Students, former members honored

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The Wayne School Board met Monday night with an Honor Coffee prior to their regular meeting. Recognized for achievement was the Class B Girls State Championship Golf Team, Girls and Boys State Cross Country qualifiers, and former Wayne Board of Education members Phyllis Spethman and Marion Arneson.

For the meeting, the first order of business was the swearing in of the two new board members, Kaye Morris and John Dunning. Election of officers was also held. Legal Council, Chris Connolly, acted as chair.

Susan Gilmore received president position and Dr. Jean Blomenkamp received vice president position. Vicky Swartz is secretary/treasurer.

The agenda was adopted except for discussion on District 51, SPED (special education) report, and matters concerning a change in the athletic director position. These items were moved to executive session following the meeting.

Some of the action the board took included the approval of Mollie Linster as part time personnel in Technology. A number of computers have been acquired from Federal Surplus giving need for extra help in this area. Linster's hours are not to exceed 15 hours per week.

Board members approved the contract (with recommended changes) of Alvine and Associates for the high school alarm system. When the new addition was finished, the state fire marshal required an update of the fire detection and alarm system. Cost of the project is expected to be between $150,000-$200,000, which can be paid through a lease purchase.

The next order of business was the approval of the insurance bid with Columbia Insurance Company. Columbia is provided through Northeast Nebraska Insurance of Wayne. Cap Peterson of Northeast Insurance Company was present to discuss the matter with the board. Columbia's bid was $41,122; cost of insurance prior to this action was $50,460.

Showing excellence in teaching, Edith Zahniser, German teacher at Wayne High School, received the foreign language STAR (study, travel, achievement, and recognition) Award given by the Nebraska

Department of Education and the Nebraska Foreign Language Association. This is the second consecutive year Zahniser has received this award.

Dr. Joe Reinert, Wayne Community

Schools superintendent, updated the board on renovation/construction of the middle school. He noted the project was behind schedule because of the cold, snowy weather we had in December. The projected completion date of the middle school is Nov. 1, 2001.

At this time, the middle school gym roof is just framed in leaving frost in the dirt below the gym. Warmer weather is needed to complete the roofing project. Also, the windows are not all in. And, on the top two floors, water/concrete mix needs to be poured and this is scheduled for Jan. 15, 16. When the floors are done, drywall can be finished. Block layers are back on the job, though, but the area is very muddy.

On the football/track facility discussion, Dr. Reinert met with Todd Barry, Wayne State College (WSC) Athletic Director, concerning a joint facility between Wayne High School (WHS) and WSC. WSC is updating their football/track facility and want WHS to continue to use their facility but they want financial support towards renovation and there would be a timetable as to when WHS

Wayne Red Cross helps local family

Answering their most recent call, the Wayne County Red Cross has been helping the Levi and Rhonda Webb family of Wayne who lost their trailer and possessions in a fire on Jan. 3.

The fire started in an electrical outlet in the bathroom and spread rapidly through the trailer. Wayne Volunteer Firemen worked to save the structure but were unable to do so. Discovering the Webb family did not have insurance, the Red Cross, was contacted within a half hour after the fire and the Wayne chapter responded immediately.

The Wayne Red Cross supplied the Webb family with two rooms at the local Super 8 motel for five nights which is approximately $400, $500 to buy groceries, around $700 to buy clothes and shoes, $65 to buy cleaning supplies and personal care items, and about $100 for medicine replacement for Levi who is a diabetic.

Praising the Red Cross, Rhonda said they do not know what they would have done without help from the Wayne chapter. Besides Rhonda and Levi, three of their children, Jon, Matt, and Tiffany, lived in the trailer.

"The Red Cross is at the top of my list for making money donations because they really do help people in desperate times," Rhonda said. "Wayne is lucky to have a Red Cross office in town."

Rhonda notes that when Loren Park, disaster chairman of the Wayne Red Cross, showed up at their trailer right away, she felt it was unbelievable; it gave them comfort to know that someone was there to

Council meets

By Clara Ostan
Of the Herald

Web sites, electrical distribution and the purchase of a van were among the topics discussed during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The council viewed several examples of web sites similar to what the city is considering implementing.

Among those being used as models is one from Lenexa, Kan., which contains information about each department within the city.

Julia Shear and representatives of Connecting Point are currently working with department heads in the city of Wayne to construct Wayne's web site. Cost for the project is estimated at $7,000 to $10,000.

Garry Poutier, Electrical Division Superintendent, gave the council an update on the electrical distribution study done for the city and the work in progress as determined by the study.

The study was undertaken to see if the city current distribution system is adequate to handle anticipated growth during the next 10 years.

Consumer Survey to be distributed in shopper

A Consumer Survey, with questions compiled by the Main Street Wayne Program, will be included in the Monday, Jan. 15 issue of Morning Shopper.

Survey organizers ask that each household receiving the survey complete it, drop it off in an identified box at one of the four banks in Wayne (Bank of Norfolk, Farmers & Merchants State Bank, First National Bank or State National Bank & Trust Company).

Surveys may also be left in marked boxes at Pac 'N' Save or Quality Food Center.

Those not receiving a copy of the survey and wishing to fill one out are asked to contact the Main Street Office, 208 Main Street or call 375-5062.

The information gathered in the survey will be shared with the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and other interested groups and individuals at Wayne State College and in the community.

The Wayne businesses value the public's insights, experiences and opinions about the shopping environment in Wayne.

The Main Street Wayne Program requests that area residents take time to complete and return the survey.

Herbert (Eric Dwight), Sara (Amy Kemp), Paula (Marisa Rose), Marge (Angela Dwight) and Barbara (Heather Headley).

Other cast members include Frederick (Dave Headley), George Husted (Rick Mitchell), Mr. Loomis (Eric Cole), Aunt Selma (Emily Lutt) and Carson (Dave Lebsock).

Through the course of the play there is a marriage and funeral to be planned. The comedy contains many twists and turns.

As the contest for possession of the home begins, the two families are isolated together by a blizzard.

in the freezing house, while the Gage family breakfast on what is left — cornflakes, molasses and pickles — the smell of coffee, fresh biscuits, fried ham and bacon comes from the rooms of the old-fashioned Rockwoods.

Performances will be held at the Carriage House Theatre in the Mineshaft Mall in Wayne. Performances times are 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 12-13, 19-20 and at 2 p.m. on Jan. 21.

Essay contest seeks entries

All Nebraska fourth-grade students are invited to participate in the annual Statehood Day Essay Contest sponsored by the Nebraska Humanities Council.

This year's theme is "What symbolizes community to you?" Students are asked to write about a person, event, building or other symbol that makes them think of their community.

It could be a local hero or heroine, a special event such as the county fair or an annual festival, or a building where the community gathers or one that has personal significance. Landscapes or local industries also can be powerful symbols of community.

