historic endeavors to preserve freedom of the ROK and the free world." The two governments will conduct fiftieth anniversary ceremonies throughout 2000-2003 and medals may be applied for at any time during this period. The war began on June 25, 1950, when North Korean forces invaded ROK territory. The armistice on July 27, 1953, ended the fighting, although a formal peace treaty has never been completed.

The medal was originally offered by the ROK in 1951 to United Nations forces serving in Korea and adjacent waters. At the time, U.S. law prohibited the U.S. military from wearing medals issued by foreign governments. Congress changed that in 1954, but by then most U.S. service members eligible for the medal had returned home.

In 1998, the government of the Republic of Korea renewed its original offer of the ROKWSM to U.S. military personnel. On Aug. 20, 1999, the Defense Department approved the acceptance and wear of the medal. Around 1.8 million U.S. veterans of the Korean War are eligible to receive it. Next of kin to eligible deceased veterans can also apply for the medal.

To wear this medal on U.S. military uniforms, U.S. military personnel must have:

served between the outbreak of hostilities, June 25, 1950, and the date the armistice was signed, July 27, 1953; been on permanent assignment or on temporary duty for 30 consecutive days or 60 non-consecutive days, and performed their duty within the territorial limits of Korea, in the waters immediately adjacent thereto or in aerial flight over Korea participating in actual combat operations or in support of combat operations. The ROK specifies the eligibility period and criteria. Only the ROK-provided medal is approved by the U.S. government to meet the U.S. criteria for wear on the military uniform.

To apply, veterans must provide a copy of their discharge paper, commonly known as a "DD-214," or a corrected version of that document, a "DD-215."

Anyone interested can contact Wayne Denklaue, Veterans Service Officer, 375-2764 for an application.

Caution urged when dealing with insect stings

Warm, sunny weather makes for a great time for people to get out and enjoy the outdoors. It is also a time stinging insects are most active. Wasps, bees, hornets and yellow jackets often seem to share outdoor activities with people. The Nebraska Medical Association reminds you to use a little precaution to reduce the risk of getting stung, and to know what to do if you are.

Like many bugs, stinging insects are attracted by water, sweet foods, drinks and perfume. Most stinging insects are not aggressive, and only sting out of defense for themselves or their nest. If you are eating outside, keep foods covered, and be sure to look before picking something up, taking a bite of food, or drinking a beverage—especially in cans where insects can crawl inside, out of sight. When playing outside, watch to make sure you don't step or place your hand on a stinging insect or disturb an insect nest or gathering place.

If you are stung by an insect, remove the stinger, if possible, and wash the area with soap and water. You may want to place a cold pack on the skin to help relieve any pain and prevent swelling. If there is a known allergy to insect stings, or you start to feel shortness of breath or swelling in your throat, get emergency medical assistance immediately. Contact your physician for more information on what to do if you do get stung by an insect.

New administrator named

The Oaks Retirement Community has announced the hiring of Kaye Morris as the new Administrator.

Kaye (Coan) Morris was born and raised in Wayne before leaving the area to pursue a career in the hospital industry. She served as a behind the scenes coordinator in the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles, Calif.

She returned to the midwest in 1985 and in 1992 married Dennis Morris. The couple live southwest of Wayne with their three children, Max, 6, Quenton, 5 and Madison, 3.

Morris will replace Joyce Barta from the Excel Development Group who has been the interim Administrator for the past seven months. Barta will continue to work for Excel and plans to graduate in December from the University of Omaha with a masters degree in Social Work.

Heat exhaustion possible

Whether working or playing, being outside in the hot sun can take a toll on a person's body. High temperatures combined with strenuous activity, clothing, advanced age or alcohol use increase the risk of heat exhaustion. The Nebraska Medical Association reminds you to take it easy, and drink plenty of non-alcoholic fluids when the temperature starts to rise.

Increasing fatigue, weakness, anxiety and excessive sweating are the early warning signs of heat exhaustion. As heat exhaustion intensifies, the heart rate may slow and blood pressure drops, leading to pale, clammy skins that is cool to the touch. If not treated, a person may become unconscious, requiring immediate medical attention.

When a person is suffering from heat exhaustion, it is important to get them out of the sun and into the shade or a cooler environment as quickly as possible. Have them lie down flat on their back, or sit with their head down, placing a cool pack on the back of their neck may help increase their comfort. Make sure they are getting plenty of liquids—except alcoholic beverages—to avoid dehydration. Contact your physician for more information on what you can do to prevent heat exhaustion.

Wayne State Hall of Fame to induct hoop standout

Former Wayne State College women's basketball and track and field standout Linda (Schnitzler) Walker will be inducted into the Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame on Oct. 7, interim director of athletics Mike Barry has announced.

Walker will be honored at half-time of the Wayne State College-Moorhead State football game. The formal induction will take place at the annual Alumni Banquet that night.

