Upcoming projects discussed at Council

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Community Activity Center, the City Auditorium renovation project and the mapping of the City of Wayne were among the items discussed during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Following a public hearing, the council voted to move forward with an application to the Department of Economic Development for a Community Development Block Grant for part of the Community Activity Center. Only portions of the building, including the Youth Center, are eligible for CDBG funding.

Following a presentation by Jeff Morlok, Project Manager for the Activity Center Project, the council voted to approve the architect's recommendation to proceed with the advertising for bids for dirt work for the project.

Morlok said that the building committee hopes to come back to the council with bid results by the May 8 meeting. Estimated cost of moving the soil and replacing top soil is $176,500.

The council approved the expenditure of $3,750 for thermal conductivity test of soils for the geo thermal heating/cooling system at the Community Activity Center and the new fire hall.

The testing is necessary to determine the types of soil available, which in turn will determine the size and length of pipe necessary for the buildings.

Councilman Verdel Lutt questioned the necessity of spending additional money for the testing,

"just to see if it will work."

A presentation was made by Dan Eisenbraun of Eisenbraun & Associates on the first three phases of the GIS mapping project being undertaken by the city.

He indicated that his firm is now getting to the "exciting part of the project where we are starting to see the results of our efforts."

He showed a video presentation of what types of information will be available to both city employees and others needing information about the city. He also indicated that the City of Wayne was ahead of most other communities this size in having this type of mapping information available.

Following the presentation, council voted to move forward with the fourth phase of the project.

Ken Kwapnioski, head of the Auditorium Renovation Committee, spoke to the council and presented recommendations of the committee in regard to the auditorium.

He said that there approximately

Good Friday services planned

The Community Good Friday Service will be held Friday, April 13, beginning at 12:05 p.m.

There will be two phases of the service — one will be held at the Our Savior Lutheran Church beginning at 12:05 and the other will begin at St. Mary's Catholic Church parking lot at the same time.

Both groups will be conducting the same service; however, those meeting at St. Mary's will walk to the Our Savior Lutheran Church, carrying the cross and stopping at several points along the way.

The service will include readings from the Bible, prayer and singing. The "walk" will end at the Our Savior Lutheran Church, where the service will conclude together.

Townhall meeting to be held

The City of Wayne will host a townhall meeting on Monday, April 16.

The meeting will begin at 5 p.m. at the City Council Chambers. Judi Meyer-Ogden and Reney Robison-Scheer with the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District will facilitate the meeting.

The City decided to hold the meeting to continue the community assessment process that will help Wayne prioritize its future goals.

The results of the recent community-wide survey will be discussed. Citizens will have the opportunity to discuss the needs of the community and will also be voting to determine priority needs.

For those unable to attend the meeting, the results of the community attitude survey will be provided in an upcoming issue of the Wayne Herald.

For more information, contact Judi Meyer-Ogden at (402) 379-1150.

Wayne students are honored for excellence

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

An honor coffee to recognize the achievements of several Wayne High School students was held prior to the regular Wayne Community School Board meeting Monday night. The students being honored were: Jeanne Allemann, class B State Journalism (yearbook), placed second in layout design; Jeff Ensz, Jeanne Allemann, Faith Kroecker, class B State Journalism (yearbook), placed first in theme development.

Jeanne Allemann and Emily Kinney were recognized as State Speech qualifiers; Ann Temme was recognized as Nebraska's Top German student (she won a free trip to Germany). Temme is also the regional winner. She will travel to Germany this summer with 38 other winners from the United States. Elysia Mann was recognized as Nebraska's Runner-Up Top German student.

The regular meeting began with an agenda change: personnel approval of new teacher contracts-high school business, was moved to executive session.

Next, the resignation of Judith Zobel, science teacher, was accepted with regrets by the board. Ms. Zobel has been teaching at Wayne High for 31 years.

New teacher contracts were also approved. Ron Carnes and Mike Fehringer for the 2001 Drivers Education program; Trisha Steffensmeier for K-4 Special Education; and Monica Holdorf for Elementary-4th grade.

Following new teacher contracts, the rehiring of non-certified staff was approved.

Dr. Joe Reinert, Wayne School system superintendent, gave an update on boiler upgrade bids. He noted the contract with Siemens Building Technology, Inc. is about to expire and it would take $3,225 to renew, so, taking the lower bid of R.W. Rice, Inc. of $2,600 is the better choice. By doing so, all school buildings will be with the same company which should be better in the long run.

A PUBLIC SAFETY MESSAGE FROM THE NEBRASKA DEPARTMENT OF ROADS

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

Join me in honoring people who give their time and talent volunteering. Celebrate their efforts and get connected during this week, National Volunteer Week.

Volunteering is giving, but here is also the opportunity to receive. Volunteering provides a sense of personal satisfaction and a feeling that you can make a difference, and you can!

I salute each and every Main Street Wayne volunteer and everyone that gives their time and volunteers in Wayne.

Our fund drive is under way. A contact letter, containing a pledge/donation card was sent out to businesses and individuals. The card also had a place for comments and we encourage you to do so.

The next stage of our fund drive will be a personal contact by someone from Main Street Program. They will be able to answer your questions about Main Street. You're also encouraged to contact me at 375-5062.

We want to and are eager to visit with you about the successes we have had in the program as well as keep you informed about what the future holds for our Program.

In two weeks, in my next column, there will be a test over what you've learned about Main Street Wayne and our four very active communities. No, you don't have time to pick up a copy of "Cliff Notes," those helpful little yellow and black books that you may have used while you were in school when you didn't feel like reading the assignment.

So, to help you, here is a VERY condensed version of my "Cliff Notes" to you, to help with the 'test' in two weeks.

Design Committee — working on and nearing completion of the final plans for the placement of two banner poles for signs across the highway that groups, clubs and organizations may use to promote their events. . . working with the City Auditorium Renovation Committee, addressing the streetscape around the auditorium (sidewalks, street lights, etc.) . . . working closely with the Department of Roads and the improvement of Highway 15 through town and our new streetscape downtown and the extended area . . . an more.

Organization Committee — heads up our fund drive . . . manages and assists all our committees . . . constantly seeking new volunteers for the Program . . . assists with press releases, media packets and presentations to groups, clubs and organizations. . . and more.

Economic restructuring Committee . . . prepared, distributed and tabulated 2,400 Consumer Surveys . . . assists in an advisory capacity in looking for and retaining businesses in Wayne. . . and more.

Promotions Committee — sponsored a downtown promotion in eight of the 12 months in the year . . . works with other groups, clubs and organizations in their community events. . . successful events in conjunction with Wayne State College . . . hosting Henowen this year. The Chamber has asked us to take over the event and we are excited about this opportunity . . . numerous, successful Christmas promotions.

Looking back over the above paragraphs, I really didn't do them justice. If you want the 'rest of the story' or the expanded "Cliff Notes" on Main Street, stop in or call me . . . 375-5062.

Thanks to the Girl Scouts, the Optimist Club and the Daycare Providers in Wayne for helping us with our Easter promotion this past Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny enjoyed the visits of Wayne Elementary School and to St. Mary's and all of their other stops.

Everyone at Main Street Wayne would like to wish you a safe, happy and blessed Easter weekend.

Main Street Wayne, working for the betterment of Wayne. Remember, there's a place for you on this TEAM!!!

Until next time. . . .

Senator Engel

Report on legislative issues given

Hello from Lincoln! We had another exciting week debating interesting issues on the floor.

Last week we took action on a bill that is very important to me. LB 462, known as the "fetal tissue ban", would prohibit research on aborted fetuses in the State of Nebraska. This bill was heard by the Judiciary Committee, but the Committee voted 4-4 on whether to advance it, which left the bill stuck in Committee.

