Inventive communications growing

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Expanding on a local, regional, national, and international level, Inventive Communications of Wayne is a growing, viable business.

Inventive Communications, creator of INET Library currently is housed in three buildings in Wayne. The administrative staff is located at 215 Pearl Street, (formerly U.S. West), the telesales department is located at 210 N. Main Street, (formerly The Wardrobe), and the INET Library research center is located in the newly remodeled 1st Realty building, (formerly Kuhns) at 201 N. Main Street.

INET Library was founded in 1998 as a service to schools. The site started with links to over 2,200 books and educational sites were added as time went on. Quality and appropriate educational material are provided through INET Library.

Superintendents in Nebraska and South Dakota were surveyed with a 56 percent response in support of the idea to have over 100,000 educational sites located on one page.

The company decided to market the content to the world in 1998. Two weeks after the survey, Inventive Communications sent out its first brochure and began telemarketing the INET Library to schools in Nebraska and South Dakota. Currently 2,400 schools are online with the INET Library with another 2,300 giving it a serious look.

The business is privately held with Dr. Dennis Jensen as Founder and President and Rod Tompkins as Chairman of the Board of Inventive Communications.

Regionally there are satellite offices in Omaha, Minneapolis, and Lincoln with a second office location in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Jensen notes that all three local departments are busy. There are 10 technicians working in the Wayne office.

As part of their duties, local members of the administrative staff travel a lot to conferences, coast to coast. Recently they had travel booths with information of INET Library in three different locations at the same time, Jensen said. "We had one booth set up in Colorado, one in Georgia, and one in Iowa."

Getting information out on INET Library is an ongoing task. When the school year begins, brochures are sent out to 16,000 school superintendents, 60,000 to principals, and 30,000 to curriculum directors. Every 45 days more brochures are sent out to inform schools of important issues and of the need for INET Library in school systems.

Jensen said that public school administrators need to realize that as a result of a 1988 Supreme Court decision (Kuhlmeier Vs. Missouri), administration can be held liable if students happen on to pornographic material while at school. Most school administrators are unaware of this decision regarding illicit materials in school.

Inside offices are conducted at 210 N. Main Street in Wayne. Duties of those working there include marketing INET Library by telephone to schools.

Many schools have purchased software products for the purpose of filtering Internet content. These software products search for commonly used words by many pornographic sites (words like single or teen). If a student would be searching for information on sensitive issues or in areas of hygiene, these filtering products would not allow the search. This situation can be very frustrating and actually limits access to information that is viable and credible. Owners of pornographic Internet businesses spend a great deal of money and time researching these filtering software products in order to make them ineffective. The INET Library Plus is a new release providing Internet blocking services for schools but not using any software filter. The INET Library Plus has placed over 500,000 inappropriate sites on a server and when a researcher requests a pornographic or violent site, the researcher is barred access to the entire site. Screening is not done by words or by a software product, it is accomplished with people judging content.

Of the local business, Dr. Jensen also notes that 90 percent of all INET Library sales are from the Wayne telesales department, and those researching sites for content are busy monitoring and maintaining them all of the time.

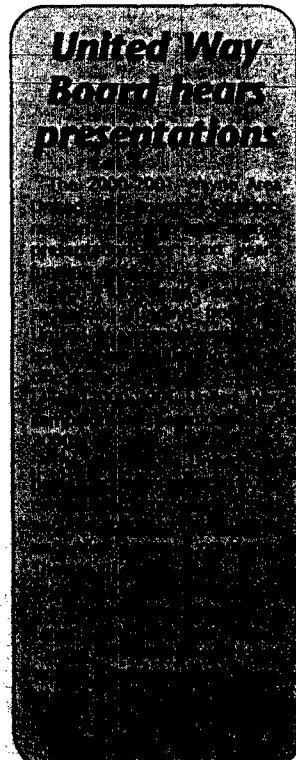

Nationally, a Washington D.C. based office has been opened to further develop national and international markets.

Rod Tompkins, chairman of

Kylie Bearnes of Laurel was among those Dixon County 4-H'ers who brought livestock to exhibit at this year's fair. ASSIST MEDICAL RESEARCH

Inventive Communications, said, "We've spent two years pulling together a world-class system using teachers for researchers, and have tested it with educators and students across the nation. We're now available for every public, parochial and private school, home schools, and public libraries." And, he adds, "we can make it available to every child in America for the price of a lunch at McDonalds!"

Utilizing a staff of more than 85 educators and technology experts, under the direction of Dr. Dennis Jensen, president, founder and former superintendent for 18 years, Inventive Communications has also developed a sequenced core web-curriculum for K-12. This curriculum has been developed to match or exceed standards established by the 50 state departments of education and professional education associations.

Dr. Jensen adds that "we've just initiated a new, more challenging curriculum with lesson plans, interactive quizzes, and grade record keeping which will be accessible to teachers and parents this fall. Our hope is to have this resource available for every teacher in his or her home to ease the task of lesson planning and assist teachers in helping students navigate the Internet."

"The big advantage for schools and libraries," said Jack T. Kneiff, Internet research specifically for quality, educational sites is conducted at the 201 N. Main Street location in Wayne.

INET Library CEO, "is that the more than 220,000 selected Internet sites are organized, and with our own search engine to search only INET Library sites, Internet research is quicker and easier and provides more useful information."

"In addition, we block access to over 500,000 pornography, violence, and hate sites without using a filter, which can block access to many good sites. Librarians can customize their choice of the blocked sites and still allow access to the rest of the Internet outside of the INET Library."

The newly established Washington office is headed by Senior Vice President Jose A. Toro, former Secretary General of the InterAmerican Bar Association, and Sandra K. Toro, a political appointee in the Carter-Mondale administration, and owner of a Washington public relations firm.

"Our focus will be on international marketing, creating strategic partnerships with non-profit organizations, and working closely with the Department of Education, other federal agencies and state education and library officials," said Toro.

"We also will be working closely with President Clinton and Senator Barbara Mikulski to find ways to make our program accessible to minorities and economically disadvantaged children, to find a way to bridge the "digital divide," said Toro.

Commenting on the impression INET Library makes on people, "I was at a convention in Chicago recently when a lady came back from a suburb of St. Louis, a upper scale neighborhood, and she listed INET Library as the one they use at the school she teaches at," Kneiff said. "She said that she knows her students will find what they're looking for and she knows that when they are on INET Library she knows it's safe."

Kneiff also noted that since business is growing, there are a number of opportunities available. Presently the business is in need of adding to their sales force.

