Record hug to be attempted

Wayne State College campus radio station, KWSC-FM K-92 (91.9 FM) staff members are organizing a world-record hug attempt of more than 900 people in Rice Auditorium on the WSC campus, on Tuesday, April 17 with doors opening at 7 p.m.

Funds generated from this event will benefit the Community Activity Center building project in Wayne.

The actual hug will occur at 8 p.m. The project is under the direction of Dr. Dave Ogden, advisor and associate professor of humanities at WSC.

Radio station students are also issuing a challenge to other organizations to involve as many of their members as possible. The radio station students also plan the event to promote unity between the college and local communities.

Although the entire campus radio station is involved, two of the students leading the effort are Michael Pulte of Bennington and Julie Krause of Homer.

"We wanted to find a way to help with the funding for the Community Activity Center," Pulte said. "Finding something that is fun, challenging and able to make money is difficult. This is something that every group in society can enjoy and benefit from. We want to promote a sense of community while also finding new ways to promote our radio station. It just so happens that this fundraiser does both."

Pulte, a senior majoring in computer information systems and broadcasting, is involved in radio broadcasting, intramurals and is an honor roll student. He is the son of William and Michaela Pulte of Bennington.

Krause is a senior broadcasting major and an on-line communications minor. Program director of the campus radio station, Krause is an on-air DJ, a member of Lambda Phi Omega sorority and participates in intramurals.

She is the daughter of Lynn and Susan Krause of Homer.

"Our campus radio station, 91.9 FM, is planning to break the record for the World's Largest Hug on April 17. Everyone is welcome, all ages, and all communities. We will be asking for a donation of 50 cents or more per person at the door," Krause said. "All 28 student station managers are behind the projects involved to promote this event. We are thinking ahead and we can't over promote this. Everyone needs to think that this is the greatest idea or it won't work. We've been mapping out jobs. We will be distributing flyers and talking about the project on-air."

"We haven't done anything of this magnitude before," Pulte said.

"Everyone that takes part in this is going to have the memory of being involved. They say you need seven or eight hugs a day to survive? How about a thousand?"

Official rules state that individuals involved with the hug must:

1. Sign their own names with two independent people witnessing the signature;

2. Stand in a circle formation, within arm's reach of the person either side of them; the circle should only be one person deep — participants in any inner rings will not be recognized.

3. Put their right arm around the waist of the person on their right, and their left arm round the waist of the person on their left. At a given signal, each participant should squeeze the person on either side of them, holding the hug for a minimum of 10 seconds.

Another concern for hug organizers is that the start and end of the hug link. Pulte said although the record calls for 10 seconds, the group at WSC will try to hold the hug for 15 seconds.

Pulte said the idea for the record attempt came while searching the Guinness World Record Book Website. Although the latest publication from Guinness stated the record as 462 people, their current record is 899 people set in New York.

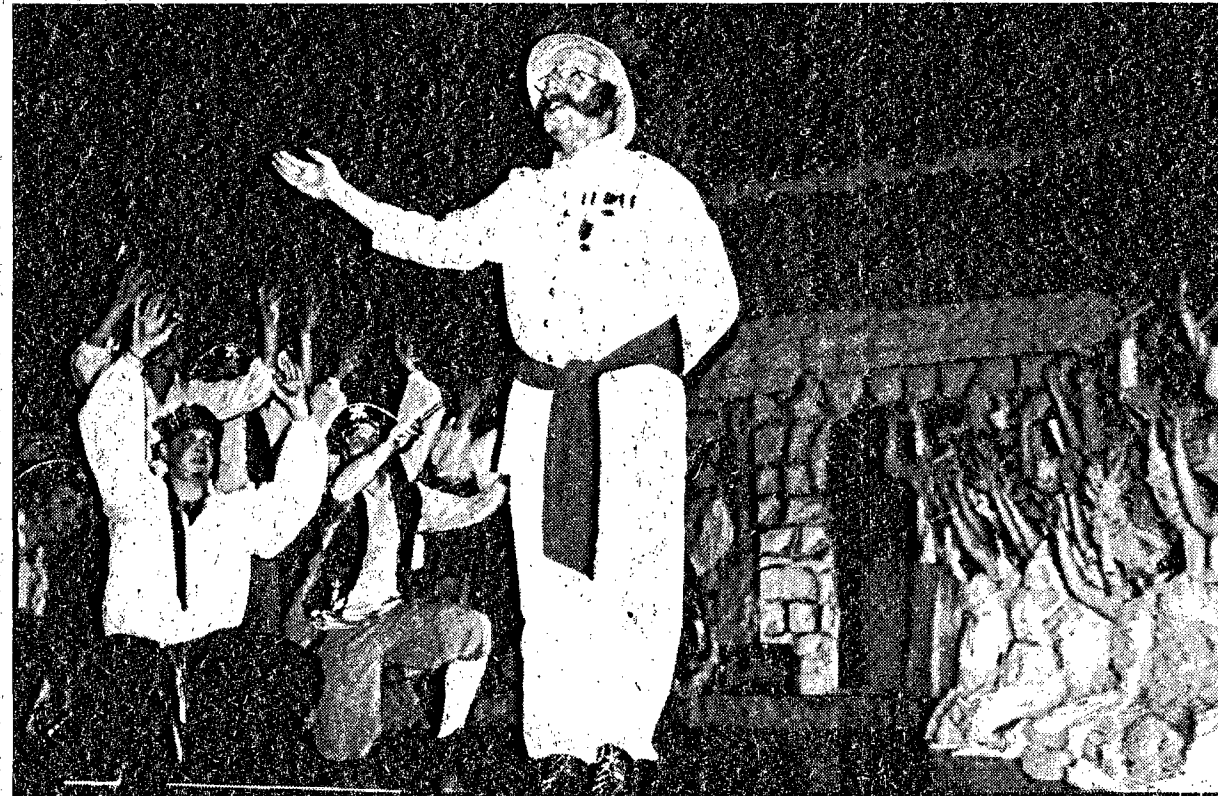

The first edition of Guinness World Records (superscript: TM) was published in 1955. Since then it has become a household name and the book has sold more than 80 million copies in 77 different countries and 38 different languages.

Every year, thousands of people from around the world contact Guinness World Records Ltd in the hope of becoming an official Guinness World Record holder.

Beware of the pirates

The daughters of Major General, led by Mabel (Megan Weber), above, are afraid of the pirates, during this year's Wayne High Musical, "The Pirates of Penzance." The play will be staged at Wayne High School on Friday and Saturday, April 6 and 7 at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Below, the Major General (Kenneth Kopperud) confronts the pirates; led by the Pirate King (Eric Shapiro) with the fact that he is an orphan. Tickets can be purchased from cast members or by contacting the school at 375-3150.

Winside sailor finds dogs rewarding

Editor's note: the following story was written by David McKee, Navy journalist, and was provided to us by the Navy Public Affairs Center.

Those who have tried to teach their dog a new trick, like rolling over or fetching a ball, know that training a dog to perform even a simple skill requires patience and consistency. Sailors like Brian Morse of Winside, and other military police officers with the Navy Region Southwest Force Protection Canine Unit, based at the San Diego Naval Station, know firsthand how difficult training a dog can be.

Petty Officer 1st Class Morse, son of Ralph and Marilyn Morse of Winside, is a master-at-arms who works with the naval station's canine unit. It is his job to train dogs to find drugs and bombs as well as people.

As a police officer, Morse not only works with dogs, he is also a trained law-enforcement professional capable of handling any security situation from handing out traffic citations and making arrests to dispelling terrorist threats. But for Morse, working with the dogs is the most rewarding.

"I have a new-found respect for what law enforcement personnel do, and the dangers associated with some of their duties," said Morse, a 1985 graduate of Winside High School.

Working with dogs is as challenging as it is rewarding. Officers who work with dogs train five to six days a week. They even come on their own time to perfect their dog's ability to find drugs and bomb-making compounds. In addition to these critical skills, Sailors have to condition their dogs to calmly work around the noise of discharging firearms.

"All aspects of the job are important, but I believe when we are out looking for explosives, that is the most important," said Morse, a 15-year Navy veteran.

All the training the dogs and their trainers engage in helps build a bond between them, which is critical to the execution of the mission and the very survival of their team. For example, when the team enters a building to locate a possible intruder, the dog and the Sailor must communicate constantly. However, any sound could alert the intruder, jeopardizing

Dunklau takes part in agriculture study tour

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Earlier this year, Shari Dunklau of Wayne was among 30 Nebraskans who traveled to Europe to observe agriculture in several countries.

Shari is a member of the Nebraska Lead XIX program, which took a National Study Travel Seminar to the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Austria and Hungary during their 15 day trip.

The LEAD program is designed to develop future leaders, not only for agriculture for the state of Nebraska in general. It has been in existence for 20 years and involves a two year commitment. Members meet throughout the fall and winter months at various locations and during their first year in the program, take a national tour. During the second year, an international tour is conducted in an effort to increase the understanding, friendships and goals for mutual prosperity.

The group's first stop was in Prague, Czech Republic.

"Prague is a gorgeous city," Shari Dunklau said.

While there, the group visited a cooperative farm, which consisted of land that had been joined together by those who received the land after communism ended. Each of the owners is responsible for putting in a certain number of hours on the farm.

"There are lots of problems with the transition from communism to private ownership. The owners have no money and no experience in running the farms. Also, a 6,000 acre farm has 250 shareholders making decisions," Dunklau said.