Sen. Dwite Pedersen, the bill's sponsor, made a motion to pull the bill from the Committee and advance it to General File. Passing such a motion requires 26 votes, and 31 people voted in favor of the motion, so the bill was advanced to General File. This bill was prioritized by Sen. Phil Erdmar of Bayard. The next step will be to debate the bill before the full Legislature.

LB 827, introduced by Sen. Curt Bromm of Wahoo, was advanced to Final Reading last week. The bill would allow public utilities to sell or lease their excess unused fiber-optic cable. Fiber-optic cable is used for transmitting data at high speeds, such as for Internet connections. Some public utilities, such as Lincoln Electric System in our Capitol city, overbuilt their fiber-optic cable system because the cost of adding extra fiber to their system was minimal.

Under the bill as it was introduced, any profits earned under a lease agreement by a public entity would be remitted to a fund to provide financial assistance to provide broadband or other advanced telecommunications infrastructures and services across the State.

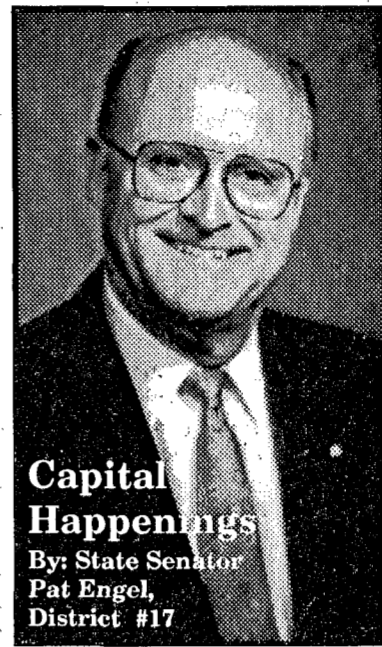

The bill was amended to allow public utilities to keep fifty percent of profit from the lease of the fiber, and to recover the costs of the fiber and a prorated share of the installation of the extra fiber. This bill boils down to whether public, tax-supported entities should be allowed to compete with private enterprise.

We have been debating a measure that would require gas stations to offer ethanol-blended gasoline. Under Sen. Matt Conneally's bill (LB 75) every gas station in the state would have to offer an 87-octane ethanol blend among the fuels they sell. Some gas stations offer ethanol blends offer higher-octane blends, which are priced higher than the 87-octane blend, and some gas station operators choose not to offer ethanol blends.

We adopted an amendment that would exempt gas stations that have only one storage tank from the requirement to offer ethanol. After eight hours of debate, Sen. Conneally moved for cloture, which means that debate ceases and we vote on the bill. I voted against advancement of the bill.

I support the use of ethanol and I use it in my own car, but I do not think that the State should require gas station operators to sell certain types of fuel. I think gas station operators should be allowed to decide what types of fuel they will sell, and I think we should let the forces of supply and demand determine whether there is a market for ethanol blends. The bill advanced with a vote of 29-13.

We also advanced a bill that would create a long term planning division of the Legislature, which

Capital Happenings
By: State Senator Pat Engel, District #17

appropriate part of the state tax on cigarettes for redevelopment projects in Omaha and Lincoln was not advanced to Final Reading due to a procedural glitch. The bill will likely be up for debate again.

We adopted an amendment that would require Lincoln and Omaha to provide matching dollars for their respective projects equal to 25 percent of the state's distribution. Under the amendment, funds originating from a state source would not be eligible for use as matching funds. As I have stated before, I do not support the bill because I believe this money should be used for State building improvement, as agreed to five years ago when we allowed the money to be used for improvements to the Omaha Civic Auditorium. Many of our state-run buildings across Nebraska are in dire need of repair and maintenance, and we are about $255 million behind in improving these buildings.

This past Friday I attended the annual Wayne Legislative Forum at Wayne State College. I have been attending for several years, and I enjoy talking with the students and sharing my thoughts on issues before the Legislature. Senators Cunningham of Wausa and Sen. Gene Tyson of Norfolk, also attended.

I will continue to keep you updated. In the meantime, if you have any comments or questions about any matter pending in the Legislature, please do not hesitate to contact me at my office: Senator Pat Engel, District #17, Box 94604, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509; 402.471.2716 or e-mail lengel@unicam.state.ne.us.

will be known as the Nebraska Futures Center. The center will serve as a resource for long-term planning and decision-making, and would advise governmental officials and entities in coordinating long-term policy. The center would begin operation in the summer of 2002.

Given that term limits for State Senators were adopted by the voters this fall, the Nebraska Futures Center will help replace the Legislature's institutional memory, which results from having people in office for several years. Hopefully, some of the good state policy that has been developed over the years by the Legislature and the executive branch will be carried out over time through the use of this resource center.

Dogs need protection from deadly disease

Dear Editor,

To all dog owners, questions from clients about Bordetella (canine cough) and the need to have dogs vaccinated prompt this letter.

Bordetella, also known by its scientific name, tracheobronchitis, has been around for over 10 years. It is a canine respiratory disease. Some of the symptoms commonly associated with Bordetella are coughing, gagging, loss of appetite, lack of energy and a poor appearance. Bordetella can also lead to pneumonia. The virus is airborne. There are no other effective ways of controlling the disease except for prevention. There is no manner of housing or cleaning that will keep a dog from becoming infected.

Bordetella can be spread through the air and by human contact (on hands, shoes and clothing). All healthy dogs that are kept at or visit boarding kennels, veterinary clinics, pet shops and shelters should receive the vaccination. Healthy dogs that are exposed to other dogs during walks, obedience classes and infected neighborhood dogs should also be vaccinated.

The prevention of Bordetella is easy. The vaccine is given annually, through nasal applicator or injection. Protection usually starts within 48 hours. Most veterinarians prefer to give the initial dose as nose drops then follow with an annual booster.

A recent informal phone survey of area veterinarians and boarding kennels covering Norfolk, Pierce, Laurel, Emerson, Pender, Dakota City, Wayne and the Iowa State Veterinary School and Clinic, revealed that most either strongly suggest or require the vaccination prior to boarding. The majority of these places accept dogs that are vaccinated the day of arrival.

The also agree that it is better to prevent an illness than it is to cure it.

My peers in the kennel industry and most veterinarians, require the Bordetella vaccination and frown upon places that don't. A pet care facility's credibility, reputation and a pet's health is put at risk when it accepts animals that are not vaccinated for Bordetella.

The price of this vaccination ranged from $9 to $15. The cost is minimal compared to the time and cost of veterinary care your dog would require should it become infected. Bordetella is so contagious that veterinarians treat it on an out-patient basis, to prevent the spread of the virus to other hospitalized dogs.

So please, the next time you have your pet vaccinated, have your veterinarian add Bordetella along with the Rabies and Distemper/ parvo combo vaccinations it is already receiving. Or call your clinic today for an appointment.

The only people that can protect your pet from respiratory diseases are you and your veterinarian. Also, cats that are boarded or venture outside should receive Rabies, FVRCP (Distemper combo) and the Feline Leukemia vaccinations.

Appreciated Children's Fair

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank all of the Early Childhood Providers and others who helped with the Children's Fair at the City Auditorium on April 7.

It was great to see so many kids and so many fun activities for them to take part in. Our kids had a great time there.

A special thanks to Stacey

Alexander who does a great job of caring for our children. We certainly appreciate her and commend all those who are day care providers in the area.

You have one of the most demanding jobs I can think of.

Thanks again for all you do.

Robin Gamble, Wayne

Customers pleased with their service

Dear Editor,

Recently my family had dinner at Godfathers and much to my son's, (Ben) dismay, the restaurant's buffet no longer features the world's finest macaroni salad.

