Farnik travels to Russia

Gary Farnik, advertising sales manager at KTCH Real Country 1590 AM & Oldies 104.9 FM in Wayne, says his assignment as a consultant to radio stations in Russia was "an incredible, eye-opening experience."

Farnik returned home June 16 after spending three weeks in the city of Blagoveschensk, in the Amur Region of the Russian Far East. He was chosen for the volunteer assignment by Agricultural Cooperative Development International/Volunteers in Overseas Cooperative Assistance.

ACDI/VOCA is a private, nonprofit international development organization. It is funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and by gifts, grants and donations.

"Blagoveschensk, population 220,000, is situated on the Amur River about 5,000 miles east of Moscow. Until a few years ago, it was a closed city and it is not a glamorous tourist destination, so it has had very few visitors from the U.S.," Farnik said.

Even though Blagoveschensk does have an airport, no airline traffic served the city from the east.

"My last leg of the journey there was a 16-hour train ride. The train looked like something out of World War II and so did the poverty-stricken small towns the train passed through."

"Interestingly, I began the trip from the airport in Norfolk, one-tenth the size of Blagoveschensk. Having air service in a town the size of Norfolk is a wonderful luxury," Farnik added.

Farnik found the Russian people to be "warm, friendly, generous and of good humor, even though their surroundings are miserable by our standards."

"Unemployment is high, wages are low, the economy is poor, the government is nearly broke, tap water is unfit to drink, streets are in need of repair, buildings are crumbling, sanitation standards are low," he added.

Refrigeration and air conditioning leave much to be desired.

Alcoholism is rampant, but Farnik says he saw little evidence of illegal drug use or crime in the streets.

Food is plentiful and reasonably priced, but beef and pork was tough and fatty.

"Cars are mostly 10-30 years old, many Japanese-made, with steering wheels on the right, even though the Russians drive on the right side of the road as we do," Farnik said.

Trees are abundant and he saw several logging operations, but toilet paper, napkins and paper towels are in short supply. Other major industries in the region include agriculture, gold and coal mining, food processing, education and research.

Farnik said he did not see any farms in the portions of Russia he visited.

"The young women were surprisingly well-dressed, with beautiful modern fashions, many with long hair, short skirts, high heels and perfect make-up. The men, however, were generally not nearly as concerned with their appearance or hygiene," Farnik said.

Selection of merchandise is slim, but Farnik said that could change.

The future of the region depends largely on the proposed bridge over the Amur River, which divides Blagoveschensk from Heihe, China. Both countries have agreed to build the bridge, but Russia has been unable to come up with the funds.

"Very few Russian cities have the kind of opportunity for international development like that of

Problem Resolution Team working

The City of Wayne has been employing a Problem Resolution Team to address housing and nuisance issues in the Wayne community.

The Problem Resolution Team, or PRT, consists of people from many different disciplines all working together to address quality of life issues.

The team has representatives from the Wayne Community Housing Association, Health & Human Services, the State Fire Marshall's Office, Wayne Building/Inspection, Wayne City Council, Wayne Board of Health, Wayne City Offices and the Wayne Police Department.

The PRT concept is not new to Nebraska. The Lincoln Police Department has been working with a PRT for many years as part of their Problem Oriented Policing program.

Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster saw a presentation on the PRT concept and brought the idea back to Wayne. He said he believes Wayne is the only city outside the metro areas using the PRT concept.

"Wayne's PRT has been active since last year and is really breaking new ground in the area of code enforcement, nuisance abatement and education," Webster said.

Webster added that the first major property the PRT tackled was a vacant house and out buildings that stood empty for several years. Prior attempts to abate the ongoing nuisance that the property created were unsuccessful.

Webster said the City of Wayne was able to purchase the property and raze the building to clear the way for a more suitable development because of the efforts of the PRT.

He said with more people looking at a problem, there are more points of view and often more solutions or suggestions on how to resolve a problem.

"The PRT has also been active in abating substandard housing. There are currently four residential properties in Wayne that have been yellow tagged, prohibiting occupancy until the building's defects are corrected. The PRT has also been responsible for the first successful prosecution of someone for failing to abate a nuisance," Webster said.

In addition to reacting to complaints of substandard housing, the PRT also wants to be proactive. There are plans for the PRT to host a landlord training seminar where information about the Landlord Tenant Act, Fire & Safety Codes and legal issues related to renting property can be discussed.

The Wayne City Council has been very supportive of the Problem Resolution Team and has recently approved the PRT's Mission Statement. "The mission of the City of Wayne Problem Resolution Team is to employ a multiple agency approach to address quality of life issues relative to neighborhoods, housing and property use through education, code enforcement and nuisance abatement in a proactive manner."

Fair is just around the corner

The 2000 Wayne County Fair is less than three weeks away and those involved are busy make final plans and sprucing up the fairgrounds.