Walker, a 1989 WSC graduate, is arguably the best women's basketball player to wear a Wildcat uniform. She set, and still holds, 11 school records, including points in a game, season and career. Her 2,224 career points were a Nebraska state college scoring record for a number of years.

A Battle Creek High School graduate, Walker holds season and career records for scoring average, field goal attempts and free throws made. In addition, she owns the record for career field goals made and steals in a season.

In track and field, Walker established three school records. Her mark of 19 feet, 2.5 inches in the outdoor long jump still stands as the school record. However, she now ranks second all-time in the indoor long jump (18-2) and the outdoor triple jump (37 - 2.5).

Walker earned All-America honors in two events at the 1989 National Championships. She placed sixth in the long jump and she was a member of the 800-meter medley relay team that placed sixth.

Members of the 16-under team this season for Wayne include from back left: Coach Tonya Brouillette, Jami Stewart, Ashley Loberg, Brittni Bethune, Leigh Campbell, Jill Andersen, Christina Gathje, Stephanie McLagan and coach Rick Rautenberg. Wayne State hires track coach

Marlon Brink has been named head coach of the Wayne State College men's and women's cross country and track and field teams for the 2000-01 academic year, interim director of athletics Mike Barry said.

Brink spent the past six years at Mount Marty College in Yankton, SD, the last five years as the head coach of the men's and women's cross country and track and field programs. He was an assistant coach with the Lancers during the 1994-95 seasons.

"I am very excited about this opportunity," Brink said. "There seems to be a lot of potential here. There is a lot of cross country and track and field talent in northeast Nebraska, and I plan on recruiting those student athletes."

Brink was instrumental in building successful programs at Mount Marty. He took over the programs in their third year of existence and quickly turned them into the top teams in the South Dakota Intercollegiate Conference. He has coached 34 SDIC individual conference champions, 16 NAIA Scholar Athlete award winners and nine NAIA All-Americans. In addition, 72 school records have been set or broken during Brink's tenure.

The Lancer women's track team placed 20th at the NAIA Outdoor National Championships. On the men's side, the cross country team placed second at the 1995 SDIC Championships, while the indoor track and field team finished second at the SDIC Championships in 1998.

Brink, a native of Atkinson, Neb., began his coaching career as an assistant coach at South Dakota State University. He spent two years with the Jackrabbits.

A 1991 graduate of Midland Lutheran College, Brink was a stand-out cross country and track and field performer for the Warriors. He qualified for the 1990 NAIA National Cross Country Championships, and he was a two-time national qualifier in the marathon. In 1991, Brink placed 11th at the NAIA Outdoor National Championships. In addition, Brink earned three NAIA Scholar Athlete awards.

"Marlon did a tremendous job in building the cross country and track programs at Mount Marty, and we feel he is an excellent addition to the Wayne State College Athletic Department," Barry said. "He is very familiar with Wayne State and northeast Nebraska. He is also very well-respected among the coaching ranks in this area."

KID SIZE TABLES

Members of the Pop's Partners 4-H Club undertook the project of building kid-sized picnic tables to compliment the new playground equipment recently installed at the Double Play Park near the ball diamonds.

Members of the club are Ashley Lunz, Kristine Lunz, Kari Erwin, Clint Luhr, Brent Roeber, Jason Simpson, Kyle Roeber, Kayla and Matt Erwin and Daniel Simpson.

The tables are painted bright yellow, blue and red to fit with the new equipment. Club members came up with the idea of building the children's picnic tables as a club community project. They did some research on costs and found plans for the project.

They then brought the proposal before the Wakefield Community Club who in turn gave the club $200 to purchase necessary material for the tables. The supplies were purchased at Anderson Lumber Co. WELCOME BASKET

The Wakefield Community Club presented the first Welcome Basket recently to Diana Rael who has moved into 506 Michener Street.

Welcome Baskets is the latest project of the Community Club. Baskets contain a number of gift items and information about Wakefield and its businesses. Those members who have not contributed to the project but would like to be included, it is not too late, according to Club President Val Bard. Information and gifts should be taken to Val at the theatre.

DEDICATION HELD

A dedication ceremony was held June 30 at the Ball Park for the designation of Lefty Olson Drive and the gazebo built in Lefty's memory near the small ball fields.

That was also the opening day of the Mid-Summer Classic and there was also Midget and Junior Legion games.

The Wakefield City Council passed an ordinance in January designating the loop through Graves Park as Lefty Olson Drive. Lefty served as mayor of Wakefield for 20 years and served the community in numerous other ways.

The Olson family provided the funds to build the gazebo near the ball field to be used as head quarters during the Mid-Summer Classic and all through the year by park visitors. There is a diamond in front of the gazebo with granite inserts highlighting Lefty's meaning to family and friends.