The group also visited Terazin, a former detention camp where Jews were sent before being sent to other concentration camps.

"This was a very powerful experience. One out of four people who arrived here died due to poor conditions. Approximately 117,000 went through the camp," Shari said.

Also on the tour was a church service in an unheated Catholic Church.

"Those in our group who are Catholic were able to follow along. It was neat to know we were all worshipping the same God," Shari added.

Housing in the former communist countries is very similar. Residents of these Soviet-built apartment build-

WSC presents annual children's play 'The Honorable Urashima'

The 43rd Annual Children's Play at Wayne State College will be The Honorable Urashima Taro, presented for the public on Sunday, April 8 at 2 p.m. in Rice Auditorium. The play will be presented in the memory of Patrick Reichenbach (1981-2001), a WSC student and theatre participant who died this year in an automobile accident. Admission prices are $3 for adults and $1.75 for children.

The play is set long ago on the shore of Shikoku, an island in Japan, near a little fishing village and the mountains and villages of the ocean depths.

A cast of 13 performers will be directed by Andre Sedriks, humanities professor at WSC. Janet Roney, professor of humanities at WSC, designed the costumes, set and lighting. The play was written by Coleman A. Jennings.

Cast members include: Kerri Couron of South Sioux City, Iowa; Jennifer Gelderman of Hartley, Iowa; Joel Hurtado of South Sioux City; Jenny Gaesser of Corning, Iowa; Ryan Tweedy of Lincoln; Julie Hansen of Omaha; Becky Ziemba of Silver Creek; Cassie Wieberdink of Prinsburg, Minn.; Wayne Blum of

Students get close up view of D.C.

Washington, D.C. became a classroom, and some of its leading experts served as educators, students and Wayne High School teacher participated in Foundation government studies program during the week of March 11-17.

Students attending the week-long event include Frank Holm, Karla Keller, Andrea Simpson, Jamie Sharer, Sam Kinnett, Lynn Jurck, Marcus Burns, Nicole Trevett, Monica Boehle, Tanner Neimann, Judd Giese, Nick Lipp, Kelli Penn, Luke Christensen, Lucas Munter, Jared Heithold, Corbin Sharer and Elizabeth Sump.

"During their week in Washington," the students attended seminars on Capitol Hill, heard presentations from government officials, political experts, lobbyists and a representative of the Washington Press corps to learn more about the federal process," Rasmussen said. "Students also visited with Senator Chuck Hagel, Senator Ben Nelson and Representative Doug Bereuter."

The Wayne group participated with students from other areas of the country for daily debates, discussions and activities focusing on current issues and the governing process. There were also opportunities to tour the city, visit universities and attend cultural events.

"Close Up's goal is to inspire its participants to become active, engaged citizens," said Steve Janner, President, Close Up Foundation. "Students return home with an increased knowledge in national, state and local matters."

Annette Rasmussen accompanied the students, not as a chaperone, but as a participant in the program designed to teach current issues and innovative educational methods. Close Up provides fellowships for educators and low-income students through Congressional appropriations and additional support from the private sector.

Close-Up's work in Wayne has been provided in part by Bank of Norfolk, First National of Omaha, Swiss Valley Rep., Wayne Eagles

Dennis Jensen.

The Close Up Foundation is the nation's largest non-partisan, non-profit civic educational organization providing firsthand opportunities to learn about the democratic process of the individual.

WEEKLY TIP: Lyme Disease Vaccine

If you spend time out of doors in wooded areas in the Northeast, Upper Midwest, or Pacific coastal states where Lyme disease is common you may want to talk to your doctor about the vaccine LYMERix. It is given in three doses over a one year period. The first shot should be given in spring. The second in one month and the third in a year. It is still important to take precautions since the vaccine's protection is not 100%. Keep in mind that no long-term safety data is available on Lyme Disease.

ings resist the color gray, because under communism, "not only was the housing gray, but we were also," said one of the local residents.

The group traveled to Vienna, Austria, the only country that had not been behind the iron curtain. There they visited a bi-lingual school.

"In Austria, things are much more modern than in the other countries we visited. For example, in an Austrian hospital robots were used to move supplies, while in a hospital in Hungary, the head surgeon made approximately $500 per month in the country's only trauma hospital. This hospital was very primitive," Shari said.

During the trip, the group visited an ag university, embassies and the American Chamber of Commerce.

"Farms in these countries are still fairly labor intensive. Farmers there don't use conservation practices and nearly all the fields we saw had been plowed," Shari said.

People in these countries eat pork seven times more than beef. The group visited a family-owned confinement beef operation where bulls are fattened for beef. This is done to keep the natural hormones of cattle to promote growth because producers do not want to use implants.

The bulls are marketed in groups of seven or eight head.

Hungary had served as the 'breadbasket' for the Soviet Union and has excellent soil for growing corn. However, government officials there are very concerned about over-production and look closely at what they must do to raise to fill the needs of the country.

Throughout the countries, there were lots of vineyards to support the thriving wine industry.

LEAD XIX members also visited Hungary which is now in the process of setting up a democratic government.

"The officials there studied different forms of government and eventually settled on a unicameral form of government similar to that used in Nebraska.

In all of the former communist countries visited, Dunklau noted that buildings are badly neglected and very polluted.

"There are piles of rubble all over and lots of buildings still have damage that was done during World War II," Dunklau said.

Commenting on the trip and the entire LEAD program, Shari said, "it is a fantastic program. The 29 other people I've met have created a bond with each other. I've learned about people and relationships and have increased my communications skills. I strongly recommend this program."

Members of the Nebraska LEAD XIX group pose during their recent International Study/ Travel Seminar trip to four countries in Europe.

Dr. Meenakshi Dalal, co-director of Wayne State College's Center for Economic Education and Professor of Economics (standing at right) hosted a reception for two visiting educators from Ukraine and Russia on April 2 at the Wayne State College student center. The educators were also involved in a panel discussion with the education division faculty of WSC on Contemporary Issues of Educational System in the U.S., Russia and Ukraine on the Wayne State campus on April 3. The international visitors are Lyudmyla Schallimova (seated second from right), a senior teacher at the Ukrainian Banking Academy and a high school economics teacher in Kharkov, Ukraine, and Natalia Shvydkaya (seated third from right), an economics teacher at Omsk Secondary School in Omsk, Russia. Others talking with the Schallimova and Shvydkaya are from left: Sergel Iarochevski, Peter Spiridonov, Mila Goibik (standing) and Edith Zahniser (seated at far right).

WSC Center for Economic Education is hosting International visitors

Dr. Meenakshi Dalal, Co-Director of Wayne State College's Center for Economic Education and Professor of Economics, is hosting a weeklong visit by two educators from Ukraine and Russia.

The international visitors - Ms. Lyudmyla Shalimova, a Senior Teacher at the Ukrainian Banking Academy and a High School Economics Teacher in Kharkov, Ukraine, and Natalia Chydykaia, an Economics Teacher at Omsk Secondary School in Omsk, Russia - will take part in a two-day initial orientation in Washington, DC, followed by eight days at the host center, and conclude with two days in Washington, DC for meetings. While in Nebraska, the visitors will stay in the home of Dr. Dalal and her family.

Dr. Dalal has arranged a week-long program (March 31 - April 7, 2001) focusing on local economic education activities and cultural features of the area.

Highlights of the tour will include observing area schools, meeting Wayne State College Faculty to discuss contemporary issues of educational system in the U.S., Russia and Ukraine; attend economic education workshop planned for the area school teachers in South Sioux City; visit Nebraska Council on Economic Education at University of Nebraska, Lincoln and attend several cultural activities at Wayne State College such as, the Children's play "Honorable Urashima Taro" and a Choral Concert.

As a result of their participation in the study tour, the visitors will develop professional relationships, gain a broader background on economic education activities in the U.S., become familiar with educational reforms underway in the U.S., gain exposure to private sector participation in economic education activities, get a better understanding of economic, political, and social conditions in contemporary U.S. in order to help teachers and students in their home countries.

The overall goal of this study tour program is to provide economic educators, who are training teachers, with experiences that strengthen their abilities to deliver economic education in their home countries.

"We at the Center are looking forward to interact with these economic educators from Russia and Ukraine, both transition economies. I, personally, hope to learn from them the challenges and opportunities they are currently facing in economic education delivery in their home countries. We are looking forward to showcase our campus and community and hope to develop long term professional relationships," Meena Dalal, Co-Director, WSC Center for Economic Education.

Funding for the study tour is provided by the National Council on Economic Education (NCEE) through a grant from the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Educational Research and Improvement.

Founded in 1949, NCEE promotes the effective teaching of economic principles in U.S. schools through its nationwide network of more than 300 state councils and university centers. Wayne State College's Center for Economic Education is affiliated with NCEE www.ncee.net whose headquarters is in New York City. Replicating its national efforts on a worldwide basis, NCEE is also reaching large numbers of economics and civics educators in post-Soviet countries and Eastern Europe.

By training teacher trainers and classroom teachers in economics and pedagogy, translating and adapting quality U.S. materials, and organizing conferences and study tours, NCEE is helping international partners reform their educational systems.

"We need to have a good rapport between the two of us. The dog needs to know I am going to take care of it, be affectionate and reward the dog when it does well," Morse said.

For Sailors like Morse, the challenges of working with the dogs is what brings the Sailors in every day. Working with the dogs is a labor of love filled with a sense of duty. Because of the canine unit's efforts, Navy facilities are safer places to work.