A number of new attractions, several new entertainers and a number of old favorites will greet fair-goers.

Dates for this year's fair are Wednesday - Friday, Aug. 2-6.

Wednesday is generally designated as entry day with 4-H and open class exhibits being entered and judged throughout the day.

Among the activities on Thursday are several demonstrations by R.D. Coonrod, Chainsaw artist and the hitching and parade of the Alexander nine horse mini hitch.

Highlighting Friday will be the 39th annual Free Barbecue and two performances by Nebraska-native Joanie Keller.

Keller's first performance begins at 8 p.m. and will last approximately 40 minutes. Following an intermission to make a number of presentations, Joanie will begin the second half of her show at 9:10 p.m.

Her first album, "Sparks Are Gonna Fly," was released May 23 and her third single, "Grindin' Wheel," was released this week. It was the fourth most added record of the week in the industry.

Keller was born in Wayne and lived here until moving to Crofton when she was in third grade. She was raised in a family with a strong music tradition.

Her grandma (Mabel Haberer of Wayne) and her great-uncle Harold, played the old barn dances across Nebraska and South Dakota. At an early age her father, Bob, developed a passion for traditional country music that he passed down to his children.

"When you're born into a musical family, music is a part of every day life. Traveling to do shows or just playing around the house, I breathed music. I love it. From the time that I was old enough to sing along, I did," Joanie said.

Joanie started playing guitar at age seven. By the time she was eight, she joined her father's band, "The Wranglers," on stage during performances. She and her sister, Jill, and a friend formed "Joanie and the Wranglers" and put on "concerts" on the front porch of their home.

By the age of 10, Joanie was a full-fledged member of the band and earned regular band wages. Later the Haberer family formed their own band, "The Night Shift," with Joanie playing bass along with lead vocal duties.

Later Joanie won a regional talent contest with her rendition of "I'm Not Lisa" and signed her first recording deal.

"After I won the contest, Love Records took me into the studio and we cut two songs for the record. The A-side was "Bouquet of Wild Violets" and the B-side was "I'm Not Lisa," Joanie said.

While the single never broke nationally, the course of Joanie's life was set in her mind.

Over the next few years, Joanie continued to perform with her siblings, Jay and Jill as they finished high school and graduated from college.

The Night Shift took their show on the road that led to Nashville and to a rodeo in Wyoming where Joanie and Jill met Clay and Jeff, who were best friends and are now brothers-in-law.

Over the years, Joanie has shared the stage with Country Music legends Leona Williams, Merle Haggard and Claude King. She has also performed with Lone Star, Confederate Railroad and Alabama. She was the first act ever to perform at Bennie Binion's HorseShoe Casino in Las Vegas during National Finals Rodeo Week.

Joanie Keller

Joanie currently lives in Nashville, Tenn.

Several members of Joanie's family live in Wayne including her grandmothers, Mabel Haberer and Tillie Jones and an aunt, Ginny Otte. Her parents, Bob and Marty Haberer, live in Crofton.

"Although my voice and playing style have matured over the years," Joanie added, "My heart is still just as true to country as it was when I sang my first country song."

Round Robin correspondence continues for around 65 years

By Lynn Sievers
Of The Herald

Desiring to keep in touch, long-time friends started a "round robin" correspondence they have kept circulating for around 65 years.

Twice a year, Margaret (Olson) Fanske, Marge (Ley) Armstrong, Jane (Von Seggern) Gordon, Fauneil (Beckenbauer) Pickett, Mildred (Moses) LeBruin, Kathryn Kemp, Mary Jane (Morgan) Simpson, Dons (Judson) Wind, Harriet (Craven) Whitman, Evelyn (Felber) Gambel, Marianne (Noakes) Kemp, Marjorie (Noakes) Johnson, Miriam (Huse) Witt, Evelyn (Mellor) Oswald, Lucille (Noakes) Andrews, Marian Jo Theobald, and Dorothy (Ross) Ingham, would each write a letter, add photos and then send the package on to the rest of the group.

After the package made a complete circle and came back to the sender of the first letter, the old letter and photos would be removed, new ones would take their place and around it would go again.

Back in the early to mid 30s when the ladies finished college, were marrying and moving away, 17 friends wanted to keep up on one another's lives so either Mary Jane Morgan or Dons Judson started the "round robin" correspondence.

Having gone through grade school, graduated from Wayne High School in 1929-30, and some having gone to the same college together, the round robin practice helped the ladies keep current with each other. During this time, Olson moved to Colorado, Von Seggern to Virginia, Kemp and Lucille Noakes each to California, Morgan to Kansas, Judson to Michigan, Craven to Washington, D.C., Moses to Colorado, Pickett in Wayne and now at The Oaks, Ley to Pennsylvania and now retired in Wayne.

At that time, the telephone system was relatively new and not as good as now, especially in audio quality, and computers and Internet email weren't yet a reality so the group relied on the postal service.