During the 13 previous Classics,

Lefty volunteered his time and talents to assist with the event. He was also an avid baseball fan and enjoyed all kinds of other sports also.

KID SIZE TABLES

Members of the Pop's Partners 4-H Club undertook the project of building kid-sized picnic tables to compliment the new playground equipment recently installed at the Double Play Park near the ball diamonds.

Members of the club are Ashley Lunz, Kristine Lunz, Kari Erwin, Clint Luhr, Brent Roeber, Jason Simpson, Kyle Roeber, Kayla and Matt Erwin and Daniel Simpson.

The tables are painted bright yellow, blue and red to fit with the new equipment. Club members came up with the idea of building the children's picnic tables as a club community project. They did some research on costs and found plans for the project.

They then brought the proposal

before the Wakefield Community Club who in turn gave the club $200 to purchase necessary material for the tables. The supplies were purchased at Anderson Lumber Co. WELCOME BASKET

The Wakefield Community Club presented the first Welcome Basket recently to Diana Rael who has moved into 506 Michener Street.

Welcome Baskets is the latest project of the Community Club. Baskets contain a number of gift items and information about Wakefield and its businesses. Those members who have not contributed to the project but would like to be included, it is not too late, according to Club President Val Bard. Information and gifts should be taken to Val at the theatre.

DEDICATION HELD

A dedication ceremony was held June 30 at the Ball Park for the designation of Lefty Olson Drive and the gazebo built in Lefty's memory near the small ball fields.

That was also the opening day of the Mid-Summer Classic and there was also Midget and Junior Legion games.

The Wakefield City Council passed an ordinance in January designating the loop through Graves Park as Left Olson Drive. Lefty served as mayor of Wakefield for 20 years and served the community in numerous other ways.

The Olson family provided the funds to build the gazebo near the ball field to be used as head quarters during the Mid-Summer Classic and all through the year by park visitors. There is a diamond in front of the gazebo with granite inserts highlighting Lefty's meaning to family and friends.

During the 13 previous Classics,

Lefty volunteered his time and talents to assist with the event. He was also an avid baseball fan and enjoyed all kinds of other sports also.

Katie is the daughter of Terry and Bonnie Hoffman of Wakefield.

Also on the list was Wendi L. Schroeder of Allen. Her major is social work comprehensive.

JUNIOR FIRE PATROL

Upon completion of the course, the students received a ride on a fire truck.

Herbs for Health

Leafy Vegetables May Decrease Macular Degeneration Risk

The macula is the part of the eye that is responsible for fine vision. When the macula is damaged, fine vision is lost or is diminished. In the US and Europe, macular degeneration is the most common cause of severe vision loss in persons aged 55 and older.

Numerous studies have shown that people who consume large quantities of dark leafy green vegetables (herbs used for food) have less risk for this serious problem. These plants contain nutrients called carotenoids. Some supplements contain carotenoids from plants. Two carotenoids, lutein and zeaxanthin, are concentrated in the retinas of humans and other primates.

A report in a 1994 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association describes the evaluation of 876 individuals aged 55 to 80. Of this number, 156 had age-related macular degeneration. Persons with the highest intake of dark leafy green vegetables had a 43% lower risk for macular degeneration, as compared to those with the lowest intake.

The Golden Years

Best-selling author Tony Hillerman was fourteen when he earned his first wages. In 1939, he was paid twelve cents an hour by a local sharecropper in his hometown of Sacred Heart, Oklahoma to mow the alfalfa fields. From there it was on to digging postholes and later, delivering a calf. Today Hillerman is enjoying much success with his latest critically acclaimed title, Hunting Badger, but remembering his first job helps to keep him humble.

Makes Dean's List

Piyala Nath Dalal of Wayne, front, far left, has been named to the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities College of Liberal Arts Dean's List for spring semester 2000. Students who made the Dean's List have compiled a GPA of at least 3.67 while taking 12 or more credits. She is a Student's Representative to the Board of Regent U of M.

Fulfilling requirements

Several UNMC students train locally

University of Nebraska Medical Center students are working with health professionals across Nebraska as part of their health care education requirements at UNMC. Several area students and businesses are involved in the training process.

David Felber, MD of Laurel recently had Sarah Eich of Bennington training in his medical office in Laurel from May 14 to June 3. She is enrolled in the College of Medicine in Primary Care-first year medical student.

Will Davis of Sav-Mor Pharmacy in Wayne had Amanda Noyd of Stromsburg training in his pharmacy from June 5-30. He will be having Samantha Felber of Laurel train in his pharmacy from July 31 to Aug. 25. Both students are enrolled in the College of Pharmacy.

Karne Lutt of Wayne will be training with Terry Nelson of Pinnacle Rehabilitation in West Point. She is enrolled in the School of Allied Health Professions Physical Therapy.

The student rotations are part of the UNMC Rural Health Education Network (RHEN), an innovative program developed to help address the shortage of health professionals in rural Nebraska.