Award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Tammy Foote of Wayne has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in business.

This award is an honor few students can hope to attain, in fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American college students.

Foote, who attends Wayne State College, was nominated for this national award by Dr. Vaughn Benson, head of business division at the college.

Foote will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for the dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects winners upon the exclusive recommendation by professors, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn an improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a professor or college official.

Foote resides in Wayne with her husband, Brian, and their three sons Jeremy, Brandon and Cory. She is the daughter of Wayne and Karen Ulrich of Wakefield.

Find books very interesting

Dear Editor,
Recently I read two books that were written by Nona Jane (Hall) Johnson about her life as a little girl growing up in the then little town of Wayne.
How she was attached to her grandpa Hall and family, I'm sure we have grown up in similar ways. After high school she served her country for several years and married a man who also served his country.
His home was in Alaska. They then lived in Alaska and raised two children. They came home to Wayne quite often to visit her parents and her beloved Grandpa and Grandma Hall who are deceased.

Her second book is about her life in Alaska. She also has a third book on her life in the service.
They were all so interesting I couldn't put the books down to watch T.V. These are available at the Wayne Greenhouse.
Thank you for making our readers aware of local books of interesting reading.

We are extending utilities along Grainland Road to the fairgrounds property line this spring to service new residential construction in the area. The council has asked for cost projections to extend the paving for this section also.

Recreation Trail System in Wayne

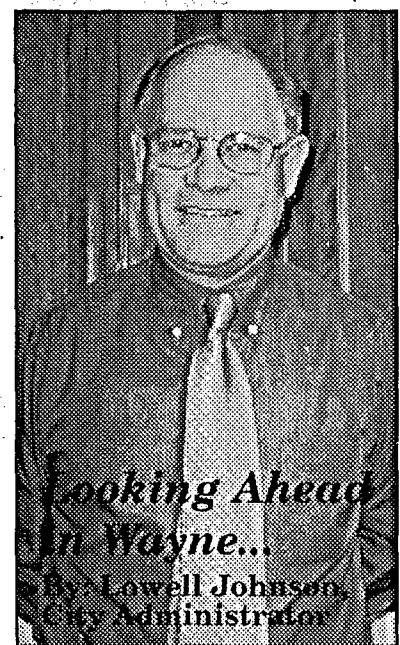

The trail committee appointed by the city council has met with some property owners outside the city limits to see if there is any interest in leasing or selling any non-cropland property for trail segments that could be included in a future trail system.

The committee has also hired a consulting firm to help develop a concept plan for a possible trail system around the community and plans future public meetings to help develop a multi-year master plan for building trails.

Trails are typically eight feet wide for walking, biking and non-motorized use.

Raising taxes is the American way

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

"My opponent voted to raise your taxes! He (she) campaigned as a fiscal conservative but when he (she) got to Lincoln, it was politics as usual - and now you are paying for it!"

It's one of the things that some lawmakers fear most, and legitimately so. To be labeled "a taxer and a spender" can mean defeat at the polls. It is virtually certain to mean ammunition for your opponent in the next election.

Imagine: You are a lawmaker, and you are being urged to boost the state sales tax rate. The purpose: To provide state tax dollars for local governments, who in turn are to use it to pay teachers better salaries.

Consider: The sales tax itself has ever been known as "the silent tax." You know - you aren't so much aware of the sales tax. You know why? Well, you pay it, little by little, all year. However, what you don't do is get a statement from the government at the end of the year, as you do with property and income taxes, reminding you of how much you paid. That's why (it says here) people gripe more about property and income taxes than they do about sales taxes.

But while the sales tax is silent, one's political opponents are not. They are often a bunch of bellowing Yahoos, throwing verbal brickbats and wielding the old rhetorical 2x4 like Lizzie Borden with an axe.

Add to that an incumbent, Republican governor who says that no tax increase is necessary, that he will veto any proposed tax increase that comes before him - meaning that a lawmaker would have to vote twice for a tax increase. Once to get it to the governor, and once to override his veto.

And, even if a lawmaker votes for a tax increase that is not enacted, they still face being labeled as someone who voted to raise taxes and wanted to raise taxes.

So, before a state senator goes around voting to take a little more money from John and Jane Doe, you can bet whatever you want that it's a carefully considered vote.

Of course, this perennial danger of being labeled a taxer and a spender ignores a singular reality which is central to our representative form of government. That is:

Lawmakers are sent to Lincoln to tax and spend.

Well, they are!

Aside from those who would call for the virtual abolition of state government, most of us realize that government has to do some stuff and chooses to do some other stuff, and that we have to pay for all that stuff - the stuff we approve, and the stuff we don't like. That's just government.

What Nebraska lawmakers face right now is one of the stinging, but mostly appropriate, realities of our political system.

Good tax policy can mean one thing.

Good tax politics can mean something else.

You can remind a lawmaker of what's his name's admonition to his son: If you are true to yourself, you won't be untrue to anyone.

He/she probably won't need to be reminded that the bleachers are full of former officeholders who were true to themselves, lied about during a political campaign, and banished from public trust.

Politics, like the rest of life, is neither fair nor unfair. It is simply inexorable.

Senator Cunningham gives legislative update

If being in full swing means a time of making difficult decisions, I would agree that the Legislature is in full swing.

This week has been filled with controversial issues. It is particularly difficult when constituents contact me on both sides of the issue and it is abundantly clear that I cannot please both sides with one vote. I do want to stress that my decision on which way to vote is not made lightly. My decision is made after reading piles of mail, listening to the debate on the floor and discussing the issue with constituents, my colleagues and representatives of the various organizations that are affected by the legislation.

The Revenue Committee recently voted to advance a .5 cent sales tax increase to fund the teacher salary proposal that I explained in this column a couple weeks ago. Generally, I am against any tax increase. However, I am very concerned about the teacher shortage that our state is facing and I believe it warrants the Legislature's serious attention. I have not made a decision on how I will vote on the tax increase but it will be one of the toughest decisions I make this year.

Legislative Bill 664 would amend the Intergovernmental Risk Management Act to allow pooling for the purchase of employee insurance benefit plans by state and local governments. An amendment, offered by Omaha Senator Patrick Bourne that would have exempted educational employees from the provisions of LB 664, failed to receive the necessary votes.

The state teacher's union was lobbying very strongly for the amendment but a senator spoke of a school in her legislative district that chose a different health plan with comparable coverage and less costly premiums than was offered by the Educators' Health Alliance plan. This school district then used the money they saved to pay their teachers higher salaries.

LB 664 is permissive, it does not require school districts to participate in the insurance pools, but it does give them another option if they are not satisfied with their current plan. Additionally, this legislation could be used as a bargaining tool.

Based on the information I received on both sides of the issue, I decided to oppose the Bourne amendment, but support the bill. I think this legislation will prove beneficial to local governments in trying to obtain better rates for health insurance.

LB 523 would adopt and ratify the Southern Dairy Compact. The bill was introduced as part of a nationwide movement to help stabilize prices for struggling dairy farmers. I spoke in support of LB 523 on the floor of the Legislature because I intend to vote for all legislation that can help the rural economy. However, the bill ran into problems, primarily due to concerns that it would hurt consumers because of the potential to raise milk prices.

'Teen of the month' chosen

Six New England states make up the Northeast Dairy Compact, established by Congress in 1996. The purpose of the compact was to set minimum prices that milk processors must pay dairy farmers for fluid milk. Since this compact is due to expire this summer, discussion has focused on whether the compact should be extended and if so, whether it should be expanded to other states. A report is to be issued by the end of June as to the effect of the compact on the U.S. dairy market and what changes have occurred in retail milk prices, milk producer income, milk production and consumption, and the dairy farm structure in the compact states.

Senators generally agreed that it would be better to wait for the report before making a decision on LB 523. At the request of the sponsor of the bill, LB 523 was bracketed until February 1, 2002.

The Unicameral Youth Conference is an exciting new conference being offered to youth between the ages of 13-16, who are interested in politics, state government, debate and making new friends. Long winter helps bring on 'gobbler fever'

It's been a long winter and I think everyone is ready for spring. In the spring, I get tunnel vision, because the only thing I can think of is turkey hunting.

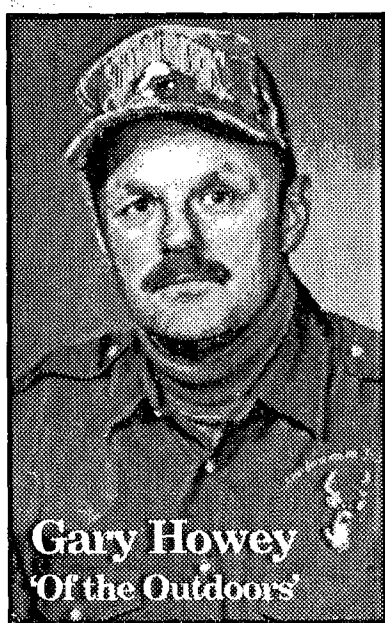

It's become an obsession with me, I can't get enough of it. I get as many tags as the law and time allows and when opening day arrives, I'm out of here.

Last year was a tough year for me, I only filled three of my six tags. It was a tough year, either too warm or too wet later on.

This year I'm hoping it's going to be different, because I've got a bunch of tags to fill and turkey hunting shows to film.

I start out in northeast Nebraska, then to Tripp county in South Dakota, then to Cherry county Nebraska, the Black Hills of South Dakota, central Wyoming, central Missouri and I'll round out the season in southern Missouri.