Parents should be prepared for chickenpox

It starts with a slight fever, and within a couple days, develops the rash, sores and itching. Each year, nearly four million people, most of them under the age of 15, get chickenpox. As the school year begins, the Nebraska Medical Association reminds you to be on the look out for chickenpox.

rash on an infected person or through the air by coughing and sneezing. The rash usually appears on the face, chest, abdomen and back, and may include mild to intense itching. Scratching the affected area can cause scarring and increases the risk of a bacterial infection.

may help relieve the itching. Help reduce the fever by using acetaminophen instead of aspirin-taking aspirin while infected with chickenpox can lead to a serious condition known as Reye's Syndrome.

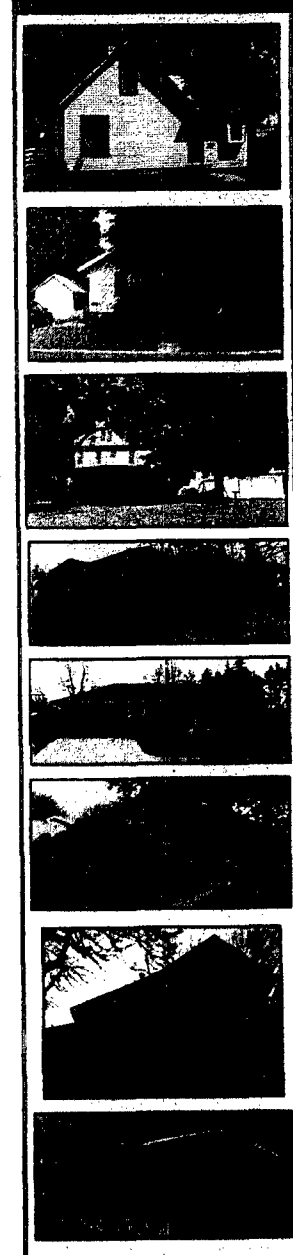

While chickenpox usually doesn't require medication, it still is important to pay attention and be prepared. A rapid heartbeat, dizziness, shortness of breath, vomiting or a fever higher than 103 degrees Fahrenheit require immediate medical attention. Patients on oral prednisone or who are immune suppressed, have greater problems with chickenpox.

Now there is a vaccine for chickenpox and oral antiviral medications that can be prescribed. Contact your physician for more information on the chickenpox vaccine and what to do if chickenpox strikes.

At home workers are at health care risk

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The Internet has millions of people working at home.

It has occurred to me that there is yet another round of fortunes to be made in taking advantage of this reality.

The next wave of Internet-related fortunes could, and probably should, involve the design of homes.

Let's say you are a writer/editor who lives and often works in a modern home. There is a very real possibility, and I'm speaking from personal experience here, that you might be working in a family room. The family area might be adjacent to the kitchen.

And therein lies the perennial rub. There is no doubt that there exists a growing (in more ways than one) market of Internet workers who sit at keyboards that are located in family rooms which are located altogether too close to the kitchen.

This element of intended-convenience now poses a threat to productivity and to the health and well-being of millions of workers. Think of the time lost and the weight gained by those who look up, see the kitchen, and are distracted.

At greatest risk, personal research has shown, are those who can be classified as, say, "middle-aged, balding, stubble-bearded and subject to myriad problems associated with enhanced pot-belly syndrome."

There could be an entire class of homes in the future, marketed in part on the basis of the distance of family rooms and other temporary work areas from large supplies of foodstuffs; the degree of extended effort required to reach them would be another selling point.

In addition to moving temptation further from the sight and access of portly scribes and others, it could eventually be an overall money-saving thing.

If your spouse occasionally has company (for our purposes "company" refers to any person or persons whose presence in the house requires you to go outside to burp) the less they can see of the larder, the less likely they are to expect to be offered food.

See?
Naturally there are those who will nay-say this entire idea. The lot will mostly consist of skinny, mean-spirited people who toss around argumentative buzz words such as "exercise" and "self-discipline."

In this instance, the preferred design approach should be described as what I have labeled "compassionate conservatism." Again, for these purposes, "compassionate conservatism" can be defined as denying things to others, while telling them you feel bad about it, and insisting that it is for the good of all. It will also provide those comparatively rare instances when one can make good use of humor with a conservative theme. If someone says they are hungry, you can smile and say: "Heh-heh, yeah, well. Get a job!"

There were a variety of newsy, Capitol-type things intended for this column, but I'm going to have to end this weekly epistle because, as I look up, I can see someone has left a coffeecake on the counter and it needs to be put away. So to speak.

Emergency ambulance system explained

Dear Editor,

Because the hospital and its ambulance service has recently come under some scrutiny and criticism, we felt it was important to address the issues publicly to inform the regional community what our emergency response capabilities and responsibilities are.

Our ambulance is an ALS (Advanced Life Support) level of response team. This rating means that we have personnel and equipment on board capable of providing services at a higher and more intense level than BLS (Basic Life Support) rescue squads staffed by Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) and/or paramedics.

When our ambulance responds to a call, there is always at least one registered nurse (RN) on board. Aside from his/her nurse training and experience, he/she is also certified with ACLS (Advanced Cardiac Life Support), NRP (Neonatal Resuscitation Provider), PALS (Pediatric Advanced Life Support) and 21 of our registered nurses have currently completed the EMT course as well. Several of our RNs have additionally received TNCC (Trauma Nurse Core Course) certification, with more nurses scheduled to take that course in the near future.

What do all these certifications mean in terms of what we can offer to the community? Our ambulance personnel has the training to respond to any type of trauma/emergency that occurs, regardless of the age of the patient.

Our physicians have established protocols which enable our ambulance staff to administer medication and intravenous fluids (IV), defibrilate (use electrical current to regulate an/or restart the heart) and intubate (establish and maintain an airway by placing a tube into the trachea) at the scene of the accident.

Additionally, these skills are sharpened and maintained by our nurses on a daily basis in their patient care at the hospital. Because of our communication systems, our ambulance staff is able to stay in close contact with the physician and staff at the hospital. These capabilities at the scene could mean the difference between life and death.

We're fortunate in this area to have access to two helicopter ambulance services, located in Norfolk and Sioux City. Our facility has a good relationship with each of these units.

Many factors enter into the decision as to when a helicopter should be called. These factors include weather, availability of the helicopter and stabilization needs of the patient. Because of our advanced capabilities, it is usually most prudent to respond to the accident, stabilize the patient in the field and at Providence.

Some stabilization procedures can be done only in a hospital environment and would not be available on a helicopter. After stabilization, if the physician deems it to be necessary, the patient may be transferred to a facility that can provide a higher level of care.

Sometimes, the transfer may be made by helicopter and sometimes a determination will be made that it would be faster to take the patient by ambulance. Transport of an unstable patient, by helicopter or ambulance, has inherent risks involved including bumpy roads, inclement weather, vehicular accident during transport and unexpected deterioration of the patient's condition enroute.