Ben, a very sensitive four-year old, was quite upset by this discovery. His tears and sobs could be seen and heard throughout the restaurant. As parents, we did our best to compose the child, provide some options and enjoy dinner.

A few minutes passed and one of the employees stopped by our table. Much to our surprise and delight, she was carrying a small container of macaroni salad. The college age staff at Godfathers took it upon themselves to go to the local grocery store and pick up salad specifically for Ben.

I remember the basic comment was, "We saw how disappointed he was and wanted to make up for it." We were dumfounded.

We live in a time when quality customer service is nearly dead — not at Godfathers. Congratulations on making a little boy (and his parents) very happy.

Sincerely,
Brad Hoskins, Wayne

Present for pre-scheduled communication were Wayne High English teachers Dwayne Spieker and Lauren Walton asking the board to consider hiring either a full or part time English teacher. The teachers reminded the board there are three English teachers covering the required four grade levels and with state standards being raised, extra help is needed. The board decided to discuss the matter at the next meeting.

On special education, Kraig Lofquist, special education director, gave an update. He noted a part time person to help in transportation may be needed as the case load grows with more referrals being taken in. Lofquist spoke of the additional money that's supposed to be allotted for special education from the government but he said more strings will be required by way of extra paperwork, etc.

The superintendent's report included an update on construction at the middle school which is behind schedule as the projected completion date has been pushed back to Dec. 5, 2001. On roofing, the parapet (decoration) on the roof of the old middle school is falling down and some of the roof needs to be taken down to the level of the rest of the roof. Shingling is underway. The recent windstorm caused havoc by taking off supports and plywood coverings over building openings. Foam insulation 4x8' sheets were laying on the roof and they blew away. The construction company's insurance will have to reimburse the school for any damages that took place.

Reinert also discussed District 51 which will close June 1. The dissolution agreement has been approved by Winside, District 51, and Wayne schools with an auction planned for June 30.

Future agenda items for the April 23 meeting include discussion on Wayne Community School Foundation, hiring a high school science teacher, potential extra help in the Wayne H.S English department, a study to look into the possibility of starting a pre-school, and a study on the Wayne State College cooperative which involves upgrading the WSC track, etc.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be held on Monday, April 21 at 7 p.m. at Wayne High School. The public is invited to attend.

Cancer survivors share experiences

By Lynn Sievers

Of the Wayne Herald
With the upcoming Relay For Life (a cancer research fundraiser) approaching June 8, 9, several stories are planned on area residents' accounts of their own confrontations with cancer. Through their eyes, we can get a glimpse of how they dealt or are dealing with the disease.

Having cancer twice in her life, Wayne resident Shirley Hamer has a new outlook on life. Hamer first had breast cancer 20 years ago. The first symptom she had was a severe pain in her arm that ran through her neck.

Visiting Dr. Bob Benthack, he referred her to a surgeon in Omaha for a second opinion. There she had a biopsy with surgery right afterwards. She received chemotherapy for the next six months. Some of the Omaha doctors she had included Dr. Lemmon, oncology, and Dr. Hodgens, a surgeon.

For Hamer, cancer came again last April. This time it was lung cancer with no symptoms.

"I was having trouble with my gallbladder and during surgery, Dr. Hejner found a spot on my lung," Hamer said. "Dr. Hartman, oncology, referred me to Dr. Dorheim, a lung cancer specialist in Omaha. I had surgery the first of May and two weeks later, in Norfolk, I was receiving chemo."

Hamer notes the treatment took five to six hours every three weeks which made her really sick.

Getting a good report, Hamer was dismissed after six months. Stating she has an appointment the end of April for a chest x-ray and blood work, she is hopeful for good news and no recurrence of cancer.

Having a positive outlook when receiving both cancer diagnosis, during treatment and now, Hamer feels, has helped her get through the difficult times in her life.

Thinking about cancer years ago and now. "I heard they were close to a cure then but it hasn't happened yet," Hamer said. "I don't know if they will find a cure during my lifetime but hopefully they are getting closer."

Thinking about the Relay, Hamer feels it is a wonderful event. It gives patients hope and is uplifting to those who have gone through cancer.

"The Relay is an event to participate in and feel like life is worth something," Hamer said. "The Relay can help others in similar circumstances by getting together and sharing ideas and relating experiences. It is a plus for cancer patients and good for raising money for research."

A long-time survivor, Lila Kay of Wayne, shares her breast cancer story.

Having no symptoms, Kay found a lump in her breast in 1984 and put off doing anything about it or telling anyone about it, hoping it would go away. After three months, the lump was still there and reality set in. Dr. Bob Benthack performed a biopsy and sent it in to a Sioux City lab.

The first report was the mass was not malignant. The second report came back that it was malignant. Dr. Dahlheim of Norfolk came to Providence Medical Center to perform surgery on Kay the next day. This time her whole breast was removed. Dr. Benthack felt treatments were not necessary as not only bad cells were killed but good ones, too. Luckily, she has had no recurrence of cancer.

Remembering back to when the doctor gave her the news she had cancer, "I just couldn't believe it," Kay said. "It just couldn't be happening to me; it had to be happening to someone else."

Kay said that in April, 1988, she was a volunteer for "Reach for Recovery," a cancer support group through the American Cancer Society. She would talk about breast cancer with patients (at hospitals and at home) suffering from the disease. Kay notes she hasn't been a volunteer for "Reach for Recovery" lately as there is someone working at Providence Medical Center (PMC) hospital who provides the kind of service she used to give.

As for a cure for cancer, "I hope a cure will be found," Kay said. "But, there are so many different types of cancer that it makes it much more difficult to do."

On the Relay, Kay has helped Vicky Skokan and the local Relay For Life committee for the past two years. "There are many Relays across the country and a lot of money is brought in for cancer research," Kay said. "I hope the Relays help."

Another long time survivor, Wendell Korth of Wayne, tells of the tumor he had on the retina in his eye. "I was working at the college and while driving, could only see half of the road," Korth said.

His doctor couldn't find anything wrong so Korth then went to Dr. Larry Magnuson, a local optometrist. Magnuson sent Korth to a doctor in Sioux City. The doctor in Sioux City sent him to Iowa City for a second opinion.

Scheduled in Sioux City to remove the tumorous eye, and Ruth's mom sick with cancer, Ruth went to pieces over her husband's upcoming surgery.

"Wendell was brave," Ruth said. "He knew he had to do it. It is remarkable what can be done but he can't see with the eye they put in. I wish there was a camera in his prosthesis that could send signals to the brain so he could see."

Wendell recalls the procedure, "They poured liquid into my eye socket and it hardened. They took it out and painted blood vessels, etc. on it to make it look real. They also inserted a bar so the new eye would move like a real one. I was in Iowa City for four days during this time."

Looking back, Wendell noted he worked up till the surgery and was only off of work a couple of weeks. No chemo or radiation was prescribed.

"We really credit Dr. Magnuson for finding the tumor and for taking care of it right away," Ruth said.

Looking at the upcoming Relay, Ruth notes Wendell and Vicky Skokan, chair of the Relay For Life committee who has been through cancer herself, worked together at Wayne State College. The Korths note they share the enthusiasm of the Relay with Skokan. With the money that is raised, the Korths feel the American Cancer Society should be close to finding a cure.

Ruth sums up their attitude toward cancer, "Put your hand in the Lord's and take a day at a time." The couple feel they have lived their lives that way. "Faith, family, and friends will see you through," Ruth said.