Multicultural director named at Wayne State

Adam Valencia has been named Wayne State College Multicultural Director, effective July 1. Valencia, who served as WSC Education

Adam Valencia

Outreach Coordinator during the last academic year, will work with students, faculty and staff in the newly-created position.

"The Multicultural Center will provide a wonderful opportunity to do many positive things that will be beneficial to everyone at Wayne State College," Valencia said. "It will allow us to work with all of our students, particularly students of color, as well as with each division on campus. I hope to get partnerships going that will promote diversity and multiculturalism through a variety of activities."

Valencia, who has worked with teachers and Latino students in four area high schools—Madison, Norfolk, Wakefield, and South Sioux City—through the WSC Education Outreach Program, said the WSC Multicultural Center can serve as an extension of that program. "In the Education Outreach Program, we worked with students to encourage them to finish high school and consider going to college," he said. "The Multicultural Center will provide support for students of color at Wayne State College, but will also serve as a resource for all students, faculty and staff."

The Multicultural Center will be initially located at a house on the campus at 1205 Schreiner Drive. Valencia can be contacted through the WSC Student Services Office.

"Adam is a quality individual. We're lucky to have him," said Curt Frye, vice president and dean of students. "We're excited about his enthusiasm, and are looking forward to enhancing our programs at Wayne State College."

Valencia, a native of California, earned a bachelor of science in criminal justice at Wayne State College in 1994. He is completing a master's degree in social sciences at WSC this summer. His wife, the former Lisa Chamberlain of Norfolk, also a WSC graduate, was a basketball standout for the Wildcats.

New service available

Social Security recently unveiled a new electronic service to help Americans better prepare for their financial future — an online retirement planner.

The planner will allow individuals to compute estimates of their future Social Security retirement benefits online.

"Whether you're 25, 35, 45, or 55, it's never too early to plan for your future retirement," said Greg Heineman, Social Security manager at Norfolk. "Planning for your future financial security can now be as easy as one, two, three."

The Social Security Retirement Planner provides users with three options for obtaining an estimate of their Social Security retirement benefit:

- the Quick Planner provides a very rough estimate;
- the Online Calculator produces a benefit estimate based on past, present and projected future information input by users; and
- a Detailed and the most elaborate estimate that requires an individual to download and install a software program on a personal computer.

"The Social Security Retirement Planner also provides links to important factors that can affect retirement benefits and walks individuals through the retirement planning and application process," Heineman said.

The planner can be accessed directly at www.ssa.gov/retire or by using the link www.ssa.gov provided on the Social Security Online homepage.

Blagoveshensk. From the perspective of U.N. experts, this site could attract more attention than any other free international trade zone in the world.

While in Blagoveshensk, Farnik worked with a number of radio stations on greeting advertising and programming. He said the city has seven radio stations, although several are on the air for only a short time each day and listeners sometimes need special equipment to get radio signals.

The photo at left shows the summer home of Vasili, the man on the far right. This was one of the stops Farnik made during his three week stay in Russia. The area was used to grow a vegetable garden. At right, Farnik poses with the manger of one of the radio stations he consulted with during his trip.

Would he ever go back? "It's pretty unlikely, but who knows? If the opportunity arises, absolutely! I was treated very well there. It would be nice to go back some day and visit the friends I made," he said.

Farnik encourages others to check into taking a similar trip through ACDI/VOCA and volunteering their services and abilities throughout the world.

Through the years, several ladies passed away; Evelyn (Felber) Gambel, Mariane (Noakes) Kemp, Marjorie (Noakes) Johnson, Miriam (Huse) Witt, and Dorothy (Ross) Ingham but the rest kept writing. Each participant always put in her information before passing the package on. None of them faltered keeping in touch even though life kept each busy with births and deaths of loved ones, wars, depression and drought. Ten ladies now keep up the practice.

Keeping in touch hasn't only meant writing to one another, the group has had three reunions through the years; one in Grand Lake, Colorado in 1965, one in Wayne in 1976 and one in Wayne in 1988.

With the passage of time, the lines of some of the letters are computer generated and the lines on the faces of the dear friends have deepened but the friendship and correspondence that spans over a half century is still going strong.

As the 'tag-a-long' little sister of one of the participants fondly notes, "It's really astounding that such a thing has gone on uninterrupted for years."

Law toughened up for drunken drivers

One of my personal priorities as a State Senator is to reduce fatalities related to drunken driving and stiffen penalties on those that drink and drive. Last year alone, more than 17,100 people died in alcohol-related vehicle crashes nationwide.

A measure that I co-sponsored during the Legislative session, LB 1004, would make the proposition of driving drunk on Nebraska's roadways less likely. It was passed by a 47-0 vote.

The new law, which took effect July 13, allows out-of-state drunken driving during convictions to be considered as prior offenses in Nebraska's courts. LB 1004, which was introduced by Sen. Pat Engel, makes a driver's prior drunken driving record in other states available for local prosecutors to use in Nebraska drunken driving cases. The measure will allow judges to impose harsher sentences for drunken drivers who have been convicted in other states.