Entries are due Feb. 1. Information about the contest, which is held in conjunction with the Statehood Day celebration sponsored by the secretary of state's office, has been sent to all fourth-grade teachers in Nebraska. First, second- and third-place prizes will be awarded at Statehood Day celebrations to be held May 1 in Grand Island, Lincoln, North Platte, Omaha and Scottsbluff.

For the last two years, the essay contest has highlighted the past (changes in Nebraska since its inception in 1869) and the future (changes were anticipated in the next 100 years).

Last year, 82 Nebraska fourth-graders entered the essay contest, which asked the question, "How do you think Nebraska will change in the next century?" Stephanie Sackett of St. Wenceslaus Elementary school in Omaha won first-place honors with an essay that took a decidedly scientific approach to the future. She predicted human clones, computer chips imbedded in human brains, colonization of the moon, instant transporters, flying cars and a possible cure for cancer.

Sackett's winning essay is posted on the NHC website at www.nebraskahumanities.org.

Essays should be around 500 words in length. Essays are judged on composition, grammar, spelling, creativity, research, neatness, and overall quality. More details are available on the NHC website.

The Nebraska Press Association will provide awards to essay winners.

Shown is the inside of the Webb trailer after their recent fire. The family could only salvage a few pots and pans from the kitchen and a couple of clothing items were recovered but after washing them several times, they still smell of smoke. One thing that can not be replaced is their family photos which were lost in the fire.

help.

Also lending a helping hand, Godfather's Pizza (Rick Chavanu and Jeff Beerbohm, co-managers) in Wayne saw to it that the family had free pizzas to eat and they continue to help the family.

"There are a lot of nice and good people in Wayne," Rhonda said.

Thinking of their situation, Rhonda recommends that people get insurance. She also feels that people should appreciate what they have. She notes they (the Webb family) owned their trailer and only paid the $100 per month lot rent, so now when they are trying to look for a place to stay, they have no idea how they will be able to afford anything when they had just been paying the $100 and couldn't even afford insurance payments. Adding to their problems, Levi is laid off of work at the present time.

Rhonda adds, "Even if you feel that what you have isn't the nicest, the best, or the brand name; just appreciate that you have a warm home, clothes, and food."

Commenting on other disasters the local Red Cross helped with recently, "We have assisted with five fires in the past couple of months," Lori Carollo, chapter manager of the Wayne Red Cross, said. "Loren responded to one fire on Thanksgiving Day where a family was preparing their Thanksgiving dinner, a plastic dish was placed in the oven and started on fire. Within minutes, not only did the family not have their Thanksgiving meal but also needed a place to stay, food to eat, and clothes to wear."

Also, there was a fire in Laurel just a few days before Christmas where the family even lost all of their Christmas gifts.

Carollo notes the Wayne Red Cross has spent approximately $2,650 in disaster relief to families in the past couple of months which is more than they received in contributions this fiscal year.

"We have had to draw on limited funds that we have in savings," Carollo said. "I have tried to speak to different groups and even write personal letters of appeal asking for donations. I realize that all of us get 'hit up' for donations for one thing or another almost every day, but I can't seem to stress to people enough that the Wayne Red Cross needs the financial support of the people in this community so we can continue to help people during times of disasters."

Remembering Rhonda's advice to others to buy insurance, Carollo notes that when you donate to the Wayne Red Cross, you are "insuring" that the local chapter will be there if disaster were to strike you, your family, or any of your loved ones.

"Insurance is a needed item," Carollo said, "but when you are standing out in the cold in the middle of the night watching your home and EVERYTHING you own rise in flames, you will have an arm of comfort around you guiding you to a safe, warm place of shelter. You will receive some fresh, clean clothes to put on as well as personal care items to wash your face and clean up before putting on those clean clothes."

Carollo notes it's the "little things" we take for granted but the Red Cross has them available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"I know people wonder why we ask more than once for a donation—that's because we might go months without any disaster needs, and then have five within two to three months," Carollo said. "But even during the months when we don't receive calls for help, we must maintain an office and have people trained, available and ready to serve."

The Wayne Red Cross is operating on very low funds right now. Even though they just had a holiday fund drive, one fire alone can more than use up what was collected.

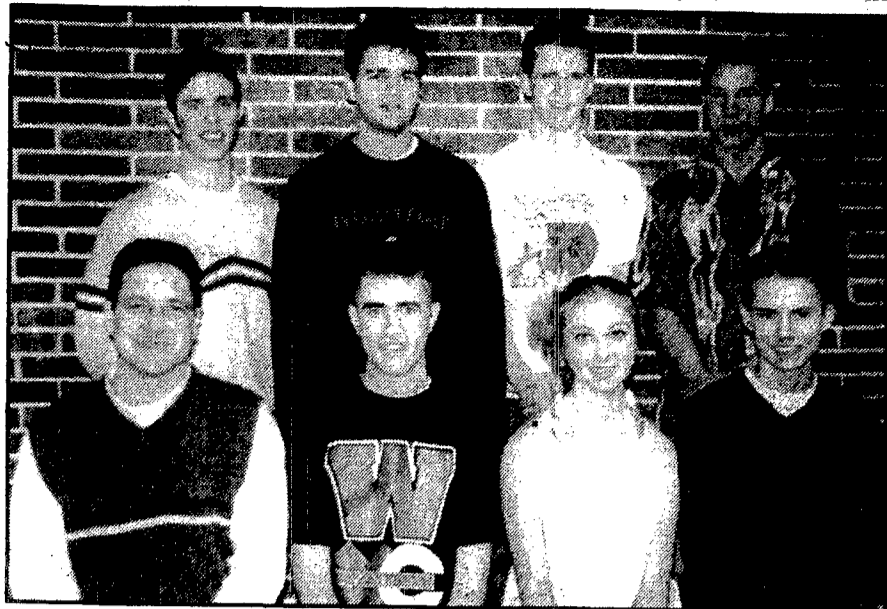

"We sent out 2,500 letters in November - December asking for donations and received approximately 125 back, so obviously we need to make more people aware of the important work we do and the need that we have for financial assistance," Carollo said. "As many chapters close all across the nation every year, we want to remain a vital, active part of Wayne and northeast Nebraska so that when or if a fire or any other disaster would occur, we could be there to help and serve."

As for the Webb family, Rhonda said their church, Praise Assembly, has been helping them as much as they can. Associate Pastor David Winter is letting them live in an unfurnished house he has for sale for 30 days. Pastor Mark Steinbach gave them a kitchen table and chairs and a friend was bringing a recliner.

"After the 30 days, I don't know what we will do for a place to stay or live," Rhonda said. "Everything is very uncertain right now, especially due to financial reasons. We feel very lost now and feel there is no where to turn. It is very frightening to not know where your future is and how or where you will find a place to live."

On community help, anyone wanting to donate to the Webb family (appliances, furniture, beds or bedding, etc.) can call the Red Cross office as the family does not have a phone at this time.