The students represent the colleges of dentistry, medicine, nursing, pharmacy and the School of Allied Health Professions. The purpose of RHEN is to change how and where primary care students at UNMC are educated. RHEN was developed to expose students to a rural health setting with the idea that if students receive their training in a rural area, the chances are much greater that they will return to a rural area once they complete their training.

The 20/20 Call to Action

Here's what the public heard:

On Friday, February 25, ABC's popular television show, 20/20 aired a segment entitled, "Danger Before Your Eyes". This segment issued an important warning to consumers about the dangers of improper windshield replacement. With over 11 million windshields replaced each year, experts say that many mistakes are made because technicians are either sloppy or haven't been trained properly. There is an obvious need for training to do the job right.

Barbara Walters: "How does someone know where to go to get the right kind of treatment for the windshield?"

Arnold Diaz: "No matter who you call, the experts advise you may want to ask them 'are you certified by the National Glass Association?' Ask not just the shop, but the person who is actually putting the windshield in, the installer, if they are certified."

YES! Tom's Body & Paint Shop, Inc. is certified by the National Glass Association.

NGA offers training and certification programs in auto glass repair and replacement.

Charitable Remainder Trusts

A gift of a partial interest in property to charity does not usually qualify for a charitable deduction. However, there are some exceptions, and the charitable remainder trust is one of them. A charitable remainder trust is a special kind of trust which allows a donor to claim a charitable deduction for "split-interest" gifts, in which the donor or another individual receives income from the trust for life or a period of years, after which the trust principal (remainder) is distributed to a charity.

These trusts come in two main forms: the charitable remainder annuity trust (CRAT) and the charitable remainder unitrust (CRUT).

Give the tree, but keep the apples

Because a gift to a CRT can pay a good (and sometimes favorably taxed) income to the donor for as long as he or she may live, it often permits the donor to make a major gift to a charitable institution - and gain immediate federal income tax benefits - without any loss of spendable income.

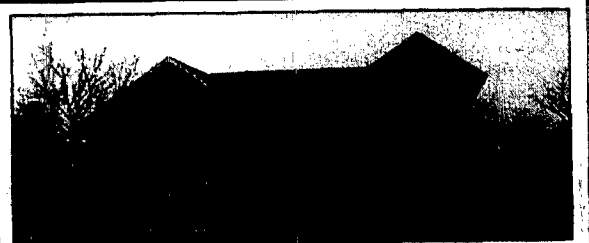

An attractive alternative to a charitable bequest

A CRT created during life is an effective alternative to a charitable bequest, which produces little or no income tax benefits for the donor. Appreciated property can be transferred to a charitable remainder trust - and sold by the trust - without incurring any capital gains tax. Funding these types of trusts with appreciated securities or other assets that currently yield little or no income may:

- Dramatically increase the donor's income,
- Provide an immediate income tax charitable deduction,
- Avoid capital gains taxes, and
- Give the donor the personal satisfaction of making a significant contribution to a charitable organization he or she considers important.

'Cosmic Connections' completed

The Wayne Public Library held the closing party for the Summer Reading Program on June 28 at Bressler Park.

The theme for the 2000 Summer Reading Program has been "Cosmic Connections at the Library" and those involved splashed down with "cosmic cupcakes" and "out of this world kool-aid." Participants also played games of balloon ball, dictionary fake out, musical pile-up and chain story.

Prizes and awards were given to participants in the Summer Reading Program.

All active participants received award certificates along with coupons for free ice cream cones and stickers.

Participants ages four through six were able to enter their name once for each book they read to go into a drawing for one of three gift bags. Participants in grades one through six were asked to set a goal during registration and those who met or exceeded their goal (a total of 39 out of 63) were eligible for the drawing for other gift bags.

A third drawing was held for those children who were in attendance for the opening "Blast Off Party" and the three weekly activity times. Other prizes were given out by drawing to all participants.

Drawing winners include:
Read to Me: Nick Monahan, Jessica Biermann and Chris Gardner.
Reading Club: First grade — Taylor Stowater and Mashayla Ruzicka; Second grade — Zack Wacker and Lisa Temme; Third grade — Angela Holstedt and Readers in this year's Wayne Public Library summer reading program enjoyed a number of games at the closing party last week. A number of readers received prizes for their efforts and refreshments were served.

Those receiving prizes for attendance included Michaela Archuleta, Kennedy Stowater, Megan Wherely and Maddie Jager.

Each year the Summer Reading Program is developed around a theme with neighboring states participating together.

The purpose is to encourage reading throughout the weeks away from school in order to maintain interest and skills among students. During the summer reading program a total of 1,797 books were read by those children participating at the Wayne Public Library.

There were 99 children registered this year, with 96 actively participating.