Transportation is prudent only when the benefits of transfer outweigh the risks. We make each patient and/or their representatives aware of these risks, and benefits prior to transfer. Again, conditions vary and the decision as to what is best for the patient has to be made on a case by case basis by qualified and experienced medical personnel.

Providence Medical Center staff recognizes the need for area rescue squads and commends the volunteers that operate them for the commitment they have unselfishly made to their respective communities to provide lifesaving services.

We feel, however, that there has been some misunderstanding as to our working relationship with these services. Our ambulance has no designated territory. We can respond to any situation to which we have been dispatched.

The protocol established within the 911 dispatch system at the Wayne Police Department is that when an accident occurs within the Wayne Rescue Squad's (operated by the Volunteer Fire Department) territory, our ambulance is dispatched first followed by the Rescue Squad. In some instances, depending on the information given to the dispatcher as to the location of the accident, the Wayne Rescue Squad may be called in error, however, the ambulance is not bound by territory.

In fact, once we arrive at a scene, we are required by law to provide assessment and stabilization to the best of our capabilities.

Our hospital is not required to provide ambulance service. As a matter of fact, hospitals rarely do provide ambulance services because of the many regulatory hoops involved with ownership and the exposure of personnel to risks encountered in the field including dangerous accident scenes, potentially violent environments and of course vehicular accident.

At Providence Medical Center, we feel a strong commitment to provide this service to the community because it is important to us that our regional community have access to the best and highest level of health care.

If you have questions or comments regarding our ambulance service, please call Providence Medical Center at (402) 375-3800. Your call will be forwarded to appropriate personnel.

Thank you for your continued support.

Maricle Thomas, Administrator,
Providence Medical Center

Congratulations given

Dear Editor,

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Providence Medical Center on their renovation project.

The project seemed to move along and stayed on track, which has been a benefit to all. The SBB would also like to thank the hospital staff for working with us to maintain our monthly blood drive schedule.

Through this adjustment the SBB would like to thank our Wayne area donors for being patient and understanding while moving from different locations within the hospital. The SBB will be back to our normal set-up with just an adjustment or two.

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank would like to also take this opportunity to announce that as of July 7, Janette Twait has become our new Executive Director.

Jan has been with the blood bank for 30 years working in various positions, most recently as the Director of Quality Assurance. Jan's goals are to lead the Siouxland Community Blood Bank to provide the highest quality blood products to meet the needs of patients in 15 area hospitals.

Through ongoing training of staff, new procedures and technology, increasing the public's awareness and education for the ongoing need of volunteer blood donors and the addition of donor groups throughout Siouxland to host blood drives will be several areas of focus.

With our new director will come changes that donors may notice. You will see new faces and new locations in the future. Our goal is to collect over 700 units of blood a week which now has two to three blood drives set up each day. Scheduling multiple blood drives will help to assure that all area patient's transfusion needs are continually met.

Again, we want to say "thank you" to all our donors and volunteers who participate at our community, business, school and organization blood drives. You are all truly "Lifesavers in our Siouxland Community."

Jan King,
Donor Consultant

Apology extended to citizens

An open letter to the residents of Wayne and surrounding area.

All of us at KTCH would again like to like to apologize for any inconvenience the cancellation of the Hollywood Diamond Jesters Show caused you.

If you have not received a refund for your tickets yet, please come to the station on Highway 35 West with your tickets to receive it. We also wanted to clarify what happened.

The promoter of this event misrepresented himself to the station and the Softball Association and it was a joint decision on both our parts to cancel the event. We did not appreciate that this guy was looking to make money off the town's softball team without compensating them. It was a scam.

In the future, KTCH will research future events to make sure they are legitimate and will not take advantage of our listeners or the community in any way, shape or form.

Again, our apologies to those who bought tickets and to the Softball Association.

Julie Hansen, Manager
KTCH AM/FM, Wayne

We are all losing our marbles

A few weeks ago, I was shuffling toward the downstairs den with a steaming cup of coffee in one hand and the morning paper in the other. What began as a typical Saturday morning, turned into one of those lessons that life seems to hand you from time to time. Let me tell you about it.

I began to read a letter sent to me by an old friend of mine.

Well, Jim, it sure sounds like you're busy with your job. I'm sure they pay you well but it's a shame you have to be away from home and your family so much. Too bad you missed your kids swim lessons this summer.

He continued, "Let me tell you something Jim, something that has helped me keep a good perspective on my own priorities." And that's when he began to explain his theory of a "thousand marbles."

Jim
By: Janice

"You see, I sat down one day and did a little arithmetic. The average person lives about 75 years. I know, some live more and some live less, but on average, folks live about 75 years.

"Now then, I multiplied 75 times 52 and I came up with 3,900 which is the number of Saturdays that the average person has in their entire lifetime. Now stick with me Jim, I'm getting to the important part."

"It took me until I was 55-years-old to think about all this in any detail," he went on, "and by that time I had lived through over 2,800 Saturdays. I got to thinking that if I lived to be 75, I only had about a thousand of them left to enjoy.

"So, I went to a toy store and bought every single marble they had. I ended up having to visit three toy stores to roundup 1000 marbles. I took them home and put them inside of a large, clear plastic container right here in the shack next to my gear. Every Saturday since then, I have taken one marble out and thrown it away."

"I found that by watching the marbles diminish, I focused more on the really important things in life. There is nothing like watching your time here on this earth run out to help get your priorities straight."

"Now let me tell you one last thing before I sign-off with you and take my lovely wife out for breakfast. This morning, I took the very last marble out of the container. I figure if I make it until next Saturday then I have been given a little extra time. And the one thing we can all use is a little more time."

"It was nice to writing you Jim, I hope you spend more time with your family, and I hope to meet you again."

You could have heard a pin drop after I read the letter. I guess he gave me a lot to think about. I had planned to work on the yard that morning, and then I was going to meet up with a few guys and play golf. Instead I went upstairs and woke my wife up with a kiss.

"C'mon honey, I'm taking you and the kids to breakfast."

"What brought this on?" she asked with a smile. "Oh, nothing special, it's just been a long time since we spent a Saturday together with the kids. Hey, can we stop at a toy store while we're out? I need to buy some marbles."

Give your troubled child a hug, your beautiful wife/pandsome husband a compliment, your aging mother and grandmothers a phone call! They will all appreciate the moment and it will be long-lasting!

Be careful out there, we are all losing our marbles.

Herbs for Health
Purple Coneflower
Enhances Immunity

The purple coneflower was the most widely used herb in the US during the nineteenth century. This flower which is one of several from the species Echinacea, is native to the great plains. It was used by American Indians to treat everything from coughs to snakebites. During the first half of this century, Echinacea was listed in the National Formulary, a book of remedies that generally were recognized as being useful. With the advent of antibiotics, the herb fell from widespread use by most physicians.