In case you haven't guessed, spring turkey hunting is one of my favorite past times.

Gary Howey
'Of the Outdoors'

You've got to try hunting turkeys in the spring. If you don't, you're missing one of the outdoors biggest thrills. The sight of a big old tom as he struts and drums his way towards you is a beautiful sight. It's a sight that will bring your heart rate to all time highs and bring you back to reality.

Many people have the misconception that hunting turkeys in the spring is a complicated endeavor. It isn't easy, but with a little practice with the calls and a little luck, anyone can call a turkey.

The first thing you need to remember is that turkeys are well equipped to survive in their environment.

They can see and hear as good as any of God's wild creatures.

You'll need to use a little common sense to bring a tom into archery or shotgun range.

Camouflage is important, it doesn't have to be designer camo or anything fancy, it just needs to blend in with the area you hunt. I camouflage my shotgun, face, head, feet, body, hands and anything else that the tom might see.

I'm not one of those hunters that has to have matching camo cap, boots, pants, and shirt. I match my camo with the terrain.

If the grass is starting to green up and the leaves are still brown, I'll wear camo with a green shade and a shirt with the brown shade.

I'm using Ashford Springs camo this season because I can mix and match the design. The shirt sleeves and the pants legs on their clothing can be interchanged to create a new look which can be very helpful when you hunt different areas. Some areas I hunt green up quicker than others and the trees and grass in the different states isn't always at the same stage.

There are also areas that I hunt that has little if any cover to blend into. Some of the areas have very few trees and mostly low growing vegetative cover. The turkeys roost in the wooded area, but move out into the open area to feed during the day. In this area, I have nothing to put myself against except for scraggly bushes. To solve this problem, I use the Rancho safari 3-D Shaggie Cover System.

The Shaggie lets you blend into any type of terrain. I know you've seen it, because it's the same camo that military snipers wear. It allows me to lie in the open and become virtually invisible. It's a bit bulkier than standard camo, but if you want to disappear in any terrain including open country, then this is the camo you'll want to have.

The first time I used the Shaggie, I was predator calling and had coyotes run right by me. I don't know who was more surprised, the coyote or me.

You'll also need to camouflage the rest of your equipment, because anything that is shiny sticks out like a sore thumb and a turkey will spot it.

On your face, you can use camo face paint or a head net and a camo cap for your head, camo tape will take care of the shiny gun problems and camo netting will round out the package.

You need to keep your movement to a minimum, so make sure you're in a comfortable position before you get started calling. It may take a tom as much as an hour to come in or he will charge right at it.

Since most of the good turkeys I've taken would rather take their time coming in, I use a foam pad, self inflating bun cushion or a web seat. These allow me to stay comfortable and motionless for long periods of time.

By blending in with the terrain and having the patience to set still for long periods, you're half way to bagging your spring turkey.

Next week we'll talk about the other half of the equation and what type of calls, decoys and ammunition that will help you to have a successful spring turkey season.

Ehrhardt attends proclamation signing

Diane Ehrhardt of Wayne, president of the Nebraska Association of Education for Young Children, was among those present for the signing of the proclamation of The Week Of The Young Child in Nebraska, April 1-7, by Gov. Johanns. Ehrhardt witnessed the signing which urged all citizens to recognize and support the needs of young children in the State of Nebraska.

The proclamation noted the Nebraska Association for the Education of Young Children and other organizations, celebrate the Week of the Young Child from April

1-7 with the theme, "Early Childhood: Where Our Future Begins."

By calling attention to the need for high-quality early childhood services for all children and families within the State of Nebraska, these groups hope to improve the quality and availability of such services and the future of the State depends on the quality of the early childhood experiences provided to young children today.

High-quality early childhood services represent a worthy commitment to Nebraska children's future.

Older Antidepressants Often as Effective as Newer, Costlier Ones

According to new guidelines from the American College of Physicians - American Society of Internal Medicine, both newer and traditional antidepressant medicines are equally effective for many persons with depression. Older medicines typically are in the class termed tricyclics (e.g., Tofranil, Elavil). The newer agents include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors, or SSRIs (e.g., Paxil, Zoloft, Prozac).

The major difference cited between tricyclics and SSRIs are side effects. SSRIs are more likely to cause diarrhea, nausea, headache, and sleeping difficulties. Tricyclics are more likely to cause blurred vision, constipation, dizziness, dry mouth, and tremors. Interestingly, according to the new guidelines it is noted that St. John's wort may be effective against mild depression, at least on a short-term basis.

'Cats have four double gold medal winners

Wildcats begin outdoor track

The Wayne State College track and field teams opened the outdoor season at the PolarDog Invitational hosted by Concordia University (Neb.), Dakota Wesleyan, Mount Marty College, York College, Concordia University, and Wayne State competed in the one-day meet.

On the men's side, freshman Eric Havranek was a double gold medalist. Havranek won the 100-meter dash in 11.60 seconds and anchored the 4x100 meter relay team to a victory in a time of 44.48 seconds. Other members of the 4x100 meter relay were Travis Woodman, Antonio Jackson and Andy Schmoltdt. Havranek also placed second in the long jump with a leap of 20'6 1/2" and third in the triple jump with a mark of 42'3".

Sophomore Andy Schmoltdt was also a double gold medalist. He ran the second leg on the 4 x100 meter relay and was also the second leg on the 4 x 400 meter relay team that won in a time of 3:28.47. Other members on relay included: Ryan Leriger Lee Roden.

Sophomore Shannon Schumacher placed first in the high jump with a leap of 6'5". Jason Kneiff won the 110-meter high hurdles in a time of 16.14 seconds.

Dave Dooley placed second in the triple jump with a mark of 43'8 1/2". The 4 x 800 meter relay team of Matt Rosauer, Dana Rider, James Bruhn and Dustin Lippman placed second in a time of 8:18.46. Jesse Slaymaker, placed second in the 400-meter dash in a time of 53.46 seconds.

Picking up third place finishes were Jason Kneiff in the high jump at 6' 3" and James Bruhn in the 1,500-meter run in a time of 4:19.31.

The women's team had a pair of double gold medal winners in Traci Bernecker and Tracie Fehringer. Bernecker won the 100-meter dash in a time of 13.05 seconds. She came back to take the sprint double in the 200-meter dash in a time of 26.6 seconds.

Fehringer won the shot put with a toss of 40' 4 1/2". She also won the hammer throw with a mark of 127'6". She capped her day with a second place finish in the discus throw with a mark of 117'0".

Head Coach Marlon Brink stated, "This was a good opening meet for us. The weather was a little bit of a factor, but this early in the outdoor season I was more interested in seeing how we competed against competition. As the weather improves, so too will our marks."

"I thought Eric Havranek had a very good day. He was just 1/4" short of winning the long jump for a three gold medal performance day. Traci Bernecker ran well in the sprints. Her prelim time in the 100-meter dash was 12.77, which came before the weather changed. It was kind of tough on them after that."

"Tracie Fehringer had a good day all around. She had a couple good throws in the shot and threw the hammer very well for her first time competing in that event. Shannon Schumacher had some very good jumps in the high jump. We had the bar raised to 6'7" and he was very close all three times to clearing that height."

The Wildcats will travel to Buena Vista on Saturday, April 7 to compete in the Buena Vista Invitational. The meet is a change on the schedule for the Wildcats who were supposed to travel to UNL for a meet. UNL had to cancel the meet, however, due to track surface problems as a result of a broken water line.

Non-profits organizations receive grant money

The Siouxland Community Foundation has awarded the Dixon County Historical Society in Allen $2,000 for a museum restoration project, Wakefield Family Resource Center, $2,163, for the training of staff and equipping of new infant/toddler rooms with activity and learning materials, and Rainbow Riders in Wakefield, $2,500, to purchase horses for the therapeutic riding program which serves physically, mentally, and emotionally challenged children and adults.

A total of $55,559 was given to 28 non-profits organizations from the Fund For Siouxland, a discretionary grant program administered by the Siouxland Foundation. Dixon County Historical Society is among three non-profit organizations receiving grants in the Arts and Culture area, the Family Resource Center and Rainbow Riders, both of Wakefield, are among seven receiving their amounts in the Human Services area of the total given.

Established in 1988, the Siouxland Foundation works to enrich the quality of life in Siouxland by receiving and administering endowed gifts to carry out the charitable objectives of donors for the long-term benefit of those within the greater Sioux City tri-state region.

The Fund For Siouxland, an unrestricted endowment fund, was created to receive contributions from individuals, families, corporations and other foundations to provide a permanent source of charitable support to help meet the ever-changing needs within Siouxland. Income from the Fund For Siouxland is annually awarded in grants to non-profits organizations within a general 50-mile radius of Sioux City. The annual application deadline is Jan. 15.

"Since the Siouxland Community Foundation awarded its first grants in 1991, over 180 nonprofits organizations have received one or more grants from the Fund For Siouxland," said Debbie Hubbard, executive director of the Foundation. Over $1 million has been distributed to date in charitable support from the various restricted and unrestricted funds the Foundation administers.

Inhaled Steroids Are Life-Saving in Asthma

Our bodies produce a type of steroid known as corticosteroid. This is NOT the steroid used by body builders with the intension of boosting muscle mass. Rather, corticosteroids - such as cortisone - help us handle many types of stress.