In addition, there were several adults who volunteered their talents and knowledge as storytellers and guest presenters. They included Greg Schardt, Betsy Maryott and Carl Rump and Wayne State College. Readers included Renata Anderson, Deb Dickey, Jodi Lutt, Karen Parker, Mary Carstein and Lisa Nelson.

In addition, the following students volunteered to shelve books and help with the activities and crafts — Tiffany Gagner, Ashley Burke, Amy Hyspe, Kelli Kwapioski, Amber Costa, Kristen Eichenberg, Cassidy Holman, Lacora Lozano, Anjelena Judson, Alicia Powers, Emily Buryanek and Ashley Gentrup.

Local businesses showed their support for the Summer Reading Program with donations for craft supplies and the closing party.

Donations were received from: First National Bank of Wayne, The Investment Center, Buell Tax Service, Schumacher-Hasemann Funeral Home, Midland Equipment, Bank of Norfolk, ERA Property Exchange, Pamida, Dairy Queen, State National Bank & Trust Co., Pizza Hut, Subway, Farmers & Merchants State Bank, Twin Theatres, Kaup's TV Sales and Service, Pac 'N' Save, Copy Write, Mines Jewelry, Big A Wayne Auto Parts, Carharts, K&G Cleaners, First National Insurance Agency, The Renaissance, Godfather's Pizza,

The Wayne Public Library is also offering a new program for ages 3-16 to encourage children to continue to read throughout the summer.

The library will be hosting story times and other events during July and August. With each library visit for a program or just to check out books, the child can enter his/her name into a drawing. Drawings will be held weekly for prizes such as t-shirts and other small items.

More details on the program are available at the library.

The library staff urges everyone to keep reading throughout the summer. Lots of new books have arrived for readers' enjoyment.

Summer library hours are Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from noon to 8 p.m.; Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Friday from noon to 7 p.m.; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and closed on Sunday.

Healthy tomatoes are the result of planning and care

Caring for tomato plants doesn't end with planting.

Fertilizing is key to raising healthy tomato plants. During planting, use up to two or three pounds of high-phosphorus fertilizer per 100 square feet of land. Continue to add a teaspoon of fertilizer once or twice a month, depending on the soil's fertility, which can be determined by soil analysis.

Be careful not to over fertilize because too much fertilizer results in more foliage than fruit.

Although it's a chore many people put off, tomato cages should be set up while plants are small. Inexpensive cages can be made from concrete reinforcing wire, available at home centers or lumber yards. The wire comes in rolls 50 to 150 feet long and five feet wide so cages are tall enough for large indeterminate tomato cultivars. Using heavy-duty wire cutters, cut the wire five feet long to make cages approximately 18 inches in diameter.

Form a circle with the wire and bend the ends to hold the cage together. Although the cage rusts quickly, the wire is sturdy and may last 30 years or more. Two electric fence posts woven through the wire and pounded into the ground will hold the cages steady in almost any Nebraska wind.

To prevent the branches from growing out the openings in the cage, wrap nylon tulle, available at fabric stores, around the cage and fasten with clothes pins. This forces their tomato plants instead of using cages. Stakes should be placed before planting or soon after to avoid damaging the roots of the tomato plants. Place the stake four inches from the plant and tie the plant to it, using a nylon stocking or soft cord. Make sure the tie is placed under a leaflet branch to avoid damaging the plant.

Place mulch around the plant to maintain uniform moisture, which is critical to preventing blossom end rot. The mulch also reduces the spread of soil-borne diseases and reduces weed growth and water loss. Fungicides also help keep diseases at bay. To increase growth and prevent against late and early blight, apply fungicide every 10-14 days.

Proper watering also is critical. Most plants need one to two inches of water per week, depending on the soil type, plant size and the weather. Soaker hoses keep the foliage dry and prevent fungus-carrying soil from splashing onto the leaves. Soil moisture needs to be distributed evenly to prevent the blossoms from rotting.

Gardeners should weed often and treat for insects as needed. It's also helpful to rotate the tomato plants' position in the garden from year to year.

the plant to grow upward, and by doing so, one doesn't have to repeatedly reposition the branches, which often causes breakage. Once the plant has filled most of the cage, remove the netting and store for the next growing season.

Dedication of Habitat for Humanity house in Norfolk that was coordinated and completed by members of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne was held recently. Shown is Pastor Bill Koeber of Wayne, who spoke at the ceremony.

House dedication celebrated

Habitat for Humanity celebrated the dedication of a house in Norfolk on June 17.

Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne supplied the coordination and labor on this home. The house is located at 118 Adams Street in Norfolk.

"All Habitat for Humanity homes are built or rehabilitated with loving care, but this home has additional characteristics that make it very special," said Pastor Bill Koeber of Our Savior Lutheran Church. "It was donated to Norfolk Area Habitat for Humanity by HyVee and rehabilitated with funds contributed by churches and individuals in north-east Nebraska. The members of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne coordinated and completed the work on this home."