Echinacea seems to enhance a nonspecific type of immunity. The herb stimulates the body to make chemicals that fight illness caused by bacteria, viruses, and fungi. Numerous studies have shown that the herb does enhance immunity. One such study involved persons who were prone to have upper respiratory infections. Study participants were given either fresh juice from Echinacea purpurea or a placebo two times a day for 8 weeks. Those who received the herb had about 40% less illness. They also had 40 days between episodes of illness as compared to 25 days in the group that received the placebo.

Get the drop on fish by dropshotting

U.S. anglers have been using the same old rigs for years to catch bass. Crankbaits, flipping, pitching, and rigs and the Carolina rig have been the main stay for years.

With all of the water we have in the U.S., we're fishing so much water that we were able to fish these rigs and catch fish.

Well, imagine that you only have a limited amount of clear water to fish, which means that you are fishing the same water and the same fish day in and day out.

Well, this is what the anglers in Japan were faced with and in order to catch these super spooky clear water fish, they needed to come up with a finesse rig that the fish hadn't seen before.

Because of these conditions, the Japanese anglers developed dropshotting also known as controlled depth fishing. It's simple, inexpensive and it catches fish.

Dropshotting is a verticle presentation that keeps your bait in front of the fish for a long time. The dropshot baits vibrate with very little movement and works well on inactive fish.

A dropshotting rig consists of a #2 or #4 straight eye hook, baited with a three inch or four inch plastic bait with a 1/8 to 3/8 ounce split shot attached 18 inches to 24 inches below the hook.

Dropshotting works best in depths between 10 and 100 foot depths. I've found that the rig works very well in weeds, allowing me to fish the underside of the weeds.

In clear water, I use a low visibility line like Berkley Vanish. I'll attach my bait to a straight hook with a Palomar knot.

Make sure the hook sticks straight out horizontally, hook the bait though the head so that it hangs straight out from the hook.

I'll jig the bait up and down much like jigging with a jig or working a bottom bouncer rig for walleye.

Grubs used for dropshotting are small, three inches to four inches.

Berkley has several dropshot Power Baits that have worked very well for me.

The Dropshot Pulse Worm, Dropshot Worm and the Dropshot Bass Minnow have all been designed specifically for the drop shot rig. They're flexible and with very little movement have a tantalizing wiggle.

Dropshot rigs will work on bass, walleye, perch and panfish.

It's a simple method that professional anglers have used over the last year to catch lots of fish and a bait that all anglers should be using.

District Governor stresses increased membership and more Foundation giving Increasing membership by at least five percent and encouraging members to give an average of $45 each to the Rotary International Foundation were emphasized by the District Governor who spoke to the 13-year-old Wayne Rotary Club on Wednesday.

The Wayne club was also praised for its many community services by Merle Jansen of Lincoln, Governor of the western Iowa-eastern Nebraska district.

A district goal is to add at least 135 members to the more than 2,700 members in its 46 clubs, Jansen said.

Another goal is to raise 125,000 for the Rotary Foundation, which is eliminating polio in the world, supporting the largest non-government scholarship program for sending students abroad and exchanging study groups among Rotary districts around the world.

A third goal is to expand the Tom Osborne TeamMates program, which has adults spend one hour per week with middle school students who might be considered "at risk" students.

Caffeine and Steroids: News for Athletes

Caffeine: Some researchers now say that caffeine in coffee, tea, many soft drinks, chocolate, and supplements is subject to the same abuse as other stimulants. They recommend caffeine be discouraged, restricted, or banned as a performance-enhancing drug in high school athletes. According to The Journal of Sports Medicine and Physical Fitness, at the Olympic level caffeine is restricted to the equivalent of 3 to 6 cups of coffee daily. This may be too lenient, since small caffeine doses can enhance athletic performance.

Anabolic steroids: According to The New England Journal of Medicine, among 227 men treated for narcotic use in a New Jersey treatment center, almost 1 in 10 had used steroids - the first drugs of any type used by these 21 men. Researchers warn that the abuse of steroids may lead to abuse of addicting and deadly drugs in later life.

The next Nebraska and South Dakota reunion will be held in July of 2002 and in Canada in 2004.

Surprise party honors Rings

A "well executed" surprise celebration was held July 23 at Evergreen Heights Farms east of Wayne honoring Merle and Donna Ring.

Last fall the couple's children began planning the event for their parents who had expressed their plans for no special celebration for their 50th anniversary in 2001.

Plans were then formulated for a surprise celebration for the couple's 49th anniversary with son-in-law Brad Sheafe of Fairfax, Va. creating the first line of the invitation, "Fifty years of marriage is surely fine; but it's much more original to celebrate 49!"

Merle and Donna left July 22 to attend a musical concert in Lincoln and spend the night with their daughter Jeanne Walker and family. The plan called for everyone to return to Wayne Sunday afternoon so Jeanne could carry out an appointment for Congressman Doug Beureuter in Laurel that day.

During the planning process, the children had used the code "P-49" (P for project) when making phone calls between themselves since December of 1999. They all said they had so much fun and excitement in the planning stages as when the day actually arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Ring

As soon as the Rings left for Omaha on Saturday, the rest of the family and others assembled at the farm home to complete tasks such as lawn mowing, painting chairs and setting up tents. Caterers were set up, balloons arranged and flowers delivered.

On Sunday more than 175 family and friends were at the Ring home when the couple arrived home from Lincoln. They had all been alerted to the arrival by Doug and Jeanne who were driving just ahead of Merle and Donna.

The Rings said they were "overwhelmed — probably stunned is a better word."

Mr. and Mrs. Ring

Ron Ring was the master of ceremonies during the program which included musical numbers, interspersed with reminiscing by several neighbors and friends.

"Those were the days" were interpreted by each of the couple's five children. Their son-in-law, Pastor Kerry Jech officiated at the renewal of their wedding vows.

Merle and Donna were married Sept. 1, 1951 at First Lutheran Church in South Sioux City. A number of friends who had attended the wedding were present at the celebration as were 12 of the couple's 14 grandchildren.

Hosting the event were the couple's children, Dr. Bruce Ring of Crookston, Minn., Ron and Ruth Ring of Lexington, Ky., Jane and Kerry Jech of Marshalltown, Iowa, Jeanne and Doug Walker of Lincoln and Krista and Brad Sheafe of Fairfax, Va.

The couple said they were bewildered that so many family and friends remained so innocent for so long without accidentally alerting them that "something was up!"

Survivor Supplemental Retirement Income Funded with life Insurance

Survivor supplemental retirement income funded with life insurance is an alternative to the company-provided survivor income options, using life insurance. It involves a two-step procedure that combines a life income option annuity election with life insurance on the retiring worker's life. By electing the full annuity benefit from a retirement plan, the worker receives the maximum monthly retirement benefit for life.