Another survivor, Ivan Creighton of Wayne, was diagnosed with colon cancer two years ago in May. Through a home stool specimen test, blood was found and his wife, Marian, a retired nurse, told him to see a doctor right away. He went to Gary West, PA-C, of Northeast Nebraska Medical Group PC of Wayne.

West set up an appointment for Creighton with Dr. Hartje of Sioux City. Dr. Hartje comes to Providence Medical Center in Wayne on a regular basis to perform colon tests. After examining Creighton, Hartje told him to make arrangements with Dr. Adams, a surgeon from Norfolk and surgery was done soon thereafter.

"Ivan was scared as anyone given the news they have cancer would be," Marian said. "One good thing is that from the time of the initial test to the time of surgery was short so he didn't have long to think about it."

During the surgery, 21 inches of Creighton's colon was removed. Chemotherapy was then started from June to November, once a week for three weeks and then off a week. Dr. Kahanic from Sioux City took care of the chemo for Creighton at PMC.

Thinking of his attitude during treatments, "Ivan had a good outlook but his main complaint was that he was tired," Marian said. "He really didn't get sick; one time he had nausea but he was taking medicine which probably helped. Also, he had a little hair loss but not much."

Since his surgery, Creighton has had another colonoscopy by Dr. Hartje which showed good results. Next month Creighton is scheduled for another colonoscopy and also a chest x-ray.

Creighton said that being able to have tests, surgery, and chemo at PMC is really great. He noted it's nice to not have to go out of town for these medical services.

Marian said, "Last year Ivan was in the survivor walk at the local Relay For Life. The Relay does a wonderful job for research. There is so much cancer now; it seems like you always hear about someone else getting it but they are making great strides in finding a cure."

Anyone with questions on the local Relay For Life or who would like to walk in this year's event can call Vicky Skokan at 402-375-3406. Free Relay For Life t-shirts will be given to survivors who participate in the walk. Anyone with questions on cancer can access the American Cancer Society at their website: www.cancer.org

Projects

$638,000 worth of renovation in the plans which includes plumbing and the addition of new restrooms, completely re-doing the auditorium's electrical system, adding a sprinkler system in the building and the possibility of adding an additional exit to meet fire codes.

Kvapnoski said that the available money will not allow for any work to be done to the stage, the floor or the addition of a public address system.

Council members debated the amount of money that should be put into the building and what items, if any, would be done at a later date. In addition, it was the council's general consensus, that in the future a maintenance plan should be developed for all city buildings, rather than waiting for long periods of time before completing necessary projects.

A bid of $161,921.25 was accepted from Capitol Construction Company for work on the 10th Street extension project. The bid was just over $8,000 lower than estimates. Plans call for the work to begin June 10.

The council set a public hearing date of Tuesday, April 24 at or about 7:35 p.m. for the purpose of discussing a request from the Wayne Chamber of Commerce for Wayne Revolving Loan Funds.

In other action, Mayor Sheryl Lindau read a proclamation for Fair Housing Month.

The council's next meeting will be Tuesday, April 24 at 7:30 p.m. Councilman Will Wiseman said that the sidewalks are not the same distance from the street along parts of the highway and that the problem is especially evident on East Seventh Street.

"We are having to try to patch up something that we didn't create. We don't have a solution."

In other action, the council approved the application of Brian Preston to membership in the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department.

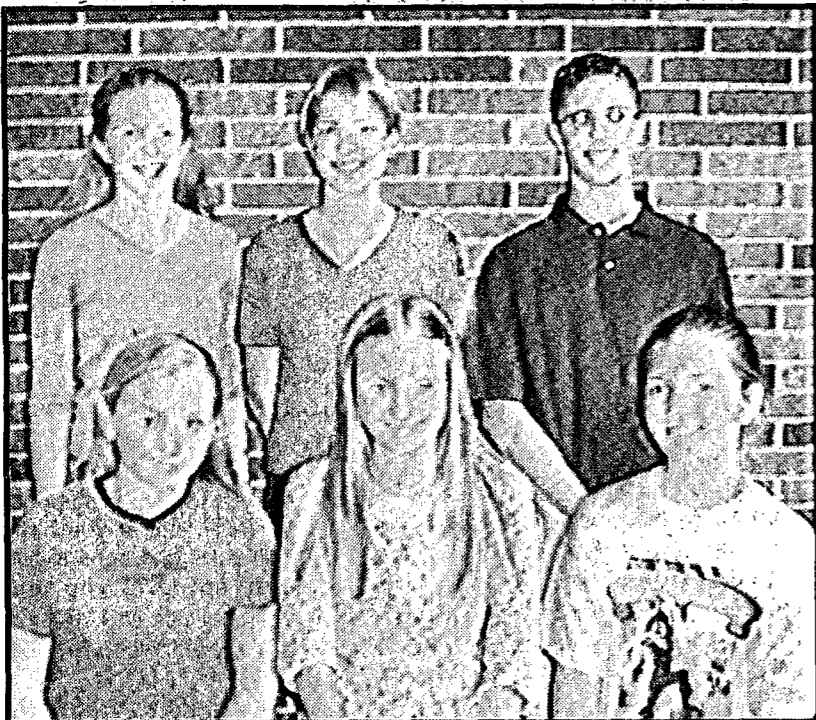

Following a public hearing, the council voted 7-1 to approve a Wayne Revolving Loan Fund application from Paul Lindner of Lindner Construction.

The loan of $30,500 at five percent interest for 10 years would be used to gut the building north of the present Lindner Construction to create more space for his business.

Councilman Verdel Lutt questioned the amount of money being loaned to Lindner due to the fact that he had problems with code violations in other situations.

Lindner told the council that the code violations were a different problem with a different business and making a comparison of the two was unfair.

Lindner will receive the money as the project is completed, after he submits bills for work done.

Grand march is set

The Wayne Community High School Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom will be on Saturday, April 21.

Students and their dates are invited to go to the Wayne Care Centre from 5 to 5:30 p.m. and The Oaks from 5:30 to 6 p.m. Residents, parents and others may attend and take pictures.

New to the festivities this year will be a Grand March starting at 6 p.m. in the Atrium of the Student Center at Wayne State College. Students and their dates will be formally presented.

Parents and community members who wish to attend should arrive by 5:30 p.m. and enter through the east doors. Pictures may be taken and there will be no admission charge.

Fun with chalk

Students at Goldenrod Hills Head Start were among those who were on hand on Main Street last Thursday to participate in "Chalk the Block" as part of the local celebration of the Week of the Young Child. These children were photographed on the west side of Main Street near the Main Street Wayne office and when questioned, one young man indicated he had drawn a blue pig.

Wayne Herald will produce Blue Devil sports calendar again this year

Several Wayne area businesses have been approached recently about sponsoring a Wayne High sports calendar for the 2001-2002 school year.

The Wayne Herald will also produce a Wayne High sports calendar with a photo of the senior letterwinners as done in the past.

Wayne athletic director Rocky Ruhl has endorsed the Herald for the poster schedules.

"At this time the Wayne poster schedule and pocket schedules are contracted through the Wayne Herald," Ruhl said. "No other company has been given rights to use our schedules for that purpose."

Merchants are asked to call the Herald at 375-2600 if interested in being a sponsor on the calendar and to use caution when being approached by an outside source in sponsoring another such sports calendar.

WSC radio station to make world record hug attempt

Wayne State College campus radio station, KWSC-FM K-92 (91.9 FM) staff members are organizing a world-record hug attempt in Rice Auditorium on the WSC campus, on Tuesday, April 17 with doors opening at 7 p.m. Funds generated from this event will benefit the Community Activity Center building project in Wayne.

The actual hug will occur at 8 p.m. The project is under the direction of Dr. Dave Ogden, advisor and associate professor of humanities at WSC.