Forty-nine members of Our Savior Lutheran Church participated in the renovation. Work was completed during this past winter and spring through the donation of more than 750 volunteer hours. The new occupants of the home also donated more than 400 hours of sweat equity.

Habitat for Humanity is an international, nondenominational, non-profit, Christian organization of volunteers. The goal of Habitat for Humanity is to eliminate sub-standard housing and homelessness from the world by building houses with volunteer labor and donated funds and materials.

The homes are then sold at no profit and no interest to God's children in need that they, too, might have warm, decent places to live. This house represents the eighth home completed by Habitat for Humanity of Norfolk.

For more information on the mission and ministry of Our Savior Lutheran Church, call (402) 375-2899.

PLEASURE AND PROFIT 4-H CLUB
Eight Pleasure and Profit 4-Hers and seven parents enjoyed a tour, arranged by Cindy Krusemark, on June 13 of various sites in Sioux City.

The group first spent time at the Dorothy Precaut Nature Center enjoying the museum and hiking in the woods. They next went to Prince Hydraulics and saw the operations of a large factory working with iron.

Everyone realized that although the wood stations had computerized machines and robots, they still need manual labor. Then the group went to the Gateway 2000 factory and watched the assembly line process from the parts warehouse to the shipping out to the buyer process.

The last point of the tour showed that 3541 computers had been made that day. They concluded the day by a visit to the Gateway Country Store where prospective buyers can see the many options available when ordering a computer.

Wisconsin 4-Hers visited in Nebraska June 22-25 on an exchange trip with Dixon and Wayne County as hosts.

Wisconsin youth visit area

By Kelli Rastede

In June of 1999, 11 Dixon and Wayne County 4-Hers traveled to Columbia County, Wisconsin on an exchange trip.

The Wisconsin host 4-Hers then returned the visit by journeying to Nebraska to spend June 22-25 with the Dixon and Wayne County hosts who were Kylie Bearnes, Elizabeth Bock, Shandi Briese, Lark Cunningham, Aaron Hansen, Scott Hansen, Kari and Kelli Huetig, Blake McAtee, Kelli Rastede and Kari Stewart.

The visiting Wisconsin 4-Hers and sponsors and the host families met at the Haskell Ag Lab on June 21 for a potluck supper and review of the next day's itinerary.

On June 22, over 35 4-Hers and parents toured MPM Dairy south of Wakefield. This was exceptionally interesting to the Wisconsin 4-Hers as many of them live on family-owned dairy farms.

Following this, the group went to Tarbox Hollow and enjoyed a ride among the buffalo and a noon meal of buffalo meat. The group returned to the Haskell Ag Lab and had a tour of the Northeast Nebraska Research Station experimental crop and livestock facilities.

Several host families and their Wisconsin guests helped with the 4-H bike rodeo in the evening. The group also formed a caravan to travel to Royal and visited the Ashfall Fossil Beds State Historical Park, the Grove Lake Troutling Station and the Northeast Nebraska Zoo. They enjoyed a sack lunch and hiking at Grove Lake.

The Wisconsin 4-Hers spent the next two days with their host families doing typical Nebraska activities such as attending ball games, swimming and attending celebrations in the neighboring towns.

They were here to experience a real Nebraska down-pour of rain on Sunday. The Wisconsin group reassembled at the Haskell Ag Lab on June 26 to return to their home state after experiencing four days in Nebraska.

Typical remarks by the 4-Hers included "it is so hilly and there is nothing but beans and corn wherever you look."

Youth attend Washington Focus trip

On June 7, a total of 17 4-Hers from northeast Nebraska departed from Epply Airfield in Omaha for a 10-day trip to the east coast as part of the Citizenship Washington Focus 4-H Trip.

The 4-Hers represented the counties of Antelope, Cedar, Dakota, Dixon and Wayne.

The first day of touring took the participants to Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty and New York City. The youth saw in New York City included China Town, Empire State Building, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Rockefeller Center, Time Square and Fifth Avenue.

The 4-Hers ate supper at Hard Rock Cafe in New York City and then had the opportunity to attend the Broadway Show "Beauty and the Beast." They enjoyed the following day at Hershey Park in Hershey, Penn. They were able to enjoy the many rides at the amusement park, shows and entertainment and tour the chocolate factory.

After spending the evening in Philadelphia, the group toured Independence Hall and were able to see the Liberty Bell, the first bank of the United States and other historical landmarks before departing for Gettysburg, Penn.

At Gettysburg, they had a light tour of the battlefields, before they took the bus tour of the actual sights.

June 11 was spent in Annapolis, Md., touring the historical places there and the naval Academy. They also had an opportunity to spend some time at the harbor.