Every married retiree who participates in a retirement plan will be faced with an important economic decision. At or before retirement, every worker should decide how to arrange his or her payout. It's not an easy decision: whether to choose all the monthly income the worker is entitled to by electing a life income option, or settling for what can be a hefty cut in benefits to provide a retirement income for the surviving spouse. What makes the decision even more difficult is that decision is often irrevocable after retirement begins.

Providing a survivorship annuity can result in a substantial decrease in the monthly benefit paid to the retiring worker. This mandatory-unless-waived provision exposes pension benefits to a risk that a survivor benefit will not be paid if the spouse dies first. And if the retiree remarries, there is no benefit for the new spouse, yet reduced supplemental retirement income payments continue for life.

Survivor supplemental retirement income funded with life insurance may offer the best of both worlds -

- The greatest pension income available to a retiring worker, and
- The assurance that a spouse who survives the retiree may not have to suffer severe financial loss if the retiree dies.

That can translate into higher supplemental retirement income for both spouses for as long as they live.

For more information on how this financial planning strategy could work for you, call Phelps, Rath & Associates at 1-800-657-2123

Heat Stroke

As the temperature rises so does the risk of heat stroke, especially for older adults, infants, and people with chronic illnesses. When the temperature reaches 90F or above, stay out of the sun, limit your activity, dress properly (lightweight, loose-fitting). Avoid hot, heavy meals. Keep cool. If you don't have an air-conditioner take a cool bath or shower and visit air-conditioned public places. Be sure to check on your elderly family members and neighbors.

Care needed for time in the sun

Avoid Overdoing Fun in the Sun. If planning some fun in the sun, take precautions to avoid heat exhaustion or heat stroke, and learn to recognize their symptoms.

With heat exhaustion, the skin feels clammy and the victim may feel weak, dizzy and nauseated. Body temperature usually remains close to normal. A person suspected of heat exhaustion should be taken out of the sun into cooler shade or an air-conditioned room, if possible.

Loosen their clothing and encourage them to drink plenty of fluids, especially water. If the person starts vomiting, don't force fluids, but seek medical help immediately. The victim should lay down and elevate their feet slightly. Apply cool, wet cloths to the forehead and move the person into the shade or an air-conditioned room.

If left untreated, heat exhaustion can turn into heat stroke, a more serious condition where the body stops sweating. The victim's skin feels dry instead of sweaty and body temperature can rise up to 105 F. Seek medical attention immediately if heat stroke is suspected. While waiting for medical help, move the person into shade, loosen their clothing and encourage them to drink water.

Many heat-related problems can be prevented. If you plan to spend the day outdoors, follow these tips: — Drink plenty of water the night before and continue drinking before and after outdoor activities. Cool water is better absorbed. Drink ahead of your thirst — if you wait until you're thirsty, you're already partially dehydrated.

— Be wary of medicines such as allergy medicines and antihistamines that make your mouth feel dry because they speed up dehydration. If these medicines are necessary, monitor your time in the sun. Some prescription medicines also make your skin sensitive to the sun, so you'll want to cover up.

— Wear sunscreen, a hat and loose, light-colored clothing. Clothing made from natural fibers, such as cotton, is cooler than clothing made from synthetic fabrics. Lighter clothing also keeps the body cooler.

Cooperative Extension

Dixon, County
— Don't drink alcohol or caffeinated beverages, as they have a dehydrating effect.
— Eat smaller portions of food; avoid sugary desserts and high fat foods.
— Carry a jug of water in your vehicle in case of a breakdown.
— Park cars in the shade and leave windows cracked open. Don't leave children or pets in hot cars.

Two named to positions at Wayne State College

Two Wayne State College staff members, Deb Lundahl and Laurie Greve, have been appointed to new positions with the college effective July 1. Lundahl has been named WSC alumni director, and Greve, director of development at Wayne State.

"Both Deb and Laurie bring skills, commitment and enthusiasm to their new positions," said Lea Clausen, vice president for development. "Deb will help Wayne State alumni continue strong connections with their alma mater, and Laurie will be a great representative of the college as she meets with individuals and groups regarding gifts and bequests."

Lundahl's responsibilities include planning reunions, homecoming, alumni events on-and-off campus, coordinating the annual phonathon, overseeing alumni publications and Web page. She will also serve as a liaison between alumni and the college.

Lundahl has worked in the Wayne State alumni and foundation offices since 1998. She and her husband, Bruce, currently live in Wakefield.

Greve will work with WSC alumni, friends, trustees and corporations in the solicitation of gifts; organize annual campaigns; participate in the development and production of publications; and assist with the annual WSC phonathon.

Greve, who has been the WSC assistant director of financial aid since 1998, has worked at the college since 1986, serving as financial aid counselor and assistant director of financial aid. She earned her bachelor of science degree from WSC in 1995, and is currently pursuing an MBA degree, also from Wayne State.

Greve and her husband, Jeff, live in rural Wisner with their three children: Keshia, Jon and Kyra.

Her parents, Dale and Sara Brown of Omaha, far right, top and bottom row, also in full clown outfits, are professional clowns, belonging to Omaha Wild Clowndom and to Faith Christian Clowns Club. Another member of the clown family, Maria's sister, Angie, stands by the bride's left side in full clown outfit. Stage names for the family of clowns are: Pinky and Winky, Oopsy and Daisy, and Buttercup. The wedding was held on Saturday.

Baier is part of UCARE Program

Melissa Baier of Wayne, a junior majoring in anthropology, is one of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln students who are part of the UCARE Program (Undergraduates in Creative Activities and Research Experience). Research with the UCARE Program is beginning this summer and will carry through the 2000-01 academic year, while the majority will begin this fall.

Groundwater study, robotics, teaching statistics, early childhood evaluation and Shakespeare are just a few of the 103 undergraduate research projects supported by the new program.

Funded by income from NU's Pepsi Endowment, and offered for the first time, the response to the inaugural UCARE program has been "tremendous," coordinator Vicki Fisher said.

Undergraduates applied for the program, which awarded them stipends up to $2,000 for first-year projects, and $2,400 for second-year projects, that will allow them to explore a field of particular interest, and learn alongside faculty mentors in a creative activity or area of research.