Up to now, state law recognized only drunken driving convictions in Nebraska, which meant a habitual drunken driver would be treated as a first-time offender when arrested for the first time here. Some have claimed repeat offenders moved to Nebraska to escape their records.

Under the new law, if a driver is charged with DUI and has a prior out-of-state DUI conviction from the past 12 years, the out-of-state conviction will be admissible in court. Drunken driving convictions in states with a blood alcohol content level below Nebraska's cannot be used.

Prosecutors are required to establish an authenticated copy of a prior conviction as evidence of such a prior conviction.

The new law is one of 84 that went into effect on the 13th, the day all bills passed during the 2000 legislative session take effect unless there was an emergency clause or another specific date was assigned.

Another bill of great importance that took effect on July 13 relates to seat belt use in your automobiles. The law requires children under the age of 16 to always wear a seat belt no matter where they are seated in a motor vehicle.

Previously state law had only required that children younger than four always wear a seat restraint of some form. All passengers, regardless of age, riding in the front seat of a motor vehicle also are required to wear seat belts. The measure places a conviction on the driver's record the second time the parent is caught driving their child without the proper child restraint system. LB410 was passed by a 45-0 vote.

I want to thank everyone from Dist. #18 who either has called or e-mailed my office concerning the issues that are taking place in our State. Your input, as always, is very important to me. If you have any comments or concerns on these or any other legislative matters, please contact my office at (402) 471-2801 or e-mail me at bdickey@unicam.state.ne.us.

Capitol News

No surprises at Convention because all has been decided

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Once upon a time, in a political world of the past, rumors would be flying and intrigue would be afoot among Nebraska Democrats and Republicans at this time of the election year.

It was a special season for insiders and others most interested in the political process, a process which ultimately could have so much to do with government.

At the center of this interest one would find the party's presidential nominating conventions. In case you are too young to remember, presidential candidates were (once upon the time to which we previously referred) actually nominated at the party conventions. That, of course, is why they were called nominating conventions. Get it?

There was plenty of political excitement around and about because, in those days, nominations were hardly (and sometimes not quite) decided through the state primary elections system before delegates were off to the conventions - where arm-twisting, promise-making, platform-writing politicians and their minions did their thing in the storied "smoke-filled room" (a phrase coined by a particularly clever wire service reporter).

A Nebraskan looking to win points toward (usually) his political spurs could make some headway with a good convention performance.

There were all manner of possibilities. One might help secure a promise of congressional or administration support for some project back home. One might lend a hand in securing support for a bit of platform language, whether important or just piffle, sought by those higher up in the party. One might thus build upon one's reputation as a political mover, or as a politician. One might be noticed by all sorts, including the press.

Of course, like the first paragraph said, this is just a "once upon a time" thing, because virtually none of this stuff applies these days.

The presidential nominations are wrapped up before the Easter Bunny begins to lose his winter fur. The would-be chief executives had made their commitments (or sold their souls, depending on your view) to businesses with big money, single-interest groups with votes and money, and generally declared allegiance to the demagoguery of their choice. In short, they have placed their bets, and bets have been placed on them.

"Big state" primaries serve like a version of horse racing's triple crown, with only slightly more competitive venues.

You see, the convention is no longer anything approaching a real contest.

Today's convention is simply a glorified winner's circle.

Let us remember the legitimate and rightful efforts that were made to get the nominating process out of those smoke-filled rooms.

But let us also remember that the purpose of presidential primaries ought to have purpose and meaning for the states - not just a few of the most populous states.

Going to a convention no longer means that one is part of a most important element of our political process. Going to a convention these days means one's most valuable function is likely to be serving as an on-camera "extra" for a TV extravaganza. And even TV has figured out it counts for almost nothing.

Nebraska's political insiders, in both parties ought to push for revisions in the primary election system that would give such balloting a bit of meaning around the country, and for changes in the convention structure that would make the gatherings something other than passe.

Americans' political and religious apathy is scary situation

Dear Editor,

China has a tradition of naming a year for a specific creature, like "the Year of the Rabbit" or "the Year of the Dragon" and special honour was celebrated for that creature.

Perhaps it would be fitting if we in the USA adopted this idea but used it in a different way to bring attention to changes in our culture. Our culture has been changing ever since our nation began, but the most noticeable changes seem to be in the last 10 to 20 years. So we could distinguish 1999 as "the Year of the BIG LIE" because of how so many of our government officials lied to the public and betrayed the public trust.

Now we are in year 2000 which could end up "the Year of the Renewal of " if (?) Congress and the Courts get their priorities straightened out and live up to the Oath of Office and to the Constitution they vow to uphold.

It's almost enough to make a person cry when we who have three score or more years behind us remember how the morality, honesty and character of our government institutions and departments used to be.