A benefit may be planned in the near future. Rhonda works at Restful Knights in Wayne and fellow employee, Jim Granquist, is trying to organize a benefit. Anyone wanting to help is asked to call him at 375-1701. Also, the "Rhonda Webb Family" fund has been set up at the First National Bank in Wayne so monetary donations can be dropped off or sent to the bank at 301 Main, POB 10, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

could use the facilities. More discussion will be held on the subject at the February board meeting.

As far as the subject of the recreation center facility goes, two different layouts are proposed. Further discussion on the rec center will be upcoming at future meetings.

The board approved a one-year subscription to the Nebraska Association of School Boards (NASB) policy service to help the board with revising school policies.

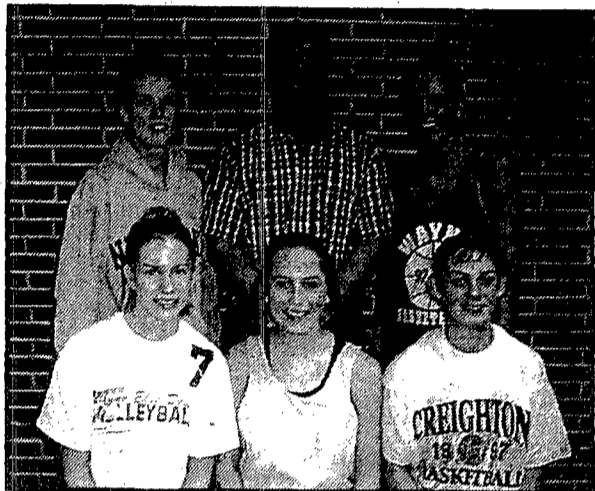

An upcoming Labor Relations Conference will be held Feb. 6, 7 in Kearney. Dr. Reinert and several board members will attend.

Board members gave a recap of the NASB State Education Conference they attended in November. Upcoming items for the February meeting includes discussion on Tremco, Inc. (existing roof annual service agreement) and joint facility discussion with WSC.

Executive session was held and concluded at 10:58 p.m.

The next board meeting will be Feb. 12 at 7 p.m. at Wayne High School.

Phyllis Spethman and Marion Arneson were recognized at the coffee held prior to the board meeting. Spethman and Arneson are retiring from the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education. Spethman was president for the past six years and Arneson was vice president for the last four years. Both Spethman and Arneson were on the board for a total of eight years.

million will need to be spent over the 10 year period to meet the anticipated two percent growth per year in electrical needs.

A project of nearly $400,000 is to be completed in 2001. It involves the part of the system that currently operates at a lower voltage. Bids are currently being taken for the supplies needed with work to be completed throughout the year.

Also discussed during the meeting was the necessity of the city purchasing a nine passenger van to be used to transport players involved in city recreation activities.

Councilman Doug Sturm told fellow council members that he felt it would be safer to have various team members transported to games and other activities in one van rather than being driven in several vehicles, often by relatively young city employees. He also stated that the van could be used by other departments in the city.

Councilman Will Wiseman questioned what the purchase of a van would do to city insurance rates and how cities of similar size handle transportation of these youth.

Council members also looked at photos of two vans that are currently available for purchase. However, a decision will be made on whether or not any type of van should be purchased before looking into specific options. Also being considered is whether or not arrangements could be made with the school to use their vans.

Garry Poutre also spoke to the council about the deteriorating condition of the city's Christmas decorations. Several options were presented toward the purchase of replacements for these decorations, some of which are nearly 30 years old. No action was taken on the proposals.

In other action, Mayor Sheryl Lindau appointed several community members to a biking/ hiking trail committee. They include Darla Munson, Bill Kranz, Todd Hoeman, Charles Shapiro, Councilman Will Wiseman and Mayor Lindau.

The council also approved Resolution 2001-04 which accepted the work done in Sidewalk Improvement District No. 2000-01. The project has been completed and an assessment of cost roll will be prepared.

The council's next meeting will be Tuesday, Jan. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

Reading program scheduled

The Early Childhood Training Center at Wayne State College is sponsoring a training course geared toward early literacy in young children.

The winter session of HeadsUp! Reading will be held Monday, Jan. 15 from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 101 of the Education Building at Wayne State College.

HeadsUp! Reading is designed to explore the literacy in early childhood care centers, preschools, family home child care and into early elementary grades. The course is available to all persons involved with young children and those who care about the development of children in the community.

The course is a two-hour satellite broadcast that gives ideas on creating and recognizing early literacy in young children.

Early Literacy is defined as the beginning stages of learning to read and write. This learning includes:

communication (talking and listening), the sounds of a spoken language, reading and writing and the world around us.

Each session covers a vocabulary word, one myth (that is always broken) and how to incorporate books into a child's play or work.

The purpose of HeadsUp! Reading is to enhance the early literacy outcomes of young children and to increase teacher/caregiver knowledge and to expand teacher/caregiver's skills.

The Winter 2001 sessions will be Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. and include: Jan. 15 - orientation and overview of the program; Jan. 22 - assessment; Jan. 29 - curriculum; Feb. 6 - talking; Feb. 12 - playing; Feb. 19 - reading; Feb. 26 - writing and March 5 - learning the code.

Those interested in attending are asked to RSVP to Jennifer Bartos at 375-4321 by Jan. 12.

Enrichment lessons planned

Did you get a computer for Christmas and now want to learn more about it? Have you considered long term health care, but don't know if it is for you? Looking for ways to stretch your food dollar, or pass on heritage in your family through storytelling? Maybe you want to try a new craft.

A variety of personal enrichment lessons are planned for Saturday, Jan. 27 at the ESU Building in Wakefield.

The morning will be from 8:30 a.m. with registration and refreshments. Three lessons will be offered at 9 a.m. They include a basic computer class, Windows 98; a second lesson will be on Long Term Health Care and a third, Stretching Your Food Dollar.

The second series of lessons will be at 10:30 a.m. These include: Discovering the Internet, Family Storytelling and Herbal Flower Crafts.

Lessons are individually priced and pre-registration is requested by Jan. 22 to the Wayne County Extension Office.

Contact the University of Nebraska Extension Office in Dakota (402-987-2140), Dixon (402-584-2234), Thurston (402-846-5656) or Wayne County (402-375-3310) for a brochure about the lessons and for registration information.

Issues involve money

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

After decades of watching and writing about goings on in the Legislature, it seems to me that some of the truest words about the lawmaking process were probably spoken by the late Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

"It all comes down to money," Carpenter said.

Well, there you have it. And, not only are those particular words about lawmaking true, they are suitable for publication in family newspapers, too.

Pick your issue, if it's one of statewide import, and you will find that its success or failure will have as much to do with money as anything.

Another former lawmaker, Loran Schmit of Bellwood, used to describe what he called the "perfect" bill - that is, one guaranteed to win passage.