Cortisone-like steroids have been used for decades to treat lung diseases, including asthma. They have been taken my mouth and, more recently, by inhalation. A Canadian study recently published in The New England Journal of Medicine concludes that asthma sufferers who regularly use steroid inhalers also lower their risk of death due to asthma. Persons with asthma who dies were compared to those who lived. It was found that the survivors averaged using about one-third more inhaled steroids than those who died. Over 17 million persons in the US have asthma, resulting in over five thousand deaths each year.

Local students accepted into Wayne State RHOP program

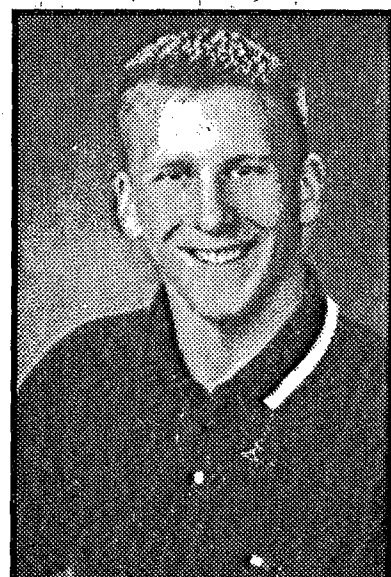

Katie Walton, Kallie Krugman, and Joe Dangberg, all of Wayne, have been accepted into the Rural Health Opportunities Program

Katie Walton

Kallie Krugman

Joe Dangberg

(RHOP) at Wayne State College. They will begin their studies this fall. Walton, the daughter of Allan and Lauren Walton, plans to study dental hygiene at Wayne State prior to transferring to the University of Nebraska Dental College.

Walton's high school activities include National Honor Society and band. She is a member of the cross country, basketball and track teams.

Krugman, the daughter of Dr. Robert and Tamra Krugman, plans to study dentistry at Wayne State prior to transferring to the University of Nebraska Dental College.

Krugman's high school activities include National Honor Society, band and Spanish National Honor Society. She is treasurer of FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) and a member of W-Club, Spanish Club and the volleyball, basketball and softball teams. Krugman volunteers as a Vacation Bible School teacher at Grace Lutheran Church.

Dangberg, the son of Brad and Connie Dangberg of Wayne and Linda Dangberg of Emerson, plans to study medicine at Wayne State prior to transferring to the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Dangberg's high school activities include National Honor Society and Spanish Club. He is a peer tutor and a member of LYF and the football team.

Under the RHOP program, Walton, Krugman, and Dangberg each receive a full tuition scholarship at Wayne State. Walton and Krugman are guaranteed early admission to the UNMC Dental College upon successful completion of the prescribed course work at Wayne State. Dangberg is guaranteed early admission to the UNMC Medical School upon successful completion of the prescribed course work at Wayne State.

RHOP, a cooperative effort between Wayne State and the Medical Center, encourages students from rural areas of Nebraska to return to rural settings after graduation to pursue their medical careers.

Special consideration is given for admission to the RHOP program to students from communities of less than 10,000 population. Areas of study under the program include medicine, pharmacy, dentistry and dental hygiene.

A shortage of rural medical practitioners in Nebraska prompted the educational institutions to implement the RHOP program in 1989. Currently 36 students are studying in the program through Wayne State. Walton, Krugman, and Dangberg are among 12 students entering the WSC program this year.

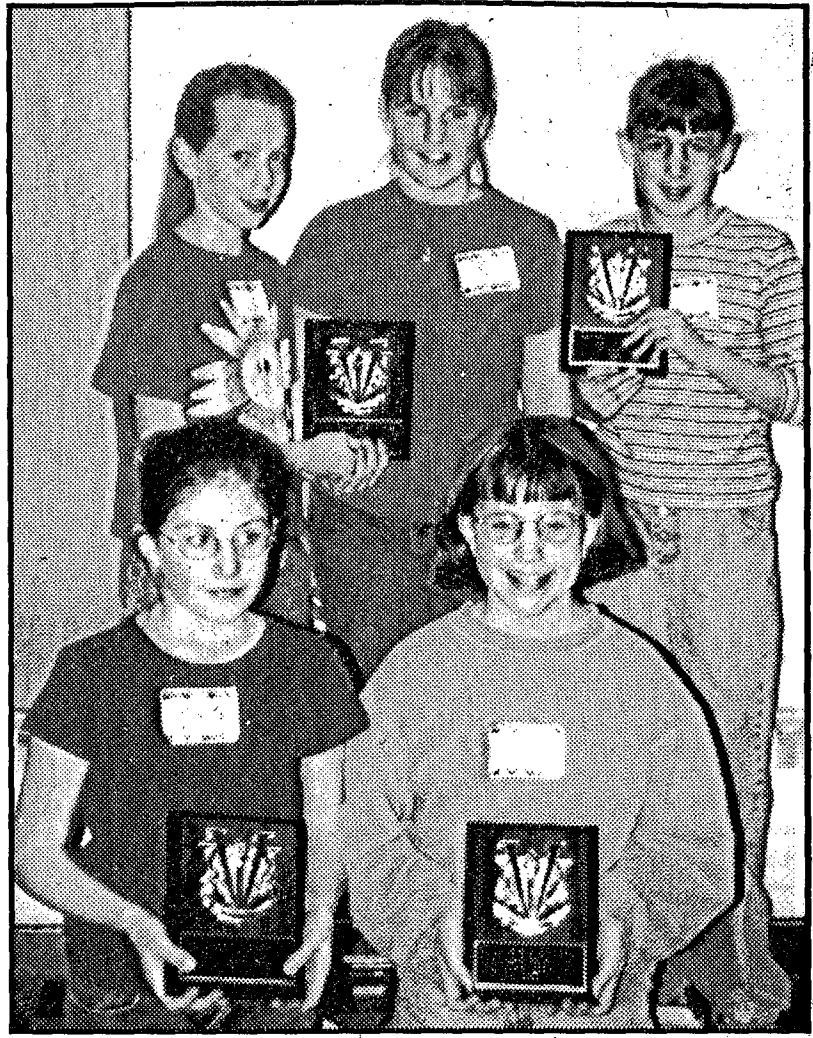

Marla Miller

Miller will be recognized at convocation

Marla Miller of Winside, a 1998 graduate of Winside High School, will be honored April 6 for her scholastic achievements.

Students whose work is of this caliber will be honored at the 2001 All University Honors Convocation at this time.

Marla is a junior at UNL, majoring in Elementary Education. She is the daughter of Myron (Mike) and Pat Miller of Winside.

Cup stacking tournament held at Wayne Elementary

Students at Wayne Elementary School took part in the school's first annual Cup Stacking Championships on March 24.

This tournament was open to third and fourth grade students. Rob Sweetland, who is the Physical Education teacher at the school, ran the tournament.

"We had around 30 individuals and six teams sign up this year," Sweetland said. He hopes the tournament will grow to include the first through fifth grades students next year with different divisions.

The tournament consisted of three events — the 3-6-3 team relay consisting of four members, the individual 3-6-3 and the individual cycle stack.

The team event was won by the Pink Panthers consisting of Kalle Sprouls, Sarah Monahan, Aleta Anderson, Ambre Ruzicka and Adrienne Rott. They were followed in second by The Light Bulbs (Alexa Hochstein, April Damme, Ellen Woodward and Stefanie Zemanek). The third place team was the Pink Panthers II (Laura Christensen, Halsey Lutt, Britany Habrock and Ashley Sukup).

"The individual events were exciting as Kalle Sprouls and Sarah Monahan finished first and second in both events. Sarah was first in the finals of the 3-6-3 with a time of 4.35 seconds (a school record).

Kalle Sprouls was second with a time of 4.57 seconds and in third place was Brittany Habrock with a respectable time of 5.11 seconds," Sweetland said.

The 'ultimate' stack in cup stacking is the cycle stack. It consists of three different stacks (3-6-3, 6-6 and 1-10-1). This event was won by Kalle Sprouls with a finals time of 13.48 seconds. She set the school record in the preliminary round with a time of 12.88 seconds.

Following her in second place was Sarah Monahan with a time of 13.84 seconds and third place was awarded to Stefanie Zemanek with a time of 17.71 seconds.

"I felt that this tournament was a success. After I scheduled it, we ran into a few conflicts (other tournaments) and I thought it would be tough to get kids to take time out on a Saturday to do this, but the parents were very supporting. I want to thank the volunteers for helping with the event. I was happy to have students tell me they are already excited about next year's tournament," Sweetland said.

In addition to those winning in competition, Corey Calhoun's name was drawn from among those participating to receive a free stack of cups.

EXPERT ANSWERS TO TAXING QUESTIONS

How long am I required to keep old tax records?
Receipts, cancelled checks, interest statements and any other record that document income of a deduction shown on your tax return should be kept until the period of limitations for what return expires. This is usually three years from the date the return was due or filed, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. However, there is not period of limitations when no return is filed or fraud is involved. If you are an employer, you must retain employment tax records for at least four years.

Park is awarded Volunteer of the Year Award

Chapter Chair LeRoy Janssen presented Disaster Services Chair Loren Park with the "Volunteer of the Year" Award. Loren has been the only disaster responder for the Wayne Red Cross chapter this past year and has serviced many fires not only in Wayne County, but in surrounding counties as well on behalf of the state.

Loren wrote the current Chapter Disaster Plan for Wayne County which was approved by the state last fall and helped in the process of getting the Wayne Red Cross chapter re-chartered for another five years! Loren teaches many disaster classes and has just completed a series of classes that have trained new volunteers to go out in response to fires and other disasters, as well as training people in operating a shelter and mass care.