Radio station students are also issuing a challenge to other organizations to involve as many of their members as possible. The radio station students also plan the event to promote unity between the college and local communities. Although the entire campus radio station is involved, two of the students leading the effort are Michael Pulte of Bennington and Julie Krause of Homer.

"We wanted to find a way to help with the funding for the Community Activity Center," Pulte said. "Finding something that is fun, challenging and able to make money is difficult. This is something that every group in society can enjoy and benefit from. We want to promote a sense of community while also finding new ways to promote our radio station. It just so happens that this fundraiser does both."

"Everyone is welcome, all ages, and all communities. We will be asking for a donation of 50 cents or more per person at the door," Krause said. "All 28 student station managers are behind the projects involved to promote this event. We are thinking ahead and we can't over promote this."

"We haven't done anything of this magnitude before," Pulte said. "Everyone that takes part in this is going to have the memory of being involved. They say you need seven or eight hugs a day to survive? How about a thousand?"

Official rules state that individuals involved with the hug must:

1. Sign their own names with two independent people witnessing the signature;
2. Stand in a circle formation, within arm's reach of the person either side of them; the circle should only be one person deep; participants in any inner rings will not be recognized;
3. Put their right arm around the waist of the person on their right, and their left arm round the waist of the person on their left. At a given signal, each participant should squeeze the person on either side of them, holding the hug for a minimum of 10 seconds.

Another concern for hug organizers is that the start and end of the hug link. Pulte said although the record calls for 10 seconds, the group at WSC will try to hold the hug for 15 seconds.

Pulte said the idea for the record attempt came while searching the Guinness World Record Book Website. Although the latest publication from Guinness stated the record as 462 people, their current record is 1,802 which was established just a week ago.

The Wayne State softball team evened their season record at 13-13 with a sweep of visiting Peru State last week, 1-0 & 4-3.

Conley incidentally, was the winning pitcher, facing just 23 batters in seven innings.

Brockhaus had two base hits for WSC with Missy Paces, Sarah Micheel and Sarah Herrick each netting a single.

In the second game WSC needed an extra inning before notching the 4-3 win.

"Competition is good!"

Natural gas customers saved millions of dollars this winter, thanks to KN Energy's dependable Choice Gas program.

It's disappointing after three years, with savings like these, that KN Energy is still the only municipal or investor-owned utility who has voluntarily offered a choice of suppliers to all of their customers in Nebraska.

KN Gas Services is proud to compete as a supplier in the Choice Gas Program, allowing us to bring real savings back to your community.

This year, choose KN Gas Services.

Compete at tourney

Four Wayne State College students earned third place in the Novice National Forensics competition in Price, Utah during spring break.

Squads from across the nation performed March 9 - 12 at the College of Eastern Utah in the competition.

"I am very proud of them. Our four students finished third in the small college division. It (the competition) helps students in any area, in any major; develop their poise and confidence in public speaking. It also helps students a great deal in preparation for graduate school," said Dr. Deb Whitt, advisor and humanities professor.

Team members include Angela Hartman, Doniphany Staci Hartman, Wayne, Kevin Halle, Crofton; and Samantha Volquardsen, Norfolk.

"I think the opportunity to compete in a national speech competition was extremely beneficial for me. I learned the importance of grace in competition and also the rewards of hard work," Volquardsen said. She is a speech communications junior with emphasis for her minor in public address.

Halle and Staci Hartman earned fourth in the nation for a dramatic duo performance. Halle gave a dramatic interpretation. Staci Hartman also presented in prose interpretation. Angela Hartman was involved in the drama and poetry interpretation categories. A tribute to the late Dale Earnhardt, a Great Dane trailer bears the former NASCAR driver.

Trailer honors Dale Earnhardt

Charlotte, NC branch, the trailer was built in his honor with a decal depicting his NASCAR racing career. A trailer mechanic in the Service Department of Great Dane's Charlotte branch in the mid 1970's, Dale Earnhardt went on to become one of NASCAR's greatest drivers. The memorial decal, a digital image processed on a 3M Scotch print, was designed and applied by Transport Graphics of Springfield, Mo. Great Dane chose its newest model trailer, the P-101, which is 53' in length and is used for transporting general cargo, to display the tribute. The commemorative trailer is currently on display at Great Dane's headquarters in Savannah, Ga. Great Dane, a manufacturer of dry van, refrigerated and platform trailers, has long been regarded as the industry leader in technology, innovation and quality. Based in Savannah, Ga., the company has distribution points across North, South and Central America. The company has eight manufacturing plants in the United States, and a site has been purchased for a ninth manufacturing plant in Canada.

Inhaled Steroids Are Life-Saving in Asthma

Our bodies produce a type of steroid known as corticosteroid. This is NOT the steroid used by body builders with the intension of boosting muscle mass. Rather, corticosteroids - such as cortisone - help us handle many types of stress.

Cortisone-like steroids have been used for decades to treat lung diseases, including asthma. They have been taken my mouth and, more recently, by inhalation. A Canadian study recently published in The New England Journal of Medicine concludes that asthma sufferers who regularly use steroid inhalers also lower their risk of death due to asthma. Persons with asthma who dies were compared to those who lived. It was found that the survivors averaged using about one-third more inhaled steroids than those who died. Over 17 million persons in the US have asthma, resulting in over five thousand deaths each year.

Duane Baler congratulates Pearl Hansen on her appointment.

RC&D director named

The RC&D program brings local people together to get important projects done that will make a difference.

Pearl Hansen of Wayne has recently joined the RC&D board and is looking forward to helping projects along in the area.

Pearl was appointed by the Wayne County Commissioners and will fill the position vacated by Kevin Alexander. Pearl is somewhat familiar with RC&D because she was one of the first local artists to display her work in the Council's meeting room in the spring of 1994. Her show featured many of the oil paintings she had done of landscapes.

Dr. Hansen's undergraduate degree is from Wayne State College, she has her Master of Arts degree in sculpture from Kansas State and her PhD. from the University in Administration Curriculum. Pearl currently serves as Head of the Division of Fine Arts for Wayne State College.

Any community or group with a project idea that the RC&D may be able to assist with is asked to submit it to any Council member or by calling (402) 582-4866.

Build houses during break

Nine Wayne State College students spent spring break in Jackson, Tenn. building houses through Habitat for Humanity's Collegiate Challenge program. The students left for their trip, March 3 and returned on March 10.

WSC students participating were Christina Rutten and Stefanie Sledschlag, both of Norfolk; Laura and Nessa Peterson, both of Bradshaw; Nick Tramp, Wynot; Lisa Lange, Fordyce; Sister Jeremias Lee and Erin Granberg, both of Wayne and Lark Cunningham, Laurel. Mark Hammer, group advisor and associate professor of math-science at WSC, accompanied the students.

"We met some of the people who will be living in the homes that we helped build," said Rutten. "They were very grateful and happy to have us there."

Hammer said getting to know the future homeowners was the best aspect of the trip. He said the future homeowners made the group special lunches to show their appreciation. The individuals who will be receiving homes from the Tennessee project will be first-time homeowners when they move in. He said the students also helped with the actual raising of the frames of homes.

Collegiate Challenge is a year-round program, coordinated through the Campus Chapters and Youth Programs department at Habitat for Humanity International in Americus, Ga. The national effort will involve students from Feb. 18 to April 14.

More than 9,000 students from more than 400 colleges, universities and high schools will work at more than 175 sites nationwide for Collegiate Challenge: Spring Break 2001. Collectively, these students have pledged more than $800,000 for the affiliates they are working with.

Celebrating its 25th anniversary year, Habitat for Humanity International is an ecumenical Christian ministry dedicated to eliminating poverty housing.