"It doesn't help anyone, it doesn't hurt anyone, it doesn't do anything and it doesn't cost anything," Schmit would say. Ideally, however, it would make some element of the constituency feel good. It's hard to put a price on a bill that makes voters feel good, whilst actually doing nothing. There aren't many such bills to be found, but they do tend to be popular when they come along. Everyone gets to give someone a "yes" vote, with no consequences on the horizon.

There are exceptions to the money rule. These tend to center on such things as abortion and the death penalty. Some consumer protection legislation falls into the "revenue neutral" category. However, it is also true that a scintilla of economic argument will find its way even into discussions of these issues.

In the overwhelming majority of instances, however, policy arguments have as much to do with dollars as with sense.

It seems inevitable that the most rural areas of the state are going to lose a seat or two in the Unicameral when legislative district boundaries undergo their required redrawing this year. That means there is the possibility that someone more oriented to causes of concern to population centers, rather than to agricultural interests, will eventually be added to the Legislature's roll call.

And it means that the collective view of policymakers on such perennial issues as property tax relief might tend to be increasingly favorable to those "in town" rather than on the farm or ranch.

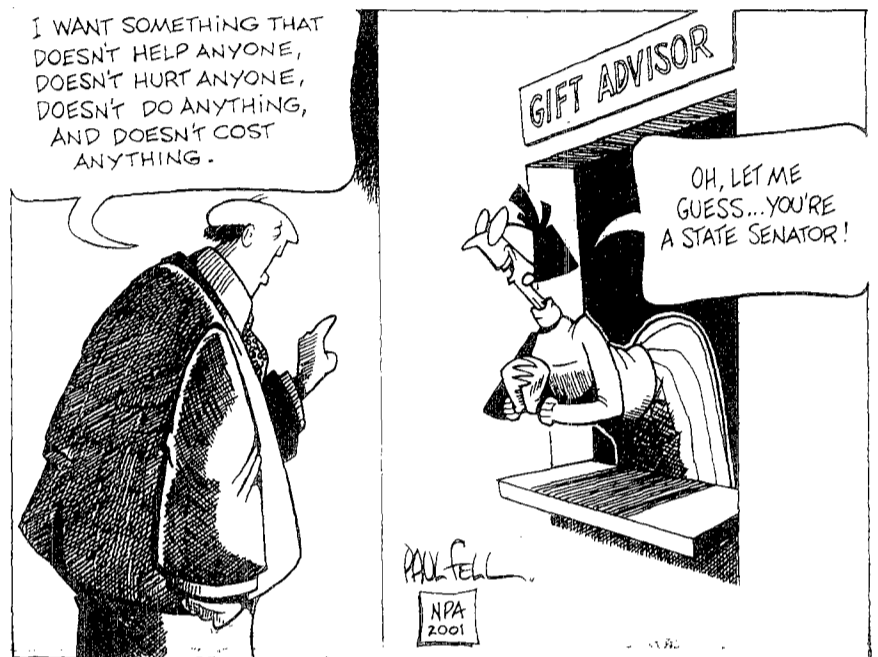

The best way to lock in a share of economic good fortune for your favorite cause (or property class) is to influence the laws and formulas that determine a given tax load.

Don't be surprised if you discern an increasing sense of urgency, within the agriculture sector, for instance, to reduce the amount of ag land value upon which property taxes can be levied.

The demand for lowered property taxes and/or more state aid will probably never diminish - ever. The question is, who will have the votes to lay claim to whatever funds are available for relief efforts?

The best hope for owners of ag land to get anything close to a long-term deal on taxes is to secure a formula in law, one that gives them an ever-greater break on how much of their land's value can be subjected to taxation.

Legislative session begins

My first week as your representative in the Nebraska Legislature has been very exciting. It was a humbling experience to be sworn in by John Hendry, the Chief Justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court. Twenty-six senators, consisting of seven new members and nineteen re-elected senators, took their oath of office on Wednesday, January 3.

Immediately after the ceremony, family and friends were asked to move from the floor of the Legislature so that we could begin our work. The committee chairpersons are selected by secret ballot by the members of the Legislature. The majority of the committee chairpersons ran unopposed. With the retirement of Senator Ardyce Bohike, there were three senators that ran for the important position of Education Committee chair. Lincoln Senator Ron Raikes received the distinguished title, over Papillion Senator Nancy Thompson and Bradshaw Senator Elaine Stuhr.

Last month, when I was in Lincoln for several meetings, I met with Senator Raikes and discussed the problems with the current state aid system for schools. I felt that Senator Raikes had a genuine concern for some of the same issues that are very important to me, such as the unpredictability of the state aid formula from year to year and the problems facing smaller school districts. The following week, Senator Raikes drove to Wausa and met with our area superintendents to discuss these issues.

I was assigned to three committees. I will serve on the General Affairs Committee on Mondays, the Agriculture Committee on Tuesdays and the Health and Human Services Committee on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. All bills that are introduced are guaranteed a public hearing before the appropriate committee. Committee hearings will begin on January 16, at which time the Legislature will meet in session in the mornings and the committees will meet in the afternoons.

After two days of sharing a hearing room with newly elected Senator Richard McDonald of Rockville and having no access to the telephone or computer, I was assigned my office space. My office is in Room 1010 of the State

Capital Happenings
By State Senator
Doug Cunningham, District #18

Capitol. It is located in the Northwest corner on the first floor. If any of you are visiting the State Capitol, make sure you stop by my office. My staff and I are sharing the room with Senator Mark Quandahl of Omaha and his staff. My telephone number is (402) 471-2801.

I was made aware of a national public service program that is sponsored by the American Optometric Association and the Nebraska Optometric Association, called VISION USA. It provides free eye examinations to low-income working Americans and their families. It matches qualified children and adults with local Nebraska optometrists who provide the eye exams in their office. To register for the program, write to VISION USA, 243 N. Lindbergh Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63141; visit the web site at www.aoanet.org; or call toll-free at 1-800-766-4466. Completed forms must be postmarked by January 22, 2001.

I encourage you to contact my office to inform me of your opinions on the various bills that are being introduced. My e-mail address is dcunningham@unicam.state.ne.us and my mailing address is Senator Doug Cunningham, District #18, P.O. Box 94604, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509. I cannot stress enough the importance of being involved in government, whether it is on the local, state or federal level.

Bonds are good choice for investments

By Henry Herrmann,
Chief Investment Officer,
Waddell & Reed, Inc.

Amidst all the talk surrounding the economy, inflation and interest rates over the last nine months, something unique in recent market history has happened. In an unusual twist, bonds, broadly defined, are outperforming the stock indices year-to-date.

Who would have believed that bonds would have done well — much less outperformed stocks — during a period when the economy was accelerating, inflation was rising modestly and corporate profits were strong. I, for one, am not terribly surprised that bonds are doing well, mostly because they had such a lousy year in 1999.

Last year, in fact, was one of the worst years for bonds over the last 20-year period. Why did bonds fall out of favor? I attribute this to two primary factors: first, it was commonly believed that the Federal Reserve was going to raise interest rates dramatically; second, inflation, many said, was poised to increase significantly. Both, if true, are big negative influences on bond prices. In retrospect, the first point was only partially correct and the second one hasn't really come to pass at all.