And when he is not busy doing one of these duties for the chapter, he also puts in hours helping out in the day to day operation of the office.

"On behalf of the Board of Directors, we truly appreciate the many volunteer hours that Loren devotes to the success of the Wayne County Red Cross chapter," said Janssen. Park was presented a plaque, a Clara Barton Volunteer Leadership pin, and a Disaster Relief/Disaster Services Chair shirt at the March Red Cross Board meeting.

Heart Walk to be held at WSC

The American Heart Association will hold an American Heart Walk in Wayne on Thursday, April 26 at the Wayne State College.

Wayne American Heart Walk committee members say a group of very important local citizens will walk to raise funds for the American Heart Association. The members of the Heart Walk committee are David Lutt, Nancy Heithold, Rod Hunke, Rick Endicott, Kevin Hoffart, Ron Centrup, Dorothy Wert, Dianne Leighty, Curt Frye and Stan Stednitz.

Participants will raise money by asking their colleagues, friends or neighbors for donations. The walkers will have two weeks prior to the walk to collect funds. If the walkers are unable to attend that day, they can turn their money into a committee member prior to the event.

There will also be on display a memorial wall of hearts in honor of those who have passed away due to heart disease and stroke and an honor wall of hearts for those who have survived heart disease and stroke.

Hearts are available for $5. Anyone wishing to buy a heart for one of these walls may do so by contacting a participant or a member of the committee.

The main portion of donations made to the American heart Association are used to fund research projects in the states. Since 1949, the American Heart Association has funded more than $1.6 billion in cardiovascular research leading to such advances as CPR, bypass surgery, the heart-lung machine, artificial heart valves, life-saving drugs and surgeries to repair heart defects. The American Heart Association has also developed useful educational programs targeted toward all ages in order to teach them how to combat heart and blood vessel diseases.

In the last 10 years, the death rates from cardiovascular diseases and stroke have declined over 30 percent. But it continues to be the number one killer — taking one life every 34 seconds.

Anyone who wishes to participate may contact a member of the Heart Walk committee or the American Heart Association office in Omaha at 1-800-642-8400.

Computer tutor helps those in need

Marvel Rahn, aka The Computer Tutor, likes to remind her students to repeat after her, "It's only a machine. It's only a machine. It's only a machine."

Whether an experienced computer user or a "newbie," Marvel can help clients get up and running with their IBM compatible or Macintosh computer. With 23 years of computer experience (eight of those years with personal computers), Marvel can help with a wide variety of computing needs.

The Wayne native's computer-help service is part of her home-based Marvelous Marketing business. What began with part-time web site marketing and promotion has evolved into a full-time multifaceted computer business.

Marvel can teach customers how to use their computers in the home or office, over the phone, or via the internet. Lessons fit individual schedules, computers, and software. She can help set up a new system, solve problems with an existing system, learn computer basics, install and learn software, learn how to use the internet, and much more.

She can also help customers in choosing a new or used computer that is right for each individual as well as choosing an internet service provider. Expanded services include group computer classes, web site design, and hardware services.

"Do you have a computer but don't have time to create the projects you want? Perhaps you don't have a computer but are in need of help," Marvel said.

Marvel also offers desktop publishing and secretarial services. She enjoys creating newsletters, brochures, flyers, business cards, and more for your business, organization, or for home use. She has 25 years of secretarial and customer service experience.

Service rates are very reasonable and references are available.

"Stop feeling frustrated over your computer and give me a call at 375-4827 or e-mail me at marvel@bloomnet.com."

Marvel has been a member of the Nebraska Home-Based Business Association since its inception in 1993. She is a co-organizer of the Wayne Area Chapter NHBBA and currently serves as a member of the state board of directors for the Northeast Nebraska region.

On Saturday, April 7 Marvel will be the keynote speaker at the Siouxland Home-Based Business Forum to be held at Western Iowa Tech Community College in Sioux City, Iowa.

Short clips

Your best is good enough

Worried about how well your teen is doing in school? You're not alone. Many parents are concerned about their high schooler's grades.

The truth is, it's difficult to force teen to study harder. But you can help inspire them to do their best. Consider these tips to help your high schooler work harder in school.

Encourage

Instead of nagging your teen to study, try making positive statements. Example: "I know you'll do your best." This shows your high schooler that you believe in him. It also lets him know that he's responsible for how well he does — not you.

Explain

Often high schoolers are reluctant to try harder because they're afraid of failing. But giving 100 percent in school is not about getting better grades. Explain to your teen that you'll be satisfied with his effort as long as he does his best, even if he doesn't get straight A's.

Exit

Consider letting natural consequences happen. If your teen gets bad grades, she may have to drop out of sports or attend summer school. These punishments are often worse than anything parents could dish out.

Bloodbank makes stop in Wayne

The Siouxland Blood Bank visited Wayne on March 22. There were 92 individuals who volunteered to donate and a total of 79 full units of blood were collected.

These volunteers could potentially help over 230 people.

Those reaching gallon markers at this drive include:

One gallon: Lisa Lange, Maxine Jensen and Jenny Baldwin.

Two gallons: Carol Rempfer, Amy Radcliffe and Janet Anderson.

Four gallons: Charles Shapiro.

Five gallons: Rhonda Sebade.

Seven gallons: Beverly Ruwe and Keith Jarvi.

Eight gallons: Leon Meyer.

Nine gallons: Lori Bebee.

Twelve gallons: Ronald Milliken.

Thirteen gallons: Gene Casey.

Fifteen gallons: Dennis Lipp.

"The Siouxland Community Blood Bank appreciates your effort and the support of the Wayne Community," said Kris Hartje, Donor Consultant.

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank serves all the blood needs of 16 area hospitals and their patients. The only way blood products are made available for area patients is if individuals in the communities volunteer to donate blood on a regular basis.

Erin Jarvi is national award winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Erin Jarvi has been named a United States National Award winner in English.

Erin, who attends Wayne-Carroll High school, was nominated for this national award by Mrs. Sylvia Ruhl, a teacher at the school.

The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Erin's name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history.

Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Erin is the daughter of Keith and Mary Jarvi of Wayne and the granddaughter of Zelma Juhlin of Laurel.

Managing credit

Are you paying attention ?

You open the mail box and there it is. Yet another credit card application. And you're even pre-approved this time. Credit can be a useful way to manage business as well as family finances. But mis-managing credit can derail long-term plans and lead to financial difficulties.

Families need to know how much credit they can afford to use. Most people should limit their credit payments to between 15 and 20 percent of their take-home pay; this figure does not include mortgage payments. Personal values about credit and economic conditions can influence credit decisions. If concern exists over the source of future income, take care in committing payments that you won't be able to be afforded. If credit is used on a regular basis because cash is available, this habit may become a problem. However, most people can use credit wisely if they know the danger signs and are willing to take action if the need arises. Some common danger signs are: making only minimum payments or just skipping payments altogether, receiving past due notices, relying on credit for extra income or dipping into savings to make ends meet each month, or taking out new loans to pay off old ones.

Sandy Preston

Problems with credit don't always stem from spending too much. Unemployment, a medical emergency or another large expense can bring on credit anxieties.

A credit card must be in your own name to establish credit history. It doesn't do any long-term good if the credit card you use is only in your spouse's name.

Specific lending practices to watch out for:

Payday loans and tax refund loans generally charge fees which seem small, but which actually equate to excessively high annual percentage interest rates, ranging from 100 percent to 400 percent.

High Loan-to-Value Home Equity loans - when consumers put up the equity in their home as collateral on a loan. Their home would then be at risk if they were at some time unable to maintain the loan payments. It is particularly risky when the lender allows the loan to exceed the value of the home. What's more, when the loan amount exceeds the value of the home, the interest is no longer tax-deductible.

Advance Fee Loan Scams often advertised in newspapers or on the Internet. When consumers contact the toll-free number, they are asked to provide personal information, such as Social Security Number, driver's license number, bank account number, employee number and pay stubs, on the promise that they will receive a loan. Once the personal information is submitted, the consumer receives a call that he or she has been approved for a loan amount, usually in the range of $5,000 to $25,000.

However, before the money can be deposited, the consumer is told to send a certified check or money order (for several hundred to several thousand dollars). The promised loan never arrives; the consumer is a victim of a scam. Not only have they lost the money they sent, but they have also disclosed important personal information, putting them at risk of identity theft.

Credit is an important tool in managing financial resources, but credit ties up future resources and needs to be used with care.

First Church of Christ to present drama for Holy Week

The First Church of Christ will be presenting a program of drama and song to remember the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Presentations of this program will be Saturday, April 7 at 5 p.m. and Sunday, April 8 at 10:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend. The program will include congregational singing, dramatic and musical presentation of the events of Holy Week, including the Triumphant Entry, the Trials, the Crucifixion and the Resurrection. "Come, celebrate the Risen Lord," said Troy Reynolds, minister of the congregation. First Church of Christ is located at 1110 East Seventh Street in Wayne, across the highway from McDonalds.

The First United Methodist Church in 1884

The church was of frame construction and was built in 1884 almost wholly by volunteer labor. The pastor was crippled but he helped do carpenter work on the new church. Mr. Miller proved to be a good carpenter, too. The minister's salary that year was of be $200 but he had to be content with $175. He found it necessary to teach one term of school three miles west of Wayne.

A glimpse of the past

Throughout the upcoming months, old photographs of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne will be featured occasionally in honor of their 100 year anniversary slated for Oct. 21, 2001.

