Center to be built on school grounds

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

After more than an hour of debate, the Wayne City Council voted in favor of the site near Wayne High School for building of the Community Activity Center.

During the meeting Bob Keating and Doug Carroll, members of the Community Activity Center Committee, told the council that the group had met following the council's last meeting and a vote had been taken on the best location.

The Scottie Thompson property in the eastern part of Wayne received seven first place votes from committee members while the property at the school received one vote as the best location for the center.

It was the Activity Center Committee's recommendation that the center be located on the Thompson property.

Several council persons voiced their opinions and preferences prior to the vote.

Will Wiseman said he felt it was unfair to taxpayers to add site costs to the project at this time. He also stated that while future expansion is possible, statistics indicate there has not been a large growth in population in the Wayne area in the last 30 years.

Councilman Doug Sturm, who is also a member of the Community Activity Committee, said that when the site selection process began, he felt the Hank Overin field location was best. He said that the possibility of consolidation or growth at the school would cause parking and other problems if the Activity Center were located there.

In addition, Sturm said that drainage on the school property is a major concern and could be a potential hazard.

He added that he felt the Thompson site was the most logical.

Verdel Lutt said that he felt a decision needed to be made by the present council members and that while building the center on the Thompson site would add additional costs, he felt that was the best option. Lois Shelton said that while a building could not be built over the drainage area on the school property, playing fields could be constructed over the area, creating additional space. She said she felt that by working with the school, property tax relief could be achieved.

Prior to the vote on the issue, Dave Ewing spoke to the council on the possibility of locating the center just east of Rainbow World on a five acre site that has recently become available. The council took no action on his proposal.

Councilman Lutt made a motion to have the center located on the Thompson property. However, the motion failed on a 5-3 vote. Voting for the site were Lutt, Sturm and Jane O'Leary.

Council person Lois Shelton then made a motion to have the center located on the school property. The vote ended in a 4-4 tie with Mayor Sheryl Lindau breaking the tie by voting in favor of that site.

Mayor Lindau thanked the members of the committee for their work during the past two years and stated that while she knew they were disappointed that the site they recommended wasn't chosen, she felt the

Insights calendar Wayne student's artwork selected

William (Bill) H. Smith, a fifth grade student at Wayne Middle School, created "Snowy Cardinal," a crayon and mixed media drawing that has been included in the American Printing House for the Blind's APH InSights calendar.

The drawing is a depiction of a bright red cardinal perching in a nest on the branch of a tree with snow falling, gently, all around.

His work was selected, along with 15 others, from the thousands of entries that have been sent to the American Printing House for the Blind's art competition over the last eight years.

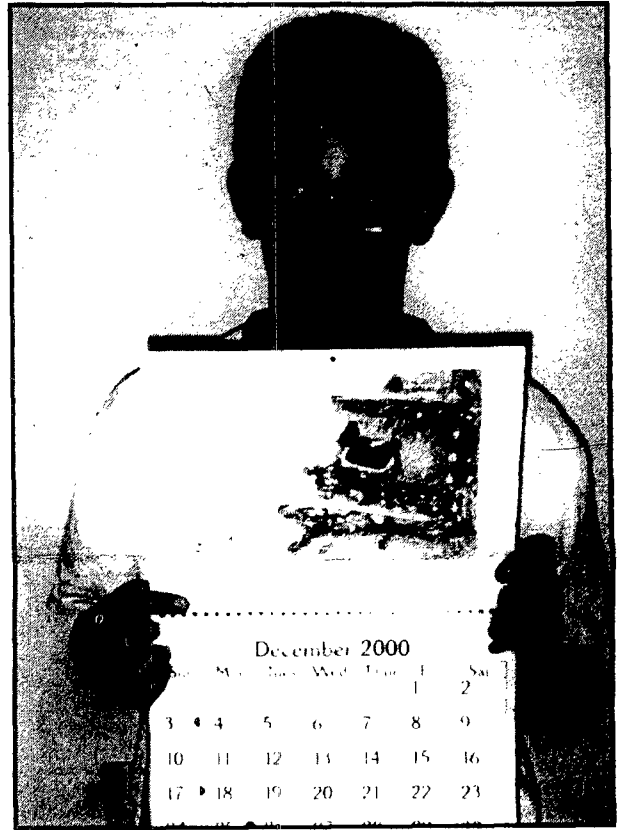

Bill's work is featured on the December 2000 page.

William is multi-talented — in addition to his work in visual art, he is a straight-A student at Wayne Middle School and plays the piano and saxophone.

He is the son of Karen M. Smith and the late William R. Smith, Jr. He is a member of Our Savior Lutheran Church.

The American Printing House for the Blind organizes the APH InSights competition and exhibition for visually impaired and blind artists of all ages. This project reflects APH's mission to "promote the independence of blind persons" by encouraging individuals to create original art.

Participants range from preschool children to senior citizens and include professional artists as well as hobbyists and school art classes. Two judges select the artwork from 400-500 entries in a wide range of media, including painting, drawing, sculpture and photography. First, second and third place winner were chosen in each of nine categories, along with a selection of entries to be included in the exhibition. Calendar images are selected from the entries of all the past years.

The braille/ large print 2000-2001 calendar is available in English or Spanish from the American Printing House for the Blind.

Holiday tree offers chance to honor special people

Providence Medical Center Foundation is once again hosting its annual Holiday Christmas Tree event, wherein citizens of Wayne and the surrounding communities will have an opportunity to honor that special person in their lives and at the same time recognize the services offered at PMC with their donation.