In the Old Testament of the Bible there are many accounts of Immoral Kings, refusing to obey God's commandments, bringing all manner of condemnation and ruin to him and his people because Vice and Sin in a nation works from the Top down, not from the bottom up.

This being a general election year, it's fitting to remember some of our Nations' Founding Fathers thoughts.

I quote our first president, George Washington, who on Oct. 3, 1789, proclaimed a National Day of Prayer and Thanksgiving. "It is the Duty of all Nations to Acknowledge to Providence of Almighty God to obey His will to be grateful for His Benefits and to humbly implore His Protection and favor."

Thomas Jefferson in 1781: "God who gave us life gave us Liberty. Can the Liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that their Liberties are a gift of God? that they are not to be violated by HIS WRATH. Indeed, I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just that His justice cannot sleep forever."

Others Founding Fathers, Ben Franklin, Patrick Henry, John Adams, Alexander Hamilton and John Hancock all proclaimed and verified that America was built on Christian principals. Also, if you review the constitutions of the original 13 states, all depended upon guidance from God and even required elected officials to be Christians.

Almost without exception, the framers of our Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, they were God-fearing Christians and would see today's war against Christianity within our government, our school rooms, our news media, entertainment community and by various groups like the ACLU, NOW, Planned Parenthood, the Gay & Lesbian organization to be a grave threat to America's survival as a Free Nation.

Apathy on the part of the citizens of this country plus inaction on the part of a gutless Congress who refuse to use the authority and power of the Constitution to keep the Executive and Judicial branches of government in line are the reasons why people distrust the government.

Then add to this the deplorable voting rate in recent years. How could 44 percent of votes cast in 1996 re-elect the present Administration? Well, it really didn't. It was the 30 to 40 percent of eligible voters that never took time to vote that allowed it all to happen.

When good men do nothing, Evil prevails.

Look what has happened since 1963 when the Supreme Court ruled that schools could not use Bibles in the curriculum or prayers could not be part of student activities. They said it was against "separation of church and state" and unconstitutional.

Pardon Me, but I've Never found mention of that phrase in the constitution.

Following are some results of the 1963 ruling.

SAT scores down 10 percent, teen suicide up 450 percent among 15-19 year olds in the USA. National Center for Health Statistics: Child abuse up 2,300 percent (Source: U.S. Department of Health and Human Services). Illegal drugs - up 6000 percent (National Institute of Drug Abuse), crime up 350 percent (Department of Commerce) 1950-

2000 Criminal arrests of 14-17 year old - 150 percent (U.S. Department of Commerce) and births to unmarried girls up 500 percent in the 15-19 year old category (Department of Commerce).

We as voters can make a difference but it takes an effort to let our elected officials know how we feel and what we think. They can't read our minds and they are supposed to represent both those who vote and those who don't.

If America is to reclaim its position in the Panama Canal zone, and 70 percent of Panamanians favor us to, if we are to thwart the efforts of the ALCU to take the Ten Commandments from our schools and government buildings and court rooms, if we as a people are determined to keep our National Sovereignty in spite of the efforts of the United Nations to force us into One Global Government, and IF we as a people value our Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms in able to defend our families, ourselves and our property, then it is most crucial that we exercise our privilege to Vote into office candidates who share our beliefs and needs.

It's easy to call 1-202-224-3121 at the Capitol and tell your elected officials how you stand.

Carrol V. Lipp,
Laurel

Volunteers deserve thank-you

Letter to the Editor,

I'd like to thank the many volunteers who helped make the Lions Mobile Screening Unit at this year's Chicken Show a huge success.

They include Dr. Koeber and Dr. Magnuson who gave the glaucoma test for four hours each, Laura Gamble who arranged for the other nurses and seven other RN's or LPN's who administered the blood sugar and blood pressure tests for two hours each.

Then there were 12 Wayne Lions and one Wakefield Lion (Cecil Shortt who seemed to have a great time) and Faye Mann, wife of Wayne Lions President Fred Mann. Some Lions worked one shift and three or four worked closer to two shifts.

Thanks again to the Masonic Lodge for use of their parking lot and to the city of Wayne that installed a special electrical hookup.

A special thanks to the family of Fred Webber. He ran the unit's visit for the past 10 years (and our RV Park and the candy sales). We now have a half a dozen members doing the many jobs Fred did for year, including Chuck Maier and Hilbert John, who are now in charge of the RV Park.

There were 121 individuals who went through this year's unit - four were children and a few went through twice (like myself) to have one or two tests run again later in the day. There were 107 who filled out exit surveys which I read before sending them on to the Public Relations Office of Nebraska Blue Cross-Blue Shield. The BC-BS gives $60,000 annually to the Nebraska Lion Foundation (which is supported jointly by all the Lions Clubs in the state) to hire one full time employee, Diane Baldwin, and provide support for publicity and maintenance to keep the unit on the road year-round.