Founded by Millard Fuller along with his wife, Linda, The Habitat organization has 1,916 affiliates in 64 nations. The group has built and sold more than 80,000 homes to partner families at no profit with zero-interest mortgages.

EXPERT ANSWERS TO TAXING QUESTIONS

How long am I required to keep old tax records?

Receipts, cancelled checks, interest statements and any other record that document income of a deduction shown on your tax return should be kept until the period of limitations for what return expires. This is usually three years from the date the return was due or filed, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. However, there's no period of limitations when no return is filed or fraud is involved. If you are an employer, you must retain employment tax records for at least four years.

Let us help you with your tax concerns.

Shore fishing tips are given for a better catch

Recently we talked about where to locate fish when you're fishing from shore.

This article will deal with what to use to catch fish from shore.

There are several methods that you use to take almost all species of fish from shore, but before we get into that, let's do a quick review of where to locate the fish.

"Look for slow current areas or slack water pockets. Fish areas behind points, behind rock piles, wing dams or timber that has fallen in the water; these areas will all hold fish."

"Try to fish as close as possible to the area where the fast water joins the slow water. This area is where your more aggressive fish will be waiting in ambush for a meal to swim by."

Now that we've been reminded where they're at, let's get into the "how" to catch them.

Many fishermen, especially those that fish from shore use too heavy of equipment. Those anglers that use lighter gear, (line and tackle), will catch more fish.

In the spring, I like to use a live bait rig when shore fishing. A slightly modified crappie rig will do just fine.

As any shore fishermen knows, the worst thing about shore fishing is the snags. They'll eat you alive if you let them.

That's why I modify my crappie rigs. The piece of equipment that snags up on a rig generally is the weight. When the weight snags up you'll lose the whole rig.

On a crappie rig, I'll take a fairly heavy rubber band and connect it to the snap at the bottom of the rig and then hook it to the sinker. When the sinker gets snagged, you can generally pull back hard on the line and let it snap back, the tension from the rubber band should flip the sinker loose.

Gary Howey
'Of the Outdoors'

If the sinker does stay snagged, the only thing you'll lose, will be sinker and all you need to do is to replace the sinker and you're back in business.

I like to use Shiners whenever possible for bait, because the flash given off by these bait fish helps to attract prey fish. With Shiners, you'll have to change bait frequently, because Shiners are delicate baitfish and will die quickly.

The black Fathead Minnow that you see in a lot of bait shops will stay alive a long time, but in dark water they blend in and are hard for prey fish to locate.

If Shiners aren't available, I've used a partial minnow, head or body so that my bait is leaving a scent trail for the fish to follow and I've had good luck using a whole Fathead along with a piece of another minnow.

I've also had good luck by hooking my minnow in the tail. The minnow will move around a lot more when hooked this way and the prey fish are able to zero in on the vibration.

Another thing that you'll want to be careful of when bank fishing is the noise. Fish have lateral lines that can detect vibration. The noise from a heavy weight landing in the water will spook any fish within 100 yards. Try using a smaller weight and to present your bait as quietly as possible.

I also like to use floating crankbaits from shore. I'll cast them up stream and then crank like a wild man to get them to dive and run faster than the current.

They also work very well when casting down stream using the cranking and pause method. When you pause, the bait will float up resembling a wounded or injured bait fish and when you start to crank the bait in, fish will hit it thinking it's trying to escape.

Use a shallow running crank bait such as the standard "Rapala" or a shallow diving "Shad Rap" when ever possible as the deeper divers will bury into the rocks, weeds and other junk right on the bottom.

Another thing that I'll do is to cut off the trailing part of the treble hook, the one that hangs on the bottom. This is the hook that snags up all the time, and by snipping off the one hook, you'll still catch just as many fish but you won't lose as many crankbaits.

No matter what type of bait or rig you're using, make sure that your hooks are sharp. There are more fish lost because of dull hooks than any other reason.

A hook may look sharp, but unless it digs into your finger nail when you drag it across it, it's not sharp enough to catch a fish.

I carry a small diamond hook sharpener with me, but a small file will work just as well to dress up a dull hook.

Shore fishermen have the advantage when it comes to fishing those fish that hug the bank to get out of the current and with live bait and a few simple tricks, your catching of fish from shore will improve.

Older Antidepressants Often as Effective as Newer, Costlier Ones

According to new guidelines from the American College of Physicians - American Society of Internal Medicine, both newer and traditional antidepressant medicines are equally effective for many persons with depression. Older medicines typically are in the class termed tricyclics (e.g., Tofranil, Elavil). The newer agents include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors, or SSRIs (e.g., Paxil, Zoloft, Prozac).

The major difference cited between tricyclics and SSRIs are side effects. SSRIs are more likely to cause diarrhea, nausea, headache, and sleeping difficulties. Tricyclics are more likely to cause blurred vision, constipation, dizziness, dry mouth, and tremors. Interestingly, according to the new guidelines it is noted that St. John's wort may be effective against mild depression, at least on a short-term basis.

Living Last Supper to be presented in Wayne

A dramatic musical presentation called "The Living Last Supper" will be performed on Good Friday, April 13, beginning at 7 p.m. This production includes a re-enactment of the Last Supper of Christ, as well as a portrayal of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. "The musical portions are terrific and filled with passion," said the Rev. Mark Steinbach of Praise Assembly of God Church. "It was my goal to put together a drama which speaks to hearts and ministers to lives. When someone comes to see "The Living Last Supper" it is usually not what people expect. The "Supper" is filled with tension, frustration and questions as the disciples try to interpret Jesus' words and actions. Rev. Steinbach also said that the "duet sung by Judas and Jesus" portrays the tension between good and evil, trusting and betraying. It is an awesome part of the 'Supper,' which will climax and conclude with the crucifixion. This is one annual event everyone should see at least once, and if possible, every year." The "Living Last Supper" is being performed by members of Praise Assembly of God, Calvary Bible Evangelical Free Church, First Baptist Church and the United Methodist Church. The performance is being held at Praise Assembly, 1000 East 10th Street, north from Highway 35 on Hillside Drive (just west of the Bankcard Center). The performance is free and open to the public. There will be childcare for children under five years of age. Communion will be served to those in attendance who desire to take it. For more information, call Praise Assembly at 375-3430.

Can we compete?

Competing in e-commerce world

These days, electronic commerce is a common phrase. We hear or read about it somewhere every day. E-commerce is going on everywhere, even in small rural communities across Nebraska.

As we visit with community leaders and business owners and operators, the discussion soon turns to concern about the net effect of e-commerce on small communities and local businesses. Here is one more method for people to shop elsewhere. In addition to the attractions of larger communities, super stores and malls, businesses now must deal with potential customers by-passing local stores and shopping from home via the Internet instead.

So, what can communities and businesses do to compete with this new wave of shopping? Like the super stores, malls, and competition from larger communities, the Internet is not going to go away. Its use will only grow as more people become comfortable using it, begin to trust it with their credit cards, and actually receive their on-line purchases.

Communities can view the Internet as a threat or an opportunity. If attitudes such as "there's nothing we can do," or "it'll never work here" prevail in a community, that community will be passed over by the Internet. However, communities that view the Internet as an opportunity can use many approaches to take advantage of it.

If your community doesn't have its own World Wide Web site, get a committee together to plan and get a web site created. A recent check on the Nebraska State Government home page, <http://www.nol.org>, showed 216 communities listed on this site. So, where are Nebraska's other 300-plus communities? They're missing out on promoting themselves worldwide via the Internet.