Concerning the first point - interest rates - the Fed has raised them, but they have not been overly aggressive in doing so. The second point - inflation - hasn't become a problem at all. Yes, inflation has risen from its very low point, mostly due to the increase in energy prices. Once you look past energy, however, there are not a lot of inflation concerns. The Consumer Price Index, the broad measure of inflation, is currently at less than three percent. This is above its low of two percent last year, but is hardly going through the roof.

So, at this point, investors' anxieties have not been reinforced with reality. It is this recognition that is, in my opinion, causing bonds to do better, especially lately. My personal methodology for evaluating bonds is to look at the "real rate." In other words, what is the difference between current interest rates and the inflation rate? Current high-quality bonds yield around seven percent and the inflation rate is roughly three percent, giving us a real rate of four percent, which is high by historic measures. High real rates usually indicate an opportunity.

Six months ago, real rates were a full point above where they are now. This opportunity, however, was only realized when inflation statistics remained tame this summer. When the inflation fears then began to diminish, bonds started to do better. In August, the Federal Reserve chose not to raise interest rates and they deferred again in October. Going forward, I think it's clear that the economy is slowing. I'm not certain the Fed is done raising interest rates, but it certainly looks as if that is the case. If there are any further indication that rates will stay static, then the bond market should begin to reflect on when the ease is coming. This, in my estimation, will be sometime in late winter or early spring.

This all suggests to me that we have a further rally on the horizon. I don't see any reason, on a long-term basis, why real rates shouldn't be lower than they are today. High-quality bond yielding six percent, I think, is plausible.

Regardless of magnitude, I believe that bonds still look underpriced. So for the risk-averse investor, or as part of an asset allocation program, I continue to believe that bonds are a good alternative.

Zach completes basic

Marine Corps Lance Cpl. Tim Zach, son of Diane and Dave Zach of Wayne recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego and was meritoriously promoted to his current rank. Zach successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Zach and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m. by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Zach spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training.

They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Zach and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values—honor, courage and commitment and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Zach and fellow recruits ended the training phase with The Crucible, a 54-hour team effort, problem solving evolution which culminated with a ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

Zach is a 1999 graduate of Wayne High School of Wayne.

Legion meeting held

Irving Lyons Post 165 of the American Legion held its monthly meeting on Jan. 2 at Davis Steakhouse & Lounge in Carroll. Called to order by Commander Frank Gilmore, many topics were discussed, including upcoming American Legion leadership events and public events.

Delegates were chosen to attend the District 3 meeting to be held in Jackson on Jan. 23. Two members will be attending.

It was decided that Post 165 would again perform a flag disposal ceremony at the Wayne County Fair. The date of this ceremony will be announced at a later time.

Chaplain Scott Hillen, also the Public Relations committee chairperson, presented information about eligibility for membership in the American Legion, some of the many benefits available to members, and upcoming American Legion events. Special mention was made that certain National Guard veterans and Reservists may be eligible for membership, as well as active duty military personnel.

The American Legion will observe February as Americanism Month. As a part of the Americanism month observance, Feb. 4 has been designated "Four Chaplains' Sunday." Chaplain Hillen will provide the morning message at Carroll United Methodist Church. All members and the public are welcome to attend.

According to Hillen, Americanism goes beyond patriotic expression. It entails preserving the most cherished traditions of the American way for future generations, which is the fundamental goal of the three million men and women of the American Legion who are "Still Serving America."

Attention was also drawn to the fact that some flags being displayed are worn, faded, or otherwise no longer suitable for flying. Citizens are encouraged to bring their old flags to any Legionnaire, so that they may be decommissioned and disposed of. Also, as observance of Americanism month, all citizens are encouraged to inspect their flags, and replace them if necessary, before the summer season.

An invitation was extended to all eligible veterans to become members.

"Membership in the American Legion gives the veteran an opportunity to be involved with meeting the needs of our community through the Legion's many and varied programs," Hillen said.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 6, 2001, 8 p.m. at Davis Steakhouse & Lounge (South Banquet Room) in Carroll.

Older Antidepressants Often as Effective as Newer, Costlier Ones

According to new guidelines from the American College of Physicians - American Society of Internal Medicine, both newer and traditional antidepressant medicines are equally effective for many persons with depression. Older medicines typically are in the class termed tricyclics (e.g., Tofranil, Elavil). The newer agents include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors or SSRIs (e.g., Paxil, Zoloft, Prozac).

The major difference cited between tricyclics and SSRIs are side effects. SSRIs are more likely to cause diarrhea, nausea, headache, and sleeping difficulties. Tricyclics are more likely to cause blurred vision, constipation, dizziness, dry mouth, and tremors. Interestingly, according to the new guidelines it is noted that St. John's wort may be effective against mild depression, at least on a short term basis.

Laurel-Concord cagers post victories over Blue Devils

Brad Hansen looks to dribble past his Norfolk Catholic defender.

By Kevin Peterson
For the Herald

It was billed as one of the premiere double-headers of the season and the Wayne-Laurel-Concord clash on Tuesday night in Laurel, lived up to its hype.

The two closely contested games ended in the Bears favor as Susie Koranda's girls team edged John McClarnen's troops in overtime, 53-48 while Clayton Steele's squad squeaked past Rocky Ruhl's Blue Devils, 55-52.

The Bears led the Wayne girls by a 19-15 margin at the half but Wayne scored the first eight points of the third quarter to take a four point lead of its own.

The game was tied at 31 after three quarters of play. Both teams traded baskets in the final stanza until Wayne grabbed a four point cushion with under a minute to play.

The Bears however, rallied behind a three-point play from Emily Schroeder and a bucket by Kari Stewart to force the overtime.

Laurel-Concord rode the free throw shooting of Katie Peters in overtime as she hit five of six attempts.

"This was a hardfought game between two very comparable teams," Koranda said. "Both teams defense did a good job, forcing just 30 percent shooting on both sides."

McClarnen felt both teams played hard throughout all four-and-a-half quarters. "This was two good teams battling for 36 minutes," McClarnen said. "I was impressed with the way our team stepped up despite the absence of our leading scorer and ball handler, Leah Dunklau. Despite the loss we had a number of players come in and play well which will help down the road."

April Thede led Wayne with 18 points while Monica Novak tossed in 11. Kallie Krugman and Amy Harder each scored eight and Katie Walton tallied two while Amanda Maryott finished with a free throw.