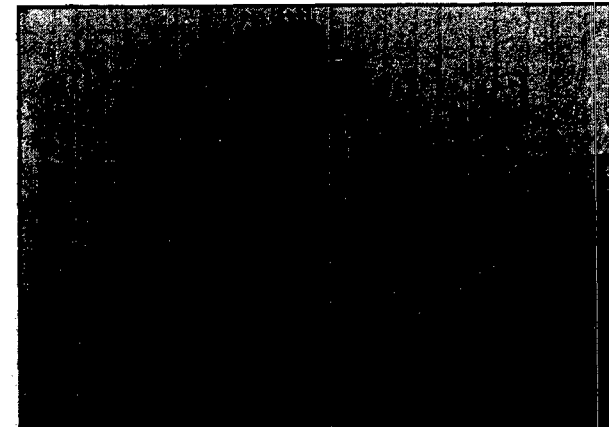

The Holiday tree will be located in the front lobby of Providence Medical Center from Dec. 1 through Dec. 31 and will be decorated with the traditional white Christmas lights, Christmas ribbon and cards.

As in the past, the cards will bear the names of loved ones whom people choose to honor. Each card will be attached to the Holiday Tree with a special ribbon.

People who do not receive a letter in the mail are invited to come to the Hospital Foundation Office, make a donation of $25 or more and fill out a tree card. The cards will all hang on the holiday tree during the entire Christmas season. Cards will be available at the Foundation Office.

Anyone with questions about how to donate to the Holiday Tree is asked to call Sandy at (402) 375-5529.

The Holiday Tree will be a centerpiece attraction at Providence Medical Center during the Christmas Season.

After 30 years in business, the Pick family has sold Logan Valley Equipment. The signs on the building were taken down last week, completing the era of ownership by the family.

After 30 years the signs come down

Vicki Pick, President, and Brent Pick, Vice-President, have announced that on October 16, 2000, Logan Valley Equipment in Wayne was sold to Rob Miller and Al Heimes of Hartington.

The new owners have named the business Northeast Equipment.

Vicki and her husband, the late Gary Pick, purchased the John Deere dealership in Wayne on March 1, 1970. At that time, it had been known as Brandstetter Implement. The business was located in downtown Wayne in the building now housing State National Bank and Trust.

The current building on East Highway 35 was constructed in the fall of 1974 and an open house was held in February of 1975. Since that time, a number of additions and renovations have taken place at the facility.

"After 30 years of serving you, the time has come for us to hand the reins over to others. We have had a long and very wonderful relationship with many of you, and we have taken great pride in our ability to serve you and your agricultural needs," Vicki said.

"We hope that your dealings with Logan Valley, Gary and both of us have brought many good memories to you as they have to us," she

Christmas gala

Christmas carolers, lights, decorations and food greeted those attending the Winter Wonderland Christmas Gala at the Wayne County Museum. The event, organized by the Friends of the Wayne County Museum, was a fund-raiser designed to help offset the cost of repairs and maintenance of the museum. Among those in attendance was Marge (Ley) Armstrong, who grew up in the house. The Ley family donated the house to the city in 1976 to be used as a museum.

Students earn championship title

Members of the Wayne State College Industrial Technology Club became Southwest Regional Champions in three events after their showing at Technology Education Collegiate Association (TECA) competitive events in conjunction with the Four States Regional Technology Education Conference in Pittsburg, Kan., Nov. 16 and 17.

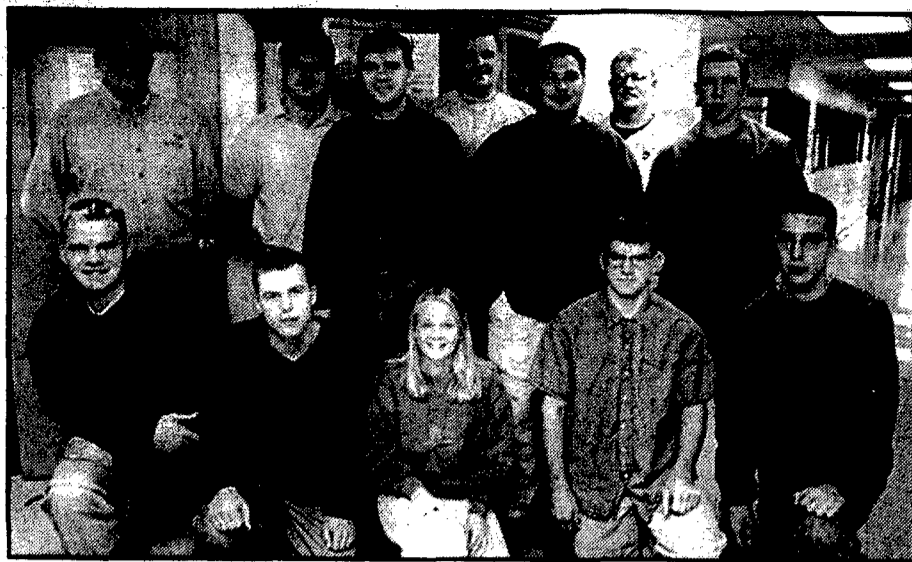

Wayne State had 16 members compete in the following events: technical presentation, problem solving, live manufacturing, transportation, technology challenge (quiz bowl) and live communications (video production).

"I am pleased with the success that our students have had with their involvement with the TECA activities. Students work on these efforts outside of their classes and it has proven to be a worthwhile endeavor as the exposure to traveling, visiting campuses and interacting with other college students is a learning experience that cannot be duplicated in a classroom," said Dr. John Renzelman, division head. "Congratulations to all who attended and participated in this effort"

The group was awarded $250 from the Society of Manufacturing Engineers for their regional championship win in the live manufacturing contest.