There are some 650 Nebraska businesses and manufacturers listed in the Nebraska Department of Economic Development <http://www.neded.org> compilation of Nebraska web sites. Think of the hundreds of Nebraska businesses who aren't promoting themselves on the Internet!

Sandy Preston
Dixon County

When surfers are searching for a particular product or service, they may as well find it in a small rural business as one in a larger metropolitan community. When searching for places to visit, rural communities should be a "hit" just like their neighboring larger city.

Taking it a step further, <http://www.state.ne.us/nebraskama> p.html shows only a few Nebraska counties now have a county web-site.

An advantage of shopping via the Internet is that it's a way of shopping at home and not making the trip to the larger communities and malls. By not making the trip, other needed goods may be purchased locally.

Methods used by local businesses to compete with larger communities and malls must be enhanced to as the use of the Internet continues to grow. Friendly faces, greetings and smiles, along with caring and concern for the customer are not found on the Internet. Sure, many web sites are fun, but there's no contact with a real, live person. What about the convenience of warranties, returns, and follow-up on sales?

Can the Internet compete with what the local business owner has to offer?

The Internet is here and we need to consider it is another tool for us to use. The 'net alone is not the salvation of rural communities. How rural communities and businesses use it and react to it is up to them. Hopefully, communities will take advantage of the Internet and incorporate it into their future plans.

Bargholz inducted

Darci Bargholz of Wayne was among 59 students at Northeast Community College recently inducted into Phi Theta Kappa, Tau Chi Chapter.

Since the installation of Northeast's Tau Chi chapter in 1996, a total of 494 students have been inducted into the honor society which recognizes academic excellence.

The honor society, now over 80 years old, began with six charter members under the name of Kappa Phi Omicron at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., in 1910. By 1918, a variety of honorary groups had sprung up at many colleges. It was decided to organize this honorary society, chapters of which would have a common character, standard and similarity of organization.

For more than 70 years, membership in Phi Theta Kappa has signified a singular honor and a willingness to embrace the Society's shared commitment to academic excellence. The Northeast students who were recently inducted into PTK have earned at least 12 credit hours and achieved a minimum grade point average of 3.5 or above, out of a 4.0 system.

PRESENT GOOD FRIDAY CANTATA

St. John's Lutheran Church Choir will present "Behold the Darkness" on Good Friday, April 13 at 8 p.m. Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Prochaska, the choir will offer variations of some familiar hymns of Holy Week.

"Behold the Darkness" is a moving work dealing with the suffering and death of Christ in a Tenebrai Service. As the service moves forward toward Christ's death, darkness increases to remind the listeners of the sacrifice of God for us in the death of His Son.

"Join us on Good Friday," invites St. John's congregation, "to make the passion of our Lord Jesus a reality in your life."

PROMOTING HEAT PUMPS
 A recent joint utility business partner meeting of the South Sioux Area focused on the benefits of high efficiency heat pumps. The event was sponsored jointly by the City of South Sioux City, Northeast Nebraska Public Power District and Nebraska Public Power District.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS
 During Institute Week at school, a number of students chose to be part of the Parks and Recreation Group. During the week, students built eight park benches, 16 trash can containers and a 16'x48' deck. The 14 teenagers were under the direction of Industrial arts Instructor Daryl Harrison.

Harrison said he was proud of the young people which included Chris Henschke, Joel McAfee, Tucker Greve, Brian Boeckenhauer, Andrew Hickson, Eric Klein, James Felt, Jason Simpson, Daniel Simpson, Matt Haglund, Nick Miller, Rodney Cole, Greg Kathol and Kyle Roeber.

These young people dedicated their week to a community service that will enhance the looks and usefulness of Wakefield's parks, said Harrison. "In a time when many questions the motives and actions of this generation, these teenagers have done more for their community in one week than many people will do for Wakefield in a lifetime. I'm proud to acknowledge their efforts," Harrison added.

The items construction by the group will be placed in Graves Park at Double Play Park by the small baseball field and at the playground area at the school. The deck will also be on school ground.

STUDENTS RECOGNIZED

The university of Nebraska-Lincoln recognized more than 3,400 students for outstanding academic achievement at the 73rd annual all-university honors convocation on Friday, April 6 in the Coliseum.

Efforts continue to prevent foot and mouth disease from coming to U.S.

Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman said the USDA will continue to be vigilant in its efforts to prevent foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) from entering the United States, including intensified scrutiny and inspections at ports of entry and a temporary import prohibition of swine, ruminants and products that could potentially carry the virus from the European Union and other countries that have confirmed cases of this animal disease.

In a get-acquainted meeting, European Union Commissioner David Byrne and Secretary Veneman discussed many issues of interest including trade, biotechnology and the current FMD situation. The meeting was very productive and both look forward to working together on various issues in the future.

"We had a very productive and cordial meeting," said Secretary Veneman. "We discussed a wide range of issues important to our countries and look forward to working together and continuing to strengthen relationships."

Among other important issues, they discussed the current FMD situation in Europe and the current U.S. temporary prohibition of certain products from the European Union. The Secretary gave no indication of a regionalization or lifting of the temporary restrictions at this time.

"This is a very difficult situation, and we certainly recognize the extensive efforts that the EU and the member states are taking to control the current outbreak," Veneman said. "We will continue reviewing our policies but remain concerned about the spread of FMD within the EU and the risk of introduction into the United States. Given the current situation, we are not prepared to lift any restrictions at this time."

The United States continues to safeguard American agriculture from FMD and all other foreign animal disease in parts of Europe and other countries, USDA has strengthened its protections, which include:

1. Establishing an emergency operations center to coordinate communications, answer technical questions and provide consumer/traveler information about FMD and other related issues. Toll-free numbers include: technical questions — 1-800-601-9327; Consumer/traveler hotline — 1-866-SAFEGUARD.

2. Heightened alert and increased inspections at ports of entry, borders and airports to ensure passengers, luggage and cargo are checked as appropriate. This includes redirecting 150 inspectors to critical ports of entry and plans are underway to double the number of dog teams at airports to check incoming flights and passengers. USDA currently has nearly 2,000 inspection personnel assigned to these facilities and ports of entry.

3. Heightened alert and increased coordination of program in states across the country. USDA has more than 450 veterinary officials throughout the country that partner with state and local agriculture officials to ensure appropriate protections are in place to prevent the entry and potentially detect FMD in the United States. USDA has been coordinating and meeting regularly with appropriate federal, state, industry and university officials, Customs, Defense, state agriculture and veterinary officials, university experts and airline/travel industry representatives.

4. Prohibiting travelers from Europe and other FMD countries from carrying into the United States any agricultural products, particularly animal products, that could spread FMD.

Violations could result in penalties of up to $1,000. Passengers are required to identify any visits to farms or rural areas to Customs and USDA officials. All travelers' baggage are subject to inspection by USDA/Customs officials and dog teams and disinfection of footwear/clothing may be required for some travelers.

5. Dispatching teams of experts, including 40 Federal, State and university veterinarians, to the United Kingdom to assist in surveillance and eradication of FMD.

6. Heightened awareness and monitoring the FMD situation worldwide to ensure proper protections are in place in other countries that have confirmed cases of the animal disease.

7. Implementing a renewed public education campaign for travelers that includes additional signage/information at airports, public service announcements, information hotlines and an extensive website with public information about this important issue and steps that can be taken to prevent FMD and other exotic diseases and pests from entering the United States.

USDA continues to review its current APHIS programs and staffing to ensure appropriate resources are available to prevent the entry of FMD into the United States, both short and long-term. USDA continues to review emergency operations plans to ensure appropriate response mechanisms are in place (federal/state) to act quickly if FMD were ever to enter the United States. This includes continuing ongoing research, including possible vaccination methods, increased surveillance and regulatory controls.