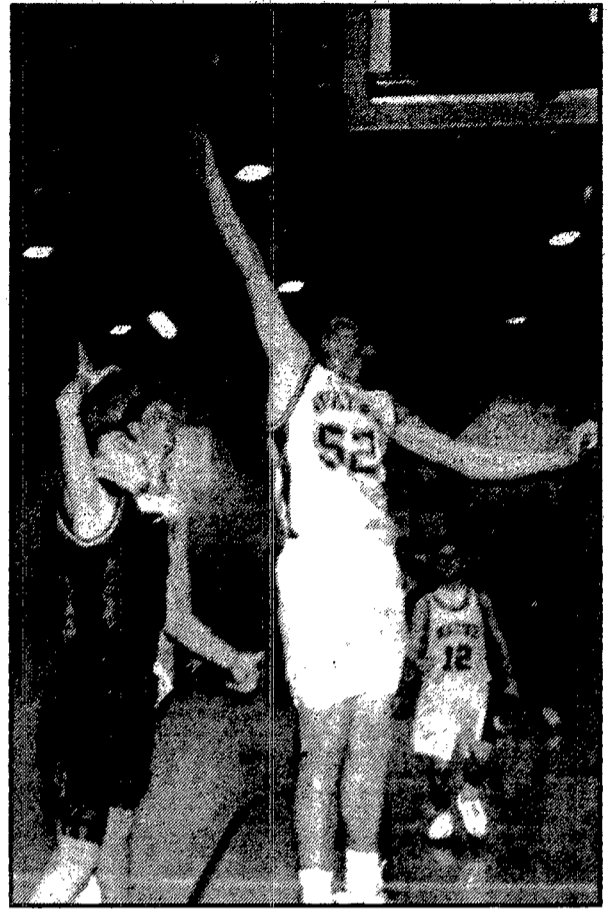

Katie Peters led the Bears with 15 points while Melanie Thompson scored 12 and Kari Stewart, nine. Brittany Burns and Emily Schroeder scored each and Lani Recob, five.

The Bears won the rebound battle, 42-36 including a number of offensive boards. Burns had 11 caroms for the winners while Stewart hauled down 10.

Kallie Krugman led all rebounders with 14 caroms to her credit. Wayne was 11-21 from the charity stripe with Laurel-Concord hitting 19 of 33 attempts.

Wayne fell to 9-2 with the setback with Laurel-Concord improving to 9-2.

Bears

Jon Erwin glides in for two points for Laurel-Concord during the Bears 18-point win against Elkhorn Valley.

THE BOYS GAME was nearly a mirror image of the contest played in Wayne on Dec. 30 for third place in the Northeast Nebraska Shootout.

In that game the score was 55-52 in Laurel-Concord's favor with Wayne having the last possession and converting a three-pointer to force the overtime in which Wayne went on to win.

Tuesday in Laurel the score was again 55-52 but this time there was no overtime and the Bears claimed the win as they improved to 7-3 while Wayne slipped to 7-4.

The Blue Devils led 22-20 at the half but the Bears held a slim 38-37 lead after three quarters of play.

Wayne did have a 48-47 lead with under two minutes to play and was shooting free throws but could not convert and the host team took advantage as Nathan Beckman hit all six of his charity tosses down the stretch.

Beckman scored a game-high 20 points including 11 free throws while Matt Schroeder poured in 17 for the winners. Blake Erwin finished with nine and Adam Hartung, five while Jon Erwin added four.

Wayne was led by Eric McLagan with 18 points with Trevor Wright scoring a career-high 10 and Brad Hansen, eight. Jon Meyer scored six points before leaving the game with a knee injury in the fourth period. His status remained uncertain at press time.

Brad Hochstein and Shane Baack scored four points each with Baack also suffering a game-ending injury in the third quarter with an ankle sprain.

Craig Olson rounded out the scoring with two points.

Wayne won the boards battle, 27-23 with McLagan hauling down 12 rebounds. Wayne was 8-11 from the foul line while the host team connected on 17 of 25 attempts.

"I thought the difference in the game was Laurel's ability to execute down the stretch and we got away from that a little bit," Ruhl said. "Part of that can be attributed to losing both Jon Meyer and Shane Baack."

Laurel-Concord senior Matt Schroeder gets fouled while attempting to make an under-handed shot against Elkhorn Valley.

Wayne will play host to Stanton on Friday while the Bears play at Creighton on Friday before hosting Hartington on Tuesday.

In JV action Wayne won, 46-38 behind Jon Erhardt's 17 points while Jeff Pippitt added eight and Ric Volk, six.

Luke Christensen netted five points and Mike Sturm along with Caleb Garvin added four each while Brady Heithold netted two.

In the girls JV contest the Bears downed Wayne, 38-24. Kari Hochstein led Wayne with nine points while Amanda Munter added five. Lindsey Stoltenberg and Erin Jarvi scored four each and Allison Hansen, two.

Laurel-Concord senior Nathan Beckman goes to the hoop hard for two of his game-high 24 points against Elkhorn Valley.

The Allen girls and boys basketball teams fell to Ponca last week with Lori Koester's gals dropping a 60-42 decision while Dave Uldrich's boys team fell, 71-39.

In girls action the Eagles sprinted to a 13-2 lead and a 16-4 advantage before Ponca roared back to lead 31-26 at the half.

"We came out intense and played a very competitive game until late in the third quarter when we lost Alicia Liebsch with a sprained ankle," Koester said. "We just didn't have enough to get the job done."

Angela Prochaska led the Eagles with a personal best 14 points after returning to the line-up from a sprained ankle.

Elizabeth Bock added 11 points and Liebsch, 10 while Melissa Wilmes scored five and Michelle Marks, two.

In the boys game the Eagles could only manage six points in the opening quarter as Ponca built a double digit lead.

Allen cut the gap to eight by half-time at 30-22 but Ponca out-scored Allen by a 41-27 margin in the second half.

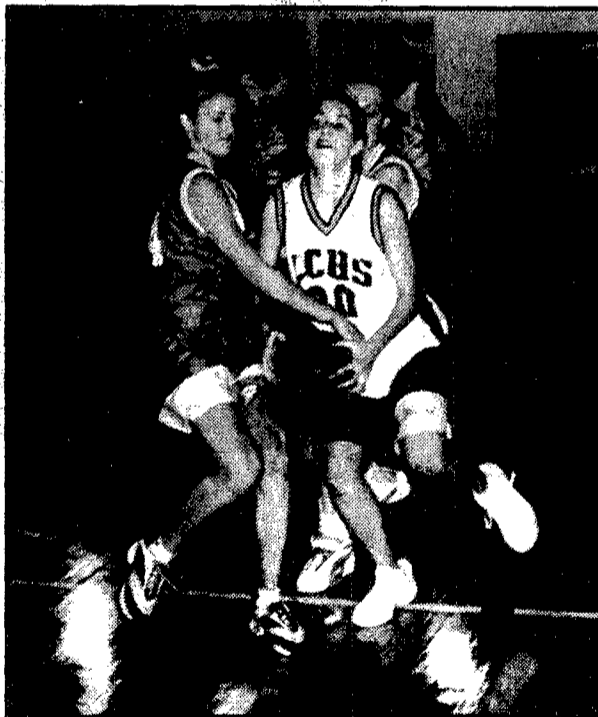

"We just didn't do a good job of taking care of the basketball," Uldrich said. "Ponca's pressure defense was the best we've seen to date."