The group then arrived at Chevy Chase, Md., home of the national 4-H Center where they stayed until June 17. While in Chevy Chase, they had the opportunity to participate in several workshops and serve on various committees, allowing them to strengthen their leadership roles. Some of the committees that the local 4-Hers participated in included Career Preparation, Current Event/Journalism, Expressive Arts, Social/Fitness, Technology Today, Professional Development/Visual Expressions and Ceremonies Committee.

During the week, delegates attended mock legislation meetings which enabled them to learn how bills become laws as well as strengthen their debate skills.

While in D.C., the group toured the National Cathedral, Arlington National cemetery, Iwo Jima, Smithsonian, Mount Vernon, FDR Memorial, Jefferson and Lincoln

Memorials, Korean Memorial and the Vietnam Wall.

They also visited the National Archives Museum and spent a day on Capitol Hill, which began by attending the Nebraska Breakfast. They had to opportunity to meet Senators Kerrey and Hagel and Representatives, Bereuter, Barrett and Terry.

They then toured the Capitol and Library of Congress and the House and Senate Chambers. On Thursday evening the delegation attended the Burn Brae Dinner Theatre in which they saw the musical "Sentimental Journey."

The 4-Hers spent a week packed full of meeting new friends, experiencing new things and having fun. Delegates from Iowa, North Carolina, Michigan, North Dakota and Wyoming were also at the Nebraska 4-H Center. Every day the delegates created a new memory and they departed for home on June 17, full of knowledge about the government, expanded leadership skills and many new friends.

Sponsors for the trip were Jason McCauley of the Thurston County Extension Office and Amy Malchow of the Wayne County Extension Office. Northeast Nebraska 4-H travels every two years on this trip.

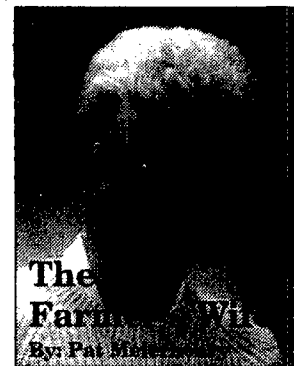

Busy life continues

It's Saturday before the Fourth, and the a/c is on. Forecast is for heat and humidity, typical for us in July. We have four guests who are here for a family reunion at the park.

When they leave tomorrow, there will be eight arriving for a family reunion right here. And when they leave on Tuesday, seven more will arrive. Obviously, we're celebrating Independence Day with a bang. It's just not a firecracker, it's more of a cooking and baking marathon.

Earlier in the week, there were two guests working with new software at Oxbow Pellet Company in Murdock. Oxbow makes alfalfa pellets for rabbits, hamsters, and other small animals. It's manufactured and packaged right on the farm, and shipped all over the country. In fact, last year, we had a couple from Australia who were interested in becoming distributors. Amazing! Murdock is the size of Hoskins. And Oxbow Pellet certainly isn't the size of Hoskins Manufacturing. But you don't have to locate in a city to run a successful business. And the Internet definitely assists in marketing.

The Farmers & Merchants State Bank

cleaned the pantry, dusted all the ceiling fans, dusted the chamber pot collection, and defrosted the freezer. Certainly does make me feel virtuous. But, there are too many things to dust in this house! Lots of them are angels. I've also scrubbed all the wood floors, on my hands and knees. It just reiterates for me what I've always known: housework is hard work! It's also boring, repetitious, and a general pain.

I used to say at work I thought I would become a housekeeper. You can set your own hours, wear jeans to work, and work independently. Now, I'm not sure I could survive it.

The next project, clean off my desk. The wonderful roll top I received just one year ago is loaded with stuff that needs to be filed and stuff that needs to be thrown. I'll let you know if I actually get it accomplished. We all just have too much stuff!

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Chicken Show history dates back to '81

The Wayne Chicken Show, sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, is a fun event held annually on the second Saturday in July.

The first Wayne Chicken Show was held in 1981 and was intended to be an arts and crafts show. It was a project of the Wayne Regional Arts Council and its purpose was to generate grass roots interest in art by demonstrating that art can exist around every object or situations.

The theme of "chickens" was chosen because of the potential for art materials (feathers & egg shells), because nearly everyone has knowledge and familiarity with chickens and because chickens can be considered with humor. Some contests and a parade were planned in order to make the arts and crafts show an event.

Previous years' Cluck Off winners have appeared on the Tonight Show. The Chicken Show has been featured in nearly all of the larger Nebraskan newspapers; on radio interviews heard in every state of the United States, all provinces of Canada and the B.C. origiinating from Dublin, Ireland; in television news segments each year on Lincoln, Omaha and Sioux City stations, and on NBC, ABC, CBS and CNN; appearances on Good Morning America, the Mickey Mouse Club and a syndicated quiz show; and in articles in USA Today and Wall Street Journal, Stars and Stripes, regional magazines, national newspaper syndications throughout the Associated Press and UPI. In addition, English, Japanese and Saudi Arabian newspaper clippings have been sent to members of the chicken show committee.