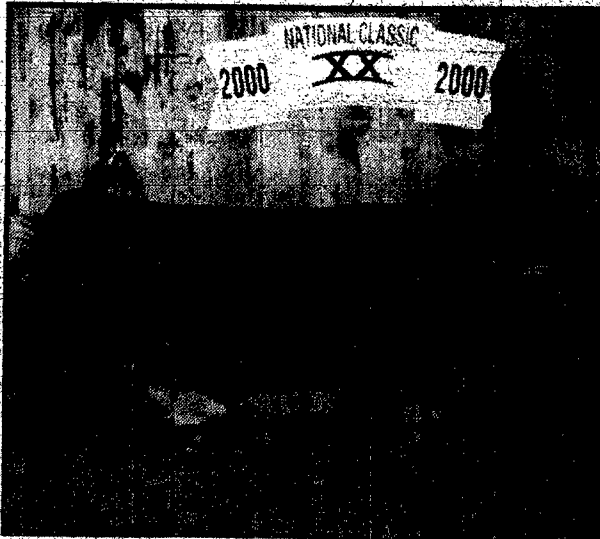

"These projects are a pathway for these undergraduates to concentrate in depth in their fields," Fisher said. "The long-term vision of the program is for more students to become involved in these type of projects and become mentors for other students. Really, these projects benefit the entire university."

Individual students proposed the projects and applied for the funding. In all, 152 applications were received, and 103 students were funded. All UNL colleges are represented, including 46 majors. More than $200,000 will be awarded through the Pepsi-sponsored fund. Students may carry on their project into a second year after reapplying.

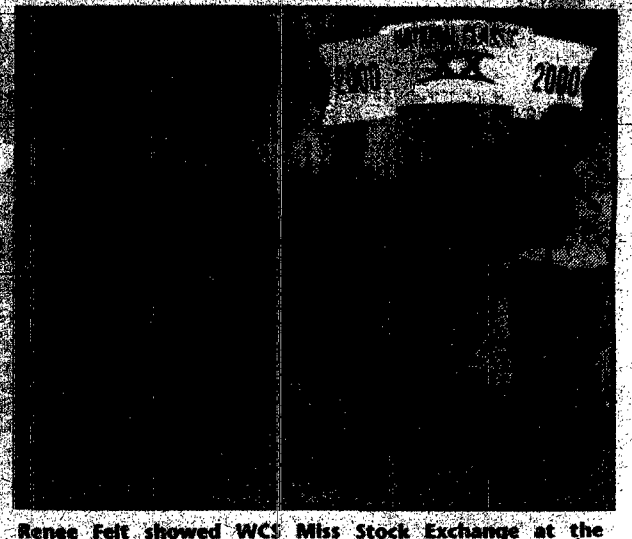

"Faculty also receives the benefit of having talented undergraduates assist them with projects that might otherwise not be possible," Fisher said.

Faculty mentor for Baier is Karl Reinhard, associate professor of natural sciences, and the title of her project is "Dietary Resources and Dental Wear."

Baier's parents are Stan and Imogene Baier of Wayne.

Renee Felt showed her heifer, RS Jasmine, at several events recently.

Renee Felt showed WCS Miss Stock Exchange at the Nebraska Junior Beef Expo in Kearney where the heifer ranked seventh in its class.

Attend Simmental Classic

Renee and James Felt, children of Merlin and Delores Felt of Wakefield, recently competed in the Simmental Junior National Classic 2000 at Stillwater, Okla.

While attending this show, they participated in public speaking, herdsmanship, sire summary, sales talk, livestock judging and showmanship.

Renee and James also competed in the North Central Regional in Hutchinson, Minn. June 22-24. They competed in the written contests in addition to showing RS Jasmine, a heifer purchased from Roberts Simmentals, the Leonard Roberts family; of Wakefield and WCS MS Money Market, a heifer purchased from Jock and Brenda Beeson of Crawford. Jock is the son of Jack and Bev Beeson of Wayne.

Both Felt children also competed at the Nebraska Junior Beef Expo in Kearney on June 3-4.

James showed and placed fourth with WCS MS Money Market. He also exhibited WCS Miss Nasdaq. Both are heifers purchased from Jock and Brenda Beeson.

Renee exhibited WCS Miss Stock Exchange as the seventh place heifer. She also exhibited RS Jasmine as the ninth place heifer.

James was named the fourth place senior showman. Renee was the fifth place senior showman.

James Felt with WCS MS Money Market, a heifer purchased from Jock and Brenda Beeson of Crawford.

When all of the written contests were tallied, Renee was named the eighth place senior overall exhibitor and James was named the 10th place senior overall exhibitor.

Haven House receives funding

Haven House in Wayne was among the 63 non-profit homeless assistance programs and agencies throughout Nebraska to receive grant money.

The money comes from the 2000 Nebraska Homeless Assistance Program, which combines Nebraska Homeless Assistance Trust Fund monies with federal Emergency Shelter Grant Program monies.

The program is administered by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

Haven House will receive $23,528.

In 1992, the Nebraska Legislature passed LB 1192, creating the Homeless Shelter Assistance Trust Fund, which increased the transfer tax to the seller of real estate from $1.50 to $1.75 on each $1,000 of value sold.

The revenue is collected by the county register of deeds, remitted to the Nebraska Department of Revenue and deposited into the Homeless Shelter Assistance Trust Fund.

Farmer's Market Week noted across the state of Nebraska

Gov. Johanns has recognized the booming popularity of the state's farmers markets by proclaiming July 30-Aug. 5 as "National Farmers Market Week" in Nebraska.

"Farmers markets provide an excellent opportunity to assist our family farms as well as meet community needs," Johanns said. "Farmers markets and roadside stands have always been a way of life for Nebraskans to stay in touch with our heritage and roots."

The number of farmers markets in Nebraska has grown in recent years with 41 established in the state this year. Nationally, the number has increased 56 percent from 1994 to 1998, totaling 2,746 markets.

"Consumers benefit from the freshness, quality and wide selection of locally grown products," said Merlyn Carlson, Director of Agriculture. "Meeting and interacting with the producer who grows the food also develops a special bond of trust in the integrity and accountability of our growers."

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture along with the Nebraska Farmers Market Association is celebrating "National Farmers Market Week" with several federal, state, and local government officials who have been invited to attend farmers markets across the state.

Farmers markets also provide an opportunity to those less fortunate, Carlson said. In the last decade, the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has emphasized a critical need to help small farmers and to provide under-served urban consumers with access to fresh fruits and vegetables. Food stamp recipients can use their benefits at most farmers markets, as well as participants in the federal Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) assistance program.

An index of all Nebraska farmers markets is listed in the "Nebraska Fresh Produce Guide" available through the Nebraska Department of Agriculture. Copies can be requested by calling 800-422-6692. The USDA's National Directory of Farmers Markets is available on the Internet at www.ams.usda.gov/farmersmarkets or by calling 800-384-8704.

Procedures announced for Pork referendum checkoff

Debra J. Pieper, County Executive Director, has announced final procedures and dates for the upcoming referendum on continuation of the pork checkoff program.

Secretary Dan Glickman authorized a vote on continuation of the checkoff of the program in February.

The congressionally mandated pork checkoff program is funded by assessment collected from producers when hogs are sold. The funds are used for pork promotion, research and consumer information. Program funds cannot be used to affect the outcome of the referendum vote.