By the way, Diane Baldwin, an RN and licensed bus driver, told me the Masons' barbecue sandwich I brought her for lunch was "delicious" and the box of Great Dane's ice cream bars I brought our volunteers in the hot sun around 1:30 p.m. was also greatly appreciated.

Of the 107 who filled out surveys, it was the first visit to the unit in three years for 76 of them. Twenty-four had learned of the unit's presence from the local newspaper and eight from KTCH Radio. Over half found it because it was THERE at the Chicken Show. One group seemed to really like it, a group of senior citizens on a "Mystery Tour" bus from Glenwood, Iowa. They had been to Ashfall Riverbeds the day before. Their driver went through twice (gave me the idea to do the same).

All 107 surveyed noted the volunteers and services were "excellent." Some wrote comments like "very professional" and "keep doing this."

Pat Cook,
Mobile Unit Visit 2000 Chair

Pepper Extract for Pain: Capsaicin

Many people use Capsaicin for chronic pain but do not realize it is an herbal extract. Capsaicin is the active component of Capsicum annuum - the common cayenne pepper. In the tropics the plant can grow as a bush to a height of 3 feet. The pepper it produces technically is a berry. Capsaicin causes the Capsicum berry to be "hot," pungent, and irritating.

Topically applied capsaicin has been studied in many types of pain, including post-herpetic neuralgia (shingles), trigeminal neuralgia (tic douloureux), rheumatoid and osteoarthritis, and psoriasis. Typically, creams containing less than 1 part per 1,000 capsaicin are applied to the skin up to 4 times a day.

Capsaicin may relieve pain by directly affecting pain fibers. A chemical called substance P is responsible for transmitting pain impulses to the brain from the periphery (e.g., skin or joints). Capsaicin first stimulates pain fibers and then depletes them of substance P. As a result, pain "messages" cannot be sent to the brain where they otherwise would be sensed.

Peter Pritchard is a boy who never outgrew his pets. With a Ph.D. in zoology, Pritchard wants to see turtles become as popular as Mickey Mouse. Pritchard founded the privately funded Chelonian Research Institute, to study and preserve the world's oldest surviving reptiles. The Institute is located in Oviedo, Florida, just half a mile from Disney World in Orlando. Pritchard says turtles are "eco-system architects," and invaluable to our ecological system. In addition to writing academic papers about the virtues of turtles, Dr. Pritchard also writes children's books and shares observations with fellow tortoise lover Queen Elizabeth II.

Choosing

So in most cases, I'll look for a bait that resembles these species.

As a diver, I've seen how fish react to different color lures at different depths. Fish will react differently in clear water than they will in dark or stained water.

In clear water, a bright color; clown, tiger, fire tiger or bright chartreuse can spook fish. In clear water I'll use a more natural pattern like a shad or perch color.

In turbid water, I'll go with the brighter fluorescent colors such as those I mentioned above.

On the Missouri River, the water clarity changes the farther you go down river. In the Pierre area, the water is very clear and the visibility is excellent. As you go down stream, the water quality will decrease. When you hit the area where the Niobrara River enters, it changes from clear to muddy and gradually gets worse as you go down stream towards Yankton.

When I'm fishing up river, I'll use a more natural color, especially when fishing in the shallower water. If I'm fishing deeper, I'll use a fluorescent colored lure.

There are times when even the clearest water will become muddied or turbid. On Lake Oahe, Sharpe and Francis Case on the Missouri River system, the wind blows and the waves slapping into the shore creates a mud line. The fish will move into the shallow water to feed and when I see this muddy water creating a dark stained area, I'll switch to a gaudy fluorescent color to make my lure more visible in the muddied water.

Fluorescent colored crankbaits will also hold their color in deeper water and low light conditions, making them more visible in deeper water.

Gary Howey
"Of the Outdoors"

Listed below are crankbait colors that I carry in my tackle box.

My favorite colors for fishing in clear shallow water are: Shad, Perch, Bluegill, Threadfin Shad or Crawdad.

If I'm fishing dirty water I'll use: Fire Tiger, Fire Crow, Clown, Chartreuse, Fluorescent Orange or Fluorescent Yellow.

Everyone has their own ideas when it comes to crankbait color. If it works for you, use it!

Just don't get in the rut that you use one color in clear, muddy and stained water, because you could be in for a lot of trolling and cranking and very little catching.

Depression Caused by Vitamin Deficiency?

According to a report in American Journal of Psychiatry, older women with vitamin B-12 deficiencies may be at increased risk for severe depression. This link between B-12 and depression was discovered by National Institute on Aging researchers who studied disabled women over age 65 years living in their communities — not in nursing homes or psychiatric institutions. The risk of depression in these women was more than twice as high in B-12 deficient women as compared to women with adequate B-12 in their bloodstreams. In severely depressed women, 27% were vitamin B-12 deficient; 15% of non-depressed women were B-12 deficient.