This victory earned them the opportunity to compete against three other teams from across the nation in a "final four" live manufacturing competition in Atlanta, Ga., on the evening before the ITEA/TECA International Conference scheduled from March 22 - 24, 2001.

First place in manufacturing was earned by the following local team members: Randy Stribley of Bellevue; Andy Cerio of Fort Calhoun; Tyler Last of Hubbard,

Letters

Frustrated with smokers

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter because of frustration about the control that smokers have at the workplace if they are in positions of power.

Workers' Rights

Did you know that cigarette smoking is not a right? Not legally and certainly not ethically. The Constitution does not grant people the right to smoke.

Just the opposite, the Constitution empowers the Congress and the states to act to protect the health of all citizens and this includes protecting people from involuntary tobacco smoke. When there is a conflict between smokers and nonsmokers, especially in the workplace, but more recently in child abuse and child custody issues, courts have uniformly sided with nonsmokers. There are no laws and no court decisions that proclaim the right to smoke.

In the last 10 years many employers have developed a sense of responsibility for their employees' health. Modern equipment, machinery and computers are harmed by cigarette smoke. Even Philip Morris does not permit smoking around equipment used to manufacture 150 million cigarettes a day. But the bottom line reason is that companies have discovered that a no-smoking policy saves a lot of money...

- Insurance rates drop when people don't smoke.
- Maintenance costs drop dramatically. (Who wants to clean up after smokers?)
- Smokers are involved in twice as many job-related accidents as nonsmokers.
- Smokers are 50 percent more likely to be hospitalized as nonsmokers.
- Smoking lowers your I.Q. Carbon dioxide in cigarette smoke reduces the amount of oxygen reaching the brain.
- Smoke-breaks cost the company productivity. Observe smokers rushing their break areas desperately lighting up and hungrily taking a last drag before the break is over. Kept from their normal smoking cycle - about one cigarette every 40 minutes, they need a quick infusion of smoke to keep the 'Nag' at bay.
- Smoke-breaks cost the company in all areas. All told, each smoker costs her employer $300 to $1,000 per year in short-term costs. When you consider long-term effects spanning 10 to 15 years, such as premature death and disability, each smoker can cost his employer from $1,000 to hundreds of thousands. There is also a huge cost to nonsmokers who are forced to compromise their health and their quality of life. Smoking, on and off work, cost the United States hundreds of billions in lost productivity annually.
- Smoking costs each employee at least $50,000 per lifetime in lost wages and tobacco costs.

For too long nonsmokers have suffered when smokers were around. We've had to spend all day at work inhaling tobacco smoke, have had to endure meetings inhaling almost unbreathable air, have had to sop eating out because restaurants, bars and public events are ruined by tobacco smoke. Employers practice not only discrimination against nonsmokers, when you force one to be an involuntary smoker, you are committing physical and emotional assault.

Child Abuse

Children, the youngest of whom don't even know what a cigarette is, are truly involuntary smokers. Children of smoking parents have a 70 percent greater chance of hospitalization for respiratory illness than children of nonsmoking parents. Infants of mothers who smoke while pregnant have a 50 to 75 percent higher risk of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Smoking mothers tend to have higher levels of hemoglobin - an oxygen carrying protein that gives red blood cells pigment - can be caused by smoking, which also has been linked to stillbirths.

Problems with the placenta and birth defects are among causes of the estimated 250,000 stillbirths each year. Blood containing too much hemoglobin tend to be sticky and less able to flow through tiny blood vessels that might disrupt flow to the placenta or developing fetus.

Another headline in today's paper, "Mentally Ill Make Up Nearly Half of Smokers." The numbers, although striking, are less surprising given that drug and alcohol dependencies were among the mental illnesses studied. Smoking rates are high in such groups.

The researchers found that people who had suffered from mental illness sometime in their past were more likely to smoke - nearly three times as likely to be current smokers. From the survey, the scientists estimated at 44.3 percent of the cigarettes smoked in the United States are smoked by the mentally ill.

Actually, I have another thought on this. Do you suppose that mothers who smoke can cause mental illness in their children? We already know that smoking lowers a child's I.Q. Smoking ruins a child's physical and emotional health. Why would it not have an effect on one's mental health?

This list could go on and on, but I think the point is clear: Were tobacco illegal, we would see it with all the depraved trappings of the drug culture that we associate with "serious drugs" like heroin or cocaine. Just contemplating such a thing is sobering because of the scale on which tobacco use takes place. There may be 500,000 heroin addicts in this country, but there are nearly 50 million smokers.

Nebraska and Maine get attention for their electoral votes system

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

How nice. Some other folks around and about the political countryside have taken notice of the system used by Nebraska and Maine for apportioning electors in presidential elections.

Electors, in case you've not kept pace with the latest goings on, are those folks who actually cast the ballots that really elect a president.

Only Nebraska and Maine use a system that works this way:

The presidential candidate who gets the most overall votes in the state automatically gets the two electoral votes that represent the state's two U.S. Senators. Nebraska has three electors - one for each of its three congressional districts. In most states, the winner of the overall state vote gets all the electoral votes. In Nebraska, if a presidential candidate wins a majority of votes in a congressional district, he gets the electoral vote from that district. See?