The final referendum rules provide for in-person voting Sept. 19-21, 2000 at the Wayne County FSA Office, 709 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Absentee ballots may be requested beginning Aug. 1. However, absentee ballots for producers will become available from the Wayne County FSA office from Aug. 18 through Sept. 18.

The public is invited to observe the counting of the ballots at the Wayne County FSA Office on Nov. 29 at 9 a.m.

Producers who have owned or sold one or more pigs or hogs at any time from Aug. 18, 1999 through Aug. 17, 2000 are eligible to vote. Producers are to vote in the County Office where the producer's farm records are administratively located or, for other producers, in the county where the producer owns hogs or pigs.

The final rule will be published in the Federal Register on July 13 and will be on the web at <http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/mpb/pork/pkrefrule.htm>

Weather and weeds typical for summer

I finally have a chance to let some fresh air into the house today; which feels good, even if there is some humidity along with it. I like to turn off the AC, both to save electricity, and to get rid of the 'indoor smell,' that seems to happen when we are all shut up.

The dehumidifier in the basement runs day and night, 'typical Nebraska July weather.' Because we've been blessed with rain for the past six weeks, everything here looks lush and green. Black-eyed Susans have been growing like weeds, in yards and roadways and ditches.

I think we may finally have the bindweed in the terraced flower bed extinguished with Round-up, after about three applications. That stuff is awful; it creeps along the ground until it encounters a plant, then it wraps around it and chokes it until it dies. I'm tired of trying to pull it out.

In fact, the Big Farmer recalls having an area of it long ago, 'before things like Roundup were available. He used sodium chlorate; of course, everything died. In a few years, the bind weed showed up again, in a circle around the area. He also has heard stories about stacking hay on top of the stuff, and seeing the white flowers come out of the top of the stack!

Hay is the main topic these days. Our waitress at Platte River Park last night is from Maxwell and reports her dad is getting concerned about having enough to feed because it is so dry.

Farmers in this area are cutting, raking, and baling as fast as they can between rains. In fact, I had orders from two different insurance companies for assessments on two fellows in Johnson county this week.

One was 73, the other 79; both were raking hay when I arrived. I'm assuming they will be eligible for the insurance if they are able to work like that at that age.

This was a good month for old friends. One group convened on the Fourth from Virginia, Oregon, and California. This week, another couple from Virginia, a fraternity brother and wife and grandson en route to Broken Bow for a family reunion. It's that time of year. And we are so pleased when we are included with Nebraska stops.

In between it all, I'm reading the Mitford series, by Jan Koran. My co-workers gave them to me as a retirement gift. They take place in North Carolina; and are all about an older Episcopal priest, his courtship, his dog, people he befriends, and the characters that inhabit a small town.

Each book also has a mystery, and invariably, a romance. No sex, just love; no violence, but plenty of scary happenings. All laced with theology; they're delightful, and make great summer reading.

Each business orders pots in the spring from the Plant Market to be placed by the front of their business. The businesses are responsible for the care of the pots. The Plant Market had two independent out-of-town judges decide which pot looked the nicest. The judges chose the pot in front of Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency as the best looking one in town. The winning business received $30, their initial expense for their pot. The blue ribbon is a traveling award that will be given out each year. The annual Fleer family reunion was held at the armory in Kearney on July 16 with around 40 people attending the noon meal. This was the 50th anniversary of the reunion. Towns represented in Nebraska were Pierce, North Platte, Hershey, Grand Island, Lincoln, Roca, Maxwell, Kearney, Maywood, and Pleasant Dale. Those outstate were from Greeley, Colo., and Weston, Fla.

The oldest person present was Mrs. Walter Windhorst of North Platte and the youngest was Dean Fleer, son of David and LaVonne Fleer of Pierce. Traveling the farthest distance was Vernita Roethemeyer Hare and daughters Jordan and Ashlyn of Weston, Fla.

Cheryl Fleer Witzel was the only one present who had been at the very first reunion in 1950.

This year's officers are: President-Doug Windhorst of Kearney and Secretary/treasurer-Cheryl Witzel of Pleasant Dale, and they will continue as officers for 2001. The site for the next reunion will be either Kearney or North Platte.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

Town and Country Garden Club met at Stu's in Hoskins for lunch on July 24. Six members and one guest, Eva Hoeman, were present.

Following a short meeting, five members rode with Eva Hoeman to the Donald and Dorrine Liedman farm located west of Carroll, where they toured their lavish flower garden and yard. They also visited other points of interest.

New at Wayne State

Webcasting project to begin

With one-third of Americans on-line and Internet usage growing rapidly, media sources are finding ways to connect their services into a World-Wide Web arena.

Experience in these innovative media connections may be crucial for college graduates entering the job market.

Thanks to an Instructional Improvement Grant for Webcasting (putting the station's live programming on the Internet) for Wayne State College, the campus student radio and television stations will be able to provide students with the opportunity to become involved in technological advances in this growing field.

The grant will provide start-up costs for a system that will allow continual live audio streaming by KWSC-FM, occasional live video streaming by KWSC-TV, and archives of previous broadcasts and course materials.

"The fusion of the Internet and traditional electronic media is changing the way radio and television stations conduct business," said Dr. David Ogden, assistant professor of humanities at WSC. "More than ever, radio stations are using their Web sites as avenues for their audio signals, and television stations are posting their video content."

Ogden and Maureen Carrigg, associate professor of humanities at WSC, are working to increase the success of their students by encouraging an increased awareness of technological opportunities through their experiences on campus.

"The Wayne State Mass Communication department encourages students to be part of the solution in addressing issues and problems facing the mass communications industry," said Ogden. "One of those issues is finding ways to use Webcasting as an effective marketing and promotional tool. The industry continues to struggle to make Webcasting commercially successful, and the industry's future leaders will be those with experience in using Webcasting."

Two of the Wayne State students involved in the start-up process for campus hands-on Webcasting, Michael Pulte and Mindy Schlickbernd, will work closely with Ogden and Carrigg. Pulte, son of William and Michaela Pulte of Bennington, is a senior studying computer information systems and John Russell of Hoskins paints in the "K" on the new HOSKINS sign in downtown Hoskins.

The next meeting will be the annual family picnic at the home of Betty Bronzynski on Monday, Aug. 28 at 6 p.m.

HOSKINS GARDEN CLUB MEETS

Hoskins Garden Club met at the Hoskins Community Center on July 27 with Christine Lueker as hostess for the dessert luncheon.

President Esther Rechtermann opened the meeting with the article "Our Common Labor," attributed to Dwight D. Eisenhower. Christine chose the songs "America, the Beautiful" and "America" for the group to sing. They also sang "Happy Anniversary" to Shirley Mann. Elsie Hinzman read the poem "Think and be Glad."