Past research in institutionalized women revealed this link between B-12 deficiency and depression. According to the report, it has not been determined if giving B-12 supplements will relieve depression.

Several tours planned

In conjunction with the Lewis and Clark Festival to be held Aug. 26-27 at the Lewis and Clark Visitor Center near Gavins Point Dam, the Yankton Lewis and Clark Bicentennial Commission is sponsoring historic tours of the area.

Three different tours will be available. Two of the tours will be by motor coach and the third will be by canoe or kayak on the Missouri River.

Starting from the Lewis and Clark Visitor Center, the first bus tour will travel east and look at the history of steaming on the Missouri River, the first election site west of the Mississippi River and Sergeant Floyd's burial site.

The second bus tour will travel west and explore the Clark's ancient fortification site, Old Baldy, old Fort Randall and the Yankton Sioux Treaty Monument.

Each bus will be lead by an experienced historic tour guide and will include lunch and a buffalo feed in the evening.

The third tour by canoe or kayak will start from just below Gavins Point Dam and will conclude at Clay County Park near Vermillion, S.D. Those participating will experience the real Missouri River much like when Lewis and Clark were here in 1804. The trip will include a lunch on the river shoreline and the buffalo feed in the evening.

The cost is $48 per person. Reservations are limited and need to be received by Aug. 1. Contact the Lewis and Clark Visitor Center at (402) 667-7873, ext. 3246 for more information or to make reservations.

Receives award

Erin Arneson of Wayne will be among five youths and one adult couple from Nebraska to receive the Salvation Army's annual "D.J. Hero Awards" at a luncheon in Omaha on Monday, July 24.

The awards are named in honor of D.J. Sokol, son of David and Peggy Sokol of Omaha, who died of cancer in June 1999 at the age of 18. Each youth award winner will be given a scholarship of $1,000.

More than 500 people are expected to attend the luncheon.

The featured speaker will be Rob Zatechka, former Nebraska Cornhusker and professional football lineman.

The youth winners were chosen because they share with the late D.J. Sokol the qualities of dedication and faith, selfless acts for others and commitment to their communities.

The Wayne High School senior spent her Saturdays helping remodel a house for a homeless Norfolk family. She also has helped build homes and churches on Indian reservations. She has used her leadership ability in several organizations to steer others away from drugs and alcohol. This fall, she will represent Nebraska's First Congressional District at the MADD Youth Summit in Washington, D.C.

The honor roll student has volunteered at the Wayne Food Pantry, the Orphan Grain Train in Norfolk and as her church's youth ministry advocate. She also is the winner of two essay contests on patriotism.

Erin is the daughter of Marion and Patricia Arneson of Wayne.

The other youth winners are Jill Stephenson of Omaha, Taryn Retzlaff of Rushville, Paige Jenkins of Omaha and Matthew Armstrong of Omaha. The adult couple honorees are Terry and Lori McMullen of Omaha.

A Chocolate A Day Keeps The Doctor Away?

The news that every chocolate lover has longed to hear. A study in the Lancet says that chocolate may actually be good for you, especially dark chocolate. Researchers say that dark chocolate contains four times the amount of catechin, a type of antioxidant, than black tea. Black tea is suspected of having a protective effect against heart disease and cancer due to its antioxidants. No one suggests that you eat heaps of chocolate - it is high in fat and sugar - but one piece may be healthy as well as enjoyable.

Nebraska Consumer Bulletin

Attorney General Don Stenberg

SIGN RIGHT HERE!

Suggestions to Consider Before You Sign Your Name

Your signature may be required on a contract when you buy a car, join a health club, or agree to purchase other goods or services. The document you sign will state what your obligations are, as well as what the seller will be required to provide to you. It is up to the consumer to read, and to be sure he understands any document before affixing a signature on the dotted line.

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office receives calls every week from Nebraskans who misunderstood the terms of a contract. Other consumers have changed their minds, and would like to know if they can cancel a contract they had already signed.

Sometimes consumers find that they have entered into a contract without even realizing it. Signing what appears to be a contest entry form may indeed change the consumer's long distance telephone carrier. A check received through the mail may appear to be a "free gift", but the endorsement signature may obligate the consumer to make regular payments to the business that issued the check for a service he didn't understand he was agreeing to buy.

Here are some suggestions to consider before you sign your name to any agreement or contract:

- Read the agreement or contract thoroughly and be sure you understand all of the provisions.
- Never be rushed into signing your name, and think twice before signing when you are told the offer is good only if you sign now. A legitimate business will give you time to consider the proposal.
- If there is anything in the document you do not understand, take it to someone else to review, or consider having a private, licensed attorney answer your questions.
- Be sure that any verbal representations given by the business are written into the contract. The business may not be obliged to honor promises not contained in the document.
- Do not sign any agreement or contract that is not completely filled out. An unscrupulous business may fill in a higher price or interest rate than was mutually agreed to, or may indicate a longer term contract than you understood it was to be.
- Before you sign your name, ask about any cancellation provisions and be sure any provisions stated verbally are also included in the written contract.
- Remember that a contract is a legally binding agreement. Cancellation provisions written into the contract must be honored by the business. But if there are no written provisions for cancellation, you may well be bound by your signature.