The advantage of the Nebraska system is that it gives far greater voice to the electorate. Well, it has the potential for doing that, anyway. In Nebraska, voter majorities in all three congressional districts vote for the Republican and that's that. But a Democratic presidential candidate could, let's say, maybe, carry the Omaha-dominated 2nd District. In such a case, the Democrat would get that one electoral vote.

Think of how much more representative of the will of a real majority that such a system could be if used nationwide.

Why isn't it used in more states?

That's easy. If one party or the other traditionally carries a statewide majority (as in Nebraska) why the heck would the majority party be interested in opening the door, even a teenie bit, for the other guys' candidate to have a shot at an electoral vote, or votes?

In tossup states, where it could really make a difference in some elections, neither of the two major parties want to gamble on how it would work out for them.

How the Nebraska Legislature ever took such a progressive step is still a mystery to me - and, no doubt, to some rock-ribbed Republicans who understandably thought the state could get along just fine without it.

But, there you have it. Once the 2000 presidential election is actually settled (and it will be, I think) there will be several rounds of blithering and dithering among politicians and academics and academic politicians about the electoral college and how electors are chosen and whether they should be chosen some other way.

Nebraska and Maine will come in for some attention during those palavers. Sen. DiAnna Schimek of Lincoln, a Democrat, was the chief proponent of Nebraska's system. Her explanation of how the Legislature came to adopt such a plan might be the most interesting thing that comes out of the entire exercise.

Be thankful for local chapter

People usually hear about an area fire or similar disaster and most of the time know the people involved

One woman, who lost her home and all of her possessions in a fire, commented months later to a Red Cross worker that "It was the worst experience of my life. I now have a home, clothes and furnishings, but every once in a while I will go to get something, only to realize that it is no longer there. I would not wish for any person to experience something like this. We were so thankful when that Red Cross man came to help us."

A small child found tremendous comfort in a teddy bear that he was given by a Red Cross disaster worker who responded when a house burned down and left a family without a home or any belongings. A neighbor commented, "That little boy clung to that bear for days! It was the only thing he had that was his!"

Imagine how you would feel if you found yourself homeless after a fire, tornado, flood or other disaster? Material possessions can be replaced; photographs, family heirlooms and other treasured items can not! But the Red Cross is among the first on the scene to provide medical and mental health assistance, as well as the basic immediate needs. First the darkness of a disaster, then the sight of relief from the American Red Cross. They are a humanitarian organization that reaches out at all times of the day or night to people in need.

When there's a natural disaster, we all think of the American Red Cross. But what about disasters in your own community? The Red Cross still responds with care and relief for families in need. They go across the country or across the street.

What if the unthinkable happened - your spouse, your child, your parent, your neighbor, or your friend was choking, was drowning, having a heart attack or stopped breathing? Would you know how to respond? The American Red Cross teaches people skills they may need in an emergency or to help someone safe. Skills like CPR, water safety, and basic first aid. Simply put, they help you take care of your family. And that's something we all want to do. You can call the Wayne Red Cross at 375-5209 to inquire about their health and safety classes.

During this time of year, we should all pause, reflect and be thankful that we have a Red Cross chapter in our community. They provide so many things to so many people. But they cannot do it without the financial support from donors.

Please take the time to make a donation to the Wayne County Red Cross to show your appreciation for the important work that they all do in Wayne and the surrounding communities. Support the Wayne Red Cross because your Help Can't Wait!

Showing appreciation

LeRoy Janssen, Chapter Chair of the Wayne American Red Cross, presents a "Certificate of Sponsorship" to Bill Claybaugh in recognition of his monetary contributions to the Wayne chapter the past year. Bill is also the co-chair of the Wayne Red Cross Board of Directors, as well as serving on the Finance, Human Resource & Delivery, and the Nomination committees. The local chapter relies solely on donations from people in the community and they very much appreciate Mr. Claybaugh's support.

Night Light Won't Hurt Child's Vision

Children who sleep with a light on are not at an increased risk for myopia or nearsightedness according to a pair of new studies. A previous report suggested parents turn the lights out. The two follow-up studies were done separately at the New England College of Optometry and Ohio State University. The follow-up studies found no difference between the rate of myopia for children who slept in the dark to those who slept with a night light.

Herbs for Health

Older Antidepressants Often as Effective as Newer, Costlier Ones

According to new guidelines from the American College of Physicians - American Society of Internal Medicine, both newer and traditional antidepressant medicines are equally effective for many persons with depression. Older medicines typically are in the class termed tricyclics (e.g., Tofranil, Elavil). The newer agents include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors, or SSRIs (e.g., Prozac, Zoloft, Prozac).

The major difference cited between tricyclics and SSRIs are side effects. SSRIs are more likely to cause diarrhea, nausea, headache, and sleeping difficulties. Tricyclics are more likely to cause blurred vision, constipation, dizziness, dry mouth, and tremors. Interestingly, according to the new guidelines it is noted that St. John's wort may be effective against mild depression, at least on a short-term basis.

3-1 Wildcats down Sioux Falls before falling to Augustana Wayne State women split initial home games

The Wayne State women's basketball team went 1-1 during the past week of action, leaving Ryun Williams' squad at 3-1 on the season prior to the Colorado trip this week.

WSC suffered some shooting woes against Sioux Falls College last week in the home opener but the 'Cats got the job done, 63-51.

WSC was just 9-37 from the field in the first half for 24 percent before finishing at 34 percent for the game.

"We got the shots we wanted and we have good shooters but they just didn't fall," Williams said. "I was very pleased however, with our team defense for 40 minutes."