Roll call: My Favorite Patriotic Song" was answered by eight members. Shirley read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report.

Christine had several quizzes for entertainment and read an article entitled "American Flag Changed with History."

The comprehensive study "Our Country has a Taste for Garlic" was presented by Rose Puls. Shirley Mann gave the lesson on the Yellow-headed Blackbird.

Rose shared the article "Emptying out the Old Granary isn't Nice when it Rains Mice."

The Watchword for July was: "Liberty is the only thing you can't have unless you give it to others."

The next meeting will be on Aug. 24 with Nona Wittler as hostess.

broadcasting. Schlickbernd, daughter of Doug and Diane Schlickbernd of Tekamah, is a senior speech communications/public relations major with a minor in broadcasting.

"K-92, the campus radio station, will begin Webcasting this fall," said Schlickbernd. "Webcasting will let up to 25 people connect to the Internet and pick up 91.9's signal."

"This opportunity will help broadcasting students better understand how the Internet affects the communications field. The students will be involved in setting up, as well as maintaining, K-92's signal," Pulte said.

Host families in short supply

Kathleen Grone of Wayne extends a plea to local residents asking that they consider hosting a foreign high school student for the next school year.

Grone serves as Community Coordinator for PAX-Program of Academic Exchange, a non-profit educational foundation which sponsors one of the country's 10 largest School Year USA programs.

"I have one of the toughest jobs in the world," Grone said, "but one with the richest rewards."

Grone cites the reluctance of families to commit early to hosting as the tough part. "This produces anxiety for the boys and girls abroad waiting for news of their home away from home next year."

She said the rewards of hosting include unique home-based cross-cultural learning, the fun of having a new family member and the mutual love and respect shared during the 10-month experience.

Among those who will host in Nebraska are the Sullivan family, who have chosen to share their home with Rafael, a 17-year old boy from Sao Paulo, Brazil. "Rafael like soccer, of course," notes his future host mom, "but we chose home because we loved the letter he wrote to his future family and the enthusiasm he showed for living and studying in the U.S."

"Families who choose to host are a very special breed of American," Mrs. Grone said. Homes are still needed for two students, a Moroccan boy and a German girl.

PAX students have their own spending money and full medical insurance. A host family is expected to provide their new "son" or "daughter" with a bed, a quiet place to study and a place at the table for meals taken at home. PAX students attend school daily, join sports teams and clubs, pitch in with household chores and share their families' everyday lives.

Interested local families should call Grone at (402) 375-1650 or the PAX national office at 1-800-555-6211.

GOODWILL TRAILER

The Goodwill Ambassador trailer will be coming to Wakefield Aug. 8 and be parked for seven days on the East Third Street lot near the water tower.

Serviceable, but no longer used, items will be accepted at the trailer through Aug. 14.

MASONIC ALL-STAR BAND

Melanie Keim from Wakefield High School, was one of 259 students from across Nebraska who on July 22 were members of the sixth Masonic All-Star Marching Band.

Melanie is the daughter of Tom and Diane Keim. Following the four days of practice, the Masonic All-Star Marching Band led the Shrine Bowl Parade down Havelock Avenue on Saturday, played at the reviewing stand during the Shrine Bowl Football Game in Memorial Stadium on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Hosted by the Nebraska Masonic Grand Lodge, the band was directed by Brad Weber, Dan Dosomka and Dave Bohnert. Melanie received a scholarship from Corinthian Masonic Lodge No. 83 of Wakefield.

PASTOR PROGRAM

Before being ordained into the ministry, Scott Johnson, a native of Wakefield, needed to find a program that would incorporate what he was learning in seminary with a real world experience. He found just that at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Sioux City.

"I'm really enjoying my time here and I'm learning so many things that they don't teach in seminary," he said. "It's really helped to be directly involved with the patients and watch how our ministering affects them."

Johnson, a 1992 graduate of Wakefield High School, attends Luther Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. He is one of five seminary students enrolled in the 10-week clinical pastoral education program at St. Luke's. The program focuses on giving students a chance to personally interact with real people who need their help.

"Our students are very involved with the patients and their families," said Rev. Steve Pholman who supervises the program. "They develop a deeper pastoral identity by providing emotional and spiritual care to people in need."

In St. Luke's program, each student is responsible for ministering to patients and their families in two or three assigned patient-care areas, as each morning during the week, where they critique and reflect on the patient interactions with their peer group and supervisor.

Johnson is assigned to the orthopedic, pediatrics and skilled nursing departments at St. Luke's.

"St. Luke's has wonderfully welcomed all of us," Scott said. "I've been almost shocked by the level of friendliness. I was scared I would be getting in the way of the staff here, and that hasn't been the case at all. They seem to really respect what we're doing and they make us feel

Bloodmobile makes July visit

The Siouxland Blood Bank made its monthly visit to Wayne on July 27.

Eighty-two people volunteered to donate and 67 units of blood were collected.

Those reaching milestones in their donations included: Theodore Reeg, Jr. — 10 gallons; Larry Hansen — nine gallons; Patricia Malcom — five gallons; Janice Hammer, Arthur Greve and Catherine Blaser — three gallons; Jim Lutt — two gallons and Jamie Coufal — one gallon.

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank serves all the blood needs of 15 area hospitals and their patients. The ONLY way blood products are made available for area patients is if individuals in communities volunteer to donate blood on a regular basis.

The Mobile Unit will be in Wayne again on Thursday, Aug. 24 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Music camp held at Wayne State College

Around 125 high school students attended the 2000 Wayne State College Summer Music Camp from July 23-29, under the direction of Dr. Jay O'Leary, WSC music professor.

Classes were held throughout the week, including a variety of instrumental and vocal sessions ranging from "Music with Computers" to music theory classes.

In addition, participants auditioned for and participated in vocal and instrumental groups. A concert featuring vocal ensembles, jazz bands, swing choirs and the vocal jazz choir was held in the Frey

Pots and pans, water buckets, and other household items combine to make music in the STOMP sessions at the WSC Music Camp. Directing the STOMP group was Michael Gillan, WSC instrumental instructor.

Dr. Ron Lofgren, WSC vocal music instructor, directs the jazz choir practice in Ley Theatre on the WSC campus.

Orchestra members practice a selection from the movie, "Dances with Wolves" during WSC Summer Music Camp. The orchestra was directed by Gary Fridley, an instructor in the Sioux City Public Schools in Sioux City, Iowa.

The studies were known as DPS-35-4(119) Norfolk Wayne and Dakota City, DPS-57-4(111) Wayne to Vermillion-Newcastle Bridge, and S-81-4(1012) Norfolk to Yorkton.

The projects involved economic-oriented studies. They examined whether it's sensible to significantly improve highways in three corridors of northeastern Nebraska.

Where possible, the Department of Roads will provide an accessible meeting facility for disabled people.