For more information about this or any other consumer issue contact:

Nutrition labels list another fat

Beginning next year, trans fatty acids will be the fifth fat listed on nutrition labels. The other four are saturated fats, polyunsaturated fats, monounsaturated fats and total fats.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recommended adding trans fatty acids to the list because some studies have shown that the acids may raise LDL cholesterol (the bad cholesterol) levels. If arteries or veins are damaged, LDL builds up and causes blockage. Trans fatty acids are found in polyunsaturated foods such as margarine, shortening and oils.

The American Dietetics Association said Americans consume only five grams of trans fatty acids per day, equal to one teaspoon or three percent of total calories, but should still be cautious about the amount they consume. The ADA recommends maintaining a healthy diet by eating fewer processed foods, eating more fruits and vegetables, eating lean meats, using low or nonfat dairy products and exercising regularly.

If people have questions about the effects of LDL cholesterol or trans fatty acids, they should talk to their doctor or a registered dietitian.

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willcoxon, Dr. Koebler and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koebler or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

Nitrogen test plots show profit in farm demonstrations

By: Dick DeLoughery, Extension Water Quality Education Coordinator - After seeing the results of his 1998 nitrogen (N) test plots, Harley Greve, a rural Wakefield farmer, commented, "I learned that I didn't need to put added nitrogen on with the (incorporated) chicken manure."

In all, six corn demonstrations were conducted during the 1998 growing season as part of the Lower Elkhorn Water Quality Education Project, Harley's was dryland, while the other five cooperators had pivot irrigated corn. Three of the sites received manure before planting. At each site three nitrogen rates were applied to 1/4 to 3/4 mile long plots, with four randomized replications of each treatment.

The three rates were the UNL recommended N rate, 50 lb./acre less, and 50 lb./acre more than the recommended rate. A stalk nitrate test was used to evaluate the nitrogen programs at the end of the season.

Dick DeLoughery, project coordinator, explained, "For the three manure demonstrations, the most profitable rate was the UNL recommended rate of no additional nitrogen, yielding 186 bu/acre, at the plus 50 lb. n/acre rate, grain yields were 187 bu/acre, losing $9.00/acre, and at the plus 100 lb. N/acre rate they were 187 bu/acre, losing over $18.00/acre. We used $1.90/bu for corn, and $0.24/lb. N as UAN solution."

He continued, "The manure sites had average stalk nitrate-N tests at the end of the season that were at least 4800 parts per million (ppm), way above the Optimal range of 700 to 2000 ppm. Two of the manured sites had received excess N before sidedressing time. If stalk nitrate-N is Excessive (2000 ppm), then more nitrogen was available to the crop than that needed for optimum yield. These yield and stalk tests indicate that more nitrogen credit should have been given to the manure by the farmers."

"For the non-manured corn plots," DeLoughery added, "the recommended nitrogen rate yielded 170/bu/acre, and was $0.50/acre more profitable than the plus 50 lb. N/acre rate, even with its 177 bu/acre yield. Stalk nitrates in the recommended rate plots at the non-manured sites were in the Optimal range. The plus 50 N rate plots were in the Excessive range, and the minus 50 rate plots were in the Marginal ranges (250-700 ppm)."

Charles Shapiro, Extension Soil Fertility Specialist at Concord, commented, "These demonstrations generally support UNL recommendations for farmers to take soil nitrate-N tests for corn after corn. They also need to give nitrogen credit to manure, irrigation water, the legumes, as well as organic matter nitrogen release. They also support the use of the corn stalk nitrate-N test after maturity."

Band Uniform Replacement Schedule

Mr. Brad Weber, High School Instrumental Music Teacher, was present to explain to Board members how the process works for the replacement of band uniforms. Each year the Board of Education transfers funds to the Music Boosters and they decide how many uniforms need to be replaced in 1998. 21 uniforms were replaced. Between $78,000 and $80,000 would be needed to purchase new uniforms. Mr. Weber explained that judges from marching contests etc. comment on the band uniforms appearance, how unique they look and always in style. The uniforms are used both during marching band season and concert band season, where the concert band is worn instead of the marching shirt.

Supervisor's Report

Dr. Reinert updated the Board on the progress of construction work at the high school and middle school. Concrete work at the high school is almost complete. The punch list should be out in a week and half and owner ship of the building is scheduled to be given back to the District on August 3, 2000. Board members asked if the punch list around the routine would include the white trim around the rest of the building to make it look uniform. Dr. Reinert would check it in.