Sara Miller and Krista Bernadt led the winners with 16 and 15 points, respectively while Tracy Williamson tossed in nine and Karen Hochstein, eight.

The 'Cats were out-rebounded, 45-40 with Miller leading the way from her point guard position with eight caroms while Hochstein hauled down seven boards.

The game was marred by 44 turnovers with WSC suffering 17 while forcing 27 and Miller dished out a game-high seven assists and notched three steals.

WSC suffered its first loss of the season on Saturday night against North Central foe, Augustana, 78-59 in Wayne.

The 'Cats trailed 38-34 at the half and cut that gap in half at 48-46 with 12:03 remaining in the game.

That's when the tide of the game turned against WSC. "We had possession of the ball trailing 48-46 and we missed a layup," Williams said.

"Then we proceeded to turn the ball over three consecutive trips down the floor."

Augustana took advantage of WSC's ill-fate with a 30-13 run to close the game out.

It was WSC's Karen Hochstein that was the game's high scorer however, with 25 points. She was also the game's leading rebounder with nine caroms.

Krista Bernadt was the only other 'Cat in double figures with 14 points. WSC shot just 34 percent from the field for the second straight contest.

The 'Cats were out-rebounded by a 41-32 margin.

"I thought we were a little tentative on offense," Williams said. "We had some gals pass up some shots they normally take. We need to concentrate on being more consistent."

WSC will play at Colorado Christian on Friday night before playing at Northern Colorado on Saturday night.

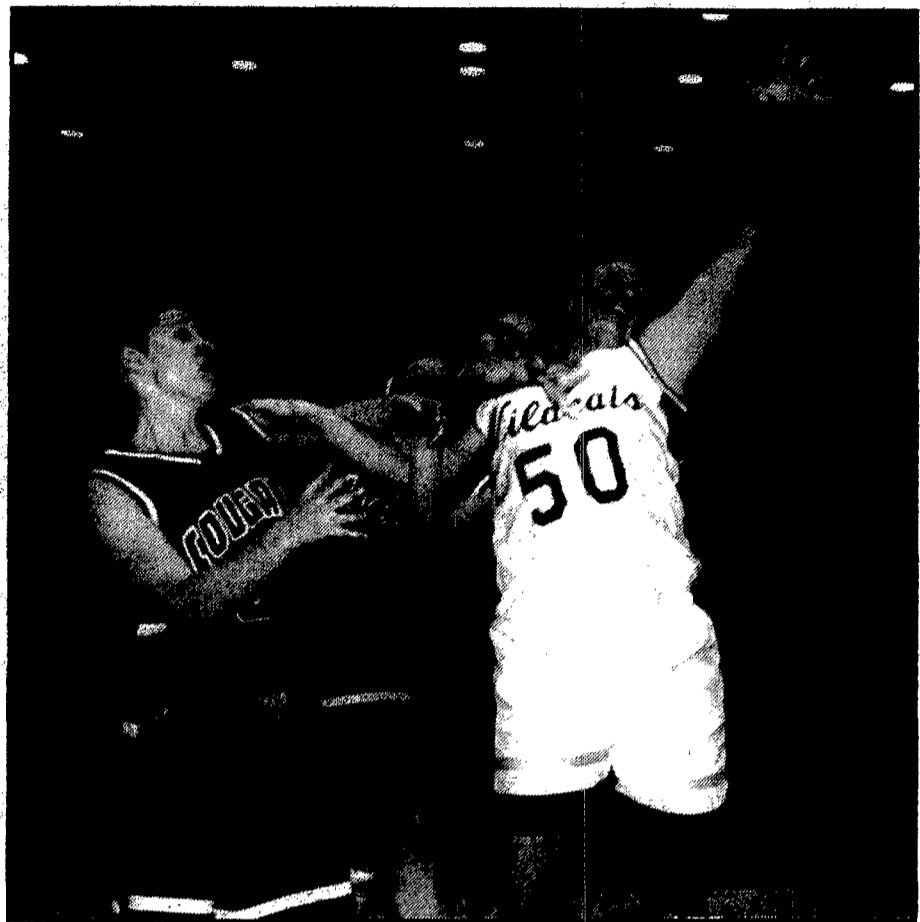

WSC, 63—Sioux Falls, 51

WSC: Sara Miller, 16; Krista Bernadt, 15; Tracy Williamson, 9; Karen Hochstein, 8; Christi Williams, 6; Kristene Strait, 4; Sarah Haag, 2; Rochelle Sohl, 2; Beth Nelson, 1. FG's: 24-70-34%; FT's: 8-12-67%.

WSC, 59—Augustana, 78
WSC: Karen Hochstein, 25; Krista Bernadt, 14; Christi Williams, 7; Tracy Williamson, 6; Sara Miller, 5; Maranda Radke, 2. FG's: 20-58-34%; FT's: 14-23-61%. TEAM RECORD: 3-1.

Krista Bernadt applies the tough defense against a Sioux Falls shooter while Kristene Strait comes over to help. WSC will take a 3-1 record to Colorado this weekend.

Wayne State's Kristene Strait is fouled by a pair of Sioux Falls players during the Wildcats win over the Cougars last week.

Wayne State point guard Sara Miller penetrates the Sioux Falls defense before scoring two of her game-high 16 points.

Kevin Lingenfelter skies for a rebound during first half action of the 'Cats tilt with South Dakota State, Tuesday.

Jason Herlitzke drives to the hoop for two of his 15 points during the 'Cats setback to the Jackrabbits.

Wayne State win streak snapped

The Wayne State men's basketball team had their 15-game home win streak snapped by South Dakota State, Tuesday night by an 82-68 margin.