Holy Week devotions planned

The Wayne Optimist Club is sponsoring a series of devotions Monday through Thursday mornings during Holy Week, April 9-12.

The services will be held from 7:15 until 7:45 a.m. at Our Savior Lutheran Church. Lay persons from four churches will lead each morning's devotions.

Robin Stauffer from First United Methodist Church is coordinating Monday morning's devotions. Marilyn Yates from First Presbyterian Church will coordinate Tuesday morning's devotions. Larry Grone from Praise Assembly of God Church is coordinating Wednesday morning's devotions and Robert Wriedt from Our Savior Lutheran Church will be in charge of Thursday morning's devotions.

The morning devotions devotions are open to everyone in the community. The Wayne Optimist Club will serve coffee and donuts each morning from 6:45 to 7:15 a.m. A free-will offering will be collected each morning to help cover the cost of donuts but any proceeds will be given to the Wayne Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Members of the Wayne Optimist Club would like to wish everyone in the community a joyous and blessed Easter.

'Living Last Supper'

Performance set for Wayne

A dramatic musical presentation called "The Living Last Supper" will be performed on Palm Sunday, April 8 and Good Friday, April 13. Each presentation begins at 7 p.m.

This production includes a re-enactment of the Last Supper of Christ, as well as a portrayal of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

"The musical portions are terrific and filled with passion," said the Rev. Mark Steinbach of Praise Assembly of God Church. "It was my goal to put together a drama which speaks to hearts and ministers to lives. When someone comes to see "The Living Last Supper" it is usually not what people expect. The "Supper" is filled with tension, frustration and questions as the disciples try to interpret Jesus' words and actions.

Rev. Steinbach also said that the "duet sung by 'Judas' and 'Jesus' portrays the tension between good and evil, trusting and betraying. It is an awesome part of the 'Supper,' which will climax and conclude with the crucifixion. This is one annual event everyone should see at least once, and if possible, every year."

The "Living Last Supper" is being performed by members of Praise Assembly of God, Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church, First Baptist Church and the United Methodist Church. The performances are being held at Praise Assembly, 1000 East 10th Street, north from Highway 35 on Hillside Drive (just west of the Bankcard Center).

The performance is free and open to the public. There will be childcare for children under five years of age. Communion will be served to those in attendance who desire to take it.

For more information, call Praise Assembly at 375-3430.

Faith celebration

Father John Morton, center, was a guest at St. Mary's Catholic Church last week for the Parish Mission. Special services were held each evening with topics including "God Loves and Heals," "God Helps Us Always," "God Forgives Us," "We Are One In Christ," and "Christ's Sacrifice Joins Us Together. Involved in the week's activities were skits by youth of the congregation and assistance by WINGS, the high school youth group.

Briefly Speaking

Country Club bridge group organizing

AREA — The Wayne Country Club ladies bridge weekly luncheon will begin Tuesday, May 1. Noon lunches will be catered as in the past. For more information, contact Dorothy Aurich at (402) 375-5675 or Arlene Ostendorf at (402) 375-1405.

Acme Club tours the museum

AREA — The Acme Club met April 2 at Grace Lutheran Church. Gail McCorkindale gave a review of the physicians from the first until the present in Wayne.

Members then went to the the Laurel Country Club for lunch. After the group returned to Wayne, Leon Meyer took them on a tour of the Wayne County Museum.

The next meeting will be held at Taco's & More. Betty Wittig will be the hostess.

Way Out Here Club meets with Norma Hansen

CARROLL — The Way Out Here Club met March 27 at the Norma Hansen home. Husbands were guests.

Roll call was "You know it's spring when...". Betty Rohlf got the door prize. The group played pitch with prizes going to Henry Arp and Loretta Baier.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, April 24 at 2 p.m. with Joye Magnuson.

AAL branch honored

Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) Branch #3019 of Carroll has been awarded a Gold Star rating in recognition of community service.

The branch is led by Murray Leicy, chair; Ed Fork, treasurer; Mark Tietz, recorder and Mardell Wittler, coordinator.

The branch is supported by AAL representative Mark Christensen of Wayne.

To achieve a Gold Star rating, the branch must conduct regular business meetings, an election and a planning meeting and sponsor at least one benevolent, one educational and one Branch Member Welcome: "Spice Up Your Life" event and three additional activities in any combination. It must also submit an annual financial report and achieve an average of one volunteer hour per benefit member in the branch.

AAL, based in Appleton, Wisc., is a fraternal benefit society of 1.8 million members who join together for insurance, educational and volunteer opportunities. AAL has more than 10,400 branches.

Clarification

In a recent Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary article, it was reported that Sally McNeill had died.

This is not the Sally McNeill that lived and taught elementary school in Wayne for a number of years.

That Sally McNeill currently resides in Rutledge, Ga.

Wayne County Extension Board meeting planned

The Wayne County Extension Board will meet on Tuesday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne County Courthouse meeting room.

The meeting is open to the public. An agenda is available at the Extension Office at 510 Pearl Street in Wayne.

'Going home' after 40 years is difficult

After the funeral in Waco, and after the obligatory lunch, my sis and I decided to drive to Beaver Crossing. (Yes, there really is a Beaver Crossing, Neb.)

Our Mom had grown up on a farm straight west of there, on the

By: Pat Meierhenry

Blue River, and Mom had once expressed a desire to "go back there sometime." I convinced them this would be a good time.

Neither Mary or I knew exactly how to get to Beaver Crossing. We just knew it was south of the interstate, east of the Waco exit. Mom said we should just go south; and she would start recognizing farm places.

She failed to take into consideration it had probably been at least 40 years since she had been in this area. County roads and farmsteads can change a lot in that time.

We went south, and then east, and crossed a fairly large stream of water. I said that must be the Blue: Mom thought it was Lincoln creek.

Finally, we saw some elevators on the horizon, a sure sign of a rural Nebraska town. You folks in Wayne County can't imagine how flat it is there, to see elevators miles away.

Mary was driving, I was in the back seat, and I suspect Mom didn't even know which direction she was going anymore. Besides, it was cloudy, so we couldn't go by the sun.

But, we eventually got to the elevators. The sign on the edge of town said Cordoval So, we drove up and down the streets of Cordova, and Mom and Mary decided they'd like to live there because it was so flat, and they could walk anywhere. Personally, Murdock is flat enough for me; and it's closer to Lincoln.

After 15 minutes more of wrong turns and bickering, we found Beaver Crossing. Mom didn't recognize a single thing. But, she knew exactly how to get to the "home-place" from there, so we headed west and north.

As usual, I experienced the shock that Grandpa's house wasn't nearly as large as it was when I was seven. And, some of the neighbors have built lovely brick ranch styles.

We took a couple of pictures and headed back to the Waco exit because, by that time, we needed a cup of coffee and a piece of pie at the truck stop. Sometimes, you really "can't go home again." But, it was fun trying.

4-H News

PLEASURE & PROFIT 4-H CLUB

The Pleasure & Profit 4-H Club met March 25 in the Allen School lunchroom.

Kelli Rastede, President, called the meeting to order. Roll call was answered with "What is your favorite 4-H project?" There were 21 members, five leaders and eight visitors who answered roll call.

Secretary Andy Chase read the minutes for the last meeting. Treasurer Anthony Wilmes reported $128.12 in the treasury. New members are Rafael Hernandez and Lathan Kraft.

In old business, the April meeting was changed to April 22. Two members from the club are interested in the Exchange Trip to Hoxie, Kan. Jenny and Jarret Warner participated in the Speech contest on March 26. They also each did their speech for the club. Jarret read "The Winter Scarecrow," and Jenny read "Just Bucket calf ear tags are 75¢ each. The horse level testing for Districts is April 26 from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Northeast Station. At 7 p.m. there will be a horse workshop meeting. The tractor driving training is scheduled for May 5. Information on 4-H Camps and Scholarships was passed around.

The club has been asked to pick up cans and trash after the Bush Pullers Pickup Pull at will be held on Saturday, June 30 at the fairgrounds. Discussion was held on this as the club could this activity as a community service project.

Members decided to change the June meeting to July 1 at 2 p.m. at the fairgrounds. Cans and trash will be picked up and a meeting held afterwards.

Anthony and Scott Wilmes gave presentations on the projects they are taking this year. Kami Roberts gave a demonstration on what she is sewing this year for 4-H.

Afterwards, the group watched a film on Animal Care, "Injections, Handling and Where Does My Hamburger Come From?"

The next meeting will be Sunday, April 22 at 2 p.m. with highway trash pick up. Members are to meet at the Chase's corner.

Along with a pizza party, Anthony and Scott Wilmes and Michael Krusemark served lunch. Chad Oswald, news reporter

Caring for Easter lilies after Easter

By Lou Wiltse, member of the Master Gardening class

Just as there are different grades of meat, there are also different grades of bulbs — tulips, daffodils

Today, we'll talk about Easter lilies.

When you receive your lily, check to see if the soil is moist. Keep the soil moist at all times during its blooming period. Most bulb plants do not like to dry out. The warmer you keep the plant, the faster it will bloom out. The cooler it is, the slower it will develop. Old flowers should be removed to maintain its appearance.

After all the buds have bloomed out, stop watering the plant and allow it to completely dry out. In late May, cutoff the old stems. Take it out of the pot and plant it outside in a location of partial shade, where it won't get too hot in the summer.