Micky Oldenkamp led Allen with 13 points while Brett Keitges netted eight and Corey Uldrich, six.

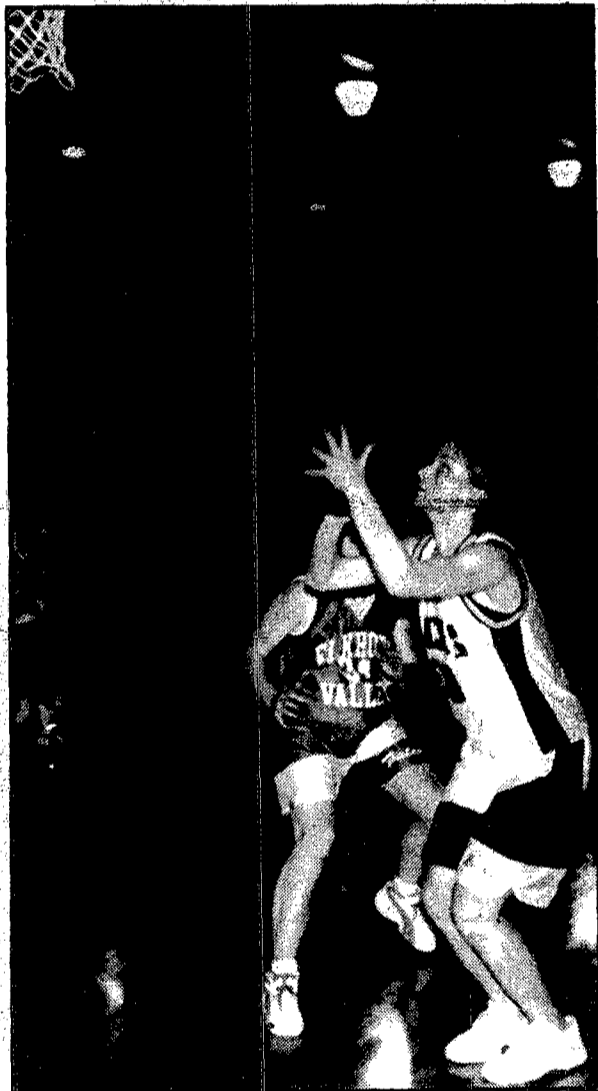

Bart Sachau finished with four points as did Bryan Gotch while Duane Rahn and Justin Warner added two each.

Allen committed 24 turnovers while Ponca had just eight. The Eagles were out-rebounded, 36-24 with Uldrich leading Allen with seven caroms.

The Eagles girls and boys teams will play at Bancroft-Rosalie on Friday.

Shelby Tyrrell gets fouled by an Elkhorn Valley defender during the Bears 42-point win last Friday night.

Jenny Demuth connects on the point blank shot against Elkhorn Valley.

Winside grapplers edge Wisner, again

This story had a fairy tale ending for Mike Tomasek. Wisner held a 36-31 lead before the heavyweight clash with Tomasek. Not only was the Winside wrestler looking to post a pin and give his team the dual victory but he was seeking his first ever varsity win—and he got it.

Tomasek trailed 2-0 after the first period but hit a side roll in the second period for the pin. There were eight matches on the night with Winside winning five. Eric Vanosdall, Nathan Suehl and Tomasek all posted pins with Josh Sok earning a major decision and Tom Schwedhelm, an 8-1 decision.

Timarie Bebee poured in 27 points to lead the winners with Jessica Dutcher netting 13 and Megan Brown, six. Diana Potter, Traci Lueth and Kayla Erwin scored two each and Nicole Jensen added one.

Bebee led the team with seven rebounds with Dutcher hauling down six.

In the first round Wakefield downed Pender, 38-32 as Megan Brown paced the winners with 16 points while Timarie Bebee tallied nine and Kim Hattig, six. Nicole Jensen, Kayla Erwin and Traci Lueth added two each and Annie Bierbower, one.

Bebee had a game-high nine rebounds with Hattig hauling down eight.

"I thought we played aggressive defense throughout the tournament which allowed us to control the boards and the tempo," coach Iris Borg said. "We maintained good ball control and did a nice job of finding the open player."

There were no results turned in to the Wayne Herald on Wakefield's boys at the tournament.

However, Mike Clay's team did host Ponca last week and dropped a 47-45 decision as Ponca's Brice Bottorf hit two free throws with one second left on the clock to seal the win for the Indians.

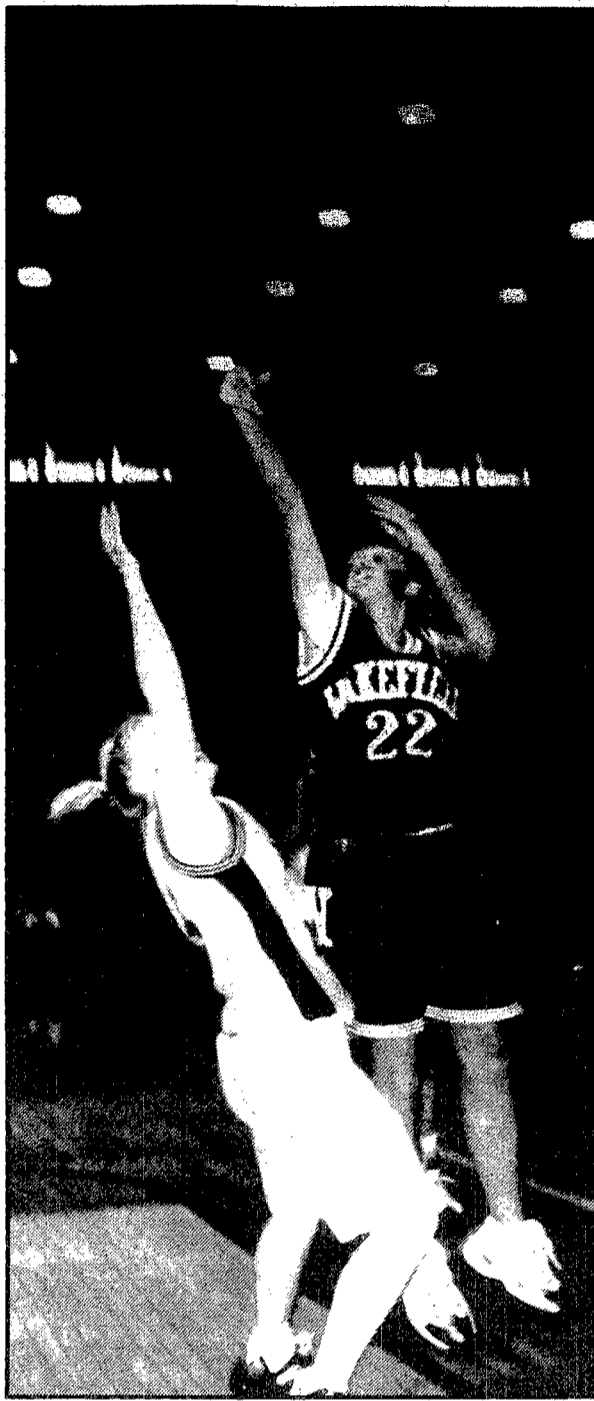

Wakefield trailed by a 23-10 margin at the half but a furious second half rally knotted the game at 45.