It was the first regular season loss in Rice Auditorium since a 1997-98 three-point setback to Briar Cliff.

However, it's the second straight win for SDSU in Rice Auditorium as the Jackrabbits beat the 'Cats in the 1997-98 season with a buzzer-beater—which at that time, snapped a 25-game home win streak.

WSC fell to 1-5 with the setback with SDSU improving to 5-0.

The visitors jumped out quickly to a 20-11 lead but WSC managed to tie the score at 21 after a run of its own.

The game see-sawed the rest of the half with the Jackrabbits notching a 35-32 halftime advantage.

The "Jacks" came out quick in the second half, building a double-digit lead with in the first five minutes.

The closest WSC got after that was six points on a Nathan Mulder jumper at the 11:00 minute mark.

Kevin Lingenfelter led the 'Cats with 19 points with Mulder and Jason Herlitzke each netting 15. Brad Joens was also in double figures with 11 but Joens was shadowed all night, connecting on just four shots in 18 attempts.

SDSU's bench strength played a key role in the contest as the 'Cats managed just two points from non-starters while SDSU got 32 points from its non-starters.

WSC was out-rebounded, 41-34 with Herlitzke garnering 11 caroms to lead the 'Cats.

Brad Manley dished out five assists while netting three steals and WSC had just nine turnovers with SDSU committing 13.

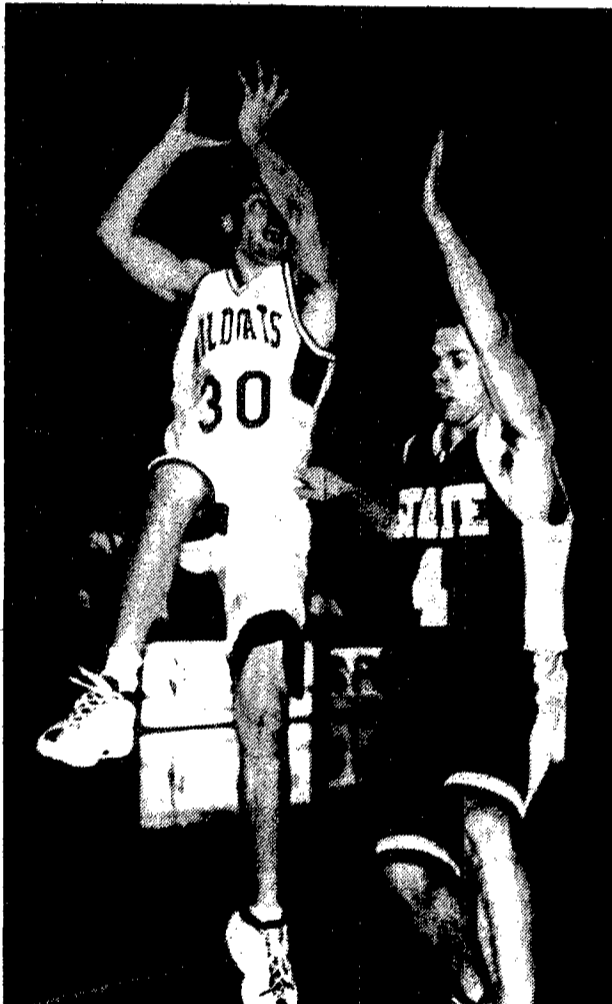

"We played hard," coach Rico Burkett said "I thought we did a nice job of battling back late in the first half and establishing the tempo we wanted."

Burkett said the first five minutes of the second half SDSU got some transition buckets and the 'Cats suffered some turnovers.

The 'Cats will play Nebraska-Kearney on Saturday at 8 p.m. in Kearney.

WAYNE'S GIRLS basketball team opens season play on Thursday night against Battle Creek in a game to be played at Wayne State College.

John McLarnen returns to lead the Lady Blue Devils with assistance from Jim Gagner and Dale Hochstein along with volunteer assistant Joel Munson.

ALLEN WILL start its season on Thursday night in Winside as Dave Uldrich takes over the reins from Brian Hoffman.

The Lady Eagles will take center court on Thursday in Winside as well as Lori Koester's team sets out to improve on last year's 10-9 mark.

It's hard water time

Well, winter weather is here and the ponds are starting to stiffen up.

Over the years, I've had some of my best ice fishing during the early season. Some of my best "Hard Water" fishing has been on the first ice. The ice is still fairly clear and weeds are still standing upright offering protection and producing oxygen, so the fish will be located throughout the lake.

Fish haven't had time to go into their super slow mode yet and are still roaming around looking for a meal.

The best early season ice fishing comes in areas that still have good weeds. The weeds give the smaller pan fish a place to feed and some protection from the larger prey fish.

A good starting place is an area that has weeds protruding from the ice. Drill several holes around them until you find the edge or a pocket in the weeds. Bluegills, perch and crappies like to hang out around the edges.

You'll want to move around and drill a bunch of holes when ice fishing. You'll get the majority of bites the first couple of times you drop your bait down the hole. I've seen anglers pull a couple of fish out of a hole and then sit there for hours waiting for the next bite.

Not me, I like to drill dozens of holes and jump from one to another. It can be quite a job if you are using a hand auger. When I'm out with a hand auger, I look for holes made earlier by other fishermen. I'll punch a few of my own holes and also use the old holes. I believe that the more holes you punch and can fish through, the better your catching percentage will be.

Use light limp line as it has memory and doesn't coil up on you. If

Gary Howey
'Of the Outdoors'

well as any rod for hard water fishing.