While FMD does not pose a health risk to humans, it is highly contagious to livestock and could cost billions in containment and eradication if detected in the United States.

FMD is a highly contagious and economically devastating disease of ruminants and swine. The United States has been free of FMD since 1929. FMD is one of the animal diseases that livestock owners dread most because it spreads widely and rapidly and because it has grave economic consequences.

Current information on foot-and-mouth disease and traveler questions and answers are available on the internet at <http://www.usda.gov/>

Hosts sought for 4-H camp

Nebraska families can learn about Japan through the University of Nebraska's Japanese exchange program.

By May 1, 20 host families statewide must be matched with 20 young Japanese students who will visit Nebraska July 22-August 20. The visit starts with a 4-H camp for host siblings and their Japanese peers. "The host families' children really become brothers and sisters to the Japanese children," says Amy Topp, Extension Educator, Wayne County.

Japanese visitors have studied the English language and will now experience Nebraska family life. The students have their own spending money and insurance.

To participate, Nebraska families agree to provide a foreign guest food and lodging for four weeks. The families must have a host brother or sister of the same gender and approximate age, within a year or two of 12-17 years old. Host families also are needed for two English-speaking chaperones who stay with two host families for two weeks each.

In return, young Nebraskans will travel to Japan this summer. Families who host Japanese youth will receive scholarship money to help pay travel costs to Japan for a month-long visit. Former youth hosts will receive $100 for each student they've hosted, up to $300.

Nebraska families also are being sought to host two Japanese high school students for 10 months during the 2001-2002 school year. 4-H will select those families during May.

For more information, contact Amy Topp, Extension Educator at 402-375-3310 at the Wayne County University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension office or Kathy Potthoff, State 4-H Program Coordinator, 4-H Youth Development, at (402) 472-9021.

Learning nursing on the other side

During the night, the wind started. And, what a wind! It even toppled the steeple of a church on west Dodge in Omaha. This house is very tight and solid, but the sophisticated fire alarm system goes off when lightening is nearby. And, that's an awful screech in the middle of the night.

One area of nursing I've never explored is that of an office. So, after 42 years, I volunteered to help at a local clinic while their regular nurse is on maternity leave. What a surprise! All kinds of things to learn, like simple lab and EKGs. at the hospital, we just called the techs from those departments.

To add to the confusion, there are several docs and a PA who take turns, because it's a satellite clinic. There's a lot of time spent just keeping track of patient files; and making sure the right info gets read by the right doctor and back into the right chart.

They also take care of the local nursing home, which has about 100 residents. Most of all, I'm surprised at the number of phone calls. When you call your physician's office and brought back memories of holidays there. There was a lily pond in the back yard.

Grandma had lots of flowers and bushes and a big garden space. So, there were lots of places to hide eggs. When they moved into Waco, right behind our church, there was another big yard and garden.

On our farm at Hoskins, there were all kinds of nooks and crannies. Next weekend, the fourth generation will hunt around the Farm House.

First, there's the sunrise service. The two churches on Church Road join forces, and the combined choirs sound great. That's Easter for me: lilies and music and church at day-break. Have a happy one; and remember the miracle we celebrate.

don't get a reply right away, picture lots of other folks calling, too; in between scheduled appointments.

They do get back to the caller, but not always as soon as they would like. As a home health nurse, I couldn't understand the offices that just never did return my calls; thus leaving my patients wondering. We do not leave the office until the work is done, which is as it should be.

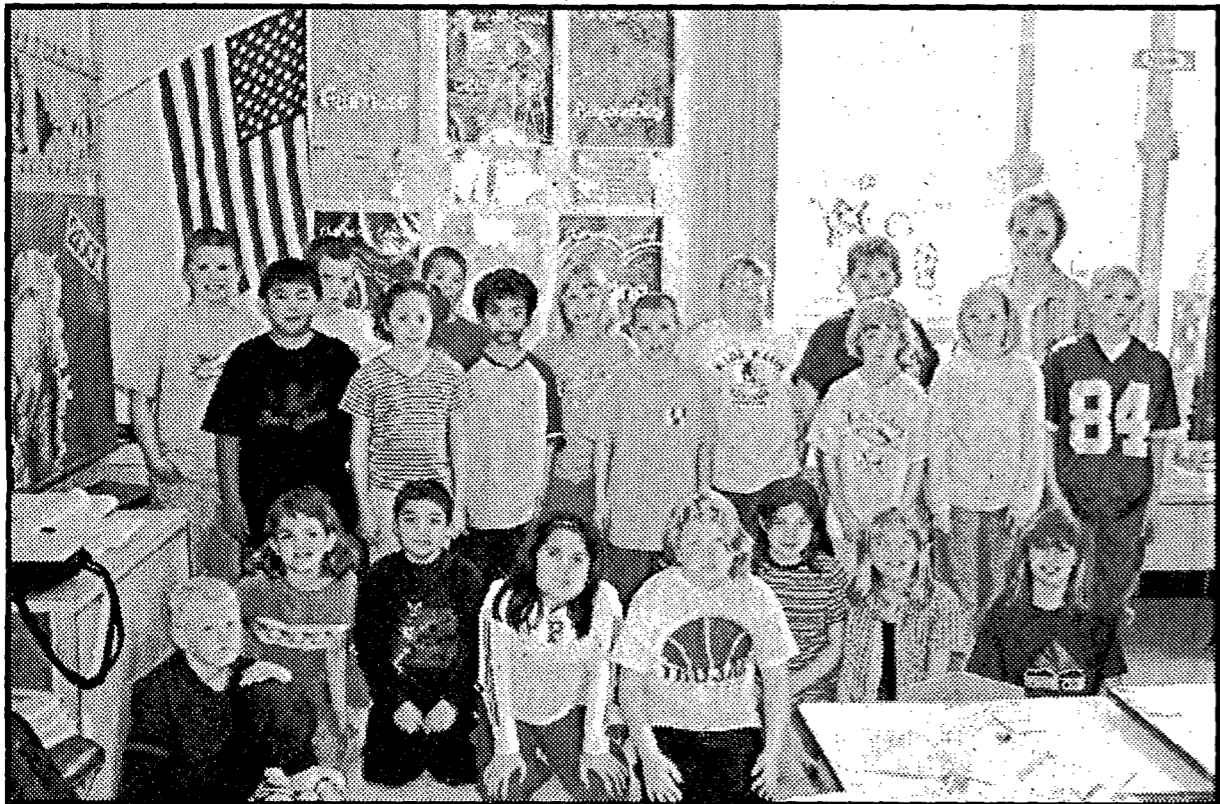

Since I'm having Easter dinner, I need to do a little spring cleaning. When we went by my grandparents' home south of Waco last month, it

At Wakefield Elementary

Students participate in Character Counts!

Recently, third grade students at Wakefield Public Schools completed a seven week series of lessons on Character Counts! Character Counts! is a program that was developed by the Josephson Institute of Ethics. The focus of the program is the six pillars of character.

These pillars include:
Respect, Responsibility, Caring, Trustworthiness, Fairness, and

Citizenship. A decision making lesson is also included. Over the seven week series, students participated in various learning activities that demonstrated each of the pillars of character.

Character Counts! is a youth program that has been adopted by Nebraska 4-H, which is the youth component of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension. Objectives of the program are to emphasize the need for character, teach the six pillars of character, encourage accountability, enhance decision making skills, and create an atmosphere that encourages good character.

The Character Counts! sessions were taught by Amy Topp, UNL Cooperative Extension Educator. Topp was invited to the third grade classroom by teachers Mrs. Shelly Schultz and Mrs. Janelle Eaton.