Since most commercially grown Easter lilies are treated to keep them short, remember this plant will get tall next year when it comes back. It is not necessary to dig up the bulb and bring it indoors in the fall, as these bulbs are usually hardy and will come back in the spring and bloom again. Remember to water and fertilize the plant all summer and fall as needed.

Remember too that the Easter lilies grown in greenhouses are time to bloom at Easter, whenever that may be, but the ones that come back outside, will bloom anywhere from the end of May through June, depending on the weather.

Garden Clippings

Wayne Area Master Gardener Program

and Easter lilies to name just a few. Where you buy your bulbs or plants and what you pay for them may say a lot about the grade of the bulb and the outcome of the final product.

Farm Bureau to award scholarship

The Wayne County Farm Bureau will be awarding one $500 scholarship a graduating high school senior from northeast Nebraska who plans to enroll in a post-secondary agricultural related course of study.

One alternate will also be named in the event the recipient does not use the scholarship.

The candidate must be a child or grandchild of a Wayne County Farm Bureau member. Those who are not current members, may join by filling out the back side of the application. Application forms may be obtained from area high school guidance counselors or from the Wayne County Farm Bureau Agency, and must be returned by April 20, 2001.

Character Counts! event held

On 27th and 28th, University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension staff held a Character Counts! Festival for sixth grade students in the Northeast Extension District. The event was held at the Lifelong Learning Center in Norfolk. Schools chose which day they wanted to attend.

During the day long event of activities students had the opportunity to take part in a variety of learning sessions in which they were able to put their character to practice. The participants were also able to watch the Character Counts! Improv group from Thurston County Perform.

This session taught them about making appropriate decisions. They then took part in the Character Counts! Olympics which highlighted each of the six pillars of character including: Respect, Responsibility, Caring, Fairness, Trustworthiness, and Citizenship.

Fifth and six grade students from Ms. Onderstal's class at St. Mary's in Wayne and Winside Public students of Ms. Wacker's sixth grade class took part in the event.

Pizza used to teach agriculture

Third and Fourth Grade students at Carroll Elementary participated in the Pizza and Agriculture program that is sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Ag Council. Students that participated in this program learned about agriculture and how the ingredients in pizza all originate from agriculture. Students also learned about the nutrition of pizza. Some of the students' comments after completing the sessions taught by Amy Topp of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension were:

"One out of four jobs in Nebraska is related to agriculture."

"Agriculture is farming and growing crops."

"In 1776, there were many more farmers than today."

"Manufacturing and packing places are related to agriculture."

The fourth grade class is taught by Mrs. Sharon Olson.

Pesticide disposal program planned

Farmers and landowners who would like to dispose of unwanted pesticides are encouraged to take these products to one of many pick up sites across the state.

Two northeast Nebraska locations are the Madison County Weed Control Authority in Norfolk on Tuesday, April 24 and the UNL Haskell Ag Laboratory in Concord on Wednesday, April 25. Both sites will accept pesticides from 8 a.m. noon. No appointment or pre-registration is required.

The disposal is for all pesticides (agricultural, home, structural, lawn, garden, etc.) except those products in pressurized containers. There is no fee charged unless more than 1,000 pounds are brought in. The fee is $1 per pound more than 1,000 pounds. During the past four year, nearly 670 tons of waste pesticide have properly been disposed of.

New this year is the opportunity for farmers to dispose of old electrical transformers from irrigation system renovations. These transformers contain PCB's and this program is the best method to remove these materials from the landscape.

Participants are asked not to remove pesticide labels from any containers they bring in. If some containers already have labels removed, bring the pesticide material for identification and disposal. Handle the containers with chemical resistant (rubber) gloves. If a pesticide container has a leak, please place it inside a larger container, such as a five-gallon pail, for transport. Always wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water after handling containers.

Note that oil, antifreeze, paints, varnishes, thinners, cleaners or solvents are not accepted. For more information about the program or a complete listing of collection sites in Nebraska, contact the local county extension office.

Card of Thanks
We would like to thank everyone for the sympathy and kindness shown to us at the time of our sister, Viola Baker's death.
Maria Ritze
Evelyn Holman
Matilda Barelman

Words can not express our heartfelt appreciation for the outpouring of sympathy extended to our family at the time of the death of our husband, father and grandfather, Wallace Anderson. We want to thank those who made calls, shared food, sent cards, flowers, memorials and helped Dwight on the farm. Thanks to the rescue unit and Dr. Lindau. We also want to thank those who helped with the funeral. Especially do we thank Schumacher-Hasemann Funeral Home, Pastor Koeber, Vera Hummel and Greg Witte for the beautiful music, the Our Savior Congregations and the WELCA Service group. May God Bless each and every one of you.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair, Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, If so we saw it there, Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, As any friend can say. Perhaps you were not there at all. Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did, To console our hearts, We thank you so much, Whatever the part.

The family of LeRoy Sievers thanks you so much for the expressions of sympathy from everyone in many different ways; such as food, cards, flowers, memorials, calls, and visits. He was loved by many people and touched many lives with his smiles and kind words. Thanks to Scott and Diane, Pastor Koeber, and Our Savior Lutheran Ladies.

The families of; Betty Jacobsen, Natalee & Ronnie Billheimer, Jacque & Darrel Zweygardt, Jack & Lori Sievers, and Sue & Bill Klawonn.

I would like to thank the many friends for the cards and best wishes while I was in the hospital. Also a thank you to Pastor Nancy.

POEM PUBLISHED

Last summer while reading the Sunday paper, Kristi Lynn Schroeder came upon an ad encouraging people to submit their poetry for a contest.

Since she as a particular interest and talent in poetry, she then wrote and entered a poem according to contest rules. Her work was selected as a semi-finalist.

The poem, entitled, "Profound Emotions" was then published in the anthology entitled "Chasing the Dawn." This book was created by the editors of the International Library of Poetry.

Kristi has also sent in entries to the publishers of "Chicken Soup for the Soul."

Kristi is the daughter of Jerel and Leann Schroeder of Wakefield.

Following is the poem:
Profound Emotions

What you mean to me,
Is too profound for you to see.
What I feel inside,
Is too strong to hide.
When we touch,
I yearn to be with you always, so much.

When we are apart,
There's an absence in my heart.
I think about you day and night.
The emotion is so fierce. It's hard to fight.

When we're together,
It seems my worst problems are better.
I love you so much, it's hard to explain.

And I realize I having nothing less than the world to gain.

I finally work up the courage, to say I love you so deeply and true.

The words were few,
But you said with such love, "I feel the same way about you."

COMMUNITY CLUB MEETING

Val Bard thanked Central Catering of Hayward, Iowa for catering, the American Legion Hall for providing the facility, St. John's Lutheran Youth Group for catering assistance, Barb Stout, Michelle Tullberg, Jancie Roberts and Mark Demke for decorating for the Community Club's Annual Meeting.

The Invocation was given by Karen Lichlyter-Klein. Daryl Harrison of Wakefield Community Schools attempted to make a presentation on Channel 23 direct link with Pender. However, the system did not work but he gave a brief overview.

Lee Miner won the kite which was the door prize.

There were 92 members and guests attending.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were approved, ballots completed and nominations ceased. The Treasurer is Weldon Schwarten and new board members are Anne Brenn, Glen Davis, Judy Loofe and Sharon Salmon.

Mayor Clark spoke regarding the population of 1,411 and the 11th year for Tree City.

Val provided a sign up sheet for Focus Group for the Center for Rural Affairs to be held at the Little Red Hen Theatre on April 7 at 1 p.m. She also had a sign up sheet for NCIP proposal.

Make Demke and Laura Knox reported that $108,000 of playground equipment has been installed with roughly $40,000 left to install. A total of $148,000 has been raised. The additional items to be purchased are an open air shelter, benches, picnic tables, trash cans, swings. An installation deadline is June 1. A basketball game with the KTVI No Stars was scheduled for March 18, with many community members participating.

Thanks were extended to Barb Stout, Mark Demke and Val Bard as they end their terms on the board.

Richard Lichlyter-Klein presented the Wakefield Web page which has been updated. The old page is still out there on the net. The Web site address is www.ci.wakefield.ne.us. Businesses are still needed that are interested to contact either Val or Richard.

Mark Demke presented the Citizen of the Year Award to Laura Knox.

Attention should be given to heart attack symptoms

Because of Vice President Dick Cheney's cardiovascular problems, recent headlines have drawn attention to treatment for heart disease. His prompt reaction to his symptoms may have saved his life, or at least prevented cardiac impairment.

Fewer Americans would die suddenly of a heart attack if they paid attention to their symptoms. As it is, over 450,000 Americans die of heart disease every year. Twelve Nebraskans die of heart disease every day. It is the number one killer of Nebraskans and of all Americans.

Richard A. Raymond, M.D., Chief Medical Officer for the State of Nebraska, urges everyone to take the signs and symptoms of angina and heart attacks seriously. According to the American Heart Association, these are the most common warning signals of a heart attack:

- *Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest lasting more than a few minutes;
- *Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck or arms; and
- *Chest discomfort with lightheadedness, fainting, sweating, nausea, or shortness of breath.

If you experience any of these symptoms, call 911 or seek immediate care.

Less common warning signs of heart attack are:

- *Atypical chest pain, stomach or abdominal pain;
- *Nausea or dizziness;
- *Shortness of breath and difficulty breathing;
- *Unexplained anxiety, weakness or fatigue; and
- *Palpitations, cold sweat or pale-ness.

If you experience any of these, you should seek treatment. Remember, every second counts. Don't let yourself become part of a statistic.