If you fish out of an ice sled or ice house, a short rod is the only way to go, because in most cases, you don't have room to set the hook with a longer rod.

When I'm fishing on a pond for panfish, I very seldom use a reel as most of the ponds aren't that deep. You'll hook an occasional bass in a pond and you can bring him in hand over hand as long as you don't try to rush him.

AS the season progresses fish will move out into deeper water looking for more comfortable temperatures. If you have a fish locator such as the Vexilar FL-8, it makes the looking a lot easier and they'll help you to pin point the exact depth that the fish are holding at.

Fish will suspend and move up and down as they feed. Don't get stuck in a rut and fish only deep, because fish move both vertically and horizontally. Try one depth and then another and keep experimenting until you find the right spot.

When fishing early ice, safety is a big concern. Let the ice get good and hard before you venture out onto it. Watch for soft spots such as areas where springs are present or where the water is moving under the ice as these areas take longer to become hard.

Just in case you need it, carry a flotation cushion, rope and some ice spikes with you. If you happen to break through the ice, you can use the ice spikes to dig into the ice and climb out of the hole. A flotation cushion works great for kneeling or setting on and can be thrown to anyone that might fall through the ice.

Early season ice fishing can be fast and furious so keep warm, mobile and have a great ice fishing season.

CROSS COUNTRY CELLULAR

Plaque presented

Lori Carollo, Chapter Manager of the Wayne County American Red Cross, presents a plaque to Mary Rastede, RN, Carol O'Neill, Human Resource Manager, and Ron Williams, Safety Manager, representatives of the M.G. Waldbaum Company in Wakefield. The plaque reads "M.G. Waldbaum Company is a Proud Provider of American Red Cross Health & Safety Training Programs." Each spring, the Wayne chapter of the American Red Cross sends a certified instructor over to the company in Wakefield for approximately two weeks to train and re-certify all of Waldbaums First Aid Teams in standard first aid, CPR and HIV education. The Wayne chapter works very closely with Nurse Mary Rastede in scheduling these classes. Carollo, on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Wayne County Red Cross, sincerely appreciates this opportunity that Waldbaums offers to the local chapter each year. It's a great working relationship and one that everyone benefits from. If you or your company would like to know more about offering Red Cross classes to your business employees, please call the Red Cross office in Wayne at 375-5209.

Babysitters get training through the Wayne Red Cross chapter

The Wayne County Red Cross recently held a Babysitter Training course on Nov. 18.

Five girls from Wayne took the course and were taught skills. The skills they learned included how to handle different ages of children, responsibility and making good decisions, helping children behave, and also how to care, diaper, feed and play safely with children they care for.

They were also taught basic first aid, safety, and what to do in case of emergencies. Students each received a Babysitter's Handbook and a certification card showing they took and passed this Red Cross course.

The five girls completing the course were: Amanda Brenner, Emily Bruflat, Cassy Holman, Megan Kardell, and McKenzie Stauffer.

If anyone is looking for a well-trained and certified person to care for their children, please give one of these girls a call.

Our sales office is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

What is DSL?
DSL stands for digital subscriber line. The technology uses regular copper telephone lines to connect homes and small businesses to the Internet at high speeds. Those speeds typically range from 256K to 1.544 mbps (nearly 30 times faster than a 56K modem) for downstream transfers, which are downloads or file transfers to your PC.

What do these numbers mean? Simply put you can have an Internet connection at speeds approaching those of a T1 line for a fraction of the price.

How does it Work?
DSL uses digital technology to send oodles of compressed data over traditional telephone lines. The trick involves using special modems at both ends that encode the data and then transmit it over an unused frequency on the line.

Qwest will provide you a line back to the Central Office and then you choose Northeast Nebraska ComNet as your Internet Service Provider. It's easy and fast. You won't have to change your email address or the great service you currently receive.

How much does it Cost?
There are two options available from Qwest for the Line. Northeast Nebraska ComNet's charges will not change. Currently Qwest has a promotion that was extended for a free modem and activation.

Northeast Nebraska ComNet has no control over busy signals with DSL as Qwest Communication acts as this. If you have trouble with connecting and with busy signals please contact Qwest Communications. Please contact Qwest on the current promotion for more information.

The Wayne Herald

Plan ahead Holidays do not have to break the bank

Gift giving doesn't need to be elaborate or expensive to be meaningful.

What kids need most for a joyful time are reasonably relaxed parents who can enjoy the festivities. Involve the kids in planning and wrapping, postage, decorations, etc. These items needed to be added to your budget to prevent overspending.

Make a holiday checklist

Write the names of the checklist of people you would like to do something for during the holidays. List those individuals for which you feel you should do something. (Notice it does not say buy something for!) Decide if you really want or feel you must do something for each one on the list.

If you decide you really want to buy something for the person, put an approximate dollar amount by each person. Beside the person's name, list two or three things you or your family could give of do for this person. Now check your list against the dollar amount. If you are over, continue to think of ideas. It can not only be fun, but can be a big step in taking control of your holiday finances.

helping during special occasions. Make your own family rituals that everyone agrees are important or compromise and select something for everyone.

Go with the flow when unexpected circumstances arise. Consider lowering your standards during the holidays. Avoid feeling guilty if you do not think your family had the Christmas you would like; unexpected memories are often the best. Share responsibilities and include the entire family in the planning.