Luke Hoffman led Wakefield with 10 points with Joel McAfee adding eight and Ross Hansen, seven. Ty Nixon and Todd McQuistan scored six each and Ryan Carson along with Joe Brown added four each.

The Wakefield boys will host Winside on Thursday while the girls team plays at Winside on Friday.

Both Trojans teams play host to Clarkson on Tuesday.

Wakefield's Jessica Dutcher shoots over a Wayne opponent during a recent game. Dutcher and her Trojan teammates captured the championship of the Homer Tournament.

Hard water walleye fishing time

Well, it's that time of year again, holidays are over, football is winding down and cabin fever will soon be setting in.

There may not be a lot of things to do in the outdoors this time of year, but for the hard water walleye fishermen, it can be a very productive time.

Walleyes will bite year round, doesn't matter if the water temperature is 60 degrees or 40 degrees, the fish still have to eat.

Like all other cold blooded creatures, walleyes won't be as active in cold water as they would when it's warm outside.

As the water temperature starts to cool, the metabolism of the fish will slow. Since the walleye doesn't move around much, it's using less energy and requires less food to survive.

To the hard water angler, this means that you'll have to go to a more finesse presentation.

You'll need to down size your line, lure and bait when fishing for hard water walleyes.

On a recent ice fishing trip to Devils Lake in North Dakota, I saw how a finesse presentation and a little bit of common sense can make a difference between catching fish or just jerking your bait.

One of the ice fishermen we were fishing with was using an Aqua View underwater camera to see what was in the 20 foot of water below his fish trap.

The walleyes and perch would move into the area and then move out into deeper water.

We'd use Castmaster spoons or small jigs with small minnows to try and entice the walleyes to bite.

I'd jig my small Castmaster spoon and minnow in front of the walleye, hoping to get a bite. They'd glide up to the bait and bump it with their nose, but wouldn't bite.

In order to get the walleye, which were 18 to 25 inch fish to take the bait, I had to go to a lighter line, and instead of using an entire minnow, I tipped my spoon or jig with just the head of the minnow.

The spoon went down, I jigged it several times and "Wham," the walleye took the bait.

When I used the entire minnow, the bait was just too much for the walleye, by down sizing the bait, I got it to take my offering.

The lighter line was also very important. With the heavier line "8 lb.," the spoon fell in wide circles because of the diameter and the memory in the line. Once I switched to my Berkley Genz ice fishing rod with four pound line, the bait fluttered to the bottom and looked more like a dying bait fish.

I also noted that when the perch and walleye were looking over our baits, that the minnow head and fresh Eurolarva or wax worms out produced a full minnow or wax worms that had been on the hook awhile.

In a conversation with Dave Genz that evening, I asked him if he thought that the partial minnow or the fresh wax worms were one of the keys to catching more fish.

Genz agreed, indicating that the scent trails given off by the minnow head and the freshly attached Eurolarva or wax worms were a big attractant to the fish.

According to Genz, "the liquid coming from the bait disperses in the water and creates a scent trail, allowing the fish to zero in on your bait. The longer the bait's on, the less scent trail it gives off. I like to change bait every three to five minutes, even if I'm not getting a bite to keep a good scent trail in the water."

We finished out the trip taking nice bunches of 1 pound perch and a good mess of 2 1/2 to 4 pound walleyes.

Without using a finesse presentation and changing our baits regularly, we'd just been a bunch of ice fishermen out in -41 below wind chill fishing and not catching.

When it's cold, think small lures, line and bait and a slow presentation to take hard water walleyes.

Legislature in action

Day in is eye-opening

Nebraskans became Sooners fans after the Big 12 playoff, and now we can rightfully boast about the strength of this conference. But it wouldn't hurt my feelings a bit if Bob Stoops went to Ohio State.

I heard an attorney say this week that we've entered into a dangerous time of year: the legislature is now in session! Since I hope to do some lobbying this year, I went to Lincoln for the opening session on Wednesday. I've visited there several times, but never on the "swearing in" day.

I was surprised at the way that committee chairs are selected. There is a white marker board in the front of the chamber, and when there is more than one nominee, the names are written there. Then, the ex. governor appoints three senators as tellers, who pick up the hand-written names on the paper slips and bring them forward. They are counted, with a mark after each name, just the way we would do it at ladies aid.

They are automatic for yay and nay notes on bills, but these are definitely done the old-fashioned way. Some of the chairmanships were uncontested. Mike's fraternity brother, Cap Dierks, for Agriculture, for instance, and our senator, Roger Wehrbein, for Appropriations.

Contrary to the way we do it in our local organizations, the senators nominate themselves. You get rid of

Be prepared for hypothermia

The Nebraska Medical Association reminds you that hypothermia can be a deadly winter hazard if not identified and treated immediately. Hypothermia is caused by exposure to the cold that drops the body's temperature below 96 degrees Fahrenheit/ 35.5 degrees Celsius.

Hypothermia is especially dangerous to older adults, and those people with an illness, taking medications or consuming alcoholic beverages which can interfere with the body's natural ability to regulate its temperature.

There are certain things to look for if you know a person has been exposed to a cooler environment (usually below 65 degrees Fahrenheit/ 18.3 degrees Celsius). A person suffering from hypothermia may be shivering excessively or not at all, have slow or slurred speech, slow reactions or body movements, and appear confused or sleepy. Shallow breathing, a weak pulse, and low blood pressure are also indicators of hypothermia.

If you suspect hypothermia, seek medical attention immediately. If you cannot get immediate medical attention, move the person to a warmer location and wrap him or her with a blanket or use your own body heat to keep the person warm.

false humility when you run for public office. I was rooting for my old detasseling friend, Elaine Stuhr, for Education. Her husband is a shirt-tail cousin of mine, and also a "brother" of Mike's. But, after two ballots, Ron Raikes, of nearby Ashland, got the votes. (His brother, Jeff, is a vice president of Microsoft.)

Kermit Brashear, married to another cousin, was opposed for Judiciary. But Senator Chambers read a clever poem about why they should vote for the "Silver Fox." I guess these two manage to remain friends, in spite of very different views.

I came home last night to read that Congressman Bereuter did not get the chairmanship of the International Relations Committee, and I'm disappointed for him. Seniority is too big an item in Congress, and too much "good old boy" stuff is practiced. It's going to be an interesting year, locally and nationally. I'm glad I'm just a watcher, not a player.