The primary source of funds for the Chicken Show is the sale of Chicken Shirts.

Designed by Marla McCue, each year's shirt is unique, depicting the theme for that particular year. Thousands of shirts are sold each year, and calls and orders are taken all year. The t-shirt for this year originated from the winner of the t-shirt design contest, Jolene Klein. This contest was held prior to last year's show and was held in celebration of the fact that this year's show marks the 20th anniversary of the event.

The Wayne Chicken Show received the 1996 Nebraska Outstanding Tourism Award and was selected in 1999, along with four other community events in Nebraska, to be featured in the Library of Congress.

Many of the events have continued throughout the past 20 years, such as the Omelet Feed, the National Cluck-Off, the Egg Drop and the parade. In addition, new events have been added as the event has now been expanded to include Friday evening (Halloween).

Lions foundation's screening unit saves lives

Editor's note: The Nebraska Lions Foundation's Mobile Screening Unit (MSU) will be at the 2000 Chicken Show on Saturday, July 8. The following testimonial of the benefits of the screening was obtained from the Nebraska Lion Magazine.

By Jan Schulz

The Nebraska Lion Editor

A person need to hear just one or two of the success stories to believe in the value of the Nebraska Lions Foundation's Mobile Screening Unit, better known as the MSU.

Diane Baldwin, along with her husband Ray, manages, drives and coordinates the MSU schedule that takes it across the state for vision, hearing, blood pressure, blood sugar and glaucoma screenings.

Brought to communities by individual Lions clubs in most cases, the MSU has been a special part of the county fairs, health fairs, farm shows and many other events where large groups of people can take advantage of the free screenings. In recent years, it has gained a larger audience by setting up for several days of screening at the Nebraska State Fair.

When the MSU comes to community or event, members of the Lions club recruit health professionals to help man the screening booths, and the Lions also volunteer their own time to help with paperwork, serve as guides or assist the health professionals.

The local club is also responsible for getting the publicity out that the MSU is coming, with major assistance in that effort from the packet of information that is provided.

Diane Baldwin's eyes often light up when she tells of the many success stories she has been a part of since assuming the roll of the DAME (Driver and Manager Extraordinaire) in 1996. She's a firm believer the MSU makes a difference.

"Those of us who are in the MSU day after day experience the greatest feeling of 'We Serve.' The rewards are tremendous," she said.

The real stories are ones Baldwin experiences nearly every time the MSU is out.

Stories such as the little girl who ran up to Raymond, threw her arms around him and said, "Thank you, thank you."

When he asked what for, she responded, "If you hadn't come to my school last year and told my teacher and Mom and Dad I couldn't see, I would not have have these glasses and I can read now," she said. "I like school now, too."

Or, the belligerent young boy whose disruptive behavior sent him outside to sit until his classmates were finished with their screenings. After completing the hearing test, it was suggested he let his mother know he needed to have his ears checked for wax or infection. The next day, he came running into the MSU and thanked Raymond for persisting. His ears were indeed plugged with wax and he was pleased with how good his music sounded now. He was even glad he could hear his teachers.

Or, the carnival worker who fellow workers brought her to the MSU, where she was screened and it was discovered her blood pressure was dangerously high. After further checks at the local hospital, her fellow workers got together enough money to send her home for further care.

Or, the lady whose blood sugar was way over 400 and had no idea it was even high. She is now on insulin and comes into the MSU every time she get the chance and thanks them for being there.

Or, the man whose glaucoma readings at an MSU screening sent him to an eye professional for further testing. He now uses drops to control the glaucoma, but admits he still does not know what prompted him to go through the MSU when he did.

Diane Baldwin said there are many more stories such as these that let her know the MSU work is important.

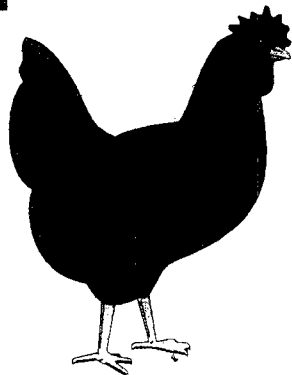

The work of MSU is also important to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska, which co-sponsors the MSU's operation each year to tune of $55,000. The company also provides advertising for the MSU and handouts and forms at the screenings.

That sponsorship helps to assure the necessary financial commitment for the continued operation of the unit and its ability to offer the health screenings free of charge.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska's Chairman and CEO Richard Guffey said, "Our goal is to help Nebraskans achieve and maintain their best possible health. One way we fulfill our commitment is through the continued sponsorship of the Mobile Screening Unit as a community service to the people of Nebraska."

Since 1989, an estimated 100,000 Nebraskans have benefited from the MSU. The NLF has made a commitment for many more years of service.