Share gift list with relatives. Be honest about what you can buy your children. When purchasing gifts for others, think about their individual personalities, likes and dislikes, not yours. Maybe you have something special that you could give without spending additional money, for example, books, dishes or collectibles. Don't forget the "hidden expenses" such as gift

Antioxidant Vitamins May Lower Blood Pressure

Animal research suggests that foods containing the antioxidant vitamins C and E may help lower blood pressure and protect the body against the effects of high blood pressure. According to a Hypertension: Journal of the American Heart Association report, both nutrients may reduce blood pressure by protecting the body's supply of nitric oxide. Levels of nitric oxide were lower in animals fed disease-producing free radicals. Adding vitamins C and E to the animals' diets partially reversed the disease process.

Vitamin C is found in many fruits and vegetables; vitamin E in nuts and some food oils. The US Department of Agriculture recommends that we eat at least 2 fruit servings and 3 vegetable servings daily. Many Americans go day after day with few fruits and vegetables in their diets.

Annual Cookie Walk is being planned at Grace Lutheran

Grace Lutheran Church will hold its annual Cookie Walk on Saturday, Dec. 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. or until all cookies are sold.

The event will be held at the Lutheran Student Center at 10th and Logan Streets in Wayne.

Those attending are asked to enter the north doors of the Student Center where there will be many different kinds of cookies. A helper will be present to assist with the selection of cookies.

A large variety of homemade Christmas cookies will be for sale such as spritz, gingerbread men, pfeffernuesse, decorated sugar cookies and others. Early arrival ensures the best selection.

The cookie walk was first held in 1992 following a church service. In 1995 it was opened to the public. The event is now held every year on the second Saturday of December and continues to grow in participation.

The proceeds have gone to the Grace Building Fund, new chairs for the basement and replacing basement windows. This year's proceeds will be used for refurbishing the restroom in the lower southwest corner and also to The Orphan Grain Train.

Congregational Matching Funds up to $450 have been applied for through Lutheran Brotherhood, Wayne County Branch #8212.

The new series of messages will be entitled, "God's Greatest Gifts" and will run throughout the month of December.

"The Seven is designed to have a different flavor than traditional worship services and offers a unique style of worship to the Wayne community," said Sherie Lundahl, who is Director of Worship and Music Ministries at Our Savior Lutheran Church.

"Each week we utilize thought-provoking dramas, inspiring music and people-friendly messages to reach out to our worshippers. We encourage worshippers to lift up their voice in song and their hands in praise. We extend a special invitation to the community to come and worship with us."

She added, "we have an advanced sound system here at Our Savior, which is a great avenue for the use of our guitars, keyboards, drums and congas. We are very excited about our talented worship team who lead worshippers each week in uplifting songs of praise. We also have an exceptional team of actors who provide Christian-based dramas on a regular basis."

Tour of the Capitol part of historic trip

On our second day in Virginia, a Sunday, our host asked how well we knew our congressional representative. Doug Bereuter's web page instructed a 6-8 week advance notice of a visit. We barely decided on this trip in time for a two-week price from the airlines!

So, on Monday, I called the D.C. office and asked for Susan Olson, a delightful attorney from Ceresco, Nebraska, who had been part of the luncheon group at the Farm House in May. She graciously arranged for a tour of the capitol with a lovely young lady from Trumble.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Doug even invited us into his office for a few minutes and I'm sure he had other things to do; as the House convened at 2 p.m. that day. I never cease to be amazed at his calm demeanor and capacity for work.

Aleisha, our guide, took us across the street by the underground tunnel. There is even a subway for those too tired to walk. We checked out statuary, especially in the rotunda, where we had our picture taken near William Jennings Bryan.

We met Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert, who said "hello" to us and stood on the floor of the Senate. Everywhere there were uniformed guards, all were friendly and polite when Aleisha flashed her ID. He had to hurry at the House chamber, as it was 1:30 p.m. by then.

Everywhere are reminders of 250 years of history, added to that afternoon's visit to the Library of Congress. There are actually three buildings; we only saw the main one, which contains the huge reading room, complete with stairs and guard rails, computers, desks and atmosphere.

On Tuesday, we drove to Raleigh. Duane Neuman, our best man, received a doctorate in Ag Economics at Champaign-Urbana. He was married there in 1951; Mike and Mel were in the wedding. He moved to North Carolina State and retired there in 1994. Last year he developed major congestive heart failure and in March of this year, received a new heart in a transplant procedure.

Duane and Sally were fantastic hosts, cooking wonderful meals and taking us around the area. Since NC State, NC and Duke are all right there, we visited those campuses. (The heart transplant took place at Duke). Of course, we checked out the capitol and the downtown, which is being renovated like so many historic downtowns.

And, we visited the Dale Bone Farms at Nashville, N.C. Here is the largest pickle grower in the U.S. In November, however, they were sorting and grading sweet potatoes. I will never take them for granted again!

His employees were working long hours and this past weekend, to ensure that we would have them for Thanksgiving. We came home with several pounds. They are wonderful. Dale and his hound, Roscoe, toured us in a van. Roscoe's collar had his name, "Roscoe Bone" and he is quite a dog.

On the way back to Virginia, Mel took us on a side trip to Richmond and that state capitol. I got goose bumps standing in the old chamber, no longer used, where the South voted to secede. It then served as the capitol of the Confederate states and there is a huge statue of General Lee. Also, the only life-like one of George Washington, in its rotunda.

Katie Couric's sister is a senator here.

The next day, it was early to Dulles Airport and the trip home. Fortunately, our flight wasn't cancelled and it was only a bit late.

Now, if we can just figure out who our next president will be, we can get back to "politics as usual," if there is such a thing.
